Then arose Judas to smyte the chiefe and principal of the kinges hoost at Emmaus / for the army was not yet come together/ In ỹ meane seaſon came Gorgias by nyght into Judas tentes: and when he founde no man there / he sought them in the mountaines / and thought they had bene fled awaye because of hym. But when it was daye/ Judas shewed him self in the felde with thre thousande men onely/ which had neyther harneſſe

But on the other syde / they sawe that the Heythen were mighty and wel harnesſed / & their horsmen aboute them/and all these well experte in feates of warre. Then saide Judas ut. xx. a to the men that were with him: † Feare not ye the multitude of them/Be not afrayed of their violente runninge: remembre howe oure fa-

Jac. iij. c † Euen so let vs also crye noure towarde heauen: and the Lorde shall haue mercy vppon vs/and remembre the conuenaunt of oure fathers/yee/and destroye this hoost before oure face this daye: And all Heythen shall knowe that it is God him selfe / whiche deliuereth & saueth Jsrael.

Then the Heythen lyft vp their eyes: and when they sawe that they were commynge against them/they wente out of their tentes into the battayll: and they that were with Ju-

For they folowed vpon them vnto Assaremoth / and into the feldes of Jdumea towarde Azot & Jamnia: so that there were slayne of them vpon a thre thousande men. So Judas turned agayne with his hoost/ and sayd vnto the people: Be not gredye of the spoyles / we haue yet a battayll to fyghte: for Gorgias and his hoost are here by vs in the mountaynes / but stande ye fast agaynste oure enemyes/ and ouercome them: then maye ye safely take the spoyles.

C As Judas was speakynge these wordes/ there appeared one parte of them vppon the mounte. But when Gorgias sawe that they of his partie were fled/ and the tentes brente vp (for by the smoke they mighte vnderstand what was done) they perceauinge this/were very sore afrayed: & when they sawe also that Judas and his hoost were in the felde ready to stryke battayl/they fled euerychone into the lande of the Heythen.

So Judas turned agayne to spoyle the tentes/ where they gat muche golde and syluer/ precious stones / purple & greate ryches. Thus they wente home/and songe a Psalme of thankesgeuinge/and prayed God in hea-

The nexte yeare folowynge / gathered Lysias thre score thousande chosen men of fote/ and fyue thousande horsemen to fyghte agaynst them.

So they came into Jewry / and pitched D their tentes at Bethoron/where Judas came agaynste them with ten thousande men. And when he sawe so great and myghtye an hooste/ he made his prayer and sayde: Blessed be thou (o saueoure of Jsraell) † whiche j. Re. xvij. g

Put this hoost now into the hande of thy people of Jsrael / and let them be confounded in their multitude and horsmen. So they stroke the battaill/and there were slayne of Lisias hoost / fyue thousande men. Then Lysias / seynge the discomfetynge of his men/and the manlynesse of the Jewes/ howe they were ready/eyther to lyue or to dye lyke men. He wente vnto Antioche/and chose out men of warre: that when they were gathered together: they myght come againe into Jewry. Then sayde Judas and his brethren: Beholde / oure enemies are discomfyted: Let vs now go vp / to clense & to repaire the Sanctuary.

Now when they sawe the Sanctuary layed wayst/the aulter defyled/the dores brente vp/

Then Judas appoynted certayne men to fyghte againste those whiche were in the castell / tyll they had clensed the Sanctuary. So he chose priestes that were vndefyled / suche as had pleasure in the lawe of God: and they clensed the Sanctuary / and bare oute the defyled stones into an vncleane place. And for so much as the aulter of burntofferinges was vnhalowed / he toke aduysemente what he myghte do withall: so he thought it was best to destroye it (leste / it shoulde happen to do them any shame) for the Heythen had defyled it / and therfore they brake it doune. As for the stones / they layed them vp vpō the moūtayne / by the house in a conuenient place: till there came a prophet to shewe / what shoulde be done with them.

Thesame daye was it set vp againe / with songes / pipes / harpes & cymbales.

G And all the people fell vpon theyr faces / worshyppinge and thankynge the God of heauen / which had geuen them the victorye.
ij. Par. viij. b †So they kepte the dedicacion of the aulter viij. dayes / offerynge burntesacrifyces / and thankeofferinges with gladnesse. They decke the temple also with crounes and shyldes of golde / and halowed the portes and celles / and hanged dores vpon them. Thus was there very greate gladnesse amonge the people / because the blasphemye of the Heythen was put awaye.

So Judas and his brethren with the whole congregacion of Israell / ordeyned

And at thesame time builded they vp the mounte Sion with hye walles and stronge towers round about: lest / the Gentiles should come and treade it doune / as they dyd afore.

The. V. Chapter.

IT happened also that when the Heithen A Iosep round aboute herde / howe that the aulcap. xij. ter and the Sanctuary were set vp in theyr olde estate: it displeased them very sore / wherfore they thought to destroye the generacion of Jacob that was among them: In so much that they beganne to slaye and to persecute certayne of the people. †Then Judas fought Exod. and xv. against the chyldren of Esau in Idumea / & iij. Ma against those whiche were at Arabathane / (for they dwelte rounde aboute the Israelites) where he slewe and spoyled a great multitude of them. He thoughte also vpon the malice and vnfaythfulnesse of the chyldren of Bean / how they were a snare and stoppe vnto the people / and howe they layed waite for them in the hye waye / wherfore he shut them vp into towers / and came vnto them / cōdemned them / and brent vp their towers / with all that were in them.

Afterwarde wente he agaynst the children of Ammon / wherof he founde a myghty power and a greate multitude of people / with Tymothe theyr captayne. So he stroke many battayls with them / whiche were destroyed before hym. And when he had slayne them / he wanne Gazer the cytie / with the tounes belongynge therto / and so turned againe into Jewry. The Heythen also in Galaad gathered them together against the Israelites that were in theyr quarters / to slaye them: but they fled to the castell of Dathema / and
B sente letters vnto Judas and his brethren sayinge: The Heithen are gathered against vs on euery syde / to destroye vs / and nowe they make them for to come and laye sege to the castell / whereunto we are fled / and Tymothe is the captayne of theyr hooste: come therfore: and deliuer vs out of theyr handes / for there is a greate multitude of vs slayne already. Yee / and oure brethren that were at Tubin / are slayne and destroyed (well nye a thousande men) and their wyfes / theyr chyldren and their goodes haue the enemies led awaye captiue.

Whyle these letters were yet a readynge / behold / there came other messaungers from Galile / with rente clothes: whiche tolde euen thesame tydinges / and sayde / that they of Ptolomais / of Tyrus and Sydon were gathered againste them / and that all Galile was fylled with enemyes to destroye Israell.

viij. c †When Judas and the people herde this / they came together (a greate congregacion) to deuyse / what they myghte do for theyr brethren / that were in trouble and beseged of theyr enemyes. And Judas sayde vnto Symon his brother: chose the oute certayne men / and go deliuer thy brethren in Galile. As for me and my brother Jonathas / we will go into Galaadithym. So he lefte Josephus the sonne of Zachary and Asarias / to be captaynes of the people / and to kepe the remnaunte of the hooste in Jewry / and commaunded them / sayinge: Take the ouersyght of this people / and se that ye make no warre agaynste the Heythen / vntill the tyme that we come agayne. And vnto Simon he gaue thre thousande men for to go into Galile / but Judas him selfe had eyght thousand into Galaadithim.

C Then wente Symon into Galile / and stroke diuerse battails vpō the Heithē: whome he discomfyted / and folowed vpon them vnto the porte of Ptolomais. And there were slaine of the Heithen almoost iij. thousande men. So he toke the spoyles of them / and caryed awaye the Israelites (that were in Galile and Arbatis) with theyr wyfes / their chyldren and all that they had / and broughte them into Jewry with greate gladnesse. Judas Machabeus also and his brother Jonathas / wente ouer Jordane / and trauayled iij. dayes iourney in the wyldernesse. Where the Nebuthees mete them / and receaued them louyngly / and tolde them euery thyng that had happened vnto theyr brethren in Galaadithim / and how that many of them were beseged in Barasa / Bosor / Alimis / Casphor / Mageth and Carnaim (al these are stronge walled and mighty greate cyties) and that they were kepte in other cities of Galaad also: & to morow they are appoynted to bringe theyr hoost vnto these cities / to take them and to wynne them in one daye.

So Judas and his hoost turned in all the haiste in the wyldernesse towarde Bosor / and wanne the cytie / slewe all the males with the swearde / toke al theyr goodes / and set fyre vpon the citie. And in the night they toke their iourneye from thence / and came to the castell. And by tymes in the morninge when they loked vp / behold / there was an innumerable people / bearynge ladders and other instrumentes of warre / to take the castell and to ouercome them.

When Judas sawe that the battayll beganne / and that the noyse therof wente vp and rāne into the heauen / and that there was so greate a crie in the citie: He saide vnto his hoost: fyght this daye for youre brethren. And so came behind their enemies in thre companyes / and blewe vp the trompettes / and cried in their prayer to God.

But as soone as Timothes hoost perceaued that Machabeus was there / they fled frō him / and the other slewe them doune right sore: so that there were killed of them thatsame daie / almoost eight thousande men. Then departed Judas vnto Maspha / laied sege vnto it and wanne it / slewe al the males in it / spoiled it / and set fyre vpon it. For thence went he and toke Casbon / Mageth / Bosor and the other cities in Galaad.

D †After this gathered Timothe another hooste / whiche pitched their tentes before Ra-phon beyonde the water. Judas sent to spye the hoost / and they brought him worde agayne / sayinge: All the Heithen that be roūd aboute vs / are gathered vnto hym / and the hoost is very greate: Yee / they haue hyred the Arabians to helpe them / and haue pitched their tentes beionde the water / and are ready to come and fyghte against the. So Judas wente on to mete them.

And Timothe seyde vnto the captaynes of his hoost: when Judas and his hoost come nye the ryuer: if he go ouer fyrste / we shall not be able to withstand him: for why / he will be to stronge for vs. But if he darre not come ouer / so that he pitched his tente beyonde the water: then wyll we go ouer / for we shall be stronge ynough agaynste him. Nowe as soone as Judas came to the ryuer / he appoynted certayne scribes of the people / and commaunded them / sayinge: se that ye leaue none behynde vpon this syde of the ryuer / but let euery man come to the battayll: So he wente fyrst ouer vnto them / and his people after him.

And all the Heythen were discomfyted before him / and let their weapens fall / and ranne into the temple that was at Carnaim. Whiche citie Judas wanne / and brente the temple with all that were in it: So was Carnaim subdued / and mighte not withstande Judas. Then Judas gathered all the Israelites that were in Galaadithim / from the leest vnto the mooste / with their wyues / and their children (a very great hoost) for to come into the lande of Juda.

Ephron. ij. mac. xij. c

† So they came vnto Ephron / whiche was a myghty greate and stronge citie / and laye in their waie. For they coulde not go by it / neither of the right hand nor of the left / but must go thorow it. Neuertheless / they that were in the citie / wolde not let the go thorow / but walled vp the portes with stones. And Judas sent vnto them with peaceable woordes / saying: † Let vs passe thorow your lande / that we maye go into oure owne countrie: there shal no body do you harme / we wil but onely go thorow. But they wolde not let them in.

Num. xx. c

Wherfore Judas commaunded a proclamacyon to be made thorowout the hoost / that euery man shoulde kepe his ordre: and so they dyd their best lyke valeaunt men.

And Judas besieged the citie all that daye and all that nyght / and so wanne it: where they slewe as many as were males / and destroyed the citie / and spoyled it / and wente thorowe all the citie ouer the that were slain. Then wente they ouer Jordane into the plaine felde before Bethsan. And Judas helped those forwarde that came behynde / and gaue the people good exortacyon al the waye thorowe / tyll they were come into the lande of Juda. Thus they wente vp vnto the mounte Syon / where they offred with mirth and † thankesgeuinge: because there were none of them slayne / but came home agayne peaceably.

Nowe what tyme as Judas and Jonathas were in the lande of Galaad / and Simon their brother in Galile before Ptolomays: Then Josephus the sonne of Zacharyy / and Asarias the captaynes / hearynge of the actes that were done / and of the battayls that were stryken: sayde: Let vs get vs a name also / and go fight against the Heithē / that are rounde aboute vs.

So they gaue their hoost a commaundement / and went toward Jamnia. Then came Gorgias and his men out of the citie / to fight against the: Josephus also and Asarias were chaced vnto the borders of Jewry / and there were slayne that daye of the people of Israel .ij. But the mē that were with Judas / were greatly commended in the sight of all Israel / and al Heythē / whereseoeuer their name was herde vpon / and the people came vnto them bydding them welcome.

After this wente Judas forth with hys brethren / and foughte against the chyldren of Esau / in the lande that lyeth towarde the South / where he wanne the cytie of Hebrō / and the tounes that lye beside it: and as for the walles and towers rounde aboute it / he brent them vp. Then remoued he to go into the lande of the Philistines / & went thorowe Samaria.

Samaria. At the same tyme were there many priestes slayne in the battaill / which wilfully / and without aduysement wente oute for to fyght to get them honoure. And when Judas came to Azot in the Philistines lande / the brake doune theyr aultares / brēt the ymages of their Idols / spoyled the cities / & came again into the lande of Juda.

So it chaunged / that when the kyng had herde these wordes / he was afrayed / and greued very sore. Then departed Judas from the castell at Jerusalem/ and remoued the hooste towarde Bethzacaran ouer against the kynges armye.

So the kinge arose before the daye/ and brought the power of his hooste into the way to Bethzacaran/where the hooste made thē
E to the battail/blowinge the trompettes. And to prouoke the Elephantes for to fyght/ they shewed them the sappe of reade grapes and molberies. And deuided the Elephantes amonge the hooste: so that by euery Elephante there stode a M. men wel harnessed/and helmettes of stele vpon their heades: Yee/ vnto euery one of the Elephantes also/ were ordeyned v.C. horsmen of the best/which waited of Elephante/ goynge wheresoeuer he wente/ and departed not from him. Euery Elephāt was couered with a stronge tower of wood/ where vpon were xxxij. valeaunt men with weapens to fyght/and within it was a man of Jude to rule the beast.

As for the remnaunt of the horsmen/he set them vpō both the sydes in two partes with trompettes/to prouoke the hooste/and to stere vp suche as were slowe in the armye. And when the Sunne shone vpō their shyldes of golde and stele/ the mountaines glystered again at them/and were as bright as the cresshetes of fyre. The kinges hooste also was deuided/ one parte vpō the highe mountaines/ the other lowe beneth: so they wente on/ takinge good hede/and keping their ordre. And al they that dwelt in the lande/ were afrayed at the noyse of their hooste/ whan the multitude wente forthe/ and when the weapens smote together/ for the hooste was both greate and myghtye. Judas also and his hooste entred into the battail/and slewe vj. C. men of the kynges armye.

Nowe whan Eleasar the sonne of Saura/dyd se one of the Elephantes decke with the kynges badge/ and was a more goodlye beast then the other: He thought the kynge shoulde be vpon him/and ieoperded him selfe to deliuer his people/and to get him a perpetuall name.

Wherfore he ranne with a courage vnto the Elephante in the myddest of the hooste/ smytinge them doune of both the sydes/and slew many aboute him. So wente he to the Elephantes fete/ and gat him vnder him/ and slewe him: then fell the Elephante doune vpon him/and there he dyed. Judas also and his men/ seinge the power of the kynge and F the mighty violence of his hooste/departed frō them. And the kinges army went vp against them towarde Jerusalem/ and pitched their tentes in Jewry besyde mount Sion. Moreouer/the kynge toke truce with them/ that were in †Bethsura. j.M

But when they came out of the citie (because they had no vitailes within/ and the vj.d landde laye vntylled) the kynge toke Bethsura/ and set men to kepe it/and turned his hooste to the place of the Sanctuarye/ and layed sege to it a greate whyle. Where he made all maner ordynaunce: handbowes/ fyry dartes/ rackettes to caste stones/ scorpyons to shute arrowes/and slynges. The Jewes also made ordinaunce against theirs/ and foughte lōge season.

But in the citie there were no vitayles/ for it was the seuenth yeare of the warres/ and those Heithen that remayned in Jewry/ had eatē vp al their stoare. And in the Sanctuary were fewe men lefte/ for the hunger came so vpon them/ that they were scatered abroade euery man to his owne place.

So when Lysias herde that Philippe †(whome Antiochus the king while he was j.M yet lyuinge/had ordeyned to bringe vp Antiochus his sonne that he mighte be kinge) was come againe out of Persia and Media with the kynges hooste/ and thoughte to optayne the kingdome: He gat him to the kynge in all G the hayst/and the captaynes of the hooste/ and sayde: We decreace daylye/ and oure vitayles are but small: Agayne/ the place that we laye sege vnto/ is very stronge/ and it were oure parte to se for the realme. Let vs agre with these men/ and take truce with them/ and with all their people/ and graunte them too lyue after their lawe/ as they dyd afore. For they be greued/and do all these thinges against vs/ because we haue despysed their lawe. So the king and the princes were content/and sent nnto them to make peace/ and they receaued it. Nowe when the kynge and the princes had made an ooth vnto thē/ they came oute of the castell/ and the kynge wente vp to mount Sion. But when he saw that the place was well fenced/ he brake the ooth that he had made/ and commaunded to destroye the wall rounde aboute. Then departed he in all the haiste/ and returned vnto Antioche/ where he founde Philippe hauinge dominyon of the citye. So he fought against hym/ and toke the cytie agayne into his handes.

The. VII. Chapter.

IN the C. lij. yeare came Demetrius the sonne of Seleucus frō the cytie of Rome iiij.a with a small company of men/ vnto a cytie of the see coast/ and there he bare rule. And it chaūged/ that when he came to Antioche the citie of his progenytours/ his hooste toke Antiochus/ and Lysyas/ to bringe them vnto hym. But when it was tolde hym/ he saide: let me not se their faces. So the hooste put them to death. Nowe whan Demetrius was set vppon the trone of his kyngedome/ there came vnto him wicked/ and vngodlye men of Israel: whose captain was Alcimus/ that wolde haue bene made byghe prieste. These men accused the people of Israel vnto the kynge/ sayinge: Judas and his brethren haue slayne thy frendes/ and dryuen vs oute of oure owne lande. Wherfore sende nowe some man (to whome thou geuest credence) that he maye go and se all the destruccion/ which he hath done vnto vs and to ȳ kinges B land/and let him be punished with al his frēdes and fauourers.

Then the kynge chose Bachides a frende of his/which was a man of greate power in the realme (beyonde the greate water) and faithfull vnto the kynge: and sent hym to se the destruccion that Judas had done. And as for that wicked Alcymus/ he made him byghe Priest/and commaunded him to be auenged of the childrē of Israel. So they stode vp/ and came with a greate hooste into the lande of Juda/sending messaungers to Judas and his brethren/and spekinge vnto thē with peaceable wordes: but vnder deceate. †Therfore Judas and his people beleued not j.Mac.j.d
they: sayinge/ for they sawe that they were come with a greate hooste.

After this came the scribes together vnto Alcimus & Bachides/trustinge the best vnto them. And first/the Assireans required peace of them/sayinge: Alcimus the Priest is come of the sede of Aaron/how can he deceaue vs? So they gaue them louinge wordes/ and swore vnto them/and saide: we wyll do you no harme/neither your frendes: and they beleued them. But the very same daye toke they lx. men of them/ and slew them: according to the wordes that are written: † They haue cast Ps.lxxviij.a the flesh of thesainctes/and shed their blonde rounde aboute Jerusalem/and there was no man that wolde bury them.

So there came a greate feare/and drede a-
C monge the people/ sayinge: there is neither trueth nor righteousnesse in thē/for they haue broken the appointement and ooth that they made. And Bachides remoued his hooste frō Jerusalem/ and pitched his tente at Bethzecha: where he sent forth/ and toke many of them that had forsaken him: He slewe many of the people also/and cast them into a greate pyt. Then committed he the lande vnto Alcimus/ and lefte men of warre with hym to helpe him/and Bachides him selfe went vnto the kynge. And thus Alcimus defended his highe priesthode/and al such as vexed Israel/resorted vnto him: In so much that they optained the lande of Juda/and did much euel vnto the Israelites.

Now when Judas saw al the mischiefe that Alcimus and his company had done/ (yee/ more then the Heithen them selfes) vnto the Israelites: He wente forth rounde aboute all the borders of Jewry/and punished those vnfaithful rennagates so that they came nomore oute into the countrye. So when Alcimus sawe that Judas and his people had gotten the vpperhande/and that he was not able to abyde them/ he wente againe to the kynge/ and sayde all the worst of them that he could.
† Then the kynge sente Nycanor/ one of ȳ.ma.xiiij.b his chyefe princes (whiche bare euell wyll

vnto

vnto Israel and commaunded him / that he shoulde vtterly destroye the people.
D So Nycanor came to Jerusalem with a greate hoost / and sente vnto Judas and his brethren with frendly wordes (But vnder de-ceate) sayinge: there shalbe no warre betwixt me and you: I wyll come with a fewe men/to se how ye do with frendshippe. Vpon thys he came vnto Judas/and they saluted one another peaceably: But the enemyes were appointed to take Judas by violence. Neuerthelesse it was tolde Judas / that he came vnto hym but vnder deceate: wherfore he gat hym awaye from hym / and wolde se hys face no more. Whē Nycanor perceaued that his coun sayl was bewrayed/he went out to fyghte a-gaynst Judas beside Capharsalama: Where there were slayne of Nicanors hoost. v. M. mē: the residue fled vnto the castel of Sauid
After this came Nycanor vp vnto mounte Syon: and the Priestes with the elders of the people went forth to salute hym peaceably / & to shewe him the burntsacrifyces that were offered for the kinge. But he laughed them to scorne/ mocked them/defyled their offeringes Ꝑ and spake disdanedly/yee / and swore in his ij.ma.xiiij.c wroth/sayinge: † If Judas and his hooste be not deliuered nowe into my handes / as sone as euer I come againe (and fare well) I shal burne vp this house. With that / wente he out in a greate anger. Thē the prestes came in/ and stode before the aulter of the temple/wepinge and sayinge: † For so much as thou ij.Para.vj.c (O Lorde) haste chosen this house/that thy i.j Re. viij.f name might be called vpon therein/and that *Esa. lvj.b it shoulde be *an house of prayer and petition Matt.xxj.b vnto thy people: Be auenged of this man & his hooste / and let them be slayne with the swearde: remembre the blasphemies of them/and suffre them not to continue any longer.
When Nicanor was gone from Jerusalem / he pitched his tente at Bethoron / and there an hooste met him oute of Syria. And Judas came to Adarsa with iij. M. mē/ and made his prayer vnto God/ sayinge: O Lor Es. xxxvij.f de/ † because the messaungers of kinge Se-ij.ma.viij.d nacherib blasphemed the / the aungell wente and xv.d forth/and slewe an C.lxxxv. thousande of thē: iiij.re.xix.g Euen so destroye thou this hooste before vs to daye: that other people maye knowe/ howe that he hath blasphemed thy Sanctuarye:
and punishe him / accordinge to his maliciousnesse.
And so the hoostes stroke the felde/the thir-
tenth daye of the moneth † Adar: and Nicacanors hoost was discomfyted/ *and he him selfe was fyrst slaine in the battaill. When Ni-canors men of warre sawe that he was kyl-led/they cast awaye their weapens and fled:
But the Jewes folowed vpon them an whole dayes iourney / from Adazar vnto Gazara/blowinge with the trompettes/and makinge tokens after them. So the Jewes came forth of all the tounes there aboute/ and blewe out their hornes vppon them / and turned a-gainste them: Thus were they all slayne/ and not one of them lefte.
Then they toke their substaunce for a pray/and smote of Nicanors heade/ and his right hande († whiche he helde vp so proudly) and brought it with them/and hanged it vp afore Jerusalem. Wherfore the people were excedingly reioyced/and passed ouer that daye in greate gladnesse. And Judas ordeyned that thesame daye (namely the xiij. daye of the mo neth Adar) shoulde be kepte in mirth euery yeare. Thus the lande of Juda was in reste a litle whyle.

The. VIII. Chapter.

Judas herde also the fame of the Romaines/that they were myghty and valeāt men/agreable to all thinges that are requy-red of them / and make peace withall men/which come vnto them/ and howe they were doughty men of strengthe. Besydes that it was tolde him of their battails / and noble actes which they dyd in Galacia / howe they had conquered them/and brought them vnder tribute: and what great thinges they had done in Spayne/ how that with their wysdome/and sober behauoure they had wonne the Mines of syluer and golde that are there/and optayned all the lande/with other places farre from them: howe they had discomfyted/ and slayne doune the kynges that came vpon them from the vttermost parte of the earth/and how other people gaue them trybute euery yeare: Howe they had slayne and ouercome Philippe and the Perses/the kinge of Cethim/and other mo (in battaill) which had had brought their ordinaunce agaynst them:

how they discōfyted greate Antiochus kinge of Asia (that wolde nedes fyght with them) hauynge an hundreth & xx. Elephantes/ with horsmen / charrettes / and a very greate hoost:
how they toke him selfe alyue / and ordeyned him (with such as shoulde raygne after him) Jac.j.a to paye them a greate tribute / † yee / and to fynde them good suertyes and pledge: Besydes all thys / how they had taken from hym India / Media/ and Lydia (hys best landes) and geuen them to kynge Eumenus. Againe/B how they perceauinge that the Grekes were comminge to vexe them / sent agaynst them a captaine of an hoost which gaue them battayl/slewe many of them / led awaye their wyfes & childē captiue / spoyled them/ toke possession of their lande / destroyed their stronge holdes / & subdued thē to be their bonde men vnto thys daye: Moreouer / how that as for other king-domes and Iles / which somtyme withstode them/they destroied them / and brought them vnder their dominion: But helped euer their owne frendes / and those that were confederate with them / and conquered kingdomes/both farre and nye: and that whosoeuer herde of their renoune / was afrayed of them: for whome they wolde helpe to their kyngdomes/those raygned / and whome it lyked not them to raygne / they put hym doune: And how they were come to greate preeminence: hauinge no kynge amonge them / neyther any man clothed in purple / to be magnified there thorow: but had ordayned thē selfes a courte/wherein there sat iij. C. and xx. Senatours dayly vpon the counsayll / to dispatch euer the busynesse of the people / & to kepe good ordre:
And how ỹ euery yeare they chose a Mayre/ to haue the gouernaunce of all theyr lande: to whome euery man was obedient / and that there was neyther euell will nor dissencion amonge them.
C Then Judas chose Eupolemus the sonne of Jhon/the sonne of Jacob and Jason/ ỹ sonne of Eleasar / and sent them vnto Rome for to make frendshippe / and a bonde of loue wyth them: that they myght take from thē the bondage of the Grekes / for the Jewes sawe that the Grekes wold subdue the kingdome of Israel. So they wente vnto Rome (a very great iourney) and came into the courte / and sayde: Judas Machabeus with his brethren / & the people of the Jewes hath sent vs vnto you/ to make a bonde offrendshyppe and peace wyth you / and ye to note vs as youre louers and frendes. And the matter pleased the Romaynes ryght wel/wherfore it was wrytten vp: of the which the Romaynes made a wrytinge in tables of laton/ and sent it to Jerusalem: that they myght haue by them a memorial of the-same peace and bonde of frendshyppe / after thys maner: God saue the Romaynes / and the people of the Jewes both by see and by lande / and kepe the swearde and enemy from thē for euermore. If there come first any warre vpon the Romaynes/or any of theyr frendes thorowout al their dominion/the people of the Jewes shall helpe them (as the tyme requireth) and that wyth all their hertes. Also they shall neyther geue nor sende vnto their enemies vitaylles/weapens/money/nor shyppes:
but fulfyll thys charge at the Romaynes pleasure / and take nothynge from them therfore.
Agayne / if the people of the Jewes happen fyrst to haue warre/ the Romaynes shall stāde with thē with a good will / accordinge as the tyme will suffre: Neyther shall they geue vnto the Jewes enemyes/vytayles/ weapens/ money/nor shippes. Thus are the Romaines content to do/and shall fulfyll their charge wythout any deceate.
Accordinge to these artycles/ the Romaines made the bonde wyth the Jewes. Now after these artycles (sayde they) if any of the partyes wyll put to them/or take any thynge from thē/they shall do it wyth the consente of both: and whatsoeuer they adde then vnto them / or take from them / it shall stande fast. And as tou-chinge ỹ euel that Demetrius hath done vnto ỹ Jewes/we haue written vnto hym/sayinge: Wherfore layest thou thy heauy yocke vpō the Jewes oure frendes & louers? If they make any cōplaynte of the agayne vnto vs/we shall defende them/ and fyght wyth the by see and by lande.

The IX. Chapter.

In the meane season when Demetrius A Jherde that/ † Nycanor and his hoost was slayne in the felde/he proceded further to sende Bachydes and Alcymus again into Jewry/and those that were in the right wynge of his hoost with them. So they wente forth by the waye that ledeth vnto Galgala / and pitched their tentes before Mesaloth which is in Arbellis / and wanne the citie / and slewe much people. In the fyrst moneth of the Cliij. yeare / they brought their hoost to Jerusalem / & rose vp / and came to Berea with xx. M. fote men / and ij. M. horsmen.

Now Judas had pitched his tente at Laisa / wt three thousande chosen men. And when they sawe the multitude of the other army / ꝑ it was so greate / they were sore afrayed / & many conueyed them selfes out of the hoost. In so much that there abode no mo of them but viij. C. men. When Judas sawe that his hoost fayled him / & that he must nedes fyght: it brake his herte / that he had no tyme to gather them together: wherfore the mā was in extreme trouble. Neuertheless / he sayde vnto them that remained with him: Vp / let vs go agaynst oure enemyes / peraduenture we shall be able to fyght with them. But they wolde haue stopped him / sayinge: we shall not be able / therfore let vs now saue oure lyfes / and turne agayne to our brethren / and then wil we fyght against
B them / for we are here but fewe. And Judas sayde: God forbyd / that we shoulde fle from them. Wherfore / if our time be come / let vs dye manfully for oure brethren / and let vs not stayne oure honoure. Then the hoost remoued out of the tentes / and stode agaynst them. The horsmē were deuyded in two partes: ꝑ slynge casters and the archers wente before the hoost / and all the myghty men were formest in the felde. Bachydes him self was in the right wynge of the battayl / and the hoost drew nye in two partes / & blewe the trompettes. They of Judas syde blewe the trompettes also / and the earth shoke at the noyse of the hoostes / and they stroke a felde from the morow tyll nyght. And when Judas sawe that Bachydes hoost was strongest of the right syde / he toke with him all the hardymen / and brake the right wynge of their ordre / and folowed vpon them vnto the mount Azot.

Now when they which were of the lefte wynge / sawe that the right syde was discomfyted / they persecuted Judas and them that were with him. Then was there a sore battail / for many were slayne and wounded of both the partes / Judas also him self was killed / and the remnaunt fled. So Jonathas and Symon toke Judas theyr brother / and buryed him in his fathers sepulchre in ꝑ citie of Modyn. And all the people of Israel made greate lamentacyon for him / and mourned longe / sayinge: Alas / that this worthy shoulde be slayne / which delyuered the people of Israel. As for other thinges pertayninge to the battayls / of Judas the noble actes that he dyd / and of his worthinesse: they are not wrytten / for they were very many.

And after the death of Judas / wicked men C came vp in all the coastes of Israel / and there Joseph. d arose all such as worke vngodlynesse. In those j. libro pri dayes was there a greate derth in the lande / Antiq.
and all the countrie gaue ouer them selfes and theirs vnto Bachides. So Bachydes chose wicked men / and made thē lordes in the lāde. These sought out and made search for Judas frendes / and brought them vnto Bachydes: which auenged him self vpō them with greate despyte. And there came so greate trouble in Israel / as was not sence the tyme that no prophet was seue there.

Then came all Judas frendes together / and sayde vnto Jonathas: For so much as thy brother Judas is dead / there is none lyke him to go forth agaynst oure enemies / against Bachydes / and such as are aduersaryes vnto oure people. Wherfore this daye we chose the for him / to be oure prince and captayne to ordre oure battayll. And Jonathas toke the gouernaunce vpon him at thesame tyme / and ruled in steade of his brother Judas. When Bachydes gat knowlege therof / he sought for to slaye him: But Jonathas and Symon hys brother / perceauinge that / fled into the wildernesse of Thecua with all their company / and pytched their tentes by the water pole of Asphar.

Which whē Bachydes vnderstode / he came ouer Jordane with all his hoost vpō the Sabbath daye. Now had Jonathas sent his brother Jhon (a captaine of the people) to praye D his frendes the Nabuthytes / that they wolde lende thē theyr ordinaunce / for they had much. So the chyldren of Jambry came out of Madaba / and toke Jhon / and all that he had / and wente wente their waye with all. Then came worde vnto Jonathas / and Symō hys brother / that the chyldren of Jambry made a greate marriage / and brought the bryde from Madaba with greate pompe: for she was doughter to one of the noblest princes of Canaan. Wherfore they remembred the bloude of Jhon their brother / and wente vp / and hyd them selfes vnder the shadowe of the mountayne.

So they lift vp their eyes / & loked: & beholde / there was much a do / & greate repayre for the brydegrome came forth / & hys frendes / & hys brethren mete them with tympanys / instrumentes of musyck / and many weapens. Then Jonathas and they that were with him / rose out of theyr skoukinge places against them / and slewe many of them. As for the remnaūt / they fled into the mountaines / and they toke al their substaunce. Thus the marriage was turned to mourninge / and the noyse of their melody into lamentacion. And so when they had auenged the bloude of their brother / they turned agayne vnto Jordane.

Bachydes hearinge this / came vnto the very border of Jordane / with a greate power vpon the Sabbath daye. And Jonathas saide to his company: let vs get vp / and fyght a-E gaynst oure enemyes / for it standeth not with vs to daye as in tymes / past: Beholde / oure enemyes are in oure waye / the water of Jordane vpon the one syde of vs / with bankes / sennes and woodes of the other syde / so that there is no place for vs to departe vnto.
par. xx. a †Wherfore crie now vnto heauē / that ye maye
Ma. iiij. b be delyuered frō the power of youre enemies. So they stroke the battayll. And Jonathas strethched out his hande to smyte Bachydes / but he fled backwarde. Then Jonathas and they that were with him leapte into Jordane / and swymmed ouer Jordane vnto him / and there were slayne of Bachydes syde that daye / a thousande men.

Therfore Bachydes with his hoost turned agayne to Jerusalem / and buylte vp the castels / and stronge holdes that were in Jewry / Jericho / Emaus / Bethoron / Bethel / Thannata / Phara / & Thopo / with hygh walles / with portes / and with lockes: and set men to kepe them / that they myght vse their malyce vpon Israel. He walled vp Bethsura / Gazara and the castell at Jerusalem also / and prouyded them with men and vitayles: He toke also the chiefest mens sonnes in the countrie for pledges / and put them in the castell at Jerusalem to be kept.

Afterwarde in the C. liij. yeare in ꝑ seconde moneth / Alcymus cōmaunded that the walles of the ynmost Sanctuary shoulde be destroyed / and the buyldinges of the prophetes also. And when he beganne to destroye them / F the thinges that he wente aboute were hindered: for he was smyten with a palsey / and his mouth shut / so ꝑ he could nomore speake nor commaunde any of his house / cōcerninge his busynesse. Thus died Alcymus in greate misery at thesame tyme. And when Bachydes sawe that Alcymus was dead / he turned agayne to the kynge / and so the lande was in rest. ij. yeares. Then all the vngodly men helde a counsayll / sayinge: Beholde / Jonathas and hys company are at ease / and dwell without care. Wherfore let vs brynge Bachydes hyther / and he shall take thē all in one nyght.

So they wente and gaue Bachydes thys counsayll / which arose to come with a greate hoost / and sent letters pryuely to hys adherentes which were in Jewry / to take Jonathas & those that were with him: but they myght not / for the other had gotte knowlege of their deuyce. And Jonathas toke. L. men of the countrie (which were the ringleders of them) and slewe them. Then Jonathas and Symon with their company departeth vnto the citie Bethbessen / which lieth in ꝑ wildernesse / and repayred the decay thereof / and made it stronge. When Bachydes knewe thys / he gathered all hys hoost / and sent worde to them that were of Jewry. Then came he / and layed sege to Bethbessen / and fought agaynst it a longe season / and made instrumētes of warre. Now Jonathas left hys brother Symon in the citie / and wente forth hym self into the countrie / and came with a certayne numbre / and slewe Odares and his brethren / and the G chyldren of Phaseron in their tentes: so that he beganne to be stronge / and to increace in power.

As for Symon and hys company / they wente out of the citie / and brent vp the instrumentes of warre/and fought against Bachydes/and discōfyted him. And Bachydes was sore vexed / because his counsayll and trauayle was in vayne. Wherfore he was wroth at the wicked men(that gaue him counsayll to come into their lande)and slewe many of thē. Then purposed he with his company to go awaye into his owne countrie: whereof when Jonathas had knowlege/ he sent Ambassatours vnto him/for to make peace with him / & that he shoulde delyuer him his prysoners agayne. To the which Bachydes cōsented gladly/& dyd accordinge to his desire: yee/and made an ooth that he should neuer do him harme all ỹ dayes of his lyfe. So he restored vnto him al the prysoners that he had taken out of the lande of Juda / and then turned and wente his waye into his owne lande/ neyther proceded he any further to come vnto the borders of Juda. Thus Jsrael had no more warre. And Jonathas dwelt at Machmas / and beganne there to gouerne the people / and destroyed the vngodly men out of Jsrael.

The. X. Chapter.

A Josephus ca. ij. iij. lib. xiij.

In the hundreth lx. yeare came Alexander the sonne of noble Antiochus / and toke Ptolomeis / whose cytiesyns receaued him / & there he raygned. When Demetrius herde therof / he gathered an exceadinge greate hoost / and wente forth against him to fyght. Wherfore Demetrius sent letters vnto Jonathas with louinge wordes / and praysed him greatly. For he sayde: we will fyrst make peace with him/before he binde him self with Alexander against vs: els he shall remembre the euel that we haue done against him / his brother and his people. And so he gaue Jonathas leue to gather an hoost/ to make weapēs/ and to be confederate with him/ and cōmaunded the pledges that were in the castell / to be deliuered vnto him.

Then came Jonathas to Jerusalem / and red the letters in the audience of al the people/ and of them that were in the castell. And therfore were they sore afrayed / because they herde that the kynge had geuen hym licence to gather an hoost. Thus were the pledges delyuered vnto Jonathas / which restored them to their elders. Jonathas also dwelt at Jerusalem/and beganne to buylde vp/and to repayre the citie: commaundinge the worke men to B wall it/ and the mount Syon rounde aboute with fre stone/to be a stronge hold/and so they dyd. As for the Heythen that were in the castels which Bachydes had made vp/they fled: so that euery man left the place/ and went into his owne countrie. Onely/at Bethsura remayned certaine of the Jewes/which had forsaken the lawe/ and cōmaundemētes of God/ for Bethsura was their refuge.

Now when kinge Alexander herde of the promyses that Demetrius had made vnto Jonathas/and when it was tolde him of the battayls and noble actes / which he and his brethren had done/and of the great trauailes that they had taken: he sayde: where shall we fynde such a mā? well/we wil make him oure frende/ and be confederate with him. Vpon this he wrote & lettre vnto him with these wordes: Kynge Alexander saluteth his brother Jonathas. We haue herde of the / that thou art a valeaūt man/and mete to be our frend/ wherfore this daye we ordeyne the to be the hyghe priest of thy people/and to be called the kinges frende. (Vpon this/he sente him a purple clothinge and a croune of gold)that thou mayest consydre what is for oure profyt/ & kepe frendshyppe towarde vs.

So in the vij moneth of the C. lx yeare vpC on ỹ solempne feast daye of the tabernacles/ Jonathas put the holy raiment vpon him. Then gathered he an hoost / and made many weapens. Which when Demetrius herde/ he was maruaylous sory/and sayde: Alas / what haue we done/ that Alexander hath preuented vs in gettynge the frendshyppe of the Jewes/ for his owne defence? Yet will J wrytte louingly vnto thē also / yee / and promyse them dignities and rewardes / that they maye be of my syde. Wherupon he wrote vnto thē these wordes: Kynge Demetrius sendeth gretinge vnto the people of the Jewes. Where as ye haue kepte youre cōuenaunt towarde vs / and continued in oure frendshippe/not enclininge to oure enemies/ we were glad whē we herde therof. Wherfore remaine still and be faythfull to vs: and we shal wel recompence you for the thinges that ye haue done on oure partye: we shal releace you of many charges/and geue you rewardes.

And

And now J discharge you/and all the Jewes from tributes / J forgeue you the costumes of salt/ and release you of the croune taxes of the thyrde parte of sede / and half of the frute of trees / which is myne owne duety.
D These J leaue for you from thys daye forth: so that they shall not be taken of the lande of Juda/nor of the thre cities which are added thervnto/ out of Samaria and Galile/ from thys daye forth for euermore. Jerusalem also with all thinges belonginge therto / shalbe holy & fre/ yee/ the tythes and tributes shall pertayne vnto it. As for the power of the castell which is at Jerusalem/J remitte & geue it vnto the hyghe priest/that he maye set in it such men as he shall chose to kepe it. J frely delyuer all the Jewes that are prysoners thorowout all my realme: so that euery one of them shalbe fre from payinge any trybute / yee / euen of their cattel.

All the solempne feastes / Sabbathes/ Newmones / the dayes appoynted / the thre dayes before and after the feastes shalbe fre for al the Jewes in my realme: so that in them no man shall haue power to do any thinge/ or to moue any busynesse against any of them in any maner of cause. There shall xxx. M. also of the Jewes be wrytten vp in the kynges hoost/and haue their wages payed/as all other men of warre of ỹ kinges shoulde haue: and of them shalbe ordeyned certayne to kepe the kynges strong holdes: yee / and some of them shalbe set ouer the kynges busynesse/ that they maye faythfully deale with thesame. The Jewes also shall haue princes of their owne/and walke in their owne lawes / as the kinge hath cōmaunded in the lande of Juda.

And the thre cytes that are fallen vnto Jewry from the countrie of Samaria and Galile/shalbe taken as Jewry /and be vnder one: neyther be subiecte to any straunge lorde/ but to the hyghe priest. As for Ptolomays and the lande pertayninge therto. J geue it vnto the Sanctuary at Jerusalem/for the necessary expences of the holy thynges. Moreouer/J will geue euery yeare xv. M. Sycles of syluer out of the kynges checker (which pertayneth vnto me) to the worke of the temple: yee/and loke what remayneth (which they that had oure matters in hande in tymes past/ haue not payed) thatsame shall they geue vnto them also. And besydes all thys/ the v. M. Sycles which they toke yearly of the rentes of the Sanctuary/ shall belonge vnto the pristes that do seruice.

Jtem/ whosoeuer they be that flye vnto the temple at Jerusalem / or within the libertyes thereof / where as they are fallen into the kinges daunger for any maner of busynes / they shalbe pardoned/ and all the goodes that they haue in my realme / shalbe fre. For the buyldinge also and repayringe of the worke of the Sanctuary/ expences shalbe geuen out of the kynges Checker: Yee / and for the makinge of the walles rounde aboute Jerusalem / for the breakynge doune of the olde / and for the settinge vp of the stronge holdes in Jewry/ shal the costes and charges be geuē out of the kinges Checker.

† But when Jonathas / & the people herde j. Ma. vij b these wordes/ they gaue no credence vnto thē/ neyther receaued them: for they remembred the greate wickednesse that he had done vnto Jsrael/and how sore he had vexed thē. Wherfore they agreed vnto Alexander/ for he was a prynce that had dealte frendly with them/ and so they stode by him alwaye. Then gathered kynge Alexander a greate hoost / and brought hys armye agaynst Demetrius. So the two kinges stroke battail together/but Demetrius hoost fled / and Alexander folowed after/ and fell vpon them. A myghtye sore felde was it/ Josephus cōtinuinge tyll the Sunne wente doune / and ca. v. lib. xiij Demetrius was slayne thesame daye.

And Alexander sente Ambassatours vnto F Ptolome the kynge of Egypte with these wordes / sayinge: For so much as J am come agayne to my realme / and am set in the trone of my progenitours/ and haue gotten the dominion/ouercome Demetrius/conquered the lande / and stryken a felde with hym / so that we haue discomfyted both him and his hoost/ and syt in the trone of hys kyngdome. Let vs now make frendshyppe together/ geue me thy doughter to wyfe: so shall J be the sonne in lawe / and both geue the rewardes / and her greate dignite. Ptolome the kinge gaue aunswere / sayinge: Happy be the daye wherein thou art come agayne to the lande of thy progenitours/ and set in the trone of theyr kyngdome. And now will I fulfyll thy wrytinge: but mete me at Ptolomays / that we maye se one another/& that I maye marry my doughter vnto the/accordinge to thy desyre. So Ptolome wente out of Egypte with hys doughter Cleopatra/ and came vnto Ptolomays in the C.lxij. yeare: where kinge Alexander met hym / & gaue Alexander hys doughter Cleopatra/ and marryed them at Ptolomays with greate worshyppe / lyke as the maner of kinges is to be.

Then wrote kynge Alexander vnto Jonathas/that he shoulde come and mete hym. So he wente honorably vnto Ptolomays / and there he met the two kynges /and gaue them greate presentes of golde and syluer/ & founde
G fauoure in theyr syght. And there came together against Jonathas certayne wicked men/ and vngracious persones of Israel / makinge complayntes of hym / but the kinge regarded them not. As for Jonathas/ the kinge commaunded to take of his garmentes / and to clothe him in purple: and so they dyd. Then the kynge appoynted him to syt by him / and sayde vnto hys princes: Go with him into the myddest of the citie/ and make a proclamacyon/that no man complayne against him of any matter / and that noman trouble him for any maner of cause.

So it happened that when his accusers sawe ỹ worshyppe / which was proclaymed of him/and that he was clothed in purple / they fled euerychone. And the kinge made much of him / wrote him amonge his chiefe frendes/ made him a duke / and partaker of his dominion. Thus Jonathas wente agayne to Jerusalem with peace and gladnesse. In the C. lxv. yeare came Demetrius the sonne of Demetrius from Creta into his fathers lande: whereof when Alexander herde tell / he was ryght sory/and returned vnto Antioche. And
.Ma.ij. a Demetrius chose † Appollonius (which had the gouernaunce of Celosyria) to be hys captayne.

So he gathered a greate hoost / and came vnto Jamnia / and sente worde vnto Jonathas the hyghe priest / sayinge: Darrest thou withstande vs thy selfalone? As for me/ I am but laughed to scorne and shamed / because thou proucst thy strength agaynst vs in the mountaynes. Now therfore if thou trustest in
B thine owne strength / come doune to vs into the playne felde / and there let vs proue oure strength together: thou shalt fynde that I haue valeaunt mē of warre with me: and shalt know who I am/and the other that stande by me: which saye /that youre fote is not able to stande before oure face / for thy fathers haue bene twyse chaced into theyr owne lande. And now / how wilt thou be able to abyde so great an hoost of horsmen and fotemen in the felde/ where as is neyther rocke / stone / nor place to flye vnto.

When Jonathas herde the wordes of Appollonius/he was moued in his mynde: wherefore he chose x. thousand men/ and wente out of Jerusalem / and Symon hys brother met hym for to helpe hym: And they pitched theyr tentes at Joppa/but the citie kepte hym forth/ for Joppa was an holde of Appollonius. Then Jonathas layed sege to it/ and they that were in the citie/ for very feare let hym in: and so Jonathas wanne Joppa. Appollonius hearynge of thys/ toke thre thousande horsmē/ with a greate hoost of fote men/and wente as though he wolde go to Azotus/and came immediatly into the playne felde: because he had so many horsmen/ and put hys trust in them. So Jonathas folowed vpon hym to Azotus/ and there they stroke the battayl. Now had Appollonius lefte a M. horsmen behinde them priuely in the tentes. And when Jonathas knew that such wayte was layed behynde thē/ they wente rounde about the enemies hooste/ and shot dartes at the people from the morninge to the euening. As for Jonathas people/they kept theyr ordre as he had commaunded them / and the enemyes horses were euer labouringe.

Then brought Symon forth his hoost/and I set them agaynst the fote men. For the horsmē were weery already. So he discomfited them/ and they fled. And they that were scatred in ỹ felde/gatte them to Azotus/ and came into the temple of Dagon theyr Idol/ that they might there saue theyr lyfes. But Jonathas set fyre vpon Azotus/and all the cities rounde aboute it/ and toke their goodes / † and brent vp the j.Ma the temple of Dagon with all them that were fled into it.

Josephus ca.vj.li.xiij. Antiq.

Thus

Thus were slayne and brent wel nye viij. thousande men. So Jonathas remoued the hoost from thence/and brought them to Ascalon: where the men of the citie came forth/ and met hym with greate worshyppe. After thys wente Jonathas and hys hoost agayne to Jerusalem/with greate substaunce of good. And when kinge Alexander herde these thinges / he thought to do Jonathas more worshyppe / & sent hym a colar of golde / as the vse is to be geuen vnto such as are of the kinges nexte bloude. He gaue hym also the citie of Accaron (with the landes belonginge therto) in possession.

The XI. Chapter.

A AND the king of Egypte gathered an hoost/ph.ca. (lyke the sande that lyeth vpon the see o.viij.e shore) and many shyppes: and wente aboute thorow deceate to optayne the kingdome of Alexander/ and to ioyne it vnto hys owne realme. Vpon thys he toke hys iourneye into Syria/and was letten into the cities / and mē came forth to mete hym: for kinge Alexander had commaunded them so to do / because he was hys father in lawe. Now when Ptolome entred into any citie / he lefte men of warre to kepe it / and thys he dyd thorowout all the cities. And when he came to Azotus / they shewed hym the temple of Dagon and Azotus ac.x.i † that was brent vp / with the other thinges which were destroyed / the dead bodies cast abroade/ and the graues that they had made by the waye syde/for such as were slayne in the feld: And tolde the kinge that Jonathas had done all these thinges/ to the intēt they might get hym euell will. But the kynge sayde not a worde therto.

And Jonathas met the kinge with greate honour at Joppa / where they saluted one another / and toke theyr rest. So when Jonathas had gone with the kinge/ vnto the water that was called Eleutherus/he turned againe to Jerusalem. Now Ptolome had gotten the dominion of the cities vnto Seleucia vpon the see coast / ymagininge wicked counsayls agaynst Alexander / and sent Ambassatours vnto Demetrius/sayinge: Come let vs make a bande betwixte vs / so shall I geue the my
B doughter that Alexander hath/and thou shalt raygne in thy fathers kingdome. I repente that I gaue Alexander my doughter / for he goeth about to slayne me. And thus he sclaundred Alexander / because he wolde haue had hys realme.

Thus he toke hys doughter from him/gaue her vnto Demetrius/ and forsoke Alexander/ so that hys malyce was openly knowen. And Ptolome came to Antioche / where he set two crounes vpon hys owne heade: the croune of Egypte and of Asia. In ỹ meane season was kinge Alexander in Cilicia/for they that dwelt in those places/had rebelled agaynst him. But when Alexander herde of thys / he came to warre agaynst him. So kinge Ptolome brought forth hys hoost/ and met hym with a myghty power / and chaced him awaye. Then fled Alexander into Araby / there to be defended/and kinge Ptolomes honoure increaced. And Zabdiel the Arabian smote of Alexanders heade / and sent it vnto Ptolome. But the thyrde daye after / dyed kynge Ptolome him self: and they whome he had set in the stronge holdes/were slayne of those that were within the cities. And Demetrius raygned in the hundreth and seuen and syxty yeare.

At thesame tyme gathered Jonathas them C that were in Jewry / to laye sege vnto the castell which was at Jerusalē / and so they made many instrumentes of warre agaynst it. Then wēte there certayne vngodly persones (which hated theyr owne people) vnto kynge Demetrius / and tolde him / that Jonathas beseged the castel. So whē he herde it/he was angry/ and immediatly came to Ptolomais / and wrote vnto Jonathas that he shoulde not laye sege to the castel / but come & speake with hym in all the haist. Neuertheles / when Jonathas herde thys/he commaunded to besege it. He chose also certayne of the elders and priestes of Israel / and put hym self in the parell/ and toke with hym golde / syluer / clothynge/ and diuerse presentes: and wente to Ptolomays vnto the kynge / and founde hym gracious.

And though certayne vngodly men of hys owne people made complayntes vpō him/ yet the kynge intreated hym / † lyke as his prede- j.Mac.x.b
cessours had done before: and promoted him in the sight of all his frendes / confirmed hym in the hyghe prieſthode with all ỹ worſhippe that he had afore / and made him his chiefe frende. Jonathas alſo deſyred the kinge that j.Mac.x.d he wolde make Jewry free / with the three head cities of Samaria/and the lãdes pertayninge therto: vpon this dyd Jonathas promyſe him three C. talentes. Whereunto the kinge conſented / and gaue Jonathas writinge of the ſame / conteyninge theſe wordes: Kinge Demetrius ſendeth gretinge vnto his brother D Jonathas / & to the people of the Jewes. We ſende you here a coppy of the lettre / which we dyd wryte vnto oure elder Laſthenus / concerninge you / that ye ſhoulde knowe it.

Kynge Demetrius ſendeth gretinge vnto Laſthenus his elder. For the faithfulnes that oure frendes the people of the Jewes kepe vnto vs / and for the louinge kindnes which they beare towarde vs: we are determined to do them good. Wherfore we ordeyne all the coaſtes of Jewry with the three cities / Lyda and Ramatha (which are added vnto Jewry from Samaria) and all the landes pertayninge thereunto / to be frely ſeparated for ſuch as do ſacrifice in Jeruſalē: both concerninge the paymentes which the kynge toke yearly afore tyme / and the frutes alſo of the earth and trees. As for other tythes and tributes that belonged vnto vs / we diſcharge them therof from this tyme forth. In lyke maner / we graunte vnto them all the cuſtomes of ſalt and croune taxes / which were brought vnto vs. And thys fredome ſhall they haue firme and ſtedfaſt / from thys tyme forth for euermore. Therfore ſe that ye make a copy of theſe our letters / & delyuer it vnto Jonathas: that it maye be kepte vpō the holy mount in a conuenient place.

E After thys / when Demetrius the kynge ſawe that thys lande was in reſt / and that no reſiſtaunce was made hym: he ſent awaye all his hooſt euery man to hys owne place / excepte an armye of ſtraungers / whome he brought from the Iles of the Heythen / wherfore all hys fathers hooſt had cuell wil at him.
j.Ma.xij.e I Now was there one Tryphō (that had bene of Alexanders parte afore) which when he ſawe that all the hooſt murmured againſt Demetrius: he wente to Emalcuel the Arabyan (that brought vp Antiochus the ſonne of Alexander) and laye ſore vpon him / to delyuer hym this yonge Antiochus: that he myght raygne in hys fathers ſteade. He tolde hym alſo what greate euell Demetrius had done / and how his mē of warre loued hym not: and ſo remayned there a longe ſeaſon.

And Jonathas ſent vnto kinge Demetrius / to dryue them out which were in the caſtel at Jeruſalem and in the other refugies / for they dyd Iſrael greate harme. So Demetrius ſent worde vnto Jonathas / ſayinge: I will not onely do theſe thinges for the & thy people / but at tyme conuenient / I wil do both ỹ and thy people greate worſhippe. But now thou ſhalt do me a pleaſure / if thou wilt ſende me men to helpe me: for all myne armye is gone fro me. So Jonathas ſent hym iij. M. ỹ ſtronge men vnto Antioche / and they came vnto the kynge: wherfore the kinge was very glad at their commynge. But they that were of the citie (euen an C. xx thouſande men) gathered them together / and wold haue ſlayne the kynge / which fled into hys courte: and the citieſyns kepte the ſtretes of the citie / and begānne to fyght.

Then the kinge called for the Jewes helpe / which came vnto him altogether / and wente abroade thorow the citie / & ſlew theſame daye an hundreth M. men: ſet fyre vpon the citie / gat many ſpoyles in that daye / and delyuered the kynge. So when the citieſyns ſawe that the Jewes had gotten their will of the citie / and they them ſelfes diſpoynted of their purpoſe: they made their ſupplicacion vnto the kynge / ſayinge: Graunte vs peace / and let the Jewes ceaſſe from troublinge vs / and the citie / and vpon thys they caſt awaye theyr weapens. Thus they made peace / and the Jewes gat greate worſhippe in the ſight of the kinge / and in the ſyght of al that were in his realme / and were ſpoken of thorowout the kingdome: and ſo they came againe to Jeruſalem with greate goodes.

So the kynge Demetrius ſat in the trone G of hys kingdome / and had peace in his lande. Neuertheles / he dyſſembled in all that euer he ſpake / and withdrewe him ſelfe from Jonathas / neyther rewarded him accordinge to the benefytes which he had done for him / but troubled hym very ſore. After thys came Tryphon phon agayne with yonge Antiochus / which raygned / and was crouned kynge. Thē there gathered vnto him all the men of warre / whome Demetrius had put awaye / theſe foughte againſte Demetrius / whiche fled and turned his backe. So Triphon toke the Elephantes / and wanne Antioche. And yōge Antiochus wrote vnto Jonathas / ſayinge: I confirme the in thy prieſthode / and make the ruler of iiij countries / that thou mayeſt be a frende of the kynges.

Vpon this he ſent him golden veſſell to be ſerued in / and gaue hym leaue to drynke in golde / to be clothed in purple / and to weare a colar of golde / he made his brother Simon alſo captayne / from the coaſtes of Tyrus vnto the borders of Egypte. Then Jonathas toke his iourney / and wente thorow the cities beyonde the water (of Jordane) & al the men of warre of Syria gathered them vnto hym for to helpe hym. So he came vnto Aſcalon / and they of the cytie receaued him honorably: and from thence wente he vnto Gaza / but they wolde not let him in: wherfore he layed ſege vnto it / burninge vp / and ſpoylinge the places that were aboute the citie.

H And the citieſyns of Gaza ſubmitted them ſelfes vnto Jonathas / whiche made peace wt them / but toke of their ſonnes to pledge / ſente them to Jeruſalem / and went thorow ỹ coūtrie vnto Damaſcus. Now when Jonathas herde that Demetrius princes were come in to Cades (which is in Galile:) with a greate hooſt / purpoſinge to put Demetrius oute frō medlinge in the realme: he came againſt thē / and lefte Simon his brother in the lande: which came to Bethſura / and layed ſege to it a longe ſeaſon / and diſcomfyted thē. So they deſyred to haue peace wt him / which he graūted them / and afterwarde put them out from thence / toke the citie / and ſet men to kepe it.

And Jonathas with his hooſte came to the water of Geneſar / & by times in the morning gat them to the plaine felde of Azor.

And beholde / the hooſtes of the Heythen mete them in the felde / and layed watche for them in the mountaines: ſo that when Jonathas came againſt them / ỹ other (which were layed to watch) roſe out of their places / and fought / and they that were of Jonathas ſyde fled euery man: and there was not one of them lefte / excepte Matarhias the ſonne of Abſalomus / and Judas the ſonne of Calphi the captayne of the hooſte. Then Jonathas rente his clothes / layed earth vpon his heade / made his prayer / and turned agayne to them in the felde: where they fought together / and he put them to flyght. Now when his owne men that were fled / ſawe this: they turned agayne vnto hym / and helped hym to folowe vpon all theyr enemyes vnto their tentes at Cades. So there were ſlayne of the Heithen theſame daye iij. M. men / and Jonathas turned agayne to Jeruſalem.

The. XII. Chapter.

JOnathas ſeynge that the time was mete A for hym / choſe certayne men / and ſente them vnto Rome / for to ſtabliſhe and to renue
j.mac.viij.a the frendſhippe with them. He ſent letters alſo vnto Sparta / and to other places in lyke maner. So they wente vnto Rome / & entred into the counſail and ſayde / Jonathas the hygh prieſt and the people of the Jewes ſent vs vnto you / for to renue the olde frendſhippe / & bonde of loue. Vpon this ỹ Romaines gaue thē fre paſportes / ỹ mē ſhoulde lede them home into the land of Juda peaceably. And this is the copy of the lettres that Jonathas wrote vnto the Sparcians.

Jonathas the hygh prieſt / with the elders / prieſtes / and the other people of the Jewes / ſende greting vnto the Sparcians their brethren. There were lettres ſente longe ago vnto Onias the hygh prieſt / from Arius which than raygned amonge you / that ye are oure brethren / as the wryting made therupon ſpecifyeth. And Onias intreated the Ambaſſatoure that was ſente honorably / and receaued the lettres: wherin there was mencion made of the bonde of loue and frendſhippe. But as for vs / we nede no ſuche wrytinges: for why / we haue the holy bokes of ſcripture in oure handes to oure comforte. Neuertheleſſe / we had rather ſende vnto you / for the renuynge of the brotherhode and frendſhippe: leſt / we ſhoulde be ſtraunge vnto you / for it is longe ſence the tyme that ye ſente worde vnto vs. Wherfore / in the ſacrifyces that we offre and other ceremonies vpon the hyghe ſolempne dayes / & other we alway remembre you without ceassinge(like as reason is / and as it becommeth vs to thynke vpon oure brethren)yee/and are right glad of your prosperous honoure.

And though we haue had greate troubles and warres / so that the kynges aboute vs haue foughten against vs:yet wolde we not be greuous vnto you/nor to other of oure louers and frendes in these warres. For we haue had helpe from heauen/so that we are deliuered/and oure enemies subdued. Wherfore we chose Numenius the sone of Antiochus / and Antipater the sonne of Jason/and sent them vnto the Romaynes / for to renue the olde bonde of frendshippe and loue with them. We commaunded them also to come vnto you/to salute you/and to deliuer you oure letres / concerninge the renouacion of oure brotherhode. And now ye shal do right well/ to geue vs an aunswere thereunto.

C And this is the copy of the writinge/ which Areus the kynge of Sparta sente vnto Onias: Areus kynge of the Sparcians sendeth gretinge vnto Onias the hye priest. It is founde in writinge / that the Sparcians and Jewes are brethren/and come of the generacion of Abraham. And nowe for so much as this is come to oure knowlege/ ye shall do wel/ to wryte vnto vs of youre prosperyte/ as for vs/we haue written our mynde vnto you: Oure cattell and goodes are yours: & yours/ ours. These thinges haue we commaunded to be shewed vnto you.

When Jonathas herde/ that Demetrius princes were come forth to fyght against him with a greater hooste then afore/ he wente frō Jerusalem/and met them in the lande of Hemath/for he gaue thē not space to come into his owne countrie. And he sent spyes vnto their tentes / whiche came agayne / and tolde him that they were appointed to come vpon him in the night season. Wherfore when the Sunne was gone doune/Jonathas cōmaūded his men to watch al the night/ and to be ready with weapens for to fight: & set watch-
D men rounde aboute the hooste. But when the aduersaries herde that Jonathas was ready with his men to the battayl/they feared / and were afrayed in their hertes/and kyndled fyres in their tentes/brake vp/ and gat them away. Neuertheless/Jonathas and his company knewe it not tyl the morninge / for they sawe the fyres burninge.

Then Jonathas folowed vpon them / but he myght not ouertaken them/ for they were gone ouer the water Eleuterus. So Jonathas departed vnto the Arabiās(which were called Zabadei)slew them/and toke their goodes. He proceded further also/and came vnto Damascus/and went thorow al that coūtrie. But Simon his brother toke his iourney/and came to Ascalon & to the next strong holdes/departinge vnto Joppa/ and wanne it. For he herde that they wolde stande of Demetrius party: wherfore he sente men of warre in the cytie to kepe it. After this came Jonathas home agayne / and called the elders of the people together: and deuysed with them for to builde vp the stronge holdes in Jewry/and the walles of Jerusalem/to set vp an hyghe walle betwixte the castel and the citie/for to separate it frō the citie/that it might be alone / and that men shoulde neyther bye nor sell in it.

Vpon this they came together for to build vp the cytie: and for so much as the walle vpon the broke of the West syde(called Caphetheta) was fallen doune / they repayred it. And Simon set vp Adiada in Sephela/and made it strong/settinge gates and lockes vpō it. †Now when Triphon purposed to raigne in Asia/to be crouned/and to slaye the kynge Antiochus: he was afrayed that Jonathas wolde not suffre him/but fyght against him. Wherfore he wente aboute to take Jonathas/ and to kyl him.

So he departed/and came vnto Bethsan. Then wente Jonathas forth against him to the battayll with fourtye thousande chosen men/and came vnto Bethsan also. But when Triphon sawe that Jonathas came with so greate an hooste to destroye him / he was afrayed: and therfore he receaued hym honorably/commended him vnto all his frendes/ gaue him rewardes / and commaunded his men of warre to be as obedient vnto him/ as to hym selfe.

And sayde vnto Jonathas: why hast thou caused this people to take such trauayle/ seing there is no warre betwixte vs? Therfore sende

& i. Mac. Joseph. capite xi. lib. xiij.

sende them home againe / and chose certayne men to wayte vpon the/and come thou with me to Ptolomais/for I will geue it the with the other stronge holdes / men of warre and their officers: As for me/ I must departe/ this is onely the cause of my commynge. Jonathas beleued hym/and dyd as he said/put-
F tinge awaye his hoost/which wente into the lande of Juda. He kepte but iij. M. by hym/ wherof he sente ij. M. into Galilee / and one M. went with him selfe.

Nowe as soone as Jonathas entred into Ptolomais / the citiesyns sperred the gates of the citie/ and toke him/ and slewe all them with the swearde/that came in with hym. Then sent Triphon an hooste of fote men and horsmen into Galile/& into the greate playne felde/ to destroye al Jonathas company. But when they knew that Jonathas was taken/ and all they slayne that wayted vpon him: they toke counsaill together / and came forth ready to the battaill. So whē they ih folowed vppon them / sawe that it was a matter of lyfe / they turned backe agayne: as for the other/ they wente into the lande of Juda peaceably/and bewayled Jonathas / and thē that were with him ryghte sore. And Israell made greate lamentacion. Then all the Heythen that were rounde aboute them/ soughte to destroye them. For they sayde: nowe haue they no captayne/nor any man to helpe them. Therfore let vs ouercome them/and rote oute their name from amonge men.

The XIII. Chapter.

A NOw whan Simon herde that Triphon gathered a greate hooste to come into the lande of Juda / and to destroye it/ and sawe that the people was in greate fearfulnesse and care: He came vp to Jerusalem/ and gathered the people together/ and gaue them exortacion / sayinge: Ye knowe what greate battails I and my brethrē and my fathers house haue striken for the lawe & the Sanctuary / & what maner of troubles we haue sen: thorow
ac. vj. c occasion wherof †all my brethren are slayne
d. xiij b for Israels sake/& I am left alone. And nowe let not me spare myne owne lyfe in any maner of trouble/for I am no better then my brethren: But wyll auenge my people and the Sanctuary/oure children and oure wiues: for all the Heythen are gathered together/to destroye vs of very malyce.

At these wordes the hertes of the people were kyndled together/ so that they cryed with a loude voyce/sayinge: Thou shalt be our captayne in steade of Judas and Jonathas thy brethren/ordre thou our battail/& whatsoeuer thou commaundest vs/we shall do it. So he gathered al the men of warre/ makinge haist to fynish al the walles of Jerusalem / whiche he made stronge rounde aboute. Then sente B he Jonathas the sonne of Absalomus with a fresh hooste vnto Joppa/which droue thē oute that were in the castell / and remayned there him selfe. Triphon also remoued from Ptolomais with a greate armye / to come into the lande of Juda/& Jonathas with him beinge inwarde. And Simon pitched his tentes at Addus before the playne felde.

But when Triphon knewe that Symon stode vp in steade of his brother Jonathas/ and that he wolde warre agaynste him: he sent messaungers vnto him/sayinge: Where as we haue kepte Jonathas thy brother / it is for money that he is owinge in the kynges accompte/ concernynge the busynesse that he had in hande. Wherfore sende nowe an C. talentes of syluer/ and his two sonnes for suerties / that when he is letten forthe he shall not forsake vs: and we shall sende him again. Neuertheless/ Symon knewe that he dyssembled in his wordes: yet commaunded he the money and childrē to be delyuered vnto him: lest/he shoulde be the greater enemye against the people of Israel/and saye: Because he sente him not the money and the chyldren/ therfore is Jonathas dead.

So Simon sent hym the chyldren and an hundreth talentes/but he dissembled/ & wold C not let Jonathas go. Afterwarde came Triphon into the lande/ to destroye it/ and went rounde aboute by the waye that ledeth vnto Ador. But whersoeuer they wente/ thither wente Simon and his hooste also. Now they that were in the castell/sent messaungers vnto Triphon / that he shoulde make haiste to come by the wylderneste / and to sende them vittales: And Triphō made ready al his horsmen to come thatsame nighte. Neuertheles/ it was a very greate snowe / so that he came not

not in Galaadithim. And when he drewe nye Baschama / he slewe Jonathas and his sonnes there / and thē turned for to go home into his owne lande.

Then sente Simon for to fet his Brothers dead coarse/and buried it in Modin his fathers citie. So al Israell bewayled him with greate lamentacion / and mourned for him very longe. And Simon made vpon the sepulchre of his father and his brethren a Buyldinge/hygh to loke vnto of fre stone behynde and before:and set vp seuē pillers/one against another(for his father/his mother and foure brethren)and set greate pyllers rounde about with armes vpon them for a perpetuall memory/and carued shippes besyde the armes: that they might be sene of men sailinge in the see. This sepulchre which he made at Modin/ standeth yet vnto this daye.

Josephus capite x. lib. xiij. D †Nowe as Triphon wente forth to walke with the yonge kynge Antiochus / he slewe him traytcrously/and raygned in his steade/ crouned him selfe kyng of Asia/ & dyd muche euell in the lande/Symon also buylde vp the castels in Jewry / makynge them stronge with towers/greate walles/ portes and lockes/ and layed vp vittales in the stronge holdes. And Simon chose certayne men / and sente them to kynge Demetrius: to desyre him/that he wolde discharge the lande from all bondage/for Triphon had spoyled it very sore. Whereupon Demetrius the kynge aūswered hym / and wrote vnto hym after this maner.

Demetrius the kynge sendeth gretinge vnto Simon the hygh priest his frende/with the elders and people of the Jewes. The golden croune and precious stone that ye sente vnto vs/haue we receaued: and are ready to make a stedfast peace with you/yee/& to wryte vnto oure officers/for to release you / concerninge the thinges wherin we made you fre: and the appointment that we make with you shalbe firme and stable. The stronge holdes which ye haue builded/shalbe your owne. As for any ouersight or faute cōmitted vnto this daye/we forgeue it/ and the croune taxe that ye ought vs also. And where as was any other tribute in Jerusalem/it shal now be no tribute: and loke who are mete amonge you to be in oure courte/let thē be written vp that there maye be peace betwixte vs.

Thus the yock of the Heithen was taken from Jsrael/in the hundreth & seuenty yeare. E And the people of the Jewes beganne to write in their lettres & actes on this maner: †In the fyrst yeare of Simon the hygh priest j.ma.xiij.f and prince of the Jewes.

In those dayes wente Symon vnto Gaza/and besieged it rounde ab out/where he set vp ordinaūce of warre. And wanne a tower which he toke. So they ỹ gat into the tower/ leapte into the cytie/ whiche was in a greate feare: In so muche that the people of the cytie rente their clothes/ and clymmed vp vpon the walles with they: wyfes and chylderen/ besechynge Symon to be at one with them/sayinge.

O rewarde vs not after oure wickednesse/ F be gracious vnto vs/and we shal do the seruyce. Thē Simon for very pitie/wolde fyght nomore againste them / but put them oute of the cytie/and caused the houses (wherein the ymages were) to be clensed: and so entred the cytie with Psalmes of prayse/ genynge thankes vnto the Lorde. So when he had cast all abhominacions oute of the citie/he set such men in it as kepte the law of God/and made the cytie stronge / and builded a dwellinge place for him selfe.

Now when they in the castel at Jerusalem were kepte so straytely/ that they coulde not come forth nor into the cōtrye/& might neither bye nor sell: they were very hungrye/ and many of thē famished to death: In so muche that they besought Simon to be at one with them/which he graunted them. So he put them out from thence: and clensed the castell from fylthynesse. And vpon the xxiij. daye of the seconde moneth in the C. lxxj. yeare they entred into it with thankesgeuinge/& braunches of palme trees / with harpes / croudes/ cymbals and lutes / synginge Psalmes and songes of prayse vnto God/ for that ỹ greate enemy of Jsrael was ouercome.

And Simon ordeyned that thesame daye shoulde be kepte euery yeare in gladnes / and made stronge the hyl of the temple that was besyde the castell / where he dwelte him selfe with his company. Simon also perceauinge that that Jhon his sonne was a myghty man of armes/made him captayne of all the hoostes/ and caused hym to dwell at Gaza.

The XIIII. Chapter.

A IN the C. lxij. yeare gathered kynge Demetrius his hooste / and departed vnto Media/ to get hym helpe for to fyght against Triphon. Nowe when Arsaces the kynge of Persia and Media herde / that Demetrius was entred within his borders / he sente one of his princes to take hym alyue/and to bring hym vnto him. So he wente and slewe Demetrius hoost/ toke hym selfe/ brought hym to Arsaces/whiche kepte him in warde. And all the lande of Juda was in rest/ so longe as Simon lyued: for he soughte the wealthe of his people / therfore were they glad to haue hym for their ruler/ and to do him worshippe alwaye.

Simon wanne the cytie of Joppa also for an hauen toune/and made it an intraunce in to the Iles of the see. He enlarged the borders of his people/and cōquered them more land: He gathered vp many of their people that were prysoners: he had the dominion of Gaza/Bethsura and the castell/which he clensed from fylthinesse/and there was no man that resysted him: So that euery man tylled his grounde in peace/the lande of Juda and the trees gaue their frute & encreace. The elders B sat al in iudgement/and toke theyr deuyce for the wealth of the lande: the yonge men put on worshippe and harnesse vpon them. He prouyded vitailes for the cyties / and made goodlye stronge holdes of them: so that the fame of his worshippe was spoken of vnto xvj.a the ende of the worlde. † For he made peace iiij.b thorowout the lande/and Jsrael was full of myrth and ioye.

Euery man sat vnder his vyne and fygge trees/and there was no man to fraye them awaye/there was none in the lande to fight against them/for then the kynges were ouercome. He helped those that were in aduersite amonge his people/he was diligent to se the lawe kepte: as for suche as were vngodly and wicked / he toke them awaye. He set vp the Sanctuary / and increaced the holy vessels of the temple.

When the Romaynes and Sparcians had gotten worde that Jonathas was dead/ they were right sory. But when they herde ỹ Simon his brother was made high priest in his stead/and how he had wonne the land again with the cities in it: they wrote vnto him in tables of laton/to renue the frendshyp and bonde of loue/which they had made afore with Judas and †Jonathas his brethren. j.Ma.viij.c Which writinges were red before the congre d. xij.a gacion at Jerusalem.

And this is the copy of the lettres that the C Sparcians sent. The Senatours / and citiesins of Sparta sende gretinge vnto Simon the greate priest with the elders / priestes and the other people of the Jewes their brethren: When youre Ambassatours that were sente vnto oure people/certifyed vs of your worshippe/honoure and prosperous wealth: we were glad of their comming/and haue written the earande whiche they spake before the counsail of the people: namely/that Numenius the sonne of Antiochus / & Antipater the sonne of Jason the Jewes Ambassatours are come vnto vs/for to renue the olde frendshyp with vs. Vpon this the people cōsented/ that the men shoulde be honorably intreated / and that the copy of their earande should be written in the special bokes of the people/for a perpetual memory vnto the Sparcians: yee/and that we should sende a copy of thesame vnto Simon the greate priest.

After this dyd Simon sende Numenius D vnto Rome/with a golden shilde of a thousande pounde weight/to confirme the frendshippe with them: which when the Romaynes vnderstode/they saide: what thankes shal we recompence againe vnto Simon and his children: For he hath stablished his brethren/ and ouercome the enemies of Jsrael. Wherfore they graunted him to be fre. And all this wrote the Jewes in tables of laton/and nailed it vnto the pillers vpon ỹ mount Sion. The copy of the writinge is this:

The xvij. daye of the moneth † Elul in C. August. lxxij. yeare/ in third yeare of Simon the high priest / in the greate congregacion of the priestes/rulers of the people / and elders of the countrie at Asaramel/ were these wordes openly declared.

For so much as there was muche warre in E oure oure lande/therfore Simon the sonne of Mathias (come of the children of Jareb) and his brethren/put them selfes in parel/and resisted the enemies of their people: that their Sanctuary and lawe might be mainteyned/ and dyd their people great worshippe. Jonathas in like maner after that he had gouerned his people & bene their hygh priest: dyed/ and lyeth buryed beside his elders.

After that wolde their enemies haue troden theyr holy thinges vnder fote/ destroyed their lande/ and vtterly waisted theyr Sanctuary. Then Symon withstode them/ and sought for his people/spent much of his owne money/ weapened the valeaunt men of his people/gaue them wages/made stronge the cities of Juda/with Bethsura that lyeth vpon the borders of Jewry/ (where the ordynaunce of theyr enemies laye somtyme) & set Jewes there for to kepe it.

F He made fast Joppa also/which lyeth vpō the see/and Gaza that bordreth vpon Azotus/ (where the enemyes dwelte afore) and there he set Jewes to kepe it: and whatsoeuer was mete for the subduynge of the aduersaryes/ that layed he therin. Nowe when the people sawe the noble actes of Simon/ and what worshippe he purposed to do for them/ his godly behauoure and faithfulnesse whiche he kepte vnto them/ and howe he soughte by all wayes the wealth of his people/ because he dyd all this/therfore they chose him to be their prince and hyghe priest. And in his tyme they prospered well by hym/ so that the Heithen were taken out of their lande: and they also which were in the citie of Dauid at Jerusalem in the castell (where they wente oute and defyled al thinges that were about the Sanctuary/ and dyd greate harme vnto clenlynes) and Simon put men of the Jewes in it for the defence of the lande and the citie/ and set vp the walles of Jerusalem.

G And kynge Demetrius confirmed him in his hygh priesthode/ made him his frende/ & dyd him greate worshippe. For he herde that the Romayns called the Jewes their frēdes/ louers an brethren: howe honorably they receaued Simons Ambassatours: how the Jewes and priestes consented that he should be their prince and high priest perpetually (tyll God rayse vp the true prophet) and that he shoulde be their captain/to care for the Sanctuary: and to set officers vpon the workes therof/ouer the land/ouer yͤ weapens/ouer the houses of defence/ to make prouysion for the holy thinges/and to be obeyed of euery man/ & al the writinges of the lande to be made in his name: that he shoulde be clothed in purple and golde/ and that it shoulde be lawefull for none of the people nor priestes to breake any of these thinges/ to withstande his wordes/ nor to call any congregacion in the lande without hym: that he shoulde be clothed in purple/ and weare a colar of golde: And if there were any whiche disobeyed or brake this ordinaunce/that he shoulde be punished.

So all the people consented to alowe Simon/and to do accordinge to these wordes. Simon also him selfe toke it vppon him/and was contente to be yͤ hygh priest/the captayn and prince of the Jewes and priestes/ and to gouerne them al. And they commaunded to make this writinge in tables of laton/ and to fasten it vnto the compasse of the Sanctuary in an open place: and to lay vp a copy of the same in the treasury/that Simon and his posterite might haue it.

The XV. Chapter.

MOreouer/ kynge Antiochus the sonne of Demetrius sente lettres frome the Iles of the see/vnto Simon the highe priest and prince of the Jewes/and to al the people/ conteyninge these wordes: Antiochus yͤ kyng sendeth greting vnto Simō the hygh priest/ and to the people of the Jewes. For so muche as certaine wicked men haue gottē the kingdome of our progenitours/ I am purposed to chalenge the realme again/and to restore it to the olde estate.

Wherfore I haue gathered a greate hoost/ and made shippes of warre: that I maye go thorow the countrie/and be auenged of them which haue destroyed oure lande/ and waysted many cities in my realme. And therfore nowe I make the fre also from all the tributes/wherof al kynges my progenitours haue discharged the/ and from other customes (where from they haue released the) whatsoeuer they be: Yee/ I geue the leaue to coyne money of thine owne within thy lande. As for Jerusalem/ I wyl that it be holy and free: and all the weapens and houses of defence/ which thou hast builded and kepest in thyne
B handes/shalbe thyne. Where as any thinge is or shalbe owinge vnto the kynge/ I forgeue it the/from this tyme forth for euermore. And when we haue optayned our kingdom/ we shall do the/ thy people and the temple greate worshippe: so that youre honoure shalbe knowen thorowout the whole worlde.

In the C.lxxiij.yeare wente Antiochus into his fathers lande/ and all the men of warre came together vnto him/ so that fewe were lefte with Triphon. So the kynge Antiochus folowed vpon him/ but he fled vnto Dora/whiche lyeth by the see syde/ for he sawe that there was mischiefe commynge vnto hym/ and that his hoost had forsaken hym. Then came Antiochus vnto Dora with an hundreth and twentye thousande men of armes vppon fote/ and eyght thousande horsmen. So he compasse the cytie rounde about/ and shyppes came by the see. Thus they vexed the cytie by lande and by water/ in so muche that they suffre no man to go in nor oute.

In the meane season came Numenius (& they that had bene with him) from the cytie iiij d of Rome/ hauynge lettres writen vnto the C kynges and prouinces/ wherin were conteyned these wordes: Lucius the Mayre of Rome sendeth gretinge vnto Ptolome the king. The Ambassatours of the Jewes oure frendes/beyng sent from Simon the hygh priest/ and from the people of the Jewes/ came vnto vs/ for to renue the olde frendshippe and bonde of loue/and broughte a shilde of golde weyinge a thousand pounde/which we were contente to receaue of them. Wherfore we thought it good to wryte vnto the kynges & prouinces/ to do them no harme/ nor to take parte against them/their cities nor countries/ neither to mainteyne their enemies againste thē. If there be any wicked persones therfore fled from their countrye vnto you/deliuer thē vnto Simon the hygh prieste/ that he maye punish them according to theyr owne lawe.

These same wordes wrote the Romaines also vnto Demetrius the kynge/ to Attalus/ Araba/Arsaces and to all regions: as Samsanes/to them of Sparta/Delo/Mindo/Sydon/Caria/Samos/Phamphilia/Lycia/Alicarnassium/and to Rhodes: to Faselis/Coo/ Sida/Arado/Gortyna/Gnydum/to Cypres and to Cyren. And of euery lettre they sente a D copy to Simon the hygh priest/and to yͤ people of the Jewes. So Antiochus the kynge brought his hooste vnto Dora the seconde tyme/to take it: where he made dyuers ordinaunces of warre/and kepte Triphon in/that he shoulde not come forthe. Then Symon sent Antiochus two thousande chosen men to helpe hym with golde/ syluer and other plenteous gear: Neuertheless/ he wolde not receaue them/but brake al the cōuenaunt which he made with Simon afore/ and withdrewe him selfe from him.

He sent Athenobius also a frende of his vnto Simon for to reason with him/ saying: Ye withholde fro me Joppa and Gaza (with the castel that is at Jerusalem) which are cities of my realme/whose borders ye haue destroyed/and done great euell in the lande/hauynge the dominacion in many other places of my kyngdome. Wherfore/ deliuer now the E cityes whiche ye haue taken/with the tributes of the places that ye haue rule vpon/without the borders of Jewry: Or els geue me fyue hundreth talentes of syluer/ yee/ and for the harme that ye haue done in the cyties/and for the trybutes of thesame/other fyue hundreth talentes. If no/ we shall come and fyghte against you.

So Athenobius the kynges frendes came to Jerusalem/and when he sawe the greate worshyppe and honoure of Simon in golde/ syluer/ and so greate plenty of ornamentes: he maruayled/and tolde Simon as the kinge commaunded him. Then aunswered Simō/ and sayd vnto hym: † As for vs/we haue neither taken other mens lande/nor withholden them/but onely our fathers heretage/whiche oure enemyes had vnrightcously in possessiō a certayne time. This heretage of our fathers haue we chalenged in proecesse of time. And where as thou complaineſt/ cōcerning Joppa and Gaza/they dyd great harme to oure people and in oure lande/yet will we geue an C. talentes for them. † Iud. xj.c.d

Neuer-

F Neuertheles/ Athenobius aunswered him not one word/But turned againe wrothfully vnto the kynge/ and tolde him all these wordes/and the great dignite of Simon with al that he had sene/and the kynge was very angry. In the meane tyme fled Triphon by shippe vnto Orthosaida. Thē the kyng made Cendebeus captayne of the see coaste/ & gaue him an hoost of fote men and horsmen/ commaundinge him to remoue the hoost toward Jewry/and to builde vp the citie of Cedron/ to make vp the portes/and to warre againste the people of the Jewes. As for the kinge him selfe/he folowed vpon Triphon. So Cendebeus came vnto Jamnia/ & beganne to vexe the people/to treade doune Jewry/to take the people prysoners/to slaye them/and †to build vp Cedron: where he set horsmen and other men of warre/ that they mighte come forth & go thorow the stretes of Jewry/ like as the kinge had commaunded him. j.mac.xvj.c

The XVI. Chapter.

A THen came Jhon vp from Gaza/ & tolde Simon his father/what Cedebeus had done amonge their people. Vpon this called Simon two of his eldest sonnes/Judas and Jhon/and sayde vnto them: I and my brethren/and my fathers house/ haue euer from oure youth vp vnto this daye/ foughten against the enemies of Israel/and God gaue vs good fortune to delyuer Israel oft tymes. And nowe for so muche as I am olde/ be ye in steade of me and my brother/ to go forthe and fyghte for oure people/ and the helpe of God be with you. So he chose xx. M. fyghtinge men of the countrie/with horsmen also/ whiche wente forth againste Cendebeus/and rested at Modin. j.mac.xvj.f

In the mornynge they arose/and wente to the playne felde: and beholde/a myghty great hoost came against them/both of fote men & horsmen. Now was there a water broke betwixte thē/ & Jhon remoued the host toward them. And when he saw that the people was afrayed to go ouer the water broke/ he wente ouer fyrst him selfe: and the men seynge this/ folowed him.

B Then Jhon set his horsmen and fote men in ordre/the one by the other/for their enemies horsmen were very many. But when they blew vp the priestes trompettes/ Cendebeus fled with his hoost/wherof many were slain/ and the remnaunt gat them to their stronge hold. Judas also Jhons brother was wounded at thesame time. And Jhon folowed styll vpon the enemyes/ tyll he came to Cedron †whiche he buylded. The enemyes fled also vnto the towers that were in the feldes of Azotus/and those dyd Jhon burne vp. Thus there were slaine two thousand men of them/ and Jhon turned agayne peaceablye into Jewry. j.mac

And in the felde of Jericho was Ptolome the sonne of Abobus made captayne: whiche because he had aboundaunce of syluer and golde/(for he had married the doughter of Simon the hyghe prieste) waxed proude in his mynde/and thought to conquere ỹ land/ ymageninge falshed againste Simon and his sonnes/to destroye them. Nowe as Symon was goynge aboute thorow the cities/ that were in the countrie of Jewry/ and caryinge for them: he came doune to Jericho/ with Matathias and Judas his sonnes/in the C.lxxvij. yeare in the xj. moneth called †Sabat. Then Ptolome the sonne of Abobus receaued them (But with deceate) into a strong house of his called Soch/which he had buylded/where he made them a banckет. Ja

So when Simon and his sonnes were mery and had dronken well/ Ptolome stode vp with his men (whome he had hyd there) and toke their weapens/entred into the banckет house/ and slewe Simon with his two sonnes/and certaine of his seruauntes. Such greate vnfaithfulnesse dyd Ptolome in Israel/an recompeneed euel for good. Then wrote this Ptolome thesame vnto kyng Antiochus/ requyringe him that he shoulde sende him an hoost to helpe him/ and so shoulde he deliuer him the lande with the cities and tributes of thesame. He sent other men also vnto Gaza/ & for to take Jhon: and wrote vnto the captaynes to come to him/and he should geue them syluer/golde and rewardes. And to Jerusalē he sent other to take it and the Sanctuary.

Then ranne there one before/ and tolde Jhon in Gaza/that his father & his brethren were slaine/and how that Ptolome had sent to slaye him also. When Jhon herde this/he was was sore abashed/ and layed handes on them that were come to destroye him/ and slewe them: for he knewe that they wente aboute to kyll him.

As for other thinges concerninge Jhon: of hys warres/ of hys noble actes (wherein he behaued him self manfully) of the buyldinge of walles which he made/ and other of his dedes: They are wrytten in the Cronicles of his priesthode/ from the tyme forth that he was made hygh Priest after hys father.

The fyrst Chapter.

A THe brethren of the Jewes/ which be at Jerusalē & in the lande of Jewry/ wysh vnto those brethren of the Jewes that are thorowout Egypt: good fortune/ health and peace. God the Lorde be gracious vnto you/and thinke vpon hys co nuenaunt that he made with Abraham/Isaac/ and Jacob his faythful seruauntes: † and geue you all such an herte/ that ye maye loue and serue him/ yee/ and perfourme his will with an whole herte/ & of a willinge mynde: He open youre hertes in his lawe & his cōmaundementes/sende you peace: heare youre prayers/ be at one with you/ and neuer forsake you in tyme of trouble. Thys is here oure prayer for you. b

What tyme as Demetrius raygned in the C.lxix. yeare/we Jewes wrote vnto you in the trouble/& violence ỹ came vpon vs. In those yeares after that Jason departed out of ỹ holy lande & kingdome/ they brent vp the portes/ & B shed innocēt bloud. Thē made we oure prayer vnto the Lord/ and were herde: we offred/ & lighted the candels/ settinge forth cakes and bread. † And now come ye vnto the feast of tabernacles in the moneth * Casleu. Leu. xxiij. f *Nouēbre.

In the C.lxxxviij. yeare/ the people that was at Jerusalem and in Jewry/the counsayl and Judas him self/sent this wholsome salutacion vnto Aristobolus kynge Ptolomes master/ which came of the generacyon of the anoynted priestes: and to the Jewes that were in Egypte: In so much as God hath delyuered vs from greate perels/ we thanke him hyghly/ In that we resisted so myghty a kinge. And why: he brought mē out of Persys by heapes/ to fyght agaynst vs and the holy citie. For as he was in Persys (namely/the captayne with the greate hoost) he perysshed in the temple of Nanceas/ beynge deceaued thorow the deuyce of Nanceas priestes. For as he was purposed to haue dwelt there: Antiochus and his frendes came thyther/ to receaue much money for a dowry. So whē Nanceas priestes had layed forth the money/ he entred with a small company into the compasse of the temple/ and so they shut the temple.

Now when Antiochus entred by lopeninge the preuy intraunce of the temple/ the priestes stoned the captayne to death/hewed thē in peces that were with him/ smote of their heades/ and threwe them out. In all thinges God be praysed/ which hath delyuered the wicked into oure handes. C

Where as we now are purposed to kepe the purificacion of the temple vpon the xxv. daye of the moneth Casleu/ we thought necessary to certifie you thereof: that ye also myght kepe the tabernacles feast daye/ and the daye of the fyre/ which was geuen vs when Nehemias offred/after that he had set vp the temple and the aulter. For what tyme as oure fathers were led awaye vnto Persis/ ỹ priestes (which then sought the honoure of God) toke the fyre pryuely from the aulter/ and hyd it in a valley/ where as was a depe drye pyt: & therein they kepte it/ because the place was vnknowen to euery man. Now after many yeares when it pleased God/ that Nehemias shoulde be sent from the kinge of Persia: † he sent the childers children of those priestes (which had hyd the fyre) to seke it. And as they tolde vs/ they founde no fyre/but thycke water. Leuit. vj. c 2.a.xvj.c

Then commaunded he them to drawe it vp/ and to bringe it him/and the offeringes withall. Now when the sacrifices were layed on and ordred/the priest Nehemias commaunded to sprenkle them/and the wood with the water. When this was done/and the tyme came that the Sunne shone/which afore was hyd in the cloude:there was a great fyre kindled/In so much that euery man maruayled. Now all the priestes prayed/whyle the sacrifice was a makinge. Jonathas prayed fyrst/ and the other gaue aunswere.

And Nehemias prayer was after this maner: O Lorde God maker of all thynges/ thou fearfull and stronge/thou righteous and mercyfull/thou that arte onely a gracious kinge/onely liberall/onely iust/Almyghty and euerlastinge/thou that delyuerest Israel from all trouble/thou that hast chosen the fathers and halowed them: receaue the offeringe for the whole people of Israel/preserue thine owne porcion/and halowe it. Gather those together that are scatred abroade from vs: delyuer them that are vnder the Heythens boundage/loke vpon them which are despysed and abhorred/that the Heythen maye knowe and se/how that thou art oure God/punyshed them that oppresse vs/and proudly put vs to dishonoure. Set thy people agayne in thy holy place/† lyke as Moses had spoken.

Deut. x. a

And the priestes songe Psalmes of thankesgeuinge/so longe as the sacrifice endured. Now when the sacrifice was brent. Nehemias commaunded the greate stones to be sprenkled with the residue of the water. †Which when it was done/there was kindled a flame of them also: but it was consumed thorow the lyght/that shyned from the aulter. So when thys matter was knowen/it was tolde the kynge of Persia/that in the place were the priestes (which were led awaye) had hyd fyre/there appeared water in steade of fyre/and that Nehemias and hys company had purifyed the sacrifices withal. Then the kinge cõsyderinge the matter diligently/made him a temple/to proue the thinge that was done. And when he founde it so in dede/he gaue the priestes many giftes/& diuerse rewardes: yee/he toke them with his owne hande/and gaue them. And Nehemias called thesame place Nephthar/ which is as much to saye/as a clensynge: but many men call it Nephy.

The II. Chapter.

It is founde also in the writinges of Jeremy the prophet/that he commaunded them which were caried awaye/to take fyre † as it is saide afore. *He commaunded them also/that they shoulde not forget the lawe and commaundementes of the Lorde/and that they shoulde not erre in their myndes/when they se images of syluer and golde with their ornamentes. These and such other thinges cõmaũded he them/and exhorted them/that they should not let the lawe of God go out of their hertes.

It is written also how the prophet (at the cõmaundement of God) charged thẽ/to take the tabernacle and ỹ Arcke with them/and he wente forth vnto the moũtayne/† where Moses clymmed vp/and sawe ỹ heretage of God. And when Jeremy came there/he founde an open caue/wherein he layed the tabernacle/ the Arcke/& the aulter of incence/and so stopped the hole. There came certaine mẽ together also folowing him/to marck the place/but they coulde not fynde it. Which whẽ Jeremy perceaued/he reproued them/sayinge: As for that place it shalbe vnknowen/vntyl the tyme that God gather his people together agayne/and receaue thẽ vnto mercy. Then shall God shew them these thinges/& the maiesty of ỹ Lorde shall appeare/and the cloude also/† lyke as it was shewed vnto Moses: and *lyke whẽ Salomon desyred that the place myght be sanctified/and it was shewed him.

For he beynge a wyse man/handled honorably & wysely: offeringe vnto God in ỹ halowinge of the temple when it was fynyshed. †And lyke as when Moses prayed vnto the Lord/ỹ fyre came doune frõ heauen/and cõsumed the burntofferinge: † Euen so prayed Salomon also/& the fyre came doune frõ heauen/& cõsumed ỹ burntofferinge. And Moses said: because ỹ synofferinge was not eatẽ/therfore it is consumed. In lyke maner Salomon kepte ỹ Dedicacio (or halowing) eight dayes.

the epistles of the kinges/and of the presentes. Euen so Judas also/loke what he learned by experience of warre/and such thinges as had happened vnto vs/he gathered them altogether/and so we haue them by vs. If ye now desyre to haue thesame/sende some body to fetch them vnto you. Where as we then are aboute to celebrate the purificacion/we haue written vnto you. Therfore ye shall do well/if ye kepe thesame dayes. We hope also/that the God (which delyuered his people/and gaue thẽ all the heretage/kingdome/priesthode and

As concerninge Judas Machabeus and his brethren/the purificacion of the greate temple/the dedicacion of the aulter/yee/and of the warres that concerne noble Antiochus &

x. vj. a † Eupator his sonne/of the shyninges that came doune from heauen vpon those/which manfully defended the Jewes. (For though they were but fewe/yet defended they the whole lande/droue awaye the enemies hoost/ recouered agayne the temple/that was spoken of thorowout all the worlde/delyuered the citie doyinge their best that ỹ lawe of the Lorde which was put doune/myght with all tranquillite be restored againe vnto the Lorde/ỹ was so mercyfull vnto them.) As touchinge Jason also of Cyren/we haue vndertakẽ compendiously to bringe into one boke/the thinges that were cõprehended of him in fyue. For we consideringe the multitude of the bokes/ & how harde it should be for them that wolde medle with stories & actes (and that because of so diuerse matters) haue vndertakẽ so to comprehende the stories: that such as are disposed to reade/myght haue pleasure and pastyme therein: & that they which are diligent in such thinges/myght the better thinke vpon them: yee/and that whosoeuer red them might haue profyt therby.

Neuertheles/we oure selfes that haue medled with this matter for the shorteninge of it/ haue taken no smal labour/but greate diligence/watchinges and trauayle. Lyke as they that make a feast/wolde fayne do other men pleasure: Euen so we also (for many mens sakes) are very wel content to take the labour/ where as we maye shortly comprehende the thinges that other men haue truly written.

For he that buildeth an house a new/must prouyde for many thinges to the whole buyldinge: but he that paynteth it afterwarde/seketh but only what is comly/mete & cõuenient to garnysh it wythall. Euen so do we also in lyke maner. And why? He that begynneth to wryte a story for ỹ first/must with hys vnderstandinge gather the matter together/set his wordes in ordre/and diligently seke out euery parte: But he that afterwarde will shorten it/ vseth fewe wordes/and toucheth not ỹ matter at the largest. Let this be sufficient for a prologe/now wil we beginne to shewe ỹ matter: for it is but a foolish thinge to make a longe prologe/and to be shorte in the story it self.

The III. Chapter.

What tyme as ỹ holy citie was inhabited in all peace & wealth/and when ỹ lawes were yet very well kepte (For so was it ordeyned by Onias the hygh priest and other godly men/that were enemies to wickednesse:) It came therto/that euen the kinges and princes thẽ selfes dyd the place greate worshippe/and garnyshed the temple with greate giftes: In so much that Seleucus kinge of Asia/of hys owne rentes/bare all the costes belonginge to the seruyce of the offeringes. Then † Symon of the trybe of Ben Jamin/a ruler of ỹ temple/ laboured to worke some mischiefe in the citie/ but the hygh priest resisted him.

ij. ma. iij. c

Neuertheles/when he myght not ouercome Onias/he gat him to † Appollonius the sonne of Thersa (which thẽ was chiefe lorde in Celosyria and Phenices) & tolde him/that the treasury in Jerusalem was full of innumerable money/and how that the commons goodes (which belonged not vnto the offeringes) were exceadinge greate also: yee/and how it were possible that all these myght come vnder the kinges power.

ij. Ma. iij. b

Now when Appollonius had shewed the kinge of the money/as it was tolde him/the kinge called for Heliodorus his steward/and sent him with a commaundement to bringe hym the saide money. Immediatly Heliodorus toke his iourney/but vnder a coloure/as though he wolde go thorow Celosyria & Phenices to vyset the cities / but his purpose was to fulfyl the kinges pleasure. So whē he came to Jerusalem / and was louingly receaued of the hygh priest into the citie: he tolde what was determined concerninge the money / and shewed the cause of his commynge: he axed also / if it were so in dede. Then the hygh priest tolde him / that there was such money layed vp for the vpholdinge of wydowes and fatherlesse children / and how that a certayne of it belonged vnto Hyrcanus Tobye a noble mā: and that of all the money (which that wicked Symon had bewrayed) there were iiij. hundreth talentes of syluer / and ij. hundreth of golde / yee / and that it were vnpossible for those mens meaninges to be deceaued / that had layed vp their money in the place and temple (which is had in worshippe thorowe ỹ whole worlde) for the mayntenaunce and honoure of thesame. Wherunto Heliodorus aunswered that the kinge had commaunded him in any wyse to bringe him the money.

¶ So at the daye appoynted / Heliodorus entred into the temple to ordre this matter. But there was no small feare thoroweout ỹ whole citie. The priestes fel downe before the aulter in their vestimentes / and called vnto heauen vp-
Exo. xxij. a pon him / † which had made a lawe concerninge stuffe geuē to kepe / that they shoulde be safely preserued / for such as committe thē vnto kepinge. Thē who so had loked the hygh priest in the face / it wolde haue greued his herte: For his countenaunce & the chaunginge of his colour / declared ỹ inwarde sorow of his mynde. The man was all in heauynesse / and his body in feare: wherby they that loked vpon him / might perceaue the greue of hys herte. The other people also came out of their houses by heapes vnto the cōmun prayer / because ỹ place was lyke to come into confusion. The women came together thorow the stretes / with heery clothes aboute their brestes.

S The virgins also that were kepte in / ranne to Onias / some to the walles / other some loked out at the wyndowes: yee / they all helde vp their handes toward heauen / and praied. A miserable thinge was it to loke vpon the commune people / and the hygh priest beynge in such trouble. But they besought the almighty God / that the goodes which were committed vnto thē / might be kepte whole / for those that had delyuered them vnto their kepinge. Neuertheles / ỹ thinge that Heliodorus was determined to do / ỹ perfourmed he in thesame place / he hym self personally beynge aboute the treasury with his men of warre. But the spiete of almygthy God shewed him selfe openly / so that all they which presumed to obeye Heliodorus / fell thorow the power of God into a greate fearfulnesse and drede. For † there ỹ. (M appeared vnto them an horse / with a terrible and ỹ man syttinge vpō him / deckte in goodly araye / and the horse smote at Heliodorus with hys fore fete. Now he that sat vpon the horse / had harnesse of golde vpon him.

Moreouer / there appeared ỹ fayre & beutiful yōge mē in goodly araye / which stode by him / scourged him of both the sydes / and gaue him many stripes without ceassinge. † With ỹ fell ỹ. (M Heliodorus sodenly vnto ỹ grounde. So they toke him vp (beynge cōpassed about wt greate darckenesse) & bare him out vpō a beare. Thus he that came with so many runners and men of warre into ỹ saide treasury / was borē out / where as no man might helpe him: and so the power of God was manifest and knowē. He laye styll domme also by the power of God / destitute of all hope and lyfe. And they praysed the Lorde / that he had shewed hys power vpon hys place and temple / which a lytle afore was full of feare and trouble: and that thorow the reuelacion of the almyghty Lord it was fylled with ioye and gladnesse.

Thē certaine of Heliodorus frēdes prayed Onias / ỹ in all haist he wolde call vpon God / to graūte him his life / which was geuinge vp the ghoost. So the hygh priest consydered the matter / & lest / the king should suspecte that the Jewes had done Heliodorus some euel: he offred an healthofferinge for him. Now whē the hygh priest had opteyned his peticion / thesame yonge men in thesame clothinge appeared / and stode besyde Heliodorus / sayinge: Thāke Onias ỹ hygh priest / † for hys sake hath Ja.
the Lord graunted ỹ thy lyfe: therfore seynge ỹ that God hath scourged the / geue him prayse and thankes / and shewe euery man his might and power. And when they had spoken these wordes they appeared nomore.

So

So Heliodorus offred vnto God / made greate vowes vnto him which had graunted him his lyfe / thanked Onias / toke his hooste / & wente agayne to the kinge. Then testified he vnto euery man / of the greate workes of God / that he had sene with his eyes. And when the kinge axed Heliodorus who were mete to be sent yet once agayne to Jerusalem / he sayde: If thou hast any enemy or aduersary vnto thy realme / sende him thither / and thou shalt haue him punyshed / if he escape with hys lyfe: for in that place (no doubte) there is a special power and workinge of God. For he that dwelleth in heauen / vysiteth and defendeth that place: and all that come to do it harme / he punysheth and plagueth thē. This is now the matter concerninge Heliodorus / and the kepinge of the treasury at Jerusalem.

The IIII. Chapter.

A iij. a THis Symon now † (of whome we spake afore) beynge a bewrayer of the money and his owne natural countrie / reported the worst of Onias: as though he had moued Heliodorus vnto thys / and as though he had ben a bringer vp of euel. Thus was he not ashamed to call him an enemye of the realme / that was so faythfull an ouerseer & defender of ỹ citie & of his people: yee / & so fernēt in the lawe of God. But when the malice of Symon increaced so farre / that thorowe his frēdes there were certaine māslaughters cōmitted: Onias considered the parell that might come thorow this strife / & how that Appollonius (namely the chiefe lorde in Celosyria & Phenices) was all set vpon tyranny / and Symons malice increaced thesame: He gat him to the kinge / not as an accusar of the citiesyns / but as one that by hym self intended the commune wealth of the whole multitude. For he sawe it was not possible to lyue in peace / neyther Symon to leaue of from his foolishnesse / excepte the kinge dyd loke therto.

B But after the death of Seleucus / whē Antiochus (which is called the noble) toke ỹ kingdome: Jason the brother of Onias laboured to be hygh priest: For he came vnto the kinge / and promised him thre hundreth and lx. talentes of syluer / and of the other rentes. lxxx. talentes. Besydes this he promised him yet an C. and L. if he might haue the schole of ỹ children / and that he might call them of Jerusalē Antiochians. Which whē the king had graūted / and he had gotten the superioute: he beganne immediatly to drawe his kynsmen to the costume of the Heythen / put doune the thinges that the Jewes had set vp of loue / by Jhon the father of Eupolemius (which was sent Ambassatoure vnto Rome / for to make the bonde of frendshippe and loue.) He put doune all the lawes and lybertyes of the Jewes / and set vp wicked statutes. He durst make a fyghtynge schole vnder the castell / and set fayre yonge men to learne the maners of whores and brodels.

Thus was now the begynninge of ỹ Heythenysh / and straunge conuersacion / brought in thorow the vngracyous and vnherde wickednesse of Jason (which shoulde not be called a priest / but an vngodly persone.) In so much that the priestes were now nomore occupyed aboute the seruice of the aulter / but despysed the temple / regarded not the offeringes: yee / gaue theyr diligence to learne to fyght / to wrestle / to leape / to daunce / and pushynge the stone: not settinge by the honour of ỹ fathers / but lyked the glory of the Grekes best of all: for the which they stroue perlously / & were gredy to folowe theyr statutes / yee / theyr lust was in all thinges to be lyke them / which afore were theyr enemies and destroyers. Howbeit / to do wickedly against the lawe of God / shall not escape vnpunyshed: but of this we shall speake hereafter.

What tyme as the † Olympiades sportes S were played at Tyrus (ỹ kynge him selfbeinge These were presente) thys vngracious Jason sent wicked kepte euery men / bearynge from them of Jerusalē (which fyfth yeare. now were called Antiochyans) iij. hundreth drachmas of syluer for an offeringe to Hercules. These had they that caryed them / desyred vnder such a fashyon / as though they shoulde not haue bene offered / but bestowed to other vses. Neuertheles / he that sent thē / sent them to the intent that they shoulde be offered vnto Hercules. But because of those that were present / they were geuen as to the makinge of shyppes. And Appollonius the sonne of Nesteus was sent into Egypte / because of the noble men of kynge Ptolome Phylometor. Now whē Antiochus perceaued that he was put out from medlynge in ỹ realme/he sought hys owne profyt/departed from thence/came to Joppa/and then to Jerusalem: where he was honorably receaued of Jason & the citie/ and was brought in with torche lyght/and with great prayse: and so he turned hys hoost vnto Phenices.

Ę After iij. yeare Jason sent Manclaus the ij.ma. iiij. b foresayde Symons brother †to beare ỹ money vnto the kinge/and to bringe him aunswere of other necessary matters. But he (when he was praysed of the kinge for magnifyenge of hys power) turned the hyghe priesthode vnto him self/layinge vp iij. C. talentes of syluer for Jason. So when he had gotten commaundementes from the kinge/he came hauynge nothinge that becommeth a priest/but bearinge ỹ stomacke of a cruel tyraunte/& the wrath of a ij.Mac.v b wilde brute beast. Then Jason († which had deceaued his owne brother) seynge ỹ he him self was begiled also/was fayne to flye into the lande of ỹ Ammonites/and Menelaus gat ỹ dominion. But as for the money that he had promysed vnto the king/he dyd nothinge therein/when Sostratus the ruler of ỹ castell required it of him. (For Sostratus was the mā that gathered ỹ customes) wherfore they were both called before the kinge. Thus was Menelaus put out of the priesthode/and Lysymachus his brother came in his stead. Sostratus also was made lorde of the Cypryans.

F It happened in the meane season/that the Tharsyans and Mallocyans made insurrection/because they were geuen for a present vnto kinge Antiochus concubine. Thē came the kinge in all the haist/to stylle them agayne and to pacifye the matter/leauynge Andronicus there to be hys debyte/as one mete therfore. Now Menelaus supposinge that he had gotten a ryght conuenient tyme/stole certayne vessels of golde out of the tēple/and gaue thē to Andronicus for a present: and some he solde at Tyrus/and in the cities therby.

Which when Onias knewe of a suertye/he reproued him: but he kepte him in a Sāctuary besyde Saphnis/ỹ lyeth by Antioche. Wherfore Menelaus gat him to Andronicus/and prayed him that he wolde slaye Onias. So when he came to Onias/he counsayled him craftely to come out of the Sāctuary/geuinge him his hand vpō an ooth (howbeit/he suspecte him) and thē he slewe Onias/without any regarde of righteousnesse. For the which cause not onely the Jewes/but other nacions also toke indignacion/and were displeased for the vnrighteous death of so godly a man.

And when the kinge was come agayne frō G
Cilicia/ỹ Jewes and certayne of the Grekes wente vnto him/cōplayninge for the vnrighteous death of Onias. Yee/Antiochus him self also was sory in his mynde for Onias/so that it pytied him/and he wepte/remembringe his soberneſſe and manerly behaueour. Wherfore he was so kindled in his mynde/that he commaunded Andronicus to be striped out of his purple clothinge/and so to be led thorowout all the citie/yee/and the vngracious mā to be slayne in thesame place/where he committed his wickednesse vpon Onias. Thus the Lorde rewarded him his punyshment as he had deserued. Now when Lysimachus had done many wicked dedes in the temple thorow the counsayll of Menelaus/and the voyce came abroade: the multitude gathered them together against Lysimachus/for he had caried out now much golde.

So when the people arose and were full of displeasure/Lysimachus armed iij. M. vnthriftes to defende him: a certayne tyraunt beynge their captaine/which was growē both in age and woodnesse. But when the people vnderstode the purpose of Lysimachus/some gat stones/some good stronge klubbes/and some cast asshes vpō Lysimachus. Thus there were many of them wounded/some beynge slayne/and all other chaced awaye. But as for that wicked churchrobber hym self/they killed hym besyde ỹ treasury. Of these matters therfore there was kepte a courte agaynst Menelaus.

Now when the kinge came to Tyrus/they H made a cōplaynte vnto him of Menelaus/cōcerninge this busynesse/& the Ambassatours were thre. But Menelaus wente and promysed Ptolome to geue him much money/if he wolde perswade the kinge. So Ptolome wēte the kinge into a courte (where as he was set to coole him) & brought him out of that mynde: In so much that he discharged Menelaus frō the accusacions/that not withstandinge/was cause of all myschiefe: and those poore men (which if they had told theyr cause/yee/before the Scytians/they shoulde haue ben iudged innocent) them he condemned to death. Thus were they soone punished/which folowed vpon the matter for the citie/for the people and for ỹ holy vessel. Wherfore they of Tyrus toke indignacion/and buried thē honorably. And so thorow the couetcousnesse of thē that were in power/Menelaus remayned still in authorite/increasinge in malyce/to the hurte of the citiesyns.

The. V. Chapter.

A NT thesame tyme Antiochus made him ready to go agayne into Egypte. Then where there sene at Jerusalē (xl. dayes longe) horsmē runninge to and fro/in the ayre which had rayment of gold/and speares. There were sene also whole hoostes of mē weapened/and horses runninge in an ordre/how they came together/how they belde forth theyr shyldes/ how the harnessed men drew out theyr swearedes/and shot theyr dartes. The shyne of the golden weapens was sene/and of all maner of armure. Wherfore euery mā prayed/that those tokens myght turne to good. Now whē there was gone forth a false rumour/as though Antiochus had bene dead: Jason toke a. M men/and came sodenly vpon the citie. The citiesyns ranne vnto the walles/at the last was the citie taken/and Menelaus fled into the castell.

B As for Jason/he spared not his owne citie-syns in the slaughter/neyther consydered he what greate euell it were to destroye the prosperyte of his owne kynsmen: but dyd as one that hath gotten the victory of his enemyes/& not of his frendes. For all this gat he not the superioritie/but at the last receaued confusion
.iiij.e for hys malyce/† and fled agayne lyke a vagabounde into the lande of the Ammonites. Fynally (for a rewarde of his wickednesse) he was accused before Aretha the kinge of the Arabyans: In so much that he was fayne to flye from citie to citie/beyng despysed of euery mā as a forsaker of the lawes/and an abhominable persone. And at the last (as an open enemy of hys owne natural countrie and of the citiesyns) he was dryuen into Egypte.

Thus he that afore put many out of theyr owne natiue lande/perysshed from home hym self. He wente to Lacedemon/thynkinge there to haue gotten succoure by reason of kynrede. And he that afore had casten many one out vnburied/was throwen out him self/no man mournynge for him/nor puttynge him in hys graue: so that he neyther enioyed the buryal of a straunger/neither was he partaker of his fathers sepulchre.

Now whē this was done the kinge suspec- C ted/that the Jewes wolde haue fallē frō him/ wherfore he came in a greate displeasure out of Egypte/† and toke the citie by violence. He j.Mac.j. commaunded his men of warre also/that they shoulde kyl and not spare/but slaye doune such as withstode them/clymmed vp vpon ỹ houses. Thus was there a greate slaughter of yonge men/olde men/women/chylderen/and virgyns. In iij. dayes were there slayne lxxx. M/fourty thousande put in pryson/and no lesse sold. Yet was he not content with this/ but durst go into the moost holy temple (Menelaus that traytoure/to the lawes and to hys owne naturall countrie/beyng hys gyde) and with his wicked handes toke the holy vessell/ which other kinges and cities had geuen thyther/for the garnyshinge and honoure of the place: them toke he in his handes vnworthely/ and defyled them.

So madde was Antiochus/that he consy- D dered not how that God was a litle wroth/for the synnes of them that dwelt in the citie/for the which such confusion came vpō that place. † And why? if it had not happened them to Judic.v.d
haue bene lapped in many synnes/thys Antiochus (as soone as he had come) had sodenly bene punyshed/and shut out for hys presumpcion: † lyke as Heliodorus was/whome Se- ij.Ma.iij.d leucus the kynge sent to robbe the treasury. Neuertheles/God hath not chosen the people for the places sake/but the place for the peoples sake: and therfore is the place become partaker of the peoples trouble/but afterwarde shall it enioye the wealth of them. And lyke as it is now forsaken in the wrath of almyghty God/ so whē the greate God is reconcyled/it shalbe set vp in hyghe worshyppe agayne.

So when Antiochus had taken a M. Ę and viij. hundreth talentes out of the temple/he gat hym to Antioche in all the hayst/thinkinge in his pryde / that he might make men sayle vpon the drye lande / and to go vpō the see / such an hyghe mynde had he. He lefte debytes there to vexe the people: At Jerusalē left he Philippe a Phrygian / in maners more cruell then him selfe that set him there. At Garysim he left Andronycus / and Menelaus / which were more greuous to ỹ citiesyns then

j. Mac. j. d other. † Now as he was thus set in malyce agaynst ỹ Jewes / he sent Appollonius an hated prince with xxij. M / commaundinge him to slaye all those that were of perfecte age / and to sell the women / maydens & chyldren. When he came now to Jerusalem / he fayned peace / and kepte him styll vntyll the Sabbath daye. And then he commaunded hys men to take them to theyr weapens (for the Jewes kepte holy daye) and so he slewe all them that were gone forth to the open playe / runninge here & there thorow the citie with his men weape-
j. Mac. ij. c ned / and murthered a great numbre. † But Judas Machabeus which was the tenth / fled into the wilderneſſe / led hys lyfe there with his company amonge the wylde beastes / and vpon the mountaynes: dwellinge there and eatinge grasse / left / they shoulde be partakers of the fylthynesse.

The VI. Chapter.

A NOt long after this / sent ỹ kinge a messaun-
j. Mac. j. d ger of Antioche / for to compel the Jewes to altre the ordinaunces of the fathers and the lawe of God / to defyle the temple that was at Jerusalē / & to cal it the temple of Jupiter Olympius: & that thei which should be in Gazarim / should be as those which dwell at the place of Jupiter the herberous. Thys wicked sedicion of the vngodly was heauy vpon all ỹ people: For the temple was full of volupteousnes / bebbynge and bollinge of the Heithen / of rybaudes and harlottes together. The womē wente into the holy place / & bare in that was vnlawful. The aultare also was full of vnlawful thinges / which the lawe forbydeth to laye vpon it. The Sabbathes were not kepte / the other solempne feastes of the lande were not regarded. To be playne / there durst no man be aknowen that he was a Jew.

In the daye of the kinges byrth they were compelled perforce to offre: and when the feast of Bacchus was kepte / they were constrained to weare garlandes of yuen / & so to go aboute for the honoure of Bacchus.

Moreouer / thorow the counsayll of Ptolo- B me / there wente out a commaundement in the nexte cities of the Heithen / that they shoulde intreate the Jewes in lyke maner: namely / to compel them for to do sacrifice after the lawes of the Gentiles: and who so wolde not to put them to death. A pitcous thinge was it to se. There were ij. women accused to haue circūcised theyr sonnes / whome when they had led rounde aboute the citie (the babes hangynge at their brestes) they cast them doune headlinges ouer ỹ walles. Some that were crepte into dennes / & had kepte the Sabbath / were accused vnto Philippe / and brent in the fyre: because that for the feare of God they kepte ỹ commaundement so stedfastly / and wold not defende them selfes.

Now I beseche all those which reade this boke / that they refuse it not for these falles of aduersyte: & iudge the thinges (that are happened) for no destrucciō / but for a chastenynge of our people. And why? When God suffreth not sinners lōge to folowe their owne mynde / but shortly punysheth thē / † it is a token of his Prou. c greate louinge kindnes. For this grace haue we of God more then other people / that he suffreth not vs longe to synne vnpunyshed lyke other nacions / that when the daye of iudgement commeth / he maye punysh them in the fulnes of theyr synnes. If we synne / he correcketh vs / but he neuer withdraweth hys mercy from vs: and though he punysh wyth aduersyte / yet doeth he neuer forsake hys people. But let thys that we haue spoken now wyth fewe wordes / be for a warninge / and exhortacyon of the Heythen. Now wyll we come to the declarynge of the matter. swynes flesh. But he desyringe rather to dye gloriously then to lyue wyth shame / offred hym selfe willingly to the martyrdome. Now when he sawe that he must nedes go to it / he toke it pacyently: for he was at a poynte with hym self / that he wolde consente to no vnlawfull thynge for any pleasure of lyfe. They that stode by / beynge moued with pytie tie (but not a right) for the olde frendshyp of the man / toke him aside priuely / and prayed him that he wolde let suche flesh be broughte him as were lawful to eate / and then to make a countenaunce as though he had eaten of the flesh of the sacrifyce / like as the kinge commaunded / for so he might be deliuered from death: and so for the olde frendshippe of the man / they shewed him this kindnes. But he beganne to consydre his discrete and honorable age / his noble and worshipfull stocke / and how that from his youth vp he had bene of an honest and good conuersacion / yee / and how constantly he had kepte the ordinaūces / and lawes commaunded by God / wherfore he gaue them this aunswere / and saide:

Yet had I rather fyrst be laied in my graue.
ſ. v. c † For it becommeth not mine age (saide he) in any wyse to dissemble / wherby many yonge persones might thinke / ỹ Eleazar being lxxx. yeare old and ten / were now gone to a straūg life: and so thorowe mine ypocrisy (for a litle time of a transitory life) they might be deceaued: by this meanes also should I defile mine age / and make it abhominable. For though I were nowe deliuered from the tormentes of
j. a men / † yet shoulde I not escape the hande of almighty God / neyther alyue nor death. Wherfore I will dye manfully / and do as it becommeth mine age: Wherby I maye peraduenture leaue an example of stedfastnes for such as be yōge / if I with a ready minde / and manfully dye an honeste death / for the moost worthy and holy lawes.

When he had saide these wordes / immediatly he was drawen to the tormente. Nowe they that led him / and were milde a litle afore beganne to take displeasure / because of ỹ wordes that he saide: for they thought he had spoken them of an highe minde. But when he was in hyghe martirdome / he mourned and saide: Thou (O Lorde) whiche hast the holy knowlege / knowest openly: that where as I might be deliuered from death / I suffre these sore paines of my body: but in my mynde I am wel cōtent to suffre them / because I feare the. Thus this man dyed / leauinge the memorial of his death for an example / not onely vnto yonge men / but vnto all the people / to be stedfast and manly.

The VII. Chapter.

IT happened also that there were vij. Bre- A thren (with their mother) taken and com- Leuit. xj. a pelled by the king against the law / to eat swynes flesh / namely with scourges and lethren whippes. And one of them whiche was the chiefe / saide: What sekest thou / and what requirest thou of vs? As for vs / we are ready rather to suffre death / then to offende the lawes of God and the fathers. Then was the kyng angrye / & bad heate cauldrons and brasen pottes. Which when they were made hote / immediatly he commaunded the tunge of him that spake fyrst / to be cut out / to pul the skinne ouer his heade / to payre of the tippes of his handes and fete: yee / and that in the sighte of his mother / & the other of his brethren. Now when he was cleane marred / he commaunded a fyre to be made / and so (while there was any breth in him) to be fried in the cauldron. In the which when he had bene longe payned / the other brethren with their mother exhorted him to dye manfully / saying: The Lorde God shall regarde the trueth / and comfort vs / like as Moses testifyeth and declareth in his songe / sayinge: † and he will haue com- Deu. xxxij. c passion on his seruauntes.

So when the fyrst was dead after this ma- B
ner / they brought the seconde to haue him in derisyon / pulled the skynne with the heere ouer his heade / and axed him if he wolde eate swynes flesshe / or he were payned in the other membres also thorowoute his bodye. But he aunswered boldly / and saide: I will not do it. And so was he tormēted like as the fyrst. And when he was euen at the geuinge vp of the ghoost / he saide: Thou moost vngracious persone / puttest vs nowe to death / but the kynge of the world shal raise vs vp (which dye for his lawes) in the resurreccion of euerlastinge lyfe.

After him was the thyrde had in deryſyon / and when he was requyred / he put out his tunge / and that righte soone / holdynge forthe his handes manfully / and spake with a stedfast faith: These haue I of heauen / but nowe for the lawe of God I despyse them / for my truste is that I shall receaue them of him againe. In so muche that the kinge / and they which were with him / maruayled at ỹ yonge mans boldnesse/ that he nothinge regarded the paynes.

C Now when he was dead also/ they vexed ỹ fourth with tormētes in like maner. So whē he was now at his death/ he sayde: It is better that we beynge put to death of men/ haue oure hope and trust in God/ for he shall rayse vs vp again. †As for the/ thou shalt haue no resurreccion to life. Johan. v.c

And when they had spoken to the fyfthe/ they tormented him. Then loked he vnto the kynge/ and sayde: Thou haste power amonge men (for thou arte a mortal man also thy self) to do what thou wylt/ but thynke not ỹ God hath forsaken oure generacyon. Abyde the/ tary styll a whyle/ and thou shalte se the greate power of God/ howe he wyll punyshe the/ and thy sede.

After hym they broughte the sixte/ whiche beyng at the poynte of death/ said: Be not deceaued (o king) for this we suffre for our own sakes/ because we haue offended oure God/ & therfore maruaylous thinges are shewed vpon vs. But thinke not thou (which takest in hande to striue against God) that thou shalte escape vnpunished.

D This excellent mother (worthy to be well reported of/ and had in remembraunce) sawe her seuen sonnes dye in one daye/ and suffred it pacienely/ because of the hope that she had at God: Yee/ she exhorted euery one of them in especial/ and that godly and stedfastly/ with parfyte wysedome/ wakinge vp her wyfysshe thought with a manly stomacke/ and sayde vnto them: I can not tel howe ye came in my wombe/ for I neither gaue you breth nor soul/ no/ nor life. It is not I that ioyned the membres of youre bodyes together/ but the maker of ỹ worlde/ which fashioned the byrth of mā/ and beganne al thinges. Euen he also of his owne mercy shall geue you breth and lyfe again/ like as ye now regarde not youre owne selfes for his lawes sake.

Nowe thoughte Antiochus that she had despysed him/ therefore he let her go with her reproues/ and beganne to exhorte the yongest sonne (whiche yet was lefte) not onely with wordes/ but swore vnto him with an oth/ that he shoulde make hym a riche and welthy man (if he wolde forsake the lawes of his fathers) yee/ and that he shoulde geue him/ whatsoeuer were necessary for him. But whē the yonge man wolde not be moued for all these thinges/ he called his mother/ and coūsayled her to saue her sonnes lyfe. And when he had exhorted her with many woordes/ she promysed him/ that she shoulde speake vnto her sonne. So she turned her vnto hym (laughynge the cruell tyraunte to scorne) and spake with a bolde voyce: O my sonne/ haue pitie vpon me/ that bare the nynth monethes in my wombe/ that gaue the sucke/ norysshed the/ and broughte the vp vnto this age. I beseche the (my sonne) loke vpon heauen and earth/ and al that is therin/ and considre that God made them/ and mans generacion of naught. So shalte thou not feare this hangman/ but suffre death stedfastlye/ like as thy brethren haue done: That I maye receaue the again in thesame mercy with thy brethren. E

Whyle she was yet speakinge these woordes/ the yonge man sayde: Whome loke ye for? Wherfore do ye tary? I wyll not obeye the kynges commaundement/ but the lawe † that God gaue vs by Moses. As for the Leuit. Deu. p that ymaginest all mischiefe againste the Iewes/ thou shalt not escape the hande of God: for we suffre these thynges/ because of oure synnes.

And though God be angry with vs a litle whyle (for oure chasteninge and reformacion) yet shal he be at one again with his seruauntes. But thou (O shamefull and moost abhominable persone) pryde not thy self thorow vayne hope/ in beinge so malicious vpō the seruauntes of God: for thou hast not yet escaped the iudgmēt of the God/ which is almighty/ and seith all thinges. My brethren that haue suffred a litle paine/ are now vnder the conuenaunt of euerlastinge life: but thorow the iudgment of God/ thou shalt be punished rightcously for thy pride. F

As for me (lyke as my brethren haue done) I offre my soul/ and my body for the lawes of oure fathers/ callinge vpon God/ that he will soone be mercifull vnto oure people: yee/ and with paine and punishemente † to make the graunte/ that he onely is God. In me nowe and in my brethren the wrath of almighty ij.Ma almighty god is at an ende/ which righteously is fallen vpon al oure people. Then the king being kindled in anger/ was more cruel vpon him then vpon all the other/ and toke indignacion that he was so lightly regarded. So this yonge man dyed vndefyled/ and put his trust stil in the Lord. Last of al/ after the sonnes was ỹ mother put to death also. Let this now be ynough spoken/ concerning the offeringes and extreme cruelnesse.

The VIII. Chapter.

A THen Judas Machabeus/ and they that were with him/ wente pryuely into the tounes/ called their kinsfolkes and frendes together/ toke vnto them all suche as continued yet in the faith and lawe of the Jewes/ and brought forth vj. M. mē. So they called vpō the Lorde/ that he wolde haue an eye vnto his people/ which was troden doune of euery mā: to be gracious vnto the temple/ that was defyled of the vngodly: to haue compassion vpon the destruccion of the citie/ (which was shortly like to be layed waist) to heare the voice of the blonde that cryed vnto hym: to remembre the moost vnrighteous deathes of yonge innocente chyldren/ the blasphemyes also done vnto his name/ and to punyshe them. ch.ij.a †Nowe when Machabeus had gathered this multitude together/ he was to mightye for the Heythen (for the wrath of the Lord was turned into mercy) he fell vpon the tounes and cityes vnawares/ brēt them/ toke the moost commodious places/ and slewe many of the enemies. But specially he made suche chaces by night/ in so much that his manlynesse was spoken of euer where.

B So when Philippe sawe that the man increaced by litle and litle/ and that the matter prospered with him for the moost parte: he wrote vnto Ptolome (which was a captayne in Celosyria & Phenices) to helpe him in the c.iij.a kinges busynes. †Then sent he Nicanor Patrocly (a special frende of his) in all the hast/ and gaue him of the cōmune sorte of the Heythen no lesse then xx. M. harnessed men/ to rote out the whole generacion of the Jewes/ hauinge to helpe him one Gorgias a man of warre/ which in matters concerninge battails had greate experience. Nicanor ordeined also the tribute (which the Romaines should haue had) to be geuen vnto the kynge/ oute of the captiuite of the Jewes/ namely ỹ. M. talētes. And immediatly he sente to the cities of the see coast/ requiringe them for to bye Jewes to be their seruauntes/ and bonde men/ promysinge to sell them. lxxx. and ten for one talente/ but he considered not the wrath of almighty God/ that was to come vpon him.

When Judas knewe of this/ he tolde the Jewes that were with him of Nicanors cōmynge. Nowe were there some of them fearfull/ not trustinge vnto the righteousnesse of God/ and fled their waie. But the other that remained came together/ and besoughte the Lorde/ to deliuer them from that wicked Nicanor/ which had solde thē or euer he came nye them: and though he wolde not do it for their sakes/ yet for the conuenaunte that he made with they: fathers/ and because they called vpon his holy and glorious name. †And j.Mac. v.b so Machabeus called his men together/ namely aboute vj. M. exhortinge them not to agree vnto their enemies/ † neither to be afraied for the multitude of their aduersaryes/ comminge againste them vnrighteously: but to syghte manly/ consydering the reproffe that they had done to the holy place without cause/ howe they had despysed and oppressed the citie/ yee/ and destroyed the lawes of the fathers. †For they (saide he) truste in their weapens and boldnesse/ but our confidence is in the almighty Lord/ which in the twinkling of an eye maye both destroye them that come against vs/ and al the worlde. Deut. xx.a ỹ Par. xx.c Jere. xvij.b Psal. xix.b

He exhorted them also to call to remembraūce the helpe/ that God shewed vnto their fathers: †as when there perished an C. and lxxxv. M. of Sennacheribs people: And of ỹ battail that they had in Babylon againste the Galacians: how that all the Macedonians that came to helpe thē/ stode in feare: and how they beynge but onely. vj. M. slewe an C. & xx. M. thorow the helpe that was geuē them from heauen/ wherby they also had receaued many benefytes. D iiij.Re. xix.g Esa. xvij.f j.Ma. vij.c

Thorowe these wordes the men toke good hertes vnto them/ ready to die for the law and ỹ countrie. So he set vpon euery companye a captayne/ one of his owne brethren: Symon/ Joseph and Jonathas: geuyng echeone xv-

xv. hundreth men. He caused Esdras also to reade the holy boke vnto them / and to geue them a token of the helpe of God.

j. Mac. iiij. b †Then he him selfe beynge captaine in the forefront of the battaill / buckled with Nycanor. And God was their helpe / in so muche that they slewe aboue ix. M. men / and compelled the more parte of Nicanors host to flie / E they were so wounded and feble. Thus they toke the money from those that came to bye them / and followed vpon them on euery side. But when the time came vppon them / they returned / for it was the Sabbath / & therfore they followed nomore vpon them. So they toke their weapens and spoiles / and kepte the Sabbath / geuinge thankes vnto the Lord / which had delyuered them that day / and shewed them his mercy. After the Sabbath / Nu. xxxj. d †they distributed the spoyles to the sycke / to j. Re. xxx. e the fatherlesse / and to wydowes / and the resydue had they them selfes with theirs. Whē Deut. xx. b this was done / and they all had made a generall prayer: they besought the mercyful Lord to be at one with his seruauntes.

Of those also that were with Timotheus and Bachides / which fought againste them / they slewe xx. M / wanne hyghe and stronge holdes / and deuided no spoyles / euer geuinge an equall porcion vnto the sicke / to the father- F lesse / to wydowes / and to aged persons. And when they had dilygentlye gathered their weapens together / they layed them al in conuenient places / and the remnaunt of the spoyles brought they to Jerusalem. They slewe Philarches that wicked persone / whiche was with Timotheus / and had vexed many Jewes. And when they helde the thankesgeuinge at Jerusalem for the victory / they brent those that had set fyre on the portes of the temple / namely Calisthenes / which was fled into an house: and so they gat a worthye rewarde for their wickednesse. As for that moost vngracious Nicanor / whiche had broughte a thousand marchauntes to bye the Jewes / he was thorow the helpe of the Lorde brought doune / euen of them whome he regarded not: in so muche that he put of his glorious rayment / fled by see / and came alone to Antioche with greate shame and dishonoure / whiche he gat thorowe the destruccion of his hoost. Thus he that promysed the Romaines to paye them their trybute / when he toke Jerusalem: beganne nowe to saye playnely / that God was the defender of the Jewes / and therefore not possible to wounde them / because they folowed the lawes whiche God had made.

The IX. Chapter.

AT thesame tyme came Antiochus againe A with dishonoure oute of Persis. For j. Mac. vj. when he came to Persepolis / and vndertoke to robbe the temple and to subdue the cytie / the people ranne together and defended themselfes / in so muche that he and his were faine too flye with shame. And soo after that flyght / it happened that Antiochus came agayne with dishonoure. But when he came to Egbathana / he gat knowlege what was happened vnto Nicanor / and Timotheus. Now as he was auaunceynge him self in his wrath / he thought he was able to auenge the iniury that was done to them vpon the Jewes: & therfore commaūded he to make ready hys charret / haystinge on his iourney without ceassynge: the iudgemente of God prouokyng him / because he had spoken so proudly / that he wolde come to Jerusalem / & make it a graue of the Jewes. But the Lorde God of Israell † that seyth all thinges / smote ij. Pa. xvj. him with an inuisyble plague / which no man coulde heale.

For as soone as he had spoken these wordes / there came vpon hym an horrible payne B of his bowels / and a sore griefe of the entrailes. And that was but right: for he had martyred other mens bowels with diuerse and straunge tormentes / howbeit / he wolde in no wyse ceasse from his malice. Yee / he was yet the prouder / and more malycious againste the Jewes: But whyle he was commaundinge to make hayste in the matter / it happened that he fell doune violently from the charret / so that it bruised hys body / and dyd him great payne.

And so he that thoughte / he myght commaunde the floudes of the see / (so proude was he beyonde the condicion of man) and to weye the hyghe mountaynes in a payre of schales / was nowe broughte doune to the grounde / and caryed vppon an horslytter / knowleging the manifest power of God vpon hym: so that the wicked body of his † was a. xij. d full of wormes / whiche in his payne fell quick out of his flesshe: In so muche that his hooste was greued with the smell / and styncke of him. Thus he that litle afore thoughte he mighte reach to the starres of heauen / hym myght no man now abyde nor beare / for the vehemence of styncke.

C Therefore he beynge broughte from his greate pryde / beganne for to come to knowelege of him selfe: for the punyshment of God warned hym / and his payne increaced euermore and more. And when he him self might not abyde his owne stynche / he sayde these woordes: It is reason to be obediente vnto God / and that a man desyre not to be like vnto hym. This wicked persone prayed also vnto the Lorde / of whome he shoulde haue optayned no mercy. And as for the cytie that he came vnto so haistely / to bringe it doune to the grounde / and to make it a graue for dead men: nowe he desyred to delyuer it fre. And as touching the Jewes / whome he had iudged not worthy to be buryed / but wolde haue cast them oute for to be deuoured of the fooles and wylde beastes / sayinge: that he wold haue destroyed both olde and yonge: Nowe he promyseth to make them lyke the cytiesyns of Athens / And where as he had spoyled the holy temple afore / nowe he maketh promyse to garnysshe it with greate gyftes / to increace the holy ornamentes / and of his owne rentes to beare the costes and charges / belongynge to the offerynges: yee / and that he wolde also become a Jewe hym selfe / to go thorowe euery place of the worlde / and to preache the power of God.

D But when his paynes wolde not ceasse / (for the ryghteous iudgement of God was come vpon him) oute of a very despayre he wrote vnto the Jewes a lettre of intercessyon / conteyninge these woordes: The kynge / and prince Antiochus wysshet vnto the verteous cytiesyns of the Jewes / much health & good prosperite.

If ye and oure children fare well / and if all thinges go after your mynde: we geue great thankes. In my syckenesse also do I remēbre you louingly: for as I came out of Persia / and was taken with sore disease / I thought it necessary to care for the commune wealthe. Neither dispayre I in my selfe / but haue a good hope to escape this sickenesse.

But consyderinge that my father led an hoost sometyme in the hyer places / and shewed who shoulde raygne after hym / that (yf there happened any controuersy / or any harde thynge were declared) they in the lande myghte knowe their chiefe lorde / that there shoulde be no insurrecyon: Agayne / when E I ponder by my selfe / howe that all the mightye men / and neyghbours rounde aboute / are layinge wayte / and loke but for oportunite to do harme: I haue ordeyned that my sonne Antiochus shall raygne after me / whome I oft commended to many of you / when I was in the hyer kyngdomes / and haue wrytten vnto hym as it foloweth hereafter. Therfore I praye you / and requyre you / to remembre the benefytes that I haue done vnto you generally / and in especyall. For I hope that he shalbe of sober and louynge behauoure / and if he folowe my deuyce / he shalbe indifferente vnto you.

†Thus that murtherer and blasphemer of Dani. viij. e God was sore smitten: and lyke as he had intreated other mē / so he died a myserable death in a straunge countrie vpon a mountayne. And his bodye dyd Philippe (that wente with him) cary awaye: whiche fearinge the sonne of Antiochus / wente into Egypte to Ptolome Philometor.

The X. Chapter.

MAchabeus now and his company (thorowe the helpe of the Lorde) wanne A j. mac. iiij. c the temple and the cytie againe / destroyed the aulters and chappels that the Heythen had builded thorowe the stretes: clensed the temple / †made another aulter of brickestone / and Exod. xx. d after ij. yeares they offered sacrifyces / setteforth the ineence / the lyghtes and shewebread. When that was done / they fell doune flat vppon the grounde / and besoughte the Lorde / that they mighte come nomore into suche trouble: But if they synned any more against him / he him selfe to chasten them with mercy / and not to come in the handes of those aleauntes an blasphemous men.

Now vpon thesame daye that the straun- gers gers poluted the temple/it happened that on j.Mac.iiij.f the verysame daye it was clensed agayn† na-B mely/the xxv. daye of the moneth called Cas-leu. They kepte viij. dayes in gladnesse/lyke as in the feast of the tabernacles: remembringe that not longe afore/they helde the feast of the tabernacles vpon the mountaynes and in dennes lyke beastes. And to thesame token they bare grene bowes/braunches and pal-mes before him that had geuen them good fortune to clense his place. They agreed also together/and made a statute that euery yeare those dayes shoulde be solempny kepte of all the people of the Jewes.

How Antiochus then (that was called the noble) dyed/it is sufficiently tolde. Now will we speake of Nicanor the sonne of that wicked Antiochus/howe it happened with him:
and so with few wordes to comprehende the aduersyte that chaunced in the warres. Whē he had taken the kyngdome/he made one Ly-syas (whiche had bene captayne of the hooste in Phenices and Syria) ruler ouer the matters of the realme. For Ptolome that was called Macron/beyng a ruler for the Jewes/(and specially to syt in iudgmente for suche wronge as was done vnto them) vndertoke to deale peaceably with them. For the whiche cause he was accused of the frendes before C Eupator/and when he was suspecte to be a traytoure (because he had lefte Cypers/that Philometor had committed vnto hym: and because he departed from noble Antiochus/that he was come vnto) he poysoned him self/and dyed.

Now when Gorgias was gouernoure of thesame places/he toke straungers/and vndertoke oftetimes to warre with the Jewes.
Moreouer/the Idumeans that helde the stronge holdes/receaued those that were driuen from Jerusalem/and toke in hande to warre also. †But they that were with Maj Mac.v.a chabeus/besought and prayed vnto ỹ Lord/that he wolde be theyr helper: and so they fell into the strong holdes of the Idumeans/and wanne many places by strength: Suche as came against them they slewe/and kylled no lesse (of altogether) then twentye thousande.
Neuertheless/some (no lesse then nyne thousande) were fled into two stronge towers/hauynge all maner of ordinaunce to withstande them.

Then Machabeus leauynge Simon/Josephus/Zacheus/and those that were with thē/(which were very many) went to besege thē/and to fyght were moost nede was. Now they that were with Simon/beynge led with couetecousinesse/were intreated for money/thorowe certayne of those that laye in the towers: toke lxx. M. drachmas/and let some of them escape. But when it was tolde Machabeus what had happened/he called the captaynes of the people together/accu-synge those persones/that they had solde the brethren for money/and let their enemies go.
So he slewe those traytours/and immediatly wente in hande with the two towers. And whē they had ordred them selfes manly with their weapens and handes/they slewe in the two castels more then twenty thousand.

†Nowe Timotheus/* whome the Jewes had ouercome afore/gathered a multitude of straung people/brought an hoost also of horsmen of the Asyans/to wynne Jewry by strengthe. But when he drewe nye Machabeus/and they that were with hym/† fell to their praier/sprenckled asshes vpon their hea-des/beynge gyrded with heery cloth aboute theyr loynes/fell doune before the aulter/and besoughte the Lorde/that he wolde be mercyfull to them/but an enemye vnto theyr enemies/and to take parte against their aduersaryes/† according as it is promysed in the lawe. So after the prayer/they wente on further from the cytie: and when they came nye the enemyes/they prepared them selfes against them.

And betymes in the mornynge at the breake of the daye/both the hoostes buckled together. † The one parte had the Lorde for theyr refuge/whiche is the geuer of prospe-rite/strengthe and victory. The other had a mannely stomacke/whiche is a captayne of warre.

The battaill nowe beynge greate/† there appeared vnto the enemyes from heauen v.
men vpon horsbacke with brydles of golde/ỹ leadynge the Jewes/and two of them hauynge Machabeus betwyxte them/that kepte

kepte hym safe on euery syde with their wea-pens/but shot dartes and lyghteninges vpō the enemies/where thorowe they were confounded with blindnesse/and so sore afrayed that they fell doune. There were slayne of fote men twentye thousande and v.C/and vj. hū F dreth horsmen. As for Timotheus hym selfe/he fled vnto Gazara very strong hold/wher-in Cereas was captayne. But Machabeus & his company layed sege to it cherefully iiij.
dayes. Now they that were within trustyng to the strength of the place/cursed and banned exceadingly/and made greate crakynge with wicked wordes. Neuertheless/vpon the fyfth daye in the morninge twentye yonge men of Machabeus company/beynge set on fyre in their myndes because of the blasphemy: came manfully vnto the wall/and with bolde stomackes they and theyr other companyons clymmed vp vpon the towers/vnder-takinge to set fyre vppon the portes/and to burne those blasphemous persones quycke.
Two dayes were they destroyinge the castell whiche when they founde Timotheus (that was crepte into a corner) they kylled hym.
and slewe Cereas his brother in lyke maner with Appollophanes. When this was done/they songe Psalmes with praise and thanke-geuinges vnto the Lorde/which had done so greate thinges for Israel/and geuen them the victory.

The. XI. Chapter.

A NOt longe after this/Lysias the kynges stewarde and a kynsman of his/(which had the gouernaunce of his matter) toke sore displeasure for the thinges that had happened: and when he had gathered lxxx. M. men of fote with all the hooste of the horsmen/he came against the Jewes/thinking to wynne the cytie/to make it an habitacion for the Hei then/† and the temple wolde he haue to be an house of lucre/lyke as the other god-

not able to be ouercome: wherfore he sent thē worde/and promysed that he wolde consente to all thinges which were reasonable/and to make the kynge their frende. To the whiche prayer of Lysyas Machabeus agreed/sekynge in al thinges the cōmune wealth: and whatsoeuer Machabeus wrote vnto Lysyas cōcerninge the Jewes/the kynge graunted it. For there were lettres wrytten vnto the Jewes from Lysias conteyninge these wordes.

Lysyas sendeth gretynge to the people of D the Jewes. Jhon and Absalon which were sente from you/delyuered me wrytynges/

and

and requyred me to fulfyll the thinges concerninge their earande. Therfore loke what myght be graunted. I certifyed the kynge thereof: and whatsoeuer was conuenient / I agreed therto. If ye now wyl be faithfull in the matters / I shall endeuer my self hereafter also to do you good. As concerninge other thinges by euery article therof / I haue commytted them to youre messaungers / and to those whome I sente vnto you / to comune with you of the same / farre ye wel. In the hundreth and xlviij / the xxiiij. daye of the moneth Dioscorinthius.

Nowe the kynges lettre conteyned these wordes: Kynge Antiochus sendeth gretinge vnto his brother Lysyas. For so muche as ¶ Ma. ix. b oure father † is nowe dead / oure wyll is / that they whiche are in oure realme / lyue without any insurreccion / and euery man to be dyligente in his owne matters. We vnderstande also / that the Jewes wolde not consente to oure father / for to be brought vnto the costume of the Gentiles / but styffly to kepe theyr owne statutes: for the whiche cause they requyre of vs also / to let them remayne styll by theyr owne lawes.

E Wherfore oure mynde is / that this people shalbe in rest: we haue concluded and determined also / to restore them theyr temple agayne: that they maye lyue accordynge to the vse and costume of theyr forefathers. Thou shalte do vs a pleasure therfore / if thou sende vnto them / agre with them: that when they are certyfyed of oure mynde / they maye be of good cheare / and loke to theyr owne wealthe.

And this was the lettre that the kynge wrote vnto the Jewes: kynge Antiochus sendeth gretinge vnto the counsayll / and the other people of the Jewes. If ye fare well / we haue oure desyre: as for vs / we are in good health. Menelaus came and tolde vs / howe that youre desyre was to come doune to youre people / which are with vs.

Wherfore those that wyll come / we geue them fre liberte / vnto the xxx. daye of the moneth of Apryll / that they maye vse the meates of the Jewes / and theyr owne lawes / like
F as afore: and none of them by any maner of wayes to haue harme / for thinges done in ignoraunce. Menelaus whome we haue sent vnto you / shall comon with you at large / fare ye well. In the C. xlviij. yeare / the xv. daie of the moneth of Apill.

The Romaynes also sent a lettre / conteynynge these woordes: Quintus Mennius / and Tytus Manlius / Ambassatoures of the Romaynes / sende gretynge vnto the people of the Jewes. Loke what Lysyas the kynges kynsman hath graunted you / we graunt you the same also. But as concerninge the thinges whiche he referred vnto the kynge / sende hyther some with spede: and ponder the matter dilygently amonge youre selfes / that we maye caste the beste to youre profyte / for we muste departe nowe vnto Antioche. And therfore wryte shortly agayne / that we maye knowe youre mynde. Fare well. In the hundreth eyghte and fourtye yeare / the fyftenth daye of the moneth of Apill.

The XII. Chapter.

WHen these conuenauntes were made / Lysyas wente vnto the kynge / and the Jewes tylled theyr grounde. But Tymotheus / Appollonius the sonne of Gemei / Jerome / and Semophon the proude / Nycanor the captayne of Cypers / and they that laye in those places / wolde not let them lyue in reste and peace. They of Joppa also dyd euen such a shamefyll dede: They prayed the Jewes that dwelte amonge them to go with theyr wyfes and chyldren into the shyppes / whiche they had prepared / and dyd with the as though they had ought them no cuel wyl. For so muche then as there was gone forth a generall proclamacion thorowe the cytie / because of peace / they consented therto / and suspected nothynge: but when they were gone forth into the depe / they drouned no lesse then two hundreth of them.

When Judas knewe of this cruelte / shewed vnto his people / he commaunded those that were with hym to make them ready / exhortynge them to call vppon God the ryghteous iudge / wente forth agaynst those murtherers of his brethren / set fyre in the hauen

by nyght / brent vp the shyppes / and those that escaped from the fyre / he slewe with the
B swearde. And when he had done thys / he departed as though he wolde come agayne / and rote out all them of Joppa. But when he had gotten worde / that the Jamnytes were mynded to do in lyke maner vnto ỹ Jewes which dwelt amonge them / he came vpon the Jamnytes by nyght / and set fyre in the hauē with the shyppes: so that the lyght of the fyre was sene at Jerusalem / vpon a .ij. hundreth and xl. furlonges.

Now when they were gone from thence ix. furlonges / in theyr iourney towarde Tymotheus: v. thousande men of fote / and v. hundreth horsmen of the Arabians fought with hym. So when the battayll was earnest / and prospered with Judas thorow the helpe of God: the resydue of the Arabians beynge ouercome / besought Judas to be at one with them / and promysed to gene hym certayne pastures / and to do with hym good in other thynges. Judas thynkynge that they shoulde in dede be profytable / concerninge many thynges / promysed them peace: wherupon they shoke handes / and so they departed to theyr tentes. Judas wente also vnto a citie / which was very fast kepte with brydges / fenced rounde aboute with walles / and diuerse kindes of people dwellinge therein / called Caspyn.

C They that were within it / put such trust in the strength of the walles / and in theyr stoare of vytayles: that they were the slacker in theyr doynges / cursynge and reuylinge Judas with blasphemyes / and speakinge such wordes as it becommeth not. But Machabeus callinge vpon the greate prince of the worlde (which without any battaylv.vj.c rammes or ordinaunce of warre / † dyd cast doune the walles of Jerycho in the tyme of Josue) fel manfully vpon the walles / toke the citie / and (thorow the helpe of the Lorde) made an exceadinge greate slaughter: In so much that a lake of .ij. furlonges broade which laye therby / semed to flowe with the bloude of the slayne.

Then departed they from thence .vij. hundreth and L. furlonges / and came to Tacaca vnto the Jewes that are called Tubianey. But as for: Tymotheus / they coulde not get hym there: for (not one matter dispatched) he was departed from thence / and had lefte certayne men in a very stronge holde. But Sosytheus and Sosypater which were captaynes with Machabeus / slewe those that Tymotheus had lefte in the house of defence / euen x. M. men. And Machabeus prepared hym with the syxe thousande men that were aboute hym / set them in ordre by companyes / and wente forth against Timotheus / which had with hym an hūdreth and twenty thousande men of fote / .ij. M. and v. hundreth horsmen.

When Tymotheus had knowlege of Ju- D
das commynge / he sent the women / chyldren / and the other baggage vnto a castell called Carnyon. (For it coulde not be wōne / and was harde to come vnto / the wayes of the same places were so narow) and when Judas company came fyrst in syght / the enemyes were smytten with feare / thorow the presence of God / which seyth all thynges: In so much that they flyenge one here / another there / were rather dyscomfyted of theyr owne people / and † wounded with the stro- Judit. vij. f kes of theyr owne sweardes. Judas also j. Re. xiiij. c was very carnest in folowynge vpon them / ij. Par. xx. d and punyshynge those vngodly / and slewe thyrty thousande men of them. Tymotheus also him self fell into the handes of Sosytheus and Sosypater / whome he besought with many prayers / to let hym go with hys lyfe: because he had many of the Jewes fathers and brethren in pryson / which (if they put hym to death) myght be dysapoynted. So when he had promysed faythfully to delyuer them agayne / accordynge to the condicyon made / they let hym go without harme / for the health of the brethren. And when Judas had slayne xxv. thousand he wente from Carnion.

Now after that he had chaced awaye / and E slayne hys enemyes / he remoued the hoost towarde † Ephron a stronge citie / wher- j. Mac. v. c ein dwelt many dyuerse people of the Heythen / and the stronge yonge men kepte the walles / defendynge them myghtely. In thys eytie was much ordynaunce and prouysyon

q. Mac. x. c of darte. † But when Judas and his company had called vpon almyghty God/(which with hys power breaketh the strength of the enemyes) they wanne the eytie/ and slewe fyue and twenty thousande/of them that were within. From thence wente they to the eytie of the Scythians/which lyeth syxe hundreth furlonges from Jerusalem. But when the Jewes which were in the eytie testyfyed/that the eytiesyns dealte louyngly with them/yee/and intreated them kingly in the tyme of their aduersyte. Judas and hys company gaue them thankes/desyrynge them to be frendly stylll vnto them: and so they came to Jeru-Acto. ii. a salem/† the hyghe feast of the wekes beynge Deu. xvj. b at hande. And after the feast they wente forth agaynst Gorgias the gouernoure of Id-umea/with thre thousand men of fote and foure hundreth horsmen. Which when they met together/it chaunced a few of the Jewes to be slayne.

F And Sosytheus one of the Bacchenors a myghty horsman toke holde of Gorgyas/and wolde haue taken hym quycke. But an horsman of Thracya fell vpon hym/and smote of hys arme/so that Gorgyas escaped and fled into Moresa. When they now that were of Gorgyas syde/had foughten longe and were weery: Judas called vpon the Lorde/that he wolde be theyr helper/and captayne of the felde: and wyth that/he beganne with a manly voyce to take vp a songe of prayse/and a crye: In so much that he made the ene-myes afrayed/and Gorgyas men of warre to take theyr flyght. So Judas gathered hys hoost/and came into the eytie of Odolla.
And when the seuenth daye came vpō them/they clensed them selfes (as the customes was) & kepte the Sabbath in thesame place.
And vpon the daye folowynge/Judas and hys company came to take vp the bodyes of them that were slayne/and to bury them in the fathers graues. Now vnder the cotes of certayne Jewes which were slayne/they founde Jewels that they had taken out of the
ij. Ma. xij. b temple/and from the Idols of the †Jamny-
*Deu. vij. c ters: * which thynge is forbydden the Je-Josu. vij. a wes by the lawe. Then euery man sawe that thys was the cause wherfore they were slayne.

And so euery man gaue thankes vnto the G Lorde for hys ryghteous iudgement/had opened the thinge that was hyd. They fell downe also vnto theyr prayers/and besought God that the faulte which was made/myght be put out of remembraunce. Besydes that/Judas exhorted the people earnestly/to kepe them selfes from such synne: for so much as they sawe before theyr eyes/that these men were slayne for thesame offence. So he gathered of euery one a certayne/in so Some much that he brought together ℔ two thou- reade sande drachmas of syluer/which he sent vnto twelf Jerusalem/that there myght a sacrifice be of- thou fred for the mysdede. In the which place he dyd well and ryght: for had some consyderacion and pondringe of the lyfe that is after thys tyme. For if he had not thought that they/which were slayne/dyd yet lyue/it had bene superfluous and vayne/to make any vowe or sacrifice for them that were dead.
But for so much as he sawe that they which dye in the fauoure and belefe of God/are in good rest and ioye/he thought it to be good and honorably/for a reconcylinge to do thesame for those which were slayne/that the offence might be forgeuen.

The XIII. Chapter.

IN the Cxlix. yeare gat Judas knowlege/ A that Antiochus Eupator was commynge j. M with a greate power into Jewry/and Lysias the stewarde and ruler of his matters with him: hauynge an ten thousande men of fote/fyue thousand horsmen/xxij. Elephantes/and thre hundreth charretres. Menelaus also ioyn-ned him self with them (but with greate de-ceate) and spake fayre to the king/not for any good of the countrie/but because he thought to haue bene made some greate man of auctorite. But the kinge of kinges moued Antiochus mynde agaynst this vngodly persone/and Lysias informed the kinge/† that this ij. M Menelaus was ỹ cause of all myschiefe: so that the kinge commaunded to take him/and (as the maner of them is) to put hym vnto death in thesame

in thesame place.

There was also in thesame place a tower of L. cubites high/heaped with asshes: But aboue it was so made/that men might loke downe on euery syde. Whereinto the kynge commaunded that shameful person to be cast amonge the asshes/as one that were cause of B all vngraciousnesse. And reason it was/that the vnthrift should dye such a death/and not to be buryed: for he had done muche myschiefe vnto the aulter of God (whose fyre and asshes were holy) therfore was it right/that he hym selfe also shoulde be destroyed with asshes.

But the kynge was wode in his mynde/and came to shewe hym self more cruell vnto the Jewes then his father was. Which whē Judas perceaued/† he cōmaunded the peo-
c. vj. c ple to call vpon the Lorde nyght and daye:
that he wolde now helpe them also/lyke as he had done alwaye: (for they were afrayed to be put from their lawe/from the naturall countrie and from the holy temple:) and not to suffre the people (which a litle whyle afore beganne to recouer) to be subdued againe of the blasphemous nacions.

C So when they had done this together/and besoughte the Lorde for mercy/with wepynge and fastinge thre dayes longe/flat vpon the grounde: Judas exhorted them to make them selfes ready. But he & the elders together deuysed to go forth fyrst with their people/afore the kynge broughte his hooste into Jewry/and afore he beseged the citie/and so to committe the matter vnto God. Wherfore he ascribed the power of all thinges vnto God the maker of the worlde/exhortinge his people to fyght manfully/(yee/euen vnto death) for the lawes/the temple/the cytie/their owne natiue countrie/and to defende
the citiesins: and set his hooste before Modin.
He gaue them also that were with him/a token of the victory of God/chosinge oute the manliest yonge men/wente by night into the kinges pauilion/slewe of the hooste xiiij. M.
c. vj. f men/† and the greatest Elephātes/with those that sat vpon them.

D Thus when they had broughte a greate feare and rumoure among the tentes of their enemies/and all thinges wente prosperously with them/they departed in the breake of the daye/God beynge they: helper and defender. Now when ỹ kynge perceaued the manlynesse of the Jewes/he wente aboute to take the stronge places by craste/and remoued his hooste vnto † Bethsura/whiche was a well ij. Ma. xj. a kepte house of defence of the Jewes: but they were chaced awaye/hurte and discomfyted.
And Judas sente vnto them that were in it/suche thinges as were necessary. In the Je-wes hooste also there was one Rhodecus/whiche tolde the enemies their secretes: but they sought hym oute/and when they had gotten him/they put him in prysō. After this dyd the kinge commune with them that were in Bethsura/toke truce with them/departed/& stroke a battaill with Judas/which ouercame him.

But when he vnderstode that Philippe/ E (whome he had lefte to be ouerseer of his busynesses at Antioche) beganne to rebell against him/he was astonnied in his minde:
so that he yelded hym selfe to the Jewes/and made them an ooth to do whatsoeuer they thought ryghte. Nowe when he was recon-cyled with them/he offered/made muche of the temple/gaue greate gyftes vnto it/en-braced Machabeus/makynge hym captaine and gouernoure from Ptolomays vnto the Gerrenes.

Neuertheless/when he came to Ptolo-mais/the people of the citie were not content with that bonde of frendshippe: for they were afrayed that he wolde breake the conuenaūt/Then wente Lysias vp into the seate/and en-fourmed the people/shewed them the cause why/and pacifyed them. So he came againe to Antioche. This is now the matter concer-ninge the kinges iourney and his returne.

The XIIII. Chapter.

AFter thre yeares was Judas enfourmed/ A howe that Demetrius the sonne of Seleucus was come vp with a greate power and shippes/thorowe the hauen of Tripo-lis (to take certayne commodious places and countries) agaynste Antiochus and

hys captayne Lysias. Now Alcymus (which had bene hygh priest / & wilfully defyled himself/in the tyme of the myxtunge) seynge / that by no meanes he coulde be helped / nor haue any more entraunce to the aultar: he came to kinge Demetrius in the hundreth and one and fyftye yeare / presentynge vnto hym a croune of golde/ a palme & a olyue tree: which (as men thought) belonged to the temple/& that daye he helde his tunge.

B But when he had gotten oportunite for his madnesse/ Demetrius called him to counsayl/ and axed him what thynges or counsayls the Jewes leaned vnto: He aunswered: The Jewes that be called Assidei (whose captayne is Judas Machabeus) manteyne warres/make insurreccion/ and wyll not let the realme be in peace.

For I beynge depryued of my fathers honoure (I meane ỹ hygh priesthode) am come hither partely / because I was faythfull vnto the kynge / and partly because I sought the profyt of the citiesyns. And why: all oure people (thorow the wickednesse of them) are not a litle troubled. Wherfore I beseche the (o kynge) considre all these thinges diligently/ and then make some prouision for the lande and the people / accordinge to the kyndnesse that thou hast offred vnto them. For as longe as Judas hath the vpperhande / it is not possible that men can lyue in peace.

When he had spoken these wordes / other frendes also hauynge euell will at Judas / set the kynge Demetrius on fyre agaynst him/

j. Ma. vij. c † which immediatly sent Nicanor (ruler of the Elephantes) a captayne into Jewry: commaundinge hym to take Judas hym self alyue / but to slaye them that were with him / and to make Alcymus hygh priest of the temple.

C Then the Heithen which fled out of Jewry from Judas / came to Nicanor by flockes/ thinkinge the harme and decaye of the Jewes to be their welfare. Now when the Jewes herde of Nicanors commynge / and the gatheringe together of the Heythen: they ij. Mac x. c sprenckled thē selfes with earth / † & besought him (which made them his people / and euer defended his owne porcion with euydend tokens) that he wolde preserue them still. So at the commaundement of the captayne / they remoued from thence / and came to a toune called Sessasan. And Symon Judas brother fell in hande with Nicanor/ but thorow the sodane commynge of the enemies / he was afrayed.

Neuertheles / Nicanor hearinge the manlynes of them that were with Judas / and the bolde stomackes ỹ they had to fight for their naturall countrie / durst not proue the matter with bloudsheddinge. Wherfore he sent Possidonius / Theodocius and Mathias before/ to geue and to take peace. So when they had taken longe aduysement thereuppon / and the captayne shewed it vnto the multitude: they were agreed in one mynde to haue peace. And they appoynted a daye to syt vpon these matters quyetly amonge them selfes / the stoles also were brought and setforth. Neuertheless / Judas commaunded certayne men of armes to wayte in conueniēt places/ lest/there shoulde sodenly aryse any euell thorow the enemies. And so they cōmoned reasonably together.

D Nicanor / whyle he abode at Jerusalem/ ordred hym self not vnreasonably / but sent awaye the people that were gathered together. He loued Judas euer with his herte/ and fauoured hym. He prayed hym also to take a wyfe / and to bringe forth chyldren. So he married / lyued in rest / and they led a commune lyfe. But Alcymus perceauinge the loue that was betwyxte them / and how they were agreed together / came to Demetrius / and tolde hym that Nicanor had taken straunge matters in hande/and ordeyned Judas (an enemy of the realme) to be the kynges successoure. Then the kynge was sore displeased/and thorow the wicked accusacions which Alcymus made of Nicanor/ he was so prouoked / that he wrote vnto Nicanor / sayinge: that he was very angry for the frendshippe and agrement / which he had made with Machabeus. Neuertheles / he commaunded hym in all the hayst / that he shoulde take Machabeus prysoner / and sende hym to Antioche.

E Which lettres when Nicanor had sene/ he was at hys wyttes ende/ and sore greued/ wherein they had agreed: specially / seynge Machabeus was the man that neuer dyd hym harme. But because he might not withstande the kynge/he sought oportunite to fulfyll his commaundemente. Notwithstandinge / when Machabeus sawe that Nycanor beganne to be churlishe vnto hym / and that he intreated hym more roughly then he was wonte/he perceaued that suche vnkyndnes came not of good/and therfore he gathered a few of his men/and withdrewe him self from Nicanor. Whiche when he knewe that Machabeus had manfully preuented hym/ he came into the greate and moost holy temple: and commaunded the priestes (whiche were doynge their vsuall offeringes) to delyuer hym the man. And when they sware that they coulde not tell/ where the man was whome he sought/he stretched out his hande/

Ma. vij. e † and made an ooth/sayinge: If ye wyll not delyuer me Judas captiue / I shall remoue this temple of God into a playne felde/I shal breake doune the aulter / and consecrate this temple vnto Bachus. After these wordes he departed.

F Then the priestes liste vp theyr handes towarde heauen/and besought hym that was euer the defender of theyr people / sayinge: Thou O Lorde of all/whiche haste nede of nothinge/woldest that the temple of thy habitacion shoulde be amonge vs. Therefore nowe (o moost holy Lorde) kepe this house

Ma. iiij. e euer vndefyled/ † whiche lately was clensed.

Mac. x. a Nowe was there accused vnto Nicanor one Razis/an Alderman of Jerusalem/a louer of the whole citie / and a man of good reporte: whiche for the kynde herte that he bare vnto the people/was called a father of the Jewes. This man oft tymes (when the Jewes were mynded to kepe them selfes vndefyled) defended and deliuered them/ beynge contente stedfastly to spende his body and his lyfe for his people.

G So Nicanor willinge to declare the hate that he bare to the Jewes/sent fyue hundreth men to take him: for he thoughte / yf he gat hym/ he shoulde bringe the Jewes in greate decaye. Nowe when the people beganne to rushe in at his house/ to breake the dores/and to set fyre on it: he seynge nowe taken/wold haue defended him selfe with his sward: chosynge rather to dye manfully / then to yelde hym selfe to those wicked doers: and because of his noble stocke / he had rather haue bene put to extreme cruelte.

Notwithstandinge/what tyme as he missed of his stroke for haiste / and the multitude fell in violently betwixte the dores: he ranne boldly to the wall/ and caste hym selfe doune manfully among the heape of them / whiche gaue soone place to his fall/so that he fell vpō his belly. Neuertheless / whyle there was yet breath within him/he was fyndled in his mynde: and whyle his bloude gusshed oute exceadingly (for he was very sore wounded) he ranne thorowe the middest of the people/ and gat him to the toppe of a rocke. So whē his bloude was nowe gone/he toke oute his one bowels with both his handes/and threw them vpon the people: calling vpon the Lorde of lyfe and spirite/ to rewarde him this againe/and so he dyed.

The. XV. Chapter.

NOw † when Nicanor knewe that Judas was in the countrie of Samaria / he thought with all his power to strike a felde with him vppon a Sabbath daye. Neuertheless/ the Jewes that were compelled to go with hym/sayde: O do not so cruelly and vnkindly/But halowe the Sabbath daye/and worshippe him that seyth all thinges. For all this/yet saide the vngracious persone: † Is there a mighty one in heaue that cōmaunded the Sabbath daye to be kepte: And whē they sayde: yea/the lyuinge God / the myghtye Lorde in heauen † commaunded the seuēth daye to be kepte/ he sayde: And I am mighty vpon earth/ to cōmaunded them for to arme them selfes/and to perfourme the kynges busynesse. Notwithstandinge / he mighte not haue his purpose.

he wolde helpe him/and exhorted his people not to be afrayed at the commynge of the Heithen/but alwaye to remembre the helpe that had bene shewed vnto them from heauen/yee/and to be sure now also/that almighty God wolde geue them the victory. He spake vnto them out of the lawe and prophetes/puttinge them in remembraunce of the battails/that they had striken afore/and made them to be of a good courage.

So when their hertes were plucte vp/he shewed them also the deceatfulnesse of the Heithen/and how they wolde kepe no conuenaunt nor ooth. Thus he weapened them not with the armoure of shylde and speare/but with wholsome wordes and exhortacions. He shewed them a dreame also/wherthorow he made them all glad/whiche was thys: He thought that he sawe Onias (which had bene hygh priest/a verteous and louynge man/sad and of honest conuersacion/wel spoken/and one that had bene exercised in godlines from a chylde) holdinge vp his handes toward heauen/and prayinge for his people. After this there appeared vnto him another man/whiche was aged/honorable and glorious. And Onias sayde: This is a louer of ỹ brethren/and of the people of Israel. This is he that prayeth muche for the people/and for all the holy citie: Jeremy the prophet of God. He thought also that Jeremy helde oute his right hande/and gaue him (namely vnto Judas) a swearde of golde/sayinge: Take this holy swearde/a gifte from God/wherewith thou shalt smite doune the enemies of the people of Israel.

And so they were well comforted thorowe the wordes of Judas/and toke courage vnto them/so that the yonge men were determined in their myndes to fight & to byde stifly at it: In so much that in the thinges which they toke in hande/their boldnes shewed the same/because the holy citie and the temple were in parell: for the which they toke more care then for their wifes/children/brethren/and kinsfolkes. Agayn/they that were in the citie/were moost careful for those which were to fight. Now when they were all in a hope that the iudgemente of the matter was at hande/and the enemies drewe nye/the hoost beinge set in araye/the Elephantes and horsemen/eueryone standinge in his place: Machabeus considered the comming of the multitude/the ordinaunce of diuerse weapens/the cruelnesse of the beastes/and helde vp his handes towarde heauen/callinge vpon the Lorde that doeth wonders/† which geueth not the victory after the multitude of weapes and power of the hoost (but to the that please him) according to his owne wil. Therfore in his prayer he saide these wordes. ℣ ij. Par. Judic.

O Lorde/† thou that diddest sende thine aungel ind the tyme of Ezechias kinge of Juda/and in the hoost of Sennacherib sleweste an hundreth & fyue an foure score thousande: sende nowe also thy good aungell before vs (o Lorde of heauens) in the fearfulnesse & drede of thy myghty arme: that they whiche come againste thy holy people to blaspheme them/maye be afrayed. And so he made an ende of his wordes. Then Nicanor and they that were with him/drew nye with shaumes and songes: But Judas and his companye with prayer and callinge vpon God. ℣ iiij. Reg. xix. Esa. xxxvij. j. Mac. vij.

With their handes they smote/but with their hertes they prayed vnto the Lord/and slewe no lesse then xxxv. M. men: For thorow the present helpe of God they were gloriously comforted.

Now when they left of/and were turning agayne with ioye/they vnderstode that Nicanor him selfe was slayne with the other. Then they gaue a greate shoute and a crye/prayinge the almighty Lorde with a loude voyce. And Judas (whiche was euer ready to spende his body and lyfe for his citiesyns) commaunded to smyte of Nicanors heade/with his arme and hande/and to be brought to Jerusalem. When he came there/he called all the people/and the priestes at the aulter/with those that were in the castell/and shewed them Nicanors heade/and his wicked hande/which he had presumpteously holden vp against the temple of God. He caused the tunge also of that vngodlye Nicanor to be cut in litle peces/and to be caste to the foules/and the cruel mans hande to be hanged vp before the temple. ℣

So euery man gaue thankes vnto ỹ Lorde/sayinge/blessed be he that hath kepte his place vndefyled. ℣. viij. f

As for Nicanors heade/† he hanged it vp vpon the hygh castell/for an euydent and playne token of the helpe of God. And so they agreed alltogether to kepe that daye holy: namely/the xiij. daye of the moneth Adar/which in the Syrians language is called the nexte daye before Mardochcus daye.

Thus was Nicanor slayne/and from that tyme forth the Jewes had the citie in possession: And here will I now make an ende.

All the generacions from Abraham to Dauid are fourtene generacions. From Dauid vnto the captiuitie of Babylon/ are fourtiene generacions. From the captiuitie of Babylon vnto Christ are also fourtiene generacions.

✠ †The byrth of Christe was on this wise when his mother Marie was marryed to Joseph ✠ before they came together/ she was founde with chylde by the holy ghoost. But Joseph her housband was a perfecte man/ & wold not bringe her to shame/ but was mynded to put her awaye secretly. Neuertheles se/ whyle he thus thought/ ✠ beholde/ the aungel of the Lord appeared vnto him in a dreame/ sayinge: Joseph † thou sonne of Dauid/ feare not to take vnto the Marie thy wyfe. For that which is conceaued in her/ is of ꝑ holy ghoost. She shall bring forth a sonne/ † and thou shalt cal his name Jesus. For he shall saue his people from their synnes. ✠

All this was done that the thinge myght be fulfylled/ which was spoken of the Lorde by the Prophet/ sayinge: † Beholde/ a mayden shalbe with childe/ & shal bringe forth a sonne/

and they shall call his name Emanuel/ which is by interpretacion/God with vs. ✠

Now whan Joseph awoke out of slepe/ he dyd as the aungel of the Lorde bade hym/ and toke his wyfe vnto him / and knewe her not tyll she had † brought forth her fyrst borne sonne/and called his name Jesus. Luc.ij.a

The II. Chapter. ✠

A WHen Jesus was borne at Bethleem in Jewry/in the tyme of Herode the kinge. Beholde/there came wyse men from the East to Jerusalem / sayinge: where is ỹ new borne kinge of the Jewes? we haue sene his starre in the East/and are come to worshyp him.

When Herode the kinge had herde thys/ he was troubled/and al Jerusalem with him/ and he gathered al the hygh Priestes & Scrybes of the people/and axed of thē where Christ should be borne? And they sayde vnto him: at Bethleem in Jewry. For thus it is written Mich.v.a by the Prophet: †And thou Bethleem in the lande of Jewry / art not the leest amonge the Jhon.vij.d princes of Juda: † For out of the shall come vnto me the captayne / that shall gouerne my people Jsrael.

B Then Herode preuely called the wyse men/ and diligently enquyred of them / what tyme the starre appeared/and sent thē to Bethleem/ sayinge: Go and searche diligētly for ỹ chylde. And when ye haue founde him / bringe me worde agayne / that I may come & worshippe hym also.

When they had herde the king/they departed: and lo / the starre which they sawe in the East/went before thē / tyll it came & stode ouer the place where ỹ chylde was. Whē they sawe ỹ starre/they were maruaylously glad: & went into the house / and founde the chylde with Psal.lxxj.b mary hys mother / † and kneled doune and Esa.lx.a worshypped him/and opened theyr treasures/ and offered vnto him gyftes: Golde / Frākensence and Myrre. And after they were warned of God in a dreame/ that they shoulde not go agayne to Herode / they retourned into their owne countrey another waye. ✠

C ✠ Whan they were departed/ beholde/ the aungel of the Lorde appeared to Joseph in a dreame/sayinge: Aryse/and take the chylde & Exod.iiij.d his mother/and † flye into Egypt/ and abyde there tyll I bringe thy worde. For Herode will seke the chylde to destroy hym. Then he arose/ and toke the chylde and his mother by nyght/ and departed into Egypte / & was there vnto the death of Herode / that the thinge myght be fulfylled which was spoken of the Lorde/ by the prophet/which sayeth: † out of Egypte Ose. Nu. haue I called my sonne.

Then Herode perceauinge that he was deceaued of the wyse mē / was excedinge wroth/ and sent forth / and slewe all the chyldren that were in Bethlē / and in all the coastes therof/ as many as were two yeare olde and vnder/ accordinge to the tyme/which he had diligētly searched out of the wyse men.

Than was that fulfylled/which was spoken by the Prophet Jeremye sayinge: † On the Jere. hylles was a voyce herde/greate mournynge/ wepinge and lamentacyon: Rachell wepinge for her children/and wolde not be cōforted/ because they were not. ✠

D Whan Herode was dead: beholde/ an aungell of the Lorde appeared in a dreame to Joseph in Egypte/sayinge: Aryse and take the chylde and his mother / and go into the lande of Jsrael. For they are dead/ which sought the chyldes lyfe. And he arose vp / and toke the chylde and his mother / & came into the lande of Jsrael. But whan he herde that Archelaus dyd raygne in Jewry / in the roume of his father Herode / he was afrayde to go thether. Notwithstandinge / after he was warned of God in a dreame / he turned asyde in the partyes of Galile/ and went and dwelt in a cytie called Nazareth/to fulfyll that which was spoken by the prophetes / † he shalbe called a Nazarite. Jud. ✠

The III. Chapter.

IN those dayes came Jhon the † Baptist A and preached in the wyldernes of Jewry/ Mat. sayinge: * Amende your selfes/ the kyngdome Luc. of heauen is at hande. † This is he/of whome Joan. it is spoken by the prophet * Esay / which * Mat. sayeth: The voyce of a cryer in the wildernes/ † Joa. prepare the Lordes way/ and make his pa- * Esa. thes strayght.

† This Jhon had his garment of camels iiij.Reg. heer / and a lethren gyrdell aboute his loynes. †His meate was locustes and wylde hony. Mat. Then went out to him Jerusalē / & all Jewry/ & Reg. and all the region rounde about Jordane/and were baptysed of him in Jordan / confessinge theyr synnes. ✠

† Nowe whā he sawe many of the Pharises/& of the Saduces come to his baptyme/ he sayde vnto thē / ye generacyon of vypers/ who hath certifyed you/that ye shall escape the vengeaunce to come? Beware / bringe forth due frutes of penaunce. Thynke not now to say in youre selfes / we haue Abraham to oure father. For I say vnto you / that God is able of these stones to rayse vp chyldren vnto Abraham. Euen nowe is the axe put vnto the rote of the trees: therfore † euery tree which bringeth not forthe good frute/shalbe hewē doune/ and cast into the fyre.

B † I baptyse you with water to repentaūce/ but he that commeth after me / is myghtyer thā I/whose shues I am not worthy to beare. He shal baptyse you with the holy ghoost and with fyre. * He hath also his fan in his hāde/ and wyll pourge his flore/ & gather the wheat into his garner / & wyll burne the chasse with vnquencheable fyre. ✠

† Then came Jesus from Galile to Jordan vnto Jhon / to be baptised of him. But Jhon forbad him / sayinge: † I haue nede to be baptysed of the: and commest thou to me? Jesus aunswered and sayd vnto hym: Let it be so now. For thus it becommeth vs to fulfyll all ryghteousnes. Then he suffred hym. †And Jesus assone as he was baptysed/came straight out of the water. And lo/heauen was open ouer hym: and Jhon saw the spirite of God descende lyke a doue / and lyght vpon hym. And lo/there came a voyce from heauen sayinge: *This is my beloued sōne / in whome is my delyte. ✠

A THen † was Jesus led away of the spirite into wyldernes / to be tempted of the deuel. And whē he had fasted fourtye dayes and fourtye nyghtes/ he was afterwarde an hungered. And the tempter came to hym and sayd: if thou be the sonne of God/commaunde that these stones be made bread. He aunswered & sayde: it is wrytten: † Man shall not lyue by bread onely/but by euery worde that procedeth out of the mouth of God.

Then the deuel toke hym vp into the holy citie/and set hym on a pynacle of the Temple/ and sayde vnto him: if thou be the sonne of God/cast thy selfe doune. For it is written/ † the Psal.xc.b shall geue his aūgels charge ouer the / & with theyr handes shall they holde the vp/that thou dasshe not thy fote agaynste a stone. Thē sayde Jesus vnto him: it is wrytten also/ † thou shalt Deu.vj.c not tempte thy Lorde God.

Agayne / the deuell toke hym vp / and led B hym into an exceadinge hye mountayne / and shewed hym all the kingdomes of the world/ and all the glory of them/and sayde vnto him: all these wil I geue the/if thou wilte fal doune & worshippe me. Then saide Jesus vnto him: Auoyde Sathan. For it is written: † Thou Deut. vj.c shalt worshyppe the Lorde thy God/ & him j.Reg.vij.a onely shalt thou serue.

Then the deuel left him/ and beholde / † the Mar.j.b aungels came and ministred vnto him. ✠ *Lu.iiij.b.

✠ * When Jesus had herde that Jhon †Luc.iiij.d was taken/he departed into Galile/ † and lefte Joan.ij.b Nazareth/ and went and dwelt in Capernaū/ which is a citie vpon the see / in the coastes of Zabulon and Nephtalim / that the thynge myght be fulfylled which was spokē by Esay the prophete/ sayinge: † The lande of Zabulon Esa.ix.a and Nephtalim / the waye of the see beyonde Jordan/and Galile of the Gentyls/the people which sat in darckenes/sawe a great light/and to them which sat in the region and shadowe of death/light is begonne to shyne. ✠

† From that tyme forthe beganne Jesus to Marc.j.b preache/ and to say: * Amende your selfes / the *Ma. iij.a kingdome of heauen is at hande.

✠ † As Jesus walked by the see of Ga- C lile / he sawe two brethren: Simon whiche Marc.j.b was called Peter / and Andrewe his brother/ Luc.v.a castinge a net into the see (for they were fysshers) and he sayde vnto them: folowe me/ and I will make you † fysshers of men. And Jere.xvj.c they streyght way lefte theyr nettes / and fo- Eze.xlvij.b lowed him.

And whan he went forth from thence / he sawe other two bretheren / James the sonne of Zebede/and Jhon his brother/in the shippe with Zebede their father/mendinge their nettes / and he called them: † And they without Mat.xx.b taryinge/lefte the shippe and theyr father/and Luc.v.b folowed him. ✠

a Upon the morowe/ all the hye priestes and elders of the people helde a counsayll against Jesus/ that they myghte put him to death/ and bounde hym/ and led hym forth/ and *deliuered hym vnto Pontius Pylate the debite.

When Judas which betrayed him/ sawe this that he was condempned vnto death/ it repented him/ and broughte agayne the thirtye ỹ syluer pens to the hye priestes and the elders/ and sayde: I haue done euel/ in that I haue betrayed innocente blonde. They saide: What haue we to with that? Se thou therto. And he dyd caste the syluer pens in the temple/ and gat him awaye/ † and went and hanged him selfe.

Joh. xviij. d Mar. xv. c
So the hye priestes toke the siluer pens/ & sayde: It is not lawfull to put them into the Gods cheste/ for it is bloud money. Neuertheles/ they helde a counsayll/ and boughte with them a potters felde/ for to burye straungers in. Wherfore thesame felde is called the bloud felde vnto this daye. Then was that fulfilled/ which was spoken by Jeremy the Prophete/ sayinge: † And they toke thyrtye siluer pens/ ỹ

The X. Chapter.

AND he rose vp/and came from thence into the places of Jewry beyonde Jordane. And the people went agayne vnto hym by heapes/and (as his maner was) he taught them againe. And the Pharises came vnto him/and axed him if it were lawfull for a mā to put away his wyf/and tempted him withall. But he aunswered and sayde: What hath Moses commaunded you? They sayd: † Moses suffred to write a testimony all of deuorcement/ and to put her awaye/ Jesus aunswered/and said vnto them: Because of the hardnesse of your hert dyd Moses wryte you this commaundement. But from the fyrste creacion / God made them man and woman.

† For this cause shall a man leaue his father and mother / and cleue vnto his wyfe / and they two shalbe one flesshe. Nowe are they not twayne then/but one flesshe. Let not man therfore put asunder that whiche God hath coupled together.

And at home his disciples axed him agayne of thesame. And he sayde vnto them: † Whosoeuer putteth awaye his wyfe / and marryeth another/breaketh wedlocke to herwarde. And if a woman forsake her hous bād/ and be marryed to another / she committeth aduoutrye.

B † And they brought children vnto him/ that he myghte touche them. But the disciples reproued those that brought thē. Neuertheless/ whan Jesus sawe it / he was displeased/ and saide vnto them: Suffre the children to come vnto me/and forbyd them not/for suche is the kyngdome of God. Verely I saye vnto you: Whosoeuer receaueth not the kyngdome of God as a chylde/he shall not entre therein. And he toke them vp in his armes / and layed his handes vppon them / and blessed them.

✠ † And when he was gone forth vppon the waie/there came one running and kneled vnto him/ & axed him: Good Master / what shall I do that I maye inheret euerlastinge lyfe? But Jesus saide vnto him: Why callest thou me good? † There is no man good but God onely. Thou knowest the commaundemētes: † Thou shalt not breake wedlock: thou shalte not kyll: thou shalt not stealc/thou shalt beare no false witnesse/thou shalte begyle no man: Honoure thy father & mother. But he aunswered/& said vnto him: Master/al these haue I kepte fro my youth vp. And Jesus beheldе him/ and loued him / and saide vnto him: Thou wantest one thynge: Go thy way/ and † sell al that thou haste/& geue it vnto the poore/so shalt thou haue a treasure in heauen/ and come and folowe me/and take the crosse vpon the. And he was discomforted at that sayinge/and went away sory/for he had great possessions.

† And Jesus loked about him/ and sayde vnto his disciples: O howe hardly shall the ryche come into the kingdome of God? And the disciples were astonnied at his woordes. But Jesus aunswered againe & saide vnto them: Deare chyldren/how harde is it for thē that truste in ryches to come into the kyngedome of God? It is easyer for a camell to go thorow the eye of a nedle/ thā for a rych man to entre into the kyngdom of God. Yet were they astonnied the more/& saide among them selfes: Who can then be saued? But Jesus beholde them and saide. With men it is impossible/But not with God: for † with God all thinges are possible.

† Then saide Peter vnto him: Beholde/we haue forsaken al and folowed the. † They were in the waie goynge vp to Jerusalem/and Jesus wente before them. And they were astonnyed & folowed him / & were afrayed. And Jesus toke the twelfe againe/& tolde them what shoulde happen vnto hym. Beholde / we go vp to Jerusalem / and the sonne of man shalbe delyuered vnto the hye priestes & scribes/& they shall condemne him to death/and deliuer him vnto the Heithen:

And

And they shall mocke him / & scourge him / & spyt vpon him: & put him to death / & on the thirde day shal he ryse againe.

† Then wente vnto him James & Jhon/ ỹ sonnes of Zebede/and saide: Master/We desyre that whatsoeuer we axe of the/thou wilte do it for vs. He said vnto them: What desyre ye that I shall do to you? They sayde vnto him: Graunte vs that we maie syt one at thy ryghte hande/ & one at thy lyfte hande in thy glorye. But Jesus saide vnto them. Ye wote not what ye axe. Maye ye drinke the cuppe that I shall drinke? & be baptysed with the Baptime that I shalbe baptysed withall? They saide vnto him: Yea that we maye. Jesus saide vnto them: The cuppe that I drinke shall ye drinke in dede: and be baptysed with the baptime that I shalbe baptised withall. Neuertheless/to syt at my right hande and at my left/is not mine to geue you/but vnto thē for whome it is prepared.

And whan the ten herde that/they disdayned at James and Jhon. But Jesus called them/& saide vnto them: † Ye knowe that the princes of the worlde haue dominacion of the people/and the mightye exercise auctoritie amonge them. So shall it not be among you: But whosoeuer wyll be greate amonge you/ shalbe your minister. And who so wil be chiefest among you/shalbe seruaūt of all. For the sonne of man also came not to be serued / but to do seruice / and † to geue his lyfe to a redempcion for many.

† And they came to Jericho. And whan he went out of Jericho and his disciples/and muche people/there sat one blynde Bartimeus the sonne of Thimeus by the waye/& begged. And whan he herde that it was Jesus of Nazareth/he beganne to crye and saye: Jesu thou sonne of Dauid haue mercye vppon me. And many reproued him/that he shoulde holde his tunge. But he cried muche more: Thou sonne of Dauid haue mercy vpon me. And Jesus stode styll / and badde call hym. And they called the blinde/& saide vnto him: Be of good comforte/aryse/he called the. And he caste awaye his garment from him / stode vp/and came to Jesus. And Jesus aunswered / and saide vnto him: What wylte thou that I do vnto the? The blinde saide vnto him: Master / that I mighte se/Jesus sayde vnto him: Go thy waie/thy fayth hath helped the. And immediatly he had his syghte/& folowed him in the waye.

Gods.

Gods. And they maruayled at him.
xxij. c † Then came vnto hym the Saduces
xx. d (which holde that there is no resurreccion) xvij. a these axed him/ and saide: Master/ Moses xxv. a wrote vnto vs: If any mans brother die/ and leaue a wyf/ and leaue no children/ his brother shall take his wife/ and rayse vp sede vnto his brother. Now were there seuen brethren/ the fyrst toke a wyfe/ and dyed/ & left no sede: and the seconde toke her/ and dyed/ and lefte no sede: the thyrde in lyke maner. And they all seuen toke her/ and lefte no sede. At the laste after them all/ the wyfe dyed also. Nowe in the resurreccion whan they shall ryse againe/whose wyf shal she be of them? For seuen had her to wyfe.
Then aunswered Jesus/ and sayde vnto them: Do not ye erre? because ye knowe not the scriptures nor the power of God? Whan they shall ryse agayn from the dead/ they shal neyther marrye nor be marryed/ but they are as the aungels in heauen. As touchinge the dead/ that they shall ryse againe haue ye not red in the boke of Moses/ how God spake to
. iij. a him in the bushe/ and sayde: †I am the God
. vij. d of Abraham/ and the God of Jsaac/ and the God of Jacob? Yet is not God a God of the dead/ but of the lyuinge. Therfore ye erre greatly.
xxij. d †And there came vnto him one of the Scri bes/ that had herkened vnto them howe they disputed together/ and sawe that he had aun-swered them well/ and axed him: Whiche is the chiefest commaundement of all? Jesus aunswered him: the chiefest commaundemēt
O of all commaundementes is this: †Heare O
. vj. b Jsrael/ the Lorde oure God is one God/
xx. b and thou shalt loue the Lord thy God with all thy herte/ with all thy soule/ with all thy mynde/ and with all thy strength. This is the chiefest commaundement/ and the seconde is
. xix. lyke vnto it: †Thou shalt loue thy neyghbour
. xiij. b as thy selfe. There is none other greater commaundement then these.
And the scribe saide vnto him: Master/ ve-rely thou hast sayde ryght/ for there is but one God/ and there is none other without hym/and to loue him with all the herte/ with all the mynde/ with al the soule/ and with all the strenght/ and to loue a mans neighbour as him selfe/ is more then brentsacrifyces and al offeringes. But whan Jesus sawe that/ he aunswered discretlye/ he sayde vnto hym:
Thou arte not farre from the kyngedome of God. And after this durst no man axe hym any mo questions.
†And Jesus aunswered and saide: whan A he taught in the temple: Howe saye the scry- Matt. xx. b bes that Christe is the sonne of Dauid? But Luce xx. c Dauid him selfe sayeth thorowe the holy ghoost: †The Lorde saide vnto my Lorde: Psal. cix. a Syt thou on my righte hande/ tyll I make thine enemies thy fotestole. There Dauid cal leth him his Lord. How is he then his son?
And many people herde him gladly.
And he taught them/ and saide vnto them:
† Beware of the scribes that loue to go in Mat. xxiij. a longe garmentes/ and loue to be saluted in Luce xx. c the market/ and syt gladly aboue in the syna-goges and at the table: they deuoure wedo-wes houses/ and vnder a coloure they make longe prayers. These shall receaue the more dampnacion.
✠ †And Jesus sat ouer against the* Gods Luce xxj. a chest/ and beheld how the people put money *iij. re. xij. b into the Gods chest. And many that were ryche/ put in much. And there came a poore wydowe/ and put in two mytes/ which make a farthinge. And he called vnto him his disciples/ and sayde vnto them: Verely I saye vnto you/ this poore widowe hath put more into the Gods cheste/ then all they that haue put in: For they all haue put in of they: superfluite/ but she of her pouerte hath put in all that she had/ euen her whole lyuing. ✠

The XIII. Chapter.

And † when he wente oute of the temple/ A him: Seist thou al this great buildīg? There shal not one stone be lefte vpon another/ that shall not be broken doune.

And whan he sat vppon mounte Olyuete ouer against the temple/ Peter and James/and Jhon/ and Andrew axed hym priuatly:
Tell vs: Whan shall all these come to passe?
And what shalbe the token/ whan all these shalbe fulfylled? Jesus aunswered them/ and began to saye: Take hede/ that no man deceane you/for there shal many come vnder my name/and saye: I am Christ/and shal deceaue many. But whan ye shall heare of the noyse of warres/be not afrayed: for so muste it be/ Esa.xix.a but the ende is not yet. † One people shall ryse agaynst another/and one realme agaynst another/and there shalbe earthquakes here and there/and derth shall there be and troubles.

B † But take ye hede to your selfes. For they Mat.x.b shall deliuer you vp to the cc counsayls and Some rea- Synagoges/and ye shalbe beaten/& shalbe de counsaill brought before princes and kynges for my names sake/for a witnesse vnto them. And the Gospell muste fyrste be preached amonge all people.

Matt.x.c † Now whan they shall lede you/and deliuer you vp/take ye no thoughte afore what ye Luce xij.b shall saie: and ymagine ye nothing afore hãde/ and xxj.b but whatsoeuer shalbe geuen you at thesame houre/that speake: for it is not ye that speake/ Mich.vij.a but the holy ghoost. † One brother shall deliuer another vnto death/and the father the sonne/and the children shall rise against their fathers and mothers/and shall put them to death/and ye shalbe hated of all men for my names sake. But who so endureth to the ende shalbe saued.

mat.xxiiij.d † Whan ye shall se the abhomimacion of Luce xxj.c desolacion (wherof it is spoke by *Daniel the *Dan.ix.c prophete) stande where it ought not (who so readeth it/let him marke it well) then let them which be in Jewry: flye vnto the mountaynes: and let hym that is on ỹ house toppe/not descende into the house/nor come therein to fetche any thinge out of the house. And let him that is in the felde/not turne backe to fetche his clothes.

C But wo vnto them that are with chylde/ and to them that geue sucke in those dayes. Neuertheles se/praye ye that youre flyghte be not in the wynter. For in those dayes there shalbe suche trouble as was not from the Beginnynge of the creature/whiche God created vnto this tyme/neither shalbe. And if the Lorde had not shortened those dayes/there shoulde no man be saued. But for the electes sake whome he hath chosen/he hath shortened those dayes.

mat.xxiiij.b † Now if any man shall saye vnto you at Luce xvij.c that tyme: Lo/here is Christ: lo/he is there/ Belefe it not. For there shall arise false Christes/and false prophetes whiche shall do tokens and wounders/to deceaue euen the very chosen/if it were possible. † But at thesame time after this trouble/ mat.x the Sunne and Moone shall lose their light/ Luce. and the starres shall fall from heauen/and Joel. the powers of the heauens shall moue: † and *Dan. then shall they se the sonne of man comming in the cloudes with greate power and glory. And then shall he sende his aungels/and shal gather together hys chosen from the foure windes/from one ende of the earthe to the other.

† Learne a similitude of the fygge tree: D When his braunche is yet tender/and hath mat.x brought forth leaues/ye knowe that the sommer is nye. So lykewyse whan ye se all these thinges come to passe/be ye sure that it is nye euen at the dores. Verely I saye vnto you/ this generacion shal not passe/tyll all these be fulfylled. Heauen and earth shal perishe/but my wordes shall not perishe. † But of the day Actu.j and houre knoweth no man/neither the aungels in heauen/no/not the sonne him self/but the father onely.

† Take hede/watch and praye/for ye knowe mat.x not whan the tyme is. Lyke as a man that and.x went to a straunge countrie/and lefte his Luce.x house/and gaue his seruaũtes auctoryte/vnto and.x euery one his worke/and commaunded the porter that he shoulde watche. Watche ye therfore/for ye knowe not whan the master of the house commeth/whether he commeth in the euenynge or at mydnyght/or aboute the cockcrowinge/or in the morninge/that he come not sodenly and fynde you slepynge. Loke what I saye vnto you/that saye I vnto all: Watch.

The XIIII. Chapter.

AND † after two daies was Easter/and the I dayes of swete breade/and the hygh priestes and scribes sought how they might take Mat.x Luce.x Joha. him with deceate/and put him to death. But they sayde: Not in the feast daye/lest/there be an vproure in the people.

† And whan he was at Bethanye in the Mat.x house of Simõ the leper/and sat at the table/ Luce.x there Joh.x

there came a woman/whiche had a boxe of pure and costly Nardus oyntement. And she brake the boxe/and poured it vpon his head. Then were there some that disdayned & sayde: where to serueth this waiste? This oyntemẽt might haue bene solde for more then thre hundreth pence/and bene geuẽ to the poore. And they grudged against her.

But Jesus sayde: Let her be in reste: why troble ye her? She hath done a good worke vpon me. Ye haue alway the poore with you/ and whan soeuer ye wyll/ye maye do them good: but me haue ye not alwaye. She hath done what she coulde/she is come before to anoynte my body for my buryall. Verely I saye vnto you: whereseoeuer this Gospel shalbe preached in all the worlde/there shall this also that she hath now done/be tolde for a remembraunce of her.

xxvjb † And Judas Iscarioth one of the twelfe xxij.a wente vnto the priestes/to betraye hym vnto xiij.a them. When they herde that/they were glad and promised that they wolde geue hym money. And he sought how he might conueniently betraye him.

.xij.c † And vpon the fyrst daye of swete breade/ xxvjb whan the Easter lambe was offred/his disciples sayde vnto hym: Where wylt thou that we go prepare/that thou mayest eate the Easter lambe? And he sent two of his disciples/ sayde vnto them: go youre waye into the cytie/and there shal mete you a man bearinge a pitcher with water/folowe him/and whereseoeuer he goeth in/there saye ye to the good man of the house: The master sendeth the worde: Where is the gest house/wherein I maye eate the Easterlambe with my disciples? And he shall shewe you a greate parloure/whiche is paued and prepared/there make redye for vs. And the disciples wente forth/and came into the cytie/and founde it as he had sayde vnto them. And they prepared the Easterlambe.

C † At euen he came with the twelfe. And as xxvjb they sat at the table and dyd eate/Jesus sayde: xxij.b Verely I saye vnto you: One of you that ca- xiij.c teth with me/shal betraye me. And they were sory/and saide vnto him one after another: Is it I? and another (sayde:) Is it I? He aunswered and saide vnto them: One of the twelfe/euen thesame that dyppeth with me in the platter. The sonne of man truely goeth forth as it is writte of him. But wo vnto that man/by whom the sonne of man is betraied. It were better for thesame man that he had neuer ben borne.

† And as they dyd eate/Jesus toke the bread Mat.xxvj.c gaue thankes/and brake it/and gaue it them/ Luce xxij.b and sayde: Take/eate/this is my body. And j.Cor.xj.c he toke the cuppe/thanked/and gaue it them/ and they dyd all drinke thereof. And he saide vnto them: This is my bloud of the newe testament/whiche shalbe shed for many. Verely I saye vnto you/that from henceforth I will not drinke of the frute of the vyne/tyl the day that I drynke it newe in the kingedome of God. And whan they had saide grace/they went forth vnto mounte Oliuete.

† And Jesus saide vnto them: This nyght D shall ye all be offended in me/for it is written: Mat.xxvj.c *I will smite the shepeherde/and the shepe *Zach.xiij.b shalbe scatred abroade. Neuertheless/after that I am rysen againe/† I wil go before you Actu.j.a into Galile. But Peter saide vnto him: And though all men should be offended/yet wolde not I be offended. And Jesus sayde vnto hym: Verely I saye vnto the: To daye in this same night before the cock crowe two tymes/ shalte thou denye me thryse. But he sayde yet more: Yee/though I shoulde dye with the/ yet wyll I not denye the. So saide they all in lyke maner.

† And they came into the felde called Geth- Mat.xxvi.d semane/and he said vnto his disciples: Sit ye Luce xxij. c here tyl I go yonder & praye. And he toke vb Joh.xviij.a him Peter and James/and Jhon/& began to waxe fearfull/and to be in an agonye/and saide vnto them: † My soule is heauy euẽ vn- Joh.xij.c to the death: tary ye here and watch. And he wente forth a litle/& fel vpon the ground/and prayed/that (if it were possilbe) the houre might passe from him/and saide: Abba/my father/all thinges are possible vnto the/take this cuppe awaye fro me: Neuertheless/not what I wil/but what thou wilt.

And he came vnto them/and found them E slepynge/and sayde vnto Peter: Simon/slepest thou? Couldest thou not watche with me one houre? Watch and praye/that ye fall not into temptacion. The spirite is wyllinge/but the

mat. xxvj. d the fleshe is weake. † And he wente forthe a-gayne/and prayed/and spake thesame woor-des/and returned/and founde them slepinge agayne: for their eyes were heauy/ and they knewe not what they shoulde aunswere him.
And he came the thirde tyme/ and sayde vn-
to them: Slepe on now/and take youre reste.
It is ynough/the houre is come: Beholde/the sonne of man shalbe delyuered into the han-des of synners: aryse/ let vs be goynge. Be-holde/he is at hande that betrayeth me.

mat. xxvj. e † And immedialy whyle he yet spake/came Luce xxij. d Judas one of the twelfe/ & with him a great Joh. xviij. a multitude/with sweardes and staues/ from the hyghe priestes and scribes, and elders.
And the traytoure had geuen them a token/me. I was daily e with you in the temple/and

Esa. liij. b taught/& ye toke me not. † But this is done Mar. xv. that the scripture maye be fulfylled. And all the disciples forsoke him/and fled. And there folowed him a yonge man/ whiche was clothed in linnen vpon the bare skynne/and the yong men toke holde of him. But he let the linnen go/and fled naked from them.

mat. xxvj. f † And they led Jesus vnto the hygh priest/Luce xxij. d where all the highe priestes and elders and Joh. xviij b scribes were come together. As for Peter/ he folowed him afarre of into the hyghe priestes palaice. And he was there/ and sat with the seruauntes/and warmed him.

mat. xxvj. f † But the hyghe priestes and the whole counsaill sought witnesse against Jesus/that they might bringe him to death/ and they founde none. Many gaue false witnesse a-gainste him/ but their witnesses agreed not together. And some stode vp/ and gaue false witnes against him/and said: We herde him wast with Jesus of Nazareth also. But he denyed/and saide: I knowe him not/ neyther can I tell what thou sayest. And he wente oute into the fore courte/and the cocke crewe.

And a damsell sawe him/and beganne again to saye vnto them that stode by: This is one of them: And he denyed it againe. And after a litle while they that stode by/said again vnto him. Of a trueth thou art one of them: for thou art a Galilea̅/and thy speache soundeth vj b † At the feast of Easter he was wont to de-lyuer vnto them a prysoner/whomsoeuer they wolde desyre. There was in pryson with the sedicious/one called Barrabas/ whiche in the vproure had committed murther. And ỹ people wente vp/ and prayed hym/ that he wolde do as he was wont. Pilate aunswered them/wyll ye that I geue louse vnto you the kinge of the Jewes? For he knewe that the hyghe vij. c priestes had delyuered him of enuye. † But the hyghe priestes moued ỹ people/ that he should rather geue Barrabas louse vnto them.

B † Pilate aunswered agayne/ and sayde vn-
vij. c to them: What will ye then that I do vnto viij. b him/ whome ye accuse to be kinge of the Jesayde vnto them: What euell hath he done?

But they cried yet much more: Crucifie him.
So Pilate thought to satisfie the people/ and gaue Barrabas louse vnto them/ and delyue-

And it was aboute the thyrde houre/ and they crucified him. And the title of his cause was written ouer aboue him (namely:) The kinge of Jewes. And they crucified him with two murtherers/ one at the righte hande/ and one at the left. Then was the scripture fulfylled/which sayeth: † He was counted amonge the Esa. liij. b

The Prologe of S. Luke.

Of so muche as many haue taken in hande / to set forth the wordes of the actes that are come to passe amonge vs / lyke as they delyuered them vnto vs / whiche from the beginninge sawe them theyr selfes / and were ministers of the worde. I thought it good (after that I had diligently searched out all from the beginninge) to wryte thesame orderly vnto the (good Theophilus) that thou myghtest knowe the certente of the wordes / whereof thou art informed.

The Gospel of sayncte Luke.

The fyrst Chapter.

A IN the tyme of Herode king of Jewry / there was gv.b a preist named Zacharie of the † course of Abia / & his wyfe of ỹ doughters of Aarõ / & her name was Elizabeth. They were both ryghteous before God / and walked in al the commaundementes and statutes of the Lord / vnreproueable. And they had no child / for Elizabeth was baren / and they were both well stryken in age.

And it came to passe as he executed the priestes office before God / whan his course came (accordinge to the custume of the priesthode) gv.b it fell to his lotte to burn incence. And † he
g.a wente into the temple of the Lorde / and the whole multitude of the people was without in prayer / whyle the incence was a burnynge. And the aungel of the Lorde appeared vnto him / and stode on the ryght syde of the aultare of incence. And whan Zacharie sawe him / he was abashed / and there came a feare vpon hym.

But the aungell sayde vnto hym: Feare not Zachary: for thy prayer is herde. And thy wyfe Elizabeth shall beare the a sonne / whose name thou shalt call Jhon / and thou shalt haue ioye and gladnes: and many shall reioyce at hys byrthe / for he shalbe greate before the Lorde. Wyne and stronge drinke shall he not drinke. And he shalbe fylled with the holy ghoost / euen in his mothers wombe. And many of the chyldren of Israel shall he turne vnto the Lorde theyr God. And he shall go before hym in the spirete and power of iij.d † Elias / to turne the hertes of the fathers vnvj.b to the chyldren / and the vnfaythfull vnto the wysdome of the vnrighteous / to make ỹ people ready for the Lorde.

B And Zachary sayd vnto the aungel: Wherby shall I know this? † For I am olde / & my wyfe well stryken in age. The aungel aunswered and sayde vnto hym: I am Gabriel that stande before God / and am sente to speake vnto the / and to shewe the these glad tydinges. And beholde / thou shalt be domme / and not able to speake / vntyll the day that this come to passe / because thou hast † not beleued my wordes / which shalbe fulfylled in their season.
Gen. xvij.c and xviij.b Jud. xiij.b iiij.Re.vij.a

And the people wayted for Zachary / and maruailed that he taryed so longe in the tẽple. And whan he went out / he coulde not speake vnto them. And they perceaued that he had sene a vision in the temple. And he beckened vnto them / and remayned specheleſſe.

And it fortuned / whan the tyme of his office was out / he went home into his house. And after those dayes Elizabeth his wyfe conceaued / and hyd her self v. monethes / and sayde: Thus hath the Lorde done vnto me / in the dayes wherein he hath loked vpon me / to take awaye fro me my rebuke amonge men.

✠† And in the sixte moneth was the aun-
Matth.j.c gel Gabriel sent from God / into a citie of Galile / called Nazareth / vnto a virgin that was spoused vnto a mã / whose name was Joseph of ỹ house of Dauid / & the virgins name was Mary. And ỹ aungel came in vnto her / & said: Hayle thou full of grace / the Lorde is with the: blessed arte thou amonge women.

Whã she sawe him / she was abashed at his C sayinge / & thought: What maner of salutacion is this? & the aungel said vnto her: Feare not Mary / for thou hast founde grace with God.
Esa.vij.c † Beholde / thou shalt cõceaue in thy wombe &

Hebr.j.b vnto the aungel: Howe shall this be / seynge I knowe not a man? The aungel aunswered / & said vnto her: The holy ghoost shall come vpõ the / and the power of the hyghest shall ouershadowe the. Therfore the holy also / which shalbe borne / (of ỹ) shalbe called the sonne of God. And beholde / thy cosen Elizabeth / she also hath conceaued a sõne in her olde age / this is the sixte moneth of her / whiche is reported

Luc.xviij. c to be baren / † for with God is nothinge vnpossible. And Mary saide: Beholde/here am I the hande mayden of the Lorde/be it vnto me as thou hast sayde. And the aungel departed from her. ✠

D ✠ And Mary arose in those dayes / and went into the mountaynes with hayst/ into ỹ citie of Jewry/and came into the house of Zachary/and saluted Elizabeth. And it fortuned as Elizabeth herde the salutacion of Mary/ the babe sprange in her wombe. And Elizabeth was fylled with the holy ghoost / & cryed loude/and saide: Blessed art thou amõge woman / and blessed is the frute of thy wombe. And howe happeneth this to me that the mother of my Lorde commeth vnto me? Beholde / whan I herde the voyce of thy salutacion/the babe sprãge in my wombe with ioye. And blessed arte thou that hast beleued/ for the thinges shalbe perfourmed/ which were tolde the from the Lorde. And Mary sayd.

Esa.lxj. b † My soule magnifieth the Lorde. And my spirete reioyceth in God my saueour.

For he hath loked vpon the lowe degre of his hande mayden.

Beholde/ from henceforth shall all generacions call me blessed.

For he that is myghty / hath done great thinges vnto me/and holy is his name.

And his mercye endureth thoroweout all generacions/vpon them that feare hym.

He sheweth strength with his arme / and scattereth them that are proude in the imaginacion of their herte.

j.Reg.ij.a † He putteth doune the myghty from the Eccle.x.c seate/and exalteth them of lowe degre.

Euen as he promyseth vnto oure fathers/ Gen.xxij.c † Abraham and to his sede for euer.

And Mary abode with her aboute thre mónethes/& then returned home againe.

E ✠ And Elizabeths tyme was come that she shoulde be delyuered / and she brought forth a sõne. And her neyghbours & kynsfolkes herde that ỹ Lorde had shewed great mercy vpon Gen.xvij.b her/& they reioyced with her. And it fortuned Leuit.xij.a vpon the eyght daye / † they came to circũcise the childe/and called him Zachary after his father. And his mother aũswered/and said: No/ but he shalbe called Jhon. And they sayd vnto her: There is none in thy kinne that is so called. And they made signes vnto his father/ how he wolde haue hym called. And he axed for writinge tables/ wrote & saide: His name is Jhon/and they maruayled all. And immediatly was his mouth and his tunge opened/ and he spake/& prayse God. And there came a feare vpon al their neyghbours. And all this acte was noysed abroade thoroweout of the hyll countrie of Jewry: And all they that herd thereof/toke it to hert/and saide: What maner of man will this chylde be? For the hande of the Lorde was with him.

And Zachary his father was fylled with the F holy ghoost/and prophecyed/and sayde.

Blessed be the Lord God of Jsrael/ for he hath visited and redemed his people. ✠

And hath set vp an † horne of saluacion / in Ps.c the house of his seruaunt Dauid.

Euen as he promysed afore tyme / by the mouth of his holy prophetes.

That he wolde delyuer vs from our enemyes/& frõ the hande of all such as hate vs.

And that he wolde shewe mercye vnto our fathers / and thinke vpon hys holye † conue- Gen naunt.

Euen the oothe that he sware vnto our father Abraham/for to geue vs.

† That we be delyuered out of ỹ hãde of our Jere enemyes / myght serue him without feare all ỹ- the dayes of our lyfe/ in suche holynes & righ- Ecc teousnes as is accepte before him.

And thou chylde shalt be called a prophete of the hyest: for thou shalt go before the Lorde/ to prepare his wayes.

And to geue knowlege of saluacion vnto his people/for the remission of their sinnes.

Thorowe the tender mercye of our God/ wherby the day springe from an hye/hath visyted vs.

That he myght geue light vnto thẽ/that syt in darkenesse and shadowe of death/& to gyde our fete into the waye of grace.

And the childe grewe / & waxed stronge in spirete / & was in the wildernesse / tyll the tyme that he shoulde shewe him selfe vnto the people of Jsrael.

The. II. Chapter. ✠

A JT fortuned at thesame tyme / that there wente out a commaundement from Augustus the Emperour/ that the whole worlde shoulde be taxed. And this taxinge was the fyrst that was executed / whan Cyrenius was lyftenaunt in Syria. And they went all/ euery one to his owne citie to be taxed. Then Joseph gat hym vp also from Galile / out of the citie of Nazareth / into Jewry / to the citie of xvj.a Dauid/ † which is called Bethleem / (because b he was of ỹ house and lynage of Dauid) that he myght be taxed with Mary his spoused wyfe/which was with chylde.

b.j.c † And it fortuned whyle they were there/ the tyme was come / that she shoulde be delyuered. And she brought forth her fyrst begotten sonne/and wrapped hym in swadling clothes/and layed him in a maunger: for they had no roume in the ynnes.

B And there were in thesame region shepeherdes in the feld by the foldes/and watchyng iij.b their flocke by nyght. † And beholde/the aungel of the Lorde stode by thẽ/and the bryghtnes of the Lorde shone round about thẽ/and they were sore afrayed. And the aungel sayde vnto them/be not afrayed. Beholde/ I bryng you tydinges of great ioye / whiche shall happen vnto all people: for vnto you thys daye is borne the saueoure/euen Christ the Lorde/in the citie of Dauid. And take this for a token: Ye shall fynde the babe swadled / and layed in a maunger. And straygght waye there was by the aungel a multitude of heauenly hoostes/ which prayse God/and sayde: Glory be vnto God on hye/and peace vpon earth / and vnto men a good wyll. ✠

C And it fortuned whã the aũgels were gone frõ them into heauen/ ✠ the shepeherdes said one to another: let vs go now euẽ vnto Bethleem/ & se this thinge that is happened/ which the Lorde hath shewed vnto vs. And they came ỹ haist/& founde both Mary & Joseph/ & the babe layed in the maunger. And whan they had sene it/they publisshed abroade ỹ sayinge/ that was tolde them of this childe. And all they that herde it wondred at the wordes/ which the shepeherdes had tolde them. But Mary kepte all these sayinges/ & pondered thẽ in her herte. And the shepeherdes returned/ prayssinge and laudinge God / for all that they had herde and sene euen as it was tolde thẽ. ✠

✠ † And when eyght dayes were ended/ Gen.xvij.b that the childe shoulde be circũcysed/his name was called Jesus / † which was named of the Luce j.c aungel / before he was conceaued in his mothers wombe. ✠

✠ And whan the dayes of their purifica- D cion/ † after the lawe of Moses were come/thei Leuit.xij.b *brought hym to Jerusalem/that they myght *j.Reg.j.d present hym vnto the Lorde/ (as it is written in the lawe of the Lorde: † Euery man Exo.xiij.a chyld that fyrst openeth the matrix/shalbe called holy vnto the Lord) and that they might geue the offeringe / as it is written in the lawe of the Lorde (namely) a payre of turtle doues/or two yonge pigeons.

And beholde/at Jerusalẽ there was a man/ whose name was Symeon/and thesame man was iust/& feared God/ and longed for ỹ consolacion of Jsrael/& ỹ holy ghoost was in him. And an aunswere was geuen him of the holy ghoost/ that he shoulde not se death / before he had sene the Lorde Christ. And he came by inspiracion into the temple.

And whan the elders brought ỹ chylde Je- E sus into the temple/to do for hym after the cũstome of the † lawe/then toke he hym vp in his Leuit.xij.b armes/and prayse God and sayde.

But he sayde vnto them: I must preache the Gospel of the kingdome of God to other cyties also: ✠ For therto am I sent. And he preached in the Synagoges of Galile.

The V. Chapter. ✠

A IT came to passe that the people preassed vpon hym/to heare the worde of God/ & he stode by the lake of Genazareth / and sawe Luc.v.a two shyppes stande by the lake syde: But the fyshers were gone out of thē / and had washed their nettes. Then wente he into one of the shyppes/which was Simons/and praied him/that he wolde thrust out a litle from the lande. And he sat him doune/and taught the people out of the shyppe.

And whan he had lefte of talkinge/he saide vnto Symon: Launche oute into the depe/ and let slyppe your nettes to make a draught. And Simon aunswered / and sayde vnto him: Master we haue laboured all the night/ and taken nothinge. But vpon thy worde/ I wyl louse the net. And whā they had so done/ they toke a greate multitude of fysshes: and their nette brake. And they made sygnes to their felowes which were in the other shippe/ that they shoulde come and helpe them. And they came and fylled both the shyppes full/ so that they sonke.

B Whan Symon Peter sawe that/ he fell doune at Jesus knees/and sayde: Lorde go fro me/for I am a synfull man. For he was astonnyed/and al that were with him/at this draught of fysshes whiche they toke / and so were James and Jhon also the sonnes of Zebede/whiche were Simons companions. And Jesus sayde vnto Simon: Feare not/ for from hence forth thou shalt take men. And they broughte the shyppes to lande † and lefte all/and folowed him. Matt iiij. c ✠

†And it fortuned as he was in a cytie / beholde/there was a man ful of leprosy. Whan he sawe Jesus/he fell vpon his face / and besoughte him/and sayde: Lorde. If thou wilt thou canst make me cleane. And he stretched out his hand/and touched him/ and saide: I wyl/Be thou cleane. And immediatly the leprosy departed from him. And he charged him that he shoulde tell no man / but go thy waie (saide he) and shewe thy selfe vnto the prieste / and offre for thy clensynge as † Moses commaunded/ for a witnesse vnto them. Mat.viij.a Marc.j.d Leui. xiiij.a

But the fame of him wēt out farther abroad/ & there came muche people together to heare him/ and to be healed by him frō their sycknesses. And he departed into the wyldernesses and gaue him selfe to prayer.

C ✠† And it fortuned vpon a daye that he taught/and there sat the Pharises and scribes/whiche were come out of all the tounes of Galile and Jewry/ and from Jerusalem/ and the power of the Lorde wente from hym/ and healed euery man. And beholde/ certayne men broughte vpon a bedde a man that had the palsye / and they soughte howe they mighte bringe him in/and laye him before hym. And whan they coulde not fynde By what waye they mighte bringe him in/ (for the people) they clymmed vp to the toppe of the house/and let him doune thorowe the tylinge with the bedde/amonge them before Jesus. And whan he sawe their faith / he sayde vnto hym: Man thy synnes are forgeuen the. Mat.ix.a Marc.ij.a

And the scribes and Pharises begānne to thinke/and saide: What is he this that speaketh blasphemy: † Who can forgeue synnes/but onely God. Esa. xliij. d and xliiij. d.

Neuertheles / whan Jesus perceaued their thoughtes/ he aunswered and saide vnto them: What thynke ye in youre hertes: Whether is easyer to saye: Thy synnes are forgeuen the. Or to saye: Aryse and walke. † But that ye maye knowe/ that the sonne of man hath power to forgeue synnes vppon earthe/he saide vnto the sycke of palsye: I saye vnto the: Aryse / take vp thy bedde / and go home. home. And immediatly he rose vp before thē/ and toke vp the bedde that he had lyen vpon/ and wente home/ and prayseḍ God. And they were all astonnyed/ and gaue God the prayse/ and were fylled with feare/ and sayde: We haue sene maruaylous thinges to daye. ✠

Mat. ix. a Marc. ij. b Luce xv. a

✠And after warde he wente oute/ and sawe a Publicane named Leui/ syttinge at the receate of custome/ and he sayde vnto him: Folowe me. And he lefte all/ rose vp and folowed him. And Leui made hym a greate feaste in his house. And many publicās/ and other sat with him at the table. And the Scribes and Pharisees murmured againste his disciples/ and saide: ✠Wherfore do ye eate and drynke with publicans and synners? And Jesus aunswered/ and saide vnto them: The whole nede not the Phisicia/ But they that are sycke.

✠But they sayde vnto hym: Wherfore fast the disciples of Jhon so ofte/ and praye so muche/ and the disciples of the Pharises lykewyse: But thy disciples eate and drynke. And he saide vnto them: Can ye make the weddinge chyldren fast/ so longe as the brydegrō is with them? But the tyme wyl come/ that ỹ brydegrome shalbe taken from thē/ then shall they fast.

And he saide vnto them a symilitude. No man putteth a pece of new cloth into an olde garmente: for els he renteth the new/ and the pece of the newe agreeth not with the olde. And no man putteth newe wyne into olde vessels/ for els the new wyne bursteth the vessels/ and runneth out it selfe/ and the vessels perishe. But new wine must be put into new vessels/ and so are they both preserued. And there is no man that drinketh the olde/ and wolde strayght waie haue the new/ for he sayeth: the olde is pleasaunter.

The VI. Chapter.

Matt. xij. a Marc. ij. c

AND it fortuned vpon an after principall Sabbath/ that he wente thorow the corne felde/ and his disciples plucked the ayres of corne/ and dyd eate/ and rubbed them with theyr handes. But certayne of the Pharisees sayde vnto them: Wherfore do ye that/ which is not laweful to do vpon the Sabbathe? And Jesus aunswered/ and said vnto them: Haue ye not red what Sauid dyd ✠ whan he was hungry/ and they that were with him/ howe he wente into the house of God/ and toke the ✠shewbread and dyd eate/ and gaue also vnto them that were with hym/ whiche was lawfull for no man to eate/ but for the preest onely? And he sayde vnto them: The sonne of mā is Lorde euen ouer the Sabbath.

j. Reg. xxi. Exo. xxv. Leu. xxiiij.

✠✠It came to passe vppon another Sabbath/ that he wente into the Sinagoge/ and taughte/ and there was a man whose ryghte hande was withred. But the Scribes and Pharises marked him whether he wold heale vpon the Sabbath/ that they might fynde an occasyon against him. Neuertheles/ he perceaued their thoughtes/ and saide vnto the man with the wythred hande: Aryse/ & steppe forth here. And he arose/ and stepped forthe. Then saide Jesus vnto them: I wyll axe you a question: What is it laweful to do vpon the Sabbath good or euell? to saue lyfe/ or to destroye it? And he beholde them all rounde aboute/ and saide vnto the man: Stretche oute thine hande. And he dyd so. ✠Then was his hande restored him to right/ euē as whole as the other. But they were fylled full of madnes/ and commoned togeither what they wolde do to him. ✠

The VII. Chapter.

Matt. viij. a Joh. iiij. f

AWhan he had ended his talking vnto the people/ he wente into Capernaum/ and a captaynes seruaunt laye dead sycke/ whome he loued. Whan he herde of Jesus/ he sente the elders of the Jewes vnto him/ and praied hym hym that he wolde come/ and make his seruaunt whole. But whan they came to Jesus/they besoughte hym instantly/and saide: He is worthye that thou shoulded shewe this for him/ for he loueth oure people/& hath buylded vs the Synagoge. And Jesus went with them.

Nowe whan they were not farre from the house/ the captayne sente frendes vnto him/ sayinge vnto hym: Oh Lorde trouble not thy selfe/ I am not worthye that thou shouldest enter vnder my rofe. And therefore I thought not my selfe worthye to come to the/ but speake the worde/and my seruaunte shalbe whole. For I my selfe am a man/subiecte to the hygher auctorite/ and haue souldiers vnder me. And I saye vnto one: Go/ and he goeth. And to another: Come/ and he commeth. And to my seruaunt: Do this/and he doeth it. Whan Jesus herde that/he maruailed at him/and turned him aboute/ and sayde vnto the people that folowed him/ I say vnto you. So greate fayth haue I not founde/ no/not in Israel. And whan they that were sent came home againe/ they founde the seruaunt that was sycke/whole.

B ✠And it fortuned afterwarde/ that he wente into a cytie ealled Naim. And many of his disciples wente with him/ and muche people. Whan he came nye to the gate of the cytie/ beholde/ there was caryed oute one dead/whiche was the onely sonne of his mother/and she was a wedowe/and muche people of the cytie wente with her. And whan the Lorde sawe her/ he had compassyon on her/and sayde vnto her: Wepe not/ and he came nye/ and touched the coffyn. And they that dyd beare hym/stode styll. And he sayde: Yonge man/ I saye vnto the/ Aryse. And †the dead sat vp/ and beganne to speake. And he delyuered him vnto his mother. And there came a feare on them all/ and they praysed God/and saide: *A great prophete is rysen vp amonge vs/ and God hath visyted his people.

And this fame of him was noysed in all Jewrye/and in al the regions that laye roũde aboute.

And the disciples of Jhon shewed hym of all these thinges. †And Jhon called vnto hym two of hys disciples/and sente them vnto Jesus sayinge: Arte thou he that shall come/ or shall we loke for another? Whan the men came to hym/ they sayde: Jhon the Baptiste hath sente vs vnto the/ sayinge: Arte thou he that shall come/ or shall we loke for another?

At thesame houre healed he many from syckenesses and plagues/and from euell spretes/and vnto many that were blynd/he gaue syght. And Jesus aunswered/ and said vnto them: Go youre waye: shewe Jhon what ye haue sene and herde. †The blynde se/ the haltynge go/ the lepers are clensed/ the deafe heare/ the dead aryse. †And the Gospell is preached vnto the poore/and blessed is he that is not offended at me.

†Whan the messaungers of Jhon were departed/Jesus beganne to speake vnto the people concerninge Jhon: What are ye gone out for to se in the wylderneffe? Wolde ye se a rede/ that is shaken with the wynde? Or what are ye gone oute for to se? Wolde ye se a man clothed in soft rayment? Beholde/ they that are gorgeously arayed/ and lyue delycately/ are in kynges courtes. Or what are ye gone out for to se? Wolde ye se a Prophet? Yee/ I saye vnto you: one that is more then a Prophet. This is he of whome it is wrytten: †Beholde/ I sende my messaunger before thy face/ whiche shall prepare thy waye before the. For I saye vnto you: Amonge them that are borne of women/there is no greater prophete then Jhon the Baptiste. Notwithstandinge/he that is lesse in the kingdome of God/is greater than he.

And all the people that herde hym/ and the publicans iustifyed God/ and were baptysed with the baptyme of Jhon. But the Pharises and Scribes despysed the counsaill of God againste them selfes/ and were not baptysed of hym. †But the Lorde sayde: Whereunto shall I lyken the men of this generacyon? And whome are they like? They are lyke vnto chyldren whiche sytte in the markette: and crye one to another/ and saye: We haue pyped vnto you/ and ye haue not daunced/ we haue mourned vnto you/ and ye haue not wepte. For Jhon the Baptyste came/ and †dyd eate no breade/and dranke no wyne/and ye saye: he hath the deuell. The sonne of man is come/ eateth and drynketh/and ye saye: This man is a glutton and a wyne bybber/ a frende of publicans and synners. And wysedome is iustifyed of her children.

†And one of the Pharises desyred him/ that he wolde eate with him. And he wente into the house/and sat him doun at the table. †And beholde/ there was in the cytie a woman whiche was a synner. When she knewe that Jesus sat at the table in the Pharises house/ she broughte a boxe with oyntemente/ and stode behynde at his fete/and wepte/and beganne to water his fete with teares/ and to drye them with the heeres of her heade/ and kyssed his fete/and anoynted them with oyntement.

E †But whan the Pharise whiche had called him/sawe that/he spake within him selfe/ and saide: If this man were a prophete/ he wolde knowe who/& what maner of woman this is that toucheth him/ for she is a synner. And Jesus aunswered/& saide vnto him: Simon. I haue somwhat to saye vnto the. He saide: Master saie on. A certayne lender had two detters/the one ought fyue hundreth pences/ the other fifftye: but when they had nothinge to paye/he forgaue them both. Tell me/which of them wyll loue him mooste? Simon aunswered/& saide: Se/(I suppose) to whome he forgaue mooste. Then said he vnto him: Thou hast iudged right.

And he turned hym to the woman and sayde vnto Symon: Seyst thou this woman? I am come into thyne house/ thou hast geuen me no water vnto my fete/but she hath watred my fete with teares/ and dryed them with the heeres of her heade: Thou hast geuen me no kysse/but she (sence the tyme she came in) hath not ceassed to kysse me fete. Thou hast not anoynted my heade with oyle/ but she hath anoynted me heade with oyntement. Therefore I saye vnto the: Many synnes are forgeuē her/for she hath loued muche. But vnto whome lesse is forgeuen/ thesame loueth the lesse.

And he sayde vnto her: Thy synnes are forgeuen the. Then they that sat at the table with hym/beganne to saye within them selfes: What is he/this that forgeueth synnes also? But he sayde vnto the woman: Thy fayth hath saued the. Go thy waye in peace. ✠

The VIII. Chapter.

A And it fortuned afterwarde that he wente thorowe the cities and tounes/ and preached/and shewed the Gospell of the kingdom of God/and the twelfe with him. †And certaine woman also whome he healed from euel spretes and infirmities: Namely Mary/ †which is called Magdalene/out of whome wente seuen deuels/ and Joanna the wyfe of Chusa Herodes stewarde and Susanna/and many other that ministred vnto them of their substaunce.

✠†Now whan much people was gathered together/ and hayfted vnto him oute of the cities/ he spake by a symilitude. There went oute a sower to sowe his sede/ & whyle he was sowynge/ some fell by the waye side/ and was troden vnder fote/ and the foules of the ayre dyd eate it vp. And some fell on the stone/and whan it was spronge vp/it withered awaye/ because it had no moystenes. And some fell amonge thornes/ and the thornes sprange vp with it/ and choked it. And some fell vpon a good grounde/ and sprang/ and bare frute an hundreth folde. Whan he said this/he cried: Who so hath eares to hear/ let him heare.

But they on the stone are suche as whan they heare it/ receaue the worde with ioye: and these haue no rote: they belefe for a whyle/ and in the tyme of temptacion they fall awaye. As for it that fell amonge the thornes/ are suche as heare it/ and go forth amonge the cares ryches/ and Neuertheless/ whan he sawe Jesus/ he cried and fell doune before hym / and cried loude and sayd: What haue I to do with the Jesus/ the sonne of the hyest God? I beseche the/ that thou wylt not tormente me. For he commaunded the foule spirite/that he shoulde departe out of the man/ for he had plagued him a long season. And he was bound with chaines/and kepte with fetters / and he brake the bandes in sonder/and was carryed of the deuell into the wildernesse.

And Jesus axed hym and sayde: What is thy name? He saide: Legion. For there were many deuels entred into him. And he wente hys waye/and preached thoroweout all the cytye/ howe greate thinges Jesus had done for hym.

†And it fortuned whan Jesus came agayne / the people receaued hym / for they wayted for hym. And beholde / there came a man named Jairus/ (and he was a ruler of the Synagoge) and fel at Jesus fete and

and besoughte hym/ that he wolde come into his house. For he had but one doughter (vpon a welfe yeare of age) and she laye at the poynte of deathe. And as he wente/ the people thronged hym. ✠ And a woman hauinge the bloudye yssue twelfe yeares (which had spente all her substaunce vppon Phisicyans/ and coulde be healed of none) came behynde/ and touched the hemme of his garmente / and immediatly her yssue of bloude was staunched.

F And Jesus sayde: Who hath touched me? But whan they all denyed / Peter sayde: and they that were with hym: Master/the people thronge the / and thruste the/ and thou sayest: Who hath touched me? Jesus sayde: Some bodye hath touched me/ for I fele that there is vertue gone oute fro me. But whan the woman sawe that she was not hydde / she came tremblynge / and fell doune before hym/ and tolde hym before all the people / for what cause she had touched hym/ and howe she was healed immediatly. And he saide vnto her: Doughter/Be of good comforte/thy faith hath made the whole / go thy waye in peace.

† Whyle he yet spake / there came one from the ruler of the Synagoges house/and sayde vnto hym: Thy doughter is deade/ disease not the master. Whan Jesus herde that/ he aunswered hym / and sayde: Feare not / belefe onely / and she shall be made whole. But whan he came into the house/ he suffred no man to go in saue Peter / and James/ and Jhon / and the father and mother of the mayden. They wepte all / and sorowed for her. But he sayde: Wepe not/ for she is not dead / But † slepeth. And they laughed hym to scorne / knowynge wel that she was dead. But he thrust them all oute/ and toke her by the hande / and cryed/ and sayde: Mayden aryse. And her spirite came agayne / and she arose strayghte waye. And he commaunded to geue her meate. And her elders were astonnyed. But he charged them that they should tell no man what was done.

But Peter saide vnto him: Lorde / tellest E thou this similitude vnto vs/or to al men also? The XIII. Chapter.

Actu.v.e A THere were present at thesame season certaine / that shewed him of the † Galileans / whose blonde Pilate had mengled with their owne sacrifice. And Jesus aunswered/ and sayde vnto them: Suppose ye/that these Galileans were greater synners then all other Galileans/because they suffred suche puny shement? I tell you naye/but except ye amende youre selfes / ye shall all perysshe likewyse. Or thinke ye that the eyghtene (vpon whome the tower in Syloe fell and slewe thē) were gyltie aboue all men that dwel at Jerusalem? I tell you nay: but except ye amend your selfes/ye shall all perysh likewyse.

Mat.xxj.b ¶ And he tolde them this similitude: † A certaine mā had a figge tree/which was planted in his vyneyarde/and he came and sought frute theron/and founde none. Thē said he vnto the wynegardener: Behold. This thre yeare longe haue I come euery yeare/ and sought frute vpon this figge tree/and fynde none: cut it doune/why hindreth it the ground? But he aunswered/and saide: Syr/let it alone yet this yeare/till I dygge roundeabout it/& dounge it/if it will bringe forth frute: If no/then cut it doune afterwarde.

And he taught in a Synagoge vpon the Sabbath: and beholde / there was a woman which had a spirite of infirmite eyghtene yeares/and was crocked/ and coulde not wel loke vp. Whan Jesus sawe her / he called her to hym/ and saide vnto her. Woman be delyuered from thy disease: and he layed his handes vpō her/ & immediatly she was made straight and prayssed God.

Then aūswered the ruler of the Synagoge/ and toke indignacion (because Jesus healed vpon the Sabbath) and said vnto the people: There are syxe dayes / wherein men ought to worke / in them come / and be healed/ and not on the Sabbath.

Then the Lorde aunswered him/ and said: Thou ypocrite † doth not euery one of you louse his oxe or asse from the crybbe vpon the Sabbath/ & leade him to the water? But shoulde not this (which is Abrahās doughter) whom Sathan hath bound now eyghtene yeares/ be lousēd frō this bande vpō the Sabbath? And whan he thus said: all his aduersaries were ashamed. And all the people reioyced ouer all the excellent dedes that were done by him.

† And he saide: what is the kingdome of God like? Or whereunto shall I cōpare it? It is like a grayn of mustard sede / which a man toke/and cast in his garden: and it grewe/ and waxed a greate tree / and the foules of the ayre dwelt amonge the braunches of it.

† And agayne he saide: whereunto shall I liken the kingdome of God? It is like vnto leuen/ † which a woman toke / and myxte it amonge three peckes of meele / tyll it was all leuended.

† And he wente thorow cities and tounes/ and taught and toke his iourney towarde Jerusalem.

And one saide vnto hym: Lorde/are there few (thinkest thou) that shalbe saued? But he saide vnto them: † Stryue ye to entre in at the strayte gate / for many (I say vnto you) shall seke to come in / and shall not be able. From that tyme forth / whan the good man of the house is rysen vp / and hath shut the dore / then shall ye beginne to stand without/ and to knocke at the dore / and saye: † Lorde Lord/ open vnto vs. And he shall aunswere/ and say vnto you: I knowe you not whence ye are.

Then shall ye begynne to saye: we haue eaten and dronken before the / and thou hast taught vs vpon the stretes. And he shall say: I tell you / I knowe you not whence ye are. † Departe fro me all ye workers of iniquite. *There shalbe wepinge & gnashynge of teeth/ when ye shall se Abraham / and Isaac / and Jacob / and all the prophetes in the kingdome of

of God/ and youre selfes thruste out. † And whan they shall come from the Easte and frō the Weste / from the North & from the South/ which shall syt at the table in the kingdome of God. † And behold/there are last/which shalbe fyrst.

Vpon thesame daye there came certaine of the Pharisees / and saide vnto him: Get the out of the waye/and departe hēce / for Herode will kill the. And he saide vnto them: Go ye and tell the foxe: beholde / I cast out deuels/ and heale the people to daye and to morowe/ & vpon the thyrde daye shall I make an ende: for it can not be / that a prophet perysh without Jerusalem.

† O Jerusalem Jerusalem / thou that kyllest the prophetes / and stonest them that are sent vnto the/how oft wolde I haue gathered thy children together/ euē as the henne gathereth her nest vnder her wynges/and ye wolde not? Beholde/youre habitacion shalbe left vnto you desolate. For I saye vnto you: ye shall not se me tyll the tyme come that ye shall saye: † Blessed be he that commeth in the name of the Lorde.

The XIIII. Chapter.

A ANd it fortuned that he came in the house of one of the chiefe Pharisees vpon a Sabbath/to eat bread/and they watched hym. And beholde/ there was a man before hym: which had the dropsye. And Jesus aunswered and spake vnto the Scrybes and Pharisees / and sayd: † Is it lawfull to heale on the Sabbath? But they helde they: tunge. And he toke him/ and healed him / and let hym go / and aunswered / and sayde vnto them: Which of you shall haue an oxe or an asse fallen into a pytte/ and will not straycht waye pull hym out † on the Sabbath daye? And they coulde not aunswere hym againe to that.

And he tolde a similitude vnto the gestes/ whan he marked howe they chose the hyghest seates / and saide vnto them: Whan thou art bydden of any man to a weddynge / syt not doune in the hyghest roume/lest/a more honorable man then thou be bydden of him / and he that bad bothe the and him/come and saye vnto the: geue this man roume/and thou then beginne with shame to take the lowest roume. But rather whan thou arte bydden / go and syt in the lowest roume/that whan he that bad the/commeth/he maye saye vnto the: † Frende/ syt vp here. Then shalt thou haue worshipp in the presence of thē that sytte at the table. † For whosoeuer exalteth hym selfe / shalbe brought lowe: and he that humbleth hym selfe / shalbe exalted. Prou.xxv.a For matt.xxiij.b Luc.xviij.b

Be sayde also vnto hym that had bydden hym: Whan thou makest a dinner or a supper/ cal not thy frendes / nor thy brethren/ nor thy kynsfolkes/nor thy ryche neyghbours/lest/ thei call the agayne / and recompence be made the. † But whā thou makest a feaste/call the poore/ the crepell / the lame/ then art thou blessed / for they can not recompence the. But it shalbe recompenced the in the resurrecciō of the righteous. Tob.iiij.c

Whan one of them that sat by at the table herde this / he sayde vnto hym: Blessed is he / that eateth breade in the kingdome of God. But he saide vnto hym: † A certaine man made a greate supper / and called many therto. And in the houre of the supper he sent hys seruaunt to saye vnto them that were bidden: Come / for now are all thynges ready. And they beganne altogether to excuse thē selfes one after another: The fyrst sayde vnto him: I haue bought a ferme / and I must nedes go forth and se it / I pray the haue me excused. And the seconde sayde: I haue boughte fyue yocke of oxen / and nowe I go to proue them / I praye the haue me excused. And the thyrd sayde: I haue marryed a wyfe / therfore can I not come. And the seruaunt came/ and brought hys Lorde worde agayne thereof. Mat.xxij.a Apoc.xix.b

Then was the good man of the house displeased / and sayde vnto hys seruaunt: Go out quickly into the stretes and quarters of the cytie/and bringe in hyther the poore/ and crepell/and lame/and blynde. And the seruaunt saide: lorde/it is done as thou hast commaunded/ and there is yet more roume. And the Lorde saide vnto the seruaunt: Go out into the hyghe wayes / and to the hedges / † and compell them to come in / that my house maye be fylled. But I saye vnto you: that none of these men whiche were bydden / shall tayst of my supper. Gen.xix.a

Which of you is it that wyl buylde a tower / and sytteth not doune fyrst and counteth the cost / & whether he haue sufficiēt to perfourme it: lest / after he hath layed the foundacion / and is not able to perfourme it / all they that se it / begynne to laugh hym to scorne / and to saye: This man beganne to buylde / and is not able to perfourme it. Or what kynge wyll go to battayll with another kinge / and sytteth not doune fyrst and casteth in his mynde / whether he be able with ten thousande to mete him / that commeth against him with twenty thousande? Or els whyle the other is yet a greate waye of / he sendeth embassage / and desyreth peace. So lykewyse euery one of you that forsaketh not all that he hath / can not be my disciple.

✣ And he sayde: A certayne man had two sonnes / and the yonger of them sayde vnto the father. Father geue me the portion of the goodes that belongeth vnto me. And he deuyded the good vnto them. And not longe therafter / gathered the yonger sonne altogether / & toke hys iourney into a farre countrie / & there waisted he his goodes wt ryotous lyuynge. Now when he had spent all that he had / there was a greate derth thoro wout all thesame lāde. C Then came he to hym selfe / and saide: How many hyred seruaūtes hath my father / whiche haue breade ynough / and I perysh of hunger? I wyll get vp / and go to my father / and saye vnto hym: Father / I haue synned against heauen and before the / and am nomore worthy to be called thy sonne / make me as one of thy hyred seruauntes. And he gat hym vp / and came vnto his father. †But whā he was yet a greate waye of / his father sawe him / and had compassion / and ranne and fel about his neecke / and kyssed him. Then saide the sonne vnto him: Father I haue synned against heauen and before the / I am nomore worthy to be called thy sonne. But the father saide vnto his seruauntes: bringe forth the beste garment / and put it vpon him / and geue him a rynge vpon his handc / and shues an his fete / and bringe hyther a fed calfe / and kill it / let vs eate and be mery: for this my sonne was dead / and is aliue agayne: he was lost / and is founde. And they began to be mery.

D But the elder sonne was in the felde. And whan he came / and drewe nie to the house / he herde the mynstrelsy / and dauncynge / and called one of the seruauntes vnto him / and axed what it was. He sayde vnto him: Thy brother is come / and thy father hath slayne a fed calfe / because he hath receaued hym safe and sounde. Then was he angrye / and wolde not go in. Then wente his father oute / and prayed him. But he aunswered and saide vnto his father: Lo / thus many yeares haue I done the seruice / neyther haue I yet broken thy commaundemente / and thou gaueſt me neuer one kydde / that I myght make mery with my frendes. But nowe that this thy sonne is come / whiche hath deuoured his goodes with harlottes / thou haste slaine a fed calfe. But he sayde vnto him: My sonne / thou arte alwaye with me / and all that is myne / is thyne: thou shouldest be mery and be glad: for this thy brother was dead / and is alyue againe / he was lost / and is founde againe. ✣

The XVI. Chapter.

A HE sayde also vnto his disciples: There was a certaine ryche man / whiche had a steward that was accused vnto him / that he had waisted his goodes. And he called him / and saide vnto him: Howe is it / that I heare this of the? geue accomptes of thy stewardshyppe / for thou maiest be no longer steward. The steward saide within him selfe: What shall I do? My Lorde wyll take away the stewardeshyppe fro me. I can not dygge / and to begge / I am ashamed: I wote what I wyll do / that whan I am put oute of the steward shippe / they maie receaue me into their houses.

And he called vnto him all his lordes detters / and sayde vnto the fyrste: Howe muche owest thou vnto my lorde? He saide: an hundreth tonnes of oyle. And he sayde: Take thy byll / syt doune quyckly / and write fyftye. Then saide he vnto another: Howe muche owest thou? He saide / an hundreth quarters of wheat. And he saide vnto hym: Take thy byll / and write foure score. And the Lorde commended the vnrighteous steward / because he had done wysely. For the children of this worlde are in their kynde wyser / then the children of lighte. And I saye vnto you: Make you frēdes wt the vnrighteous Mammon / that whan ye shal haue nede / they maie receaue you into euerlastinge tabernacles.

B He that is faithfull in the least / is faithfull also in muche: and he that is vnrighteous in the least / is vnrighteous also in muche. If ye thē haue not ben faithful in the vnrighteous Mammon / who wil beleue you in that which is true? And if ye haue not bene faithfull in another mans busynesse / who will geue you that which is your owne.

And the Apostles saide vnto the Lorde: Increase oure fayth. The Lorde sayde: † If ye haue faith as a grayne of mustarde sede/ and say vnto this Molbery tree: Plucke thy selfe vp by the rotes/ and plante thy selfe in the see/ it shalbe obedient vnto you. The Gospel of sayncte Jhon.

The fyrst Chapter. ✠

IN the begynninge was ỹ Worde / & the worde was with God / & God was the worde. Thesame was in the beginninge with God. † All thinges were Gen. made by thesame / & with- Psa. out thesame was made nothinge that was made. Luc.ij.g vnto her: † Woman what haue I to do with the? Myne houre is not yet come. His mother sayde vnto the mynisters: Whatsoeuer he sayeth vnto you/do it. There were set there sixe water pottes of stone/ after the maner of the purifieng of the Jewes/ euery one cōteyninge two or three measures.

Jesus sayde vnto them: Fyll the water pottes wyth water/ And they fylled them vp to the brymme/ and he sayde vnto them: Drawe out nowe/ and bringe vnto the master of the feast/ and they dyd bare it. Whan the master of the feaste had taysted the wyne/ whiche had ben water/ and knewe not whence it came (but the minsters that drew the water/knewe it) Then the master of the feast called the bridegrome/and saide vnto hym: Euery man at the fyrst geueth the good wyne/and whā they are dronken/ then that whiche is worse. But thou hast kept backe ỹ good wyne vntyll now.

B Thys is the first token ỹ Jesus dyd at Cana in Galile/and shewed his glory/and his disciples beleued on hym. ✠

Mat.iiij.b Mar.j.b Luc.iiij.d † Afterwarde wente he doune to Capernaum/he/his mother/his brethren/and his disciples/and taried not longe there.

✠† And the Jewes Easter was at hande/ Mat And Jesus wente vp to Jerusalem/ & founde Mar syttinge in the temple/ those that solde oxen/ Luc shepe/ and doues/ and chaungers of money. And he made a scourge of small cordes/ and droue them al out of the temple with the shepe and oxen/and poured out the chaungers money/and ouerthrewe the tables/ and sayde vnto them that solde the doues: Haue these thinges hence/ and make not my fathers house an house of marchaundise. His disciples remembred it that is wrytten. † The zele of thyne Psal house hath euen eaten me.

Then aunswered the Jewes/and sayde vnC to hym: † What token shewest thou vnto vs/ Mat that thou mayest do these thynges? Whan he was at Jerusalem at Easter in the feaste/ many beleued on his name/ whan they sawe the tokens that he dyd. But Jesus cōmitted not him self vnto them/for he knewe them all/ and neded not that any man shoulde testifie of man. † For he knewe well what was Jere in man. ✠ Apoc

A THere was a man of the Pharisees/ named † Nicodemus/ a ruler amonge the Joan Jewes. This he spake/ and afterwarde saide he vn- B

Then saide Jesus vnto them playnly: Lazarus is dead/ and I am glad for youre sakes that I was not there/ that ye may belefe. Neuertheles/let vs go vnto hym. Then saide Thomas † (which is called Didimus) Joan. xx. e

Joan. iij. b dead already: and whosoeuer lyueth and beleueth on me/ shal neuer dye. Beleuest thou this? She saide vnto hym: Yea Lorde/ I belefe that thou art Christ the sonne of God/ whiche shoulde come into the worlde. ✠ And whan she had sayde this/ she wente her waye/ and called Mary her syster secretly/ and sayde: The Master is come/ and calleth for the. She/ whan she herde that/ rose vp quickly/ and came vnto hym: For Jesus was not yet come into ỹ toune/ but was yet in the place where Martha met hym. The Jewes that were with her in the house/ and comforted her: whan they sawe Mary/ that she rose vp hastely/ & went out/ they folowed her/ and sayde: She goeth to the graue to wepe there.

D Now whā Mary came where Jesus was/ and sawe hym/ she fell downe at his fete/ and Joan. xj. c sayde vnto hym: † Lorde/ if thou haddest ben here/ my brother had not ben dead. Whan Jesus sawe her wepe/ and ỹ Jewes wepinge also that came with her/ he groned in ỹ spirite/ and was sory within hym self/ & saide: Where haue ye layed him? They saide: Lorde/ come Luce ix. d and se it: And † Jesus wepte. Then sayde the Jewes: Beholde/ how he loued hym. But Joan. ix. a some of them sayde: Coulde not he/ † whiche opened the eyes of the blinde/ haue made also/ that this man shoulde not haue dyed? But Jesus groned agayne in him self/ and came to the graue. It was a caue and a stone layed on it. Jesus saide: Take away the stone. Martha the syster of hym that was dead/ sayde vnto hym: Lorde/ he stynketh already/ for he hath ben dead foure dayes. Jesus sayde vnto her: Sayd I not vnto the: that if thou yddest belefe/ thou shouldest se the glory of God.

E Then toke they awaye the stone/ where the dead layd. Jesus lyft vp his eyes/ and sayde: Father/ I thanke the/ that thou hast herde me. Howbeit/ I knowe that thou heurest me alwaye: but † because of the people that stande by/ I sayde it/ that they maye belefe/ that thou hast sent me.

Whan he had sayde thys/ he cryed loude: Lazarus come forth. † And the dead came forth bounde hande and fote with graue clothes/ and his face bounde with a napkyn. Jesus sayde vnto them: Louse hym/ and let hym go. Many now of the Jewes whiche were come vnto Mary/ and sawe what Jesus dyd/ beleued on him. But some of them wente their waye vnto the Pharisees/ and tolde thē what Jesus had done. ✠

✠ † Then the hye priestes and the Pharisees gathered a counsayll/ and sayde: * What do we? This man doeth many tokens. If we let hym go thus/ all men wyll belefe in hym: † Thē shall the Romaynes come/ and take away our lande and people. But one of them/ named Cayphas/ whiche was hye prieste the same yeare/ sayde vnto them: Ye knowe nothinge/ neyther consydre any thinge at all. † It is better for vs ỹ one mā dye for the people/ then that all the people shoulde perishe.

Thys spake he not of hym selfe/ but for ỹ so muche as he was hyghe priest of the same yeare/ he prophecied. For Jesus was for to dye for the people: and not for the people only/ but that he should gather together the chyldre of God/ whiche were scatered abroade: From that day forth/ they toke counsayll/ how they myght put hym to death. Jesus walked no more openly amonge the Jewes/ but wente from thence into a countrie by the wyldernesse/ to a cytie called Ephraim/ and there had he hys beynge with hys disciples.

The Jewes Easter was nye at hande. And there wēte vp many to Jerusalem out of that countrie before the Easter/ to purifye them selfes. Then stode they vp/ and axed after Jesus/ and spake amonge them selfes in the temple. † What thynke ye/ that he cōmeth not to the feast? * The hyghe priestes and Pharisees had geuen a commaundement/ that if any man knewe where he were/ he shoulde shewe it/ that they myght take hym.

And after supper † whan the deuel had already put into the herte of Judas Iscarioth Simons sonne / to betraye him. Jesus knowynge that the father * had geuen all thinges into hys handes / and that he was come from God / and wente vnto God / he rose from supper / and layed asyde his vpper garmētes / and toke a towell / and gyrde it aboute hym. Afterwarde poured he water into a basen / and beganne to washe the disciples fete / and dryed them with the towell / that he was gyrded withall.

Then came he vnto Symon Peter / and thesame sayde vnto hym: Lorde / shalt thou washe my fete? Jesus aunswered / and sayde vnto hym: What I do / thou knowest not now / but thou shalt knowe it hereafter. Then sayde Peter vnto hym: Thou shalt neuer wash my fete. Jesus aunswered him: If I † washe Pe the not / thou shalt haue no parte with me. Simon Peter sayde vnto hym: Lorde / not the fete onely / but the handes also and the heade.

J am the vyne / ye are the braunches. He that abydeth in me / and J in him / the same bringeth forth muche frute: for without me can ye do nothinge. He that abydeth not in me/ is cast out as a vyne braunche/ and it wytheredth / and men gather it vp / and cast it into the fyre / and it burneth. † Jf ye abyde in me / and my wordes abyde in you / ye shall are what ye wyll / and it shalbe done vnto you. ✠ Herein is my father praysed / that ye bringe forth muche frute / and become my disciples. Lyke as my father hath loued me/ euen so haue J loued you. Continue ye in my loue. † Jf ye kepe my cōmaundemētes/ ye shall continue in my loue: like as J haue kepte my fathers commaundementes / and continue in hys loue.

As for Symon Peter/he and another disciple folowed Jesus. The same disciple was knowen vnto the hyghe Priest/and wente in with Jesus into ỹ priestes palaice. But Peter stode wythout at the dore. Then the other disciple which was knowen vnto the priest/wente out/and spake to the damsell that kepte the dore/and broughte in Peter. Then the damsell that kepte the dore/sayde vnto Peter: Art not thou also one of thys mans disciples? He sayde: I am not.

C The seruauntes and officers stode/and had made a fyre of coles (for it was colde) and warmed thē selfes. Peter also stode with thē/& warmed hym selfe. The hyghe Priest axed Jesus of hys disciples/& of hys doctryne. Je the Jewes: Beholde youre kynge. But they cryed: Awaye with him/ awaye with him/Crucifye him. Pilate saide vnto them: Shall I crucifye youre kynge? The hyghe priestes aunswered: We haue no kynge but the Em-

be crucifyed.

†They toke Jesus and led him awaye/ and Luce.xxiij.

superscripcion redde many of the Jewes.
For the place where Jesus was crucifyed/was nye vnto the cytie. And it was wrytten in Hebrue/ Greke/ and Latyne. Then sayde the hyghe priestes of the Jewes vnto Pylate: Wryte not kynge of the Jewes/ but that he sayde: I am kynge of the Jewes/ Py late aunswered: What I haue written/ that haue I written.

† The souldyers whan they had crucy- C haue they cast lottes. This dyd the souldyers in dede.

There stode by the crosse of Jesus/ his mother/ and his mothers syster Mary/ the wyfe of Cleophas/ and Mary Magdalene.
Now whan Jesus sawe his mother/ and the disciple standing by/ whome he loued/ he said vnto

vnto his mother: Woman behold/ that is thy sonne. Then saide he to the disciple: Beholde/this is thy mother. And from that houre the disciple toke her vnto him.

After that whan Jesus knewe that al was vp the ghoost.

9 The Jewes then/ for so muche as it was
.xxij.d the daye of preparinge/ † that the bodyes
shoulde not remayne vppon the crosse vpon the Sabbath/ (for the same Sabbath daye was greate) besought Pilate/ that theyr legges might be broken/ and that they might be taken doune. Then came the souldyers/ & brake the leggesof the fyrst/ and of the other that was crucifyed with hym. But whan they came to Jesus/ and sawe that he was dead alreadye/ they brake not his legges/ but
.xix.a one of the souldyers opened his syde with a spearc. † And immediatly there wente oute take doune the bodye of Jesus. And Pilate .iij.a gaue hym licence. There came also † Nicodemus/ (whiche afore came vnto Jesus by nyghte) and brought of Myrre and Aloes mingled together/ about an hundreth pound weyght.

Then toke they the bodye of Jesus/ and wonde it with lynnen cloth/ and with the pe-ces/ as the maner of the Jewes is to bury.
And by the place where Jesus was crucified
there was a garden/ & in the garde a new sepulchre/ where in was neuer man layed: there layed they Jesus/ because of the preparinge daie of the Jewes/ for ꝑ sepulchre was nye at hande. ✠

The XX. Chapter. ✠

Upon one daye of the Sabbath came Ma A

And after eyght dayes agayne were his disciples within/ and Thomas with them.
Then came Jesus / (whan the dores were shut) and stode in the myddes / and sayde:

sayinge: that he was a man which coulde do greate thinges. And they all regarded hym from the least vnto the greatest/and sayde:
This is the power of God whiche is greate.
But they regarded hym/because that of longe B tyme he had bewitched them with his sor-

The IX. Chapter. ✠

SAul was yet breathinge out threatnin-

it fortuned that he came nye vnto Damascō/and sodenly there shyned rounde aboute hym a lyght from heauen/and he fell to the earth/and herde a voyce whiche saide vnto hym: Saul Saul/† why persecutest thou me? He sayde: Lorde/who art thou? The Lorde sayde: I am Jesus whome thou persecutest.
It shalbe harde for the to kycke agaynst the

sawe

sawe no man. Neuertheless/they toke hym by the hande/and brought him to Damascon:
and he was thre dayes without syght/and B neyther dyd eate nor drinke. At Damascon there was a disciple named Ananias/and vnto hym saide the Lorde in a vision: Ananias.
And he sayde: Beholde/here am I Lorde.
The Lorde sayde vnto hym: Aryse/and go into the strete whiche is called straight/and axe at ỹ house of Juda/after one called Saul of † Tharsis: for beholde/he prayeth/& hath sene in a visyon a man named Ananias comminge vnto hym/and layinge the hande vp-on him/that he myght receaue hys syght.

Ananias aunswered: Lorde/I haue herde by many of this man/† how muche euel he hath done to thy saynctes at Jerusalem. And here hath he auctorite of the hyghe priestes/to bynde all those that call vpon thy name. The Lorde sayde vnto hym: Go thy waye/† for this man is a chosen vessell vnto me/that he maye beare my name before the Heythen/and before kinges/and before the chyldren of Israel. I will shewe hym/how greate thinges he must † suffre for my names sake.

C † And Ananias wente his waye/and came into the house/and laied the handes vpon him and sayde: Brother Saul/the Lorde whiche appeared vnto the in the way as thou camest/hath sent me/that thou myghtest receaue thy immediatly/there fell from hys eyes as it had bene scales/and he receaued his syght/and rose/and was baptysed/and toke meate/and was comforted.

Then was Saul a certaine dayes with the disciples that were at Damascō. And straight waye he preached Christ in the Synagoges/how that he was the sonne of God. But all they that herde him/were amased and saide:
Is not this he/which at Jerusalem spoyled all those that called on his name? and came hy-ther to the intent that he shoulde bringe them bounde vnto the hyghe priestes? But Saul increaced in strength/and confounded ỹ Je-wes which dwelt at Damascon/and affirmed that this was very Christ. ✠

D And after many dayes the Jewes helde a coūsayll togethcr to kyll him. But it was tolde Saul/that they layed wayte for him. † And they wayted at the gates daye and nyghte/that they myghte kyll hym. † Thē the disciples toke him by nyght/and put him thorow the

† But whan Saul came to Jerusalem/he assayed to ioyne hymselfe to the disciples. And they were all afrayed of hym/and beleued not that he was a disciple. Neuertheless/Barnabas toke hym/and brought hym to the Apostles/and tolde them how he had sene ỹ Lorde in the waye/and how he spake to him/and how he had done boldly at Damascon in the name of Jesu. And he was with them/and went out and in at Jerusalem/and quyte him selfe boldly in the name of the Lorde Jesu.
He spake also/and disputed with the Grekes.
But they wente aboute to slaye him. † Whan the brethren knewe that/they brought him to Cesarea/and sent him forth to Tharsis. So the congregacions had reste thorowout all Jewry/and Galile/and Samaria/and were edified/and walked in the feare of the Lorde/and were fylled with the comforte of the holy ghoost.

It chaunced that as Peter walked thorow E all quarters/he came also vnto the saincte whiche dwelt at Lydda. There founde he a man named Eneas/which had lyen vpon his bedde eyght yeares syeke of the palsye. And Peter sayde vnto him: Eneas/Jesus Christ make the whole/aryse/and make thy bedde for thy selfe. † And he arose immediatly.
And all they that dwelt at Lydda and at Sarona/sawe hym/and turned vnto the Lorde.

At Joppa there was a certaine woman that was a disciple/named Tabitha/whiche by interpretacion is called Dorcas: thesame was full of good workes and almisse dedes/whiche she dyd. But it chaunced at thesame tyme that she was syeke/and dyed. Then was-shed they her/and layed her in a chaumber.
But for so much as Lydda was nye vnto Joppa/and the disciples herde that Peter was there/they sent two men vnto him/and desyred him/that he wolde take it for no grefe to come vnto them.

Peter rose/and came with them. And whan F he was come/they brought hym into the chaumber/and all the wedowes stode rounde aboute him/wepinge/and shewed him the cotes & garmentes/whiche Dorcas made whyle she was with them. And whan Peter had put thē al forth/he kneled doun/& made his prayer/ and turned him vnto the body/and sayde: Tabytha/ryse vp. And she opened her eyes: and whā she sawe Peter/ she sat her doune againe. But he gaue her the hande/ and lifte her vp/ and called the sainctes and the wedowes/and shewed her there alyue. And it was knowen thoroweout all Joppa/and many beleued on the Lorde. And it fortuned/that he taryed a longe season at Joppa by one Symon/ which was a tanner.

The X. Chapter.

A THere was a man at Cesarea/named Cornelius (a captaine of the company/which is called the Italianishe) a deuoute man/ and one that feared God with all hys house/and gaue muche †almisse to the people/and prayed God alway. Thesame sawe in a vision openly (about the nyenth houre of the daye) an aungel of God entringe into him/ and sayinge vnto hym: Cornelius. He loked vpon hym/ and was afrayed and sayde: Lorde/what is it? He sayde vnto hym: † Thy prayers and thyne almisses are come vp into remēbraunce before God/and now sende men vnto Joppa/ and call for Symon/whose Syrname is Peter/which is at lodginge with one Symon a tanner/ whose house lyeth by the see syde: he shall tell the what thou oughtest to do. And whan the aungel which spake to Cornelius/ was departed/ he called two of hys housholde seruauntes/ and a deuoute souldyer of them/ that wayted vpō hym: and tolde them all/ and sent them to Joppa.

The XIX. Chapter. ✠

BVt it fortuned whan Apollo was at Corinthum / that Paul walked thorowe the vpper coaſtes / and came to Epheſus / & founde certaine diſciples vnto whome he ſayd: Haue ye receaued the holy ghooſt / ſence ye beleued? They ſayde vnto hym: We haue not herde whether there be an holy ghooſt. He ſaid vnto thē: Wherewith then were ye baptyſed? They ſayde: With the baptyme of Jhon. Paull ſayde: † Jhon baptyſed with the baptyme of repentaunce / and ſpake vnto the people that they ſhoulde beleue on hym / whiche ſhoulde come after him / that is / on Jeſus / that ſame is Chriſt. When they herde that / they were baptiſed in the name of the Lord Jeſu. And whan Paule layed the handes on them / † the holy ghooſt came vpon them / and they ſpake with tunges / and prophecied. And all the men were aboute twelfe.

He wente into the Synagoge / and preached boldly thre monethes longe / teachinge and geuinge them exhortacions of the kingdome of God. F But whan dyuers waxed harde herted / and beleued not / and ſpake euel of the waye of the Lorde before the multitude / he departed from them / and ſeparated the diſciples / and diſputed dayly in the ſchole of one called Tyrannus. And thys was done two yeares longe / ſo that all they which dwelt in Aſia / in Aſia / herde the worde of the Lorde Jeſu / both Jewes & Grekes. † And God wrought no ſmall miracles by the handes of Paule / ſo that from hys body there were brought napkins / or partelettes vnto the ſycke / and the diſeaſes departed from thē / and the euel ſpretes wente out of them.

j. c

B But certayne of the vagabounde Jewes / whiche were cōurers / vndertoke to name the name of the Lorde Jeſus / ouer thoſe that had euel ſpretes / and ſayde: We charge you by Jeſus whome Paule preacheth. They were ſeuen ſonnes of one Sceua a Jewe the hygh prieſt whiche dyd ſo. The euell ſprete anſwered / and ſayde: Jeſus I knowe / and Paule I knewe / but who are ye? And the mā in whome the euell ſprete was / ranne vpon them / and ouercame them / and caſt them vnder him / ſo that they fled out of theſame houſe naked and wounded. Thys was knowen vnto al the Jewes and Grekes / whiche dwelt at Epheſus / and there fell a feare vpon them all. And the name of the Lorde Jeſus was magnifyed.

† Many of them alſo that beleued / came and confeſſed / and ſhewed their workes. But many of them that had vſed curious crafte / brought the bokes together / and burnt them openly: and they counted the pryce of them / and founde it of money fyfty thouſande pens. When they herde thys / they were full of wrath / cryed out / and ſayde: Greate is Diana of the Epheſyans. And all the cytie was on a rore / and they ruſhed in with one aſſent into the open place / and toke † Gaius and Ariſtarchus of Macedonia / Pauls companiōs. Whan Paule wolde haue gone in among the people / the diſciples ſuffred hym not. Whan the toune clercke had ſtilled the people / he ſayde: Ye men of Epheſus / what man is it which knoweth not / that the cytie of the Epheſians is a worſhipper of the greate goddeſſe Diana / & of the heauēly image? But whan the Jewes layed wayte for hym/ as he was aboute to saile into Syria/ he purposed to turne agayne thorowe Macedonia. There accompanyed hym into Asia/ Sopater of Berrea: and of Thessalonica/ Aristarchus/ and Secundus: and Gayus of Serbe/ and Timotheus: but of Asia/ Tychicus and † Trophimus. These wēte

But we wente afore into the shyppe/ and sayled towarde Asson/ wyllynge there to receaue Paule. For so had he appoynted/ and wolde him selfe go on foote. Whan he was come to vs vnto Assō/ we toke him in/ & came to Mytilenes/ and sayled frō thence/ and came on the nexte daye ouer agaynst Chios/ and on the daye folowynge we arryued at Samos/ and taryed at Tragilion/ and on ỹ nexte daye came we to Mileton: for Paul had determined to sayle ouer by Ephesus/ that he neded not to spende the tyme in Asia: † for he haysted

Therfore awake/ and remembre/ that by the space of thre yeares I ceassed not to warne euery one of you/ both nyght and daye with teares.

And

E And now brethren/ I commende you vnto God/ and to the worde of hys grace/ whiche is myghty to edifye you/ and to geue you enheritaunce amonge all them that are sanctified. † I haue not desyred siluer/ golde/ or rayment of any of you. For ye youre selfes knowe/

The XXI. Chapter.

A NOw whan it fortuned that we had launched forth/ and were departed from thē/ we came with a straight course vnto Coos/ & on the daye folowinge vnto Rhodes/ and frō thence vnto Patara. And whan we founde a shyp readye to sayle vnto Phenices/ we went aborde/ and set forth. But whā we came within the syghte of Cypers/ we lefte it on the left hande/ and sayled vnto Syria/ and came vnto Tyre: for there the shyppe shoulde laye forth the ware. And whā we had founde disciples/

Whan we herde thys/ both we and they that were of the same place/ besought hym/ that he wolde not go vp to Jerusalem. Then aunswered Paul and saide: What do ye wepinge/ and breakynge my herte: † For I am ready not onely to be boūde/ Actu.xx.c but also to dye at Jerusalem for the name of the Lorde Jesu. But whan he wolde not be perswaded/ we ceassed/ and sayde: † The Matt.vj.b wyll of the Lorde be fulfylled. And after those dayes we were ready/ and wente vp to Jerusalem. There came with vs certayne of the disciples of Cesarea/ and brought with them one of Cypers/ named Mnason/ an olde disciple/ with whome we shoulde lodge. Now whan we came to Jerusalem/ the brethren receaued vs gladly. But on the nexte daye Paule wente in with vs vnto James/ and all the Elders came together. And whan he had saluted them/ he tolde by order/ what God had done amonge the Heythen by hys ministracion.

Whan they herde that/ they prayed the C Lorde/ and sayde vnto him: Brother/ thou seyst how many thousande Jewes there are which belefe/ and are all Zelous ouer the lawe. But they are enfourmed of the/ that thou teacheste all the Jewes/ whiche are amonge the Heythen/ to forsake Moses/ and sayest that they ought not to circūcise their chyldren/ nor to walke after the same custome. ceaued letters vnto the brethren / and wente towarde Damascon / that I myght bringe them whiche were there / bound to Jerusalem / to be punyshed.

But it fortuned as I made my iourney / and came nye vnto Damascon / about noone / sodenly there shone a greate lyghte aboute me from heauen / and I fell to the earth / and herde a voyce whiche sayde vnto me: Saul Saul / why persecutest thou me? I aunswered: Who art thou Lorde? And he sayde vnto me: I am Jesus of Nazareth whome thou persecu-test. † As for thẽ that were with me / they sawe Da the lyghte / and were afrayed / but they herde and not the voyce of hym that spake with me. I sayde: Lorde what shall I do? The Lorde sayde vnto me: Aryse / and go into Damascon / there shall it be tolde the of all that is appoynted the to do. But whan I sawe nothinge for the bryghtnesse of the lyght / I was led by the hande of them that were with me / and came to Damascon.

† There was one Ananias / a deuout man B after the lawe / which had a good reporte of all Act.
the Jewes that dwelt there / thesame came / & stepte vnto me / and sayde: Brother Saul / loke vp.

vp. And I loked vpon hym thesame houre.
He sayde: The God of oure fathers hath or-deyned the before / that thou shouldest knowe hys wyll / and se the thynge that is ryghtfull / and heare the voyce out of his mouth: for thou shalt be hys witnesse vnto all men of the thin-ges whiche thou hast sene & herde. And now why tariest thou? Aryse / and be baptysed / and washe awaye thy synnes / and † call vpon the name of the Lorde.

But it fortuned / that whan I was come a-gayne to Jerusalem / and prayed in the tẽple /
I was in a traunce / and sawe him. Thẽ sayde he vnto me: Make hayst / † and get the soone out of Jerusalem / for they wyll not receaue the witnesse that thou bearest of me. And I saide: Lorde / they them selfes knowe that I put in pryson / and bette in euery Synagoge them that beleued on the. † And whan the bloude of Steuen thy witnesse was shed / I stode by also / and consented vnto his death / and kept the clothes of them that slewe hym. And he sayde vnto me: Go thy waye / for † I wyl sende the farre amonge the Heythen.

They gaue him audience vnto thys worde / and lyft vp their voyce / and sayd: Awaye with such a felowe from the earth / for it is not reason that he shoulde lyue. But as they cryed / & cast of their clothes / & threw dust into the ayre / the captayne bad bringe hym into the castell / and commaũded hym to be beaten with rod-des / and to be examined / that he myght knowe / for what cause they cried so vpon hym. And whan he bounde him with thonges / Paul sayde vnto the vndercaptayne that stode by:
Is it lawfull for you to scourge a man that is a Romayne / and vncondempned? Whan the vndercaptaine herde that / he wente to the vppercaptayne / and tolde hym and sayde: What wilt thou do? Thys man is a Romayne. Then came the vppercaptayne / and sayde vnto him:
Tell me / arte thou a Romayne? He sayde: Yea.
And the vppercaptayne aunswered: With a greate summe optayned I thys fredom. But Paul sayd: As for me / I am a Romayn borne.
Then strayght waye departed from hym / they that shoulde haue examined hym. And the chiefe captayne was afrayed / whan he knewe that he was a Romayne / and because he had bounde hym. On the nexte daye wolde he knowe the certaynte wherfore he was accused of the Jewes / and he loused hym from the bandes / and commaunded the hyghe Priestes / and all their counsayll to come together / † and brought Paul forth / and set him amõge Act.xxiij.d them.

sayde: Reuyleste thou Gods hyghe Prieste?
And Paul sayde: Brethren / I wyst not that he was the hyghe Prieste. For it is written:
† The ruler of the people shalt thou not curse. Exo.xxij.d

But whan Paul knewe that the one parte was Saduces / and the other parte Pharisees /
he cried out in the counsayll. Ye men and bre-

We synde no euell in thys man. † But if a Act.xxij.a

But whan the dissencion was greate / the vppercaptayne feared / that Paul shoulde haue ben pluckt asunder of them / and commaũded the souldyers to go downe / and to take hym from them / and to bringe him into the castell.

Now whan it was daye / certaine of the Je-wes gathered them selfes together / and made a vowe / neyther to eate nor drinke tyll they had kylled Paul. They were more then fourtye/ whiche had made thys conspiracion. These came to the hyghe Priestes and Elders / and sayde: We haue bounde oure selfes with a vowe / that we will eate nothinge / tyll we haue slaine Paul. Now therfore geue ye knowlege to the vppercaptayne and to the counsayll / that he maye bringe hym forth vnto you to morowe / as though ye wolde heare hym yet better: As for vs / we are ready to kyll hym / or euer he come nye you.

C But whan Pauls systers sonne herde of their layinge awayte / he came / and entred into the castel / and tolde Paule. So Paul called vnto hym one of the vndercaptains / and sayde: Bringe thys yonge man to the vppercaptain / for he hath somwhat to saye vnto him. He toke him / and brought him to the vppercaptaine / and saide: Paul the prysoner called me vnto him / and prayed me to bringe to the thys yōge man / whiche hath somwhat to saye vnto the. Then the hyghe captaine toke him by ŷ hande / and wente asyde with him out of the waye / & axed him: What is it / that thou hast to saye vnto me? He sayde: The Jewes are agreed together / to desyre the / to let Paule be broughte forth to morowe before the cōsayll / as though they wolde heare him yet better. But folowe not thou theyr myndes / for they laye wayte for hym mo then fourty men of them / whiche haue bounde them selfes with a vowe / neyther to eate nor drinke / tyll they haue slayne Paul: and euen now are they redye / and loke for thy promes.

Then the vppercaptaine let the yonge man departe / and charged him to tell noman / that he had shewed hym thys. And he called vnto hym two vndercaptaines / and sayde: Make ready two hundreth soudyers / that they maye go to Cesarea / and three score and ten horsemen / and two hundreth speare men at the thirde houre of the nyght / and deliuer them beastes / that they maye set Paule thereon / and bringe him safe to Felix the debite / and he wrote a letter on thys maner.

And whan I wolde haue knowen the cause / wherfore they accused hym. † I brought him into their Actu counsayll: then perceaued I / that he was accused aboute questions of their lawe. But there was no accusacion worthy of death / or of bondes. And whan it was shewed me / that certayne Jewes layed wayte for him / I sent hym strayght waye vnto the / and commaunded the accusers also / that loke what they had agaynst hym / they shoulde tell thesame before the / Fare well.

The soudyers (as it was cōmaunded the) toke Paul / and broughte him to Antipatras. But on the nexte daye they left the horsmen to go with him / and turned agyne to the castel. Whan these came to Cesarea / they delyuered the letter vnto the debyte / and presented Paul before him also. Whan the debyte had red the letter / he axed of what countrie he was. And whan he vnderstode that he was of Cilicia / he saide: † I will heare the / whan thine accusers Actu are come also. And he commaunded him to be kepte in Herodes iudgement house.

The. XXIIII. Chapter.

A Fter fyue dayes / the hyghe prieste Ananias came doune with the Elders / and A Act with the oratoure Tertullus / whiche appeared and before the debyte against Paul. Whan Paul was called forth / Tertullus beganne to accuse hym / and sayde: Seynge that we liue in great peace by the meanes of the / and that many good thinges are done for thys people thorowe thy prouidence (mooste myghty Felix) that alowe we euer / and in all places / and with all thankes. Notwithstandinge / that I be nomore tedious vnto the / I pray the / that of thy curtesye thou woldest heare vs a fewe wordes.

We haue founde this man a pestilēt felowe / and a stearer vp of sedicion amonge al the Jewes / thorowout all the worlde / and a mayntainer of the secte of the Nazaretes / † and he Actu had taken in hande also to suspende the Tēple / whome me toke / and wolde haue iudged him accordinge to our law. But Lysias the hygh captayne came vpon vs / and with greate violence deliuered hym out of oure handes / and commaunded his accusers to come vnto the: of whome (if thou wilt inquire) thou maiest haue knowlege of all these thynges wherof wherof we accuse him. The Jewes likewyse affirmed and saide that it was euen so.

B But Paull (whan the debyte had beckened vnto hym / that he shoulde speake) aunswered: Seynge I knowe that thou hast ben iudge nowe many yeares amonge this people / I wyll not be afrayed to aunswere for my selfe / because thou mayest knowe that there are yet nomore but twelfe dayes / sence I u. xxj.d came vp to Jerusalem to worshyppe / † and that they neyther founde me in the Temple disputinge with any man / or makynge any vproure amonge the people / nor in the Synagoges / nor in the cytie / neither can they proue the thinges / wherof they accuse me. But this ath.x.d I † confesse vnto the / that after this waye / ar.viij.e whiche they call heresye / so worshyppe I the e xij.a God of my fathers / that I beleue all that is wrytten in the lawe / and in the prophetes / d.iij.c and haue hope towardes God / that † thesame t. xxij.c resurrecyon of the dead (whiche they them selfes loke for also) shalbe both of the iuste and . xxiij. a vniuste. † Therefore studye I to haue alwaye a cleare conscyence towarde God and towarde men.

C Whan Felix herde this / he deferred them (for he knewe very well of that waye) and sayde: Whan Lysyas the vppercaptayne commeth doune / I wyll enquire oute youre xxix.c matter. † But he commaunded the vnder- xxvij.a captaine to kepe Paull / and to let him haue xxviij b rest / and that he shoulde forbidde none of his acquaintaunce to minister vnto him / or to come vnto him.

But after certayne dayes came Felix with hys wyfe Drusylla / whiche was a Jewesse / & called for Paul / and herde him of the faith of Christ. Howbeit / whā Paul spake of righteousnesse / & of chastyte / and of the iudgment to come. Felix trembled and aunswered: Go thy waye for this tyme: Whan I haue a conuenient tyme / I wyll sende for the. He hoped also / that money shoulde haue ben geuen him of Paule / therfore called he ofte for him / and communed with him. But after two yeares came Portius Festus in Felix roume. Yet Felix wyllinge to shewe the Jewes a pleasure / † left Paul bounde. Actu. xxv.c

The XXV. Chapter.

NOwe whan Festus came into the coun- A trye / ouer thre dayes he wente vp from Cesarea to Jerusalem. Then appeared the hyghe priestes / & the chiefe of the Jewes before him against Paule / & intreated him / and desyred fauoure against him / that he wolde sende for him to Jerusalem / and layed wayte for him / that they might slay him by the way. Then aunswered Festus / that Paule shoulde be kepte at Cesarea / but that he him selfe wold shortly go thyther againe. Let them therefore (saide he) whiche are able amonge you / come doune with vs to accuse the man / if there be ought in him.

Whan he had taried amonge them more then ten dayes / he wente doune to Cesarea. And on the nexte daye he sat doune in the iudgement seate / and commaunded Paul to be brought. Whan he was come / the Jewes whiche were come doune from Jerusalem / stode rounde aboute him / and brought many & greuous quarels against Paul / which they B coulde not proue / while he aunswered for him Act. xxiij.b selfe: † I haue neither offended ought against and xxviij.c the law of the Jewes / nor against the temple / nor against the Emperoure.

But Festus wyllinge to shewe the Jewes a pleasure / aunswered Paull / and sayde: Wilt thou go vp to Jerusalem / and there be iudged of the thynges before me? But Paul sayde: I stande at the Emperours iudgemente seate: where I ought to be iudged: to the Jewes haue I done no harme / as thou also knowest very well. If I haue hurte any man / or committed any thinge worthye of death / I refuse not to dye. But if there are no suche thinges / as they accuse me of/then maye no man delyuer me vnto them: I appeale vnto the Emperoure. Then spake Festus with the Counsaill/and aunswered: Thou hast appealed vnto the Emperoure/to the Emperour shalt thou go.

After certayne dayes came kynge Agrippa/and Bernyce to Cesarea to welcome Festus/and whan they had taryed there many dayes: Festus rehearced Pauls cause vnto the kynge/and saide: † There is a man leste bounde of Felix/* for whose cause the hyghe priestes and Elders of the Jewes appeared before me whan I was at Jerusalem/and desired a sentence against him. Vnto whome I aunswered: † It is not the maner of the Romaynes to delyuer any mā that he should pery she/before that he whiche is accused/haue his accusers presente/and receaue lybertye to aunswere for him selfe to the accusacion. Whan they were come hither together/I made no delaye/but sat the nexte day in iudgement/and commaunded the man to be brought forth. †Of whome/whan the accusers stode vp/they broughte no accusacion of suche thinges as I supposed: but had certayn questiōs against him of their own superstitions/and of one Jesus dead/whome Paule affyrmed to be aliue. Howbeit/Because I vnderstode not the question/I axed hym whether he wolde go at Jerusalem/and there be iudged of these matters. But whan Paul had appealed/that he myghte be kepte vnto the knowlege of the Emperoure. I commaūded him to be kepte/tyl I might sende him to the Emperoure.

Agryppa sayde to Festus: I wolde faine heare the man also. He sayde: To morowe shalte thou heare him. And on the nexte daye came Agrippa and Bernyce with greate pompe/and wente in the commune hal with the captaines and chiefe men of the cytie. And at Festus commaundemente/Paull was broughte forth. And Festus sayde: Kynge Agrippa/and all ye men/which are here with vs/ye se this man/aboute whome al the multitude of the Jewes haue entreated me/both at Jerusalem and here also/and cryed that he ought not to lyue any lenger. But whan I perceaued that/† he had done nothynge worthy of death/and that he him self also had appealed vnto the Emperoure. I determyned to sende him/of whome I haue no certaine thinge to write vnto my Lord. Therfore haue I caused him to be brought forth before you: specyally before the (O Kyng Agrippa) that after examinacion had/I myghte haue somwhat to wryte. For me thinke it an vnreasonable thinge to sende a prysoner/and not to shewe the causes whiche are layed against him.

The XXVI. Chapter.

AGryppa sayde vnto Paule: Thou haste leaue to speake for thy selfe. Then Paul stretched forthe the hande/and aunswered for hym selfe: I thinke my selfe/(O kynge Agrippa) because I shall aunswere this daye before the/of all the thinges whereof I am accused of the Jewes: specially for so muche as thou arte experte in all customes/and questions whiche are amonge the Jewes. Wherefore I beseche the/to heare me paciently.

My lyuinge truely from youth vp (how it was led from the beginninge amonge this people at Jerusalem) knowe all the Jewes/whiche knowe me afore at the firste/if they wolde testifye/for after the mooste strayte secte of oure Jewyshe lawe/I lyued a Pharise. †And nowe stande I/and am iudged/because of the hope of the *promes/ꝑ was made of God vnto oure fathers/vnto whiche (promes) oure twelfe tribes hope to come seruinge God instantly daie and night. For the whiche hopes sake (O kinge Agrippa) I am accused of the Jewes. Wherfore is this iudged among you not to be beleued/† that God raised vp the dead?

I also verely thoughte by my selfe/that I ought to do many contrary thinges cleane against the name of Jesus of Nazareth/ †whiche I dyd at Jerusalem/whan I shut vp many saynctes in pryson/whereupon I receaued authoryte of the hyghe priestes. And whan they shoulde be put to death/I broughte the sentence. And thorowe all the Synagoges I punished them oft/and compelled them to blaspheme/and was exceadinge madde vpon them/and persecuted the euen vnto straunge cyties. Aboute whiche thinges as I wente towarde Damascon with with authoryte an lycence of the hyghe priestes/euen at the myddaye (O Kynge) I sawe in the waye/that a lyghte from heauen (clearer then the bryghtnesse of the Sunne) shyned roundeabout me/and them that iourneyed with me.

But whan we were all fallen doune to the earth/I herde a voyce speakyng vnto me/and sayinge in Hebrue: Saull/Sauli why persecutest thou me? It shalbe harde for the to kycke agaynste the prycke. But I sayde: Lorde who arte thou? He sayde: I am Jesus/whome thou persecutest. But ryse vp/and stande vpon thy fete/for therefore haue I appeared vnto the/that I myghte ordeyne the to be a minister/and witnesse of it that thou hast sene/and that I wyll yet cause to appeare vnto the. And I wyll deliuer the from the people/and from the Heithen/amonge whome I wyll nowe sende the/to open their eyes/that they maye turne from the darkenesse vnto the † light/and from the power of the deuell vnto God/that they maye receaue forgeuenesse of synnes/and the enheritaunce with them that sanctified by faith in me.

Wherfore (O kynge Agrippa) I was not faythlesse vnto the heauenly vysion/but shewed it fyrste vnto them at Damascon/and at Jerusalem/and in all the coastes of Jewrye/and to the Heithen/that they shoulde † do penaunce/and turne vnto God/and to do righte workes of penaunce. For this cause the Jewes toke me in the temple/and wente aboute to kyll me. But thorowe the helpe of God lente vnto me/I stande vnto this daye/and testifye both vnto small and great/and saye none other thynge/then that the propheres haue sayde (that it shoulde come to passe) and Moses: that Chriſte shoulde suffre/and be the fyrste of the resurreccion from the dead/and shewe lyght vnto the people/& to the Heythen.

Whan he thus aunswered for hym selfe. Festus sayde with a loude voyce: Paull thou arte besydes thy selfe/muche learninge maketh the madde. But Paul sayde: I am not madde/(moost deare Festus) but speake the wordes of trueth and soberneſſe: for the kynge knoweth this well/vnto whome I speake frely. For I thinke that none of these thinges is hyd from him: † for this was not done in a corner. Beleuest thou the Prophetes (O kynge Agrippa?) I knowe that thou beleuest. Agrippa sayde vnto Paull: Thou perswadest me in a parte to become a Chrysten. Paule saide: I wolde to God/that not onely in a parte/but altogether/I myghte perswade not the onely/but all them that heare me this daye/to be suche as I am/these bondes excepte. And whan he had spoken this/the kynge rose vp/and the Debyte/and Bernyce/and they that sat with them/and wente asyde/and talked together and saide: † This man hath done nothinge that is worthy of death or of bondes. But Agrippa saide vnto Festus: This man might haue ben louſed/if he had not appealed vnto the Emperoure.

The. XXVIII. Chapter.

WHan it was concluded that we shoulde sayle into Italy. They delyuered Paul and certayne other prysoners to the vndercaptayne named Julius/of the Emperours souldyers. And whan we were entred into a shyppe of Adramis to sayle by Asia/we launched from lande. And there was with vs one † Aristarchus oute of Macedonia of Thessalonica/and on the nexte daye we came vnto Sydon. And Julius entreated Paull curteously/† and gaue hym libertye to go to his frendes/and to refreshe hym selfe. And from thence launched we/and sayled harde by Cypers (Because the wyndes were againste vs) and sayled ouer the see of Cilycia and Pamphilia/and came to Myra in Lycia.

Colos. iiij. a
Act. xxiij. c & xxvij. b

And there the vndercaptaine founde a shyppe of Alexandria/ready to sayle into Italy/and put vs therein. And whan we had sayled slowly/and in many dayes were scarcely come ouer against Gnydon/(for ꝑ winde withstode vs) we sayled in Candy/nye vnto the cytie of Salmo/and came scarcely beyonde it. Then came we to a place whiche is called Goodhauen/nye where vnto was the cytie Lasea. Nowe whan muche tyme was spent/and saylynge was now icoperdous/because that they also had fasted ouerlong. Paul exhorted them/and sayde vnto them: Syrs/

Iſe that this sayling wyll be with hurte and much dammage/not oncly of the lading and of the shyppe/but also of oure lyfes.

B Neuertheleſſe / the vndercaptayne beleued the gouernoure of the shyppe / and the master / more then it that was spoken of Paull. And for so much as the hauen was not commodious to wynter in/the more part of them toke counsaill to departe thence / if be any meanes they mighte come to Phenices to wynter there/ whiche is an hauen of Candy/towarde the Southwest/and Northwest wynde. Whan the South wynde blewe / they supposynge to haue had their purpose/ louſed vnto Aſſon/ and sayled paſte all Candy.

But not longe after / their aroſe againſte their purpose a flowe of wynde / whiche is called Northeaſt. And whan the shyppe was caught / and coulde not reſyſte the wynde/ we let her go / and droue with the wether. But we came to an Ile / named Claudia/ where we coulde scarce get a bote. Whiche they toke vp/ and vſed helpe / and bounde it vnder harde to the shyppe/fearinge/leſt / they shoulde haue fallen into the Syrtes / and let doune the veſſell / and so were caryed. And whan we had bidden a great tempeſt/ on the nexte daye they made an outcaſtinge. And on the thirde daye with oure owne handes we caſt out the tacklynge of the shyppe. But whan neyther Sunne/ nor ſtarres appeared in many daies/and no ſmall tempeſt laye vpon vs/all the hope of oure lyfe was taken awaye.

C And after longe abſtinence / Paule ſtode forthe in the myddes of them / and sayde: Syrs / ye shoulde haue herkened vnto me/ and not to haue louſed from Candy / and not to haue brought vs this harme and loſſe. And now I exhorte you to be of good cheare/ for there shall none of oure lyfes periſhe / but the shippe onely.

For this nyghte ſtode by me the aungell of God (whoſe I am/ and whome I ſerue/) Actu.xxv.b and sayde: Feare not Paull/ †thou muſte be brought before the Emperoure. And lo/ God hath geuen vnto the all them that sayle with the: Wherfore syrs be of good cheare: for I beleſe God/that it shall come ſo to paſſe / as it was tolde me. †Howbeit/we muſt be caſt in Act.xxvij.c to a certayne ylande.

But whan the fourtenth nyghte came/ as we were caryed in Adria aboute mydnyght/the shypmen demed that there appeared ſome countrie vnto them / and they caſte oute the leade/and found it twenty feddoms: and whan they were gone a litle farther/they caſte oute the leade againe/and founde fyftene feddoms.

Then fearinge/leſte/ they shoulde fall on D ſome rocke / they caſte foure anckers oute of the sterne/ and wyſhed for the daye. Whan the shipmen were aboute to flye oute of the shyppe / and let doune the bote in the ſee/ (vnder a coloure as though they wolde caſte anckers oute of the foreshyppe) Paule sayde vnto the vndercaptaine and to the ſouldyers: Excepte theſe byde in the shippe / ye can not be ſaued. Then the ſouldiers cutte of the rope from the bote/and let it fall. And whan it beganne to be daye/ Paull exhorted them all to take meate/ and sayde: To daye is the fourtenth daye that ye haue taryed and continued faſtinge/ and haue receaued nothinge: Wherefore I praye you take meate for youre health: † for there ſhall not one heere fal from Mat the heade of any you. And whan he had thus Luce ſpoken / he toke breade / * and gaue thankes *Mat to God before them all / and brake it / and and Mar beganne to eate. Then were they all of good Joh cheare/and toke meate alſo. We were alltogether in the shyppe two hūdreth/three ſcore and ſyxtene ſoules. And whan they had eaten ynough/they lyghtened the ſhip/and caſt out the wheate into the ſee.

Whan it was daye / they knewe not the E lande. But they ſpyed an hauē with a banke/ into whiche they were mynded / (if it were poſſyble) to thruſt in the shyppe. And whan they had taken vp the anckers/they committed them ſelfes to the ſee/and louſed the rudderbandes/and hoyſſed vp the mayne sayle to the wynde / and drue towarde lande. The IIII. Chapter.

A WHat shall we saye then / that Abraham † our father / as pertayninge to the flesh/ dyd fynde: This we saye: If Abraham were made righteous thorowe workes / then hath he wherein to reioyce / but not before God.
b But what sayeth the scripture: † Abraham beleued God / and that was counted vnto him for ryghteousnesse. Vnto him ỳ goeth aboute with workes/is the rewarde not rekened of fauoure/ but of duety: Howbeit/vnto him that a goeth not aboute with workes / but beleueth on hym that iustifieth the vngodly/is his faith counted for ryghteousnesse. Euen as Dauid sayeth also/that blessednesse is onely that mãs/ vnto whome God counted ryghteousnesse without adding to of workes/where he saieth:
j.a † Blessed are they whose vnrighteousnesses are forgeuen / and whose synnes are couered. Blessed is the man/ vnto whome the Lorde imputeth no synne.

Now this blessednesse goeth it ouer the circumcision / or ouer the vncircumcision: We must nedes graunte/ that Abrahãs fayth was counted vnto hym for righteousnesse. How was it then rekened vnto hym: In the circũcision / or in the vncircumcision: Doubtles/
b † not in the circũcision / but in the vncircum-

C For the promes (that he shoulde be the heire of the worlde) was not made vnto Abraham or to hys sede/ thorowe the lawe / but thorowe the rightcousnesse of fayth. † For if they which Galat.iij. e

Joan. j. b and gyfte of God vpon many/ † by the fauour that belonged vnto one man Jesu Christ.

And the gyfte is not onely ouer one synne/ as death came thorowe one synne/ of one that synned. For the iudgement came of one synne vnto condempnacion/ but the gyfte to iustifie from many synnes. For if by the synne of one death raygned by the meanes of one: muche more shall they which receaue the aboundaūce of grace and of the gyfte vnto rightcousnesse/ raygne in lyfe by ỹ meanes of one Jesu Christ. Likewyse then as by the synne of one condēpnacion came on all men/ euen so also by the rightcousnesse of one/ came the iustifienge of lyfe vpon all men. For as by the disobedience of one/ many became synners/ euen so by the obedience of one shall many be made rightcous.

Galat. v. c † But the lawe in the meane tyme entred/

The VI. Chapter.

WHat shall we saye then? Shall we continue in synne/ that there maye be aboundaunce of grace? God forbyd. Howe shall we lyue in synne/ that are dead frō it? ✠ † Knowe ye not/ that all we which are baptysed into Jesu Christ/ are baptysed into hys death? Therefore are we buryed with him by baptyme into death/ that lyke as Christ was raysed vp from the dead by the glorye of the father/ † euen so we also shoulde walke in a newe life. For if we be grafted with him vnto like death/ then shal we be lyke the resurrection also: For so muche as we knowe/ that oure olde man is crucifyed with him/ that ỹ synfull bodye myght ceasse/ that hēceforth we shoulde serue synne nomore. † For he that is dead/ is made rightcous from synne.

† But if we be dead with Christe/ we beleue that we shall lyue also with hym/ and are sure/ * that Christ raysed from the dead/ dyeth nomore: Death shall haue nomore power ouer hym. For as touchinge that he dyed/ he dyed concerninge synne once: but as touchinge that he lyueth/ he lyueth vnto God. Lykewyse ye also/ counte youre selfes to be euen dead concerninge synne/ and to lyue vnto God thorowe Jesus Christe oure Lorde. ✠ ✠ Let not sinne raigne therfore in your mortal body/ that ye shoulde obey vnto the lustes of it. Neyther geue ye ouer youre membres vnto synne to be weapenes of vnrightcousnesse/ but geue ouer youre selfes vnto God/ as they that of dead are become lyuynge/ and youre membres vnto God/ to be weapens of rightcousnesse. For synne shall not haue power of you/ in so much as ye are not vnder the lawe/ but vnder grace.

How thē? Shall we synne/ because we are not vnder the law/ but vnder grace? God forbyd. ✠ † Knowe ye not/ that loke vnto whom ye geue ouer youre selfes as seruauntes to obeye/ hys seruauntes ye are to whom ye obeye/ whether it be of synne vnto death/ or of obedience vnto rightcousnesse? But God be thanked/ that though ye haue ben the seruauntes of synne/synne/ ye are now yet obedient of herte to the ensample of the doctrine/ whereunto ye are committed. For now that ye are made fre frō synne/ ye are become the seruauntes of rightcousnesse. ✠

C ✠ I will speake grosly/ because of the weakenesse of youre flesh. Lyke as ye haue geuen ouer your mēbres to the seruice of vnclēnesse/ from one wickednesse to another: Euē so now also geue ouer youre membres to the seruice of rightcousnesse/ that ye maye be holy. For whā ye were the seruauntes of synne/ ye were louse frō rightcousnesse. What frute had ye at that tyme in those thinges/ whereof ye are now ashamed? For the ende of such thinges is death. But now that ye be fre frō sinne/ and are become the seruaūtes of God/ ye haue your frute that ye shoulde be holy: but the ende is euerlastinge lyfe. † For death is the rewarde of sinne/b but ỹ gifte of God is euerlasting life in Christe Jesu oure Lorde. ✠

The VII. Chapter.

A KNowe ye not brethren (for I speake vnto them that knowe the lawe) how that the lawe hath power vpon a man as longe as he d lyueth? † For the woman that is in subiection to the man/ is bounde vnto the lawe whyle the man lyueth: but if the man dye/ then is she louse from the lawe that concerneth the mā.
d † If she be now with another man/ whyle the man liueth/ she shalbe called a wedlocke breaker. But if the man be dead/ thē is she fre from ỹ law/ so that she is no wedlocke breaker/ if she be with another man.

Euen so my brethren/ ye also are dead vnto the lawe by the body of Christ/ that ye shoulde be with another (namely with him that is raysed vp from the dead) that we shoulde bringe forth frute vnto God. For whan we were in the flesh/ the synfull lustes (which were stered vp by the lawe) were myghty in oure membres to bringe forth frute vnto death. But now are we louse from the lawe/ and dead vnto it/ that held vs captiue/ so that we should serue in a new conuersacion of the spirite/ and not in the olde conuersacion of the letter.

B What shal we saye then? Is the lawe sinne? God forbyd: Neuerthelesse/ I knew not sinne/
c but by the lawe. For I had knowen nothinge
c of luste/ if the lawe had not sayde: † Thou shalt not lust. But then toke synne occasion at the commaundement/ and stered vp in me all maner of lust. For without the lawe/ synne was dead. As for me/ I lyued somtyme without lawe. Howbeit/ whan the commaundement came/ synne reuyued/ but I was dead. And the very same commaundement that was geuen me vnto lyfe/ was founde to be vnto me an occasion of death. For synne toke occasion at the cōmaundement/ and deceaued me/ and slewe me by thesame commaundement. † The Esa. lawe in dede is holy/ and the cōmaundement xlviij. d holy/ iuste and good. Is that then which is j. Tim. j. b good become death vnto me? God forbyd. But synne that it myghte appeare how that it is synne/ hath wrought in me death thorowe good: that synne myghte be oute of measure synfull by the commaundement. For we know that the lawe is spiritual/ but I am carnal/ † solde vnder synne: because I knowe not Esa. lxj. a what I do. For I do not that I wyll/ but what I hate/ that do I. If I do nowe that whiche I wyll not/ then graunte I that the lawe is good.

So then it is not I that do it/ but synne C that dwelleth in me: for I knowe that in me/ (that is/ in my † flesshe) there dwelleth no good Gen. vj. a thinge. To will is present with me/ but to perfourme that which is good/ I synde not. For the good that I wyll/ do I not: but the euell which I will not/ that do I. If I do now that I wyll not: thē is it not I that do it/ but sinne that dwelleth in me.

Thus synde I now by the lawe/ that whan I will do good/ euel is present with me. For I delyte in the lawe of God after the inwarde man: but I se another lawe in my membres/ which stryueth against the law of my mynde/ and taketh me prysoner in the lawe of synne/ whiche is in my membres. O wretched man that I am/ who shall delyuere me from ỹ body of this death? I thanke God thorowe Jesus Christe oure Lorde. So then with the mynde I serue the lawe of God/ but with the flesshe ỹ lawe of synne.

The. VIII. Chapter.

THen is there now no damnacion vnto A them that are in Christ Jesu/ which walke not after the flesshe/ but after the spirite. For the lawe of the spirete (that bringeth lyfe in Christ Joã.viij.c Jesu) hath made me † fre from the lawe of Gala.iiij.a synne and dead. * For what vnpossible was *Heb.vij.c vnto the lawe (in as muche as it was weake because of the flesshe) that perfourmed God/and sent hys sonne in the similitude of synfull ij Cor.v.c flesshe/and by † synne damned synne in the flesshe: that the righteousnesse required of the lawe/myght be fulfylled in vs/whiche walke not after the flesh/but after the spirete. For they that are fleshly/are fleshly mynded: but they that are goostly/are goostly mynded. To be fleshly mynded/is dead: but to be goostly mynded/is lyfe and peace. ✠

For to be fleshly mynded/is enemyte against Esa.lv.c God/† syth/it is not subdued vnto the lawe of God/for it can not also. As for them that are fleshly/they can not please God. Howbeit/ye are not fleshly/but goostly/if so be that the spirete of God dwel in you. But who so hath not the spirete of Christ/the same is not hys. Neu-ertheles/if Christ be in you/then is the body dead because of synne: But the spirete is lyfe for righteousnesse sake.

B Wherfore/if the spirete of him/that raysed vp Jesus from the dead/dwell in you/then shall euen he also that raysed vp Christ from ỹ dead/quicken your mortall bodyes/because that hys spirite dwelleth in you. ✠ Therfore brethren/we are now detters/not to the flesh/to lyue after the flesshe/for if ye lyue after the flesshe/ye vnto vanyte agaynst her will/but for his will that subdued her vpon hope. For the creature also shalbe fre from the bondage of corrupcio/vnto the glorious lybertye of the chyldren of God. For we knowe/that euery creature gro-

the same tyme.

Not they onely/but we our selfes also/which haue the fyrst frutes of the spirete/grone within oure selfes for the chyldshyppe/and loke for the delyueraunce of oure body. For we are saued in dede/howbeit/in hope: † but the hope Ka that is sene/is no hope: for how can a mā hope for that which he seith? But if we hope for that which we se not/then do we thorowe pacience

Lykewyse the spirete also helpeth oure wea- D kenesse: for we knowe not what we should de-syre as we oughte: † neuertheles/the spirete it Esa selfe maketh intercession myghtely for vs with vnoutspeakable groninges. † Howbeit/he ỹ Jer searcheth the hert/knoweth what the mynde of the spirete is: for he maketh intercession for the saintes/according to ỹ pleasure of God. ✠ ✠ But sure we are/that all thinges serue for the best vnto them that loue God: whiche are called of purpose. For those/whome he knewe before/hath he ordeyned also before/that they shoulde be lyke fashioned vnto the shape of his sonne/that he myght be the fyrst begotten amonge many brethren. As for those whome he hath ordeyned before/thē hath he called also: & whome he hath called/them hath he also made righteous: and whome he hath made righteous/thē hath he glorified also.

What shal we saye then vnto these thinges?
† If God be on oure syde/who can be against Ro vs? * Which spared not his owne sonne/but Esa hath geuen him for vs all/how shalt he not *Ge with him geue vs all thinges also? Who wyll Esa laye any thinge to the charge of Gods chosen? Joã
It is God that maketh righteous/who wyll then condemne? It is Christ that dyed/yee/rather which is raysed vp agayne: whiche is also on the right hande of God/and maketh intercession for vs.

Who will separate vs from ỹ loue of God?
Trouble? or anguyshe? or persecucion? or hunger? or nakednesse? or parell? or swearde? As it is wrytten: † For thy sake are we kylled all the Psal xij.b † but in Isaac shall the sede be called vnto the/that is. They which are chyldren after the flesh/are not the chyldren of God/but the children of the promes are counted for the sede.

For this is a worde of the promes: where he xiij.b sayeth: † About this tyme wyll I come/and Sara shall haue a sonne.

B Howbeit/it is not so with this onely/but xv.c also whan † Rebecca was with childe by one/(namely by oure father Isaac) or euer the children were borne/and had done neyther good nor bad (that ỹ purpose of God myght stande of workes/but by the grace of the caller) it was sayde thus vnto her: The greater shal serue the i.a lesse. As it is written: † Jacob haue I loued/but Esau haue I hated.

What shall we saye then? is God then vn-righteous? God forbyd. For he sayeth vnto xviij.d Moses: † I shew mercy/to whome I shew mercy: & haue cōpassion/on whom I haue cōpassion. So lieth it not thē in any mans wil or runninge/but in the mercy of God. For the xvij.c scripture sayeth vnto Pharao: † For this cause haue I stered the vp/euen to shewe my power lādes. Thus hath he mercy on whome he will:

and whome he will he hardeneth.

What shall we saye then? This wyll we saye: The Heythen whiche folowed not righteousnesse/haue ouertaken righteousnesse: but I speake of the righteousnesse that commeth of fayth. Agayne/Israel folowed the lawe of righteousnesse/and attayned not vnto the law of righteousnesse: Why so? Euen because they sought it not out of fayth/but as it were out of ỹ deseruinge of workes. For thei haue stom-

They are broken of because of theyr vnbelefe / but thou standest thorowe belefe. † Be not thou hye mynded / but feare / seynge God hath not spared the natural braūches / lest / he also spare not the.

Beholde therfore the kindnesse / and rigorousnesse of God: on them whiche fell rigorousnesse: but towarde the / kindnesse / if thou continue in the kindnesse. Els shalt thou be hewen of: † and they / if they byde not styl in vnbelefe / shalbe grafted in agayne. For God is of power to grafte them in agayne. For if thou be cut out of the natural wilde olyue tree / and grafted (contrary to nature) in the good olyue tree / how muche more shall they that are natural / be grafted in their owne olyue tree agayne?

D I wolde not that thys secrete shoulde be hyd from you brethren (lest / ye shoulde be wyse in youre owne conceates) that partly blindnesse is happened vnto Israel / † So longe till the fulnesse of the Heythen be come in. And this is my conuenaūt with them / whan I shall take awaye their sinnes. As concerninge the Gospell / I holde them as enemyes for youre sakes: but as touchynge the election / I loue them for the fathers sakes.

For verely the giftes and callinge of God are suche / that it can not repente hym of thē. The XIIII. Chapter.

HYm that is weake in ỹ faith/ receaue vnto you/and trouble not the cōsciences. One beleueth that he maye eate all thinge: but he that is weake eateth herbes. Let not hym that eateth/despyse him that eateth not: and let not him which eateth not/ iudge hym that eateth: for God hath receaued hym.

† Who art thou/that iudgest another mans seruaūt? He standeth or falleth vnto hys Lorde: Yee/ he maye wel stande/ for God is able to make him stand. Some man putteth difference betwene daye & daye/ but another man counteth all dayes alyke. † Let euery man be sure of hys meaninge. He that putteth difference in the daye/ doeth it vnto the Lorde/ & he that putteth no differēce in the daye/ doeth it vnto the Lorde also. He that eateth/eateth vnto vnto the Lord/for he geueth God thankes: and he that eateth not/eateth not vnto the Lord/and geueth God thankes. For none of vs liueth to him self/and none dieth to him selfe. If we lyue/we lyue vnto the Lord: If we dye/we dye vnto the Lorde. Therefore/ whether we liue or dye/we are the Lordes.

For thereto dyed Christ/and rose agayne/ and reuyued/that he might be † Lord both of dead and quycke. But why iudgest thou thy brother? Or thou other/ why despysest thou thy brother? † We shall all be brought before the iudgemente seate of Christe. For it is wrytten: † As truely as I lyue/ (sayeth the Lorde) all knees shall bowe vnto me/ and al tunges shal knowlege vnto God. † Thus shall euery one of vs geue accomptes for him selfe vnto God. Let vs not therefore iudge one another any more. But iudge this rather/ that noman put a stombling block or an occasyon to fall in his brothers waye. † I knowe/and am full certifyed in the Lorde Jesu/that there is nothinge commune of it selfe: but vnto him that iudgeth it to be cōmune/ to him is it commune. But if thy brother be greued ouer thy meate/ then walkest thou not now in charite. Destroye not with thy meate him/ for whome Christ dyed.

Se therefore that youre treasure be not euell spoken of. For the kyngedome of God is not meate nor drynke/ but ryghteousnesse and peace/ and ioye in the holy ghooste. He that in these thynges serueth Christe/ pleaseth God/ and is commended of men. Let vs therefore folowe these thynges/ which make for peace: and thynges wherewith one maye edefye another. Destroye not the worke of God for meates sake. † All thinges truely are cleane/ but it is euell for that man/whiche eateth with hurte of his conscience. † It is muche better that thou eate no flesshe/ and drinke no wyne/ nor any thynge/ whereby thy brother stumbleth or falleth/or is made weake. Haste thou fayth/haue it with thy selfe before God. Happy is he/that condempneth not him selfe in that thinge which he alloweth. But he that maketh conscience of it/& yet eateth/is dampned: Because he doeth it not of faith: For † whatsoeuer is not of faith/ the same is synne.

B Youre reioycing is not good. Knowe ye not that a litle leuen soureth the whole lompe of dowe? Pourge out therfore the olde leuē / that ye may be now dowe like as ye are swete bread. For we also haue an Easterlambe / which is Christ that is offered for vs. Wherefore let vs kepe Easter / not in the olde leuen / nor in the leuen of maliciousnes / and wickednesse / but in the swete bread of pureneſſe / and of the trueth.

I wrote vnto you in the Epistle / that ye shulde haue nothinge to do with whoremongers / and that mente I not all of the whoremongers of this worlde / eyther of the coueteous / or of extorcioners / or of them that worshippe ymages / for then muste ye nedes haue gone out of the worlde. But now haue I written vnto you / that ye shoulde haue nothinge to do with them: Namely / if there be any man that is called a brother / and is an whoremonger / or coueteous / or a worshypper of ymages / other a rayler / or a dronkarde / or extorcioner: with suche shall ye not eate. For what haue I to do to iudge them that are without? Do ye not iudge them that are within? As for them that are without / God shall iudge them. Put awaye from you him that is euell.

The VI. Chapter.

A HOw dare one of you hauynge busynesse with another / go to lawe before the vnrighteous and not before the sainctes? Do ye not know that the sayncte shall iudge the worlde? If the world then shalbe iudged of you / are ye not good ynough to iudge small matters? Know ye not that we shal iudge the aungels? howe much more thinges that pertayne to the temporall lyfe? Therfore if ye haue iudgementes of temporall matters / take them that are despysed in the congregacion / and set them to be iudges. This I saye to youre shame. Is there vtterly no wyse man amonge you? What / not one at all / that can iudge betwene brother and brother? but one brother goeth to lawe with another / and that before the vnbeleuers?

B Nowe therefore is there vtterly a faulte amonge you / that ye go to lawe one with another. Why do ye not rather suffre wronge? Why suffre ye not youre selfes rather to be defrauded? But ye youre selfes do wronge and defraude / and that euen the brethren. Knowe ye not that the vnrighteous shall not inheret the kyngdome of God? Be not deceaued. Neither whoremongers / nor worshippers of ymages / nor breakers of wedlocke / nor weakelinges / neither abusers of them selfes with mānynde / nor theues / neyther the coueteous / nor dronkardes / nor cursed speakers / nor extorcioners shall inhereth the kingdome of God. And such haue some of you bene / but ye are washed / ye are sanctifyed / ye are made righteous by the name of the Lord Jesus / and by the spirite of oure God.

I maye do all thynges / but all thinges are not profytable. I maie do all thinges / but I wyll be brought vnder nomans power. Meates are ordeined for the belly / and the belly for meates. But God shall destroye both it and them. The body belongeth not vnto whoredome / but vnto the Lorde / and the Lorde vnto the body. God hath rayssed vp the Lorde / and shall raise vs vp also by his power. Knowe ye not that your bodies are the membres of Christ? Shall I now take the membres of Christe / and make them the membres of an harlot? God forbyd. Or do ye not knowe / that he which cleueth to an harlot / is one body? For they shalbe two / saieth he / in one flesche. But he that cleueth vnto the Lorde / is one spirete.

Flye whoredome. All synnes that a man doeth / are without the body. But he that committeth whoredome / synneth against hys owne body. Or knowe ye not that youre body is the temple of ỹ holy ghoste? Whome ye haue of God / and are not youre owne? For ye are dearly bought. Praise ye God therefore in youre body / and in youre spirite / whiche are Gods.

The VII. Chapter.

A AS concerninge the thinges whereof ye wrote vnto me / I aun swere: It is good for a man not to touche a woman. Neuertheless / to a voyde whoredome / let euery man haue his owne wyfe / and let euery woman haue her owne housbande. Let the man geue vnto the wyfe dew beneuolence: lykewyse also the wyfe vnto the man. The wyfe hath not power ouer her owne body / but the housbande: and lykewyse the man hath not power ouer his owne body / but the wyfe. Withdraw not your selfes owne from another / excepte it be with the consent of both for a tyme / that ye maie geue your selfes vnto fastynge and prayer / and then come togither again / lest Sathan tempte you for your incontinence. But this I saye of fauoure / and not of commaundement. Howbeit / I wold rather that all men were as I am. Neuertheless / euery one hath his proper gyfte of God / one thus / another so. To them verely that are vnmarried / and to wedowes / I saye: It is good for them that they abide also as I do / but if they can not absteyne / let them marry. For it is better to marrie / then to burne.

B But vnto them that are marryed / commaunde not I / but the Lorde / that ỹ wyfe separate not her selfe from her housbande: but if she separate her selfe / that she remayne vnmarried / or be reconciled to her housband: and let not the housband put away his wyfe from him.

As for the other / vnto them saye I / not the Lorde: If any brother haue an vnbeleuing wyfe / and she is content to dwell with hym / let him not put her awaye. And if a woman haue an vnbeleuynge housbande / and he is content to dwel with her / let her not put him awaye. For the vnbeleuinge housebande is sanctifyed by the wyfe / and the vnbeleuinge wyfe is sanctifyed by the housbande: or els were youre chyldren vncleane / but nowe are they holy. But if the beleuinge departe / let him departe. A brother or a syster is not bownd in such cases / but god hath called vs in peace. For what knowest thou O woman / whether thou shalte saue the man? Or what knowest thou O man / whether thou shalte saue the woman? But euen as God hath distributed vnto euery one / and as the Lorde hath called euery man / so let him walke: and so orden I in all congregacions.

If any man be called beynge circumcised / let him take no Heythenshyppe vppon him: If any man be called in the Heythenshyppe / let hym not be circumcysed. Circumcisyon is nothinge / and vncircumcisyon is nothinge / but the kepynge of the commaundementes of God. Let euery one abyde in the callynge wherein he is called. Arte thou called a seruaunte / care not for it. Neuertheless / if thou mayest be free / vse it rather. For he that is called in the Lorde beynge a seruaunte / is a freman of the Lorde. Lykewyse he that is called beynge free / is a seruaūte of Christe. Ye are dearly boughte / be not ye seruauntes of men. Brethren / let euery one wherein he is called / therein abyde with God.

As concernynge virgines / I haue no commaundemente of the Lorde / neuertheless / I saye my good meaninge / as I haue optayned mercye of the Lorde to be faythfull / I suppose it is good for the presente necessite / for it is good for a man so to be. Arte thou bounde vnto a wyfe / seke not to be loused. Arte thou loused from a wyfe / seke not a wyfe. But if thou takest a wyfe / thou synnest not. And if a virgine marry / she synneth not. Neuertheless / suche shall haue trouble in the flesh. But I fauoure you.

Howbeit / this I saye brethren: the time is shorte. Furthermore / this is the meaning / that they whiche haue wyfes / be as though they had none: and they that wepe / be as though they wepte not: and they that reioyce / be as though they reioyced not / and they that bye / be as though they possessed not / & they that vse this worlde / be as though they vsed it not. For the fashyon of thys worlde woulde passeth awaye. †But I wolde that ye shoulde be without care. *He that is syngle/ careth for the thinges of the Lorde/ how ye maye please the Lorde. But he that is married/ careth for the thinges of the worlde/ how he maye please his wyfe/ and is deuided. A woman and a virgine that is syngle/ careth for the thinges of the Lorde/ that she maye be holy both in body and also in sprete. But she that is married/ careth for the thinges of the worlde/ howe she maye please her housebande.

E This I saie for youre profyte/ not that I will tangle you in a snare/ But for that whiche is honeste/ and comly vnto you/ that ye maye continually cleue vnto the Lorde without hinderaunce. But if any man thinke that it is vncomly for his virgin/ if she passe time marriage/ and if nede so require/ let him do what he list/ he sinneth not/ let them be coupled in marriage. Neuertheless/ he that purposeth surely in his herte/ hauinge no nede/ but hath power of his owne will/ and determineth so in his herte to kepe his virgine/ doeth well. Finally/ he that ioyneth his virgine in marriage/ doeth well: but he that ioyneth not his

If we eate/ we shall not therfore be the better: If we eate not: we shall not therfore be the lesse. But take hede that this your libertye be not an occasyon of falling vnto the weake. For if any man se the (which hast knowlege) syt at the table in the Idols house/ shall not his conscience whyle it is weake/ be occasioned to eate of the Idoll offerynges? The IX. Chapter.

AM I not an Apostle? Am I not fre? A Actu. ij.
†Haue I not sene Jesus Christe oure Lorde? Are not ye my worke in the Lord? If I be not an Apostle vnto other/ yet am I youre Apostle: For the seale of myne Apostelshippe/ are ye in the Lord. And wo vnto me/ if I preache not † Gospel. If I do it with a good will/ I shall haue my rewarde: but if I do it against my will/ yet is the office cōmitted vnto me. Wherefore then shall I be rewarded: (Namely therfore) that I preache the Gospell/ and do thesame frely for naught/ that I abuse not my liberte in † Gospell. † For though I am fre from all men/ yet haue I made me selfe euery mans seruaunt/ that I winne the mo. † Vnto the Jewes I am become as a Jewe/ to winne the Jewes. The XIII. Chapter. ✠

A THough I speake with the tunges of mẽ and aũgels/and yet had not louc/ I were euen as soundinge brasse/ or as a tyngling
Mat.vij.b Cymbal. † And though I coulde prophecie/ and vnderstode all secretes/and all knowlege/
Luce xvij.a and had all fayth / so † that I coulde moue mountaynes out of theyr places/& yet had not loue/ I were nothynge. And though I bestowed all my goodes to fede the poore/ and though I gaue my body euen that I burned / and yet haue not loue / it profyteth me nothinge.

Loue is pacient and curteous/loue enuyeth not/loue doeth not frowardly/ is not puft vp/
Phil.ij.b dealeth not dishonestly/†seketh not her owne/ is not prouoked vnto anger/thinketh not euel/ reioyceth not ouer iniquite / but reioyceth in ỹ trueth / beareth all thinges / beleueth all thinges/hopeth all thinges/suffreth all thinges.

B Though Prophecyenges fayle / or tunges ceasse/or knowlege pery she/ yet loue falleth neuer awaye. For oure knowlege is vnperfecte/ and oure prophecienge is vnperfecte. But whan that whiche is perfect / commeth / then shall ỹ vnperfect be done away. Whan I was a child / I spake as a child / I vnderstode as a child/I ymagined as a child. But as soone as I was a man/I put away childishnesse. Now we se thorow a glasse in a darke speakinge / but then shall we se face to face. Now I know vnperfectly / but then shall I know euẽ as I am knowen. Now abideth fayth/hope/ loue/ these thre: but the greatest of these is loue. ✠

The XIIII. Chapter.

A LAbour for loue. Couet spirituall giftes/ but specially that ye maye prophecie. For he ỹ speaketh with tunges/ speaketh not vnto men/ but vnto God: for noma heareth him. Howbeit / in the spirete he speaketh misteries. But he that prophecieth/ speaketh vnto men to edifienge/and to exhortacion / and to cõforte. He that speaketh with tunges / edifieth him selfe: but he that prophecieth: edifieth the congregacion. I wolde that ye all spake with tunges/but rather that ye prophecyed. For greater is he that prophecyeth/ thẽ he that speaketh with tunges: excepte he also expounde it/that the congregacion maye haue edifienge. But now brethren/if I come vnto you / and speake with tunges/ what shall I profet you/ excepte I speake vnto you / eyther by reuelacyon/ or by knowlege / or by Prophecyenge / or by Doctryne?

Lykewyse is it also in the thynges that geue B sound/and yet lyue not: whether it be a pype/ or an harpe / excepte they geue distincte soundes from thẽ/howe shall it be knowen what is yped? or harped? And if the trompe geue an vncertayne sounde / who wyll prepare hym selfe to the battayll? Euen so ye lykewyse/ whan ye speake with tunges/excepte ye speake playne wordes / how shall it be knowen what is spoken? for ye shall but speake in the ayre. So many kindes of voyces are in the worlde/ and none of them is wythout signification. If I knowe not nowe what the voyce meaneth / I shall be an aleaunt vnto hym that speaketh / and he that speaketh / shalbe an aleaunt vnto me. Euen so ye (for so muche as ye couet spiritual gyftes) seke that ye maye haue plentye to the edifyenge of the congregacion. Wherfore let hym that speaketh with tunges/ praye/that he maye interprete also. If I praye with tunges / my spirete prayeth / but my vnderstandinge bringeth noman frute. How shall it be thẽ? Namely thus: I wyl praye with the spirete/ and wil praye with vnderstandinge also/ I will synge Psalmes in the spirete / and wil synge Psalmes with the vnderstandinge also.

But whan thou geuest thankes with the C spirete / how shall he that occupieth the roume of the vnlearned/saye Amen at thy geuinge of thankes / seynge he knoweth not what thou sayest? Thou geuest well thankes/but the other is not edifyed. I thanke my God / that I speake with tũges more then ye all. Yet had I leuer in the congregacion to speake fyue wordes with my vnderstandinge / that I maye enfourme other also / rather then ten thousande wordes with tunges. † Brethren be Ephe.iiij not chyldren in vnderstandinge / howbeit / as concerninge maliciousnesse be chyldren / but in vnderstandinge be perfecte. In the lawe it Esa.
is wrytten: † With other tunges / and with xxviij other

other lyppes will I speake vnto thys people/ and yet shall they not heare me/ sayeth ỹ Lorde. † Therfore are tunges for a token / not to g.b them that belefe / but to them that belefe not. Cõtrary wyse / prophecyenge/ not to them that belefe not/but to them which belefe.

D If the whole congregacion now came together into one place / and spake all with tunges / and there came in they that are vnlearned / or they whiche belefe not / shoulde they not saye/that ye were out of your wittes? But if all prophecied / and there came in one that beleued not / or one vnlearned / he shoulde be rebuked of them all/and iudged of all / and so shoulde the secrete of hys herte be opened/and so shoulde he fal doune vpon his face / worshippinge God / and knowleginge / that of a trueth God is in you. How is it then brethren? Whan ye come together / euery one hath a Psalme / hath doctryne / hath a tunge/ hath a reuelacion / hath an interpretacion. Let all be done to edifyeng. If any man speake with tunges / let hym do it hym selfe/ beynge the seconde/or at the moost hym selfe / beynge the thyrde / and one after another / and let one interprete it. But if there be not an interpreter/then let him kepe sylence in the congregacion/howbeit/ let him speake to him selfe / and to God. As for the Prophetes / let two or thre a.iiij.a speake/† let the other iudge. But if any reuelacion be made vnto another that sytteth / then let the fyrst holde his peace.

E Ye maye all prophecie one after another/ that they all maye learne / and that all may haue comforte. And the spirete of the Prophetes are subiecte vnto the Prophetes. For God n.xv.d is not a God of dissencion/† but of peace/ like or.xj.a as in all congregacions of the sainctes. * Let n.ij.d youre wyfes kepe silence in the congregacion/ for it shall not be permitted vnto thẽ to speake/n.iij.c but to be vnder obedience/† as the lawe saieth also. But if they will learne any thinge/ let thẽ axe theyr housbandes at home. For it becommeth not women to speake in the congregacion. Or sprange the worde of God from amonge you? Or is it come vnto you only? If any man thynke hym selfe to be a prophete / or spirituall / let him know what I wryte vnto you / for they are the commaundementes of the Lorde. But if any man be ignoraunt / let hym be ignoraunt. Wherfore brethren / couet to Prophecye / and forbyd not to speake with tunges. † Let all thynges be done honestely Colos.ij.a and in order.

The XV. Chapter. ✠

I Declare vnto you brethrẽ the Gospel that A I haue preached vnto you (which ye haue Galat.j.a

✠ But if Christ be preached / that he is rysen from the dead / howe saye then some amonge you/that there is no resurrection of the dead? If there be no resurrection of the dead/ then is Christe not rysen. If Christ be not rysen/then is our preachinge in vayne/ and your fayth is also in vayne: yee / and we are founde false witnesses of God / because we haue testified agaynst God / that he hath raysed vp Christ / whome he hath not raysed vp / if the dead ryse not agayne. For if the dead ryse not agayne / then is Christ also not rysen agayne. But if Christ be not rysen agayne/then is your fayth in vayne / and ye are yet in youre synnes: they also that are fallen a slepe in Christ/ are pery shed. If in this lyfe onely we hope in Christ / then are we of all men the moost miserable.

E ✠ All flesshe is not one maner of flesshe/ but there is one maner flesshe of men / another of beastes / another of fyshes / another of byrdes. And there are heauenly bodies / and there are earthly bodies: but ỹ heauenly haue one glory/

Howbeit/ the spiritual body is not the fyrst/ but the natural/ and then the spiritual. ✠ The fyrst man is of the earth/ earthy: the seconde man is from heauen/ heauenly. As the earthye is/ such are they also that are earthly: and as the heauenly is/ suche are they also that are heauenly. And as we haue borne the ymage of ỹ earthy/ so shall we beare the ymage of the heauenly also. Thys I saye brethrē / that flesshe & blonde can not inheret the kyngdome of God: neyther shall corrupcion inheret vncorrupcion.

But he † hath ordeyned vs for this / is God / † whiche hath geuen vs the earnest of the spryte. B Wherefore / whether we be at home / or from home / we endeuoure our selfes to please him. † For we muste all appeare before the iudgement seate of Christ / that euery one maye receaue in his body / accordynge to that he hath done / whether it be good or bad. ✝ Seinge then that we knowe howe that the Lorde is to be feared / we deale fayre with men / but we are knowen well ynough vnto God: I truste also / that we are knowen in youre conscience. We prayse not oure selfes agayne vnto you / but geue you an occasyon to reioyce of vs / that ye maye haue to reioyce againste them / whiche reioyce after the outewarde appearaunce / and not after the hert. The VII. Chapter.

A SEynge nowe that we haue suche promises / (dearly beloued) let vs clense oure selfes from all fylthinesse of the flesshe and spryte / and growe vp to full holynesse in the feare of God. Vnderstande vs ryghte: We haue hurte noman / we haue corrupte noman. We haue defrauded noman. I speake not this to condempne you / for I haue shewed you before / that ye are in oure hertes to dye and to lyue with you. I am very bolde towarde you. I make muche boast of you / I am fylled with comforte / I am exceadinge ioyous in all oure tribulacion. † For whan we were come into Macedonia / oure flesshe had no reste / but we were troubled on euery syde: outwarde was fyghting / inwarde was feare. Neuertheless / † God that comforteth the abiecte / comforted vs by the comminge of Titus.

ct. xvj. b
Cor. j. a

B Not onely by his comminge / but also by the consolacion wherwith he was comforted of you / whan he tolde vs youre desyre / youre wepinge / youre feruent minde for me / so that I now reioyce the more. For where as I made you sory by the letter / it repenteth me not / though I did repente. For I se / that the same epistle made you sory (though it were but for a season.) But now I reioice / not that ye were sory / but that ye were sory to repentaunce. For ye sorowed godly / so that in nothinge ye were hurte by vs. † For godly sorow causeth repentaunce vnto saluacion / not to be repented of: † but worldlye sorowe causeth death. Beholde / where as ye haue had godly sorowe / what diligence hath it wroughte in you? Yee / a sufficient aunswere / displeasure / feare / desyre / a feruent minde / punishemente. For in all pointes ye haue shewed your selfes / that ye are cleare in the matter.

j. Pet. iij. c
Eccle. xxx. c

Wherefore though I wrote vnto you / yet C is it not done for his cause that did hurte / neither for his cause that was hurte: but that youre diligence (which ye haue for vs in the sighte of God) might be manifest with you. Therefore are we cõforted / Because ye are comforted: but exceadinge the more ioyed we / for the ioye of Titus / because his spryte was refreshed of you al. I am therfore not nowe ashamed / though I boasted my selfe vnto him of you: but lyke as all is true that I haue spoken vnto you / euen so is oure boastinge vnto Titus founde true also. And his inwarde affeccion is more aboundaunt towarde you / whan he remembreth the obedience of you al / howe ye receaued him with feare and tremlinge. I reioyce that I maie be bolde ouer you in all thinges.

Act.iiij.a viij.a.xxij.a Phil.iij.a For ye haue herde of my conuersacion afore tyme in the Jewshyppe/† how that beyonde measure I persecuted the congregacion of God/ and spoyled it/ and preuayled in the Jewshyppe aboue many of my companions in my nacion/† and was a muche more feruēt maintener of the tradicions of the fathers.

C Act.ix. and xxij. But whan it pleased God whiche separated me from my mothers wombe/ † and called me by his grace/for to declare his sonne in me/ that I shoulde preache him thorowe the Gospel amonge the Heithen/ immediatly I communed not of the matter with †flesh and bloude/ neyther came I to Jerusalem vnto them whiche were Apostles before me: but wente my wayes into Arabia/ and came againe to Damascon. Then after thre yeare I came to Jerusalē to se Peter/ and abode with him fystene dayes. As for the other Apostles/ I sawe none of them/saue James the Lordes brother.

Mat. d c a The thinges that I wryte vnto you/beholde/† God knoweth/I lye not. After that ij.Cor. went I into the coastes of Syria and Cilicia: but of face I was vnknowen of the Christen congregacions in Jewry. Neuertheless/ they had herde onely that: He that persecuted in tyme passed/preacheth now the fayth which some time he destroied: and they praised God in me. ✠

The II. Chapter.

THen after fourtene yeares/ † I wente vp agayne to Jerusalem with Barnabas: and Tytus with me also. But I wente vp by reuelacion/and communed with them of the Gospel/whiche I preache amonge the Heythen: but specially with them whiche were in reputacion/lest/I should runne/or had runne in vayne. † But Titus whiche was also with me/ was not compelled to be circumcised/ though he was a Greke: and that because of certayne incommers/ beynge false brethren/ whiche came in amonge other/ to spye oute oure libertie/ whiche we haue in Christe Jesu/ that they might bringe vs into bondage: To whome we gaue no roume/no/not for the space of an houre/as cōcerning to be brought into subieccion: that the trueth of the Gospel might continue with you.

A Act. Act.x Rom Ephe As for them that semed to be greate/what they were in tyme passed/ it maketh no matter to me. † For God loketh not on the outewarde apperaunce of men. Neuertheless/ they which semed great/taught me nothing: but contrarywyse whan they sawe that the Gospell ouer the vncircumcisyon was committed vnto Peter: (for he that was myghtye with Peter to the Apostelshyppe ouer the circumcision/the same was mighty with me also amonge the Heythen) they perceaued ỹ grace that was geuen vnto me.

James and Cephas/and Jhon/ which semed to be pyllers/ † gaue me and Barnabas the ryghte handes/ and agreed with vs/ that we shoulde preache amonge the Heythen/and they amōge the Jewes/ onely that we shoulde remēbre the poore/ † whiche thinge also I was diligent to do.

But whan Peter was come to Antioche/ I withstode hym in the face/ for he was worthy to be blamed. For afore there came certayne from James/ he dyd eate with the Heythen. But whan they were come/ he withdrue and separated hym selfe/ fearing them which were of the circumcision. And the other Jewes dissembled with hym lykewyse/ in so muche that Barnabas was broughte into theyr simulacion also. But whan I sawe that they walked not ryghte after the trueth of the Gospell/ I saide vnto Peter openly before all: If thou beynge a Jewe/ lyuest after the maner of the Gentiles/and not as do the Jewes/why causest thou the Gentiles then to lyue as do the Jewes?

C a ij.b † Though we be Jewes by nature/and not synners of the Gentiles/ * (yet in so muche as we knowe/ that a man is not made righteous by the dedes of the lawe/ but by the fayth on Jesus Christ) we haue beleued also on Jesus Christ/ that we myght be made righteous by the fayth of Christe/and not by the dedes of the lawe/ because that by the dedes of the lawe no fleshe shalbe iustified.

If we then whiche seke to be made righteous by Christ/ shoulde be yet founde synners oure selfes/ is not Christ then the minister of synne? God forbyd. For if I buylde agayne that which I haue destroyed/then make I my self a trespasser. † But I thorowe the lawe am dead vnto the law/ that I myght lyue vnto God. I am crucified with Christ/ yet do I lyue: neuertheless/ now not I/ but Christ liueth in me. For the lyfe whiche I now liue in the flesh/ I liue in the fayth of the sonne of God/ † whiche loued me/ and gaue him selfe for me/ I cast not awaye the grace of God. For if righteousnesse come by the lawe/ then died Christ in vayne.

The Epistle of the Apostle S. Paul vnto the Hebrues.

The fyrst Chapter. ✠

GOd in tyme paste diuerslye & many wayes / spake vnto
the fathers by prophetes/but in these laste dayes he hath spoken vnto vs by his sonne / † whome he hath made heyre of all thynges/by whome also he made the worde. * Whiche (sonne) beynge the bryghtnesse of his glory/and the very ymage of his substaunce / bea-rynge vp all thynges with the worde of hys power / † hath in his owne persone pourged oure synnes/ and is set on the righte hande of the maiestye on hyghe: beynge euen as much more excellent then the aungels / as he hath optayned a more excellent † name then they.

For vnto which of the aungels / sayde he at any tyme: * Thou art my sonne / thys daye haue I begotten the: And agayne: † I will be hys father/ and he shalbe my sonne. And a-gayne/whan he bryngeth in the fyrst begotten sonne into the worlde/he sayeth: * And all the aungels of God shall worshyp hym. And of the aungels he sayeth: † He maketh hys aun-gels spretes / and his ministers flammes of fyre. But vnto the sonne he sayeth: † God/ thy seate endureth for euer and euer / the cepter of thy kingdome is a righte cepter. Thou hast loued ryghteousnesse/& hated iniquite: wherfore God (whiche is thy God) hath anoynted the with the oyle of gladnesse aboue thy felo-
wes. † And thou Lorde in the begynninge hast layed the foundacion of the earthe/ and the heauens are the workes of thy handes/† they shall pery she/but thou shalt endure: they all shall waxe olde as doeth a garment / and as a vesture shalt thou chaunge them/ and thei shalbe chaunged. But thou arte the same / and thy yeares shall not fayle. ✠ Vnto which of the aungels / sayde he at any tyme / † syt thou on my ryght hand/tyll I make thine enemyes thy fotestole? Are they not all ministringe spre-tes/sent to minister for their sakes/whiche shall be heyres of saluacion.

The II. Chapter.

WHerfore we ought to geue ȳ more hede vnto the thynges whiche we haue herde/lest/we pery she. For if the worde † whiche was spoken by aungels / was stedfast: and euery transgression & disobedience receaued a iuste recompence of reward/ how shall we escape/
If we despise so great a saluacion/ which † after that it began to be preached by the Lorde hym selfe/† was confirmed vpon vs/ by them that herde it. God bearynge witnesse therto with † tokens/wonders / and diuerse powers and gyftes of the holy ghoost / accordinge to his owne will.

For vnto the aungels hath he not subdued the worlde to come / whereof we speake. But one in a certayne place witnesseth and sayeth: † What is mā that thou art myndfull of him?
or the sonne of man / that thou visitest hym?
After thou haddest for a lytle season made him lower then the aungels / thou crounedest hym with honour and glorye / & hast set hym aboue the workes of thy handes. Thou hast put all thynges in subiection vnder his fete. † In that he subdued all thynges vnto hym / he left nothinge that is not put vnder hym. Neuer-theles/now se we not all thinges yet subdued vnto hym. But hym which for a lytle season was made lesse then the aungels/ we se that it is Jesus / whiche † is crouned with honour and glorye / for the sufferynge of death / that he by the grace of God shoulde † tayst of death for al mā. For it became him/for whome are all thynges / and by whome are all thyn-ges (after that he had brought many chyldren vnto glorye) that he shoulde make the Lorde of their saluacyon perfecte thorowe suffering/for so muche as they all come of one / bothe
he that sanctifyeth / and they whiche are sanctifyed.

For the whiche causes sake / he is not ashamed to cal them brethren/sayinge: † I will declare thy name amonge my brethren / and in the myddest of the cōgregacion wyl I prayse
the. And agayne: † I will put my trust in
hym. And agayne: * Beholde/ here am I and my chyldren/which God hath geuen me.

For as much then as the chyldren haue flesh and blonde / † he also hym selfe lykewyse toke parte with them / * that he thorowe death myght take away the power of hym / whiche had lordshyp ouer death / that is to say the de-uell: and that he myght delyuer them whiche thorowe feare of death were all their lyfe tyme in daunger of boundage. For he in no place taketh on hym the aungels/ but the sede of Abraham taketh he on hym. Wherfore in all thinges it became hym to be made † lyke vnto hys bretheren / that he myght be mercyfull/and a faythfull hye prieste in thynges concer-ninge God/ to make agrement for the synnes of the people. † For in that he hym selfe suffered and was tempted / he is able to succoure them that are tempted.

The III. Chapter.

WHerfore holy brethren / ye that are parta-kers of the heauenly callyng/consider the Embassadour and hye prieste of our profession Christ Jesus/whiche is † faythfull to him that ordeyned hym / euen as was * Moses in all his house. But thys man is worthy of greater honoure then Moses / in as muche as he whiche prepareth the house hath greater honour in it / then the house it selfe. For euery house is prepared of some man / † but he that ordeyned all thynges is God. And Moses verely was faythfull in all hys house as a minister / † and to beare witnesse of those thyn-ges which were to be spoken afterwarde. But Christ as a sonne hath rule ouer his house/† whose house are we/if we holde fast the confidence/& reioycinge of ȳ * hope vnto the ende.

Wherfore as the holy ghoost sayeth: † To day if ye shall heare his voyce hardē not youre hertes / * as in the prouokynge in the day of temptacyon in the wilderneſſe/where your fathers tempted me/proued me / and † sawe my workes fourtye yeares lōge. Wherfore I was greued with that generacion/and sayde. They erre euer in their hertes. But they knew not my wayes/so that I sware in my wrath / that they shoulde not enter into my rest.

Take hede brethren / that there be not in any of you an euel parte of vnbelefe to depart frō ȳ lyuinge God. But exhort youre selfes dayly/whyle it is called † to daye/lest/any of you were harde herted thorowe ȳ deceatfulnes of synne.
For we are become partakers of Christ/ † if we kepe sure vnto the ende the beginninge of the substaunce / so longe as it is sayde * to day / if ye shall heare hys voyce/ harden not your her-tes / as in the prouocacion. For some whan they herde/dyd prouoke. Howbeit / not all they came out of Egypt by Moses. But with whome was he displeased fourty yeares long?
Was he not displeased with them that synned? whose carcases were ouerthrowen in the wilderneſſe? † To whome sware he / that they shoulde not enter into his rest / but vnto them that beleued not? And we se that they coulde not enter in because of vnbelefe.

The. IIII. Chapter.

LEt vs feare therfore / leste / any of vs forsa-kinge the promes of enterynge into his reste / shoulde seme to come behynde: for it is declared vnto vs as well as vnto them. † But the worde of preachinge helped not them/whā they that had herd it/beleued it not. (For we which haue beleued enter into his rest) accordinge as he sayde. Euen as I haue sworne in my wrath: They shall not enter into my rest.
And that (spake he) verely longe / after that the workes frō the begynninge of the worlde were made. For he spake in a certayne place of the seuenth day on thys wyse: † and God rested on the seuenth day from all hys workes.
And in thys place agayne: † They shall not come into my rest.

Seynge it foloweth then / that some must enter therinto/and they to whome it was fyrst preached/entred not therein for vnbelefes sake/therfore appoynteth he a day agayne after so longe tyme/ and sayeth: To daye (as is rehearced by Saud. † To day if ye shall heare

For if Josua had geuen them rest then wolde he not afterward haue spoken of another day.

The XV. Chapter.

A And I sawe another sygne in heauē great and maruaylous vij. aungels hauinge the seuen laste plagues/ †for in them is fulfylled the wrath of God. And I saw as it were Dan. xj. c a glassy see myngled with fyre/& thē that had gotten victorye of the beast/and of his image and of his marcke/ and of the numbre of his name stande on the glassy see/hauing the harpes of God/& they songe the song of Moses the seruaunt of God/& the song of the lambe/ sayinge: Great and marualous are thy workes Lord God almighty/iuste and true are Jere. x. a thy waies/thou kinge of sainctes. †Who shal not feare O Lorde and glorifye thy name: For thou onely arte holy: for all Gentiles shal come and worship before the: for thy iudgementes are manifest.

B And after that I loked/& behold ỹ temple of the Tabernacle of testimony was open in heauen/& the seuen aungels came out of the temple/which had the seuen plagues/ clothed in pure and bright linnen/hauinge their brestes gyrded with golden girdels. The. XVI. Chapter.

A And I herde a greate voyce oute of the temple / sayinge to the seuen aungels: Go youre waies/poure oute youre vyalles of wrath vpon the earth. And the fyrste wente/ and poured oute his vyal vpon the earth/and there fel a noysom/ and a sore botch vpon the men whiche had the marke of the beast/& vpō them that worshipped his image. And the seconde aungel shed out his vyal vpon the see/ and it turned as it were into the bloude of a dead man/and euery liuinge thing dyed in ỹ see. And the thirde aungel shed out his vyall vpon the ryuers and fountaines of waters/ and they turned to bloude. And I herde an aungel saye: Lord which art and wast/ thou art righteous and holy/because thou hast geuen such iudgmentes: for they shed the bloud of sainctes/& prophetes/ & therfore haste thou geuē thē bloud to drinke: for they are worthy. B And I herd another aungel out of the aulter saye: Euen so Lord God almighty/true and righteous are thy iudgementes.

And the fourth aungel poured out his viall on the Sunne/ and power was geuen vnto him to vexe men with heat of fyre. And the men raged in the heate/and spake euell of the name of God/ which had power ouer those plagues/and they repented not to geue hym glory. And the fyfte aungell poured oute his vyall vpon the seate of the beaste/ & his kingdom waxed darke/& they gnewe their tunges for sorowe/& blasphemed the God of heauen for sorowe/and payne of their sores/and repented not of their dedes.

And the syxte aungel poured oute his vial C vpon the great ryuer Euphrates/ and the water dried vp/that the waie of the kinges of the East shoulde be prepared. And I sawe three vncleane spretes lyke frogges / come oute of the mouthe of the Dragon / and oute of the mouth of the beaste/and out of the mouth of the false prophete. For they are the spretes of deuels workinge miracles/to go out vnto the kinges of the earth/ and of the whole worlde/ to gather them to the battail of the great day of God almighty. †Beholde / I come as a mat. xxiiij. d theefe. And the seuenth aungell poured oute his D vyall into the ayre. And there came a greate voyce oute of heauen from the seate sayinge: It is done. And there folowed voyces/ thondringes/and lyghtninges / and there was a greate greate earthquake/such as was not sence men were vpon earth/so mighty an earthquake & so great. And the great citie was deuided into thre partes. And the cities of nacions fell.

And great Babylon came in remembraunce before God/to geue vnto her the cuppe of wyne of the fearcenesse of his wrath. And euery yle fledde awaye/and the mountaines were not found. And there fell a great haile/as it had ben talentes out of heauen vpon the men/and the men blaspheamed God/because of the plague of the hayle/for it was greate/& the plague of it was sore.

The XVII. Chapter.

A AND there came one of the seuen aungels/ whiche had the seuen vyalles/and talked with me/sayinge vnto me: Come I wyll shewe the the iudgement of the great whore/ that sytteth vpon many waters/with whome the kynges of the earth haue cõmitted whoredome/and the inhabiters of the earth are dronken with the wyne of her fornicacion. And he caryed me away into the wylderneſſe in the spriete. And I sawe a woman syt vppon a rose coloured beaste/full of names of blaſphemye/whiche had seuen heades and ten hornes. And the woman was arayed in purple and rose coloure/& decked wt golde/precious stone/and pearles/and had a cuppe of golde in her hande/full of abhominacions/and fylthinesse of her whoredome. And in her forehead was a name wrytten/a mystery: great Babylon the mother of whoredome/and abhominacions of the earthe.
B And I saw the wyfe dronke with the bloude of sainctes/and with the bloude of witnesses of Jesu. And whan I sawe her/I wondred with greate maruayle.
And the aungell sayde vnto me: wherfore maruayleſt thou? I wyll shewe the the mystery of the woman/& of the beast that beareth her/which hath seuen heades/& ten hornes. And there shalbe nomore death / neyther sorowe / neyther shal there be any more paine / for the olde thinges are gone: And he that sat vpon ỹ seate / sayde: † Beholde / I make all thinges new. ✠ And he sayde vnto me: wryte / for these wordes are faythfull and true. Ez. xliij. a Esa. lxv. b Apoc. vij. c 1. Cor. v. c 2. Pet. iij. b

C And he sayde vnto me: it is done. † I am Alpha and Omega / the beginninge and the ende. I will geue to hym that is a thyrst of the welle of the water of lyfe frely. He that ouercommeth / shall inheret all thinges. * I will be his God / & he shalbe my sonne. But the fearfull and vnbeleuinge / and the abhominable / and murtherers / and whoremongers / and sorcerers / and ydolatrers / and all lyars / shal haue theyr part in the † lake / that burneth with fyre and brymstone / which is the seconde death. Esa. xlviij. b Apoc. j. b and xxij. c *Zac. viij. b Hebr. viij. c Apoc. xx. c

D And there came vnto me one of the seuen aungels / which had the seuē vialles full of the seuē last plagues: and talked with me sayinge: Come / I will shew the ỹ bride / ỹ lambes wyfe. And he caried me awaye in ỹ spriete to a great and an hye mountayn / and he shewed me the great cytie / holy Jerusalem / descendinge out of heauen from God / hauinge the brightnesse of God. And her shininge was lyke vnto a stone moost precious / euē as a Jaspar / clear as cristal: and had great and hye walles / and had xij. gates / and at the gates twelf aungels / and names written: whiche are the twelf trybes of Israel: on the East part thre gates / and on the North syde thre gates / and towarde ỹ South thre gates / and on the West syde thre gates: & the wall of the cytie had twelfe foundacions / and in them the names of the lambes twelfe Apostles.

† And he that talked with me / had a golden rede to measure the cytie withal / and the gates thereof / and the wall thereof. And ỹ cytie was buyldt foure square / & the lēgth was as large as the bredth of it / and he measured the cytie with the rede twelfe M. furlonges: and the length and the bredth / and heyght of it were equal. And he measured the wall thereof an cxliiij. cubites / after ỹ measure of a man / which the aungel had. And the buylding of the wall of it was of Jaspar. And the cytie was of pure gold / lyke vnto cleare glasse / and the foundacions of the walles and of the cytie were garnyshed withall maner of precious stones. The fyrst foundacion was a Jaspar / the seconde a Saphyre / the thyrde a Calcedony / the fourth a Smaragde / the fyfth a Sardonix / the syxte a Sardeos / the seuenth a Chrysolyte / the eyght Berall / ỹ nynthe a Topas / the tenth a Chrysopraſos / the eleuenth a Jacinct / the twelfte an Amatyst. Zach. ij. a

And the twelfe gates were twelfe pearles / and euery gate was of one pearle / and ỹ strete of the cytie was pure gold / as a thorowe shyninge glasse. And I sawe no temple therein. For the Lord God almyghty and the lambe is the temple of it / and the cytie hath no nede of the Sunne / neyther of the Moone to lighten it. For the bryghtnesse of God doeth lyght it: and the lambe is the lyght of it. And the people which are saued / shall walke in ỹ lyghte of it: and the kinges of the earth shall bringe theyr glory vnto it. † And the gates of it shall not be shut by daye. For there shalbe no nighte there. And there shall entre into it none vncleane thinge / neyther whatsoeuer worketh abhomination / or maketh lyes: but they which are wrytten in the lambes boke of lyfe. Esa. lx. b

The XXII. Chapter.

A AND he shewed me a pure riuer of water of lyfe/clear as cristal/ procedinge out of the seate of God and of the lambe/ in the myddes of the strete of it/ and of eyther syde of the ryuer was there woode of life/which bare twelfe maner of frutes/ & gaue frute euery moneth: and the leaues of the woode serued to heale the people withal.

And there shalbe nomore curse/but the seate of God and the lambe shalbe in it: and his ser-
