FOREWORD

Praise God for His Story as it is recorded in His Word. My sincere prayer is that this volume will become a tool to guide you in listening to the voice of God as He speaks through His Word.

The thrill of hearing Him speak today from this old Book, His Holy Word, has not left me. It has been life-changing. However, for many the Bible may be something of a closed door. Although its stories are all fairly familiar, there seems to be a great void of understanding exactly what these stories can mean for Christians living in the present day. Many people who read God's Word believe it; they just don't believe it works for them today. It does! You will find the factual information in introductory materials, annotations, topical notes, portraits, charts, and maps in The Woman's Study Bible to be helpful in showing you how it works.

Truth does not change (2 Tim. 3:16). While experts in science, technology, geology, and theology are constantly changing their findings and conclusions, God's Word has remained unchanged since it was written thousands of years ago. Various challenges may be made to the historical accounts found in the Bible, but you are going to be excited as you begin to read reasonable explanations for many of your questions. There will, of course, be some things, that is, the mysteries of God, for which there are no answers at this time, in this life. The challenge of these mysteries will lead you to worship a God whose ways are past finding out, whose thoughts are higher than our thoughts (Rom. 11:33; Is. 55:9).

Ask God to open your eyes that you might see Him in a fresh way and open your ears that you might hear His voice speaking to you as you read His Word, and let The Woman's Study Bible be your guide.

Foreword to the Second Edition

Dear Reader,

The Woman's Study Bible has blessed and touched countless women since it was first published over ten years ago, and we justly felt that a new, updated edition was long overdue. Our review of the features and study notes resulted in our keeping all of the same study helps, condensing a few articles and verse notes for a more effective and user-friendly layout. Next, we added an all-new set of articles called Perspectives, written by noted female authors, which touch on the importance of reading and studying God's word. Finally, we chose to give our Bible a beautiful new design—inside and out. Therefore, it is with great pleasure that we present to you The Woman's Study Bible, Second Edition. Our prayerful hope is that you will grow in a deeper knowledge and love for the Lord as He reveals Himself to you through these pages.

In Christ,

INTRODUCTION

The Woman's Study Bible is a unique tool for opening God's Word to women through a comprehensive study of Scripture prepared by women for women on subjects important to women. Recent history has awakened a growing awareness of and sensitivity to women and their concerns—their value in being made in the image of God, their innermost personal needs, and their challenging opportunities to serve the Lord. The Bible is one of the most important means by which a woman's identity and her place in society should be defined. The Creator presented His perfect plan, but Satan used his wiles through a woman to bring sin into the world. God countered this satanic attack by using a woman to give birth to the Savior who would provide redemption. A world distorted by the presence of sin and evil is full of suffering and pain, but God and His Holy Word are not responsible for creating the injustices and tragedies suffered by women or men.

Women in the ancient world did not have an easy or perfect life, but Israelite women were better off than their contemporaries. The Law of Israel was designed to protect women, their rights, and their freedom (Deut. 21:10–14; 22:13, 28). Israelite women did have certain rights as well as greater freedom, more varied pursuits, and better social status than the women from pagan nations. The vast majority of women primarily administered their households and cared for their husbands and children.

Jesus did not hesitate to teach women and to use them in parables and illustrations. Women were present at the Crucifixion (Luke 23:49); they prepared the Lord's body for burial (Luke 23:56); they were first at the tomb on Resurrection morning (Luke 24:1); they were the first to bear testimony to the Resurrection (Luke 24:9, 10); their faith and prayers were vital to the growth of the early church (Rom. 16:1). Everywhere Christianity has gone, the status of women has improved.

In 1895, Elizabeth Cady Stanton published The Woman's Bible with intent to achieve freedom from what she alleged to be the "oppression" of Scripture. She commented on passages of particular interest to women and removed verses she considered tainted with a male bias. She was motivated by an agenda based on her own experience and was grasping for a position that would place her over Scripture. This position helped lay the ideological foundation for a feministic theology that makes individual conscience and personal experience the ultimate basis for interpreting Scripture. A century later, the editorial committee of The Woman's Study Bible has chosen to line up under the authority of Scripture. We have followed an objective approach. We have sought to understand the message of the Bible, while committing ourselves to live out its principles in faith and practice. We are bound to the absolute veracity and uniqueness of God's Word. We do not need to twist or rewrite Scripture, to redefine its words, or to choose what we will accept as authoritative, which would exalt human reason. Rather we are committed to dig deep into Scripture in order to find a word from God about who we are and how we are to live.

More than eighty women from many different denominations, ethnic backgrounds, and occupations comprised the editorial team. Women have worked through every step of production—design and layout, typesetting, proofreading, marketing, and sales. Singles, wives, mothers, and grandmothers—all have combined their training and giftedness to expend the time, energy, and creativity to produce a timeless and Christ-honoring study tool uniquely designed to meet the needs of women whatever their situation in life—whether overwhelmed with family problems, frustrated from career injustices, burdened with the trials of everyday living, challenged with making life-changing decisions, or merely motivated to seek a word from God.

Before any research was begun or manuscript written, these guidelines were prayerfully adopted:

- A distinctive exegesis pulls out the meaning of the text instead of reading into the text personal whims.
- Intuitive scholarship combines the discernment of intuition with the discipline of scholarship, bringing a new dimension to evangelical interpretation.

- Nurturing sensitivity brings new and exciting ways to encourage and inspire.
- Mentoring friendships undergird spiritual bonding, finding more common ground than polarity in a quest to understand and interpret Scripture.
- Creative service links mind and heart to present inspiration and guidance that is fresh and relevant.

The features of The Woman's Study Bible are skillfully woven together and easily accessed through an extensive referencing system. The articles provide thought-provoking scholarship, devotional meditation, and the practical development of faith.

Introductory material accompanies each book of the Bible with information about the author, date, setting, purpose, audience, literary characteristics, and themes. The outline will lead you through a study of the book in a systematic way. The annotations placed in sidebars are helpful in drawing out of the text necessary information to explain difficult passages, idiomatic phrases, or obscure words as well as in identifying places and people.

The topical notes on subjects of interest to women of all ages and in all stages of life have been prepared based upon principles found in Scripture, enabling and motivating you to make personal application of God's truth to your own problems.

More than one hundred portraits bring to life the women of the Bible, giving a brief glimpse of life in the ancient world, presenting their problems and how they solved them, showing both the good and the bad, sharing the results of doing something God's way in contrast to going your own way (Is. 53:6). We are awed by the faithfulness of many of these women to doing God's work, to obeying His Word, and to making significant contributions to the kingdom. Many of these Bible women will become your examples, your inspiration, your mentors, and your friends.

The twelve Perspectives articles shed light on the significance of the Bible and how to study God's word effectively. What's more, they are written by noted authors Emilie Barnes, Dee Brestin, Kimberly Daniels, Nancy Leigh DeMoss, Linda Dillow, Roberta Hromas, Anne Graham Lotz, Stormie Omartian, and Kathy Troccoli.

The charts and maps have been prepared for the unique focus of this volume. The travels of Ruth and Mary and the events in Christ's ministry are among the general subjects of maps that have been carefully designed to reflect the presence of women. Charts include the development of family trees and treatment of other subjects with special prominence given to women.

Inspirational quotations from women of many generations are found throughout, accompanied by planned space for preserving your own insights of application of the text to your own life. The most important part of studying God's Word is always a personal reading of the text of Scripture and a willingness to let its words speak to you and perhaps change your life.

Binding all these elements together is an index, an alphabetical guide to the special features—all the topical notes, portraits, charts, maps, and many of the subjects covered in annotations. In the extensive cross-referencing system, topical notes and portraits are noted by book and chapter at the point of reference; charts and maps can be easily located through the alphabetical guide. A brief concordance of important words in the Bible is also included.

This volume will provide rewarding study for the serious Bible student, while also offering a meaningful introduction to the study of God's Word for any woman who would come reverently to Scripture with an open heart. The inexhaustible Word of God will introduce you to the Father and His love; it will unveil and give understanding of His will; it will reveal His Law and principles for living; it will offer intellectual challenges for your mind, moral values for your will, and spiritual refreshment for your heart. For every woman who opens the Holy Word of God, His/story of redemption can become her/story of deliverance. Let The Woman's Study Bible become a catalyst for changing your life by helping you unlock God's Word, share His promises, and offer His challenges.

A WORD FROM THE TRANSLATORS OF THE NEW KING JAMES VERSION

Purpose

In the preface to the 1611 edition of the Authorized Version, known popularly as the King James Bible, the translators state that it was not their purpose "to make a new translation . . . but to make a good one better." Indebted to the earlier work of William Tyndale and others, they saw their best contribution to consist in revising and enhancing the excellence of the English versions which had sprung from the Reformation of the sixteenth century. In harmony with the purpose of the King James scholars, the translators and editors of the present work have not pursued a goal of innovation. They have perceived the Holy Bible, New King James Version, as a continuation of the labors of the earlier translators, thus unlocking for today's readers the spiritual treasures found especially in the Authorized Version of the Holy Scriptures.

The King James translators were committed to producing an English Bible that would be a precise translation and by no means a paraphrase or a broadly approximate rendering. On the one hand, the scholars were almost as familiar with the original languages of the Bible as with their native English. On the other hand, their reverence for the divine Author and His Word assured a translation of Scripture in which only a principle of utmost accuracy could be accepted. Therefore, while seeking to unveil the excellent form of the traditional English Bible, special care has also been taken in the present edition to preserve the work of precision that is the legacy of the 1611 translators.

Complete Equivalence in Translation

Where new translation has been necessary in the New King James Version, the most complete representation of the original has been rendered by considering the history of usage and etymology of words in their contexts. This principle of complete equivalence seeks to preserve all of the information in the text, while presenting it in good literary form. Dynamic equivalence, a recent procedure in Bible translation, commonly results in paraphrasing where a more literal rendering is needed to reflect a specific and vital sense. For example, complete equivalence truly renders the original text in expressions such as "lifted her voice and wept" (Gen. 21:16) and "'Woman, what does your concern have to do with Me?'" (John 2:4). Complete equivalence translates fully, in order to provide an English text that is both accurate and readable.

In keeping with the principle of complete equivalence, it is the policy to translate interjections which are commonly omitted in modern language renderings of the Bible. As an example, the interjection behold, in the older King James editions, continues to have a place in English usage, especially in dramatically calling attention to a spectacular scene, or an event of profound importance such as the Immanuel prophecy of Isaiah 7:14. Consequently, behold is retained for these occasions in the present edition. However, the Hebrew and Greek originals for this word can be translated variously, depending on the circumstances in the passage. Therefore, in addition to behold, words such as indeed, look, see, and surely are also rendered to convey the appropriate sense suggested by the context in each case.

In faithfulness to God and to our readers, it was deemed appropriate that all participating scholars sign a statement affirming their belief in the verbal and plenary inspiration of Scripture, and in the inerrancy of the original autographs.

The Style

Students of the Bible applaud the timeless devotional character of our historic Bible. Yet it is also universally understood that the English language, like all living languages, has undergone profound change since 1611. Subsequent revisions of the King James Bible have sought to keep abreast of changes in English speech. The present work is a further step toward this objective. Where obsolescence and other reading difficulties exist, present-day vocabulary, punctuation, and grammar have been carefully integrated. Words representing ancient objects, such as chariot and phylactery, have no modern substitutes and are therefore retained.

In the discipline of translating biblical and other ancient languages, a standard method of transliteration, that is, the English spelling of untranslated words, such as names of persons and places, has never been commonly adopted. In keeping with the design of the present work, the King James spelling of untranslated words is retained, although made uniform throughout. For example, instead of the spellings Isaiah and Elijah in the Old Testament, and Esaias and Elias in the New Testament, Isaiah and Elijah now appear in both Testaments.

King James doctrinal and theological terms, for example, propitiation, justification, and sanctification, are generally familiar to English-speaking peoples. Such terms have been retained except where the original language indicates need for a more precise translation.

Readers of the Authorized Version will immediately be struck by the absence of several pronouns: thee, thou, and ye are replaced by the simple you, while your and yours are substituted for thy and thine as applicable. Thee, thou, thy, and thine were once forms of address to express a special relationship to human as well as divine persons. These pronouns are no longer part of our language. However, reverence for God in the present work is preserved by capitalizing pronouns, including You, Your, and Yours, which refer to Him. Additionally, capitalization of these pronouns benefits the reader by clearly distinguishing divine and human persons referred to in a passage. Without such capitalization the distinction is often obscure, because the antecedent of a pronoun is not always clear in the English translation.

In addition to the pronoun usages of the seventeenth century, the -eth and -est verb endings are now obsolete. Contemporary English usage has been substituted for the previous verb endings.

The real character of the Authorized Version does not reside in its archaic pronouns or verbs or other grammatical forms of the seventeenth century, but rather in the care taken by its scholars to impart the letter and spirit of the original text in a majestic and reverent style.

The Format

The format of the New King James Version is designed to enhance the vividness and devotional quality of the Holy Scriptures:

- Subject headings assist the reader to identify topics and transitions in the biblical content.
- Words or phrases in italics indicate expressions in the original language which require clarification by additional English words, as also done throughout the history of the King James Bible.
- Oblique type in the New Testament indicates a quotation from the Old Testament.
- Verse numbers within a paragraph are easily distinguishable.
- Prose is divided into paragraphs to indicate the structure of thought.
- Poetry is structured as contemporary verse to reflect the poetic form and beauty of the passage in the original language.
- The covenant name of God was usually translated from the Hebrew as "LORD" or "GOD" (using capital letters as shown) in the King James Old Testament. This tradition is maintained. In the present edition the name is so capitalized whenever the covenant name is quoted in the New Testament from a passage in the Old Testament.

The Old Testament Text

The Hebrew Bible has come down to us through the scrupulous care of ancient scribes who copied the original text in successive generations. By the sixth century A.D. the scribes were succeeded by a group known as the Masoretes, who continued to preserve the sacred Scriptures for another five hundred years in a form known as the Masoretic Text. Babylonia, Palestine, and Tiberias were the main centers of Masoretic activity; but by the tenth century A.D. the Masoretes of Tiberias, led by the family of ben Asher, gained the ascendancy. Through subsequent editions, the ben Asher text became in the twelfth century the only recognized form of the Hebrew Scriptures.

Daniel Bomberg printed the first Rabbinic Bible in 1516–17; that work was followed in 1524–25 by a second edition prepared by Jacob ben Chayyim and also published by Bomberg. The text of ben Chayyim was adopted in most subsequent Hebrew Bibles, including those used by the King James translators. The ben Chayyim text was also used for the first two editions of Rudolph Kittel's Biblia Hebraica of 1906 and 1912. In 1937 Paul Kahle published a third edition of Biblia Hebraica. This edition was based on the oldest dated manuscript of the ben Asher text, the Leningrad Manuscript B19a (A.D. 1008), which Kahle regarded as superior to that used by ben Chayyim.

For the New King James Version the text used was the 1967/1977 Stuttgart edition of the Biblia Hebraica, with frequent comparisons being made with the Bomberg edition of 1524–25. The Septuagint (Greek) Version of the Old Testament and the Latin Vulgate also were consulted. In addition to referring to a variety of ancient versions of the Hebrew Scriptures, the New King James Version draws on the resources of relevant manuscripts from the Dead Sea caves. In the few places where the Hebrew was so obscure that the 1611 King James was compelled to follow one of the versions, but where information is now available to resolve the problems, the New King James Version follows the Hebrew text. Significant variations are recorded in the textual footnotes.

The New Testament Text

There is more manuscript support for the New Testament than for any other body of ancient literature. Over five thousand Greek, eight thousand Latin, and many more manuscripts in other languages attest the integrity of the New Testament. There is only one basic New Testament used by Protestants, Roman Catholics, and Orthodox, by conservatives and liberals. Minor variations in hand copying have appeared through the centuries, before mechanical printing began about A.D. 1450.

Some variations exist in the spelling of Greek words, in word order, and in similar details. These ordinarily do not show up in translation and do not affect the sense of the text in any way.

Other manuscript differences such as omission or inclusion of a word or a clause, and two paragraphs in the gospels, should not overshadow the overwhelming degree of agreement which exists among the ancient records. Bible readers may be assured that the most important differences in English New Testaments of today are due, not to manuscript divergence, but to the way in which translators view the task of translation: How literally should the text be rendered? How does the translator view the matter of biblical inspiration? Does the translator adopt a paraphrase when a literal rendering would be quite clear and more to the point? The New King James Version follows the historic precedent of the Authorized Version in maintaining a literal approach to translation, except where the idiom of the original language cannot be translated directly into our tongue.

The King James New Testament was based on the traditional text of the Greek-speaking churches, first published in 1516, and later called the Textus Receptus or Received Text. Although based on the relatively few available manuscripts, these were representative of many more which existed at the time but only became known later. In the late nineteenth century, B. Wescott and F. Hort taught that this text had been officially edited by the fourth-century church, but a total lack of historical evidence for this event has forced a revision of the theory. It is now widely held that the Byzantine Text that largely supports the Textus Receptus has as much right as the Alexandrian or any other tradition to be weighed in determining the text of the New Testament. Those readings in the Textus Receptus which have weak support are indicated in the textual footnotes as being opposed by both Critical and Majority Texts.

Since the 1880s most contemporary translations of the New Testament have relied upon a relatively few manuscripts discovered chiefly in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries. Such translations depend primarily on two manuscripts, Codex Vaticanus and Codex Sinaiticus, because of their greater age. The Greek text obtained by using these sources and the related papyri (our most ancient manuscripts) is known as the Alexandrian Text. However, some scholars have grounds for doubting the faithfulness of Vaticanus and Sinaiticus, since they often disagree with one another, and Sinaiticus exhibits excessive omission.

A third viewpoint of New Testament scholarship holds that the best text is based on the consensus of the majority of existing Greek manuscripts. This text is called the Majority Text. Most of these manuscripts are in substantial agreement. Even though many are late, and none is earlier than the fifth century, usually their readings are verified by papyri, ancient versions, quotations from the early church fathers, or a combination of these. The Majority Text is similar to the Textus Receptus, but it corrects those readings which have little or no support in the Greek manuscript tradition.

Today, scholars agree that the science of New Testament textual criticism is in a state of flux. Very few scholars still favor the Textus Receptus as such, and then often for its historical prestige as the text of Luther, Calvin, Tyndale, and the King James Version. For about a century most have followed a Critical Text (so called because it is edited according to specific principles of textual criticism) which depends heavily upon the Alexandrian type of text. More recently many have abandoned this Critical Text (which is quite similar to the one edited by Westcott and Hort) for one that is more eclectic. Finally, a small but growing number of scholars prefer the Majority Text, which is close to the traditional text except in the Revelation.

In light of these facts, and also because the New King James Version is the fifth revision of a historic document translated from specific Greek texts, the editors decided to retain the traditional text in the body of the New Testament and to indicate major Critical and Majority Text variant readings in the textual footnotes. Although these variations are duly indicated in the footnotes of the present edition, it is most important to emphasize that fully eighty-five percent of the New Testament text is the same in the Textus Receptus, the Alexandrian Text, and the Majority Text.

Textual Footnotes

Significant explanatory notes, alternate translations, and cross-references, as well as New Testament citations of Old Testament passages, are supplied in the textual footnotes.

Important textual variants in the Old Testament are identified in a standard form.

The textual notes in the present edition of the New Testament make no evaluation of readings, but do clearly indicate the manuscript sources of readings. They objectively present the facts without such tendentious remarks as "the best manuscripts omit" or "the most reliable manuscripts read." Such notes are value judgments that differ according to varying viewpoints on the text. By giving a clearly defined set of variants the New King James Version benefits readers of all textual persuasions.

1. NU-Text

These variations from the traditional text generally represent the Alexandrian or Egyptian type of text described previously in "The New Testament Text." They are found in the Critical Text published in the twenty-sixth edition of the Nestlè-Aland Greek New Testament (N) and in the United Bible Societies' third edition (U), hence the acronym, "NU-Text."

2. M-Text

This symbol indicates points of variation in the Majority Text from the traditional text, as also previously discussed in "The New Testament Text." It should be noted that M stands for whatever reading is printed in the published Greek New Testament According to the Majority Text, whether supported by overwhelming, strong, or only a divided majority textual tradition.

The textual notes reflect the scholarship of the past 150 years and will assist the reader to observe the variations between the different manuscript traditions of the New Testament. Such information is generally not available in English translations of the New Testament.

God Cares for Women

ETA LINNEMANN

In my pre-conversion life, I bitterly fought for women's equality in "spiritual office." The thorn of embitterment was ever driven into me anew by my so-called "brothers in ministry," especially by those who were my mental inferiors and possessed no other merit than the privilege of wearing trousers on the basis of their physical constitution. If my achievements had not been any better than theirs, I would not have made it even into the position in which I had to bear, of all things, the lifelong title of "lady curate" (assistant), while my male colleagues after one to two years exchanged the title of "curate" for that of "pastor."

At the general conventions, I was wounded with unkind regularity by such "brothers" in ministry in that at least one of them, or more likely an entire group, apprised me of the fact that the problem of women in ministry would indeed be solved if each of the women would marry a minister. That was the twofold wounding. Had I completed an entire course of theological study, including the two theological barrier examinations and even taken a doctor's degree, only to engage myself with children and kitchen as the wife of a minister? Even if I had wanted that—wouldn't I have only had the remotest possibility for it, now that a considerable portion of the men in my own age group had been killed during the Second World War on the battlefields of Europe?

My dear sisters, I felt that the fight for equal rights for women had been entrusted to me, along with the pain that these inequities caused. This fight was terminated with my preconversion life because now I am prepared to submit myself to God's Word—even to that which stands written therein concerning the woman. The suffering, however, was not yet ended thereby. It hurt just as badly when a "ministering brother" made it clear to the sisters, with arrogance and a pasha's behavior, that the assignment of all women was to work with their hands and to serve the brothers with their time and resources. Perhaps later the Lord would give women a prophetic office. That the "ministering brother" had made it up to cook in his former life, whereas the sister had made it to a double doctorate in theology and a professorship was only marginally noted.

The reaction I faced was a rebellion, albeit resisted, against this God and a deep depression over my misfortune to have been created a woman. So it would have remained, had not God Himself taken up my case. I had begged Him to allow me to be done with this situation, which I could not resolve because I could find no acquiescence within myself to the role that He as Creator had assigned to me. Years later I grasped that this role was not simply identical with that which this "ministering brother" had ascribed to me. That God in the meantime had drastically interfered in the life of this brother should only be noted in passing, since it is not the most important thing.

God intervened. He healed me of my bitterness and the rebellion against being a woman. Renewed by His grace, I became a fulfilled woman—happy, contented, and full of thanksgiving. Perhaps this path is not reproducible for everyone. I am not at all saying that God has the same path in mind for others, but I do desire to share my testimony as a witness to His grace in my own life.

In my quiet time, I read Deuteronomy 21:10–14; through this often overlooked regulation concerning the treatment of women who had become spoils of war, God healed my heart. By means of these unlikely verses, His concern and love toward women became overpoweringly known to me.

Clearly, in my own heart, this regulation had been given in the midst of the raw reality of a fallen creation. The women of the vanquished became spoils to the victors. After a centuries-long Christian experience, indeed now this tragedy is no longer the usual thing, although even in this century, it became the gruesome experience of countless German women, who were delivered up defenseless to an incited, inflamed red beast called an "army."

Among all peoples it was self-evident that a woman who had become the spoils of war could come to be used at will as a slave of lust or labor. But God gave to His people totally different regulations, which served to protect the human worth of such captive women.

> When you go out to war against your enemies, and the LORD your God delivers them into your hand, and you take them captive, and you see among the captives a beautiful woman, and desire her and would take her for your wife, then you shall bring her home to your house, and she shall shave her head and trim her nails. She shall put off the clothes of her captivity, remain in your house, and mourn her father and her mother a full month; after that you may go in to her and be her husband, and she shall be your wife. And it shall be, if you have no delight in her, then you shall set her free, but you certainly shall not sell her for money; you shall not treat her brutally, because you have humbled her.

What tenderness and sympathetic understanding call out from this admonition! The victor was not allowed to rush upon booty; he had to approach the prisoner of war with respect. He had to decide whether to retain her as worker or to take her as wife. Everything else was excluded. If he should take her as wife, he was henceforth not allowed to treat her as a prisoner. He must provide her with clothing because she was supposed to lay aside the clothing of her captivity. He was to allow her a full month of mourning, during which she was to be permitted to mourn and weep, according to proper decorum, for all of the relatives she lost in the war.

How God knows our feelings; how He respects them! With what love has He arranged the individual details that led to the restoration of the woman! She should be permitted to become whole again. She should have the opportunity to earn a positive attitude from her proprietor, who would perhaps then want to become her husband. The respect with which he had to treat this woman made marriage possible and even constituted the prerequisite for her success.

With what love and care had God personally taken precaution in the case of the failure of this marriage, which indeed stood beneath particular burdens because it took place across national and cultural lines! How He lovingly took up the woman Himself, guarded against her being reduced from the position of wife to that of bondslave, and also did not permit her to be treated as an object from which money could be earned at will. Her husband was allowed to put her away only by respecting her as a free person having full disposition over herself. Just as he himself was only allowed to approach her as a husband, with full respect for her personhood, so he was only allowed to dismiss her with full respect for her personhood.

How very much does God love women! How He respects us as persons of equal value to the man in that He has expended such care to decree these regulations concerning our protection! I can believe His disposition concerning me is that I should be a woman—together with what all that means according to God's Word—for my ultimate good. Once I began to accept His decree concerning me—to be a woman, then, little by little, I also have been made conscious of the good that He has thereby intended for me.

The Balanced Life: Reconciling Personal Faith with Practicing Dogma

Hilary McFarlane

Dame Julian of Norwich said, "Prayer unites the soul to God." To know God is possible, and such knowledge is found through personal devotional life and spiritual practice. The private and personal dimension of spiritual life is important. It is woven throughout the Bible in the lives of different women of faith. Yet, at the same time, equally viable within Scripture is a very public dimension to the life of the believer and in the history of the church. The life of faith is not a purely subjective one; it is not allowed to follow its own private thoughts and opinions without restriction. Rather, the believer is instructed what she is to believe and how she is to live, sometimes very clearly and directly with little room for dissent and at other times more obliquely, with a wider horizon for personal input. The books of Leviticus or Deuteronomy or Paul's exhortations to the Christians living in Ephesus or Galatia identify the various rules and regulations given for living as the people of God. The Bible and subsequent Christian witness, then, make a clear distinction between private devotion and public testimony.

What is more problematic, however, is the way the two are combined. One can easily be dismissed in favor of the other, such as to insist that the personal is more important than the public, that private spirituality takes precedence over the teachings of the church, which may be defined as doctrine or dogma. Does God's revelation come first to the individual, then expand into wider dogma? Do words of doctrine or dogma only serve to express what we mean and make it possible for us to express what we already know and experience? This may well be true, but it is also true that without the boundaries of dogma and doctrine, we are prey to flights of fancy that, historically, have led groups of people into serious error. Without the guidelines of dogma, we are adrift on a sea of relativism and uncertainty. While each believer has a personal and unique testimony, each must be read against the backdrop of a whole history of testimonies that constitute what is believed.

Faith, then, clearly requires guidelines: Personal devotion and faith need public doctrine and dogma. If this is true, how do we reconcile dogma and doxology, faith and practice?

Perhaps this is best answered by first identifying what is meant by faith. Faith is identified as "the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen" (Heb. 11:1). This is clearly set within the context of relationship, the relationship between God and each individual who has dared to trust God despite what may be touched, seen, heard, or tasted—the criteria of materialism. For each of us, this assurance is based on things about which we have been told, that which has been handed to us (doctrine). This is not blind faith: It is intelligible and based on very specific content that we together can identify as our common belief.

Faith, then, can be identified as the actual relationship that exists between the believer and God and should be distinguished from three very specific issues that will be unpacked through the lives of women in the Bible:

1) Legalism—the relationship between faith and practice that rests on following rules and regulations;

2) Propositionalism—the belief that the content of faith is made up of statements that cannot change;

3) Secularism—what one believes must be correlated with the law of the land.

Legalism

One of the greatest dangers to faith is the temptation to believe that what can be seen is the real and that the unseen is less real. Paul makes the point that for the believer what cannot be seen is the most important, for it is what is real (2 Cor. 4:18). This sounds a bit strange until we realize that Paul is talking about the life of faith: Faith is the substance of things unseen. The life of faith is characterized by a constant and firm belief that something will happen. If we let go of this, then we begin to trust what we can see. When this occurs, we have taken a very small step toward legalism because we can see when people are obeying rules and subscribing to regulations. In turn, we can also see when they are not! When this happens, we begin to judge such people by what can be seen. The dogmas of correct behavior cancel out the belief or faith that a person may change or that a person may not be as she appears.

One such example of the triumph of faith over dogma in this context can be seen in the way Jesus related to a Greek woman who had a demon-possessed daughter (Mark 7:24–30). Although according to Jewish laws Jesus did not need to relate to this woman, He chose to do so. He responded to someone who was unclean—a Greek, and a woman at that—but one who had a faithful heart. Here was someone who had faith even though Jewish dogma condemned her. She did not let the rules and regulations of the day stop her from receiving Jesus. She did not allow legalism to rob her of her desire to have her daughter healed.

Propositionalism

Those within religious circles have a tendency to want to control God. Dogmatic statements about the character of God and what He does offer little room for true faith in the unseen or the invisible. Belief in what is commonly held by the majority often is party to the tendency to legalism.

While it is very important to have fundamentals, that is, certain values and beliefs that remain constant, if these beliefs become rigid and fixed, then we often lose any meaningful space for faith. Once this space has disappeared, faith evaporates.

The triumph of faith over propositionalism is no clearer than in the story of Mary, the mother of Jesus Christ. In the example of Mary, we see a belief that God is higher than what is accepted as the norm. In Mary's case, God is higher than science.

A young woman, not yet married and thus with no sexual relationship with a man, is told that she will conceive and bear a son. Mary asks a natural question concerning the means by which this will happen, since she is not married. In addition, as an unwed woman, to become pregnant would have devastating social implications. However, she is told simply that, while humanly impossible, the birth of a child would not be impossible with God. The story of Mary has become so familiar that we can lose sight of the tremendous step of faith she took in saying, "Let it be to me according to your word" (Luke 1:38). In these words, we are confronted with the triumph of faith over propositions that would say God can only do one thing and not another. For Mary, faith was very much the substance of things unseen.

Secularism

Communicating the gospel in ways that are intelligible to the people around us is essential. Without such communication we would have nothing to say. What destroys the relationship between faith and dogma is that which radically alters what is believed to make it palatable to the surrounding culture. The "gospel of health and wealth" is a clear example of this. The Bible challenges this kind of approach again and again.

There is one example that resonates with tension and excitement as the story of faith over secularism unfolds. Rahab the prostitute refused to conform to the standards around her but took charge of her destiny in a remarkable way (Josh. 2:1–21). Perhaps a rather scheming woman and probably opportunistic enough to recognize her moment, Rahab tacitly acknowledged that the God of the Israelites was greater than her gods. She protected the Israelite spies, lying to her own people concerning the whereabouts of the spies in return for protection from the Israelites during their ensuing invasion.

What sets Rahab the prostitute apart is the fact that she, too, had faith in the unseen and marked her behavior accordingly, so much so that her story is recorded in Scripture, and she is commended for her faith. She did not demonstrate blind allegiance to the standards and norms of her society. Rather, she chose to believe what she had heard concerning the God of the Israelites. Turning her back on her own culture, Rahab found the true God. Despite her dubious profession, Rahab is marked as a woman who, in a rather circuitous way, stands as an outstanding example of one who opposed what was familiar and trusted in the unseen.

The intention of Scripture does not appear to reconcile absolutely faith and dogma. Rather, the two should be held in tension as the individual believer wrestles with the life of faith and appropriates the Word of God for herself.

The Old Testament

Genesis

TITLE

Genesis (Heb. Bere'shith, lit. "in the beginning") is the first book of the Pentateuch or Torah (a designation for the first five books of the Old Testament). The title "Genesis" was first used in the Septuagint (a Greek translation of the Old Testament).

AUTHOR

Though Genesis has no explicit authorship statement, its inclusion in the Pentateuch suggests Mosaic authorship. Other books—Exodus, Numbers, and Deuteronomy—all assert Mosaic authorship (Ex. 17:14; 24:4–8; 34:27; Num. 33:1, 2; Deut. 31:9, 22). In the rest of the Old Testament, the Pentateuch is referred to collectively as "the Book of the Law of Moses" (Josh. 8:31; 2 Kin. 14:6; Neh. 13:1). The New Testament confirms this authorship (Matt. 19:8; Luke 24:27; John 5:45–47; Acts 3:22; Rom. 10:5; Rev. 15:3). The familiarity of the writer of Genesis with Egyptian geography (Gen. 45:10; 47:11) confirms that the author was well acquainted with Egyptian culture, as would have been Moses, who was reared in the household of Pharaoh. Some short sections of Genesis, such as the list of kings from the period of the Israelite monarchy, may have been added during the time of the divided kingdom (Gen. 36); in the same way, cities are often given the names they bore during the time of the monarchy rather than their patriarchal names. These scribal additions could well have been made in the process of copying manuscripts and do not affect the book's message other than to improve the clarity of Genesis for contemporary readers.

DATE

The book tells the story of mankind from creation to the death of Joseph. Dating the events which relate to the creation, the Flood, and the repopulation of the earth is impossible (Gen. 1—11), but the remainder of the book deals with the patriarchal age, which is roughly the same as the Middle Bronze Age (1950–1550 B.C.). The customs found in Genesis bear striking parallels to laws and customs recorded in other documents of the second millennium, most notably those found in tablets discovered at the Hurrian city of Nuzi in northeastern Mesopotamia.

The Pentateuch as a whole was written between the Exodus and the death of Moses (Deut. 34). The Exodus is variously dated, with 1445 B.C. as the earliest date. If this date is assumed, the death of Moses would fall around 1400 B.C. Genesis was thus produced sometime in the late fifteenth century B.C., several centuries after the patriarchs whose lives it describes.

BACKGROUND

SETTING: The setting is vast in scope since the book opens with the creation of the universe and closes with the small but growing number of the descendants of Jacob, now identified as Israel, who settled in the choice land of the Nile delta of Egypt. In between, the action focuses on the entire Fertile Crescent from the universal flood (which ended on the mountains of Ararat) and the Tower of Babel (in the land of Shinar) to Abraham's journeys throughout Canaan.

PURPOSE: Genesis answers the question, "Who are we, and where did we come from?" God as the only Creator presented Himself to a people about to enter a land filled with false idols. God confirmed His selection and sovereign preservation of this nation facing hardships in a new land. Most importantly, Genesis reveals that Israel was set apart by God from the very beginning of creation. This knowledge provided a motivation for Israel to remain free from the idolatry and paganism surrounding the nation.

AUDIENCE: The Israelites were about to enter Canaan. Since the older generation (except Joshua and Caleb) had died in the desert, no others were left with a personal memory of God's miraculous deliverance from the Egyptians. The young nation entering the Promised Land would be faced with an immense temptation to assimilate the idolatry, intermarriage, and customs of the pagan nations around them. This same temptation faces God's people in every generation; Genesis reveals that God's plan for setting apart His people stretches back to creation.

LITERARY CHARACTERISTICS: Genesis is a carefully structured book; its literary structure reinforces its explicit message. The first section, the story of creation (Gen. 1:1—2:3), is set up in two segments of three days each. The creative works of the first and the fourth days are parallel, since during the first day God created light and darkness, while on the fourth day He created the sun and moon to govern the periods of light and darkness. On the second day, the firmament divided the waters; on the fifth day, the inhabitants of the sky and water were created. The third day dry land and vegetation appeared; the sixth day land-dwellers were created to consume the vegetation. The structure emphasizes God's plan and control over all aspects of creation.

After the introductory section, the book is divided by the recurrent phrase "These are the generations" (Heb. toledoth). Each occurrence of this phrase marks a new stage in God's development of a chosen people. The story of mankind is presented as a whole (Gen. 2:4—4:26). After the judgment of mankind, the phrase appears repeatedly as a reminder that God chooses one man from each family (for example, Seth, Noah, Shem, Abraham, Isaac, Jacob) to lead in preserving and carrying on the godly line. Also clear are the partnerships the patriarchs enjoyed with their wives—Abraham and Sarah, Isaac and Rebekah, and Jacob and Rachel were part of God's plan as well. The passing of God's covenant promises from one generation to the next is emphasized by the parallel structure of the stories themselves. Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob all traveled to Egypt; all three endured tests followed by covenant renewals. Sarah, Rebekah, and Rachel all suffered from barrenness, but each experienced God's grace in bearing children who would play a major role in the building of a nation.

THEMES

The primary theme of Genesis is God's formation of the nation and His providential protection of a special people for Himself. The methods God used to call out and shape this nation form the minor themes of the book.

God's Sovereignty—God appears first as sovereign Creator and Ruler; His power over history and the actions of His people reappears throughout the book in His preservation of His chosen ones.

God's Covenant—God uses the "covenant" (Heb. berith) continually to separate one man from the rest of mankind. The first covenant is made with Adam in the Garden of Eden (Gen. 2:16, 17; see chart, The Covenants of Genesis). After the Fall, God continues to make covenants with each subsequent generation, selecting one man from each family to continue godly seed for the next generation. Covenants are made with Noah (Gen. 9:9), Abraham (Gen. 12:1–3), Isaac (Gen. 26:2–5), and Jacob (Gen. 28:13–15).

God's Redemption—The story of the formation of the chosen people is the story of redemption. The "seed of the woman," the godly line of those faithful to the Lord, will eventually crush the "seed of the serpent," the wicked who live in rebellion against God (Gen. 3:14, 15). This prophecy was ultimately fulfilled in the coming of Christ. Since Israel was God's chosen nation from whom the Messiah was to come, Israel's story reveals God's redemptive action in human history.

The Threat to God's Plan—The fourth theme of Genesis is the struggle of the serpent and his seed to destroy the chosen family. Sin, famine, war, and the threat of national assimilation into the surrounding Canaanite culture conspired to block the fulfillment of God's covenant promises. These threats are continually diverted by God's sovereign, preserving power.

   - F. Jacob's blessing on his descendants (47:27—49:28)
   - G. The deaths of Jacob and Joseph in Egypt (49:29—50:26)

The History of Creation

1 In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth. 2The earth was without form, and void; and darkness was[a] on the face of the deep.
And the Spirit of God was hovering over the face of the waters.

3Then God said, "Let there be light"; and there was light. 4And God saw the light, that it was good; and God divided the light from the darkness. 5God called the light Day, and the darkness
He called Night. So the evening and the morning were the first day.

6Then God said, "Let there be a firmament in the midst of the waters, and let it divide the waters from the waters." 7Thus God made the firmament, and divided the waters which were under the firmament from the waters which were above the firmament; and it was so. 8And God called the firmament Heaven. So the evening and the morning were the second day.

9Then God said, "Let the waters under the heavens be gathered together into one place, and let the dry land appear"; and it was so. 10And God called the dry land Earth, and the gathering together of the waters He called Seas. And God saw that it was good.

11Then God said, "Let the earth bring forth grass, the herb that yields seed, and the fruit tree that yields fruit according to its kind, whose seed is in itself, on the earth"; and it was so. 12And the earth brought forth grass, the herb that yields seed according to its kind, and the tree that yields fruit, whose seed is in itself according to its kind.
And God saw that it was good. 13So the evening and the morning were the third day.

14Then God said, "Let there be lights in the firmament of the heavens to divide the day from the night; and let them be for signs and seasons, and for days and years; 15and let them be for lights in the firmament of the heavens to give light on the earth"; and it was so. 16Then God made two great lights: the greater light to rule the day, and the lesser light to rule the night. He made the stars also. 17God set them in the firmament of the heavens to give light on the earth, 18and to rule over the day and over the night, and to divide the light from the darkness. And God saw that it was good. 19So the evening and the morning were the fourth day.

20Then God said, "Let the waters abound with an abundance of living creatures, and let birds fly above the earth across the face of the firmament of the heavens." 21So God created great sea creatures and every living thing that moves, with which the waters abounded, according to their kind, and every winged bird according to its kind.
And God saw that it was good. 22And God blessed them, saying, "Be fruitful and multiply, and fill the waters in the seas, and let birds multiply on the earth." 23So the evening and the morning were the fifth day.

24Then God said, "Let the earth bring forth the living creature according to its kind: cattle and creeping thing and beast of the earth, each according to its kind"; and it was so. 25And God made the beast of the earth according to its kind, cattle according to its kind, and everything that creeps on the earth according to its kind. And God saw that it was good.

26Then God said, "Let Us make man in Our im-

1:2 [a]Words in italic type have been added for clarity. They are not found in the original Hebrew or Aramaic.

1:1 The first verse of Genesis reveals the book's vital underlying assumption: God is the ultimate Creator of everything. The verb "created" (Heb. bara', lit. "to make from nothing," vv. 1, 21, 27; Gen. 2:4) is used almost exclusively of divine activity (see Is. 43:15). The other verbs used for God's creative activity are "made" (Heb. 'asah, vv. 16, 25, 26; Gen. 2:18), "formed" (Heb. yatsar, Gen. 2:7, 19), and "made" (Heb. banah, lit. "built," Gen. 2:22). The first chapter of Genesis uses the Hebrew word Elohim for God, emphasizing God's character and power as the true and only God, the sole actor in creation. Though plural in form, the reference in number is to one and thus is used with a singular verb. This plural of majesty expresses honor and power.

1:2 This formlessness describes an earth wrecked by divine judgment (Is. 34:11; Jer. 4:23). Some have theorized that the creation of the heavens and earth described in verse 1 was destroyed in the judgment of Lucifer (see Is. 14; Ezek. 23). This "Gap Theory" assumes a stretch of time between verses 1 and 2; verse 2 then begins the story of the re-creation. More likely, Jeremiah and Ezekiel simply used the phrase as descriptive of utter desolation. According to this view, verse 1 describes God's first creative act, while verses 2–31 follow with a detailed description of His creative work with an interlude of unfinished business between verses 1 and 2. Here God is depicted as having a "Spirit" (Heb. ruach, lit. "wind" or "breath") who acts as His agent in creation, although the Spirit is not revealed as a separate member of the Trinity until the NT (see John 3:1–21; 14:16, 17, 26; 16:5–14; 20:22). "Hovering" implies "brooding" in the sense of a mother bird nurturing life.

1:5 The first day. The word "day" (Heb. yom) is somewhat ambiguous. It may refer to the 24-hour period of darkness and light (see Ex. 12:18) or simply to a specific period of time: for example, the "day of the LORD of hosts" is a time of judgment (Is. 2:12). "Day" is further defined as "evening and morning" (see Ps. 55:17).

1:11 The order of creation demanded that reproduction only occur within certain limits. Although it is impossible to determine the exact boundaries of "kind," divisions existed between types of vegetation (v. 12), types of sea creatures and birds (v. 21), and different species of earth animals (v. 25). Man is sharply separated from animals (v. 26).

1:26 The plurality used by God in reference to Himself does not detract from His unity (see v. 1, note). "Man" (Heb.

age, according to Our likeness; let them have dominion over the fish of the sea, over the birds of the air, and over the cattle, over all[a] the earth and over every creeping thing that creeps on the earth." 27So God created man in His own image; in the image of God He created him; male and female He created them. 28Then God blessed them, and God said to them, "Be fruitful and multiply; fill the earth and subdue it; have dominion over the fish of the sea, over the birds of the air, and over every living thing that moves on the earth."

29And God said, "See, I have given you every herb that yields seed which is on the face of all the earth, and every tree whose fruit yields seed; to you it shall be for food. 30Also, to every beast of the earth, to every bird of the air, and to everything that creeps on the earth, in which there is life, I have given every green herb for food"; and it was so. 31Then God saw everything that He had made, and indeed it was very good. So the evening and the morning were the sixth day.

2 Thus the heavens and the earth, and all the host of them, were finished. 2And on the seventh day God ended His work which He had done, and He rested on the seventh day from all His work which He had done. 3Then God blessed the seventh day and sanctified it, because in it He rested from all His work which God had created and made.

4This is the history[a] of the heavens and the earth when they were created, in the day that the LORD God made the earth and the heavens, 5before any plant of the field was in the earth and before any herb of the field had grown. For the LORD God had not caused it to rain on the earth, and there was no man to till the ground; 6but a mist went up from the earth and watered the whole face of the ground.

7And the LORD God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life; and man became a living being.

'Adam) is obviously a generic reference to both man and woman—mankind. The text of Scripture does not use gender-inclusive language and often lets the masculine serve for both masculine and feminine, as here (see also chart, Female Metaphors for God). The passage does not specify in what way mankind bears God's image. "Image" (representation) and "likeness" (similarity) are synonymous—both referring to something made after the pattern of something else.

2:2 The word "Sabbath" (Heb. shabbath, lit. "cease") is reserved for the seventh day, during which there is cessation from labor. God Himself modeled this pattern for rest (see Ex. 23, The Lord's Day; chart, The Principle of the Sabbath).

2:3 Sanctifying the Lord's Day is to separate it from the rest by dedicating it to God. Unlike the other six, the record of the seventh day is not recorded with the "evening and morning" formula, perhaps suggesting the continuing observance of the Sabbath throughout the history of Israel.

2:4 The creation account. Some scholars have suggested that Genesis 1 and 2 are different creation stories placed side by side. The structure of chapter 2 does not support this theory. Verses 1–3 complete the recounting of the seven days of creation; verses 4–7 in Hebrew are one long sentence summarizing God's creative activity. A more detailed description follows of the creation of the man (vv. 7, 15–17), of the garden in which the man and woman would live (vv. 8–14), and of the woman who was to be his "helper" (vv. 18–25). The word "history" (lit. "generations") is elsewhere used to introduce genealogical lines (Gen. 5:1; 10:1). The name of the Creator (Heb. Elohim) is here joined to His covenant name (Heb. Yahweh) and translated "LORD God," making clear that the great Sovereign of the universe and the covenant God of Israel are one.

THE CREATION OF THE WOMAN

God identified Himself as a "Helper" (Heb. 'ezer) to Israel (Ex. 18:4; Deut. 33:7). The word does not imply inferiority. It describes function rather than worth. No one loses value in humbly assuming the role of helper. As a "helper" to the man, the woman became his partner spiritually in the overwhelming task of obedience to God and dominion over the earth. She was also to be a vital part of extending the generations (Gen. 1:28). The woman, as ultimate friend to the man, would bring him comfort and fellowship (Gen. 2:23, 24). No one else could encourage and inspire him as she was created to do. The phrase "comparable to him" (Heb. kenegdo, lit. "corresponding to what is in front of him") occurs only in verses 18 and 20, emphasizing the commonality of the man and the woman. Designed as the perfect counterpart for the man, the woman was neither inferior nor superior, but she was alike and equal to the man in her personhood while different and unique in her function.

Man and woman were both created in God's image. Just as man was formed from earth, woman was formed from man. She corresponds perfectly to the man, the same flesh and blood, and in "the image of God" just as the man, equal to him in every way (Gen. 1:27). By the creative act itself, she is inseparably linked to the man. The unity of the race is assured (Gen. 1:27, 28); the woman's dignity and worth is affirmed (Gen. 2:22); the foundation for Christian marriage is set forth in a memorable way (v. 24).

The woman was not an afterthought. The man was designed and created physically, emotionally, socially, and spiritually with her coming creation planned and assured. In fact, God said that the man "alone" was not good; he needed the woman (v. 18). God made man from "the dust of the ground," but He made the woman from "the rib" (Heb. tsela', lit. "side") of the man.

God uses Adam to express the uniqueness of the woman in a unique play on words. Even the language itself reflects the unity God planned between the man (Heb. 'ish) and the woman (Heb. 'ishshah). The expression "bone of my bones and flesh of my flesh" occurs elsewhere in the Old Testament as an expression of blood relationship. Though Adam's naming of the woman does not in itself require his authority over her, the act of assigning a name in the Oriental culture—even to now—is significant and in most cases does imply both authority and responsibility. Note, for example, the naming of the animals (vv. 19, 20), Pharaoh's renaming of Joseph (Gen. 41:45), the renaming of Mattaniah by Nebuchadnezzar (2 Kin. 24:17), and the renaming of Daniel and his friends by Nebuchadnezzar's eunuch (Dan. 1:6, 7). The woman's name is a recognition of her origins, in the same way that Adam's name acknowledges his creation from the earth (Gen. 2:19, note).

Life in God's Garden

8 The LORD God planted a garden eastward in Eden, and there He put the man whom He had formed. 9 And out of the ground the LORD God made every tree grow that is pleasant to the sight and good for food. The tree of life was also in the midst of the garden, and the tree of the knowledge of good and evil.
10 Now a river went out of Eden to water the garden, and from there it parted and became four riverheads. 11 The name of the first is Pishon; it is the one which skirts the whole land of Havilah, where there is gold. 12 And the gold of that land is good. Bdellium and the onyx stone are there.
13 The name of the second river is Gihon; it is the one which goes around the whole land of Cush.
14 The name of the third river is Hiddekel;[a] it is the one which goes toward the east of Assyria. The fourth river is the Euphrates.
15 Then the LORD God took the man and put him in the garden of Eden to tend and keep it. 16 And the LORD God commanded the man, saying, "Of every tree of the garden you may freely eat; 17 but of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil you

2:14 [a]Or Tigris

2:8 The Garden of Eden (perhaps meaning "delight"). This original habitat (Heb. gan, lit. "a place hedged round" or "a protected place") was a delightful shelter, containing everything the man and woman needed: food (v. 9), beauty (v. 9), water (v. 10), fellowship with God (v. 16; see also Gen. 3:8), and human companionship (Gen. 2:22–25).

2:11–14 Two rivers may have connected the Tigris and Euphrates, which run parallel. The Pishon (v. 11) and the Gihon (v. 13) may also have been tributaries of the Nile. Havilah was probably in Armenia or Mesopotamia. The name is preceded by the definite article in this verse, distinguishing it from the territory mentioned in Genesis 25:18 and 1 Samuel 15:7. Cush is traditionally Ethiopia or Nubia but may also refer to Kassite territory east of the Tigris. Hiddekel is an ancient name for the Tigris. "Assyria" probably refers to the city of Asshur itself rather than the later empire.

2:15 Labor was instituted before the Fall, not as a result of the curse. "Tend" carries the idea of service; to "keep" (Heb. shamar) is to "guard" and "preserve" (a word used in reference to the cherubim who guard the tree of life, Gen. 3:24).

We can be confident that His desire to reveal will always be greater than our desire to know.

shall not eat, for in the day that you eat of it you shall surely die."

18And the LORD God said, "It is not good that man should be alone; I will make him a helper comparable to him." 19Out of the ground the LORD God formed every beast of the field and every bird of the air, and brought them to Adam to see what he would call them. And whatever Adam called each living creature, that was its name. 20So Adam gave names to all cattle, to the birds of the air, and to every beast of the field. But for Adam there was not found a helper comparable to him.

21And the LORD God caused a deep sleep to fall on Adam, and he slept; and He took one of his ribs, and closed up the flesh in its place. 22Then the rib which the LORD God had taken from man He made into a woman, and He brought her to the man.

23And Adam said:

"This is now bone of my bones
And flesh of my flesh;
She shall be called Woman,
Because she was taken out of Man."

24Therefore a man shall leave his father and mother and be joined to his wife, and they shall become one flesh.

25And they were both naked, the man and his wife, and were not ashamed.

The Temptation and Fall of Man

3 Now the serpent was more cunning than any beast of the field which the LORD God had made. And he said to the woman, "Has God indeed said, 'You shall not eat of every tree of the garden'?"

2And the woman said to the serpent, "We may eat the fruit of the trees of the garden; 3but of the fruit of the tree which is in the midst of the garden, God has said, 'You shall not eat it, nor shall you touch it, lest you die.' "

4Then the serpent said to the woman, "You will not surely die. 5For God knows that in the day you eat of it your eyes will be opened, and you will be like God, knowing good and evil."

6So when the woman saw that the tree was good for food, that it was pleasant to the eyes, and a tree desirable to make one wise, she took of its fruit and ate. She also gave to her husband with her, and he ate. 7Then the eyes of both of them were opened, and they knew that they were naked; and they sewed fig leaves together and made themselves coverings.

8And they heard the sound of the LORD God walking in the garden in the cool of the day, and Adam and his wife hid themselves from the presence of the LORD God among the trees of the garden.

9Then the LORD God called to Adam and said to him, "Where are you?"

10So he said, "I heard Your voice in the garden, and I was afraid because I was naked; and I hid myself."

11And He said, "Who told you that you were naked? Have you eaten from the tree of which I commanded you that you should not eat?"

2:19 Adam is a name used for the first man and as a generic noun identifying the "man" and "woman" collectively and revealing their origin (v. 7, 'adamah, Heb., lit. "ground" or "earth"; see Gen. 1—5).

2:24 The marriage covenant has three parts (see Gen. 4, God's Plan for Marriage):

1) to leave father and mother, a reference to the wedding ceremony or time of public commitment,

2) to "be joined," suggesting tender affection and faithful commitment in a permanent relationship of growing love, and

3) to "become one flesh" in physical union, which notes the deepest and most exclusive intimacy.

The verbs translated "leave" and "be joined to" are used elsewhere in Scripture to describe covenant relationships (see Deut. 4:4; Jer. 1:16).

3:1 Satan chose to disguise himself as a "cunning" (lit. "shrewd" or "clever") creature. The text does not comment on why the serpent approached the woman—perhaps because she, unlike Adam, did not receive this prohibition directly from God (see Gen. 2:16, 17).

3:3 Satan began his conversation with the woman by questioning God (v. 1). The woman distorted God's command by adding her own interpretation, "nor shall you touch it lest you die" (v. 3). Either she was exaggerating in hopes of making God's directive so restrictive as to appear unjust, or Adam did not properly convey the prohibition to her.

3:5 The serpent contradicted God, using the phrasing of the divine command (v. 4). The temptation to disobedience involved gaining knowledge without first learning obedience. Ultimately, every temptation is to go your own way instead of God's way (Prov. 14:12; 22:6, note).

3:6 The tree is attractive to the eye, appealing to the appetite, and enticing to ambition. Both the man and the woman sinned through listening to another created being rather than to God (see James 1:15; charts, The Results of Sin; Temptation: The Analysis of a Successful Trap).

MASCULINITY THE NATURE OF A MAN

God has gifted men with great capacities for responsible leadership. This can be channeled positively into the church and all walks of life through teaching, leading by moral example, and supporting righteous causes (1 Tim. 2:8). Masculine power when sanctified can be used in a positive way, such as in the lives of great men through whom God provides leadership. Abraham showed us the trait of "adventure" with God by taking steps of faith where no man had gone (Gen. 12—18). We see vision in Moses (Exodus) and faithfulness in Joshua, even when he was in the minority (Deut. 31:6–8). David showed courage to fight against incredible odds (1 Sam. 17), and Nehemiah had initiative as a builder, organizing men to rebuild a wall and a city (Neh. 1—8). By contrast, men like Nebuchadnezzar used their power for destruction and cruelty in war (2 Kin. 24:10–17).

How wonderful that God balances this image of dominant masculine strength and power with the example of the Lord Jesus who was moved by compassion (Matt. 20:34), loved little children (Mark 10:14), cried at the death of His friend (John 11:35), and gave His life so that others might live (John 3:16). The "man of integrity" (Job 31) finds a parallel in the "woman of strength" (Prov. 31:10–31).

See also Eph. 5:25–33; 6:4; chart on Biblical Manhood and Womanhood (Job 31); notes on Biblical Equality (Eph. 5); Fatherhood (Eph. 5); Femininity (Ps. 144); Husbands (Job 31; 2 Cor. 6)

12 Then the man said, "The woman whom You gave to be with me, she gave me of the tree, and I ate." 13 And the LORD God said to the woman, "What is this you have done?"
The woman said, "The serpent deceived me, and I ate."
14 So the LORD God said to the serpent:

"Because you have done this,
You are cursed more than all cattle,
And more than every beast of the field;
On your belly you shall go,
And you shall eat dust
All the days of your life.
15 And I will put enmity
Between you and the woman,
And between your seed and her Seed;
He shall bruise your head,
And you shall bruise His heel."

16 To the woman He said:

"I will greatly multiply your sorrow and your conception;
In pain you shall bring forth children;
Your desire shall be for your husband,
And he shall rule over you."

17 Then to Adam He said, "Because you have heeded the voice of your wife, and have eaten from the tree of which I commanded you, saying, 'You shall not eat of it':

"Cursed is the ground for your sake;
In toil you shall eat of it
All the days of your life.
18 Both thorns and thistles it shall bring forth for you,
And you shall eat the herb of the field.

3:12 Adam's response indicates his refusal to take responsibility for his own actions. The woman copied this typical response to sin (v. 13).

3:14 God's judgment on the serpent does not distinguish between the earthly creature and Satan, who is later revealed as the animal's motivating intelligence (Rev. 12:9). The serpent is charming but deadly (Num. 21:6; Eccl. 10:11) and represents opposition to God (Job 26:13; Is. 27:1).

3:15 The first prophecy of the coming of the Messiah is known as the "protevangelium" (Lat., lit. "the first preaching of the gospel"). In the OT, "seed" is used to refer both to individual offspring and to descendants in general. The woman plays a key role not only because she was approached and entrapped by Satan but also because she is "the mother of all living" (v. 20), for through her the Savior would come (Gal. 4:4). Whereas in human reproduction the sperm is delivered to the womb of the woman by the man; in the miraculous conception of Jesus the Messiah, the seed came to the woman as a result of the Holy Spirit's overshadowing her (Luke 1:35; see Is. 7, The Virgin Birth). A messianic interpretation is justified since the bruising of the serpent's head implies a mortal wound. On the other hand, the bruising of the "heel" is not fatal, a reference ultimately to the Savior's sufferings, which were only preparatory to His victorious Resurrection (see Is. 53:5).

3:16 The woman's judgment. Unlike His words to the serpent and the man, God did not use the verb "cursed" (Heb. 'rur) in passing judgment on the woman. The first part of the judgment can also be translated "your sorrow in conception"; the blessing of fertility still exists but has been distorted. The Hebrew word for "sorrow" is a form of the word translated "pain" in the next sentence, implying hard labor and appearing again as "toil" (v. 17). The word "desire" (Heb. teshuqah) appears only twice more in the OT (Gen. 4:7, where sin "longs" to have mastery over Cain; Song 7:10, where the man's longing for his beloved is described). The distortion of servant leadership, which was perfectly modeled in Christ, affected the relationship between husband and wife (see Job 31, Husbands).

19 In the sweat of your face you shall eat bread
Till you return to the ground,
For out of it you were taken;
For dust you are,
And to dust you shall return."

20 And Adam called his wife's name Eve, because she was the mother of all living.

21 Also for Adam and his wife the LORD God made tunics of skin, and clothed them.

22 Then the LORD God said, "Behold, the man has become like one of Us, to know good and evil. And now, lest he put out his hand and take also of the tree of life, and eat, and live forever"—
23 therefore the LORD God sent him out of the garden of Eden to till the ground from which he was taken. 24 So He drove out the man; and He placed cherubim at the east of the garden of Eden, and a flaming sword which turned every way, to guard the way to the tree of life.

Cain Murders Abel

4 Now Adam knew Eve his wife, and she conceived and bore Cain, and said, "I have acquired a man from the LORD." 2 Then she bore again, this time his brother Abel. Now Abel was a keeper of sheep, but Cain was a tiller of the ground. 3 And in the process of time it came to pass that Cain brought an offering of the fruit of the ground to the LORD. 4 Abel also brought of the firstborn of his flock and of their fat. And the LORD respected Abel and his offering, 5 but He did not respect Cain and his offering. And Cain was very angry, and his countenance fell.

6 So the LORD said to Cain, "Why are you angry? And why has your countenance fallen? 7 If you do well, will you not be accepted? And if you do not do well, sin lies at the door. And its desire is for you, but you should rule over it."

8 Now Cain talked with Abel his brother;[a] and it came to pass, when they were in the field, that Cain rose up against Abel his brother and killed him.

9 Then the LORD said to Cain, "Where is Abel your brother?"

He said, "I do not know. Am I my brother's keeper?"

10 And He said, "What have you done? The voice of your brother's blood cries out to Me from the ground. 11 So now you are cursed from the earth, which has opened its mouth to receive your brother's blood from your hand. 12 When you till the ground, it shall no longer yield its strength to you. A fugitive and a vagabond you shall be on the earth."

13 And Cain said to the LORD, "My punishment is greater than I can bear! 14 Surely You have driven me out this day from the face of the ground; I shall be hidden from Your face; I shall be a fugitive and a vagabond on the earth, and it will happen that anyone who finds me will kill me."

15 And the LORD said to him, "Therefore,[a] whoever kills Cain, vengeance shall be taken on him

THE RESULTS OF SIN

VERSE	RESULT
3:7	• The experiential knowledge of evil. • The shame and guilt. • The search for clothing to cover.

4:8 [a]Samaritan Pentateuch, Septuagint, Syriac, and Vulgate add "Let us go out to the field." 4:15 [a]Following Masoretic Text and Targum; Septuagint, Syriac, and Vulgate read Not so.

3:20 Adam's naming of Eve (Heb., lit. "life" or "living") was an act of faith in God's promise (v. 15). After the sentence of death, before any children are born, Adam affirmed the woman and her role in producing future generations, providing a counterbalance of hope.

3:21 Tunics of skin. The contrast is to the inadequate coverings of verse 7. God, not man, is able to cover shame and guilt. This reference is often seen as a prefigurement of Christ's atonement on the cross, which required the shedding of blood to cover guilt (Heb. 9:22) and pictured the death of the innocent for the guilty (2 Cor. 5:21; Rom. 5:6–11).

3:24 Expulsion from the garden. Adam and Eve were sent from the garden. Thus, God's action mingled justice and mercy, which had been central to their fellowship with God and a privilege the two were now unable to enjoy (v. 8). The gate to the garden, apparently in the east like the temple gate, would be guarded by cherubim, representing God's presence and His separation from unholy man (see 2 Kin. 19:15; Ps. 80:1).

4:1 Full knowledge ("knew," Heb. yada') is often used in the OT to describe sexual intimacy.

4:4 Abel presented the firstborn of his flock—a lamb—as his offering to God, and in so doing he honored the Lord's Word (Heb. 11:4). God accepted that offering and commended Abel. Cain chose his own offering, which was rejected by God. Abel also included "fat" pieces, which, coupled with the reference to "firstborn," indicated that he gave God his best. Cain, on the other hand, presented his offering "in the process of time" or simply because it was time to give. God demands His requirements be met in His way. Ritual in itself never satisfies God and is an abomination to Him. Above all, Abel presented his sacrifice with the right heart, while Cain did not (vv. 4, 5).

4:15 The mark on Cain, like Adam and Eve's clothing, was for protection, an act of mercy even in the midst of judgment (Gen. 3:21). The "mark" (lit. "sign" or "pledge") was the concrete proof of God's promise.

MARRIAGE — GOD'S PLAN FOR MARRIAGE

God's plan for marriage is introduced (Gen. 2:24) and repeated in the Gospels (Matt. 19:5) and in the Epistles (Eph. 5:31). Marriage was perfect in its establishment: one man and one woman in a lifetime commitment.

God never intended for man to be alone (Gen. 2:18). The very bone from which woman was crafted came from man (Gen. 2:23). Woman was taken out of man, then presented to man in order to complete him. God created the man and the woman in His image (Gen. 1:26) with physical and emotional needs that only another human being could meet (Gen. 2:18).

No parents were in Eden, but God's plan extended to the future with His formula for oneness in marriage. The partners are to "leave" their parents and "be joined" (KJV "cleave") in order to become one (Gen. 2:24). They are to be willing to lay aside all that pertains to their old loyalties and lifestyles of separate goals and plans and be joined to one another. This "joining" refers to a strong, enduring bond—making one unit bound together by unconditional commitment, love, and acceptance—resulting in a combined unit much stronger than either individual had been separately (Eccl. 4:9–12).

No other human relationship, not with parent or child, is to supersede the bond between husband and wife. Marriage is a covenant commitment—a vow made to God and the partner, not only to love but also to be faithful and to endure in this lifelong exclusive relationship (Matt. 19:6).

Marriage is a threefold miracle. It is a biological miracle by which two people actually become one flesh; it is a social miracle through which two families are grafted together; it is a spiritual miracle in that the marriage relationship pictures the union of Christ and His bride, the church (Eph. 5:23–27). God clearly intended transparency and openness as part of His plan for the marriage relationship—vulnerability without shame (Gen. 2:25).

sevenfold." And the LORD set a mark on Cain, lest anyone finding him should kill him.

The Family of Cain

16 Then Cain went out from the presence of the LORD and dwelt in the land of Nod on the east of Eden. 17 And Cain knew his wife, and she conceived and bore Enoch. And he built a city, and called the name of the city after the name of his son—
Enoch. 18 To Enoch was born Irad; and Irad begot Mehujael, and Mehujael begot Methushael, and Methushael begot Lamech.

19 Then Lamech took for himself two wives: the name of one was Adah, and the name of the second was Zillah. 20 And Adah bore Jabal. He was the father of those who dwell in tents and have livestock. 21 His brother's name was Jubal. He was the father of all those who play the harp and flute.
22 And as for Zillah, she also bore Tubal-Cain, an instructor of every craftsman in bronze and iron.
And the sister of Tubal-Cain was Naamah.

23 Then Lamech said to his wives:

"Adah and Zillah, hear my voice;
Wives of Lamech, listen to my speech!
For I have killed a man for wounding me,
Even a young man for hurting me.
24 If Cain shall be avenged sevenfold,
Then Lamech seventy-sevenfold."

A New Son

25 And Adam knew his wife again, and she bore a son and named him Seth, "For God has appointed another seed for me instead of Abel, whom Cain killed." 26 And as for Seth, to him also a son was born; and he named him Enosh.[a] Then men began to call on the name of the LORD.

4:26 [a]Greek Enos

4:19 Two genealogical lines run in parallel—the line in rebellion against God, as Cain's was, and the godly chosen line (v. 26). The rebellious line may be related to the "seed of the serpent" (Gen. 3:15). Lamech, by taking two wives, illustrated the ungodliness of his family as the first to break the Creator's one-man, one-woman pattern for marriage (Gen. 2:24, note).

4:25 Christ's ancestry is traced back to Seth (Luke 3:38). Since Adam was 130 when Seth was born (Gen. 5:3), the narrative here skips back over the history in order to relate the emergence of the godly line (Gen. 3:16–24). Seth (Heb., lit. "appointing" or "establishing") establishes the line of the seed of the woman (Gen. 3:15). This line is in opposition to Satan.

4:26 The LORD (Heb. Yahweh) is revealed to be the most detailed, personal, and powerful of God's names (Ex. 3:14; see chart, The Names of God). God introduced His covenant name in the detailed description of the creation of the man and woman and the outlining of their relationship to one another (see Gen. 2:4–22). Its use here is linked to the establishment of a godly, worshiping line.

in the day they were created. 3And Adam lived one hundred and thirty years, and begot a son in his own likeness, after his image, and named him Seth. 4After he begot Seth, the days of Adam were eight hundred years; and he had sons and daughters. 5So all the days that Adam lived were nine hundred and thirty years; and he died.

6Seth lived one hundred and five years, and begot Enosh. 7After he begot Enosh, Seth lived eight hundred and seven years, and had sons and daughters. 8So all the days of Seth were nine hundred and twelve years; and he died.

9Enosh lived ninety years, and begot Cainan.[a] 10After he begot Cainan, Enosh lived eight hundred and fifteen years, and had sons and daughters. 11So all the days of Enosh were nine hundred and five years; and he died.

12Cainan lived seventy years, and begot Mahalalel. 13After he begot Mahalalel, Cainan lived eight hundred and forty years, and had sons and daughters. 14So all the days of Cainan were nine hundred and ten years; and he died.

15Mahalalel lived sixty-five years, and begot Jared. 16After he begot Jared, Mahalalel lived eight hundred and thirty years, and had sons and daughters. 17So all the days of Mahalalel were eight hundred and ninety-five years; and he died.

18Jared lived one hundred and sixty-two years, and begot Enoch. 19After he begot Enoch, Jared lived eight hundred years, and had sons and daughters. 20So all the days of Jared were nine hundred and sixty-two years; and he died.

21Enoch lived sixty-five years, and begot Methuselah. 22After he begot Methuselah, Enoch walked with God three hundred years, and had sons and daughters. 23So all the days of Enoch were three hundred and sixty-five years. 24And Enoch walked with God; and he was not, for God took him.

25Methuselah lived one hundred and eighty-seven years, and begot Lamech. 26After he begot Lamech, Methuselah lived seven hundred and eighty-two years, and had sons and daughters. 27So all the days of Methuselah were nine hundred and sixty-nine years; and he died.

28Lamech lived one hundred and eighty-two years, and had a son. 29And he called his name Noah, saying, "This one will comfort us concerning our work and the toil of our hands, because of the ground which the LORD has cursed." 30After he begot Noah, Lamech lived five hundred and ninety-five years, and had sons and daughters. 31So all the days of Lamech were seven hundred and seventy-seven years; and he died.

32And Noah was five hundred years old, and Noah begot Shem, Ham, and Japheth.

The Wickedness and Judgment of Man

6 Now it came to pass, when men began to multiply on the face of the earth, and daughters were born to them, 2that the sons of God saw the daughters of men, that they were beautiful; and they took wives for themselves of all whom they chose.

3And the LORD said, "My Spirit shall not strive[a] with man forever, for he is indeed flesh; yet his days shall be one hundred and twenty years." 4There were giants on the earth in those days, and also afterward, when the sons of God came in to the daughters of men and they bore children to 5:9 [a]Hebrew Qenan 6:3 [a]Septuagint, Syriac, Targum, and Vulgate read abide.

5:3 Begot can refer to immediate descent (father to son) but can also be used as reference to grandsons or more distant descendants. The age of each patriarch at the birth of his first child, through whom the generations continue, as well as the number of years he lived after that birth and the entire length of his years is recorded (vv. 3–32; see chart, How Old Were the Patriarchs?).

5:18 Enoch occupies the seventh place in this genealogy, a place often reserved for particularly significant individuals. Lamech, seventh from Cain, shows the growing violence of the ungodly line (Gen. 4:23); Enoch, the seventh from Adam, is the most righteous of all men (v. 22). Only Enoch and Noah are recorded as having "walked with God" (v. 22; Gen. 6:9), describing the perfect fellowship of the Garden of Eden (Gen. 3:8).

5:24 God took him. Enoch's righteousness resulted in God's sparing him from physical death, affirming God's power over death (see Ps. 49:15; 73:24). Only the prophet Elijah shared this experience (2 Kin. 2:11).

5:29 A man of obedience. Noah (Heb., lit. "comfort") helped fulfill prophecy (see Gen. 3:15); God worked through Noah's obedience to prevent the complete corruption of humanity (Gen. 6:5, 9).

6:2 The sons of God. Three primary interpretations have been proposed for this phrase.

1) The "sons of God" were fallen angels who took human wives, a view based on the interpretation of this phrase as angels elsewhere in the OT (see Job 1:6; 38:7).

2) The "sons of God" were men from Cain's line who took wives descended from Seth. Although this interpretation fits the context (Gen. 1—11), "sons of God" does not elsewhere refer to men.

3) The "sons of God" were descendants of early pagan kings who, like Lamech, sinned through polygamy. This accounts for "all whom they chose" but is open to the same objection as the second view.

While there is no way of determining the precise meaning of the story, clearly humanity was so close to total, irredeemable corruption that God sent the Flood.

6:3 God's displeasure. God expressed His condemnation of the sin (vv. 5, 6). "Strive" can also be translated "abide with." God limited the time man could continue in sin. The 120 years refers either to the length of time before the Flood or to the shortened human lifespan after the Flood (see Gen. 11:10–26).

6:4 Giants on the earth appears only once more (Num. 13:33). However, the giants in Genesis (Heb. Nephilim) were

EVE The Mother of All Living

Adam was given supervision over the creation, but God declared that for him to live his life alone was not good. From the man's rib God created a woman and presented her as a wife to Adam, climaxing His creative work (Gen. 2:18–24). Eve was not an afterthought or happenstance but an indispensable part of God's plan. Both Adam and Eve, made "in the image of God," stood as His representatives in the world to care for all He put under their dominion.

Purity and innocence were shattered, however, when the serpent entered the scene. Eve chose to believe Satan's lie. She was free to put her will above God's will, and she did. When she offered the fruit to her husband, he, too, disobeyed. In the New Testament, Paul clarified their actions, saying that Eve was deceived; whereas Adam ate with full knowledge of wrongdoing (2 Cor. 11:3; 1 Tim. 2:14). Then, filled with guilt, the couple hid from God, fashioning fig leaf coverings to hide their shame. Not only had they broken their relationship with God, but also they had broken their relationship with one another and with all the generations to come and even with the world and nature over which they were to rule.

God cursed the serpent and the ground for man's sake, and He prophesied sorrow, toil, and death for the first couple. Pain for the woman would come in giving birth and rearing children and in her relationship to her husband. She would resist his leadership just as his rule over her would be distorted (Gen. 3:16).

Evicted from her lovely home, Eve conceived and bore two sons, although her joy at their birth was changed by the heartache predicted by God. Cain murdered his brother in defiance of God's command concerning sacrifices, and God banished him. Eve was left childless until God's grace once again appeared in the form of another son, Seth, who became an ancestor of the Messiah.

Eve stands as an archetype of womanhood. Although created in God's image (Gen. 1:27), she exercised her will to disobey the Creator (Gen. 3:6), daring to challenge His authority. Disobedience was not in itself a motive but presupposed the motive. Her temptation was not merely to disobey but ultimately to have her own way or to get possession of what she wanted. As her daughter, every woman bears her likeness. Eve voices an early warning to every woman to follow the path of obedience and a resounding note of hope for women when they fail; she encountered God's justice, but she also experienced His grace (see Rom. 5:18, 19).

5Then the LORD[a] saw that the wickedness of man was great in the earth, and that every intent of the thoughts of his heart was only evil continually. 6And the LORD was sorry that He had made man on the earth, and He was grieved in His heart. 7So the LORD said, "I will destroy man whom I have created from the face of the earth, both man and beast, creeping thing and birds of the air, for I am sorry that I have made them." 8But Noah found grace in the eyes of the LORD.

Noah Pleases God

9This is the genealogy of Noah. Noah was a just man, perfect in his generations. Noah walked with God. 10And Noah begot three sons: Shem, Ham, and Japheth.

11The earth also was corrupt before God, and the earth was filled with violence. 12So God looked upon the earth, and indeed it was corrupt; for all flesh had corrupted their way on the earth.

The Ark Prepared

13And God said to Noah, "The end of all flesh has come before Me, for the earth is filled with violence through them; and behold, I will destroy them with the earth. 14Make yourself an ark of gopherwood; make rooms in the ark, and cover it in-destroyed in the Flood. They were not offspring of the unions of verse 2, since they existed both before and afterward. The word might possibly mean "fallen ones"; the verb is passive and conveys the meaning "those who were cast down." Thus the Nephilim appear to have been either giants or fallen angels. They are distinct from the "mighty men of old."

6:9 Noah's genealogy (Heb., toledoth, lit. "these are the generations of") marks the beginning of a new section in the book. The focus shifts from the history of humanity as a whole to that of the godly remnant miraculously preserved from judgment (see chart, The Faithful Remnant). "Just" refers to Noah's actions toward other men. "Perfect" (Heb. tamim, lit. "sound, wholesome, having integrity") is later used to describe the perfection of sacrificial animals. Noah was "wholehearted" in his relationship to God.

6:14 The ark (Heb. tebah, lit. "box" or "chest") appears also in Exodus 2:3–5, where Moses is placed in an "ark" of bulrushes. The choice of words emphasizes the ark's character as a protection and hiding place. "Gopherwood" is unclear but may be cypress or another resinous wood.

side and outside with pitch. 15And this is how you shall make it: The length of the ark shall be three hundred cubits, its width fifty cubits, and its height thirty cubits. 16You shall make a window for the ark, and you shall finish it to a cubit from above; and set the door of the ark in its side. You shall make it with lower, second, and third decks. 17And behold, I Myself am bringing floodwaters on the earth, to destroy from under heaven all flesh in which is the breath of life; everything that is on the earth shall die. 18But I will establish My covenant with you; and you shall go into the ark—you, your sons, your wife, and your sons' wives with you. 19And of every living thing of all flesh you shall bring two of every sort into the ark, to keep them alive with you; they shall be male and female. 20Of the birds after their kind, of animals after their kind, and of every creeping thing of the earth after its kind, two of every kind will come to you to keep them alive. 21And you shall take for yourself of all food that is eaten, and you shall gather it to yourself; and it shall be food for you and for them."

22Thus Noah did; according to all that God commanded him, so he did.

The Great Flood

7 Then the LORD said to Noah, "Come into the ark, you and all your household, because I have seen that you are righteous before Me in this generation. 2You shall take with you seven each of every clean animal, a male and his female; two each of animals that are unclean, a male and his female; 3also seven each of birds of the air, male and female, to keep the species alive on the face of all the earth. 4For after seven more days I will cause it to rain on the earth forty days and forty nights, and I will destroy from the face of the earth all living things that I have made." 5And Noah did according to all that the LORD commanded him. 6Noah was six hundred years old when the floodwaters were on the earth.

17Now the flood was on the earth forty days. The waters increased and lifted up the ark, and it rose high above the earth. 18The waters prevailed and greatly increased on the earth, and the ark moved about on the surface of the waters. 19And the waters prevailed exceedingly on the earth, and all the high hills under the whole heaven were covered. 20The waters prevailed fifteen cubits upward, and the mountains were covered. 21And all flesh died that moved on the earth: birds and cattle and beasts and every creeping thing that creeps on the earth, and every man. 22All in whose nostrils was the breath of the spirit[a] of life, all that was on the dry land, died. 23So He destroyed all living things which were on the face of the

6:18 The covenant. This is the first biblical mention of covenant (Heb. berith). Covenants are made by God with man for the purpose of salvation. God declares His commitment and demands a response from man (see charts, The Covenants of Genesis).

7:1 The Lord. Genesis 6—9 alternates between use of God (Elohim) and the LORD (Yahweh). The more general name, Elohim, is used when the narrative relates the effect of the Flood on the entire world; Yahweh, the covenant name, is used to record the Lord's dealings with His people.

7:2 Rather than contradicting Genesis 6:19, this verse expands upon God's previous command. Two of every animal were to be taken. In addition, extra pairs of clean animals were to be taken (see Lev. 10, Clean vs. Unclean). "Seven each" can also be translated "seven pairs."

7:11 The coming of the Flood, whether a natural catastrophe or miraculous event, was divinely directed. "The fountains of the great deep" refers to the invasion of the land by the sea, possibly with volcanic activity as part of the upheaval. "The windows of heaven were opened" is descriptive of torrential rain. The precise dating of the Flood confirms that this judgment occurred in human history (see chart, The Chronology of the Flood).

FALL OF CREATION — REJECTION OF THE CREATOR'S PLAN

The sentences passed on man and woman at the time of the Fall affected their relationships to God, nature, and each other. The judgment which followed is not necessarily related to the nature of the sin committed. However tragic and far-reaching the consequences, sin does not force the Creator to cancel His plan. Rather, sin perverts and hinders our response to His plan. As a result of the Fall, pain has been added to childbirth, tyranny to headship, rebellion to submission, and problems to work, as well as separation to the fellowship of union.

Of particular interest to women is the twofold judgment of Genesis 3:16. Women were assigned "pain in childbearing." Childbearing itself is not the judgment. Children are a heritage and reward from the Lord (Ps. 127:3), and giving birth is a woman's opportunity to link hands with the Creator to continue the generations (Gen. 1:28). Imagining a pain-free childbirth experience is difficult, but this is apparently the original plan of the Creator.

The second part of the judgment—"your desire will be for your husband, and he shall rule over you"—described the painful consequences of sin in the male-female relationship. Both the man and woman chose to ignore the Creator's plan and do things their own way. The complementary roles of man and woman, which had originally functioned to produce unity and harmony, would henceforth be a source of friction. God's plan did not change. However, woman would have a sin tendency to disrespect man's role of leadership, and man in his sinfulness would tend to abuse his authority and even crush the woman.

Christian men and women are given clear principles to counteract these effects of sin and are reminded of their equality as persons (1 Pet. 3:7) and of the complementary, harmonious relationship for which they were created (Eph. 5:21–33; Col. 3:18, 19).

ground: both man and cattle, creeping thing and bird of the air. They were destroyed from the earth. Only Noah and those who were with him in the ark remained alive. 24And the waters prevailed on the earth one hundred and fifty days.

Noah's Deliverance

8 Then God remembered Noah, and every living thing, and all the animals that were with him in the ark. And God made a wind to pass over the earth, and the waters subsided. 2The fountains of the deep and the windows of heaven were also stopped, and the rain from heaven was restrained. 3And the waters receded continually from the earth. At the end of the hundred and fifty days the waters decreased.
4Then the ark rested in the seventh month, the seventeenth day of the month, on the mountains of Ararat. 5And the waters decreased continually until the tenth month. In the tenth month, on the first day of the month, the tops of the mountains were seen.

6So it came to pass, at the end of forty days, that Noah opened the window of the ark which he had made. 7Then he sent out a raven, which kept going to and fro until the waters had dried up from the earth. 8He also sent out from himself a dove, to see if the waters had receded from the face of the ground. 9But the dove found no resting place for the sole of her foot, and she returned into the ark to him, for the waters were on the face of the whole earth. So he put out his hand and took her, and drew her into the ark to himself. 10And he waited yet another seven days, and again he sent the dove out from the ark. 11Then the dove came to him in the evening, and behold, a freshly plucked olive leaf was in her mouth; and Noah knew that the waters had receded from the earth. 12So he waited yet another seven days and sent out the dove, which did not return again to him anymore.

13And it came to pass in the six hundred and first year, in the first month, the first day of the month, that the waters were dried up from the earth; and Noah removed the covering of the ark and looked, and indeed the surface of the ground was dry. 14And in the second month, on the twenty-seventh day of the month, the earth was dried.

15Then God spoke to Noah, saying, 16"Go out of the ark, you and your wife, and your sons and your sons' wives with you. 17Bring out with you every living thing of all flesh that is with you: birds and cattle and every creeping thing that creeps on the earth, so that they may abound on the earth, and be fruitful and multiply on the earth." 18So Noah

8:1 God's remembrance in Scripture is a determined action rather than a mental process; when He remembers, He acts mercifully to save (see Gen. 30:22). God sends the wind (Heb. ruach), the same word used for the Spirit (Gen. 1:2). After destruction, God re-creates, just as He created from chaos.

8:4 Ararat, lying in modern eastern Armenia, was also known as Uratu in ancient times. The country itself is mountainous with a general elevation of 6,000 feet. Ararat is its highest peak at 17,000 feet, but this verse does not specify upon which mountain the ark finally rested.

went out, and his sons and his wife and his sons' wives with him. 19Every animal, every creeping thing, every bird, and whatever creeps on the earth, according to their families, went out of the ark.

God's Covenant with Creation

20Then Noah built an altar to the LORD, and took of every clean animal and of every clean bird, and offered burnt offerings on the altar. 21And the LORD smelled a soothing aroma. Then the LORD said in His heart, "I will never again curse the ground for man's sake, although the imagination of man's heart is evil from his youth; nor will I again destroy every living thing as I have done.

22"While the earth remains,
Seedtime and harvest,
Cold and heat,
Winter and summer,
And day and night
Shall not cease."

9 So God blessed Noah and his sons, and said to them: "Be fruitful and multiply, and fill the earth.[a] 2And the fear of you and the dread of you shall be on every beast of the earth, on every bird of the air, on all that move on the earth, and on all the fish of the sea. They are given into your hand. 3Every moving thing that lives shall be food for you. I have given you all things, even as the green herbs. 4But you shall not eat flesh with its life, that is, its blood. 5Surely for your lifeblood I will demand a reckoning; from the hand of every beast I will require it, and from the hand of man. From the hand of every man's brother I will require the life of man.

6"Whoever sheds man's blood,
By man his blood shall be shed;
For in the image of God
He made man.
7And as for you, be fruitful and multiply;
Bring forth abundantly in the earth
And multiply in it."

8Then God spoke to Noah and to his sons with him, saying: 9"And as for Me, behold, I establish My covenant with you and with your descendants[a]

9:1 [a]Compare Genesis 1:28 9:9 [a]Literally seed

8:20 Noah's altar is the first mentioned in Scripture. Noah, acting as did Adam, is given the task of repopulating a re-created earth. His first act is to worship God. Noah's sacrifice was a burnt offering in which the entire animal was consumed. In the covenant relationship between God and man, the primary purpose of this whole burnt offering was atonement (Lev. 1:4), symbolizing the complete consecration of the worshiper to God (see chart, The Offerings of the Lord).

8:21 An aroma pleasing to God is associated with burnt offerings (Lev. 1:9, 13) and indicates God's acceptance of the atoning sacrifice. Although God recognized that the judgment of the Flood had not changed individual hearts, He promised to exercise mercy. Thus, this is the first example of the OT sacrifice as propitiation for sin (that is, satisfaction for the righteousness of God).

9:5 Because the man and woman are made in God's image (v. 6), their lives belong to God. The divine image was not destroyed by the Fall. God Himself instituted the penalty of death for murder (v. 5), and civil authorities are to execute that penalty (v. 6).

Perspective

GETTING TO KNOW THE AUTHOR (From God's Story)

Many people today have a knowledge that God is "up there somewhere." They may even be familiar with His Name, and they may know He is famous and important and powerful—but they haven't a clue as to Who He really is! The Bible is God's Story, and the best way to discover the author of the Bible, and our lives, is to read His story.

God's Story reveals God's eternal person, His infinite power, His unlimited love, and His matchless glory giving meaning to your life and joy to your heart and purpose to your step. The Bible reveals the God of glory Whose very Presence can give fulfillment to the empty . . . healing to the broken . . . forgiveness to the sinful . . . freedom to the bitter . . . purpose to the meaningless . . . help to the helpless . . . courage to the fearful . . . strength to the weak . . . reality to the religious . . . hope to the hopeless . . . and love to the loveless.

While God's Story gives no explanation or definition for God, the opening statement of Genesis makes it clear that God as Creator is eternal and therefore not bound by time. God created time, but He's not bound by or limited to it. The eternity of God can mean wonderful comfort in the face of something as final and frightening as death. When someone dies who belongs to Christ, that person is ushered into the Presence of Christ in eternity and enters a timeless state. God transcends time. For Him, all history—past, present, and future—is now. He sees everything at once. He doesn't see you now, then wait thirty years to see you then. He sees all of your life from the beginning to the end at one time.

Just as God is not bound by time, He is not bound by space. God can be everywhere at once.

God is greater than His Creation. There is nothing in your life—no circumstance or crisis, no organization or administration, no individual or alliance, no problem or pressure, no habit or heartache, no sickness or grief, no king or criminal, nothing visible or invisible—nothing is greater than God! He is the Creator Who is in authority over everything, fully able to control that which not only seems but is beyond our abilities to handle.

God is also separate from Creation. This means when something is wrong, He can right it. When something is broken, He can mend it. When something is lost, He can find it. When something doesn't work, He can fix it. When something is hurt, He can heal it. When someone is dead, He can raise him! Our failures, sins, mistakes, and shortcomings in no way dilute or deplete or weaken or harm God!

God is active as Creator. He is active in big ways . . . and small ways. He understands your big decision . . . big commitment . . . big problem. He notices your small tear . . . small kindness . . . small hurt feeling. God is active in unseen ways and initial ways. Even when we do not perceive that God is at work, He is actively present and involved. He takes the initiative in creation and in our lives. Your life and mine, both physical and spiritual, depend upon God's initiative.

God is personal and loving. God loves everyone on Planet Earth, and we can call God our Father when we come to Him in a personal relationship through faith in His Son. The glory of God the Father is made visible and accessible to us through God the Son, Jesus. And the glory of God the Son is made real and accessible to us through God the Spirit.

To have real, lasting and deep meaning for your life . . . know God.

To know God . . . read God's Story.

after you, [10]and with every living creature that is with you: the birds, the cattle, and every beast of the earth with you, of all that go out of the ark, every beast of the earth. [11]Thus I establish My covenant with you: Never again shall all flesh be cut off by the waters of the flood; never again shall there be a flood to destroy the earth."

[12]And God said: "This is the sign of the covenant which I make between Me and you, and every living creature that is with you, for perpetual generations: [13]I set My rainbow in the cloud, and it shall be for the sign of the covenant between Me and the earth. [14]It shall be, when I bring a cloud over the earth, that the rainbow shall be seen in the cloud; [15]and I will remember My covenant which is between Me and you and every living creature of all flesh; the waters shall never again become a flood to destroy all flesh. [16]The rainbow shall be in the cloud, and I will look on it to remember the everlasting covenant between God and every living creature of all flesh that is on the earth." [17]And God said to Noah, "This is the sign of the covenant which I have established between Me and all flesh that is on the earth."

Noah and His Sons

[18]Now the sons of Noah who went out of the ark were Shem, Ham, and Japheth. And Ham was the father of Canaan. [19]These three were the sons of Noah, and from these the whole earth was populated.

[20]And Noah began to be a farmer, and he planted a vineyard. [21]Then he drank of the wine and was drunk, and became uncovered in his tent. [22]And Ham, the father of Canaan, saw the nakedness of his father, and told his two brothers outside. [23]But Shem and Japheth took a garment, laid it on both their shoulders, and went backward and covered the nakedness of their father. Their faces

24So Noah awoke from his wine, and knew what his younger son had done to him. 25Then he said:

"Cursed be Canaan;
A servant of servants

26And he said:

"Blessed be the LORD,

And may Canaan be his servant.
27May God enlarge Japheth,

Nations Descended from Noah

10 Now this is the genealogy of the sons of Noah: Shem, Ham, and Japheth. And sons were born to them after the flood.

2The sons of Japheth were Gomer, Magog, Madai, Javan, Tubal, Meshech, and Tiras. 3The sons of Gomer were Ashkenaz, Riphath,[a] and Togarmah. 4The sons of Javan were Elishah, Tarshish, Kittim, and Dodanim.[a] 5From these the coastland peoples of the Gentiles were separated into their lands, everyone according to his language, according to their families, into their nations.

8Cush begot Nimrod; he began to be a mighty one on the earth. 9He was a mighty hunter before the LORD; therefore it is said, "Like Nimrod the mighty hunter before the LORD." 10And the beginning of his kingdom was Babel, Erech, Accad, and Calneh, in the land of Shinar. 11From that land he went to Assyria and built Nineveh, Rehoboth Ir, Calah, 12and Resen between Nineveh and Calah (that is the principal city).

13Mizraim begot Ludim, Anamim, Lehabim,

9:25 Noah's curse. The verb tenses of this curse suggest an appeal to God. The cursing of Canaan, Ham's son, implies an early understanding of the principle that the iniquities of the fathers would be visited on the children (Ex. 34:7). The curse apparently is restricted to this single branch of Ham's descendants.

9:26 Abraham was a direct descendant of Shem. The descendants of Canaan, Ham's son, included the Jebusites (Gen. 10:6) and other Canaanite peoples later conquered by Israel. The curse was thus fulfilled in the taking of the Promised Land.

9:27 Japheth's descendants were Gentiles west and north of Israel. Often called the "Sea Peoples," the Japhethites, like the sons of Shem, took territory from the Canaanites. Peaceful relations between Japheth's descendants and those of Shem are predicted. Israel experienced times of peace with the Sea Peoples as well as occupation by the Greeks, who were descendants of Japheth.

10:8 Nimrod (from Heb. marad, lit. "revolt"), whose name itself points to his rebellion, founded four cities in Shinar at the tip of the Persian Gulf (v. 10). Babel became the capital of Babylonia; Erech was a Sumerian city; Accad was the capital of Sargon of Akkad, a prominent ruler of the 24th century B.C. Calneh may not be the name of a city, since it can also be translated "all of them." Nimrod is the first kingdom-builder, as Cain was the first city-builder. He evidently distinguished himself with bold and daring deeds as the "mighty one" (Heb. gibor, lit. "hero" or "tyrant"), though he seemed more concerned with furthering his own interests than serving the Lord. All this he did "before" or under the watchful eye of Yahweh. Again, an ungodly line, whose genealogy will be continued, is emerging (Gen. 11:1–9).

10:11 Assyria. The subject of this verse is unclear. Either Nimrod built Assyria and the other cities, or "Asshur," the ancestor of the Assyrians, built Nineveh, Rehoboth Ir, Calah, and Resen.

EUTHANASIA GOD'S TIMING IN DEATH

In a jealous rage, Cain killed his brother, Abel. God cursed Cain and sent him away. Fearing his own murder, Cain begged God for safety. God responded that whoever killed Cain would receive vengeance from Him. God then set a "mark" on Cain to protect his life and make a statement to all: life comes from God (Gen. 4:1–15). Not only does God prohibit vengeful killing, but He makes clear that life and death are solely in His domain. Life is sacred. God alone is responsible for the termination of life.

Euthanasia (Gk.) is defined as terminating life in order to achieve some concept of good, such as putting an end to physical suffering. It may include death by the individual's choice or by the choice of others. It also includes several other concepts, such as "death with dignity," "mercy killing," and even "death selection." Euthanasia covers a wide range and may be either active or passive. It may involve actions to produce death or could merely be the withholding of life-extending supports. Whereas extraordinary life-prolonging measures are praise-worthy and noble for those who can and choose to do so, there is no moral obligation to pursue this course. God has ordained a natural process for ending this life and beginning the next. However, in every case, euthanasia involves human decision to determine the manner and timing of death for some supposed good.

Christians should entrust mortality to God. Life is not something we own. Rather, the opportunity to experience life is a gift from our Creator, and the possession of life is a stewardship trust. God always remains the true "Owner" of life; so it is never ours to do with as we want. Death's timing is God's choice, not that of an individual or society. Life is valuable to the Lord, and even the life continuation of the murderer Cain was protected by the Creator of life.

[15]Canaan begot Sidon his firstborn, and Heth; [16]the Jebusite, the Amorite, and the Girgashite; [17]the Hivite, the Arkite, and the Sinite; [18]the Arvadite, the Zemarite, and the Hamathite. [26]Joktan begot Almodad, Sheleph, Hazarmaveth, Jerah, [27]Hadoram, Uzal, Diklah, [28]Obal,[a] Abimael, Sheba, [29]Ophir, Havilah, and Jobab. All these were the sons of Joktan. [30]And their dwelling place was from Mesha as you go toward Sephar, the mountain of the east. [31]These were the sons of Shem, according to their families, according to their languages, in their lands, according to their nations.

[32]These were the families of the sons of Noah, according to their generations, in their nations; and from these the nations were divided on the earth after the flood.

Nineveh, east of the Tigris, and Calah both served as capitals of Assyria. Rehoboth Ir is unknown but may refer to a section of Nineveh. Resen, "the principal city," cannot be located and may allude to the total area covered by the previous three cities (see v. 12; Jon. 1:2; 3:2, "great city").

10:19 The land of Canaan included not just the territory of Israel but also the land east of the Jordan. The inhabitants of Canaan are thought to have migrated from Arabia, where Ham had settled.

10:21 The sons of Shem were selected to be the godly seed that God would sovereignly protect. From Shem's descendants came the three monotheistic religions—Islam, Judaism, and Christianity. Shem's great-grandson Eber (Heb.), transliterated to "Hebrew," the ancestor of Abraham, is singled out for special mention (see Gen. 11:10–26). Of Shem's five sons, Elam sired the Elamites, east of the Tigris; Lud is probably connected to the Lydians of Asia Minor; Aram founded the Syrian people known in the OT as Arameans. Asshur may have been involved with Nimrod in the building of Assyria, since both Hamitic and Semitic artifacts have been found in Assyrian ruins. The genealogy of Arphaxad, the ancestor of the Israelites, reappears (vv. 24–29; Gen. 11:10–26).

The patriarchs who lived before the Flood had an average lifespan of about 900 years (Gen. 5). The ages of post-Flood patriarchs dropped rapidly and gradually leveled off (Gen. 11). Some suggest that this was due to major environmental changes brought about by the Flood.

The Tower of Babel

11 Now the whole earth had one language and one speech. 2And it came to pass, as they journeyed from the east, that they found a plain in the land of Shinar, and they dwelt there. 3Then they said to one another, "Come, let us make bricks and bake them thoroughly." They had brick for stone, and they had asphalt for mortar. 4And they said, "Come, let us build ourselves a city, and a tower whose top is in the heavens; let us make a name for ourselves, lest we be scattered abroad over the face of the whole earth."

5But the LORD came down to see the city and the tower which the sons of men had built. 6And the LORD said, "Indeed the people are one and they all have one language, and this is what they begin to do; now nothing that they propose to do will be withheld from them. 7Come, let Us go down and there confuse their language, that they may not understand one another's speech." 8So the LORD scattered them abroad from there over the face of all the earth, and they ceased building the city.
9Therefore its name is called Babel, because there the LORD confused the language of all the earth; and from there the LORD scattered them abroad over the face of all the earth.

Shem's Descendants

10This is the genealogy of Shem: Shem was one hundred years old, and begot Arphaxad two years after the flood. 11After he begot Arphaxad, Shem lived five hundred years, and begot sons and daughters.

11:1 Since mention of separate languages has already been made (Gen. 10:5, 20, 31), these events must occur soon after the Flood (vv. 1–9). Moses lists the table of nations before he tells the story of the events that divide them.

11:4 The city and tower. This is the first reference to city-building since Cain's project (Gen. 4:17). These settlers seemingly belonged to the ungodly, rebellious line. This is confirmed by the word for tower (Heb. migdal), appearing elsewhere in Scripture as a symbol of pride that displeased God (Is. 2:15–17). The purpose of the builders in remaining together and aspiring toward the heavens is in direct contrast to God's command to move throughout the earth and cultivate it (Gen. 1:28; 9:1). "Top in the heavens" is figuratively suggesting great size and godless ambition (see Deut. 1:28; 9:1; Jer. 51:53).

11:6 Unbridled ambition. The Hebrew verbs translated "propose," "to do," and "be withheld" are used together elsewhere only when God describes His own purposes (Job 42:2). As in the Garden of Eden, mankind was attempting to usurp divine prerogatives and would thus suffer judgment (Gen. 3:1–6; see chart, The Results of Sin).

11:9 Babel (perhaps from Heb. balal, lit. "to confuse") is later associated with Babylon, used throughout Scripture as a symbol of pride and rebellion against God.

11:10 The genealogy of Shem is repeated after the story of Babel to emphasize God's preservation of a godly line in the

THE SANCTITY OF LIFE

CREATED IN HIS IMAGE

God places special value on human life (Gen. 1:26, 27; Ps. 8:4–6). Human life is sacred because the man and woman alone were created in the image of God, and that life deserves protection. God commands His people to protect and defend innocent human life (Ezek. 16:20, 21, 36, 38). Under the Mosaic Law, the murder of another person deserved punishment by death because of the value of the life that was destroyed (Gen. 9:6; Ex. 20:13).

Scripture extends this special status and protection to human life in every stage of development and need (Is. 46:3, 4). The unborn child shares in God's image (Ps. 139:13–16) and is protected under Old Testament law (Ex. 21:22–25). Believers are exhorted to defend and care for the sick, the elderly, and the poor (Lev. 19:32; Deut. 15:7, 8). No one is excluded from protection and care.

Throughout history this biblical view of the sanctity of all human life has faced opposition—most notably from those who advocate a "quality of life" viewpoint, suggesting that human life must possess certain qualities and abilities before it can be considered truly valuable and worthy of life sustenance. According to this distorted humanistic view, if the unborn child, the handicapped infant, or the elderly person does not possess these qualities, that individual is not entitled to the protection which Scripture or the Law would give.

The Bible rejects this "quality of life" view. The value of human life does not depend upon the person's functional abilities or independent viability but is assured because of the image of God that is found in every human life. God does not measure the quality of a human being before He bestows His image. God calls upon us to extend our care and compassion to every life He has created, in every stage of development and in every need.

Abram, Nahor, and Haran.

Terah's Descendants

27 This is the genealogy of Terah: Terah begot Abram, Nahor, and Haran. Haran begot Lot. 28 And Haran died before his father Terah in his native land, in Ur of the Chaldeans. 29 Then Abram and Nahor took wives: the name of Abram's wife was Sarai, and the name of Nahor's wife, Milcah, the daughter of Haran the father of Milcah and the father of Iscah. 30 But Sarai was barren; she had no child.
31 And Terah took his son Abram and his grandson Lot, the son of Haran, and his daughter-in-law Sarai, his son Abram's wife, and they went out with them from Ur of the Chaldeans to go to the midst of wickedness. The genealogy is presented in multiples of seven, with the seventh places occupied by men of particular importance. From Adam to Enoch are seven generations; from Enoch to Eber, ancestor of the Hebrews, are seven; and from Eber to Abram are seven generations.

11:28 Ur of the Chaldeans is almost overwhelmingly identified as the Sumerian city on the Euphrates in southern Mesopotamia.

11:29 Taking a wife. This expression is a Hebrew idiom for getting married. Abram and Nahor and the women they married are important for history in general and God's plan specifically. Abram married his half sister Sarai, the daughter of his father but not his mother; Nahor married Milcah, the daughter of his brother Haran and therefore his niece (see chart, The Family Tree of Abraham). Though such relationships would later be forbidden as incestuous (see Lev. 18), God planned for the human race to descend from one couple, necessitating marriage between brothers and sisters for a time. Certainly, however, there was never a sanction for any such relationship outside of marriage (see Gen. 19:31–38; Lev. 18, Incest).

11:31 Haran is in northern Mesopotamia on an upper branch of the Euphrates, approximately 600 miles north of Ur (see v. 28, note).

land of Canaan; and they came to Haran and dwelt there. 32So the days of Terah were two hundred and five years, and Terah died in Haran.

Promises to Abram

12 Now the LORD had said to Abram:

"Get out of your country,
From your family
And from your father's house,
To a land that I will show you.
2I will make you a great nation;
I will bless you
And make your name great;
And you shall be a blessing.
3I will bless those who bless you,
And I will curse him who curses you;
And in you all the families of the earth shall be blessed."

4So Abram departed as the LORD had spoken to him, and Lot went with him. And Abram was seventy-five years old when he departed from Haran. 5Then Abram took Sarai his wife and Lot his brother's son, and all their possessions that they had gathered, and the people whom they had acquired in Haran, and they departed to go to the land of Canaan. So they came to the land of Canaan. 6Abram passed through the land to the place of Shechem, as far as the terebinth tree of Moreh.[a] And the Canaanites were then in the land.

7Then the LORD appeared to Abram and said, "To your descendants I will give this land." And there he built an altar to the LORD, who had appeared to him. 8And he moved from there to the mountain east of Bethel, and he pitched his tent with Bethel on the west and Ai on the east; there he built an altar to the LORD and called on the name of the LORD. 9So Abram journeyed, going on still toward the South.[a]

Abram in Egypt

10Now there was a famine in the land, and Abram went down to Egypt to dwell there, for

12:6 [a]Hebrew Alon Moreh 12:9 [a]Hebrew Negev

12:1 Abram's story, like Noah's, begins with a command and promise from Yahweh, the covenant God. The command is to separate himself from his countrymen, undoubtedly idolators. The promise includes seven clauses:

1) "I will make you a great nation" (Heb. goy), implying the giving of territory (v. 7).

2) "I will bless you."

3) "I will . . . make your name great." The promise to make Abram's name great is a deliberate contrast to the efforts of the tower builders (Gen. 11:4); this language is used of royalty elsewhere in the OT (2 Sam. 7:9; Ps. 72:17).

4) "You shall be a blessing." This imperative is related to the first imperative, "Get out," and is central and pivotal to the promise. Abram's separation will result in his bringing blessing to others. The next three clauses deal with those who will be blessed.

5) "I will bless those who bless you."

6) "I will curse him who curses you."

7) "And in you all the families of the earth shall be blessed" (vv. 2, 3). This last clause of the promise emphasizes Abram's role in the fulfillment of the divine plan for all humanity.

12:6 Shechem, lying in a valley between Mt. Ebal and Mt. Gerizim, was in central Canaan, approximately 500 miles south of Haran. Whether or not this city was the present Nablus is not as important as the fact that here God appeared to Abram. The terebinth tree was associated with "Moreh," probably a Canaanite shrine for divining, before God chose to reveal His power here in a theophany (a visual appearance of the Lord, v. 7).

12:8 Bethel (Heb., lit. "house of God") was 12 miles north of the eventual site of Jerusalem. What happened to Abram also happened to Jacob (Gen. 28:10–22). The naming of the city Bethel occurred when Jacob slept there. At this time it was a Canaanite city called Luz. Ai (lit. "the ruin") was known by this name at the time of its destruction (Josh. 7; 8). Abram did not stay in Canaanite cities; he pitched a tent on the outskirts.

12:10 Abram had not been forbidden by Yahweh to travel to Egypt. During famine, it was common for Palestinian peoples

SARAI (SARAH) A Submissive Wife

Sarah appears in the Bible as God's paragon of a married woman. Two notable characteristics mark her life: beauty and barrenness. Because of her beauty, even pagan rulers desired her; yet her infertility caused deep domestic humiliation and even marital dissension. Sarah undoubtedly had beauty, brilliance, and creativity, but the quality which implants her in our memories and sets her apart is her unique and unequivocal devotion toward her husband Abraham. She shared not only her husband's challenges and heart aches but also his dreams and blessings. She did not waver; she stood by his side through good choices and bad decisions, adversities and blessings, in youth and old age. She is a fine example of a woman who loved her husband unconditionally and tenaciously.

More space is devoted to Sarah than to any other woman of the Bible. An entire chapter discusses her death and burial (Gen. 23). Both her husband and son grieved deeply when she died (Gen. 23:2; 24:67).

Two New Testament citations commend Sarah (Heb. 11:11; 1 Peter 3:6); she is mentioned in Romans as well (Rom. 4:19; 9:9); and she is used to illustrate the differences between the bonded and free (Gal. 4:21–31). She is styled as one of "the holy women" of old because she entrusted to her husband her willing cooperation. From the narrative it is apparent that Sarah was strong willed; yet she chose to submit to Abraham, an attitude which God commended. She was consistently identified as Abraham's wife, reinforcing the fact that God viewed the pair as one flesh. Together they were asked to believe that God would give them a son.

Sarah is the only wife named in the heroes of the faith (Heb. 11:11). Sarah's mothering experience fluctuated from emotions of skepticism, embarrassment, envy, and cruel recrimination to intense exhilaration and joy. Even though Sarah fell into sin, God faithfully kept His promise that she would be "a mother of nations" (Gen. 17:16).

Perhaps more than any other biblical woman, Sarah stands to teach women two supreme characteristics of godly womanhood: humble submission to their husbands in marriage and fervent commitment to nurturing the next generation.

See also Gen. 11:29—23:20; Is. 51:2; Rom. 4:19; 9:9; Gal. 4:21–31; Heb. 11:11; 1 Pet. 3:5, 6; notes on Infertility (Gen. 11); Submission (1 Pet. 3); Wives (Prov. 31)

the famine was severe in the land. 11And it came to pass, when he was close to entering Egypt, that he said to Sarai his wife, "Indeed I know that you are a woman of beautiful countenance. 12Therefore it will happen, when the Egyptians see you, that they will say, 'This is his wife'; and they will kill me, but they will let you live. 13Please say you are my sister, that it may be well with me for your sake, and that I[a] may live because of you."

14So it was, when Abram came into Egypt, that the Egyptians saw the woman, that she was very beautiful. 15The princes of Pharaoh also saw her and commended her to Pharaoh. And the woman was taken to Pharaoh's house. 16He treated Abram well for her sake. He had sheep, oxen, male donkeys, male and female servants, female donkeys, and camels.

17But the LORD plagued Pharaoh and his house with great plagues because of Sarai, Abram's wife. 18And Pharaoh called Abram and said, "What is this you have done to me? Why did you not tell me that she was your wife? 19Why did you say, 'She is my sister'? I might have taken her as my wife. Now therefore, here is your wife; take her and go your way." 20So Pharaoh commanded his men concerning him; and they sent him away, with his wife and all that he had.

Abram Inherits Canaan

13 Then Abram went up from Egypt, he and his wife and all that he had, and Lot with him, to the South.[a] 2Abram was very rich in livestock, in silver, and in gold. 3And he went on his journey from the South as far as Bethel, to the place where his tent had been at the beginning, between Bethel and Ai, 4to the place of the altar which he had made there at first. And there Abram called on the name of the LORD.

5Lot also, who went with Abram, had flocks and herds and tents. 6Now the land was not able to support them, that they might dwell together, for their possessions were so great that they could not dwell together. 7And there was strife between the herdsmen of Abram's livestock and the herdsmen of Lot's livestock. The Canaanites and the Perizzites then dwelt in the land.

8So Abram said to Lot, "Please let there be no strife between you and me, and between my herdsmen and your herdsmen; for we are to take refuge in Egypt, which was usually well watered by the seasonal flooding of the Nile.

12:13 Abram's sister. Sarai was his half sister (Gen. 11:29, note; 20:12). Sarai, now 65, was at the midpoint of the patriarchal life span, the equivalent of modern-day thirties or early forties.

brethren. 9*Is* not the whole land before you? Please separate from me. If you take the left, then I will go to the right; or, if you go to the right, then I will go to the left."

10And Lot lifted his eyes and saw all the plain of Jordan, that it was well watered everywhere (before the LORD destroyed Sodom and Gomorrah) like the garden of the LORD, like the land of Egypt as you go toward Zoar. 11Then Lot chose for himself all the plain of Jordan, and Lot journeyed east. And they separated from each other. 12Abram dwelt in the land of Canaan, and Lot dwelt in the cities of the plain and pitched his tent even as far as Sodom. 13But the men of Sodom were exceedingly wicked and sinful against the LORD.

14And the LORD said to Abram, after Lot had separated from him: "Lift your eyes now and look from the place where you are—northward, southward, eastward, and westward; 15for all the land which you see I give to you and your descendants[a] forever. 16And I will make your descendants as the dust of the earth; so that if a man could number the dust of the earth, then your descendants also could be numbered. 17Arise, walk in the land through its length and its width, for I give it to you."

18Then Abram moved his tent, and went and dwelt by the terebinth trees of Mamre,[a] which are in Hebron, and built an altar there to the LORD.

Lot's Captivity and Rescue

14 And it came to pass in the days of Amraphel king of Shinar, Arioch king of Ellasar, Chedorlaomer king of Elam, and Tidal king of nations,[a] 2*that* they made war with Bera king of Sodom, Birsha king of Gomorrah, Shinab king of Admah, Shemeber king of Zeboiim, and the king of Bela (that is, Zoar). 3All these joined together in the Valley of Siddim (that is, the Salt Sea). 4Twelve years they served Chedorlaomer, and in the thirteenth year they rebelled.

5In the fourteenth year Chedorlaomer and the kings that were with him came and attacked the Rephaim in Ashteroth Karnaim, the Zuzim in Ham, the Emim in Shaveh Kiriathaim, 6and the Horites in their mountain of Seir, as far as El Paran, which is by the wilderness. 7Then they turned back and came to En Mishpat (that is, Kadesh), and attacked all the country of the Amalekites, and also the Amorites who dwelt in Hazezon Tamar.

8And the king of Sodom, the king of Gomorrah, the king of Admah, the king of Zeboiim, and the king of Bela (that is, Zoar) went out and joined together in battle in the Valley of Siddim 9against Chedorlaomer king of Elam, Tidal king of nations,[a] Amraphel king of Shinar, and Arioch king of Ellasar—four kings against five. 10Now the Valley of Siddim was full of asphalt pits; and the kings of Sodom and Gomorrah fled; some fell there, and the remainder fled to the mountains. 11Then they took all the goods of Sodom and Gomorrah, and all their provisions, and went their way. 12They also took Lot, Abram's brother's son who dwelt in Sodom, and his goods, and departed.

13Then one who had escaped came and told Abram the Hebrew, for he dwelt by the terebinth trees of Mamre[a] the Amorite, brother of Eshcol and brother of Aner; and they were allies with Abram. 14Now when Abram heard that his brother was taken captive, he armed his three hundred

13:9 Abram's concession. By allowing Lot first choice of land, Abram put aside his own right as head of the family. This appears to be an act of faith in God's promise and stands in contrast to his earlier actions based on fear (Gen. 12:7, 10–20).

13:13 Sodom, like Zoar, probably lay at the southern end of the Dead Sea and may now be underwater. Sodom was a center of homosexuality (Gen. 19:5), a sin directly against Yahweh (see Gen. 19:5; Lev. 18, Homosexuality).

13:18 Mamre is the modern site of Ramet el-Khalil, almost two miles north of Hebron in southcentral Canaan. Abram would probably have used the Negev for grazing land. Mamre was named after a prominent Amorite (Gen. 14:13).

14:5 Chedorlaomer and his allies formed a power complex which dominated territory all the way to the Jordan River. On its way down to the Dead Sea, the united army followed the "King's Highway," which has been a major route of travel throughout history (Num. 20:17). The Rephaim, Zuzim, and Emim are described as "giants" (Deut. 2:10–12, 20–23). The path of conquest extended to the Wilderness of Paran, at the top of the Red Sea. The army then turned north to Kadesh, in the Negev south of Canaan, and ended up at Hazezon Tamar on the western shore of the Dead Sea. Archaeological evidence confirms great destruction in this area around 1900 B.C.

14:10 Asphalt pits. The Hebrew text repeats "pits" (lit. "pits of bitumen"), emphasizing the frequency and size of the depressions. Asphalt, or bitumen, is a mineral found in great deposits around the Dead Sea. A kind of pitch, this sticky substance was used on Noah's ark and for mortar (Gen. 6:14; 11:3). "Fall" can also mean "lower oneself," as in hiding, which explains the reappearance of the king of Sodom (v. 17).

BLESSINGS GIFTS FROM A LOVING FATHER

The blessings of God are abundantly bestowed on all those who follow Him. God's blessings are not simply a reward for godly living but a gift from a loving Father. Life's blessings are not a measure of who we are but of who God is. God promises personal blessings to those who follow Him in obedience and exhorts His people to be a blessing to others (Gen. 12:2, 3).

Christians need only to reflect back over their own lives to discover blessings from God. While blessings are experienced in different ways, provision, protection, and salvation are among God's greatest blessings. The goodness of God is also apparent when Christians look around at present blessings. Health, family, friends, and ministry are among God's choicest blessings. Christians can also look ahead to future blessings. God promises continual blessings on earth and eternal blessings in heaven.

The wonderful blessings of God should be remembered, not forgotten. The same gracious God who forgives sin, heals diseases, redeems lives, and bestows mercy, also promises abundant blessings (Ps. 103:2–5).

and eighteen trained servants who were born in his own house, and went in pursuit as far as Dan. 15 He divided his forces against them by night, and he and his servants attacked them and pursued them as far as Hobah, which is north of Damascus. 16 So he brought back all the goods, and also brought back his brother Lot and his goods, as well as the women and the people.

17 And the king of Sodom went out to meet him at the Valley of Shaveh (that is, the King's Valley), after his return from the defeat of Chedorlaomer and the kings who were with him.

Abram and Melchizedek

18 Then Melchizedek king of Salem brought out bread and wine; he was the priest of God Most High. 19 And he blessed him and said:

"Blessed be Abram of God Most High,
Possessor of heaven and earth;
20 And blessed be God Most High,
Who has delivered your enemies into your hand."

And he gave him a tithe of all.

21 Now the king of Sodom said to Abram, "Give me the persons, and take the goods for yourself."

22 But Abram said to the king of Sodom, "I have raised my hand to the LORD, God Most High, the Possessor of heaven and earth, 23 that I will take nothing, from a thread to a sandal strap, and that I will not take anything that is yours, lest you should say, 'I have made Abram rich'— 24 except only what the young men have eaten, and the portion of the men who went with me: Aner, Eshcol, and Mamre; let them take their portion."

God's Covenant with Abram

15 After these things the word of the LORD came to Abram in a vision, saying, "Do not be afraid, Abram. I am your shield, your exceedingly great reward."

2 But Abram said, "Lord GOD, what will You give me, seeing I go childless, and the heir of my house is Eliezer of Damascus?" 3 Then Abram said, "Look, You have given me no offspring; indeed one born in my house is my heir!"

4 And behold, the word of the LORD came to him, saying, "This one shall not be your heir, but one who will come from your own body shall be your heir." 5 Then He brought him outside and said, "Look now toward heaven, and count the stars if you are able to number them." And He said to him, "So shall your descendants be."

6 And he believed in the LORD, and He accounted it to him for righteousness.

7 Then He said to him, "I am the LORD, who brought you out of Ur of the Chaldeans, to give you this land to inherit it."

14:18 Melchizedek, whose name means "my king is righteousness," is described as "king of Salem" or "king of peace." Some identify him as king of nearby Jerusalem (see Ps. 76:2). As both priest and king, Melchizedek foreshadowed Christ (Ps. 110:4). Like Abram, Melchizedek worshiped the true God. His description (v. 18), his blessing of Abram (vv. 19–20), and his acceptance of a tithe (v. 20) have prompted some to identify this as a Christophany, an appearance of the preincarnate Christ (see Heb. 7:1–10).

15:6 Abram's great faith took the words of God as proof enough (see Gen. 12:1–4). The word "believed" appears twice more (Gen. 42:20; 45:26); both times it involves the presence of proof for the statement made. God placed Abram's faith on the scale of justice, causing it to tip toward righteousness (see Rom. 4:3).

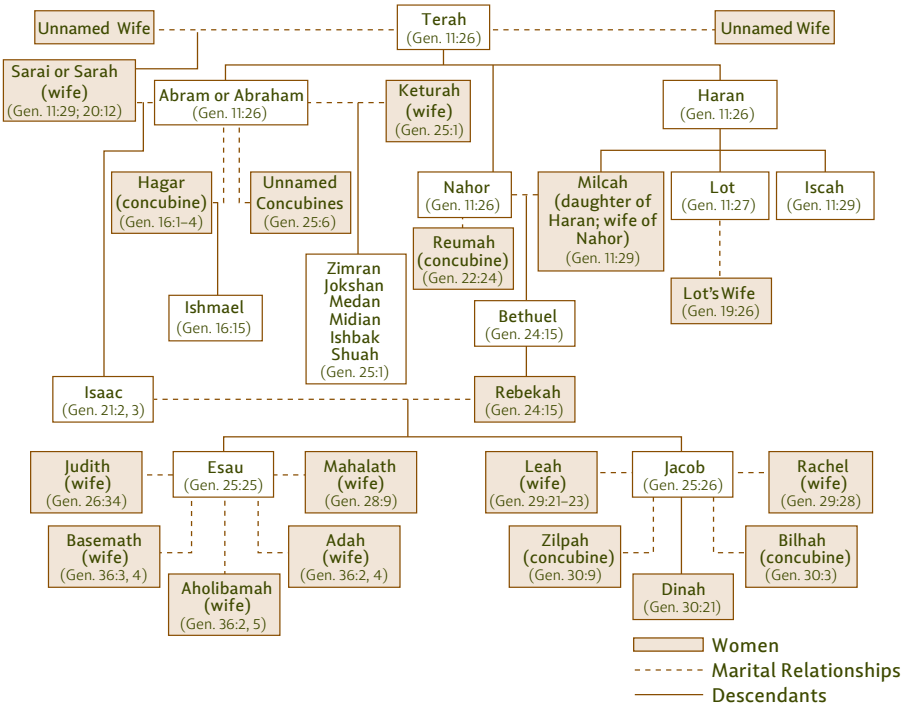
15:7 Confirmation of the covenant. God makes the Abrahamic covenant with Abram (vv. 7–21). The confirmation of the covenant has five parts:

1) God reminded Abram of His faithfulness in the past (v. 7).

2) God gave a sign to confirm His promise (vv. 8–12).

3) God specified the provision of the covenant (vv. 13–16).

THE FAMILY TREE OF ABRAHAM



[8]And he said, "Lord GOD, how shall I know that I will inherit it?"
[9]So He said to him, "Bring Me a three-year-old heifer, a three-year-old female goat, a three-year-old ram, a turtledove, and a young pigeon." [10]Then he brought all these to Him and cut them in two, down the middle, and placed each piece opposite the other; but he did not cut the birds in two.
[11]And when the vultures came down on the carcasses, Abram drove them away.
[12]Now when the sun was going down, a deep sleep fell upon Abram; and behold, horror and great darkness fell upon him. [13]Then He said to Abram: "Know certainly that your descendants will be strangers in a land that is not theirs, and will serve them, and they will afflict them four hundred years. [14]And also the nation whom they serve I will judge; afterward they shall come out with great possessions. [15]Now as for you, you shall go to your fathers in peace; you shall be buried at a good old age. [16]But in the fourth generation they shall return here, for the iniquity of the Amorites is not yet complete." [17]And it came to pass, when the sun went down and it was dark, that behold, there appeared a smoking oven and a burning torch that passed

4) God ratified the covenant by a divine appearance (v. 17).
5) God concluded the covenant with an unconditional promise (v. 18).

15:9 The sign of the covenant. The animals have a double significance. They acted as the sacrifices which accompanied covenant-making in the OT. In addition, the party who passed through the animals bound himself to fulfill the covenant, lest a similar fate come upon him if the covenant were to be violated.

15:13 400 years is a rounded or approximate figure; 430 years is the exact duration of the exile (Ex. 12:40, 41).

15:16 The iniquity of the Amorites. Israel would only inherit the land after the Canaanite inhabitants had passed the point of divine tolerance. In His omniscient foreknowledge, God knew the timing of that ultimate judgment, which would give the Israelites their land.

15:17 Smoke and fire. Elsewhere in the Pentateuch, smoke and fire accompany manifestations of the divine presence (see Ex. 19:18). God passed between the cut halves of the animals. This was a strong method of covenant ratification (see v. 9, note). Abram was not required to perform this ritual; God chose to bind Himself to a unilateral obligation.

HAGAR Rejected But Not Abandoned

The Egyptian maidservant Hagar was acquired by Sarai (Sarah) when she and Abram, together with his nephew Lot, moved from Canaan to Egypt to escape a famine. In ancient Near Eastern households the rank of personal maidservant to the master's wife reflected honor, obedience, and trustworthiness. However, the position stripped Hagar of all personal rights, making her totally subject to Sarai's every wish. Because Sarai was sterile, Hagar's surrogate maternity was perfectly legal, though a clear violation of God's law (see Gen. 2:24) and evidence of a lack of faith on the part of Abram and Sarai.

Physiologically and emotionally, however, Hagar changed radically with her pregnancy. Sarai responded to Hagar's pride and self-importance with a vindictive accusation against her husband, who insisted that Sarai assume full responsibility for her maid. Because of Sarai's mistreatment, Hagar ran away.

To this fugitive slave, God revealed Himself ("You-Are-the-God-Who-Sees," Gen. 16:13). In tender grace He met her immediate need and allowed her to experience His presence.

Hagar's legacy speaks poignantly to the growing number of disadvantaged and dispossessed women. Under no circumstance can they escape God's watchcare. As God provided for Hagar, He can and will provide for every woman. Twice the Angel of the Lord came to her aid (Gen. 16:7; 21:17). He was also involved with Hagar and her son in times of crisis and in the times in between (Gen. 21:20).

Throughout Hagar's life, she experienced estrangement and prejudice as a foreigner, hardship and abuse as a servant, grief and abandonment as an unwed pregnant woman, and hopeless despair on two occasions as she faced imminent death. Yet despite all these difficulties, Hagar responded to the God who addressed her. She did not get compensation from Sarah and Abraham; her life was never easy, but God did reward her. In the all-seeing God, Hagar found refuge and life.

between those pieces. 18On the same day the LORD made a covenant with Abram, saying:

"To your descendants I have given this land, from the river of Egypt to the great river, the River Euphrates— 19the Kenites, the Kenezzites, the Kadmonites, 20the Hittites, the Perizzites, the Rephaim, 21the Amorites, the Canaanites, the Girgashites, and the Jebusites."

Hagar and Ishmael

16 Now Sarai, Abram's wife, had borne him no children. And she had an Egyptian maidservant whose name was Hagar. 2So Sarai said to Abram, "See now, the LORD has restrained me from bearing children. Please, go in to my maid; perhaps I shall obtain children by her." And Abram heeded the voice of Sarai. 3Then Sarai, Abram's wife, took Hagar her maid, the Egyptian, and gave her to her husband Abram to be his wife, after Abram had dwelt ten years in the land of Canaan. 4So he went in to Hagar, and she conceived. And when she saw that she had conceived, her mistress became despised in her eyes.

5Then Sarai said to Abram, "My wrong be upon you! I gave my maid into your embrace; and when she saw that she had conceived, I became despised in her eyes. The LORD judge between you and me."

6So Abram said to Sarai, "Indeed your maid is in your hand; do to her as you please." And when Sarai dealt harshly with her, she fled from her presence.

7Now the Angel of the LORD found her by a spring of water in the wilderness, by the spring on the way to Shur. 8And He said, "Hagar, Sarai's maid, where have you come from, and where are you going?"

15:18 The terms of the covenant promise are that God will give Abram's descendants the land belonging to the ten nations listed (vv. 19–21; see also chart, The Covenants of Genesis). The "river of Egypt" is the Wadi el-Arish, which divides Canaan and Egypt. The area across the Jordan was also promised. Israel reached these borders during the reign of David.

16:2 Sarai's plan. There is a parallel—both in the words used and in their respective actions—between Sarai, who "took Hagar . . . and gave her to her husband Abram," and Eve, who "took of its fruit and . . . also gave to her husband" (Gen. 3:6). In both cases, the woman willfully took the initiative, and the man was a willing recipient. Hagar became Abram's concubine and the mother of his child. The taking of a concubine to assure male heirs was both accepted and legal in the ancient Near East. Nevertheless, Abram had been called out from his cultural surroundings (Gen. 12:1–3). Sarai's plan for securing an heir was in essence polygamy, and polygamy always has been in violation of the Creator's plan for marriage (Gen. 2:24; see 1 Tim. 3, Polygamy).

16:7 The Angel of the Lord is associated with the covenant God. The Angel is thought by many to be a theophany or an appearance of God Himself, as Hagar recognized (v. 13; see also chart, The Angel of the Lord). The Angel appears in Genesis to prevent the thwarting of God's plan for His chosen people (see Gen. 22:11). Because the Angel seems to distinguish Himself from Yahweh while still claiming deity (vv. 11–13), He has been identified by some as the preincarnate Christ.

16:8 Hagar was returning to her home country Egypt; Shur is

She said, "I am fleeing from the presence of my mistress Sarai."

9The Angel of the LORD said to her, "Return to your mistress, and submit yourself under her hand." 10Then the Angel of the LORD said to her, "I will multiply your descendants exceedingly, so that they shall not be counted for multitude." 11And the Angel of the LORD said to her:

"Behold, you are with child,
And you shall bear a son.
You shall call his name Ishmael,
Because the LORD has heard your affliction.
12He shall be a wild man;
His hand shall be against every man,
And every man's hand against him.
And he shall dwell in the presence of all his brethren."

13Then she called the name of the LORD who spoke to her, You-Are-the-God-Who-Sees; for she said, "Have I also here seen Him who sees me?" 14Therefore the well was called Beer Lahai Roi;[a] observe, it is between Kadesh and Bered.

15So Hagar bore Abram a son; and Abram named his son, whom Hagar bore, Ishmael. 16Abram was eighty-six years old when Hagar bore Ishmael to Abram.

The Sign of the Covenant

17 When Abram was ninety-nine years old, the LORD appeared to Abram and said to him, "I am Almighty God; walk before Me and be blameless. 2And I will make My covenant between Me and you, and will multiply you exceedingly." 3Then Abram fell on his face, and God talked with him, saying: 4"As for Me, behold, My covenant is with you, and you shall be a father of many nations. 5No longer shall your name be called Abram, but your name shall be Abraham; for I have made you a father of many nations. 6I will make you exceedingly fruitful; and I will make nations of you, and kings shall come from you. 7And I will establish My covenant between Me and you and your descendants after you in their generations, for an everlasting covenant, to be God to you and your descendants after you. 8Also I give to you and your descendants after you the land in which you are a stranger, all the land of Canaan, as an everlasting possession; and I will be their God."

9And God said to Abraham: "As for you, you shall keep My covenant, you and your descendants after you throughout their generations. 10This is My covenant which you shall keep, between Me and you and your descendants after you: Every male child among you shall be circumcised; 11and you shall be circumcised in the flesh of your foreskins, and it shall be a sign of the covenant between Me and you. 12He who is eight days old among you shall be circumcised, every male child in your generations, he who is born in your house or bought with money from any foreigner who is at Canaan's southern border (v. 7). God's method of communication often utilized questioning but never implied lack of omniscience (see Gen. 3:9–11; 4:6).

16:10 The Angel's promise. Hagar received directly from God a promise of descendants. Ishmael (Heb., lit. "God hears") was the father of 12 princes (v. 11; Gen. 25:13–16), paralleling the 12 tribes descended from Isaac's son Jacob. Still, Ishmael's descendants would not inherit the land. "In the presence of" also carries the sense of "against the face of" (v. 12), predicting the hostility between the descendants of Ishmael and Isaac. While God had compassion on Hagar, He did not allow Abram's attempt to secure an heir through his own means to defeat His plan.

16:14 The well (lit. "well of the living one who sees me") was between Kadesh and Bered on Canaan's southern border. Kadesh Barnea is the modern site of Ain Quedeis in the wilderness of the Negev.

17:1 The affirmation of the covenant. A second stage in the establishment of the Abrahamic covenant came 14 to 22 years after the events of chapter 15 (see chart, The Covenants of Genesis). This reaffirmation of the covenant, like its establishment, involved God's revelation of Himself and a divine promise. In this chapter, reciprocal action is demanded from Abram (obedience, v. 1; circumcision, vv. 10–14). "Blameless" carries with it the idea of "unblemished" and possibly "transparent" or "candid." In Scripture, this is the first use of the name El Shaddai ("Almighty God"), which in Genesis appears in the context of resolving covenant difficulties, especially those involving the continuation of the covenant line (Gen. 28:3; 35:11).

17:5 The renaming of Abram (lit. "exalted father") is perhaps a reference to his own aristocratic family. The focus of this name change ("Abraham," lit. "father of many nations") is on his eventual progeny of kings and nations (v. 6), while earlier this focus was primarily concerned with Abram's immediate heir (Gen. 15).

17:10 Circumcision. The eternal covenant is accompanied by a permanent physical sign. Where earlier covenant signs merely commemorated the making of a covenant (Gen. 9:12, the rainbow; 15:7, 8, the divine appearance), circumcision carried the additional function of separation (see Circumcision).

CIRCUMCISION A SIGN OF THE COVENANT

Circumcision is the surgical removal of the foreskin of the penis. Baby boys are often circumcised for reasons of health and hygiene, but in biblical times and in modern Jewish communities, circumcision is a religious ritual, distinguishing the seed of Abraham or the Jew from the Gentile.

When God first made a covenant with Abraham, the father of all the faithful, God commanded circumcision as a sign of that faith relationship (Gen. 17:11). This act of obedience also represented the putting away of evil (Deut. 10:16; Jer. 4:4). Because God's covenant promises to Abraham were fully realized by Jesus Christ, the apostle Paul taught that every Christian, both male and female, is circumcised, not by human hands, but in Christ when the sinful nature is replaced by Christ's presence (Rom. 2:29; Col. 2:11).

not your descendant. 13He who is born in your house and he who is bought with your money must be circumcised, and My covenant shall be in your flesh for an everlasting covenant. 14And the uncircumcised male child, who is not circumcised in the flesh of his foreskin, that person shall be cut off from his people; he has broken My covenant."

15Then God said to Abraham, "As for Sarai your wife, you shall not call her name Sarai, but Sarah shall be her name. 16And I will bless her and also give you a son by her; then I will bless her, and she shall be a mother of nations; kings of peoples shall be from her."

19Then God said: "No, Sarah your wife shall bear you a son, and you shall call his name Isaac; I will establish My covenant with him for an everlasting covenant, and with his descendants after him. 20And as for Ishmael, I have heard you. Behold, I have blessed him, and will make him fruitful, and will multiply him exceedingly. He shall beget twelve princes, and I will make him a great nation. 21But My covenant I will establish with Isaac, whom Sarah shall bear to you at this set time next year." 22Then He finished talking with him, and God went up from Abraham.

23So Abraham took Ishmael his son, all who were born in his house and all who were bought with his money, every male among the men of Abraham's house, and circumcised the flesh of their foreskins that very same day, as God had said to him. 24Abraham was ninety-nine years old when he was circumcised in the flesh of his foreskin. 25And Ishmael his son was thirteen years old when he was circumcised in the flesh of his foreskin. 26That very same day Abraham was circumcised, and his son Ishmael; 27and all the men of his house, born in the house or bought with money from a foreigner, were circumcised with him.

The Son of Promise

18 Then the LORD appeared to him by the terebinth trees of Mamre,[a] as he was sitting in the tent door in the heat of the day. 2So he lifted his eyes and looked, and behold, three men were standing by him; and when he saw them, he ran from the tent door to meet them, and bowed him-

18:1 [a]Hebrew Alon Mamre

17:14 To be cut off can be interpreted either as excommunication from the nation (Ex. 12:19; Lev. 7:20, 21, 25; 17:9, 10) or as an untimely death by the congregation of Israel or by God Himself (Ex. 31:14).

17:15 Sarai's new name is obviously a part of the new covenant relationship, though the meaning of the change is not addressed as was the renaming of Abraham (v. 5). Clearly Sarah is an equal partner in the covenant (v. 16). Some have suggested "Sarai" as being from a root meaning "to contend" and "Sarah" as meaning "princess." The latter is definitely the prevalent meaning. In any case, the change added to the dignity of the occasion when God openly and publicly declared Sarah's part in the covenant.

17:17 Isaac's birth is connected with laughter. Isaac (Heb., lit. "he laughs," v. 19) not only alludes to the laughter of Abraham and Sarah (Gen. 18:12; 21:6) but may also be an implied prayer that God will smile and show favor to this son.

17:20 Ishmael. The contrast with Isaac is clear; God does not make a covenant (Heb. berith) with Ishmael, although the promise to both sons is similar; the sons of each will form 12 tribes.

17:25 Ishmael's circumcision. Although Ishmael was not included in the covenant with Abraham, his circumcision marks his participation in God's grace towards Abraham's descendants (see Circumcision).

18:1 The appearance of the Lord. Abraham took the covenant-confirming step of circumcision. The three men could well have been God Himself, in a theophany or Christophany (vv. 13, 33), accompanied by two angels (Gen. 19:1).

self to the ground, 3and said, "My Lord, if I have now found favor in Your sight, do not pass on by Your servant. 4Please let a little water be brought, and wash your feet, and rest yourselves under the tree. 5And I will bring a morsel of bread, that you may refresh your hearts. After that you may pass by, inasmuch as you have come to your servant."

They said, "Do as you have said."

6So Abraham hurried into the tent to Sarah and said, "Quickly, make ready three measures of fine meal; knead it and make cakes." 7And Abraham ran to the herd, took a tender and good calf, gave it to a young man, and he hastened to prepare it. 8So he took butter and milk and the calf which he had prepared, and set it before them; and he stood by them under the tree as they ate.

9Then they said to him, "Where is Sarah your wife?"

So he said, "Here, in the tent."

10And He said, "I will certainly return to you according to the time of life, and behold, Sarah your wife shall have a son."

(Sarah was listening in the tent door which was behind him.) 11Now Abraham and Sarah were old, well advanced in age; and Sarah had passed the age of childbearing.[a] 12Therefore Sarah laughed within herself, saying, "After I have grown old, shall I have pleasure, my lord being old also?"

13And the LORD said to Abraham, "Why did Sarah laugh, saying, 'Shall I surely bear a child, since I am old?' 14Is anything too hard for the LORD? At the appointed time I will return to you, according to the time of life, and Sarah shall have a son."

15But Sarah denied it, saying, "I did not laugh," for she was afraid.

And He said, "No, but you did laugh!"

Abraham Intercedes for Sodom

16Then the men rose from there and looked toward Sodom, and Abraham went with them to send them on the way. 17And the LORD said, "Shall I hide from Abraham what I am doing, 18since Abraham shall surely become a great and mighty nation, and all the nations of the earth shall be blessed in him? 19For I have known him, in order that he may command his children and his household after him, that they keep the way of the LORD, to do righteousness and justice, that the LORD may bring to Abraham what He has spoken to him." 20And the LORD said, "Because the outcry against Sodom and Gomorrah is great, and because their sin is very grave, 21I will go down now and see whether they have done altogether according to the outcry against it that has come to Me; and if not, I will know."

22Then the men turned away from there and went toward Sodom, but Abraham still stood before the LORD. 23And Abraham came near and said, "Would You also destroy the righteous with the wicked? 24Suppose there were fifty righteous within the city; would You also destroy the place and not spare it for the fifty righteous that were in it? 25Far be it from You to do such a thing as this, to slay the righteous with the wicked, so that the righteous should be as the wicked; far be it from You! Shall not the Judge of all the earth do right?"

26So the LORD said, "If I find in Sodom fifty righteous within the city, then I will spare all the place for their sakes."

27Then Abraham answered and said, "Indeed now, I who am but dust and ashes have taken it upon myself to speak to the Lord: 28Suppose there were five less than the fifty righteous; would You destroy all of the city for lack of five?"

So He said, "If I find there forty-five, I will not destroy it."

29And he spoke to Him yet again and said, "Suppose there should be forty found there?"

So He said, "I will not do it for the sake of forty."

30Then he said, "Let not the Lord be angry, and I will speak: Suppose thirty should be found there?"

So He said, "I will not do it if I find thirty there."

31And he said, "Indeed now, I have taken it upon myself to speak to the Lord: Suppose twenty should be found there?"

So He said, "I will not destroy it for the sake of twenty."

32Then he said, "Let not the Lord be angry, and 18:11 [a]Literally the manner of women had ceased to be with Sarah

18:3 My Lord. The timing of Abraham's recognition of the identity of his visitors is not clear. 'Adonai (Heb.), accompanied by the particle for polite request to a superior, could have also been used to address a distinguished earthly visitor. The lavishness of the feast—using approximately eight gallons of meal and an entire calf—may suggest a plan for later ritual offerings of meal and meat, hinting that Abraham does in fact recognize his visitor (v. 6).

18:9–12 God's question, "Where is?" continues His pattern of summoning His creation (v. 9; see Gen. 3:9; 4:9). The promise is a son for Sarah "according to the time of life" (lit. "the time when it is reviving," v. 10). This phrase is commonly used for spring, meaning "at the same time next year," and emphasizing the contrast between Sarah's "I have grown old" (lit. "worn out" like a garment, v. 12) and God's promise of her renewed youth. This is apparently the first time Sarah has heard this promise applied specifically to her. Her response is identical to Abraham's (17:17).

18:23 Abraham's intercession is the first illustration of God's promise that Abraham will be a blessing to the entire world (Gen. 12:3).

MENOPAUSE BEYOND FERTILITY

Menopause—the cessation of a woman's monthly periods—announces the retirement of her ovaries from active duty and thus the end of her childbearing years. Aging and physical changes occurring after menopause are sometimes considered a negative issue. Indeed, there can be unpleasant physical repercussions. Yet God made clear that there is a season for all things (Eccl. 3:1–12). Events take place on heaven's timeline, but God encourages us to focus on today, to honor the wisdom that comes with aging (Job 12:12), and to serve Him in our own lifetime by doing good (Eccl. 3:12).

Three post-menopausal women stand out as key figures in the Bible. Naomi, who thought herself too old to be of any use in Ruth's life (Ruth 1:12), was essential in the courtship of Ruth and Boaz and contributed to the rearing of their son Obed (Ruth 4:16, 17). Both Sarah and Elizabeth in their old age conceived and bore sons who played important roles in the kingdom (Gen. 18:11; Luke 1:36). Each of these wise and godly women was instrumental in the familial lineage or events surrounding the birth of Jesus Christ.

Besides biblical encouragement, post-menopausal women also have medical help available. Enjoying of post-menopausal years in healthy activity is often a matter of personal choice and planning. The uncomfortable physical symptoms of menopause can often be avoided or minimized by working with a physician. God never meant for your value to be determined by age or constrained by hormone levels. Remember: God can use you at any age if your heart is faithful to Him.

I will speak but once more: Suppose ten should be found there?"

And He said, "I will not destroy it for the sake of ten." 33So the LORD went His way as soon as He had finished speaking with Abraham; and Abraham returned to his place.

Sodom's Depravity

19 Now the two angels came to Sodom in the evening, and Lot was sitting in the gate of Sodom. When Lot saw them, he rose to meet them, and he bowed himself with his face toward the ground. 2And he said, "Here now, my lords, please turn in to your servant's house and spend the night, and wash your feet; then you may rise early and go on your way."

And they said, "No, but we will spend the night in the open square."

3But he insisted strongly; so they turned in to him and entered his house. Then he made them a feast, and baked unleavened bread, and they ate.

4Now before they lay down, the men of the city, the men of Sodom, both old and young, all the people from every quarter, surrounded the house. 5And they called to Lot and said to him, "Where are the men who came to you tonight? Bring them out to us that we may know them carnally."

6So Lot went out to them through the doorway, shut the door behind him, 7and said, "Please, my brethren, do not do so wickedly! 8See now, I have two daughters who have not known a man; please, let me bring them out to you, and you may do to them as you wish; only do nothing to these men, since this is the reason they have come under the shadow of my roof."

9And they said, "Stand back!" Then they said, "This one came in to stay here, and he keeps acting as a judge; now we will deal worse with you than with them." So they pressed hard against the man Lot, and came near to break down the door. 10But the men reached out their hands and pulled Lot into the house with them, and shut the door. 11And they struck the men who were at the doorway of the house with blindness, both small and great, so that they became weary trying to find the door.

Sodom and Gomorrah Destroyed

12Then the men said to Lot, "Have you anyone else here? Son-in-law, your sons, your daughters, and whomever you have in the city—take them out of this place! 13For we will destroy this place, because the outcry against them has grown great before the face of the LORD, and the LORD has sent us to destroy it."

19:1 The two angels. The three visitors to Abraham were a theophany of Yahweh (Gen. 18:13) and two heavenly companions. Lot's position "in the gate" demonstrates his social standing in Sodom as a man of importance; he no longer lives in a tent on the outskirts but has established himself in the heart of this wicked society (see Gen. 13:11, 12).

19:5 Lot's offer of his daughters leaves no doubt that this phrase refers to sexual intimacy (v. 8). Sexual perversions were common in Canaanite culture and religious rites. Lot reflects the effects of Sodom on his own morality. Sexual violence is condemned in Genesis 34 as well as in the rest of OT history (Judg. 19:22, 23; 2 Sam. 13). Lot is rescued not because of his own virtue but because of his relationship to Abraham (v. 29).

19:11 Blindness. This Hebrew word for blindness is unusual. It occurs again only in a divinely caused loss of sight (2 Kin. 6:18) and may carry the connotation of "dazzled," as in Saul's Damascus Road experience (Acts 9:3–8).

14So Lot went out and spoke to his sons-in-law, who had married his daughters, and said, "Get up, get out of this place; for the LORD will destroy this city!" But to his sons-in-law he seemed to be joking.

18Then Lot said to them, "Please, no, my lords! 19Indeed now, your servant has found favor in your sight, and you have increased your mercy which you have shown me by saving my life; but I cannot escape to the mountains, lest some evil overtake me and I die. 20See now, this city is near enough to flee to, and it is a little one; please let me escape there (is it not a little one?) and my soul shall live."

21And he said to him, "See, I have favored you concerning this thing also, in that I will not overthrow this city for which you have spoken. 22Hurry, escape there. For I cannot do anything until you arrive there."

Therefore the name of the city was called Zoar.

23The sun had risen upon the earth when Lot entered Zoar. 24Then the LORD rained brimstone and fire on Sodom and Gomorrah, from the LORD out of the heavens. 25So He overthrew those cities, all the plain, all the inhabitants of the cities, and what grew on the ground.

26But his wife looked back behind him, and she became a pillar of salt.

27And Abraham went early in the morning to the place where he had stood before the LORD. 28Then he looked toward Sodom and Gomorrah, and toward all the land of the plain; and he saw, and behold, the smoke of the land which went up like the smoke of a furnace. 29And it came to pass, when God destroyed the cities of the plain, that God remembered Abraham, and sent Lot out of the midst of the overthrow, when He overthrew the cities in which Lot had dwelt.

The Descendants of Lot

30Then Lot went up out of Zoar and dwelt in the mountains, and his two daughters were with him; for he was afraid to dwell in Zoar. And he and his two daughters dwelt in a cave. 31Now the firstborn said to the younger, "Our father is old, and there is no man on the earth to come in to us as is the custom of all the earth. 32Come, let us make our father drink wine, and we will lie with him, that we may preserve the lineage of our father." 33So they made their father drink wine that night. And the firstborn went in and lay with her father, and he did not know when she lay down or when she arose.

34It happened on the next day that the firstborn said to the younger, "Indeed I lay with my father last night; let us make him drink wine tonight also, and you go in and lie with him, that we may preserve the lineage of our father." 35Then they made their father drink wine that night also. And the younger arose and lay with him, and he did not know when she lay down or when she arose.

36Thus both the daughters of Lot were with child by their father. 37The firstborn bore a son and called his name Moab; he is the father of the Moabites to this day. 38And the younger, she also bore a son and called his name Ben-Ammi; he is the father of the people of Ammon to this day.

Abraham and Abimelech

20 And Abraham journeyed from there to the South, and dwelt between Kadesh and Shur, and stayed in Gerar. 2Now Abraham said of Sarah his wife, "She is my sister." And Abimelech king of Gerar sent and took Sarah.

3But God came to Abimelech in a dream by night, and said to him, "Indeed you are a dead man because of the woman whom you have taken, for she is a man's wife."

4But Abimelech had not come near her; and he said, "Lord, will You slay a righteous nation also? 5Did he not say to me, 'She is my sister'? And she,

19:17 [a]Septuagint, Syriac, and Vulgate read they.

19:14 Sons-in-law. Whether Lot had other married daughters who remained in the city with their husbands or whether these were Lot's prospective sons-in-law for his virgin daughters is unclear.

19:24 Brimstone and fire. The Dead Sea area abounds in petroleum, bitumen, salt, and sulphur. The Lord's use of these elements in destroying the city becomes an OT image for overwhelming judgment (Ps. 11:6; Ezek. 38:22).

19:31 Lot's daughters. The interposition of Lot's story between God's promise to Abraham (Gen. 18:10–14) and the birth of Isaac (Gen. 21:1–7) highlights God's preservation of a godly line. Even the descendants of Lot, Abraham's closest relative, had been corrupted. The defiling of this bloodline made the birth of Isaac imperative.

19:37 The children of Lot's daughters. Moab (Heb., lit. "from our father") and Ben-Ammi (Heb., lit. "son of my kinsman," v. 38) were the sons of Lot by his daughters. The Moabites and the Ammonites later introduced into Israel two of the most abhorrent false gods of the OT: the Moabite Baal of Peor, a sun god (Num. 25:1–3), and the Ammonite Molech (Lev. 18:21; 1 Kin. 11:7), who was worshiped with child sacrifice.

LOT'S DISOBEDIENT WIFE

Though Lot was a rich and influential man (Gen. 13:10, 11), the Scripture does not record his wife's name or any information concerning her race or family. From every indication, however, his wife was a worldly, materialistic woman. Certainly she failed in the spiritual nurturing of her children. Her daughters married men of Sodom, then initiated incest with their own father (Gen. 19:32–35).

Lot's wife did not have to die. She was offered a choice—obedience and life or disobedience and death in pursuit of the pleasures of the world. We do not know where Lot met his wife or when they were married, but we do know they had two daughters (Gen. 19:16). The kidnapping of Lot and his family (Gen. 14) would have included his wife, and she would have been among the company that was rescued by Abraham since Abraham "brought back his brother Lot and his goods, as well as the women and the people" (Gen. 14:16). This means she may well have heard Melchizedek's witness for God (Gen. 14:19, 20). In other words, she was well aware of the Lord and His dealings with Abraham. But the lifestyle of Sodom had a strong hold on her.

Sodom was a sophisticated town, offering a wide variety of cultural opportunities. The immorality had degenerated to the lowest point of sexual perversion so much that our term "sodomy" comes from the name of this city. Lot, though called a "righteous man," seemed also to be entangled in the grip of Sodom's influence (2 Pet. 2:7, 8). He chose to raise his family in Sodom, even though its reputation for depravity was well known. Still, the Lord sent messengers to rescue this family from their own destructive choices.

God wanted to save Lot's wife. He sent angels to warn, to escort, and finally physically to pull her out of harm's way. Whether she understood exactly what would happen to Sodom is uncertain, but being escorted by angels in this fashion surely alerted her to something supernatural.

The destruction most likely began with a violent earthquake, which set fire to the gases and sulphur. Firebrands were falling around her. Though she had followed her husband into the wilderness, she had the same problem the Israelites did in the wilderness as "in their hearts they turned back to Egypt" (Acts 7:39). Just like the Israelites, she was destroyed.

Lot's wife personifies the classic wisdom "for where your treasure is, there your heart will be also" (Matt. 6:21). Jesus used her as an example of someone who started the right way but looked back because she was not completely willing to give up her old ways to follow God in obedience (Luke 17:31–33).

even she herself said, 'He is my brother.' In the integrity of my heart and innocence of my hands I have done this."

6And God said to him in a dream, "Yes, I know that you did this in the integrity of your heart. For I also withheld you from sinning against Me; therefore I did not let you touch her. 7Now therefore, restore the man's wife; for he is a prophet, and he will pray for you and you shall live. But if you do not restore her, know that you shall surely die, you and all who are yours."

8So Abimelech rose early in the morning, called all his servants, and told all these things in their hearing; and the men were very much afraid. 9And Abimelech called Abraham and said to him, "What have you done to us? How have I offended you, that you have brought on me and on my kingdom a great sin? You have done deeds to me that ought not to be done." 10Then Abimelech said to Abraham, "What did you have in view, that you have done this thing?"

11And Abraham said, "Because I thought, surely the fear of God is not in this place; and they will kill me on account of my wife. 12But indeed she is truly my sister. She is the daughter of my father, but not the daughter of my mother; and she became my wife. 13And it came to pass, when God caused me to wander from my father's house, that I said to her, 'This is your kindness that you should do for me: in every place, wherever we go, say of me, "He is my brother." ' "

14Then Abimelech took sheep, oxen, and male and female servants, and gave them to Abraham; and he restored Sarah his wife to him. 15And

20:7 In Canaanite religions, prophets were supposed to have the magical ability to intercede with the gods. The Israelite prophet functioned instead as a divine spokesman; but Abimelech, as a Canaanite, would have taken the former view. He rewarded Abraham, hoping that Abraham would intercede with his God for Abimelech's household (vv. 14–18).

20:11 Abraham's excuses. Like Adam, Abraham shifted the blame (Gen. 3:12). He excused himself on the basis of Abimelech's supposed lack of piety, an assumption disproved (vv. 3–7). Furthermore, Abraham blamed God for his own "wandering," using a Hebrew verb with a negative connotation and one frequently associated with mental error or intoxication (v. 13). Abraham excused Sarah. "Kindness" (Heb. chesed) is a reference to covenant obligation that Sarah owed her husband (v. 13).

Abimelech said, "See, my land is before you; dwell where it pleases you." [16]Then to Sarah he said, "Behold, I have given your brother a thousand pieces of silver; indeed this vindicates you[a] before all who are with you and before everybody." Thus she was rebuked.

[17]So Abraham prayed to God; and God healed Abimelech, his wife, and his female servants. Then they bore children; [18]for the LORD had closed up all the wombs of the house of Abimelech because of Sarah, Abraham's wife.

Isaac Is Born

21 And the LORD visited Sarah as He had said, and the LORD did for Sarah as He had spoken. [2]For Sarah conceived and bore Abraham a son in his old age, at the set time of which God had spoken to him. [3]And Abraham called the name of his son who was born to him—whom Sarah bore to him—Isaac. [4]Then Abraham circumcised his son Isaac when he was eight days old, as God had commanded him. [5]Now Abraham was one hundred years old when his son Isaac was born to him. [6]And Sarah said, "God has made me laugh, and all who hear will laugh with me." [7]She also said, "Who would have said to Abraham that Sarah would nurse children? For I have borne him a son in his old age."

Hagar and Ishmael Depart

[8]So the child grew and was weaned. And Abraham made a great feast on the same day that Isaac was weaned.

[9]And Sarah saw the son of Hagar the Egyptian, whom she had borne to Abraham, scoffing. [10]Therefore she said to Abraham, "Cast out this bondwoman and her son; for the son of this bondwoman shall not be heir with my son, namely with Isaac." [11]And the matter was very displeasing in Abraham's sight because of his son.

[12]But God said to Abraham, "Do not let it be displeasing in your sight because of the lad or because of your bondwoman. Whatever Sarah has said to you, listen to her voice; for in Isaac your seed shall be called. [13]Yet I will also make a nation of the son of the bondwoman, because he is your seed."

[14]So Abraham rose early in the morning, and took bread and a skin of water; and putting it on her shoulder, he gave it and the boy to Hagar, and sent her away. Then she departed and wandered in the Wilderness of Beersheba. [15]And the water in the skin was used up, and she placed the boy under one of the shrubs. [16]Then she went and sat down across from him at a distance of about a bowshot; for she said to herself, "Let me not see the death of the boy." So she sat opposite him, and lifted her voice and wept.

[17]And God heard the voice of the lad. Then the angel of God called to Hagar out of heaven, and said to her, "What ails you, Hagar? Fear not, for God has heard the voice of the lad where he is. [18]Arise, lift up the lad and hold him with your hand, for I will make him a great nation."

[19]Then God opened her eyes, and she saw a well of water. And she went and filled the skin with water, and gave the lad a drink. [20]So God was with the lad; and he grew and dwelt in the wilderness, and became an archer. [21]He dwelt in the Wilderness of Paran; and his mother took a wife for him from the land of Egypt.

A Covenant with Abimelech

[22]And it came to pass at that time that Abimelech and Phichol, the commander of his army, spoke to Abraham, saying, "God is with you in all that you do. [23]Now therefore, swear to me by God that you will not deal falsely with me, with my offspring, or with my posterity; but that according to the kindness that I have done to you, you will do to me and to the land in which you have dwelt."

[24]And Abraham said, "I will swear."

[25]Then Abraham rebuked Abimelech because of a well of water which Abimelech's servants had seized. [26]And Abimelech said, "I do not know who has done this thing; you did not tell me, nor had I heard of it until today." [27]So Abraham took sheep and oxen and gave them to Abimelech, and the two of them made a covenant. [28]And Abraham set seven ewe lambs of the flock by themselves.

20:16 [a]Literally it is a covering of the eyes for you

20:16 Abraham's gift. OT law prescribed a money payment to a male relative in recompense for sexual wrong. Here the gift seemed to be Abimelech's acknowledgment that Sarah remained blameless throughout the incident. "Vindicate" (lit. "cover the eyes") is a legal term indicating innocence. "Rebuked" could also be translated as "justified" or "approved." The emphasis of the verse is on Sarah's vindication.

20:18 The Lord closed the wombs. The use of God's covenant name, Yahweh, emphasizes that God's action will prevent Sarah's child from being fathered by anyone but Abraham.

21:8 The weaning of children, in the ancient Near East, took place around three or four years of age, occasionally even later (see Ex. 2, Breastfeeding).

21:14 Hagar was sent away. Mesopotamian law allowed a slave wife to claim freedom in return for waiving her children's rights to inheritance. Here Abraham initiated the exchange as a way of getting out of his difficulty. The Wilderness of Beersheba lay in the middle of the Negev, which would become southernmost Judah.

21:21 The wilderness of Paran lay between Canaan and Egypt. Hagar's choice of an Egyptian wife for Ishmael paralleled Abraham's efforts to find a wife of his own blood for Isaac (Gen. 24:1–4).

29Then Abimelech asked Abraham, "What is the meaning of these seven ewe lambs which you have set by themselves?"

30And he said, "You will take these seven ewe lambs from my hand, that they may be my witness that I have dug this well." 31Therefore he called that place Beersheba,[a] because the two of them swore an oath there.

32Thus they made a covenant at Beersheba. So Abimelech rose with Phichol, the commander of his army, and they returned to the land of the Philistines. 33Then Abraham planted a tamarisk tree in Beersheba, and there called on the name of the LORD, the Everlasting God. 34And Abraham stayed in the land of the Philistines many days.

Abraham's Faith Confirmed

22 Now it came to pass after these things that God tested Abraham, and said to him, "Abraham!"

And he said, "Here I am."

2Then He said, "Take now your son, your only son Isaac, whom you love, and go to the land of Moriah, and offer him there as a burnt offering on one of the mountains of which I shall tell you."

3So Abraham rose early in the morning and saddled his donkey, and took two of his young men with him, and Isaac his son; and he split the wood for the burnt offering, and arose and went to the place of which God had told him. 4Then on the third day Abraham lifted his eyes and saw the place afar off. 5And Abraham said to his young men, "Stay here with the donkey; the lad[a] and I will go yonder and worship, and we will come back to you."

6So Abraham took the wood of the burnt offering and laid it on Isaac his son; and he took the fire in his hand, and a knife, and the two of them went together. 7But Isaac spoke to Abraham his father and said, "My father!"

And he said, "Here I am, my son."

Then he said, "Look, the fire and the wood, but where is the lamb for a burnt offering?"

8And Abraham said, "My son, God will provide for Himself the lamb for a burnt offering." So the two of them went together.

9Then they came to the place of which God had told him. And Abraham built an altar there and placed the wood in order; and he bound Isaac his son and laid him on the altar, upon the wood. 10And Abraham stretched out his hand and took the knife to slay his son.

11But the Angel of the LORD called to him from heaven and said, "Abraham, Abraham!"

So he said, "Here I am."

12And He said, "Do not lay your hand on the lad, or do anything to him; for now I know that you fear God, since you have not withheld your son, your only son, from Me."

15Then the Angel of the LORD called to Abraham a second time out of heaven, 16and said: "By Myself I have sworn, says the LORD, because you have done this thing, and have not withheld your son, your only son— 17blessing I will bless you, and multiplying I will multiply your descendants as the stars of the heaven and as the sand which is on the seashore; and your descendants shall possess the gate of their enemies. 18In your seed all the nations of the earth shall be blessed, because you have obeyed My voice." 19So Abraham returned to his young men, and they rose and went together to Beersheba; and Abraham dwelt at Beersheba.

The Family of Nahor

20Now it came to pass after these things that it was told Abraham, saying, "Indeed Milcah also has

21:33 The tamarisk tree, an evergreen, could well represent God's eternal faithfulness; significantly, He is here called the Everlasting One. Trees and pillars served the patriarchs as memory aids, memorials to God's acts (see Gen. 28:18–22). God is witness to the treaty, which is expected to stand forever.

22:1 God's test. Abraham's trust and faith in God were tested and proven genuine and even stronger than his natural affections. The story of Abraham alternates reaffirmations of God's promise with the testing of that promise. This most severe test was followed by a strong restatement of the covenant (vv. 15–19).

22:2 Mount Moriah, in the territory later called Judah, would become the site of the temple (2 Chr. 3:1). In the NT, Calvary was identified with this site. This identification, along with the three days that Abraham traveled, suggests that this scene is a typology of God's sacrifice of His own Son.

22:5 We will come back. Abraham's use of the plural suggests that he was depending on God to resurrect Isaac (Heb. 11:17–19).

22:12 The fear of God suggests reverence and honor, demonstrated by Abraham's unquestioning obedience. God's repetition of "your son" highlights the severity of the test.

22:13 The substitutionary sacrifice. The ram in the thicket introduces substitutionary sacrifice (see Lev. 1).

22:14 This covenant name (Heb. Yahweh Yir'eh, lit. "the LORD will provide") expresses Abraham's confidence in the Lord. This name continued in use during the days of substitutionary sacrifice in the temple.

22:20 Nahor's family was still living in Haran. His sons were the ancestors of the Arameans who lived northeast of Israel. Abraham later sent to Nahor's family for a wife for Isaac (Gen. 24). Rebekah's genealogy appears here, after Isaac's borne children to your brother Nahor: 21Huz his firstborn, Buz his brother, Kemuel the father of Aram, 22Chesed, Hazo, Pildash, Jidlaph, and Bethuel." 23And Bethuel begot Rebekah.[a] These eight Milcah bore to Nahor, Abraham's brother.

24His concubine, whose name was Reumah, also bore Tebah, Gaham, Thahash, and Maachah.

Sarah's Death and Burial

23 Sarah lived one hundred and twenty-seven years; these were the years of the life of Sarah. 2So Sarah died in Kirjath Arba (that is, Hebron) in the land of Canaan, and Abraham came to mourn for Sarah and to weep for her.

3Then Abraham stood up from before his dead, and spoke to the sons of Heth, saying, 4"I am a foreigner and a visitor among you. Give me property for a burial place among you, that I may bury my dead out of my sight."

5And the sons of Heth answered Abraham, saying to him, 6"Hear us, my lord: You are a mighty prince among us; bury your dead in the choicest of our burial places. None of us will withhold from you his burial place, that you may bury your dead."

7Then Abraham stood up and bowed himself to the people of the land, the sons of Heth. 8And he spoke with them, saying, "If it is your wish that I bury my dead out of my sight, hear me, and meet with Ephron the son of Zohar for me, 9that he may give me the cave of Machpelah which he has, which is at the end of his field. Let him give it to me at the full price, as property for a burial place among you."

10Now Ephron dwelt among the sons of Heth; and Ephron the Hittite answered Abraham in the presence of the sons of Heth, all who entered at the gate of his city, saying, 11"No, my lord, hear me: I give you the field and the cave that is in it; I give it to you in the presence of the sons of my people. I give it to you. Bury your dead!"

12Then Abraham bowed himself down before the people of the land; 13and he spoke to Ephron in the hearing of the people of the land, saying,
"If you will give it, please hear me. I will give you money for the field; take it from me and I will bury my dead there."

14And Ephron answered Abraham, saying to him, 15"My lord, listen to me; the land is worth four hundred shekels of silver. What is that between you and me? So bury your dead." 16And Abraham listened to Ephron; and Abraham weighed out the silver for Ephron which he had named in the hearing of the sons of Heth, four hundred shekels of silver, currency of the merchants.

17So the field of Ephron which was in Mach-pelah, which was before Mamre, the field and the cave which was in it, and all the trees that were in the field, which were within all the surrounding borders, were deeded 18to Abraham as a possession in the presence of the sons of Heth, before all who went in at the gate of his city.

19And after this, Abraham buried Sarah his wife in the cave of the field of Machpelah, before Mamre (that is, Hebron) in the land of Canaan.
20So the field and the cave that is in it were deeded to Abraham by the sons of Heth as property for a burial place.

A Bride for Isaac

24 Now Abraham was old, well advanced in age; and the LORD had blessed Abraham in all things. 2So Abraham said to the oldest servant of his house, who ruled over all that he had,
"Please, put your hand under my thigh, 3and I will make you swear by the LORD, the God of heaven and the God of the earth, that you will not take a wife for my son from the daughters of the Canaanites, among whom I dwell; 4but you shall go to my country and to my family, and take a wife for my son Isaac."

5And the servant said to him, "Perhaps the woman will not be willing to follow me to this land. Must I take your son back to the land from which you came?"

6But Abraham said to him, "Beware that you do not take my son back there. 7The LORD God of heaven, who took me from my father's house and from the land of my family, and who spoke to me and swore to me, saying, 'To your descendants[a] I give this land,' He will send His angel before you,

22:23 [a]Spelled Rebecca in Romans 9:10 24:7 [a]Literally seed deliverance from death, to indicate that God would now continue Abraham's line.

23:2 Hebron, 19 miles southwest of Jerusalem, served as David's first capital. Kirjath Arba was named after a hero of the gigantic Anakim. Caleb later captured the city and renamed it (Josh. 14:14, 15).

23:4 Abraham's negotiations. "Stranger" (Heb. ger) was a legal term for a resident alien with some rights but no land. Abraham's acquisition of land for Sarah is his first legal ownership within the promised territory. The Hittite offer may have been an attempt to prevent Abraham from acquiring the rights of a landholder within Canaan (v. 6).

23:9 The cave of Machpelah, a name which may indicate a double cave, was located in the district near Mamre (v. 17). The burial place is traditionally thought to be located under a Moslem mosque in Hebron.

24:2 The servant's oath. The placing of the hand near the reproductive organs symbolized that the oath was sworn to Abraham's entire clan, to Isaac, and to all his descendants.

24:3 Abraham's command is the first appearance in the OT of the command not to marry outside the chosen people (Deut. 7:1–4). Abraham recognized that God's promise to build a nation would be fulfilled by Isaac. He did not ask Isaac to return to Haran (vv. 5–8) because this would undo Abraham's first covenant obligation to separate himself and come to the Land of Promise (Gen. 12:1–4).

REBEKAH A Woman of Faltering Faith

Rebekah would certainly rank among the most appealing of the young women in Scripture. She is pictured as chaste and beautiful (Gen. 24:16), courteous and helpful (v. 18), industrious (vv. 19, 20), hospitable (v. 25), as well as responsive and trusting (v. 58). She was chosen as the intended bride for Isaac.

Family ties were obviously close, for Rebekah's first response was to tell the women in her household all about her encounter at the well (v. 28). For a girl to be chosen for marriage to a wealthy relative was indeed considered a blessing of God. Her father and brother knew also that this was from God (v. 50), but the choice to leave home was hers to make, reflecting the autonomy that young women in her culture enjoyed (vv. 57, 58).

Rebekah volunteered a lowly service (v. 19), which opened to her a lofty destiny as God worked His plan for her life through her mundane daily responsibilities. Her courage and faith motivated her to venture from the known and familiar (family and friends) to the unknown (a new life in a strange land).

God rewarded Rebekah's faithfulness with a monogamous marriage, which began with romance and loving affection (v. 67; Gen. 26:8), and, in answer to Isaac's prayer for his wife's fertility, God removed her barrenness with the birth of twins, Esau and Jacob (Gen. 25:21).

In later years, Rebekah's weakness became clear at two points: the lack of reverence and respect for her husband and his leadership and the exhibition of favoritism concerning her sons, which brought into the home rivalry, deceit, and contention (Gen. 25:28; see Prov. 28, Favoritism). Rebekah's unwavering faith of her youth faltered, and she took into her own hands the direction of the future of her sons. Perhaps her own discernment of her sons—that is, recognizing Esau as worldly and adventuresome (Gen. 26:34, 35) and Jacob as having more potential for spiritual sensitivity (Gen. 25:31)—or her own affinity toward one son over the other (Gen. 25:28) or even a strong faith in God's revealed plan (Gen. 25:23) motivated her own deceitful acts.

In any case, the deceiving of her husband was without excuse and her poor example to her sons was a far-reaching tragedy (Gen. 27:12, 13). Even if her motive was pure, her action was wrong. She paid a bitter price in living out her final years in separation from the son whose presence she desired, in alienation from the son who would ever remember his mother's deception toward him, and in broken fellowship from a husband who had loved her devotedly.

8And if the woman is not willing to follow you, then you will be released from this oath; only do not take my son back there." 9So the servant put his hand under the thigh of Abraham his master, and swore to him concerning this matter.

10Then the servant took ten of his master's camels and departed, for all his master's goods were in his hand. And he arose and went to Mesopotamia, to the city of Nahor. 11And he made his camels kneel down outside the city by a well of water at evening time, the time when women go out to draw water. 12Then he said, "O LORD God of my master Abraham, please give me success this day, and show kindness to my master Abraham.
13Behold, here I stand by the well of water, and the daughters of the men of the city are coming out to draw water. 14Now let it be that the young woman to whom I say, 'Please let down your pitcher that I may drink,' and she says, 'Drink, and I will also give your camels a drink'—let her be the one You have appointed for Your servant Isaac. And by this I will know that You have shown kindness to my master."

15And it happened, before he had finished speaking, that behold, Rebekah, who was born to Bethuel, son of Milcah, the wife of Nahor, Abraham's brother, came out with her pitcher on her shoulder. 16Now the young woman was very beautiful to behold, a virgin; no man had known her.
And she went down to the well, filled her pitcher, and came up. 17And the servant ran to meet her and said, "Please let me drink a little water from your pitcher."

18So she said, "Drink, my lord." Then she quickly let her pitcher down to her hand, and gave him a drink. 19And when she had finished giving him a drink, she said, "I will draw water for your camels also, until they have finished drinking." 20Then she quickly emptied her pitcher into the trough, ran back to the well to draw water, and drew for all his camels. 21And the 24:10 Nahor, actually Haran, is so named after its most distinguished inhabitant, Abraham's brother (Gen. 22:20; see chart, The Family Tree of Abraham). "Mesopotamia" (Heb. 'Aram-Naharayim, lit. "Aram between the two rivers") is the land between the Tigris and Euphrates.

24:15 Rebekah was Abraham's great-niece. The repetition of her grandmother's name, Milcah, shows that she was a descendant of Nahor's wife rather than his concubine (Gen. 22:20–24; see chart, The Family Tree of Abraham).

man, wondering at her, remained silent so as to know whether the LORD had made his journey prosperous or not.

22So it was, when the camels had finished drinking, that the man took a golden nose ring weighing half a shekel, and two bracelets for her wrists weighing ten shekels of gold, 23and said, "Whose daughter are you? Tell me, please, is there room in your father's house for us to lodge?"

24So she said to him, "I am the daughter of Bethuel, Milcah's son, whom she bore to Nahor." 25Moreover she said to him, "We have both straw and feed enough, and room to lodge."

26Then the man bowed down his head and worshiped the LORD. 27And he said, "Blessed be the LORD God of my master Abraham, who has not forsaken His mercy and His truth toward my master. As for me, being on the way, the LORD led me to the house of my master's brethren." 28So the young woman ran and told her mother's household these things.

29Now Rebekah had a brother whose name was Laban, and Laban ran out to the man by the well. 30So it came to pass, when he saw the nose ring, and the bracelets on his sister's wrists, and when he heard the words of his sister Rebekah, saying, "Thus the man spoke to me," that he went to the man. And there he stood by the camels at the well. 31And he said, "Come in, O blessed of the LORD! Why do you stand outside? For I have prepared the house, and a place for the camels."

32Then the man came to the house. And he unloaded the camels, and provided straw and feed for the camels, and water to wash his feet and the feet of the men who were with him. 33*Food* was set before him to eat, but he said, "I will not eat until I have told about my errand."

And he said, "Speak on."

34So he said, "I am Abraham's servant. 35The LORD has blessed my master greatly, and He has become great; and He has given him flocks and herds, silver and gold, male and female servants, and camels and donkeys. 36And Sarah my master's wife bore a son to my master when she was old; and to him he has given all that he has. 37Now my master made me swear, saying, 'You shall not take a wife for my son from the daughters of the Canaanites, in whose land I dwell; 38but you shall go to my father's house and to my family, and take a wife for my son.' 39And I said to my master, 'Perhaps the woman will not follow me.' 40But he said to me, 'The LORD, before whom I walk, will send His angel with you and prosper your way; and you shall take a wife for my son from my family and from my father's house. 41You will be clear from this oath when you arrive among my family; for if they will not give her to you, then you will be released from my oath.'

42"And this day I came to the well and said, 'O LORD God of my master Abraham, if You will now prosper the way in which I go, 43behold, I stand by the well of water; and it shall come to pass that when the virgin comes out to draw water, and I say to her, "Please give me a little water from your pitcher to drink," 44and she says to me, "Drink, and I will draw for your camels also,"—let her be the woman whom the LORD has appointed for my master's son.'

45"But before I had finished speaking in my heart, there was Rebekah, coming out with her pitcher on her shoulder; and she went down to the well and drew water. And I said to her, 'Please let me drink.' 46And she made haste and let her pitcher down from her shoulder, and said, 'Drink, and I will give your camels a drink also.' So I drank, and she gave the camels a drink also. 47Then I asked her, and said, 'Whose daughter are you?' And she said, 'The daughter of Bethuel, Nahor's son, whom Milcah bore to him.' So I put the nose ring on her nose and the bracelets on her wrists. 48And I bowed my head and worshiped the LORD, and blessed the LORD God of my master Abraham, who had led me in the way of truth to take the daughter of my master's brother for his son. 49Now if you will deal kindly and truly with my master, tell me. And if not, tell me, that I may turn to the right hand or to the left."

50Then Laban and Bethuel answered and said, "The thing comes from the LORD; we cannot speak to you either bad or good. 51Here is Rebekah before you; take her and go, and let her be your master's son's wife, as the LORD has spoken."

52And it came to pass, when Abraham's servant heard their words, that he worshiped the LORD, bowing himself to the earth. 53Then the servant brought out jewelry of silver, jewelry of gold, and clothing, and gave them to Rebekah. He also gave precious things to her brother and to her mother.

54And he and the men who were with him ate and drank and stayed all night. Then they arose in the morning, and he said, "Send me away to my master."

55But her brother and her mother said, "Let the young woman stay with us a few days, at least ten; after that she may go."

56And he said to them, "Do not hinder me, since the LORD has prospered my way; send me away so that I may go to my master."

57So they said, "We will call the young woman and ask her personally." 58Then they called Rebekah and said to her, "Will you go with this man?"

24:49 Turn to the right hand. This Hebrew idiom means to look for another option.

24:58 Rebekah's consent. Although ancient Near Eastern marriages were arranged by the family, some contracts—

And she said, "I will go."
59So they sent away Rebekah their sister and her nurse, and Abraham's servant and his men.
60And they blessed Rebekah and said to her:

"Our sister, may you become
The mother of thousands of ten thousands;
And may your descendants possess
The gates of those who hate them."

61Then Rebekah and her maids arose, and they rode on the camels and followed the man. So the servant took Rebekah and departed.
62Now Isaac came from the way of Beer Lahai Roi, for he dwelt in the South. 63And Isaac went out to meditate in the field in the evening; and he lifted his eyes and looked, and there, the camels were coming. 64Then Rebekah lifted her eyes, and when she saw Isaac she dismounted from her camel; 65for she had said to the servant, "Who is this man walking in the field to meet us?"
The servant said, "It is my master." So she took a veil and covered herself.
66And the servant told Isaac all the things that he had done. 67Then Isaac brought her into his mother Sarah's tent; and he took Rebekah and she became his wife, and he loved her. So Isaac was comforted after his mother's death.

Abraham and Keturah

25 Abraham again took a wife, and her name was Keturah. 2And she bore him Zimran, Jokshan, Medan, Midian, Ishbak, and Shuah. 3Jok-shan begot Sheba and Dedan. And the sons of Dedan were Asshurim, Letushim, and Leummim.
4And the sons of Midian were Ephah, Epher, Hanoch, Abidah, and Eldaah. All these were the children of Keturah.
5And Abraham gave all that he had to Isaac.
6But Abraham gave gifts to the sons of the concubines which Abraham had; and while he was still living he sent them eastward, away from Isaac his son, to the country of the east.

Abraham's Death and Burial

7This is the sum of the years of Abraham's life which he lived: one hundred and seventy-five years.
8Then Abraham breathed his last and died in a good old age, an old man and full of years, and was gathered to his people. 9And his sons Isaac and Ishmael buried him in the cave of Machpelah, which is before Mamre, in the field of Ephron the son of Zohar the Hittite, 10the field which Abraham purchased from the sons of Heth. There Abraham was buried, and Sarah his wife. 11And it came to pass, after the death of Abraham, that God blessed his son Isaac. And Isaac dwelt at Beer Lahai Roi.

The Families of Ishmael and Isaac

12Now this is the genealogy of Ishmael, Abraham's son, whom Hagar the Egyptian, Sarah's maidservant, bore to Abraham. 13And these were the names of the sons of Ishmael, by their names, according to their generations: The firstborn of Ishmael, Nebajoth; then Kedar, Adbeel, Mibsam, 14Mishma, Dumah, Massa, 15Hadar,[a] Tema, Jetur, Naphish, and Kedemah. 16These were the sons of Ishmael and these were their names, by their towns and their settlements, twelve princes according to their nations. 17These were the years of the life of Ishmael: one hundred and thirty-seven years; and he breathed his last and died, and was gathered to his people. 18(They dwelt from Havilah as far as Shur, which is east of Egypt as you go toward Assyria.) He died in the presence of all his brethren.
19This is the genealogy of Isaac, Abraham's son.
Abraham begot Isaac. 20Isaac was forty years old when he took Rebekah as wife, the daughter of Bethuel the Syrian of Padan Aram, the sister of Laban the Syrian. 21Now Isaac pleaded with the 25:15 [a]Masoretic Text reads Hadad.

notably those of the Hurrians or Horites in Mesopotamia—required the consent of the bride, as Abraham himself recognized (v. 8).

24:60 The blessing on Rebekah echoes God's blessing on Abraham (Gen. 22:17), emphasizing God's covenant obligations from one generation to the next.

24:65 Veiling during the betrothal period was a Near Eastern custom. Unveiling came after marriage.

25:1 Abraham's second family. At what point in his life Abraham married Keturah is not explicitly stated. The narrative reads naturally as if Abraham married Keturah after the death of Sarah. The fact that Keturah is here called a "wife" would seem to eliminate the possibility of her being merely a concubine to Abraham during his marriage to Sarah. The nearly 40 years between Sarah's death and Abraham's allowed plenty of time for the development of a second family. Abraham's prolific second marriage reveals that God's miraculous working in the birth of Isaac centered on Sarah. The sons of Keturah eventually inhabited the lands south and southeast of Canaan, but only Isaac received the promised blessing (v. 5). Keturah, however, is also identified as a concubine in one place (1 Chr. 1:32; see also Gen. 25:6). Keturah may have been called a concubine because Abraham did not place her on the same footing with Sarah, the mother of Isaac. In any case, the fact that polygamy was outside of God's order would be demonstrated in the future; the descendants of Keturah, like those of Hagar, later proved troublesome to Israel (see chart, The Family Tree of Abraham). The Midianites oppressed Israel in the days of the judges and promoted Baal worship in Israel (v. 4; Judg. 6—8). The other sons are less known; Shuah was probably the tribe of Job's friend Bildad (Job 2:11), and Sheba and Dedan are mentioned as traders with Tyre (Ezek. 27:20–22).

25:21 Rebekah's children. The story has temporarily left Isaac to deal with his sons, demonstrating the certainty of the LORD for his wife, because she was barren; and the LORD granted his plea, and Rebekah his wife conceived. 22But the children struggled together within her; and she said, "If all is well, why am I like this?" So she went to inquire of the LORD.

23And the LORD said to her:

"Two nations are in your womb,
Two peoples shall be separated from your body;
One people shall be stronger than the other,
And the older shall serve the younger."

24So when her days were fulfilled for her to give birth, indeed there were twins in her womb. 25And the first came out red. He was like a hairy garment all over; so they called his name Esau.[a] 26Afterward his brother came out, and his hand took hold of Esau's heel; so his name was called Jacob.[a] Isaac was sixty years old when she bore them.

27So the boys grew. And Esau was a skillful hunter, a man of the field; but Jacob was a mild man, dwelling in tents. 28And Isaac loved Esau because he ate of his game, but Rebekah loved Jacob.

Esau Sells His Birthright

29Now Jacob cooked a stew; and Esau came in from the field, and he was weary. 30And Esau said to Jacob, "Please feed me with that same red stew, for I am weary." Therefore his name was called Edom.[a]

31But Jacob said, "Sell me your birthright as of this day."

32And Esau said, "Look, I am about to die; so what is this birthright to me?"

33Then Jacob said, "Swear to me as of this day."

So he swore to him, and sold his birthright to Jacob. 34And Jacob gave Esau bread and stew of lentils; then he ate and drank, arose, and went his way. Thus Esau despised his birthright.

Isaac and Abimelech

26 There was a famine in the land, besides the first famine that was in the days of Abraham. And Isaac went to Abimelech king of the Philistines, in Gerar.

2Then the LORD appeared to him and said: "Do not go down to Egypt; live in the land of which I shall tell you. 3Dwell in this land, and I will be with you and bless you; for to you and your descendants I give all these lands, and I will perform the oath which I swore to Abraham your father. 4And I will make your descendants multiply as the stars of heaven; I will give to your descendants all these lands; and in your seed all the nations of the earth shall be blessed; 5because Abraham obeyed My voice and kept My charge, My commandments, My statutes, and My laws."

6So Isaac dwelt in Gerar. 7And the men of the place asked about his wife. And he said, "She is my sister"; for he was afraid to say, "She is my wife," because he thought, "lest the men of the place kill me for Rebekah, because she is beautiful to behold." 8Now it came to pass, when he had been there a long time, that Abimelech king of the Philistines looked through a window, and saw, and there was Isaac, showing endearment to Rebekah his wife. 9Then Abimelech called Isaac and said, "Quite obviously she is your wife; so how could you say, 'She is my sister'?"

Isaac said to him, "Because I said, 'Lest I die on account of her.' "

10And Abimelech said, "What is this you have done to us? One of the people might soon have lain with your wife, and you would have brought guilt on us." 11So Abimelech charged all his people,

25:25 [a]Literally Hairy 25:26 [a]Literally Supplanter 25:30 [a]Literally Red covenant fulfillment for the next generation. The barrenness of the matriarchs is a common theme in Genesis, revealing:

1) the effects of sin in the fallen world, which could have destroyed the godly line,

2) the need for God's miraculous intervention to protect His people, and

3) God's divine choice of both father and mother, which ran counter to the ancient Near Eastern practice of ascribing sole importance to the blood of the father.

25:23 Two nations. Jacob fathered the Israelites; Esau, the Edomites, who lived south of the Dead Sea (Gen. 36:9–43). The control of the Edomites by the Israelites reversed the ancient Near Eastern custom of giving preference to the older son (see Rom. 9:10–13). David conquered the Edomites, and they remained under Judean control for 130 years (2 Sam. 8:14).

25:26 The birth of Jacob. Rebekah had suffered 20 years of barrenness before the twins were born. Jacob's name (Heb., lit. "heeler," "heel-gripper," or "one who supplants") is a prophecy of the coming struggle between the two brothers.

25:31 The birthright guaranteed not only a larger part of the inheritance, but also headship of the family. Some ancient Near Eastern tribes allowed the selling of the birthright but invariably at a high price. The narrative emphasizes Esau's greed; "feed" is literally "to swallow greedily" or gulp (v. 30), and the story ends with a comment on the motives of Esau, not Jacob. Jacob did not earn the birthright through righteousness but received it through God's free favor.

26:4 God's covenant. The repetition of the covenant blessings to Abraham takes the form of covenant renewal (see chart, The Covenants of Genesis). God's part is to preserve Isaac in time of famine (vv. 2, 3). Isaac's part is to keep Abraham's fivefold obedience: to God's voice, His charge, His commandments, His statutes, and His Law (v. 5).

26:7 Isaac's deception copied his father's actions out of needless fear (see Gen. 12:10–20; 20:1–18). God had promised to preserve him (vv. 2–5). Rebekah, like Sarah, apparently cooperated with her husband's request, whether out of faith or indifference.

PATRIARCHY A PATTERN FOR BIBLICAL SOCIETY

Patriarchy is a form of society in which the father functions as the authority figure of the family, tribe, or clan. In such an arrangement, descent is reckoned through the male line. The term "patriarch" is derived from a Latin word for "father" combined with a Greek word for "rule." Thus the patriarch was the "ruling father." He might also serve as the priest of his household.

The designation "patriarch" may refer to the fathers of the human race from Adam to Abraham. The three great fathers of the nation Israel (Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob) also are called "patriarchs." Finally, the term "patriarch" is applied to the heads of the twelve tribes of Israel who descended from Jacob.

Biblical society was patriarchal in contrast to matriarchal, which describes a form of community organization in which the mother functions as the head of the family, clan, or tribe. In biblical genealogies, lineage is traced through the male. For this reason, females are mentioned only rarely in tracing family lineage (Gen. 11:29; Num. 26:33).

This makes the mention of four women in addition to Mary in the genealogy of Jesus Christ very significant (Matt. 1:1–17). Tamar, the Canaanite daughter-in-law of Judah, bore him twins (Gen. 38:1–30; Matt. 1:3). Rahab of Jericho begat Boaz by Salmon (Josh. 2:1–24; 6:17, 22–25; Matt. 1:5). Ruth was the Moabitess through whom Boaz begot Obed (Ruth 4:13–17; Matt. 1:5). Finally, "the wife of Uriah," identified as the one by whom David begot Solomon, was Bathsheba (2 Sam. 11:1–4; 12:24–25; Matt. 1:6).

saying, "He who touches this man or his wife shall surely be put to death."

12Then Isaac sowed in that land, and reaped in the same year a hundredfold; and the LORD blessed him. 13The man began to prosper, and continued prospering until he became very prosperous; 14for he had possessions of flocks and possessions of herds and a great number of servants. So the Philistines envied him. 15Now the Philistines had stopped up all the wells which his father's servants had dug in the days of Abraham his father, and they had filled them with earth. 16And Abimelech said to Isaac, "Go away from us, for you are much mightier than we."

19Also Isaac's servants dug in the valley, and found a well of running water there. 20But the herdsmen of Gerar quarreled with Isaac's herdsmen, saying, "The water is ours." So he called the name of the well Esek,[a] because they quarreled with him. 21Then they dug another well, and they quarreled over that one also. So he called its name Sitnah.[a] 22And he moved from there and dug another well, and they did not quarrel over it. So he called its name Rehoboth,[a] because he said, "For now the LORD has made room for us, and we shall be fruitful in the land."

23Then he went up from there to Beersheba. 24And the LORD appeared to him the same night and said, "I am the God of your father Abraham; do not fear, for I am with you. I will bless you and multiply your descendants for My servant Abraham's sake." 25So he built an altar there and called on the name of the LORD, and he pitched his tent there; and there Isaac's servants dug a well.

26Then Abimelech came to him from Gerar with Ahuzzath, one of his friends, and Phichol the commander of his army. 27And Isaac said to them, "Why have you come to me, since you hate me and have sent me away from you?"

28But they said, "We have certainly seen that the LORD is with you. So we said, 'Let there now be an oath between us, between you and us; and let us make a covenant with you, 29that you will do us no harm, since we have not touched you, and since we have done nothing to you but good and have sent you away in peace. You are now the blessed of the LORD.' "

30So he made them a feast, and they ate and drank. 31Then they arose early in the morning and swore an oath with one another; and Isaac sent them away, and they departed from him in peace.

32It came to pass the same day that Isaac's ser-

26:23 The covenant renewal is at Beersheba, at the southern border of Canaan, where Abraham made a treaty with Abimelech (Gen. 21:22–34). God's affirmation of the covenant here may indicate that this is the limit of the promised territory. The altar is Isaac's response to God's presence (v. 25).

vants came and told him about the well which they had dug, and said to him, "We have found water." 33So he called it Shebah.[a] Therefore the name of the city is Beersheba[b] to this day.

34When Esau was forty years old, he took as wives Judith the daughter of Beeri the Hittite, and Basemath the daughter of Elon the Hittite. 35And they were a grief of mind to Isaac and Rebekah.

Isaac Blesses Jacob

27 Now it came to pass, when Isaac was old and his eyes were so dim that he could not see, that he called Esau his older son and said to him, "My son."

And he answered him, "Here I am."

2Then he said, "Behold now, I am old. I do not know the day of my death. 3Now therefore, please take your weapons, your quiver and your bow, and go out to the field and hunt game for me. 4And make me savory food, such as I love, and bring it to me that I may eat, that my soul may bless you before I die."

5Now Rebekah was listening when Isaac spoke to Esau his son. And Esau went to the field to hunt game and to bring it. 6So Rebekah spoke to Jacob her son, saying, "Indeed I heard your father speak to Esau your brother, saying, 7'Bring me game and make savory food for me, that I may eat it and bless you in the presence of the LORD before my death.' 8Now therefore, my son, obey my voice according to what I command you. 9Go now to the flock and bring me from there two choice kids of the goats, and I will make savory food from them for your father, such as he loves. 10Then you shall take it to your father, that he may eat it, and that he may bless you before his death."

11And Jacob said to Rebekah his mother, "Look, Esau my brother is a hairy man, and I am a smooth-skinned man. 12Perhaps my father will feel me, and I shall seem to be a deceiver to him; and I shall bring a curse on myself and not a blessing."

13But his mother said to him, "Let your curse be on me, my son; only obey my voice, and go, get them for me." 14And he went and got them and brought them to his mother, and his mother made savory food, such as his father loved. 15Then Rebekah took the choice clothes of her elder son Esau, which were with her in the house, and put them on Jacob her younger son. 16And she put the skins of the kids of the goats on his hands and on the smooth part of his neck. 17Then she gave the savory food and the bread, which she had prepared, into the hand of her son Jacob.

18So he went to his father and said, "My father."

And he said, "Here I am. Who are you, my son?"

19Jacob said to his father, "I am Esau your firstborn; I have done just as you told me; please arise, sit and eat of my game, that your soul may bless me."

20But Isaac said to his son, "How is it that you have found it so quickly, my son?"

And he said, "Because the LORD your God brought it to me."

21Isaac said to Jacob, "Please come near, that I may feel you, my son, whether you are really my son Esau or not." 22So Jacob went near to Isaac his father, and he felt him and said, "The voice is Jacob's voice, but the hands are the hands of Esau." 23And he did not recognize him, because his hands were hairy like his brother Esau's hands; so he blessed him.

24Then he said, "Are you really my son Esau?"

He said, "I am."

25He said, "Bring it near to me, and I will eat of my son's game, so that my soul may bless you." So he brought it near to him, and he ate; and he brought him wine, and he drank. 26Then his father Isaac said to him, "Come near now and kiss me, my son." 27And he came near and kissed him; and he smelled the smell of his clothing, and blessed him and said:

"Surely, the smell of my son
Is like the smell of a field
Which the LORD has blessed.
28Therefore may God give you
Of the dew of heaven,
Of the fatness of the earth,
And plenty of grain and wine.
29Let peoples serve you,

26:34 Esau's foreign wives. The set-apart character of the covenant line was marred by Esau. Both Isaac and Jacob, the covenant keepers, married within the chosen clan. At this time the Hittites had settlements well into Canaan.

27:20 Jacob's lie. While it was God's will that Jacob be blessed, Jacob's deception was not sanctioned by God. In his lie Jacob used the phrase "the LORD your God" in recognition that the covenant blessing had not yet passed to him and that he had not yet committed himself totally to Yahweh.

27:27–29 The blessing. God overruled the sinfulness of all four participants—Isaac's stubborn partiality, Esau's reckless determination to go his own way, Rebekah's deceit, and Jacob's ambition—to bring about His ends. The blessing has three elements:

1) the promise of plenty, which assumed possession of the land (see Gen. 17:8) and the blessing of fertility;

2) the promise of domination, echoing the promise to Abraham (Gen. 22:17), with the addition that the recipient will rule over the rest of his family as well;

3) the contrasting blessing and cursing, which repeated God's initial call to Abraham (Gen. 12:3).

MANIPULATION CONTROL VS. TRUST

Manipulation is rooted in pride and selfishness and involves viewing others as objects, not as individuals. It is an invasion of an individual's dignity because it seeks to limit freedom through control. The tools of manipulation are position, power, deception, and distortion. The results, even if perceived as successful, are always a denigration of God's best as the manipulative individual believes that she knows more than God.

Scripture has many vivid examples of manipulation of people and situations. Sarah manipulated her husband Abraham and her servant Hagar in order to influence what God had promised (Gen. 16:1–16). Rebekah manipulated her husband Isaac as well as her son Jacob in order to achieve her personal goal for her favorite son (Gen. 27:1–29). In these instances—and countless others—manipulation brought more sorrow than joy (Gen. 16:5; 27:42, 43).

Anytime a person focuses on self rather than God, the possibility of manipulation exists. Fundamentally, such an attitude shows a lack of trust in God and suggests the erroneous belief that since God is not doing the right thing, we must take matters into our own hands and attempt to control environment, circumstances, and people by whatever means available. Manipulation is ultimately rooted in a lack of trust in God and a negative self-image that manifests itself in a driving need to control.

And let your mother's sons bow down to you.

Esau's Lost Hope

30 Now it happened, as soon as Isaac had finished blessing Jacob, and Jacob had scarcely gone out from the presence of Isaac his father, that Esau his brother came in from his hunting. 31 He also had made savory food, and brought it to his father, and said to his father, "Let my father arise and eat of his son's game, that your soul may bless me."

32 And his father Isaac said to him, "Who are you?"

So he said, "I am your son, your firstborn, Esau."

33 Then Isaac trembled exceedingly, and said,
"Who? Where is the one who hunted game and brought it to me? I ate all of it before you came, and I have blessed him—and indeed he shall be blessed."

34 When Esau heard the words of his father, he cried with an exceedingly great and bitter cry, and said to his father, "Bless me—me also, O my father!"

35 But he said, "Your brother came with deceit and has taken away your blessing."

36 And Esau said, "Is he not rightly named Jacob? For he has supplanted me these two times.
He took away my birthright, and now look, he has taken away my blessing!" And he said, "Have you not reserved a blessing for me?"

37 Then Isaac answered and said to Esau, "Indeed I have made him your master, and all his brethren I have given to him as servants; with grain and wine I have sustained him. What shall I do now for you, my son?"

38 And Esau said to his father, "Have you only one blessing, my father? Bless me—me also, O my father!" And Esau lifted up his voice and wept.

39 Then Isaac his father answered and said to him:

"Behold, your dwelling shall be of the fatness of the earth,
And of the dew of heaven from above.
40 By your sword you shall live,
And you shall serve your brother;
And it shall come to pass, when you become restless,
That you shall break his yoke from your neck."

Jacob Escapes from Esau

41 So Esau hated Jacob because of the blessing with which his father blessed him, and Esau said in his heart, "The days of mourning for my father are at hand; then I will kill my brother Jacob."

27:39–40. Esau's blessing. Esau would share in the fertility of the Land but would not reap its primary benefits. The Land later occupied by the Edomites, between the Dead Sea and the Gulf of Aqaba, is partially barren with areas of great fertility. Isaac predicted that Esau's descendants would live by war; his blessing was that the domination by Israel would have limited duration.

27:41 The result of the deception. The unrighteous method used to assure the carrying out of God's promise did not invalidate the promise, but it did result in family strife and separation.

42And the words of Esau her older son were told to Rebekah. So she sent and called Jacob her younger son, and said to him, "Surely your brother Esau comforts himself concerning you by intending to kill you. 43Now therefore, my son, obey my voice: arise, flee to my brother Laban in Haran.
44And stay with him a few days, until your brother's fury turns away, 45until your brother's anger turns away from you, and he forgets what you have done to him; then I will send and bring you from there. Why should I be bereaved also of you both in one day?"

46And Rebekah said to Isaac, "I am weary of my life because of the daughters of Heth; if Jacob takes a wife of the daughters of Heth, like these who are the daughters of the land, what good will my life be to me?"

28 Then Isaac called Jacob and blessed him, and charged him, and said to him: "You shall not take a wife from the daughters of Canaan. 2Arise, go to Padan Aram, to the house of Bethuel your mother's father; and take yourself a wife from there of the daughters of Laban your mother's brother.

3"May God Almighty bless you,
And make you fruitful and multiply you,
That you may be an assembly of peoples;
4And give you the blessing of Abraham,
To you and your descendants with you,
That you may inherit the land
In which you are a stranger,
Which God gave to Abraham."

5So Isaac sent Jacob away, and he went to Padan Aram, to Laban the son of Bethuel the Syrian, the brother of Rebekah, the mother of Jacob and Esau.

Esau Marries Mahalath

6Esau saw that Isaac had blessed Jacob and sent him away to Padan Aram to take himself a wife from there, and that as he blessed him he gave him a charge, saying, "You shall not take a wife from the daughters of Canaan," 7and that Jacob had obeyed his father and his mother and had gone to Padan Aram. 8Also Esau saw that the daughters of Canaan did not please his father Isaac. 9So Esau went to Ishmael and took Mahalath the daughter of Ishmael, Abraham's son, the sister of Nebajoth, to be his wife in addition to the wives he had.

Jacob's Vow at Bethel

10Now Jacob went out from Beersheba and went toward Haran. 11So he came to a certain place and stayed there all night, because the sun had set. And he took one of the stones of that place and put it at his head, and he lay down in that place to sleep. 12Then he dreamed, and behold, a ladder was set up on the earth, and its top reached to heaven; and there the angels of God were ascending and descending on it.

13And behold, the LORD stood above it and said:
"I am the LORD God of Abraham your father and the God of Isaac; the land on which you lie I will give to you and your descendants. 14Also your descendants shall be as the dust of the earth; you shall spread abroad to the west and the east, to the north and the south; and in you and in your seed all the families of the earth shall be blessed. 15Behold, I am with you and will keep you wherever you go, and will bring you back to this land; for I will not leave you until I have done what I have spoken to you."

16Then Jacob awoke from his sleep and said,
"Surely the LORD is in this place, and I did not know it." 17And he was afraid and said, "How awesome is this place! This is none other than the house of God, and this is the gate of heaven!"

18Then Jacob rose early in the morning, and took the stone that he had put at his head, set it up as a pillar, and poured oil on top of it. 19And he called the name of that place Bethel;[a] but the name of that city had been Luz previously.

28:19 [a]Literally House of God

28:1–4 Jacob's blessing. Isaac confirmed the covenant blessing of Abraham in full knowledge of Jacob's identity. The name God Almighty (Heb. El Shaddai, v. 3), was also used by God in assigning the covenant sign of circumcision (Gen. 17, Circumcision). In the OT, the word "assembly" (Heb. qahal, v. 3) is used of God's congregation and later of the Jewish synagogue. This, along with Isaac's order not to marry a Canaanite wife, emphasizes the set-apart character of God's chosen people.

28:11–17 Jacob's dream. The phrase "a certain place" may indicate that Jacob was seeking an encounter with God. God's appearance to Jacob confirmed the covenant blessing already bestowed by Isaac. The encounter bears striking parallels to God's covenant appearances to Abraham (Gen. 12:7, 8; 13:3, 4).

28:12 Jacob's ladder. The ladder is better visualized as a stair or ramp between heaven and earth. The word is unique in the OT, but other variations may mean "raised way" or "mound," as in the ramped earth cast up against the walls of a besieged city. The angels represent God's promised, constant, providential care over the earth (v. 15; see Zech. 1:10).

28:17 The gate of heaven may intentionally contrast Jacob, to whom God voluntarily and graciously came, to the builders of Babel (Gen. 11:1–9), seeking God in their own strength.

28:18 Jacob's pillar. Throughout the OT, raised objects—stones, trees, altars, pillars—serve as memory aids, reminders of God's covenant workings with His people (Gen. 21:33; Deut. 27:2, 3). Anointing with oil symbolized consecration to God.

28:19 Bethel (Heb., lit. "house of God"; see Gen. 12:8, note). The Canaanite name Luz applied both to this spot and to the general district where it was found (Josh. 16:2).

RACHEL The Beloved Wife

Rachel, whose name means "ewe," was caring for her father's sheep in Haran when she met an unexpected visitor, her cousin Jacob, who was looking for his family. After what seems to have been love at first sight (Gen. 29:11, 12), Jacob promised Rachel's father Laban that he would work seven years to earn the right to marry the beautiful shepherdess (Gen. 29:20). The wedding ceremony proceeded according to local tradition, allowing the men to celebrate, while keeping the bride out of sight until the groom entered her darkened tent.

Only after it was too late did Jacob realize that Laban had deceived him. He had actually married Laban's older daughter, Leah, whom he did not love. A week after his marriage to Leah, Jacob received Rachel as his wife. Rachel must have suffered agony. Seven years of anticipation were dashed by her father's trickery. The rivalry and jealousy between Rachel and Leah and perhaps a desire on Rachel's part for retaliation against her father for his deception must have greatly strained the family.

Furthermore, Rachel was unable to bear children (Gen. 29:31), increasing her jealousy of Leah. She blamed her husband, then allowed her maid to bear children for her. Finally, Rachel became pregnant and gave birth to Joseph, who became Jacob's favorite (Gen. 30:22–24). In due time Jacob decided to return to his homeland. After Jacob's departure, Laban found his household gods missing. Unknown to Jacob, Rachel had put the gods in her saddlebags, then seated herself on the camel. When Laban was given permission to search through their belongings, she pleaded weakness because of her menstrual cycle and did not dismount. Whatever a menstruating woman sat upon was later described as unclean (Lev. 15). These small images were customarily kept in homes. Likely the images were indispensible evidence for a claim to the family inheritance, though some believe Rachel was a secret believer in pagan superstitions. If this were true, she would have believed the images would give them safety in their journey and prosperity in their new home.

Rachel returned to her husband's homeland, but sometime later when they were moving again, she became pregnant for the second time. The travel in hilly country would have been difficult under any circumstance. Approaching Ephrath (Bethlehem), Rachel went into hard labor and died during the birth of Benjamin. She was buried there in Bethlehem (Gen. 35:19). Rachel, a woman greatly loved by her husband, gave the world outstanding sons; and despite her flaws, she stands as an honored daughter of Yahweh.

20 Then Jacob made a vow, saying, "If God will be with me, and keep me in this way that I am going, and give me bread to eat and clothing to put on, 21 so that I come back to my father's house in peace, then the LORD shall be my God. 22 And this stone which I have set as a pillar shall be God's house, and of all that You give me I will surely give a tenth to You."

Jacob Meets Rachel

29 So Jacob went on his journey and came to the land of the people of the East. 2 And he looked, and saw a well in the field; and behold, there were three flocks of sheep lying by it; for out of that well they watered the flocks. A large stone was on the well's mouth. 3 Now all the flocks would be gathered there; and they would roll the stone from the well's mouth, water the sheep, and put the stone back in its place on the well's mouth.

4 And Jacob said to them, "My brethren, where are you from?"

And they said, "We are from Haran."

5 Then he said to them, "Do you know Laban the son of Nahor?"

And they said, "We know him."

6 So he said to them, "Is he well?"

And they said, "He is well. And look, his daughter Rachel is coming with the sheep."

7 Then he said, "Look, it is still high day; it is not time for the cattle to be gathered together. Water the sheep, and go and feed them."

8 But they said, "We cannot until all the flocks are gathered together, and they have rolled the stone from the well's mouth; then we water the sheep."

9 Now while he was still speaking with them, Rachel came with her father's sheep, for she was a shepherdess. 10 And it came to pass, when Jacob

28:20, 22 Jacob's vow. Like Abraham, Jacob responded to God's presence with obedience (Gen. 17:23–27). He recognized that, in return for God's promised providential care, he was obligated to worship God alone (v. 15). He also followed the example of his grandfather in pledging a tithe as an act of worship (see Gen. 14:18, note).

29:3 The stone at the well. Ancient Near Eastern custom was to wait until all the local shepherds were present with their flocks before removing the stone seal on the well. This prevented any one herdsman from monopolizing the scarce water supply (v. 8).

saw Rachel the daughter of Laban his mother's brother, and the sheep of Laban his mother's brother, that Jacob went near and rolled the stone from the well's mouth, and watered the flock of Laban his mother's brother. 11Then Jacob kissed Rachel, and lifted up his voice and wept. 12And Jacob told Rachel that he was her father's relative and that he was Rebekah's son. So she ran and told her father.

13Then it came to pass, when Laban heard the report about Jacob his sister's son, that he ran to meet him, and embraced him and kissed him, and brought him to his house. So he told Laban all these things. 14And Laban said to him, "Surely you are my bone and my flesh." And he stayed with him for a month.

Jacob Marries Leah and Rachel

15Then Laban said to Jacob, "Because you are my relative, should you therefore serve me for nothing? Tell me, what should your wages be?" 16Now Laban had two daughters: the name of the elder was Leah, and the name of the younger was Rachel. 17Leah's eyes were delicate, but Rachel was beautiful of form and appearance.

18Now Jacob loved Rachel; so he said, "I will serve you seven years for Rachel your younger daughter."

19And Laban said, "It is better that I give her to you than that I should give her to another man. Stay with me." 20So Jacob served seven years for Rachel, and they seemed only a few days to him because of the love he had for her.

21Then Jacob said to Laban, "Give me my wife, for my days are fulfilled, that I may go in to her." 22And Laban gathered together all the men of the place and made a feast. 23Now it came to pass in the evening, that he took Leah his daughter and brought her to Jacob; and he went in to her. 24And Laban gave his maid Zilpah to his daughter Leah as a maid. 25So it came to pass in the morning, that behold, it was Leah. And he said to Laban, "What is this you have done to me? Was it not for Rachel that I served you? Why then have you deceived me?"

26And Laban said, "It must not be done so in our country, to give the younger before the firstborn. 27Fulfill her week, and we will give you this one also for the service which you will serve with me still another seven years."

28Then Jacob did so and fulfilled her week. So he gave him his daughter Rachel as wife also. 29And Laban gave his maid Bilhah to his daughter Rachel as a maid. 30Then Jacob also went in to Rachel, and he also loved Rachel more than Leah. And he served with Laban still another seven years.

The Children of Jacob

31When the LORD saw that Leah was unloved, He opened her womb; but Rachel was barren. 32So Leah conceived and bore a son, and she called his name Reuben;[a] for she said, "The LORD has surely looked on my affliction. Now therefore, my husband will love me." 33Then she conceived again and bore a son, and said, "Because the LORD has heard that I am unloved, He has therefore given me this son also." And she called his name Simeon.[a] 34She conceived again and bore a son, and said, "Now this time my husband will become attached to me, because I have borne him three sons." Therefore his name was called Levi.[a] 35And she conceived again and bore a son, and said, "Now I will praise the LORD." Therefore she called his name Judah.[a] Then she stopped bearing.

30 Now when Rachel saw that she bore Jacob no children, Rachel envied her sister, and said to Jacob, "Give me children, or else I die!"

2And Jacob's anger was aroused against Rachel, and he said, "Am I in the place of God, who has withheld from you the fruit of the womb?"

3So she said, "Here is my maid Bilhah; go in to her, and she will bear a child on my knees, that I also may have children by her." 4Then she gave him Bilhah her maid as wife, and Jacob went in to her. 5And Bilhah conceived and bore Jacob a son. 6Then

29:17 Delicate eyes may refer to lack of vision or physical unattractiveness. The former is more likely. The irony of the story lies in the deception of Jacob by his own eyes in the same way that the eyes of his blind father were deceived by Jacob's trickery (vv. 23–35; Gen. 27:18–29). Leah's own weak vision would strengthen the irony.

29:18 Jacob's service. Ancient Near Eastern custom demanded a bride-price (Heb. mohar) to be paid to the bride's parents (see 1 Kin. 9, Dowry). Syrian records indicate that it was common for a groom to work off the price in labor.

29:23 The trickery of Leah's substitution is an obvious judgment on Jacob for his own deceitfulness. Jacob, the younger brother, stole the older brother's blessing; later, he received the older sister rather than the younger. God, however, accomplished His purposes despite human failure. Leah became the mother of Levi and Judah, the tribes of Israel's priests and kings, and ultimately the ancestress of Christ.

29:30 Rachel's marriage. Jacob married both sisters the same week and served Laban for Rachel seven more years. Again, rupturing the Creator's design for the one-man, one-woman union leads to strife and conflict. Mosaic Law later forbade the taking of living sisters as wives (Lev. 18:18).

29:31 Leah's sons. "Unloved" (lit. "hated" or "rejected") reveals the immense contrast in Jacob's feelings for his two wives. It may also imply sexual avoidance. Nevertheless, God had chosen Leah as He chose Jacob (see v. 23, note).

30:3 Bilhah's children. Rachel followed the example of Sarah. The custom of laying a newborn child on his father's knees

LEAH The Unwanted Wife

Leah is described as having "delicate" or "weak" eyes (Gen. 29:17), which could allude to poor eyesight or merely to a lack of sparkle. Through subterfuge, Leah, instead of the promised Rachel, became the wife of Jacob. Although Leah may have been at least a willing participant in this deception, she could have been merely an obedient daughter. Nevertheless, she obviously loved Jacob and was devoted to him throughout their marriage, though surely Leah's soul must have shriveled to be the object of Jacob's disappointment and scorn as well as the tool of her conniving father.

Living with the constant comparison to her unusually beautiful sister, Leah was, nevertheless, not hidden from God's caring eyes. In His omniscience, God allowed her to conceive even though her sister's fertility was delayed. She had the honor of mothering Jacob's oldest son, but she wrongly assumed that it would earn love from her husband (Gen. 29:32). Leah faced her second childbirth realistically, but apparently deep desire gnawed at her (v. 33). When a third pregnancy came, she exclaimed, "Now this time my husband will become attached to me," revealing an intense longing for love (v. 34).

Leah began her marriage by focusing on what she lacked and being miserable, but she changed her heart and focus to what she had and determined to praise the Lord. Not until the birth of her fourth son, Judah, did this unwanted wife learn to trust Yahweh ("Now I will praise the LORD," Gen. 29:35). Tracing the messianic lineage, the world rejoices with Leah as her faithfulness was rewarded. "The Lion of the tribe of Judah," Jesus the Messiah, came through her offspring Judah and the priesthood through her son Levi (see Rev. 5:5). Leah personified for every woman the crucial need to live primarily for God and His glory. Though she may have been unattractive in appearance, unloved, unwanted, and even despised, God saw in her an inner beauty that equipped her to carry out His plan (Gen. 29:31). She could not change Jacob, but she could change herself and recognize God's hand in her life (Gen. 30:13). Leah, for her part, did not let the attitudes of others distract her from the task God had given to her.

Rachel said, "God has judged my case; and He has also heard my voice and given me a son." Therefore she called his name Dan.[a] 7And Rachel's maid Bilhah conceived again and bore Jacob a second son. 8Then Rachel said, "With great wrestlings I have wrestled with my sister, and indeed I have prevailed." So she called his name Naphtali.[a]

9When Leah saw that she had stopped bearing, she took Zilpah her maid and gave her to Jacob as wife. 10And Leah's maid Zilpah bore Jacob a son. 11Then Leah said, "A troop comes!"[a] So she called his name Gad.[b] 12And Leah's maid Zilpah bore Jacob a second son. 13Then Leah said, "I am happy, for the daughters will call me blessed." So she called his name Asher.[a]

14Now Reuben went in the days of wheat harvest and found mandrakes in the field, and brought them to his mother Leah. Then Rachel said to Leah, "Please give me some of your son's mandrakes."

15But she said to her, "Is it a small matter that you have taken away my husband? Would you take away my son's mandrakes also?"

And Rachel said, "Therefore he will lie with you tonight for your son's mandrakes."

16When Jacob came out of the field in the evening, Leah went out to meet him and said, "You must come in to me, for I have surely hired you with my son's mandrakes." And he lay with her that night.

17And God listened to Leah, and she conceived and bore Jacob a fifth son. 18Leah said, "God has given me my wages, because I have given my maid to my husband." So she called his name Issachar.[a] 19Then Leah conceived again and bore Jacob a sixth son. 20And Leah said, "God has endowed me with a good endowment; now my husband will dwell with me, because I have borne him six sons." So she called his name Zebulun.[a] 21Afterward she bore a daughter, and called her name Dinah.

22Then God remembered Rachel, and God listened to her and opened her womb. 23And she conwas a public acknowledgment of paternity. The laying of Bilhah's child on Rachel's knees would acknowledge that the child was legally Rachel's.

30:14 Reuben's mandrakes. The mandrake, related to the potato, was thought to be both an aphrodisiac and a fertility aid. The story reveals the continuing tendency of this family to resort to magic and trickery rather than to God. God had the last word: Rachel remained barren; Leah gave up the mandrakes, but she conceived.

30:15 Leah's heartache. Two meanings are possible. Either Leah was accusing her sister of having usurped her position as firstborn and first wife—a wry reminder of Jacob's own past—or else Jacob was denying Leah her marital rights.

ceived and bore a son, and said, "God has taken away my reproach." 24So she called his name Joseph,[a] and said, "The LORD shall add to me another son."

Jacob's Agreement with Laban

25And it came to pass, when Rachel had borne Joseph, that Jacob said to Laban, "Send me away, that I may go to my own place and to my country. 26Give me my wives and my children for whom I have served you, and let me go; for you know my service which I have done for you."

27And Laban said to him, "Please stay, if I have found favor in your eyes, for I have learned by experience that the LORD has blessed me for your sake." 28Then he said, "Name me your wages, and I will give it."

29So Jacob said to him, "You know how I have served you and how your livestock has been with me. 30For what you had before I came was little, and it has increased to a great amount; the LORD has blessed you since my coming. And now, when shall I also provide for my own house?"

31So he said, "What shall I give you?"

And Jacob said, "You shall not give me anything. If you will do this thing for me, I will again feed and keep your flocks: 32Let me pass through all your flock today, removing from there all the speckled and spotted sheep, and all the brown ones among the lambs, and the spotted and speckled among the goats; and these shall be my wages. 33So my righteousness will answer for me in time to come, when the subject of my wages comes before you: every one that is not speckled and spotted among the goats, and brown among the lambs, will be considered stolen, if it is with me."

34And Laban said, "Oh, that it were according to your word!" 35So he removed that day the male goats that were speckled and spotted, all the female goats that were speckled and spotted, every one that had some white in it, and all the brown ones among the lambs, and gave them into the hand of his sons. 36Then he put three days' journey between himself and Jacob, and Jacob fed the rest of Laban's flocks.

37Now Jacob took for himself rods of green poplar and of the almond and chestnut trees, peeled white strips in them, and exposed the white which was in the rods. 38And the rods which he had peeled, he set before the flocks in the gutters, in the watering troughs where the flocks came to drink, so that they should conceive when they came to drink. 39So the flocks conceived before the rods, and the flocks brought forth streaked, speckled, and spotted. 40Then Jacob separated the lambs, and made the flocks face toward the streaked and all the brown in the flock of Laban; but he put his own flocks by themselves and did not put them with Laban's flock.

41And it came to pass, whenever the stronger livestock conceived, that Jacob placed the rods before the eyes of the livestock in the gutters, that they might conceive among the rods. 42But when the flocks were feeble, he did not put them in; so the feebler were Laban's and the stronger Jacob's. 43Thus the man became exceedingly prosperous, and had large flocks, female and male servants, and camels and donkeys.

Jacob Flees from Laban

31 Now Jacob heard the words of Laban's sons, saying, "Jacob has taken away all that was our father's, and from what was our father's he has acquired all this wealth." 2And Jacob saw the countenance of Laban, and indeed it was not favorable toward him as before. 3Then the LORD said to Jacob, "Return to the land of your fathers and to your family, and I will be with you."

4So Jacob sent and called Rachel and Leah to the field, to his flock, 5and said to them, "I see your father's countenance, that it is not favorable toward me as before; but the God of my father has been with me. 6And you know that with all my might I have served your father. 7Yet your father has deceived me and changed my wages ten times, but God did not allow him to hurt me. 8If he said thus: 'The speckled shall be your wages,' then all the flocks bore speckled. And if he said thus: 'The streaked shall be your wages,' then all the flocks bore streaked. 9So God has taken away the livestock of your father and given them to me.

10"And it happened, at the time when the flocks conceived, that I lifted my eyes and saw in a dream, and behold, the rams which leaped upon the flocks were streaked, speckled, and gray-spotted. 11Then the Angel of God spoke to me in a dream, saying, 'Jacob.' And I said, 'Here I am.' 12And He said, 'Lift your eyes now and see, all the rams which leap on the flocks are streaked, speckled, and gray-spotted; for I have seen all that Laban is doing to you. 13I am the God of Bethel, where you anointed the pillar and where you made

30:24 [a]Literally He Will Add

30:22 God's gracious exercise of covenant faithfulness. Rachel displayed trust in this faithfulness when she named her son "Joseph" (lit. "He will add"), looking forward to the birth of more children.

30:43 Jacob's wealth. Over a six-year period Jacob built up a large flock (Gen. 31:14). Despite the trickery and manipulation used by all members of this family, God remained in control. God's blessing, not Jacob's scheming, was responsible for Jacob's prosperity (Gen. 31:9–13).

31:3 Jacob's flight. God continued to direct His chosen back to the Land of Promise. Isaac was driven back by conflicts over wells; Jacob, by Laban's resentment.

CODEPENDENCY A QUEST TO MEET NEEDS

The term codependency with its diverse definitions was coined in the context of treating alcoholism. However, it has evolved to mean a compulsion to rescue or control others by fixing their problems. Generally codependency emanates from unmet or blocked God-given needs, such as love, acceptance, and security in primary relationships, as with parent, spouse, or child.

More frequently codependency occurs in relationships with a dysfunctional person, resulting in a denial of the severity of the problem in the relationship, a heightened sense of responsibility, and an environment of controlling or being controlled by others. It nearly always produces a keen sense of guilt or shame, hurt, anger, and loneliness in a complex and desperate quest to avoid abandonment. Ultimately, this need for acceptance can be filled by God alone. His unconditional love prepares the codependent to move toward complete healing.

Healing from codependency requires confession to God that something or someone has been put in His place. You must then receive His forgiveness and grace (1 John 1:9, 10), establish effective and appropriate boundaries, and acquire new means of communicating and relating. Counseling may be appropriate and effective in finding complete healing (Prov. 11:14).

a vow to Me. Now arise, get out of this land, and return to the land of your family.' "

14Then Rachel and Leah answered and said to him, "Is there still any portion or inheritance for us in our father's house? 15Are we not considered strangers by him? For he has sold us, and also completely consumed our money. 16For all these riches which God has taken from our father are really ours and our children's; now then, whatever God has said to you, do it."

17Then Jacob rose and set his sons and his wives on camels. 18And he carried away all his livestock and all his possessions which he had gained, his acquired livestock which he had gained in Padan Aram, to go to his father Isaac in the land of Canaan. 19Now Laban had gone to shear his sheep, and Rachel had stolen the household idols that were her father's. 20And Jacob stole away, unknown to Laban the Syrian, in that he did not tell him that he intended to flee. 21So he fled with all that he had. He arose and crossed the river, and headed toward the mountains of Gilead.

Laban Pursues Jacob

22And Laban was told on the third day that Jacob had fled. 23Then he took his brethren with him and pursued him for seven days' journey, and he overtook him in the mountains of Gilead. 24But God had come to Laban the Syrian in a dream by night, and said to him, "Be careful that you speak to Jacob neither good nor bad."

26And Laban said to Jacob: "What have you done, that you have stolen away unknown to me, and carried away my daughters like captives taken with the sword? 27Why did you flee away secretly, and steal away from me, and not tell me; for I might have sent you away with joy and songs, with timbrel and harp? 28And you did not allow me to kiss my sons and my daughters. Now you have done foolishly in so doing. 29It is in my power to do you harm, but the God of your father spoke to me last night, saying, 'Be careful that you speak to Jacob neither good nor bad.' 30And now you have surely gone because you greatly long for your father's house, but why did you steal my gods?"

31Then Jacob answered and said to Laban, "Because I was afraid, for I said, 'Perhaps you would take your daughters from me by force.' 32With whomever you find your gods, do not let him live. In the presence of our brethren, identify what I have of yours and take it with you." For Jacob did not know that Rachel had stolen them.

31:14–16 Rachel and Leah respond. The response of Jacob's wives confirmed God's leading. An estrangement had developed because of Laban's greed (vv. 14–16). "Strangers" has a negative connotation, as in unwelcome foreigners (v. 15). "He has sold us" implies that Laban had given up any claim to fatherly respect and status by treating his daughters as a means of profit. "Riches" is a reference to the bride-price, part of which was often given back to the bride; Laban neglected to do this for his daughters (see 1 Kin. 9, Dowry).

31:19 Household idols. Laban was an idolater and not a worshiper of Yahweh. The idols are literally "teraphim," small household figurines possibly used for divination (Ezek. 21:21; Zech. 10:2). The Nuzi tablets, which record contemporary law for the Mesopotamian Hurrians, connect ownership of the household idols with inheritance rights; Rachel's motives may have been financial rather than religious (see Gen. 29, Rachel).

33And Laban went into Jacob's tent, into Leah's tent, and into the two maids' tents, but he did not find them. Then he went out of Leah's tent and entered Rachel's tent. 34Now Rachel had taken the household idols, put them in the camel's saddle, and sat on them. And Laban searched all about the tent but did not find them. 35And she said to her father, "Let it not displease my lord that I cannot rise before you, for the manner of women is with me." And he searched but did not find the household idols.

36Then Jacob was angry and rebuked Laban, and Jacob answered and said to Laban: "What is my trespass? What is my sin, that you have so hotly pursued me? 37Although you have searched all my things, what part of your household things have you found? Set it here before my brethren and your brethren, that they may judge between us both! 38These twenty years I have been with you; your ewes and your female goats have not miscarried their young, and I have not eaten the rams of your flock. 39That which was torn by beasts I did not bring to you; I bore the loss of it. You required it from my hand, whether stolen by day or stolen by night. 40*There* I was! In the day the drought consumed me, and the frost by night, and my sleep departed from my eyes. 41Thus I have been in your house twenty years; I served you fourteen years for your two daughters, and six years for your flock, and you have changed my wages ten times.
42Unless the God of my father, the God of Abraham and the Fear of Isaac, had been with me, surely now you would have sent me away empty-handed. God has seen my affliction and the labor of my hands, and rebuked you last night."

Laban's Covenant with Jacob

43And Laban answered and said to Jacob, "These daughters are my daughters, and these children are my children, and this flock is my flock; all that you see is mine. But what can I do this day to these my daughters or to their children whom they have borne? 44Now therefore, come, let us make a covenant, you and I, and let it be a witness between you and me."

45So Jacob took a stone and set it up as a pillar.
46Then Jacob said to his brethren, "Gather stones."
And they took stones and made a heap, and they ate there on the heap. 47Laban called it Jegar Sa-hadutha,[a] but Jacob called it Galeed.[b] 48And Laban said, "This heap is a witness between you and me this day." Therefore its name was called Galeed, 49also Mizpah,[a] because he said, "May the LORD watch between you and me when we are absent one from another. 50If you afflict my daughters, or if you take other wives besides my daughters, although no man is with us—see, God is witness between you and me!"

51Then Laban said to Jacob, "Here is this heap and here is this pillar, which I have placed between you and me. 52This heap is a witness, and this pillar is a witness, that I will not pass beyond this heap to you, and you will not pass beyond this heap and this pillar to me, for harm. 53The God of Abraham, the God of Nahor, and the God of their father judge between us." And Jacob swore by the Fear of his father Isaac. 54Then Jacob offered a sacrifice on the mountain, and called his brethren to eat bread. And they ate bread and stayed all night on the mountain. 55And early in the morning Laban arose, and kissed his sons and daughters and blessed them. Then Laban departed and returned to his place.

Esau Comes to Meet Jacob

32 So Jacob went on his way, and the angels of God met him. 2When Jacob saw them, he said, "This is God's camp." And he called the name of that place Mahanaim.[a]

3Then Jacob sent messengers before him to Esau his brother in the land of Seir, the country of Edom. 4And he commanded them, saying, "Speak thus to my lord Esau, 'Thus your servant Jacob says: "I have dwelt with Laban and stayed there until now. 5I have oxen, donkeys, flocks, and male and female servants; and I have sent to tell my lord, that I may find favor in your sight." ' "

6Then the messengers returned to Jacob, saying, "We came to your brother Esau, and he also is coming to meet you, and four hundred men are with him." 7So Jacob was greatly afraid and distressed; and he divided the people that were with him, and the flocks and herds and camels, into two companies. 8And he said, "If Esau comes to the one company and attacks it, then the other company which is left will escape."

9Then Jacob said, "O God of my father Abraham and God of my father Isaac, the LORD who said to me, 'Return to your country and to your family, and I will deal well with you': 10I am not

31:45 The memorial. The pillar acts as a reminder of the covenant between the two men (see Gen. 28:18). The name "Heap of Witness" was given in Aramean by Laban and in Hebrew by Jacob. The name "Galeed" may be related to the designation "Gilead" later assigned to the district. This spot became known as Mizpah (Heb., lit. "watchtower"), which conveys the same idea (Josh. 11:3; Judg. 11:34).

32:2 Mahanaim (Heb., lit. "double camp"). This is a reference to Jacob's own caravan and the company of God. The angels demonstrated God's protection as Jacob advanced to meet Esau. Mahanaim later became an important fortress east of the Jordan River and probably north of the Jabbok River (2 Sam. 17:24–27).

BLENDED FAMILY BUILDING A NEW HOME

While the subject of blended families is not addressed specifically in Scripture, the Bible does give us some admonitions that seem relevant:

1) Build your new family on Christ. If mistakes were made in the past, seek the forgiveness of God and others and turn away from the past in order to move with joyful purpose to future opportunities. Recognize openly that each family member has a distinct and irreplaceable relationship with Christ and that together you are a "mini-version" of the body of Christ at work. Seek to understand and develop the unique spiritual gifts of each person in your new family. Pray together. Make Christ the focal point and supreme authority of your home.

2) Clearly delineate the lines of authority and responsibility. The more responsibility a parent has for a child, the greater the authority he or she must have. Discuss openly and candidly with your spouse the need for defining clearly the roles of both parents over each child in your blended family to maintain order in the household (1 Cor. 14:40).

3) Foster communication. Heartfelt harmony, peace, and order require clear, direct, and convincing communication. Provide a regular forum for airing grievances, sharing ideas and opinions, and making family decisions, showing appreciation for each person's contribution (Eph. 4:29–32).

4) Recognize and value your individual differences—even as you seek to blend together as a family. Allow each person the freedom to express his own personality, skills, and abilities within the constraints of family rules (Rom. 12:10–12).

5) Find and pursue mutually satisfying activities (Amos 3:3).

worthy of the least of all the mercies and of all the truth which You have shown Your servant; for I crossed over this Jordan with my staff, and now I have become two companies. 11Deliver me, I pray, from the hand of my brother, from the hand of Esau; for I fear him, lest he come and attack me and the mother with the children. 12For You said, 'I will surely treat you well, and make your descendants as the sand of the sea, which cannot be numbered for multitude.' "

13So he lodged there that same night, and took what came to his hand as a present for Esau his brother: 14two hundred female goats and twenty male goats, two hundred ewes and twenty rams, 15thirty milk camels with their colts, forty cows and ten bulls, twenty female donkeys and ten foals. 16Then he delivered them to the hand of his servants, every drove by itself, and said to his servants, "Pass over before me, and put some distance between successive droves." 17And he commanded the first one, saying, "When Esau my brother meets you and asks you, saying, 'To whom do you belong, and where are you going? Whose are these in front of you?' 18then you shall say, 'They are your servant Jacob's. It is a present sent to my lord Esau; and behold, he also is behind us.' " 19So he commanded the second, the third, and all who followed the droves, saying, "In this manner you shall speak to Esau when you find him; 20and also say, 'Behold, your servant Jacob is behind us.' " For he said, "I will appease him with the present that goes before me, and afterward I will see his face; perhaps he will accept me." 21So the present went on over before him, but he himself lodged that night in the camp.

Wrestling with God

22And he arose that night and took his two wives, his two female servants, and his eleven sons, and crossed over the ford of Jabbok. 23He took them, sent them over the brook, and sent over what he had. 24Then Jacob was left alone; and a Man wrestled with him until the breaking of day. 25Now when He saw that He did not prevail against him, He touched the socket of his hip; and the socket of Jacob's hip was out of joint as He wrestled with him. 26And He said, "Let Me go, for the day breaks."

But he said, "I will not let You go unless You bless me!"

27So He said to him, "What is your name?"

He said, "Jacob."

32:22 The Jabbok River (Heb., lit. "wrestler"; see v. 24), modern Nahr ez Zerka, cuts through Gilead halfway between the Sea of Galilee and the Dead Sea and flows into the Jordan about 40 miles south of the Sea of Galilee.

32:24 Jacob's encounter with God. The wrestling match with the One who revealed Himself as God (v. 28) sums up Jacob's lifelong attitude toward God. The ultimate power is confirmed as lying in God's hands, not in Jacob's strength or cunning (v. 25). Jacob's defeat resulted in his blessing (v. 29).

28 And He said, "Your name shall no longer be called Jacob, but Israel;[a] for you have struggled with God and with men, and have prevailed." 29 Then Jacob asked, saying, "Tell me Your name,
I pray."
And He said, "Why is it that you ask about My name?" And He blessed him there.
30 So Jacob called the name of the place Peniel:[a] "For I have seen God face to face, and my life is preserved." 31 Just as he crossed over Penuel[a] the sun rose on him, and he limped on his hip.
32 Therefore to this day the children of Israel do not eat the muscle that shrank, which is on the hip socket, because He touched the socket of Jacob's hip in the muscle that shrank.

Jacob and Esau Meet

33 Now Jacob lifted his eyes and looked, and there, Esau was coming, and with him were four hundred men. So he divided the children among Leah, Rachel, and the two maidservants.
2 And he put the maidservants and their children in front, Leah and her children behind, and Rachel and Joseph last. 3 Then he crossed over before them and bowed himself to the ground seven times, until he came near to his brother.
4 But Esau ran to meet him, and embraced him, and fell on his neck and kissed him, and they wept. 5 And he lifted his eyes and saw the women and children, and said, "Who are these with you?"
So he said, "The children whom God has graciously given your servant." 6 Then the maidservants came near, they and their children, and bowed down. 7 And Leah also came near with her children, and they bowed down. Afterward Joseph and Rachel came near, and they bowed down.
8 Then Esau said, "What do you mean by all this company which I met?"
And he said, "These are to find favor in the sight of my lord."
9 But Esau said, "I have enough, my brother;
keep what you have for yourself."
10 And Jacob said, "No, please, if I have now found favor in your sight, then receive my present from my hand, inasmuch as I have seen your face as though I had seen the face of God, and you were pleased with me. 11 Please, take my blessing that is brought to you, because God has dealt graciously with me, and because I have enough." So he urged him, and he took it.
12 Then Esau said, "Let us take our journey; let us go, and I will go before you." 13 But Jacob said to him, "My lord knows that the children are weak, and the flocks and herds which are nursing are with me. And if the men should drive them hard one day, all the flock will die. 14 Please let my lord go on ahead before his servant. I will lead on slowly at a pace which the livestock that go before me, and the children, are able to endure, until I come to my lord in Seir." 15 And Esau said, "Now let me leave with you some of the people who are with me."
But he said, "What need is there? Let me find favor in the sight of my lord." 16 So Esau returned that day on his way to Seir. 17 And Jacob journeyed to Succoth, built himself a house, and made booths for his livestock. Therefore the name of the place is called Succoth.[a]

Jacob Comes to Canaan

18 Then Jacob came safely to the city of Shechem, which is in the land of Canaan, when he came from Padan Aram; and he pitched his tent before the city. 19 And he bought the parcel of land, where he had pitched his tent, from the children of Hamor, Shechem's father, for one hundred pieces of money. 20 Then he erected an altar there and called it El Elohe Israel.[a]

The Dinah Incident

34 Now Dinah the daughter of Leah, whom she had borne to Jacob, went out to see the daughters of the land. 2 And when Shechem the son of Hamor the Hivite, prince of the country, saw her, he took her and lay with her, and violated her. 3 His soul was strongly attracted to Dinah the daughter of Jacob, and he loved the young woman and spoke kindly to the young woman. 4 So Shechem spoke to his father Hamor, saying, "Get me this young woman as a wife."

32:28 [a]Literally Prince with God 32:30 [a]Literally Face of God 32:31 [a]Same as Peniel, verse 30 33:17 [a]Literally Booths 33:20 [a]Literally God, the God of Israel

32:28 Israel (Heb., lit. "he contends with God"). Once broken by God, Jacob ceased to become the supplanter and instead became the one for whom God Himself would strive.

32:30 Peniel (Heb., lit. "face of God"). God actually withdrew before dawn so that Jacob's vision was incomplete. A full vision of God was incompatible with mortal limitations (Ex. 33:20; Deut. 34:10).

33:19 The children of Hamor were the inhabitants of Shechem; "children of" or "sons of" indicates membership in the tribe that Hamor founded. "Shechem's father" may mean "the founder of Shechem." Since Shechem was the name of both the city and the son of its prince, it appears that "Shechem" and "Hamor" were either titles or hereditary names. This was the second acquisition of Canaanite land by a patriarch (see Gen. 23:4, note).

34:2 The rape of Dinah. The phrase "lay with her and violated her" conveys violence and should be interpreted as rape. Apparently, kidnapping was also involved (v. 26). Although Shechem appeared in a more kindly light in the rest of the story, the damage done by his violent act was irreversible (vv. 3, 19; see Rape; 2 Sam. 13, Date Rape). "Hivites," descendants of Canaan, were a loosely associated merchant tribe spread throughout Canaan (Gen. 10:17).

RAPE THE ULTIMATE VIOLATION

A woman who is raped may experience the same type of terror the Levite's concubine must have felt (Judg. 19:23–26). Physical death is not inevitable in every case of rape, but almost any victim does feel as though a part of her has died. A rape victim may suffer for some time from nightmares, severe and lingering fears, and feelings of low self-worth.

The victim of rape should be encouraged to recognize God's promise never to leave or forsake her (Is. 41:10; Heb. 13:5, 6). A woman victimized by rape needs to seek comfort and healing from God, then from other believers (2 Cor. 1:3, 4). She must find a way of dealing with her anger toward her attacker. If she denies that anger, harbors it, or focuses on revenge, she is in danger of sinning herself (Heb. 12:14–16). On the other hand, as she forgives the one who has wronged her, she will open herself to recovery and growth (Matt. 6:14, 15).

The process of healing is not easy and takes time, but, as a rape victim learns to rely on God for strength as well as healing, she will also learn that her experience may be used for the Lord's glory and honor, perhaps even by sharing the healing she has received from God with other victims.

5 And Jacob heard that he had defiled Dinah his daughter. Now his sons were with his livestock in the field; so Jacob held his peace until they came.
6 Then Hamor the father of Shechem went out to Jacob to speak with him. 7 And the sons of Jacob came in from the field when they heard it; and the men were grieved and very angry, because he had done a disgraceful thing in Israel by lying with Jacob's daughter, a thing which ought not to be done. 8 But Hamor spoke with them, saying, "The soul of my son Shechem longs for your daughter.
Please give her to him as a wife. 9 And make marriages with us; give your daughters to us, and take our daughters to yourselves. 10 So you shall dwell with us, and the land shall be before you. Dwell and trade in it, and acquire possessions for yourselves in it."

11 Then Shechem said to her father and her brothers, "Let me find favor in your eyes, and whatever you say to me I will give. 12 Ask me ever so much dowry and gift, and I will give according to what you say to me; but give me the young woman as a wife."

13 But the sons of Jacob answered Shechem and Hamor his father, and spoke deceitfully, because he had defiled Dinah their sister. 14 And they said to them, "We cannot do this thing, to give our sister to one who is uncircumcised, for that would be a reproach to us. 15 But on this condition we will consent to you: If you will become as we are, if every male of you is circumcised, 16 then we will give our daughters to you, and we will take your daughters to us; and we will dwell with you, and we will become one people. 17 But if you will not heed us and be circumcised, then we will take our daughter and be gone."

18 And their words pleased Hamor and Shechem, Hamor's son. 19 So the young man did not delay to do the thing, because he delighted in Jacob's daughter. He was more honorable than all the household of his father.

20 And Hamor and Shechem his son came to the gate of their city, and spoke with the men of their city, saying: 21 "These men are at peace with us.
Therefore let them dwell in the land and trade in
it. For indeed the land is large enough for them.
Let us take their daughters to us as wives, and let us give them our daughters. 22 Only on this condition will the men consent to dwell with us, to be one people: if every male among us is circumcised as they are circumcised. 23 Will not their livestock, their property, and every animal of theirs be ours?
Only let us consent to them, and they will dwell with us." 24 And all who went out of the gate of his city heeded Hamor and Shechem his son; every male was circumcised, all who went out of the gate of his city.

25 Now it came to pass on the third day, when

34:7 The reference to Jacob's family as Israel reveals an early nationalism. "Disgraceful thing" refers to outrageous acts of immorality often associated with Canaanite and non-Israelite practices (see 2 Sam. 13:12). The reaction of the brothers clearly shows that they were conscious of the family as a separate social unit.

34:17 Circumcision. The mere act would not have brought these Hivites into the line of promise. Hamor and Shechem presented it to the rest of the city as a commercial concession (v. 23). This was not the original design for the covenant sign, which represented a special relationship to God (see Gen. 17, Circumcision).

34:25 The massacre. The revenge was carried out by Dinah's full brothers, the sons of Leah. The disabling pain of the operation would have been at its height on the third day, making it quite possible for Simeon and Levi to act alone. The other brothers appear to have joined only in the looting (v. 27).

they were in pain, that two of the sons of Jacob, Simeon and Levi, Dinah's brothers, each took his sword and came boldly upon the city and killed all the males. 26And they killed Hamor and Shechem his son with the edge of the sword, and took Dinah from Shechem's house, and went out. 27The sons of Jacob came upon the slain, and plundered the city, because their sister had been defiled. 28They took their sheep, their oxen, and their donkeys, what was in the city and what was in the field, 29and all their wealth. All their little ones and their wives they took captive; and they plundered even all that was in the houses.

30Then Jacob said to Simeon and Levi, "You have troubled me by making me obnoxious among the inhabitants of the land, among the Canaanites and the Perizzites; and since I am few in number, they will gather themselves together against me and kill me. I shall be destroyed, my household and I."

31But they said, "Should he treat our sister like a harlot?"

Jacob's Return to Bethel

35 Then God said to Jacob, "Arise, go up to Bethel and dwell there; and make an altar there to God, who appeared to you when you fled from the face of Esau your brother."

2And Jacob said to his household and to all who were with him, "Put away the foreign gods that are among you, purify yourselves, and change your garments. 3Then let us arise and go up to Bethel; and I will make an altar there to God, who answered me in the day of my distress and has been with me in the way which I have gone." 4So they gave Jacob all the foreign gods which were in their hands, and the earrings which were in their ears; and Jacob hid them under the terebinth tree which was by Shechem.

5And they journeyed, and the terror of God was upon the cities that were all around them, and they did not pursue the sons of Jacob. 6So Jacob came to Luz (that is, Bethel), which is in the land of Canaan, he and all the people who were with him. 7And he built an altar there and called the place El Bethel,[a] because there God appeared to him when he fled from the face of his brother.

8Now Deborah, Rebekah's nurse, died, and she was buried below Bethel under the terebinth tree. So the name of it was called Allon Bachuth.[a]

9Then God appeared to Jacob again, when he came from Padan Aram, and blessed him. 10And God said to him, "Your name is Jacob; your name shall not be called Jacob anymore, but Israel shall be your name." So He called his name Israel. 11Also God said to him: "I am God Almighty. Be fruitful and multiply; a nation and a company of nations shall proceed from you, and kings shall come from your body. 12The land which I gave Abraham and Isaac I give to you; and to your descendants after you I give this land." 13Then God went up from him in the place where He talked with him. 14So Jacob set up a pillar in the place where He talked with him, a pillar of stone; and he poured a drink offering on it, and he poured oil on it. 15And Jacob called the name of the place where God spoke with him, Bethel.

Death of Rachel

16Then they journeyed from Bethel. And when there was but a little distance to go to Ephrath, Rachel labored in childbirth, and she had hard labor. 17Now it came to pass, when she was in hard labor, that the midwife said to her, "Do not fear; you will have this son also." 18And so it was, as her soul was departing (for she died), that she called his name Ben-Oni;[a] but his father called him Benjamin.[b] 19So Rachel died and was buried on the way to Ephrath (that is, Bethlehem). 20And Jacob set a pillar on her grave, which is the pillar of Rachel's grave to this day.

21Then Israel journeyed and pitched his tent

35:7 [a]Literally God of the House of God 35:8 [a]Literally Terebinth of Weeping 35:18 [a]Literally Son of My Sorrow [b]Literally Son of the Right Hand

34:27 Plundering the city. Jacob's sons fell from their height of moral outrage and followed Canaanite custom themselves. Ancient Near Eastern military conquest typically included the claiming of the possessions and families of the defeated by the victors. In seizing the Hivite women, Jacob's sons put themselves on the same level as the violent Shechem.

34:30 Jacob's response centered not on his daughter's honor or the morality of his sons' revenge but on practical politics. Jacob's comment reveals that the position of God's chosen people within the Land of Promise was still precarious and that Jacob himself continued to be more concerned with pragmatic survival than with spiritual issues.

35:2 Covenant renewal. After the threat of assimilation by the Hivites, God called Jacob to Bethel to renew His covenant where the original covenant was confirmed (Gen. 28:13–22). In preparation, Jacob ordered his household to rid themselves of all traces of pagan influence, such as the idols Rachel had stolen and any other idols acquired in Mesopotamia (Gen. 31:19, note). The wearing of clean garments was symbolic of beginning a new way of life. Jacob buried these pagan objects to demonstrate the cleansing of his household (v. 4).

35:14 Jacob's pillar was set where a memorial stone and an altar already stood (Gen. 28:22; 35:7). The introduction of the drink offering transformed the location from a memorial to a place of worship. Jacob here was fulfilling his own promise (Gen. 28:20–22).

35:16 The death of Rachel. Jacob was traveling from Bethel, located to Jerusalem's north, to Ephrath or Bethlehem (v. 19), located south of Jerusalem. Rachel's death in childbirth was ironic, given her appeal to Jacob (Gen. 30:1). The fact that Jacob changed the name of Rachel's son was a reflection of the importance given a name in the ancient Near East; some thought that names helped to determine a child's future (see Is. 45, Naming of Children).

DINAH An Innocent Victim

Dinah was the only daughter among twelve sons of Jacob. When her father, Jacob, finally settled for a while near the city of Shechem, she decided to go exploring, perhaps to find friends. In her youthful exuberance Dinah ignored the dangers of the pagan lifestyle of the young people of Shechem, although it was in direct opposition to her family traditions. She may have felt confident that she could take care of herself even in a strange country.

What began as an excursion of curiosity ended in the tragedy of Dinah's rape by the young prince of Shechem (Gen. 34:2). Whatever the circumstances leading to this tragedy, Dinah surely did not expect or deserve this ultimate degradation. She would not only have to live with the trauma of rape, but she would have little chance for a happy marriage in the future.

Shechem's father Hamor approached Dinah's father to request a marriage, which was the custom of the day. The prince wanted her so much that Hamor told Jacob to name the brideprice (v. 12). Hamor also offered an alliance of their two peoples (something God had forbidden). Though Shechem's initial act of rape was deplorable, he showed more integrity in his attempt to rectify the situation than did Dinah's father and brothers. Through deceit they put the entire male population at a disadvantage, then slaughtered them.

The result of Dinah's visit to the city of Shechem was overwhelmingly tragic: she was raped; all the men of the town were murdered; wives and children of the townsmen were put in slavery; Jacob and his family were forced to flee their home; Dinah's chances for a good marriage were gone; God's name was dishonored among the idol worshipers. Even the most simple choices are often spiritual challenges in which our sisters and daughters must be cautioned that curiosity about the world can pull them into situations in which they suffer at the hands of the ungodly around them. Let parents as well be admonished to make their homes a shield and shelter for their children.

beyond the tower of Eder. 22And it happened, when Israel dwelt in that land, that Reuben went and lay with Bilhah his father's concubine; and Israel heard about it.

Jacob's Twelve Sons

Now the sons of Jacob were twelve: 23the sons of Leah were Reuben, Jacob's firstborn, and Simeon, Levi, Judah, Issachar, and Zebulun; 24the sons of Rachel were Joseph and Benjamin; 25the sons of Bilhah, Rachel's maidservant, were Dan and Naphtali; 26and the sons of Zilpah, Leah's maidservant, were Gad and Asher. These were the sons of Jacob who were born to him in Padan Aram.

Death of Isaac

27Then Jacob came to his father Isaac at Mamre, or Kirjath Arba[a] (that is, Hebron), where Abraham and Isaac had dwelt. 28Now the days of Isaac were one hundred and eighty years. 29So Isaac breathed his last and died, and was gathered to his people, being old and full of days. And his sons Esau and Jacob buried him.

The Family of Esau

36 Now this is the genealogy of Esau, who is Edom. 2Esau took his wives from the daughters of Canaan: Adah the daughter of Elon the Hittite; Aholibamah the daughter of Anah, the daughter of Zibeon the Hivite; 3and Basemath, Ishmael's daughter, sister of Nebajoth. 4Now Adah bore Eliphaz to Esau, and Basemath bore Reuel. 5And Aholibamah bore Jeush, Jaalam, and Korah. These were the sons of Esau who were born to him in the land of Canaan.

6Then Esau took his wives, his sons, his daughters, and all the persons of his household, his cattle and all his animals, and all his goods which he had gained in the land of Canaan, and went to a country away from the presence of his brother Jacob. 7For their possessions were too great for them to dwell together, and the land where they were strangers could not support them because of their livestock. 8So Esau dwelt in Mount Seir. Esau is Edom.

35:27 [a]Literally Town of Arba

36:2 Esau's wives. Three wives are listed (vv. 2, 3): Adah, daughter of Elon the Hittite; Aholibamah, daughter of Anah; and Basemath, daughter of Ishmael. In another reference, Esau's wives are named as Judith, the daughter of Beeri the Hittite, and Basemath, the daughter of Elon the Hittite (Gen. 26:34). Esau also married Mahalath, daughter of Ishmael (Gen. 28:9). There are three possibilities for the differences in these accounts:

1) The wives have alternate names, as did Esau himself—"Edom" (Gen. 25:30).

2) Esau had more than three wives, but the descendants of only these three wives are listed (vv. 2, 3).

3) As the text has been passed from manuscript to manuscript over the years, there is also the possibility of an inadvertency in the process of copying.

9And this is the genealogy of Esau the father of the Edomites in Mount Seir. 10These were the names of Esau's sons: Eliphaz the son of Adah
the wife of Esau, and Reuel the son of Basemath the wife of Esau. 11And the sons of Eliphaz were Teman, Omar, Zepho,[a] Gatam, and Kenaz.
12Now Timna was the concubine of Eliphaz, Esau's son, and she bore Amalek to Eliphaz. These were the sons of Adah, Esau's wife.
13These were the sons of Reuel: Nahath, Zerah, Shammah, and Mizzah. These were the sons of Basemath, Esau's wife.
14These were the sons of Aholibamah, Esau's wife, the daughter of Anah, the daughter of Zibeon. And she bore to Esau: Jeush, Jaalam, and Korah.

The Chiefs of Edom

15These were the chiefs of the sons of Esau. The sons of Eliphaz, the firstborn son of Esau, were Chief Teman, Chief Omar, Chief Zepho, Chief Ke-naz, 16Chief Korah,[a] Chief Gatam, and Chief Amalek. These were the chiefs of Eliphaz in the land of Edom. They were the sons of Adah.
17These were the sons of Reuel, Esau's son:
Chief Nahath, Chief Zerah, Chief Shammah, and Chief Mizzah. These were the chiefs of Reuel in the land of Edom. These were the sons of Base-math, Esau's wife.
18And these were the sons of Aholibamah, Esau's wife: Chief Jeush, Chief Jaalam, and Chief Korah. These were the chiefs who descended from Aholibamah, Esau's wife, the daughter of Anah.
19These were the sons of Esau, who is Edom, and these were their chiefs.

The Sons of Seir

20These were the sons of Seir the Horite who inhabited the land: Lotan, Shobal, Zibeon, Anah, 21Dishon, Ezer, and Dishan. These were the chiefs of the Horites, the sons of Seir, in the land of Edom.
22And the sons of Lotan were Hori and Hemam.[a] Lotan's sister was Timna.
23These were the sons of Shobal: Alvan,[a] Mana-hath, Ebal, Shepho,[b] and Onam.
24These were the sons of Zibeon: both Ajah and Anah. This was the Anah who found the water[a] in the wilderness as he pastured the donkeys of his father Zibeon. 25These were the children of Anah:
Dishon and Aholibamah the daughter of Anah.
26These were the sons of Dishon:[a] Hemdan,[b] Eshban, Ithran, and Cheran. 27These were the sons of Ezer: Bilhan, Zaavan, and Akan.[a] 28These were the sons of Dishan: Uz and Aran.
29These were the chiefs of the Horites: Chief Lotan, Chief Shobal, Chief Zibeon, Chief Anah, 30Chief Dishon, Chief Ezer, and Chief Dishan.
These were the chiefs of the Horites, according to their chiefs in the land of Seir.

The Kings of Edom

31Now these were the kings who reigned in the land of Edom before any king reigned over the children of Israel: 32Bela the son of Beor reigned in Edom, and the name of his city was Dinhabah.
33And when Bela died, Jobab the son of Zerah of Bozrah reigned in his place. 34When Jobab died, Husham of the land of the Temanites reigned in his place. 35And when Husham died, Hadad the son of Bedad, who attacked Midian in the field of Moab, reigned in his place. And the name of his city was Avith. 36When Hadad died, Samlah of Masrekah reigned in his place. 37And when Sam-lah died, Saul of Rehoboth-by-the-River reigned in his place. 38When Saul died, Baal-Hanan the son of Achbor reigned in his place. 39And when Baal-Hanan the son of Achbor died, Hadar[a] reigned in his place; and the name of his city was Pau.[b] His wife's name was Mehetabel, the daughter of Ma-tred, the daughter of Mezahab.

The Chiefs of Esau

40And these were the names of the chiefs of Esau, according to their families and their places, by their names: Chief Timnah, Chief Alvah,[a] Chief Jetheth, 41Chief Aholibamah, Chief Elah, Chief Pinon, 42Chief Kenaz, Chief Teman, Chief Mibzar, 43Chief Magdiel, and Chief Iram. These were the chiefs of Edom, according to their dwelling places in the land of their possession. Esau was the father of the Edomites.

Joseph Dreams of Greatness

37 Now Jacob dwelt in the land where his father was a stranger, in the land of Canaan.
2This is the history of Jacob.
Joseph, being seventeen years old, was feeding the flock with his brothers. And the lad was with the sons of Bilhah and the sons of Zilpah, his 37:2 The history of Jacob. This final genealogy (Heb. toledoth) introduces the last section of Genesis, the story of Joseph, and takes the godly line from its existence in a single family to its existence as a nation (Gen. 47:27) in fulfillment of the first part of God's promise to Abraham (Gen. 12:1–3).

TAMAR A Deceitful Widow

The men in Tamar's life had failed her. Her place should have been secure as the matriarch of this prominent tribe. Instead, because of the sins of her husband, she was both childless and a widow. God had prepared for such situations by instituting the laws of levirate marriages (Deut. 25:5, 6, note), which assured a man's lineage by having the brother of the deceased take the widow for his wife and produce children for his brother's name. Judah, Tamar's father-in-law, was responsible to see that this was done. He did attempt to accomplish this with Onan, but when this second son died because of deliberate sin (Gen. 38:9, 10), Judah seemed to have lost heart for the whole matter.

Tamar was at her father-in-law's mercy since she could not marry without his arranging it. In other words, she had no place inside the family and no place outside it. In addition, without heirs, the tribe of Judah now faced extinction. Unknown at the time was the importance of continuing Judah's lineage. King David would come from this tribe, as well as Mary, the mother of Jesus, and Joseph, the husband of Mary (Matt. 1:3; Luke 3:33).

The lot of a widow in ancient times was a precarious one. Taking matters in her own hands, Tamar set out to right the wrong the men in her family had caused. During the festive time of sheep shearing, sympathetic magic was practiced by the Canaanites. When they wanted the gods to do something, they would enact the deed themselves, encouraging the gods to come through. Prostitution was their attempt to encourage the gods to give them a fertile year. Tamar knew Judah would be participating in this celebration. Disguising herself as a temple prostitute, heavily veiled as was customary of such women, she intercepted her father-in-law and became impregnated by him. The risk was great. For a widow to become pregnant usually meant the death sentence (see Gen. 38:24).

Scripture does not comment on her actions, but it does give her a prominent place in the genealogy of Christ. In Matthew 1, she is the first of only five women mentioned. Tamar's actions were not only deceitful but a direct violation of God's Law. Nevertheless, God is able to bring about His purposes and execute His plans even when we fail. Tamar had a worthy goal, that is, to continue the line of Judah; but she did not trust God to fulfill His promises and decided to move ahead with her own plans. Even if our motivation is pure and our goal worthy, we do not please God by disobedience.

father's wives; and Joseph brought a bad report of them to his father.

3Now Israel loved Joseph more than all his children, because he was the son of his old age. Also he made him a tunic of many colors. 4But when his brothers saw that their father loved him more than all his brothers, they hated him and could not speak peaceably to him.

5Now Joseph had a dream, and he told it to his brothers; and they hated him even more. 6So he said to them, "Please hear this dream which I have dreamed: 7There we were, binding sheaves in the field. Then behold, my sheaf arose and also stood upright; and indeed your sheaves stood all around and bowed down to my sheaf."

8And his brothers said to him, "Shall you indeed reign over us? Or shall you indeed have dominion over us?" So they hated him even more for his dreams and for his words.

9Then he dreamed still another dream and told it to his brothers, and said, "Look, I have dreamed another dream. And this time, the sun, the moon, and the eleven stars bowed down to me."

10So he told it to his father and his brothers; and his father rebuked him and said to him, "What is this dream that you have dreamed? Shall your mother and I and your brothers indeed come to bow down to the earth before you?" 11And his brothers envied him, but his father kept the matter in mind.

Joseph Sold by His Brothers

12Then his brothers went to feed their father's flock in Shechem. 13And Israel said to Joseph, "Are not your brothers feeding the flock in Shechem? Come, I will send you to them."

So he said to him, "Here I am."

14Then he said to him, "Please go and see if it is well with your brothers and well with the flocks, and bring back word to me." So he sent him out of the Valley of Hebron, and he went to Shechem.

15Now a certain man found him, and there he

37:6 Joseph's dreams. Throughout Genesis, dreams often reveal God's plans (see 15:1, 12; 28:12). Joseph's dreams placed him in the line of those chosen by God to receive blessing.

37:11 The response of the brothers. Although all of Jacob's children are included in the covenant, Joseph was chosen for a special role. The hostility of his brothers is comparable to the hostility of Ishmael (Gen. 21:8, 9) and Esau (Gen. 27:41).

was, wandering in the field. And the man asked him, saying, "What are you seeking?"

16So he said, "I am seeking my brothers. Please tell me where they are feeding their flocks."

17And the man said, "They have departed from here, for I heard them say, 'Let us go to Dothan.' " So Joseph went after his brothers and found them in Dothan.

18Now when they saw him afar off, even before he came near them, they conspired against him to kill him. 19Then they said to one another, "Look, this dreamer is coming! 20Come therefore, let us now kill him and cast him into some pit; and we shall say, 'Some wild beast has devoured him.' We shall see what will become of his dreams!"

21But Reuben heard it, and he delivered him out of their hands, and said, "Let us not kill him." 22And Reuben said to them, "Shed no blood, but cast him into this pit which is in the wilderness, and do not lay a hand on him"—that he might deliver him out of their hands, and bring him back to his father.

23So it came to pass, when Joseph had come to his brothers, that they stripped Joseph of his tunic, the tunic of many colors that was on him. 24Then they took him and cast him into a pit. And the pit was empty; there was no water in it.

25And they sat down to eat a meal. Then they lifted their eyes and looked, and there was a company of Ishmaelites, coming from Gilead with their camels, bearing spices, balm, and myrrh, on their way to carry them down to Egypt. 26So Judah said to his brothers, "What profit is there if we kill our brother and conceal his blood? 27Come and let us sell him to the Ishmaelites, and let not our hand be upon him, for he is our brother and our flesh." And his brothers listened. 28Then Midianite traders passed by; so the brothers pulled Joseph up and lifted him out of the pit, and sold him to the Ishmaelites for twenty shekels of silver. And they took Joseph to Egypt.

29Then Reuben returned to the pit, and indeed Joseph was not in the pit; and he tore his clothes. 30And he returned to his brothers and said, "The lad is no more; and I, where shall I go?"

31So they took Joseph's tunic, killed a kid of the goats, and dipped the tunic in the blood. 32Then they sent the tunic of many colors, and they brought it to their father and said, "We have found this. Do you know whether it is your son's tunic or not?"

33And he recognized it and said, "It is my son's tunic. A wild beast has devoured him. Without doubt Joseph is torn to pieces." 34Then Jacob tore his clothes, put sackcloth on his waist, and mourned for his son many days. 35And all his sons and all his daughters arose to comfort him; but he refused to be comforted, and he said, "For I shall go down into the grave to my son in mourning." Thus his father wept for him.

36Now the Midianites[a] had sold him in Egypt to Potiphar, an officer of Pharaoh and captain of the guard.

Judah and Tamar

38 It came to pass at that time that Judah departed from his brothers, and visited a certain Adullamite whose name was Hirah. 2And Judah saw there a daughter of a certain Canaanite whose name was Shua, and he married her and went in to her. 3So she conceived and bore a son, and he called his name Er. 4She conceived again and bore a son, and she called his name Onan. 5And she conceived yet again and bore a son, and called his name Shelah. He was at Chezib when she bore him.

6Then Judah took a wife for Er his firstborn, and her name was Tamar. 7But Er, Judah's firstborn, was wicked in the sight of the LORD, and the LORD killed him. 8And Judah said to Onan, "Go in to your brother's wife and marry her, and raise up an heir to your brother." 9But Onan knew that the heir would not be his; and it came to pass, when he went in to his brother's wife, that he emitted on the ground, lest he should give an heir to his brother. 10And the thing which he did displeased the LORD; therefore He killed him also.

11Then Judah said to Tamar his daughter-in-law, "Remain a widow in your father's house till my son Shelah is grown." For he said, "Lest he also die like his brothers." And Tamar went and dwelt in her father's house.

12Now in the process of time the daughter of Shua, Judah's wife, died; and Judah was comforted,

37:28 Midianites is an overlapping term for Ishmaelites, who were the offspring of Ishmael. Midianites occupied land east of the Jordan, down into the Sinai peninsula. Twenty shekels of silver was two-thirds the value of an ordinary slave (Ex. 21:32).

38:6 Tamar appears to have been a Canaanite as well. However, she, like the Moabitess Ruth, was an ancestress of Christ (Matt. 1:3). God preserved His godly line despite Judah's sin.

38:8 Onan's duty. The custom of levirate marriage, later regulated, guaranteed the continuance of the older brother's line (Deut. 25:5, 6, note). Onan's children would have inherited Er's name and property, perpetuating the name of his brother instead of his own, and thus displeasing Onan. Clearly, Onan's coitus interruptus was a habitual practice; his sin lay not in the act itself but in his refusal to perform his brotherly duty (v. 9).

38:11 Judah had no intention of fulfilling his promise; he sent Tamar to her father's house, though usually a widow remained with the family of her husband.

STEP-PARENTHOOD AN IMPORTANT INFLUENCE

Although the Bible does not address step-parenting directly, sound biblical principles that will ultimately bring blessings can be applied toward responsible and godly step-parenting. A woman's character is not determined by her circumstances. Rather the character of a woman will affect how she will respond within her circumstances—which may include step-parenting. A stepmother should begin preparation for her parenting task with the continuation of prayerful development of her own godly character.

Clear examples of step-parenting as we experience it today are not found in the Bible. Most families in Bible times were what we today would call extended families—families in which several generations lived together, and the families of aunts and uncles were frequently as close as the next tent.

In the New Testament, Joseph might be considered a stepparent as the legal father of Jesus, although his circumstances were quite unique. We can learn from Joseph three important qualities for godly stepparents:

- He did what the Lord asked him to do (Matt. 1:24);
- He allowed others to give good things to the child in his care (Matt. 2:11); and
- He acted quickly to protect his child (Matt. 2:14, 15).

Stepmothers today are wise to follow his example—seeking the Lord's direction always in the relationship the Lord desires for them to have with their stepchildren, allowing others to provide blessings for the children, and providing protection from evil for the children.

A stepmother can be an important influence for Christ in a child's life by:

- Praying for her stepchild daily;
- Sharing the Word of God with her stepchild; and
- Including her stepchild in the fellowship of her church family.

Above all, a stepmother is called upon to show "love in action" to her stepchildren—to give freely and generously to them. In order for that to be possible, a stepmother needs to ask the Holy Spirit to work in and through her, so that she might have the patience, tolerance, fortitude, and courage it takes to give to a child who very often does not want to receive.

A stepmother needs to remember always to allow the child's affection for her own mother to flourish, being respectful of the relationship the child has with her mother if she is living or the memories of her life if she is dead.

and went up to his sheepshearers at Timnah, he and his friend Hirah the Adullamite. 13And it was told Tamar, saying, "Look, your father-in-law is going up to Timnah to shear his sheep." 14So she took off her widow's garments, covered herself with a veil and wrapped herself, and sat in an open place which was on the way to Timnah; for she saw that Shelah was grown, and she was not given to him as a wife. 15When Judah saw her, he thought she was a harlot, because she had covered her face. 16Then he turned to her by the way, and said, "Please let me come in to you"; for he did not know that she was his daughter-in-law.

So she said, "What will you give me, that you may come in to me?"

17And he said, "I will send a young goat from the flock."

So she said, "Will you give me a pledge till you send it?"

18Then he said, "What pledge shall I give you?"

So she said, "Your signet and cord, and your staff that is in your hand." Then he gave them to her, and went in to her, and she conceived by him. 19So she arose and went away, and laid aside her veil and put on the garments of her widowhood.

20And Judah sent the young goat by the hand of his friend the Adullamite, to receive his pledge from the woman's hand, but he did not find her. 21Then he asked the men of that place, saying,

38:14 Tamar's strategy. Tamar put on the dress of a cultic prostitute. Canaanite sheep-shearing festivals involved cultic worship and ritual prostitution as a magic aid to fertility. The word "harlot" is often synonymous with "sacred prostitute" (vv. 21, 22).

38:18 Judah's pledge. The signet was a cylindrical seal hung by a cord around the neck; its impression was the equivalent of a personal signature. Staffs were elaborately carved by their owners. Both items were instantly recognizable (vv. 25, 26).

"Where is the harlot who was openly by the roadside?"

And they said, "There was no harlot in this place."

22So he returned to Judah and said, "I cannot find her. Also, the men of the place said there was no harlot in this place."

23Then Judah said, "Let her take them for herself, lest we be shamed; for I sent this young goat and you have not found her."

24And it came to pass, about three months after, that Judah was told, saying, "Tamar your daughter-in-law has played the harlot; furthermore she is with child by harlotry."

So Judah said, "Bring her out and let her be burned!"

25When she was brought out, she sent to her father-in-law, saying, "By the man to whom these belong, I am with child." And she said, "Please determine whose these are— the signet and cord, and staff."

26So Judah acknowledged them and said, "She has been more righteous than I, because I did not give her to Shelah my son." And he never knew her again.

27Now it came to pass, at the time for giving birth, that behold, twins were in her womb. 28And so it was, when she was giving birth, that the one put out his hand; and the midwife took a scarlet thread and bound it on his hand, saying, "This one came out first." 29Then it happened, as he drew back his hand, that his brother came out unexpectedly; and she said, "How did you break through? This breach be upon you!" Therefore his name was called Perez.[a] 30Afterward his brother came out who had the scarlet thread on his hand. And his name was called Zerah.

Joseph a Slave in Egypt

39 Now Joseph had been taken down to Egypt. And Potiphar, an officer of Pharaoh, captain of the guard, an Egyptian, bought him from the Ishmaelites who had taken him down there. 2The LORD was with Joseph, and he was a successful man; and he was in the house of his master the Egyptian. 3And his master saw that the LORD was with him and that the LORD made all he did to prosper in his hand. 4So Joseph found favor in his sight, and served him. Then he made him overseer of his house, and all that he had he put under his authority. 5So it was, from the time that he had made him overseer of his house and all that he had, that the LORD blessed the Egyptian's house for Joseph's sake; and the blessing of the LORD was on all that he had in the house and in the field. 6Thus he left all that he had in Joseph's hand, and he did not know what he had except for the bread which he ate.

Now Joseph was handsome in form and appearance.

7And it came to pass after these things that his master's wife cast longing eyes on Joseph, and she said, "Lie with me."

8But he refused and said to his master's wife, "Look, my master does not know what is with me in the house, and he has committed all that he has to my hand. 9*There is* no one greater in this house than I, nor has he kept back anything from me but you, because you are his wife. How then can I do this great wickedness, and sin against God?"

10So it was, as she spoke to Joseph day by day, that he did not heed her, to lie with her or to be with her.

11But it happened about this time, when Joseph went into the house to do his work, and none of the men of the house was inside, 12that she caught him by his garment, saying, "Lie with me." But he left his garment in her hand, and fled and ran outside. 13And so it was, when she saw that he had left his garment in her hand and fled outside, 14that she called to the men of her house and spoke to them, saying, "See, he has brought in to us a Hebrew to mock us. He came in to me to lie with me, and I cried out with a loud voice. 15And it happened, when he heard that I lifted my voice and cried out, that he left his garment with me, and fled and went outside."

16So she kept his garment with her until his master came home. 17Then she spoke to him with words like these, saying, "The Hebrew servant whom you brought to us came in to me to mock me; 18so it happened, as I lifted my voice and cried out, that he left his garment with me and fled outside."

19So it was, when his master heard the words which his wife spoke to him, saying, "Your servant did to me after this manner," that his anger was aroused. 20Then Joseph's master took him and put

38:29 [a]Literally Breach or Breakthrough

39:4 Overseer. Joseph became the superintendent of Potiphar's estate, a position common in large Egyptian households. Potiphar concerned himself with nothing but his meals. Egyptians typically did not eat with Hebrews, probably for religious reasons (see Gen. 43:32).

39:7 The temptation of Potiphar's wife. Joseph's reaction to the temptation of a foreign woman is presented in clear contrast to Judah's conduct in the preceding chapter. Joseph, the chosen one through whom Israel would be saved, held up God's standards in the face of constant temptation ("day by day," v. 10).

39:20 Imprisonment. The Egyptian penalty for attempted rape of a married woman was death. Joseph was only imprisoned, testifying to God's sovereign plan. His rise further confirmed God's watchful care (vv. 22, 23).

him into the prison, a place where the king's prisoners were confined. And he was there in the prison. 21But the LORD was with Joseph and showed him mercy, and He gave him favor in the sight of the keeper of the prison. 22And the keeper of the prison committed to Joseph's hand all the prisoners who were in the prison; whatever they did there, it was his doing. 23The keeper of the prison did not look into anything that was under Joseph's authority,[a] because the LORD was with him; and whatever he did, the LORD made it prosper.

The Prisoners' Dreams

40 It came to pass after these things that the butler and the baker of the king of Egypt offended their lord, the king of Egypt. 2And Pharaoh was angry with his two officers, the chief butler and the chief baker. 3So he put them in custody in the house of the captain of the guard, in the prison, the place where Joseph was confined. 4And the captain of the guard charged Joseph with them, and he served them; so they were in custody for a while.

5Then the butler and the baker of the king of Egypt, who were confined in the prison, had a dream, both of them, each man's dream in one night and each man's dream with its own interpretation. 6And Joseph came in to them in the morning and looked at them, and saw that they were sad. 7So he asked Pharaoh's officers who were with him in the custody of his lord's house, saying, "Why do you look so sad today?"

8And they said to him, "We each have had a dream, and there is no interpreter of it."

So Joseph said to them, "Do not interpretations belong to God? Tell them to me, please."

9Then the chief butler told his dream to Joseph, and said to him, "Behold, in my dream a vine was before me, 10and in the vine were three branches; it was as though it budded, its blossoms shot forth, and its clusters brought forth ripe grapes. 11Then Pharaoh's cup was in my hand; and I took the grapes and pressed them into Pharaoh's cup, and placed the cup in Pharaoh's hand."

12And Joseph said to him, "This is the interpretation of it: The three branches are three days. 13Now within three days Pharaoh will lift up your head and restore you to your place, and you will put Pharaoh's cup in his hand according to the former manner, when you were his butler. 14But remember me when it is well with you, and please show kindness to me; make mention of me to Pharaoh, and get me out of this house. 15For indeed I was stolen away from the land of the Hebrews; and also I have done nothing here that they should put me into the dungeon."

16When the chief baker saw that the interpretation was good, he said to Joseph, "I also was in my dream, and there were three white baskets on my head. 17In the uppermost basket were all kinds of baked goods for Pharaoh, and the birds ate them out of the basket on my head."

18So Joseph answered and said, "This is the interpretation of it: The three baskets are three days. 19Within three days Pharaoh will lift off your head from you and hang you on a tree; and the birds will eat your flesh from you."

20Now it came to pass on the third day, which was Pharaoh's birthday, that he made a feast for all his servants; and he lifted up the head of the chief butler and of the chief baker among his servants. 21Then he restored the chief butler to his butlership again, and he placed the cup in Pharaoh's hand. 22But he hanged the chief baker, as Joseph had interpreted to them. 23Yet the chief butler did not remember Joseph, but forgot him.

Pharaoh's Dreams

41 Then it came to pass, at the end of two full years, that Pharaoh had a dream; and behold, he stood by the river. 2Suddenly there came up out of the river seven cows, fine looking and fat; and they fed in the meadow. 3Then behold, seven other cows came up after them out of the river, ugly and gaunt, and stood by the other cows on the bank of the river. 4And the ugly and gaunt cows ate up the seven fine looking and fat cows. So Pharaoh awoke. 5He slept and dreamed a second time; and suddenly seven heads of grain came up on one stalk, plump and good. 6Then behold, seven thin heads, blighted by the east wind, sprang up after them. 7And the seven thin heads devoured the seven plump and full heads. So Pharaoh awoke, and indeed, it was a dream. 8Now it came to pass in the morning that his spirit was troubled, and he sent and called for all the magicians of Egypt and all its wise men. And Pharaoh told them his dreams, but there was no one who could interpret them for Pharaoh.

39:23 [a]Literally his hand

40:1 Butler and baker. "Butler" is more accurately "cupbearer," the same position Nehemiah held under Artaxerxes (Neh. 2:1). "Baker" is the "superintendent of the bakery." Both were prestigious and responsible court positions.

40:5 These dreams reveal true events (Gen. 37:7–9). The interpretation of dreams was an important part of Egyptian culture, and interpreters held a high position socially. Joseph's response placed his God above the gods of the land who gave dream interpretations to their devotees (v. 8). The accuracy of Joseph's interpretations confirmed the superiority of his God.

9Then the chief butler spoke to Pharaoh, saying: "I remember my faults this day. 10When Pharaoh was angry with his servants, and put me in custody in the house of the captain of the guard, both me and the chief baker, 11we each had a dream in one night, he and I. Each of us dreamed according to the interpretation of his own dream. 12Now there was a young Hebrew man with us there, a servant of the captain of the guard. And we told him, and he interpreted our dreams for us; to each man he interpreted according to his own dream. 13And it came to pass, just as he interpreted for us, so it happened. He restored me to my office, and he hanged him."

14Then Pharaoh sent and called Joseph, and they brought him quickly out of the dungeon; and he shaved, changed his clothing, and came to Pharaoh. 15And Pharaoh said to Joseph, "I have had a dream, and there is no one who can interpret it. But I have heard it said of you that you can understand a dream, to interpret it."

16So Joseph answered Pharaoh, saying, "It is not in me; God will give Pharaoh an answer of peace."

17Then Pharaoh said to Joseph: "Behold, in my dream I stood on the bank of the river. 18Suddenly seven cows came up out of the river, fine looking and fat; and they fed in the meadow. 19Then behold, seven other cows came up after them, poor and very ugly and gaunt, such ugliness as I have never seen in all the land of Egypt. 20And the gaunt and ugly cows ate up the first seven, the fat cows. 21When they had eaten them up, no one would have known that they had eaten them, for they were just as ugly as at the beginning. So I awoke. 22Also I saw in my dream, and suddenly seven heads came up on one stalk, full and good. 23Then behold, seven heads, withered, thin, and blighted by the east wind, sprang up after them. 24And the thin heads devoured the seven good heads. So I told this to the magicians, but there was no one who could explain it to me."

25Then Joseph said to Pharaoh, "The dreams of Pharaoh are one; God has shown Pharaoh what He is about to do: 26The seven good cows are seven years, and the seven good heads are seven years; the dreams are one. 27And the seven thin and ugly cows which came up after them are seven years, and the seven empty heads blighted by the east wind are seven years of famine. 28This is the thing which I have spoken to Pharaoh. God has shown Pharaoh what He is about to do. 29Indeed seven years of great plenty will come throughout all the land of Egypt; 30but after them seven years of famine will arise, and all the plenty will be forgotten in the land of Egypt; and the famine will deplete the land. 31So the plenty will not be known in the land because of the famine following, for it will be very severe. 32And the dream was repeated to Pharaoh twice because the thing is established by God, and God will shortly bring it to pass.

33"Now therefore, let Pharaoh select a discerning and wise man, and set him over the land of Egypt. 34Let Pharaoh do this, and let him appoint officers over the land, to collect one-fifth of the produce of the land of Egypt in the seven plentiful years. 35And let them gather all the food of those good years that are coming, and store up grain under the authority of Pharaoh, and let them keep food in the cities. 36Then that food shall be as a reserve for the land for the seven years of famine which shall be in the land of Egypt, that the land may not perish during the famine."

Joseph's Rise to Power

37So the advice was good in the eyes of Pharaoh and in the eyes of all his servants. 38And Pharaoh said to his servants, "Can we find such a one as this, a man in whom is the Spirit of God?"

39Then Pharaoh said to Joseph, "Inasmuch as God has shown you all this, there is no one as discerning and wise as you. 40You shall be over my house, and all my people shall be ruled according to your word; only in regard to the throne will I be greater than you." 41And Pharaoh said to Joseph, "See, I have set you over all the land of Egypt."

42Then Pharaoh took his signet ring off his hand and put it on Joseph's hand; and he clothed him in garments of fine linen and put a gold chain around his neck. 43And he had him ride in the second chariot which he had; and they cried out before him, "Bow the knee!" So he set him over all the land of Egypt. 44Pharaoh also said to Joseph, "I am Pharaoh, and without your consent no man may lift his hand or foot in all the land of Egypt." 45And Pharaoh called Joseph's name Zaphnath-Paaneah. And he gave him as a wife Asenath, the

41:16 God's answer. Joseph's interpretation showed the superiority of his God over the gods of the magicians and wise men. Such a showdown was repeated by Moses and Aaron (Ex. 7—10). "Peace" (Heb. shalom) is used as an idiom meaning "the correct answer."

41:33 Joseph's advice. Egyptian cities contained granaries for the storing of grain-taxes and the provision of the army. The supervisor of these granaries held one of the highest ranks in Egypt. Joseph recommended that an already-existing position be filled by a capable man endowed with emergency powers.

41:42 Joseph's position. Joseph appeared to have been appointed vizier or governor. The signet ring carried Pharaoh's deputized authority. "Fine linen" is an Egyptian loan-word for court dress. The gold chain was a reward for services already rendered, that is, the interpretation of the dream. The "second chariot" confirmed that Joseph was subordinate only to Pharaoh (v. 43).

41:45 Joseph's new name indicated that Pharaoh had made him an Egyptian citizen. The meaning of the name is uncertain, but a likely translation is "the god speaks and he lives."

daughter of Poti-Pherah priest of On. So Joseph went out over all the land of Egypt.

46Joseph was thirty years old when he stood before Pharaoh king of Egypt. And Joseph went out from the presence of Pharaoh, and went throughout all the land of Egypt. 47Now in the seven plentiful years the ground brought forth abundantly. 48So he gathered up all the food of the seven years which were in the land of Egypt, and laid up the food in the cities; he laid up in every city the food of the fields which surrounded them. 49Joseph gathered very much grain, as the sand of the sea, until he stopped counting, for it was immeasurable.

50And to Joseph were born two sons before the years of famine came, whom Asenath, the daughter of Poti-Pherah priest of On, bore to him. 51Joseph called the name of the firstborn Manasseh:[a] "For God has made me forget all my toil and all my father's house." 52And the name of the second he called Ephraim:[a] "For God has caused me to be fruitful in the land of my affliction."

53Then the seven years of plenty which were in the land of Egypt ended, 54and the seven years of famine began to come, as Joseph had said. The famine was in all lands, but in all the land of Egypt there was bread. 55So when all the land of Egypt was famished, the people cried to Pharaoh for bread. Then Pharaoh said to all the Egyptians, "Go to Joseph; whatever he says to you, do." 56The famine was over all the face of the earth, and Joseph opened all the storehouses[a] and sold to the Egyptians. And the famine became severe in the land of Egypt. 57So all countries came to Joseph in Egypt to buy grain, because the famine was severe in all lands.

Joseph's Brothers Go to Egypt

42 When Jacob saw that there was grain in Egypt, Jacob said to his sons, "Why do you look at one another?" 2And he said, "Indeed I have heard that there is grain in Egypt; go down to that place and buy for us there, that we may live and not die."

3So Joseph's ten brothers went down to buy grain in Egypt. 4But Jacob did not send Joseph's brother Benjamin with his brothers, for he said, "Lest some calamity befall him." 5And the sons of Israel went to buy grain among those who journeyed, for the famine was in the land of Canaan.

6Now Joseph was governor over the land; and it was he who sold to all the people of the land. And Joseph's brothers came and bowed down before him with their faces to the earth. 7Joseph saw his brothers and recognized them, but he acted as a stranger to them and spoke roughly to them. Then he said to them, "Where do you come from?"

And they said, "From the land of Canaan to buy food."

8So Joseph recognized his brothers, but they did not recognize him. 9Then Joseph remembered the dreams which he had dreamed about them, and said to them, "You are spies! You have come to see the nakedness of the land!"

10And they said to him, "No, my lord, but your servants have come to buy food. 11We are all one man's sons; we are honest men; your servants are not spies."

12But he said to them, "No, but you have come to see the nakedness of the land."

14But Joseph said to them, "It is as I spoke to you, saying, 'You are spies!' 15In this manner you shall be tested: By the life of Pharaoh, you shall not leave this place unless your youngest brother comes here. 16Send one of you, and let him bring your brother; and you shall be kept in prison, that your words may be tested to see whether there is any truth in you; or else, by the life of Pharaoh, surely you are spies!" 17So he put them all together in prison three days.

18Then Joseph said to them the third day, "Do this and live, for I fear God: 19If you are honest men, let one of your brothers be confined to your prison house; but you, go and carry grain for the famine of your houses. 20And bring your youngest brother to me; so your words will be verified, and you shall not die."

And they did so. 21Then they said to one another, "We are truly guilty concerning our brother, for we saw the anguish of his soul when he pleaded with us, and we would not hear; therefore this distress has come upon us."

22And Reuben answered them, saying, "Did I not speak to you, saying, 'Do not sin against the boy'; and you would not listen? Therefore behold, 41:50 Joseph's sons. Joseph's marriage to an Egyptian is presented without comment; the names of Joseph's sons are Hebrew, suggesting that his wife may have taken his faith.

42:7 Joseph's greeting. Joseph's actions toward his brothers were intended to determine whether their characters had changed (Gen. 42—45).

42:9 Spies. Egypt was prone to invasion from Canaan, and its northeastern borders were heavily fortified. "Nakedness of the land" is an idiom meaning "to pry into private affairs."

42:16 By the life of Pharaoh. This oath was the Egyptian equivalent to the Hebrew "As God lives" (1 Kin. 17:1).

42:18 For I fear God. This was Joseph's assurance that, even as an Egyptian, he would not act with complete injustice due to his respect for higher powers.

his blood is now required of us." [23]But they did not know that Joseph understood them, for he spoke to them through an interpreter. [24]And he turned himself away from them and wept. Then he returned to them again, and talked with them. And he took Simeon from them and bound him before their eyes.

The Brothers Return to Canaan

[25]Then Joseph gave a command to fill their sacks with grain, to restore every man's money to his sack, and to give them provisions for the journey. Thus he did for them. [26]So they loaded their donkeys with the grain and departed from there. [27]But as one of them opened his sack to give his donkey feed at the encampment, he saw his money; and there it was, in the mouth of his sack. [28]So he said to his brothers, "My money has been restored, and there it is, in my sack!" Then their hearts failed them and they were afraid, saying to one another, "What is this that God has done to us?"

[29]Then they went to Jacob their father in the land of Canaan and told him all that had happened to them, saying: [30]"The man who is lord of the land spoke roughly to us, and took us for spies of the country. [31]But we said to him, 'We are honest men; we are not spies. [32]We are twelve brothers, sons of our father; one is no more, and the youngest is with our father this day in the land of Canaan.' [33]Then the man, the lord of the country, said to us, 'By this I will know that you are honest men: Leave one of your brothers here with me, take food for the famine of your households, and be gone. [34]And bring your youngest brother to me; so I shall know that you are not spies, but that you are honest men. I will grant your brother to you, and you may trade in the land.' "

[35]Then it happened as they emptied their sacks, that surprisingly each man's bundle of money was in his sack; and when they and their father saw the bundles of money, they were afraid. [36]And Jacob their father said to them, "You have bereaved me: Joseph is no more, Simeon is no more, and you want to take Benjamin. All these things are against me."

[37]Then Reuben spoke to his father, saying, "Kill my two sons if I do not bring him back to you; put him in my hands, and I will bring him back to you."

[38]But he said, "My son shall not go down with you, for his brother is dead, and he is left alone. If any calamity should befall him along the way in which you go, then you would bring down my gray hair with sorrow to the grave."

Joseph's Brothers Return with Benjamin

43 Now the famine was severe in the land. [2]And it came to pass, when they had eaten up the grain which they had brought from Egypt, that their father said to them, "Go back, buy us a little food."

[3]But Judah spoke to him, saying, "The man solemnly warned us, saying, 'You shall not see my face unless your brother is with you.' [4]If you send our brother with us, we will go down and buy you food. [5]But if you will not send him, we will not go down; for the man said to us, 'You shall not see my face unless your brother is with you.' "

[6]And Israel said, "Why did you deal so wrongfully with me as to tell the man whether you had still another brother?"

[7]But they said, "The man asked us pointedly about ourselves and our family, saying, 'Is your father still alive? Have you another brother?' And we told him according to these words. Could we possibly have known that he would say, 'Bring your brother down'?"

[8]Then Judah said to Israel his father, "Send the lad with me, and we will arise and go, that we may live and not die, both we and you and also our little ones. [9]I myself will be surety for him; from my hand you shall require him. If I do not bring him back to you and set him before you, then let me bear the blame forever. [10]For if we had not lingered, surely by now we would have returned this second time."

[11]And their father Israel said to them, "If it must be so, then do this: Take some of the best fruits of the land in your vessels and carry down a present for the man—a little balm and a little honey, spices and myrrh, pistachio nuts and almonds. [12]Take double money in your hand, and take back in your hand the money that was returned in the mouth of your sacks; perhaps it was an oversight. [13]Take your brother also, and arise, go back to the man. [14]And may God Almighty give you mercy before the man, that he may release your other brother and Benjamin. If I am bereaved, I am bereaved!"

[15]So the men took that present and Benjamin, and they took double money in their hand, and arose and went down to Egypt; and they stood before Joseph. [16]When Joseph saw Benjamin with them, he said to the steward of his house, "Take these men to my home, and slaughter an animal and make ready; for these men will dine with me at noon." [17]Then the man did as Joseph ordered, and the man brought the men into Joseph's house.

43:11 The giving of a present was an ancient Near Eastern custom for approaching someone of rank. Balm, a resin used for healing wounds, was extracted from a tree that grew in Gilead. "Honey" is probably grape juice boiled down to a syrup, a delicacy like the nuts. "Myrrh" was prized in Egypt for its use in embalming (see chart, The Herbs of the Bible).

43:14 God Almighty (Heb. El Shaddai) is the name used for God as He resolves difficulties or dangers for His covenant people (see Gen. 17:1, note).

SIBLINGS UNITY AND DIVERSITY

The world is made up of the interweaving and intersecting between individuals and groups, which we call human relationships. Society exists as a result of these relationships. They provide companionship and communication, and through them we give and receive love and understanding. Through relationships we develop, grow, and learn, and from them we obtain self-esteem, identity, and significance. All of Scripture involves relationships, both with God and with our fellow human beings. Some of the most challenging relationships are those within the family circle, especially among siblings. The Lord's plan from the beginning has been for the family to be the foremost arena in which each of us develops identity, self-esteem, self-worth, and a relationship with God. Our siblings play an important role in helping determine not only who we are but also who we become.

Siblings provide one another with a unique opportunity to give and receive love as well as to develop tolerance, an appreciation for others, communication skills, an ability to forgive others, and an understanding of genuine companionship.

Scripture offers these principles about sibling relationships:

1) We must allow a sibling freedom to develop his or her own traits and abilities and to pursue the unique call of God in life. Martha and Mary were very different in personality; yet each had a unique relationship with the Lord (Luke 10:38–42; John 11:20–44).

2) We are not to criticize our siblings in public, but we are to resolve our differences in the privacy of the family circle. Miriam paid a high price for publicly criticizing her brother's choice of a wife (Num. 12:1–15).

3) We are to rejoice without jealousy or ill will when good things happen to our siblings (Luke 15:11–32).

4) We are to do our best always to introduce our brothers and sisters to the Lord and build up their faith, just as Andrew introduced Simon Peter to Jesus (John 1:40–42).

Because the way siblings relate to one another is largely based on the way they perceive their parents' regard for them, a special burden rests on parents to treat all their children with equal love and value, just as our heavenly Father does. Yet, at the same time, each child must be nurtured according to his or her unique capabilities and attributes.

Unity and diversity must be linked to togetherness and individuality and all within the framework of the family's unified goals and direction.

18 Now the men were afraid because they were brought into Joseph's house; and they said, "It is because of the money, which was returned in our sacks the first time, that we are brought in, so that he may make a case against us and seize us, to take us as slaves with our donkeys." 19 When they drew near to the steward of Joseph's house, they talked with him at the door of the house, 20 and said, "O sir, we indeed came down the first time to buy food; 21 but it happened, when we came to the encampment, that we opened our sacks, and there, each man's money was in the mouth of his sack, our money in full weight; so we have brought it back in our hand.
22 And we have brought down other money in our hands to buy food. We do not know who put our money in our sacks."
23 But he said, "Peace be with you, do not be afraid. Your God and the God of your father has given you treasure in your sacks; I had your money." Then he brought Simeon out to them.
24 So the man brought the men into Joseph's house and gave them water, and they washed their feet; and he gave their donkeys feed. 25 Then they made the present ready for Joseph's coming at noon, for they heard that they would eat bread there.
26 And when Joseph came home, they brought him the present which was in their hand into the house, and bowed down before him to the earth.
27 Then he asked them about their well-being, and said, "Is your father well, the old man of whom you spoke? Is he still alive?" 28 And they answered, "Your servant our father is in good health; he is still alive." And they bowed their heads down and prostrated themselves.
29 Then he lifted his eyes and saw his brother Benjamin, his mother's son, and said, "Is this your younger brother of whom you spoke to me?" And he said, "God be gracious to you, my son." 30 Now his heart yearned for his brother; so Joseph made haste and sought somewhere to weep. And he went into his chamber and wept there. 31 Then he washed his face and came out; and he restrained himself, and said, "Serve the bread."

32So they set him a place by himself, and them by themselves, and the Egyptians who ate with him by themselves; because the Egyptians could not eat food with the Hebrews, for that is an abomination to the Egyptians. 33And they sat before him, the firstborn according to his birthright and the youngest according to his youth; and the men looked in astonishment at one another.
34Then he took servings to them from before him, but Benjamin's serving was five times as much as any of theirs. So they drank and were merry with him.

Joseph's Cup

44 And he commanded the steward of his house, saying, "Fill the men's sacks with food, as much as they can carry, and put each man's money in the mouth of his sack. 2Also put my cup, the silver cup, in the mouth of the sack of the youngest, and his grain money." So he did according to the word that Joseph had spoken. 3As soon as the morning dawned, the men were sent away, they and their donkeys. 4When they had gone out of the city, and were not yet far off, Joseph said to his steward, "Get up, follow the men; and when you overtake them, say to them,
'Why have you repaid evil for good? 5*Is* not this the one from which my lord drinks, and with which he indeed practices divination? You have done evil in so doing.' "
6So he overtook them, and he spoke to them these same words. 7And they said to him, "Why does my lord say these words? Far be it from us that your servants should do such a thing. 8Look, we brought back to you from the land of Canaan the money which we found in the mouth of our sacks. How then could we steal silver or gold from your lord's house? 9With whomever of your servants it is found, let him die, and we also will be my lord's slaves."
10And he said, "Now also let it be according to your words; he with whom it is found shall be my slave, and you shall be blameless." 11Then each man speedily let down his sack to the ground, and each opened his sack. 12So he searched. He began with the oldest and left off with the youngest; and the cup was found in Benjamin's sack. 13Then they tore their clothes, and each man loaded his donkey and returned to the city.
14So Judah and his brothers came to Joseph's house, and he was still there; and they fell before him on the ground. 15And Joseph said to them, "What deed is this you have done? Did you not know that such a man as I can certainly practice divination?" 16Then Judah said, "What shall we say to my lord? What shall we speak? Or how shall we clear ourselves? God has found out the iniquity of your servants; here we are, my lord's slaves, both we and he also with whom the cup was found." 17But he said, "Far be it from me that I should do so; the man in whose hand the cup was found, he shall be my slave. And as for you, go up in peace to your father."

Judah Intercedes for Benjamin

18Then Judah came near to him and said: "O my lord, please let your servant speak a word in my lord's hearing, and do not let your anger burn against your servant; for you are even like Pharaoh. 19My lord asked his servants, saying,
'Have you a father or a brother?' 20And we said to my lord, 'We have a father, an old man, and a child of his old age, who is young; his brother is dead, and he alone is left of his mother's children, and his father loves him.' 21Then you said to your servants, 'Bring him down to me, that I may set my eyes on him.' 22And we said to my lord,
'The lad cannot leave his father, for if he should leave his father, his father would die.' 23But you said to your servants, 'Unless your youngest brother comes down with you, you shall see my face no more.'
24"So it was, when we went up to your servant my father, that we told him the words of my lord.
25And our father said, 'Go back and buy us a little food.' 26But we said, 'We cannot go down; if our youngest brother is with us, then we will go down; for we may not see the man's face unless our youngest brother is with us.' 27Then your servant my father said to us, 'You know that my wife bore me two sons; 28and the one went out from me, and I said, "Surely he is torn to pieces"; and I have not seen him since. 29But if you take this one

43:32 A place apart. Egyptians did not eat with Hebrews for cultic reasons. Presence of the foreigners would defile the food ritually. The word "abomination" often implies something forbidden on religious grounds.

43:34 Benjamin's portion. The double portion was an ancient Near Eastern custom for honoring a particular guest.

44:2 The silver cup. Divination with a cup was widely practiced in Egypt (v. 5). The water was disturbed by a small coin or a drop of oil, and the resulting patterns were read and interpreted. The penalty for the theft of an object of divination was death (v. 9). The placement of the cup in Benjamin's sack was designed to test the brothers' attitude toward Benjamin as the child of Rachel.

44:16 Judah's answer. Judah attributed the finding of the cup, like the money, to a divine force he could not understand. The word "iniquity," meaning "guilt," is ironic, considering the greater guilt of the sin against Joseph. Judah's plea revealed a change in character from the greed and callousness displayed earlier (vv. 18–34; see also Gen. 37).

also from me, and calamity befalls him, you shall bring down my gray hair with sorrow to the grave.'

30"Now therefore, when I come to your servant my father, and the lad is not with us, since his life is bound up in the lad's life, 31it will happen, when he sees that the lad is not with us, that he will die. So your servants will bring down the gray hair of your servant our father with sorrow to the grave. 32For your servant became surety for the lad to my father, saying, 'If I do not bring him back to you, then I shall bear the blame before my father forever.' 33Now therefore, please let your servant remain instead of the lad as a slave to my lord, and let the lad go up with his brothers. 34For how shall I go up to my father if the lad is not with me, lest perhaps I see the evil that would come upon my father?"

Joseph Revealed to His Brothers

45 Then Joseph could not restrain himself before all those who stood by him, and he cried out, "Make everyone go out from me!" So no one stood with him while Joseph made himself known to his brothers. 2And he wept aloud, and the Egyptians and the house of Pharaoh heard it.

3Then Joseph said to his brothers, "I am Joseph; does my father still live?" But his brothers could not answer him, for they were dismayed in his presence. 4And Joseph said to his brothers, "Please come near to me." So they came near. Then he said: "I am Joseph your brother, whom you sold into Egypt. 5But now, do not therefore be grieved or angry with yourselves because you sold me here; for God sent me before you to preserve life. 6For these two years the famine has been in the land, and there are still five years in which there will be neither plowing nor harvesting. 7And God sent me before you to preserve a posterity for you in the earth, and to save your lives by a great deliverance. 8So now it was not you who sent me here, but God; and He has made me a father to Pharaoh, and lord of all his house, and a ruler throughout all the land of Egypt.

9"Hurry and go up to my father, and say to him, 'Thus says your son Joseph: "God has made me lord of all Egypt; come down to me, do not tarry. 10You shall dwell in the land of Goshen, and you shall be near to me, you and your children, your children's children, your flocks and your herds, and all that you have. 11There I will provide for you, lest you and your household, and all that you have, come to poverty; for there are still five years of famine." '

12"And behold, your eyes and the eyes of my brother Benjamin see that it is my mouth that speaks to you. 13So you shall tell my father of all my glory in Egypt, and of all that you have seen; and you shall hurry and bring my father down here."

16Now the report of it was heard in Pharaoh's house, saying, "Joseph's brothers have come." So it pleased Pharaoh and his servants well. 17And Pharaoh said to Joseph, "Say to your brothers, 'Do this: Load your animals and depart; go to the land of Canaan. 18Bring your father and your households and come to me; I will give you the best of the land of Egypt, and you will eat the fat of the land. 19Now you are commanded—do this: Take carts out of the land of Egypt for your little ones and your wives; bring your father and come. 20Also do not be concerned about your goods, for the best of all the land of Egypt is yours.' "

21Then the sons of Israel did so; and Joseph gave them carts, according to the command of Pharaoh, and he gave them provisions for the journey. 22He gave to all of them, to each man, changes of garments; but to Benjamin he gave three hundred pieces of silver and five changes of garments. 23And he sent to his father these things: ten donkeys loaded with the good things of Egypt, and ten female donkeys loaded with grain, bread, and food for his father for the journey. 24So he sent his brothers away, and they departed; and he said to them, "See that you do not become troubled along the way."

25Then they went up out of Egypt, and came to the land of Canaan to Jacob their father. 26And they told him, saying, "Joseph is still alive, and he is governor over all the land of Egypt." And Jacob's heart stood still, because he did not believe them. 27But when they told him all the words which Joseph had said to them, and when he saw the carts which Joseph had sent to carry him, the spirit of Jacob their father revived. 28Then Israel said, "It is enough. Joseph my son is still alive. I will go and see him before I die."

45:5 God's overruling sovereignty was recognized by Joseph. Despite the sins of His people, the God of the covenant sovereignly acted to carry out His plan. Joseph's slavery was used for the preservation of the covenant line (v. 7).

45:8 Father to Pharaoh. The Egyptian title meant "advisor" or "administrator" and was regularly given to the vizier or governor.

45:10 Goshen, later known as the "land of Rameses," occupied the northeastern portion of the Nile delta (Gen. 47:11). It was choice, well-irrigated land. "Near to me" alludes to proximity to Tanis, the royal seat.

Jacob's Journey to Egypt

46 So Israel took his journey with all that he had, and came to Beersheba, and offered sacrifices to the God of his father Isaac. 2Then God spoke to Israel in the visions of the night, and said, "Jacob, Jacob!"

And he said, "Here I am."

3So He said, "I am God, the God of your father; do not fear to go down to Egypt, for I will make of you a great nation there. 4I will go down with you to Egypt, and I will also surely bring you up again; and Joseph will put his hand on your eyes."

5Then Jacob arose from Beersheba; and the sons of Israel carried their father Jacob, their little ones, and their wives, in the carts which Pharaoh had sent to carry him. 6So they took their livestock and their goods, which they had acquired in the land of Canaan, and went to Egypt, Jacob and all his descendants with him. 7His sons and his sons' sons, his daughters and his sons' daughters, and all his descendants he brought with him to Egypt.

8Now these were the names of the children of Israel, Jacob and his sons, who went to Egypt: Reuben was Jacob's firstborn. 9The sons of Reuben were Hanoch, Pallu, Hezron, and Carmi. 10The sons of Simeon were Jemuel,[a] Jamin, Ohad, Jachin,[b] Zohar,[c] and Shaul, the son of a Canaanite woman. 11The sons of Levi were Gershon, Kohath, and Merari. 12The sons of Judah were Er, Onan, Shelah, Perez, and Zerah (but Er and Onan died in the land of Canaan). The sons of Perez were Hezron and Hamul. 13The sons of Issachar were Tola, Puvah,[a] Job,[b] and Shimron. 14The sons of Zebulun were Sered, Elon, and Jahleel. 15These were the sons of Leah, whom she bore to Jacob in Padan Aram, with his daughter Dinah. All the persons, his sons and his daughters, were thirty-three.

16The sons of Gad were Ziphion,[a] Haggi, Shuni, Ezbon,[b] Eri, Arodi,[c] and Areli. 17The sons of Asher were Jimnah, Ishuah, Isui, Beriah, and Serah, their sister. And the sons of Beriah were Heber and Malchiel. 18These were the sons of Zilpah, whom Laban gave to Leah his daughter; and these she bore to Jacob: sixteen persons.

19The sons of Rachel, Jacob's wife, were Joseph and Benjamin. 20And to Joseph in the land of Egypt were born Manasseh and Ephraim, whom Asenath, the daughter of Poti-Pherah priest of On, bore to him. 21The sons of Benjamin were Belah, Becher, Ashbel, Gera, Naaman, Ehi, Rosh, Muppim, Huppim,[a] and Ard. 22These were the sons of Rachel, who were born to Jacob: fourteen persons in all.

23The son of Dan was Hushim.[a] 24The sons of Naphtali were Jahzeel,[a] Guni, Jezer, and Shillem.[b] 25These were the sons of Bilhah, whom Laban gave to Rachel his daughter, and she bore these to Jacob: seven persons in all.

26All the persons who went with Jacob to Egypt, who came from his body, besides Jacob's sons' wives, were sixty-six persons in all. 27And the sons of Joseph who were born to him in Egypt were two persons. All the persons of the house of Jacob who went to Egypt were seventy.

Jacob Settles in Goshen

28Then he sent Judah before him to Joseph, to point out before him the way to Goshen. And they came to the land of Goshen. 29So Joseph made ready his chariot and went up to Goshen to meet his father Israel; and he presented himself to him, and fell on his neck and wept on his neck a good while.

30And Israel said to Joseph, "Now let me die, since I have seen your face, because you are still alive."

46:1 Jacob's journey began at Hebron and continued south about 20 miles to Beersheba. God had confirmed the covenant to Isaac at Beersheba, making it an important place of worship (Gen. 26:23–25). Jacob's sacrifices were a request for divine guidance.

46:3 God guided Jacob into Egypt. Earlier, God had forbidden Isaac to enter that country (Gen. 26:1–5) during a similar famine. God now planned to build a nation by isolating the Israelites within Egypt, among people who would not approve of intermarriage. In Canaan, Israel was in danger of being assimilated by the native Canaanites (Gen. 34:8–10). The promise shifted from the nation ("I will also surely bring you up again") to Jacob himself (v. 4). The last phrase confirmed that Joseph would be the one to close Jacob's eyes after death; that is, there would be no more separation between them.

46:8 The household of Jacob. The list of those who accompanied Jacob to Egypt is grouped into 70, probably for mnemonic reasons (v. 27). The total count of persons listed is 71, including Dinah, who is not included in the count of 33 (v. 15). Er and Onan were buried in Canaan (v. 12); Joseph, Manasseh, and Ephraim were already in Egypt. This reduces the number to 66 (v. 26). The narrator then re-adds Jacob, Joseph, Manasseh, and Ephraim to make 70. Rather than the actual number in Jacob's household, this number reflects only those who are actual legal ancestors of the nation of Israel. The number 70 also signified that the complete tribe had journeyed to Egypt and served as a reminder that God had done a complete work in preparing Israel for their task as God's people.

46:21 Benjamin had ten sons, confirming his mature age. Comparison with Numbers 26:38–40 and 1 Chronicles 7:6–12 suggests that grandsons have been added.

COOKING WHAT'S FOR SUPPER?

A wide assortment of clay pots was used for various cooking purposes—storage of water or food, meal preparation, or serving. Some women had the luxury of cooking on clay stoves—a fire burned within the plaster-covered "bricks," and two or three openings on top of the oven provided "burners" on which to place pots.

Bread, stew—generally made with vegetables, and sometimes seasoned with meat (Gen. 25:29–34; 2 Kin. 4:38–41)—and drink were considered a complete meal. As one of the oldest "menus" provided in the Bible, Sarah served cakes made of fine meal, a "tender and good calf," butter, and milk (Gen. 18:6–8) to the divine messengers who visited her home. Family and guests generally dipped into large serving dishes with their fingers or with pieces of flat bread. Grinding grains and baking bread was a daily ritual. The dough was formed into flat cakes and baked on heated stones or in rounded, hive-shaped ovens located just outside a home or tent.

In what is perhaps the world's oldest cookbook—three clay tablets dating back some 4,000 years—a recipe for beef stew was found:

> Take some meat. Prepare water, throw fat into it, then add . . . leek and garlic, all crushed together, and some plain shuhutinnu [probably onion].

One of the tablets has twenty-five recipes, including four vegetable dishes and twenty-one meat dishes (featuring deer, gazelle, lamb, pigeon, and wild dove).

31 Then Joseph said to his brothers and to his father's household, "I will go up and tell Pharaoh, and say to him, 'My brothers and those of my father's house, who were in the land of Canaan, have come to me. 32 And the men are shepherds, for their occupation has been to feed livestock; and they have brought their flocks, their herds, and all that they have.' 33 So it shall be, when Pharaoh calls you and says, 'What is your occupation?' 34 that you shall say, 'Your servants' occupation has been with livestock from our youth even till now, both we and also our fathers,' that you may dwell in the land of Goshen; for every shepherd is an abomination to the Egyptians."

47 Then Joseph went and told Pharaoh, and said, "My father and my brothers, their flocks and their herds and all that they possess, have come from the land of Canaan; and indeed they are in the land of Goshen." 2 And he took five men from among his brothers and presented them to Pharaoh. 3 Then Pharaoh said to his brothers, "What is your occupation?"

And they said to Pharaoh, "Your servants are shepherds, both we and also our fathers." 4 And they said to Pharaoh, "We have come to dwell in the land, because your servants have no pasture for their flocks, for the famine is severe in the land of Canaan. Now therefore, please let your servants dwell in the land of Goshen."

5 Then Pharaoh spoke to Joseph, saying, "Your father and your brothers have come to you. 6 The land of Egypt is before you. Have your father and brothers dwell in the best of the land; let them dwell in the land of Goshen. And if you know any competent men among them, then make them chief herdsmen over my livestock."

7 Then Joseph brought in his father Jacob and set him before Pharaoh; and Jacob blessed Pharaoh. 8 Pharaoh said to Jacob, "How old are you?"

9 And Jacob said to Pharaoh, "The days of the years of my pilgrimage are one hundred and thirty years; few and evil have been the days of the years of my life, and they have not attained to the days of the years of the life of my fathers in the days of their pilgrimage." 10 So Jacob blessed Pharaoh, and went out from before Pharaoh.

11 And Joseph situated his father and his brothers, and gave them a possession in the land of Egypt, in the best of the land, in the land of Rameses, as Pharaoh had commanded. 12 Then Joseph provided his father, his brothers, and all his father's household with bread, according to the number in their families.

Joseph Deals with the Famine

13 Now there was no bread in all the land; for the famine was very severe, so that the land of Egypt and the land of Canaan languished because of the famine. 14 And Joseph gathered up all the money

46:34 An abomination. The Egyptians had an aversion to the occupation of shepherding. Joseph wanted to emphasize their nationality and profession so that Pharaoh would not keep them in the city; he implied that their presence there would be disturbing to Egyptians. Goshen was both fertile and politically sensitive, being located close to the border. Joseph's maneuver guaranteed that Pharaoh would not object to his family's settling there (Gen. 47:6; see also Gen. 43:32, note).

that was found in the land of Egypt and in the land of Canaan, for the grain which they bought; and Joseph brought the money into Pharaoh's house.

15So when the money failed in the land of Egypt and in the land of Canaan, all the Egyptians came to Joseph and said, "Give us bread, for why should we die in your presence? For the money has failed."

16Then Joseph said, "Give your livestock, and I will give you bread for your livestock, if the money is gone." 17So they brought their livestock to Joseph, and Joseph gave them bread in exchange for the horses, the flocks, the cattle of the herds, and for the donkeys. Thus he fed them with bread in exchange for all their livestock that year.

18When that year had ended, they came to him the next year and said to him, "We will not hide from my lord that our money is gone; my lord also has our herds of livestock. There is nothing left in the sight of my lord but our bodies and our lands. 19Why should we die before your eyes, both we and our land? Buy us and our land for bread, and we and our land will be servants of Pharaoh; give us seed, that we may live and not die, that the land may not be desolate."

20Then Joseph bought all the land of Egypt for Pharaoh; for every man of the Egyptians sold his field, because the famine was severe upon them. So the land became Pharaoh's. 21And as for the people, he moved them into the cities,[a] from one end of the borders of Egypt to the other end. 22Only the land of the priests he did not buy; for the priests had rations allotted to them by Pharaoh, and they ate their rations which Pharaoh gave them; therefore they did not sell their lands.

23Then Joseph said to the people, "Indeed I have bought you and your land this day for Pharaoh. Look, here is seed for you, and you shall sow the land. 24And it shall come to pass in the harvest that you shall give one-fifth to Pharaoh. Four-fifths shall be your own, as seed for the field and for your food, for those of your households and as food for your little ones."

25So they said, "You have saved our lives; let us find favor in the sight of my lord, and we will be Pharaoh's servants." 26And Joseph made it a law over the land of Egypt to this day, that Pharaoh should have one-fifth, except for the land of the priests only, which did not become Pharaoh's.

Joseph's Vow to Jacob

27So Israel dwelt in the land of Egypt, in the country of Goshen; and they had possessions there and grew and multiplied exceedingly. 28And Jacob lived in the land of Egypt seventeen years. So the length of Jacob's life was one hundred and forty-seven years. 29When the time drew near that Israel must die, he called his son Joseph and said to him, "Now if I have found favor in your sight, please put your hand under my thigh, and deal kindly and truly with me. Please do not bury me in Egypt, 30but let me lie with my fathers; you shall carry me out of Egypt and bury me in their burial place."

And he said, "I will do as you have said."

31Then he said, "Swear to me." And he swore to him. So Israel bowed himself on the head of the bed.

Jacob Blesses Joseph's Sons

48 Now it came to pass after these things that Joseph was told, "Indeed your father is sick"; and he took with him his two sons, Manasseh and Ephraim. 2And Jacob was told, "Look, your son Joseph is coming to you"; and Israel strengthened himself and sat up on the bed. 3Then Jacob said to Joseph: "God Almighty appeared to me at Luz in the land of Canaan and blessed me, 4and said to me, 'Behold, I will make you fruitful and multiply you, and I will make of you a multitude of people, and give this land to your descendants after you as an everlasting possession.' 5And now your two sons, Ephraim and Manasseh, who were born to you in the land of Egypt before I came to you in Egypt, are mine; as Reuben and Simeon, they shall be mine. 6Your offspring whom you beget after them shall be yours; they will be called by the name of their brothers in their inheritance. 7But as for me, when I came from Padan, Rachel died beside me in the land of Canaan on the way, when there was but a little distance to go to Ephrath; and I buried her there on the way to Ephrath (that is, Bethlehem)."

8Then Israel saw Joseph's sons, and said, "Who are these?"

9Joseph said to his father, "They are my sons, whom God has given me in this place."

47:21 [a]Following Masoretic Text and Targum; Samaritan Pentateuch, Septuagint, and Vulgate read made the people virtual slaves.

47:20 Result of the famine. In order to buy grain, Pharaoh's people, with the exception of the priestly class, became serfs of the crown (v. 22). Relocation of the population to urban areas would make food distribution easier (v. 21). After the famine, farmers were required to hand over one-fifth of their crops. This was not exorbitant by ancient standards; eastern kings often demanded from one-third to three-fourths of the crops of peasants.

47:29 Jacob's request to be buried in Canaan reflected his faith in God's promise that Canaan would one day belong to Israel. Like Abraham, he asked Joseph to swear an oath (Gen. 24:1–9). The form of the oath emphasized that the promise would affect Jacob's descendants (see Gen. 24:2, note).

And he said, "Please bring them to me, and I will bless them." 10Now the eyes of Israel were dim with age, so that he could not see. Then Joseph brought them near him, and he kissed them and embraced them. 11And Israel said to Joseph, "I had not thought to see your face; but in fact, God has also shown me your offspring!"

"God, before whom my fathers Abraham and Isaac walked,
The God who has fed me all my life long to this day,
16The Angel who has redeemed me from all evil,
Bless the lads;
Let my name be named upon them,
And the name of my fathers Abraham and Isaac;
And let them grow into a multitude in the midst of the earth."

17Now when Joseph saw that his father laid his right hand on the head of Ephraim, it displeased him; so he took hold of his father's hand to remove it from Ephraim's head to Manasseh's head. 18And Joseph said to his father, "Not so, my father, for this one is the firstborn; put your right hand on his head."

19But his father refused and said, "I know, my son, I know. He also shall become a people, and he also shall be great; but truly his younger brother shall be greater than he, and his descendants shall become a multitude of nations."

20So he blessed them that day, saying, "By you Israel will bless, saying, 'May God make you as Ephraim and as Manasseh!' " And thus he set Ephraim before Manasseh.

21Then Israel said to Joseph, "Behold, I am dying, but God will be with you and bring you back to the land of your fathers. 22Moreover I have given to you one portion above your brothers, which I took from the hand of the Amorite with my sword and my bow."

Jacob's Last Words to His Sons

49 And Jacob called his sons and said, "Gather together, that I may tell you what shall befall you in the last days:

2"Gather together and hear, you sons of Jacob,
And listen to Israel your father.

3"Reuben, you are my firstborn,
My might and the beginning of my strength,
The excellency of dignity and the excellency of power.
4Unstable as water, you shall not excel,
Because you went up to your father's bed;
Then you defiled it—
He went up to my couch.

5"Simeon and Levi are brothers; Instruments of cruelty are in their dwelling place.
6Let not my soul enter their council;
Let not my honor be united to their assembly;
For in their anger they slew a man,
And in their self-will they hamstrung an ox.
7Cursed be their anger, for it is fierce;
And their wrath, for it is cruel!
I will divide them in Jacob
And scatter them in Israel.

8"Judah, you are he whom your brothers shall praise;
Your hand shall be on the neck of your enemies;
Your father's children shall bow down before you.

48:22 Joseph's portion. This verse is obscure in meaning. "Portion" (lit. "shoulder" or "mountain ridge") seems to refer to some specific area Jacob is deeding to Joseph—possibly Shechem (Heb., lit. "shoulder"). However, Jacob did not participate in the taking of Shechem (Gen. 34). Either he is speaking of the actions of his sons, or this refers to an unrecorded incident in Canaan.

49:1 Jacob's last oracles. Genesis ends as it began, with blessings, curses, and predictions for the future of the chosen seed (see Gen. 3:16–19). Jacob's last words are echoed by Moses (see Deut. 33). "The last days" is a general phrase meaning "days to come"—that is, the time for occupation of the Promised Land.

49:3 The land allotted to Reuben east of the Dead Sea came under continual encroachment from Moab. The tribe of Reuben never gained real power or influence in the tribal confederacy and was condemned by Deborah as weak and irresolute during times of crisis (Judg. 5:15, 16).

49:5 Simeon and Levi were condemned for the massacre of Shechem (Gen. 34:25–31). Jacob's words recall the actions of Lamech (Gen. 4:23, 24), emphasizing the violence and wickedness of the action. While the tribe of Simeon was later swallowed by Judah (Josh. 19:2–9), Levi experienced reprieve and was given priestly duties because the people demonstrated their faithfulness to God (Ex. 32:25–29).

49:9, 10 Judah is given pre-eminence among his brothers until the coming of the Messiah (v. 10). "Lawgiver" or "statute-maker" can also be rendered "commander." "From between

9 Judah is a lion's whelp;
From the prey, my son, you have gone up.
He bows down, he lies down as a lion;
And as a lion, who shall rouse him?
10 The scepter shall not depart from Judah,
Nor a lawgiver from between his feet,
Until Shiloh comes;
And to Him shall be the obedience of the people.
11 Binding his donkey to the vine,
And his donkey's colt to the choice vine,
He washed his garments in wine,
And his clothes in the blood of grapes.
12 His eyes are darker than wine,
And his teeth whiter than milk.

13 "Zebulun shall dwell by the haven of the sea;
He shall become a haven for ships,
And his border shall adjoin Sidon.

14 "Issachar is a strong donkey,
Lying down between two burdens;
15 He saw that rest was good,
And that the land was pleasant;
He bowed his shoulder to bear a burden,
And became a band of slaves.

16 "Dan shall judge his people
As one of the tribes of Israel.
17 Dan shall be a serpent by the way,
A viper by the path,
That bites the horse's heels
So that its rider shall fall backward.
18 I have waited for your salvation, O LORD!

19 "Gad, a troop shall tramp upon him,
But he shall triumph at last.

20 "Bread from Asher shall be rich,
And he shall yield royal dainties.

21 "Naphtali is a deer let loose;
He uses beautiful words.

22 "Joseph is a fruitful bough,
A fruitful bough by a well;
His branches run over the wall.
23 The archers have bitterly grieved him,
Shot at him and hated him.
24 But his bow remained in strength,
And the arms of his hands were made strong
By the hands of the Mighty God of Jacob (From there is the Shepherd, the Stone of Israel), 25 By the God of your father who will help you,
And by the Almighty who will bless you
With blessings of heaven above,
Blessings of the deep that lies beneath,
Blessings of the breasts and of the womb.
26 The blessings of your father
Have excelled the blessings of my ancestors,
Up to the utmost bound of the everlasting hills.
They shall be on the head of Joseph,
And on the crown of the head of him who was separate from his brothers.

27 "Benjamin is a ravenous wolf;
In the morning he shall devour the prey,
And at night he shall divide the spoil."

28 All these are the twelve tribes of Israel, and this is what their father spoke to them. And he blessed them; he blessed each one according to his own blessing.

Jacob's Death and Burial

29 Then he charged them and said to them: "I am to be gathered to my people; bury me with my fathers in the cave that is in the field of Ephron the Hittite, 30 in the cave that is in the field of Machpelah, which is before Mamre in the land of Canaan, which Abraham bought with the field of Ephron the Hittite as a possession for a burial place. 31 There they buried Abraham and Sarah his wife, there they buried Isaac and Rebekah his wife, and there I buried Leah. 32 The field and the cave that is there were purchased from the sons of Heth." 33 And when Jacob had finished commanding his sons, he drew his feet up into the bed and breathed his last, and was gathered to his people.

50 Then Joseph fell on his father's face and wept over him, and kissed him. 2 And Joseph commanded his servants the physicians to his feet" refers to procreation; Judah would continually produce leaders. "Shiloh," a difficult word, is not elsewhere a title of the Messiah. It has been interpreted both as a reference to the place Shiloh (although the city has no particular messianic function) and as a verb form meaning "until he comes to whom it [namely, the scepter] belongs."

49:16, 17 Dan. The comparison with the snake pictures Dan's force and strength in contrast to its small size. The imagery is negative; Dan was treacherous and idolatrous (Judg. 18).

49:22 Joseph's blessings fell upon his sons, Ephraim and Manasseh (Gen. 48:13). The blessing recognized the faithfulness of the covenant God by using the name Shaddai (Heb., lit. "Mighty One," v. 24; see Gen. 17:1, note). "From there" is better translated "in the name of." The emphasis on nature reveals God's superiority over the nature gods of Egypt and Canaan (vv. 25, 26).

49:27 Benjamin. Although a small tribe, Benjamin gave Israel its first king, Saul (1 Sam. 9:1, 2). Benjamites were fierce fighters (Judg. 19—21).

embalm his father. So the physicians embalmed Israel. 3Forty days were required for him, for such are the days required for those who are embalmed; and the Egyptians mourned for him seventy days.

4Now when the days of his mourning were past, Joseph spoke to the household of Pharaoh, saying, "If now I have found favor in your eyes, please speak in the hearing of Pharaoh, saying, 5'My father made me swear, saying, "Behold, I am dying; in my grave which I dug for myself in the land of Canaan, there you shall bury me." Now therefore, please let me go up and bury my father, and I will come back.' "

6And Pharaoh said, "Go up and bury your father, as he made you swear."

7So Joseph went up to bury his father; and with him went up all the servants of Pharaoh, the elders of his house, and all the elders of the land of Egypt, 8as well as all the house of Joseph, his brothers, and his father's house. Only their little ones, their flocks, and their herds they left in the land of Goshen. 9And there went up with him both chariots and horsemen, and it was a very great gathering.

10Then they came to the threshing floor of Atad, which is beyond the Jordan, and they mourned there with a great and very solemn lamentation. He observed seven days of mourning for his father. 11And when the inhabitants of the land, the Canaanites, saw the mourning at the threshing floor of Atad, they said, "This is a deep mourning of the Egyptians." Therefore its name was called Abel Mizraim,[a] which is beyond the Jordan.

12So his sons did for him just as he had commanded them. 13For his sons carried him to the land of Canaan, and buried him in the cave of the field of Machpelah, before Mamre, which Abraham bought with the field from Ephron the Hittite as property for a burial place. 14And after he had buried his father, Joseph returned to Egypt, he and his brothers and all who went up with him to bury his father.

Joseph Reassures His Brothers

15When Joseph's brothers saw that their father was dead, they said, "Perhaps Joseph will hate us, and may actually repay us for all the evil which we did to him." 16So they sent messengers to Joseph, saying, "Before your father died he commanded, saying, 17'Thus you shall say to Joseph: "I beg you, please forgive the trespass of your brothers and their sin; for they did evil to you." ' Now, please, forgive the trespass of the servants of the God of your father." And Joseph wept when they spoke to him.

19Joseph said to them, "Do not be afraid, for am I in the place of God? 20But as for you, you meant evil against me; but God meant it for good, in order to bring it about as it is this day, to save many people alive. 21Now therefore, do not be afraid; I will provide for you and your little ones." And he comforted them and spoke kindly to them.

Death of Joseph

22So Joseph dwelt in Egypt, he and his father's household. And Joseph lived one hundred and ten years. 23Joseph saw Ephraim's children to the third generation. The children of Machir, the son of Manasseh, were also brought up on Joseph's knees.

24And Joseph said to his brethren, "I am dying; but God will surely visit you, and bring you out of this land to the land of which He swore to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob." 25Then Joseph took an oath from the children of Israel, saying, "God will surely visit you, and you shall carry up my bones from here." 26So Joseph died, being one hundred and ten years old; and they embalmed him, and he was put in a coffin in Egypt.

50:11 [a]Literally Mourning of Egypt

50:3 Seventy days is only two days short of the mourning period for a pharaoh and probably was done out of respect for Joseph.

50:25 Joseph's request. Genesis ends with Israel's isolation in Egypt, where God could purify and build up His people. Joseph's request indicated his faith that Israel would eventually occupy the Land of Promise. The request was fulfilled by Moses (Ex. 13:19).

Exodus

AUTHOR

Although the Book of Exodus does not declare the name of its author, strong and ancient tradition attributes it, along with the other books of the Pentateuch, to Moses. The Pentateuch, or the first five books of the Old Testament, also is called the Law of Moses, the Law, or the Torah (Heb., lit. "law" or "instruction"). Numerous Old and New Testament references to the Law of Moses support the attributing of Exodus to Moses as part of the Pentateuch (Josh. 8:31–35; 1 Kin. 2:1–3; 1 Chr. 6:49; 15:15; Luke 24:27, 44; Acts 28:23). Christ referred to the account of the burning bush (Ex. 3:1–6) as written "in the book of Moses" (Mark 12:26). Meanwhile, Exodus itself tells of Moses composing written records of important events, as was customary in the ancient Near East (Ex. 17:14; 24:4, 7; 34:27, 28).

Exodus briefly mentions earlier events (Jacob and Joseph in Egypt, Ex. 1:5, 6) and the Israelites' later travels (Ex. 16:35; 40:36–38). It also describes the oppression of the Israelites in Egypt (Ex. 1). But most of the book concerns the period from the birth of Moses (about 1526 B.C.) through the dedication of the tabernacle (1445 B.C.), a span of eighty-one years. Moses could have begun writing Exodus while the Israelites camped at Mt. Sinai (about 1445 B.C.) and completed his work on it before his death in 1406 B.C.

This explanation accepts 1445 B.C. as the most likely date for Israel's Exodus from Egypt. It coincides with information in Exodus about the dates when various events took place and with chronological statements elsewhere in the Old Testament (Ex. 7:7; 12:40; Judg. 11:26; 1 Kin. 6:1).

SETTING: When Moses was born in Egypt, an era now called the New Kingdom or Empire Period had begun with the start of Egypt's Eighteenth Dynasty of kings. Symbolic of Egypt's long national and cultural existence, the pyramids at Giza (or Gizeh) were around one thousand years old. Egyptian military might have extended north through Canaan and Syria to the Euphrates River. Taxation and trade brought in valuables from Nubia to the south, as well as from Canaan and Mesopotamia. Egyptian sciences, literature, art, religion, and customs were long established.

AUDIENCE: The first audience for Exodus was composed of Israelites who had grown up in the wilderness and stood on the verge of entering the Promised Land of Canaan. Their parents and grandparents were the adults who had experienced life in Egypt, the parting of the Red Sea, the first appearance of manna, the giving of the Law at Sinai, and the other events recorded in Exodus. However, following generations were also in view as is shown by the institution of ceremonies commemorating important events, by the provisions given for corporate worship, and by the emphasis in the Pentateuch and throughout the Old Testament on preserving what Moses wrote.

PURPOSE: By presenting the Lord's revelation of Himself, the Book of Exodus shows that the Lord deserves His people's trust and obedience. He delivered Israel from Egypt, provided for them in the wilderness, forgave them, and granted them a covenant relationship in which they would be a distinct nation with Him as their God.

LITERARY CHARACTERISTICS: The visit of Jethro to Moses marks a turning point in the structure of the book (Ex. 18). Moses summarizes the preceding events, and Jethro's response shows that the Lord's actions are having their intended effect. Jethro's offering of sacrifices prepares the reader for the subsequent chapters about worship and the building of the tabernacle. Jethro's observation of the need for laws and community organization prepares for the legal material found in the book. In other words, the account of Jethro's visit serves as a skillful thematic transition.

THEMES

The Lord's revelation of Himself is the foremost unifying theme in the Book of Exodus. The confrontations with Pharaoh and deliverance of Israel from Egypt, the preservation of Israel in the wilderness, and the giving of laws for everyday life and for worship all serve to reveal the Lord's essential character. In the process of identifying Himself, the Lord also gave the Israelites a distinctive identity as His people. Because of what the Lord did for them, Israel's identity, privileges, and responsibilities as a nation are built on Israel's association with the Lord Himself. Similarly, questions about who Moses is and about his abilities are answered in terms of who the Lord is.

OUTLINE

I. The Lord's Deliverance and Provision (1:1—18:27)
   A. Deliverance from Egypt (1:1—15:21)
      1. The people's need for deliverance (1:1—4:31)
      2. The Lord's revelation of Himself (5:1—7:7)
      3. The display of the Lord's power (7:8—11:10)
      4. The departure of the people (12:1—13:16)
      5. The path of escape (13:17—14:31)
      6. The celebration of deliverance (15:1—21)
   B. Provision in the wilderness (15:22—17:16)
      1. Sweet water to drink (15:22–27)
      2. Manna to eat (16:1–36)
      3. Water from a rock (17:1–7)

Israel's Suffering in Egypt

1 Now these are the names of the children of Israel who came to Egypt; each man and his household came with Jacob: 2Reuben, Simeon, Levi, and Judah; 3Issachar, Zebulun, and Benjamin; 4Dan, Naphtali, Gad, and Asher. 5All those who were descendants[a] of Jacob were seventy[b] persons (for Joseph was in Egypt already). 6And Joseph died, all his brothers, and all that generation. 7But the children of Israel were fruitful and increased abundantly, multiplied and grew exceedingly mighty; and the land was filled with them.

8Now there arose a new king over Egypt, who did not know Joseph. 9And he said to his people, "Look, the people of the children of Israel are more and mightier than we; 10come, let us deal shrewdly with them, lest they multiply, and it happen, in the event of war, that they also join our enemies and fight against us, and so go up out of the land." 11Therefore they set taskmasters over them to afflict them with their burdens. And they built for Pharaoh supply cities, Pithom and Raamses. 12But the more they afflicted them, the more they multiplied and grew. And they were in dread of the children of Israel. 13So the Egyptians made the children of Israel serve with rigor. 14And they made their lives bitter with hard bondage— in mortar, in brick, and in all manner of service in the field. All their service in which they made them serve was with rigor.

15Then the king of Egypt spoke to the Hebrew midwives, of whom the name of one was Shiphrah and the name of the other Puah; 16and he said, "When you do the duties of a midwife for the Hebrew women, and see them on the birthstools, if it is a son, then you shall kill him; but if it is a daughter, then she shall live." 17But the midwives feared God, and did not do as the king of Egypt commanded them, but saved the male children alive. 18So the king of Egypt called for the midwives and said to them, "Why have you done this thing, and saved the male children alive?"

19And the midwives said to Pharaoh, "Because the Hebrew women are not like the Egyptian women; for they are lively and give birth before the midwives come to them."

20Therefore God dealt well with the midwives, and the people multiplied and grew very mighty. 21And so it was, because the midwives feared God, that He provided households for them.

22So Pharaoh commanded all his people, saying, "Every son who is born[a] you shall cast into the river, and every daughter you shall save alive."

Moses Is Born

2 And a man of the house of Levi went and took as wife a daughter of Levi. 2So the woman conceived and bore a son. And when she saw that he was a beautiful child, she hid him three months. 3But when she could no longer hide him, she took an ark of bulrushes for him, daubed it with asphalt and pitch, put the child in it, and laid it in the reeds by the river's bank. 4And his sister stood afar off, to know what would be done to him.

5Then the daughter of Pharaoh came down to bathe at the river. And her maidens walked along the riverside; and when she saw the ark among the reeds, she sent her maid to get it. 6And when she opened it, she saw the child, and behold, the

1:5 [a]Literally who came from the loins of [b]Dead Sea Scrolls and Septuagint read seventy-five (compare Acts 7:14). 1:22 [a]Samaritan Pentateuch, Septuagint, and Targum add to the Hebrews.

1:7 Emphasis on the growing number of Israelites (vv. 7, 9, 10, 12, 20) recalls God's blessings and instructions—"Be fruitful and multiply"—given at creation (Gen. 1:28), after the Flood (Gen. 9:1, 7), and to Jacob (Gen. 35:11). "The land" of Goshen, in the eastern Nile River delta of northern Egypt, was an area deemed suitable for shepherds and flocks (Gen. 46:34—47:6).

1:8, 9 The new Egyptian king may have been Ahmosis (1570–1546 B.C.) or perhaps Amenhotep I, his successor. Ahmosis reunited Egypt by defeating the Hyksos, a Semitic people who had invaded and dominated Egypt for about 150 years. He did not personally "know Joseph," who had died many years earlier, nor did he have any reason to perpetuate the memory of Joseph. The oppression also may have begun earlier under a Hyksos ruler, who was part of an ethnic minority without historical ties of gratitude to Joseph.

1:15–22 The killing of Israelite sons would have eliminated the perceived military threat; daughters could be assimilated into Egyptian society as servants and wives. Unknown to the king, the success of his plans would have wiped out the Israelites as a distinct people with whom God could keep His covenant promises. Shiphrah and Puah may have been leaders representing the large number of midwives that the Israelites would have needed. In a culture in which the naming of people and preservation of a person's name were important, the midwives are named, but the king of Egypt is not. These women were faithful to play a vital part in God's plan.

1:17 The midwives feared God. The first mention of God in Exodus presents Him as superior to the king, whom Egyptian religion honored as a god. Out of reverence for the true God, the midwives risked their own security and refused to kill infants.

1:19–21 The midwives' explanation reflects favorably on Hebrew women. The text does not comment on whether or not the explanation was true, but it must have been plausible. The midwives were rewarded with "households," that is, families (as in v. 1), not because of their explanation but because they "feared God."

2:2–4 The king of Egypt thought it safe to let Hebrew daughters live (Ex. 1:16, 22). But Jochebed, a resourceful "daughter of Levi" (v. 1; Ex. 6:20), and her daughter Miriam circumvented the king's plans (as had the midwives). Among women coming to wash or draw water at a well-chosen spot along the river, a mother leaving a basket and a sister standing watch could escape attention, and they might reasonably hope that the baby would be found.

BREASTFEEDING A NATURAL SOURCE OF NOURISHMENT

Breast milk is God's way of providing a natural source of nourishment for the newborn child: Until this century it was the only method available for feeding infants.

Two complementary functions take place after the birth of a child: the mother's mammary glands fill up with milk and need to be emptied, and a baby displays sucking behavior. Children with mothers who were unable or unwilling to nurse them were given to "wet nurses"—women capable of breastfeeding them (as in the case of Pharaoh's daughter using a nurse for Moses, Ex. 2:7).

In Scripture, four aspects of breastfeeding are worth special note:

1) Breastfeeding is regarded as a satisfying bonding period between mother and child (Is. 66:11).

2) Breastfeeding requires a special commitment on the part of a mother to her child (Is. 49:15). While her husband and household made their annual trip to make sacrifices to the Lord, Hannah stayed behind to nurse her son Samuel (1 Sam. 1:22–24).

3) Weaning of the child—usually by the age of three—was an occasion for great celebration, a milestone in the child's life (Gen. 21:8). It was after weaning that a child was expected to receive the teaching of knowledge and doctrine (Is. 28:9).

4) Breastfeeding was believed by many to be a natural, though not absolute, method of birth control (see Gomer, Hos. 2) since during the postpartum period, nursing tends to suppress a woman's ovulation.

baby wept. So she had compassion on him, and said, "This is one of the Hebrews' children."

7Then his sister said to Pharaoh's daughter, "Shall I go and call a nurse for you from the Hebrew women, that she may nurse the child for you?"

8And Pharaoh's daughter said to her, "Go." So the maiden went and called the child's mother. 9Then Pharaoh's daughter said to her, "Take this child away and nurse him for me, and I will give you your wages." So the woman took the child and nursed him. 10And the child grew, and she brought him to Pharaoh's daughter, and he became her son. So she called his name Moses,[a] saying, "Because I drew him out of the water."

Moses Flees to Midian

11Now it came to pass in those days, when Moses was grown, that he went out to his brethren and looked at their burdens. And he saw an Egyptian beating a Hebrew, one of his brethren. 12So he looked this way and that way, and when he saw no one, he killed the Egyptian and hid him in the sand. 13And when he went out the second day, behold, two Hebrew men were fighting, and he said to the one who did the wrong, "Why are you striking your companion?"

14Then he said, "Who made you a prince and a judge over us? Do you intend to kill me as you killed the Egyptian?"

So Moses feared and said, "Surely this thing is known!" 15When Pharaoh heard of this matter, he sought to kill Moses. But Moses fled from the face of Pharaoh and dwelt in the land of Midian; and he sat down by a well.

16Now the priest of Midian had seven daughters. And they came and drew water, and they filled the troughs to water their father's flock. 17Then the shepherds came and drove them away; but Moses stood up and helped them, and watered their flock.

18When they came to Reuel their father, he said, "How is it that you have come so soon today?"

19And they said, "An Egyptian delivered us from the hand of the shepherds, and he also drew enough water for us and watered the flock."

20So he said to his daughters, "And where is he?

2:10 [a]Literally Drawn Out

2:10 The name Moses appears in the Egyptian names Ahmose and Thutmose. It was also appropriate because it sounded like the Hebrew verb mashah, "to draw out," recalling the circumstances of Moses' discovery.

2:11 Moses was about 40 years old when he observed an injustice and acted to rescue one of his people from oppression (Acts 7:23, 24).

2:15 The current pharaoh was Thutmose III. His first 20 years of reign were dominated by Hatshepsut, who was his mother-in-law as well as his father's widow and half-sister. After her death, he showed his hatred for her by defacing her monuments and attempting to remove all record of her name and accomplishments. He may well have viewed Moses as a personal threat, since Moses, as the adopted son of a pharaoh's daughter, may have been the son of Hatshepsut herself. The Midianites were descendants of Midian, a son borne by Keturah, who became Abraham's wife after the death of Sarah (Gen. 25:1–6; see the Family Tree of Abraham). They were nomadic people who lived in the Sinai peninsula east of the Gulf of Aqaba.

Why is it that you have left the man? Call him, that he may eat bread."

21Then Moses was content to live with the man, and he gave Zipporah his daughter to Moses. 22And she bore him a son. He called his name Gershom,[a] for he said, "I have been a stranger in a foreign land."

23Now it happened in the process of time that the king of Egypt died. Then the children of Israel groaned because of the bondage, and they cried out; and their cry came up to God because of the bondage. 24So God heard their groaning, and God remembered His covenant with Abraham, with Isaac, and with Jacob. 25And God looked upon the children of Israel, and God acknowledged them.

Moses at the Burning Bush

3 Now Moses was tending the flock of Jethro his father-in-law, the priest of Midian. And he led the flock to the back of the desert, and came to Horeb, the mountain of God. 2And the Angel of the LORD appeared to him in a flame of fire from the midst of a bush. So he looked, and behold, the bush was burning with fire, but the bush was not consumed. 3Then Moses said, "I will now turn aside and see this great sight, why the bush does not burn."

4So when the LORD saw that he turned aside to look, God called to him from the midst of the bush and said, "Moses, Moses!"

And he said, "Here I am."

5Then He said, "Do not draw near this place. Take your sandals off your feet, for the place where you stand is holy ground." 6Moreover He said, "I am the God of your father—the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob." And Moses hid his face, for he was afraid to look upon God.

7And the LORD said: "I have surely seen the oppression of My people who are in Egypt, and have heard their cry because of their taskmasters, for I know their sorrows. 8So I have come down to deliver them out of the hand of the Egyptians, and to bring them up from that land to a good and large land, to a land flowing with milk and honey, to the place of the Canaanites and the Hittites and the Amorites and the Perizzites and the Hivites and the Jebusites. 9Now therefore, behold, the cry of the children of Israel has come to Me, and I have also seen the oppression with which the Egyptians oppress them. 10Come now, therefore, and I will send you to Pharaoh that you may bring My people, the children of Israel, out of Egypt."

11But Moses said to God, "Who am I that I should go to Pharaoh, and that I should bring the children of Israel out of Egypt?"

12So He said, "I will certainly be with you. And this shall be a sign to you that I have sent you: When you have brought the people out of Egypt, you shall serve God on this mountain."

13Then Moses said to God, "Indeed, when I come to the children of Israel and say to them, 'The God of your fathers has sent me to you,' and they say to me, 'What is His name?' what shall I say to them?"

14And God said to Moses, "I AM WHO I AM." And He said, "Thus you shall say to the children of Israel, 'I AM has sent me to you.' " 15Moreover God said to Moses, "Thus you shall say to the children of Israel: 'The LORD God of your fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob, has sent me to you. This is My name forever, and this is My memorial to all generations.' 16Go and gather the elders of Israel together, and say to them, 'The LORD God of your fathers, the God of

2:22 [a]Literally Stranger There

2:22 Gershom has the consonants g-r-sh-m, of the verb "drove them away" (see v. 17). It also sounds like "stranger" (Heb. ger) "there" (Heb. sham). Moses chose the name to commemorate his experience as a "stranger in a foreign land." Egypt was not his true home, nor was Midian, away from his people (Gen. 15:13; Ex. 22:21; Acts 7:29).

2:24 God remembered His covenant. God had promised that the descendants of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob would become a nation and possess the land of Canaan. He "remembered" the covenant in the sense that He acted upon it (see Ex. 20:8; Lev. 26:42; Num. 15:39). Verses 23–25 provide the background for the encounter that begins in chapter 3.

3:1 Also called Mount Sinai, the exact location of Horeb in the Sinai peninsula is uncertain. It is called "the mountain of God" in view of the later events that distinguished it. The "back" of the desert is its western portion, since directions were given as if facing east.

3:11, 12 Questions about Moses' identity highlight the central issue of the Lord's identity (see also Ex. 2:14; 4:10; 16:8). Moses asked a question about himself and his ability (v. 11) and received an answer about God (v. 12). God was sending him and would provide divine enablement. The sign, given as a pledge of certitude, introduces the important theme of worship. The last "you" in verse 12 is plural, referring not just to Moses. The Israelites would "serve" the Lord instead of Pharaoh. The sign was fulfilled (Ex. 18:5–12; 24:1–11; 34:1–8).

3:13–15 The declaration I AM is preceded by wordplay connecting God's name with the verb "to be" (Heb. hayah). "I will be with you" (or "I AM with you," v. 12) ties the promise of His effective presence to His very being. The same form is used to declare, "I AM WHO I AM" (v. 14). And Moses was to use this verb in place of God's name to tell the Israelites, "I AM has sent me" (v. 14). In a later pronouncement of judgment, the Lord used this verb form to say literally, "You are not My people, and I am not I AM to you" (Hos. 1:9—2:1). God's beneficial presence in sending and aiding Moses is tied to God's essential being as independent and self-existent and therefore fully able to keep promises and be so known forever. This section begins a pattern prominent in the book of associating what God does with His name.

JOCHEBED A Resourceful Mother

Moses introduced his mother as "a daughter of Levi" (Ex. 2:1). As he penned his nation's early history, he was careful to identify her family heritage. Jochebed's husband was placed into a mental slot that the Hebrew mind later labeled "priestly," but until the lifetime of Amram and Jochebed, the name Levi connoted violence and revenge (see Gen. 34:25–31; 49:3–7).

Often Hebrew thinking equated wealth with sons and daughters, the promise of God to Abraham (Gen. 12:2). Note the initiatives of this Levite mother. She "conceived . . . bore a son . . . saw that he was . . . beautiful . . . took an ark . . . put the child in it" (Ex. 2:2, 3). These actions denote a fearless and focused woman of faith. Her motivation and its results are clarified by the writer to the Hebrews (see Heb. 11:23–27). She circumvented the edict to destroy her baby: to place him in the Nile River was the law (Ex. 1:22); to surround him with protection, including a watchful sister, was faith (Ex. 2:3, 4).

Western minds cannot comprehend the terror tactics of ancient pharaohs. Idolatrous and corrupt, they held nothing but contempt for the mysterious Yahweh of their Israelite underdogs. Hatred, hostility, and hard labor were facts of life. Yet one woman, acting as a caring and resourceful mother, soared above the evil around her. God saw her heart, heard her prayers, and intervened in her behalf. Her fame lives on through the lives of her remarkable children (Num. 26:59). God honored her steadfast purpose by using one of her sons to deliver the Hebrews from Egyptian servitude and by appointing her other son, Aaron, as High Priest. Her daughter Miriam became the leader of the Hebrew women, and Jochebed's entire tribal family was selected by God to lead the rituals of worship for His people.

Jochebed models for contemporary women an infectious courage to fear God instead of people and a firm faith in His promises and providences. The author of Hebrews records that Moses left Egypt, "not fearing the wrath of the king" (Heb. 11:27), and that his parents before him were "not afraid of the king's command" (v. 23). The important thing is not so much who you are but what you do to meet the challenges and responsibilities that come. Jochebed took her motherhood very seriously, nurturing her children in the Lord with conscientious devotion. Surely she must have been the chief influence unto God in the preparation of these children for the great tasks God gave to each in leading His people out of bondage.

Abraham, of Isaac, and of Jacob, appeared to me, saying, "I have surely visited you and seen what is done to you in Egypt; 17and I have said I will bring you up out of the affliction of Egypt to the land of the Canaanites and the Hittites and the Amorites and the Perizzites and the Hivites and the Jebusites, to a land flowing with milk and honey." ' 18Then they will heed your voice; and you shall come, you and the elders of Israel, to the king of Egypt; and you shall say to him, 'The LORD God of the Hebrews has met with us; and now, please, let us go three days' journey into the wilderness, that we may sacrifice to the LORD our God.' 19But I am sure that the king of Egypt will not let you go, no, not even by a mighty hand. 20So I will stretch out My hand and strike Egypt with all My wonders which I will do in its midst; and after that he will let you go. 21And I will give this people favor in the sight of the Egyptians; and it shall be, when you go, that you shall not go empty-handed. 22But every woman shall ask of her neighbor, namely, of her who dwells near her house, articles of silver, articles of gold, and clothing; and you shall put them on your sons and on your daughters. So you shall plunder the Egyptians."

Miraculous Signs for Pharaoh

4 Then Moses answered and said, "But suppose they will not believe me or listen to my voice; suppose they say, 'The LORD has not appeared to you.' "

2So the LORD said to him, "What is that in your hand?"

He said, "A rod."

3And He said, "Cast it on the ground." So he cast it on the ground, and it became a serpent; and Moses fled from it. 4Then the LORD said to Moses, "Reach out your hand and take it by the tail" (and he reached out his hand and caught it,

3:18 Because the Lord had identified the Israelites as His people (vv. 7, 10) and had begun to act on their behalf, they could call Him "our God" and identify Him to Pharaoh as the God of the despised Hebrews. They were to be let go for the purpose of worshiping the Lord, in keeping with the sign given in verse 12 and contrary to Egyptian religion, in which the king, and not the Lord, was worshiped as a most important god. Subsequent bargaining between Pharaoh and Moses may indicate that from the start they both understood the request to go "three days' journey" and "sacrifice to the LORD our God" as leading to complete departure and an end to Pharaoh's rule over the Israelites (Ex. 5:3, note; 8:25–28; 10:7–11, 24–26).

4:3, 4 To grasp the serpent by the tail, rather than immediately behind the head to avoid being bitten, required an exercise of faith (see Ex. 7:9–12, note).

and it became a rod in his hand), 5"that they may believe that the LORD God of their fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob, has appeared to you."

6Furthermore the LORD said to him, "Now put your hand in your bosom." And he put his hand in his bosom, and when he took it out, behold, his hand was leprous, like snow. 7And He said, "Put your hand in your bosom again." So he put his hand in his bosom again, and drew it out of his bosom, and behold, it was restored like his other flesh. 8"Then it will be, if they do not believe you, nor heed the message of the first sign, that they may believe the message of the latter sign. 9And it shall be, if they do not believe even these two signs, or listen to your voice, that you shall take water from the river[a] and pour it on the dry land. The water which you take from the river will become blood on the dry land."

10Then Moses said to the LORD, "O my Lord, I am not eloquent, neither before nor since You have spoken to Your servant; but I am slow of speech and slow of tongue."

11So the LORD said to him, "Who has made man's mouth? Or who makes the mute, the deaf, the seeing, or the blind? Have not I, the LORD? 12Now therefore, go, and I will be with your mouth and teach you what you shall say."

13But he said, "O my Lord, please send by the hand of whomever else You may send."

14So the anger of the LORD was kindled against Moses, and He said: "Is not Aaron the Levite your brother? I know that he can speak well. And look, he is also coming out to meet you. When he sees you, he will be glad in his heart. 15Now you shall speak to him and put the words in his mouth. And I will be with your mouth and with his mouth, and I will teach you what you shall do. 16So he shall be your spokesman to the people. And he himself shall be as a mouth for you, and you shall be to him as God. 17And you shall take this rod in your hand, with which you shall do the signs."

Moses Goes to Egypt

18So Moses went and returned to Jethro his father-in-law, and said to him, "Please let me go and return to my brethren who are in Egypt, and see whether they are still alive."

And Jethro said to Moses, "Go in peace."

19Now the LORD said to Moses in Midian, "Go, return to Egypt; for all the men who sought your life are dead." 20Then Moses took his wife and his sons and set them on a donkey, and he returned to the land of Egypt. And Moses took the rod of God in his hand.

21And the LORD said to Moses, "When you go back to Egypt, see that you do all those wonders before Pharaoh which I have put in your hand. But I will harden his heart, so that he will not let the people go. 22Then you shall say to Pharaoh, 'Thus says the LORD: "Israel is My son, My firstborn. 23So I say to you, let My son go that he may serve Me. But if you refuse to let him go, indeed I will kill your son, your firstborn." '"

24And it came to pass on the way, at the encampment, that the LORD met him and sought to kill him. 25Then Zipporah took a sharp stone and cut off the foreskin of her son and cast it at Moses'[a] feet, and said, "Surely you are a husband of blood to me!" 26So He let him go. Then she said, "You are a husband of blood!"—because of the circumcision.

27And the LORD said to Aaron, "Go into the wilderness to meet Moses." So he went and met him on the mountain of God, and kissed him. 28So

4:9 [a]That is, the Nile 4:25 [a]Literally his

4:6 The sudden appearance and disappearance of disease would show the Lord's power over human life as well as animal life (see vv. 3, 4, serpent) and inanimate things (see v. 9, water).

4:9 The Nile was central to Egypt, with desert on both sides. The Nile provided transportation, as well as water for drinking, washing, and irrigating crops; and its regular floods deposited fertile soil on fields. To alter it indicated the power to destroy all Egyptian life.

4:10–12 Moses raised an objection focused on himself and received an answer focused on the Lord.

4:21 The heart is the center of internal life—involving intellect, emotion, and will—where moral choices are made, according to Hebrew (and Egyptian) symbolism (Gen. 6:5; Prov. 6:18; 18:15). Despite signs and wonders and Moses' attempts to persuade, Pharaoh rejected the Lord's sovereignty. The issue here is not Pharaoh's salvation but his continued rejection of the Lord. God chose to use this self-hardened, pagan monarch as a means to show His power. After each of the first five and the seventh miraculous signs, Pharaoh's heart is described as growing "hard" (Ex. 7:22; 8:15, 19, 32; 9:7, 34). After the sixth, eighth, ninth, and tenth plagues, the Lord hardened his heart (Ex. 9:12; 10:20, 27). Later the Philistines profited from Pharaoh's example (1 Sam. 6:6; 2 Chr. 34:27; see also Ex. 14, Justice).

4:22, 23 God's interest in the welfare of the Israelites is parallel to Pharaoh's interest in the welfare of his own privileged firstborn. Pharaoh saw the Israelites as slaves, but the Lord called Israel His son, calling to mind their covenant relationship. In ancient Near Eastern suzerain-vassal treaties, the sovereign overlord referred to his subordinate as his son, whom he promised to defend and whom he expected to serve him (see also 2 Sam. 7:12–16; John 1:12; Gal. 4:4–7; Eph. 1:5; 5:1; Rev. 21:7).

4:24–26 Circumcision had been commanded for Abraham's descendants as the sign of the covenant between God and Abraham (Gen. 17:9–14), the covenant God was now acting to fulfill (see chart, The Covenants of Genesis). Moses, who was being sent to represent God, had neglected an important part of that covenant.

ZIPPORAH A Resistive Wife

This daughter of Jethro, the Midianite priest, is mentioned because of her marriage to Moses. When Pharaoh sought to kill Moses, he retreated through the desert across what is now the Sinai peninsula into exile. He met Zipporah along the caravan route when he defended her and her sisters from ruffians at a well near her home.

Jethro extended hospitality to Moses and subsequently offered his daughter in marriage. Their first son was named Gershom, which contains a word for "alien," "stranger," commemorating Moses' status as a foreigner. Their second son was Eliezer, whose name means "my God is help," in memory of God's preserving Moses' life (Ex. 18:3, 4).

When Moses was confronted by the Lord with his disobedience in failing to circumcise his son (Gen. 17:14), his very life was in danger. Zipporah, therefore, had to circumcise her son, perhaps Eliezer, the second one, in order to save her husband's life (Ex. 4:24–26). She did so with evident disgust. The exact meaning of the incident and her words has long been debated.

At some point, Moses sent Zipporah and their sons back to stay with her father (Ex. 18:2, 3). Many months passed before she saw her husband again. The deliverance from Egypt had been accomplished, and as leader of his people, Moses brought them to Mount Horeb, in keeping with God's promise at the burning bush (see Ex. 3:12). There Jethro visited him, and the family was reunited. Zipporah may have died en route after she joined the procession toward the Promised Land, since nothing further is reported of her. The later reference to Moses' Ethiopian wife (see Num. 12:1) lends credence to this supposition. This wife was of Hamite descent, perhaps an Egyptian believer.

Zipporah remains an enigmatic woman. Her example reminds us that a wife resisting God's will not only endangers God's divine purposes but also places her family in spiritual jeopardy. Nevertheless, her quick and decisive action seemingly saved Moses' life.

Moses told Aaron all the words of the LORD who had sent him, and all the signs which He had commanded him. 29Then Moses and Aaron went and gathered together all the elders of the children of Israel. 30And Aaron spoke all the words which the LORD had spoken to Moses. Then he did the signs in the sight of the people. 31So the people believed; and when they heard that the LORD had visited the children of Israel and that He had looked on their affliction, then they bowed their heads and worshiped.

First Encounter with Pharaoh

5 Afterward Moses and Aaron went in and told Pharaoh, "Thus says the LORD God of Israel: 'Let My people go, that they may hold a feast to Me in the wilderness.' "

2And Pharaoh said, "Who is the LORD, that I should obey His voice to let Israel go? I do not know the LORD, nor will I let Israel go."

3So they said, "The God of the Hebrews has met with us. Please, let us go three days' journey into the desert and sacrifice to the LORD our God, lest He fall upon us with pestilence or with the sword."

4Then the king of Egypt said to them, "Moses and Aaron, why do you take the people from their work? Get back to your labor." 5And Pharaoh said, "Look, the people of the land are many now, and you make them rest from their labor!"

10And the taskmasters of the people and their officers went out and spoke to the people, saying, "Thus says Pharaoh: 'I will not give you straw. 11Go, get yourselves straw where you can find it; yet none of your work will be reduced.' " 12So the people were scattered abroad throughout all the land of Egypt to gather stubble instead of straw. 13And the taskmasters forced them to hurry, saying, "Fulfill your work, your daily quota, as when there was straw." 14Also the officers of the children of Israel, whom Pharaoh's taskmasters had set over them, were beaten and were asked, "Why have you not fulfilled your task in making brick both yesterday and today, as before?"

5:3 Let us go and sacrifice. Egyptian records indicate that Moses' request may not have been unusual. Other workers made such pilgrimages. Pharaoh's refusal shows that he intended no easing of Israelite servitude, and worse, that he had no regard for the Lord. "Pestilence" and "sword" speak of divine judgment, such as Egypt experienced in the ten plagues and such as Israel received at various times (Deut. 28:15–68).

Worry is most often a prideful way of thinking that you have more control over life and its circumstances than you actually do.

15Then the officers of the children of Israel came and cried out to Pharaoh, saying, "Why are you dealing thus with your servants? 16There is no straw given to your servants, and they say to us,
'Make brick!' And indeed your servants are beaten, but the fault is in your own people." 17But he said, "You are idle! Idle! Therefore you say, 'Let us go and sacrifice to the LORD.' 18There-fore go now and work; for no straw shall be given you, yet you shall deliver the quota of bricks." 19And the officers of the children of Israel saw that they were in trouble after it was said, "You shall not reduce any bricks from your daily quota." 20Then, as they came out from Pharaoh, they met Moses and Aaron who stood there to meet them. 21And they said to them, "Let the LORD look on you and judge, because you have made us abhorrent in the sight of Pharaoh and in the sight of his servants, to put a sword in their hand to kill us."

Israel's Deliverance Assured

22So Moses returned to the LORD and said,
"Lord, why have You brought trouble on this people? Why is it You have sent me? 23For since I came to Pharaoh to speak in Your name, he has done evil to this people; neither have You delivered Your people at all."

6 Then the LORD said to Moses, "Now you shall see what I will do to Pharaoh. For with a strong hand he will let them go, and with a strong hand he will drive them out of his land." 2And God spoke to Moses and said to him: "I am the LORD. 3I appeared to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob, as God Almighty, but by My name LORD[a] I was not known to them. 4I have also established My covenant with them, to give them the land of Canaan, the land of their pilgrimage, in which they were strangers. 5And I have also heard the groaning of the children of Israel whom the Egyptians keep in bondage, and I have remembered My covenant. 6Therefore say to the children of Israel:
'I am the LORD; I will bring you out from under the burdens of the Egyptians, I will rescue you from their bondage, and I will redeem you with an outstretched arm and with great judgments. 7I will take you as My people, and I will be your God.
Then you shall know that I am the LORD your God who brings you out from under the burdens of the Egyptians. 8And I will bring you into the land which I swore to give to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob; and I will give it to you as a heritage: I am the

6:3 [a]Hebrew YHWH, traditionally Jehovah

5:23 For Moses to speak in the Lord's name meant that the Lord's authority and reputation were at stake. The mention of His name continues to highlight the theme of the Lord's identity (see Ex. 3:6, 13–15; 4:11; 5:2; 6:2–8).

6:2–8 I am the LORD. Again when Moses raised a problem, the Lord answered with statements about Himself. The declaration "I am the LORD" is in a form used by ancient Near Eastern kings. It brackets the section (vv. 2, 8) and appears in verses 6 and 7 as its central subject. When God promised Abraham that his descendants would come out of Egypt, He used this declaration (Gen. 15:7). It stands at the start of the covenant Law (Ex. 20:2) and frequently is found in Leviticus as the fundamental reason for the stipulations and for obedience to them. Here again the name Yahweh is associated with the character of God as one who keeps promises (as in Ex. 3:15–17). His covenant-keeping actions and His laws are grounded in His essence, who He is. The name El Shaddai, usually rendered God Almighty, is tied etymologically by some to an Akkadian word for "mountain." More importantly, it is tied by usage to promises of fruitfulness (Gen. 17:1–2; 28:3; 35:11; 48:3–4; 49:25). This was an important aspect of God's dealings with the patriarchs. In verse 3 God was not saying that His name Yahweh, or LORD, was previously unknown or unused (Gen. 4:26; 14:22; 15:2–7; 28:13). The Lord explained that the Israelites would know Him as Yahweh by means of what He would do (Ex. 6:6–8). The word translated "know" carries here the idea of "know by experience and personal involvement" (see Gen. 4:1; Ex. 33:12, 17; Ps. 9:10; Jer. 16:21). The events in the Book of Exodus gave new meaning to the name Yahweh. By contrast Moses referred to other gods as gods that the Israelites had not known (Deut. 13:2, 6, 13).

6:6 I will redeem you. The actions of a kinsman-redeemer in Israel illustrate what God would do (see Ruth 2:20, note). The human redeemer was a close relative who paid to free a destitute man from slavery and restore his inheritance (his means of making a living) or who perpetuated his name by marrying his widow and having a son for him (Lev. 25:25, 47–49; Deut. 25:5–10; Ruth 3—4). The Lord would similarly free from slavery, give land, and guarantee the perpetuation of Israel (see also Ps. 77:14, 15; Is. 43:1–7; Eph. 1:7, 14).

6:7 I will take you as My people. Beginning here and frequently in Exodus, God announced that He would act so that someone (the Israelites, the Egyptians, Pharaoh, later generations) would know that He is the LORD (see vv. 6, 7; Ex. 7:5, 17; 10:2; 16:6, 12; 29:45, 46). By His actions, the LORD was making known His personal character and His relationship with Israel. The Israelites would know who He is, and they themselves would acquire an identity as His people. Christians similarly find their identity as God's people because of what the Lord has done for them (see Acts 15:14; 2 Cor. 6:16; 1 Pet. 2:10).

LORD.'" 9So Moses spoke thus to the children of Israel; but they did not heed Moses, because of anguish of spirit and cruel bondage.

10And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 11"Go in, tell Pharaoh king of Egypt to let the children of Israel go out of his land."

12And Moses spoke before the LORD, saying, "The children of Israel have not heeded me. How then shall Pharaoh heed me, for I am of uncircumcised lips?"

13Then the LORD spoke to Moses and Aaron, and gave them a command for the children of Israel and for Pharaoh king of Egypt, to bring the children of Israel out of the land of Egypt.

The Family of Moses and Aaron

14These are the heads of their fathers' houses: The sons of Reuben, the firstborn of Israel, were Hanoch, Pallu, Hezron, and Carmi. These are the families of Reuben. 15And the sons of Simeon were Jemuel,[a] Jamin, Ohad, Jachin, Zohar, and Shaul the son of a Canaanite woman. These are the families of Simeon. 16These are the names of the sons of Levi according to their generations: Gershon, Kohath, and Merari. And the years of the life of Levi were one hundred and thirty-seven. 17The sons of Gershon were Libni and Shimi according to their families. 18And the sons of Kohath were Amram, Izhar, Hebron, and Uzziel. And the years of the life of Kohath were one hundred and thirty-three. 19The sons of Merari were Mahli and Mushi. These are the families of Levi according to their generations.

26These are the same Aaron and Moses to whom the LORD said, "Bring out the children of Israel from the land of Egypt according to their armies." 27These are the ones who spoke to Pharaoh king of Egypt, to bring out the children of Israel from Egypt. These are the same Moses and Aaron.

Aaron Is Moses' Spokesman

28And it came to pass, on the day the LORD spoke to Moses in the land of Egypt, 29that the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, "I am the LORD. Speak to Pharaoh king of Egypt all that I say to you."

30But Moses said before the LORD, "Behold, I am of uncircumcised lips, and how shall Pharaoh heed me?"

7 So the LORD said to Moses: "See, I have made you as God to Pharaoh, and Aaron your brother shall be your prophet. 2You shall speak all that I command you. And Aaron your brother shall tell Pharaoh to send the children of Israel out of his land. 3And I will harden Pharaoh's heart, and multiply My signs and My wonders in the land of Egypt. 4But Pharaoh will not heed you, so that I may lay My hand on Egypt and bring My armies and My people, the children of Israel, out of the land of Egypt by great judgments. 5And the Egyptians shall know that I am the LORD, when I stretch out My hand on Egypt and bring out the children of Israel from among them."

6Then Moses and Aaron did so; just as the LORD commanded them, so they did. 7And Moses was eighty years old and Aaron eighty-three years old when they spoke to Pharaoh.

Aaron's Miraculous Rod

8Then the LORD spoke to Moses and Aaron, saying, 9"When Pharaoh speaks to you, saying, 'Show

6:9 They did not heed. Events in the first 17 chapters of Exodus demonstrate repeatedly that obedience to the Lord does not necessarily lead to immediate ease. The Israelites had been and were still miserable. Their unbelief and rejection of Moses were based on their feelings in the present circumstances rather than on the facts of who the Lord is and what He would do (see also 2 Pet. 3:3–13).

6:14–27 A selective genealogy comes in the middle of the account of God's renewed command to Moses. It focuses on the tribe of Levi (vv. 16–25), mentioning three important generations before Moses and Aaron, and ends with attention on Aaron's son Eleazar and grandson Phinehas (v. 25), all well known to the first audience of the book (see Ex. 28:1; Num. 3—4; 25:6–15; 26:9–11). The section prepares for the following events by formally identifying Moses and Aaron, reminding readers of who they were and what came of them in Israel. It especially authenticates Aaron, earlier identified only as Moses' brother (Ex. 4:14), which could otherwise have meant merely kinsman (as in Ex. 4:18) rather than brother. As verses 26 and 27 stress, God sent to Pharaoh these men who were hesitant and badly received by Pharaoh and often by the Israelites, and through them God permanently altered Israel's history.

7:6 Many similar statements stress complete obedience to the Lord's command (for example, vv. 10, 20; Ex. 12:28, 50; 16:34; 39:1, 5). Obedience is of primary concern rather than the skill of the messenger or the response of the recipient.

7:9–12 Serpents were feared and worshiped in Egypt. Since the image of a cobra was a royal symbol, appearing on the a miracle for yourselves,' then you shall say to Aaron, 'Take your rod and cast it before Pharaoh, and let it become a serpent.'" [10]So Moses and Aaron went in to Pharaoh, and they did so, just as the LORD commanded. And Aaron cast down his rod before Pharaoh and before his servants, and it became a serpent.

[11]But Pharaoh also called the wise men and the sorcerers; so the magicians of Egypt, they also did in like manner with their enchantments. [12]For front of the headdress of the pharaohs, the use of a serpent as a first sign was sure to attract the king's close attention. His men controlled serpents, which people ordinarily feared. This symbolized his power. But the Lord and His men were greater; Aaron's rod ate the rods of the magicians. Magic, fortune-telling, astrology, reading of omens, witchcraft, and necromancy were prevalent throughout the ancient Near East as people attempted to influence events and gods, whose dispositions were uncertain (see Deut. 18, The Occult; 1 Sam. 15, Witchcraft). Here and elsewhere God taught His people the folly of such practices in view of His proven and dependable concern for them.

7:11 Professional wise men served in the king's court to provide advice. Egypt's international reputation for having outstanding wise men is preserved both by extrabiblical collections of Egyptian proverbs and instructions and by biblical references (1 Kin. 4:30; Is. 19:11, 12). The wise men and sorcerers are referred to as a group by the word translated "magicians," which refers to a variety of religious functionaries who were skilled readers and copyists expected to work wonders and interpret dreams (Gen. 41:8, 24). They used "enchantments"—elaborate incantations and secret spells—to produce their results. Moses and Aaron did not work this way.

every man threw down his rod, and they became serpents. But Aaron's rod swallowed up their rods. 13And Pharaoh's heart grew hard, and he did not heed them, as the LORD had said.

The First Plague: Waters Become Blood

14So the LORD said to Moses: "Pharaoh's heart is hard; he refuses to let the people go. 15Go to Pharaoh in the morning, when he goes out to the water, and you shall stand by the river's bank to meet him; and the rod which was turned to a serpent you shall take in your hand. 16And you shall say to him, 'The LORD God of the Hebrews has sent me to you, saying, "Let My people go, that they may serve Me in the wilderness"; but indeed, until now you would not hear! 17Thus says the LORD: "By this you shall know that I am the LORD. Behold, I will strike the waters which are in the river with the rod that is in my hand, and they shall be turned to blood. 18And the fish that are in the river shall die, the river shall stink, and the Egyptians will loathe to drink the water of the river." ' "

19Then the LORD spoke to Moses, "Say to Aaron, 'Take your rod and stretch out your hand over the waters of Egypt, over their streams, over their rivers, over their ponds, and over all their pools of water, that they may become blood. And there shall be blood throughout all the land of Egypt, both in buckets of wood and pitchers of stone.' " 20And Moses and Aaron did so, just as the LORD commanded. So he lifted up the rod and struck the waters that were in the river, in the sight of Pharaoh and in the sight of his servants. And all the waters that were in the river were turned to blood. 21The fish that were in the river died, the river stank, and the Egyptians could not drink the water of the river. So there was blood throughout all the land of Egypt.

22Then the magicians of Egypt did so with their enchantments; and Pharaoh's heart grew hard, and he did not heed them, as the LORD had said. 23And Pharaoh turned and went into his house. Neither was his heart moved by this. 24So all the Egyptians dug all around the river for water to drink, because they could not drink the water of the river. 25And seven days passed after the LORD had struck the river.

The Second Plague: Frogs

8 And the LORD spoke to Moses, "Go to Pharaoh and say to him, 'Thus says the LORD: "Let My people go, that they may serve Me. 2But if you refuse to let them go, behold, I will smite all your territory with frogs. 3So the river shall bring forth frogs abundantly, which shall go up and come into your house, into your bedroom, on your bed, into the houses of your servants, on your people, into your ovens, and into your kneading bowls. 4And the frogs shall come up on you, on your people, and on all your servants." ' "

5Then the LORD spoke to Moses, "Say to Aaron, 'Stretch out your hand with your rod over the streams, over the rivers, and over the ponds, and cause frogs to come up on the land of Egypt.' " 6So Aaron stretched out his hand over the waters of Egypt, and the frogs came up and covered the land of Egypt. 7And the magicians did so with their enchantments, and brought up frogs on the land of Egypt.

8Then Pharaoh called for Moses and Aaron, and said, "Entreat the LORD that He may take away the frogs from me and from my people; and I will let the people go, that they may sacrifice to the LORD."

9And Moses said to Pharaoh, "Accept the honor of saying when I shall intercede for you, for your servants, and for your people, to destroy the frogs from you and your houses, that they may remain in the river only."

10So he said, "Tomorrow." And he said, "Let it be according to your word, that you may know that

7:14 The supernatural source of these plagues is apparent (see chart, The Ten Plagues on Egypt). The plagues were controlled with regard to:

- timing, with an announcement of the start and finish;
- extent, with the sparing of the Israelite region; and
- intensity, with the gradual increase in severity.

Pharaoh's servants and even Pharaoh himself, at times, recognized and confessed that the Lord had acted. In addition, the plagues not only attacked Egyptian polytheism but also explicitly demonstrated that the Lord was sovereign over Egypt and personally involved in delivering His people.

7:14–25 The first plague: blood. This plague, like the following ones, attacked the Egyptian gods. The Nile was central to Egyptian life (see Ex. 4:9, note). Numerous Egyptian gods were associated with the river, including the pharaohs, who were thought to control the Nile. The Lord, however, ruled the Nile and all water connected to it. What the Egyptians regarded as their source of life the Lord turned into a river of death. The Egyptian magicians might imitate the plague, but neither they nor Pharaoh could reverse it in order to protect their people. They just made the plague worse. Turning the Nile to blood served also as a punishment for its use in killing Israelite babies.

8:1–13 The second plague: frogs. Frogs were venerated in Egypt because they were associated with fertility. But the Lord, the true giver of fruitfulness (see Gen. 1:20; Ex. 1:7), turned what had been revered into a cause for disgust. This plague may also be an ironic punishment directed at Egyptian attempts to prevent the increase of God's people (see chart, The Ten Plagues on Egypt). In each statement of Moses, the pronoun "you" or "your" is prominent, emphasizing the impact of the plague on Pharaoh, who was unable to protect his person, property, or people. Again the magicians made the plague worse by their imitation. As further evidence of the Lord's uniqueness, Moses permitted Pharaoh to say when he would like the plague to end (v. 10; Ex. 7:14, note).

THE TEN PLAGUES ON EGYPT

THE PLAGUE ON THE PEOPLE	THE EFFECT ON PHARAOH
1. The waters of the Nile were turned to blood (Ex. 7:14–25).	1. His heart "grew hard" (Ex. 7:22).
2. Frogs spread through the land of Egypt (Ex. 8:1–15).	2. He asked for relief, promised freedom (Ex. 8:8), then "hardened his heart" (Ex. 8:15).
3. Lice infested the land (Ex. 8:16–19).	3. His heart "grew hard" (Ex. 8:19).
4. Flies swarmed throughout the land (Ex. 8:20–32).	4. He bargained (Ex. 8:28), then "hardened his heart" (Ex. 8:32).
5. The livestock were stricken with disease (Ex. 9:1–7).	5. His heart "became hard" (Ex. 9:7).
6. Boils infected the Egyptians (Ex. 9:8–12).	6. The Lord "hardened" Pharaoh's heart (Ex. 9:12).
7. A hail storm destroyed the Egyptian fields but did not touch the land of Goshen (Ex. 9:13–35).	7. He begged for relief (Ex. 9:27), promised freedom (Ex. 9:28), but his heart "was hard" (Ex. 9:35).
8. Hordes of locusts infested the land (Ex. 10:1–20).	8. He bargained (Ex. 10:11), begged relief (Ex. 10:17), but "the LORD hardened Pharaoh's heart" (Ex. 10:20).
9. Darkness covered the land (Ex. 10:21–29).	9. He bargained (Ex. 10:24), but "the LORD hardened Pharaoh's heart" (Ex. 10:27).
10. The firstborn in every Egyptian family died (Ex. 12:29, 30).	10. Pharaoh and the Egyptians begged Israel to leave Egypt (Ex. 12:31–33).
See also note on Justice (Ex. 14).

there is no one like the LORD our God. 11And the frogs shall depart from you, from your houses, from your servants, and from your people. They shall remain in the river only."

12Then Moses and Aaron went out from Pharaoh. And Moses cried out to the LORD concerning the frogs which He had brought against Pharaoh. 13So the LORD did according to the word of Moses. And the frogs died out of the houses, out of the courtyards, and out of the fields. 14They gathered them together in heaps, and the land stank. 15But when Pharaoh saw that there was relief, he hardened his heart and did not heed them, as the LORD had said.

The Third Plague: Lice

16So the LORD said to Moses, "Say to Aaron, 'Stretch out your rod, and strike the dust of the land, so that it may become lice throughout all the land of Egypt.' " 17And they did so. For Aaron stretched out his hand with his rod and struck the dust of the earth, and it became lice on man and beast. All the dust of the land became lice throughout all the land of Egypt.

18Now the magicians so worked with their enchantments to bring forth lice, but they could not. So there were lice on man and beast. 19Then the magicians said to Pharaoh, "This is the finger of

8:16–19 The third plague: lice. Translators have long debated the exact meaning of the term translated "lice," and some ancient renderings understood it to mean stinging "gnats." For this third plague, as with the sixth and ninth, Pharaoh received no warning (see chart, The Ten Plagues on Egypt). His magicians were unable to imitate it, and they correctly understood that God had sent it. Now Pharaoh rejected the warning of his own advisers.

God." But Pharaoh's heart grew hard, and he did not heed them, just as the LORD had said.

The Fourth Plague: Flies

20And the LORD said to Moses, "Rise early in the morning and stand before Pharaoh as he comes out to the water. Then say to him, 'Thus says the LORD: "Let My people go, that they may serve Me. 21Or else, if you will not let My people go, behold, I will send swarms of flies on you and your servants, on your people and into your houses. The houses of the Egyptians shall be full of swarms of flies, and also the ground on which they stand. 22And in that day I will set apart the land of Goshen, in which My people dwell, that no swarms of flies shall be there, in order that you may know that I am the LORD in the midst of the land. 23I will make a difference[a] between My people and your people. Tomorrow this sign shall be."' " 24And the LORD did so. Thick swarms of flies came into the house of Pharaoh, into his servants' houses, and into all the land of Egypt. The land was corrupted because of the swarms of flies.

25Then Pharaoh called for Moses and Aaron, and said, "Go, sacrifice to your God in the land."

26And Moses said, "It is not right to do so, for we would be sacrificing the abomination of the Egyptians to the LORD our God. If we sacrifice the abomination of the Egyptians before their eyes, then will they not stone us? 27We will go three days' journey into the wilderness and sacrifice to the LORD our God as He will command us."

28So Pharaoh said, "I will let you go, that you may sacrifice to the LORD your God in the wilderness; only you shall not go very far away. Intercede for me."

29Then Moses said, "Indeed I am going out from you, and I will entreat the LORD, that the swarms of flies may depart tomorrow from Pharaoh, from his servants, and from his people. But let Pharaoh not deal deceitfully anymore in not letting the people go to sacrifice to the LORD."

30So Moses went out from Pharaoh and entreated the LORD. 31And the LORD did according to the word of Moses; He removed the swarms of flies from Pharaoh, from his servants, and from his people. Not one remained. 32But Pharaoh hardened his heart at this time also; neither would he let the people go.

The Fifth Plague: Livestock Diseased

9 Then the Lord said to Moses, "Go in to Pharaoh and tell him, 'Thus says the LORD God of the Hebrews: "Let My people go, that they may serve Me. 2For if you refuse to let them go, and still hold them, 3behold, the hand of the LORD will be on your cattle in the field, on the horses, on the donkeys, on the camels, on the oxen, and on the sheep—a very severe pestilence. 4And the LORD will make a difference between the livestock of Israel and the livestock of Egypt. So nothing shall die of all that belongs to the children of Israel."' " 5Then the LORD appointed a set time, saying, "Tomorrow the LORD will do this thing in the land."

6So the LORD did this thing on the next day, and all the livestock of Egypt died; but of the livestock of the children of Israel, not one died. 7Then Pharaoh sent, and indeed, not even one of the livestock of the Israelites was dead. But the heart of Pharaoh became hard, and he did not let the people go.

The Sixth Plague: Boils

8So the LORD said to Moses and Aaron, "Take for yourselves handfuls of ashes from a furnace, and let Moses scatter it toward the heavens in the sight of Pharaoh. 9And it will become fine dust in all the land of Egypt, and it will cause boils that break out in sores on man and beast throughout all the land

8:23 [a]Literally set a ransom (compare Exodus 9:4 and 11:7)

8:20–32 The fourth plague: swarms of flies. This time as a sign that the Lord is sovereign even in Egypt, He would distinguish His people. The flies would not afflict their region (Ex. 7:14, note; chart, The Ten Plagues on Egypt). Pharaoh bargained with Moses, telling him first that the Israelites could sacrifice within the land, then in the wilderness but not far away. Again, the end of the plague came in response to intercession by Moses.

9:1–7 The fifth plague: disease. In the preceding negotiations (Ex. 8:25–29) the word "sacrifice" is prominent, and again Pharaoh failed to permit the Israelites to go and sacrifice to the Lord. As a result disease struck Egyptian livestock at the appointed time, while Israelite animals were preserved (mentioned three times). Previous plagues were noisome and painful; this was the first that caused loss of personal property (see chart, The Ten Plagues on Egypt). Valuable animals used in transportation and farming, as well as animals the Egyptians considered sacred, died.

9:6 If all the livestock of Egypt were killed by disease, how is it that Egyptian livestock were there to be killed by the later plague of hail (vv. 19–25) and horses were available to pull the chariots (Ex. 14:9)? It may be that the disease struck only animals "in the field" (v. 3). The passage of time between plagues may also have allowed the Egyptians to acquire new animals. It may also be that "all the livestock" (v. 6) is to be understood similarly to "all the dust of the land" (Ex. 8:17), the force of the expression being that the effect was thorough and pervasive.

9:8–12 The sixth plague: boils. Now the Egyptians, including the magicians, had firsthand experience with the Lord's power over the physical health of both people and animals. Like the third plague, no verbal announcement or warning preceded this plague, but, as on other occasions, a dramatic enactment marked its start (see chart, The Ten Plagues on Egypt).

of Egypt." [10]Then they took ashes from the furnace and stood before Pharaoh, and Moses scattered them toward heaven. And they caused boils that break out in sores on man and beast. [11]And the magicians could not stand before Moses because of the boils, for the boils were on the magicians and on all the Egyptians. [12]But the LORD hardened the heart of Pharaoh; and he did not heed them, just as the LORD had spoken to Moses.

The Seventh Plague: Hail

[13]Then the LORD said to Moses, "Rise early in the morning and stand before Pharaoh, and say to him, 'Thus says the LORD God of the Hebrews: "Let My people go, that they may serve Me, [14]for at this time I will send all My plagues to your very heart, and on your servants and on your people, that you may know that there is none like Me in all the earth. [15]Now if I had stretched out My hand and struck you and your people with pestilence, then you would have been cut off from the earth. [16]But indeed for this purpose I have raised you up, that I may show My power in you, and that My name may be declared in all the earth. [17]As yet you exalt yourself against My people in that you will not let them go. [18]Behold, tomorrow about this time I will cause very heavy hail to rain down, such as has not been in Egypt since its founding until now. [19]Therefore send now and gather your livestock and all that you have in the field, for the hail shall come down on every man and every animal which is found in the field and is not brought home; and they shall die." ' "

[22]Then the LORD said to Moses, "Stretch out your hand toward heaven, that there may be hail in all the land of Egypt—on man, on beast, and on every herb of the field, throughout the land of Egypt." [23]And Moses stretched out his rod toward heaven; and the LORD sent thunder and hail, and fire darted to the ground. And the LORD rained hail on the land of Egypt. [24]So there was hail, and fire mingled with the hail, so very heavy that there was none like it in all the land of Egypt since it became a nation. [25]And the hail struck throughout the whole land of Egypt, all that was in the field, both man and beast; and the hail struck every herb of the field and broke every tree of the field. [26]Only in the land of Goshen, where the children of Israel were, there was no hail.

[27]And Pharaoh sent and called for Moses and Aaron, and said to them, "I have sinned this time. The LORD is righteous, and my people and I are wicked. [28]Entreat the LORD, that there may be no more mighty thundering and hail, for it is enough. I will let you go, and you shall stay no longer."

[29]So Moses said to him, "As soon as I have gone out of the city, I will spread out my hands to the LORD; the thunder will cease, and there will be no more hail, that you may know that the earth is the LORD's. [30]But as for you and your servants, I know that you will not yet fear the LORD God."

[31]Now the flax and the barley were struck, for the barley was in the head and the flax was in bud. [32]But the wheat and the spelt were not struck, for they are late crops.

[33]So Moses went out of the city from Pharaoh and spread out his hands to the LORD; then the thunder and the hail ceased, and the rain was not poured on the earth. [34]And when Pharaoh saw that the rain, the hail, and the thunder had ceased, he sinned yet more; and he hardened his heart, he

9:13–35 The seventh plague: hail. As the series of plagues intensified, now for the first time human life was at stake. The Lord warned the Egyptians to protect their servants and animals. God did not owe Pharaoh anything and could have destroyed him at any time (v. 15). Pharaoh's continued existence was an opportunity for the Lord to show His uniqueness and His power (v. 14), so that His name (character and reputation) would be declared (v. 16). The God whom Pharaoh had said he did not know and would not obey would be recognized worldwide (Ex. 5:2). As a further result of the plague of hail, Pharaoh should understand that the earth belongs to the Lord to rule (v. 29; see chart, The Ten Plagues on Egypt). Certainly none of the Egyptians' many gods protected them (see chart, The Goddesses of Egypt). For the first time, Pharaoh admitted he was wrong and promised without reservation to let the Israelites go to serve the Lord (vv. 27, 28), but Moses knew Pharaoh did not yet intend to obey the Lord (v. 30; see also Ex. 14, Justice). Again Pharaoh rebelled as soon as the storm ended (vv. 34, 35).

9:19–21 The plagues were having their proper effect in the lives of some Egyptians. They respected the Lord's command and brought their servants and animals under cover. The phrase "did not regard the word of the LORD" can be literally rendered "did not put his heart to the word of the LORD." For these people, the plagues directed toward their hearts met resistance rather than obedience (see vv. 14, 34). This experience of warning and response needed to be a lesson for the Israelites when they received instructions before the tenth plague, as well as anytime the Lord later spoke.

CELEBRATIONS AND HOLIDAYS SET APART TO REMEMBER

One of the problems with a finite created being having a relationship with the infinite Creator God is the tendency for the one created to lose perspective on her life, forgetting what God has done for her in the past. Knowing this, God reminds us in His Word to remember who He is and what He has done. Thus, throughout the Old Testament, feasts and festivals were established, accompanied by carefully planned rituals—as well as authorized memorials of stones and altars to be built across the wilderness of Bible lands.

In the New Testament, Jesus instructed His disciples to eat and drink the Lord's Supper in remembrance of Him (Luke 22:19). Thus, a key characteristic of celebrations and holy days is that they be times set apart to remember specific works of the Lord God.

Often, modern holidays are little more than occasions for family gatherings or days off work. As Christians, we can bring the Lord back into these holidays and celebrations by focusing on Him in unique ways:

- New Year's may be set aside as a time for spiritual renewal.
- Valentine's Day might be a time to focus on the unconditional love of our Savior Jesus Christ.
- Easter can be a time to share a personal testimony about the difference the risen Christ has made in your life.
- Spring can be a time to reflect on fruitfulness and growth in the Christian life.
- Thanksgiving is a time to thank the Lord in special ways for His blessings.
- Christmas is the season to focus on the meaning of Jesus' coming into the world.

Holidays or "holy days" were originally times to bring God back into our everyday lives. Special thought and care is needed to do this, but putting the Lord into the holidays can build a rich Christian heritage of traditions and memories. The rhythm of celebrating holidays for the Lord can truly change your ordinary days into holy days for Him.

and his servants. 35So the heart of Pharaoh was hard; neither would he let the children of Israel go, as the LORD had spoken by Moses.

The Eighth Plague: Locusts

10 Now the LORD said to Moses, "Go in to Pharaoh; for I have hardened his heart and the hearts of his servants, that I may show these signs of Mine before him, 2and that you may tell in the hearing of your son and your son's son the mighty things I have done in Egypt, and My signs which I have done among them, that you may know that I am the LORD."

3So Moses and Aaron came in to Pharaoh and said to him, "Thus says the LORD God of the Hebrews: 'How long will you refuse to humble yourself before Me? Let My people go, that they may serve Me. 4Or else, if you refuse to let My people go, behold, tomorrow I will bring locusts into your territory. 5And they shall cover the face of the earth, so that no one will be able to see the earth; and they shall eat the residue of what is left, which remains to you from the hail, and they shall eat every tree which grows up for you out of the field. 6They shall fill your houses, the houses of all your servants, and the houses of all the Egyptians—which neither your fathers nor your fathers' fathers have seen, since the day that they were on the earth to this day.' " And he turned and went out from Pharaoh.

7Then Pharaoh's servants said to him, "How long shall this man be a snare to us? Let the men go, that they may serve the LORD their God. Do you not yet know that Egypt is destroyed?"

8So Moses and Aaron were brought again to Pharaoh, and he said to them, "Go, serve the LORD your God. Who are the ones that are going?"

9And Moses said, "We will go with our young and our old; with our sons and our daughters, with our flocks and our herds we will go, for we must hold a feast to the LORD."

10Then he said to them, "The LORD had better

10:1–20 The eighth plague: locusts. With this plague, the food Egyptians needed was consumed. Locusts ate whatever had grown or recovered since the hail storm (see chart, The Ten Plagues on Egypt). The plagues had undermined Pharaoh's strength at court; his servants now told him to let the Israelites go and serve the Lord (v. 7). For the first time he tried to forestall an announced disaster, but he failed because he insisted on maintaining control of the Israelites, allowing only the men to go (v. 11).

10:8–11 Serving the Lord must involve all the Israelites, not just the men. Pharaoh's refusal to let everyone go was a refusal to humble himself before the Lord (v. 3). By imposing conditions, Pharaoh attempted to preserve the illusion that he was in control and could give orders without actually submitting to the Lord. He wanted to avoid trouble yet not truly recognize the Lord's authority in his life. His lack of regard for the Lord's presence with the Israelites is apparent (v. 10).

be with you when I let you and your little ones go! Beware, for evil is ahead of you. 11Not so! Go now, you who are men, and serve the LORD, for that is what you desired." And they were driven out from Pharaoh's presence.

12Then the LORD said to Moses, "Stretch out your hand over the land of Egypt for the locusts, that they may come upon the land of Egypt, and eat every herb of the land—all that the hail has left." 13So Moses stretched out his rod over the land of Egypt, and the LORD brought an east wind on the land all that day and all that night. When it was morning, the east wind brought the locusts. 14And the locusts went up over all the land of Egypt and rested on all the territory of Egypt. They were very severe; previously there had been no such locusts as they, nor shall there be such after them. 15For they covered the face of the whole earth, so that the land was darkened; and they ate every herb of the land and all the fruit of the trees which the hail had left. So there remained nothing green on the trees or on the plants of the field throughout all the land of Egypt.

16Then Pharaoh called for Moses and Aaron in haste, and said, "I have sinned against the LORD your God and against you. 17Now therefore, please forgive my sin only this once, and entreat the LORD your God, that He may take away from me this death only." 18So he went out from Pharaoh and entreated the LORD. 19And the LORD turned a very strong west wind, which took the locusts away and blew them into the Red Sea. There remained not one locust in all the territory of Egypt. 20But the LORD hardened Pharaoh's heart, and he did not let the children of Israel go.

The Ninth Plague: Darkness

21Then the LORD said to Moses, "Stretch out your hand toward heaven, that there may be darkness over the land of Egypt, darkness which may even be felt." 22So Moses stretched out his hand toward heaven, and there was thick darkness in all the land of Egypt three days. 23They did not see one another; nor did anyone rise from his place for three days. But all the children of Israel had light in their dwellings.

24Then Pharaoh called to Moses and said, "Go, serve the LORD; only let your flocks and your herds be kept back. Let your little ones also go with you."

25But Moses said, "You must also give us sacrifices and burnt offerings, that we may sacrifice to the LORD our God. 26Our livestock also shall go with us; not a hoof shall be left behind. For we must take some of them to serve the LORD our God, and even we do not know with what we must serve the LORD until we arrive there."

27But the LORD hardened Pharaoh's heart, and he would not let them go. 28Then Pharaoh said to him, "Get away from me! Take heed to yourself and see my face no more! For in the day you see my face you shall die!"

29So Moses said, "You have spoken well. I will never see your face again."

Death of the Firstborn Announced

11 And the LORD said to Moses, "I will bring one more plague on Pharaoh and on Egypt. Afterward he will let you go from here. When he lets you go, he will surely drive you out of here altogether. 2Speak now in the hearing of the people, and let every man ask from his neighbor and every woman from her neighbor, articles of silver and articles of gold." 3And the LORD gave the people favor in the sight of the Egyptians. Moreover the man Moses was very great in the land of Egypt, in the sight of Pharaoh's servants and in the sight of the people.

4Then Moses said, "Thus says the LORD: 'About midnight I will go out into the midst of Egypt; 5and all the firstborn in the land of Egypt shall die, from the firstborn of Pharaoh who sits on his throne, even to the firstborn of the female servant who is behind the handmill, and all the firstborn of the animals. 6Then there shall be a great cry throughout all the land of Egypt, such as was not like it before, nor shall be like it again. 7But against none of the children of Israel shall a dog move its tongue, against man or beast, that you may know that the LORD does make a difference between the Egyptians and Israel.' 8And all these your servants shall come down to me and bow down to me, saying, 'Get out, and all the people who follow you!' After that I will go out." Then he went out from Pharaoh in great anger.

9But the LORD said to Moses, "Pharaoh will not heed you, so that My wonders may be multiplied in the land of Egypt." 10So Moses and Aaron did all these wonders before Pharaoh; and the LORD hardened Pharaoh's heart, and he did not let the children of Israel go out of his land.

The Passover Instituted

12 Now the LORD spoke to Moses and Aaron in the land of Egypt, saying, 2"This month shall be your beginning of months; it shall be the first month of the year to you. 3Speak to all the congregation of Israel, saying: 'On the tenth of this month every man shall take for himself a lamb, according to the house of his father, a lamb for a household. 4And if the household is too small for the lamb, let him and his neighbor next to his house take it according to the number of the persons; according to each man's need you shall make your count for the lamb. 5Your lamb shall be without blemish, a male of the first year. You may take it from the sheep or from the goats. 6Now you shall keep it until the fourteenth day of the same month. Then the whole assembly of the congregation of Israel shall kill it at twilight. 7And they shall take some of the blood and put it on the two doorposts and on the lintel of the houses where they eat it. 8Then they shall eat the flesh on that night; roasted in fire, with unleavened bread and with bitter herbs they shall eat it. 9Do not eat it raw, nor boiled at all with water, but roasted in fire—its head with its legs and its entrails. 10You shall let none of it remain until morning, and what remains of it until morning you shall burn with fire. 11And thus you shall eat it: with a belt on your waist, your sandals on your feet, and your staff in your hand. So you shall eat it in haste. It is the LORD's Passover.

10:21–29 The ninth plague: darkness. Like the third and sixth plagues, number nine came unannounced (see chart, The Ten Plagues on Egypt). Now the supreme Egyptian deity, the sun god Ra, was shown powerless to help the Egyptians. Pharaoh did not need to be told who was responsible; yet he still attempted to retain control by requiring the Israelites to leave their livestock behind.

12"For I will pass through the land of Egypt on that night, and will strike all the firstborn in the land of Egypt, both man and beast; and against all the gods of Egypt I will execute judgment: I am the LORD. 13Now the blood shall be a sign for you on the houses where you are. And when I see the blood, I will pass over you; and the plague shall not be on you to destroy you when I strike the land of Egypt.

14"So this day shall be to you a memorial; and you shall keep it as a feast to the LORD throughout your generations. You shall keep it as a feast by an everlasting ordinance. 15Seven days you shall eat unleavened bread. On the first day you shall remove leaven from your houses. For whoever eats leavened bread from the first day until the seventh day, that person shall be cut off from Israel. 16On the first day there shall be a holy convocation, and on the seventh day there shall be a holy convocation for you. No manner of work shall be done on them; but that which everyone must eat—that only may be prepared by you. 17So you shall observe the Feast of Unleavened Bread, for on this same day I will have brought your armies out of the land of Egypt. Therefore you shall observe this day throughout your generations as an everlasting ordinance. 18In the first month, on the fourteenth day of the month at evening, you shall eat unleavened bread, until the twenty-first day of the month at evening. 19For seven days no leaven shall be found in your houses, since whoever eats what is leavened, that same person shall be cut off from the congregation of Israel, whether he is a stranger or a native of the land. 20You shall eat nothing leavened; in all your dwellings you shall eat unleavened bread.' "

21Then Moses called for all the elders of Israel and said to them, "Pick out and take lambs for yourselves according to your families, and kill the Passover lamb. 22And you shall take a bunch of hyssop, dip it in the blood that is in the basin, and strike the lintel and the two doorposts with the blood that is in the basin. And none of you shall go out of the door of his house until morning. 23For the LORD will pass through to strike the Egyptians; and when He sees the blood on the lintel and on the two doorposts, the LORD will pass over the door and not allow the destroyer to come into your houses to strike you. 24And you shall observe this thing as an ordinance for you and your sons forever. 25It will come to pass when you come to the land which the LORD will give you, just as He promised, that you shall keep this service. 26And it shall be, when your children say to you, 'What do you mean by this service?' 27that you shall say, 'It is the Passover sacrifice of the LORD, who passed over the houses of the children of Israel in Egypt when He struck the Egyptians and delivered our households.' " So the people bowed their heads and worshiped. 28Then the children of Israel went away and did so; just as the LORD had commanded Moses and Aaron, so they did.

The Tenth Plague: Death of the Firstborn

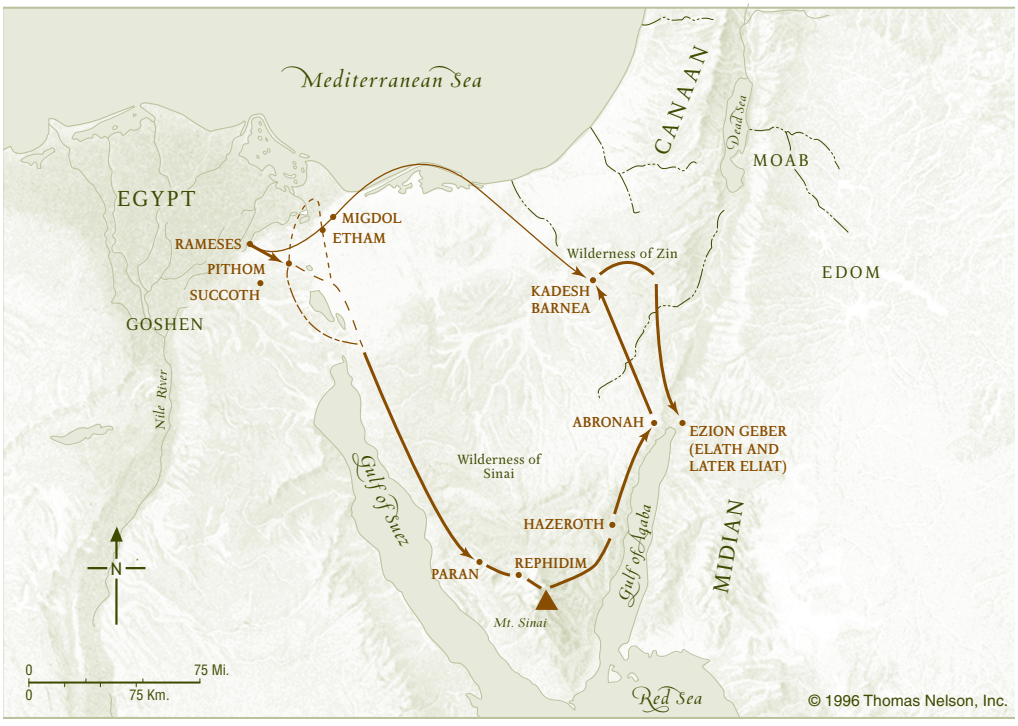
29And it came to pass at midnight that the LORD struck all the firstborn in the land of Egypt, from the firstborn of Pharaoh who sat on his throne to the firstborn of the captive who was in the dungeon, and all the firstborn of livestock.

12:6 The meaning of twilight is debated. Since a new day began at sundown, the lamb was killed on the 14th and the meal eaten at the beginning of the 15th, the day the Israelites left Egypt. By the time of Christ, the custom was to kill the lamb between 3:00 and 5:00 P.M.

12:15 A week of eating unleavened bread would accompany the Passover. This commemorated the haste in which Israel left Egypt (vv. 11, 34, 39; Deut. 16:3). Perhaps because leaven pervades dough and involves fermentation, a kind of decay, leaven was (or later became) symbolic of corruption and sin, which needed to be removed (see Matt. 16:6; 1 Cor. 5:1–8). A person who disobediently ate leavened bread indicated willful rejection of the Lord's covenant with Israel (see Gen. 17:14). Such a person would be cut off from Israel, certainly in the sense of not enjoying covenant benefits; "cut off" may also refer to premature death by the Lord or by execution (see Ex. 31:14–15; Lev. 7:20; 20:1–6; 22:9; Num. 15:30–36).

12:25, 26 The word translated service is the same one used earlier in Exodus for the Israelites' service to Pharaoh (Ex. 1:13–14). Because the Lord was delivering them, they would have a new overlord (who loved them) and a new service that

THE EXODUS FROM EGYPT



Though the precise route of the Exodus is uncertain, the southern route is more likely. The journey to Sinai took about two months. They encamped at Sinai for about ten months to receive God's revelation.

30So Pharaoh rose in the night, he, all his servants, and all the Egyptians; and there was a great cry in Egypt, for there was not a house where there was not one dead.

The Exodus

31Then he called for Moses and Aaron by night, and said, "Rise, go out from among my people, both you and the children of Israel. And go, serve the LORD as you have said. 32Also take your flocks and your herds, as you have said, and be gone; and bless me also."

33And the Egyptians urged the people, that they might send them out of the land in haste. For they said, "We shall all be dead." 34So the people took their dough before it was leavened, having their kneading bowls bound up in their clothes on their shoulders. 35Now the children of Israel had done according to the word of Moses, and they had asked from the Egyptians articles of silver, articles of gold, and clothing. 36And the LORD had given the people favor in the sight of the Egyptians, so that they granted them what they requested. Thus they plundered the Egyptians.

recalled and was based on what He had done for them (see similarly 2 Cor. 5:15).

12:28 For the Israelites to obey the instructions for this meal was an expression of faith, both before and after the initial Passover event.

12:34, 35 The Lord was behind the Egyptians' surprising response, in that He gave the Israelites favor with them (see Ex. 3:21; 11:2, 3; 12:35, 36). What the Israelites received from the Egyptians and their own animals (v. 38) fulfilled the prophecy that Abraham's descendants would come out of slavery "with great possessions" (Gen. 15:14; see also Deut. 15:12–15).

JUSTICE IS GOD FAIR?

Exodus repeatedly refers to the hardening of Pharaoh's heart. Clearly the purpose for this is not to present the Lord as capricious or unfair. To the contrary, the Lord is explicitly declared to be merciful (Ex. 33:19; 34:6, 7). The hardening of Pharaoh's heart is explained as an opportunity for the Lord to act in such a way that people then and now would know Him (Ex. 10:1–2). He would receive due honor as a result of the hardening (Ex. 14:4, 17, 18). The Lord's care for His people (Ex. 6:6, 7; 8:22, 23), His uniqueness (Ex. 8:10; 9:14), and His sovereign ownership of the earth (Ex. 8:22; 9:29) are displayed by the plagues as part of the deliverance of the Israelites from Egypt.

Nothing in Pharaoh's speeches or conduct or in Egyptian history indicates that Pharaoh would have become a loyal worshiper of the Lord if the Lord had not hardened his heart. Apart from the hardening, Pharaoh might well have dismissed the Israelites—simply in order to avoid difficulties—and then continued his proud idolatry. The plagues and hardening demonstrate that Pharaoh and Egypt as a whole owed their existence to the mercy of the Lord, not to their cleverness in manipulating Him as they did the deities they worshiped (see Ex. 9:15–17).

Because Pharaoh himself was considered an important god in Egypt, his ultimate personal destiny is not the primary issue in the hardening of his heart. His hardening contributes to the attack on the Egyptian religion and on pagan worship in general (see Ex. 12:12; 18:11; 20:3–5; 34:10–17). For example, one Hebrew word describing the hardening of Pharaoh's heart has the connotation of making the heart "heavy" (Ex. 9:34; 10:1). This would be a major disadvantage within Egyptian religion, in which a person needed a "light" heart (rather than a sinful one) after death to weigh favorably on the gods' balance scale. In Egyptian thought, to be "hard of heart" (but not "heavy") was a positive trait. The idiom was used of strength and of self-restraint shown while serving at court. A person also needed a hard heart during judgment after death. To ensure that a person's heart would declare the person innocent rather than confess sins to the gods, a heart-shaped scarab made of a precious stone was placed on the chest of the mummified body. In Exodus, however, to have a hard heart is a negative trait, and when the Lord God hardened Pharaoh's heart, his sinfulness was displayed. Lofty Pharaoh appeared at a loss by Egypt's inadequate standards as well as in light of the Lord's righteous standards.

In answer to the questions asked by many—If God hardens the heart, why does He still find fault, for who has resisted His will?—the apostle Paul flatly asserted that God is not unjust (Rom. 9:14–24). In the process of Pharaoh's hardening, God showed patience toward those who deserved punishment, and He used the situation to make known His righteous wrath, saving power, and brilliant glory.

37 Then the children of Israel journeyed from Rameses to Succoth, about six hundred thousand men on foot, besides children. 38 A mixed multitude went up with them also, and flocks and herds—a great deal of livestock. 39 And they baked unleavened cakes of the dough which they had brought out of Egypt; for it was not leavened, because they were driven out of Egypt and could not wait, nor had they prepared provisions for themselves.

40 Now the sojourn of the children of Israel who lived in Egypt[a] was four hundred and thirty years.
41 And it came to pass at the end of the four hundred and thirty years—on that very same day—it came to pass that all the armies of the LORD went out from the land of Egypt. 42 It is a night of solemn observance to the LORD for bringing them out of the land of Egypt. This is that night of the LORD, a solemn observance for all the children of Israel throughout their generations.

Passover Regulations

43 And the LORD said to Moses and Aaron, "This is the ordinance of the Passover: No foreigner shall eat it. 44 But every man's servant who is bought for money, when you have circumcised him, then he may eat it. 45 A sojourner and a hired

12:40 [a]Samaritan Pentateuch and Septuagint read Egypt and Canaan.

12:37 The word translated men has military connotations—not a reference to men in general but to potential fighting men. The word translated "children" (Heb. taph, lit. "little ones") is used to reference only children when women are also mentioned (Gen. 34:29; 45:19; 46:5), but the term is used in a broader sense for women and children (Gen. 43:8; 47:12; Ex. 10:10, 24; Num. 32:16, 24). The women and children were military dependents.

12:38 Apparently other disaffected people took the opportunity to leave Egypt. The instructions in verses 43–49 show that they could become part of the worshiping community.

12:39 Following God's instructions, the Israelites had Egyptian treasures but not provisions of food for themselves. God would provide food, and the treasures would be useful in building the tabernacle.

servant shall not eat it. 46In one house it shall be eaten; you shall not carry any of the flesh outside the house, nor shall you break one of its bones. 47All the congregation of Israel shall keep it. 48And when a stranger dwells with you and wants to keep the Passover to the LORD, let all his males be circumcised, and then let him come near and keep it; and he shall be as a native of the land. For no uncircumcised person shall eat it. 49One law shall be for the native-born and for the stranger who dwells among you."

50Thus all the children of Israel did; as the LORD commanded Moses and Aaron, so they did. 51And it came to pass, on that very same day, that the LORD brought the children of Israel out of the land of Egypt according to their armies.

The Firstborn Consecrated

13 Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 2"Consecrate to Me all the firstborn, whatever opens the womb among the children of Israel, both of man and beast; it is Mine."

The Feast of Unleavened Bread

3And Moses said to the people: "Remember this day in which you went out of Egypt, out of the house of bondage; for by strength of hand the LORD brought you out of this place. No leavened bread shall be eaten. 4On this day you are going out, in the month Abib. 5And it shall be, when the LORD brings you into the land of the Canaanites and the Hittites and the Amorites and the Hivites and the Jebusites, which He swore to your fathers to give you, a land flowing with milk and honey, that you shall keep this service in this month. 6Seven days you shall eat unleavened bread, and on the seventh day there shall be a feast to the LORD. 7Unleavened bread shall be eaten seven days. And no leavened bread shall be seen among you, nor shall leaven be seen among you in all your quarters. 8And you shall tell your son in that day, saying, 'This is done because of what the LORD did for me when I came up from Egypt.' 9It shall be as a sign to you on your hand and as a memorial between your eyes, that the LORD's law may be in your mouth; for with a strong hand the LORD has brought you out of Egypt. 10You shall therefore keep this ordinance in its season from year to year.

The Law of the Firstborn

11"And it shall be, when the LORD brings you into the land of the Canaanites, as He swore to you and your fathers, and gives it to you, 12that you shall set apart to the LORD all that open the womb, that is, every firstborn that comes from an animal which you have; the males shall be the LORD's. 13But every firstborn of a donkey you shall redeem with a lamb; and if you will not redeem it, then you shall break its neck. And all the firstborn of man among your sons you shall redeem. 14So it shall be, when your son asks you in time to come, saying, 'What is this?' that you shall say to him, 'By strength of hand the LORD brought us out of Egypt, out of the house of bondage. 15And it came to pass, when Pharaoh was stubborn about letting us go, that the LORD killed all the firstborn in the land of Egypt, both the firstborn of man and the firstborn of beast. Therefore I sacrifice to the LORD all males that open the womb, but all the firstborn of my sons I redeem.' 16It shall be as a sign on your hand and as frontlets between your eyes, for by strength of hand the LORD brought us out of Egypt."

The Wilderness Way

17Then it came to pass, when Pharaoh had let the people go, that God did not lead them by way of the land of the Philistines, although that was near; for God said, "Lest perhaps the people change their minds when they see war, and 12:49 Passover was to be more than just an ethnic or national festival (v. 48; see chart, The Feasts of Israel). All those willing to participate in a covenant relationship with the Lord, signified by circumcision in the case of males (Gen. 17:10–14), could rightfully celebrate the Passover and consider themselves beneficiaries of the Israelites' deliverance from Egypt (see Ruth 2:10–12).

13:2 To sanctify, consecrate, or treat as holy is to set apart from the common a person or thing for a special purpose (see Ex. 3:5; 28:1–4; 29:43–46). Verses 12–15 record how the Israelites were to sanctify the firstborn. The word "man" (Heb. 'adam) clearly refers to mankind, male and female, as it does in Genesis 1:26 and 27. For the Israelites, viewing all firstborn males as the Lord's was tied to the events of the first Passover night and the Lord's decree, not to anything inherently superior about the firstborn (Ex. 13:2, 15). This was in contrast to widespread pagan beliefs.

13:8, 9 The yearly Passover feast and week of unleavened bread, along with the sacrifice and redemption of the firstborn (vv. 13–15; Num. 3:13), would preserve the memory of the Lord's actions for the sake of later generations (see chart, The Feasts of Israel). As a result, His Law would be in their mouths; that is, they would obey Him.

13:13–15 The donkey, as an unclean animal, could not be offered as a sacrifice (Lev. 11:26). But to spare its life, an owner could "redeem" or buy it back with a lamb offered in sacrifice in its place. As the Lord had redeemed His firstborn son Israel, so the Israelites must redeem their firstborn as a reminder of what God had done for them (Ex. 4:22; 2 Sam. 7:23, 24). Redemption of the firstborn sons involved the dedication of the tribe of Levi and payment of five shekels of silver (Num. 3:40–51; 8:14–18; 18:15–17).

13:16 Exactly what ancient headwear or ornament is described by "frontlets" is uncertain (Deut. 6:8, 9, note; see also Matt. 23:5, "phylacteries"). Obeying the instructions in verses 1–15 would recall God's mighty actions to the individual (like a mark on the hand) and to others (like something displayed on the forehead).

return to Egypt." 18So God led the people around by way of the wilderness of the Red Sea. And the children of Israel went up in orderly ranks out of the land of Egypt.

19And Moses took the bones of Joseph with him, for he had placed the children of Israel under solemn oath, saying, "God will surely visit you, and you shall carry up my bones from here with you."[a]

20So they took their journey from Succoth and camped in Etham at the edge of the wilderness. 21And the LORD went before them by day in a pillar of cloud to lead the way, and by night in a pillar of fire to give them light, so as to go by day and night. 22He did not take away the pillar of cloud by day or the pillar of fire by night from before the people.

The Red Sea Crossing

14 Now the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: 2"Speak to the children of Israel, that they turn and camp before Pi Hahiroth, between Migdol and the sea, opposite Baal Zemphon; you shall camp before it by the sea. 3For Pharaoh will say of the children of Israel, 'They are bewildered by the land; the wilderness has closed them in.' 4Then I will harden Pharaoh's heart, so that he will pursue them; and I will gain honor over Pharaoh and over all his army, that the Egyptians may know that I am the LORD." And they did so.

5Now it was told the king of Egypt that the people had fled, and the heart of Pharaoh and his servants was turned against the people; and they said, "Why have we done this, that we have let Israel go from serving us?" 6So he made ready his chariot and took his people with him. 7Also, he took six hundred choice chariots, and all the chariots of Egypt with captains over every one of them. 8And the LORD hardened the heart of Pharaoh king of Egypt, and he pursued the children of Israel; and the children of Israel went out with boldness. 9So the Egyptians pursued them, all the horses and chariots of Pharaoh, his horsemen and his army, and overtook them camping by the sea beside Pi Hahiroth, before Baal Zephon.

10And when Pharaoh drew near, the children of Israel lifted their eyes, and behold, the Egyptians marched after them. So they were very afraid, and the children of Israel cried out to the LORD. 11Then they said to Moses, "Because there were no graves in Egypt, have you taken us away to die in the wilderness? Why have you so dealt with us, to bring us up out of Egypt? 12*Is* this not the word that we told you in Egypt, saying, 'Let us alone that we may serve the Egyptians'? For it would have been better for us to serve the Egyptians than that we should die in the wilderness."

13And Moses said to the people, "Do not be afraid. Stand still, and see the salvation of the LORD, which He will accomplish for you today. For the Egyptians whom you see today, you shall see again no more forever. 14The LORD will fight for you, and you shall hold your peace."

15And the LORD said to Moses, "Why do you cry to Me? Tell the children of Israel to go forward. 16But lift up your rod, and stretch out your hand over the sea and divide it. And the children of Israel shall go on dry ground through the midst of the sea. 17And I indeed will harden the hearts of the Egyptians, and they shall follow them. So I will gain honor over Pharaoh and over all his army, his chariots, and his horsemen. 18Then the Egyptians shall know that I am the LORD, when I have gained honor for Myself over Pharaoh, his chariots, and his horsemen."

19And the Angel of God, who went before the camp of Israel, moved and went behind them; and the pillar of cloud went from before them and stood behind them. 20So it came between the camp of the Egyptians and the camp of Israel. Thus it was a cloud and darkness to the one, and it gave light by night to the other, so that the one did not come near the other all that night.

21Then Moses stretched out his hand over the sea; and the LORD caused the sea to go back by a strong east wind all that night, and made the sea into dry land, and the waters were divided. 22So the children of Israel went into the midst of the sea on the dry ground, and the waters were a wall to them on their right hand and on their left. 23And the Egyptians pursued and went after them into the midst of the sea, all Pharaoh's horses, his chariots, and his horsemen.

24Now it came to pass, in the morning watch, that the LORD looked down upon the army of the 13:18 The Red Sea (Heb. Yam. Suph, lit. "Reed Sea") goes back to the ancient Greek translation of the OT (LXX) made prior to the time of Christ. The name for the lower sea included branches now called the Gulf of Suez and the Gulf of Aqaba. The area north of the Gulf of Suez had numerous lakes and marsh land that were later dug out to build the Suez Canal. The exact location of the Israelite crossing is still debated (see map, The Exodus from Egypt).

14:8 The LORD hardened the heart of Pharaoh (see Ex. 4:21, note; Ex. 14, Justice).

14:12 When facing difficulty, the Israelites quickly forgot the oppression they had left and assumed it would be better to serve the Egyptians than to serve the Lord. The apostle Paul wanted Christians to avoid any similar mistake (Rom. 6:21–23).

14:17, 18 Those who learn to recognize the Lord, the One deserving above all others to be honored, receive benefit. Illusions are dispelled as people become aware of the ultimate reality of who He is and who they are in dealing with Him (see Josh. 2:9–14 and Ps. 100 in contrast with Rom. 1:21–23).

Fear is a fact of life. Some fear is positive—the holy fear we feel for our awesome God and the self-preserving fear that makes us run from danger.

Egyptians through the pillar of fire and cloud, and He troubled the army of the Egyptians. 25And He took off[a] their chariot wheels, so that they drove them with difficulty; and the Egyptians said, "Let us flee from the face of Israel, for the LORD fights for them against the Egyptians."

26Then the LORD said to Moses, "Stretch out your hand over the sea, that the waters may come back upon the Egyptians, on their chariots, and on their horsemen." 27And Moses stretched out his hand over the sea; and when the morning appeared, the sea returned to its full depth, while the Egyptians were fleeing into it. So the LORD overthrew the Egyptians in the midst of the sea. 28Then the waters returned and covered the chariots, the horsemen, and all the army of Pharaoh that came into the sea after them. Not so much as one of them remained. 29But the children of Israel had walked on dry land in the midst of the sea, and the waters were a wall to them on their right hand and on their left.

30So the LORD saved Israel that day out of the hand of the Egyptians, and Israel saw the Egyptians dead on the seashore. 31Thus Israel saw the great work which the LORD had done in Egypt; so the people feared the LORD, and believed the LORD and His servant Moses.

The Song of Moses

15 Then Moses and the children of Israel sang this song to the LORD, and spoke, saying:

"I will sing to the LORD,
For He has triumphed gloriously!
The horse and its rider
He has thrown into the sea!
2The LORD is my strength and song,
And He has become my salvation;
He is my God, and I will praise Him;
My father's God, and I will exalt Him.
3The LORD is a man of war;
The LORD is His name.
4Pharaoh's chariots and his army He has cast into the sea;
His chosen captains also are drowned in the Red Sea.
5The depths have covered them;
They sank to the bottom like a stone.

6"Your right hand, O LORD, has become glorious in power;
Your right hand, O LORD, has dashed the enemy in pieces.
7And in the greatness of Your excellence
You have overthrown those who rose against You;
You sent forth Your wrath;
It consumed them like stubble.
8And with the blast of Your nostrils
The waters were gathered together;
The floods stood upright like a heap;
The depths congealed in the heart of the sea.
9The enemy said, 'I will pursue,
I will overtake,
I will divide the spoil;
My desire shall be satisfied on them.
I will draw my sword,
My hand shall destroy them.'
10You blew with Your wind,
The sea covered them;
They sank like lead in the mighty waters.

11"Who is like You, O LORD, among the gods?
Who is like You, glorious in holiness,
Fearful in praises, doing wonders?
12You stretched out Your right hand;
The earth swallowed them.
13You in Your mercy have led forth
The people whom You have redeemed;
You have guided them in Your strength
To Your holy habitation.
14"The people will hear and be afraid;
Sorrow will take hold of the inhabitants of Philistia.
15Then the chiefs of Edom will be dismayed;
The mighty men of Moab,
Trembling will take hold of them;

14:25 [a]Samaritan Pentateuch, Septuagint, and Syriac read bound.

15:2, 3 My father's God presents the Red Sea crossing as part of God's keeping His covenant promises to the ancestors. The metaphor "a man of war" likens God to an accomplished warrior who fights for His people (Ex. 14:14, 25; Deut. 1:30; Ps. 35:1–10; Rev. 19:11–15). At Ai Israel learned what happened when God did not fight for them (Josh. 7:1–12).

15:14–17 News of God's actions spread and had the expected effect on future enemies (Num. 22:2–6; Josh. 2:9–11; 5:1; 9:3–11; 1 Sam. 6:1–6). Knowledge of the Lord's superior character and actions (vv. 11–13) leads to confidence regarding the fulfillment of promises for the future (vv. 14–18). The Lord would certainly bring the Israelites to the Land He had promised, where He would dwell among them in a unique way. Believers in every generation can have the same confidence (see John 14:1–3; 1 Thess. 4:14–18).

DANCING — A CELEBRATION BEFORE THE LORD

In primitive and civilized cultures alike, dance has been an important means of expressing the deepest feelings of the human soul. Like any art form, dance has the power not only to express emotion but to stir it up, in both participants and observers. As the story of Herodias' daughter shows (Mark 6:17–28), dance can easily be abused when used as a tool of sensual power in which the chief end is selfish pleasure or the lustful arousal of others. Job warned about people who were so busy dancing and playing that they rejected serving the Lord (Job 21:11–14).

In Scripture, dance was used to express joy and praise to the Lord (2 Sam. 6:14; Ps. 149:3; 150:4; Jer. 31:4, 13). Dancing was a part of the celebration of the prodigal son's return to his father in Jesus' parable of the Lost Son (Luke 15:25). The Hebrew people used dance to celebrate the glory of God and His marvelous works. David danced before the Lord in joyous celebration of the return of the ark to Jerusalem. Such exuberant dancing, when described in the text of Scripture, was generally done by women (Ex. 15:20, 21; Judg. 21:19–21), singly or in groups, but not by a man and woman together; it was often spontaneous and unchoreographed (1 Sam. 18:6)—a genuine expression of spiritual delight (Ps. 30:11, 12).

In any case, every believer is responsible before God for living a holy life without moral compromise (Rom. 14:21; 1 Cor. 6:19, 20; Gal. 5:16; 1 Thess. 4:3–8) and with diligence to glorify God in every sphere of life (1 Cor. 10:31).

All the inhabitants of Canaan will melt away.
16 Fear and dread will fall on them;
By the greatness of Your arm
They will be as still as a stone,
Till Your people pass over, O LORD,
Till the people pass over Whom You have purchased.
17 You will bring them in and plant them
In the mountain of Your inheritance,
In the place, O LORD, which You have made
For Your own dwelling,
The sanctuary, O Lord, which Your hands have established.

18 "The LORD shall reign forever and ever."

19 For the horses of Pharaoh went with his chariots and his horsemen into the sea, and the LORD brought back the waters of the sea upon them. But the children of Israel went on dry land in the midst of the sea.

The Song of Miriam

20 Then Miriam the prophetess, the sister of Aaron, took the timbrel in her hand; and all the women went out after her with timbrels and with dances. 21 And Miriam answered them:

"Sing to the LORD,
For He has triumphed gloriously!
The horse and its rider
He has thrown into the sea!"

Bitter Waters Made Sweet

22 So Moses brought Israel from the Red Sea; then they went out into the Wilderness of Shur. And they went three days in the wilderness and found no water. 23 Now when they came to Marah, they could not drink the waters of Marah, for they were bitter. Therefore the name of it was called Marah.[a] 24 And the people complained against Moses, saying, "What shall we drink?" 25 So he cried out to the LORD, and the LORD showed him a tree. When he cast it into the waters, the waters were made sweet.

There He made a statute and an ordinance for them, and there He tested them, 26 and said, "If you diligently heed the voice of the LORD your

15:23 [a] Literally Bitter

15:22—17:16 The description of how the Lord provided water, food, and protection from enemies continues the theme of knowing the Lord based on His actions (Ex. 15:26; 16:6, 12). The Lord led the Israelites to places where their needs would teach them to trust Him.

15:22 The Wilderness of Shur in the Sinai peninsula east of Egypt was known to Hagar (Gen. 16:7–14) and Abraham (Gen. 20:1). Moses had talked of going three days' journey into the wilderness to worship the Lord (Ex. 3:18; 5:3; 8:27), but after three days of wilderness travel, the Israelites seemingly have had no thought of worship.

15:24 The people complained against Moses. This is the most frequent description of the Israelites in the wilderness. Their faithless rebellion against Moses was not merely dissatisfaction or honest questioning but ultimately rejection of the Lord (see Ex. 16:7, 8; 17:2–4; Num. 14:2–4, 27, 28).

15:26 To avoid the plagues inflicted on Egypt, the Israelites must obey the Lord (see chart, The Ten Plagues on Egypt). In God and do what is right in His sight, give ear to His commandments and keep all His statutes, I will put none of the diseases on you which I have brought on the Egyptians. For I am the LORD who heals you."

27Then they came to Elim, where there were twelve wells of water and seventy palm trees; so they camped there by the waters.

Bread from Heaven

16 And they journeyed from Elim, and all the congregation of the children of Israel came to the Wilderness of Sin, which is between Elim and Sinai, on the fifteenth day of the second month after they departed from the land of Egypt. 2Then the whole congregation of the children of Israel complained against Moses and Aaron in the wilderness. 3And the children of Israel said to them, "Oh, that we had died by the hand of the LORD in the land of Egypt, when we sat by the pots of meat and when we ate bread to the full! For you have brought us out into this wilderness to kill this whole assembly with hunger."

4Then the LORD said to Moses, "Behold, I will rain bread from heaven for you. And the people shall go out and gather a certain quota every day, that I may test them, whether they will walk in My law or not. 5And it shall be on the sixth day that they shall prepare what they bring in, and it shall be twice as much as they gather daily."

6Then Moses and Aaron said to all the children of Israel, "At evening you shall know that the LORD has brought you out of the land of Egypt. 7And in the morning you shall see the glory of the LORD; for He hears your complaints against the LORD. But what are we, that you complain against us?" 8Also Moses said, "This shall be seen when the LORD gives you meat to eat in the evening, and in the morning bread to the full; for the LORD hears your complaints which you make against Him. And what are we? Your complaints are not against us but against the LORD."

9Then Moses spoke to Aaron, "Say to all the congregation of the children of Israel, 'Come near before the LORD, for He has heard your complaints.' " 10Now it came to pass, as Aaron spoke to the whole congregation of the children of Israel, that they looked toward the wilderness, and behold, the glory of the LORD appeared in the cloud.

11And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 12"I have heard the complaints of the children of Israel. Speak to them, saying, 'At twilight you shall eat meat, and in the morning you shall be filled with bread. And you shall know that I am the LORD your God.' "

13So it was that quails came up at evening and covered the camp, and in the morning the dew lay all around the camp. 14And when the layer of dew lifted, there, on the surface of the wilderness, was a small round substance, as fine as frost on the ground. 15So when the children of Israel saw it, they said to one another, "What is it?" For they did not know what it was.

And Moses said to them, "This is the bread which the LORD has given you to eat. 16This is the thing which the LORD has commanded: 'Let every man gather it according to each one's need, one omer for each person, according to the number of persons; let every man take for those who are in his tent.' "

17Then the children of Israel did so and gathered, some more, some less. 18So when they measured it by omers, he who gathered much had nothing left over, and he who gathered little had no lack. Every man had gathered according to each one's need. 19And Moses said, "Let no one leave any of it till morning." 20Notwithstanding they did not heed Moses. But some of them left part of it until morning, and it bred worms and stank. And Moses was angry with them. 21So they gathered it every morning, every man according to his need. And when the sun became hot, it melted.

22And so it was, on the sixth day, that they gathered twice as much bread, two omers for each their complaining, they were like the bitter water and needed the Lord's healing for themselves (see also Deut. 32:39; Ps. 41:4). One day Egypt will likewise know Him as Healer (Is. 19:21, 22).

16:3 Death "by the hand of the LORD" may refer to "natural causes" or even to death as punishment for riot leaving Egypt to worship (Ex. 5:3). In this case they were claiming that early death would have come whether or not they obeyed the Lord. Such a claim was especially fatalistic and unfair to the Lord. They imagined the past as better than it was (slaves in Egypt did not eat meat in abundance). Their unbelief distorted their perception of reality. They did not believe God would keep His promises.

16:6, 7 God would give meat and bread, and they would learn from the experience (v. 12). The knowing and the seeing are the results of receiving God's miraculous provision. This provision would help the people recognize that the Lord was their splendid deliverer. This message needed to be assimilated so as to influence how they viewed life and made decisions.

16:15 Provision of manna meant the Israelites could travel without concern for obtaining food. Since manna (Heb. man hu', lit. "What is it?") was not the product of strenuous labor, its gracious provision in a sense reversed a result of the Fall (see Gen. 3:17–19).

16:20 Since each had what was needed for a day (vv. 17, 18), to attempt to save part for a second day meant going hungry and failing to enjoy properly what God had given for that day. This disobedience grew out of refusing to trust God (v. 19).

MIRIAM A Natural Leader

Miriam, an intelligent child, became, with her brothers Aaron and Moses, a leader of the people of Israel. Her first appearance, babysitting her little brother beside the Nile River, demonstrates her keen mind. She volunteered to find a wet nurse for the baby when the Egyptian princess expressed her intention to adopt the child, thus allowing Moses' mother, Jochebed, to nurture him.

More than eighty years later, God delivered His people from the bondage of Egypt; and after the miracle of crossing the Red Sea on dry land, Miriam led the women in dancing and singing as a celebration to God. She was clearly gifted as a natural leader and was considered the foremost of all the Hebrew women, being also gifted as a musician and prophetess (Ex. 15:20). She undoubtedly was included at the council table with her brothers, and Miriam, as his older sister, may even have acted as a surrogate mother to Moses. There is no evidence in the text that she ever married. As a single woman, she committed herself to building the nation of Israel. Her career appears to be outside the home.

During the tumultuous days journeying across the desert, Moses' wife became a concern to Miriam. Whether this "Ethiopian woman" who had joined the group was Zipporah or a second wife is not known (see Num. 12:1). But her presence was cause for criticism and jealousy from Miriam and Aaron. They were not concerned because of her color but because she was from a foreign land. They apparently discussed their feelings, concluding together that they as leaders were being slighted. Miriam's mistake was her sarcastic rejection of her brother's leadership.

In anger the Lord disciplined Miriam with instant leprosy, thus banning her from the camp (Num. 12:10, 14). Because of the fervent prayers of her brothers, God restored her, but there is no evidence that her influence was again blessed of God. She died before reaching the Promised Land (Num. 20:1).

This gifted woman left a caution for every female leader. God alone gives and removes both talent and importance. Miriam incurred God's displeasure when she allowed herself to challenge the authority God had given Moses. She allowed jealousy and spitefulness to rob her of fulfillment in her later years.

one. And all the rulers of the congregation came and told Moses. 23Then he said to them, "This is what the LORD has said: 'Tomorrow is a Sabbath rest, a holy Sabbath to the LORD. Bake what you will bake today, and boil what you will boil; and lay up for yourselves all that remains, to be kept until morning.' " 24So they laid it up till morning, as Moses commanded; and it did not stink, nor were there any worms in it. 25Then Moses said, "Eat that today, for today is a Sabbath to the LORD; today you will not find it in the field. 26Six days you shall gather it, but on the seventh day, the Sabbath, there will be none."

27Now it happened that some of the people went out on the seventh day to gather, but they found none. 28And the LORD said to Moses, "How long do you refuse to keep My commandments and My laws? 29See! For the LORD has given you the Sabbath; therefore He gives you on the sixth day bread for two days. Let every man remain in his place; let no man go out of his place on the seventh day." 30So the people rested on the seventh day.

31And the house of Israel called its name Manna.[a] And it was like white coriander seed, and the taste of it was like wafers made with honey.

32Then Moses said, "This is the thing which the LORD has commanded: 'Fill an omer with it, to be kept for your generations, that they may see the bread with which I fed you in the wilderness, when I brought you out of the land of Egypt.' " 33And Moses said to Aaron, "Take a pot and put an omer of manna in it, and lay it up before the LORD, to be kept for your generations." 34As the LORD commanded Moses, so Aaron laid it up before the Testimony, to be kept. 35And the children of Israel ate manna forty years, until they came to an inhabited land; they ate manna until they came to 16:29, 30 The Lord's provision made rest possible. The people could stop working and rest on the seventh day because the Lord had given what they needed. Pharaoh would not have done this for them.

16:31–36 The name manna, its description, the record of its duration, the mention of the measure used for it, and, most important, the command to save some of it would be a memorial of God's provision to share with future generations (see v. 15, note). God's people must remember His provision in order to trust His love and ability to meet future needs (see also Deut. 8; John 6:1–13). "The Testimony" refers to the tablets of stone that God gave Moses and to the "ark of the Testimony," in which the tablets were deposited (v. 34; Ex. 25:16, 21, 22; 30:36; 31:18).

the border of the land of Canaan. 36Now an omer is one-tenth of an ephah.

Water from the Rock

17 Then all the congregation of the children of Israel set out on their journey from the Wilderness of Sin, according to the commandment of the LORD, and camped in Rephidim; but there was no water for the people to drink. 2Therefore the people contended with Moses, and said, "Give us water, that we may drink."

So Moses said to them, "Why do you contend with me? Why do you tempt the LORD?"

3And the people thirsted there for water, and the people complained against Moses, and said, "Why is it you have brought us up out of Egypt, to kill us and our children and our livestock with thirst?"

4So Moses cried out to the LORD, saying, "What shall I do with this people? They are almost ready to stone me!"

5And the LORD said to Moses, "Go on before the people, and take with you some of the elders of Israel. Also take in your hand your rod with which you struck the river, and go. 6Behold, I will stand before you there on the rock in Horeb; and you shall strike the rock, and water will come out of it, that the people may drink."

And Moses did so in the sight of the elders of Israel. 7So he called the name of the place Massah[a] and Meribah,[b] because of the contention of the children of Israel, and because they tempted the LORD, saying, "Is the LORD among us or not?"

Victory over the Amalekites

8Now Amalek came and fought with Israel in Rephidim. 9And Moses said to Joshua, "Choose us some men and go out, fight with Amalek. Tomorrow I will stand on the top of the hill with the rod of God in my hand." 10So Joshua did as Moses said to him, and fought with Amalek. And Moses, Aaron, and Hur went up to the top of the hill. 11And so it was, when Moses held up his hand, that Israel prevailed; and when he let down his hand, Amalek prevailed. 12But Moses' hands became heavy; so they took a stone and put it under him, and he sat on it. And Aaron and Hur supported his hands, one on one side, and the other on the other side; and his hands were steady until the going down of the sun. 13So Joshua defeated Amalek and his people with the edge of the sword.

14Then the LORD said to Moses, "Write this for a memorial in the book and recount it in the hearing of Joshua, that I will utterly blot out the remembrance of Amalek from under heaven." 15And Moses built an altar and called its name, The-LORD-Is-My-Banner;[a] 16for he said, "Because the LORD has sworn: the LORD will have war with Amalek from generation to generation."

Jethro's Advice

18 And Jethro, the priest of Midian, Moses' father-in-law, heard of all that God had done for Moses and for Israel His people—that the LORD had brought Israel out of Egypt. 2Then Jethro, Moses' father-in-law, took Zipporah, Moses' wife, after he had sent her back, 3with her two sons, of whom the name of one was Gershom (for he said, "I have been a stranger in a foreign land")[a] 4and the name of the other was Eliezer[a] (for he said, "The God of my father was my help, and delivered me from the sword of Pharaoh"); 5and Jethro, Moses' father-in-law, came with his sons and his wife to Moses in the wilderness, where he was encamped at the mountain of God. 6Now he had said to Moses, "I, your father-in-law Jethro, am coming to you with your wife and her two sons with her."

7So Moses went out to meet his father-in-law, bowed down, and kissed him. And they asked each other about their well-being, and they went into the tent. 8And Moses told his father-in-law all that the LORD had done to Pharaoh and to the Egyptians

17:7 Massah and Meribah recall the Israelites' behavior in Rephidim. The name Massah is related to the verb translated "tempt" (vv. 2, 7) and "test" (Ex. 15:25; 16:4; Deut. 8:2, 16). The name Meribah is related to the verb translated "contend" (Ex. 17:2) and the noun "contention" (v. 7). This second family of words was frequently used of legal disputes (Ex. 23:2, 3, 6). The Israelites had "brought charges" against the Lord, not Moses, accusing the Lord of not properly taking care of them. The question about His presence among them summarizes their accusation that He was not acting on their behalf as they thought He should.

17:11 The lifting of Moses' hands symbolized dependence on the Lord, especially since Moses held the rod that God had instructed him to use in the past (vv. 5–7, 9; Ex. 4:17; 7:10–12; 9:23; 10:13; 14:16). There was no victory apart from God's intervention.

17:15 For the purpose of worship in gratitude for deliverance, Moses built a commemorative altar (see similarly Gen. 8:18–20; 12:7, 8; 33:18–20; 35:1–7). Aside from drought and famine, war was the greatest threat to Israel's physical existence and prosperity. In ancient and modern warfare, banners and flags symbolize unity and strength of purpose. The name Moses gave the altar reminded the people that the Lord was responsible for their victories.

18:1 Jethro. See Ex. 2:16, note.

18:3 Gershom. See Ex. 2:22, note.

18:4 Eliezer (Heb.), containing the elements 'eli ("my God") and 'ezer ("help") gave praise to God for Moses' safe escape from Pharaoh (see Ex. 2:11–15).

18:5 The mountain of God (see Ex. 3:1, note; 3:12; 4:27; 19:2, 3, 11; 24:13).

for Israel's sake, all the hardship that had come upon them on the way, and how the LORD had delivered them. 9Then Jethro rejoiced for all the good which the LORD had done for Israel, whom He had delivered out of the hand of the Egyptians. 10And Jethro said, "Blessed be the LORD, who has delivered you out of the hand of the Egyptians and out of the hand of Pharaoh, and who has delivered the people from under the hand of the Egyptians. 11Now I know that the LORD is greater than all the gods; for in the very thing in which they behaved proudly, He was above them." 12Then Jethro, Moses' father-in-law, took[a] a burnt offering and other sacrifices to offer to God. And Aaron came with all the elders of Israel to eat bread with Moses' father-in-law before God.

13And so it was, on the next day, that Moses sat to judge the people; and the people stood before Moses from morning until evening. 14So when Moses' father-in-law saw all that he did for the people, he said, "What is this thing that you are doing for the people? Why do you alone sit, and all the people stand before you from morning until evening?"

15And Moses said to his father-in-law, "Because the people come to me to inquire of God. 16When they have a difficulty, they come to me, and I judge between one and another; and I make known the statutes of God and His laws."

17So Moses' father-in-law said to him, "The thing that you do is not good. 18Both you and these people who are with you will surely wear yourselves out. For this thing is too much for you; you are not able to perform it by yourself. 19Listen now to my voice; I will give you counsel, and God will be with you: Stand before God for the people, so that you may bring the difficulties to God. 20And you shall teach them the statutes and the laws, and show them the way in which they must walk and the work they must do. 21Moreover you shall select from all the people able men, such as fear God, men of truth, hating covetousness; and place such over them to be rulers of thousands, rulers of hundreds, rulers of fifties, and rulers of tens. 22And let them judge the people at all times. Then it will be that every great matter they shall bring to you, but every small matter they themselves shall judge. So it will be easier for you, for they will bear the burden with you. 23If you do this thing, and God so commands you, then you will be able to endure, and all this people will also go to their place in peace."

24So Moses heeded the voice of his father-in-law and did all that he had said. 25And Moses chose able men out of all Israel, and made them heads over the people: rulers of thousands, rulers of hundreds, rulers of fifties, and rulers of tens. 26So they judged the people at all times; the hard cases they brought to Moses, but they judged every small case themselves.

27Then Moses let his father-in-law depart, and he went his way to his own land.

Israel at Mount Sinai

19 In the third month after the children of Israel had gone out of the land of Egypt, on the same day, they came to the Wilderness of Sinai. 2For they had departed from Rephidim, had come to the Wilderness of Sinai, and camped in the wilderness. So Israel camped there before the mountain.

3And Moses went up to God, and the LORD called to him from the mountain, saying, "Thus you shall say to the house of Jacob, and tell the children of Israel: 4'You have seen what I did to the Egyptians, and how I bore you on eagles' wings and brought you to Myself. 5Now therefore, if you will indeed obey My voice and keep My covenant, then you shall be a special treasure to Me above all people; for all the earth is Mine. 6And you shall be to Me a kingdom of priests and a holy nation.' These are the words which you shall speak to the children of Israel."

7So Moses came and called for the elders of the people, and laid before them all these words which

18:12 [a]Following Masoretic Text and Septuagint; Syriac, Targum, and Vulgate read offered.

19:1, 2 This mountain, Mount Sinai, is traditionally identified with Jebel Musa in the south-central Sinai peninsula (v. 11). "Wilderness" and "desert" translate a term that refers to uninhabited land with enough grass for grazing at certain times.

19:5 Covenants of two kinds regulated relations between individuals and between nations in the ancient Near East. Parity covenants were negotiated between equals. In suzerain-assal covenants, a powerful king set out his terms that were to be obeyed by an underling. The covenant between the Lord and Israel described in Exodus 19–24 and in Deuteronomy has features of a suzerain-vassal treaty, a legal instrument that the Israelites would readily have understood. Such features visible in Exodus include a preamble that identifies the giver of the treaty (Ex. 20:2), a historical prologue stating beneficial actions by the king (v. 4; Ex. 20:2; and in a sense Ex. 1–17), covenant stipulations (Ex. 20–23), requirement of absolute allegiance (Ex. 20:3, 23; 23:13, 24, 25; 34:11–17), formal sealing of the covenant (Ex. 24:9–11), and provisions for preserving the covenant document (Ex. 24:4, 7, 12; 25:16; 34:27, 28). No other ancient Near East treaty exists between a god and people.

19:6 As the priests were to the other Israelites, so Israel should be to the nations. Priests represented God to the people, and they represented the people to God. They were to aid people bringing sacrifices and offerings in worship that acknowledged dependence on God for forgiveness and the necessities of physical life. They were also responsible to teach the Law of God and to act as impartial judges (see Mal. 2:4–9).

the LORD commanded him. 8Then all the people answered together and said, "All that the LORD has spoken we will do." So Moses brought back the words of the people to the LORD. 9And the LORD said to Moses, "Behold, I come to you in the thick cloud, that the people may hear when I speak with you, and believe you forever."

So Moses told the words of the people to the LORD.

10Then the LORD said to Moses, "Go to the people and consecrate them today and tomorrow, and let them wash their clothes. 11And let them be ready for the third day. For on the third day the LORD will come down upon Mount Sinai in the sight of all the people. 12You shall set bounds for the people all around, saying, 'Take heed to yourselves that you do not go up to the mountain or touch its base. Whoever touches the mountain shall surely be put to death. 13Not a hand shall touch him, but he shall surely be stoned or shot with an arrow; whether man or beast, he shall not live.' When the trumpet sounds long, they shall come near the mountain."

14So Moses went down from the mountain to the people and sanctified the people, and they washed their clothes. 15And he said to the people, "Be ready for the third day; do not come near your wives."

16Then it came to pass on the third day, in the morning, that there were thunderings and lightnings, and a thick cloud on the mountain; and the sound of the trumpet was very loud, so that all the people who were in the camp trembled. 17And Moses brought the people out of the camp to meet with God, and they stood at the foot of the mountain. 18Now Mount Sinai was completely in smoke, because the LORD descended upon it in fire. Its smoke ascended like the smoke of a furnace, and the whole mountain[a] quaked greatly. 19And when the blast of the trumpet sounded long and became louder and louder, Moses spoke, and God answered him by voice. 20Then the LORD came down upon Mount Sinai, on the top of the mountain. And the LORD called Moses to the top of the mountain, and Moses went up.

21And the LORD said to Moses, "Go down and warn the people, lest they break through to gaze at the LORD, and many of them perish. 22Also let the priests who come near the LORD consecrate themselves, lest the LORD break out against them."

23But Moses said to the LORD, "The people cannot come up to Mount Sinai; for You warned us, saying, 'Set bounds around the mountain and consecrate it.' "

24Then the LORD said to him, "Away! Get down and then come up, you and Aaron with you. But do not let the priests and the people break through to come up to the LORD, lest He break out against them." 25So Moses went down to the people and spoke to them.

The Ten Commandments

20 And God spoke all these words, saying:

2"I am the LORD your God, who brought you out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of bondage.

3"You shall have no other gods before Me.

4"You shall not make for yourself a carved image—any likeness of anything that is in 19:18 [a]Septuagint reads all the people.

19:15 The Israelites needed to be consecrated or sanctified (that is, set apart from what was ordinary and everyday) in recognition of the presence of the Lord (vv. 10, 14). The concept of holiness and sanctification requires the making of distinctions (see Lev. 19, Clean vs. Unclean; Lev. 20, Holiness). To set off the coming event, the Israelites were to wash their clothes and stay off the mountain (v. 12; see also Ex. 3:5). Prohibiting sexual intercourse reflected the need to be clean ritually (see Lev. 15:16–18, 31) and would also have distinguished this event from pagan worship, which often included sexual rites. The span of time (three days) and the special instructions gave an opportunity for thoughtful assent to the covenant.

19:16–19 This display of God's power had purpose (v. 9; Ex. 20:20). The thunder, lightning, trumpet, thick cloud, smoke, fire, trembling mountain, and audible voice called all the senses to attention so as to inspire awe at the special presence of the Lord. Yet they provided no fixed appearance that could be used to make an image to worship.

20:1–17 The Ten Commandments (lit. "words" or "pronouncements"; see Ex. 34:28; Deut. 4:13; 10:4; chart, The Ten Commandments Throughout Scripture). Also called the Decalogue (Gk. deka, "ten," and logoi, "words"), these statements are the basic principles of the Lord's covenant with Israel (Ex. 20:23—23:19). Reasons for obedience are prominently tied to who the Lord is and what He does (vv. 2, 5–7, 11, 12). The statements address each person individually (using "you" singular), with verses 2–11 centering on the individual's relationship with the Lord, while verses 12–17 discuss dealings with others.

20:3 No other gods before Me (lit. "in the presence of") does not imply that other gods could be worshiped secondarily or along with the Lord (see v. 5).

The People Afraid of God's Presence

18Now all the people witnessed the thunderings, the lightning flashes, the sound of the trumpet, and the mountain smoking; and when the people saw it, they trembled and stood afar off. 19Then they said to Moses, "You speak with us, and we will hear; but let not God speak with us, lest we die."

20And Moses said to the people, "Do not fear; for God has come to test you, and that His fear may be before you, so that you may not sin." 21So the people stood afar off, but Moses drew near the thick darkness where God was.

The Law of the Altar

22Then the LORD said to Moses, "Thus you shall say to the children of Israel: 'You have seen that I have talked with you from heaven. 23You shall not make anything to be with Me—gods of silver or gods of gold you shall not make for yourselves. 24An altar of earth you shall make for Me, and you shall sacrifice on it your burnt offerings and your peace offerings, your sheep and your oxen. In every place where I record My name I will come to you, and I will bless you. 25And if you make Me an altar of stone, you shall not build it of hewn stone; for if you use your tool on it, you have profaned it. 26Nor shall you go up by steps to My altar, that your nakedness may not be exposed on it.'

The Law Concerning Servants

21 "Now these are the judgments which you shall set before them: 2If you buy a Hebrew

20:5, 6 The word translated jealous does not mean "suspicious" or "envious." Rather, God is zealous to protect what properly belongs to Him. The right understanding of His nature and deeds leads to exclusive worship. That understanding and worship are both lost when anything He created becomes an object of devotion (see Deut. 4, Attributes of God). The clause "those who hate Me" may apply to parents or children or both. For children to experience the consequences of the sins of their parents does not imply that God neglected to punish the parents (see Deut. 7:9, 10; Ezek. 18:19–23, 30–32) or that the Israelites inflicted punishment on children for the crimes of their parents (see Deut. 24:16; 2 Kin. 14:6). The word translated "mercy" (Heb. chesed, lit. "loyal love" or "lovingkindness") has to do with keeping covenantal bonds and promises, as illustrated by David and Jonathan (1 Sam. 18:1–4; 20:12–17; 2 Sam. 9:1–7).

20:7 In vain has the idea of "for nothing, uselessly, falsely" (Ex. 23:1). One use of the Lord's name was in taking oaths, in which the speaker affirmed a statement by saying, "As the LORD lives" (that is, witnesses my words and will hold me accountable; see Lev. 19:12; 2 Sam. 2:27; Jer. 4:2). The Lord's name includes His nature and reputation, which the Israelites were to guard, so as not to associate Him with any lie, pagan cursing, magic incantations, fortune-telling, or any other empty or insincere purpose. To take the Lord's name "in vain" amounted to denying the reality of His existence or moral character. More than verbal profanity is prohibited here (see also Matt. 6:9; John 17:6; 2 Tim. 2:19).

20:8–11 No connection has been established between the Israelite Sabbath and observances in any other ancient culture. Nor does it derive from movements of the sun, moon, or stars, as do other units of time. It reflects the fact that the governing of time and activity belongs to the Lord (see Ex. 23, The Lord's Day; chart, The Principle of the Sabbath).

20:24 Burnt offerings are sacrifices that were totally burned on the altar (see chart, The Offerings of the Lord). This signified the complete dedication of the one offering the sacrifice. "Peace offerings" pointed to the covenant relationship and communion between individuals and God. Part of the sacrifice was burned and part was eaten. Hospitality in a communal meal was made possible because of God's actions on behalf of the one who offered the sacrifice.

20:25 To cut the stones with tools would "profane" the stone, in other words, make it common and ordinary the opposite of holy, sanctified, consecrated, set apart.

21:1 The judgments, a collection of case studies or judicial rulings, are introduced (Ex. 21:2—22:17). Beginning with an

"if" clause, these "case laws" set forth a particular situation, followed by a conclusion. In contrast to the Ten Commandments, they deal with specific situations requiring decisions concerning disputes and conflicting rights and wishes. Unlike other ancient Near Eastern collections of laws, which are presented as coming from human kings, these judgments, along with the Ten Commandments, came from God as part of His provision for His people to live distinctively as a "holy nation" with Him in their midst (Ex. 19:6; see Deut. 4:5–8).

GODDESS RELIGION OPPOSED TO GOD

Goddess worshipers believe that deity is immanent in all things. They view "God" as an internal, universal feminine force rather than an external, autonomous Being, and they consider the female body as the direct incarnation of the waxing and waning life and death cycle in nature. They use idols of ancient female deities such as Artemis, Asherah, or Isis to represent universal female (and thus their own) power.

Goddess worshipers seek to create justice as well as ecological and social balance through ritual magic, spellcasting, and the generation of energy. They purport that the New Age will appear when all people come to recognize their oneness with the universe and respect the deity of others and of nature.

Goddess religion stands in direct opposition to the monotheistic worship of Yahweh God. God's wrath is against those who change His glory into images of humans and animals and who worship and serve the creation rather than the Creator (Rom. 1:22–26).

servant, he shall serve six years; and in the seventh he shall go out free and pay nothing. 3If he comes in by himself, he shall go out by himself; if he comes in married, then his wife shall go out with him. 4If his master has given him a wife, and she has borne him sons or daughters, the wife and her children shall be her master's, and he shall go out by himself. 5But if the servant plainly says, 'I love my master, my wife, and my children; I will not go out free,' 6then his master shall bring him to the judges. He shall also bring him to the door, or to the doorpost, and his master shall pierce his ear with an awl; and he shall serve him forever.

7"And if a man sells his daughter to be a female slave, she shall not go out as the male slaves do. 8If she does not please her master, who has betrothed her to himself, then he shall let her be redeemed. He shall have no right to sell her to a foreign people, since he has dealt deceitfully with her. 9And if he has betrothed her to his son, he shall deal with her according to the custom of daughters. 10If he takes another wife, he shall not diminish her food, her clothing, and her marriage rights. 11And if he does not do these three for her, then she shall go out free, without paying money.

The Law Concerning Violence

12"He who strikes a man so that he dies shall surely be put to death. 13However, if he did not lie in wait, but God delivered him into his hand, then I will appoint for you a place where he may flee.

14"But if a man acts with premeditation against his neighbor, to kill him by treachery, you shall take him from My altar, that he may die.

15"And he who strikes his father or his mother shall surely be put to death.

16"He who kidnaps a man and sells him, or if he is found in his hand, shall surely be put to death.

17"And he who curses his father or his mother shall surely be put to death.

18"If men contend with each other, and one strikes the other with a stone or with his fist, and he does not die but is confined to his bed, 19if he rises again and walks about outside with his staff, then he who struck him shall be acquitted. He shall only pay for the loss of his time, and shall provide for him to be thoroughly healed.

20"And if a man beats his male or female servant with a rod, so that he dies under his hand, he shall surely be punished. 21Notwithstanding, if he remains alive a day or two, he shall not be punished; for he is his property.

22"If men fight, and hurt a woman with child, so that she gives birth prematurely, yet no harm follows, he shall surely be punished accordingly as the woman's husband imposes on him; and he shall pay as the judges determine. 23But if any harm follows, then you shall give life for life, 24eye for themselves as servants, to be freed after six years (Deut. 15:12–18; see Luke 9, the Homeless; Luke 16, Poverty).

21:7–11 The situation of a girl sold by her father was different from that of the servants (vv. 2–6). Her father sold her with the expectation that she would in due time marry the household's master or his son. If designated for the son, she must be protected like a daughter (v. 9). This presupposes not a loveless relationship but one of loving concern. The meaning of the word translated "marriage rights" is disputed (v. 10). Some scholars connect it to words meaning "dwelling" and "shelter." In any case, the master of the house was to provide for her, even if there were another wife (see also Deut. 21:15–17). The regulations governing any exceptions seem to have the interest of the slave rather than the master in mind (see also article, Renewed by His Grace).

21:22, 23 Though in recent decades both proponents and opponents of abortion have cited these verses for support, several observations prohibit using these verses to support abortion.

- They appear in the context of the Book of Exodus with its concern for preserving infant life (Ex. 1; 2).
- The fact of pregnancy as part of the case must imply concern for the unborn child, or the situation could involve another bystander and be covered by other verses (vv. 12–14, 18, 19).
- Even if it is asserted that a fine was assessed for the death eye, tooth for tooth, hand for hand, foot for foot, stripe.

26 "If a man strikes the eye of his male or female servant, and destroys it, he shall let him go free for the sake of his eye. 27 And if he knocks out the tooth of his male or female servant, he shall let him go free for the sake of his tooth.

Animal Control Laws

28 "If an ox gores a man or a woman to death, then the ox shall surely be stoned, and its flesh shall not be eaten; but the owner of the ox shall be acquitted. 29 But if the ox tended to thrust with its horn in times past, and it has been made known to his owner, and he has not kept it confined, so that it has killed a man or a woman, the ox shall be stoned and its owner also shall be put to death.
30 If there is imposed on him a sum of money, then he shall pay to redeem his life, whatever is imposed on him. 31 Whether it has gored a son or gored a daughter, according to this judgment it shall be done to him. 32 If the ox gores a male or female servant, he shall give to their master thirty shekels of silver, and the ox shall be stoned.
33 "And if a man opens a pit, or if a man digs a pit and does not cover it, and an ox or a donkey falls in it, 34 the owner of the pit shall make it good; he shall give money to their owner, but the dead animal shall be his.
35 "If one man's ox hurts another's, so that it dies, then they shall sell the live ox and divide the money from it; and the dead ox they shall also divide. 36 Or if it was known that the ox tended to thrust in time past, and its owner has not kept it confined, he shall surely pay ox for ox, and the dead animal shall be his own.

Responsibility for Property

22 "If a man steals an ox or a sheep, and slaughters it or sells it, he shall restore five oxen for an ox and four sheep for a sheep. 2 If the thief is found breaking in, and he is struck so that he dies, there shall be no guilt for his bloodshed. 3 If the sun has risen on him, there shall be guilt for his bloodshed. He should make full restitution; if he has nothing, then he shall be sold for his theft. 4 If the theft is certainly found alive in his hand, whether it is an ox or donkey or sheep, he shall restore double.
5 "If a man causes a field or vineyard to be grazed, and lets loose his animal, and it feeds in another man's field, he shall make restitution from the best of his own field and the best of his own vineyard.
6 "If fire breaks out and catches in thorns, so that stacked grain, standing grain, or the field is consumed, he who kindled the fire shall surely make restitution.
7 "If a man delivers to his neighbor money or articles to keep, and it is stolen out of the man's house, if the thief is found, he shall pay double. 8 If the thief is not found, then the master of the house shall be brought to the judges to see whether he has put his hand into his neighbor's goods.
9 "For any kind of trespass, whether it concerns an ox, a donkey, a sheep, or clothing, or for any kind of lost thing which another claims to be his, the cause of both parties shall come before the judges; and whomever the judges condemn shall pay double to his neighbor. 10 If a man delivers to his neighbor a donkey, an ox, a sheep, or any animal to keep, and it dies, is hurt, or driven away, no one seeing it, 11 then an oath of the LORD shall be between them both, that he has not put his hand into his neighbor's goods; and the owner of it shall accept that, and he shall not make it good.
12 But if, in fact, it is stolen from him, he shall make restitution to the owner of it. 13 If it is torn to pieces by a beast, then he shall bring it as evidence, and he shall not make good what was torn.
14 "And if a man borrows anything from his neighbor, and it becomes injured or dies, the owner of it not being with it, he shall surely make it good. 15 If its owner was with it, he shall not make it good; if it was hired, it came for its hire.

Moral and Ceremonial Principles

16 "If a man entices a virgin who is not betrothed, and lies with her, he shall surely pay the bride-price for her to be his wife. 17 If her father utterly refuses to give her to him, he shall pay money according to the bride-price of virgins.
18 "You shall not permit a sorceress to live.
19 "Whoever lies with an animal shall surely be put to death.
20 "He who sacrifices to any god, except to the LORD only, he shall be utterly destroyed.
21 "You shall neither mistreat a stranger nor oppress him, for you were strangers in the land of Egypt.

of the child rather than the death penalty, that does not indicate that unborn life is valueless or can be extinguished without penalty but just the opposite (see differing penalties involving adults, children, and slaves, vv. 30–32).

• The case in Exodus describes unintentional injury.

22:18 Numerous OT passages condemn the practices and practitioners of sorcery and related activities (Lev. 19:26, 31; 20:6, 27; Deut. 18:9–14; Is. 47:9–14; Mic. 5:12; Mal. 3:5; see Acts 13:8–10; 19:19). To attempt to exercise power by means of knowledge or control of spirits could never combine with allegiance to the one true and living Lord God (see Deut. 18, The Occult; 1 Sam. 15, Witchcraft). All such practices in essence deny the Lord's power and goodness.

MISCARRIAGE AN EXPERIENCE OF BEREAVEMENT

Though the experience of miscarriage is described in the Bible, the word "miscarriage" is seldom used in the Old Testament and never used in the New Testament. The Hebrew word shakol is translated as "miscarriage" or "miscarrying" (Ex. 23:26; Hos. 9:14). Other forms are translated "bereavement" in relationship to children. To be pregnant is to be "with child" (Ex. 21:22). To miscarry, an experience of bereavement, is to miss the opportunity to carry a child from conception until the child can live outside the womb.

As a child develops in the womb, an emotional bond between mother and child is established and grows in strength. The unborn child responds to things in the internal and external environment (Luke 1:41). The depth of grief following miscarriage varies according to the degree of bonding that has taken place between the parents and the child in the womb (Prov. 13:12). The miscarriage of a pregnant bystander (owing to a fight between men) carried a severe penalty (Ex. 21:22). The fine, proposed by the father and imposed by judges, may have been determined by the development of the child.

Hosea proposed "miscarrying wombs" as one of the consequences of Israel's longstanding, deliberate disobedience to the covenant the Lord had made with Israel (Hos. 9:13–16). Miscarriage, however, was not viewed as judgment on selected women for personal sin. It is rather a consequence of living in a fallen world (Rom. 5:12, 14).

Both parents share in the loss of their child and need to be comforted by Christian friends (Eccl. 3:4; Rom. 12:15; Phil. 2:1, 2). The parents may need to be reminded that God's love encompasses the preborn and that He is involved in the development of the child in the womb (Ps. 139:13, 14). The "infants who never saw light" of day are at rest (Job 3:16, 17). Children, though lost to earthly life, are special to God (Mark 10:14), and Christian parents will one day be reunited with them (2 Sam. 12:23).

22"You shall not afflict any widow or fatherless child. 23If you afflict them in any way, and they cry at all to Me, I will surely hear their cry; 24and My wrath will become hot, and I will kill you with the sword; your wives shall be widows, and your children fatherless.

25"If you lend money to any of My people who are poor among you, you shall not be like a money-lender to him; you shall not charge him interest.
26If you ever take your neighbor's garment as a pledge, you shall return it to him before the sun goes down. 27For that is his only covering, it is his garment for his skin. What will he sleep in? And it will be that when he cries to Me, I will hear, for I am gracious.

28"You shall not revile God, nor curse a ruler of your people.

29"You shall not delay to offer the first of your ripe produce and your juices. The firstborn of your sons you shall give to Me. 30Likewise you shall do with your oxen and your sheep. It shall be with its mother seven days; on the eighth day you shall give it to Me.

31"And you shall be holy men to Me: you shall not eat meat torn by beasts in the field; you shall throw it to the dogs.

Justice for All

23 "You shall not circulate a false report. Do not put your hand with the wicked to be an unrighteous witness. 2You shall not follow a crowd to do evil; nor shall you testify in a dispute so as to turn aside after many to pervert justice. 3You shall not show partiality to a poor man in his dispute.

4"If you meet your enemy's ox or his donkey going astray, you shall surely bring it back to him again. 5If you see the donkey of one who hates you lying under its burden, and you would refrain from helping it, you shall surely help him with it.

6"You shall not pervert the judgment of your poor in his dispute. 7Keep yourself far from a false matter; do not kill the innocent and righteous.
For I will not justify the wicked. 8And you shall take no bribe, for a bribe blinds the discerning and perverts the words of the righteous.

9"Also you shall not oppress a stranger, for you know the heart of a stranger, because you were strangers in the land of Egypt.

The Law of Sabbaths

10"Six years you shall sow your land and gather in its produce, 11but the seventh year you shall let it rest and lie fallow, that the poor of your people may eat; and what they leave, the beasts of the field may eat. In like manner you shall do with your vineyard and your olive grove. 12Six days you shall do your work, and on the seventh day you shall rest, that your ox and your donkey may rest, and the son of your female servant and the stranger may be refreshed.

13"And in all that I have said to you, be circum-spect and make no mention of the name of other gods, nor let it be heard from your mouth.

Three Annual Feasts

14"Three times you shall keep a feast to Me in the year: 15You shall keep the Feast of Unleavened Bread (you shall eat unleavened bread seven days, as I commanded you, at the time appointed in the month of Abib, for in it you came out of Egypt; none shall appear before Me empty); 16and the Feast of Harvest, the firstfruits of your labors which you have sown in the field; and the Feast of Ingathering at the end of the year, when you have gathered in the fruit of your labors from the field.

17"Three times in the year all your males shall appear before the Lord GOD.[a]

18"You shall not offer the blood of My sacrifice with leavened bread; nor shall the fat of My sacrifice remain until morning. 19The first of the firstfruits of your land you shall bring into the house of the LORD your God. You shall not boil a young goat in its mother's milk.

The Angel and the Promises

20"Behold, I send an Angel before you to keep you in the way and to bring you into the place which I have prepared. 21Beware of Him and obey His voice; do not provoke Him, for He will not pardon your transgressions; for My name is in Him. 22But if you indeed obey His voice and do all that I speak, then I will be an enemy to your enemies and an adversary to your adversaries. 23For My Angel will go before you and bring you in to the Amorites and the Hittites and the Perizzites and the Canaanites and the Hivites and the Jebusites; and I will cut them off. 24You shall not bow down to their gods, nor serve them, nor do according to their works; but you shall utterly overthrow them and completely break down their sacred pillars.

25"So you shall serve the LORD your God, and He will bless your bread and your water. And I will take sickness away from the midst of you. 26No one shall suffer miscarriage or be barren in your land; I will fulfill the number of your days.

27"I will send My fear before you, I will cause confusion among all the people to whom you come, and will make all your enemies turn their backs to you. 28And I will send hornets before you, which shall drive out the Hivite, the Canaanite, and the Hittite from before you. 29I will not drive them out from before you in one year, lest the land become desolate and the beasts of the field become too numerous for you. 30Little by little I will drive them out from before you, until you have increased, and you inherit the land. 31And I will set your bounds from the Red Sea to the sea, Philistia, and from the desert to the River.[a] For I will deliver the inhabitants of the land into your hand, and you shall drive them out before you. 32You shall make no covenant with them, nor with their gods. 33They shall not dwell in your land, lest they make you sin against Me. For if you serve their gods, it will surely be a snare to you."

Israel Affirms the Covenant

24 Now He said to Moses, "Come up to the LORD, you and Aaron, Nadab and Abihu, and seventy of the elders of Israel, and worship from afar. 2And Moses alone shall come near the LORD, but they shall not come near; nor shall the people go up with him."

3So Moses came and told the people all the words of the LORD and all the judgments. And all the people answered with one voice and said, "All the words which the LORD has said we will do." 4And Moses wrote all the words of the LORD. And he rose early in the morning, and built an altar at the foot of the mountain, and twelve pillars according to the twelve tribes of Israel. 5Then he sent young men of the children of Israel, who offered burnt offerings and sacrificed peace

23:17 [a]Hebrew YHWH, usually translated LORD 23:31 [a]Hebrew Nahar, the Euphrates

23:16 The Feast of Harvest—also called the Feast of Weeks (Heb. shavu'ot, lit. "weeks"), Pentecost, "the day of the firstfruits" (Num. 28:26), and "the firstfruits of wheat harvest" (Ex. 34:22)—fell during the wheat harvest, seven weeks after the Feast of Unleavened Bread (see chart, The Feasts of Israel). The Feast of Ingathering or Tabernacles (Heb. sukkot, lit. "booths"), during which the people lived in temporary shelters, came at the end of the agricultural year when olives, grapes, and other fruits were picked.

23:17 Women also came to the three great celebrations but were not required to do so (Deut. 16:11, 14; 1 Sam. 1; Luke 2:41–44).

23:18, 19 The prohibition against boiling a young goat (v. 19) has received no entirely satisfactory explanation. Perhaps it attacked a pagan fertility rite, had a humane basis, or was connected with the Feast of Harvest. Since the statute prohibits cooking a kid in the milk of its own mother, its symbolism could have been focused on those who looked contemptuously on the relationship ordained of God between mother and child or on those who placed so low a value on life as to cook a young kid in what should have given it life (see Deut. 14:21, note). Later Judaism extended this to prohibit eating meat with any dairy product in the same meal, going beyond the directive in the text.

23:20–23 This section continues the Lord's revelation of Himself, inasmuch as His name—highly important in Exodus—was "in Him (the Angel)" (v. 21). Among the character traits revealed are leadership (He would have the task of guarding the people and bringing them to Canaan, v. 20), authority (He must be obeyed, v. 21), and righteousness (He would not pardon rebellion—violation of covenant obligations, v. 21). What He said is closely identified with what the Lord said (v. 22; see also Ex. 3:2, 11, 12, 13–15, notes).

THE LORD'S DAY A TIME FOR REST AND WORSHIP

The Sabbath—which means "rest"—is the seventh day of the Hebrew week (Gen. 2:2, 3). The Israelites were commanded to keep this day as a holy day of rest, reflection, and re-creation in honor of the Lord (Ex. 20:8–11).

The Sabbath served to remind the Israelites of their identity as God's covenant people and of their deliverance from Egypt (Ex. 31:12–17; Deut. 5:15; Is. 58:13, 14). It was a day that offered refreshment from work, both spiritually and physically (Ex. 23:10–12). Traditionally, Jews spend three days each week in eager anticipation of the Sabbath, then after it has passed, three days reflecting on its joy. The Old Testament has very sharp reminders to keep the Sabbath day (Is. 56:2; Jer. 17:19–27; Ezek. 44:24), as well as harsh punishment for a person who broke the Sabbath (Num. 15:32–36).

The Lord's Day, by comparison, was considered to be the "first day" of the week. A sign of the new beginning marked by the Resurrection of Jesus from the tomb, the Lord's Day quickly became the day on which the early church met for weekly worship (Acts 20:7; 1 Cor. 16:2). Yet rest remains an important part of the Lord's Day.

The Lord's Day is not to be filled with legalism, for that is what Christ frequently rebuked in His day. It should be the joyful focal point of the week, a day eagerly anticipated by the believer. We should approach it physically rested and attitudinally ready for the Lord to reveal Himself to us (Ps. 118:24).

offerings of oxen to the LORD. 6And Moses took half the blood and put it in basins, and half the blood he sprinkled on the altar. 7Then he took the Book of the Covenant and read in the hearing of the people. And they said, "All that the LORD has said we will do, and be obedient." 8And Moses took the blood, sprinkled it on the people, and said, "This is the blood of the covenant which the LORD has made with you according to all these words."

On the Mountain with God

9Then Moses went up, also Aaron, Nadab, and Abihu, and seventy of the elders of Israel, 10and they saw the God of Israel. And there was under His feet as it were a paved work of sapphire stone, and it was like the very heavens in its clarity. 11But on the nobles of the children of Israel He did not lay His hand. So they saw God, and they ate and drank.

12Then the LORD said to Moses, "Come up to Me on the mountain and be there; and I will give you tablets of stone, and the law and commandments which I have written, that you may teach them."

13So Moses arose with his assistant Joshua, and Moses went up to the mountain of God. 14And he said to the elders, "Wait here for us until we come back to you. Indeed, Aaron and Hur are with you. If any man has a difficulty, let him go to them." 15Then Moses went up into the mountain, and a cloud covered the mountain.

16Now the glory of the LORD rested on Mount Sinai, and the cloud covered it six days. And on the seventh day He called to Moses out of the midst of the cloud. 17The sight of the glory of the LORD was like a consuming fire on the top of the mountain in the eyes of the children of Israel. 18So Moses went into the midst of the cloud and went up into the mountain. And Moses was on the mountain forty days and forty nights.

Offerings for the Sanctuary

25 Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: 2"Speak to the children of Israel, that they bring Me an offering. From everyone who gives it willingly with his heart you shall take My offering. 3And this is the offering which you shall take from them: gold, silver, and bronze; 4blue, purple, and scarlet thread, fine linen, and goats' hair; 5ram skins dyed red, badger skins, and acacia wood; 6oil for the light, and spices for the anointing oil and for the sweet incense; 7onyx stones, and stones to be set in the ephod and in the breastplate. 8And let them make Me a sanctuary,

25:1—31:18 The Lord had announced that He would bring the Israelites out of Egypt so that they would be able to worship and serve Him by means that included sacrifices (Ex. 8:20–29). Exodus 25—31 records directions for constructing a place of worship and its furnishings and for making the clothing and conducting the dedication of the priests and Levites, who would tend the tabernacle and lead the nation in worship (see charts, The Furniture of the Tabernacle; The Plan of the Tabernacle).

25:8, 9 Let them make Me a sanctuary. The word translated "sanctuary" is closely related to words translated "holy, holiness, consecrate, sanctify." This was appropriate to God's holy character; He is separate from defilement. The tabernacle would be devoted to a special purpose, separated from everything profane or mundane, a holy place, so that it would be clear that God, though living among the Israelites, was separate from them (see Lev. 20, Holiness; Is. 6, Attributes of God).

that I may dwell among them. 9According to all that I show you, that is, the pattern of the tabernacle and the pattern of all its furnishings, just so you shall make it.

The Ark of the Testimony

10"And they shall make an ark of acacia wood; two and a half cubits shall be its length, a cubit and a half its width, and a cubit and a half its height. 11And you shall overlay it with pure gold, inside and out you shall overlay it, and shall make on it a molding of gold all around. 12You shall cast four rings of gold for it, and put them in its four corners; two rings shall be on one side, and two rings on the other side. 13And you shall make poles of acacia wood, and overlay them with gold. 14You shall put the poles into the rings on the sides of the ark, that the ark may be carried by them. 15The poles shall be in the rings of the ark; they shall not be taken from it. 16And you shall put into the ark the Testimony which I will give you.

17"You shall make a mercy seat of pure gold; two and a half cubits shall be its length and a cubit and a half its width. 18And you shall make two cherubim of gold; of hammered work you shall make them at the two ends of the mercy seat. 19Make one cherub at one end, and the other cherub at the other end; you shall make the cherubim at the two ends of it of one piece with the mercy seat. 20And the cherubim shall stretch out their wings above, covering the mercy seat with their wings, and they shall face one another; the faces of the cherubim shall be toward the mercy seat. 21You shall put the mercy seat on top of the ark, and in the ark you shall put the Testimony that I will give you. 22And there I will meet with you, and I will speak with you from above the mercy seat, from between the two cherubim which are on the ark of the Testimony, about everything which I will give you in commandment to the children of Israel.

The Table for the Showbread

23"You shall also make a table of acacia wood; two cubits shall be its length, a cubit its width, and a cubit and a half its height. 24And you shall overlay it with pure gold, and make a molding of gold all around. 25You shall make for it a frame of a handbreadth all around, and you shall make a gold molding for the frame all around. 26And you shall make for it four rings of gold, and put the rings on the four corners that are at its four legs. 27The rings shall be close to the frame, as holders for the poles to bear the table. 28And you shall make the poles of acacia wood, and overlay them with gold, that the table may be carried with them. 29You shall make its dishes, its pans, its pitchers, and its bowls for pouring. You shall make them of pure gold. 30And you shall set the showbread on the table before Me always.

The Gold Lampstand

31"You shall also make a lampstand of pure gold; the lampstand shall be of hammered work. Its shaft, its branches, its bowls, its ornamental knobs, and flowers shall be of one piece. 32And six branches shall come out of its sides: three branches of the lampstand out of one side, and three branches of the lampstand out of the other side. 33Three bowls shall be made like almond blossoms on one branch, with an ornamental knob and a flower, and three bowls made like almond blossoms on the other branch, with an ornamental knob and a flower—and so for the six branches that come

25:10 The ark of the Testimony, a repository of the Law of God (v. 16), symbolized the covenant between God and His people and reminded the people of God's will and their duty. The tablets of Law, called "the Testimony" (v. 21) were to be a constant—though silent—witness, unfolding the people's responsibility to obey the Lord. They also were a witness in the sense of revealing how the people had failed. Yet the top of the ark, "the mercy seat" (v. 21), was between the witness and the presence of the Lord. The blood sprinkled on it once a year (Lev. 16:2, 14–16) made possible forgiveness and the continuation of communion between the holy God and His sinful people (see chart, The Furniture of the Tabernacle).

25:17 The word translated mercy seat is closely related to the word translated "atonement" (Ex. 30:10), referring to propitiation or the satisfaction of God's wrath against sin. This was to be accomplished by the means He provided in the sacrificial system (see Lev. 17:11; chart, The Offerings of the Lord).

25:18 The cherubim, as guardians of the Lord's presence, are like the attendants of a great king. The cherubim are associated with fire and judgment (see Gen. 3:24; Ezek. 10:1–22).

25:22 God said He would be between the two cherubim; nothing made by man as an idol would contain or represent Him. By divine appointment the high priest would sprinkle blood on the ark between God's righteous presence and the record of the Law, which contained His righteous demands for His people. The arrangement of the ark indicated each person's need for forgiveness and cleansing in order to enjoy fellowship with the holy God. The Lord honored His people by His special presence with them to communicate with them and not just judge them or arbitrarily dictate what would happen to them.

25:30 The showbread is also called "the bread of the presence." Each Sabbath day 12 fresh loaves of bread (representing the 12 tribes of Israel) were to be placed in two rows on the table, which stood in the holy place outside the enclosure containing the ark (see chart, The Plan of the Tabernacle). The priests would eat the bread that was removed (Lev. 24:5–9). What had been placed before God ultimately became sustenance for the people.

25:31 The Lord instructed Moses to make a large and highly decorated lampstand (Heb. menorah) that would give light for access to the Lord's presence and would be kept always alight (Ex. 27:20; see chart, The Furniture of the Tabernacle).

out of the lampstand. 34On the lampstand itself four bowls shall be made like almond blossoms, each with its ornamental knob and flower. 35And there shall be a knob under the first two branches of the same, a knob under the second two branches of the same, and a knob under the third two branches of the same, according to the six branches that extend from the lampstand. 36Their knobs and their branches shall be of one piece; all of it shall be one hammered piece of pure gold. 37You shall make seven lamps for it, and they shall arrange its lamps so that they give light in front of it. 38And its wick-trimmers and their trays shall be of pure gold. 39It shall be made of a talent of pure gold, with all these utensils. 40And see to it that you make them according to the pattern which was shown you on the mountain.

The Tabernacle

26 "Moreover you shall make the tabernacle with ten curtains of fine woven linen and blue, purple, and scarlet thread; with artistic designs of cherubim you shall weave them. 2The length of each curtain shall be twenty-eight cubits, and the width of each curtain four cubits. And every one of the curtains shall have the same measurements. 3Five curtains shall be coupled to one another, and the other five curtains shall be coupled to one another. 4And you shall make loops of blue yarn on the edge of the curtain on the selvedge of one set, and likewise you shall do on the outer edge of the other curtain of the second set. 5Fifty loops you shall make in the one curtain, and fifty loops you shall make on the edge of the curtain that is on the end of the second set, that the loops may be clasped to one another. 6And you shall make fifty clasps of gold, and couple the curtains together with the clasps, so that it may be one tabernacle.

7"You shall also make curtains of goats' hair, to be a tent over the tabernacle. You shall make eleven curtains. 8The length of each curtain shall be thirty cubits, and the width of each curtain four cubits; and the eleven curtains shall all have the same measurements. 9And you shall couple five curtains by themselves and six curtains by themselves, and you shall double over the sixth curtain at the forefront of the tent. 10You shall make fifty loops on the edge of the curtain that is outermost in one set, and fifty loops on the edge of the curtain of the second set. 11And you shall make fifty bronze clasps, put the clasps into the loops, and couple the tent together, that it may be one. 12The remnant that remains of the curtains of the tent, the half curtain that remains, shall hang over the back of the tabernacle. 13And a cubit on one side and a cubit on the other side, of what remains of the length of the curtains of the tent, shall hang over the sides of the tabernacle, on this side and on that side, to cover it.

14"You shall also make a covering of ram skins dyed red for the tent, and a covering of badger skins above that.

15"And for the tabernacle you shall make the boards of acacia wood, standing upright. 16Ten cubits shall be the length of a board, and a cubit and a half shall be the width of each board. 17Two tenons shall be in each board for binding one to another. Thus you shall make for all the boards of the tabernacle. 18And you shall make the boards for the tabernacle, twenty boards for the south side. 19You shall make forty sockets of silver under the twenty boards: two sockets under each of the boards for its two tenons. 20And for the second side of the tabernacle, the north side, there shall be twenty boards 21and their forty sockets of silver: two sockets under each of the boards. 22For the far side of the tabernacle, westward, you shall make six boards. 23And you shall also make two boards for the two back corners of the tabernacle. 24They shall be coupled together at the bottom and they shall be coupled together at the top by one ring. Thus it shall be for both of them. They shall be for the two corners. 25So there shall be eight boards with their sockets of silver—sixteen sockets—two sockets under each of the boards.

26"And you shall make bars of acacia wood: five for the boards on one side of the tabernacle, 27five bars for the boards on the other side of the tabernacle, and five bars for the boards of the side of the tabernacle, for the far side westward. 28The middle bar shall pass through the midst of the boards from end to end. 29You shall overlay the boards with gold, make their rings of gold as holders for the bars, and overlay the bars with gold. 30And you shall raise up the tabernacle according to its pattern which you were shown on the mountain.

25:39 A talent, by one system of calculation, weighed about 75 pounds. All calculations make the talent a large amount of gold.

26:1 The tabernacle, mentioned in verses 1–7, is not the entire tabernacle complex but the portable structure that housed the items described in Exodus 25—the ark, table, and lampstand (see chart, The Furniture of the Tabernacle). The colorful first and innermost layer was to be made of linen woven with a cherubim design. Then came a goat hair layer (the "tent over the tabernacle," v. 7), a ram skin layer ("a covering . . . for the tent"), and finally "a covering of badger skins" (v. 14). The last layer may have been for use in transporting the tabernacle curtains, in view of the use of "badger skins" when moving other items (see Num. 4:8–14).

26:15 A system of gilded boards and crossbars was to support the four layers of curtains that made up the tabernacle.

26:17 The tenons (lit., "hands") on the boards fit into silver sockets, or pedestals.

31"You shall make a veil woven of blue, purple, and scarlet thread, and fine woven linen. It shall be woven with an artistic design of cherubim. 32You shall hang it upon the four pillars of acacia wood overlaid with gold. Their hooks shall be gold, upon four sockets of silver. 33And you shall hang the veil from the clasps. Then you shall bring the ark of the Testimony in there, behind the veil. The veil shall be a divider for you between the holy place and the Most Holy. 34You shall put the mercy seat upon the ark of the Testimony in the Most Holy. 35You shall set the table outside the veil, and the lampstand across from the table on the side of the tabernacle toward the south; and you shall put the table on the north side.

36"You shall make a screen for the door of the tabernacle, woven of blue, purple, and scarlet thread, and fine woven linen, made by a weaver. 37And you shall make for the screen five pillars of acacia wood, and overlay them with gold; their hooks shall be gold, and you shall cast five sockets of bronze for them.

The Altar of Burnt Offering

27 "You shall make an altar of acacia wood, five cubits long and five cubits wide—the altar shall be square—and its height shall be three cubits. 2You shall make its horns on its four corners; its horns shall be of one piece with it. And you shall overlay it with bronze. 3Also you shall make its pans to receive its ashes, and its shovels and its basins and its forks and its firepans; you shall make all its utensils of bronze. 4You shall make a grate for it, a network of bronze; and on the network you shall make four bronze rings at its four corners. 5You shall put it under the rim of the altar beneath, that the network may be midway up the altar. 6And you shall make poles for the altar, poles of acacia wood, and overlay them with bronze. 7The poles shall be put in the rings, and the poles shall be on the two sides of the altar to bear it. 8You shall make it hollow with boards; as it was shown you on the mountain, so shall they make it.

The Court of the Tabernacle

9"You shall also make the court of the tabernacle. For the south side there shall be hangings for the court made of fine woven linen, one hundred cubits long for one side. 10And its twenty pillars and their twenty sockets shall be bronze. The hooks of the pillars and their bands shall be silver. 11Likewise along the length of the north side there shall be hangings one hundred cubits long, with its twenty pillars and their twenty sockets of bronze, and the hooks of the pillars and their bands of silver.

12"And along the width of the court on the west side shall be hangings of fifty cubits, with their ten pillars and their ten sockets. 13The width of the court on the east side shall be fifty cubits. 14The hangings on one side of the gate shall be fifteen cubits, with their three pillars and their three sockets. 15And on the other side shall be hangings of fifteen cubits, with their three pillars and their three sockets.

16"For the gate of the court there shall be a screen twenty cubits long, woven of blue, purple, and scarlet thread, and fine woven linen, made by a weaver. It shall have four pillars and four sockets. 17All the pillars around the court shall have bands of silver; their hooks shall be of silver and their sockets of bronze. 18The length of the court shall be one hundred cubits, the width fifty throughout, and the height five cubits, made of fine woven linen, and its sockets of bronze. 19All the utensils of the tabernacle for all its service, all its pegs, and all the pegs of the court, shall be of bronze.

The Care of the Lampstand

20"And you shall command the children of Israel that they bring you pure oil of pressed

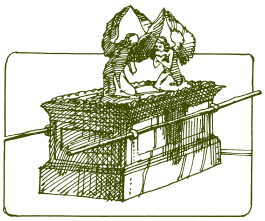
26:31–35 The veil, a colorful curtain with the cherubim design, was to make two rooms inside the tabernacle (see chart, The Plan of the Tabernacle). The smaller, interior room (the "Most Holy Place" or "Holy of Holies") would house the ark, while the table and lampstand would stand in the outer room (the holy place). The presence of the glory of the Lord among His people would be hidden from sight by the tabernacle and the veil. Later the temple in Jerusalem had a similar veil, which was torn from top to bottom when the Lord Jesus died (Matt. 27:51). The writer of Hebrews saw the body of Christ as a kind of veil through which access to God is offered (Heb. 4:16; 10:19, 20). As with the tabernacle, God dwelled among His people in the Person of the Lord Jesus (Matt. 1:23; John 1:14) and provided forgiveness of sins and access to worship and fellowship in His presence.

27:1 Altars were a familiar part of Israelite history and worship (see Ex. 17:15; 20:24). Now the Israelites must build the altar that would stand outside the tabernacle (see chart, The Furniture of the Tabernacle). On the altar would be placed sacrifices burned in worship (see Ps. 118:27). The altar also was a place of refuge. A person might grasp its horns in hopes that he would be seen as belonging to God and thus under protection (Ex. 21:13, 14; 1 Kin. 1:50–53; 2:28–32).

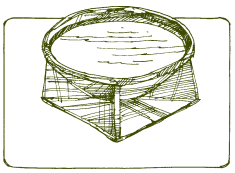
27:9 Surrounding the tabernacle and the altar would be a rectangular courtyard of about 150 by 75 feet outlined by bronze pillars and linen fabric that made a fence about 7.5 feet high. Moving symbolically away from the special presence of the Lord, items outside the tabernacle itself were made with silver and bronze, which were less costly than gold (see chart, The Plan of the Tabernacle).

27:20 The refined grade of olive oil described would give the best light and least smoke when used in the lampstand (Ex. 25:31–40). Mention of the responsibility of Aaron and his sons leads into the descriptions of their clothing and consecration ceremonies (Ex. 28; 29).

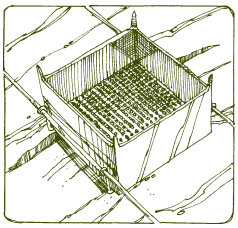
THE FURNITURE OF THE TABERNACLE



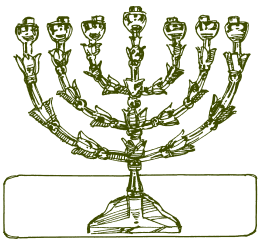
Ark of the Covenant or Ark of the Testimony (Ex. 25:10–22)
The ark was most sacred of all the furniture in the tabernacle. Here the Hebrews kept a copy of the Ten Commandments, which summarized the covenant requirements.



Bronze Laver (Ex. 30:17–21)
The priests would come to the laver of bronze for cleansing. They must be pure to enter the presence of God.



Altar of Burnt Offering (Ex. 27:1–8)
Animal sacrifices were offered on this altar, located in the court in front of the tabernacle. The blood of the sacrifice was sprinkled on the four horns of the altar.



Gold Lampstand or Menorah (Ex. 25:31–40)
The gold lampstand stood in the holy place, opposite the table of showbread. It held seven lamps, flat bowls in which a wick lay with one end in the oil of the bowl and the lighted end hanging out.

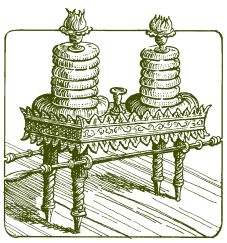


Table of Showbread (Ex. 25:23–30)
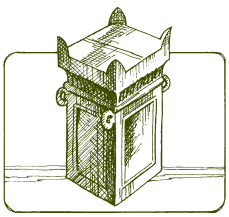
Always in God's presence was the table with twelve loaves of bread representing the twelve tribes of Israel.



Altar of Incense (Ex. 30:1–10)
The altar of incense inside the tabernacle was much smaller than the altar of burnt offering outside. The incense burned on the altar made a sweet-smelling aroma.

olives for the light, to cause the lamp to burn continually. 21In the tabernacle of meeting, outside the veil which is before the Testimony, Aaron and his sons shall tend it from evening until morning before the LORD. It shall be a statute forever to their generations on behalf of the children of Israel.

Garments for the Priesthood

28 "Now take Aaron your brother, and his sons with him, from among the children of Israel, that he may minister to Me as priest, Aaron and Aaron's sons: Nadab, Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar. 2And you shall make holy garments for Aaron your brother, for glory and for beauty. 3So you shall speak to all who are gifted artisans, whom I have filled with the spirit of wisdom, that they may make Aaron's garments, to consecrate him, that he may minister to Me as priest. 4And these are the garments which they shall make: a breastplate, an ephod,[a] a robe, a skillfully woven tunic, a turban, and a sash. So they shall make

28:4 [a]That is, an ornamented vest

28:2 These beautiful and skillfully made garments would mark Aaron and his sons as set apart for service to the Lord at the tabernacle (see chart, The High Priest's Clothing). Articles are described for Aaron as high priest and his successors (vv. 5–43). Clothing for the priests in general is also prescribed (vv. 40–42; see 1 Chr. 23:13; Mal. 2:5–7 for summaries of a priest's duties). All Christians have a position like that of the OT priests; the apostle Peter spoke of Christians as "a holy priesthood" responsible to offer "spiritual sacrifices" (see Rom. 10, Access to God; 1 Pet. 2, Priesthood of the Believer).

holy garments for Aaron your brother and his sons, that he may minister to Me as priest.

The Ephod

5"They shall take the gold, blue, purple, and scarlet thread, and the fine linen, 6and they shall make the ephod of gold, blue, purple, and scarlet thread, and fine woven linen, artistically worked. 7It shall have two shoulder straps joined at its two edges, and so it shall be joined together. 8And the intricately woven band of the ephod, which is on it, shall be of the same workmanship, made of gold, blue, purple, and scarlet thread, and fine woven linen.

9"Then you shall take two onyx stones and engrave on them the names of the sons of Israel: 10six of their names on one stone and six names on the other stone, in order of their birth. 11With the work of an engraver in stone, like the engravings of a signet, you shall engrave the two stones with the names of the sons of Israel. You shall set them in settings of gold. 12And you shall put the two stones on the shoulders of the ephod as memorial stones for the sons of Israel. So Aaron shall bear their names before the LORD on his two shoulders as a memorial. 13You shall also make settings of gold, 14and you shall make two chains of pure gold like braided cords, and fasten the braided chains to the settings.

The Breastplate

15"You shall make the breastplate of judgment. Artistically woven according to the workmanship of the ephod you shall make it: of gold, blue, purple, and scarlet thread, and fine woven linen, you shall make it. 16It shall be doubled into a square: a span shall be its length, and a span shall be its width. 17And you shall put settings of stones in it, four rows of stones: The first row shall be a sardius, a topaz, and an emerald; this shall be the first row; 18the second row shall be a turquoise, a sapphire, and a diamond; 19the third row, a jacinth, an agate, and an amethyst; 20and the fourth row, a beryl, an onyx, and a jasper. They shall be set in gold settings. 21And the stones shall have the names of the sons of Israel, twelve according to their names, like the engravings of a signet, each one with its own name; they shall be according to the twelve tribes.

22"You shall make chains for the breastplate at the end, like braided cords of pure gold. 23And you shall make two rings of gold for the breastplate, and put the two rings on the two ends of the breastplate. 24Then you shall put the two braided chains of gold in the two rings which are on the ends of the breastplate; 25and the other two ends of the two braided chains you shall fasten to the two settings, and put them on the shoulder straps of the ephod in the front.

26"You shall make two rings of gold, and put them on the two ends of the breastplate, on the edge of it, which is on the inner side of the ephod. 27And two other rings of gold you shall make, and put them on the two shoulder straps, underneath the ephod toward its front, right at the seam above the intricately woven band of the ephod. 28They shall bind the breastplate by means of its rings to the rings of the ephod, using a blue cord, so that it is above the intricately woven band of the ephod, and so that the breastplate does not come loose from the ephod.

29"So Aaron shall bear the names of the sons of Israel on the breastplate of judgment over his heart, when he goes into the holy place, as a memorial before the LORD continually. 30And you shall put in the breastplate of judgment the Urim and the Thummim,[a] and they shall be over Aaron's heart when he goes in before the LORD. So Aaron shall bear the judgment of the children of Israel over his heart before the LORD continually.

Other Priestly Garments

31"You shall make the robe of the ephod all of blue. 32There shall be an opening for his head in the middle of it; it shall have a woven binding all around its opening, like the opening in a coat of mail, so that it does not tear. 33And upon its hem you shall make pomegranates of blue, purple, and scarlet, all around its hem, and bells of gold between them all around: 34a golden bell and a pomegranate, a golden bell and a pomegranate, upon the

28:30 [a]Literally the Lights and the Perfections (compare Leviticus 8:8)

28:6 The word ephod is a transliteration of the Hebrew name, which refers to an item of clothing that is no longer familiar. Based on a description from near the time of Christ, the ephod may have been a kind of waistcoat with sleeves and shoulder straps (see chart, The High Priest's Clothing). One might also envision a kind of pinafore with sleeves. In any case, it was richly woven with the colors of the tabernacle curtains, plus gold threads. Its description focuses on the two stones set on the shoulders and engraved with the names of the 12 tribes (vv. 9–12). The high priest would wear these as he represented the people and interceded for them before the Lord.

28:15 The breastplate of judgment, a square, pouchlike item, was woven of the same materials as the ephod (see chart, The Breastplate of the High Priest). On it were set 12 stones, each engraved with the name of one of the tribes of Israel. It was attached to the top of the ephod so that the high priest wore these names over his heart (vv. 21, 29). It is called the breastplate, or breastpiece, of "judgment" because it contained the Urim and Thummim (v. 30), which were used for receiving decisions from God, somewhat like casting lots (see Num. 27:21; Deut. 33:8, note; 1 Sam. 28:6; Ezra 2:63). The Bible does not describe the appearance of the Urim and Thummim, but they fit inside the breastpiece, which was "a span" (about nine inches) long and wide (v. 16).

JEWELRY ADORNED AS A BRIDE

From ancient times, women and men have adorned themselves with precious and semi-precious metals and stones. Jewels mentioned in Scripture include:

adamant, described as "harder than flint" (Ezek. 3:9);
agate, a multicolored chalcedony (Ex. 28:19);
amber (Ezek. 1:4);
amethyst, a blue-violet quartz (Ex. 28:19);
beryl, an aquamarine (Ex. 39:13);
chalcedony, a noncrystalline form of quartz (Rev. 21:19);
chrysolite, a yellowish stone (Rev. 21:20);
chrysoprase, an apple-green variety of chalcedony (Rev. 21:20);
coral (Job 28:18);
crystal, a reference to quartz (Job 28:17);
diamond (Ex. 28:18; Jer. 17:1);
emerald, a bright green stone (Ex. 28:17);
jacinth, a transparent red to brown stone (Rev. 21:20);
jasper, an opaque red, yellow, brown, or green variety of chalcedony (Rev. 21:19);
onyx, a flat-banded variety of chalcedony (Gen. 2:12);
quartz (Job 28:18);
ruby (Job 28:18);
sapphire, a blue variety of corundum (Ex. 24:10);
sardius, a brownish red variety of chalcedony (Rev. 21:20);
sardonyx, which includes layers of carnelian (Rev. 21:20);
topaz, a yellow, reddish, or pink transparent stone that is quite hard (Job 28:19); and pearl, a whitish, glossy stone formed around foreign matter in some shellfish (Rev. 17:4).

Women wore bracelets (Gen. 24:47), necklaces (Song 1:10), earrings (Gen. 35:4), nose rings (24:30), and rings. When the Israelites left Egypt, they received articles of gold and silver from the Egyptians (Ex. 12:35). A significant portion of this jewelry apparently was given as an offering toward the adornment of the tabernacle (Ex. 35:21, 22).

The Lord described Israel as a beautiful bride (Ezek. 16:11, 12). In His parable of the lost coin, Jesus referred to one of the most prized pieces of jewelry worn by a bride—her dowry headpiece, often adorned with gold coins or jewels. Accordingly, the married woman diligently searched for the coin lost from her headdress (Luke 15:8–10).

which the children of Israel hallow in all their holy gifts; and it shall always be on his forehead, that they may be accepted before the LORD.

39"You shall skillfully weave the tunic of fine linen thread, you shall make the turban of fine linen, and you shall make the sash of woven work.

40"For Aaron's sons you shall make tunics, and you shall make sashes for them. And you shall make hats for them, for glory and beauty. 41So you shall put them on Aaron your brother and on his sons with him. You shall anoint them, consecrate them, and sanctify them, that they may minister to Me as priests. 42And you shall make for them linen trousers to cover their nakedness; they shall reach from the waist to the thighs. 43They shall be on Aaron and on his sons when they come into the tabernacle of meeting, or when they come near the altar to minister in the holy place, that they do not incur iniquity and die. It shall be a statute forever to him and his descendants after him.

Aaron and His Sons Consecrated

29"And this is what you shall do to them to hallow them for ministering to Me as priests: Take one young bull and two rams without blemish, 2and unleavened bread, unleavened

HOLINESS TO THE LORD (v. 36) also characterizes the Sabbath day as "holy to the LORD" (Ex. 31:15). Even as the Sabbath was set apart because of the Lord and for the Lord, so the high priest was dedicated and given the responsibility of presenting what the Israelites brought to Him (see Lev. 21:6, 8; 23, The Principle of the Sabbath; Jer. 2:2, 3; Heb. 12:10, 14, 28).

29:1 Obedience to the commands of this chapter are recorded in Leviticus 8 and 9. As Moses received the directions for building the tabernacle and also recorded the doing of it, so the directions for consecrating the priests are matched by the doing (Ex. 35—40).

cakes mixed with oil, and unleavened wafers anointed with oil (you shall make them of wheat flour). 3You shall put them in one basket and bring them in the basket, with the bull and the two rams.

4"And Aaron and his sons you shall bring to the door of the tabernacle of meeting, and you shall wash them with water. 5Then you shall take the garments, put the tunic on Aaron, and the robe of the ephod, the ephod, and the breastplate, and gird him with the intricately woven band of the ephod. 6You shall put the turban on his head, and put the holy crown on the turban. 7And you shall take the anointing oil, pour it on his head, and anoint him. 8Then you shall bring his sons and put tunics on them. 9And you shall gird them with sashes, Aaron and his sons, and put the hats on them. The priesthood shall be theirs for a perpetual statute. So you shall consecrate Aaron and his sons.

10"You shall also have the bull brought before the tabernacle of meeting, and Aaron and his sons shall put their hands on the head of the bull. 11Then you shall kill the bull before the LORD, by the door of the tabernacle of meeting. 12You shall take some of the blood of the bull and put it on the horns of the altar with your finger, and pour all the blood beside the base of the altar. 13And you shall take all the fat that covers the entrails, the fatty lobe attached to the liver, and the two kidneys and the fat that is on them, and burn them on the altar. 14But the flesh of the bull, with its skin and its offal, you shall burn with fire outside the camp. It is a sin offering.

15"You shall also take one ram, and Aaron and his sons shall put their hands on the head of the ram; 16and you shall kill the ram, and you shall take its blood and sprinkle it all around on the altar. 17Then you shall cut the ram in pieces, wash its entrails and its legs, and put them with its pieces and with its head. 18And you shall burn the whole ram on the altar. It is a burnt offering to the LORD; it is a sweet aroma, an offering made by fire to the LORD.

19"You shall also take the other ram, and Aaron and his sons shall put their hands on the head of the ram. 20Then you shall kill the ram, and take some of its blood and put it on the tip of the right ear of Aaron and on the tip of the right ear of his sons, on the thumb of their right hand and on the big toe of their right foot, and sprinkle the blood all around on the altar. 21And you shall take some of the blood that is on the altar, and some of the anointing oil, and sprinkle it on Aaron and on his garments, on his sons and on the garments of his sons with him; and he and his garments shall be hallowed, and his sons and his sons' garments with him.

22"Also you shall take the fat of the ram, the fat tail, the fat that covers the entrails, the fatty lobe attached to the liver, the two kidneys and the fat on them, the right thigh (for it is a ram of consecration), 23one loaf of bread, one cake made with oil, and one wafer from the basket of the unleavened bread that is before the LORD; 24and you shall put all these in the hands of Aaron and in the hands of his sons, and you shall wave them as a wave offering before the LORD. 25You shall receive them back from their hands and burn them on the altar as a burnt offering, as a sweet aroma before the LORD. It is an offering made by fire to the LORD.

26"Then you shall take the breast of the ram of Aaron's consecration and wave it as a wave offering before the LORD; and it shall be your portion. 27And from the ram of the consecration you shall consecrate the breast of the wave offering which is waved, and the thigh of the heave offering which is raised, of that which is for Aaron and of that which is for his sons. 28It shall be from the children of Israel for Aaron and his sons by a statute forever. For it is a heave offering; it shall be a heave offering from the children of Israel from the sacrifices of their peace offerings, that is, their heave offering to the LORD.

29"And the holy garments of Aaron shall be his sons' after him, to be anointed in them and to be consecrated in them. 30That son who becomes priest in his place shall put them on for seven days, when he enters the tabernacle of meeting to minister in the holy place.

31"And you shall take the ram of the consecration and boil its flesh in the holy place. 32Then Aaron and his sons shall eat the flesh of the ram, and the bread that is in the basket, by the door of the tabernacle of meeting. 33They shall eat those things with which the atonement was made, to consecrate and to sanctify them; but an outsider shall not eat them, because they are holy. 34And if any of the flesh of the consecration offerings, or of the bread, remains until the morning, then you

29:6 The holy crown is the plate inscribed with "HOLINESS TO THE LORD" (Ex. 28:36, 37).

29:7 Specially formulated anointing oil was used to designate persons and items meant for particular service to the Lord (see Ex. 30:22–30; 1 Sam. 10:1; 16:1, 12, 13; 1 Kin. 19:16; Acts 10:38; 2 Cor. 1:21).

29:10 Aaron and his sons are instructed to put their hands on the head of the animal to be sacrificed (vv. 10, 15, 19). This action associated the person with the animal, which became the person's representative or substitute (see Lev. 16:21).

29:18 The burnt offering was not a sin offering (described in vv. 10–14; see also chart, The Offerings of the Lord). That the "offering made by fire" made a "sweet aroma" means it was pleasing to God, who accepted the worshiper's self-surrender indicated by the sacrifice.

NEEDLEWORK AN EXPRESSION OF CREATIVITY

Ornamental needlework was certainly a part of the Old Testament culture. It was used in decorating the screen for the tabernacle door (Ex. 26:36; 36:37), the screen for the court gate (Ex. 27:16; 38:18), and the priestly garments (Ex. 28:39; 39:29). Embroidery was a sign of royal luxury (Ezek. 16:10, 13, 18; 26:16), a valuable product in commerce (Ezek. 27:16), and a prized spoil of battle (Judg. 5:30).

Garments were marked by original designs (Ex. 28:6), innovative applique (Ex. 39:24), and even skillfully woven work that could be akin to our needlepoint (Ex. 28:4), Joseph's "tunic of many colors" was likely just such a treasured, embroidered heirloom garment (see Gen. 37:3).

This expression of creativity, which transforms simple materials into works of art, is a way to share yourself with your family, as did the "woman of strength" in Proverbs (31:13, 19, 22, 24), and with others, as did Dorcas (Acts 9:36–42) and those who prepared textiles for the tabernacle. As the ordinary becomes the extraordinary, an inheritance is left for generations to come through a woman's investment of herself in such projects.

shall burn the remainder with fire. It shall not be eaten, because it is holy.

35"Thus you shall do to Aaron and his sons, according to all that I have commanded you. Seven days you shall consecrate them. 36And you shall offer a bull every day as a sin offering for atonement. You shall cleanse the altar when you make atonement for it, and you shall anoint it to sanctify it. 37Seven days you shall make atonement for the altar and sanctify it. And the altar shall be most holy. Whatever touches the altar must be holy.[a]

The Daily Offerings

38"Now this is what you shall offer on the altar: two lambs of the first year, day by day continually. 39One lamb you shall offer in the morning, and the other lamb you shall offer at twilight. 40With the one lamb shall be one-tenth of an ephah of flour mixed with one-fourth of a hin of pressed oil, and one-fourth of a hin of wine as a drink offering. 41And the other lamb you shall offer at twilight; and you shall offer with it the grain offering and the drink offering, as in the morning, for a sweet aroma, an offering made by fire to the LORD. 42*This shall be* a continual burnt offering throughout your generations at the door of the tabernacle of meeting before the LORD, where I will meet you to speak with you. 43And there I will meet with the children of Israel, and the tabernacle shall be sanctified by My glory. 44So I will consecrate the tabernacle of meeting and the altar. I will also consecrate both Aaron and his sons to minister to Me as priests. 45I will dwell among the children of Israel and will be their God. 46And they shall know that I am the LORD their God, who brought them up out of the land of Egypt, that I may dwell among them. I am the LORD their God.

The Altar of Incense

30"You shall make an altar to burn incense on; you shall make it of acacia wood. 2A cubit shall be its length and a cubit its width—it shall be square—and two cubits shall be its height. Its horns shall be of one piece with it. 3And you shall overlay its top, its sides all around, and its horns with pure gold; and you shall make for it a molding of gold all around. 4Two gold rings you shall make for it, under the molding on both its sides. You shall place them on its two sides, and they will be holders for the poles with which to bear it. 5You shall make the poles of acacia wood, and overlay them with gold. 6And you shall put it before the veil that is before the ark of the Testimony, before the mercy seat that is over the Testimony, where I will meet with you.

7"Aaron shall burn on it sweet incense every morning; when he tends the lamps, he shall burn incense on it. 8And when Aaron lights the lamps at twilight, he shall burn incense on it, a perpet-

29:40 The word "hin" has an Egyptian derivation (as does 'ephah). It refers to a pot whose capacity is not known with certainty but has been estimated to contain one gallon.

29:42–46 The significance of building and worshiping at the tabernacle is summarized. The Lord had brought the Israelites out of Egypt in order to dwell among them, acting on their behalf as their God, and in order that they might serve Him (Ex. 6:6, 7; 7:16, 17; 10:2; 16:12; 25:8, 22). As they had learned to know Him through the rescue from Egypt and preservation in the wilderness, now they would also know Him through His presence with them and His provision for worship and communion with Him at the tabernacle.

30:1–10 The incense altar would stand inside the tabernacle, in the room with the lampstand and table of bread (see chart, The Plan of the Tabernacle). No "strange incense" could be offered on it (v. 9), only the specially formulated "sweet incense" (v. 7; see vv. 34–38). No other offerings could be made on this altar; the other offerings were to be made outside the tabernacle and should already have been made before the priest entered the tabernacle to tend or light the lamps. Elseual incense before the LORD throughout your generations. 9You shall not offer strange incense on it, or a burnt offering, or a grain offering; nor shall you pour a drink offering on it. 10And Aaron shall make atonement upon its horns once a year with the blood of the sin offering of atonement; once a year he shall make atonement upon it throughout your generations. It is most holy to the LORD."

The Ransom Money

11Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: 12"When you take the census of the children of Israel for their number, then every man shall give a ransom for himself to the LORD, when you number them, that there may be no plague among them when you number them. 13This is what everyone among those who are numbered shall give: half a shekel according to the shekel of the sanctuary (a shekel is twenty gerahs). The half-shekel shall be an offering to the LORD. 14Everyone included among those who are numbered, from twenty years old and above, shall give an offering to the LORD. 15The rich shall not give more and the poor shall not give less than half a shekel, when you give an offering to the LORD, to make atonement for yourselves. 16And you shall take the atonement money of the children of Israel, and shall appoint it for the service of the tabernacle of meeting, that it may be a memorial for the children of Israel before the LORD, to make atonement for yourselves."

The Bronze Laver

17Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: 18"You shall also make a laver of bronze, with its base also of bronze, for washing. You shall put it between the tabernacle of meeting and the altar. And you shall put water in it, 19for Aaron and his sons shall wash their hands and their feet in water from it. 20When they go into the tabernacle of meeting, or when they come near the altar to minister, to burn an offering made by fire to the LORD, they shall wash with water, lest they die. 21So they shall wash their hands and their feet, lest they die. And it shall be a statute forever to them—to him and his descendants throughout their generations."

The Holy Anointing Oil

22Moreover the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: 23"Also take for yourself quality spices—five hundred shekels of liquid myrrh, half as much sweet-smelling cinnamon (two hundred and fifty shekels), two hundred and fifty shekels of sweet-smelling cane, 24five hundred shekels of cassia, according to the shekel of the sanctuary, and a hin of olive oil. 25And you shall make from these a holy anointing oil, an ointment compounded according to the art of the perfumer. It shall be a holy anointing oil. 26With it you shall anoint the tabernacle of meeting and the ark of the Testimony; 27the table and all its utensils, the lampstand and its utensils, and the altar of incense; 28the altar of burnt offering with all its utensils, and the laver and its base. 29You shall consecrate them, that they may be most holy; whatever touches them must be holy.[a] 30And you shall anoint Aaron and his sons, and consecrate them, that they may minister to Me as priests.

31"And you shall speak to the children of Israel, saying: 'This shall be a holy anointing oil to Me throughout your generations. 32It shall not be poured on man's flesh; nor shall you make any other like it, according to its composition. It is holy, and it shall be holy to you. 33Whoever compounds any like it, or whoever puts any of it on an outsider, shall be cut off from his people.' "

The Incense

34And the LORD said to Moses: "Take sweet spices, stacte and onycha and galbanum, and pure frankincense with these sweet spices; there shall be equal amounts of each. 35You shall make of these an incense, a compound according to the art of the perfumer, salted, pure, and holy. 36And you shall beat some of it very fine, and put some of it before the Testimony in the tabernacle of meeting where I will meet with you. It shall be most holy to you. 37But as for the incense which you shall make, you shall not make any for yourselves, according where the burning of incense is associated with prayer (Ps. 141:1–4; Luke 1:8–13; Rev. 8:3, 4).

30:11–16 Numbering the men of Israel was usually associated with military service and warfare (see Num. 1:2, 3, 19–46; Judg. 20:2, 15–17; 1 Sam. 11:8; 15:4). At the age of twenty a man could begin to serve as a soldier (v. 14; Num. 1:3). The silver collected was used in building the tabernacle (Ex. 38:25–28). The numbering and ransom reflected the equality of rich and poor in standing before God (v. 15) and reminded the people of their dependence on the Lord rather than upon numerical strength, and of their responsibility to care for the house of God.

30:18–21 The priests needed to wash for physical cleanliness, due to the blood of sacrifices and dust from the tabernacle court. Washing was also symbolic of spiritual cleansing (see Ps. 26:6). Washing was enforced by the threat of death because of the prominent role and position of the priests and because of its theological significance. God is holy, and the priests must prepare to serve Him by being as pure as possible themselves. The repeated washings reinforce the seriousness of approaching God (see also Ps. 51:2; Is. 1:16; Eph. 5:25–27).

30:35 Salt in the incense enhanced its burning as well as perhaps acting as a preservative. It may also have had symbolic significance as an element in sacrifices and as a reminder of a secure covenant (see Lev. 2:13; Num. 18:19; 2 Chr. 13:5).

Artisans for Building the Tabernacle

31 Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: 2"See, I have called by name Bezalel the son of Uri, the son of Hur, of the tribe of Judah. 3And I have filled him with the Spirit of God, in wisdom, in understanding, in knowledge, and in all manner of workmanship, 4to design artistic works, to work in gold, in silver, in bronze, 5in cutting jewels for setting, in carving wood, and to work in all manner of workmanship.

6"And I, indeed I, have appointed with him Aholiab the son of Ahisamach, of the tribe of Dan; and I have put wisdom in the hearts of all the gifted artisans, that they may make all that I have commanded you: 7the tabernacle of meeting, the ark of the Testimony and the mercy seat that is on it, and all the furniture of the tabernacle— 8the table and its utensils, the pure gold lampstand with all its utensils, the altar of incense, 9the altar of burnt offering with all its utensils, and the laver and its base— 10the garments of ministry,[a] the holy garments for Aaron the priest and the garments of his sons, to minister as priests, 11and the anointing oil and sweet incense for the holy place. According to all that I have commanded you they shall do."

The Sabbath Law

12And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 13"Speak also to the children of Israel, saying: 'Surely My Sabbaths you shall keep, for it is a sign between Me and you throughout your generations, that you may know that I am the LORD who sanctifies you. 14You shall keep the Sabbath, therefore, for it is holy to you. Everyone who profanes it shall surely be put to death; for whoever does any work on it, that person shall be cut off from among his people. 15Work shall be done for six days, but the seventh is the Sabbath of rest, holy to the LORD. Whoever does any work on the Sabbath day, he shall surely be put to death. 16Therefore the children of Israel shall keep the Sabbath, to observe the Sabbath throughout their generations as a perpetual covenant. 17It is a sign between Me and the children of Israel forever; for in six days the LORD made the heavens and the earth, and on the seventh day He rested and was refreshed.' "

18And when He had made an end of speaking with him on Mount Sinai, He gave Moses two tablets of the Testimony, tablets of stone, written with the finger of God.

The Gold Calf

32 Now when the people saw that Moses delayed coming down from the mountain, the people gathered together to Aaron, and said to him, "Come, make us gods that shall go before us; for as for this Moses, the man who brought us up out of the land of Egypt, we do not know what has become of him."

2And Aaron said to them, "Break off the golden earrings which are in the ears of your wives, your sons, and your daughters, and bring them to me."

31:10 [a]Or woven garments

31:3 By His Spirit God enabled people for tasks needed to accomplish what He commanded the nation to do—build the tabernacle. In this case enablement involved the ability to make a variety of needed items, to make them with excellence and beauty, and to teach others these skills (Ex. 35:34; see also Ex. 28, Needlework). The abilities were diversified according to the particular job. The use of terms related to "wisdom" (Heb. chokmah) in this passage and later (vv. 3, 6; Ex. 35:10, 25, 26, 31, 35; 36:1, 2, 4) presents wisdom as the skill for doing what needed to be done in a way pleasing to God. Those with wisdom made things that were useful in serving God. In broader application the Book of Proverbs presents wisdom as the skill for living (see Prov. 1:1–7; 2:6; 3:13–26). "Understanding" involves discernment, leading to the ability to recognize correct choices in solving problems (see John 5, Problem Solving; 1 Cor, 8, Decision Making). "Knowledge" involves know-how resulting from a store of experience.

31:13 Previously in Exodus the Lord explained that He was acting in a particular way so that He would be known (for example, Ex. 8:10; 9:14; 16:6, 7; 29:43–46). Now the Israelites must act in order to know. Even while building the tabernacle, they must keep the Sabbath for the sake of knowing the Lord as the one who set them apart ("the LORD who sanctifies you") and as the one who created the world in six days (v. 17). Observing the Sabbath as a "sign" would remind the Israelites of the Lord's identity as the Creator, who made it possible for them to cease from work as He had done (see chart, The Principle of the Sabbath). In revealing His own identity to them, He gave them an identity as His people. God's instructions for making the tabernacle and its furnishings and designating priests, all set apart for God's service, exemplified what it meant for the people themselves to be sanctified (see Ex. 19:4–6; Lev. 20:26; 22:32, 33; 1 Thess. 4:1–8).

32:1 Shortly after the Israelites had agreed to be the Lord's covenant people, they began to worship an idol. Their demand to Aaron directly contradicted what the Lord had said at the start of the Ten Commandments (v. 1; Ex. 20:2–4). According to the Lord, the Lord their God had brought the Israelites out of Egypt, and He told them, "You shall have no other gods before Me" (Ex. 20:3), and they must not make for themselves any image. But according to the Israelites, Moses—a man, not the Lord—had brought them from Egypt. Therefore, they told Aaron, "Make us gods that shall go before us" (v. 1).

32:2–4 The description of making the calf contrasts with the description of preparing for the tabernacle (Ex. 35:21–35). Aaron commanded the people to bring gold by taking it from family members. In preparation for building the tabernacle, the emphasis is on each individual's willing and spontaneous

3So all the people broke off the golden earrings which were in their ears, and brought them to Aaron. 4And he received the gold from their hand, and he fashioned it with an engraving tool, and made a molded calf.

Then they said, "This is your god, O Israel, that brought you out of the land of Egypt!"

5So when Aaron saw it, he built an altar before it. And Aaron made a proclamation and said, "Tomorrow is a feast to the LORD." 6Then they rose early on the next day, offered burnt offerings, and brought peace offerings; and the people sat down to eat and drink, and rose up to play.

7And the LORD said to Moses, "Go, get down! For your people whom you brought out of the land of Egypt have corrupted themselves. 8They have turned aside quickly out of the way which I commanded them. They have made themselves a molded calf, and worshiped it and sacrificed to it, and said, 'This is your god, O Israel, that brought you out of the land of Egypt!' " 9And the LORD said to Moses, "I have seen this people, and indeed it is a stiff-necked people! 10Now therefore, let Me alone, that My wrath may burn hot against them and I may consume them. And I will make of you a great nation."

11Then Moses pleaded with the LORD his God, and said: "LORD, why does Your wrath burn hot against Your people whom You have brought out of the land of Egypt with great power and with a mighty hand? 12Why should the Egyptians speak, and say, 'He brought them out to harm them, to kill them in the mountains, and to consume them from the face of the earth'? Turn from Your fierce wrath, and relent from this harm to Your people. 13Remember Abraham, Isaac, and Israel, Your servants, to whom You swore by Your own self, and said to them, 'I will multiply your descendants as the stars of heaven; and all this land that I have spoken of I give to your descendants, and they shall inherit it forever.' "[a] 14So the LORD relented from the harm which He said He would do to His people.

15And Moses turned and went down from the mountain, and the two tablets of the Testimony were in his hand. The tablets were written on both sides; on the one side and on the other they were written. 16Now the tablets were the work of God, and the writing was the writing of God engraved on the tablets.

17And when Joshua heard the noise of the people as they shouted, he said to Moses, "There is a noise of war in the camp."

18But he said:

"It is not the noise of the shout of victory,
Nor the noise of the cry of defeat,
But the sound of singing I hear."

19So it was, as soon as he came near the camp, that he saw the calf and the dancing. So Moses' anger became hot, and he cast the tablets out of his hands and broke them at the foot of the mountain. 20Then he took the calf which they had made, burned it in the fire, and ground it to powder; and he scattered it on the water and made the children of Israel drink it. 21And Moses said to Aaron,

32:13 [a]Genesis 13:15 and 22:17

giving (Ex. 35:21–35). Aaron made the calf, but in Exodus 35 skilled workers made things of far superior quality because of enablement from God. In ancient Near Eastern cultures a young bull or ox was associated with strength, lordship, fertility, and morally degrading rituals.

32:5 Aaron's proclamation appears to have been a cover-up of sorts. The following verses make it clear that the celebration was in no way acceptable to the Lord.

32:6 In this setting the word translated "play" (Heb. tsachaq) is not innocent fun. It implies sexual immorality such as is connected with pagan rituals (see Gen. 26:8; 39:14, 17).

32:7 The Lord's statement ironically echoes the people, who said that Moses had brought them out of Egypt (v. 1). The word translated "have corrupted themselves" is used of the destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah (Gen. 19:13, 29) and of a trampled and ruined vineyard (Jer. 12:10). The Israelites had become the opposite of the holy, set apart nation that God intended them to be.

32:10 Let Me alone introduces the possibility of the opposite; that is, Moses may intercede for the Israelites. The Lord proposed that He start over again with Moses to fulfill promises to the patriarchs concerning making a "great nation" (see Gen. 12:2; 18:18; 46:3).

32:11–14 As mediator for the nation, Moses pleaded with the Lord because of His past action in delivering the people who belong to Him, because of His reputation (referring to one of God's stated purposes, Ex. 14:4), and because of His promises to His servants Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. In response, the Lord did not destroy all the people and begin again with Moses (see also Ezek. 33:13–19).

32:19 Breaking the tablets of Testimony, like tearing up a modern contract, pictured the destruction of the covenant to which the tablets bore witness. Israel's relationship with Yahweh as their covenant overlord was in jeopardy.

32:21 Ugaritic and Egyptian equivalents to the expression translated "so great a sin" and "great sin" (vv. 30 and 31) are

COSMETICS ENHANCING PHYSICAL BEAUTY

Perfumes. In the unsanitary and odor-laden ancient world, perfumes were highly prized. Perfume making, which included the preparation of both cosmetics and medical ointments, is an ancient and noble profession (Ex. 30:25, 35; 1 Sam. 8:13; Neh. 3:8).

Perfume ingredients mentioned in Scripture include aloes, bdellium, calumus, cassia, cinnamon, frankincense, myrrh, nard, onycha, and saffron. Perfume came in the form of powders, liquids, incense, or ointments. Sachets of dried spices were worn under clothing (Song 1:13), and liquids and ointments were contained in flasks and jars (Mark 14:3; Luke 7:37). Perfumed oils were used in these ways:

- to soften the skin and mask unpleasant odors (see Ruth 3:3; Ps. 45:8; Luke 7:38)
- as a moisturizer in the dry desert climate (see Ps. 133:2; Song 1:13)
- as an enticement to lovemaking (see Esth. 2:12; Prov. 7:17)
- as a symbol of honor and hospitality to be poured over the feet or heads of banquet guests (see Matt. 26:7).

Cosmetics. Some suggest that henna (bright orange in color) was mixed with oil and applied to the palms of the hands, feet, nails, and sometimes the hair (see Song 4:13). Dark black kohl was used to outline eyes (2 Kin. 9:30; Jer. 4:30; Ezek. 23:40), and rouge and various colored powders were made by grinding minerals and mixing them with water or gum. Cosmetic dyes were mixed with oil and kept in small jars.

Mirrors. An important beauty aid since ancient times, mirrors were frequently made of highly polished bronze, since glass was not introduced until the first century A.D. Paul used the analogy of a mirror to describe the "poor reflection" we have of a true spiritual reality (1 Cor. 13:12).

"What did this people do to you that you have brought so great a sin upon them?"

22So Aaron said, "Do not let the anger of my lord become hot. You know the people, that they are set on evil. 23For they said to me, 'Make us gods that shall go before us; as for this Moses, the man who brought us out of the land of Egypt, we do not know what has become of him.' 24And I said to them, 'Whoever has any gold, let them break it off.' So they gave it to me, and I cast it into the fire, and this calf came out."

25Now when Moses saw that the people were unrestrained (for Aaron had not restrained them, to their shame among their enemies), 26then Moses stood in the entrance of the camp, and said, "Whoever is on the LORD's side—come to me!" And all the sons of Levi gathered themselves together to him. 27And he said to them, "Thus says the LORD God of Israel: 'Let every man put his sword on his side, and go in and out from entrance to entrance throughout the camp, and let every man kill his brother, every man his companion, and every man his neighbor.' " 28So the sons of Levi did according to the word of Moses. And about three thousand men of the people fell that day. 29Then Moses said, "Consecrate yourselves today to the LORD, that He may bestow on you a blessing this day, for every man has opposed his son and his brother."

30Now it came to pass on the next day that Moses said to the people, "You have committed a great sin. So now I will go up to the LORD; perhaps I can make atonement for your sin." 31Then Moses returned to the LORD and said, "Oh, these people have committed a great sin, and have made for themselves a god of gold! 32Yet now, if You will forgive their sin—but if not, I pray, blot me out of Your book which You have written."

33And the LORD said to Moses, "Whoever has sinned against Me, I will blot him out of My book. 34Now therefore, go, lead the people to the place of which I have spoken to you. Behold, My Angel shall go before you. Nevertheless, in the day when I visit for punishment, I will visit punishment upon them for their sin."

35So the LORD plagued the people because of what they did with the calf which Aaron made.

The Command to Leave Sinai

33 Then the LORD said to Moses, "Depart and go up from here, you and the people whom you have brought out of the land of Egypt, to the land of which I swore to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, saying, 'To your descendants I will give it.'

found in marriage contracts, as legal terms for adultery (see also Gen. 20:9; 39:9). Israel's unfaithfulness to the Lord was a breaking of the covenant just as adultery breaks the covenant of marriage. For the Israelites to drink the water (Ex. 32:20) paralleled the trial of a wife accused of adultery (Num. 5:14–28). God's intervention would show who was guilty.

32:22–24 Aaron's explanation, regrettably, resembled that of Adam and Eve after they had sinned (Gen. 3:11–13); he quickly blamed the people and took little responsibility himself—"this calf came out" (Ex. 32:24; compare vv. 2–5). However, Aaron was responsible because he had failed to restrain the people (v. 25; see also Deut. 9:20).

2And I will send My Angel before you, and I will drive out the Canaanite and the Amorite and the Hittite and the Perizzite and the Hivite and the Jebusite. 3*Go up* to a land flowing with milk and honey; for I will not go up in your midst, lest I consume you on the way, for you are a stiff-necked people."

4And when the people heard this bad news, they mourned, and no one put on his ornaments.
5For the LORD had said to Moses, "Say to the children of Israel, 'You are a stiff-necked people. I could come up into your midst in one moment and consume you. Now therefore, take off your ornaments, that I may know what to do to you.' " 6So the children of Israel stripped themselves of their ornaments by Mount Horeb.

Moses Meets with the LORD

7Moses took his tent and pitched it outside the camp, far from the camp, and called it the tabernacle of meeting. And it came to pass that everyone who sought the LORD went out to the tabernacle of meeting which was outside the camp. 8So it was, whenever Moses went out to the tabernacle, that all the people rose, and each man stood at his tent door and watched Moses until he had gone into the tabernacle. 9And it came to pass, when Moses entered the tabernacle, that the pillar of cloud descended and stood at the door of the tabernacle, and the LORD talked with Moses. 10All the people saw the pillar of cloud standing at the tabernacle door, and all the people rose and worshiped, each man in his tent door. 11So the LORD spoke to Moses face to face, as a man speaks to his friend. And he would return to the camp, but his servant Joshua the son of Nun, a young man, did not depart from the tabernacle.

The Promise of God's Presence

12Then Moses said to the LORD, "See, You say to me, 'Bring up this people.' But You have not let me know whom You will send with me. Yet You have said, 'I know you by name, and you have also found grace in My sight.' 13Now therefore, I pray, if I have found grace in Your sight, show me now Your way, that I may know You and that I may find grace in Your sight. And consider that this nation is Your people."

14And He said, "My Presence will go with you, and I will give you rest."

15Then he said to Him, "If Your Presence does not go with us, do not bring us up from here. 16For how then will it be known that Your people and I have found grace in Your sight, except You go with us? So we shall be separate, Your people and I, from all the people who are upon the face of the earth."

17So the LORD said to Moses, "I will also do this thing that you have spoken; for you have found grace in My sight, and I know you by name."

18And he said, "Please, show me Your glory."

19Then He said, "I will make all My goodness pass before you, and I will proclaim the name of the LORD before you. I will be gracious to whom I will be gracious, and I will have compassion on whom I will have compassion." 20But He said, "You cannot see My face; for no man shall see Me, and live." 21And the LORD said, "Here is a place by Me, and you shall stand on the rock. 22So it shall be, while My glory passes by, that I will put you in the cleft of the rock, and will cover you with My hand while I pass by. 23Then I will take away My hand, and you shall see My back; but My face shall not

33:3 I will not go up in your midst. This statement shows that the relationship between the Lord and the Israelites was not yet settled and at peace, even though the land promises were renewed (see also v. 5). The people recognized their loss and mourned when they heard that the Lord would not go among them. That He would not now go among them implied that they should not build the tabernacle, the place where He had said He would dwell among them (Ex. 25:8; 29:44–46). It would have been pointless to build an ark and a tabernacle in which to place the covenant record, a tabernacle designated as a dwelling for the Lord, where He would meet His people—if there were no covenant and if the Lord would not dwell among the Israelites.

33:7–11 The word translated tabernacle (Heb. 'ohel) is the usual one for "tent," not the word used in Exodus 26 to describe the structure that would contain "the holy place and the Most Holy Place" (Ex. 26:33). These verses explain that Moses customarily talked with God in a tent outside the camp (see also Ex. 34:29–35; Deut. 34:10–12; chart, The Plan of the Tabernacle).

33:14 My presence (lit. "My face") is used as a way of saying "I Myself." The same idiom is used concerning the Lord (vv. 20, 23) and Moses (v. 19). That the Lord would give rest may indicate security He would give in the Land (see Deut. 12:9, 10; 25:19; Josh. 23:1). If, however, Moses took it as rest for himself personally, he did not accept it as sufficient but pressed for the Lord's presence with the people as a whole (v. 16; Ex. 34:9).

33:15, 16 For the Lord to have given Israel land as promised would not have distinguished them as unique, since He had given land to others (Ex. 32:34—33:3; see Deut. 2:5, 9, 19–22). Only by the Lord's special presence among the Israelites would anyone know that He had shown them favor and given them a distinct identity.

33:18 Asking to see the Lord's glory repeats in other terms the request in verse 13. Moses wanted a full disclosure of the Lord's essential character (see Heb. 1:1–3). The answer to these requests is first of all the proclamation of the Lord's name, which lists qualities central to His dealings with the Israelites in the Book of Exodus, and then also the display of the Lord's presence in the finished tabernacle (Ex. 34:5–7; 40:34, 35).

ATTRIBUTES OF GOD — HE IS PERSONAL

God is the Ultimate Being. He is a living, speaking, loving, feeling, and seeking God. Though He is spirit (John 4:24), He has intellect (1 Cor. 2:10, 11), will (Dan. 4:35), and emotions (Deut. 4:21, 24), and He communicates with us (Job 22:21, 22; Prov. 2:6). One of the pervading themes in Scripture is God's desire for a personal relationship with the man and woman whom He created in His image.

God has used nearly every relationship of personal commitment we know to reveal Himself to us: husband (Jer. 31:32), father (Gal. 4:6, 7), mother (Is. 49:15), brother (Prov. 18:24), lover (Song), bridegroom (Rev. 19:7–9), shepherd (Ps. 23), creator and designer (Ps. 139:13–16), king (Ps. 10:16), provider (Matt. 6:25–33), protector (Jer. 20:11), teacher (Ps. 25:8–12), counselor (Is. 9:6), friend (John 15:14, 15), physician (Matt. 9:12, 13), master (Luke 16:13), servant (Mark 10:45), and military commander (Eph. 6:11–18).

The ultimate communication of God to us is Jesus (John 1:18; 10:30; 12:45; 14:9). Only the God of the Bible is the living God. He was not made by human hands (Is. 45:5–7; Col. 1:15–17; Rev. 1:8), but He made and fashioned the world and all that is in it (Ps. 100:3; 115:15; Eccl. 3:11). His greatest glory is found in His creation with whom He is personally and intimately involved and of whom Christ is the crowning expression.

Moses Makes New Tablets

34 And the LORD said to Moses, "Cut two tablets of stone like the first ones, and I will write on these tablets the words that were on the first tablets which you broke. 2So be ready in the morning, and come up in the morning to Mount Sinai, and present yourself to Me there on the top of the mountain. 3And no man shall come up with you, and let no man be seen throughout all the mountain; let neither flocks nor herds feed before that mountain."

4So he cut two tablets of stone like the first ones. Then Moses rose early in the morning and went up Mount Sinai, as the LORD had commanded him; and he took in his hand the two tablets of stone.

5Now the LORD descended in the cloud and stood with him there, and proclaimed the name of the LORD. 6And the LORD passed before him and proclaimed, "The LORD, the LORD God, merciful and gracious, longsuffering, and abounding in goodness and truth, 7keeping mercy for thousands, forgiving iniquity and transgression and sin, by no means clearing the guilty, visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children and the children's children to the third and the fourth generation."

8So Moses made haste and bowed his head toward the earth, and worshiped. 9Then he said, "If now I have found grace in Your sight, O Lord, let my Lord, I pray, go among us, even though we are a stiff-necked people; and pardon our iniquity and our sin, and take us as Your inheritance."

The Covenant Renewed

10And He said: "Behold, I make a covenant. Before all your people I will do marvels such as have not been done in all the earth, nor in any nation; and all the people among whom you are shall see the work of the LORD. For it is an awesome thing that I will do with you. 11Observe what I command you this day. Behold, I am driving out from before you the Amorite and the Canaanite and the Hittite and the Perizzite and the Hivite and the Jebusite. 12Take heed to yourself, lest you make a covenant with the inhabitants of the land where you are going, lest it be a snare in your midst. 13But you shall destroy their altars, break their sacred pillars, and cut down their wooden images 14(for you shall worship no other god, for the LORD, whose name is Jealous, is a jealous God), 15lest you make a covenant with the inhabitants of 34:8 In responding to the Lord's revelation of Himself, Moses bowed in worship. This stands as a climactic personal fulfillment of the sign given to Moses (Ex. 3:12); verse 8 is the only place in Exodus that the verb translated "worshiped" is used of Moses separately.

34:10 I make a covenant. Throughout this chapter parallels to earlier events and instructions confirm that the Lord was reinstating the covenant relationship formalized in Exodus 19—24. Renewal of the covenant meant that the Lord was agreeing to Moses' requests on behalf of the Israelites (v. 9). It provided for a continuing relationship in which the Israelites would know the Lord as their God, doing "marvels" in such a way that surrounding peoples would "see the work of the LORD" (v. 10). Restoration following the Israelites' worship of the golden calf seems to have had three stages:

1) the Lord's decision not to destroy all the people,
2) a proposed arrangement that would have given the Israelites a land but no distinctive identity, and
3) pardon and full restoration of ongoing presence and covenant involvement.

34:15, 16 Worshiping idols by both pagans and Israelites is characterized as harlotry. Pagan worship is not neutral and is never directed toward the Lord (see Is. 42, Idolatry; Jer. 7, Paganism).

the land, and they play the harlot with their gods and make sacrifice to their gods, and one of them invites you and you eat of his sacrifice, [16]and you take of his daughters for your sons, and his daughters play the harlot with their gods and make your sons play the harlot with their gods.

[17]"You shall make no molded gods for yourselves.

[18]"The Feast of Unleavened Bread you shall keep. Seven days you shall eat unleavened bread, as I commanded you, in the appointed time of the month of Abib; for in the month of Abib you came out from Egypt.

[19]"All that open the womb are Mine, and every male firstborn among your livestock, whether ox or sheep. [20]But the firstborn of a donkey you shall redeem with a lamb. And if you will not redeem him, then you shall break his neck. All the firstborn of your sons you shall redeem.

"And none shall appear before Me empty-handed.

[21]"Six days you shall work, but on the seventh day you shall rest; in plowing time and in harvest you shall rest.

[22]"And you shall observe the Feast of Weeks, of the firstfruits of wheat harvest, and the Feast of Ingathering at the year's end.

[23]"Three times in the year all your men shall appear before the Lord, the LORD God of Israel. [24]For I will cast out the nations before you and enlarge your borders; neither will any man covet your land when you go up to appear before the LORD your God three times in the year.

[25]"You shall not offer the blood of My sacrifice with leaven, nor shall the sacrifice of the Feast of the Passover be left until morning.

[26]"The first of the firstfruits of your land you shall bring to the house of the LORD your God. You shall not boil a young goat in its mother's milk."

[27]Then the LORD said to Moses, "Write these words, for according to the tenor of these words I have made a covenant with you and with Israel." [28]So he was there with the LORD forty days and forty nights; he neither ate bread nor drank water. And He wrote on the tablets the words of the covenant, the Ten Commandments.[a]

The Shining Face of Moses

[29]Now it was so, when Moses came down from Mount Sinai (and the two tablets of the Testimony were in Moses' hand when he came down from the mountain), that Moses did not know that the skin of his face shone while he talked with Him. [30]So when Aaron and all the children of Israel saw Moses, behold, the skin of his face shone, and they were afraid to come near him. [31]Then Moses called to them, and Aaron and all the rulers of the congregation returned to him; and Moses talked with them. [32]Afterward all the children of Israel came near, and he gave them as commandments all that the LORD had spoken with him on Mount Sinai. [33]And when Moses had finished speaking with them, he put a veil on his face. [34]But whenever Moses went in before the LORD to speak with Him, he would take the veil off until he came out; and he would come out and speak to the children of Israel whatever he had been commanded. [35]And whenever the children of Israel saw the face of Moses, that the skin of Moses' face shone, then Moses would put the veil on his face again, until he went in to speak with Him.

Sabbath Regulations

35 Then Moses gathered all the congregation of the children of Israel together, and said to them, "These are the words which the LORD has commanded you to do: [2]Work shall be done for six days, but the seventh day shall be a holy day for you, a Sabbath of rest to the LORD. Whoever does any work on it shall be put to death. [3]You shall kindle no fire throughout your dwellings on the Sabbath day."

Offerings for the Tabernacle

[4]And Moses spoke to all the congregation of the children of Israel, saying, "This is the thing which the LORD commanded, saying: [5]'Take from among you an offering to the LORD. Whoever is of a willing heart, let him bring it as an offering to the LORD: gold, silver, and bronze; [6]blue, purple, and scarlet thread, fine linen, and goats' hair; [7]ram skins dyed red, badger skins, and acacia wood; [8]oil for the light, and spices for the anointing oil and for the sweet incense; [9]onyx stones, and stones to be set in the ephod and in the breastplate.

Articles of the Tabernacle

[10]All who are gifted artisans among you shall come and make all that the LORD has commanded:

34:28 [a]Literally Ten Words

34:20–24 References to appearing before the Lord (vv. 20, 23, 24) and to His house (v. 26) reflect the fact that the Lord would indeed dwell among the Israelites, as Moses had asked. To appear before the Lord was an act of recognizing Him as the great King who could institute a covenant with a vassal people. They, in turn, would affirm their loyalty and bring Him tribute at regular intervals.

34:26 See Ex. 23:18, 19, note.

35:1 Making the tabernacle. Exodus 35—39 records the Israelites' obedience in following the instructions for the tabernacle, as given to Moses during his first 40 days on Mount Sinai (Ex. 25:1—31:18). Repeating the specifications and repeating the phrase "as the Lord had commanded" and its parallels emphasize the exactness of the obedience (Ex. 36:1; 38:22; 39:1, and throughout Ex. 39; 40; chart, The Plan of the Tabernacle).

[11]the tabernacle, its tent, its covering, its clasps, its boards, its bars, its pillars, and its sockets; [12]the ark and its poles, with the mercy seat, and the veil of the covering; [13]the table and its poles, all its utensils, and the showbread; [14]also the lampstand for the light, its utensils, its lamps, and the oil for the light; [15]the incense altar, its poles, the anointing oil, the sweet incense, and the screen for the door at the entrance of the tabernacle; [16]the altar of burnt offering with its bronze grating, its poles, all its utensils, and the laver and its base; [17]the hangings of the court, its pillars, their sockets, and the screen for the gate of the court; [18]the pegs of the tabernacle, the pegs of the court, and their cords; [19]the garments of ministry,[a] for ministering in the holy place— the holy garments for Aaron the priest and the garments of his sons, to minister as priests.' "

The Tabernacle Offerings Presented

[20]And all the congregation of the children of Israel departed from the presence of Moses. [21]Then everyone came whose heart was stirred, and everyone whose spirit was willing, and they brought the LORD's offering for the work of the tabernacle of meeting, for all its service, and for the holy garments. [22]They came, both men and women, as many as had a willing heart, and brought earrings and nose rings, rings and necklaces, all jewelry of gold, that is, every man who made an offering of gold to the LORD. [23]And every man, with whom was found blue, purple, and scarlet thread, fine linen, goats' hair, red skins of rams, and badger skins, brought them. [24]Everyone who offered an offering of silver or bronze brought the LORD's offering. And everyone with whom was found acacia wood for any work of the service, brought it. [25]All the women who were gifted artisans spun yarn with their hands, and brought what they had spun, of blue, purple, and scarlet, and fine linen. [26]And all the women whose hearts stirred with wisdom spun yarn of goats' hair. [27]The rulers brought onyx stones, and the stones to be set in the ephod and in the breastplate, [28]and spices and oil for the light, for the anointing oil, and for the sweet incense. [29]The children of Israel brought a freewill offering to the LORD, all the men and women whose hearts were willing to bring material for all kinds of work which the LORD, by the hand of Moses, had commanded to be done.

The Artisans Called by God

[30]And Moses said to the children of Israel, "See, the LORD has called by name Bezalel the son of Uri, the son of Hur, of the tribe of Judah; [31]and He has filled him with the Spirit of God, in wisdom and understanding, in knowledge and all manner of workmanship, [32]to design artistic works, to work in gold and silver and bronze, [33]in cutting jewels for setting, in carving wood, and to work in all manner of artistic workmanship.

[34]"And He has put in his heart the ability to teach, in him and Aholiab the son of Ahisamach, of the tribe of Dan. [35]He has filled them with skill to do all manner of work of the engraver and the designer and the tapestry maker, in blue, purple, and scarlet thread, and fine linen, and of the weaver— those who do every work and those who design artistic works.

36 "And Bezalel and Aholiab, and every gifted artisan in whom the LORD has put wisdom and understanding, to know how to do all manner of work for the service of the sanctuary, shall do according to all that the LORD has commanded."

The People Give More than Enough

[2]Then Moses called Bezalel and Aholiab, and every gifted artisan in whose heart the LORD had put wisdom, everyone whose heart was stirred, to come and do the work. [3]And they received from Moses all the offering which the children of Israel had brought for the work of the service of making the sanctuary. So they continued bringing to him freewill offerings every morning. [4]Then all the craftsmen who were doing all the work of the sanctuary came, each from the work he was doing, [5]and they spoke to Moses, saying, "The people bring much more than enough for the service of the work which the LORD commanded us to do."

[6]So Moses gave a commandment, and they caused it to be proclaimed throughout the camp, saying, "Let neither man nor woman do any more work for the offering of the sanctuary." And the people were restrained from bringing, [7]for the material they had was sufficient for all the work to be done— indeed too much.

Building the Tabernacle

[8]Then all the gifted artisans among them who worked on the tabernacle made ten curtains woven of fine linen, and of blue, purple, and scarlet thread; with artistic designs of cherubim they made them. [9]The length of each curtain was twenty-eight cubits, and the width of each curtain four cubits; the curtains were all the same size. [10]And he coupled five curtains to one another, and

35:19 [a]Or woven garments

35:12 The veil of the covering was the curtain that divided the tabernacle into two rooms; it kept the ark of the covenant from being seen.

36:8–38 See Ex. 26:1, note.

the other five curtains he coupled to one another. 11He made loops of blue yarn on the edge of the curtain on the selvedge of one set; likewise he did on the outer edge of the other curtain of the second set. 12Fifty loops he made on one curtain, and fifty loops he made on the edge of the curtain on the end of the second set; the loops held one curtain to another. 13And he made fifty clasps of gold, and coupled the curtains to one another with the clasps, that it might be one tabernacle.

14He made curtains of goats' hair for the tent over the tabernacle; he made eleven curtains. 15The length of each curtain was thirty cubits, and the width of each curtain four cubits; the eleven curtains were the same size. 16He coupled five curtains by themselves and six curtains by themselves. 17And he made fifty loops on the edge of the curtain that is outermost in one set, and fifty loops he made on the edge of the curtain of the second set. 18He also made fifty bronze clasps to couple the tent together, that it might be one. 19Then he made a covering for the tent of ram skins dyed red, and a covering of badger skins above that.

20For the tabernacle he made boards of acacia wood, standing upright. 21The length of each board was ten cubits, and the width of each board a cubit and a half. 22Each board had two tenons for binding one to another. Thus he made for all the boards of the tabernacle. 23And he made boards for the tabernacle, twenty boards for the south side. 24Forty sockets of silver he made to go under the twenty boards: two sockets under each of the boards for its two tenons. 25And for the other side of the tabernacle, the north side, he made twenty boards 26and their forty sockets of silver: two sockets under each of the boards. 27For the west side of the tabernacle he made six boards. 28He also made two boards for the two back corners of the tabernacle. 29And they were coupled at the bottom and coupled together at the top by one ring. Thus he made both of them for the two corners. 30So there were eight boards and their sockets—sixteen sockets of silver—two sockets under each of the boards.

31And he made bars of acacia wood: five for the boards on one side of the tabernacle, 32five bars for the boards on the other side of the tabernacle, and five bars for the boards of the tabernacle on the far side westward. 33And he made the middle bar to pass through the boards from one end to the other. 34He overlaid the boards with gold, made their rings of gold to be holders for the bars, and overlaid the bars with gold.

35And he made a veil of blue, purple, and scarlet thread, and fine woven linen; it was worked with an artistic design of cherubim. 36He made for it four pillars of acacia wood, and overlaid them with gold, with their hooks of gold; and he cast four sockets of silver for them.

37He also made a screen for the tabernacle door, of blue, purple, and scarlet thread, and fine woven linen, made by a weaver, 38and its five pillars with their hooks. And he overlaid their capitals and their rings with gold, but their five sockets were bronze.

Making the Ark of the Testimony

37 Then Bezalel made the ark of acacia wood; two and a half cubits was its length, a cubit and a half its width, and a cubit and a half its height. 2He overlaid it with pure gold inside and outside, and made a molding of gold all around it. 3And he cast for it four rings of gold to be set in its four corners: two rings on one side, and two rings on the other side of it. 4He made poles of acacia wood, and overlaid them with gold. 5And he put the poles into the rings at the sides of the ark, to bear the ark. 6He also made the mercy seat of pure gold; two and a half cubits was its length and a cubit and a half its width. 7He made two cherubim of beaten gold; he made them of one piece at the two ends of the mercy seat: 8one cherub at one end on this side, and the other cherub at the other end on that side. He made the cherubim at the two ends of one piece with the mercy seat. 9The cherubim spread out their wings above, and covered the mercy seat with their wings. They faced one another; the faces of the cherubim were toward the mercy seat.

Making the Table for the Showbread

10He made the table of acacia wood; two cubits was its length, a cubit its width, and a cubit and a half its height. 11And he overlaid it with pure gold, and made a molding of gold all around it. 12Also he made a frame of a handbreadth all around it, and made a molding of gold for the frame all around it. 13And he cast for it four rings of gold, and put the rings on the four corners that were at its four legs. 14The rings were close to the frame, as holders for the poles to bear the table. 15And he made the poles of acacia wood to bear the table, and overlaid them with gold. 16He made of pure gold the utensils which were on the table: its dishes, its cups, its bowls, and its pitchers for pouring.

Making the Gold Lampstand

17He also made the lampstand of pure gold; of hammered work he made the lampstand. Its shaft, its branches, its bowls, its ornamental knobs, and its flowers were of the same piece. 18And six branches came out of its sides: three branches of the lampstand out of one side, and three branches of the lampstand out of the other side. 19There were three bowls made like almond blossoms on one branch, with an ornamental knob and a flower, and three bowls made like almond blossoms on the other branch, with an ornamental knob and a flower—and so for the six branches coming out of the lampstand. 20And on the lampstand itself were four bowls made like almond blossoms, each with its ornamental knob and flower. 21*There was* a knob under the first two branches of the same, a knob under the second two branches of the same, and a knob under the third two branches of the same, according to the six branches extending from it. 22Their knobs and their branches were of one piece; all of it was one hammered piece of pure gold. 23And he made its seven lamps, its wick-trimmers, and its trays of pure gold. 24Of a talent of pure gold he made it, with all its utensils.

37:1–9 See Ex. 25:10, note.

Making the Altar of Incense

25He made the incense altar of acacia wood. Its length was a cubit and its width a cubit—it was square—and two cubits was its height. Its horns were of one piece with it. 26And he overlaid it with pure gold: its top, its sides all around, and its horns. He also made for it a molding of gold all around it. 27He made two rings of gold for it under its molding, by its two corners on both sides, as holders for the poles with which to bear it. 28And he made the poles of acacia wood, and overlaid them with gold.

Making the Anointing Oil and the Incense

29He also made the holy anointing oil and the pure incense of sweet spices, according to the work of the perfumer.

Making the Altar of Burnt Offering

38 He made the altar of burnt offering of acacia wood; five cubits was its length and five cubits its width—it was square—and its height was three cubits. 2He made its horns on its four corners; the horns were of one piece with it. And he overlaid it with bronze. 3He made all the utensils for the altar: the pans, the shovels, the basins, the forks, and the firepans; all its utensils he made of bronze. 4And he made a grate of bronze network for the altar, under its rim, midway from the bottom. 5He cast four rings for the four corners of the bronze grating, as holders for the poles. 6And he made the poles of acacia wood, and overlaid them with bronze. 7Then he put the poles into the rings on the sides of the altar, with which to bear it. He made the altar hollow with boards.

Making the Bronze Laver

8He made the laver of bronze and its base of bronze, from the bronze mirrors of the serving women who assembled at the door of the tabernacle of meeting.

Making the Court of the Tabernacle

9Then he made the court on the south side; the hangings of the court were of fine woven linen, one hundred cubits long. 10There were twenty pillars for them, with twenty bronze sockets. The hooks of the pillars and their bands were silver. 11On the north side the hangings were one hundred cubits long, with twenty pillars and their twenty bronze sockets. The hooks of the pillars and their bands were silver. 12And on the west side there were hangings of fifty cubits, with ten pillars and their ten sockets. The hooks of the pillars and their bands were silver. 13For the east side the hangings were fifty cubits. 14The hangings of one side of the gate were fifteen cubits long, with their three pillars and their three sockets, 15and the same for the other side of the court gate; on this side and that were hangings of fifteen cubits, with their three pillars and their three sockets. 16All the hangings of the court all around were of fine woven linen. 17The sockets for the pillars were bronze, the hooks of the pillars and their bands were silver, and the overlay of their capitals was silver; and all the pillars of the court had bands of silver. 18The screen for the gate of the court was woven of blue, purple, and scarlet thread, and of fine woven linen. The length was twenty cubits, and the height along its width was five cubits, corresponding to the hangings of the court. 19And there were four pillars with their four sockets of bronze; their hooks were silver, and the overlay of their capitals and their bands was silver. 20All the pegs of the tabernacle, and of the court all around, were bronze.

Materials of the Tabernacle

21This is the inventory of the tabernacle, the tabernacle of the Testimony, which was counted

38:1–7 See Ex. 27:1, note.

38:8 The laver of bronze and its base were made from melted down mirrors brought by "serving" women. Little is known about them (see 1 Sam. 2:22). The term used to describe them is used also of Levites (Num. 4:23; 6:24), some of whom were responsible for carrying tabernacle curtains and cords and who took orders from the priests. Except for the tribal leaders who gave stones to be inscribed with the names of the tribes (Ex. 35:27) and the men required to give a half-shekel of silver (Ex. 30:12–16; 38:25, 26), this group of women is the only group or class singled out for mention as having made a specific donation used for certain items. Bronze mirrors, which are known to have been made in Egypt, might not have been easy to replace in the wilderness (see Ex. 30, Cosmetics; article, What They Left Behind).

according to the commandment of Moses, for the service of the Levites, by the hand of Ithamar, son of Aaron the priest.

22Bezalel the son of Uri, the son of Hur, of the tribe of Judah, made all that the LORD had commanded Moses. 23And with him was Aholiab the son of Ahisamach, of the tribe of Dan, an engraver and designer, a weaver of blue, purple, and scarlet thread, and of fine linen.

24All the gold that was used in all the work of the holy place, that is, the gold of the offering, was twenty-nine talents and seven hundred and thirty shekels, according to the shekel of the sanctuary. 25And the silver from those who were numbered of the congregation was one hundred talents and one thousand seven hundred and seventy-five shekels, according to the shekel of the sanctuary: 26a bekah for each man (that is, half a shekel, according to the shekel of the sanctuary), for everyone included in the numbering from twenty years old and above, for six hundred and three thousand, five hundred and fifty men. 27And from the hundred talents of silver were cast the sockets of the sanctuary and the bases of the veil: one hundred sockets from the hundred talents, one talent for each socket. 28Then from the one thousand seven hundred and seventy-five shekels he made hooks for the pillars, overlaid their capitals, and made bands for them.

29The offering of bronze was seventy talents and two thousand four hundred shekels. 30And with it he made the sockets for the door of the tabernacle of meeting, the bronze altar, the bronze grating for it, and all the utensils for the altar, 31the sockets for the court all around, the bases for the court gate, all the pegs for the tabernacle, and all the pegs for the court all around.

Making the Garments of the Priesthood

39 Of the blue, purple, and scarlet thread they made garments of ministry,[a] for ministering in the holy place, and made the holy garments for Aaron, as the LORD had commanded Moses.

Making the Ephod

2He made the ephod of gold, blue, purple, and scarlet thread, and of fine woven linen. 3And they beat the gold into thin sheets and cut it into threads, to work it in with the blue, purple, and scarlet thread, and the fine linen, into artistic designs. 4They made shoulder straps for it to couple it together; it was coupled together at its two edges. 5And the intricately woven band of his ephod that was on it was of the same workmanship, woven of gold, blue, purple, and scarlet thread, and of fine woven linen, as the LORD had commanded Moses.

6And they set onyx stones, enclosed in settings of gold; they were engraved, as signets are engraved, with the names of the sons of Israel. 7He put them on the shoulders of the ephod as memorial stones for the sons of Israel, as the LORD had commanded Moses.

Making the Breastplate

8And he made the breastplate, artistically woven like the workmanship of the ephod, of gold, blue, purple, and scarlet thread, and of fine woven linen. 9They made the breastplate square by doubling it; a span was its length and a span its width when doubled. 10And they set in it four rows of stones: a row with a sardius, a topaz, and an emerald was the first row; 11the second row, a turquoise, a sapphire, and a diamond; 12the third row, a jacinth, an agate, and an amethyst; 13the fourth row, a beryl, an onyx, and a jasper. They were enclosed in settings of gold in their mountings. 14*There were* twelve stones according to the names of the sons of Israel: according to their names, engraved like a signet, each one with its own name according to the twelve tribes. 15And they made chains for the breastplate at the ends, like braided cords of pure gold. 16They also made two settings of gold and two gold rings, and put the two rings on the two ends of the breastplate. 17And they put the two braided chains of gold in the two rings on the ends of the breastplate. 18The two ends of the two braided chains they fastened in the two settings, and put them on the shoulder straps of the ephod in the front. 19And they made two rings of gold and put them on the two ends of the breastplate, on the edge of it, which was on the inward side of the ephod. 20They made two other gold rings and put them on the two shoulder straps, underneath the ephod toward its front, right at the seam above the intricately woven band of the ephod. 21And they bound the breastplate by means of its rings to the rings of the ephod with a blue cord, so that it would be above the intricately woven band of the ephod, and that the breastplate would not come loose from the ephod, as the LORD had commanded Moses.

Making the Other Priestly Garments

22He made the robe of the ephod of woven work, all of blue. 23And there was an opening in the middle of the robe, like the opening in a coat of mail, with a woven binding all around the opening, so that it would not tear. 24They made on the hem of the robe pomegranates of blue, purple, and scarlet, and of fine woven linen. 25And they made bells of pure gold, and put the bells between the pomegranates on the hem of the robe all around between the pomegranates: 26a bell and a pomegranate, a bell and a pomegranate, all around the

39:1 [a]Or woven garments

hem of the robe to minister in, as the LORD had commanded Moses.

27They made tunics, artistically woven of fine linen, for Aaron and his sons, 28a turban of fine linen, exquisite hats of fine linen, short trousers of fine woven linen, 29and a sash of fine woven linen with blue, purple, and scarlet thread, made by a weaver, as the LORD had commanded Moses.

30Then they made the plate of the holy crown of pure gold, and wrote on it an inscription like the engraving of a signet:

HOLINESS TO THE LORD.

31And they tied to it a blue cord, to fasten it above on the turban, as the LORD had commanded Moses.

The Work Completed

32Thus all the work of the tabernacle of the tent of meeting was finished. And the children of Israel did according to all that the LORD had commanded Moses; so they did. 33And they brought the tabernacle to Moses, the tent and all its furnishings: its clasps, its boards, its bars, its pillars, and its sockets; 34the covering of ram skins dyed red, the covering of badger skins, and the veil of the covering; 35the ark of the Testimony with its poles, and the mercy seat; 36the table, all its utensils, and the showbread; 37the pure gold lampstand with its lamps (the lamps set in order), all its utensils, and the oil for light; 38the gold altar, the anointing oil, and the sweet incense; the screen for the tabernacle door; 39the bronze altar, its grate of bronze, its poles, and all its utensils; the laver with its base; 40the hangings of the court, its pillars and its sockets, the screen for the court gate, its cords, and its pegs; all the utensils for the service of the tabernacle, for the tent of meeting; 41and the garments of ministry,[a] to minister in the holy place: the holy garments for Aaron the priest, and his sons' garments, to minister as priests.

42According to all that the LORD had commanded Moses, so the children of Israel did all the work. 43Then Moses looked over all the work, and indeed they had done it; as the LORD had commanded, just so they had done it. And Moses blessed them.

The Tabernacle Erected and Arranged

40Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: 2"On the first day of the first month you shall set up the tabernacle of the tent of meeting. 3You shall put in it the ark of the Testimony, and partition off the ark with the veil. 4You shall bring in the table and arrange the things that are to be set in order on it; and you shall bring in the lampstand and light its lamps. 5You shall also set the altar of gold for the incense before the ark of the Testimony, and put up the screen for the door of the tabernacle. 6Then you shall set the altar of the burnt offering before the door of the tabernacle of the tent of meeting. 7And you shall set the laver between the tabernacle of meeting and the altar, and put water in it. 8You shall set up the court all around, and hang up the screen at the court gate.

9"And you shall take the anointing oil, and anoint the tabernacle and all that is in it; and you shall hallow it and all its utensils, and it shall be holy. 10You shall anoint the altar of the burnt offering and all its utensils, and consecrate the altar. The altar shall be most holy. 11And you shall anoint the laver and its base, and consecrate it.

12"Then you shall bring Aaron and his sons to the door of the tabernacle of meeting and wash them with water. 13You shall put the holy garments on Aaron, and anoint him and consecrate him, that he may minister to Me as priest. 14And you shall bring his sons and clothe them with tunics. 15You shall anoint them, as you anointed their father, that they may minister to Me as priests; for their anointing shall surely be an everlasting priesthood throughout their generations."

16Thus Moses did; according to all that the LORD had commanded him, so he did.

17And it came to pass in the first month of the second year, on the first day of the month, that the tabernacle was raised up. 18So Moses raised up the tabernacle, fastened its sockets, set up its boards, put in its bars, and raised up its pillars. 19And he spread out the tent over the tabernacle and put the covering of the tent on top of it, as the LORD had commanded Moses. 20He took the Testimony and put it into the ark, inserted the poles through the rings of the ark, and put the mercy seat on top of the ark. 21And he brought the ark into the tabernacle, hung up the veil of the covering, and partitioned off the ark of the Testimony, as the LORD had commanded Moses.

22He put the table in the tabernacle of meeting, on the north side of the tabernacle, outside the veil; 23and he set the bread in order upon it before the LORD, as the LORD had commanded Moses. 24He put the lampstand in the tabernacle

39:43 In a fashion reminiscent of the Lord's inspecting what He had made, approving it, and then blessing it (Gen. 1:21, 22, 25, 28, 31), Moses inspected what the Israelites had made at the Lord's command and blessed them. A new creation was being completed. In blessing the workers, Moses declared what was already an established fact. As a result of and in the process of their obedience, the people were experiencing God's beneficence.

40:17 The tabernacle was raised. This took place on New Year's day, at the start of the second year after the Israelites' departure from Egypt (Ex. 12:2–6, 15–17) and nine months after their arrival at Mount Sinai (Ex. 19:1).

of meeting, across from the table, on the south side of the tabernacle; 25and he lit the lamps before the LORD, as the LORD had commanded Moses. 26He put the gold altar in the tabernacle of meeting in front of the veil; 27and he burned sweet incense on it, as the LORD had commanded Moses. 28He hung up the screen at the door of the tabernacle. 29And he put the altar of burnt offering before the door of the tabernacle of the tent of meeting, and offered upon it the burnt offering and the grain offering, as the LORD had commanded Moses. 30He set the laver between the tabernacle of meeting and the altar, and put water there for washing; 31and Moses, Aaron, and his sons would wash their hands and their feet with water from it. 32Whenever they went into the tabernacle of meeting, and when they came near the altar, they washed, as the LORD had commanded Moses. 33And he raised up the court all around the tabernacle and the altar, and hung up the screen of the court gate. So Moses finished the work.

The Cloud and the Glory

34Then the cloud covered the tabernacle of meeting, and the glory of the LORD filled the tabernacle. 35And Moses was not able to enter the tabernacle of meeting, because the cloud rested above it, and the glory of the LORD filled the tabernacle. 36Whenever the cloud was taken up from above the tabernacle, the children of Israel would go onward in all their journeys. 37But if the cloud was not taken up, then they did not journey till the day that it was taken up. 38For the cloud of the LORD was above the tabernacle by day, and fire was over it by night, in the sight of all the house of Israel, throughout all their journeys.

40:34–38 The glory of the LORD filled the tabernacle. This section marks the fulfillment of the Lord's intention to hallow the tabernacle by His presence and to dwell among the Israelites in such a way that they would know Him as their God, who had rescued them from Egypt for that purpose (see similarly 1 Kin. 8:10–13, 22–30, 56–60; Ezek. 43:2–7; 44:4; and in fuller measure, John 1:14; 14:1–3 , 16–21; 17:24–26; 1 Cor. 6:19, 20; Eph. 2:19–22; 1 Thess. 5:9–11, 23; Rev. 21:1–3). The central goal of the Exodus had been achieved, and the book ends with a forward emphasis in the description of journeying with the guidance of the Lord.

Leviticus

TITLE

The first word in Leviticus became its title in the Hebrew text (wayyiqra, lit. "and He called"). In the Septuagint, an ancient Greek translation of the Old Testament, Leviticus received the title Leuitikon (Gk.), meaning "pertaining to the Levites." The English title "Leviticus" was derived from the title Leviticus or Leviticum appearing in the Latin Vulgate. The book emphasizes covenant matters of specifically Levitical or priestly interest with a focus on holiness and worship.

AUTHOR

Although the author's name is not identified within the book, this third book of the Pentateuch has traditionally been ascribed to Moses, Israel's great lawgiver. The Book of Leviticus consists primarily of laws and regulations governing the daily life of the Lord's people. Twenty of the 27 chapters of Leviticus begin with the notation that the Lord spoke to Moses, emphasizing that the book reveals guidance for worship from the Lord Himself. The introductory and concluding verses of Leviticus (Lev. 1:1; 27:34) indicate that these laws were revealed to Israel through Moses. The laws set forth in the Book of Leviticus belong to the covenant relationship established at Mount Sinai between God and Israel. With such internal evidence, Moses' authorship is strongly affirmed. Jesus also affirmed Mosaic authorship in His reference to the law concerning cleansing from leprosy (Matt. 8:4; see Lev. 14:2–32).

DATE

Leviticus was written during the third month after the people of Israel had departed from Egypt (Ex. 19:1; see Introduction: Setting). Traditionally, the Exodus from Egypt has been dated around 1445 B.C.

BACKGROUND

SETTING: The setting is the base of Mount Sinai, where the people of Israel camped for an extensive period following the Exodus from Egypt (Ex. 19:1; Num. 10:11, 12).

PURPOSE: The Book of Leviticus is an extensive guidebook showing God's people how to live daily in relationship to Him and one another. God desired fellowship with His people, and the Book of Leviticus taught the people how to maintain that fellowship by experiencing the Lord's presence and dedicating their lives to Him. They were to be holy, for the Lord Himself is holy (Lev. 11:44; 19:2; 20:7). God's people were to separate themselves from evil and impurity and unto righteousness and obedience. Through the sacrificial system described in Leviticus, the worshiping community learned about the nature of God and how to enjoy a right relationship with Him. Reading Leviticus alongside the Psalms provides an even more complete picture of the nature of Israel's worship.

AUDIENCE: God spoke through Moses to the people of Israel camped at Mount Sinai (Lev. 1:2). Leviticus, as part of the canon of Scripture, also has impacted the chosen people throughout their history and carries a tremendous message for believers in every generation.

LITERARY CHARACTERISTICS: Leviticus is an ordered collection of regulations governing the offering of sacrifices, the organization of the priesthood, and various other matters concerning Israel's relationship with the Lord and their interaction with other nations. The book divides naturally into two major sections. The first section addresses the worship of and relationship with a holy God (Lev. 1—16). The second section deals with the daily life before a holy God and other people. The phrase "the Lord spoke" appears more than thirty times in the book and emphasizes the fact that the book is the Lord's Word.

THEMES

Holiness (lit. "separateness") is a major theme. Some form of the word appears more than 100 times in Leviticus. The worshiper is called to be holy as the Lord is holy (Lev. 11:44; 19:2). The concept of the Lord's holiness involves His uniqueness and His separateness from all that is evil. The concept of the worshiper's holiness indicates that the believer should live an obedient life of purity. God's people are called to commit every aspect of their lives to Him. Another theme is that of atonement or covering for sins. The central chapter of the book deals with the Day of Atonement (Heb. Yom Kippur, lit. "day of covering"; see Lev. 16). By forgiving sin, God enables us to enjoy fellowship with Him. The book deals with a proper response to the Lord and especially with the concept of worship. The book affirms that all people can know God and that God has revealed the way by which all can approach Him. It reveals forms and principles of worship that reach their full significance in the Person and work of Christ. The writer of the Book of Hebrews helps Christians draw parallels between the regulations of Leviticus and the work of Christ. The laws of Leviticus point to the Cross of Christ.

OUTLINE

I. Regulations on Holiness for Approaching the Holy God (1:1—16:34)

   - D. Instructions concerning the Day of Atonement (16:1–34)

II. Regulations on Holiness for Fellowshiping with the Holy God (17:1—27:34)
   - A. Instructions concerning separation (17:1—22:33)
   - B. Instructions concerning holy days (23:1—25:55)
   - C. Instructions concerning blessings and curses (26:1–46)
   - D. Instructions concerning vows (27:1–34)

The Burnt Offering

1 Now the LORD called to Moses, and spoke to him from the tabernacle of meeting, saying, 2"Speak to the children of Israel, and say to them: 'When any one of you brings an offering to the LORD, you shall bring your offering of the livestock—of the herd and of the flock.

3'If his offering is a burnt sacrifice of the herd, let him offer a male without blemish; he shall offer it of his own free will at the door of the tabernacle of meeting before the LORD. 4Then he shall put his hand on the head of the burnt offering, and it will be accepted on his behalf to make atonement for him. 5He shall kill the bull before the LORD; and the priests, Aaron's sons, shall bring the blood and sprinkle the blood all around on the altar that is by the door of the tabernacle of meeting. 6And he shall skin the burnt offering and cut it into its pieces. 7The sons of Aaron the priest shall put fire on the altar, and lay the wood in order on the fire. 8Then the priests, Aaron's sons, shall lay the parts, the head, and the fat in order on the wood that is on the fire upon the altar; 9but he shall wash its entrails and its legs with water. And the priest shall burn all on the altar as a burnt sacrifice, an offering made by fire, a sweet aroma to the LORD.

10'If his offering is of the flocks—of the sheep or of the goats—as a burnt sacrifice, he shall bring a male without blemish. 11He shall kill it on the north side of the altar before the LORD; and the priests, Aaron's sons, shall sprinkle its blood all around on the altar. 12And he shall cut it into its pieces, with its head and its fat; and the priest shall lay them in order on the wood that is on the fire upon the altar; 13but he shall wash the entrails and the legs with water. Then the priest shall bring it all and burn it on the altar; it is a burnt sacrifice, an offering made by fire, a sweet
aroma to the LORD.

14'And if the burnt sacrifice of his offering to the LORD is of birds, then he shall bring his offering of turtledoves or young pigeons. 15The priest shall bring it to the altar, wring off its head, and burn it on the altar; its blood shall be drained out at the side of the altar. 16And he shall remove its crop with its feathers and cast it beside the altar on the east side, into the place for ashes. 17Then he shall split it at its wings, but shall not divide it completely; and the priest shall burn it on the altar, on the wood that is on the fire. It is a burnt sacrifice, an offering made by fire, a sweet aroma to the LORD.

The Grain Offering

2 'When anyone offers a grain offering to the LORD, his offering shall be of fine flour. And he shall pour oil on it, and put frankincense on it. 2He shall

1:1 God takes the initiative to establish fellowship with His people. The tabernacle or tent of meeting, a portable sanctuary, represented the Lord's presence among the people of Israel. The Lord's instructions to Moses for building the tabernacle and its furnishings are recorded (Ex. 25—31). A manual on the proper procedures for sacrifice follows (Lev. 1:1—7:38).

1:3–17 The burnt offering (Heb. 'olah) is mentioned first, as the oldest and most important type of sacrifice (Gen. 8:20; see chart, The Offerings of the Lord). Sacrificial animals could not be carnivorous; they must be domesticated and without blemish. God in His mercy provided a way to restore to Himself a relationship that had been broken by sin. The offering was burned completely (except the skin), symbolizing total commitment to God. In placing (lit. "leaning") his hand on the head of the burnt offering (v. 4), the worshiper identified himself with the offering. Provision was made for the poor to offer a common bird as a burnt offering (vv. 14–17). The appointment of representative male leaders from the tribe of Levi to be priests was to be done with consistency throughout the history of Israel (Ex. 28:1–3). The selection of priests was not just along gender lines, for all blemished males were also refused (Lev. 21:17–21). Spiritual leadership in any Israelite family was vested in a male head of the family. For example, Noah offered the sacrifice for his family (Gen. 8:20); Abraham, as did the other patriarchs and Job, built altars for his family (Gen. 12:7; 13:18). Wives and children were covered through the sacrifice made by the male head of the household. This male role in public worship never negated any woman's direct access to God on the personal level, nor did it deter women from having personal appearances from God (Judg. 13:2–6; 1 Sam. 1:9–18). There is no intrinsic inferiority of the woman suggested; rather the man was created first (1 Gen. 11:8) and given an assignment from God Himself for leadership of his family (Eph. 5:22–24; see 1 Pet. 3, Submission; chart, Theological Foundations for Headship). This was not a statement on worth or value but a directive concerning order, roles, and responsibilities.

1:5 Blood, mentioned more than 80 times in Leviticus, represents the life force of a living being (Lev. 17:11).

1:9 The burnt offering is described as a sweet (lit. "soothing" or "pleasing") aroma to the Lord. Clearly the sacrifice was not regarded as a means of appeasing an angry, capricious deity, but of illustrating the need for atonement between the holy God and sinful man.

1:11 Killing the animal was a religious act. Generally, the worshiper participated by bringing the animal, identifying with the animal through laying hands on its head (illustrating the concept of substitution), by confession of sin, and by assisting the priest in slaying the animal. Such acts as pouring out the blood, maintaining the fire, placing the pieces on the altar, cleansing portions of the animal, and burning the sacrifice were designated as priestly functions as the priest did his work as mediator between sinful man and a holy God.

2:1–16 The Hebrew name for the grain or cereal offering simply means "gift." This offering expressed the worshiper's spontaneous gratitude to God (see chart, The Offerings of the Lord). No specific requirements regarding its time and frequency were given. The gift involved the product of a woman's daily activities in the home: flour or baked cakes. Dedication of life expresses itself in the simplicity of everyday activity. This offering also produced a "sweet aroma" to the bring it to Aaron's sons, the priests, one of whom shall take from it his handful of fine flour and oil with all the frankincense. And the priest shall burn it as a memorial on the altar, an offering made by fire, a sweet aroma to the LORD. 3The rest of the grain offering shall be Aaron's and his sons'. It is most holy of the offerings to the LORD made by fire.

4"And if you bring as an offering a grain offering baked in the oven, it shall be unleavened cakes of fine flour mixed with oil, or unleavened wafers anointed with oil. 5But if your offering is a grain offering baked in a pan, it shall be of fine flour, unleavened, mixed with oil. 6You shall break it in pieces and pour oil on it; it is a grain offering.

7"If your offering is a grain offering baked in a covered pan, it shall be made of fine flour with oil. 8You shall bring the grain offering that is made of these things to the LORD. And when it is presented to the priest, he shall bring it to the altar. 9Then the priest shall take from the grain offering a memorial portion, and burn it on the altar. It is an offering made by fire, a sweet aroma to the LORD. 10And what is left of the grain offering shall be Aaron's and his sons'. It is most holy of the offerings to the LORD made by fire.

11"No grain offering which you bring to the LORD shall be made with leaven, for you shall burn no leaven nor any honey in any offering to the LORD made by fire. 12As for the offering of the firstfruits, you shall offer them to the LORD, but they shall not be burned on the altar for a sweet aroma. 13And every offering of your grain offering you shall season with salt; you shall not allow the salt of the covenant of your God to be lacking from your grain offering. With all your offerings you shall offer salt.

14"If you offer a grain offering of your firstfruits to the LORD, you shall offer for the grain offering of your firstfruits green heads of grain roasted on the fire, grain beaten from full heads. 15And you shall put oil on it, and lay frankincense on it. It is a grain offering. 16Then the priest shall burn the memorial portion: part of its beaten grain and part of its oil, with all the frankincense, as an offering made by fire to the LORD.

The Peace Offering

3 "When his offering is a sacrifice of a peace offering, if he offers it of the herd, whether male or female, he shall offer it without blemish before the LORD. 2And he shall lay his hand on the head of his offering, and kill it at the door of the tabernacle of meeting; and Aaron's sons, the priests, shall sprinkle the blood all around on the altar. 3Then he shall offer from the sacrifice of the peace offering an offering made by fire to the LORD. The fat that covers the entrails and all the fat that is on the entrails, 4the two kidneys and the fat that is on them by the flanks, and the fatty lobe attached to the liver above the kidneys, he shall remove; 5and Aaron's sons shall burn it on the altar upon the burnt sacrifice, which is on the wood that is on the fire, as an offering made by fire, a sweet aroma to the LORD.

6"If his offering as a sacrifice of a peace offering to the LORD is of the flock, whether male or female, he shall offer it without blemish. 7If he offers a lamb as his offering, then he shall offer it before the LORD. 8And he shall lay his hand on the head of his offering, and kill it before the tabernacle of meeting; and Aaron's sons shall sprinkle its blood all around on the altar.

9"Then he shall offer from the sacrifice of the peace offering, as an offering made by fire to the LORD, its fat and the whole fat tail which he shall remove close to the backbone. And the fat that covers the entrails and all the fat that is on the entrails, 10the two kidneys and the fat that is on them by the flanks, and the fatty lobe attached to the liver above the kidneys, he shall remove; 11and the priest shall burn them on the altar as food, an offering made by fire to the LORD.

12"And if his offering is a goat, then he shall offer it before the LORD. 13He shall lay his hand on its head and kill it before the tabernacle of meeting; and the sons of Aaron shall sprinkle its blood all around on the altar. 14Then he shall offer from it his offering, as an offering made by fire to the LORD. The fat that covers the entrails and all the fat that is on the entrails, 15the two kidneys and

Lord (vv. 2, 9, 12; Lev. 1:9, note). Only a small portion of the grain offering was consumed by fire. The remainder was given to the priests and considered part of their income (v. 3; Lev. 6:16). While leaven and honey (probably due to the fermentation of fruit-honey) were forbidden as part of the grain offering (v. 11), salt was to be included (v. 13). Leaven symbolized that which was unacceptable to God, while salt symbolized friendship and communion with Him. Both leavened bread and honey could be brought as offerings for the priests to consume but could not be burned on the altar (v. 11).

3:1 The peace offering, the last of the basic prescribed sacrifices, constituted the third type of "sweet aroma" offering. The peace offering expressed love and gratitude to God and promoted communion with Him. The offering of this sacrifice was an occasion for joy and thanksgiving. The distinctive element of the peace offering was that it ended with a communal meal shared by the worshiper with family and friends. Women had a unique opportunity to be involved in the preparation of this special meal. Peace offerings consisted of thank offerings, votive offerings, and freewill offerings. "Peace" (Heb. shelem, lit. "benefit") conveys the ideas of wholeness and completeness. Such ideas as wholeness and health and peace are found in the traditional Jewish greeting "Shalom," which is still used. The fat of the animal was considered the choicest part, and, therefore, it belonged to the Lord (vv. 3–5). Peace offerings might be given voluntarily or in fulfillment of a vow (see chart, The Offerings of the Lord).

THE OFFERINGS OF THE LORD

NAME	SCRIPTURE REFERENCE	PURPOSE	CONTENT
1. Burnt Offering (Heb. Olah) Sweet aroma; Voluntary	Lev. 1:3–17; 6:8–13.	Propitiation for sin in general (Lev. 1:4); Expression of complete dedication and consecration to God; hence, the "whole burnt offering"	According to wealth: 1. Bull without blemish (Lev. 1:3–9); 2. Male sheep or goat without blemish (Lev. 1:10–13); 3. Turtledoves or young pigeons (Lev. 1:14–17)
2. Grain Offering (Heb. minhah) Sweet aroma; Voluntary	Lev. 2:1–16; 6:14–18; 7:12, 13.	An accompaniment to all the burnt offerings, signifying homage and thanksgiving to God	1. Fine flour mixed with oil and frankincense (Lev. 2:1–3); 2. Cakes made of fine flour, cooked with oil, and baked in oven (Lev. 2:4), pan (Lev. 2:5), or covered pan (Lev. 2:7); 3. Green heads of roasted grain mixed with oil and frankincense (Lev. 2:14, 15)
3. Peace Offering (Heb. shelem) Sweet aroma; Voluntary	Lev. 3:1–17; 7:11–21, 28–34.	Generally an expression of peace and fellowship between the offerer and God, culminating in a communal meal Thank Offering to express gratitude for an unexpected blessing or deliverance Votive Offering to express gratitude for a blessing or deliverance granted when a vow had accompanied the petition Freewill Offering to express gratitude to God without regard to any specific blessing or deliverance	According to wealth: 1. From the herd, a male or female without blemish (Lev. 3:1–5); 2. From the flock, a male or female without blemish (Lev. 3:6–11); 3. From the goats (Lev. 3:12–17) Note: Minor imperfections were permitted when the peace offering was a freewill offering of a bull or a lamb (Lev. 22:23)
4. Sin Offering (Heb. hattat) Non-sweet aroma; Compulsory	Lev. 4:1—5:13; 6:24–30.	An atonement for sins committed unknowingly, especially where no restitution was possible The sin offering not acceptable in cases of defiant rebellion against God (Num. 15:30, 31)	1. For the high priest, a bull without blemish (Lev. 4:3–12) 2. For the congregation, a bull without blemish (Lev. 4:13–21) 3. For a ruler, a male goat without blemish (Lev. 4:22–26) 4. For a commoner, a female goat or female lamb without blemish (Lev. 4:27–35) 5. In cases of poverty, two turtledoves or two young pigeons (one for a sin offering, the other for a burnt offering; Lev. 5:7–10) 6. In cases of extreme poverty, fine flour as a substitute (Lev. 5:11–13; see Heb. 9:22)
5. Trespass Offering (Heb. 'asham) Non-sweet aroma; Compulsory	Lev. 5:14—6:7; 7:1–7.	An atonement for sins committed unknowingly, especially where restitution was possible	1. If the offense were against the Lord (tithes, offerings, etc.), a ram without blemish was to be brought; with restitution reckoned according to the priest's estimate of the value of the trespass, plus one-fifth (Lev. 5:15, 16) 2. If the offense were against man, a ram without blemish with restitution reckoned according to the value plus one-fifth (Lev. 6:4–6)

[17]'This shall be a perpetual statute throughout your generations in all your dwellings: you shall eat neither fat nor blood.' "

The Sin Offering

4 Now the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, [2]"Speak to the children of Israel, saying: 'If a person sins unintentionally against any of the commandments of the LORD in anything which ought not to be done, and does any of them, [3]if the anointed priest sins, bringing guilt on the people, then let him offer to the LORD for his sin which he has sinned a young bull without blemish as a sin offering. [4]He shall bring the bull to the door of the tabernacle of meeting before the LORD, lay his hand on the bull's head, and kill the bull before the LORD. [5]Then the anointed priest shall take some of the bull's blood and bring it to the tabernacle of meeting. [6]The priest shall dip his finger in the blood and sprinkle some of the blood seven times before the LORD, in front of the veil of the sanctuary. [7]And the priest shall put some of the blood on the horns of the altar of sweet incense before the LORD, which is in the tabernacle of meeting; and he shall pour the remaining blood of the bull at the base of the altar of the burnt offering, which is at the door of the tabernacle of meeting. [8]He shall take from it all the fat of the bull as the sin offering. The fat that covers the entrails and all the fat which is on the entrails, [9]the two kidneys and the fat that is on them by the flanks, and the fatty lobe attached to the liver above the kidneys, he shall remove, [10]as it was taken from the bull of the sacrifice of the peace offering; and the priest shall burn them on the altar of the burnt offering. [11]But the bull's hide and all its flesh, with its head and legs, its entrails and offal— [12]the whole bull he shall carry outside the camp to a clean place, where the ashes are poured out, and burn it on wood with fire; where the ashes are poured out it shall be burned.

[13]'Now if the whole congregation of Israel sins unintentionally, and the thing is hidden from the eyes of the assembly, and they have done something against any of the commandments of the LORD in anything which should not be done, and are guilty; [14]when the sin which they have committed becomes known, then the assembly shall offer a young bull for the sin, and bring it before the tabernacle of meeting. [15]And the elders of the congregation shall lay their hands on the head of the bull before the LORD. Then the bull shall be killed before the LORD. [16]The anointed priest shall bring some of the bull's blood to the tabernacle of meeting. [17]Then the priest shall dip his finger in the blood and sprinkle it seven times before the LORD, in front of the veil. [18]And he shall put some of the blood on the horns of the altar which is before the LORD, which is in the tabernacle of meeting; and he shall pour the remaining blood at the base of the altar of burnt offering, which is at the door of the tabernacle of meeting. [19]He shall take all the fat from it and burn it on the altar. [20]And he shall do with the bull as he did with the bull as a sin offering; thus he shall do with it. So the priest shall make atonement for them, and it shall be forgiven them. [21]Then he shall carry the bull outside the camp, and burn it as he burned the first bull. It is a sin offering for the assembly.

[22]'When a ruler has sinned, and done something unintentionally against any of the commandments of the LORD his God in anything which should not be done, and is guilty, [23]or if his sin which he has committed comes to his knowledge, he shall bring as his offering a kid of the goats, a male without blemish. [24]And he shall lay his hand on the head of 3:17 Neither the fat nor the blood of any sacrifice should be consumed by the worshiper. These parts were dedicated to the Lord. Blood was treated in this special way because it is the essence of life (see Lev. 17:11), and life is the gift of God. Shed blood was the basis for atonement and was not to be profaned. Also, heathen religions used the drinking of blood in their rituals, and the people of Israel were to be holy or set apart. The fatty parts of the animal were viewed as places where the life force of the animal was located. The fatty portions were to be given back to the Lord in recognition that the Lord is the source of all life.

4:1 The offenses requiring a sin offering or a guilt offering are described (Lev. 4:1—6:7; see chart, The Offerings of the Lord). The original distinction between these two kinds of sacrifices has been lost. Leviticus 4 focuses on sins committed unknowingly and unintentionally. The Hebrew word for sin employed here means "to miss the mark." Unintentional sin might involve unknown violations of ritual regulations. This designation also included unpremeditated sins committed. Unintentional sin is distinguished from presumptuous sin—a deliberate revolt against God (Num. 15:30, 31), for which no sin offering was prescribed. The worshiper could only cast himself on the mercy of God. An example of the confession of deliberate sin is found in David's plea for forgiveness following his adultery with Bathsheba and his murder of Uriah (Ps. 51).

4:3 The anointed priest most likely refers to the high priest, who had special responsibility for the people's relationship with the Lord. Worship leaders must be in right relationship with the Lord before they can minister effectively to the people. The sin offering consisted of a bull in cases where the high priest or the congregation sinned. If the offender was a ruler (a king or tribal representative, v. 22) or a common person, a goat or lamb was offered. In other words, God had a plan enabling all levels of society (from the poorest peasant to the wealthiest ruler) to worship Him (see chart, The Offerings of the Lord).

the goat, and kill it at the place where they kill the burnt offering before the LORD. It is a sin offering. 25The priest shall take some of the blood of the sin offering with his finger, put it on the horns of the altar of burnt offering, and pour its blood at the base of the altar of burnt offering. 26And he shall burn all its fat on the altar, like the fat of the sacrifice of the peace offering. So the priest shall make atonement for him concerning his sin, and it shall be forgiven him.

27"If anyone of the common people sins unintentionally by doing something against any of the commandments of the LORD in anything which ought not to be done, and is guilty, 28or if his sin which he has committed comes to his knowledge, then he shall bring as his offering a kid of the goats, a female without blemish, for his sin which he has committed. 29And he shall lay his hand on the head of the sin offering, and kill the sin offering at the place of the burnt offering. 30Then the priest shall take some of its blood with his finger, put it on the horns of the altar of burnt offering, and pour all the remaining blood at the base of the altar. 31He shall remove all its fat, as fat is removed from the sacrifice of the peace offering; and the priest shall burn it on the altar for a sweet aroma to the LORD. So the priest shall make atonement for him, and it shall be forgiven him.

32"If he brings a lamb as his sin offering, he shall bring a female without blemish. 33Then he shall lay his hand on the head of the sin offering, and kill it as a sin offering at the place where they kill the burnt offering. 34The priest shall take some of the blood of the sin offering with his finger, put it on the horns of the altar of burnt offering, and pour all the remaining blood at the base of the altar. 35He shall remove all its fat, as the fat of the lamb is removed from the sacrifice of the peace offering. Then the priest shall burn it on the altar, according to the offerings made by fire to the LORD. So the priest shall make atonement for his sin that he has committed, and it shall be forgiven him.

The Trespass Offering

5 "If a person sins in hearing the utterance of an oath, and is a witness, whether he has seen or known of the matter—if he does not tell it, he bears guilt.

2"Or if a person touches any unclean thing, whether it is the carcass of an unclean beast, or the carcass of unclean livestock, or the carcass of unclean creeping things, and he is unaware of it, he also shall be unclean and guilty. 3Or if he touches human uncleanness—whatever uncleanness with which a man may be defiled, and he is unaware of it—when he realizes it, then he shall be guilty.

4"Or if a person swears, speaking thoughtlessly with his lips to do evil or to do good, whatever it is that a man may pronounce by an oath, and he is unaware of it—when he realizes it, then he shall be guilty in any of these matters.

5"And it shall be, when he is guilty in any of these matters, that he shall confess that he has sinned in that thing; 6and he shall bring his trespass offering to the LORD for his sin which he has committed, a female from the flock, a lamb or a kid of the goats as a sin offering. So the priest shall make atonement for him concerning his sin.

7"If he is not able to bring a lamb, then he shall bring to the LORD, for his trespass which he has committed, two turtledoves or two young pigeons: one as a sin offering and the other as a burnt offering. 8And he shall bring them to the priest, who shall offer that which is for the sin offering first, and wring off its head from its neck, but shall not divide it completely. 9Then he shall sprinkle some of the blood of the sin offering on the side of the altar, and the rest of the blood shall be drained out at the base of the altar. It is a sin offering. 10And he shall offer the second as a burnt offering according to the prescribed manner. So the priest shall make atonement on his behalf for his sin which he has committed, and it shall be forgiven him.

11"But if he is not able to bring two turtledoves or two young pigeons, then he who sinned shall bring for his offering one-tenth of an ephah of fine flour as a sin offering. He shall put no oil on it, nor shall he put frankincense on it, for it is a sin offering. 12Then he shall bring it to the priest, and the priest shall take his handful of it as a memorial portion, and burn it on the altar according to the offerings made by fire to the LORD. It is a sin offering. 13The priest shall make atonement for him, for his sin that he has committed in any of these matters; and it shall be forgiven him. The rest shall be the priest's as a grain offering.' "

Offerings with Restitution

14Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: 15"If a person commits a trespass, and sins unintentionally

5:2, 3 In the ancient world everything belonged either to a clean or an unclean category. Uncleanness referred to contamination by a physical, ritual, or moral impurity (see Lev. 10, Clean vs. Unclean). Laws of clean and unclean applied to people, food, places, and objects in the OT. People became unclean by contact with a dead body, by discharge of bodily fluids, by eating forbidden foods, or by leprosy. When a person became unclean, purification rituals were necessary. Such rituals accompanied birth, for example. Purification rituals involved a waiting period; called for the use of water, fire, or another cleansing agent; and often required a sacrificial sin offering.

5:14–19 Both an offering to God and restitution to others were required in certain situations in which the rights of both God and man had been violated. Three types of violations required such a guilt offering:

in regard to the holy things of the LORD, then he shall bring to the LORD as his trespass offering a ram without blemish from the flocks, with your valuation in shekels of silver according to the shekel of the sanctuary, as a trespass offering. 16And he shall make restitution for the harm that he has done in regard to the holy thing, and shall add one-fifth to it and give it to the priest. So the priest shall make atonement for him with the ram of the trespass offering, and it shall be forgiven him.

17"If a person sins, and commits any of these things which are forbidden to be done by the commandments of the LORD, though he does not know it, yet he is guilty and shall bear his iniquity. 18And he shall bring to the priest a ram without blemish from the flock, with your valuation, as a trespass offering. So the priest shall make atonement for him regarding his ignorance in which he erred and did not know it, and it shall be forgiven him. 19It is a trespass offering; he has certainly trespassed against the LORD."

6 And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: 2"If a person sins and commits a trespass against the LORD by lying to his neighbor about what was delivered to him for safekeeping, or about a pledge, or about a robbery, or if he has extorted from his neighbor, 3or if he has found what was lost and lies concerning it, and swears falsely—in any one of these things that a man may do in which he sins: 4then it shall be, because he has sinned and is guilty, that he shall restore what he has stolen, or the thing which he has extorted, or what was delivered to him for safekeeping, or the lost thing which he found, 5or all that about which he has sworn falsely. He shall restore its full value, add one-fifth more to it, and give it to whomever it belongs, on the day of his trespass offering. 6And he shall bring his trespass offering to the LORD, a ram without blemish from the flock, with your valuation, as a trespass offering, to the priest. 7So the priest shall make atonement for him before the LORD, and he shall be forgiven for any one of these things that he may have done in which he trespasses."

The Law of the Burnt Offering

8Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 9"Command Aaron and his sons, saying, 'This is the law of the burnt offering: The burnt offering shall be on the hearth upon the altar all night until morning, and the fire of the altar shall be kept burning on it. 10And the priest shall put on his linen garment, and his linen trousers he shall put on his body, and take up the ashes of the burnt offering which the fire has consumed on the altar, and he shall put them beside the altar. 11Then he shall take off his garments, put on other garments, and carry the ashes outside the camp to a clean place. 12And the fire on the altar shall be kept burning on it; it shall not be put out. And the priest shall burn wood on it every morning, and lay the burnt offering in order on it; and he shall burn on it the fat of the peace offerings. 13A fire shall always be burning on the altar; it shall never go out.

The Law of the Grain Offering

14"This is the law of the grain offering: The sons of Aaron shall offer it on the altar before the LORD. 15He shall take from it his handful of the fine flour of the grain offering, with its oil, and all the frankincense which is on the grain offering, and shall burn it on the altar for a sweet aroma, as a memorial to the LORD. 16And the remainder of it Aaron and his sons shall eat; with unleavened bread it shall be eaten in a holy place; in the court of the tabernacle of meeting they shall eat it. 17It shall not be baked with leaven. I have given it as their portion of My offerings made by fire; it is most holy, like the sin offering and the trespass offering. 18All the males among the children of Aaron may eat it. It shall be a statute forever in your generations concerning the offerings made by fire to the LORD. Everyone who touches them must be holy.' "[a]

19And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 20"This is the offering of Aaron and his sons, which they shall offer to the LORD, beginning on the day when he is anointed: one-tenth of an ephah of fine flour

6:18 [a]Compare Numbers 4:15 and Haggai 2:11–13

1) sinning against the Lord concerning holy things (vv. 15, 16),
2) disregarding the commandments of the Lord through ignorance (vv. 17–19), and
3) dealing falsely with a neighbor (Lev. 6:1–7).

Verses 14–16 deal with an unintentional sin concerning holy things. The priest levied an assessed value on the sacrificial ram (v. 15). The offender also was required to make restitution as well as an added fifth for the priest (v. 16). While some aspects of Israel's sacrificial system remain unclear, one thing is certain: different sacrifices are not required for different sins. Nor do believers have to fear that some sins remain uncovered. Christ atoned for all sins. He fulfilled the OT requirement for sacrifice as the way to forgiveness and a right relationship with God (1 John 1:7).

6:8–13 Priestly regulations for burnt offerings (see Lev. 1:3–17). The daily or continual burnt offering required two lambs, one sacrificed in the morning and the other at twilight (Ex. 29:38–42). Additional burnt offerings were sacrificed on Sabbaths, New Moons, and at the times of religious feasts. The fire was to be kept burning. The continual burning of the offering signified the dedication of the people to God. Certain instructions in this passage relate specifically to the priests, such as the specifications concerning garments to be worn. The ordinary individual was not permitted to perform any function involving direct contact with the altar.

as a daily grain offering, half of it in the morning and half of it at night. 21It shall be made in a pan with oil. When it is mixed, you shall bring it in. The baked pieces of the grain offering you shall offer for a sweet aroma to the LORD. 22The priest from among his sons, who is anointed in his place, shall offer it. It is a statute forever to the LORD. It shall be wholly burned. 23For every grain offering for the priest shall be wholly burned. It shall not be eaten."

The Law of the Sin Offering

24Also the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 25"Speak to Aaron and to his sons, saying, 'This is the law of the sin offering: In the place where the burnt offering is killed, the sin offering shall be killed before the LORD. It is most holy. 26The priest who offers it for sin shall eat it. In a holy place it shall be eaten, in the court of the tabernacle of meeting. 27Everyone who touches its flesh must be holy.[a] And when its blood is sprinkled on any garment, you shall wash that on which it was sprinkled, in a holy place. 28But the earthen vessel in which it is boiled shall be broken. And if it is boiled in a bronze pot, it shall be both scoured and rinsed in water. 29All the males among the priests may eat it. It is most holy. 30But no sin offering from which any of the blood is brought into the tabernacle of meeting, to make atonement in the holy place,[a] shall be eaten. It shall be burned in the fire.

The Law of the Trespass Offering

7 'Likewise this is the law of the trespass offering (it is most holy): 2In the place where they kill the burnt offering they shall kill the trespass offering. And its blood he shall sprinkle all around on the altar. 3And he shall offer from it all its fat. The fat tail and the fat that covers the entrails, 4the two kidneys and the fat that is on them by the flanks, and the fatty lobe attached to the liver above the kidneys, he shall remove; 5and the priest shall burn them on the altar as an offering made by fire to the LORD. It is a trespass offering. 6Every male among the priests may eat it. It shall be eaten in a holy place. It is most holy. 7The trespass offering is like the sin offering; there is one law for them both: the priest who makes atonement with it shall have it. 8And the priest who offers anyone's burnt offering, that priest shall have for himself the skin of the burnt offering which he has offered. 9Also every grain offering that is baked in the oven and all that is prepared in the covered pan, or in a pan, shall be the priest's who offers it. 10Every grain offering, whether mixed with oil or dry, shall belong to all the sons of Aaron, to one as much as the other.

The Law of Peace Offerings

11 'This is the law of the sacrifice of peace offerings which he shall offer to the LORD: 12If he offers it for a thanksgiving, then he shall offer, with the sacrifice of thanksgiving, unleavened cakes mixed with oil, unleavened wafers anointed with oil, or cakes of blended flour mixed with oil. 13Besides the cakes, as his offering he shall offer leavened bread with the sacrifice of thanksgiving of his peace offering. 14And from it he shall offer one cake from each offering as a heave offering to the LORD. It shall belong to the priest who sprinkles the blood of the peace offering.

15 'The flesh of the sacrifice of his peace offering for thanksgiving shall be eaten the same day it is offered. He shall not leave any of it until morning. 16But if the sacrifice of his offering is a vow or a voluntary offering, it shall be eaten the same day that he offers his sacrifice; but on the next day the remainder of it also may be eaten; 17the remainder of the flesh of the sacrifice on the third day must be burned with fire. 18And if any of the flesh of the sacrifice of his peace offering is eaten at all on the third day, it shall not be accepted, nor shall it be imputed to him; it shall be 6:24–30 Priestly regulations for sin offerings. The priests evidently were permitted to eat the flesh of the sin offering only under certain conditions (see vv. 26, 29, 30). Both holiness and uncleanness were thought to be transferred through contact. Thus, clothing stained with sacrificial blood had to be washed according to the law (v. 27). Vessels involved in the sacrificial process had to be cleansed (v. 28). The holiness and purity of God are contrasted with the sinfulness of the people. A prohibition is given against consuming blood and fat (vv. 22–27). The fat of the animal was regarded as the choicest part, while the blood represented the animal's life force (Lev. 17:11). Thus, both the fat and the blood belonged to the Lord and were not to be eaten (see Lev. 3:17, note). While Leviticus reveals the proper outward form of worship, the psalms reveal the inner attitude that should accompany the outward observance. Worship is costly and requires discipline (Lev. 1:1—7:38). Genuine sacrifices were those accompanied by the obedience of the worshiper.

7:11 Priestly regulations for peace offerings. The occasion for the offering described is the giving of thanks (v. 12), a vow, or a voluntary offering (v. 16). Previous regulations for the peace offering concerned whether the animal sacrifice came from the herd or from the flock (see Lev. 3:1–17). In this passage other stipulations are made. If the reason for the offering was thanksgiving, apparently the peace offering (see Lev. 3:1–17) was combined with a grain or cereal offering (see Lev. 2:1–16).

7:14 The heave offering (Heb. terumah, lit. "lift up"), in which the "breast" was to be "heaved" or lifted heavenward, is understood to be symbolic of dependence on God for supplying needs. The up and down motion before the Lord is indicative of that vertical relationship in which all comes from the Lord and all is returned to Him.

an abomination to him who offers it, and the person who eats of it shall bear guilt.

19"The flesh that touches any unclean thing shall not be eaten. It shall be burned with fire. And as for the clean flesh, all who are clean may eat of it. 20But the person who eats the flesh of the sacrifice of the peace offering that belongs to the LORD, while he is unclean, that person shall be cut off from his people. 21Moreover the person who touches any unclean thing, such as human uncleanness, an unclean animal, or any abominable unclean thing,[a] and who eats the flesh of the sacrifice of the peace offering that belongs to the LORD, that person shall be cut off from his people.' "

Fat and Blood May Not Be Eaten

22And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 23"Speak to the children of Israel, saying: 'You shall not eat any fat, of ox or sheep or goat. 24And the fat of an animal that dies naturally, and the fat of what is torn by wild beasts, may be used in any other way; but you shall by no means eat it. 25For whoever eats the fat of the animal of which men offer an offering made by fire to the LORD, the person who eats it shall be cut off from his people. 26Moreover you shall not eat any blood in any of your dwellings, whether of bird or beast. 27Whoever eats any blood, that person shall be cut off from his people.' "

The Portion of Aaron and His Sons

28Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 29"Speak to the children of Israel, saying: 'He who offers the sacrifice of his peace offering to the LORD shall bring his offering to the LORD from the sacrifice of his peace offering. 30His own hands shall bring the offerings made by fire to the LORD. The fat with the breast he shall bring, that the breast may be waved as a wave offering before the LORD. 31And the priest shall burn the fat on the altar, but the breast shall be Aaron's and his sons'. 32Also the right thigh you shall give to the priest as a heave offering from the sacrifices of your peace offerings. 33He among the sons of Aaron, who offers the blood of the peace offering and the fat, shall have the right thigh for his part. 34For the breast of the wave offering and the thigh of the heave offering I have taken from the children of Israel, from the sacrifices of their peace offerings, and I have given them to Aaron the priest and to his sons from the children of Israel by a statute forever.' "

37This is the law of the burnt offering, the grain offering, the sin offering, the trespass offering, the consecrations, and the sacrifice of the peace offering, 38which the LORD commanded Moses on Mount Sinai, on the day when He commanded the children of Israel to offer their offerings to the LORD in the Wilderness of Sinai.

Aaron and His Sons Consecrated

8 And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: 2"Take Aaron and his sons with him, and the garments, the anointing oil, a bull as the sin offering, two rams, and a basket of unleavened bread; 3and gather all the congregation together at the door of the tabernacle of meeting."

4So Moses did as the LORD commanded him. And the congregation was gathered together at the door of the tabernacle of meeting. 5And Moses

7:21 [a]Following Masoretic Text, Septuagint, and Vulgate; Samaritan Pentateuch, Syriac, and Targum read swarming thing (compare 5:2).

7:28–36 Compensation for ministry. These verses stipulate that the priests should receive their portion of the sacrifice. The principle expressed in these latter verses is that those who minister should receive compensation for their ministry (1 Cor. 9:13, 14).

7:30–32 The wave offering (Heb. tenuphah, lit. "brandishing") is a reference to the "thigh" as being "waved" before the Lord. Like the "heaving," the "waving" was symbolic of consecration to God. This sideways or back and forth motion acknowledged God as provider and sustainer. This movement toward the altar was symbolic of transferring the sacrifice to God and back again as a sign of the receiving of the sacrifice by the priests as a gift from God (see chart, The Offerings of the Lord).

8:1–4 Note the repetition of the phrase affirming that the Lord directed Moses (v. 1), which authenticates the following instructions as the Lord's words. Leviticus 8 details the consecration or ordination of Aaron and his sons as priests (see Ex. 29:1–46). The elements essential for the ordination procedure are listed (v. 2). The priestly ministry was limited to Aaron and his descendants. No one could appoint himself to the priesthood. God set these men apart through Moses. Such duties required specialized knowledge that could be passed on most easily within one family. Both the ritual of ordination and the priestly garments carried symbolic meaning. The priesthood in Israel preshadowed the priesthood of Christ. In the NT, every believer becomes a priest (see 1 Pet. 2, The Priesthood of the Believer).

8:5–9 Clothing the high priest in his specialized garments was preceded by a ritual washing, symbolizing the need to be clean or pure in the presence of the Lord. The symbolic meaning of the priestly garments is more apparent in Exodus 28 (see Ex. 28:15, note; see chart, The High Priest's Clothing). The Urim and the Thummim (Ex. 28:30) were two stones used for discerning the will of God. The high priest's garments emphasized the two main functions of the priest: to bring the people to God by interceding for them and to bring God to the people by helping them know His will.

6Then Moses brought Aaron and his sons and washed them with water. 7And he put the tunic on him, girded him with the sash, clothed him with the robe, and put the ephod on him; and he girded him with the intricately woven band of the ephod, and with it tied the ephod on him. 8Then he put the breastplate on him, and he put the Urim and the Thummim[a] in the breastplate. 9And he put the turban on his head. Also on the turban, on its front, he put the golden plate, the holy crown, as the LORD had commanded Moses.

10Also Moses took the anointing oil, and anointed the tabernacle and all that was in it, and consecrated them. 11He sprinkled some of it on the altar seven times, anointed the altar and all its utensils, and the laver and its base, to consecrate them. 12And he poured some of the anointing oil on Aaron's head and anointed him, to consecrate him.

13Then Moses brought Aaron's sons and put tunics on them, girded them with sashes, and put hats on them, as the LORD had commanded Moses.

18Then he brought the ram as the burnt offering. And Aaron and his sons laid their hands on the head of the ram, 19and Moses killed it. Then he sprinkled the blood all around on the altar. 20And he cut the ram into pieces; and Moses burned the head, the pieces, and the fat. 21Then he washed the entrails and the legs in water. And Moses burned the whole ram on the altar. It was a burnt sacrifice for a sweet aroma, an offering made by fire to the LORD, as the LORD had commanded Moses.

22And he brought the second ram, the ram of consecration. Then Aaron and his sons laid their hands on the head of the ram, 23and Moses killed it. Also he took some of its blood and put it on the tip of Aaron's right ear, on the thumb of his right hand, and on the big toe of his right foot. 24Then he brought Aaron's sons. And Moses put some of the blood on the tips of their right ears, on the thumbs of their right hands, and on the big toes of their right feet. And Moses sprinkled the blood all around on the altar. 25Then he took the fat and the fat tail, all the fat that was on the entrails, the fatty lobe attached to the liver, the two kidneys and their fat, and the right thigh; 26and from the basket of unleavened bread that was before the LORD he took one unleavened cake, a cake of bread anointed with oil, and one wafer, and put them on the fat and on the right thigh; 27and he put all these in Aaron's hands and in his sons' hands, and waved them as a wave offering before the LORD. 28Then Moses took them from their hands and burned them on the altar, on the burnt offering. They were consecration offerings for a sweet aroma. That was an offering made by fire to the LORD. 29And Moses took the breast and waved it as a wave offering before the LORD. It was Moses' part of the ram of consecration, as the LORD had commanded Moses.

30Then Moses took some of the anointing oil

8:8 [a]Literally the Lights and the Perfections (compare Exodus 28:30)

8:10–13 The anointing oil was poured on the high priest. Anointing with oil signified consecration to the Lord. Olive oil was used in such ceremonies. Objects, including the tabernacle, the altar, and the utensils, also were anointed (vv. 10, 11; see also chart, The Furniture of the Tabernacle). The people of Israel also anointed their kings (see 1 Sam. 16:1–13).

8:14–17 Sin offering for Aaron and his sons (see Lev. 4:1, 3, notes). Atonement was to be made for the altar itself (v. 15). This action suggests that atonement involves consecration. Aaron and his sons placed their hands on the head of the bull to signify their identification with the bull. Through the sin offering, Aaron and his sons experienced the Lord's forgiveness. Those who serve the Lord must first experience His gift of forgiveness.

8:18–21 The burnt offering for Aaron and his sons symbolized the complete dedication of the priests to God. The entire sacrificial ram was burned on the altar, symbolizing that the worship leaders totally gave themselves to the Lord in ministry (Ex. 29:15–18; Lev. 1:3–17, note).

8:22–30 The consecration offering appears almost identical to the peace offering (see Lev. 7:11–38). "Consecrate" or "ordain" (lit. "fill the hand"; see Ex. 32:29) may refer to the responsibilities committed to the priests. The person was to be brought under the power and protection of the blood (vv. 23, 24). This ritual of consecration involved total obedience and willing service in the tabernacle. This dedication to God came in a unique ceremony in which the placement of blood was significant:

1) on the right ear lobe, to hear and obey the Word of God;
2) on the thumb of the right hand, to perform the service and commands of God; and
3) on the right big toe, to walk in the ways of God in an exemplary manner.

The whole person, along with his garments, was therefore dedicated and consecrated to God (v. 30).

CLEAN AND UNCLEAN A DIVINE DISTINCTION

The biblical distinction between "clean" and "unclean" has nothing to do with hygiene. Rather, it is the way God designated the difference between what He could receive into His presence and what must remain apart from Him. Only people, animals, and objects designated as clean could enter the tabernacle, and later the temple, as part of the worship of God. Specific rituals were instituted by God for making an "unclean" person or object "clean" (see Lev. 14; Is. 1:16).

The designation of "clean" and "unclean" also implies a distinction between ethical character and behavior that is acceptable to God ("holy") from that which is unacceptable ("unholy"). Jesus clearly taught that it is a person's character ("heart") which determines whether or not she is "clean" and can be received into God's presence (Mark 7:15). Because of the spiritual nature of human character, external rituals cannot make anyone admissible to the Lord's presence. Only the blood of Jesus Christ can make us "clean" and only through Him are we welcomed into the presence of God the Father (1 John 1:9).

See also Mark 7:15; Rom. 3:23, note; 2 Cor. 6:17; notes on Access to God (Rom. 10); Holiness (Lev. 20); Purity (1 John 3) and some of the blood which was on the altar, and sprinkled it on Aaron, on his garments, on his sons, and on the garments of his sons with him; and he consecrated Aaron, his garments, his sons, and the garments of his sons with him.

31And Moses said to Aaron and his sons, "Boil the flesh at the door of the tabernacle of meeting, and eat it there with the bread that is in the basket of consecration offerings, as I commanded, saying, 'Aaron and his sons shall eat it.' 32What remains of the flesh and of the bread you shall burn with fire. 33And you shall not go outside the door of the tabernacle of meeting for seven days, until the days of your consecration are ended. For seven days he shall consecrate you. 34As he has done this day, so the LORD has commanded to do, to make atonement for you. 35Therefore you shall stay at the door of the tabernacle of meeting day and night for seven days, and keep the charge of the LORD, so that you may not die; for so I have been commanded." 36So Aaron and his sons did all the things that the LORD had commanded by the hand of Moses.

The Priestly Ministry Begins

9 It came to pass on the eighth day that Moses called Aaron and his sons and the elders of Israel. 2And he said to Aaron, "Take for yourself a young bull as a sin offering and a ram as a burnt offering, without blemish, and offer them before the LORD. 3And to the children of Israel you shall speak, saying, 'Take a kid of the goats as a sin offering, and a calf and a lamb, both of the first year, without blemish, as a burnt offering, 4also a bull and a ram as peace offerings, to sacrifice before the LORD, and a grain offering mixed with oil; for today the LORD will appear to you.' "

5So they brought what Moses commanded before the tabernacle of meeting. And all the congregation drew near and stood before the LORD. 6Then Moses said, "This is the thing which the LORD commanded you to do, and the glory of the LORD will appear to you." 7And Moses said to Aaron, "Go to the altar, offer your sin offering and your burnt offering, and make atonement for yourself and for the people. Offer the offering of the people, and make atonement for them, as the LORD commanded."

8Aaron therefore went to the altar and killed the calf of the sin offering, which was for himself. 9Then the sons of Aaron brought the blood to him. And he dipped his finger in the blood, put it on the horns of the altar, and poured the blood at the base of the altar. 10But the fat, the kidneys, and the fatty lobe from the liver of the sin offering he burned on the altar, as the LORD had com-

8:31–36 Like the peace offering, the ordination procedure also included a communal meal (see Lev. 7:11–38). Altogether the ordination ceremonies lasted seven days. The priests were reminded of their tremendous responsibility and of the awesome consequences of failure in their God-given position (v. 35). Although those who minister for the Lord no longer undergo the ritual procedures described for priests in Leviticus, some of the basic concepts remain applicable for anyone who wants to serve the Lord effectively. For example, a woman who would serve the Lord must experience forgiveness and cleansing, consecrating and dedicating herself both to the Lord and to the task.

9:1 Experiencing God's glory. Leviticus 9 describes the beginnings of the priestly ministry, an extremely significant event for Israel as Aaron and his sons performed their priestly duties for the first time. Through a series of four sacrifices, the people experienced the glory of God. The word translated "glory" (Heb. kabod means literally "to be heavy"). The Lord's glory is the overwhelming heaviness of His presence. The glory of the Lord was the visible, supernatural manifestation of His presence (Ex. 33:18; see Ps. 19:1, note). Women can bring glory to God as they seek to extend His influence in the world by their lifestyles and actions. The only adequate response to the revelation of the glory of God is worship expressed in words and actions.

manded Moses. 11The flesh and the hide he burned with fire outside the camp.

12And he killed the burnt offering; and Aaron's sons presented to him the blood, which he sprinkled all around on the altar. 13Then they presented the burnt offering to him, with its pieces and head, and he burned them on the altar. 14And he washed the entrails and the legs, and burned them with the burnt offering on the altar.

15Then he brought the people's offering, and took the goat, which was the sin offering for the people, and killed it and offered it for sin, like the first one. 16And he brought the burnt offering and offered it according to the prescribed manner. 17Then he brought the grain offering, took a handful of it, and burned it on the altar, besides the burnt sacrifice of the morning.

18He also killed the bull and the ram as sacrifices of peace offerings, which were for the people. And Aaron's sons presented to him the blood, which he sprinkled all around on the altar, 19and the fat from the bull and the ram—the fatty tail, what covers the entrails and the kidneys, and the fatty lobe attached to the liver; 20and they put the fat on the breasts. Then he burned the fat on the altar; 21but the breasts and the right thigh Aaron waved as a wave offering before the LORD, as Moses had commanded.

22Then Aaron lifted his hand toward the people, blessed them, and came down from offering the sin offering, the burnt offering, and peace offerings. 23And Moses and Aaron went into the tabernacle of meeting, and came out and blessed the people. Then the glory of the LORD appeared to all the people, 24and fire came out from before the LORD and consumed the burnt offering and the fat on the altar. When all the people saw it, they shouted and fell on their faces.

The Profane Fire of Nadab and Abihu

10 Then Nadab and Abihu, the sons of Aaron, each took his censer and put fire in it, put incense on it, and offered profane fire before the LORD, which He had not commanded them. 2So fire went out from the LORD and devoured them, and they died before the LORD. 3And Moses said to Aaron, "This is what the LORD spoke, saying:

'By those who come near Me
I must be regarded as holy;
And before all the people
I must be glorified.' "

So Aaron held his peace.

4Then Moses called Mishael and Elzaphan, the sons of Uzziel the uncle of Aaron, and said to them, "Come near, carry your brethren from before the sanctuary out of the camp." 5So they went near and carried them by their tunics out of the camp, as Moses had said.

6And Moses said to Aaron, and to Eleazar and Ithamar, his sons, "Do not uncover your heads nor tear your clothes, lest you die, and wrath come upon all the people. But let your brethren, the whole house of Israel, bewail the burning which the LORD has kindled. 7You shall not go out from the door of the tabernacle of meeting, lest you die, for the anointing oil of the LORD is upon you." And they did according to the word of Moses.

Conduct Prescribed for Priests

8Then the LORD spoke to Aaron, saying: 9"Do not drink wine or intoxicating drink, you, nor your sons with you, when you go into the tabernacle of meeting, lest you die. It shall be a statute forever throughout your generations, 10that you may distinguish between holy and unholy, and between unclean and clean, 11and that you may teach the children of Israel all the statutes which the LORD has spoken to them by the hand of Moses."

12And Moses spoke to Aaron, and to Eleazar and Ithamar, his sons who were left: "Take the grain offering that remains of the offerings made by fire to the LORD, and eat it without leaven beside the altar; for it is most holy. 13You shall eat it in a holy place, because it is your due and your sons' due, of the sacrifices made by fire to the LORD; for so I have been commanded. 14The breast of the wave offering and the thigh of the heave offering you shall eat in a clean place, you, your

10:1–7 Nadab and Abihu, the two older sons of Aaron, took unfair advantage of their priestly position and allowed pride and arrogance to dominate. The nature of the "profane fire" is unclear. Though the fire for their censers should have been taken from the brazen altar in the court, instead it probably had been taken from a convenient fireplace. They may have entered the Most Holy Place, which was reserved for the high priest alone. The brothers may have forgotten that their responsibility was to serve; they may have viewed themselves as above the people and the law; or they may have been drunk (see v. 9). Whether they did not trust the authorities God had placed over them, had no fear of God, or simply acted out of defiance, the actions of Nadab and Abihu constituted deliberate disobedience to the Lord (v. 1), and they experienced the Lord's judgment. Leadership brings not only privileges but also responsibilities. God has consistently judged His leaders. The actions forbidden in verse 6 were associated with mourning.

10:8–20 When officiating before the Lord, the priests were to abstain from wine and intoxicating drink (v. 9). The priests had the responsibility of instructing the people in the Law of God (see Deut. 17; 18). Effectiveness in their duties required a clear mind. The reference to "women" indicates that a part of the offering was to be used in feeding their families (v. 14). This admonition affirms the responsibility of a priest for meeting the needs of his family (see also 1 Tim. 5:8). The remainder of this chapter resumes a discussion of the offering of sacrifices (see Lev. 9; see chart, The Offerings of the Lord).

DIETARY LAWS OBEDIENCE OF A NATION SET APART

Food, nutrition, and dietary laws are a pervasive biblical theme beginning with God's creation of plants for Adam's food (Gen. 1:29). At Satan's urging, Eve ate the only forbidden food (Gen. 3:6), bringing about the Fall of mankind. After the flood, "every moving thing" became potential food for Noah (Gen. 9:2, 3).

Levitical dietary law (Lev. 11) carefully outlined what God wanted the Hebrews to eat (clean foods) and not eat (unclean foods). Food categorization thus became a part of the Hebrew religion, law, and culture. Adherence to these laws and others symbolized the obedience to and love of God on the part of His people.

Even in captivity these rules helped God's people to cling together as a nation set apart. Daniel's obedience to God in eating only "clean" foods, despite the lavish variety provided from the king's table, is admirable (Dan. 1:8). In Old Testament times, obedience to God's laws as presented by Moses was essential in order to receive God's blessings (Ex. 20:12; Deut. 28:1–68).

Under the New Covenant in Christ, we receive God's blessings by grace and not by works (Rom. 4:13; Gal. 5:22, 23). Therefore, following Mosaic or Old Testament laws concerning food consumption is not necessary for Christians today. However, "self-control" is important and is one fruit of the Spirit (Gal. 5:23). In addition, we are wise to recognize that many of the "unclean" foods noted in Leviticus are not considered healthful foods by nutritionists today for a wide variety of reasons. We should enjoy food as we need it, making healthy selections and appropriate portion sizes, remembering that in so doing we honor Him who has chosen our bodies to be His temple (1 Cor. 6:19).

sons, and your daughters with you; for they are your due and your sons' due, which are given from the sacrifices of peace offerings of the children of Israel. 15The thigh of the heave offering and the breast of the wave offering they shall bring with the offerings of fat made by fire, to offer as a wave offering before the LORD. And it shall be yours and your sons' with you, by a statute forever, as the LORD has commanded."

16Then Moses made careful inquiry about the goat of the sin offering, and there it was—burned up. And he was angry with Eleazar and Ithamar, the sons of Aaron who were left, saying, 17"Why have you not eaten the sin offering in a holy place, since it is most holy, and God has given it to you to bear the guilt of the congregation, to make atonement for them before the LORD? 18See! Its blood was not brought inside the holy place;[a] indeed you should have eaten it in a holy place, as I commanded."

19And Aaron said to Moses, "Look, this day they have offered their sin offering and their burnt offering before the LORD, and such things have befallen me! If I had eaten the sin offering today, would it have been accepted in the sight of the LORD?" 20So when Moses heard that, he was content.

Foods Permitted and Forbidden

11 Now the LORD spoke to Moses and Aaron, saying to them, 2"Speak to the children of Israel, saying, 'These are the animals which you may eat among all the animals that are on the earth: 3Among the animals, whatever divides the hoof, having cloven hooves and chewing the cud—that you may eat. 4Nevertheless these you shall not eat among those that chew the cud or those that have cloven hooves: the camel, because it chews the cud but does not have cloven hooves, is unclean to you; 5the rock hyrax, because it chews

11:1–3 Clean and unclean animals. Leviticus 11—15 deal with instructions regarding what is clean and unclean (see Lev. 10, Clean vs. Unclean). The four fundamental areas of concern were clean and unclean animals, purification of women, leprosy, and bodily discharges. No single rationale existed for classification of animals as clean or unclean outside of divine decree. Possible suggestions are as follows. Hygienic principles were involved in the prohibition of eating certain animals. These instructions from the Lord may reveal God's concern about the well-being of the whole person. His laws demonstrate concern for physical as well as spiritual wholeness. Also certain animals may have been regarded as unclean because of their usage in pagan rituals of worship. For example, the pig was used in Canaanite sacrifice (see vv. 7, 8). The fact that some animals were regarded as unclean may relate to the OT concept of the life residing in the blood. Since life came from the Lord, in ritual the blood was returned to Him. Thus, certain animals and birds that ate flesh were forbidden (v. 13). Although the explicit rationale for practices related to clean and unclean cannot be identified, through these rituals God's people testified to the concept of His purity. Also through these distinctive practices, God's people identified themselves to the world as uniquely belonging to Him (2 Pet. 3:11; 1 John 4:4–6).

the cud but does not have cloven hooves, is unclean to you; 6the hare, because it chews the cud but does not have cloven hooves, is unclean to you; 7and the swine, though it divides the hoof, having cloven hooves, yet does not chew the cud, is unclean to you. 8Their flesh you shall not eat, and their carcasses you shall not touch. They are unclean to you.

9"These you may eat of all that are in the water: whatever in the water has fins and scales, whether in the seas or in the rivers—that you may eat. 10But all in the seas or in the rivers that do not have fins and scales, all that move in the water or any living thing which is in the water, they are an abomination to you. 11They shall be an abomination to you; you shall not eat their flesh, but you shall regard their carcasses as an abomination. 12Whatever in the water does not have fins or scales—that shall be an abomination to you.

13"And these you shall regard as an abomination among the birds; they shall not be eaten, they are an abomination: the eagle, the vulture, the buzzard, 14the kite, and the falcon after its kind; 15every raven after its kind, 16the ostrich, the short-eared owl, the sea gull, and the hawk after its kind; 17the little owl, the fisher owl, and the screech owl; 18the white owl, the jackdaw, and the carrion vulture; 19the stork, the heron after its kind, the hoopoe, and the bat.

20"All flying insects that creep on all fours shall be an abomination to you. 21Yet these you may eat of every flying insect that creeps on all fours: those which have jointed legs above their feet with which to leap on the earth. 22These you may eat: the locust after its kind, the destroying locust after its kind, the cricket after its kind, and the grasshopper after its kind. 23But all other flying insects which have four feet shall be an abomination to you.

Unclean Animals

24"By these you shall become unclean; whoever touches the carcass of any of them shall be unclean until evening; 25whoever carries part of the carcass of any of them shall wash his clothes and be unclean until evening: 26*The carcass* of any animal which divides the foot, but is not cloven-hoofed or does not chew the cud, is unclean to you. Everyone who touches it shall be unclean. 27And whatever goes on its paws, among all kinds of animals that go on all fours, those are unclean to you. Whoever touches any such carcass shall be unclean until evening. 28Whoever carries any such carcass shall wash his clothes and be unclean until evening. It is unclean to you.

29"These also shall be unclean to you among the creeping things that creep on the earth: the mole, the mouse, and the large lizard after its kind; 30the gecko, the monitor lizard, the sand reptile, the sand lizard, and the chameleon. 31These are unclean to you among all that creep. Whoever touches them when they are dead shall be unclean until evening. 32Anything on which any of them falls, when they are dead shall be unclean, whether it is any item of wood or clothing or skin or sack, whatever item it is, in which any work is done, it must be put in water. And it shall be unclean until evening; then it shall be clean. 33Any earthen vessel into which any of them falls you shall break; and whatever is in it shall be unclean: 34in such a vessel, any edible food upon which water falls becomes unclean, and any drink that may be drunk from it becomes unclean. 35And everything on which a part of any such carcass falls shall be unclean; whether it is an oven or cooking stove, it shall be broken down; for they are unclean, and shall be unclean to you. 36Nevertheless a spring or a cistern, in which there is plenty of water, shall be clean, but whatever touches any such carcass becomes unclean. 37And if a part of any such carcass falls on any planting seed which is to be sown, it remains clean. 38But if water is put on the seed, and if a part of any such carcass falls on it, it becomes unclean to you.

39"And if any animal which you may eat dies, he who touches its carcass shall be unclean until evening. 40He who eats of its carcass shall wash his clothes and be unclean until evening. He also who carries its carcass shall wash his clothes and be unclean until evening.

41"And every creeping thing that creeps on the earth shall be an abomination. It shall not be eaten. 42Whatever crawls on its belly, whatever goes on all fours, or whatever has many feet among all creeping things that creep on the earth—these you shall not eat, for they are an abomination. 43You shall not make yourselves abominable with any creeping thing that creeps; nor shall you make yourselves unclean with them, lest you be defiled by them. 44For I am the LORD your God. You shall therefore consecrate yourselves, and you shall be holy; for I am holy. Neither shall you defile yourselves with any creeping thing that creeps on the earth. 45For I am the LORD who brings you up out of the land of Egypt, to be your God. You shall therefore be holy, for I am holy.

46"This is the law of the animals and the birds and every living creature that moves in the waters, and of every creature that creeps on the earth, 47to distinguish between the unclean and the clean, and between the animal that may be eaten and the animal that may not be eaten.' "

The Ritual After Childbirth

12 Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 2"Speak to the children of Israel, saying: 'If a woman has conceived, and borne a male child, then she shall be unclean seven days; as in the days of her customary impurity she shall be unclean. 3And on the eighth day the flesh of his foreskin shall be circumcised. 4She shall then continue in the blood of her purification thirty-three days. She shall not touch any hallowed thing, nor come into the sanctuary until the days of her purification are fulfilled.

5"But if she bears a female child, then she shall be unclean two weeks, as in her customary impurity, and she shall continue in the blood of her purification sixty-six days.

6"When the days of her purification are fulfilled, whether for a son or a daughter, she shall bring to the priest a lamb of the first year as a burnt offering, and a young pigeon or a turtledove as a sin offering, to the door of the tabernacle of meeting. 7Then he shall offer it before the LORD, and make atonement for her. And she shall be clean from the flow of her blood. This is the law for her who has borne a male or a female.

8"And if she is not able to bring a lamb, then she may bring two turtledoves or two young pigeons— one as a burnt offering and the other as a sin offering. So the priest shall make atonement for her, and she will be clean.' "

The Law Concerning Leprosy

13 And the LORD spoke to Moses and Aaron, saying: 2"When a man has on the skin of his body a swelling, a scab, or a bright spot, and it becomes on the skin of his body like a leprous[a] sore, then he shall be brought to Aaron the priest or to one of his sons the priests. 3The priest shall examine the sore on the skin of the body; and if the hair on the sore has turned white, and the sore appears to be deeper than the skin of his body, it is a leprous sore. Then the priest shall examine him, and pronounce him unclean. 4But if the bright spot is white on the skin of his body, and does not appear to be deeper than the skin, and its hair has not turned white, then the priest shall isolate the one who has the sore seven days. 5And the priest shall examine him on the seventh day; and indeed if the sore appears to be as it was, and the sore has not spread on the skin, then the priest shall isolate him another seven days. 6Then the priest shall examine him again on the seventh day; and indeed if the sore has faded, and the sore has not spread on the skin, then the priest shall pronounce him clean; it is only a scab, and he shall wash his clothes and be clean. 7But if the scab should at all spread over the skin, after he has been seen by the priest for his cleansing, he shall be seen by the priest again. 8And if the priest sees that the scab has indeed spread on the skin, then the priest shall pronounce him unclean. It is leprosy.

9"When the leprous sore is on a person, then he shall be brought to the priest. 10And the priest shall examine him; and indeed if the swelling on the skin is white, and it has turned the hair white, and there is a spot of raw flesh in the swelling, 11it is an old leprosy on the skin of his body. The priest

12:1–8 Purification following childbirth (see John 16, Childbirth). The birth of a male rendered the mother unclean for 40 days, while the birth of a female made the mother unclean for 80 days (40 days to purify the mother and 40 days to purify the female child). Various theories have been advanced to explain this distinction. The difference may relate to the male's more favored status in ancient times. The difference also could indicate that circumcision of the male child incorporated the concept of cleansing for the male child, meeting the requirements for his cleansing, while the 80 days were necessary to cleanse both the mother and the female child (see Gen. 17, Circumcision). The time of purification, in any case, physiologically benefited the mother. It provided her time to regain her strength—since she could neither cook nor keep the house during this period—and to recover from the challenge, and sometimes trauma, of childbirth. This freed the mother to bond and to establish a schedule with her newborn baby in relative isolation. The sacrifice for the burnt offering and the sin offering was the same, regardless of the sex of the child. Two turtledoves or two young pigeons were designated as the entire offering for the poor who could not afford a lamb for the burnt offering. Mary brought the offering of the poor when her time of purification was complete following the birth of Jesus (Luke 2:22–24). Even though she was the mother of the Messiah, she did not describe herself as sinless.

13:1 Regulations regarding leprosy. Leviticus 13 and 14 deal with laws concerning leprosy and the cleansing of leprous persons and objects. Leprosy referred to any scaly or eruptive skin condition. The term was used to designate a number of diseases, perhaps including ringworm, fungus, and psoriasis. The priests were responsible for diagnosing leprosy and determining whether an individual was healed. An individual diagnosed as leprous by the priest was pronounced unclean and was forced to live in isolation. The isolated leper engaged in mourning rituals, such as wearing torn clothing (Lev. 10:6), since his illness was viewed as being linked with the power of death. Inanimate objects, including garments (vv. 47–59) and houses (Lev. 14:33–57), also might be diagnosed as leprous. Leprosy of inanimate objects might also be identified as fungus or mildew.

12"And if leprosy breaks out all over the skin, and the leprosy covers all the skin of the one who has the sore, from his head to his foot, wherever the priest looks, 13then the priest shall consider; and indeed if the leprosy has covered all his body, he shall pronounce him clean who has the sore. It has all turned white. He is clean. 14But when raw flesh appears on him, he shall be unclean. 15And the priest shall examine the raw flesh and pronounce him to be unclean; for the raw flesh is unclean. It is leprosy. 16Or if the raw flesh changes and turns white again, he shall come to the priest. 17And the priest shall examine him; and indeed if the sore has turned white, then the priest shall pronounce him clean who has the sore. He is clean.

18"If the body develops a boil in the skin, and it is healed, 19and in the place of the boil there comes a white swelling or a bright spot, reddish-white, then it shall be shown to the priest; 20and if, when the priest sees it, it indeed appears deeper than the skin, and its hair has turned white, the priest shall pronounce him unclean. It is a leprous sore which has broken out of the boil. 21But if the priest examines it, and indeed there are no white hairs in it, and it is not deeper than the skin, but has faded, then the priest shall isolate him seven days; 22and if it should at all spread over the skin, then the priest shall pronounce him unclean. It is a leprous sore. 23But if the bright spot stays in one place, and has not spread, it is the scar of the boil; and the priest shall pronounce him clean.

24"Or if the body receives a burn on its skin by fire, and the raw flesh of the burn becomes a bright spot, reddish-white or white, 25then the priest shall examine it; and indeed if the hair of the bright spot has turned white, and it appears deeper than the skin, it is leprosy broken out in the burn. Therefore the priest shall pronounce him unclean. It is a leprous sore. 26But if the priest examines it, and indeed there are no white hairs in the bright spot, and it is not deeper than the skin, but has faded, then the priest shall isolate him seven days. 27And the priest shall examine him on the seventh day. If it has at all spread over the skin, then the priest shall pronounce him unclean. It is a leprous sore. 28But if the bright spot stays in one place, and has not spread on the skin, but has faded, it is a swelling from the burn. The priest shall pronounce him clean, for it is the scar from the burn.

29"If a man or woman has a sore on the head or the beard, 30then the priest shall examine the sore; and indeed if it appears deeper than the skin, and there is in it thin yellow hair, then the priest shall pronounce him unclean. It is a scaly leprosy of the head or beard. 31But if the priest examines the scaly sore, and indeed it does not appear deeper than the skin, and there is no black hair in it, then the priest shall isolate the one who has the scale seven days. 32And on the seventh day the priest shall examine the sore; and indeed if the scale has not spread, and there is no yellow hair in it, and the scale does not appear deeper than the skin, 33he shall shave himself, but the scale he shall not shave. And the priest shall isolate the one who has the scale another seven days. 34On the seventh day the priest shall examine the scale; and indeed if the scale has not spread over the skin, and does not appear deeper than the skin, then the priest shall pronounce him clean. He shall wash his clothes and be clean. 35But if the scale should at all spread over the skin after his cleansing, 36then the priest shall examine him; and indeed if the scale has spread over the skin, the priest need not seek for yellow hair. He is unclean. 37But if the scale appears to be at a standstill, and there is black hair grown up in it, the scale has healed. He is clean, and the priest shall pronounce him clean.

38"If a man or a woman has bright spots on the skin of the body, specifically white bright spots, 39then the priest shall look; and indeed if the bright spots on the skin of the body are dull white, it is a white spot that grows on the skin. He is clean.

40"As for the man whose hair has fallen from his head, he is bald, but he is clean. 41He whose hair has fallen from his forehead, he is bald on the forehead, but he is clean. 42And if there is on the bald head or bald forehead a reddish-white sore, it is leprosy breaking out on his bald head or his bald forehead. 43Then the priest shall examine it; and indeed if the swelling of the sore is reddish-white on his bald head or on his bald forehead, as the appearance of leprosy on the skin of the body, 44he is a leprous man. He is unclean. The priest shall surely pronounce him unclean; his sore is on his head.

45"Now the leper on whom the sore is, his clothes shall be torn and his head bare; and he shall cover his mustache, and cry, 'Unclean! Unclean!' 46He shall be unclean. All the days he has the sore he shall be unclean. He is unclean, and he shall dwell alone; his dwelling shall be outside the camp.

The Law Concerning Leprous Garments

47"Also, if a garment has a leprous plague[a] in it, whether it is a woolen garment or a linen garment, 48whether it is in the warp or woof of linen or wool, whether in leather or in anything made of leather, 49and if the plague is greenish or reddish in the garment or in the leather, whether in the warp or in the woof, or in anything made of leather, it is a leprous plague and shall be shown to the priest. 50The priest shall examine the plague and isolate that which has the plague seven days. 51And he shall examine the plague on the seventh day. If the plague has spread in the garment, either in the warp or in the woof, in the leather or in anything made of leather, the plague is an active leprosy. It is unclean. 52He shall therefore burn that garment in which is the plague, whether warp or woof, in wool or in linen, or anything of leather, for it is an active leprosy; the garment shall be burned in the fire.

53"But if the priest examines it, and indeed the plague has not spread in the garment, either in the warp or in the woof, or in anything made of leather, 54then the priest shall command that they wash the thing in which is the plague; and he shall isolate it another seven days. 55Then the priest shall examine the plague after it has been washed; and indeed if the plague has not changed its color, though the plague has not spread, it is unclean, and you shall burn it in the fire; it continues eating away, whether the damage is outside or inside. 56If the priest examines it, and indeed the plague has faded after washing it, then he shall tear it out of the garment, whether out of the warp or out of the woof, or out of the leather. 57But if it appears again in the garment, either in the warp or in the woof, or in anything made of leather, it is a spreading plague; you shall burn with fire that in which is the plague. 58And if you wash the garment, either warp or woof, or whatever is made of leather, if the plague has disappeared from it, then it shall be washed a second time, and shall be clean.

59"This is the law of the leprous plague in a garment of wool or linen, either in the warp or woof, or in anything made of leather, to pronounce it clean or to pronounce it unclean."

The Ritual for Cleansing Healed Lepers

14 Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 2"This shall be the law of the leper for the day of his cleansing: He shall be brought to the priest. 3And the priest shall go out of the camp, and the priest shall examine him; and indeed, if the leprosy is healed in the leper, 4then the priest shall command to take for him who is to be cleansed two living and clean birds, cedar wood, scarlet, and hyssop. 5And the priest shall command that one of the birds be killed in an earthen vessel over running water. 6As for the living bird, he shall take it, the cedar wood and the scarlet and the hyssop, and dip them and the living bird in the blood of the bird that was killed over the running water. 7And he shall sprinkle it seven times on him who is to be cleansed from the leprosy, and shall pronounce him clean, and shall let the living bird loose in the open field. 8He who is to be cleansed shall wash his clothes, shave off all his hair, and wash himself in water, that he may be clean. After that he shall come into the camp, and shall stay outside his tent seven days. 9But on the seventh day he shall shave all the hair off his head and his beard and his eyebrows—all his hair he shall shave off. He shall wash his clothes and wash his body in water, and he shall be clean.

10"And on the eighth day he shall take two male lambs without blemish, one ewe lamb of the first year without blemish, three-tenths of an ephah of fine flour mixed with oil as a grain offering, and one log of oil. 11Then the priest who makes him clean shall present the man who is to be made clean, and those things, before the LORD, at the door of the tabernacle of meeting. 12And the priest shall take one male lamb and offer it as a trespass offering, and the log of oil, and wave them as a wave offering before the LORD. 13Then he shall kill the lamb in the place where he kills the sin offering and the burnt offering, in a holy place; for as the sin offering is the priest's, so is the trespass offering. It is most holy. 14The priest shall take some of the blood of the trespass offering, and the priest shall put it on the tip of the right ear of him who is to be cleansed, on the thumb of his right hand, and on the big toe of his right foot. 15And the priest shall take some of the log of oil, and pour it into the palm of his own left hand. 16Then the priest shall dip his right finger in the oil that is in his left hand, and shall sprinkle some of the oil with his finger seven times before the LORD. 17And of the rest of the oil in his hand, the priest shall put some on the tip of the right ear of him who is to be cleansed, on the thumb of his right hand, and on the big toe of his right foot, on the blood of the trespass offering. 18The

14:1 Purification rituals for lepers were for ceremonial, not healing, purposes. The priest had the responsibility for examining the leper and pronouncing him healed. The ruling that the priest should go outside the camp to examine the leper probably was introduced to prevent the spread of the disease (v. 3). Two purification ceremonies for healed lepers are described (vv. 1–32). The first ritual consisted of bringing two living birds to the priest (vv. 4–7). One bird was killed over a jar of spring water. Cedarwood, scarlet material, and hyssop were placed in the dead bird's blood. The living bird then was dipped into this liquid and permitted to fly away, while the liquid was sprinkled on the healed leper. Setting the live bird free symbolically pictured the carrying away of the healed leper's uncleanness. After this procedure, the leper shaved and washed himself and his garments. He was permitted to reenter his tent after seven days. On the eighth day the cleansed leper offered the sacrifices described (vv. 10–20). This second purification ritual involved a guilt or trespass offering, a sin offering, and a burnt offering. Observe the emphasis on the right side of the body (v. 17; see Lev. 8:22–30, note). Purification rituals for the poor are also described (Lev. 14:21–32).

rest of the oil that is in the priest's hand he shall put on the head of him who is to be cleansed. So the priest shall make atonement for him before the LORD.

19"Then the priest shall offer the sin offering, and make atonement for him who is to be cleansed from his uncleanness. Afterward he shall kill the burnt offering. 20And the priest shall offer the burnt offering and the grain offering on the altar. So the priest shall make atonement for him, and he shall be clean.

21"But if he is poor and cannot afford it, then he shall take one male lamb as a trespass offering to be waved, to make atonement for him, one-tenth of an ephah of fine flour mixed with oil as a grain offering, a log of oil, 22and two turtledoves or two young pigeons, such as he is able to afford: one shall be a sin offering and the other a burnt offering. 23He shall bring them to the priest on the eighth day for his cleansing, to the door of the tabernacle of meeting, before the LORD. 24And the priest shall take the lamb of the trespass offering and the log of oil, and the priest shall wave them as a wave offering before the LORD. 25Then he shall kill the lamb of the trespass offering, and the priest shall take some of the blood of the trespass offering and put it on the tip of the right ear of him who is to be cleansed, on the thumb of his right hand, and on the big toe of his right foot. 26And the priest shall pour some of the oil into the palm of his own left hand. 27Then the priest shall sprinkle with his right finger some of the oil that is in his left hand seven times before the LORD. 28And the priest shall put some of the oil that is in his hand on the tip of the right ear of him who is to be cleansed, on the thumb of the right hand, and on the big toe of his right foot, on the place of the blood of the trespass offering. 29The rest of the oil that is in the priest's hand he shall put on the head of him who is to be cleansed, to make atonement for him before the LORD. 30And he shall offer one of the turtledoves or young pigeons, such as he can afford— 31such as he is able to afford, the one as a sin offering and the other as a burnt offering, with the grain offering. So the priest shall make atonement for him who is to be cleansed before the LORD. 32This is the law for one who had a leprous sore, who cannot afford the usual cleansing."

The Law Concerning Leprous Houses

33And the LORD spoke to Moses and Aaron, saying: 34"When you have come into the land of Canaan, which I give you as a possession, and I put the leprous plague[a] in a house in the land of your possession, 35and he who owns the house comes and tells the priest, saying, 'It seems to me that there is some plague in the house,' 36then the priest shall command that they empty the house, before the priest goes into it to examine the plague, that all that is in the house may not be made unclean; and afterward the priest shall go in to examine the house. 37And he shall examine the plague; and indeed if the plague is on the walls of the house with ingrained streaks, greenish or reddish, which appear to be deep in the wall, 38then the priest shall go out of the house, to the door of the house, and shut up the house seven days. 39And the priest shall come again on the seventh day and look; and indeed if the plague has spread on the walls of the house, 40then the priest shall command that they take away the stones in which is the plague, and they shall cast them into an unclean place outside the city. 41And he shall cause the house to be scraped inside, all around, and the dust that they scrape off they shall pour out in an unclean place outside the city. 42Then they shall take other stones and put them in the place of those stones, and he shall take other mortar and plaster the house.

43"Now if the plague comes back and breaks out in the house, after he has taken away the stones, after he has scraped the house, and after it

14:34 [a]Decomposition by mildew, mold, dry rot, etc., and so in verses 34–53

14:33 The house of a leper required cleansing. The leprous condition of the house could refer to infection by leprosy or to the existence of such plagues as mildew and fungus. If the house could not be completely cleansed, then the building was to be totally destroyed (v. 45). These regulations regarding health and hygiene related to public safety. Although a fungus or mildew might be quite harmless in itself, the damp conditions which encouraged such growth were unhealthy. This regulation reminds women of the Lord's concern for health and hygiene for all. Housing and living conditions contributing to the spread of disease should not be tolerated. The statement identifying the Lord as the source of the leprous plague reveals the limited perspective of people in early Israel (vv. 33, 34). According to their viewpoint, no secondary causes were evident. They did not consider the interaction of people with the environment. Everything, both pleasant and unpleasant, came from the Lord.

THE MENSTRUAL CYCLE A NATURAL FLOW

Menstruation, which begins at puberty and ends with menopause, is a woman's monthly discharge of blood and tissue that has built up during the previous month in the uterus. This tissue lined the womb in preparation for the growth of a baby and is discharged when conception does not take place. This gives opportunity for the development of a new lining and the possibility of pregnancy in the coming month.

Mosaic Law is explicit concerning the bodily discharge of women—both normal (Lev. 15:19–24) and abnormal (vv. 25–30) menstruation. The Old Testament describes menstruous women as being unclean, and men are told not to have sexual relations with them during this time of menstruation. All references to the actual menstrual flow are in the Old Testament; none appear in the New Testament. However, from this passage in Leviticus describing an abnormal menstrual period, we can better understand the loneliness and isolation of the woman with "a flow of blood" who came to Jesus for healing (Lev. 15:25–30; Matt. 9:20–22; Mark 5:25–34; Luke 8:43–48).

Though this natural physiological function is often viewed as a burden for a woman, in reality menstruation affords her the opportunity to link hands with the Creator in forming another life within her own body (Gen. 4:1). The closeness between a woman and her offspring is a miracle that would not be possible without menstruation.

is plastered, 44then the priest shall come and look; and indeed if the plague has spread in the house, it is an active leprosy in the house. It is unclean. 45And he shall break down the house, its stones, its timber, and all the plaster of the house, and he shall carry them outside the city to an unclean place. 46Moreover he who goes into the house at all while it is shut up shall be unclean until evening. 47And he who lies down in the house shall wash his clothes, and he who eats in the house shall wash his clothes.

48"But if the priest comes in and examines it, and indeed the plague has not spread in the house after the house was plastered, then the priest shall pronounce the house clean, because the plague is healed. 49And he shall take, to cleanse the house, two birds, cedar wood, scarlet, and hyssop. 50Then he shall kill one of the birds in an earthen vessel over running water; 51and he shall take the cedar wood, the hyssop, the scarlet, and the living bird, and dip them in the blood of the slain bird and in the running water, and sprinkle the house seven times. 52And he shall cleanse the house with the blood of the bird and the running water and the living bird, with the cedar wood, the hyssop, and the scarlet. 53Then he shall let the living bird loose outside the city in the open field, and make atonement for the house, and it shall be clean.

54"This is the law for any leprous sore and scale, 55for the leprosy of a garment and of a house, 56for a swelling and a scab and a bright spot, 57to teach when it is unclean and when it is clean. This is the law of leprosy."

The Law Concerning Bodily Discharges

15 And the LORD spoke to Moses and Aaron, saying, 2"Speak to the children of Israel, and say to them: 'When any man has a discharge from his body, his discharge is unclean. 3And this shall be his uncleanness in regard to his discharge—whether his body runs with his discharge, or his body is stopped up by his discharge, it is his uncleanness. 4Every bed is unclean on which he who has the discharge lies, and everything on which he sits shall be unclear. 5And whoever touches his bed shall wash his clothes and bathe in water, and be unclean until evening. 6He who sits on anything on which he who has the discharge sat shall wash his clothes and bathe in water, and be unclean until evening. 7And he who touches the body of him who has the discharge shall wash his clothes and bathe in water, and be unclean until evening. 8If he who has the discharge spits on him who is clean, then he shall wash his clothes and bathe in water, and be unclean until evening. 9Any saddle on which he who has the discharge rides shall be unclean. 10Whoever touches anything that was under him shall be unclean until evening. He who carries any of those things shall wash his clothes and bathe in water, and be unclean until evening. 11And whomever the one who has the discharge touches, and has not rinsed his hands in water, he shall wash his clothes and bathe in water, and be unclean until evening. 12The vessel of earth that he who has the discharge touches shall be broken, and every vessel of wood shall be rinsed in water.

15:1 Regulations regarding bodily discharges delineated what rendered an individual unclean. God's concern for matters such as life, blood, sexual relations, and bodily discharges emphasized His desire for His people to be holy unto Him. Verses 1–15 deal with a man who had a bodily discharge, presumably related to illness. Verses 16–18 concern the discharge of semen. Bodily discharges related to the generative organs may have been particularly loathsome to the male because they indicated contamination and pollution in the area of the covenant seal of circumcision. The remainder of the chapter concerns female bodily discharges. A woman was considered unclean both during her menstrual period and for seven days afterward (see Menstrual Cycle). This may have been required to protect a woman with cramps and discomfort from unwelcome advances of an insensitive husband. Intercourse with her during the seven-day period rendered the male unclean for seven days (vv. 19–24). This in no way suggests that sexual intimacy between husband and wife is anything but wonderful and holy and a vital part of the marital union (Heb. 13:4). Discharges of blood in women also could indicate illness (vv. 25–30). Any quarantine for this reason would prevent the passing of contagious disease and give the woman rest from family responsibilities, including marital intimacy, until she could regain her strength and her physical health. Verses 31–33 summarize the section on uncleanness through bodily discharges. No offering is prescribed in the cases of menstruation and discharge of semen, probably because these were regular occurrences and regarded as normal. Some connection may have been made between holiness and good health (see Phil. 1, Fitness). Note also that the offering prescribed for a woman with bodily discharge was the same as for a man with a discharge (vv. 13–15, 28–30).

13"And when he who has a discharge is cleansed of his discharge, then he shall count for himself seven days for his cleansing, wash his clothes, and bathe his body in running water; then he shall be clean. 14On the eighth day he shall take for himself two turtledoves or two young pigeons, and come before the LORD, to the door of the tabernacle of meeting, and give them to the priest. 15Then the priest shall offer them, the one as a sin offering and the other as a burnt offering. So the priest shall make atonement for him before the LORD because of his discharge.

16"If any man has an emission of semen, then he shall wash all his body in water, and be unclean until evening. 17And any garment and any leather on which there is semen, it shall be washed with water, and be unclean until evening. 18Also, when a woman lies with a man, and there is an emission of semen, they shall bathe in water, and be unclean until evening.

19"If a woman has a discharge, and the discharge from her body is blood, she shall be set apart seven days; and whoever touches her shall be unclean until evening. 20Everything that she lies on during her impurity shall be unclean; also everything that she sits on shall be unclean. 21Whoever touches her bed shall wash his clothes and bathe in water, and be unclean until evening. 22And whoever touches anything that she sat on shall wash his clothes and bathe in water, and be unclean until evening. 23If anything is on her bed or on anything on which she sits, when he touches it, he shall be unclean until evening. 24And if any man lies with her at all, so that her impurity is on him, he shall be unclean seven days; and every bed on which he lies shall be unclean.

25"If a woman has a discharge of blood for many days, other than at the time of her customary impurity, or if it runs beyond her usual time of impurity, all the days of her unclean discharge shall be as the days of her customary impurity. She shall be unclean. 26Every bed on which she lies all the days of her discharge shall be to her as the bed of her impurity; and whatever she sits on shall be unclean, as the uncleanness of her impurity. 27Whoever touches those things shall be unclean; he shall wash his clothes and bathe in water, and be unclean until evening.

28"But if she is cleansed of her discharge, then she shall count for herself seven days, and after that she shall be clean. 29And on the eighth day she shall take for herself two turtledoves or two young pigeons, and bring them to the priest, to the door of the tabernacle of meeting. 30Then the priest shall offer the one as a sin offering and the other as a burnt offering, and the priest shall make atonement for her before the LORD for the discharge of her uncleanness.

31"Thus you shall separate the children of Israel from their uncleanness, lest they die in their uncleanness when they defile My tabernacle that is among them. 32This is the law for one who has a discharge, and for him who emits semen and is unclean thereby, 33and for her who is indisposed because of her customary impurity, and for one who has a discharge, either man or woman, and for him who lies with her who is unclean.' "

The Day of Atonement

16 Now the LORD spoke to Moses after the death of the two sons of Aaron, when they offered profane fire before the LORD, and died; 2and

16:1 The Day of Atonement (Heb. Yom Kippur) was celebrated annually among the people of Israel on the tenth day of the seventh month, probably October (Lev. 23:27; see chart, The Feasts of Israel). Leviticus 16 is the central chapter of the book both in terms of its placement and its importance. The Hebrew word translated "atonement" comes from a root meaning "to cover over." The ritual pictured the covering of sins (v. 34). The high priest was allowed to enter the Most Holy Place (Holy of Holies) only once each year, on the Day of Atonement. Aaron as high priest brought a sin offering and a burnt offering to atone for the sins of himself and his house, first making himself right with the Lord before he could minister to others. When Aaron approached the LORD within the Most Holy Place, he did not wear his elaborate high priestly garments. Instead he wore special garments of linen for the occasion, which symbolized his humility before God (vv. 4, 23, 24). Later when he stood before the people, he wore the high priestly garments (v. 14; see chart, The High Priest's Clothing). Aaron cast lots on the two goats. The goat on which the Lord's lot fell was offered as a sin offering for the people. The other goat, designated as the scapegoat, was sent away into the wilderness (vv. 7–10). The writer of the Book of Hebrews the LORD said to Moses: "Tell Aaron your brother not to come at just any time into the Holy Place inside the veil, before the mercy seat which is on the ark, lest he die; for I will appear in the cloud above the mercy seat.

3"Thus Aaron shall come into the Holy Place: with the blood of a young bull as a sin offering, and of a ram as a burnt offering. 4He shall put the holy linen tunic and the linen trousers on his body; he shall be girded with a linen sash, and with the linen turban he shall be attired. These are holy garments. Therefore he shall wash his body in water, and put them on. 5And he shall take from the congregation of the children of Israel two kids of the goats as a sin offering, and one ram as a burnt offering.

6"Aaron shall offer the bull as a sin offering, which is for himself, and make atonement for himself and for his house. 7He shall take the two goats and present them before the LORD at the door of the tabernacle of meeting. 8Then Aaron shall cast lots for the two goats: one lot for the LORD and the other lot for the scapegoat. 9And Aaron shall bring the goat on which the LORD's lot fell, and offer it as a sin offering. 10But the goat on which the lot fell to be the scapegoat shall be presented alive before the LORD, to make atonement upon it, and to let it go as the scapegoat into the wilderness.

11"And Aaron shall bring the bull of the sin offering, which is for himself, and make atonement for himself and for his house, and shall kill the bull as the sin offering which is for himself. 12Then he shall take a censer full of burning coals of fire from the altar before the LORD, with his hands full of sweet incense beaten fine, and bring it inside the veil. 13And he shall put the incense on the fire before the LORD, that the cloud of incense may cover the mercy seat that is on the Testimony, lest he die. 14He shall take some of the blood of the bull and sprinkle it with his finger on the mercy seat on the east side; and before the mercy seat he shall sprinkle some of the blood with his finger seven times.

15"Then he shall kill the goat of the sin offering, which is for the people, bring its blood inside the veil, do with that blood as he did with the blood of the bull, and sprinkle it on the mercy seat and before the mercy seat. 16So he shall make atonement for the Holy Place, because of the uncleanness of the children of Israel, and because of their transgressions, for all their sins; and so he shall do for the tabernacle of meeting which remains among them in the midst of their uncleanness. 17There shall be no man in the tabernacle of meeting when he goes in to make atonement in the Holy Place, until he comes out, that he may make atonement for himself, for his household, and for all the assembly of Israel. 18And he shall go out to the altar that is before the LORD, and make atonement for it, and shall take some of the blood of the bull and some of the blood of the goat, and put it on the horns of the altar all around. 19Then he shall sprinkle some of the blood on it with his finger seven times, cleanse it, and consecrate it from the uncleanness of the children of Israel.

20"And when he has made an end of atoning for the Holy Place, the tabernacle of meeting, and the altar, he shall bring the live goat. 21Aaron shall lay both his hands on the head of the live goat, confess over it all the iniquities of the children of Israel, and all their transgressions, concerning all their sins, putting them on the head of the goat, and shall send it away into the wilderness by the hand of a suitable man. 22The goat shall bear on itself all their iniquities to an uninhabited land; and he shall release the goat in the wilderness.

noted the significance of the Day of Atonement for Christians (Heb. 10:4). The procedure on the Day of Atonement pointed toward Christ as the perfect High Priest who had no need to make atonement for His own sins because He is sinless (Heb. 7:26–28; see chart, The Plan of the Tabernacle). Christ is not only the perfect High Priest; He is also the sin offering. He offered Himself for our sins (Heb. 9:11–15). Christ also fulfilled the function of the scapegoat in the ritual on the Day of Atonement. He has carried sins away (see Is. 53:6; Ps. 103:12). Finally, Christ offered Himself once for all to secure an eternal redemption. No longer do sacrifices need to be offered year by year. Christ as the perfect High Priest and the perfect sacrifice has offered His own blood once for all time (Heb. 9:23–28). Christ's redemptive act was the perfect completion of atonement (Heb. 7:27; 10:10).

16:11–28 Special cleansing procedures were carried out for the tabernacle and the altar (vv. 16–19). Aaron entered the Most Holy Place three times on the Day of Atonement:

1) He carried into the Most Holy Place a censer of hot coals with incense, which was to shield him from God's awesome presence (vv. 12, 13).
2) Aaron also carried into this most sacred area a bull to make a sin offering for himself and his family (vv. 11, 14).
3) Finally, he carried into the Most Holy Place a sin offering for all Israel (v. 15).

Both the goat sacrificed and the scapegoat sent away were part of the sin offering. The goat sacrificed symbolized propitiation for sins, and the scapegoat pictured the complete removal of the sins for which atonement had been made. The scapegoat was sent away into the wilderness (vv. 20–22). In laying his hands on the head of the goat, the high priest symbolically transferred all the confessed sins of the people to the animal. The high priest bathed and changed his garments after the scapegoat was sent away (vv. 23, 24). The burnt offering and the fat of the sin offering were consumed on the altar (vv. 24, 25). The individual selected to release the scapegoat bathed and washed his clothing (v. 26). The one who burned the prescribed parts of the sin offering outside the camp bathed and washed his garments (vv. 27, 28).

Never utter in your neighbour's absence what you would not say in their presence.
St. Mary Magdalene dei Pazzi

23"Then Aaron shall come into the tabernacle of meeting, shall take off the linen garments which he put on when he went into the Holy Place, and shall leave them there. 24And he shall wash his body with water in a holy place, put on his garments, come out and offer his burnt offering and the burnt offering of the people, and make atonement for himself and for the people. 25The fat of the sin offering he shall burn on the altar. 26And he who released the goat as the scapegoat shall wash his clothes and bathe his body in water, and afterward he may come into the camp. 27The bull for the sin offering and the goat for the sin offering, whose blood was brought in to make atonement in the Holy Place, shall be carried outside the camp. And they shall burn in the fire their skins, their flesh, and their offal. 28Then he who burns them shall wash his clothes and bathe his body in water, and afterward he may come into the camp.

29"This shall be a statute forever for you: In the seventh month, on the tenth day of the month, you shall afflict your souls, and do no work at all,
whether a native of your own country or a stranger who dwells among you. 30For on that day the priest shall make atonement for you, to cleanse you, that you may be clean from all your sins before the LORD. 31It is a sabbath of solemn rest for you, and you shall afflict your souls. It is a statute forever.
32And the priest, who is anointed and consecrated to minister as priest in his father's place, shall make atonement, and put on the linen clothes, the holy garments; 33then he shall make atonement for the Holy Sanctuary,[a] and he shall make atonement for the tabernacle of meeting and for the altar, and he shall make atonement for the priests and for all the people of the assembly. 34This shall be an everlasting statute for you, to make atonement for the children of Israel, for all their sins, once a year." And he did as the LORD commanded Moses.

The Sanctity of Blood

17 And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying,
2"Speak to Aaron, to his sons, and to all the children of Israel, and say to them, 'This is the thing which the LORD has commanded, saying: 3"Whatever man of the house of Israel who kills an ox or lamb or goat in the camp, or who kills it outside the camp, 4and does not bring it to the door of the tabernacle of meeting to offer an offering to the LORD before the tabernacle of the LORD, the guilt of bloodshed shall be imputed to that man.
He has shed blood; and that man shall be cut off from among his people, 5to the end that the children of Israel may bring their sacrifices which they offer in the open field, that they may bring them to the LORD at the door of the tabernacle of meeting, to the priest, and offer them as peace offerings to the LORD. 6And the priest shall sprinkle the blood on the altar of the LORD at the door of the tabernacle of meeting, and burn the fat for a sweet aroma to the LORD. 7They shall no more offer their sacrifices to demons, after whom they have played the harlot. This shall be a statute forever for them throughout their generations." '

8"Also you shall say to them: 'Whatever man of the house of Israel, or of the strangers who dwell among you, who offers a burnt offering or sacrifice, 9and does not bring it to the door of the 16:33 [a]That is, the Most Holy Place

16:29–34 The Day of Atonement was established as an annual occurrence because God's people needed continual forgiveness. The Day of Atonement involved humility and confession of sin, affirming that only the Lord could take away sin (see chart, The Feasts of Israel).

17:1 Regulations for fellowship with God include the "Holiness Code" (Lev. 17—26). Holiness or separateness was to be a way of life, involving commitment to the Lord in every aspect. Instructions concerning separation are included (Lev. 17:1—22:33). God's people were to commit themselves uniquely to Him and to separate themselves from the pagan practices of their neighbors. Leviticus 17 deals with the sacredness of life represented by the blood. Life is sacred because it is the gift of God. The ancient Israelite viewed life as residing in the blood (v. 14). Regulations regarding the sanctity of life are outlined in this chapter (see Gen. 9, Sanctity of Life). Any domestic animal slain either within or without the camp had to be brought to the tabernacle as a peace offering to the Lord (vv. 1–7). The rationale behind this command is the sanctity of the blood. The blood represented the creature's life, and all life belongs to the Lord. Anyone who violated this command brought bloodguilt on himself and was considered guilty of murder. No sacrifice was to be offered at any place except the tabernacle (vv. 8, 9). The command to worship at one central sanctuary is an emphasis in Deuteronomy (see Deut. 12:10–14). Worship at other places, sometimes designated as high places, was considered sinful. Blood was never to be eaten (vv. 10–14). This prohibition may be traced back to the time of Noah (Gen. 9:4). Any animal that died of itself, whether it experienced a natural death or was torn by beasts, should not be eaten (vv. 15, 16). At the basis of these commands is a reverence for life (see v. 11, the book's key verse). The shedding of the blood of sacrificial animals foreshadows the coming of Christ, who gave His life to atone for sin.

INCEST THE ULTIMATE BETRAYAL

The Bible does not use the word "incest," but it strongly advocates the purity of the most intimate family circle (Lev. 18:6–18) and speaks against sexual relationships between close family members. Incest describes the abuse and distortion of God-ordained relationships.

Sexual intimacy between closely related persons was strictly prohibited, and the punishment was death, childlessness, or being "cut off" from the community (Lev. 20:11–21). The person who committed such acts was cursed of God (Deut. 27:20–23).

In Scripture, incest is addressed as the defilement of the recognized relationships of parent and child, brother and sister, half-brother and half-sister, grandparent and grandchild, aunts and uncles, father and daughter-in-law, and father and children from polygamous unions. Laws of family fidelity set believers apart from the heathen; preserved emotional, physical, spiritual, and psychological health; and guarded against unhealthy genetic mutation.

God has always been interested in the wholeness of the individual, and His laws are given to establish and maintain wholeness—physically, emotionally, and spiritually.

Perhaps the foremost incident of incest in the Bible is the one in which Lot's daughters encouraged their father to get drunk; then each became pregnant by him. These acts of incest produced two tribes with whom the Israelites struggled frequently and bitterly: the Moabites and the Ammonites (Gen. 19:30–38).

tabernacle of meeting, to offer it to the LORD, that man shall be cut off from among his people.

10"And whatever man of the house of Israel, or of the strangers who dwell among you, who eats any blood, I will set My face against that person who eats blood, and will cut him off from among his people. 11For the life of the flesh is in the blood, and I have given it to you upon the altar to make atonement for your souls; for it is the blood that makes atonement for the soul.' 12Therefore I said to the children of Israel, 'No one among you shall eat blood, nor shall any stranger who dwells among you eat blood.'

13"Whatever man of the children of Israel, or of the strangers who dwell among you, who hunts and catches any animal or bird that may be eaten, he shall pour out its blood and cover it with dust; 14for it is the life of all flesh. Its blood sustains its life. Therefore I said to the children of Israel, 'You shall not eat the blood of any flesh, for the life of all flesh is its blood. Whoever eats it shall be cut off.'

15"And every person who eats what died naturally or what was torn by beasts, whether he is a native of your own country or a stranger, he shall both wash his clothes and bathe in water, and be unclean until evening. Then he shall be clean. 16But if he does not wash them or bathe his body, then he shall bear his guilt."

Laws of Sexual Morality

18 Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 2"Speak to the children of Israel, and say to them: 'I am the LORD your God. 3According to the doings of the land of Egypt, where you dwelt, you shall not do; and according to the doings of the land of Canaan, where I am bringing you, you shall not do; nor shall you walk in their ordinances. 4You shall observe My judgments and keep My ordinances, to walk in them: I am the LORD your God. 5You shall therefore keep My statutes and My judgments, which if a man does, he shall live by them: I am the LORD.

6"None of you shall approach anyone who is near of kin to him, to uncover his nakedness: I am the LORD. 7The nakedness of your father or the nakedness of your mother you shall not uncover. She is your mother; you shall not uncover her

18:1 A general call to obedience commands the people of Israel not to follow the practices of the Egyptians or the Canaanites but rather to keep the Lord's statutes (vv. 1–5). In Leviticus 20, the prohibitions are given before the punishments, underscoring the idea that warnings are given prior to consequences. The basis for this command is the covenant relationship: "I am the LORD your God" (v. 4). In some forms of kinship, marriage and sexual relations are prohibited (vv. 6–18). Further rules are provided regarding sexual and parental relationships (vv. 19–23). A further warning against violating the Lord's standards for sexual morality is given (vv. 24–30). Sexual activity was sacred because it resulted in procreation of life, the gift of God.

18:4, 5 Some judgments, ordinances, statutes, decrees, and laws are unfathomable by human intelligence and logic. The words "I am the LORD" convey the idea that we are not to decide whether or not to obey, but rather we are to trust God's faithful intention to do what is best for His children (v. 5; Rom. 8:28; see Eccl. 7, Providence).

18:6–18 Incest is forbidden. Uncovering nakedness refers to sexual relationships or cohabitation. In the patriarchal society nakedness. 8The nakedness of your father's wife you shall not uncover; it is your father's nakedness. 9The nakedness of your sister, the daughter of your father, or the daughter of your mother, whether born at home or elsewhere, their nakedness you shall not uncover. 10The nakedness of your son's daughter or your daughter's daughter, their nakedness you shall not uncover; for theirs is your own nakedness. 11The nakedness of your father's wife's daughter, begotten by your father—she is your sister—you shall not uncover her nakedness. 12You shall not uncover the nakedness of your father's sister; she is near of kin to your father. 13You shall not uncover the nakedness of your mother's sister, for she is near of kin to your mother. 14You shall not uncover the nakedness of your father's brother. You shall not approach his wife; she is your aunt. 15You shall not uncover the nakedness of your daughter-in-law—she is your son's wife—you shall not uncover her nakedness. 16You shall not uncover the nakedness of your brother's wife; it is your brother's nakedness. 17You shall not uncover the nakedness of a woman and her daughter, nor shall you take her son's daughter or her daughter's daughter, to uncover her nakedness. They are near of kin to her. It is wickedness. 18Nor shall you take a woman as a rival to her sister, to uncover her nakedness while the other is alive.

19'Also you shall not approach a woman to uncover her nakedness as long as she is in her customary impurity. 20Moreover you shall not lie carnally with your neighbor's wife, to defile yourself with her. 21And you shall not let any of your descendants pass through the fire to Molech, nor shall you profane the name of your God: I am the LORD. 22You shall not lie with a male as with a woman. It is an abomination. 23Nor shall you mate with any animal, to defile yourself with it. Nor shall any woman stand before an animal to mate with it. It is perversion.

24'Do not defile yourselves with any of these things; for by all these the nations are defiled, which I am casting out before you. 25For the land is defiled; therefore I visit the punishment of its iniquity upon it, and the land vomits out its inhabitants. 26You shall therefore keep My statutes and My judgments, and shall not commit any of these abominations, either any of your own nation or any stranger who dwells among you 27(for all these abominations the men of the land have done, who were before you, and thus the land is defiled), 28lest the land vomit you out also when you defile it, as it vomited out the nations that were before you. 29For whoever commits any of these abominations, the persons who commit them shall be cut off from among their people.

30'Therefore you shall keep My ordinance, so that you do not commit any of these abominable customs which were committed before you, and that you do not defile yourselves by them: I am the LORD your God.' "

Moral and Ceremonial Laws

19 And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 2"Speak to all the congregation of the children of Israel, and say to them: 'You shall be holy, for I the LORD your God am holy.

3'Every one of you shall revere his mother and his father, and keep My Sabbaths: I am the LORD your God.

4'Do not turn to idols, nor make for yourselves molded gods: I am the LORD your God.

of ancient Israel, families lived together in clans or large groups. Incestuous relationships were forbidden among the people of Israel (see Incest). Although the law stipulated that one should not have sexual relations with his brother's wife (v. 16), this law did not contradict that of levirate marriage, since in the latter instance the brother would be dead (see Deut. 25:5–10). The prohibitions contained in this chapter uphold the sanctity of the marriage bond (Heb. 13:4). The sexual act is not viewed as sinful but rather as a part of God's plan within the proper setting (see Gen. 2:24).

18:19–23 At times a woman was not to be approached by her own husband (v. 19). Sexual activity was prohibited during the period a woman was unclean because of her menstrual cycle (v. 19; see Lev. 15:1, note). This underscored the importance of subjugating even the most legitimate sexual expression to the Lord's directive (Ezek. 22:10; see Lev. 11:1–3, note; 15, Menstrual Cycle). Adultery was prohibited, thus protecting the sanctity of marriage and the home (see v. 20; Ex. 20:14). Child sacrifice was forbidden (v. 21; see Lev. 20:2–5). Molech was generally identified as an Ammonite god. The context of verse 21 suggests that the offering of a child to Molech was associated in some way with sexual abuse. Homosexuality is prohibited (v. 22; see Homosexuality), and bestiality or sexual relations with animals is condemned (v. 23; Deut. 27:21).

18:24–30 A strong warning against perverted sexual behavior concludes this chapter. Such violations had resulted in casting the Canaanites out of the land (v. 24). In addition to spiritual and social ramifications associated with sin, the entire land is contaminated by the debauchery. Elsewhere Scripture also pictures nature as suffering because of the sins of mankind (see Hos. 4:1–3). Likewise nature is presented as sharing in the glorious peace of the messianic age (Is. 11:6–9). The Hebrew word translated "iniquity" refers to moral crookedness or perversion (v. 25). The basis for the Lord's prohibitions is made clear in this chapter: "I am the LORD your God" (v. 30). The covenant people were expected to meet the ethical demands of the covenant relationship. Any nation that persists in such abominable practices as those described in this chapter is doomed for destruction (v. 28).

19:1 Leviticus 19 contains a variety of commandments or expressions of God's will for appropriate behavior toward God and with others. The basis for these commands is an individual's relationship with God: "You shall be holy, for I the LORD

HOMOSEXUALITY UNNATURAL AFFECTION

Scripture states that homosexual behavior is an abomination to God. Such perversion of God's plan for marriage (Gen. 2:24) mars the image of God (Gen. 1:27), distorts the oneness God intended in the sexual union between a woman and man, and defies childbirth, thereby eventually terminating the generations.

In the Old Testament, homosexual behavior, which includes lesbianism, was forbidden, considered unclean, and was punishable by death (Lev. 18:22; 20:13). Paul states that this deviant behavior, which is the antithesis of God's design, falls under the judgment of God (Rom. 1:18–32).

God offers the individual who has participated in this sinful lifestyle mercy and forgiveness (1 Cor. 6:9, 11), but homosexual acts are an abomination and cannot be tolerated by a holy God. Although some have claimed that homosexuality has roots in a genetic mutation, there is no substantiated proof of this. God will not create a person predestined to condemnation (Ps. 139; John 3:16).

Both the Old Testament and the New Testament eliminate the possibility of excusing homosexual behavior for biological reasons. In the Old Testament, the Creator of all life charges that no one caught in an act of homosexuality can blame anyone other than himself (Lev. 20:13). He cannot blame the Creator. In the New Testament, God indicates that homosexuals can change and are not trapped by their genetic makeup (1 Cor. 6:11).

Even if a case could be made for some sort of genetic predisposition toward an aberrant behavior, this cannot remove moral responsibility nor make such behavior right. All human action is subject to the individual's will. If you make your own will subject to God's plan for your life, any type of behavior can be changed. For anyone who has engaged in homosexual behavior, God's forgiveness, grace, and mercy are always available.

your God am holy" (v. 2). Holiness conveys the concept of being set apart from evil and for good. Verse 2 is one of the key verses related to holiness, a major theme of Leviticus (see Introduction: Purpose and Theme). The contents of this chapter can be summarized under the same two basic themes as the Ten Commandments: love for God and love for your neighbor (see Ex. 20:1–17; Matt. 22:35–40). Note direct parallels to the Ten Commandments (see Ex. 20:1–17; see chart, The Ten Commandments Throughout Scripture): honoring father and mother (v. 3), keeping the Sabbath (vv. 3, 30; see also chart, The Principle of the Sabbath), rejecting idol worship (v. 4; see Is. 42, Idolatry; Jer. 7, Paganism), not stealing (vv. 11, 35, 36), and not taking the Lord's name in vain (v. 12). The latter directive incorporates the idea that a person can "profane" God's name by a lifestyle that is contradictory to holiness as well as by verbal profanity. In addition, the poor of the land were to receive provisions (vv. 9, 10; see also Luke 9, The Homeless; 14, Poverty); employees and handicapped people were to receive right treatment (vv. 13, 14; see also Mark 2; Acts 20, Disabilities); and strangers were to be treated properly (vv. 33, 34; see 1 Pet. 4, Hospitality). Proper sexual relationships (vv. 20–22; see Song 4, Sexuality; 1 Cor. 7, Sexual Purity), as well as showing respect toward your elders (v. 32), were emphasized. The basis for appropriate conduct is the covenant relationship with the Lord (v. 36). Obedience is a proper response to God's grace (see Philem., Obedience). Holiness or separateness is emphasized in these regulations (see Lev. 20, Holiness). In each generation believers reveal the level of their commitment by the quality of their behavior.

19:3 Mention of the mother first in this command is unusual (see Ex. 20:12; Eph. 6:2). This statement may reflect a situation in which the mother's place was considered in danger, such as in a polygamous household; it may be a deference to her; or there may be no particular reason. In any case, holiness must begin at home. Through parents a child should be able to learn what God is like and what He requires (see Ps. 127, Family).

talebearer among your people; nor shall you take a stand against the life of your neighbor: I am the LORD.

17"You shall not hate your brother in your heart. You shall surely rebuke your neighbor, and not bear sin because of him. 18You shall not take vengeance, nor bear any grudge against the children of your people, but you shall love your neighbor as yourself: I am the LORD.

19"You shall keep My statutes. You shall not let your livestock breed with another kind. You shall not sow your field with mixed seed. Nor shall a garment of mixed linen and wool come upon you.

20"Whoever lies carnally with a woman who is betrothed to a man as a concubine, and who has not at all been redeemed nor given her freedom, for this there shall be scourging; but they shall not be put to death, because she was not free. 21And he shall bring his trespass offering to the LORD, to the door of the tabernacle of meeting, a ram as a trespass offering. 22The priest shall make atonement for him with the ram of the trespass offering before the LORD for his sin which he has committed. And the sin which he has committed shall be forgiven him.

23"When you come into the land, and have planted all kinds of trees for food, then you shall count their fruit as uncircumcised. Three years it shall be as uncircumcised to you. It shall not be eaten. 24But in the fourth year all its fruit shall be holy, a praise to the LORD. 25And in the fifth year you may eat its fruit, that it may yield to you its increase: I am the LORD your God.

26"You shall not eat anything with the blood, nor shall you practice divination or soothsaying. 27You shall not shave around the sides of your head, nor shall you disfigure the edges of your beard. 28You shall not make any cuttings in your flesh for the dead, nor tattoo any marks on you: I am the LORD.

29"Do not prostitute your daughter, to cause her to be a harlot, lest the land fall into harlotry, and the land become full of wickedness.

30"You shall keep My Sabbaths and reverence My sanctuary: I am the LORD.

31"Give no regard to mediums and familiar spirits; do not seek after them, to be defiled by them: I am the LORD your God.

32"You shall rise before the gray headed and honor the presence of an old man, and fear your God: I am the LORD.

33"And if a stranger dwells with you in your land, you shall not mistreat him. 34The stranger who dwells among you shall be to you as one born among you, and you shall love him as yourself; for you were strangers in the land of Egypt: I am the LORD your God.

35"You shall do no injustice in judgment, in measurement of length, weight, or volume. 36You shall have honest scales, honest weights, an honest ephah, and an honest hin: I am the LORD your God, who brought you out of the land of Egypt.

37"Therefore you shall observe all My statutes and all My judgments, and perform them: I am the LORD.' "

Penalties for Breaking the Law

20 Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 2"Again, you shall say to the children of Israel: 'Whoever of the children of Israel, or of the strangers who dwell in Israel, who gives any of his descendants to Molech, he shall surely be put to death. The people of the land shall stone him with stones. 3I will set My face against that man, and will cut him off from his people, because he has given some of his descendants to Molech, to defile My sanctuary and profane My holy name. 4And if the people of the land should in any way hide their eyes from the man, when he gives some of his descendants to Molech, and they do not kill him, 5then I will set My face against that man and against his family; and I will cut him off from his people, and all who prostitute themselves with him to commit harlotry with Molech.

6"And the person who turns to mediums and familiar spirits, to prostitute himself with them, I will set My face against that person and cut him off from his people. 7Consecrate yourselves therefore, and be holy, for I am the LORD your God. 8And you shall keep My statutes, and perform them: I am the LORD who sanctifies you.

9"For everyone who curses his father or his mother shall surely be put to death. He has cursed his father or his mother. His blood shall be upon him.

10"The man who commits adultery with another

20:1–27 This entire chapter reinforces unswerving obedience to God as an indication of a holy life or a life set apart to God. It bears essential similarity to Leviticus 18. However, while Leviticus 18 does not make immediate reference to punishment, Leviticus 20 regards covenant breaking from the perspective of the death penalty.

20:1–9 A strong warning against the worship of Molech, the idol of the Ammonites, appears in these verses. Those who worshiped Molech participated in child sacrifice. The death penalty is imposed on any of the people of Israel who sacrificed to Molech (v. 2). False sources of guidance and revelation also were condemned (v. 6; see Lev. 19:31). Cursing father and mother also merited the severe penalty of death (v. 9). The reference is not merely to an angry outburst from a child in a fit of temper. The word used in Hebrew can include bitterness and venom and even blaspheming the name of God (Lev. 24:11–16). Such cursing would be equivalent to putting a hex on someone, often including an appeal to a pagan deity. Failure in family relationships merits maximum punishment.

20:10–21 Adultery, incest, homosexuality, and bestiality were subject to the death penalty. The laws of the Israelites took the sacredness of marriage very seriously (see Gen. 2:24).

HOLINESS SET APART UNTO THE LORD

Holiness describes the character of God and the code for Christian conduct. Scripture reveals the holiness of God and expresses God's desire for His children to develop a similar holiness (Ex. 19:6; Lev. 11:44, 45; 19:2; 1 Pet. 1:15).

The word "holiness" has several different meanings. In terms of an individual's relationship to God, it means "set apart." God is the "wholly other" or totally different One, unlike any other. Holiness also describes a way to live. Christians are called to live according to a different set of principles and standards than the ungodly world—to lead a pure life in accordance with God's call, commandments, and consequences. This "set apart" life of righteousness is of God and from God (1 Cor. 1:2; 3:16, 17). A holy life is a life that always chooses to do what God desires.

Obedient believers are instructed no longer to be conformed to their old desires and patterns of thinking and behaving (1 Pet. 1:13–16). The conforming to a life of holiness, however, requires more than the will of a person to "change." It is the work of the Holy Spirit made possible through Christ's death on the Cross.

True holiness is exemplified only in God, though the Holy Spirit empowers His children to pursue holiness (1 Thess. 4:7, 8). The good news is that as we seek to be holy and invite the Holy Spirit to do His work in us, the Lord responds by cleansing us, leading us into His righteous and holy paths, and strengthening us to withstand the temptation to return to our former ungodly lives.

We cannot make ourselves holy; but, if we desire to become holy and set our wills toward following the Lord, He will make us so. The Lord never commands us to do something that He does not enable us to do (Rom. 4:21).

man's wife, he who commits adultery with his neighbor's wife, the adulterer and the adulteress, shall surely be put to death. 11The man who lies with his father's wife has uncovered his father's nakedness; both of them shall surely be put to death. Their blood shall be upon them. 12If a man lies with his daughter-in-law, both of them shall surely be put to death. They have committed perversion. Their blood shall be upon them. 13If a man lies with a male as he lies with a woman, both of them have committed an abomination. They shall surely be put to death. Their blood shall be upon them. 14If a man marries a woman and her mother, it is wickedness. They shall be burned with fire, both he and they, that there may be no wickedness among you. 15If a man mates with an animal, he shall surely be put to death, and you shall kill the animal. 16If a woman approaches any animal and mates with it, you shall kill the woman and the animal. They shall surely be put to death. Their blood is upon them.

17"If a man takes his sister, his father's daughter or his mother's daughter, and sees her nakedness and she sees his nakedness, it is a wicked thing. And they shall be cut off in the sight of their people. He has uncovered his sister's nakedness. He shall bear his guilt. 18If a man lies with a woman during her sickness and uncovers her nakedness, he has exposed her flow, and she has uncovered the flow of her blood. Both of them shall be cut off from their people.

19"You shall not uncover the nakedness of your mother's sister nor of your father's sister, for that would uncover his near of kin. They shall bear their guilt. 20If a man lies with his uncle's wife, he has uncovered his uncle's nakedness. They shall bear their sin; they shall die childless. 21If a man takes his brother's wife, it is an unclean thing. He has uncovered his brother's nakedness. They shall be childless.

22"You shall therefore keep all My statutes and all My judgments, and perform them, that the land where I am bringing you to dwell may not vomit you out. 23And you shall not walk in the statutes of the nation which I am casting out before you; for they commit all these things, and therefore I abhor them. 24But I have said to you, "You shall inherit their land, and I will give it to you to possess, a land flowing with milk and honey." I am the LORD your God, who has separated you from the peoples. 25You shall therefore distinguish between clean animals and unclean, between unclean birds and clean, and you shall not make yourselves abominable by beast or by bird, or by any kind of living thing that creeps on the ground, which I have separated from you as unclean. 26And you shall be holy to Me, for I the LORD am holy, and have separated you from the peoples, that you should be Mine.

27"A man or a woman who is a medium, or who has familiar spirits, shall surely be put to death;

20:22–27 Summary exhortation (see Lev. 18:24–30, note). Any nation persisting in the abominable practices forbidden in this chapter ultimately will experience destruction.

they shall stone them with stones. Their blood shall be upon them.' "

Regulations for Conduct of Priests

21 And the LORD said to Moses, "Speak to the priests, the sons of Aaron, and say to them: 'None shall defile himself for the dead among his people, 2except for his relatives who are nearest to him: his mother, his father, his son, his daughter, and his brother; 3also his virgin sister who is near to him, who has had no husband, for her he may defile himself. 4*Otherwise* he shall not defile himself, being a chief man among his people, to profane himself.

5"They shall not make any bald place on their heads, nor shall they shave the edges of their beards nor make any cuttings in their flesh. 6They shall be holy to their God and not profane the name of their God, for they offer the offerings of the LORD made by fire, and the bread of their God; therefore they shall be holy. 7They shall not take a wife who is a harlot or a defiled woman, nor shall they take a woman divorced from her husband; for the priest[a] is holy to his God. 8Therefore you shall consecrate him, for he offers the bread of your God. He shall be holy to you, for I the LORD, who sanctify you, am holy. 9The daughter of any priest, if she profanes herself by playing the harlot, she profanes her father. She shall be burned with fire.

10"He who is the high priest among his brethren, on whose head the anointing oil was poured and who is consecrated to wear the garments, shall not uncover his head nor tear his clothes; 11nor shall he go near any dead body, nor defile himself for his father or his mother; 12nor shall he go out of the sanctuary, nor profane the sanctuary of his God; for the consecration of the anointing oil of his God is upon him: I am the LORD. 13And he shall take a wife in her virginity. 14A widow or a divorced woman or a defiled woman or a harlot—these he shall not marry; but he shall take a virgin of his own people as wife. 15Nor shall he profane his posterity among his people, for I the LORD sanctify him.' "

16And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 17"Speak to Aaron, saying: 'No man of your descendants in succeeding generations, who has any defect, may approach to offer the bread of his God. 18For any man who has a defect shall not approach: a man blind or lame, who has a marred face or any limb too long, 19a man who has a broken foot or broken hand, 20or is a hunchback or a dwarf, or a man who has a defect in his eye, or eczema or scab, or is a eunuch. 21No man of the descendants of Aaron the priest, who has a defect, shall come near to offer the offerings made by fire to the LORD. He has a defect; he shall not come near to offer the bread of his God. 22He may eat the bread of his God, both the most holy and the holy; 23only he shall not go near the veil or approach the altar, because he has a defect, lest he profane My sanctuaries; for I the LORD sanctify them.' "

24And Moses told it to Aaron and his sons, and to all the children of Israel.

22 Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 2"Speak to Aaron and his sons, that they separate themselves from the holy things of the children of Israel, and that they do not profane My holy name by what they dedicate to Me: I am the LORD. 3Say to them: 'Whoever of all your descendants throughout your generations, who goes near the holy things which the children of Israel dedicate to the LORD, while he has uncleanness upon him, that person shall be cut off from My presence: I am the LORD.

4"Whatever man of the descendants of Aaron, who is a leper or has a discharge, shall not eat the holy offerings until he is clean. And whoever touches anything made unclean by a corpse, or a man who has had an emission of semen, 5or whoever touches any creeping thing by which he would be made unclean, or any person by whom he would become unclean, whatever his uncleanness may be— 6the person who has touched any such thing shall be unclean until evening, and shall not eat the holy offerings unless he washes his body with water. 7And when the sun goes down he shall be clean; and afterward he may eat the holy

21:7 [a]Literally he

21:1 The priest functioned as a mediator between man and God. Such a role required holiness of life. A strict code of conduct was required for the priests. Verses 1–15 deal with the conduct of priests who currently were serving, while verses 16–23 concern the conduct of those who one day would inherit the office. Those with certain physical defects were forbidden to serve as priests. Demands requiring greater self-discipline were made on a high priest than on other priests (vv. 10–15). Greater privilege always carries greater responsibility. Jesus is the perfect High Priest (see Heb. 4:15; 7:26).

21:10 The high priest was forbidden to tear his garments. Caiaphas violated this law at the trial of Jesus (Matt. 26:65; Mark 14:63).

22:1 The various guidelines indicate that all offerings consecrated to the Lord were holy in a unique sense and thus must be protected from uncleanness. The regulations given here indicate the seriousness of worship. Reverence for the majesty of God required a proper approach to Him. Only an individual's best should be offered to the Lord (vv. 20–25). A freewill offering was a voluntary contribution. A votive offering was given in fulfillment of a previous vow. If the animal intended for the votive offering became blemished prior to sacrifice, it must be replaced (v. 23). A person could not give less than what he had promised to give (see Num. 30, Vows). To the Hebrew, a name denoted character and personality (v. 32; see Is. 45, Naming of Children).

THE PASTOR'S WIFE THE SHEPHERDESS

"Shepherding God's people" is a role that varies widely according to time and place, but biblical principles regarding leadership remain constant. In the Bible, "priests," "prophets," and "deacons" may refer to similar leadership positions, and many were unmarried because of difficult conditions and circumstances. Women who married these men were inevitably linked to a twofold requirement: a life denouncing worldly gain and behavior modeling the highest spiritual standards of integrity.

Often testing is required to develop total faith in God for everyday sustenance. Elisha's advice to the newly widowed wife of one prophet illustrates the faithful provision of the Lord for His servants (2 Kin. 4:1–7). Paul taught that the laborer is worthy of his hire (1 Tim. 5:18), but God's people frequently failed or were too poor to furnish sufficient upkeep.

The Mosaic Law assigned Aaron, the High Priest of Israel, and his tribe of Levi the oversight and care of all aspects of corporate worship. The Levitical priests were to represent God to the people until the Law was fulfilled in Christ. This demanded a life of holiness. Their wives were hand-picked virgins (Lev. 21:7, 13). The Law from Sinai adequately provided for support of the priests and their families (Num. 18:8–20), but in later years poverty and spiritual defection were recorded. Malachi strongly denounced divorce and personal decay in the priesthood (Mal. 2:11). In writing to Timothy, his young pastor protégé, Paul delineated qualities of reverence and self-control needed in the wives of spiritual leaders (1 Tim. 3:11, 12).

Modern church life still calls for women with a high level of commitment to serve as wives of pastors. To balance marriage, home, and family with exemplary devotion and dedication to the ministry requires unselfish teamwork and zealous compassion for the cause of Christ.

offerings, because it is his food. 8Whatever dies naturally or is torn by beasts he shall not eat, to defile himself with it: I am the LORD.

9"They shall therefore keep My ordinance, lest they bear sin for it and die thereby, if they profane it: I the LORD sanctify them.

10"No outsider shall eat the holy offering; one who dwells with the priest, or a hired servant, shall not eat the holy thing. 11But if the priest buys a person with his money, he may eat it; and one who is born in his house may eat his food. 12If the priest's daughter is married to an outsider, she may not eat of the holy offerings. 13But if the priest's daughter is a widow or divorced, and has no child, and has returned to her father's house as in her youth, she may eat her father's food; but no outsider shall eat it.

14"And if a man eats the holy offering unintentionally, then he shall restore a holy offering to the priest, and add one-fifth to it. 15They shall not profane the holy offerings of the children of Israel, which they offer to the LORD, 16or allow them to bear the guilt of trespass when they eat their holy offerings; for I the LORD sanctify them.' "

Offerings Accepted and Not Accepted

17And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 18"Speak to Aaron and his sons, and to all the children of Israel, and say to them: 'Whatever man of the house of Israel, or of the strangers in Israel, who offers his sacrifice for any of his vows or for any of his freewill offerings, which they offer to the LORD as a burnt offering— 19*you shall offer* of your own free will a male without blemish from the cattle, from the sheep, or from the goats. 20Whatever has a defect, you shall not offer, for it shall not be acceptable on your behalf. 21And whoever offers a sacrifice of a peace offering to the LORD, to fulfill his vow, or a freewill offering from the cattle or the sheep, it must be perfect to be accepted; there shall be no defect in it. 22Those that are blind or broken or maimed, or have an ulcer or eczema or scabs, you shall not offer to the LORD, nor make an offering by fire of them on the altar to the LORD. 23Either a bull or a lamb that has any limb too long or too short you may offer as a freewill offering, but for a vow it shall not be accepted.

24"You shall not offer to the LORD what is bruised or crushed, or torn or cut; nor shall you make any offering of them in your land. 25Nor from a foreigner's hand shall you offer any of these as the bread of your God, because their corruption is in them, and defects are in them. They shall not be accepted on your behalf.' "

26And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: 27"When a bull or a sheep or a goat is born, it shall be seven days with its mother; and from the eighth day and thereafter it shall be accepted as an offering made by fire to the LORD. 28*Whether it is* a cow or ewe, do not kill both her and her young on the same day. 29And when you offer a sacrifice of thanksgiving to the LORD, offer it of your own free will. 30On the same day it shall be eaten; you shall leave none of it until morning: I am the LORD.

31"Therefore you shall keep My commandments, and perform them: I am the LORD. 32You shall not profane My holy name, but I will be hallowed among the children of Israel. I am the LORD who sanctifies you, 33who brought you out of the land of Egypt, to be your God: I am the LORD."

Feasts of the LORD

23 And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 2"Speak to the children of Israel, and say to them: 'The feasts of the LORD, which you shall proclaim to be holy convocations, these are My feasts.

The Sabbath

3'Six days shall work be done, but the seventh day is a Sabbath of solemn rest, a holy convocation. You shall do no work on it; it is the Sabbath of the LORD in all your dwellings.

The Passover and Unleavened Bread

4'These are the feasts of the LORD, holy convocations which you shall proclaim at their appointed times. 5On the fourteenth day of the first month at twilight is the LORD's Passover. 6And on the fifteenth day of the same month is the Feast of Unleavened Bread to the LORD; seven days you must eat unleavened bread. 7On the first day you shall have a holy convocation; you shall do no customary work on it. 8But you shall offer an offering made by fire to the LORD for seven days. The seventh day shall be a holy convocation; you shall do no customary work on it.' "

The Feast of Firstfruits

9And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 10"Speak to the children of Israel, and say to them: 'When you come into the land which I give to you, and reap its harvest, then you shall bring a sheaf of the firstfruits of your harvest to the priest. 11He shall wave the sheaf before the LORD, to be accepted on your behalf; on the day after the Sabbath the priest shall wave it. 12And you shall offer on that day, when you wave the sheaf, a male lamb of the first year, without blemish, as a burnt offering to the LORD. 13Its grain offering shall be two-tenths of an ephah of fine flour mixed with oil, an offering made by fire to the LORD, for a sweet aroma; and its drink offering shall be of wine, one-fourth of a hin. 14You shall eat neither bread nor parched grain nor fresh grain until the same day that you have brought an offering to your God; it shall be a statute forever throughout your generations in all your dwellings.

The Feast of Weeks

15'And you shall count for yourselves from the day after the Sabbath, from the day that you brought the sheaf of the wave offering: seven Sabbaths shall be completed. 16Count fifty days to the day after the seventh Sabbath; then you shall offer a new grain offering to the LORD. 17You shall bring from your dwellings two wave loaves of two-tenths of an ephah. They shall be of fine flour; they shall be baked with leaven. They are the firstfruits to the LORD. 18And you shall offer with the bread seven lambs of the first year, without blemish, one young bull, and two rams. They shall be as a burnt offering to the LORD, with their grain offering and their drink offerings, an offering made by fire for a sweet aroma to the LORD. 19Then you shall sacrifice one kid of the goats as a sin offering, and two male lambs of the first year as a sacrifice of a peace offering. 20The priest shall wave them with the bread of the firstfruits as a wave offering before the LORD, with the two lambs. They shall be holy to the LORD for the priest. 21And you shall

23:1 The holy observances of Israel were times of rest, public worship, celebration, and praise (see chart, The Jewish Sacred Calendar). All adult males were to observe three annual feasts (Ex. 23:14–19; Passover or the Feast of Unleavened Bread, Pentecost or the Feast of Harvest or Firstfruits, and the Feast of Ingathering or Tabernacles). In Leviticus 23, the three major festivals are retained, but two of the feasts are expanded greatly. The celebration of the feasts indicated the symbolic dedication of all time to the Lord (see chart, The Feasts of Israel). The Sabbath also is given a place in the annual calendar of feasts (see chart, The Principle of the Sabbath). Israel observed a lunar month of 29½ days. The Hebrew term translated "month" literally refers to the "new moon." For the people of Israel, the day began at sundown (Gen. 1:5, 8, 13; see Ps. 55:17).

23:5–8 Passover was held in the spring on the 14th day of the first month (Abib or Nisan; see Ex. 12:2, 18; 13:3, 4; 23:15; Neh. 2:1; see chart, The Jewish Sacred Calendar). The Feast of Unleavened Bread was a week-long celebration beginning on the 15th day of the first month. Passover commemorated the release from bondage in Egypt, so named because the LORD "passed over" the Hebrew homes where the blood of the lamb was sprinkled. The Feast of Unleavened Bread reminded the people of the food of affliction eaten in Egypt as well as of the hardships at their hurried departure from Egypt. This festival reminds Christians of Christ's deliverance of His people from the bondage of sin. In Scripture, leaven generally symbolizes evil or sin (Matt. 16:6, 11, 12; Mark 8:15; Luke 12:1; see also chart, The Feasts of Israel).

23:9–14 The Feast of Firstfruits occurred on the day after the Sabbath of Passover week. It provided an opportunity to consecrate the barley harvest to the Lord (see chart, The Feasts of Israel). The first sheaf of the grain was offered to God as a token of gratitude. After the firstfruits had been presented to the Lord, the people could enjoy the benefits of the harvest. Jesus' bodily resurrection became the firstfruits and the promise of the resurrection for Christians (1 Cor. 15:20–23).

23:15–22 The Feast of Weeks, also called Pentecost, meaning "fiftieth," fell 50 days after Passover. This harvest feast was also a firstfruits celebration because its purpose was to dedicate the firstfruits of the wheat harvest to the Lord (see chart, The Feasts of Israel). The Holy Spirit was poured out at the celebration of Pentecost (Acts 2:1–4).

proclaim on the same day that it is a holy convocation to you. You shall do no customary work on it. It shall be a statute forever in all your dwellings throughout your generations.

22"When you reap the harvest of your land, you shall not wholly reap the corners of your field when you reap, nor shall you gather any gleaning from your harvest. You shall leave them for the poor and for the stranger: I am the LORD your God.' "

The Feast of Trumpets

23Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 24"Speak to the children of Israel, saying: 'In the seventh month, on the first day of the month, you shall have a sabbath-rest, a memorial of blowing of trumpets, a holy convocation. 25You shall do no customary work on it; and you shall offer an offering made by fire to the LORD.' "

The Day of Atonement

26And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: 27"Also the tenth day of this seventh month shall be the Day of Atonement. It shall be a holy convocation for you; you shall afflict your souls, and offer an offering made by fire to the LORD. 28And you shall do no work on that same day, for it is the Day of Atonement, to make atonement for you before the LORD your God. 29For any person who is not afflicted in soul on that same day shall be cut off from his people. 30And any person who does any work on that same day, that person I will destroy from among his people. 31You shall do no manner of work; it shall be a statute forever throughout your generations in all your dwellings. 32It shall be to you a sabbath of solemn rest, and you shall afflict your souls; on the ninth day of the month at evening, from evening to evening, you shall celebrate your sabbath."

The Feast of Tabernacles

33Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 34"Speak to the children of Israel, saying: 'The fifteenth day of this seventh month shall be the Feast of Tabernacles for seven days to the LORD. 35On the first day there shall be a holy convocation. You shall do no customary work on it. 36*For* seven days you shall offer an offering made by fire to the LORD. On the eighth day you shall have a holy convocation, and you shall offer an offering made by fire to the LORD. It is a sacred assembly, and you shall do no customary work on it.

37"These are the feasts of the LORD which you shall proclaim to be holy convocations, to offer an offering made by fire to the LORD, a burnt offering and a grain offering, a sacrifice and drink offerings, everything on its day— 38besides the Sabbaths of the LORD, besides your gifts, besides all your vows, and besides all your freewill offerings which you give to the LORD.

39"Also on the fifteenth day of the seventh month, when you have gathered in the fruit of the land, you shall keep the feast of the LORD for seven days; on the first day there shall be a sabbath-rest, and on the eighth day a sabbath-rest. 40And you shall take for yourselves on the first day the fruit of beautiful trees, branches of palm trees, the boughs of leafy trees, and willows of the brook; and you shall rejoice before the LORD your God for seven days. 41You shall keep it as a feast to the LORD for seven days in the year. It shall be a statute forever in your generations. You shall celebrate it in the seventh month. 42You shall dwell in booths for seven days. All who are native Israelites shall dwell in booths, 43that your generations may know that I made the children of Israel dwell in booths when I brought them out of the land of Egypt: I am the LORD your God.' "

44So Moses declared to the children of Israel the feasts of the LORD.

Care of the Tabernacle Lamps

24 Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: 2"Command the children of Israel that they bring to you pure oil of pressed olives for the light, to make the lamps burn continually. 3Outside the veil of the Testimony, in the tabernacle of meeting, Aaron shall be in charge of it

23:23–25 The Feast of Trumpets occurred on the first day of the seventh month (see chart, The Feasts of Israel). Trumpets typically were blown at the beginning of every month (Num. 10:10). The first day of the seventh month (Tishri) was especially sacred since the Day of Atonement fell during that month.

23:33–44 The Feast of Tabernacles, also known as Booths, began on the 15th day of the seventh month and lasted a week. It celebrated the end of the grape and olive harvests and also commemorated the time the people lived in tents in the wilderness. To celebrate this joyous festival, the people constructed simple outdoor huts, hence the designation "Booths." Through the celebration of these regularly appointed festivals, the people of Israel reaffirmed that the entire year belonged to the Lord (see chart, The Feasts of Israel).

24:1 Ritual and ethical stipulations included care for the tabernacle lamps and bread (vv. 1–9). The light of the lamps symbolized the presence of God, while the bread, eaten only by the priests, represented His sustenance for His people. Ethical stipulations involved the death penalty for blasphemy, as well as stipulations regarding injury and murder (vv. 10–23). Compare the Ten Commandments (Ex. 20:1–17; see chart, The Ten Commandments) and the Book of the Covenant (Ex. 20:22—23:33). Note that the Israelite mother is mentioned by name (vv. 10–16, especially v. 11); the father was an Egyptian and is unnamed. Even though resident foreigners were to keep Israelite laws (vv. 10–16), the child's heritage passed through the mother, who was an Israelite.

THE PRINCIPLE OF THE SABBATH

NAME	REFERENCE	TIME	PURPOSE	PROPHETIC SIGNIFICANCE
Sabbath (Heb. Shabbat)	Ex. 20:8–11; 31:12–17; Lev. 23:3; Deut. 5:12–15	The evening of the sixth day to the evening of the next day	1. To rest from work, to honor God, and to reflect on God's covenant with Israel. 2. To commemorate God's completion of creation (Gen. 2:2, 3).	Jesus is Lord of the Sabbath (Mark 2:23–28).
Sabbath Year	Ex. 23:10, 11; Lev. 25:1–7, 20–22; Deut. 15:1–18	Every seventh year	1. To allow the land to rest or lie fallow. 2. To forgive debts. 3. To release Hebrews bound to servitude because of debt.	God through Jesus Christ has given rest, forgiven us, and set us free (Matt. 11:28; John 8:36; Eph. 1:7).
Year of Jubilee, (lit."Year of the Blowing the Ram's Horn")	Lev. 25:8–55; 27:17–24; Ezek. 46:17	The fiftieth year following seven Sabbath years	1. To proclaim liberty to those who were slaves because of debt. 2. To return land to the former owners. 3. To rejoice and celebrate—with no crops to be planted.	This observance pictures the deliverance from the bondage and slavery of sin that comes in Christ (John 8:36; Gal. 5:1).

from evening until morning before the LORD continually; it shall be a statute forever in your generations. 4He shall be in charge of the lamps on the pure gold lampstand before the LORD continually.

The Bread of the Tabernacle

5"And you shall take fine flour and bake twelve cakes with it. Two-tenths of an ephah shall be in each cake. 6You shall set them in two rows, six in a row, on the pure gold table before the LORD. 7And you shall put pure frankincense on each row, that it may be on the bread for a memorial, an offering made by fire to the LORD. 8Every Sabbath he shall set it in order before the LORD continually, being taken from the children of Israel by an everlasting covenant. 9And it shall be for Aaron and his sons, and they shall eat it in a holy place; for it is most holy to him from the offerings of the LORD made by fire, by a perpetual statute."

The Penalty for Blasphemy

10Now the son of an Israelite woman, whose father was an Egyptian, went out among the children of Israel; and this Israelite woman's son and a man of Israel fought each other in the camp. 11And the Israelite woman's son blasphemed the name of the LORD and cursed; and so they brought him to Moses. (His mother's name was Shelomith the daughter of Dibri, of the tribe of Dan.) 12Then they put him in custody, that the mind of the LORD might be shown to them.

13And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 14"Take outside the camp him who has cursed; then let all who heard him lay their hands on his head, and let all the congregation stone him.

15"Then you shall speak to the children of Israel, saying: 'Whoever curses his God shall bear his sin. 16And whoever blasphemes the name of the LORD shall surely be put to death. All the congregation shall certainly stone him, the stranger as well as him who is born in the land. When he blasphemes the name of the LORD, he shall be put to death.

17'Whoever kills any man shall surely be put to death. 18Whoever kills an animal shall make it good, animal for animal.

19'If a man causes disfigurement of his neighbor, as he has done, so shall it be done to him— 20fracture for fracture, eye for eye, tooth for tooth; as he has caused disfigurement of a man, so shall it be done to him. 21And whoever kills an animal shall restore it; but whoever kills a man shall be put to death. 22You shall have the same law for the stranger and for one from your own country; for I am the LORD your God.' "

23Then Moses spoke to the children of Israel; and they took outside the camp him who had cursed, and stoned him with stones. So the children of Israel did as the LORD commanded Moses.

The Sabbath of the Seventh Year

25 And the LORD spoke to Moses on Mount Sinai, saying, 2"Speak to the children of Israel, and say to them: 'When you come into the land which I give you, then the land shall keep a sabbath to the LORD. 3Six years you shall sow your field, and six years you shall prune your vineyard, and gather its fruit; 4but in the seventh year there shall be a sabbath of solemn rest for the land, a sabbath to the LORD. You shall neither sow your field nor prune your vineyard. 5What grows of its own accord of your harvest you shall not reap, nor gather the grapes of your untended vine, for it is a year of rest for the land. 6And the sabbath produce of the land shall be food for you: for you, your male and female servants, your hired man, and the stranger who dwells with you, 7for your livestock and the beasts that are in your land—all its produce shall be for food.

The Year of Jubilee

8'And you shall count seven sabbaths of years for yourself, seven times seven years; and the time of the seven sabbaths of years shall be to you forty-nine years. 9Then you shall cause the trumpet of the Jubilee to sound on the tenth day of the seventh month; on the Day of Atonement you shall make the trumpet to sound throughout all your land. 10And you shall consecrate the fiftieth year, and proclaim liberty throughout all the land to all its inhabitants. It shall be a Jubilee for you; and each of you shall return to his possession, and each of you shall return to his family. 11That fiftieth year shall be a Jubilee to you; in it you shall neither sow nor reap what grows of its own accord, nor gather the grapes of your untended vine. 12For it is the Jubilee; it shall be holy to you; you shall eat its produce from the field.

13'In this Year of Jubilee, each of you shall return to his possession. 14And if you sell anything to your neighbor or buy from your neighbor's hand, you shall not oppress one another. 15According to the number of years after the Jubilee you shall buy from your neighbor, and according to the number of years of crops he shall sell to you. 16According to the multitude of years you shall increase its price, and according to the fewer number of years you shall diminish its price; for he sells to you according to the number of the years of the crops. 17Therefore you shall not oppress one another, but you shall fear your God; for I am the LORD your God.

18'So you shall observe My statutes and keep My judgments, and perform them; and you will dwell in the land in safety. 19Then the land will yield its fruit, and you will eat your fill, and dwell there in safety.

20'And if you say, "What shall we eat in the seventh year, since we shall not sow nor gather in our produce?" 21Then I will command My blessing on you in the sixth year, and it will bring forth produce enough for three years. 22And you shall sow in the eighth year, and eat old produce until the ninth year; until its produce comes in, you shall eat of the old harvest.

Redemption of Property

23'The land shall not be sold permanently, for the land is Mine; for you are strangers and sojourners with Me. 24And in all the land of your possession you shall grant redemption of the land.

25'If one of your brethren becomes poor, and has sold some of his possession, and if his redeeming relative comes to redeem it, then he may redeem what his brother sold. 26Or if the man has no one to redeem it, but he himself becomes able to redeem it, 27then let him count the years since its sale, and restore the remainder to the man to whom he sold it, that he may return to his possession. 28But if he is not able to have it restored to himself, then what was sold shall remain in the hand of him who bought it until the Year of Jubilee; and in the Jubilee it shall be released, and he shall return to his possession.

29'If a man sells a house in a walled city, then he may redeem it within a whole year after it is sold; within a full year he may redeem it. 30But if it is not redeemed within the space of a full year, then the house in the walled city shall belong permanently to him who bought it, throughout his generations. It shall not be released in the Jubilee. 31However the houses of villages which have no

25:1–7 The Sabbath year. The land was to be allowed to lie fallow in the seventh year. By allowing the land to rest, this regulation guarded against covetousness, as well as being sound agricultural stewardship. Through this observance the people of Israel acknowledged that the land belonged to the Lord and was His gift to them. The Babylonian captivity resulted, in part, from the people's failure to observe the Sabbath years (2 Chr. 36:15–21; see chart, The Principle of the Sabbath).

25:8–17 The Year of Jubilee. Every 50th year was designated the Year of Jubilee. In this year slaves were to be freed and properties were to revert to the families of their original owners. The basic principle is that everything belongs to the Lord (Lev. 25). Freeing both land and slaves served as reminders that God's people are stewards of His gifts (see Luke 16, Stewardship; chart, The Principle of the Sabbath).

25:25 Kinsman-redeemer (Heb. go'el) or redeeming relative was the nearest of kin in ancient Israel (see Ruth 2:20; 4:7, notes). His responsibilities included redeeming property in danger of being sold outside the family, providing an heir for the deceased, and avenging the blood of the deceased. Christ is the Kinsman-Redeemer of His people.

For perfection does not consist in lacerating or killing the body, but in killing our perverse self-will.

wall around them shall be counted as the fields of the country. They may be redeemed, and they shall be released in the Jubilee. 32Nevertheless the cities of the Levites, and the houses in the cities of their possession, the Levites may redeem at any time. 33And if a man purchases a house from the Levites, then the house that was sold in the city of his possession shall be released in the Jubilee; for the houses in the cities of the Levites are their possession among the children of Israel. 34But the field of the common-land of their cities may not be sold, for it is their perpetual possession.

Lending to the Poor

35"If one of your brethren becomes poor, and falls into poverty among you, then you shall help him, like a stranger or a sojourner, that he may live with you. 36Take no usury or interest from him; but fear your God, that your brother may live with you. 37You shall not lend him your money for usury, nor lend him your food at a profit. 38I am the LORD your God, who brought you out of the land of Egypt, to give you the land of Canaan and to be your God.

The Law Concerning Slavery

39"And if one of your brethren who dwells by you becomes poor, and sells himself to you, you shall not compel him to serve as a slave. 40As a hired servant and a sojourner he shall be with you, and shall serve you until the Year of Jubilee. 41And then he shall depart from you—he and his children with him—and shall return to his own family. He shall return to the possession of his fathers. 42For they are My servants, whom I brought out of the land of Egypt; they shall not be sold as slaves. 43You shall not rule over him with rigor, but you shall fear your God. 44And as for your male and female slaves whom you may have—from the nations that are around you, from them you may buy male and female slaves. 45Moreover you may buy the children of the strangers who dwell among you, and their families who are with you, which they beget in your land; and they shall become your property. 46And you may take them as an inheritance for your children after you, to inherit them as a possession; they shall be your permanent slaves. But regarding your brethren, the children of Israel, you shall not rule over one another with rigor.

47"Now if a sojourner or stranger close to you becomes rich, and one of your brethren who dwells by him becomes poor, and sells himself to the stranger or sojourner close to you, or to a member of the stranger's family, 48after he is sold he may be redeemed again. One of his brothers may redeem him; 49or his uncle or his uncle's son may redeem him; or anyone who is near of kin to him in his family may redeem him; or if he is able he may redeem himself. 50Thus he shall reckon with him who bought him: The price of his release shall be according to the number of years, from the year that he was sold to him until the Year of Jubilee; it shall be according to the time of a hired servant for him. 51If there are still many years remaining, according to them he shall repay the price of his redemption from the money with which he was bought. 52And if there remain but a few years until the Year of Jubilee, then he shall reckon with him, and according to his years he shall repay him the price of his redemption. 53He shall be with him as a yearly hired servant, and he shall not rule with rigor over him in your sight. 54And if he is not redeemed in these years, then he shall be released in the Year of Jubilee—he and his children with him. 55For the children of Israel are servants to Me; they are My servants whom I brought out of the land of Egypt: I am the LORD your God.

Promise of Blessing and Retribution

26 "You shall not make idols for yourselves; neither a carved image nor a sacred pillar shall you rear up for yourselves; nor shall you set up an engraved stone in your land, to bow down to it;
for I am the LORD your God.
2You shall keep My Sabbaths and reverence My sanctuary:
I am the LORD.

3"If you walk in My statutes and keep My commandments, and perform them, 4then I will give you rain in its season, the land shall yield its produce, and the trees of the field shall yield their fruit.
5Your threshing shall last till the time of vintage, and the vintage shall last till the time of sowing;

26:1 Blessings and curses. This chapter records the requirements for blessings in the land (vv. 1–13) and the punishment for disobedience (vv. 14–46). Each woman must choose the way she will go. Compare also Deuteronomy 28.

EATING DISORDERS FOOD THAT DOES NOT SATISFY

God recognizes our intimate need and desire for food. Scripture assures us that God desires to feed us, both physically and emotionally (Matt. 6:25; 25:35). Jesus called Himself "the bread of life" and said that all who come to Him will never hunger or thirst (John 4:14; 6:35).

Yet even Moses noticed that some "shall eat and not be satisfied" (Lev. 26:26). This dissatisfaction is usually an emotional one and can manifest itself in bulimia, anorexia, or compulsive overeating. Satan can find these weak links and use them to "sift you as wheat" (Luke 22:31, 32).

Often we do not understand why we succumb to eating disorders. Even the apostle Paul struggled with repeatedly doing things he did not really want to do (Rom. 7:15–25). When seeking recovery from an eating disorder, first ask yourself, "Do I want to be made well? Am I ready to give up this frailty of character and even sin in my life?" (see John 5:6).

To find willpower against eating disorders, you must first desire to be made well, righteous, and free of your addiction. Then God is faithful and true to help you battle these problems. You provide the will, others provide encouragement, and God provides the power.

you shall eat your bread to the full, and dwell in your land safely.
6 I will give peace in the land, and you shall lie down, and none will make you afraid;
I will rid the land of evil beasts,
and the sword will not go through your land.
7 You will chase your enemies, and they shall fall
by the sword before you.
8 Five of you shall chase a hundred, and a hundred of you shall put ten thousand to flight;
your enemies shall fall by the sword before you.
9 'For I will look on you favorably and make you fruitful, multiply you and confirm My covenant with you.
10 You shall eat the old harvest, and clear out the old because of the new.
11 I will set My tabernacle among you, and My soul shall not abhor you.
12 I will walk among you and be your God, and you shall be My people.
13 I am the LORD your God, who brought you out of the land of Egypt, that you should not be their slaves;
I have broken the bands of your yoke and made you walk upright.

14 'But if you do not obey Me, and do not observe all these commandments, 15 and if you despise My statutes, or if your soul abhors My judgments, so that you do not perform all My commandments, but break
My covenant,
16 I also will do this to you:
I will even appoint terror over you, wasting disease and fever which shall consume the eyes and cause sorrow of heart.
And you shall sow your seed in vain, for your enemies shall eat it.
17 I will set My face against you, and you shall be defeated by your enemies.
Those who hate you shall reign over you, and you shall flee when no one pursues you.

18 'And after all this, if you do not obey Me, then I will punish you seven times more for your sins.
19 I will break the pride of your power;
I will make your heavens like iron and your earth like bronze.
20 And your strength shall be spent in vain;
for your land shall not yield its produce, nor shall the trees of the land yield their fruit.
21 'Then, if you walk contrary to Me, and are not willing to obey Me, I will bring on you seven times more plagues, according to your sins.
22 I will also send wild beasts among you, which shall rob you of your children, destroy your livestock, and make you few in number;
and your highways shall be desolate.

23 'And if by these things you are not reformed by Me, but walk contrary to Me, 24 then I also will walk contrary to you, and I will punish you yet seven times for your sins.
25 And I will bring a sword against you that will execute the vengeance of the covenant; when you are gathered together within your cities I will send pestilence among you; and you shall be delivered into the hand of the enemy.

26:26 See Leviticus 26, Eating Disorders.

26 When I have cut off your supply of bread, ten women shall bake your bread in one oven, and they shall bring back your bread by weight, and you shall eat and not be satisfied.

27 "And after all this, if you do not obey Me, but walk contrary to Me, 28 then I also will walk contrary to you in fury;
and I, even I, will chastise you seven times for your sins.
29 You shall eat the flesh of your sons, and you shall eat the flesh of your daughters.
30 I will destroy your high places, cut down your incense altars, and cast your carcasses on the lifeless forms of your idols;
and My soul shall abhor you.
31 I will lay your cities waste and bring your sanctuaries to desolation, and I will not smell the fragrance of your sweet aromas.
32 I will bring the land to desolation, and your enemies who dwell in it shall be astonished at it.
33 I will scatter you among the nations and draw out a sword after you;
your land shall be desolate and your cities waste.
34 Then the land shall enjoy its sabbaths as long as it lies desolate and you are in your enemies' land;
then the land shall rest and enjoy its sabbaths.
35 As long as it lies desolate it shall rest—for the time it did not rest on your sabbaths when you dwelt in it.

36 "And as for those of you who are left, I will send faintness into their hearts in the lands of their enemies;
the sound of a shaken leaf shall cause them to flee;
they shall flee as though fleeing from a sword,
and they shall fall when no one pursues.
37 They shall stumble over one another, as it were before a sword, when no one pursues; and you shall have no power to stand before your enemies.
38 You shall perish among the nations, and the land of your enemies shall eat you up.
39 And those of you who are left shall waste away in their iniquity in your enemies' lands; also in their fathers' iniquities, which are with them, they shall waste away.
40 "But if they confess their iniquity and the iniquity of their fathers, with their unfaithfulness in which they were unfaithful to Me, and that they also have walked contrary to Me, 41 and that I also have walked contrary to them and have brought them into the land of their enemies;
if their uncircumcised hearts are humbled, and they accept their guilt—42 then I will remember My covenant with Jacob, and My covenant with Isaac and My covenant with Abraham I will remember;
I will remember the land.
43 The land also shall be left empty by them, and will enjoy its sabbaths while it lies desolate without them;
they will accept their guilt, because they despised My judgments and because their soul abhorred My statutes.
44 Yet for all that, when they are in the land of their enemies, I will not cast them away, nor shall I abhor them, to utterly destroy them and break My covenant with them;
for I am the LORD their God.
45 But for their sake I will remember the covenant of their ancestors, whom I brought out of the land of Egypt in the sight of the nations, that I might be their God:
I am the LORD.' "

46 These are the statutes and judgments and laws which the LORD made between Himself and the children of Israel on Mount Sinai by the hand of Moses.

Redeeming Persons and Property Dedicated to God

27 Now the LORD spoke to Moses, saying,
2 "Speak to the children of Israel, and say to them: 'When a man consecrates by a vow certain persons to the LORD, according to your valuation,
3 if your valuation is of a male from twenty years old up to sixty years old, then your valuation shall be fifty shekels of silver, according to the shekel of the sanctuary. 4 If it is a female, then your valuation shall be thirty shekels; 5 and if from five years old up to twenty years old, then your valuation for a male shall be twenty shekels, and for a female ten shekels; 6 and if from a month old up to five years old, then your valuation for a male shall be

27:1–34 Dedication to the Lord through vows and tithes. Everything an individual possesses, including life itself, is a gift from God. God has required that a portion of all be dedicated and consecrated to Him (see Luke 16, Stewardship; 2 Cor. 9, Giving). Vows and tithes were a means of expressing devotion to the Lord and were regarded as binding commitments (see Num. 30, Vows). The tithe or tenth was considered holy to the Lord. The giving of the tenth symbolized the recognition that all belonged to the Lord. This chapter constitutes the final section of the Holiness Code (vv. 1–46; see Lev. 17:1, note).

five shekels of silver, and for a female your valuation shall be three shekels of silver; 7and if from sixty years old and above, if it is a male, then your valuation shall be fifteen shekels, and for a female ten shekels.

8"But if he is too poor to pay your valuation, then he shall present himself before the priest, and the priest shall set a value for him; according to the ability of him who vowed, the priest shall value him.

9"If it is an animal that men may bring as an offering to the LORD, all that anyone gives to the LORD shall be holy. 10He shall not substitute it or exchange it, good for bad or bad for good; and if he at all exchanges animal for animal, then both it and the one exchanged for it shall be holy. 11If it is an unclean animal which they do not offer as a sacrifice to the LORD, then he shall present the animal before the priest; 12and the priest shall set a value for it, whether it is good or bad; as you, the priest, value it, so it shall be. 13But if he wants at all to redeem it, then he must add one-fifth to your valuation.

14"And when a man dedicates his house to be holy to the LORD, then the priest shall set a value for it, whether it is good or bad; as the priest values it, so it shall stand. 15If he who dedicated it wants to redeem his house, then he must add one-fifth of the money of your valuation to it, and it shall be his.

16"If a man dedicates to the LORD part of a field of his possession, then your valuation shall be according to the seed for it. A homer of barley seed shall be valued at fifty shekels of silver. 17If he dedicates his field from the Year of Jubilee, according to your valuation it shall stand. 18But if he dedicates his field after the Jubilee, then the priest shall reckon to him the money due according to the years that remain till the Year of Jubilee, and it shall be deducted from your valuation. 19And if he who dedicates the field ever wishes to redeem it, then he must add one-fifth of the money of your valuation to it, and it shall belong to him. 20But if he does not want to redeem the field, or if he has sold the field to another man, it shall not be redeemed anymore; 21but the field, when it is released in the Jubilee, shall be holy to the LORD, as a devoted field; it shall be the possession of the priest.

22"And if a man dedicates to the LORD a field which he has bought, which is not the field of his possession, 23then the priest shall reckon to him the worth of your valuation, up to the Year of Jubilee, and he shall give your valuation on that day as a holy offering to the LORD. 24In the Year of Jubilee the field shall return to him from whom it was bought, to the one who owned the land as a possession. 25And all your valuations shall be according to the shekel of the sanctuary: twenty gerahs to the shekel.

26"But the firstborn of the animals, which should be the LORD's firstborn, no man shall dedicate; whether it is an ox or sheep, it is the LORD's. 27And if it is an unclean animal, then he shall redeem it according to your valuation, and shall add one-fifth to it; or if it is not redeemed, then it shall be sold according to your valuation.

28"Nevertheless no devoted offering that a man may devote to the LORD of all that he has, both man and beast, or the field of his possession, shall be sold or redeemed; every devoted offering is most holy to the LORD. 29No person under the ban, who may become doomed to destruction among men, shall be redeemed, but shall surely be put to death. 30And all the tithe of the land, whether of the seed of the land or of the fruit of the tree, is the LORD's. It is holy to the LORD. 31If a man wants at all to redeem any of his tithes, he shall add one-fifth to it. 32And concerning the tithe of the herd or the flock, of whatever passes under the rod, the tenth one shall be holy to the LORD. 33He shall not inquire whether it is good or bad, nor shall he exchange it; and if he exchanges it at all, then both it and the one exchanged for it shall be holy; it shall not be redeemed.' "

34These are the commandments which the LORD commanded Moses for the children of Israel on Mount Sinai.

Numbers

TITLE

The English title for the Book of Numbers comes from the Latin Vulgate (Liber Numeri) and the Greek Septuagint (Arithmoi). These names developed because of the two censuses (Num. 1; 26). The Hebrew Masoretic texts use the name Bemidbar (lit. "in the wilderness"), which is closer to a description of the book's overall content. The Hebrews also called the book Wayyedabber (lit. "and He said"), following their custom of using the first word of the text as a title.

AUTHOR

Although the book may have undergone editing from later scribes, Moses is the logical author because of his firsthand experience with both Israelite and Egyptian cultures. More than forty years of his life were recorded in this book. Those who dispute Mosaic authorship cite two main objections: Numbers was written as third person narrative, and Moses affirmed his own meekness (Num. 12:3). Both are easily explained. The first is a matter of style; the second was Moses' defense against unfounded accusations.

Numbers must be studied with Exodus, Leviticus, and Deuteronomy. These four books of the Pentateuch contain the same theme of revelation: God spoke to His people Israel through His prophet Moses.

DATE

The fourth book in the Pentateuch was written during Israel's wilderness experience, approximately 1445–1405 B.C.

SETTING: The Book of Numbers starts at Mt. Sinai and ends on the plains of Moab. Its narrative picks up where Exodus left off (Ex. 40:34–38; Num. 9:15–23) and connects with Deuteronomy "on this side of the Jordan in the wilderness" (Deut. 1:1).

PURPOSE: Numbers is probably the last book most people would choose for devotional reading. We could also wish for better chronology, more thorough explanations, faster-paced narrative, and less repetition. In addition, the book lacks answers to questions like these: Was the census exact and realistic or expanded to include Israel as the seed for fulfilling God's promise? Why is the climactic wilderness experience the shortest recorded section when it is the longest time period (Num. 14:34—20:21)? Why was Israel so disobedient and their murmuring so incessant when they were being led by a mighty God who had proven His provision and protection time and again? Nevertheless, for any reader willing to put forth some effort in study, Numbers is far from dull.

The apostle Paul gave two reasons that prompt a study of the Book of Numbers: "Now all these things happened to them as examples, and they were written for our admonition" (1 Cor. 10:11); "For whatever things were written before were written for our learning, that we through the patience and comfort of the Scriptures might have hope" (Rom. 15:4).

LITERARY CHARACTERISTICS: Numbers is unusual in its arrangement. The events of organization described in the first six chapters actually took place after the events described later in the book (Num. 7:1—10:10). This arrangement was probably done for emphasis so that the reader would be reminded of the completeness of God's provision as shown again and again during Israel's conquest of the Promised Land.

THEMES

Many contrasting themes are woven throughout Numbers: God's faithfulness and human failures; God's guidance and human stubbornness; God's purpose and human disobedience; God's provision and human complaints; God's holiness and human sinfulness. These themes reflect God's choice to reveal Himself to His people, to show forth His glory. God's twofold plan was to reveal His faithfulness through provision and deliverance and to relate His Law, which prepared Israel to maintain covenant relationship with the Lord and to fulfill the task of being God's people in the midst of an ungodly world.

A key thematic verse is: "Truly, as I live, all the earth shall be filled with the glory of the LORD" (Num. 14:21). God shall be glorified through His creation, for His purpose is to make and bring unto Himself a holy people. Making Israel a holy people was more difficult than bringing them out of Egypt and into the Promised Land because God had given man and woman the power to choose His way or their way (Gen. 2:16, 17; 3:6). Time and again His people chose disobedience rather than obedience, even though God clearly had revealed Himself and His way (see chart, Models of Obedience and Disobedience). This repetitive disobedience is counterbalanced only by God's constant mercy and faithfulness.

OUTLINE

I. Preparing to Leave Sinai (1:1—10:10)
  A. Taking the first census (1:1—4:49)
    1. The numbering "by families" (1:1—2:34)
    2. The duties of the Levites (3:1—4:49)
  B. Receiving cleansing and blessing (5:1—10:10)
    1. Purity and vows (5:1—6:21)
    2. Blessing and offerings (6:22—8:4)
    3. The cleansing of the Levites (8:5–26)
    4. The observance of Passover (9:1–14)
    5. The movement of the camp (9:15—10:10)

II. Wandering in the Wilderness (10:11—20:21)
  A. Order and opposition (10:11—12:16)
    1. Order of the march (10:11–36)
    2. Opposition within the camp (11:1–35)
    3. Opposition within the family (12:1–16)
  B. Rebellion and retribution (13:1—20:21)
    1. The provoking of rebellion (13:1–33)
    2. The requirements of holiness (14:1—16:50)
    3. The vindication of Aaron's house (17:1—18:32)
    4. The provision for purification (19:1–22)
    5. Moses' sin and God's punishment (20:1–21)

III. Making the Journey: Oppositions and Regulations (20:22—36:13)
  A. The route from Kadesh to Moab (20:22—21:35)
    1. Aaron's funeral (20:22–29)
    2. Sin: its consequence and remedy (21:1–9)
    3. Deliverance in battle (21:10–35)
  B. The encounter with Balaam the diviner (22:1—25:18)
    1. A diviner used of God (22:1—24:25)
    2. Judgment because of idolatry (25:1–18)
  C. The preparations to possess the land (26:1—36:13)
    1. The second census (26:1–65)
    2. Daughters and inheritance laws (27:1–11)
    3. Leaders, offerings, and feasts (27:12—29:40)
    4. Vows made by women (30:1–16)
    5. God's vengeance on the Midianites (31:1–54)
    6. Reviewing the journey (32:1—33:56)
    7. Boundaries and cities of refuge (34:1—36:13)

The First Census of Israel

1 Now the LORD spoke to Moses in the Wilderness of Sinai, in the tabernacle of meeting, on the first day of the second month, in the second year after they had come out of the land of Egypt, saying: 2"Take a census of all the congregation of the children of Israel, by their families, by their fathers' houses, according to the number of names, every male individually, 3from twenty years old and above— all who are able to go to war in Israel. You and Aaron shall number them by their armies.
4And with you there shall be a man from every tribe, each one the head of his father's house.

5"These are the names of the men who shall stand with you: from Reuben, Elizur the son of Shedeur; 6from Simeon, Shelumiel the son of Zurishaddai; 7from Judah, Nahshon the son of Am-minadab; 8from Issachar, Nethanel the son of Zuar; 9from Zebulun, Eliab the son of Helon; 10from the sons of Joseph: from Ephraim, Elishama the son of Ammihud; from Manasseh, Gamaliel the son of Pedahzur; 11from Benjamin, Abidan the son of Gideoni; 12from Dan, Ahiezer the son of Am-mishaddai; 13from Asher, Pagiel the son of Ocran; 14from Gad, Eliasaph the son of Deuel;[a] 15from Naphtali, Ahira the son of Enan." 16These were chosen from the congregation, leaders of their fathers' tribes, heads of the divisions in Israel.

17Then Moses and Aaron took these men who had been mentioned by name, 18and they assembled all the congregation together on the first day of the second month; and they recited their ancestry by families, by their fathers' houses, according to the number of names, from twenty years old and above, each one individually. 19As the LORD commanded Moses, so he numbered them in the Wilderness of Sinai.

20Now the children of Reuben, Israel's oldest son, their genealogies by their families, by their fathers' house, according to the number of names, every male individually, from twenty years old and above, all who were able to go to war: 21those who were numbered of the tribe of Reuben were forty-six thousand five hundred.

22From the children of Simeon, their genealogies by their families, by their fathers' house, of those who were numbered, according to the number of names, every male individually, from twenty years old and above, all who were able to go to war:
23those who were numbered of the tribe of Simeon were fifty-nine thousand three hundred.

24From the children of Gad, their genealogies by their families, by their fathers' house, according to the number of names, from twenty years old and above, all who were able to go to war:
25those who were numbered of the tribe of Gad were forty-five thousand six hundred and fifty.

26From the children of Judah, their genealogies
by their families, by their fathers' house, according to the number of names, from twenty years old and above, all who were able to go to war:
27those who were numbered of the tribe of Judah were seventy-four thousand six hundred.

28From the children of Issachar, their genealogies by their families, by their fathers' house, according to the number of names, from twenty years old and above, all who were able to go to war:
29those who were numbered of the tribe of Is-sachar were fifty-four thousand four hundred.

30From the children of Zebulun, their genealogies by their families, by their fathers' house, according to the number of names, from twenty years old and above, all who were able to go to war:
31those who were numbered of the tribe of Zebu-lun were fifty-seven thousand four hundred.

32From the sons of Joseph, the children of Ephraim, their genealogies by their families, by their fathers' house, according to the number of names, from twenty years old and above, all who were able to go to war: 33those who were numbered of the tribe of Ephraim were forty thousand five hundred.

34From the children of Manasseh, their genealogies by their families, by their fathers' house, according to the number of names, from twenty years old and above, all who were able to go

1:14 [a]Spelled Reuel in 2:14

1:1 The setting and time are announced; the main characters are introduced. God spoke to an individual, Moses, in an established place of meeting—the tabernacle—erected one month prior (see Ex. 29:42; 40:17). The Israelites had not left Sinai, but God's place of revelation had moved from the mount to "the wilderness."

1:2 The census was to be done in an orderly manner by family units, not by economic or political groupings. "Fathers' houses" were subdivisions within the tribes. This enrollment was to determine military strength (v. 3). God's purpose for an army was the defense of His people and the future conquest of Canaan.

1:4–17 Each household head was "mentioned by name." This tribal prince would assist in the census. Tribal lineage was through the father.

1:20 The order by which the tribes were listed varies slightly (Num. 1; 2). Reuben, the eldest, was listed first here, but Judah heads the list in the next chapter because his division camped east of the tabernacle and led the march (see Num. 10:14; charts, The Encampment of the Tribes of Israel; Marching Order of the Tribes of Israel). Numbering was done by thousands, hundreds, and fifties as military units. Figures in this census can be compared with an earlier one (Ex. 30:11–16; 38:26) and a later one (Num. 26:1–56). Their purposes differ: The Exodus census was to determine their atonement offering; the first census in Numbers, military strength; the second, land grants.

to war: 35those who were numbered of the tribe of Manasseh were thirty-two thousand two hundred.

36From the children of Benjamin, their genealogies by their families, by their fathers' house, according to the number of names, from twenty years old and above, all who were able to go to war: 37those who were numbered of the tribe of Benjamin were thirty-five thousand four hundred.

38From the children of Dan, their genealogies by their families, by their fathers' house, according to the number of names, from twenty years old and above, all who were able to go to war: 39those who were numbered of the tribe of Dan were sixty-two thousand seven hundred.

40From the children of Asher, their genealogies by their families, by their fathers' house, according to the number of names, from twenty years old and above, all who were able to go to war: 41those who were numbered of the tribe of Asher were forty-one thousand five hundred.

44These are the ones who were numbered, whom Moses and Aaron numbered, with the leaders of Israel, twelve men, each one representing his father's house. 45So all who were numbered of the children of Israel, by their fathers' houses, from twenty years old and above, all who were able to go to war in Israel— 46all who were numbered were six hundred and three thousand five hundred and fifty.

47But the Levites were not numbered among them by their fathers' tribe; 48for the LORD had spoken to Moses, saying: 49"Only the tribe of Levi you shall not number, nor take a census of them among the children of Israel; 50but you shall appoint the Levites over the tabernacle of the Testimony, over all its furnishings, and over all things that belong to it; they shall carry the tabernacle and all its furnishings; they shall attend to it and camp around the tabernacle. 51And when the tabernacle is to go forward, the Levites shall take it down; and when the tabernacle is to be set up, the Levites shall set it up. The outsider who comes near shall be put to death. 52The children of Israel shall pitch their tents, everyone by his own camp, everyone by his own standard, according to their armies; 53but the Levites shall camp around the tabernacle of the Testimony, that there may be no wrath on the congregation of the children of Israel; and the Levites shall keep charge of the tabernacle of the Testimony."

54Thus the children of Israel did; according to all that the LORD commanded Moses, so they did.

The Tribes and Leaders by Armies

2 And the LORD spoke to Moses and Aaron, saying: 2"Everyone of the children of Israel shall camp by his own standard, beside the emblems of his father's house; they shall camp some distance from the tabernacle of meeting. 3On the east side, toward the rising of the sun, those of the standard of the forces with Judah shall camp according to their armies; and Nahshon the son of Amminadab shall be the leader of the children of Judah." 4And his army was numbered at seventy-four thousand six hundred.

5"Those who camp next to him shall be the tribe of Issachar, and Nethanel the son of Zuar shall be the leader of the children of Issachar." 6And his army was numbered at fifty-four thousand four hundred.

7"Then comes the tribe of Zebulun, and Eliab the son of Helon shall be the leader of the children of Zebulun." 8And his army was numbered at fifty-seven thousand four hundred. 9"All who were numbered according to their armies of the forces with Judah, one hundred and eighty-six thousand four hundred— these shall break camp first.

10"On the south side shall be the standard of the

1:46 The Bible records that Jacob entered Egypt with 70 members of his family (Ex. 1:5). According to statistics, if there were 600,000 males, 20 years and older, there would be one million males total and about one million females. Though some question these numbers as unrealistic, such phenomenal growth among the Israelites is not impossible, especially when the miraculous blessing of God upon the people is considered (see Num. 11:21). Though many efforts have been made to explain away the figures, the best approach is to accept the numbers as given.

1:47–54 Exempt from military duty, the Levites would "attend to" the tabernacle diligently as their own possession (v. 50). They camped "around the tabernacle" to prevent desecration of the place that God's glory sanctified (Ex. 29:43; see chart, The Encampment of the Tribes of Israel). Disobedience would incur God's "wrath" (Num. 1:53).

2:2 God organized Israel's encampment with military precision: the 12 tribes formed four large divisions of an army preparing for war against the nations of Canaan. Each tribe knew its position under the unit's "standard" (a large field sign), and all camped in reference to the tabernacle (see chart, The Encampment of the Tribes of Israel). "Some distance" may be one mile (2,000 cubits, Josh. 3:4). The emphasis is that the ark and tabernacle were representations of God's revelation of Himself and thus treated as holy. Jesus Christ is the literal fulfillment of the ark and the tabernacle (John 1:14; see chart, The Plan of the Tabernacle).

2:9 Judah's forces would "break camp first" (see chart, Marching Order of the Tribes of Israel). Although Reuben was the eldest son, Judah had the responsibility for leadership. This position may relate to the blessing given earlier by Jacob (Gen. 49:10) and repeated in Balaam's fourth oracle, which refers to the kings and ultimately to the King of Kings who will come from the tribe of Judah (Num. 24:17).

forces with Reuben according to their armies, and the leader of the children of Reuben shall be Elizur the son of Shedeur." 11And his army was numbered at forty-six thousand five hundred.

12"Those who camp next to him shall be the tribe of Simeon, and the leader of the children of Simeon shall be Shelumiel the son of Zurishaddai." 13And his army was numbered at fifty-nine thousand three hundred.

14"Then comes the tribe of Gad, and the leader of the children of Gad shall be Eliasaph the son of Reuel."[a] 15And his army was numbered at forty-five thousand six hundred and fifty. 16"All who were numbered according to their armies of the forces with Reuben, one hundred and fifty-one thousand four hundred and fifty—they shall be the second to break camp.

17"And the tabernacle of meeting shall move out with the camp of the Levites in the middle of the camps; as they camp, so they shall move out, everyone in his place, by their standards.

18"On the west side shall be the standard of the forces with Ephraim according to their armies, and the leader of the children of Ephraim shall be Elishama the son of Ammihud." 19And his army was numbered at forty thousand five hundred.

20"Next to him comes the tribe of Manasseh, and the leader of the children of Manasseh shall be Gamaliel the son of Pedahzur." 21And his army was numbered at thirty-two thousand two hundred.

22"Then comes the tribe of Benjamin, and the leader of the children of Benjamin shall be Abidan the son of Gideoni." 23And his army was numbered at thirty-five thousand four hundred. 24"All who were numbered according to their armies of the forces with Ephraim, one hundred and eight thousand one hundred—they shall be the third to break camp.

25"The standard of the forces with Dan shall be on the north side according to their armies, and the leader of the children of Dan shall be Ahiezer the son of Ammishaddai." 26And his army was numbered at sixty-two thousand seven hundred.

27"Those who camp next to him shall be the tribe of Asher, and the leader of the children of Asher shall be Pagiel the son of Ocran." 28And his army was numbered at forty-one thousand five hundred.

29"Then comes the tribe of Naphtali, and the leader of the children of Naphtali shall be Ahira the son of Enan." 30And his army was numbered at fifty-three thousand four hundred. 31"All who were numbered of the forces with Dan, one hundred and fifty-seven thousand six hundred—they shall break camp last, with their standards."

32These are the ones who were numbered of the children of Israel by their fathers' houses. All who were numbered according to their armies of the forces were six hundred and three thousand five hundred and fifty. 33But the Levites were not numbered among the children of Israel, just as the LORD commanded Moses.

34Thus the children of Israel did according to all that the LORD commanded Moses; so they camped by their standards and so they broke camp, each one by his family, according to their fathers' houses.

The Sons of Aaron

3 Now these are the records of Aaron and Moses when the LORD spoke with Moses on Mount Sinai. 2And these are the names of the sons of Aaron: Nadab, the firstborn, and Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar. 3These are the names of the sons of Aaron, the anointed priests, whom he consecrated to minister as priests. 4Nadab and Abihu had died before the LORD when they offered profane fire before the LORD in the Wilderness of Sinai; and they had no children. So Eleazar and Ithamar ministered as priests in the presence of Aaron their father.

The Levites Serve in the Tabernacle

5And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: 6"Bring the tribe of Levi near, and present them before Aaron the priest, that they may serve him. 7And they shall attend to his needs and the needs of the whole congregation before the tabernacle of meeting, to do the work of the tabernacle. 8Also they shall attend to all the furnishings of the tabernacle of meeting, and to the needs of the children of Israel, to do the work of the tabernacle. 9And you shall give the Levites to Aaron and his sons; they are given entirely to him[a] from among the children of Israel. 10So you shall appoint Aaron and his sons, and they shall attend to their priesthood; but the outsider who comes near shall be put to death."

11Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: 12"Now behold, I Myself have taken the Levites from among the children of Israel instead of every firstborn who opens the womb among the children of Israel. Therefore the Levites shall be Mine, 13because all the firstborn are Mine. On the day that I struck all the firstborn in the land of Egypt, I sanctified to Myself all the firstborn in Israel, both man and beast. They shall be Mine: I am the LORD."

Census of the Levites Commanded

14Then the LORD spoke to Moses in the Wilderness of Sinai, saying: 15"Number the children of Levi by their fathers' houses, by their families; you shall number every male from a month old and above."

16So Moses numbered them according to the word of the LORD, as he was commanded. 17These were the sons of Levi by their names: Gershon, Kohath, and Merari. 18And these are the names of the sons of Gershon by their families: Libni and Shimei. 19And the sons of Kohath by their families: Amram, Izehar, Hebron, and Uzziel. 20And the sons of Merari by their families: Mahli and Mushi. These are the families of the Levites by their fathers' houses.

21From Gershon came the family of the Libnites and the family of the Shimites; these were the families of the Gershonites. 22Those who were numbered, according to the number of all the males from a month old and above—of those who were numbered there were seven thousand five hundred. 23The families of the Gershonites were to camp behind the tabernacle westward. 24And the leader of the father's house of the Gershonites was Eliasaph the son of Lael. 25The duties of the children of Gershon in the tabernacle of meeting included the tabernacle, the tent with its covering, the screen for the door of the tabernacle of meeting, 26the screen for the door of the court, the hangings of the court which are around the tabernacle and the altar, and their cords, according to all the work relating to them.

27From Kohath came the family of the Amramites, the family of the Izharites, the family of the Hebronites, and the family of the Uzzielites; these were the families of the Kohathites. 28According to the number of all the males, from a month old and above, there were eight thousand six[a] hundred keeping charge of the sanctuary.

3:9 [a]Samaritan Pentateuch and Septuagint read Me. 3:28 [a]Some manuscripts of the Septuagint read three.

3:1–4 These records established the line of priests, explaining why Eleazar and Ithamar, and not their older brothers, were ordained for priesthood. This was no casual appointment: God had an order for worship. When Nadab and Abihu offered alien or unauthorized fire, God smote them with fire, leaving them without heirs (see Ex. 30:9). To be barren was a reproach to women, and to die childless was a judgment upon these two men whose sons would have succeeded them as priests (see 1 Sam. 1:6, note).

3:11–13 God adopted the whole tribe of Levi as His own; they belonged to Him. The "firstborn in Israel" were to be consecrated to the Lord. Here He is putting the entire tribe of Levi in that place (see v. 41).

3:14, 15 A separate census was taken among the Levites, beginning the count at "a month old," the age at which the firstborn was to be given to the Lord or "redeemed" (vv. 15, 40, 43; Num. 18:16).

29The families of the children of Kohath were to camp on the south side of the tabernacle. 30And the leader of the fathers' house of the families of the Kohathites was Elizaphan the son of Uzziel.
31Their duty included the ark, the table, the lamp-stand, the altars, the utensils of the sanctuary with which they ministered, the screen, and all the work relating to them.

32And Eleazar the son of Aaron the priest was to be chief over the leaders of the Levites, with oversight of those who kept charge of the sanctuary.

33From Merari came the family of the Mahlites and the family of the Mushites; these were the families of Merari. 34And those who were numbered, according to the number of all the males from a month old and above, were six thousand two hundred. 35The leader of the fathers' house of the families of Merari was Zuriel the son of Abihail. These were to camp on the north side of the tabernacle. 36And the appointed duty of the children of Merari included the boards of the tabernacle, its bars, its pillars, its sockets, its utensils, all the work relating to them, 37and the pillars of the court all around, with their sockets, their pegs, and their cords.

38Moreover those who were to camp before the tabernacle on the east, before the tabernacle of meeting, were Moses, Aaron, and his sons, keeping charge of the sanctuary, to meet the needs of the children of Israel; but the outsider who came near was to be put to death. 39All who were numbered of the Levites, whom Moses and Aaron numbered at the commandment of the LORD, by their families, all the males from a month old and above, were twenty-two thousand.

Levites Dedicated Instead of the Firstborn

40Then the LORD said to Moses: "Number all the firstborn males of the children of Israel from a month old and above, and take the number of their names. 41And you shall take the Levites for Me—I am the LORD—instead of all the firstborn among the children of Israel, and the livestock of the Levites instead of all the firstborn among the livestock of the children of Israel." 42So Moses numbered all the firstborn among the children of Israel, as the LORD commanded him. 43And all the firstborn males, according to the number of names from a month old and above, of those who were numbered of them, were twenty-two thousand two hundred and seventy-three.

44Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying:
45"Take the Levites instead of all the firstborn among the children of Israel, and the livestock of the Levites instead of their livestock. The Levites shall be Mine: I am the LORD. 46And for the redemption of the two hundred and seventy-three of the firstborn of the children of Israel, who are more than the number of the Levites, 47you shall take five shekels for each one individually; you shall take them in the currency of the shekel of the sanctuary, the shekel of twenty gerahs. 48And you shall give the money, with which the excess number of them is redeemed, to Aaron and his sons."

49So Moses took the redemption money from those who were over and above those who were redeemed by the Levites. 50From the firstborn of the children of Israel he took the money, one thousand three hundred and sixty-five shekels, according to the shekel of the sanctuary. 51And Moses gave their redemption money to Aaron and his sons, according to the word of the LORD, as the LORD commanded Moses.

Duties of the Sons of Kohath

4 Then the LORD spoke to Moses and Aaron, saying: 2"Take a census of the sons of Kohath from among the children of Levi, by their families, by their fathers' house, 3from thirty years old and above, even to fifty years old, all who enter the service to do the work in the tabernacle of meeting.

4"This is the service of the sons of Kohath in the tabernacle of meeting, relating to the most holy things: 5When the camp prepares to journey, Aaron and his sons shall come, and they shall take down the covering veil and cover the ark of the Testimony with it. 6Then they shall put on it a covering of badger skins, and spread over that a cloth entirely of blue; and they shall insert its poles.

7"On the table of showbread they shall spread a blue cloth, and put on it the dishes, the pans, the bowls, and the pitchers for pouring; and the showbread[a] shall be on it. 8They shall spread over them a scarlet cloth, and cover the same with a covering of badger skins; and they shall insert its poles. 9And they shall take a blue cloth and cover the lampstand of the light, with its lamps, its wick-trimmers, its trays, and all its oil vessels, with 4:7 [a]Literally the continual bread

3:46–51 The sanctuary shekel, mentioned first in Exodus 30:13, was used to redeem or buy back each Israelite firstborn after the number of firstborn exceeded the number of Levites. The amount of "five shekels" probably represented about six months of salary for the average worker (see chart, Money and Measurements in the Bible). For women, the story of Ruth and Boaz gives special meaning to redemption (see Ruth 4). Ultimately, Christ is the only satisfactory redemption price for every person.

4:7 Whether the Israelites were camped or marching, the "showbread" was never moved from the table until it was renewed every Sabbath (Lev. 24:8; see chart, The Furniture of the Tabernacle).

which they service it. 10Then they shall put it with all its utensils in a covering of badger skins, and put it on a carrying beam.

11"Over the golden altar they shall spread a blue cloth, and cover it with a covering of badger skins; and they shall insert its poles. 12Then they shall take all the utensils of service with which they minister in the sanctuary, put them in a blue cloth, cover them with a covering of badger skins, and put them on a carrying beam. 13Also they shall take away the ashes from the altar, and spread a purple cloth over it. 14They shall put on it all its implements with which they minister there—the firepans, the forks, the shovels, the basins, and all the utensils of the altar—and they shall spread on it a covering of badger skins, and insert its poles. 15And when Aaron and his sons have finished covering the sanctuary and all the furnishings of the sanctuary, when the camp is set to go, then the sons of Kohath shall come to carry them; but they shall not touch any holy thing, lest they die.

"These are the things in the tabernacle of meeting which the sons of Kohath are to carry.

16"The appointed duty of Eleazar the son of Aaron the priest is the oil for the light, the sweet incense, the daily grain offering, the anointing oil, the oversight of all the tabernacle, of all that is in it, with the sanctuary and its furnishings."

17Then the LORD spoke to Moses and Aaron, saying: 18"Do not cut off the tribe of the families of the Kohathites from among the Levites; 19but do this in regard to them, that they may live and not die when they approach the most holy things: Aaron and his sons shall go in and appoint each of them to his service and his task. 20But they shall not go in to watch while the holy things are being covered, lest they die."

Duties of the Sons of Gershon

21Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: 22"Also take a census of the sons of Gershon, by their fathers' house, by their families. 23From thirty years old and above, even to fifty years old, you shall number them, all who enter to perform the service, to do the work in the tabernacle of meeting. 24This is the service of the families of the Gershonites, in serving and carrying: 25They shall carry the curtains of the tabernacle and the tabernacle of meeting with its covering, the covering of badger skins that is on it, the screen for the door of the tabernacle of meeting, 26the screen for the door of the gate of the court, the hangings of the court which are around the tabernacle and altar, and their cords, all the furnishings for their service and all that is made for these things: so shall they serve.

27"Aaron and his sons shall assign all the service of the sons of the Gershonites, all their tasks and all their service. And you shall appoint to them all their tasks as their duty. 28This is the service of the families of the sons of Gershon in the tabernacle of meeting. And their duties shall be under the authority[a] of Ithamar the son of Aaron the priest.

Duties of the Sons of Merari

29"As for the sons of Merari, you shall number them by their families and by their fathers' house. 30From thirty years old and above, even to fifty years old, you shall number them, everyone who enters the service to do the work of the tabernacle of meeting. 31And this is what they must carry as all their service for the tabernacle of meeting: the boards of the tabernacle, its bars, its pillars, its sockets, 32and the pillars around the court with their sockets, pegs, and cords, with all their furnishings and all their service; and you shall assign to each man by name the items he must carry. 33This is the service of the families of the sons of Merari, as all their service for the tabernacle of meeting, under the authority[a] of Ithamar the son of Aaron the priest."

Census of the Levites

34And Moses, Aaron, and the leaders of the congregation numbered the sons of the Kohathites by their families and by their fathers' house, 35from thirty years old and above, even to fifty years old, everyone who entered the service for work in the tabernacle of meeting; 36and those who were numbered by their families were two thousand seven hundred and fifty. 37These were the ones who were numbered of the families of the Kohathites, all who might serve in the tabernacle of meeting, whom Moses and Aaron numbered according to the commandment of the LORD by the hand of Moses.

38And those who were numbered of the sons of Gershon, by their families and by their fathers' house, 39from thirty years old and above, even to fifty years old, everyone who entered the service for work in the tabernacle of meeting— 40those who were numbered by their families, by their fathers' house, were two thousand six hundred and thirty. 41These are the ones who were numbered of the families of the sons of Gershon, of all who might serve in the tabernacle of meeting, whom Moses and Aaron numbered according to the commandment of the LORD.

42Those of the families of the sons of Merari who were numbered, by their families, by their fathers' house, 43from thirty years old and above, even to fifty years old, everyone who entered the service for work in the tabernacle of meeting— 44those who were numbered by their families were three thousand two hundred. 45These are the ones who were numbered of the families of the sons of Merari, whom Moses and Aaron numbered according to the word of the LORD by the hand of Moses.

46All who were numbered of the Levites, whom Moses, Aaron, and the leaders of Israel numbered, by their families and by their fathers' houses, 47from thirty years old and above, even to fifty years old, everyone who came to do the work of service and the work of bearing burdens in the tabernacle of meeting— 48those who were numbered were eight thousand five hundred and eighty.
49According to the commandment of the LORD they were numbered by the hand of Moses, each according to his service and according to his task; thus were they numbered by him, as the LORD commanded Moses.

Ceremonially Unclean Persons Isolated

5 And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: 2"Command the children of Israel that they put out of the camp every leper, everyone who has a discharge, and whoever becomes defiled by a corpse. 3You shall put out both male and female; you shall put them outside the camp, that they may not defile their camps in the midst of which I dwell." 4And the children of Israel did so, and put them outside the camp; as the LORD spoke to Moses, so the children of Israel did.

Confession and Restitution

5Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 6"Speak to the children of Israel: 'When a man or woman commits any sin that men commit in unfaithfulness against the LORD, and that person is guilty, 7then he shall confess the sin which he has committed. He shall make restitution for his trespass in full, plus one-fifth of it, and give it to the one he has wronged. 8But if the man has no relative to whom restitution may be made for the wrong, the restitution for the wrong must go to the LORD for the priest, in addition to the ram of the atonement with which atonement is made for him. 9Every offering of all the holy things of the children of Israel, which they bring to the priest, shall be his. 10And every man's holy things shall be his; whatever any man gives the priest shall be his.' "

Concerning Unfaithful Wives

11And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 12"Speak to the children of Israel, and say to them: 'If any man's wife goes astray and behaves unfaithfully toward him, 13and a man lies with her carnally, and it is hidden from the eyes of her husband, and it is concealed that she has defiled herself, and there was no witness against her, nor was she caught— 14if the spirit of jealousy comes upon him and he becomes jealous of his wife, who has defiled herself; or if the spirit of jealousy comes upon him and he becomes jealous of his wife, although she has not defiled herself— 15then the man shall bring his wife to the priest. He shall bring the offering required for her, one-tenth of an ephah of barley meal; he shall pour no oil on it and put no frankincense on it, because it is a grain offering of jealousy, an offering for remembering, for bringing iniquity to remembrance.
16'And the priest shall bring her near, and set her before the LORD. 17The priest shall take holy water in an earthen vessel, and take some of the dust that is on the floor of the tabernacle and put it into the water. 18Then the priest shall stand the woman before the LORD, uncover the woman's

4:49 Each closing verse of chapters 1—4 refers to God's command and Israel's obedience. God assigned tasks for assembling and dismantling the tabernacle both to family groups and to individuals, each doing his assignment for the effectiveness of the whole. This concept is seen in Paul's analogy of the body and the church (1 Cor. 12:12–31).

5:5–10 The sin of theft or vandalism required full restitution of what was taken plus 20 percent for the wronged party or relative (v. 7). When no relatives existed, payment along with atonement went to the priests, God's representatives, as a step in restoring broken fellowship with the Lord (v. 8).

5:15 Various interpretations have been given for the use of barley meal rather than the usual meal-offering of fine wheat flour. While barley was fodder for animals, the wife was not associated with a beast. The sacrifice was only for suspicion of a violation since her guilt had not been proven. Barley meal was used more often by the poor without oil or frankincense mixed with it. The latter were commonly associated with God and prayer. The object of the procedure was to confirm or disprove grounds for the husband's jealousy.

5:18 Bitter water was described as "holy water" (v. 17) because it had been dedicated to God. The water probably was taken from the bronze laver, which held water for ritual cleansing in the tabernacle (see chart, The Furniture of the Tabernacle), and then it was mixed with dust from the tabernacle floor (v. 17), which was also considered holy because it had been in God's presence. The mixture was not done in a special vessel used in worship but in a common earthen vessel (v. 17). The emphasis is not on the taste of the water but on its potential to bear a bitter curse. The exact meaning of uncovering the head, and put the offering for remembering in her hands, which is the grain offering of jealousy. And the priest shall have in his hand the bitter water that brings a curse. 19And the priest shall put her under oath, and say to the woman, "If no man has lain with you, and if you have not gone astray to uncleanness while under your husband's authority, be free from this bitter water that brings a curse. 20But if you have gone astray while under your husband's authority, and if you have defiled yourself and some man other than your husband has lain with you"— 21then the priest shall put the woman under the oath of the curse, and he shall say to the woman—"the LORD make you a curse and an oath among your people, when the LORD makes your thigh rot and your belly swell; 22and may this water that causes the curse go into your stomach, and make your belly swell and your thigh rot."

'Then the woman shall say, "Amen, so be it."

23'Then the priest shall write these curses in a book, and he shall scrape them off into the bitter water. 24And he shall make the woman drink the bitter water that brings a curse, and the water that brings the curse shall enter her to become bitter. 25Then the priest shall take the grain offering of jealousy from the woman's hand, shall wave the offering before the LORD, and bring it to the altar; 26and the priest shall take a handful of the offering, as its memorial portion, burn it on the altar, and afterward make the woman drink the water. 27When he has made her drink the water, then it shall be, if she has defiled herself and behaved unfaithfully toward her husband, that the water that brings a curse will enter her and become bitter, and her belly will swell, her thigh will rot, and the woman will become a curse among her people. 28But if the woman has not defiled herself, and is clean, then she shall be free and may conceive children.

29'This is the law of jealousy, when a wife, while under her husband's authority, goes astray and defiles herself, 30or when the spirit of jealousy comes upon a man, and he becomes jealous of his wife; then he shall stand the woman before the LORD, and the priest shall execute all this law upon her. 31Then the man shall be free from iniquity, but that woman shall bear her guilt.' "

The Law of the Nazirite

6 Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 2"Speak to the children of Israel, and say to them: 'When either a man or woman consecrates an offering to take the vow of a Nazirite, to separate himself to the LORD, 3he shall separate himself from wine and similar drink; he shall drink neither vinegar made from wine nor vinegar made from similar drink; neither shall he drink any grape juice, nor eat fresh grapes or raisins. 4All the days of his separation he shall eat nothing that is produced by the grapevine, from seed to skin.

5'All the days of the vow of his separation no razor shall come upon his head; until the days are fulfilled for which he separated himself to the LORD, he shall be holy. Then he shall let the locks of the hair of his head grow. 6All the days that he separates himself to the LORD he shall not go near a dead body. 7He shall not make himself unclean even for his father or his mother, for his brother or his sister, when they die, because his separation to God is on his head. 8All the days of his separation he shall be holy to the LORD.

9'And if anyone dies very suddenly beside him, and he defiles his consecrated head, then he shall shave his head on the day of his cleansing; on the woman's head is not clear (see chart, Head Coverings for Women). The unbinding of hair could merely be a sign of openness on her part before the Lord and the people, or more likely the loosely hanging hair was a sign of mourning, meaning here that, if guilty, she would be in mourning (Lev. 10:6; 13:45; 21:10). The unbound hair could also be a sign of uncleanness or a sign of shame. This "bitter water" would act as poison to bring harm to the guilty; or again, if guilty, the woman's life would be made bitter by the "holy water."

5:19, 20 The phrase under her husband refers to their mutual commitment. This "law of jealousy" (v. 29) was important because of its association with the covenant relationship between God and His people and the faithfulness required of both relationships.

5:27, 28 Punishment for guilt, when taken in context, was probably related to sterility or miscarriage and the blessing of innocence to conception and fruitfulness.

5:30, 31 The woman suffered, whether guilty or innocent, because of the stigma of any trial.

6:1, 2 In biblical usage, vows were only made to a deity. This passage is one of only two references in which a person is dedicated to the Lord by a vow (see Lev. 27:1–8; Num. 30, Vows). The Nazirite vow was a dedication of the individual to God and could be made voluntarily by a man or woman. The terms could be for a limited time or for life, with positive and negative aspects of separation. First, the positive is stated: separation "to the Lord," a phrase repeated nine times in this chapter.

6:3–8 Restrictions were also part of the Nazirite's separation:

1) not eating or drinking the fruit of the vine, whether wine, vinegar, or juice (a greater restriction than for priests; see Lev. 10:9);
2) not cutting the hair, which was recognized as an outward sign of consecration;
3) not touching a corpse, even of a family member.

6:9–12 Although God did not require the vow, He did not take it lightly when a vow was broken. Therefore, if a Nazirite accidently had contact with death, cleansing through atonement must be made with proper offerings.

seventh day he shall shave it. [10]Then on the eighth day he shall bring two turtledoves or two young pigeons to the priest, to the door of the tabernacle of meeting; [11]and the priest shall offer one as a sin offering and the other as a burnt offering, and make atonement for him, because he sinned in regard to the corpse; and he shall sanctify his head that same day. [12]He shall consecrate to the LORD the days of his separation, and bring a male lamb in its first year as a trespass offering; but the former days shall be lost, because his separation was defiled.

[13]"Now this is the law of the Nazirite: When the days of his separation are fulfilled, he shall be brought to the door of the tabernacle of meeting. [14]And he shall present his offering to the LORD: one male lamb in its first year without blemish as a burnt offering, one ewe lamb in its first year without blemish as a sin offering, one ram without blemish as a peace offering, [15]a basket of unleavened bread, cakes of fine flour mixed with oil, unleavened wafers anointed with oil, and their grain offering with their drink offerings.

[16]"Then the priest shall bring them before the LORD and offer his sin offering and his burnt offering; [17]and he shall offer the ram as a sacrifice of a peace offering to the LORD, with the basket of unleavened bread; the priest shall also offer its grain offering and its drink offering. [18]Then the Nazirite shall shave his consecrated head at the door of the tabernacle of meeting, and shall take the hair from his consecrated head and put it on the fire which is under the sacrifice of the peace offering.

[19]"And the priest shall take the boiled shoulder of the ram, one unleavened cake from the basket, and one unleavened wafer, and put them upon the hands of the Nazirite after he has shaved his consecrated hair; [20]and the priest shall wave them as a wave offering before the LORD; they are holy for the priest, together with the breast of the wave offering and the thigh of the heave offering. After that the Nazirite may drink wine.'

[21]"This is the law of the Nazirite who vows to the LORD the offering for his separation, and besides that, whatever else his hand is able to provide; according to the vow which he takes, so he must do according to the law of his separation."

The Priestly Blessing

[22]And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: [23]"Speak to Aaron and his sons, saying, 'This is the way you shall bless the children of Israel. Say to them:

[24]"The LORD bless you and keep you;
[25]The LORD make His face shine upon you,
And be gracious to you;
[26]The LORD lift up His countenance upon you,
And give you peace." '

[27]"So they shall put My name on the children of Israel, and I will bless them."

Offerings of the Leaders

7 Now it came to pass, when Moses had finished setting up the tabernacle, that he anointed it and consecrated it and all its furnishings, and the altar and all its utensils; so he anointed them and consecrated them. [2]Then the leaders of Israel, the heads of their fathers' houses, who were the leaders of the tribes and over those who were numbered, made an offering. [3]And they brought their offering before the LORD, six covered carts and twelve oxen, a cart for every two of the leaders, and for each one an ox; and they presented them before the tabernacle.

[4]Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, [5]"Accept these from them, that they may be used in doing the work of the tabernacle of meeting; and you shall give them to the Levites, to every man according to his service." [6]So Moses took the carts and the oxen, and gave them to the Levites. [7]Two carts and four oxen he gave to the sons of Gershon, according to their service; [8]and four carts and eight oxen he gave to the sons of Merari, according to their service, under the authority[a] of Ithamar the son of Aaron the priest. [9]But to the sons of Kohath he gave none, because theirs was the service of the holy things, which they carried on their shoulders.

[10]Now the leaders offered the dedication offering for the altar when it was anointed; so the leaders offered their offering before the altar. [11]For

7:8 [a]Literally hand

6:18 Shaving the head meant the Nazirite was released from his vow, free to resume former practices or to make another vow (vv. 19, 20).

6:22–27 Only when the camp was in order and they were prepared for the march did God give His blessing of protection, presence, and peace through this benediction that was pronounced by the priests. By this blessing, God linked His name—that is, His character—with the people of Israel (vv. 24–26).

7:1 Anointing to signify separation unto God was given to the "furnishings" as well as to the priests who performed the tabernacle service. These objects of worship were no longer for "common" use, but were "holy" and set apart for God (see Ex. 40:9, 10).

7:10 Offerings (vv. 10–83). The 12 tribal leaders, each listed by name, presented 12 identical offerings, each recorded separately, each of equal value, given on 12 successive days (v. 11). God was pleased with these gifts as expressions of worship from their glad hearts.

the LORD said to Moses, "They shall offer their offering, one leader each day, for the dedication of the altar."

12And the one who offered his offering on the first day was Nahshon the son of Amminadab, from the tribe of Judah. 13His offering was one silver platter, the weight of which was one hundred and thirty shekels, and one silver bowl of seventy shekels, according to the shekel of the sanctuary, both of them full of fine flour mixed with oil as a grain offering; 14one gold pan of ten shekels, full of incense; 15one young bull, one ram, and one male lamb in its first year, as a burnt offering; 16one kid of the goats as a sin offering; 17and for the sacrifice of peace offerings: two oxen, five rams, five male goats, and five male lambs in their first year. This was the offering of Nahshon the son of Amminadab.

36On the fifth day Shelumiel the son of Zurishaddai, leader of the children of Simeon, presented an offering. 37His offering was one silver platter, the weight of which was one hundred and thirty shekels, and one silver bowl of seventy shekels, according to the shekel of the sanctuary, both of them full of fine flour mixed with oil as a grain offering; 38one gold pan of ten shekels, full of incense; 39one young bull, one ram, and one male lamb in its first year, as a burnt offering; 40one kid of the goats as a sin offering; 41and as the sacrifice of peace offerings: two oxen, five rams, five male goats, and five male lambs in their first year. This was the offering of Shelumiel the son of Zurishaddai.

42On the sixth day Eliasaph the son of Deuel,[a] leader of the children of Gad, presented an offering. 43His offering was one silver platter, the weight of which was one hundred and thirty shekels, and one silver bowl of seventy shekels, according to the shekel of the sanctuary, both of them full of fine flour mixed with oil as a grain offering; 44one gold pan of ten shekels, full of incense; 45one young bull, one ram, and one male lamb in its first year, as a burnt offering; 46one kid of the goats as a sin offering; 47and as the sacrifice of peace offerings: two oxen, five rams, five male goats, and five male lambs in their first year. This was the offering of Eliasaph the son of Deuel.

48On the seventh day Elishama the son of Ammihud, leader of the children of Ephraim, presented an offering. 49His offering was one silver platter, the weight of which was one hundred and thirty shekels, and one silver bowl of seventy shekels, according to the shekel of the sanctuary, both of them full of fine flour mixed with oil as a grain offering; 50one gold pan of ten shekels, full of incense; 51one young bull, one ram, and one male lamb in its first year, as a burnt offering; 52one kid of the goats as a sin offering; 53and as the sacrifice of peace offerings: two oxen, five rams, five male goats, and five male lambs in their first year. This was the offering of Elishama the son of Ammihud.

54On the eighth day Gamaliel the son of Pedahzur, leader of the children of Manasseh, presented an offering. 55His offering was one silver platter, the weight of which was one hundred and thirty shekels, and one silver bowl of seventy shekels, according to the shekel of the sanctuary, both of them full of fine flour mixed with oil as a grain offering; [56]one gold pan of ten shekels, full of incense; [57]one young bull, one ram, and one male lamb in its first year, as a burnt offering; [58]one kid of the goats as a sin offering; [59]and as the sacrifice of peace offerings: two oxen, five rams, five male goats, and five male lambs in their first year. This was the offering of Gamaliel the son of Pedahzur.

[60]On the ninth day Abidan the son of Gideoni, leader of the children of Benjamin, presented an offering. [61]His offering was one silver platter, the weight of which was one hundred and thirty shekels, and one silver bowl of seventy shekels, according to the shekel of the sanctuary, both of them full of fine flour mixed with oil as a grain offering; [62]one gold pan of ten shekels, full of incense; [63]one young bull, one ram, and one male lamb in its first year, as a burnt offering; [64]one kid of the goats as a sin offering; [65]and as the sacrifice of peace offerings: two oxen, five rams, five male goats, and five male lambs in their first year. This was the offering of Abidan the son of Gideoni.

[66]On the tenth day Ahiezer the son of Ammishaddai, leader of the children of Dan, presented an offering. [67]His offering was one silver platter, the weight of which was one hundred and thirty shekels, and one silver bowl of seventy shekels, according to the shekel of the sanctuary, both of them full of fine flour mixed with oil as a grain offering; [68]one gold pan of ten shekels, full of incense; [69]one young bull, one ram, and one male lamb in its first year, as a burnt offering; [70]one kid of the goats as a sin offering; [71]and as the sacrifice of peace offerings: two oxen, five rams, five male goats, and five male lambs in their first year. This was the offering of Ahiezer the son of Ammishaddai.

[72]On the eleventh day Pagiel the son of Ocran, leader of the children of Asher, presented an offering. [73]His offering was one silver platter, the weight of which was one hundred and thirty shekels, and one silver bowl of seventy shekels, according to the shekel of the sanctuary, both of them full of fine flour mixed with oil as a grain offering; [74]one gold pan of ten shekels, full of incense; [75]one young bull, one ram, and one male lamb in its first year, as a burnt offering; [76]one kid of the goats as a sin offering; [77]and as the sacrifice of peace offerings: two oxen, five rams, five male goats, and five male lambs in their first year. This was the offering of Pagiel the son of Ocran.

[84]This was the dedication offering for the altar from the leaders of Israel, when it was anointed: twelve silver platters, twelve silver bowls, and twelve gold pans. [85]Each silver platter weighed one hundred and thirty shekels and each bowl seventy shekels. All the silver of the vessels weighed two thousand four hundred shekels, according to the shekel of the sanctuary. [86]The twelve gold pans full of incense weighed ten shekels apiece, according to the shekel of the sanctuary; all the gold of the pans weighed one hundred and twenty shekels. [87]All the oxen for the burnt offering were twelve young bulls, the rams twelve, the male lambs in their first year twelve, with their grain offering, and the kids of the goats as a sin offering twelve. [88]And all the oxen for the sacrifice of peace offerings were twenty-four bulls, the rams sixty, the male goats sixty, and the lambs in their first year sixty. This was the dedication offering for the altar after it was anointed.

[89]Now when Moses went into the tabernacle of meeting to speak with Him, he heard the voice of One speaking to him from above the mercy seat that was on the ark of the Testimony, from between the two cherubim; thus He spoke to him.

Arrangement of the Lamps

8 And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: [2]"Speak to Aaron, and say to him, 'When you arrange the lamps, the seven lamps shall give light in front of the lampstand.'" [3]And Aaron did so; he arranged the lamps to face toward the front of the lampstand, as the LORD commanded Moses. 4Now this workmanship of the lampstand was hammered gold; from its shaft to its flowers it was hammered work. According to the pattern which the LORD had shown Moses, so he made the lampstand.

Cleansing and Dedication of the Levites

5Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: 6"Take the Levites from among the children of Israel and cleanse them ceremonially. 7Thus you shall do to them to cleanse them: Sprinkle water of purification on them, and let them shave all their body, and let them wash their clothes, and so make themselves clean. 8Then let them take a young bull with its grain offering of fine flour mixed with oil, and you shall take another young bull as a sin offering. 9And you shall bring the Levites before the tabernacle of meeting, and you shall gather together the whole congregation of the children of Israel. 10So you shall bring the Levites before the LORD, and the children of Israel shall lay their hands on the Levites; 11and Aaron shall offer the Levites before the LORD like a wave offering from the children of Israel, that they may perform the work of the LORD. 12Then the Levites shall lay their hands on the heads of the young bulls, and you shall offer one as a sin offering and the other as a burnt offering to the LORD, to make atonement for the Levites.

13"And you shall stand the Levites before Aaron and his sons, and then offer them like a wave offering to the LORD. 14Thus you shall separate the Levites from among the children of Israel, and the Levites shall be Mine. 15After that the Levites shall go in to service the tabernacle of meeting. So you shall cleanse them and offer them like a wave offering. 16For they are wholly given to Me from among the children of Israel; I have taken them for Myself instead of all who open the womb, the firstborn of all the children of Israel. 17For all the firstborn among the children of Israel are Mine, both man and beast; on the day that I struck all the firstborn in the land of Egypt I sanctified them to Myself. 18I have taken the Levites instead of all the firstborn of the children of Israel. 19And I have given the Levites as a gift to Aaron and his sons from among the children of Israel, to do the work for the children of Israel in the tabernacle of meeting, and to make atonement for the children of Israel, that there be no plague among the children of Israel when the children of Israel come near the sanctuary."

20Thus Moses and Aaron and all the congregation of the children of Israel did to the Levites; according to all that the LORD commanded Moses concerning the Levites, so the children of Israel did to them. 21And the Levites purified themselves and washed their clothes; then Aaron presented them like a wave offering before the LORD, and Aaron made atonement for them to cleanse them. 22After that the Levites went in to do their work in the tabernacle of meeting before Aaron and his sons; as the LORD commanded Moses concerning the Levites, so they did to them.

23Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 24"This is what pertains to the Levites: From twenty-five years old and above one may enter to perform service in the work of the tabernacle of meeting; 25and at the age of fifty years they must cease performing this work, and shall work no more. 26They may minister with their brethren in the tabernacle of meeting, to attend to needs, but they themselves shall do no work. Thus you shall do to the Levites regarding their duties."

The Second Passover

9 Now the LORD spoke to Moses in the Wilderness of Sinai, in the first month of the second year after they had come out of the land of Egypt, saying: 2"Let the children of Israel keep the Passover at its appointed time. 3On the fourteenth day of this month, at twilight, you shall keep it at its appointed time. According to all its rites and ceremonies you shall keep it." 4So Moses told the children of Israel that they should keep the Passover. 5And they kept the Passover on the fourteenth day of the first month, at twilight, in the Wilderness of Sinai; according to all that the LORD commanded Moses, so the children of Israel did.

6Now there were certain men who were defiled

8:7 Preparation for worship was customary in order to prepare the Levites to come close to holy objects and God Himself. There were three steps: sprinkling with "water of purification," shaving themselves completely, and washing their clothes. This procedure was similar to the cleansing required by lepers (see Ex. 19:10, 11; Lev. 14:8, 9; 2 Chr. 30:13–27).

8:11 The Levites were symbolically offered to the Lord with thanksgiving and praise. The Israelites had every reason to thank God for the Levites who would make possible their access to God by making atonement for them in the tabernacle (v. 19).

8:16 Firstborn is generally restricted in the Pentateuch to identify the firstborn son (Ex. 13:13). If "all who open the womb" and "firstborn" were meant to be equivalent, then daughters would be included. In any case, the Levites have been chosen by God to be substitutes for the firstborn of Israel (Num. 8:17, 18).

8:24 The work of the tabernacle required vigor. Here age 25 is the starting point; whereas elsewhere it is set at 30 (Num. 4:3) and later by David at 20 (1 Chr. 23:27).

9:1 God appointed a time for observance of the Passover in order to remember their deliverance from Egypt through the blood of the slain lamb, the mark of God's covenant with His people. Christ is the door of the New Covenant, marked with His own blood, which was shed for our deliverance from sin (John 10:9).

9:6–14 Although these men knew that they could not participate in the Passover observance, they asked why they could

by a human corpse, so that they could not keep the Passover on that day; and they came before Moses and Aaron that day. 7And those men said to him, "We became defiled by a human corpse. Why are we kept from presenting the offering of the LORD at its appointed time among the children of Israel?"

8And Moses said to them, "Stand still, that I may hear what the LORD will command concerning you."

9Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 10"Speak to the children of Israel, saying: 'If anyone of you or your posterity is unclean because of a corpse, or is far away on a journey, he may still keep the LORD's Passover. 11On the fourteenth day of the second month, at twilight, they may keep it. They shall eat it with unleavened bread and bitter herbs. 12They shall leave none of it until morning, nor break one of its bones. According to all the ordinances of the Passover they shall keep it. 13But the man who is clean and is not on a journey, and ceases to keep the Passover, that same person shall be cut off from among his people, because he did not bring the offering of the LORD at its appointed time; that man shall bear his sin.

14'And if a stranger dwells among you, and would keep the LORD's Passover, he must do so according to the rite of the Passover and according to its ceremony; you shall have one ordinance, both for the stranger and the native of the land.' "

The Cloud and the Fire

15Now on the day that the tabernacle was raised up, the cloud covered the tabernacle, the tent of the Testimony; from evening until morning it was above the tabernacle like the appearance of fire. 16So it was always: the cloud covered it by day, and the appearance of fire by night. 17Whenever the cloud was taken up from above the tabernacle, after that the children of Israel would journey; and in the place where the cloud settled, there the children of Israel would pitch their tents. 18At the command of the LORD the children of Israel would journey, and at the command of the LORD they would camp; as long as the cloud stayed above the tabernacle they remained encamped. 19Even when the cloud continued long, many days above the tabernacle, the children of Israel kept the charge of the LORD and did not journey. 20So it was, when the cloud was above the tabernacle a few days: according to the command of the LORD they would remain encamped, and according to the command of the LORD they would journey. 21So it was, when the cloud remained only from evening until morning: when the cloud was taken up in the morning, then they would journey; whether by day or by night, whenever the cloud was taken up, they would journey. 22*Whether it was* two days, a month, or a year that the cloud remained above the tabernacle, the children of Israel would remain encamped and not journey; but when it was taken up, they would journey. 23At the command of the LORD they remained encamped, and at the command of the LORD they journeyed; they kept the charge of the LORD, at the command of the LORD by the hand of Moses.

Two Silver Trumpets

10 And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: 2"Make two silver trumpets for yourself; you shall make them of hammered work; you shall use them for calling the congregation and for directing the movement of the camps. 3When they blow both of them, all the congregation shall gather before you at the door of the tabernacle of meeting. 4But if they blow only one, then the leaders, the heads of the divisions of Israel, shall gather to you. 5When you sound the advance, the camps that lie on the east side shall then begin their journey. 6When you sound the advance the second time, then the camps that lie on the south side shall begin their journey; they shall sound the call for them to begin their journeys. 7And when the assembly is to be gathered together, you shall blow, but not sound the advance. 8The sons of Aaron, the priests, shall blow the trumpets; and these shall be to you as an ordinance forever throughout your generations.

9"When you go to war in your land against the enemy who oppresses you, then you shall sound an alarm with the trumpets, and you will be remembered before the LORD your God, and you will be saved from your enemies. 10Also in the day of your gladness, in your appointed feasts, and at the beginning of your months, you shall blow the trumpets over your burnt offerings and over the sacrifices of your peace offerings; and they shall be a memorial for you before your God: I am the LORD your God."

not. Moses brought the matter to the Lord. The solution was to allow the men to celebrate the Passover one month later, giving time for their purification. The solution made no provision for those who failed to celebrate the Passover without cause, but it did make provision for circumcised strangers to participate (v. 13; see also Ex. 12:48, 49).

9:15 The day here is the same as in Exodus 40:17. "Above the tabernacle" is repeated six times (vv. 15–22). The cloud, which at night had "the appearance of fire," was the visible manifestation of God's presence. No other nation could boast the presence of God in their midst (see Rom. 9:4).

9:23 The moving and settling of the cloud signified God's interaction with His people, giving direction ("encamped" or "journeyed"), revelation ("at the command of the Lord"), and communion ("by the hand of Moses").

10:11, 12 Nineteen days after the census date, God commanded Israel to "set out" (Num. 1:1). These verses summarize the wilderness journey (see Num. 10:13—12:16).

Departure from Sinai

11 Now it came to pass on the twentieth day of the second month, in the second year, that the cloud was taken up from above the tabernacle of the Testimony. 12 And the children of Israel set out from the Wilderness of Sinai on their journeys;
then the cloud settled down in the Wilderness of Paran. 13 So they started out for the first time according to the command of the LORD by the hand of Moses.

14 The standard of the camp of the children of Judah set out first according to their armies; over their army was Nahshon the son of Amminadab.
15 Over the army of the tribe of the children of Is-sachar was Nethanel the son of Zuar. 16 And over the army of the tribe of the children of Zebulun was Eliab the son of Helon.

17 Then the tabernacle was taken down; and the sons of Gershon and the sons of Merari set out, carrying the tabernacle.

18 And the standard of the camp of Reuben set out according to their armies; over their army was Elizur the son of Shedeur. 19 Over the army of the tribe of the children of Simeon was Shelumiel the son of Zurishaddai. 20 And over the army of the tribe of the children of Gad was Eliasaph
the son of Deuel.

21 Then the Kohathites set out, carrying the holy things. (The tabernacle would be prepared for their arrival.)

22 And the standard of the camp of the children of Ephraim set out according to their armies; over their army was Elishama the son of Ammihud.
23 Over the army of the tribe of the children of Manasseh was Gamaliel the son of Pedahzur. 24 And over the army of the tribe of the children of Benjamin was Abidan the son of Gideoni.

25 Then the standard of the camp of the children of Dan (the rear guard of all the camps) set out according to their armies; over their army was Ahiezer the son of Ammishaddai. 26 Over the army of the tribe of the children of Asher was Pagiel the son of Ocran. 27 And over the army of the tribe of the children of Naphtali was Ahira the son of Enan.

28 Thus was the order of march of the children of Israel, according to their armies, when they began their journey.

29 Now Moses said to Hobab the son of Reuel[a] the Midianite, Moses' father-in-law, "We are setting out for the place of which the LORD said, 'I will give it to you.' Come with us, and we will treat you well; for the LORD has promised good things to Israel."

30 And he said to him, "I will not go, but I will depart to my own land and to my relatives."

31 So Moses said, "Please do not leave, inasmuch as you know how we are to camp in the wilderness, and you can be our eyes. 32 And it shall be, if you go with us—indeed it shall be—that whatever good the LORD will do to us, the same we will do to you."

33 So they departed from the mountain of the LORD on a journey of three days; and the ark of the covenant of the LORD went before them for the three days' journey, to search out a resting place for them. 34 And the cloud of the LORD was above them by day when they went out from the camp.

35 So it was, whenever the ark set out, that Moses said:

"Rise up, O LORD!
Let Your enemies be scattered,
And let those who hate You flee before You."

36 And when it rested, he said:

"Return, O LORD,
To the many thousands of Israel."

The People Complain

11 Now when the people complained, it displeased the LORD; for the LORD heard it, and His anger was aroused. So the fire of the LORD burned among them, and consumed some in the outskirts of the camp. 2 Then the people cried out to Moses, and when Moses prayed to the LORD, the fire was quenched. 3 So he called the name of the place Taberah,[a] because the fire of the LORD had burned among them.

4 Now the mixed multitude who were among them yielded to intense craving; so the children of Israel also wept again and said: "Who will give us

10:29 [a]Septuagint reads Raguel (compare Exodus 2:18). 11:3 [a]Literally Burning

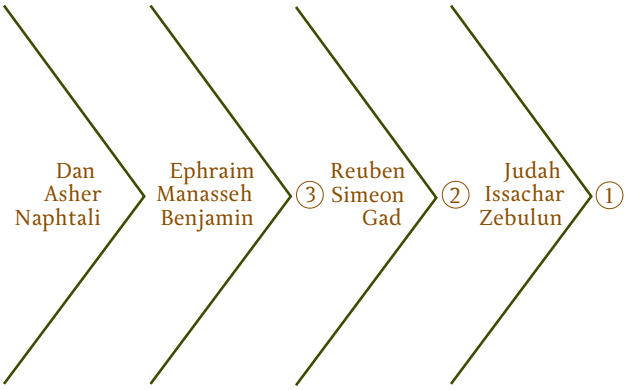
10:13 Following the census the Lord organized the march—orderly, as an army on the move (Num. 2:9–31; see chart, Marching Order of the Tribes of Israel). One addition was made at the time of setting out: The three families of Levites were given their positions in order to have the tabernacle readied for camp (Num. 10:17, 21).

10:29–32 Moses insisted his brother-in-law stay and be their guide, attesting to his firsthand knowledge of the wilderness terrain. While God led the army with His presence, He also provided human leaders for Israel. Moses pledged a share of God's promised bounty to Hobab. Later records show that Hobab's descendants lived in Canaan (Judg. 1:16; 4:11).

11:4 The mixed multitude were probably children of mixed marriages (Hebrew and Egyptian). Considered a rabble of camp followers, they probably lived on the "outskirts" of camp, for they did not belong to the true Israel (v. 1).

11:1–6 The murmuring of the people had now become a contagious habit, an attitude mirroring distrust. They "wept again," indicating earlier complaints, which are here likened to mourning the death of a loved one (vv. 4, 10). Their "craving"

MARCHING ORDER OF THE TRIBES OF ISRAEL



1. Levites carry the ark (Josh. 3:3, 4).
2. Gershonites and Merarites carry the tabernacle (Num. 10:17).
3. Kohathites carry the tabernacle furnishings (Num. 10:21).

meat to eat? [5]We remember the fish which we ate freely in Egypt, the cucumbers, the melons, the leeks, the onions, and the garlic; [6]but now our whole being is dried up; there is nothing at all except this manna before our eyes!"

[7]Now the manna was like coriander seed, and its color like the color of bdellium. [8]The people went about and gathered it, ground it on millstones or beat it in the mortar, cooked it in pans, and made cakes of it; and its taste was like the taste of pastry prepared with oil. [9]And when the dew fell on the camp in the night, the manna fell on it.

[10]Then Moses heard the people weeping throughout their families, everyone at the door of his tent; and the anger of the LORD was greatly aroused; Moses also was displeased. [11]So Moses said to the LORD, "Why have You afflicted Your servant? And why have I not found favor in Your sight, that You have laid the burden of all these people on me? [12]Did I conceive all these people? Did I beget them, that You should say to me, 'Carry them in your bosom, as a guardian carries a nursing child,' to the land which You swore to their fathers? [13]Where am I to get meat to give to all these people? For they weep all over me, saying, 'Give us meat, that we may eat.' [14]I am not able to bear all these people alone, because the burden is too heavy for me. [15]If You treat me like this, please kill me here and now—if I have found favor in Your sight—and do not let me see my wretchedness!"

The Seventy Elders

[16]So the LORD said to Moses: "Gather to Me seventy men of the elders of Israel, whom you know to be the elders of the people and officers over them; bring them to the tabernacle of meeting, that they may stand there with you. [17]Then I will come down and talk with you there. I will take of is associated with gluttony, lusting for anything other than a one-food diet (v. 6; see Prov. 23, Gluttony). Their selective memory recalled the meats but not the miseries of Egypt (Num. 11:5). Their cattle would not have been sufficient supply for sacrifices and food.

11:7 Coriander, of the carrot family, is an aromatic and sweet herb still used today in preparing oriental pastries and fruit dishes. "Bdellium" is similar to myrrh (see chart, The Herbs of the Bible).

11:12 The word "guardian" comes from a root meaning "truth" or "trust," referring to men and women entrusted with the care of a child. Here the masculine form is used, as of Mordecai (Esth. 2:7), while the feminine form is used of Naomi (Ruth 4:16; see also Gen. 1:26, note). Moses, discontent under the burden of a rebellious people, declared that he was not a guardian for the people—thus implying that God was. The Lord conceived this people, and thus He must be their nurse, mother, "guardian" (see chart, Female Metaphors for God).

11:16 To assist Moses, God anointed 70 men with the "same" Spirit given to Moses (v. 17). Nothing was taken from Moses—as light is not diminished from a lamp when used to light another.

the Spirit that is upon you and will put the same upon them; and they shall bear the burden of the people with you, that you may not bear it yourself alone. 18Then you shall say to the people, 'Consecrate yourselves for tomorrow, and you shall eat meat; for you have wept in the hearing of the LORD, saying, "Who will give us meat to eat? For it was well with us in Egypt." Therefore the LORD will give you meat, and you shall eat. 19You shall eat, not one day, nor two days, nor five days, nor ten days, nor twenty days, 20but for a whole month, until it comes out of your nostrils and becomes loathsome to you, because you have despised the LORD who is among you, and have wept before Him, saying, "Why did we ever come up out of Egypt?"' "

21And Moses said, "The people whom I am among are six hundred thousand men on foot; yet You have said, 'I will give them meat, that they may eat for a whole month.' 22Shall flocks and herds be slaughtered for them, to provide enough for them? Or shall all the fish of the sea be gathered together for them, to provide enough for them?"

23And the LORD said to Moses, "Has the LORD's arm been shortened? Now you shall see whether what I say will happen to you or not."

24So Moses went out and told the people the words of the LORD, and he gathered the seventy men of the elders of the people and placed them around the tabernacle. 25Then the LORD came down in the cloud, and spoke to him, and took of the Spirit that was upon him, and placed the same upon the seventy elders; and it happened, when the Spirit rested upon them, that they prophesied, although they never did so again.[a]

26But two men had remained in the camp: the name of one was Eldad, and the name of the other Medad. And the Spirit rested upon them. Now they were among those listed, but who had not gone out to the tabernacle; yet they prophesied in the camp. 27And a young man ran and told Moses, and said, "Eldad and Medad are prophesying in the camp."

28So Joshua the son of Nun, Moses' assistant, one of his choice men, answered and said, "Moses my lord, forbid them!"

29Then Moses said to him, "Are you zealous for my sake? Oh, that all the LORD's people were prophets and that the LORD would put His Spirit upon them!" 30And Moses returned to the camp, he and the elders of Israel.

The LORD Sends Quail

31Now a wind went out from the LORD, and it brought quail from the sea and left them fluttering near the camp, about a day's journey on this side and about a day's journey on the other side, all around the camp, and about two cubits above the surface of the ground. 32And the people stayed up all that day, all night, and all the next day, and gathered the quail (he who gathered least gathered ten homers); and they spread them out for themselves all around the camp. 33But while the meat was still between their teeth, before it was chewed, the wrath of the LORD was aroused against the people, and the LORD struck the people with a very great plague. 34So he called the name of that place Kibroth Hattaavah,[a] because there they buried the people who had yielded to craving.

35From Kibroth Hattaavah the people moved to Hazeroth, and camped at Hazeroth.

Dissension of Aaron and Miriam

12 Then Miriam and Aaron spoke against Moses because of the Ethiopian woman whom he had married; for he had married an Ethiopian woman. 2So they said, "Has the LORD indeed spoken only through Moses? Has He not spoken through us also?" And the LORD heard it. 3(Now the man Moses was very humble, more than all men who were on the face of the earth.)

4Suddenly the LORD said to Moses, Aaron, and Miriam, "Come out, you three, to the tabernacle of meeting!" So the three came out. 5Then the LORD came down in the pillar of cloud and stood in the door of the tabernacle, and called Aaron and Miriam. And they both went forward. 6Then He said,

"Hear now My words:
If there is a prophet among you,

11:25 [a]Targum and Vulgate read did not cease. 11:34 [a]Literally Graves of Craving

11:31, 32 The quail flew three feet above the ground and could easily be caught. "Ten homers" would equal about 110 bushels or 1,000 gallons (see chart, Money and Measurements in the Bible).

11:33 Rejection of God's provision, exhibited in their lustful cravings, brought fulfillment of God's judgment (vv. 18–20). The noun "plague" is akin to the verb "smote." This natural sickness from overeating was predicted by God.

12:1, 2 Rebellion hit closer to home. The real issue of contention from the sister and brother of Moses was not the ancestry of Moses' wife but their coveting the authority of Moses and thereby questioning God's authority (see Song 8, Jealousy; 1 Cor. 3, Competition). God "heard" their resentment even before it was uttered.

12:3 Some scholars use this verse to explain away Moses' authorship of Numbers, but Moses was only acting in his own defense. After all, humility is recognition of being "under the mighty hand of God" (1 Pet. 5:5, 6). Jesus also stated His own meekness (Matt. 11:29; see Phil. 2, Humility).

FEMALE METAPHORS FOR GOD

A PICTURE OF GOD AS:	SCRIPTURE REFERENCE
Conceiving, carrying life in His womb, laboring, and giving birth	Job 38:8; Is. 42:14; John 3:6
Nursing mother	Num. 11:12; Ps. 131:1, 2; Is. 49:15; 1 Pet. 2:2, 3
Nurturing mother	Job 10:10–12; Is. 46:3, 4; Hos. 11:3, 4
Midwife	Ps. 22:9, 10; Is. 66:9
Mistress of the house	Ps. 123:2
Mother bear	Hos. 13:8
Mother eagle	Deut. 32:11, 12
Mother hen	Luke 13:34

Many rich female metaphors for God are found in Scripture. A metaphor is a figure of speech in which a term or phrase implies a comparison between something essentially unlike another in order to suggest a resemblance. Therefore, although female metaphors for God can be found, the literary devices do not imply that the masculine pronouns God chose to use for Himself can be altered or cast aside. However, they do indicate that the character of God encompasses and supersedes both masculinity and femininity. God is neither female nor male, although He may choose to liken His role to that of a mother when He conceives, bears, nurses, nurtures, and cares for His children. The umbilical metaphor is a useful tool to reveal God's nature and to communicate His love and concern through simple examples easily understood by all people.

I, the LORD, make Myself known to him in a vision;
I speak to him in a dream.
7Not so with My servant Moses;
He is faithful in all My house.
8I speak with him face to face,
Even plainly, and not in dark sayings;
And he sees the form of the LORD.
Why then were you not afraid
To speak against My servant Moses?"

9So the anger of the LORD was aroused against them, and He departed. 10And when the cloud departed from above the tabernacle, suddenly Miriam became leprous, as white as snow. Then Aaron turned toward Miriam, and there she was, a leper. 11So Aaron said to Moses, "Oh, my lord! Please do not lay this sin on us, in which we have done foolishly and in which we have sinned. 12Please do not let her be as one dead, whose flesh is half consumed when he comes out of his mother's womb!"

13So Moses cried out to the LORD, saying, "Please heal her, O God, I pray!"

14Then the LORD said to Moses, "If her father had but spit in her face, would she not be shamed seven days? Let her be shut out of the camp seven days, and afterward she may be received again." 15So Miriam was shut out of the camp seven days, and the people did not journey till Miriam was brought in again. 16And afterward the people moved from Hazeroth and camped in the Wilderness of Paran.

Spies Sent into Canaan

13 And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 2"Send men to spy out the land of Canaan, which I am giving to the children of Israel; from each tribe of their fathers you shall send a man, every one a leader among them."

12:14, 15 God likened Miriam's shame to having her father spit on her, a practice especially abhorred by people in the ancient Near East. The seven-day exile was normal for purification and restoration (see also Ex. 15, Miriam).

12:16 Kadesh "in the Wilderness of Paran" is well established as Kadesh Barnea (now Kudes), described by Moses as "that great and terrible wilderness" (Deut. 1:19). An area well adequate to accommodate the Israelite encampment, the borders of Kadesh were Canaan to the north, the valley of Arabah to the east, the desert of Sinai to the south, and the river or brook Wadi el Arish to the west.

13:1, 2 Procedural details for this passage are found elsewhere (Deut. 1:19–25). The people requested that spies be sent into the land before they would enter. A note of fear and discouragement was sounded. These tribal representatives were not the same leaders listed in Numbers 1:5–15. In both incidents, the tribe of Levi is not included in negotiations about the Land. The number of representatives in both chapters is

3So Moses sent them from the Wilderness of Paran according to the command of the LORD, all of them men who were heads of the children of Israel. 4Now these were their names: from the tribe of Reuben, Shammua the son of Zaccur; 5from the tribe of Simeon, Shaphat the son of Hori; 6from
the tribe of Judah, Caleb the son of Jephunneh; 7from the tribe of Issachar, Igal the son of Joseph;
8from the tribe of Ephraim, Hoshea[a] the son of Nun; 9from the tribe of Benjamin, Palti the son of Raphu; 10from the tribe of Zebulun, Gaddiel the son of Sodi; 11from the tribe of Joseph, that is, from the tribe of Manasseh, Gaddi the son of Susi; 12from the tribe of Dan, Ammiel the son of Gemalli; 13from the tribe of Asher, Sethur the son of Michael; 14from the tribe of Naphtali, Nahbi the son of Vophsi; 15from the tribe of Gad, Geuel the son of Machi.

16These are the names of the men whom Moses sent to spy out the land. And Moses called Hoshea[a] the son of Nun, Joshua.

17Then Moses sent them to spy out the land of Canaan, and said to them, "Go up this way into the South, and go up to the mountains, 18and see what the land is like: whether the people who dwell in it are strong or weak, few or many; 19whether the land they dwell in is good or bad; whether the cities they inhabit are like camps or strongholds; 20whether the land is rich or poor; and whether there are forests there or not. Be of good courage.
And bring some of the fruit of the land." Now the time was the season of the first ripe grapes.

21So they went up and spied out the land from the Wilderness of Zin as far as Rehob, near the entrance of Hamath. 22And they went up through the South and came to Hebron; Ahiman, Sheshai, and Talmai, the descendants of Anak, were there.
(Now Hebron was built seven years before Zoan in Egypt.) 23Then they came to the Valley of Eshcol, and there cut down a branch with one cluster of grapes; they carried it between two of them on a pole. They also brought some of the pomegranates and figs. 24The place was called the Valley of Eshcol,[a] because of the cluster which the men of Israel cut down there. 25And they returned from spying out the land after forty days.

26Now they departed and came back to Moses and Aaron and all the congregation of the children of Israel in the Wilderness of Paran, at Kadesh; they brought back word to them and to all the congregation, and showed them the fruit of the land. 27Then they told him, and said: "We went to the land where you sent us. It truly flows with milk and honey, and this is its fruit. 28Nevertheless the people who dwell in the land are strong; the cities are fortified and very large;
moreover we saw the descendants of Anak there.
29The Amalekites dwell in the land of the South;
the Hittites, the Jebusites, and the Amorites dwell in the mountains; and the Canaanites dwell by the sea and along the banks of the Jordan."

30Then Caleb quieted the people before Moses, and said, "Let us go up at once and take possession, for we are well able to overcome it."

31But the men who had gone up with him said,
"We are not able to go up against the people, for they are stronger than we." 32And they gave the children of Israel a bad report of the land which they had spied out, saying, "The land through which we have gone as spies is a land that devours its inhabitants, and all the people whom we saw in it are men of great stature. 33There we saw the giants[a] (the descendants of Anak came from the giants); and we were like grasshoppers in our own sight, and so we were in their sight."

Israel Refuses to Enter Canaan

14So all the congregation lifted up their voices and cried, and the people wept that night. 2And all the children of Israel complained against Moses and Aaron, and the whole congregation said to them, "If only we had died in the land of Egypt! Or if only we had died in this wilderness!
3Why has the LORD brought us to this land to fall by the sword, that our wives and children should become victims? Would it not be better for us to return to Egypt?" 4So they said to one another,
"Let us select a leader and return to Egypt."

13:8, 16 [a]Septuagint and Vulgate read Oshea. 13:24 [a]Literally Cluster 13:33 [a]Hebrew nephilim

12 because of dividing the tribe of Joseph to accommodate his two sons Ephraim and Manasseh (Gen. 48:12–22).

13:16 Jesus is the Greek form of Joshua (Heb. Hoshea, lit. "The Lord is Salvation"; see Matt. 1:21).

14:2 In the wilderness, the Israelites "complained" about being without meal, water, and the comforts of Egypt. Although the wilderness lacked many things, it was never without the Lord's presence (Ex. 33:14). Wilderness life was bearable only because of God and His provision. Again and again, people have found God's sufficient supply in wilderness experiences: from the Israelites' "forty years in the wilderness" (Deut. 29:5) to Christ's temptation "in the wilderness forty days" (Mark 1:13) to the woman with child who "fled into the wilderness, where she has a place prepared by God, that they should feed her there one thousand two hundred and sixty days" (Rev. 12:6).

14:3 The men spoke of their wives and children as "victims" and actually blamed God for abusing their children when God, in fact, spared their "little ones" (v. 31). There is no evidence in the text that the men did anything to express concern beyond their verbal complaints.

14:4 Rebellion broke out, and they were ready to return to Egypt under a new leader. Unbelief was at the base of Israel's fear of entering the Land God had promised. Crucial to understanding the book is this pivotal chapter depicting both Israel's rebellion and God's glory (ch. 14).

5Then Moses and Aaron fell on their faces before all the assembly of the congregation of the children of Israel.

6But Joshua the son of Nun and Caleb the son of Jephunneh, who were among those who had spied out the land, tore their clothes; 7and they spoke to all the congregation of the children of Israel, saying: "The land we passed through to spy out is an exceedingly good land. 8If the LORD delights in us, then He will bring us into this land and give it to us, 'a land which flows with milk and honey.'[a] 9Only do not rebel against the LORD, nor fear the people of the land, for they are our bread; their protection has departed from them, and the LORD is with us. Do not fear them."

10And all the congregation said to stone them with stones. Now the glory of the LORD appeared in the tabernacle of meeting before all the children of Israel.

Moses Intercedes for the People

11Then the LORD said to Moses: "How long will these people reject Me? And how long will they not believe Me, with all the signs which I have performed among them? 12I will strike them with the pestilence and disinherit them, and I will make of you a nation greater and mightier than they."

13And Moses said to the LORD: "Then the Egyptians will hear it, for by Your might You brought these people up from among them, 14and they will tell it to the inhabitants of this land. They have heard that You, LORD, are among these people; that You, LORD, are seen face to face and Your cloud stands above them, and You go before them in a pillar of cloud by day and in a pillar of fire by night. 15Now if You kill these people as one man, then the nations which have heard of Your fame will speak, saying, 16'Because the LORD was not able to bring this people to the land which He swore to give them, therefore He killed them in the wilderness.' 17And now, I pray, let the power of my Lord be great, just as You have spoken, saying, 18'The LORD is longsuffering and abundant in mercy, forgiving iniquity and transgression; but He by no means clears the guilty, visiting the iniquity of the fathers on the children to the third and fourth generation.'[a] 19Pardon the iniquity of this people, I pray, according to the greatness of Your mercy, just as You have forgiven this people, from Egypt even until now."

20Then the LORD said: "I have pardoned, according to your word; 21but truly, as I live, all the earth shall be filled with the glory of the LORD— 22because all these men who have seen My glory and the signs which I did in Egypt and in the wilderness, and have put Me to the test now these ten times, and have not heeded My voice, 23they certainly shall not see the land of which I swore to their fathers, nor shall any of those who rejected Me see it. 24But My servant Caleb, because he has a different spirit in him and has followed Me fully, I will bring into the land where he went, and his descendants shall inherit it. 25Now the Amalekites and the Canaanites dwell in the valley; tomorrow turn and move out into the wilderness by the Way of the Red Sea."

Death Sentence on the Rebels

26And the LORD spoke to Moses and Aaron, saying, 27"How long shall I bear with this evil congregation who complain against Me? I have heard the complaints which the children of Israel make against Me. 28Say to them, 'As I live,' says the LORD, 'just as you have spoken in My hearing, so I will do to you: 29The carcasses of you who have complained against Me shall fall in this wilderness, all of you who were numbered, according to your entire number, from twenty years old and above. 30Except for Caleb the son of Jephunneh and Joshua the son of Nun, you shall by no means enter the land which I swore I would make you dwell in. 31But your little ones, whom you said would be victims, I will bring in, and they shall know the land which you have despised. 32But as for you, your carcasses shall fall in this wilderness. 33And your sons shall be shepherds in the wilderness

14:8 [a]Exodus 3:8 14:18 [a]Exodus 34:6, 7

14:5–9 Two positive reactions followed Israel's revolt: Moses and Aaron humbled themselves before the Lord; Joshua and Caleb exhorted the people about the Lord's plan of provision and protection.

14:9–12 In the way that God gave them "bread," He would deliver these defenseless "giants" into their hands (Num. 13:33). Instead of trusting God, the people turned on God's spokesmen. Stoning, the customary punishment for some crimes under Levitical law (Lev. 24:16), was also practiced in Egypt (Ex. 8:26). Like a bolt of lightning visible to all, God's glory "appeared in the tabernacle" to confront their unbelief (see Num. 14:21; 16:19; 20:6). A time will come, not unlike this scene, when God's glory will fill the holy New Jerusalem—but the "unbelieving" will have no inheritance there (Rev. 21:1–11).

14:19, 20 Moses' request to pardon this people once again was honored by God immediately (see John 14:14). Moses knew he could meet with God at the "mercy seat" (Ex. 25:17–22). Daniel also pleaded for pardon on the merits of God's mercy (Dan. 9:3–19). Likewise, believers are bid to "come boldly to the throne of grace, that we may obtain mercy" (Heb. 4:16).

14:22 The idea of full measure is seen in the expression "ten times," although ten references to Israel's rejection could be cited if the figure is taken literally. Unbelief was comprehensive, evident in such words as "all" and "whole" (vv. 1, 2, 7, 10).

14:30, 31 Because of their trust in God (v. 24), Joshua and Caleb were spared God's wrath and would be among the children who would inhabit the Promised Land. The word "swore" is literally "lifted up My hand" (see Ex. 6:8).

SECOND CHANCES BEGINNING ANEW

God gives love and forgiveness over and over again (2 Chr. 7:14). Often, the believer who accepts His free gift by faith fails to follow Him completely or consistently. Even so, God graciously makes available again and again a new beginning, an "extended opportunity."

Beyond the realm of forgiveness, Scripture presents numerous accounts in which the Lord reversed certain conditions or circumstances and gave a chance to His people to begin anew. The mother of Moses was given a second chance to rear her son (Ex. 2:7–9). Miriam was given a second chance when God forgave her rebellious spirit and healed her leprosy (Num. 12:10–15). Hannah's barrenness was overruled so that she might bear Samuel and dedicate him to the Lord (1 Sam. 1:2–28).

Women are offered a new beginning in many New Testament accounts. Elizabeth conceived a child in her later years and gave birth to John the Baptist (Luke 1:5–25). The widow of Nain was given another chance when her son was raised from the dead (Luke 7:11–17). The woman caught in the act of adultery was given another opportunity to live a God-fearing life (John 8:3–11). Dorcas was raised from the dead by Peter and given additional years in which to serve the Lord (Acts 9:36–42).

The Bible also presents stories of lives in which women did not accept the second chance offered to them by God. Jezebel rejected her second chance and deliberately disobeyed God (2 Kin. 9:30–37). Bernice heard the gospel message as preached by Paul; yet, we have no indication she accepted it (Acts 25:23; 26:30–32).

God's mercy and justice are balanced. Though a believer may still experience some temporal consequences for her disobedience, she can receive forgiveness and assurance of life because her sins are covered by the blood of Christ. Another opportunity does not necessarily mean an absence of consequences. God's justice often allows consequences for past sinful behavior even after a person has turned to Him in obedience, but His mercy continues to offer the protection of a gracious and forgiving heavenly Father (Luke 15:20; John 10:28, 29).

forty years, and bear the brunt of your infidelity, until your carcasses are consumed in the wilderness. 34According to the number of the days in which you spied out the land, forty days, for each day you shall bear your guilt one year, namely forty years, and you shall know My rejection. 35I the LORD have spoken this. I will surely do so to all this evil congregation who are gathered together against Me. In this wilderness they shall be consumed, and there they shall die.' "

36Now the men whom Moses sent to spy out the land, who returned and made all the congregation complain against him by bringing a bad report of the land, 37those very men who brought the evil report about the land, died by the plague before the LORD. 38But Joshua the son of Nun and Caleb the son of Jephunneh remained alive, of the men who went to spy out the land.

A Futile Invasion Attempt

39Then Moses told these words to all the children of Israel, and the people mourned greatly.
40And they rose early in the morning and went up to the top of the mountain, saying, "Here we are, and we will go up to the place which the LORD has promised, for we have sinned!"

41And Moses said, "Now why do you transgress the command of the LORD? For this will not succeed. 42Do not go up, lest you be defeated by your enemies, for the LORD is not among you. 43For the Amalekites and the Canaanites are there before you, and you shall fall by the sword; because you have turned away from the LORD, the LORD will not be with you."

44But they presumed to go up to the mountaintop. Nevertheless, neither the ark of the covenant of the LORD nor Moses departed from the camp.
45Then the Amalekites and the Canaanites who dwelt in that mountain came down and attacked them, and drove them back as far as Hormah.

Laws of Grain and Drink Offerings

15 And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying,
2"Speak to the children of Israel, and say to them: 'When you have come into the land you are to inhabit, which I am giving to you, 3and you make an offering by fire to the LORD, a burnt offering or a sacrifice, to fulfill a vow or as a freewill offering or in your appointed feasts, to make a sweet aroma to the LORD, from the herd or the flock, 4then he who presents his offering to the LORD shall bring a grain offering of one-tenth of an ephah of fine flour mixed with one-fourth of a hin of oil; 5and one-fourth of a hin of wine as a 14:34 Rejection works both ways: the people rejected God, and consequently they knew His "rejection" (vv. 11, 23; see also Job 3:10).

drink offering you shall prepare with the burnt offering or the sacrifice, for each lamb. 6Or for a ram you shall prepare as a grain offering two-tenths of an ephah of fine flour mixed with one-third of a hin of oil; 7and as a drink offering you shall offer one-third of a hin of wine as a sweet aroma to the LORD. 8And when you prepare a young bull as a burnt offering, or as a sacrifice to fulfill a vow, or as a peace offering to the LORD, 9then shall be offered with the young bull a grain offering of three-tenths of an ephah of fine flour mixed with half a hin of oil; 10and you shall bring as the drink offering half a hin of wine as an offering made by fire, a sweet aroma to the LORD.

11'Thus it shall be done for each young bull, for each ram, or for each lamb or young goat. 12According to the number that you prepare, so you shall do with everyone according to their number. 13All who are native-born shall do these things in this manner, in presenting an offering made by fire, a sweet aroma to the LORD. 14And if a stranger dwells with you, or whoever is among you throughout your generations, and would present an offering made by fire, a sweet aroma to the LORD, just as you do, so shall he do. 15One ordinance shall be for you of the assembly and for the stranger who dwells with you, an ordinance forever throughout your generations; as you are, so shall the stranger be before the LORD. 16One law and one custom shall be for you and for the stranger who dwells with you.' "[a]

17Again the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 18"Speak to the children of Israel, and say to them: 'When you come into the land to which I bring you, 19then it will be, when you eat of the bread of the land, that you shall offer up a heave offering to the LORD. 20You shall offer up a cake of the first of your ground meal as a heave offering; as a heave offering of the threshing floor, so shall you offer it up. 21Of the first of your ground meal you shall give to the LORD a heave offering throughout your generations.

Laws Concerning Unintentional Sin

22'If you sin unintentionally, and do not observe all these commandments which the LORD has spoken to Moses— 23all that the LORD has commanded you by the hand of Moses, from the day the LORD gave commandment and onward throughout your generations— 24then it will be, if it is unintentionally committed, without the knowledge of the congregation, that the whole congregation shall offer one young bull as a burnt offering, as a sweet aroma to the LORD, with its grain offering and its drink offering, according to the ordinance, and one kid of the goats as a sin offering. 25So the priest shall make atonement for the whole congregation of the children of Israel, and it shall be forgiven them, for it was unintentional; they shall bring their offering, an offering made by fire to the LORD, and their sin offering before the LORD, for their unintended sin. 26It shall be forgiven the whole congregation of the children of Israel and the stranger who dwells among them, because all the people did it unintentionally.

27'And if a person sins unintentionally, then he shall bring a female goat in its first year as a sin offering. 28So the priest shall make atonement for the person who sins unintentionally, when he sins unintentionally before the LORD, to make atonement for him; and it shall be forgiven him. 29You shall have one law for him who sins unintentionally, for him who is native-born among the children of Israel and for the stranger who dwells among them.

Law Concerning Presumptuous Sin

30'But the person who does anything presumptuously, whether he is native-born or a stranger, that one brings reproach on the LORD, and he shall be cut off from among his people. 31Because he has despised the word of the LORD, and has broken His commandment, that person shall be completely cut off; his guilt shall be upon him.' "

Penalty for Violating the Sabbath

32Now while the children of Israel were in the wilderness, they found a man gathering sticks on the Sabbath day. 33And those who found him gathering sticks brought him to Moses and Aaron, and to all the congregation. 34They put him under guard, because it had not been explained what should be done to him.

35Then the LORD said to Moses, "The man must surely be put to death; all the congregation shall stone him with stones outside the camp." 36So, as the LORD commanded Moses, all the congregation

15:16 [a]Compare Exodus 12:49

15:20, 21 Firstfruits were introduced here and discussed more fully in Numbers 18. Such rituals were meant to hallow family life in such common practices as baking bread and cakes (Ezek. 44:30). "A heave offering" suggests the idea of lifting up thanks.

15:22 Sins of ignorance and defiance. Immediately following Israel's rebellion at Kadesh, God instructed them about the significant difference between sinning "unintentionally" and sinning "presumptuously" (vv. 30–36). In the case of sins committed in ignorance, unwittingly done in error, pardon and restoration were provided through "their sin offering" (v. 25). However, sins of defiance, made with full knowledge of the Law, were met only with punishment, exclusion, and even death, as illustrated by the incident of Sabbath breaking (vv. 32–36). With David's prayer in their hearts (Ps. 19:13), Christians are admonished to avoid intentional sin (1 John 3:4–9).

brought him outside the camp and stoned him with stones, and he died.

Tassels on Garments

37Again the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 38"Speak to the children of Israel: Tell them to make tassels on the corners of their garments throughout their generations, and to put a blue thread in the tassels of the corners. 39And you shall have the tassel, that you may look upon it and remember all the commandments of the LORD and do them, and that you may not follow the harlotry to which your own heart and your own eyes are inclined, 40and that you may remember and do all My commandments, and be holy for your God. 41I am the LORD your God, who brought you out of the land of Egypt, to be your God: I am the LORD your God."

Rebellion Against Moses and Aaron

16 Now Korah the son of Izhar, the son of Kohath, the son of Levi, with Dathan and Abiram the sons of Eliab, and On the son of Peleth, sons of Reuben, took men; 2and they rose up before Moses with some of the children of Israel, two hundred and fifty leaders of the congregation, representatives of the congregation, men of renown. 3They gathered together against Moses and Aaron, and said to them, "You take too much upon yourselves, for all the congregation is holy, every one of them, and the LORD is among them. Why then do you exalt yourselves above the assembly of the LORD?"

4So when Moses heard it, he fell on his face; 5and he spoke to Korah and all his company, saying, "Tomorrow morning the LORD will show who is His and who is holy, and will cause him to come near to Him. That one whom He chooses He will cause to come near to Him. 6Do this: Take censers, Korah and all your company; 7put fire in them and put incense in them before the LORD tomorrow, and it shall be that the man whom the LORD chooses is the holy one. You take too much upon yourselves, you sons of Levi!"

8Then Moses said to Korah, "Hear now, you sons of Levi: 9*Is it* a small thing to you that the God of Israel has separated you from the congregation of Israel, to bring you near to Himself, to do the work of the tabernacle of the LORD, and to stand before the congregation to serve them; 10and that He has brought you near to Himself, you and all your brethren, the sons of Levi, with you? And are you seeking the priesthood also? 11Therefore you and all your company are gathered together against the LORD. And what is Aaron that you complain against him?"

12And Moses sent to call Dathan and Abiram the sons of Eliab, but they said, "We will not come up! 13*Is it* a small thing that you have brought us up out of a land flowing with milk and honey, to kill us in the wilderness, that you should keep acting like a prince over us? 14Moreover you have not brought us into a land flowing with milk and honey, nor given us inheritance of fields and vineyards. Will you put out the eyes of these men? We will not come up!"

15Then Moses was very angry, and said to the LORD, "Do not respect their offering. I have not taken one donkey from them, nor have I hurt one of them."

16And Moses said to Korah, "Tomorrow, you and all your company be present before the LORD—you and they, as well as Aaron. 17Let each take his censer and put incense in it, and each of you bring his censer before the LORD, two hundred and fifty censers; both you and Aaron, each with his censer." 18So every man took his censer, put fire in it, laid incense on it, and stood at the door of the tabernacle of meeting with Moses and Aaron. 19And Korah gathered all the congregation against them at the door of the tabernacle of meeting. Then the glory of the LORD appeared to all the congregation.

20And the LORD spoke to Moses and Aaron, saying, 21"Separate yourselves from among this congregation, that I may consume them in a moment."

15:38 As a reminder to obey the Commandments, the people wore "tassels on the corners of their garments." A "blue cord" was used on the turbans worn by the priests (Ex. 28:37; see chart, The High Priest's Clothing). In Jesus' day, the Pharisees enlarged these tassels or fringes to make much of their strict observance of the Law (Matt. 23:5). The woman, who needed healing from a persistent flow of blood, touched the "hem" of the Savior's garment (Gk. kraspedon, lit. "tassel" or "edge"; Matt. 9:20).

16:1–3 Whether this incident of rebellion followed soon after God's instruction regarding presumptuous sin or much later (Num. 15:30–36), it illustrates the depth of sin and its consequences. Korah, a Levite with important responsibilities, joined forces with Dathan and Abiram in a common protest (Num. 10:21; see also Rebellion). Their accusation against the authority of Moses and Aaron was turned back on them when Moses said in essence, "You have gone too far" (Num. 16:7).

16:5 God's choice. Both Moses and Korah acted with confidence: Moses affirmed God's command and left the decision up to Him (vv. 16, 17); Korah assumed vindication (vv. 18, 19).

16:8–11 The real issue. Moses got to the heart of the matter—contempt for assigned duties and desire for another's glory. The real contention was with God, for God had assigned the specialized duties (vv. 30, 38; Num. 4; 10). Paul used this concept when comparing the church with a physical body, having varying parts and functions but all working together (1 Cor. 12).

16:13 The natural progression of sin. With the assertion that Egypt is "a land flowing with milk and honey," these men called good what was evil and evil what was good (Is. 5:20–25).

22Then they fell on their faces, and said, "O God, the God of the spirits of all flesh, shall one man sin, and You be angry with all the congregation?"
23So the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 24"Speak to the congregation, saying, 'Get away from the tents of Korah, Dathan, and Abiram.' " 25Then Moses rose and went to Dathan and Abiram, and the elders of Israel followed him.
26And he spoke to the congregation, saying, "Depart now from the tents of these wicked men!
Touch nothing of theirs, lest you be consumed in all their sins." 27So they got away from around the tents of Korah, Dathan, and Abiram; and Dathan and Abiram came out and stood at the door of their tents, with their wives, their sons, and their little children.
28And Moses said: "By this you shall know that the LORD has sent me to do all these works, for I have not done them of my own will. 29If these men die naturally like all men, or if they are visited by the common fate of all men, then the LORD has not sent me. 30But if the LORD creates a new thing, and the earth opens its mouth and swallows them up with all that belongs to them, and they go down alive into the pit, then you will understand that these men have rejected the LORD."
31Now it came to pass, as he finished speaking all these words, that the ground split apart under them, 32and the earth opened its mouth and swallowed them up, with their households and all the men with Korah, with all their goods. 33So they and all those with them went down alive into the pit;
the earth closed over them, and they perished from among the assembly. 34Then all Israel who were around them fled at their cry, for they said,
"Lest the earth swallow us up also!" 35And a fire came out from the LORD and consumed the two hundred and fifty men who were offering incense.
36Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: 37"Tell Eleazar, the son of Aaron the priest, to pick up the censers out of the blaze, for they are holy, and scatter the fire some distance away. 38The censers of these men who sinned against their own souls, let them be made into hammered plates as a covering for the altar. Because they presented them before the LORD, therefore they are holy; and they shall be a sign to the children of Israel." 39So Eleazar the priest took the bronze censers, which those who were burned up had presented, and they were hammered out as a covering on the altar, 40*to be* a memorial to the children of Israel that no outsider, who is not a descendant of Aaron, should come near to offer incense before the LORD, that he might not become like Korah and his companions, just as the LORD had said to him through Moses.

Complaints of the People

41On the next day all the congregation of the children of Israel complained against Moses and Aaron, saying, "You have killed the people of the LORD." 42Now it happened, when the congregation had gathered against Moses and Aaron, that they turned toward the tabernacle of meeting; and suddenly the cloud covered it, and the glory of the LORD appeared. 43Then Moses and Aaron came before the tabernacle of meeting.
44And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 45"Get away from among this congregation, that I may consume them in a moment."
And they fell on their faces.
46So Moses said to Aaron, "Take a censer and put fire in it from the altar, put incense on it, and take it quickly to the congregation and make atonement for them; for wrath has gone out from the LORD. The plague has begun." 47Then Aaron took it as Moses commanded, and ran into the midst of the assembly; and already the plague had begun among the people. So he put in the incense and made atonement for the people. 48And he stood between the dead and the living; so the plague was stopped. 49Now those who died in the plague were fourteen thousand seven hundred, besides those who died in the Korah incident. 50So Aaron returned to Moses at the door of the tabernacle of meeting, for the plague had stopped.

The Budding of Aaron's Rod

17 And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying:
2"Speak to the children of Israel, and get from them a rod from each father's house, all their leaders according to their fathers' houses—twelve rods. Write each man's name on his rod.
3And you shall write Aaron's name on the rod of Levi. For there shall be one rod for the head of each father's house. 4Then you shall place them in the tabernacle of meeting before the Testimony, where I meet with you. 5And it shall be that the rod of the man whom I choose will blossom; thus I will rid Myself of the complaints of the children of Israel, which they make against you."
6So Moses spoke to the children of Israel, and 16:48 The accused became the savior: Moses "stood between" the condemned and God. Jesus Christ "stood between" heaven and hell; He was crucified to redeem the world (Titus 2:14).

17:5 Aaron and his descendants proved to be God's unmistakable choice and were thus vindicated from all the "complaints" levied against the priesthood. The "rod" had been a symbol of God's authority (Ex. 4:1–5); that Aaron's rod bore fruit was symbolic of present and future life and blessing for God's people through His priestly order (Num. 17:8). Christ is our High Priest, "a Rod from the stem of Jesse" (Is. 11:1).

REBELLION WILLFUL DISOBEDIENCE

Rebellion takes many different forms and has widely divergent results and consequences. The root of rebellion, however, remains the same: sin or willful disobedience. A rebellious spirit is one that does not please God. Moses notes this in describing Korah's turning from the Lord. Korah and other sons of Levi took "too much upon [themselves]" (Num. 16:7). Rather than trust the Lord and rely upon His sovereignty and justice, they sought to operate solely according to their own desires. They believed more in themselves and their own strength than in God.

Rebellion can be directly against God, parents, the law, the church. Ultimately, however, all rebellion is against God in that it violates His established patterns of authority. Korah and his "company" were not only in rebellion against Moses and Aaron but against the Lord God (Num. 16:11, 30).

Rebellion always involves envy of someone or something—perhaps envy of a position, a salary, a friend or relative, or even of a spouse. Korah was envious of the authority which God had given Moses and Aaron (Num. 16:3). This drove Korah to his rebellion and ultimately to his death (Num. 16:32). We must carefully guard our hearts and minds in each decision we make and in each goal we attempt to achieve, asking ourselves if we are honoring God or striving to exalt and please ourselves.

See also Luke 15:11–32; notes on Authority (John 19); Discipline (Prov. 22); Obedience (Philem.); Submission (1 Pet. 3); Surrender (James 4)

each of their leaders gave him a rod apiece, for each leader according to their fathers' houses, twelve rods; and the rod of Aaron was among their rods. 7And Moses placed the rods before the LORD in the tabernacle of witness.

8Now it came to pass on the next day that Moses went into the tabernacle of witness, and behold, the rod of Aaron, of the house of Levi, had sprouted and put forth buds, had produced blossoms and yielded ripe almonds. 9Then Moses brought out all the rods from before the LORD to all the children of Israel; and they looked, and each man took his rod.

10And the LORD said to Moses, "Bring Aaron's rod back before the Testimony, to be kept as a sign against the rebels, that you may put their complaints away from Me, lest they die." 11Thus did Moses; just as the LORD had commanded him, so he did.

12So the children of Israel spoke to Moses, saying, "Surely we die, we perish, we all perish! 13Whoever even comes near the tabernacle of the LORD must die. Shall we all utterly die?"

Duties of Priests and Levites

18 Then the LORD said to Aaron: "You and your sons and your father's house with you shall bear the iniquity related to the sanctuary, and you and your sons with you shall bear the iniquity associated with your priesthood. 2Also bring with you your brethren of the tribe of Levi, the tribe of your father, that they may be joined with you and serve you while you and your sons are with you before the tabernacle of witness. 3They shall attend to your needs and all the needs of the tabernacle; but they shall not come near the articles of the sanctuary and the altar, lest they die—they and you also. 4They shall be joined with you and attend to the needs of the tabernacle of meeting, for all the work of the tabernacle; but an outsider shall not come near you. 5And you shall attend to the duties of the sanctuary and the duties of the altar, that there may be no more wrath on the children of Israel. 6Behold, I Myself have taken your brethren the Levites from among the children of Israel; they are a gift to you, given by the LORD, to do the work of the tabernacle of meeting. 7Therefore you and your sons with you shall attend to your priesthood for everything at the altar and behind the veil; and you shall serve. I give your priesthood to you as a gift for service, but the outsider who comes near shall be put to death."

Offerings for Support of the Priests

8And the LORD spoke to Aaron: "Here, I Myself have also given you charge of My heave offerings, all the holy gifts of the children of Israel; I have given them as a portion to you and your sons, as an ordinance forever. 9This shall be yours of the most holy things reserved from the fire: every offering of theirs, every grain offering and every sin offering and every trespass offering which they render to Me, shall be most holy for you and your sons. 10In a most holy place you shall eat it; every male shall eat it. It shall be holy to you.

11"This also is yours: the heave offering of their gift, with all the wave offerings of the children of Israel; I have given them to you, and your sons and 18:1 The Levites were divinely selected for both privileged position and heavy responsibility (Num. 1:53). They not only bore the care of the "sanctuary," but they also bore "the iniquity," the defilement of their own offerings (Lev. 16:11) and those of the people "that they may be accepted before the Lord" (Ex. 28:38; see also Heb. 7:26, 27).

daughters with you, as an ordinance forever. Everyone who is clean in your house may eat it.

12"All the best of the oil, all the best of the new wine and the grain, their firstfruits which they offer to the LORD, I have given them to you. 13Whatever first ripe fruit is in their land, which they bring to the LORD, shall be yours. Everyone who is clean in your house may eat it.

14"Every devoted thing in Israel shall be yours.

15"Everything that first opens the womb of all flesh, which they bring to the LORD, whether man or beast, shall be yours; nevertheless the firstborn of man you shall surely redeem, and the firstborn of unclean animals you shall redeem. 16And those redeemed of the devoted things you shall redeem when one month old, according to your valuation, for five shekels of silver, according to the shekel of the sanctuary, which is twenty gerahs. 17But the firstborn of a cow, the firstborn of a sheep, or the firstborn of a goat you shall not redeem; they are holy. You shall sprinkle their blood on the altar, and burn their fat as an offering made by fire for a sweet aroma to the LORD. 18And their flesh shall be yours, just as the wave breast and the right thigh are yours.

19"All the heave offerings of the holy things, which the children of Israel offer to the LORD, I have given to you and your sons and daughters with you as an ordinance forever; it is a covenant of salt forever before the LORD with you and your descendants with you."

20Then the LORD said to Aaron: "You shall have no inheritance in their land, nor shall you have any portion among them; I am your portion and your inheritance among the children of Israel.

Tithes for Support of the Levites

21"Behold, I have given the children of Levi all the tithes in Israel as an inheritance in return for the work which they perform, the work of the tabernacle of meeting. 22Hereafter the children of Israel shall not come near the tabernacle of meeting, lest they bear sin and die. 23But the Levites shall perform the work of the tabernacle of meeting, and they shall bear their iniquity; it shall be a statute forever, throughout your generations, that among the children of Israel they shall have no inheritance. 24For the tithes of the children of Israel, which they offer up as a heave offering to the LORD, I have given to the Levites as an inheritance; therefore I have said to them, 'Among the children of Israel they shall have no inheritance.' "

The Tithe of the Levites

25Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 26"Speak thus to the Levites, and say to them: 'When you take from the children of Israel the tithes which I have given you from them as your inheritance, then you shall offer up a heave offering of it to the LORD, a tenth of the tithe. 27And your heave offering shall be reckoned to you as though it were the grain of the threshing floor and as the fullness of the winepress. 28Thus you shall also offer a heave offering to the LORD from all your tithes which you receive from the children of Israel, and you shall give the LORD's heave offering from it to Aaron the priest. 29Of all your gifts you shall offer up every heave offering due to the LORD, from all the best of them, the consecrated part of them.' 30Therefore you shall say to them: 'When you have lifted up the best of it, then the rest shall be accounted to the Levites as the produce of the threshing floor and as the produce of the winepress. 31You may eat it in any place, you and your households, for it is your reward for your work in the tabernacle of meeting. 32And you shall bear no sin because of it, when you have lifted up the best of it. But you shall not profane the holy gifts of the children of Israel, lest you die.' "

Laws of Purification

19 Now the LORD spoke to Moses and Aaron, saying, 2"This is the ordinance of the law which the LORD has commanded, saying: 'Speak to the children of Israel, that they bring you a red heifer without blemish, in which there is no defect and on which a yoke has never come. 3You shall give it to Eleazar the priest, that he may take it outside the camp, and it shall be slaughtered before him; 4and Eleazar the priest shall take some of its blood with his finger, and sprinkle some of its blood seven times directly in front of the tabernacle of meeting. 5Then the heifer shall be burned in his sight: its hide, its flesh, its blood, and its offal shall be burned. 6And the priest shall take cedar wood and hyssop and scarlet, and cast them into the midst of the fire burning the heifer. 7Then the priest shall wash his clothes, he shall 18:12–14 Offering firstfruits is giving your best to the Lord. It is associated with living off "the fat of the land" (Gen. 45:18). These offerings were brought "to the Lord" by way of the priests who, having no land, received these offerings as compensation for their services (Num. 3:44–48).

18:26 While the Levites received tithes from the people, they were not exempt. They were expected to give "a tenth of the tithe" back "to the Lord" (see Luke 16, Stewardship). Sacrificial living was just as essential for the priests as for the people (see Mic. 7, Sacrificial Living).

19:1, 2 The unique ritual of the "red heifer" is found only here in the OT. Unlike other sacrificial animals, the heifer was totally consumed in fire "outside the camp." Its ashes were saved for the purpose of "purification" (v. 9). Dying to sin, which is symbolized in this ritual, is characteristic of holy living (Rom. 12:1, 2).

19:5 Offal, the viscera and trimmings of a butchered animal, is different from the "fat" of offerings used by priests (Gen. 45:18).

bathe in water, and afterward he shall come into the camp; the priest shall be unclean until evening. 8And the one who burns it shall wash his clothes in water, bathe in water, and shall be unclean until evening. 9Then a man who is clean shall gather up the ashes of the heifer, and store them outside the camp in a clean place; and they shall be kept for the congregation of the children of Israel for the water of purification;[a] it is for purifying from sin. 10And the one who gathers the ashes of the heifer shall wash his clothes, and be unclean until evening. It shall be a statute forever to the children of Israel and to the stranger who dwells among them.

11'He who touches the dead body of anyone shall be unclean seven days. 12He shall purify himself with the water on the third day and on the seventh day; then he will be clean. But if he does not purify himself on the third day and on the seventh day, he will not be clean. 13Whoever touches the body of anyone who has died, and does not purify himself, defiles the tabernacle of the LORD. That person shall be cut off from Israel. He shall be unclean, because the water of purification was not sprinkled on him; his uncleanness is still on him.

14'This is the law when a man dies in a tent: All who come into the tent and all who are in the tent shall be unclean seven days; 15and every open vessel, which has no cover fastened on it, is unclean. 16Whoever in the open field touches one who is slain by a sword or who has died, or a bone of a man, or a grave, shall be unclean seven days.

17'And for an unclean person they shall take some of the ashes of the heifer burnt for purification from sin, and running water shall be put on them in a vessel. 18A clean person shall take hyssop and dip it in the water, sprinkle it on the tent, on all the vessels, on the persons who were there, or on the one who touched a bone, the slain, the dead, or a grave. 19The clean person shall sprinkle the unclean on the third day and on the seventh day; and on the seventh day he shall purify himself, wash his clothes, and bathe in water; and at evening he shall be clean.

20'But the man who is unclean and does not purify himself, that person shall be cut off from among the assembly, because he has defiled the sanctuary of the LORD. The water of purification has not been sprinkled on him; he is unclean. 21It shall be a perpetual statute for them. He who sprinkles the water of purification shall wash his clothes; and he who touches the water of purification shall be unclean until evening. 22Whatever the unclean person touches shall be unclean; and the person who touches it shall be unclean until evening.' "

Moses' Error at Kadesh

20 Then the children of Israel, the whole congregation, came into the Wilderness of Zin in the first month, and the people stayed in Kadesh; and Miriam died there and was buried there.

2Now there was no water for the congregation; so they gathered together against Moses and Aaron. 3And the people contended with Moses and spoke, saying: "If only we had died when our brethren died before the LORD! 4Why have you brought up the assembly of the LORD into this wilderness, that we and our animals should die here? 5And why have you made us come up out of Egypt, to bring us to this evil place? It is not a place of grain or figs or vines or pomegranates; nor is there any water to drink." 6So Moses and Aaron went from the presence of the assembly to the door of the tabernacle of meeting, and they fell on their faces. And the glory of the LORD appeared to them.

10And Moses and Aaron gathered the assembly together before the rock; and he said to them, "Hear now, you rebels! Must we bring water for you out of this rock?" 11Then Moses lifted his hand and struck the rock twice with his rod; and water came out abundantly, and the congregation and their animals drank.

12Then the LORD spoke to Moses and Aaron, "Because you did not believe Me, to hallow Me in the eyes of the children of Israel, therefore you shall not bring this assembly into the land which I have given them."

13This was the water of Meribah,[a] because the children of Israel contended with the LORD, and He was hallowed among them.

19:9 [a]Literally impurity 20:13 [a]Literally Contention

20:1–3 At a time of personal sorrow over the death of Miriam, Moses also had to endure again the "contention" (Heb, Meribah, v. 13) of an insensitive people. Again and again Moses and Aaron were scapegoats receiving from the people assaults hurled at God, even after all the Lord had done for His people (Deut. 8:1–5; see Num. 16, Rebellion).

20:10–12 With a dramatic flare, Moses demonstrated God's answer to the complaints of the people. However, he "struck the rock twice with his rod," when God had instructed him in simple trust only to "speak" to this symbol of His authority (v. 8). Moses' sin was in the fact that he tried to share the credit line (note the usage of "we" in v. 10). God's holiness was at stake (v. 12). Moses was silenced by God's punishment.

Passage Through Edom Refused

14Now Moses sent messengers from Kadesh to the king of Edom. "Thus says your brother Israel:
'You know all the hardship that has befallen us, 15how our fathers went down to Egypt, and we dwelt in Egypt a long time, and the Egyptians afflicted us and our fathers. 16When we cried out to the LORD, He heard our voice and sent the Angel and brought us up out of Egypt; now here we are in Kadesh, a city on the edge of your border.
17Please let us pass through your country. We will not pass through fields or vineyards, nor will we drink water from wells; we will go along the King's Highway; we will not turn aside to the right hand or to the left until we have passed through your territory.' " 18Then Edom said to him, "You shall not pass through my land, lest I come out against you with the sword."
19So the children of Israel said to him, "We will go by the Highway, and if I or my livestock drink any of your water, then I will pay for it; let me only pass through on foot, nothing more."
20Then he said, "You shall not pass through."
So Edom came out against them with many men and with a strong hand. 21Thus Edom refused to give Israel passage through his territory; so Israel turned away from him.

Death of Aaron

22Now the children of Israel, the whole congregation, journeyed from Kadesh and came to Mount Hor. 23And the LORD spoke to Moses and Aaron in Mount Hor by the border of the land of Edom, saying: 24"Aaron shall be gathered to his people, for he shall not enter the land which I have given to the children of Israel, because you rebelled against My word at the water of Meribah.
25Take Aaron and Eleazar his son, and bring them up to Mount Hor; 26and strip Aaron of his garments and put them on Eleazar his son; for Aaron shall be gathered to his people and die there." 27So Moses did just as the LORD commanded, and they went up to Mount Hor in the sight of all the congregation. 28Moses stripped Aaron of his garments and put them on Eleazar his son; and Aaron died there on the top of the mountain. Then Moses and Eleazar came down from the mountain. 29Now when all the congregation saw that Aaron was dead, all the house of Israel mourned for Aaron thirty days.

Canaanites Defeated at Hormah

21 The king of Arad, the Canaanite, who dwelt in the South, heard that Israel was coming on the road to Atharim. Then he fought against Israel and took some of them prisoners. 2So Israel made a vow to the LORD, and said, "If You will indeed deliver this people into my hand, then I will utterly destroy their cities." 3And the LORD listened to the voice of Israel and delivered up the Canaanites, and they utterly destroyed them and their cities. So the name of that place was called Hormah.[a]

The Bronze Serpent

4Then they journeyed from Mount Hor by the Way of the Red Sea, to go around the land of Edom; and the soul of the people became very discouraged on the way. 5And the people spoke against God and against Moses: "Why have you brought us up out of Egypt to die in the wilderness? For there is no food and no water, and our soul loathes this worthless bread." 6So the LORD sent fiery serpents among the people, and they bit
the people; and many of the people of Israel died.
7Therefore the people came to Moses, and said,
"We have sinned, for we have spoken against the LORD and against you; pray to the LORD that He take away the serpents from us." So Moses prayed for the people.
8Then the LORD said to Moses, "Make a fiery serpent, and set it on a pole; and it shall be that everyone who is bitten, when he looks at it, shall live." 9So Moses made a bronze serpent, and put it on a pole; and so it was, if a serpent had bitten anyone, when he looked at the bronze serpent, he lived.

From Mount Hor to Moab

10Now the children of Israel moved on and camped in Oboth. 11And they journeyed from 21:3 [a]Literally Utter Destruction

20:17 The King's Highway, the broad road on which the Israelite army traveled, was probably the Wadi el Ghuweir, a military road built by a king. It was known for its good pastures and spring "wells" and is still a major thoroughfare (see also Num. 21:22).

20:22 Mount Hor, present-day Harun, was only 30 miles northeast of Kadesh Barnea, which gives credibility to the phrase "wanderings in the wilderness." "All the congregation" could easily have seen Aaron's funeral conducted upon the mountain in Hor (v. 27; Num. 14:29, 30).

21:6 Before Moses could intercede, God sent judgment from venomous snakes. "Fiery" (Heb. seraphim, lit. "burning") is the same word used to describe the creatures in Isaiah's vision in the temple (Is. 6:1–7). The glory of the Lord caused Isaiah to cry out "Woe is me" (Is. 6:5) and the Israelites to lament "We have sinned" (Num. 21:7), an indication of a change of heart.

21:8 God sent the remedy, in the form of a brass serpent, instead of taking away the punishment. The people must look upon the serpent to be healed. Jesus explained this to Nicodemus (see John 3:14, 15).

Oboth and camped at Ije Abarim, in the wilderness which is east of Moab, toward the sunrise.
12 From there they moved and camped in the Valley of Zered.
13 From there they moved and camped on the other side of the Arnon, which is in the wilderness that extends from the border of the Amorites; for the Arnon is the border of Moab, between Moab and the Amorites.
14 Therefore it is said in the Book of the Wars of the LORD:

"Waheb in Suphah,[a]
The brooks of the Arnon,
15 And the slope of the brooks
That reaches to the dwelling of Ar,
And lies on the border of Moab."

16 From there they went to Beer, which is the well where the LORD said to Moses, "Gather the people together, and I will give them water."
17 Then Israel sang this song:

"Spring up, O well!
All of you sing to it—18 The well the leaders sank,
Dug by the nation's nobles,
By the lawgiver, with their staves."

And from the wilderness they went to Mattanah, 19 from Mattanah to Nahaliel, from Nahaliel to Bamoth, 20 and from Bamoth, in the valley that is in the country of Moab, to the top of Pisgah which looks down on the wasteland.[a]

King Sihon Defeated

21 Then Israel sent messengers to Sihon king of the Amorites, saying,
22 "Let me pass through your land. We will not turn aside into fields or vineyards; we will not drink water from wells. We will go by the King's Highway until we have passed through your territory."
23 But Sihon would not allow Israel to pass through his territory. So Sihon gathered all his people together and went out against Israel in the wilderness, and he came to Jahaz and fought against Israel.
24 Then Israel defeated him with the edge of the sword, and took possession of his land from the Arnon to the Jabbok, as far as the people of Ammon; for the border of the people of Ammon was fortified.
25 So Israel took all these cities, and Israel dwelt in all the cities of the Amorites, in Heshbon and in all its villages.
26 For Heshbon was the city of Sihon king of the Amorites, who had fought against the former king of Moab, and had taken all his land from his hand as far as the Arnon.
27 Therefore those who speak in proverbs say:

"Come to Heshbon, let it be built;
Let the city of Sihon be repaired.

28 "For fire went out from Heshbon,
A flame from the city of Sihon;
It consumed Ar of Moab,
The lords of the heights of the Arnon.
29 Woe to you, Moab!
You have perished, O people of Chemosh!
He has given his sons as fugitives,
And his daughters into captivity,
To Sihon king of the Amorites.

30 "But we have shot at them;
Heshbon has perished as far as Dibon.
Then we laid waste as far as Nophah,
Which reaches to Medeba."

31 Thus Israel dwelt in the land of the Amorites.
32 Then Moses sent to spy out Jazer; and they took its villages and drove out the Amorites who were there.

King Og Defeated

33 And they turned and went up by the way to Bashan. So Og king of Bashan went out against them, he and all his people, to battle at Edrei.
34 Then the LORD said to Moses, "Do not fear him, for I have delivered him into your hand, with all his people and his land; and you shall do to him as you did to Sihon king of the Amorites, who dwelt

21:14 [a]Ancient unknown places; Vulgate reads What He did in the Red Sea. 21:20 [a]Hebrew Jeshimon

21:14, 15 The Book of the Wars of the Lord is cited only here in Scripture. The quotation has neither subject nor verb, unless the opening place name "Waheb" (Heb.) is understood to mean "God gave."

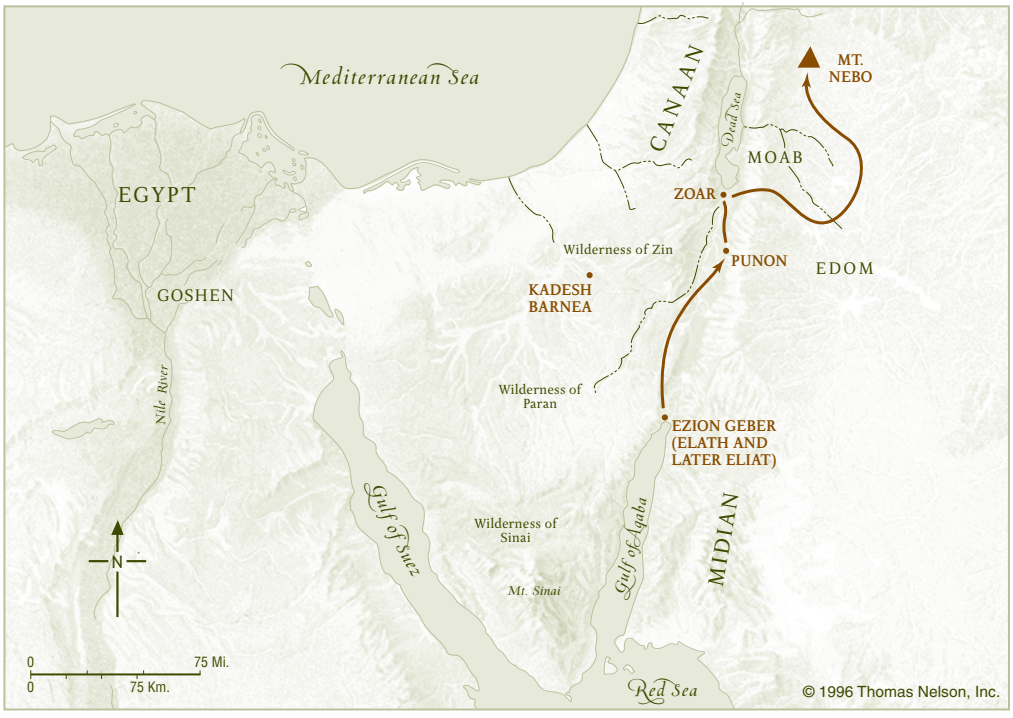
21:17, 18 The Well Song is to be used by those digging a well or by the people in dedication or celebration of completion of a well or perhaps even by women going to the well to draw water. This song may be the closest thing in Scripture to a "popular" song of the people (see Ps. 147, Music; Chart, Hymns and Songs Associated with Women). Certainly there is an element of joy due to their anticipation of crossing into the Promised Land. A NT parallel may be drawn from the account of Jesus offering Himself as "living water" to the woman who came to "draw water" at the well in Samaria (John 4:7–15).

22:8, 9 Balaam was solicited as a diviner (v. 7), and though he knew the Lord's revealed name, he certainly suffered from divided loyalty (see 2 Pet. 2:15). Nonetheless, God constrained him to bless, not curse, Israel (Num. 23:11, 20).

22:20 After the persuasive tactics of Balak, Balaam received God's permission to accept the invitation—but to speak "only the word" of God. Disobedience is often punished by God's permitting transgressions to produce their natural consequences (see Prov. 1:29–31).

22:28–31 Consistency requires us to believe all, not just part, of the Balaam narrative, which would include the speech delivered in a supernatural way from the mouth of his donkey. "The Lord opened the mouth of the donkey" in order to open the eyes of its master Balaam (vv. 28, 31).

THE JOURNEY TO CANAAN



The itinerary of travel from the Wilderness to Canaan is not given in Scripture, but this route is suggested.

at Heshbon." [35]So they defeated him, his sons, and all his people, until there was no survivor left him; and they took possession of his land.

Balak Sends for Balaam

22 Then the children of Israel moved, and camped in the plains of Moab on the side of the Jordan across from Jericho.

[2]Now Balak the son of Zippor saw all that Israel had done to the Amorites. [3]And Moab was exceedingly afraid of the people because they were many, and Moab was sick with dread because of the children of Israel. [4]So Moab said to the elders of Midian, "Now this company will lick up everything around us, as an ox licks up the grass of the field." And Balak the son of Zippor was king of the Moabites at that time. [5]Then he sent messengers to Balaam the son of Beor at Pethor, which is near the River[a] in the land of the sons of his people,[b] to call him, saying: "Look, a people has come from Egypt. See, they cover the face of the earth, and are settling next to me! [6]Therefore please come at once, curse this people for me, for they are too mighty for me. Perhaps I shall be able to defeat them and drive them out of the land, for I know that he whom you bless is blessed, and he whom you curse is cursed."

[7]So the elders of Moab and the elders of Midian departed with the diviner's fee in their hand, and they came to Balaam and spoke to him the words of Balak. [8]And he said to them, "Lodge here tonight, and I will bring back word to you, as the LORD speaks to me." So the princes of Moab stayed with Balaam.

[9]Then God came to Balaam and said, "Who are these men with you?"

[10]So Balaam said to God, "Balak the son of Zippor, king of Moab, has sent to me, saying, [11]'Look, a people has come out of Egypt, and they cover the face of the earth. Come now, curse them for me; perhaps I shall be able to overpower them and drive them out.' "

[12]And God said to Balaam, "You shall not go with them; you shall not curse the people, for they are blessed."

[13]So Balaam rose in the morning and said to 22:5 [a]That is, the Euphrates [b]Or the people of Amau

the princes of Balak, "Go back to your land, for the LORD has refused to give me permission to go with you."

14And the princes of Moab rose and went to Balak, and said, "Balaam refuses to come with us."

15Then Balak again sent princes, more numerous and more honorable than they. 16And they came to Balaam and said to him, "Thus says Balak the son of Zippor: 'Please let nothing hinder you from coming to me; 17for I will certainly honor you greatly, and I will do whatever you say to me. Therefore please come, curse this people for me.' "

18Then Balaam answered and said to the servants of Balak, "Though Balak were to give me his house full of silver and gold, I could not go beyond the word of the LORD my God, to do less or more. 19Now therefore, please, you also stay here tonight, that I may know what more the LORD will say to me."

20And God came to Balaam at night and said to him, "If the men come to call you, rise and go with them; but only the word which I speak to you—that you shall do." 21So Balaam rose in the morning, saddled his donkey, and went with the princes of Moab.

Balaam, the Donkey, and the Angel

22Then God's anger was aroused because he went, and the Angel of the LORD took His stand in the way as an adversary against him. And he was riding on his donkey, and his two servants were with him. 23Now the donkey saw the Angel of the LORD standing in the way with His drawn sword in His hand, and the donkey turned aside out of the way and went into the field. So Balaam struck the donkey to turn her back onto the road. 24Then the Angel of the LORD stood in a narrow path between the vineyards, with a wall on this side and a wall on that side. 25And when the donkey saw the Angel of the LORD, she pushed herself against the wall and crushed Balaam's foot against the wall; so he struck her again. 26Then the Angel of the LORD went further, and stood in a narrow place where there was no way to turn either to the right hand or to the left. 27And when the donkey saw the Angel of the LORD, she lay down under Balaam; so Balaam's anger was aroused, and he struck the donkey with his staff.

28Then the LORD opened the mouth of the donkey, and she said to Balaam, "What have I done to you, that you have struck me these three times?"

29And Balaam said to the donkey, "Because you have abused me. I wish there were a sword in my hand, for now I would kill you!"

30So the donkey said to Balaam, "Am I not your donkey on which you have ridden, ever since I became yours, to this day? Was I ever disposed to do this to you?"

And he said, "No."

31Then the LORD opened Balaam's eyes, and he saw the Angel of the LORD standing in the way with His drawn sword in His hand; and he bowed his head and fell flat on his face. 32And the Angel of the LORD said to him, "Why have you struck your donkey these three times? Behold, I have come out to stand against you, because your way is perverse before Me. 33The donkey saw Me and turned aside from Me these three times. If she had not turned aside from Me, surely I would also have killed you by now, and let her live."

34And Balaam said to the Angel of the LORD, "I have sinned, for I did not know You stood in the way against me. Now therefore, if it displeases You, I will turn back."

35Then the Angel of the LORD said to Balaam, "Go with the men, but only the word that I speak to you, that you shall speak." So Balaam went with the princes of Balak.

36Now when Balak heard that Balaam was coming, he went out to meet him at the city of Moab, which is on the border at the Arnon, the boundary of the territory. 37Then Balak said to Balaam, "Did I not earnestly send to you, calling for you? Why did you not come to me? Am I not able to honor you?"

38And Balaam said to Balak, "Look, I have come to you! Now, have I any power at all to say anything? The word that God puts in my mouth, that I must speak." 39So Balaam went with Balak, and they came to Kirjath Huzoth. 40Then Balak offered oxen and sheep, and he sent some to Balaam and to the princes who were with him.

Balaam's First Prophecy

41So it was, the next day, that Balak took Balaam and brought him up to the high places of Baal, that from there he might observe the extent of the people.

23 Then Balaam said to Balak, "Build seven altars for me here, and prepare for me here seven bulls and seven rams."

22:41 Balak brought Balaam up to three "high places": the worship site of Baal, Pisgah (Num. 23:14), and Peor (Num. 23:28). Each was probably higher than the last, mounting along with Balak's desperation to impress Balaam with the vast Israelite camp and the "extent" of his problem.

23:1 Traditionally, a monarch might also act as priest, and "seven" would have been a significant number of altars. For Israel, multiple altars meant idolatry. Later Balaam told God about these altars, but God ignored that and emphasized His Word (vv. 4, 5). In all of Balaam's "seven" oracles, he employed the Hebrew poetic use of synonymous parallelism, in which the second line repeats the thought of the first (Num. 22—24).

2 And Balak did just as Balaam had spoken, and Balak and Balaam offered a bull and a ram on each altar. 3 Then Balaam said to Balak, "Stand by your burnt offering, and I will go; perhaps the LORD will come to meet me, and whatever He shows me
I will tell you." So he went to a desolate height.
4 And God met Balaam, and he said to Him, "I have prepared the seven altars, and I have offered on each altar a bull and a ram."
5 Then the LORD put a word in Balaam's mouth, and said, "Return to Balak, and thus you shall speak." 6 So he returned to him, and there he was, standing by his burnt offering, he and all the princes of Moab.
7 And he took up his oracle and said:

"Balak the king of Moab has brought me from Aram,
From the mountains of the east.
'Come, curse Jacob for me,
And come, denounce Israel!'

8 "How shall I curse whom God has not cursed?
And how shall I denounce whom the LORD has not denounced?
9 For from the top of the rocks I see him,
And from the hills I behold him;
There! A people dwelling alone,
Not reckoning itself among the nations.

10 "Who can count the dust[a] of Jacob,
Or number one-fourth of Israel?
Let me die the death of the righteous,
And let my end be like his!"

11 Then Balak said to Balaam, "What have you done to me? I took you to curse my enemies, and look, you have blessed them bountifully!" 12 So he answered and said, "Must I not take heed to speak what the LORD has put in my mouth?"

Balaam's Second Prophecy

13 Then Balak said to him, "Please come with me to another place from which you may see them; you shall see only the outer part of them, and shall not see them all; curse them for me from there." 14 So he brought him to the field of Zophim, to the top of Pisgah, and built seven altars, and offered a bull and a ram on each altar.
15 And he said to Balak, "Stand here by your burnt offering while I meet[a] the LORD over there." 16 Then the LORD met Balaam, and put a word in his mouth, and said, "Go back to Balak, and thus you shall speak." 17 So he came to him, and there he was, standing by his burnt offering, and the princes of Moab were with him. And Balak said to him, "What has the LORD spoken?"
18 Then he took up his oracle and said:

"Rise up, Balak, and hear!
Listen to me, son of Zippor!

19 "God is not a man, that He should lie,
Nor a son of man, that He should repent.
Has He said, and will He not do?
Or has He spoken, and will He not make it good?
20 Behold, I have received a command to bless;
He has blessed, and I cannot reverse it.

21 "He has not observed iniquity in Jacob,
Nor has He seen wickedness in Israel.
The LORD his God is with him,
And the shout of a King is among them.
22 God brings them out of Egypt;
He has strength like a wild ox.

23 "For there is no sorcery against Jacob,
Nor any divination against Israel.
It now must be said of Jacob
And of Israel, 'Oh, what God has done!'
24 Look, a people rises like a lioness,
And lifts itself up like a lion;
It shall not lie down until it devours the prey,
And drinks the blood of the slain."

25 Then Balak said to Balaam, "Neither curse them at all, nor bless them at all!" 26 So Balaam answered and said to Balak, "Did I not tell you, saying, 'All that the LORD speaks, that I must do'?"

Balaam's Third Prophecy

27 Then Balak said to Balaam, "Please come, I will take you to another place; perhaps it will please God that you may curse them for me from there." 28 So Balak took Balaam to the top of Peor,

23:10 [a]Or dust cloud 23:15 [a]Following Masoretic Text, Targum, and Vulgate; Syriac reads call; Septuagint reads go and ask God.

23:9 Under the constraint of God, Balaam spoke an important truth about Israel: The separateness of Israel from other nations in a physical and spiritual sense was absolutely essential (Deut. 7:6). Throughout history God has proven that those who belong to Him are powerful.

23:10, 11 Balak was displeased that Balaam's oracle turned out to be a blessing on his enemy. As God had promised blessing to Abraham (Gen. 12:2), so He informed Balaam earlier that "they are blessed" (Num. 22:12). Balaam would have counted it a privilege to be as blessed as the people of God (Num. 23:10).

23:21 God neither ignores nor excuses "iniquity" and "wickedness," but His enduring mercy and love is intent on keeping His covenant relationship. While God cannot abide sin, He does abide with His people.

that overlooks the wasteland.[a] 29Then Balaam said to Balak, "Build for me here seven altars, and prepare for me here seven bulls and seven rams." 30And Balak did as Balaam had said, and offered a bull and a ram on every altar.

24 Now when Balaam saw that it pleased the LORD to bless Israel, he did not go as at other times, to seek to use sorcery, but he set his face toward the wilderness. 2And Balaam raised his eyes, and saw Israel encamped according to their tribes; and the Spirit of God came upon him.
3Then he took up his oracle and said:

"The utterance of Balaam the son of Beor,
The utterance of the man whose eyes are opened,
4The utterance of him who hears the words of God,
Who sees the vision of the Almighty,
Who falls down, with eyes wide open:

5"How lovely are your tents, O Jacob!
Your dwellings, O Israel!
6Like valleys that stretch out,
Like gardens by the riverside,
Like aloes planted by the LORD,
Like cedars beside the waters.
7He shall pour water from his buckets,
And his seed shall be in many waters.

"His king shall be higher than Agag,
And his kingdom shall be exalted.

8"God brings him out of Egypt;
He has strength like a wild ox;
He shall consume the nations, his enemies;
He shall break their bones
And pierce them with his arrows.
9"He bows down, he lies down as a lion;
And as a lion, who shall rouse him?'[a]

"Blessed is he who blesses you,
And cursed is he who curses you."

10Then Balak's anger was aroused against Balaam, and he struck his hands together; and Balak said to Balaam, "I called you to curse my enemies, and look, you have bountifully blessed them these three times! 11Now therefore, flee to your place. I said I would greatly honor you, but in fact, the LORD has kept you back from honor."

12So Balaam said to Balak, "Did I not also speak to your messengers whom you sent to me, saying, 13'If Balak were to give me his house full of silver and gold, I could not go beyond the word of the LORD, to do good or bad of my own will. What the LORD says, that I must speak'? 14And now, indeed, I am going to my people. Come, I will advise you what this people will do to your people in the latter days."

Balaam's Fourth Prophecy

15So he took up his oracle and said:

"The utterance of Balaam the son of Beor,
And the utterance of the man whose eyes are opened;
16The utterance of him who hears the words of God,
And has the knowledge of the Most High,
Who sees the vision of the Almighty,
Who falls down, with eyes wide open:

17"I see Him, but not now;
I behold Him, but not near;
A Star shall come out of Jacob;
A Scepter shall rise out of Israel,
And batter the brow of Moab,
And destroy all the sons of tumult.[a]

18"And Edom shall be a possession;
Seir also, his enemies, shall be a possession,
While Israel does valiantly.
19Out of Jacob One shall have dominion,
And destroy the remains of the city."

20Then he looked on Amalek, and he took up his oracle and said:

"Amalek was first among the nations,
But shall be last until he perishes."

21Then he looked on the Kenites, and he took up his oracle and said:

"Firm is your dwelling place,
And your nest is set in the rock;
22Nevertheless Kain shall be burned.
How long until Asshur carries you away captive?"

23:28 [a]Hebrew Jeshimon 24:9 [a]Genesis 49:9 24:17 [a]Hebrew Sheth (compare Jeremiah 48:45)

24:2 The Spirit of God came upon Balaam when from Mt. Peor he saw the broad expanse of the Israelite encampment (Num. 23:28). Under inspiration he uttered an accurate and amazing prophecy describing the future of God's people. Balaam was enabled for a particular time to accomplish God's purpose. However, in no sense is this equal to the anointing of God's Spirit (Is. 61:1) or the gift of the Holy Spirit at Pentecost (Acts 2:1–4). In similar fashion, God used an unlikely person in Caiaphas to declare His Purposes (see John 11:49–52).

24:17 While the content of this verse was realized in King David, who conquered the Moabites, it also may be related to David's greater Son, born "King of the Jews," whose kingdom is everlasting (Matt. 1:17; 2:2). Jude later wrote of a similar prophecy of judgment by Enoch (Jude 14, 15).

23 Then he took up his oracle and said:

"Alas! Who shall live when God does this?
24 But ships shall come from the coasts of Cyprus,[a]
And they shall afflict Asshur and afflict Eber,
And so shall Amalek,[b] until he perishes."

25 So Balaam rose and departed and returned to his place; Balak also went his way.

Israel's Harlotry in Moab

25 Now Israel remained in Acacia Grove,[a] and the people began to commit harlotry with the women of Moab. 2 They invited the people to the sacrifices of their gods, and the people ate and bowed down to their gods. 3 So Israel was joined to Baal of Peor, and the anger of the LORD was aroused against Israel.

4 Then the LORD said to Moses, "Take all the leaders of the people and hang the offenders before the LORD, out in the sun, that the fierce anger of the LORD may turn away from Israel."

5 So Moses said to the judges of Israel, "Every one of you kill his men who were joined to Baal of Peor."

6 And indeed, one of the children of Israel came and presented to his brethren a Midianite woman in the sight of Moses and in the sight of all the congregation of the children of Israel, who were weeping at the door of the tabernacle of meeting. 7 Now when Phinehas the son of Eleazar, the son of Aaron the priest, saw it, he rose from among the congregation and took a javelin in his hand; 8 and he went after the man of Israel into the tent and thrust both of them through, the man of Israel, and the woman through her body. So the plague was stopped among the children of Israel. 9 And those who died in the plague were twenty-four thousand.

10 Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: 11 "Phinehas the son of Eleazar, the son of Aaron the priest, has turned back My wrath from the children of Israel, because he was zealous with My zeal among them, so that I did not consume the children of Israel in My zeal. 12 Therefore say, 'Behold, I give to him My covenant of peace; 13 and it shall be to him and his descendants after him a covenant of an everlasting priesthood, because he was zealous for his God, and made atonement for the children of Israel.' "

14 Now the name of the Israelite who was killed, who was killed with the Midianite woman, was Zimri the son of Salu, a leader of a father's house among the Simeonites. 15 And the name of the Midianite woman who was killed was Cozbi the daughter of Zur; he was head of the people of a father's house in Midian.

16 Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: 17 "Harass the Midianites, and attack them; 18 for they harassed you with their schemes by which they seduced you in the matter of Peor and in the matter of Cozbi, the daughter of a leader of Midian, their sister, who was killed in the day of the plague because of Peor."

The Second Census of Israel

26 And it came to pass, after the plague, that the LORD spoke to Moses and Eleazar the

24:24 [a]Hebrew Kittim [b]Literally he or that one 25:1 [a]Hebrew Shittim

24:25 After all that had been spoken about the Lord and His purposes for Israel, Balaam and Balak, seemingly unmoved, returned to their previous ways. No further reference to Balak appears in Scripture; Balaam was later killed in a battle between the Midianites and Israel (Num. 31:8).

25:1–3 What Balak could not achieve with sorcery was almost accomplished by subversion (Num. 22—24). Through the counsel of Balaam (Num. 31:16), "the women of Moab . . . invited" the men of Israel to eat and sleep with them (Num. 26:1, 2). Succumbing to harlotry led to idolatry, and God's people began worshiping Moab's god Baal of Peor. The Hebrew word Ba'al means "master, possessor, husband"; hence the word "joined" is used when referring to the result of Israel's unholy alliance with harlots. No wonder God was enraged (Num. 25:3).

25:10–13 God's anger over Israel's sin resulted in an execution (v. 4), a plague (v. 9), and a battle (v. 17). One man, Phinehas, grandson of Aaron, exacted judgment upon two specific offenders who shamelessly continued in immorality, even while the congregation showed signs of contrition (v. 6). God vindicated Phinehas as "zealous" and counted his action as atonement for His people.

25:14, 15 The names of the two slain people and their families are given. Cozbi (lit. "my lie" or "deception") is identified only as the daughter of Zur, a Midianite king (Num. 31:8). Her claim to fame is as an example of the tragic deception found in pagan worship (Num. 25:15, 18). She may have been a pagan priestess. Some interpret the presentation of the Midianite woman to be a reference to her involvement with the Israelite in immoral intimacy, as in Baal worship, at the very entrance to the tabernacle (v. 6). Both Zimri, a prince in the house of Simeon, and Cozbi were from prominent noble families and had promising futures.

26:2 A second census was required to determine Israel's military strength for further battles and to ascertain their numerical size before land grants in Canaan could be issued. Two significant differences appear between the first census (Num. 1) and the second (Num. 26). The term "the family of" (v. 5) is used more often in the second census than "the son of" (Num. 1:5). Also the total size of some tribes had changed drastically. For example, the tribe of Reuben had decreased by 2,770, while the tribe of Benjamin had increased by 10,200. Within the account of the second census are several other items of interest (Num. 26). The children of Korah were spared death in the earthquake of judgment (v. 32). Zelophehad, from the tribe of Manasseh, "had no sons" (v. 33), and his daughters requested attention later (see Num. 26, Daughters of Zelophehad). Serah, daughter of Asher, was listed among her brothers (Num. 26:46; see also Gen. 46:17; 1 Chr. 7:30).

THE DAUGHTERS OF ZELOPHEHAD

God's law-and-order training for His formerly enslaved people included careful directions about the passing of property rights from one generation to the next. Under Israel's patriarchal system, the land and related responsibilities were distributed to each tribe descending from the sons of Jacob. But what about the inheritance when there was no son?

Gilead was the great-grandson of Joseph through Manasseh (see Gen. 48:14–20). Generations later, one of Gilead's grandsons had five daughters, and the legacy of land did not fit the prescribed legal pattern. Moses' leadership here reveals God's careful concern for women. First, they were given the right to choose their own husbands. Even though families gave (or withheld) consent, the bride made the final decision. Her choice was to be within the tribe, which would retain her inheritance within the extended family. The record shows that the daughters of Zelophehad complied.

Each daughter is named (Mahlah, Noah, Hoglah, Milcah, and Tirzah; see Num. 26:33; 27:1; 36:11), emphasizing that God sees each as an individual and holds each responsible for the privilege of living and contributing to her community. Moreover, the women initiated the request for their inheritance through prescribed channels, with a review of their family history (Num. 27:1–8). They were not just asking for property previously held by their father but for what had been promised. Thus their request was an act of faith. As their divinely appointed leader, Moses affirmed them (Num. 27:5–7) and elevated them to equality with their male cousins in terms of family wealth.

The orderliness of God's economy is always based on sound reasoning. The space devoted to these heirs demonstrates that God does not accord secondary status to women; but neither does He elevate women over men. His balance of power is perfect and His expectations purposeful. Daughters were to marry and bear children; owners were to guard their estates with serious stewardship so that all might benefit (see Num. 36:3, 4, 8). From what may appear as a trivial legal matter, the daughters of Zelophehad speak to us about God's priorities for community welfare and personal security.

son of Aaron the priest, saying: 2"Take a census of all the congregation of the children of Israel from twenty years old and above, by their fathers' houses, all who are able to go to war in Israel." 3So Moses and Eleazar the priest spoke with them in the plains of Moab by the Jordan, across from Jericho, saying: 4"Take a census of the people from twenty years old and above, just as the LORD commanded Moses and the children of Israel who came out of the land of Egypt."

5Reuben was the firstborn of Israel. The children of Reuben were: of Hanoch, the family of the Hanochites; of Pallu, the family of the Palluites; 6*of* Hezron, the family of the Hezronites; of Carmi, the family of the Carmites. 7These are the families of the Reubenites: those who were numbered of them were forty-three thousand seven hundred and thirty. 8And the son of Pallu was Eliab. 9The sons of Eliab were Nemuel, Dathan, and Abiram. These are the Dathan and Abiram, representatives of the congregation, who contended against Moses and Aaron in the company of Korah, when they contended against the LORD; 10and the earth opened its mouth and swallowed them up together with Korah when that company died, when the fire devoured two hundred and fifty men; and they became a sign. 11Nevertheless the children of Korah did not die.

12The sons of Simeon according to their families were: of Nemuel,[a] the family of the Nemuelites; of Jamin, the family of the Jaminites; of Jachin,[b] the family of the Jachinites; 13*of* Zerah,[a] the family of the Zarhites; of Shaul, the family of the Shaulites. 14These are the families of the Simeonites: twenty-two thousand two hundred.

15The sons of Gad according to their families were: of Zephon,[a] the family of the Zephonites; of Haggi, the family of the Haggites; of Shuni, the family of the Shunites; 16*of* Ozni,[a] the family of the Oznites; of Eri, the family of the Erites; 17*of* Arod,[a] the family of the Arodites; of Areli, the family of the Arelites. 18These are the families of the sons of Gad according to those who were numbered of them: forty thousand five hundred.

19The sons of Judah were Er and Onan; and Er and Onan died in the land of Canaan. 20And the sons of Judah according to their families were: of Shelah, the family of the Shelanites; of Perez, the family of the Parzites; of Zerah, the family of the Zarhites. 21And the sons of Perez were: of Hezron, the family of the Hezronites; of Hamul, the family of the Hamulites. 22These are the families of Judah

In his earliest dealings with the people of Israel, God asked obedience and they disobeyed. God gave them promises, dependent on their willingness to do what he asked, and they did not do it. But he did not give them up. It was the glory of his own name that was at stake. . . . In countless ways he bore with them, corrected them, punished them, goaded them, and brought them to the Promised Land. His love for them was inexorable.

23The sons of Issachar according to their families were: of Tola, the family of the Tolaites; of Puah,[a] the family of the Punites;[b] 24of Jashub, the family of the Jashubites; of Shimron, the family of the Shimronites. 25These are the families of Issachar according to those who were numbered of them: sixty-four thousand three hundred.

26The sons of Zebulun according to their families were: of Sered, the family of the Sardites; of Elon, the family of the Elonites; of Jahleel, the family of the Jahleelites. 27These are the families of the Zebulunites according to those who were numbered of them: sixty thousand five hundred.

35These are the sons of Ephraim according to their families: of Shuthelah, the family of the Shuthalhites; of Becher,[a] the family of the Bachrites; of Tahan, the family of the Tahanites. 36And these are the sons of Shuthelah: of Eran, the family of the Eranites. 37These are the families of the sons of Ephraim according to those who were numbered of them: thirty-two thousand five hundred.

These are the sons of Joseph according to their families.

38The sons of Benjamin according to their families were: of Bela, the family of the Belaites; of Ashbel, the family of the Ashbelites; of Ahiram, the family of the Ahiramites; 39of Shupham,[a] the family of the Shuphamites; of Hupham,[b] the family of the Huphamites. 40And the sons of Bela were Ard[a] and Naaman: of Ard, the family of the Ardites; of Naaman, the family of the Naamites. 41These are the sons of Benjamin according to their families; and those who were numbered of them were forty-five thousand six hundred.

42These are the sons of Dan according to their families: of Shuham,[a] the family of the Shuhamites. These are the families of Dan according to their families. 43All the families of the Shuhamites, according to those who were numbered of them, were sixty-four thousand four hundred.

44The sons of Asher according to their families were: of Jimna, the family of the Jimnites; of Jesui, the family of the Jesuites; of Beriah, the family of the Beriites. 45Of the sons of Beriah: of Heber, the family of the Heberites; of Malchiel, the family of the Malchielites. 46And the name of the daughter of Asher was Serah. 47These are the families of the sons of Asher according to those who were numbered of them: fifty-three thousand four hundred.

48The sons of Naphtali according to their families were: of Jahzeel,[a] the family of the Jahzeelites; of Guni, the family of the Gunites; 49of Jezer, the family of the Jezerites; of Shillem, the family of the Shillemites. 50These are the families of Naphtali according to their families; and those who were numbered of them were forty-five thousand four hundred.

51These are those who were numbered of the children of Israel: six hundred and one thousand seven hundred and thirty.

52Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: 53"To these the land shall be divided as an inheritance, according to the number of names. 54To a large tribe you shall give a larger inheritance, and to a small tribe you shall give a smaller inheritance. Each shall be given its inheritance according to those who were numbered of them. 55But the land shall be divided by lot; they shall inherit according to the names of the tribes of their fathers. 56According to the lot their inheritance shall be divided between the larger and the smaller."

57And these are those who were numbered of the Levites according to their families: of Gershon, the family of the Gershonites; of Kohath, the family of the Kohathites; of Merari, the family of the Merarites. 58These are the families of the Levites: the family of the Libnites, the family of the Hebronites, the family of the Mahlites, the family of the Mushites, and the family of the Korathites. And Kohath begot Amram. 59The name of Amram's wife was Jochebed the daughter of Levi, who was born to Levi in Egypt; and to Amram she bore Aaron and Moses and their sister Miriam. 60To Aaron were born Nadab and Abihu, Eleazar and Ithamar. 61And Nadab and Abihu died when they offered profane fire before the LORD.

62Now those who were numbered of them were twenty-three thousand, every male from a month old and above; for they were not numbered among the other children of Israel, because there was no inheritance given to them among the children of Israel.

63These are those who were numbered by Moses and Eleazar the priest, who numbered the children of Israel in the plains of Moab by the Jordan, across from Jericho. 64But among these there was not a man of those who were numbered by Moses and Aaron the priest when they numbered the children of Israel in the Wilderness of Sinai. 65For the LORD had said of them, "They shall surely die in the wilderness." So there was not left a man of them, except Caleb the son of Jephunneh and Joshua the son of Nun.

Inheritance Laws

27 Then came the daughters of Zelophehad the son of Hepher, the son of Gilead, the son of Machir, the son of Manasseh, from the families of Manasseh the son of Joseph; and these were the names of his daughters: Mahlah, Noah, Hoglah, Milcah, and Tirzah. 2And they stood before Moses, before Eleazar the priest, and before the leaders and all the congregation, by the doorway of the tabernacle of meeting, saying: 3"Our father died in the wilderness; but he was not in the company of those who gathered together against the LORD, in company with Korah, but he died in his own sin; and he had no sons. 4Why should the name of our father be removed from among his family because he had no son? Give us a possession among our father's brothers."

5So Moses brought their case before the LORD.

6And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: 7"The daughters of Zelophehad speak what is right; you shall surely give them a possession of inheritance among their father's brothers, and cause the inheritance of their father to pass to them. 8And you shall speak to the children of Israel, saying: 'If a man dies and has no son, then you shall cause his inheritance to pass to his daughter. 9If he has no daughter, then you shall give his inheritance to his brothers. 10If he has no brothers, then you shall give his inheritance to his father's brothers. 11And if his father has no brothers, then you shall give his inheritance to the relative closest to him in his family, and he shall possess it.' " And it shall be to the children of Israel a statute of judgment, just as the LORD commanded Moses.

Joshua the Next Leader of Israel

12Now the LORD said to Moses: "Go up into this Mount Abarim, and see the land which I have

26:62–65 The second generation needed counting because God's judgment was fulfilled: The first generation of Israelites had died in the wilderness due to unbelief (Num. 14:29). Only Caleb and Joshua were spared because of their confidence in God's faithfulness to bring them into the Land (Num. 14:30). Moses and Eleazar, also of the first generation census, were Levites and therefore "not numbered . . . because there was no inheritance" (Num. 26:62).

27:1–4 Other families without male heirs surely existed before this incident, but it is evident here that no precedent had been established for daughters to receive territorial inheritance. The request of Mahlah, Noah, Hoglah, Milcah, and Tirzah is indeed bold because land was bequeathed to sons and because they challenged the existing Hebrew law given by God's command (see Num. 26, Daughters of Zelophehad). Their challenge differs from that of Miriam because of motive (Num. 12:2; 27:4). Standing in the most public assembly before the tabernacle and before the male leaders, these five disadvantaged women also stood on their personal belief in God's promise of land not yet allocated (v. 2). Their concern was twofold: their father's land and his name. Without these they lacked hope of property or posterity under the present statutes (see Num. 36).

27:5–7 God declared the request of these five sisters to be right and allocated their due inheritance. The Hebrew word for "them" is masculine gender with two possibilities (v. 7): These daughters were either viewed the same as sons according to the law, or this reference was made to their future sons (see article, Renewed By His Grace).

27:11 A precedent was set. The new regulation was generalized and expanded to include situations similar to that presented by the daughters of Zelophehad. This "statute of judgment" was in regard to territorial inheritance.

27:12–14 Because Moses had rebelled, he could only view the Land of Promise but not enter it. This brings up a factor involved in biblical study—that of spiritualizing biblical narrative. The case in question is making the Exodus journey represent our spiritual pilgrimage and Canaan a type of heaven. While there are evident parallels, all "types" break down at some point. Thus, this form of study must be approached with great caution.

given to the children of Israel. 13And when you have seen it, you also shall be gathered to your people, as Aaron your brother was gathered. 14For in the Wilderness of Zin, during the strife of the congregation, you rebelled against My command to hallow Me at the waters before their eyes." (These are the waters of Meribah, at Kadesh in the Wilderness of Zin.)

15Then Moses spoke to the LORD, saying: 16"Let the LORD, the God of the spirits of all flesh, set a man over the congregation, 17who may go out before them and go in before them, who may lead them out and bring them in, that the congregation of the LORD may not be like sheep which have no shepherd."

18And the LORD said to Moses: "Take Joshua the son of Nun with you, a man in whom is the Spirit, and lay your hand on him; 19set him before Eleazar the priest and before all the congregation, and inaugurate him in their sight. 20And you shall give some of your authority to him, that all the congregation of the children of Israel may be obedient. 21He shall stand before Eleazar the priest, who shall inquire before the LORD for him by the judgment of the Urim. At his word they shall go out, and at his word they shall come in, he and all the children of Israel with him—all the congregation."

22So Moses did as the LORD commanded him. He took Joshua and set him before Eleazar the priest and before all the congregation. 23And he laid his hands on him and inaugurated him, just as the LORD commanded by the hand of Moses.

Daily Offerings

28 Now the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 2"Command the children of Israel, and say to them, 'My offering, My food for My offerings made by fire as a sweet aroma to Me, you shall be careful to offer to Me at their appointed time.'

3"And you shall say to them, 'This is the offering made by fire which you shall offer to the LORD: two male lambs in their first year without blemish, day by day, as a regular burnt offering. 4The one lamb you shall offer in the morning, the other lamb you shall offer in the evening, 5and one-tenth of an ephah of fine flour as a grain offering mixed with one-fourth of a hin of pressed oil. 6*It is* a regular burnt offering which was ordained at Mount Sinai for a sweet aroma, an offering made by fire to the LORD. 7And its drink offering shall be one-fourth of a hin for each lamb; in a holy place you shall pour out the drink to the LORD as an offering. 8The other lamb you shall offer in the evening; as the morning grain offering and its drink offering, you shall offer it as an offering made by fire, a sweet aroma to the LORD.

Sabbath Offerings

9"And on the Sabbath day two lambs in their first year, without blemish, and two-tenths of an ephah of fine flour as a grain offering, mixed with oil, with its drink offering— 10*this is* the burnt offering for every Sabbath, besides the regular burnt offering with its drink offering.

Monthly Offerings

11"At the beginnings of your months you shall present a burnt offering to the LORD: two young bulls, one ram, and seven lambs in their first year, without blemish; 12three-tenths of an ephah of fine flour as a grain offering, mixed with oil, for each bull; two-tenths of an ephah of fine flour as a grain offering, mixed with oil, for the one ram; 13and one-tenth of an ephah of fine flour, mixed with oil, as a grain offering for each lamb, as a burnt offering of sweet aroma, an offering made by fire to the LORD. 14Their drink offering shall be half a hin of wine for a bull, one-third of a hin for a ram, and one-fourth of a hin for a lamb; this is the burnt offering for each month throughout the months of the year. 15Also one kid of the goats as a sin offering to the LORD shall be offered, besides the regular burnt offering and its drink offering.

28:1–3 Personal possessive pronouns in these verses emphasize God's ownership of all that is offered to Him. All the silver and gold (Hag. 2:8), all the beasts and cattle belong to God; believers return or "offer" them to Him (Ps. 50:10). Focusing on the regularity of these sacrifices in the community of the redeemed reveals how they were naturally and spontaneously interwoven into the fabric of life itself—morning and evening and special sacrifices on the Sabbath and on the first of the month (Num. 28:2; Ps. 55:17; see Dan. 2:23, note; charts, The Offerings of the Lord; The Principle of the Sabbath). Actually the worship of God apart from sacrifice cannot be imagined, and an act cannot be identified as sacrifice without obedience (see 1 Sam. 15:22; Philem., Obedience). Any woman considering this overwhelming emphasis on sacrifice will be convicted of the importance of recognizing the holiness of God in contrast to her own sinfulness. Believers are challenged to establish a regular and "appointed time" to focus upon the Lord. A worthy investment of time and energies—an acceptable gift and not merely leftovers—must be given (see Lev. 22:17–33; 2 Sam. 24:24). These timely and acceptable sacrifices are "a sweet aroma to the Lord" (Num. 28:2, 6, 7), and our obedience—not the sacrificing itself—brings God pleasure (Ps. 40:6–8; Mic. 6:6–8; Rom. 12:1, 2). "Regular burnt offerings" were not made for atonement but expressed praise and thanks. Animals sacrificed for this purpose outnumbered those sacrificed for sin offerings on nearly a 40 to 1 ratio, indicating the importance of praise in Hebrew worship (see Ps. 150, Praise).

28:9 Sabbath offerings, mentioned here for the first time, are in addition to regular offerings. God commands observance of the Sabbath (Ex. 20:8–11; see chart, The Principle of the Sabbath), which He established at the time of creation (Gen. 2:3). The latter passage is the first reference to holiness or "setting apart."

Offerings at Passover

16"On the fourteenth day of the first month is the Passover of the LORD. 17And on the fifteenth day of this month is the feast; unleavened bread shall be eaten for seven days. 18On the first day you shall have a holy convocation. You shall do no customary work. 19And you shall present an offering made by fire as a burnt offering to the LORD: two young bulls, one ram, and seven lambs in their first year. Be sure they are without blemish. 20Their grain offering shall be of fine flour mixed with oil: three-tenths of an ephah you shall offer for a bull, and two-tenths for a ram; 21you shall offer one-tenth of an ephah for each of the seven lambs; 22also one goat as a sin offering, to make atonement for you. 23You shall offer these besides the burnt offering of the morning, which is for a regular burnt offering. 24In this manner you shall offer the food of the offering made by fire daily for seven days, as a sweet aroma to the LORD; it shall be offered besides the regular burnt offering and its drink offering. 25And on the seventh day you shall have a holy convocation. You shall do no customary work.

Offerings at the Feast of Weeks

26"Also on the day of the firstfruits, when you bring a new grain offering to the LORD at your Feast of Weeks, you shall have a holy convocation. You shall do no customary work. 27You shall present a burnt offering as a sweet aroma to the LORD: two young bulls, one ram, and seven lambs in their first year, 28with their grain offering of fine flour mixed with oil: three-tenths of an ephah for each bull, two-tenths for the one ram, 29and one-tenth for each of the seven lambs; 30*also* one kid of the goats, to make atonement for you. 31Be sure they are without blemish. You shall present them with their drink offerings, besides the regular burnt offering with its grain offering.

Offerings at the Feast of Trumpets

29 "And in the seventh month, on the first day of the month, you shall have a holy convocation. You shall do no customary work. For you it is a day of blowing the trumpets. 2You shall offer a burnt offering as a sweet aroma to the LORD: one young bull, one ram, and seven lambs in their first year, without blemish. 3Their grain offering shall be fine flour mixed with oil: three-tenths of an ephah for the bull, two-tenths for the ram, 4and one-tenth for each of the seven lambs; 5also one kid of the goats as a sin offering, to make atonement for you; 6besides the burnt offering with its grain offering for the New Moon, the regular burnt offering with its grain offering, and their drink offerings, according to their ordinance, as a sweet aroma, an offering made by fire to the LORD.

Offerings on the Day of Atonement

7"On the tenth day of this seventh month you shall have a holy convocation. You shall afflict your souls; you shall not do any work. 8You shall present a burnt offering to the LORD as a sweet aroma: one young bull, one ram, and seven lambs in their first year. Be sure they are without blemish. 9Their grain offering shall be of fine flour mixed with oil: three-tenths of an ephah for the bull, two-tenths for the one ram, 10and one-tenth for each of the seven lambs; 11also one kid of the goats as a sin offering, besides the sin offering for atonement, the regular burnt offering with its grain offering, and their drink offerings.

Offerings at the Feast of Tabernacles

12"On the fifteenth day of the seventh month you shall have a holy convocation. You shall do no customary work, and you shall keep a feast to the LORD seven days. 13You shall present a burnt offering, an offering made by fire as a sweet aroma to the LORD: thirteen young bulls, two rams, and fourteen lambs in their first year. They shall be without blemish. 14Their grain offering shall be of fine flour mixed with oil: three-tenths of an ephah for each of the thirteen bulls, two-tenths for each

28:16 Passover, along with other rituals, had not been kept by Israel during their wilderness wanderings. With their coming entry into the Promised Land, Israel was again instructed concerning the Passover ceremony. In the NT, Christ is often called the Passover Lamb, for He completed what had been given in part in the OT (1 Cor. 5:7).

28:26 The Feast of Weeks, celebrated at the time of barley harvest, is known in the NT as Pentecost because it came 50 days after Passover (or the Feast of Unleavened Bread; see chart, The Feasts of Israel).

29:1 The seventh or sabbatical month in the Hebrew calendar had more rituals than any other month (see chart, The Jewish Sacred Calendar). Ushered in with "a memorial of blowing of trumpets" (Lev. 23:24), it was known as the "Feast of Trumpets," the first of three holy days of the "seventh month" (see chart, The Feasts of Israel). The trumpets of verse 1 and Leviticus 23:24 were probably not the "silver trumpets" in Numbers 10:2 but the ram's horn (Heb. shophar) used for the Jubilee (see Lev. 25:9; see chart, The Principle of the Sabbath).

29:7–11 The Day of Atonement is the most sacred of all the Hebrew religious rites (see Lev. 16). Referenced as "the Fast" (Acts 27:9), it was accompanied by humiliation (Num. 29:7). God's moral Law was capable of revealing sin and bringing condemnation and accusation, but the Law was incomplete in that it was not capable of offering relief or salvation. Hence, the Israelites needed a system of sacrifices—"the sin offering for atonement" (v. 11; see chart, The Offerings of the Lord). Christ is the completed sacrifice, offered "once for all" (see Heb. 10:1–10).

of the two rams, 15and one-tenth for each of the fourteen lambs; 16also one kid of the goats as a sin offering, besides the regular burnt offering, its grain offering, and its drink offering.

17'On the second day present twelve young bulls, two rams, fourteen lambs in their first year without blemish, 18and their grain offering and their drink offerings for the bulls, for the rams, and for the lambs, by their number, according to the ordinance; 19also one kid of the goats as a sin offering, besides the regular burnt offering with its grain offering, and their drink offerings.

20'On the third day present eleven bulls, two rams, fourteen lambs in their first year without blemish, 21and their grain offering and their drink offerings for the bulls, for the rams, and for the lambs, by their number, according to the ordinance; 22also one goat as a sin offering, besides the regular burnt offering, its grain offering, and its drink offering.

26'On the fifth day present nine bulls, two rams, and fourteen lambs in their first year without blemish, 27and their grain offering and their drink offerings for the bulls, for the rams, and for the lambs, by their number, according to the ordinance; 28also one goat as a sin offering, besides the regular burnt offering, its grain offering, and its drink offering.

29'On the sixth day present eight bulls, two rams, and fourteen lambs in their first year without blemish, 30and their grain offering and their drink offerings for the bulls, for the rams, and for the lambs, by their number, according to the ordinance; 31also one goat as a sin offering, besides the regular burnt offering, its grain offering, and its drink offering.

32'On the seventh day present seven bulls, two rams, and fourteen lambs in their first year without blemish, 33and their grain offering and their drink offerings for the bulls, for the rams, and for the lambs, by their number, according to the ordinance; 34also one goat as a sin offering, besides the regular burnt offering, its grain offering, and its drink offering.

39'These you shall present to the LORD at your appointed feasts (besides your vowed offerings and your freewill offerings) as your burnt offerings and your grain offerings, as your drink offerings and your peace offerings.' "

40So Moses told the children of Israel everything, just as the LORD commanded Moses.

The Law Concerning Vows

30 Then Moses spoke to the heads of the tribes concerning the children of Israel, saying, "This is the thing which the LORD has commanded: 2If a man makes a vow to the LORD, or swears an oath to bind himself by some agreement, he shall not break his word; he shall do according to all that proceeds out of his mouth.

3"Or if a woman makes a vow to the LORD, and binds herself by some agreement while in her father's house in her youth, 4and her father hears her vow and the agreement by which she has bound herself, and her father holds his peace, then all her vows shall stand, and every agreement with which she has bound herself shall stand. 5But if her father overrules her on the day that he hears, then none of her vows nor her agreements by which she has bound herself shall stand; and the LORD will release her, because her father overruled her.

6"If indeed she takes a husband, while bound by her vows or by a rash utterance from her lips by which she bound herself, 7and her husband hears it, and makes no response to her on the day that he hears, then her vows shall stand, and her agreements by which she bound herself shall stand. 8But if her husband overrules her on the day that he hears it, he shall make void her vow which she took and what she uttered with her lips, by which she bound herself, and the LORD will release her.

9"Also any vow of a widow or a divorced woman, by which she has bound herself, shall stand against her.

10"If she vowed in her husband's house, or 30:13 When either a vow of performance or abstinence was made "to afflict her soul," a woman's motive was spiritual worship and involved humbling herself before the Lord. Hannah's vow is representative, for she asked the Lord, "Look on the affliction of Your maidservant," repeating "maidservant" three times in her vow (1 Sam. 1, Hannah, especially v. 11). It is also possible that the phrase is a way of indicating those cases in which a husband or father negated a vow because of its potential harm to the woman involved (see Vows).

bound herself by an agreement with an oath, 11and her husband heard it, and made no response to her and did not overrule her, then all her vows shall stand, and every agreement by which she bound herself shall stand. 12But if her husband truly made them void on the day he heard them, then whatever proceeded from her lips concerning her vows or concerning the agreement binding her, it shall not stand; her husband has made them void, and the LORD will release her. 13Every vow and every binding oath to afflict her soul, her husband may confirm it, or her husband may make it void. 14Now if her husband makes no response whatever to her from day to day, then he confirms all her vows or all the agreements that bind her; he confirms them, because he made no response to her on the day that he heard them.
15But if he does make them void after he has heard them, then he shall bear her guilt."

16These are the statutes which the LORD commanded Moses, between a man and his wife, and between a father and his daughter in her youth in her father's house.

Vengeance on the Midianites

31 And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying:
2"Take vengeance on the Midianites for the children of Israel. Afterward you shall be gathered to your people."

3So Moses spoke to the people, saying, "Arm some of yourselves for war, and let them go against the Midianites to take vengeance for the LORD on Midian. 4A thousand from each tribe of all the tribes of Israel you shall send to the war."

5So there were recruited from the divisions of Israel one thousand from each tribe, twelve thousand armed for war. 6Then Moses sent them to the war, one thousand from each tribe; he sent them to the war with Phinehas the son of Eleazar the priest, with the holy articles and the signal trumpets in his hand. 7And they warred against the Midianites, just as the LORD commanded Moses, and they killed all the males. 8They killed the kings of Midian with the rest of those who were killed—Evi, Rekem, Zur, Hur, and Reba, the five kings of Midian. Balaam the son of Beor they also killed with the sword.

9And the children of Israel took the women of Midian captive, with their little ones, and took as spoil all their cattle, all their flocks, and all their goods. 10They also burned with fire all the cities where they dwelt, and all their forts. 11And they took all the spoil and all the booty—of man and beast.

Return from the War

12Then they brought the captives, the booty, and the spoil to Moses, to Eleazar the priest, and to the congregation of the children of Israel, to the camp in the plains of Moab by the Jordan, across from Jericho. 13And Moses, Eleazar the priest, and all the leaders of the congregation, went to meet them outside the camp. 14But Moses was angry with the officers of the army, with the captains over thousands and captains over hundreds, who had come from the battle.

15And Moses said to them: "Have you kept all the women alive? 16Look, these women caused the children of Israel, through the counsel of Balaam, to trespass against the LORD in the incident of Peor, and there was a plague among the congregation of the LORD. 17Now therefore, kill every male among the little ones, and kill every woman who has known a man intimately. 18But keep alive for yourselves all the young girls who have not known a man intimately. 19And as for you, remain outside the camp seven days; whoever has killed any person, and whoever has touched any slain, purify yourselves and your captives on the third day and on the seventh day. 20Purify every garment, everything made of leather, everything woven of goats' hair, and everything made of wood."

21Then Eleazar the priest said to the men of war who had gone to the battle, "This is the ordi-

31:1–5 When God's authority is challenged, He will legitimately "take vengeance," which is different than human revenge. After 40 years of wilderness training, some of these second-generation campers became foot soldiers in a holy war (v. 6), commanded by God in fulfillment of His judgment against the Midianites and "their schemes" (Num. 25:16–18).

31:6 Because Phinehas was not the high priest, these "holy articles" probably did not include the ark of the covenant, although this was not a presumptuous conflict (see Num. 14:44). After the war, the soldiers and their booty went through ritual cleansing (Num. 31:19–24), and offerings were made for atonement (v. 50).

31:7, 8 All the kings of Midian and all their male subjects were slain by the small squad of Israelite soldiers. The record of the conquest is brief, but the battle was crucial. Only with God's anointing could the Israelite soldiers have been so mighty in battle against these five monarchs. Among the kings was Zur, father of Cozbi, the only woman named in the shameless act of harlotry within the Israelite camp (Num. 25:14, 15, note). "Also killed with the sword" was Balaam, the false prophet who incited the idolatrous event with the Midianites (Num. 31:16; Rev. 2:14).

31:11, 12 Captives referred to women and children; "booty" included cattle; "spoil" was all the rest, the prizes due the conquerors (see v. 50 for examples).

31:14–18 Women and children of Midian were spared and this angered Moses. "These women caused" the "incident of Peor" that provoked God's judgment. So Moses commanded that only virgins be spared in the killings. That male children should be slain was reasonable because they would be future Midianites, posing a threat to the Israelites in their Land. God's passion for righteousness is not partial but calls for spiritual separation from all unrighteousness (see Josh. 6:17, note; Ezra 10:11; Rom. 1:18).

nance of the law which the LORD commanded Moses: 22"Only the gold, the silver, the bronze, the iron, the tin, and the lead, 23everything that can endure fire, you shall put through the fire, and it shall be clean; and it shall be purified with the water of purification. But all that cannot endure fire you shall put through water. 24And you shall wash your clothes on the seventh day and be clean, and afterward you may come into the camp."

Division of the Plunder

25Now the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: 26"Count up the plunder that was taken—of man and beast—you and Eleazar the priest and the chief fathers of the congregation; 27and divide the plunder into two parts, between those who took part in the war, who went out to battle, and all the congregation. 28And levy a tribute for the LORD on the men of war who went out to battle: one of every five hundred of the persons, the cattle, the donkeys, and the sheep; 29take it from their half, and give it to Eleazar the priest as a heave offering to the LORD. 30And from the children of Israel's half you shall take one of every fifty, drawn from the persons, the cattle, the donkeys, and the sheep, from all the livestock, and give them to the Levites who keep charge of the tabernacle of the LORD." 31So Moses and Eleazar the priest did as the LORD commanded Moses.

48Then the officers who were over thousands of the army, the captains of thousands and captains of hundreds, came near to Moses; 49and they said to Moses, "Your servants have taken a count of the men of war who are under our command, and not a man of us is missing. 50Therefore we have brought an offering for the LORD, what every man found of ornaments of gold: armlets and bracelets and signet rings and earrings and necklaces, to make atonement for ourselves before the LORD." 51So Moses and Eleazar the priest received the gold from them, all the fashioned ornaments. 52And all the gold of the offering that they offered to the LORD, from the captains of thousands and captains of hundreds, was sixteen thousand seven hundred and fifty shekels. 53(The men of war had taken spoil, every man for himself.) 54And Moses and Eleazar the priest received the gold from the captains of thousands and of hundreds, and brought it into the tabernacle of meeting as a memorial for the children of Israel before the LORD.

The Tribes Settling East of the Jordan

32 Now the children of Reuben and the children of Gad had a very great multitude of livestock; and when they saw the land of Jazer and the land of Gilead, that indeed the region was a place for livestock, 2the children of Gad and the children of Reuben came and spoke to Moses, to Eleazar the priest, and to the leaders of the congregation, saying, 3"Ataroth, Dibon, Jazer, Nimrah, Heshbon, Elealeh, Shebam, Nebo, and Beon, 4the country which the LORD defeated before the congregation of Israel, is a land for livestock, and your servants have livestock." 5Therefore they said, "If we have found favor in your sight, let this land be given to your servants as a possession. Do not take us over the Jordan."

6And Moses said to the children of Gad and to the children of Reuben: "Shall your brethren go to war while you sit here? 7Now why will you discourage the heart of the children of Israel from going over into the land which the LORD has given them? 8Thus your fathers did when I sent them away from Kadesh Barnea to see the land. 9For when they went up to the Valley of Eshcol and saw the 31:25–31 The plunder was divided between those who went to war and those who stayed in camp. Both divisions were to "levy" (lit. "lift up") a "tribute for the Lord," a "heave offering." The soldiers contributed half of 0.2 percent to the priests, and the congregation 2 percent to the Levites. It was God who set the equitable portions. Over and above the Lord's request, a thank offering was made by the "captains" because all the troops had been spared (vv. 48–54; see chart, The Offerings of the Lord).

VOWS EXPRESSIONS OF DEVOTION

In Scripture, vows were voluntary expressions of devotion and could be made by both women and men. At the same time, once spoken aloud, a vow became a sacred duty (Deut. 23:21–23), which could be

- positive—a promise to give something (Heb. neder, lit. "vow") or
- negative—a promise to abstain from something (Heb. issar, lit. "bond").

In the Old Testament, vows were often conditional promises made to God, which hinged upon His doing something to promote an act of devotion. Such was the case of Hannah who promised God that if He gave her a son, she would return him to the Lord (1 Sam. 1:11). On the other hand, some vows were made purely out of personal devotion with no conditions, such as Ruth's vow to Naomi (Ruth 1:16, 17). Almost anything might be promised to God by a vow and could be redeemed by money—the value ascribed to the item or person, plus one-fifth (see Lev. 27). These vows were made in the context of worship. Numbers 30 follows the discussion of offerings and feasts. In gratitude "for all His benefits," the psalmist paid vows "to the Lord" (Ps. 116:12–14).

Vows in Numbers 30 cover four classifications of women: unmarried girls living with their fathers (vv. 3–5); women unmarried when they made a vow but married before the vow was fulfilled (vv. 6–8); widows or divorced women (v. 9); and married women (vv. 10–15). A husband could veto his wife's vow and a father the vow of his daughter, but the veto had to be uttered when the husband or father first heard the vow made. The underlying principle of this veto is the protection due women by those responsible for them—a father for his daughter (v. 5), a husband for his wife (v. 13). When vetoed, a broken vow incurred neither guilt nor punishment upon the woman (vv. 5, 8). The heavier liability rested with the one responsible for her protection (see v. 15). Neither the wife nor daughter is bound, even by a spiritual vow, if her husband or father in some way prohibits her keeping that vow (Num. 30:8). Widows and divorced women were not affected by a veto (v. 9).

The most sacred promise made in Scripture—a vow that cannot be broken—is the covenant God made with His people. God repeated several times His vow to keep the promises He made to Abraham and Israel (Gen. 22:16–18; Ps. 89:35; Is. 45:23; Jer. 44:26; Amos 6:8). The New Testament confirms that God's promises are a "binding oath" (Luke 1:73–75; Acts 2:30; Heb. 7:20–25).

Jesus taught that a person's word, or promise, is as binding as a sacred oath, regardless of the cleverness by which a promise might be phrased (Matt. 5:33–37). Whether conditional or not, vows are made to be kept, and an unfulfilled vow is worse than no vow at all (Eccl. 5:4, 5).

See also Lam. 3:22, note; notes on Commitment (Matt. 16); Marriage (Gen. 2; 2 Sam. 6; Prov. 5; Hos. 2; Amos 3; 2 Cor. 13; Heb. 12); Weddings (John 2); portrait of Jepthah's Obedient Daughter (Judg. 11)

land, they discouraged the heart of the children of Israel, so that they did not go into the land which the LORD had given them. 10So the LORD's anger was aroused on that day, and He swore an oath, saying, 11'Surely none of the men who came up from Egypt, from twenty years old and above, shall see the land of which I swore to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, because they have not wholly followed Me, 12except Caleb the son of Jephunneh, the Kenizzite, and Joshua the son of Nun, for they have wholly followed the LORD.' 13So the LORD's anger was aroused against Israel, and He made them wander in the wilderness forty years, until all the generation that had done evil in the sight of the LORD was gone. 14And look! You have risen in your fathers' place, a brood of sinful men, to increase still more the fierce anger of the LORD against Israel. 15For if you turn away from following Him, He will once again leave them in the wilderness, and you will destroy all these people."

16Then they came near to him and said: "We will build sheepfolds here for our livestock, and cities for our little ones, 17but we ourselves will be armed, ready to go before the children of Israel until we have brought them to their place; and our little ones will dwell in the fortified cities because of the inhabitants of the land. 18We will not return to our homes until every one of the children of Israel has received his inheritance. 19For we will not inherit with them on the other side of the Jordan and beyond, because our inheritance has fallen to us on this eastern side of the Jordan."

20Then Moses said to them: "If you do this thing, if you arm yourselves before the LORD for the war, 21and all your armed men cross over the Jordan before the LORD until He has driven out His enemies from before Him, 22and the land is subdued before the LORD, then afterward you may return and be blameless before the LORD and before Israel; and this land shall be your possession

32:22 God's plan was for all Israel to enter Canaan, west of the Jordan River, but when the tribes of Reuben and Gad (and the half tribe of Manasseh, v. 33) saw the fertile lands east of the Jordan, they requested this land "as a possession" (v. 5).

before the LORD. 23But if you do not do so, then take note, you have sinned against the LORD; and be sure your sin will find you out. 24Build cities for your little ones and folds for your sheep, and do what has proceeded out of your mouth."

25And the children of Gad and the children of Reuben spoke to Moses, saying: "Your servants will do as my lord commands. 26Our little ones, our wives, our flocks, and all our livestock will be there in the cities of Gilead; 27but your servants will cross over, every man armed for war, before the LORD to battle, just as my lord says."

28So Moses gave command concerning them to Eleazar the priest, to Joshua the son of Nun, and to the chief fathers of the tribes of the children of Israel. 29And Moses said to them: "If the children of Gad and the children of Reuben cross over the Jordan with you, every man armed for battle before the LORD, and the land is subdued before you, then you shall give them the land of Gilead as a possession. 30But if they do not cross over armed with you, they shall have possessions among you in the land of Canaan."

31Then the children of Gad and the children of Reuben answered, saying: "As the LORD has said to your servants, so we will do. 32We will cross over armed before the LORD into the land of Canaan, but the possession of our inheritance shall remain with us on this side of the Jordan."

33So Moses gave to the children of Gad, to the children of Reuben, and to half the tribe of Manasseh the son of Joseph, the kingdom of Sihon king of the Amorites and the kingdom of Og king of Bashan, the land with its cities within the borders, the cities of the surrounding country. 34And the children of Gad built Dibon and Ataroth and Aroer, 35Atroth and Shophan and Jazer and Jogbehah, 36Beth Nimrah and Beth Haran, fortified cities, and folds for sheep. 37And the children of Reuben built Heshbon and Elealeh and Kirjathaim, 38Nebo and Baal Meon (their names being changed) and Shibmah; and they gave other names to the cities which they built.

39And the children of Machir the son of Manasseh went to Gilead and took it, and dispossessed the Amorites who were in it. 40So Moses gave Gilead to Machir the son of Manasseh, and he dwelt in it. 41Also Jair the son of Manasseh went and took its small towns, and called them Havoth Jair.[a] 42Then Nobah went and took Kenath and its villages, and he called it Nobah, after his own name.

Israel's Journey from Egypt Reviewed

33 These are the journeys of the children of Israel, who went out of the land of Egypt by their armies under the hand of Moses and Aaron. 2Now Moses wrote down the starting points of their journeys at the command of the LORD. And these are their journeys according to their starting points:

3They departed from Rameses in the first month, on the fifteenth day of the first month; on the day after the Passover the children of Israel went out with boldness in the sight of all the Egyptians. 4For the Egyptians were burying all their firstborn, whom the LORD had killed among them. Also on their gods the LORD had executed judgments.

5Then the children of Israel moved from Rameses and camped at Succoth. 6They departed from Succoth and camped at Etham, which is on the edge of the wilderness. 7They moved from Etham and turned back to Pi Hahiroth, which is east of Baal Zephon; and they camped near Migdol. 8They departed from before Hahiroth[a] and passed through the midst of the sea into the wilderness, went three days' journey in the Wilderness of Etham, and camped at Marah. 9They moved from Marah and came to Elim. At Elim were twelve springs of water and seventy palm trees; so they camped there.

10They moved from Elim and camped by the Red Sea. 11They moved from the Red Sea and camped in the Wilderness of Sin. 12They journeyed from the Wilderness of Sin and camped at Dophkah. 13They departed from Dophkah and camped at Alush. 14They moved from Alush and camped at Rephidim, where there was no water for the people to drink.

32:41 [a]Literally Towns of Jair 33:8 [a]Many Hebrew manuscripts, Samaritan Pentateuch, Syriac, Targum, and Vulgate read from Pi Hahiroth (compare verse 7).

Their first reason was "for livestock" (v. 4); then they shifted their cause "for our little ones" (v. 16). When Moses accused them of alienation (lit. "discouragement," vv. 7, 9), the tribal leaders revised their request with a promise to assist their brethren in the conquest of Canaan (v. 17), a promise they kept (see Josh. 12—16). The heart of the matter is found in the word "wholly" (Num. 32:11, 12), for God must have total commitment from His people. A look into the future reveals that the Gadarenes, the swine herders, were descendants of the tribe of Gad (Mark 5).

33:1 Moses shared what had already happened (a common theme of the Lord: "remember") in preparation for what was to come. In summary fashion this is the basic content of such psalms (Ps. 105; 106). The Passover appropriately begins the account (Num. 33:3). The journeys are divided in two sections: from Rameses to Mt. Hor (Num. 33:3–37) and Mt. Hor to the plains of Moab (Num. 33:41–49). Whenever they "moved," wherever they "camped," the Lord was ever with them (Heb. 13:5). Between these two sections are two events: Aaron's death "in the fortieth year" of their journey and the time a Canaanite king "heard of the coming" of God's people through his territory (Num. 33:38–40).

15They departed from Rephidim and camped in the Wilderness of Sinai. 16They moved from the Wilderness of Sinai and camped at Kibroth Hattaavah. 17They departed from Kibroth Hattaavah and camped at Hazeroth. 18They departed from Hazeroth and camped at Rithmah. 19They departed from Rithmah and camped at Rimmon Perez. 20They departed from Rimmon Perez and camped at Libnah. 21They moved from Libnah and camped at Rissah. 22They journeyed from Rissah and camped at Kehelathah. 23They went from Ke-helathah and camped at Mount Shepher. 24They moved from Mount Shepher and camped at Hara-dah. 25They moved from Haradah and camped at Makheloth. 26They moved from Makheloth and camped at Tahath. 27They departed from Tahath and camped at Terah. 28They moved from Terah and camped at Mithkah. 29They went from Mithkah and camped at Hashmonah. 30They departed from Hashmonah and camped at Moseroth.
31They departed from Moseroth and camped at Bene Jaakan. 32They moved from Bene Jaakan and camped at Hor Hagidgad. 33They went from Hor Hagidgad and camped at Jotbathah. 34They moved from Jotbathah and camped at Abronah. 35They departed from Abronah and camped at Ezion Geber. 36They moved from Ezion Geber and camped in the Wilderness of Zin, which is Kadesh.
37They moved from Kadesh and camped at Mount Hor, on the boundary of the land of Edom.

38Then Aaron the priest went up to Mount Hor at the command of the LORD, and died there in the fortieth year after the children of Israel had come out of the land of Egypt, on the first day of the fifth month. 39Aaron was one hundred and twenty-three years old when he died on Mount Hor.

40Now the king of Arad, the Canaanite, who dwelt in the South in the land of Canaan, heard of the coming of the children of Israel.

41So they departed from Mount Hor and camped at Zalmonah. 42They departed from Zal-monah and camped at Punon. 43They departed from Punon and camped at Oboth. 44They departed from Oboth and camped at Ije Abarim, at the border of Moab. 45They departed from Ijim[a] and camped at Dibon Gad. 46They moved from Di-bon Gad and camped at Almon Diblathaim. 47They moved from Almon Diblathaim and camped in the mountains of Abarim, before Nebo. 48They departed from the mountains of Abarim and camped in the plains of Moab by the Jordan, across from Jericho. 49They camped by the Jordan, from Beth Jesimoth as far as the Abel Acacia Grove[a] in the plains of Moab.

Instructions for the Conquest of Canaan

50Now the LORD spoke to Moses in the plains of Moab by the Jordan, across from Jericho, saying, 51"Speak to the children of Israel, and say to them:
'When you have crossed the Jordan into the land of Canaan, 52then you shall drive out all the inhabitants of the land from before you, destroy all their engraved stones, destroy all their molded images, and demolish all their high places; 53you shall dispossess the inhabitants of the land and dwell in it, for I have given you the land to possess.
54And you shall divide the land by lot as an inheritance among your families; to the larger you shall give a larger inheritance, and to the smaller you shall give a smaller inheritance; there everyone's inheritance shall be whatever falls to him by lot.
You shall inherit according to the tribes of your fathers. 55But if you do not drive out the inhabitants of the land from before you, then it shall be that those whom you let remain shall be irritants in your eyes and thorns in your sides, and they shall harass you in the land where you dwell.
56Moreover it shall be that I will do to you as I thought to do to them.' "

The Appointed Boundaries of Canaan

34 Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying,
2"Command the children of Israel, and say to them: 'When you come into the land of Canaan, this is the land that shall fall to you as an inheritance— the land of Canaan to its boundaries. 3Your southern border shall be from the Wilderness of Zin along the border of Edom; then your southern border shall extend eastward to the end of the Salt Sea; 4your border shall turn from the southern side of the Ascent of Akrabbim, continue to Zin, and be on the south of Kadesh Barnea; then it shall go on to Hazar Addar, and continue to Az-mon; 5the border shall turn from Azmon to the Brook of Egypt, and it shall end at the Sea.

6"As for the western border, you shall have the Great Sea for a border; this shall be your western border.

7"And this shall be your northern border: From the Great Sea you shall mark out your border line

33:45 [a]Same as Ije Abarim, verse 44 33:49 [a]Hebrew Abel Shittim

33:51 Following a recital of the past (vv. 1–49), God prepared the people for the future (see also Num. 15:2). His expectation remained the same: Obedience is the only way to absolute victory. The people must destroy all forms of idolatry for their own good—physically, economically, and spiritually. Because Israel allowed a remnant of the Canaanites and their "high places" within their borders, the Lord fulfilled prophecy with the Assyrian and Babylonian exiles (see Num. 33:56). Archaeological evidence of the "molded images" they kept has remained (v. 52); and the Bible records the history of sexual sins through which Israel imitated Canaanite life and worship.

to Mount Hor; 8from Mount Hor you shall mark out your border to the entrance of Hamath; then the direction of the border shall be toward Zedad; 9the border shall proceed to Ziphron, and it shall end at Hazar Enan. This shall be your northern border.

10"You shall mark out your eastern border from Hazar Enan to Shepham; 11the border shall go down from Shepham to Riblah on the east side of Ain; the border shall go down and reach to the eastern side of the Sea of Chinnereth; 12the border shall go down along the Jordan, and it shall end at the Salt Sea. This shall be your land with its surrounding boundaries.' "

13Then Moses commanded the children of Israel, saying: "This is the land which you shall inherit by lot, which the LORD has commanded to give to the nine tribes and to the half-tribe. 14For the tribe of the children of Reuben according to the house of their fathers, and the tribe of the children of Gad according to the house of their fathers, have received their inheritance; and the half-tribe of Manasseh has received its inheritance.
15The two tribes and the half-tribe have received their inheritance on this side of the Jordan, across from Jericho eastward, toward the sunrise."

The Leaders Appointed to Divide the Land

16And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying,
17"These are the names of the men who shall divide the land among you as an inheritance: Eleazar the priest and Joshua the son of Nun. 18And you shall take one leader of every tribe to divide the land for the inheritance. 19These are the names of the men: from the tribe of Judah, Caleb the son of Jephunneh; 20from the tribe of the children of Simeon, Shemuel the son of Ammihud; 21from the tribe of Benjamin, Elidad the son of Chislon; 22a leader from the tribe of the children of Dan, Bukki the son of Jogli; 23from the sons of Joseph: a leader from the tribe of the children of Manasseh, Hanniel the son of Ephod, 24and a leader from the tribe of the children of Ephraim, Kemuel the son of Shiphtan; 25a leader from the tribe of the children of Zebulun, Elizaphan the son of Parnach; 26a leader from the tribe of the children of Issachar, Paltiel the son of Azzan; 27a leader from the tribe of the children of Asher, Ahihud the son of Shelomi; 28and a leader from the tribe of the children of Naphtali, Pedahel the son of Ammihud."

29These are the ones the LORD commanded to divide the inheritance among the children of Israel in the land of Canaan.

Cities for the Levites

35 And the LORD spoke to Moses in the plains of Moab by the Jordan across from Jericho, saying: 2"Command the children of Israel that they give the Levites cities to dwell in from the inheritance of their possession, and you shall also give the Levites common-land around the cities.
3They shall have the cities to dwell in; and their common-land shall be for their cattle, for their herds, and for all their animals. 4The common-land of the cities which you will give the Levites shall extend from the wall of the city outward a thousand cubits all around. 5And you shall measure outside the city on the east side two thousand cubits, on the south side two thousand cubits, on the west side two thousand cubits, and on the north side two thousand cubits. The city shall be in the middle. This shall belong to them as common-land for the cities.

6"Now among the cities which you will give to the Levites you shall appoint six cities of refuge, to which a manslayer may flee. And to these you shall add forty-two cities. 7So all the cities you will give to the Levites shall be forty-eight; these you shall give with their common-land. 8And the cities which you will give shall be from the possession of the children of Israel; from the larger tribe you shall give many, from the smaller you shall give few. Each shall give some of its cities to the Levites, in proportion to the inheritance that each receives."

Cities of Refuge

9Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying,
10"Speak to the children of Israel, and say to them:
'When you cross the Jordan into the land of Canaan, 11then you shall appoint cities to be cities of refuge for you, that the manslayer who kills any person accidentally may flee there. 12They shall be cities of refuge for you from the avenger, that the manslayer may not die until he stands before the congregation in judgment. 13And of the cities which you give, you shall have six cities of refuge.
14You shall appoint three cities on this side of the Jordan, and three cities you shall appoint in the land of Canaan, which will be cities of refuge.
15These six cities shall be for refuge for the children of Israel, for the stranger, and for the sojourner among them, that anyone who kills a person accidentally may flee there.

16'But if he strikes him with an iron implement, so that he dies, he is a murderer; the mur-derer shall surely be put to death. 17And if he strikes him with a stone in the hand, by which one

35:1–3 Because the Levites were not one of the 12 tribes, they were allotted special cities in which to live and have pasture land for the cattle they used for both food and sacrifices. Establishing the cities for the Levites throughout the whole of the tribal lands was done for the purpose of providing instruction in the Law for all the people (see Deut. 33:10).

could die, and he does die, he is a murderer; the murderer shall surely be put to death. 18Or if he strikes him with a wooden hand weapon, by which one could die, and he does die, he is a murderer; the murderer shall surely be put to death. 19The avenger of blood himself shall put the murderer to death; when he meets him, he shall put him to death. 20If he pushes him out of hatred or, while lying in wait, hurls something at him so that he dies, 21or in enmity he strikes him with his hand so that he dies, the one who struck him shall surely be put to death. He is a murderer. The avenger of blood shall put the murderer to death when he meets him.

22"However, if he pushes him suddenly without enmity, or throws anything at him without lying in wait, 23or uses a stone, by which a man could die, throwing it at him without seeing him, so that he dies, while he was not his enemy or seeking his harm, 24then the congregation shall judge between the manslayer and the avenger of blood according to these judgments. 25So the congregation shall deliver the manslayer from the hand of the avenger of blood, and the congregation shall return him to the city of refuge where he had fled, and he shall remain there until the death of the high priest who was anointed with the holy oil. 26But if the manslayer at any time goes outside the limits of the city of refuge where he fled, 27and the avenger of blood finds him outside the limits of his city of refuge, and the avenger of blood kills the manslayer, he shall not be guilty of blood, 28because he should have remained in his city of refuge until the death of the high priest. But after the death of the high priest the manslayer may return to the land of his possession.

29"And these things shall be a statute of judgment to you throughout your generations in all your dwellings. 30Whoever kills a person, the murderer shall be put to death on the testimony of witnesses; but one witness is not sufficient testimony against a person for the death penalty. 31Moreover you shall take no ransom for the life of a murderer who is guilty of death, but he shall surely be put to death. 32And you shall take no ransom for him who has fled to his city of refuge, that he may return to dwell in the land before the death of the priest. 33So you shall not pollute the land where you are; for blood defiles the land, and no atonement can be made for the land, for the blood that is shed on it, except by the blood of him who shed it. 34Therefore do not defile the land which you inhabit, in the midst of which I dwell; for I the LORD dwell among the children of Israel.'"

Marriage of Female Heirs

36 Now the chief fathers of the families of the children of Gilead the son of Machir, the son of Manasseh, of the families of the sons of Joseph, came near and spoke before Moses and before the leaders, the chief fathers of the children of Israel. 2And they said: "The LORD commanded my lord Moses to give the land as an inheritance by lot to the children of Israel, and my lord was commanded by the LORD to give the inheritance of our brother Zelophehad to his daughters. 3Now if they are married to any of the sons of the other tribes of the children of Israel, then their inheritance will be taken from the inheritance of our fathers, and it will be added to the inheritance of the tribe into which they marry; so it will be taken from the lot of our inheritance. 4And when the Jubilee of the children of Israel comes, then their inheritance will be added to the inheritance of the tribe into which they marry; so their inheritance will be taken away from the inheritance of the tribe of our fathers."

5Then Moses commanded the children of Israel according to the word of the LORD, saying: "What the tribe of the sons of Joseph speaks is right. 6This is what the LORD commands concerning the daughters of Zelophehad, saying, 'Let them marry whom they think best, but they may marry only within the family of their father's tribe.' 7So the inheritance of the children of Israel shall not change hands from tribe to tribe, for every one of the children of Israel shall keep the inheritance of the tribe of his fathers. 8And every daughter who possesses an inheritance in any tribe of the children of Israel shall be the wife of one of the family of her father's tribe, so that the children of Israel each may possess the inheritance of his fathers. 9Thus no inheritance shall change hands from one tribe to another, but every tribe of the children of Israel shall keep its own inheritance."

35:25 Manslayers received only temporary retreat until a fair trial was arranged. Only the death of another could atone for killing an individual, whether it was murder or manslaughter (vv. 21, 25). "The death of the high priest who was anointed with the holy oil" may have been understood as a means of cleansing the Land by being the satisfaction for the blood that had been shed. God demands a "reckoning" when "lifeblood" is shed, for we are made in His image (Gen. 9:5, 6). Christ offered Himself as sufficient atonement, for "without shedding of blood there is no remission" (Heb. 9:22–28).

36:1–4 While the five daughters of Zelophehad were noticeably absent here, their uncles represented them when they presented a potential problem concerning property rights to Moses (see Num. 26, Daughters of Zelophehad).

36:10–13 The Book of Numbers closes on the practical note of obedience, individual and corporate (see Philem. Obedience). Mahlah, Tirzah, Hoglah, Milcah, and Noah—the daughters of Zelophehad—obeyed God's command by marrying within the tribe. Harmony within marriage is symbolic here of harmony with God through obedience to all His commandments.

10 Just as the LORD commanded Moses, so did the daughters of Zelophehad; 11 for Mahlah, Tirzah, Hoglah, Milcah, and Noah, the daughters of Zelophehad, were married to the sons of their father's brothers. 12 They were married into the families of the children of Manasseh the son of Joseph, and their inheritance remained in the tribe of their father's family.

13 These are the commandments and the judgments which the LORD commanded the children of Israel by the hand of Moses in the plains of Moab by the Jordan, across from Jericho.

Deuteronomy

AUTHOR

Besides being Israel's great lawgiver, Moses is also known as the founder of Israel's religion. Though he was reluctant at first, he became the greatest leader the nation of Israel ever had—the first prophet of the nation of Israel and the example by which all succeeding prophets were measured. Moses knew God intimately and talked to Him face to face (Deut. 34:10). But more importantly, God knew Moses and entrusted him with leadership (Ps. 103:7). The Mosaic authorship of Deuteronomy, held within Judaism and Christianity alike, was not challenged until the late eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries. Mosaic authorship is indicated by texts within the book itself (Deut. 1:5; 31:9, 22, 24, 30), by other passages within the Old Testament (1 Kin. 2:3; 8:53; 2 Kin. 14:6; 18:6, 12), by the words of Jesus Himself (Matt. 19:7, 8; Mark 10:3–5; John 5:46, 47), and by other New Testament references (Acts 3:22; 7:37, 38; Rom. 10:19). The account of Moses' death was probably added to the text after the death of Moses (Deut. 34).

DATE

Mosaic authorship requires dating the book in the fifteenth century B.C. The structure of Deuteronomy resembles the Near Eastern vassal treaties common during the second millennium B.C. Often a conquering ruler would make a treaty with the defeated ruler and allow him to rule his own people in a subservient role. In exchange, the vassal state would pay homage to the conquering ruler and would pledge tribute and allegiance. Israel was to be a vassal state, but not to any earthly kingdom. Her allegiance was to be to God alone.

BACKGROUND

SETTING: After forty years of wandering, the nation of Israel was poised at the southeastern entrance to Canaan ready to enter and occupy the Land that had been promised to them (Deut. 1:8). Moses knew that he would not enter the Land with Israel and that his death was imminent (Deut. 1:37; 3:23–29; 31:2; 32:49–52); therefore, Moses restated the covenant with the nation and used the occasion to stress the importance of obedience to the Lord.

PURPOSE: Deuteronomy is not just a review of the Law. It is the explanation of the Law that would make the demands of God clear to the people (Deut. 1:5). Moses was calling the nation of Israel to remember their covenant with God and to renew their allegiance to Him so that their conquest of Canaan would be successful. Deuteronomy emphasizes that the Law given to a specific generation is to be binding on all subsequent generations (Deut. 6:7–9).

AUDIENCE: Because of unbelief most of the generation of Israelites that left Egypt with Moses had died in the desert (Deut. 1:34–40). Their children stood before Moses to receive his message of obedience to the Lord.

LITERARY CHARACTERISTICS: The structure of Deuteronomy is closely associated with that of a typical Near Eastern vassal treaty of the Mosaic age. The treaty usually included the following elements: a preamble (Deut. 1:1–5), a historical prologue (Deut. 1:6—4:49), main provisions (Deut. 5—11), specific provisions (Deut. 12—26), curses and blessings (Deut. 27—28), and divine witnesses (Deut. 30:19; 31:19; 32:1–43). Each of these elements appears in the structure of Deuteronomy as indicated by the references cited.

THEMES

The main theme—obedience to God—can be found in every exhortation of Moses in the Book of Deuteronomy. The history of Israel, the laws of God, the blessings, the curses, and the Song of Moses all point the people of Israel to obedience. The very existence of the nation of Israel hinged on the people's obedience (Deut. 6:24; 8:20; 11:17; 30:19, 20; 32:46, 47). Phrases such as "Hear, O Israel . . ." and "Be careful to do . . ." all precede a call to obedience and allegiance to the Lord (Deut. 5:32; 6:4). The people's motivation for obedience was not merely their fear of judgment but also their understanding of the mercy and goodness of God (Deut. 4:31; 7:12–16; 30:3; 32:36).

OUTLINE

Introduction: The Preamble (1:1–4)

I. The First Address of Moses: Historical Prologue (1:5—4:43)
   - A. An accounting of events from Horeb to Beth Peor (1:5—3:29)
   - B. An exhortation to obey (4:1–43)

II. The Second Address of Moses: The Law (4:44—26:19)
   - A. An introduction to the Law (4:44–49)
   - B. The fundamental requirements of the Law (5:1—11:32)
   - C. The specific regulations for covenant living (12:1—26:15)
   - D. A call to commitment (26:16–19)

III. The Third Address of Moses: Blessings and Curses (27:1—29:1)
   - A. Covenant renewal (27:1–26)
   - B. The blessings and the curses (28:1—29:1)

IV. The Fourth Address of Moses: Covenant Demands (29:2—30:20)
   - A. A plea for a covenant commitment (29:2–29)
   - B. A charge to choose life (30:1–20)

V. The Transition in Leadership (31:1—34:12)
   - A. The appointment of Joshua (31:1–8)
   - B. The reading of the Law (31:9–13)
   - C. A prophecy of Israel's rebellion (31:14–29)
   - D. The Song of Moses (31:30—32:47)
   - E. The imminent death of Moses (32:48–52)
   - F. The blessing of Moses (33:1–29)
   - G. The death of Moses (34:1–12)

The Previous Command to Enter Canaan

1 These are the words which Moses spoke to all Israel on this side of the Jordan in the wilderness, in the plain[a] opposite Suph,[b] between Paran, Tophel, Laban, Hazeroth, and Dizahab. 2*It is* eleven days' journey from Horeb by way of Mount Seir to Kadesh Barnea. 3Now it came to pass in the fortieth year, in the eleventh month, on the first day of the month, that Moses spoke to the children of Israel according to all that the LORD had given him as commandments to them, 4after he had killed Sihon king of the Amorites, who dwelt in Heshbon, and Og king of Bashan, who dwelt at Ashtaroth in[a] Edrei.

5On this side of the Jordan in the land of Moab, Moses began to explain this law, saying, 6"The LORD our God spoke to us in Horeb, saying: 'You have dwelt long enough at this mountain. 7Turn and take your journey, and go to the mountains of the Amorites, to all the neighboring places in the plain,[a] in the mountains and in the lowland, in the South and on the seacoast, to the land of the Canaanites and to Lebanon, as far as the great river, the River Euphrates. 8See, I have set the land before you; go in and possess the land which the LORD swore to your fathers—to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob—to give to them and their descendants after them.'

Tribal Leaders Appointed

9"And I spoke to you at that time, saying: 'I alone am not able to bear you. 10The LORD your God has multiplied you, and here you are today, as the stars of heaven in multitude. 11May the LORD God of your fathers make you a thousand times more numerous than you are, and bless you as He has promised you! 12How can I alone bear your problems and your burdens and your complaints? 13Choose wise, understanding, and knowledgeable men from among your tribes, and I will make them heads over you.' 14And you answered me and said, 'The thing which you have told us to do is good.' 15So I took the heads of your tribes, wise and knowledgeable men, and made them heads over you, leaders of thousands, leaders of hundreds, leaders of fifties, leaders of tens, and officers for your tribes.

16"Then I commanded your judges at that time, saying, 'Hear the cases between your brethren, and judge righteously between a man and his brother or the stranger who is with him. 17You shall not show partiality in judgment; you shall hear the small as well as the great; you shall not be afraid in any man's presence, for the judgment is God's. The case that is too hard for you, bring to me, and I will hear it.' 18And I commanded you at that time all the things which you should do.

Israel's Refusal to Enter the Land

19"So we departed from Horeb, and went through all that great and terrible wilderness which you saw on the way to the mountains of the Amorites, as the LORD our God had commanded us. Then we came to Kadesh Barnea. 20And I said to you, 'You have come to the mountains of the Amorites, which the LORD our God is giving us. 21Look, the LORD your God has set the land before you; go up and possess it, as the LORD God of your fathers has spoken to you; do not fear or be discouraged.'

22"And every one of you came near to me and said, 'Let us send men before us, and let them search out the land for us, and bring back word to

1:1 [a]Hebrew arabah [b]One manuscript of the Septuagint, also Targum and Vulgate, read Red Sea. 1:4 [a]Septuagint, Syriac, and Vulgate read and (compare Joshua 12:4). 1:7 [a]Hebrew arabah

1:1 Moses delivered a series of sermons to prepare the children of Israel to take possession of the Land that God had promised them (Gen. 12:7). They are camped "on this side of the Jordan," that is, the Transjordan region, "in the plain opposite Suph" or Arabah. This area was characterized by a great rift valley extending from the Sea of Tiberias in the north to the Gulf of Aqaba in the south.

1:2 Moses reminded the children of Israel of their disobedience by mentioning that the initial journey from Horeb to Kadesh Barnea should have taken only 11 days. However, their refusal to believe the good report of Joshua and Caleb transformed an 11-day journey into a 40-year wandering (Num. 14:7–21). In Deuteronomy, Horeb is used interchangeably with Mt. Sinai, where God established His covenant with Israel. Kadesh Barnea, located about 50 miles southwest of Beersheba, was 150 miles from Horeb and was to be their point of entrance into Canaan.

1:5 Moses explained (Heb. be'er, lit. "to make absolutely plain or clear") the Law to the people with the intent of making it unmistakably understood, which is the purpose of all good biblical exposition.

1:10 When Moses described Israel as having become as "the stars of heaven in multitude," the people were reminded of one aspect of the promise of God to Abraham. Having experienced the fulfillment of this promise of increase, the nation could trust God's ability to fulfill the whole of the Abrahamic covenant (Gen. 15:5; 22:17; see chart, The Covenants of Genesis).

1:12–15 Moses delegated responsibilities. The nation had grown to the point that it was not possible for Moses to govern alone. Moses recognized the need to have politicial and judicial leaders to assist him. The people selected their own leaders to represent the respective tribes; Moses assigned tasks to these leaders (v. 13). The division of thousands, hundreds, and fifties implies a military grouping, which would be necessary for the upcoming conquests as well as for administrative purposes.

1:22 The Lord directed Moses to send out the spies (Num. 13:1, 2). However, that request was initiated by the people, then agreed upon by the Lord (see chart, The Tale of Two Committees). He directed Moses accordingly. The initial purpose of the spies' infiltration was to determine a point of entry as well as a plan for possession of the land of Canaan.

us of the way by which we should go up, and of the cities into which we shall come.'

23"The plan pleased me well; so I took twelve of your men, one man from each tribe. 24And they departed and went up into the mountains, and came to the Valley of Eshcol, and spied it out. 25They also took some of the fruit of the land in their hands and brought it down to us; and they brought back word to us, saying, 'It is a good land which the LORD our God is giving us.'

26"Nevertheless you would not go up, but rebelled against the command of the LORD your God; 27and you complained in your tents, and said, 'Because the LORD hates us, He has brought us out of the land of Egypt to deliver us into the hand of the Amorites, to destroy us. 28Where can we go up? Our brethren have discouraged our hearts, saying, "The people are greater and taller than we; the cities are great and fortified up to heaven; moreover we have seen the sons of the Anakim there." '

29"Then I said to you, 'Do not be terrified, or afraid of them. 30The LORD your God, who goes before you, He will fight for you, according to all He did for you in Egypt before your eyes, 31and in the wilderness where you saw how the LORD your God carried you, as a man carries his son, in all the way that you went until you came to this place.' 32Yet, for all that, you did not believe the LORD your God, 33who went in the way before you to search out a place for you to pitch your tents, to show you the way you should go, in the fire by night and in the cloud by day.

The Penalty for Israel's Rebellion

34"And the LORD heard the sound of your words, and was angry, and took an oath, saying, 35'Surely not one of these men of this evil generation shall see that good land of which I swore to give to your fathers, 36except Caleb the son of Jephunneh; he shall see it, and to him and his children I am giving the land on which he walked, because he wholly followed the LORD.' 37The LORD was also angry with me for your sakes, saying, 'Even you shall not go in there. 38Joshua the son of Nun, who stands before you, he shall go in there. Encourage him, for he shall cause Israel to inherit it.

39'Moreover your little ones and your children, who you say will be victims, who today have no knowledge of good and evil, they shall go in there; to them I will give it, and they shall possess it. 40But as for you, turn and take your journey into the wilderness by the Way of the Red Sea.'

41"Then you answered and said to me, 'We have sinned against the LORD; we will go up and fight, just as the LORD our God commanded us.' And when everyone of you had girded on his weapons of war, you were ready to go up into the mountain.

42"And the LORD said to me, 'Tell them, "Do not go up nor fight, for I am not among you; lest you be defeated before your enemies." ' 43So I spoke to you; yet you would not listen, but rebelled against the command of the LORD, and presumptuously went up into the mountain. 44And the Amorites who dwelt in that mountain came out against you and chased you as bees do, and drove you back from Seir to Hormah. 45Then you returned and wept before the LORD, but the LORD would not listen to your voice nor give ear to you.

46"So you remained in Kadesh many days, according to the days that you spent there.

The Desert Years

2 "Then we turned and journeyed into the wilderness of the Way of the Red Sea, as the LORD spoke to me, and we skirted Mount Seir for many days.

2"And the LORD spoke to me, saying: 3'You have skirted this mountain long enough; turn northward. 4And command the people, saying, "You are about to pass through the territory of your brethren, the descendants of Esau, who live in

1:26, 27 The sin of unbelief manifested itself in the people's refusal to take possession of the good land that the Lord had already promised them. Their unbelief caused them to complain and question the motives and the leading of the Lord.

1:28 Their fears were based on the size of their enemies as well as the fortification of the cities to be conquered. As formidable as these may seem, however, neither would be able to stand against the hand of Yahweh if only the people had trusted Him. "The sons of Anakim" were traditionally identified as a tribe or clan of giants towering seven to nine feet tall.

1:39 The people rationalized their unbelief by using the safety of their children as an excuse for not entering the Land at the Lord's command. However, God was more concerned for the children than they were; therefore, He promised that the children would enter the Land. "Having no knowledge of good and evil" is a Hebrew idiom that means "not knowing anything." The fact that the children 20 years and younger would escape judgment incurred by their parents teaches that God does not hold children accountable for sins their parents commit or for sins into which they are led but over which they have no control (Num. 14:29). Apparently God does not hold accountable those who are unable to discern the difference between good and evil.

1:41–43 This rash action came when the people realized the magnitude of God's judgment because of their lack of faith. They did not enter the Land of Canaan when first commanded to do so because of their fear of the enemy and their lack of trust in God's ability to deliver them. Then because of the fear of dying in the wilderness, they presumed to go to battle without the Lord's direction, believing they could win in their own strength. Their motivation to fight was not faith but fear, and unfortunately, the opportunity once afforded them was gone.

Seir; and they will be afraid of you. Therefore watch yourselves carefully. 5Do not meddle with them, for I will not give you any of their land, no, not so much as one footstep, because I have given Mount Seir to Esau as a possession. 6You shall buy food from them with money, that you may eat; and you shall also buy water from them with money, that you may drink.

7"For the LORD your God has blessed you in all the work of your hand. He knows your trudging through this great wilderness. These forty years the LORD your God has been with you; you have lacked nothing." '

8"And when we passed beyond our brethren, the descendants of Esau who dwell in Seir, away from the road of the plain, away from Elath and Ezion Geber, we turned and passed by way of the Wilderness of Moab. 9Then the LORD said to me, 'Do not harass Moab, nor contend with them in battle, for I will not give you any of their land as a possession, because I have given Ar to the descendants of Lot as a possession.' "

10(The Emim had dwelt there in times past, a people as great and numerous and tall as the Anakim. 11They were also regarded as giants,[a] like the Anakim, but the Moabites call them Emim. 12The Horites formerly dwelt in Seir, but the descendants of Esau dispossessed them and destroyed them from before them, and dwelt in their place, just as Israel did to the land of their possession which the LORD gave them.)

13" 'Now rise and cross over the Valley of the Zered.' So we crossed over the Valley of the Zered. 14And the time we took to come from Kadesh Barnea until we crossed over the Valley of the Zered was thirty-eight years, until all the generation of the men of war was consumed from the midst of the camp, just as the LORD had sworn to them. 15For indeed the hand of the LORD was against them, to destroy them from the midst of the camp until they were consumed.

16"So it was, when all the men of war had finally perished from among the people, 17that the LORD spoke to me, saying: 18'This day you are to cross over at Ar, the boundary of Moab. 19And when you come near the people of Ammon, do not harass them or meddle with them, for I will not give you any of the land of the people of Ammon as a possession, because I have given it to the descendants of Lot as a possession.' "

20(That was also regarded as a land of giants;[a] giants formerly dwelt there. But the Ammonites call them Zamzummim, 21a people as great and numerous and tall as the Anakim. But the LORD destroyed them before them, and they dispossessed them and dwelt in their place, 22just as He had done for the descendants of Esau, who dwelt in Seir, when He destroyed the Horites from before them. They dispossessed them and dwelt in their place, even to this day. 23And the Avim, who dwelt in villages as far as Gaza—the Caphtorim, who came from Caphtor, destroyed them and dwelt in their place.)

24" 'Rise, take your journey, and cross over the River Arnon. Look, I have given into your hand Sihon the Amorite, king of Heshbon, and his land. Begin to possess it, and engage him in battle. 25This day I will begin to put the dread and fear of you upon the nations under the whole heaven, who shall hear the report of you, and shall tremble and be in anguish because of you.'

King Sihon Defeated

26"And I sent messengers from the Wilderness of Kedemoth to Sihon king of Heshbon, with words of peace, saying, 27'Let me pass through your land; I will keep strictly to the road, and I will turn neither to the right nor to the left. 28You shall sell me food for money, that I may eat, and give me water for money, that I may drink; only let me pass through on foot, 29just as the descendants of Esau who dwell in Seir and the Moabites who dwell in Ar did for me, until I cross the Jordan to the land which the LORD our God is giving us.'

30"But Sihon king of Heshbon would not let us pass through, for the LORD your God hardened his spirit and made his heart obstinate, that He might deliver him into your hand, as it is this day.

31"And the LORD said to me, 'See, I have begun to give Sihon and his land over to you. Begin to possess it, that you may inherit his land.' 32Then Sihon and all his people came out against us to fight at Jahaz. 33And the LORD our God delivered him over to us; so we defeated him, his sons, and all his people. 34We took all his cities at that time, and we utterly destroyed the men, women, and little ones of every city; we left none remaining.

2:11, 20 [a]Hebrew rephaim

2:10–12 These parenthetical verses are an explanatory note. The author and date for insertions such as this one are uncertain. "Emim" were a people characterized as "terrible or frightful ones." "Giants" (Heb. rephaim) can also refer to an area's early inhabitants that are no longer in existence.

2:30 Sihon's heart is hardened. Moses could see God's plan in Sihon's rejection of the offer of the Israelites. By hardening Sihon's heart, the Lord was only confirming what was already there (Num. 21:21–23; see also Ex. 14, Justice).

2:34 The practice of complete destruction (Heb. cherem, lit. "devoted to destruction") is an ancient one. The purpose was to dispose of anyone or anything that opposed the holiness of God. Not only was this destruction an expression of God's judgment on wicked nations, but it also kept Israel isolated from the false gods and wicked practices of their enemies.

35We took only the livestock as plunder for ourselves, with the spoil of the cities which we took.
36From Aroer, which is on the bank of the River Arnon, and from the city that is in the ravine, as far as Gilead, there was not one city too strong for us; the LORD our God delivered all to us. 37Only you did not go near the land of the people of Ammon—anywhere along the River Jabbok, or to the cities of the mountains, or wherever the LORD our God had forbidden us.

King Og Defeated

3 "Then we turned and went up the road to Bashan; and Og king of Bashan came out against us, he and all his people, to battle at Edrei.
2And the LORD said to me, 'Do not fear him, for I have delivered him and all his people and his land into your hand; you shall do to him as you did to Sihon king of the Amorites, who dwelt at Heshbon.'

3"So the LORD our God also delivered into our hands Og king of Bashan, with all his people, and we attacked him until he had no survivors remaining. 4And we took all his cities at that time; there was not a city which we did not take from them: sixty cities, all the region of Argob, the kingdom of Og in Bashan. 5All these cities were fortified with high walls, gates, and bars, besides a great many rural towns. 6And we utterly destroyed them, as we did to Sihon king of Heshbon, utterly destroying the men, women, and children of every city. 7But all the livestock and the spoil of the cities we took as booty for ourselves.

8"And at that time we took the land from the hand of the two kings of the Amorites who were on this side of the Jordan, from the River Arnon to Mount Hermon 9(the Sidonians call Hermon Sirion, and the Amorites call it Senir), 10all the cities of the plain, all Gilead, and all Bashan, as far as Salcah and Edrei, cities of the kingdom of Og in Bashan.

11"For only Og king of Bashan remained of the remnant of the giants.[a] Indeed his bedstead was an iron bedstead. (Is it not in Rabbah of the people of Ammon?) Nine cubits is its length and four cubits its width, according to the standard cubit.

The Land East of the Jordan Divided

12"And this land, which we possessed at that time, from Aroer, which is by the River Arnon, and half the mountains of Gilead and its cities, I gave to the Reubenites and the Gadites. 13The rest of Gilead, and all Bashan, the kingdom of Og, I gave to half the tribe of Manasseh. (All the region of Argob, with all Bashan, was called the land of the giants.[a] 14Jair the son of Manasseh took all the region of Argob, as far as the border of the Geshurites and the Maachathites, and called Bashan after his own name, Havoth Jair,[a] to this day.)

15"Also I gave Gilead to Machir. 16And to the Reubenites and the Gadites I gave from Gilead as far as the River Arnon, the middle of the river as the border, as far as the River Jabbok, the border of the people of Ammon; 17the plain also, with the Jordan as the border, from Chinnereth as far as the east side of the Sea of the Arabah (the Salt Sea), below the slopes of Pisgah.

18"Then I commanded you at that time, saying: 'The LORD your God has given you this land to possess. All you men of valor shall cross over armed before your brethren, the children of Israel. 19But your wives, your little ones, and your livestock (I know that you have much livestock) shall stay in your cities which I have given you, 20until the LORD has given rest to your brethren as to you, and they also possess the land which the LORD your God is giving them beyond the Jordan. Then each of you may return to his possession which I have given you.'

21"And I commanded Joshua at that time, saying, 'Your eyes have seen all that the LORD your God has done to these two kings; so will the LORD do to all the kingdoms through which you pass. 22You must not fear them, for the LORD your God Himself fights for you.'

Moses Forbidden to Enter the Land

23"Then I pleaded with the LORD at that time, saying: 24'O Lord GOD, You have begun to show Your servant Your greatness and Your mighty

3:11, 13 [a]Hebrew rephaim 3:14 [a]Literally Towns of Jair

3:11 The bedstead of Og, which may have been a reference to his "last couch," that is, his coffin or sarcophagus, was made of an ironlike mineral called basalt. The cubit was reportedly the distance from the elbow to the tip of the middle finger or approximately 18 inches. From these dimensions, 13½ feet by 6 feet, this was indeed a king-sized bed! By recalling the great stature of Og, the people were reminded of the great victory the Lord provided for them.

3:18 Although Reubenites, Gadites, and the half-tribe of Manasseh were laying claim to their allotment in the Transjordan, they were still required to fight alongside their fellow Israelites in the continuing conquest of Canaan (see Num. 32:17).

3:19 Women did not participate in the military. However, the wives and the children who were left behind would not be defenseless. No doubt some men who did not meet requirements for battle would stay and protect the families and possessions of the warriors (see Deut. 20:5–8). They would also be protected by the Lord.

3:24, 25 Having seen the greatness of the Lord in the deliverance of Sihon and Og, Moses pleaded earnestly with the Lord to rescind His judgment and allow him to see the good Land. The intense passion of Moses is seen in this supplication.

ATTRIBUTES OF GOD HE IS JEALOUS

Jealousy (Heb. qin'ah) denotes "zeal, passion, single-mindedness." God's jealousy does not covet something that belongs to another but rather preserves something that belongs to Himself. Just as the relationship between a husband and wife in marriage is designed to be exclusive, so is the relationship between God and His people (Ex. 34:27).

God pledged Himself to the Israelites (Ex. 19:4–6); they responded with their vows (Ex. 19:8, 9; 24:3, 7), and the ceremony was complete (Ex. 24:12, 18). Then the issue became faithfulness. God's faithfulness is sure, though His people may waver.

To be intertwined in heart and life with the world is the worst kind of adultery (James 4:4, 5). God considers it hatred of Himself (Ex. 20:5) and prostitution with the Evil One (1 Cor. 10:21, 22). The consequence of spiritual adultery is a severed relationship with God (Ps. 78:56–60).

The teachings of God's jealousy are given in the context of worship. He alone is God; to worship another is betrayal. God takes His relationship with His people seriously, and so must they take theirs with Him (Ex. 34:10–16).

hand, for what god is there in heaven or on earth who can do anything like Your works and Your mighty deeds? 25I pray, let me cross over and see the good land beyond the Jordan, those pleasant mountains, and Lebanon.'

26"But the LORD was angry with me on your account, and would not listen to me. So the LORD said to me: 'Enough of that! Speak no more to Me of this matter. 27Go up to the top of Pisgah, and lift your eyes toward the west, the north, the south, and the east; behold it with your eyes, for you shall not cross over this Jordan. 28But command Joshua, and encourage him and strengthen him; for he shall go over before this people, and he shall cause them to inherit the land which you will see.'

29"So we stayed in the valley opposite Beth Peor.

Moses Commands Obedience

4 "Now, O Israel, listen to the statutes and the judgments which I teach you to observe, that you may live, and go in and possess the land which the LORD God of your fathers is giving you. 2You shall not add to the word which I command you, nor take from it, that you may keep the commandments of the LORD your God which I command you. 3Your eyes have seen what the LORD did at Baal Peor; for the LORD your God has destroyed from among you all the men who followed Baal of Peor. 4But you who held fast to the LORD your God are alive today, every one of you.

5"Surely I have taught you statutes and judgments, just as the LORD my God commanded me, that you should act according to them in the land which you go to possess. 6Therefore be careful to observe them; for this is your wisdom and your understanding in the sight of the peoples who will hear all these statutes, and say, 'Surely this great nation is a wise and understanding people.'

7"For what great nation is there that has God so near to it, as the LORD our God is to us, for whatever reason we may call upon Him? 8And what great nation is there that has such statutes and righteous judgments as are in all this law which I set before you this day? 9Only take heed to yourself, and diligently keep yourself, lest you forget the things your eyes have seen, and lest they depart from your heart all the days of your life. And teach them to your children and your grandchildren, 10*especially concerning* the day you stood before the LORD your God in Horeb, when the LORD said to me, 'Gather the people to Me, and I will let them hear My words, that they may learn to fear Me all the days they live on the earth, and that they may teach their children.'

11"Then you came near and stood at the foot of the mountain, and the mountain burned with fire

4:1 Having seen the deliverance of the Lord, obedience to His commands is expected. Listening involves hearing with the intent to obey. Obedience to the Lord would result in life. This theme is dominant in Deuteronomy.

4:6–8 Obedience to the Law brought the blessings of the Lord and provided a witness to the pagan nations. The wisdom of the Law and the obedience of the people to the Law would illustrate the uniqueness of Israel and her God.

4:9, 10 Though the Israelites did not have a tangible representation of the Lord, they had seen His power and received His words. They were to remember these events and teach them to their children. Moses' concern for the children and their knowledge of God is seen often (Deut. 6:7, 20; 11:19; 31:13; 32:46). If the covenant is not taught to the children, the failure of the nation is assured.

to the midst of heaven, with darkness, cloud, and thick darkness. 12And the LORD spoke to you out of the midst of the fire. You heard the sound of the words, but saw no form; you only heard a voice. 13So He declared to you His covenant which He commanded you to perform, the Ten Commandments; and He wrote them on two tablets of stone. 14And the LORD commanded me at that time to teach you statutes and judgments, that you might observe them in the land which you cross over to possess.

Beware of Idolatry

15"Take careful heed to yourselves, for you saw no form when the LORD spoke to you at Horeb out of the midst of the fire, 16lest you act corruptly and make for yourselves a carved image in the form of any figure: the likeness of male or female, 17the likeness of any animal that is on the earth or the likeness of any winged bird that flies in the air, 18the likeness of anything that creeps on the ground or the likeness of any fish that is in the water beneath the earth. 19And take heed, lest you lift your eyes to heaven, and when you see the sun, the moon, and the stars, all the host of heaven, you feel driven to worship them and serve them, which the LORD your God has given to all the peoples under the whole heaven as a heritage. 20But the LORD has taken you and brought you out of the iron furnace, out of Egypt, to be His people, an inheritance, as you are this day. 21Furthermore the LORD was angry with me for your sakes, and swore that I would not cross over the Jordan, and that I would not enter the good land which the LORD your God is giving you as an inheritance. 22But I must die in this land, I must not cross over the Jordan; but you shall cross over and possess that good land. 23Take heed to yourselves, lest you forget the covenant of the LORD your God which He made with you, and make for yourselves a carved image in the form of anything which the LORD your God has forbidden you. 24For the LORD your God is a consuming fire, a jealous God.

25"When you beget children and grandchildren and have grown old in the land, and act corruptly and make a carved image in the form of anything, and do evil in the sight of the LORD your God to provoke Him to anger, 26I call heaven and earth to witness against you this day, that you will soon utterly perish from the land which you cross over the Jordan to possess; you will not prolong your days in it, but will be utterly destroyed. 27And the LORD will scatter you among the peoples, and you will be left few in number among the nations where the LORD will drive you. 28And there you will serve gods, the work of men's hands, wood and stone, which neither see nor hear nor eat nor smell. 29But from there you will seek the LORD your God, and you will find Him if you seek Him with all your heart and with all your soul. 30When you are in distress, and all these things come upon you in the latter days, when you turn to the LORD your God and obey His voice 31(for the LORD your God is a merciful God), He will not forsake you nor destroy you, nor forget the covenant of your fathers which He swore to them.

32"For ask now concerning the days that are past, which were before you, since the day that God created man on the earth, and ask from one end of heaven to the other, whether any great thing like this has happened, or anything like it has been heard. 33Did any people ever hear the voice of God speaking out of the midst of the fire, as you have heard, and live? 34Or did God ever try to go and take for Himself a nation from the midst of another nation, by trials, by signs, by wonders, by war, by a mighty hand and an outstretched arm, and by great terrors, according to all that the LORD your God did for you in Egypt before your eyes? 35To you it was shown, that you might know that the LORD Himself is God; there is none other besides Him. 36Out of heaven He let you hear His voice, that He might instruct you; on earth He showed you His great fire, and you heard His words out of the midst of the fire. 37And because He loved your fathers, therefore He chose their descendants after them; and He brought you out of Egypt with His Presence, with His mighty power, 38driving out from before you nations greater and mightier than you, to bring you in, to give you their land as an inheritance, as it is this day. 39Therefore know this day, and consider it in your heart, that the LORD Himself is God in heaven above and on the earth beneath; there is no other. 40You shall therefore keep His statutes and His commandments which I command you today, that it may go well with you and with your children after you, and that you may prolong your days

4:15 The fact that God took no form at Horeb enforces the command against idolatry, a pagan practice (see Is. 42, Idolatry). To try to limit God to a form or object made by a human hand would be denying the transcendence of God.

4:26 The calling of heaven and earth, or the entire created universe, as a witness was characteristic of Near Eastern treaties. They were personified as living witnesses with a permanent and unchanging quality, standing in direct contrast to the uselessness and ineffectiveness of idols.

4:29 The mercy of God in His covenant relationship with Israel is seen in this verse. Although they had sinned, He would always remember His covenant with them and receive and forgive the rebel who repents.

4:37 God's choice of the nation of Israel was based solely on His love for their forefathers and mercy toward all His people (see Ps. 89; 1 John 4, Attributes of God).

Perspective

by Nancy Leigh DeMoss

A BALANCED SPIRITUAL DIET (From A Place of Quiet Rest, 168–172)

As I was writing this afternoon, I took a break to go make myself a sandwich. Can you imagine if I had opened the refrigerator, closed my eyes, and grabbed whatever items my hand happened to reach first? Instead of peanut butter and jelly sandwich, I might have ended up with a plate of onions, mustard, and whipped cream—not especially appetizing or nourishing. Yet that is a picture of the way many people approach the Word of God. They blindly "grab" whatever passage they come to first, in no particular sequence or order. When passages are separated from their context, their meaning is changed and well-meaning believers can easily be misled.

Others read the Bible much like a teenager whose preferred diet consists of pizza, chips, pop, and ice cream. Our bodies require a nutritionally balanced diet in order to stay healthy. Likewise, our spirits need the balance that comes from taking in the "whole counsel of God," not limiting ourselves to those passages that seem particularly appetizing. The spiritual growth of some believers has been stunted due to a diet that consists primarily of the Psalms with perhaps a smidgen of the New Testament Epistles.

It is true that not all parts of the Bible are equally easy to digest. This week I have been reading in 1 Chronicles and Ezekiel. Unlike the "succulent" passages we might discover in 1 Peter or the gospel of John, there are some passages in those books that seem particularly tedious and even unnecessary. Even the great Puritan pastor John Bunyan admitted, "I have sometimes seen more in a line of the Bible than I could well tell how to stand under, and yet at another time the whole Bible hath been to me as dry as a stick."

But Paul reminded Timothy that "all Scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness" (2 Tim. 3:16, emphasis added). That means that we need a diet that includes all of God's Word. Yes, we need the Psalms and the Epistles. But we also need the Books of the Law, the Historical Books, the Prophets, and the Gospels. We need the whole of God's Word. And we need to read in such a way that we get a sense of the flow of the Word.

The fact that the Bible is a whole doesn't mean it can only be read straight through, from Genesis to Revelation, although many believers find great blessing in doing this on a regular basis. It does mean that context and flow are important. Individual verses need to be read in the context of the paragraph and chapter in which they appear. Chapters should be studied in light of the entire book where they are found. And the various books make more sense if we understand how they fit into the scheme and flow of the Bible and God's eternal, redemptive plan. If you want to get a balanced spiritual diet as well as an understanding of the whole plan of God, make sure that you are not overlooking or bypassing certain portions of the Word.

There are many different ways to read the Bible systematically. There are numerous Bible reading plans available today, some designed to help you read through the entire Bible in a year, others in a longer time span. Personally, I generally prefer to read in both the Old and New Testaments at the same time. There are several reasons for this: First, the Old Testament sheds light on the New and vice versa. Those connections are easier to see when I am reading in both Testaments. Second, I don't like to go for long periods of time without reading in the Gospels. That is where we get the clearest picture of the Lord Jesus. If the goal of our devotional life is to know Him and to be conformed to His image, then we will want to go back to the Gospels over and over again. Third, by reading in both Testaments, the more difficult Old Testament passages are balanced out with other portions that are easier to "digest."

Some time ago, a dear, older servant of the Lord recommended an approach to Bible reading that I have found to be a great blessing. He suggested dividing the Bible into six major sections, beginning in Genesis, Joshua, Job, Isaiah, Matthew, and Romans. Each day, read one or more chapters consecutively in each of those sections. Mark where you end up in each section so you can pick up at that location the next day.

This has been one of the most exciting ways I have discovered to read the Word. Though penned by many different authors over a period of fifteen hundred years, there is a unity and coherence in the Scripture that can only be supernatural. Invariably, I find that what I am reading in one portion dovetails precisely with what I am reading in another.

At times you may feel the need to take a particular book or section of the Bible and "place it under a microscope." One way of doing that is to take a specific book of the Bible and read through it every day for thirty days. This is a good way to gain deeper insight into the heart and message of an individual book.

You will probably find that your devotional life stays fresher if you vary your approach to Bible reading from time to time. At times, you may want to read just a small portion each day, meditating on each word and phrase. During other seasons, you may choose to cover more ground more quickly, looking for the broader, overarching themes. Occasionally, you may wish to take a break from reading consecutively in order to focus on a particular topic, word, or character from the Bible. However, it is not wise to neglect systematic reading of the Scripture for any length of time.

in the land which the LORD your God is giving you for all time."

Cities of Refuge East of the Jordan

41Then Moses set apart three cities on this side of the Jordan, toward the rising of the sun, 42that the manslayer might flee there, who kills his neighbor unintentionally, without having hated him in time past, and that by fleeing to one of these cities he might live: 43Bezer in the wilderness on the plateau for the Reubenites, Ramoth in Gilead for the Gadites, and Golan in Bashan for the Manassites.

Introduction to God's Law

44Now this is the law which Moses set before the children of Israel. 45These are the testimonies, the statutes, and the judgments which Moses spoke to the children of Israel after they came out of Egypt, 46on this side of the Jordan, in the valley opposite Beth Peor, in the land of Sihon king of the Amorites, who dwelt at Heshbon, whom Moses and the children of Israel defeated after they came out of Egypt. 47And they took possession of his land and the land of Og king of Bashan, two kings of the Amorites, who were on this side of the Jordan, toward the rising of the sun, 48from Aroer, which is on the bank of the River Arnon, even to Mount Sion[a] (that is, Hermon), 49and all the plain on the east side of the Jordan as far as the Sea of the Arabah, below the slopes of Pisgah.

The Ten Commandments Reviewed

5 And Moses called all Israel, and said to them:
"Hear, O Israel, the statutes and judgments which I speak in your hearing today, that you may learn them and be careful to observe them. 2The LORD our God made a covenant with us in Horeb. 3The LORD did not make this covenant with our fathers, but with us, those who are here today, all of us who are alive. 4The LORD talked with you face to face on the mountain from the midst of the fire. 5I stood between the LORD and you at that time, to declare to you the word of the LORD; for you were afraid because of the fire, and you did not go up the mountain. He said:

6"I am the LORD your God who brought you out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of bondage.
7"You shall have no other gods before Me.
8"You shall not make for yourself a carved image—any likeness of anything that is in heaven above, or that is in the earth beneath, or that is in the water under the earth; 9you shall not bow down to them nor serve them. For I, the LORD your God, am a jealous God, visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children to the third and fourth generations of those who hate Me, 10but showing mercy to thousands, to those who love Me and keep My commandments.
11"You shall not take the name of the LORD your God in vain, for the LORD will not hold him guiltless who takes His name in vain.
12"Observe the Sabbath day, to keep it holy, as the LORD your God commanded you. 13Six days you shall labor and do all your work, 14but the seventh day is the Sabbath of the LORD your God. In it you shall do no work: you, nor your son, nor your daughter, nor your male servant, nor your female servant, nor your ox, nor your donkey, nor any of your cattle, nor your stranger who is within your gates, that your male servant and your female servant may rest as well as you. 15And remember that you were a slave in the land of Egypt, and the LORD your God brought you out from there by a mighty hand and by an outstretched arm; therefore the LORD your God commanded you to keep the Sabbath day.
16"Honor your father and your mother, as the LORD your God has commanded you, that your days may be long, and that it may be well with you in the land which the LORD your God is giving you.
17"You shall not murder.
18"You shall not commit adultery.
19"You shall not steal.
20"You shall not bear false witness against your neighbor.

4:48 [a]Syriac reads Sirion (compare 3:9).

4:41–43 After Moses' address, he set aside three cities in Transjordan to serve as asylums for anyone who committed involuntary manslaughter. This system provided safety from revenge until legal procedures could be undertaken (Deut. 19:1–13).

5:9, 10 The Lord will not tolerate any violation of His holiness and sovereignty, for such would affect all the generations to come. Parents who act as if they hate God teach their children to do the same by their actions as well as their words. Therefore, the children are not punished for the parent's rebellion but rather because the children rebel in the same manner. The life of the parent will be reflected in the children who have watched the lives of their parents and, in turn, will pass that lifestyle on to their own children. Notice the contrast between judgment that extends to the third and fourth generation and mercy that is shown to thousands.

5:12–15 The reason for keeping the Sabbath holy is different here than that stated in Exodus 20:11 (see chart, The Principle of the Sabbath). In the Exodus accounting, the rest on the Sabbath coincides with the rest of God after completing His creative activity. However, here the Sabbath rest is in remembrance of their deliverance from Egypt (see also Ex. 23, The Lord's Day).

HOME SCHOOLING A PLACE OF LEARNING

God has given to His people commands that are to be passed along to their children so they "may fear the Lord" and keep His commandments that their "days may be prolonged."

As the children of Israel trekked from Egypt to the Promised Land, the teaching of children was not an activity isolated to a particular location or a limited time of day. Rather, it was instruction interwoven with all the activities of life. The teaching was to be while they were sitting, walking, lying down, and rising up (Deut. 6:1–7).

Home schooling is one way many families are fulfilling this command to pass on godly values and to instruct their children about life from a godly perspective. Even though they want their children to be exposed to other people and other ideas, most home schooling parents feel that they have the primary responsibility for influencing the lives of their children. Home schooling allows them the opportunity to present information in the context of values.

Home schooling families have many reasons for educating their children at home:

- Children are encouraged to grow in all areas at their own pace—emotionally, spiritually, socially, and mentally. This education accommodates the uniqueness of each child, including physiological and neurological differences.
- Many of the negative effects of peer pressure are minimized.
- An opportunity for children to pursue their respective interests in particular subjects is provided. In a relaxed home atmosphere, the child's natural curiosity can lead to learning experiences.
- A unique family bond is created since parents and children are together many hours each day. Much of home schooling involves a one-to-one tutorial approach, considered the finest method ever devised for formal instruction.
- Domestic skills, hobbies, earning and managing money, responding to the needs of others, and other practical areas of life are included in the training.

Home schooling is a big responsibility, but many parents are discovering the enriching rewards of teaching their own children, and they take it seriously enough to make the investment of time it requires. Home schoolers have a great deal in common with the early Hebrews, as well as with the many parents who have instructed their children at home throughout history.

22 "These words the Lord spoke to all your assembly, in the mountain from the midst of the fire, the cloud, and the thick darkness, with a loud voice; and He added no more. And He wrote them on two tablets of stone and gave them to me.

The People Afraid of God's Presence

23 "So it was, when you heard the voice from the midst of the darkness, while the mountain was burning with fire, that you came near to me, all the heads of your tribes and your elders. 24 And you said: 'Surely the LORD our God has shown us His glory and His greatness, and we have heard His voice from the midst of the fire. We have seen this day that God speaks with man; yet he still lives. 25 Now therefore, why should we die? For this great fire will consume us; if we hear the voice of the LORD our God anymore, then we shall die. 26 For who is there of all flesh who has heard the voice of the living God speaking from the midst of the fire, as we have, and lived? 27 You go near and hear all that the LORD our God may say, and tell us all that the LORD our God says to you, and we will hear and do it.'

28 "Then the LORD heard the voice of your words when you spoke to me, and the LORD said to me: 'I have heard the voice of the words of this people which they have spoken to you. They are right in all that they have spoken. 29 Oh, that they had such a heart in them that they would fear Me and always keep all My commandments, that it might be well with them and with their children forever! 30Go and say to them, "Return to your tents." 31But as for you, stand here by Me, and I will speak to you all the commandments, the statutes, and the judgments which you shall teach them, that they may observe them in the land which I am giving them to possess.'

5:21 This last commandment is concerned mostly with a condition of the heart that would manifest itself in actions listed in the previous four commandments.

32"Therefore you shall be careful to do as the LORD your God has commanded you; you shall not turn aside to the right hand or to the left. 33You shall walk in all the ways which the LORD your God has commanded you, that you may live and that it may be well with you, and that you may prolong your days in the land which you shall possess.

The Greatest Commandment

6 "Now this is the commandment, and these are the statutes and judgments which the LORD your God has commanded to teach you, that you may observe them in the land which you are crossing over to possess, 2that you may fear the LORD your God, to keep all His statutes and His commandments which I command you, you and your son and your grandson, all the days of your life, and that your days may be prolonged. 3Therefore hear, O Israel, and be careful to observe it, that it may be well with you, and that you may multiply greatly as the LORD God of your fathers has promised you—'a land flowing with milk and honey.'[a]

4"Hear, O Israel: The LORD our God, the LORD is one![a] 5You shall love the LORD your God with all your heart, with all your soul, and with all your strength.

6"And these words which I command you today shall be in your heart. 7You shall teach them diligently to your children, and shall talk of them when you sit in your house, when you walk by the way, when you lie down, and when you rise up. 8You shall bind them as a sign on your hand, and they shall be as frontlets between your eyes. 9You shall write them on the doorposts of your house and on your gates.

Caution Against Disobedience

10"So it shall be, when the LORD your God brings you into the land of which He swore to your fathers, to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, to give you large and beautiful cities which you did not build, 11houses full of all good things, which you did not fill, hewn-out wells which you did not dig, vineyards and olive trees which you did not plant—when you have eaten and are full— 12*then* beware, lest you forget the LORD who brought you out of the land of Egypt, from the house of bondage. 13You shall fear the LORD your God and serve Him, and shall take oaths in His name. 14You shall not go after other gods, the gods of the peoples who are all around you 15(for the LORD your God is a jealous God among you), lest the anger of the LORD your God be aroused against you and destroy you from the face of the earth.

16"You shall not tempt the LORD your God as you tempted Him in Massah. 17You shall diligently keep the commandments of the LORD your God, His testimonies, and His statutes which He has commanded you. 18And you shall do what is right and good in the sight of the LORD, that it may be well with you, and that you may go in and possess

6:3 [a]Exodus 3:8 6:4 [a]Or The LORD is our God, the LORD alone (that is, the only one)

6:1 The commandment, the statutes, and the judgments. "The commandments" (Heb. mitsvah; see Deut. 4:2) is a reference to the sum and substance of the Law—the Ten Commandments or perhaps encompassing all the Torah. "The statutes" (Heb. chuqim) may refer to the ceremonial laws dealing with how to approach God or that which was prescribed as moral or ritual or civil code. "The judgments" (Heb. mishpatim, lit. "right") could allude to the narrative passages that express what happens when a person keeps or violates the Law.

6:4, 5 The Shema (Heb., lit. "hear"), as this passage is often called, expresses the uniqueness as well as the unity of God. The Shema was fundamental to the Jewish faith and was to be recited morning and night. The word "one" (Heb. 'ekad) implies unity made up of several parts, and this oneness is seen in the Christian doctrine of the Trinity. By believing this confession, the people of Israel would guard themselves against idolatry. Yahweh was affirmed as the one true God, and He was identified as Israel's God.

6:6, 7 So important were the commands of the Lord that Moses directed the nation to do everything possible to remember these commands and to incorporate them into everyday life. The spiritual education of the children was the responsibility of the parent. The teaching would take place daily through the example of the parents as well as through the repetition of the Law. The importance of this command is seen by the extent to which parents were to go in order to teach their children. This was more than teaching the facts of the Law; it was to be the demonstration of a lifestyle woven into the tapestry of everyday life. Creativity was needed to teach the precepts of God while involved in mundane chores of the household.

6:8, 9 The binding of God's Word as symbols on their hands and on their foreheads and the enclosing of these written verses in attachments for doorframes could well be intended to be metaphorical, but in later times the Jews treated these admonitions as literal commands. They would copy several verses of Scripture on a parchment and place it in a small container called a "frontlet" (see Ex. 13:16, note; Matt. 23:5, "phylacteries," small leather containers worn around the head and around the left arm near the heart). The wearing of these was especially important whenever the Shema (Heb.) was recited. They would also put the same verses in a small container called a mezuzah (Heb.), which they would attach to the doorposts or gateposts of their homes, a custom still observed today.

6:12 The danger of prosperity lay in becoming satisfied and forgetting the deliverance of the Lord (Prov. 30:7–9).

EDUCATION TEACHING OUR CHILDREN

The family, throughout Scripture, is considered to be the basic channel for the moral and practical teaching of children (Deut. 6:6, 7). Within the home, children are to learn the praises of the Lord and His strengths and works (Ps. 78:1–4), daily self-discipline (Prov. 13:24; 22:15; 29:15), and the history of God's people (Deut. 6:20–25).

Historically, the instruction of children was to be in three basic areas:

- Religious education. Children were expected to learn the Law in order to become a kingdom of priests and a holy people (Ex. 19:6).
- Occupational skills. Children learned trades in an apprentice environment and took on such responsibilities at an early age (1 Sam. 16:11).
- Military strategy and skills. Agility and courage were emphasized (2 Sam. 22:34).

Oral instruction was prevalent, with an emphasis on recitation of historical exploits, proverbs, and the Torah (the first five books of the Bible). Instruction was to be daily—highly repetitive and behavior-oriented—so that lessons might be committed to memory and result in action (Deut. 11:18–21; Prov. 22:6; Is. 28:9, 10).

Women were a vital link in teaching their own children (2 Tim. 1:5) and mentoring younger women (Titus 2:3–5). They were also trained in professional skills such as midwifery (Ex. 1:15–21), cooking (1 Sam. 8:13), professional mourning (Jer. 9:17–19), singing in the royal court (Eccl. 2:8), poetic expression and prophecy (Ex. 15:20, 21).

The first mention of education in a public setting is one in which the people of God are commanded to read the covenant publicly once every seven years in the presence of all the people (Deut. 31:10–13). Parents are admonished to teach with love and responsibility (Eph. 6:4–7) and children to learn with an attitude of respect (Ex. 20:12; Lev. 19:3).

the good land of which the LORD swore to your fathers, 19to cast out all your enemies from before you, as the LORD has spoken.

20"When your son asks you in time to come, saying, 'What is the meaning of the testimonies, the statutes, and the judgments which the LORD our God has commanded you?' 21then you shall say to your son: 'We were slaves of Pharaoh in Egypt, and the LORD brought us out of Egypt with a mighty hand; 22and the LORD showed signs and wonders before our eyes, great and severe, against Egypt, Pharaoh, and all his household. 23Then He brought us out from there, that He might bring us in, to give us the land of which He swore to our fathers. 24And the LORD commanded us to observe all these statutes, to fear the LORD our God, for our good always, that He might preserve us alive, as it is this day. 25Then it will be righteousness for us, if we are careful to observe all these commandments before the LORD our God, as He has commanded us.'

A Chosen People

7 "When the LORD your God brings you into the land which you go to possess, and has cast out many nations before you, the Hittites and the Girgashites and the Amorites and the Canaanites and the Perizzites and the Hivites and the Jebusites, seven nations greater and mightier than you, 2and when the LORD your God delivers them over to you, you shall conquer them and utterly destroy them. You shall make no covenant with them nor show mercy to them. 3Nor shall you make marriages with them. You shall not give your daughter to their son, nor take their daughter for your son. 4For they will turn your sons away from following Me, to serve other gods; so the anger of the LORD will be aroused against you and destroy you suddenly. 5But thus you shall deal with them: you shall destroy their altars, and break down their sacred pillars, and cut down their wooden images,[a] and burn their carved images with fire.

6"For you are a holy people to the LORD your God; the LORD your God has chosen you to be a people for Himself, a special treasure above all the peoples on the face of the earth. 7The LORD did not set His love on you nor choose you because

6:20 If the parents were keeping the commands of the Lord, then questions of this nature would arise out of the curiosity characteristic of children. This kind of question would not be asked in a home where the statutes were not observed.

6:21–25 The children were not to be ignored but rather answered in a complete manner. The response was to be a comprehensive testimony of their bondage, deliverance, protection, provision, and submission to Yahweh.

INSTRUCTIONS TO ISRAEL

DO NOT . . .	CONSEQUENCE	DO . . .	REWARD
Forget the Lord (Deut. 6:12).	The anger of God will be aroused against you (Deut. 6:15).	Fear God and keep His statutes and commandments—both you and your children (Deut. 6:2).	All your days will be prosperous. It will be well with you; you will multiply greatly and inherit a Land flowing with milk and honey (Deut. 6:3).
Go after other gods (Deut. 6:14).		Be careful to observe these (Deut. 6:3).
Tempt the Lord (Deut. 6:16).		Love the Lord with all your heart, soul, and strength (Deut. 6:5).
Make marriages with those in the Land (Deut. 7:3).	They will turn your children from the Lord (Deut. 7:4).	Keep these words in your heart (Deut. 6:6).
Be afraid of them (Deut. 7:18).	The Lord will do to them what He did to the Egyptians (Deut. 7:18, 19).	Teach them diligently to your children (Deut. 6:7).	The Lord will give you large and beautiful cities, houses full of good things, wells you did not dig, trees you did not plant (Deut. 6:10, 11).
Be terrified of them (Deut. 7:21).		Bind them as a sign on your hand and as frontlets between your eyes (Deut. 6:8).
Covet their silver and gold (Deut. 7:25).	You will be snared (Deut. 7:25).	Write them on your doorposts (Deut. 6:9).
Bring abomination into your house (Deut. 7:26).	You will be doomed to destruction (Deut. 7:26).	Do what is right and good in the sight of the Lord (Deut. 6:18).	It will be well with you, and you will possess the Land (Deut. 6:18).
		Utterly destroy them; make no covenant with them; show them no mercy (Deut. 7:2).	Your enemies will be cast out (Deut. 6:19).
		Destroy their altars, break their sacred pillars, cut down wooden images (Deut. 7:5).	God will love, bless, and multiply you (Deut. 7:13).
		Burn their idols (Deut. 7:5).	You will be blessed above all people, not barren (Deut. 7:14).
		Listen and keep His judgments (Deut. 7:12).	He will take away all sickness (Deut. 7:15).

Note—Commandments, statutes, and judgments are all important. Though each has its own precise meaning, they are often used interchangeably to refer to that for which God's people are responsible.*

you were more in number than any other people, for you were the least of all peoples; 8but because the LORD loves you, and because He would keep the oath which He swore to your fathers, the LORD has brought you out with a mighty hand, and redeemed you from the house of bondage, from the hand of Pharaoh king of Egypt.

9"Therefore know that the LORD your God, He is God, the faithful God who keeps covenant and mercy for a thousand generations with those who love Him and keep His commandments; 10and He repays those who hate Him to their face, to destroy them. He will not be slack with him who hates Him; He will repay him to his face. 11Therefore you shall keep the commandment, the statutes, and the judgments which I command you today, to observe them.

Blessings of Obedience

12"Then it shall come to pass, because you listen to these judgments, and keep and do them, that the LORD your God will keep with you the covenant and the mercy which He swore to your fathers. 13And He will love you and bless you and multiply you; He will also bless the fruit of your womb and the fruit of your land, your grain and your new wine and your oil, the increase of your cattle and the offspring of your flock, in the land of which He swore to your fathers to give you. 14You shall be blessed above all peoples; there shall not be a male or female barren among you or among your livestock. 15And the LORD will take away from you all sickness, and will afflict you with none of the terrible diseases of Egypt which you have known, but will lay them on all those who hate you. 16Also you shall destroy all the peoples whom the LORD your God delivers over to you; your eye shall have no pity on them; nor shall you serve their gods, for that will be a snare to you.

17"If you should say in your heart, 'These nations are greater than I; how can I dispossess them?'— 18you shall not be afraid of them, but you shall remember well what the LORD your God did to Pharaoh and to all Egypt: 19the great trials which your eyes saw, the signs and the wonders, the mighty hand and the outstretched arm, by which the LORD your God brought you out. So shall the LORD your God do to all the peoples of whom you are afraid. 20Moreover the LORD your God will send the hornet among them until those who are left, who hide themselves from you, are destroyed. 21You shall not be terrified of them; for the LORD your God, the great and awesome God, is among you. 22And the LORD your God will drive out those nations before you little by little; you will be unable to destroy them at once, lest the beasts of the field become too numerous for you. 23But the LORD your God will deliver them over to you, and will inflict defeat upon them until they are destroyed. 24And He will deliver their kings into your hand, and you will destroy their name from under heaven; no one shall be able to stand against you until you have destroyed them. 25You shall burn the carved images of their gods with fire; you shall not covet the silver or gold that is on them, nor take it for yourselves, lest you be snared by it; for it is an abomination to the LORD your God. 26Nor shall you bring an abomination into your house, lest you be doomed to destruction like it. You shall utterly detest it and utterly abhor it, for it is an accursed thing.

Remember the LORD Your God

8 "Every commandment which I command you today you must be careful to observe, that you may live and multiply, and go in and possess the land of which the LORD swore to your fathers. 2And you shall remember that the LORD your God led you all the way these forty years in the wilderness, to humble you and test you, to know what was in your heart, whether you would keep His commandments or not. 3So He humbled you, allowed you to hunger, and fed you with manna which you did not know nor did your fathers know, that He might make you know that man shall not live by bread alone; but man lives by every word that proceeds from the mouth of the LORD. 4Your garments did not wear out on you, nor did your foot swell these forty years. 5You should know in your heart that as a man chastens his son, so the LORD your God chastens you.

6"Therefore you shall keep the commandments of the LORD your God, to walk in His ways and to fear Him. 7For the LORD your God is bringing you into a good land, a land of brooks of water, of fountains and springs, that flow out of valleys and hills; 8a land of wheat and barley, of vines and fig trees and pomegranates, a land of olive oil and honey; 9a land in which you will eat bread without scarcity, in which you will lack nothing; a land whose stones are iron and out of whose hills you can dig copper. 10When you have eaten and are full, then you shall bless the LORD your God for the good land which He has given you.

11"Beware that you do not forget the LORD your God by not keeping His commandments, His judgments, and His statutes which I command you today, 12lest— when you have eaten and are full, and have built beautiful houses and dwell in them; 13and when your herds and your flocks multiply, and your silver and your gold are multiplied, and all that you have is multiplied; 14when your heart is lifted up, and you forget the LORD your God who brought you out of the land of Egypt, from the house of bondage; 15who led you through that great and terrible wilderness, in which were fiery serpents and scorpions and thirsty land where

7:12–15 The blessings of God, including good health, were contingent on the obedience of Israel (Ex. 15:26; 23:25). The terrible diseases they had observed in Egypt would not afflict them.

8:2 Since God already knew what was in their hearts, the testing allowed the Israelites to see themselves as they really were. The wilderness wandering taught the people dependence on God, which would be of utmost importance in the conquest of Canaan. By being humbled, they were able to see their insufficiency and their constant need for Yahweh.

there was no water; who brought water for you out of the flinty rock; 16who fed you in the wilderness with manna, which your fathers did not know, that He might humble you and that He might test you, to do you good in the end— 17then you say in your heart, 'My power and the might of my hand have gained me this wealth.'

18"And you shall remember the LORD your God, for it is He who gives you power to get wealth, that He may establish His covenant which He swore to your fathers, as it is this day. 19Then it shall be, if you by any means forget the LORD your God, and follow other gods, and serve them and worship them, I testify against you this day that you shall surely perish. 20As the nations which the LORD destroys before you, so you shall perish, because you would not be obedient to the voice of the LORD your God.

Israel's Rebellions Reviewed

9 "Hear, O Israel: You are to cross over the Jordan today, and go in to dispossess nations greater and mightier than yourself, cities great and fortified up to heaven, 2a people great and tall, the descendants of the Anakim, whom you know, and of whom you heard it said, 'Who can stand before the descendants of Anak?' 3Therefore understand today that the LORD your God is He who goes over before you as a consuming fire. He will destroy them and bring them down before you; so you shall drive them out and destroy them quickly, as the LORD has said to you.

4"Do not think in your heart, after the LORD your God has cast them out before you, saying, 'Because of my righteousness the LORD has brought me in to possess this land'; but it is because of the wickedness of these nations that the LORD is driving them out from before you. 5*It is* not because of your righteousness or the uprightness of your heart that you go in to possess their land, but because of the wickedness of these nations that the LORD your God drives them out from before you, and that He may fulfill the word which the LORD swore to your fathers, to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. 6Therefore understand that the LORD your God is not giving you this good land to possess because of your righteousness, for you are a stiff-necked people.

7"Remember! Do not forget how you provoked the LORD your God to wrath in the wilderness. From the day that you departed from the land of Egypt until you came to this place, you have been rebellious against the LORD. 8Also in Horeb you provoked the LORD to wrath, so that the LORD was angry enough with you to have destroyed you. 9When I went up into the mountain to receive the tablets of stone, the tablets of the covenant which the LORD made with you, then I stayed on the mountain forty days and forty nights. I neither ate bread nor drank water. 10Then the LORD delivered to me two tablets of stone written with the finger of God, and on them were all the words which the LORD had spoken to you on the mountain from the midst of the fire in the day of the assembly. 11And it came to pass, at the end of forty days and forty nights, that the LORD gave me the two tablets of stone, the tablets of the covenant.

12"Then the LORD said to me, 'Arise, go down quickly from here, for your people whom you brought out of Egypt have acted corruptly; they have quickly turned aside from the way which I commanded them; they have made themselves a molded image.'

13"Furthermore the LORD spoke to me, saying, 'I have seen this people, and indeed they are a stiff-necked people. 14Let Me alone, that I may destroy them and blot out their name from under heaven; and I will make of you a nation mightier and greater than they.'

15"So I turned and came down from the mountain, and the mountain burned with fire; and the two tablets of the covenant were in my two hands. 16And I looked, and behold, you had sinned against the LORD your God— had made for yourselves a molded calf! You had turned aside quickly from the way which the LORD had commanded you. 17Then I took the two tablets and threw them out of my two hands and broke them before your eyes. 18And I fell down before the LORD, as at the first, forty days and forty nights; I neither ate bread nor drank water, because of all your sin which you committed in doing wickedly in the sight of the LORD, to provoke

8:18 In the desert, the Israelites depended on God for their food, clothing, and shelter. Once they had settled in the Land it would be easy for them to attribute their gains to their own abilities. Moses warned against this, stating that even the ability to produce their own shelter, food, and clothing would be a gift from God. In the desert they ate manna directly from the hand of God. In their new Land they would plant their own food, but the increase of it would be from the Lord. Every provision in life is a result of the grace of God (James 1:17).

9:3 Destruction of the Anakim, giants that descended from the Nephilim (Heb.), was assured because the Lord would destroy them. The Israelites were merely participants; the victory belonged to the Lord.

9:4–6 Moses warned against spiritual pride. The Israelites could become proud if they thought their own righteousness had led the Lord to dispossess the Canaanites. The reason for the destruction of their enemies was twofold. These wicked enemies were under the judgment of God, and the Lord would always be faithful to the covenant that He swore to the patriarchs.

9:17 The breaking of the tablets symbolized what the people had already done to the covenant agreement. Before Moses had even returned from Mt. Horeb (Sinai) where he received the covenant, the people had already violated their agreement with God. Their apostasy was confirmed in the breaking of the tablets.

FLEXIBILITY YIELDING EXPECTATIONS

The flexible are those who yield themselves to the Lord and serve Him (Ex. 24:7; 2 Chr. 30:8), who submit to the Father's will even when it goes against what they personally desire to do (Matt. 26:42), and who choose to be obedient to Christ—in their behavior and in their "thought lives" (2 Cor. 10:4–6).

The opposite of flexibility in Scripture is to have a "hard heart" and a "stiff neck"—which includes resisting the Holy Spirit (Acts 7:51), being impudent and stubborn against the Lord (Ezek. 2:2–4), and worshiping false gods (Ex. 32:8, 9)—all of which point toward a rebellious spirit. The person with a hard heart and stiff neck is subject to calamity and God's wrath (Prov. 28:14).

In your relationships with others, you are to submit your will to those in authority (Heb. 13:17), "giving preference" to others rather than demanding your own way (Rom. 12:10); yet, at the same time, abhor evil and stand up for what is good (Rom. 12:9). Above all, you are to be ready to present the Good News of the gospel in any setting to everyone God sends to you.

prayed for Aaron also at the same time. 21Then I took your sin, the calf which you had made, and burned it with fire and crushed it and ground it very small, until it was as fine as dust; and I threw its dust into the brook that descended from the mountain.

22"Also at Taberah and Massah and Kibroth Hattaavah you provoked the LORD to wrath. 23Like-wise, when the LORD sent you from Kadesh Barnea, saying, 'Go up and possess the land which I have given you,' then you rebelled against the commandment of the LORD your God, and you did not believe Him nor obey His voice. 24You have been rebellious against the LORD from the day that I knew you.

25"Thus I prostrated myself before the LORD;
forty days and forty nights I kept prostrating myself, because the LORD had said He would destroy you. 26Therefore I prayed to the LORD, and said: 'O Lord GOD, do not destroy Your people and Your inheritance whom You have redeemed through Your greatness, whom You have brought out of Egypt with a mighty hand. 27Remember Your servants, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob; do not look on the stubbornness of this people, or on their wickedness or their sin, 28lest the land from which You brought us should say, "Because the LORD was not able to bring them to the land which He promised them, and because He hated them, He has brought them out to kill them in the wilderness." 29Yet they are Your people and Your inheritance, whom You brought out by Your mighty power and by Your outstretched arm.'

The Second Pair of Tablets

10 "At that time the LORD said to me, 'Hew for yourself two tablets of stone like the first, and come up to Me on the mountain and make yourself an ark of wood. 2And I will write on the tablets the words that were on the first tablets, which you broke; and you shall put them in the ark.'

3"So I made an ark of acacia wood, hewed two tablets of stone like the first, and went up the mountain, having the two tablets in my hand. 4And
He wrote on the tablets according to the first writing, the Ten Commandments, which the LORD had spoken to you in the mountain from the midst of the fire in the day of the assembly; and the LORD gave them to me. 5Then I turned and came down from the mountain, and put the tablets in the ark which I had made; and there they are, just as the LORD commanded me."

6(Now the children of Israel journeyed from the wells of Bene Jaakan to Moserah, where Aaron died, and where he was buried; and Eleazar his son ministered as priest in his stead. 7From there they journeyed to Gudgodah, and from Gudgodah to 9:22 At each of these places the people complained and murmured. Their complaining showed lack of faith in God.

9:24 The continued rebellion of the people kept Moses in constant intercession for them. However, his pleas were not based on their merit but on God's promise to the patriarchs. The destruction of Israel would cause the pagan nations to question His faithfulness. The mercy God showed Israel is linked to the intercession of Moses.

10:1 At that time is a reference to the time of Moses' prayer for grace for the nation (Deut. 9:25–29). "Like the first" indicates that the covenant was to be renewed according to God's great mercy on a rebellious people.

10:3 Though Moses himself did not build the ark, he gave the instructions for its building according to what the Lord had told him (Ex. 25:10–22; see chart, The Furniture of the Tabernacle). The carpenter was Bezalel (Ex. 37:1–9).

Jotbathah, a land of rivers of water. 8At that time the LORD separated the tribe of Levi to bear the ark of the covenant of the LORD, to stand before the LORD to minister to Him and to bless in His name, to this day. 9Therefore Levi has no portion nor inheritance with his brethren; the LORD is his inheritance, just as the LORD your God promised him.)

10"As at the first time, I stayed in the mountain forty days and forty nights; the LORD also heard me at that time, and the LORD chose not to destroy you. 11Then the LORD said to me, 'Arise, begin your journey before the people, that they may go in and possess the land which I swore to their fathers to give them.'

The Essence of the Law

12"And now, Israel, what does the LORD your God require of you, but to fear the LORD your God, to walk in all His ways and to love Him, to serve the LORD your God with all your heart and with all your soul, 13*and* to keep the commandments of the LORD and His statutes which I command you today for your good? 14Indeed heaven and the highest heavens belong to the LORD your God, also the earth with all that is in it. 15The LORD delighted only in your fathers, to love them; and He chose their descendants after them, you above all peoples, as it is this day. 16Therefore circumcise the foreskin of your heart, and be stiff-necked no longer. 17For the LORD your God is God of gods and Lord of lords, the great God, mighty and awesome, who shows no partiality nor takes a bribe. 18He administers justice for the fatherless and the widow, and loves the stranger, giving him food and clothing. 19Therefore love the stranger, for you were strangers in the land of Egypt. 20You shall fear the LORD your God; you shall serve Him, and to Him you shall hold fast, and take oaths in His name. 21He is your praise, and He is your God, who has done for you these great and awesome things which your eyes have seen. 22Your fathers went down to Egypt with seventy persons, and now the LORD your God has made you as the stars of heaven in multitude.

Love and Obedience Rewarded

11 "Therefore you shall love the LORD your God, and keep His charge, His statutes, His judgments, and His commandments always. 2Know today that I do not speak with your children, who have not known and who have not seen the chastening of the LORD your God, His greatness and His mighty hand and His outstretched arm— 3His signs and His acts which He did in the midst of Egypt, to Pharaoh king of Egypt, and to all his land; 4what He did to the army of Egypt, to their horses and their chariots: how He made the waters of the Red Sea overflow them as they pursued you, and how the LORD has destroyed them to this day; 5what He did for you in the wilderness until you came to this place; 6and what He did to Dathan and Abiram the sons of Eliab, the son of Reuben: how the earth opened its mouth and swallowed them up, their households, their tents, and all the substance that was in their possession, in the midst of all Israel— 7but your eyes have seen every great act of the LORD which He did.

8"Therefore you shall keep every commandment which I command you today, that you may be strong, and go in and possess the land which you cross over to possess, 9and that you may prolong your days in the land which the LORD swore to give your fathers, to them and their descendants, 'a land flowing with milk and honey.'[a] 10For the land which you go to possess is not like the land of Egypt from which you have come, where you sowed your seed and watered it by foot, as a vegetable garden; 11but the land which you cross over to possess is a land of hills and valleys, which drinks water from the rain of heaven, 12a land for which the LORD your God cares; the eyes of the LORD your God are always on it, from the beginning of the year to the very end of the year.

13"And it shall be that if you earnestly obey My commandments which I command you today, to love the LORD your God and serve Him with all your heart and with all your soul, 14then I[a] will

11:9 [a]Exodus 3:8 11:14 [a]Following Masoretic Text and Targum; Samaritan Pentateuch, Septuagint, and Vulgate read He.

10:8, 9 The tribe of Levi was set apart for the priesthood. They were not allotted land in Canaan; therefore, they received their sustenance from the offerings of the people (Deut. 18:1–8).

10:16 Circumcision is used metaphorically to stress the need to cut away any affections that would interrupt complete obedience to the Lord. Circumcision of the heart would not be an outward sign but an inward attitude that would manifest itself outwardly in the actions of the people. A circumcised heart is open and responsive to the commands of the Lord.

11:2 The chastening of the Lord was discipline for the purpose of educating the people. Whether by grace or punishment, the Lord's dealings with the nation were always designed to teach them about His holiness and prepare them for future events.

11:9 Dathan and Abiram had referred to Egypt as a land flowing with milk and honey (v. 6). Moses drew the contrast between Egypt and the Land of Promise, which would be so productive that the Land was described metaphorically as flowing with milk and honey.

11:10 The only source for water in Egypt was the Nile River, from which water had to be distributed to the fields through irrigation.

11:13–17 The early rain and the latter rain refers to Canaan's rainy season between October and April, during which the rain would come in torrents (v. 14). These rains would be contingent on Israel's obedience.

WORSHIP GLORIFYING GOD

All of the great religions of the world claim to worship God. In our society, any form of worship, when sincerely practiced, is commonly thought to be legitimate. The Bible tells us otherwise. It teaches that God Himself commands how He is to be worshiped.

God called His people Israel to forsake other religions. He commanded them from the beginning not to worship the Lord as other peoples worship their "gods" (Deut. 12:4, 31). The Lord instructed that His people were to worship only in the place He chooses to make His name abide and that they must come with blood sacrifices (Deut. 12:5, 11, 14, 18, 26).

Worshiping God in any way we may choose is still not legitimate. God must be worshiped where He chooses to make His name abide. God still requires an atoning sacrifice for sin. As God's work in history progressed, He revealed Jesus Christ, "the name which is above every name" (Phil. 2:9), as the final atoning Sacrifice for sin (Heb. 9:12). Though there are many competing religions in the world, Jesus Christ came to reveal that He is the one and only way to the Father (John 14:6).

Although the style of Christian worship may vary from congregation to congregation, Christians can be confident that worship centered around Christ will glorify and please God (Luke 19:28–38; Eph. 1:6).

give you the rain for your land in its season, the early rain and the latter rain, that you may gather in your grain, your new wine, and your oil. 15And I will send grass in your fields for your livestock, that you may eat and be filled.' 16Take heed to yourselves, lest your heart be deceived, and you turn aside and serve other gods and worship them, 17lest the LORD's anger be aroused against you, and He shut up the heavens so that there be no rain, and the land yield no produce, and you perish quickly from the good land which the LORD is giving you.

18"Therefore you shall lay up these words of mine in your heart and in your soul, and bind them as a sign on your hand, and they shall be as frontlets between your eyes. 19You shall teach them to your children, speaking of them when you sit in your house, when you walk by the way, when you lie down, and when you rise up. 20And you shall write them on the doorposts of your house and on your gates, 21that your days and the days of your children may be multiplied in the land of which the LORD swore to your fathers to give them, like the days of the heavens above the earth.

22"For if you carefully keep all these commandments which I command you to do—to love the LORD your God, to walk in all His ways, and to hold fast to Him— 23then the LORD will drive out all these nations from before you, and you will dispossess greater and mightier nations than yourselves. 24Every place on which the sole of your foot treads shall be yours: from the wilderness and Lebanon, from the river, the River Euphrates, even to the Western Sea,[a] shall be your territory. 25No man shall be able to stand against you; the LORD your God will put the dread of you and the fear of you upon all the land where you tread, just as He has said to you.

26"Behold, I set before you today a blessing and a curse: 27the blessing, if you obey the commandments of the LORD your God which I command you today; 28and the curse, if you do not obey the commandments of the LORD your God, but turn aside from the way which I command you today, to go after other gods which you have not known. 29Now it shall be, when the LORD your God has brought you into the land which you go to possess, that you shall put the blessing on Mount Gerizim and the curse on Mount Ebal. 30*Are* they not on the other side of the Jordan, toward the setting sun, in the land of the Canaanites who dwell in the plain opposite Gilgal, beside the terebinth trees of Moreh? 31For you will cross over the Jordan and go in to possess the land which the LORD your God is giving you, and you will possess it and dwell in it. 32And you shall be careful to observe all the statutes and judgments which I set before you today.

A Prescribed Place of Worship

11:18–21 Teaching the precepts of the Lord to their children was vital in order to ensure blessing and prosperity to each generation. Obedience in each generation was the key to continued blessing (Deut. 6:6–9).

11:29 The blessings and curses, which were to be announced from these two mountains, are listed in Deuteronomy 27 and 28.

land which the LORD God of your fathers is giving you to possess, all the days that you live on the earth. 2You shall utterly destroy all the places where the nations which you shall dispossess served their gods, on the high mountains and on the hills and under every green tree. 3And you shall destroy their altars, break their sacred pillars, and burn their wooden images with fire; you shall cut down the carved images of their gods and destroy their names from that place. 4You shall not worship the LORD your God with such things.

5"But you shall seek the place where the LORD your God chooses, out of all your tribes, to put His name for His dwelling place; and there you shall go. 6There you shall take your burnt offerings, your sacrifices, your tithes, the heave offerings of your hand, your vowed offerings, your freewill offerings, and the firstborn of your herds and flocks. 7And there you shall eat before the LORD your God, and you shall rejoice in all to which you have put your hand, you and your households, in which the LORD your God has blessed you.

8"You shall not at all do as we are doing here today— every man doing whatever is right in his own eyes— 9for as yet you have not come to the rest and the inheritance which the LORD your God is giving you. 10But when you cross over the Jordan and dwell in the land which the LORD your God is giving you to inherit, and He gives you rest from all your enemies round about, so that you dwell in safety, 11then there will be the place where the LORD your God chooses to make His name abide. There you shall bring all that I command you: your burnt offerings, your sacrifices, your tithes, the heave offerings of your hand, and all your choice offerings which you vow to the LORD. 12And you shall rejoice before the LORD your God, you and your sons and your daughters, your male and female servants, and the Levite who is within your gates, since he has no portion nor inheritance with you. 13Take heed to yourself that you do not offer your burnt offerings in every place that you see; 14but in the place which the LORD chooses, in one of your tribes, there you shall offer your burnt offerings, and there you shall do all that I command you.

15"However, you may slaughter and eat meat within all your gates, whatever your heart desires, according to the blessing of the LORD your God which He has given you; the unclean and the clean may eat of it, of the gazelle and the deer alike. 16Only you shall not eat the blood; you shall pour it on the earth like water. 17You may not eat within your gates the tithe of your grain or your new wine or your oil, of the firstborn of your herd or your flock, of any of your offerings which you vow, of your freewill offerings, or of the heave offering of your hand. 18But you must eat them before the LORD your God in the place which the LORD your God chooses, you and your son and your daughter, your male servant and your female servant, and the Levite who is within your gates; and you shall rejoice before the LORD your God in all to which you put your hands. 19Take heed to yourself that you do not forsake the Levite as long as you live in your land.

20"When the LORD your God enlarges your border as He has promised you, and you say, 'Let me eat meat,' because you long to eat meat, you may eat as much meat as your heart desires. 21If the place where the LORD your God chooses to put His name is too far from you, then you may slaughter from your herd and from your flock which the LORD has given you, just as I have commanded you, and you may eat within your gates as much as your heart desires. 22Just as the gazelle and the deer are eaten, so you may eat them; the unclean and the clean alike may eat them. 23Only be sure that you do not eat the blood, for the blood is the life; you may not eat the life with the meat. 24You shall not eat it; you shall pour it on the earth like water. 25You shall not eat it, that it may go well with you and your children after you, when you do what is right in the sight of the LORD. 26Only the holy things which you have, and your vowed offerings, you shall take and go to the place which the LORD chooses. 27And you shall offer your burnt offerings, the meat and the blood, on the altar of the LORD your God; and the blood of your sacrifices shall be poured out on the altar of the LORD your God, and you shall eat the meat. 28Observe and obey all these words which I command you, that it may go well with you and your children after you forever, when you do what is good and right in the sight of the LORD your God.

Beware of False Gods

29"When the LORD your God cuts off from before you the nations which you go to dispossess, and you displace them and dwell in their land, 30take heed to yourself that you are not ensnared

12:5 Unlike the heathen religion of the Canaanites, whose worship centers were on every high hill and under every luxuriant tree (v. 2), the Israelites were to have only one central sanctuary chosen by God Himself.

12:8 While in the desert, the religious life of the Israelites was dictated by their circumstances. In the Promised Land, however, their worship would be in a central sanctuary, promoting structure and order, according to the Lord's direction.

12:15, 16 A diet of respect. The Israelites were not required to bring the meat they ate for their daily meals to the central sanctuary. They were, however, restricted from the blood of the meat. The blood symbolized life and was treated with respect because God is the Creator of life (v. 23). By pouring out the blood, an Israelite was acknowledging the sacredness of life and was symbolically giving the life back to God.

to follow them, after they are destroyed from before you, and that you do not inquire after their gods, saying, 'How did these nations serve their gods? I also will do likewise.' 31You shall not worship the LORD your God in that way; for every abomination to the LORD which He hates they have done to their gods; for they burn even their sons and daughters in the fire to their gods.

32"Whatever I command you, be careful to observe it; you shall not add to it nor take away from it.

Punishment of Apostates

13 "If there arises among you a prophet or a dreamer of dreams, and he gives you a sign or a wonder, 2and the sign or the wonder comes to pass, of which he spoke to you, saying, 'Let us go after other gods'—which you have not known—'and let us serve them,' 3you shall not listen to the words of that prophet or that dreamer of dreams, for the LORD your God is testing you to know whether you love the LORD your God with all your heart and with all your soul. 4You shall walk after the LORD your God and fear Him, and keep His commandments and obey His voice; you shall serve Him and hold fast to Him. 5But that prophet or that dreamer of dreams shall be put to death, because he has spoken in order to turn you away from the LORD your God, who brought you out of the land of Egypt and redeemed you from the house of bondage, to entice you from the way in which the LORD your God commanded you to walk. So you shall put away the evil from your midst.

6"If your brother, the son of your mother, your son or your daughter, the wife of your bosom, or your friend who is as your own soul, secretly entices you, saying, 'Let us go and serve other gods,' which you have not known, neither you nor your fathers, 7of the gods of the people which are all around you, near to you or far off from you, from one end of the earth to the other end of the earth, 8you shall not consent to him or listen to him, nor shall your eye pity him, nor shall you spare him or conceal him; 9but you shall surely kill him; your hand shall be first against him to put him to death, and afterward the hand of all the people. 10And you shall stone him with stones until he dies, because he sought to entice you away from the LORD your God, who brought you out of the land of Egypt, from the house of bondage. 11So all Israel shall hear and fear, and not again do such wickedness as this among you.

12"If you hear someone in one of your cities, which the LORD your God gives you to dwell in, saying, 13'Corrupt men have gone out from among you and enticed the inhabitants of their city, saying, "Let us go and serve other gods" '—which you have not known— 14then you shall inquire, search out, and ask diligently. And if it is indeed true and certain that such an abomination was committed among you, 15you shall surely strike the inhabitants of that city with the edge of the sword, utterly destroying it, all that is in it and its livestock—with the edge of the sword. 16And you shall gather all its plunder into the middle of the street, and completely burn with fire the city and all its plunder, for the LORD your God. It shall be a heap forever; it shall not be built again. 17So none of the accursed things shall remain in your hand, that the LORD may turn from the fierceness of His anger and show you mercy, have compassion on you and multiply you, just as He swore to your fathers, 18because you have listened to the voice of the LORD your God, to keep all His commandments which I command you today, to do what is right in the eyes of the LORD your God.

12:31 Child sacrifice, one of the most abominable sins to the Lord, was most often associated with the worship of Molech, the pagan god of the Ammonites. In ceremonial fashion, children would be shoved into a furnace as a sacrifice to appease and invoke the blessing of Molech. The Canaanites were described as merciless murderers of their defenseless children. The God of Israel, by contrast, required the death penalty for such an act (Lev. 20:2–4). Both Manasseh and Ahaz were guilty of child sacrifice (2 Kin. 21:6; 2 Chr. 28:3).

13:1 The true test of a prophet of God is not in the miracles but in his message. The prophet of God performed signs and wonders to attest to the power of God and to teach the commands of God. A false prophet could often duplicate the signs and wonders by power given to him by Satan. Moses emphasized here that the fulfillment of a certain prediction could not be the sole means of testing a prophet's authenticity. The standard for truth was the message he preached. If anyone advocated a false worship or anything contrary to the Word of God, then he would be labeled as a false prophet. The danger of such deception demanded death (v. 5).

13:3 The Lord permitted false prophets in order to test the Israelites. Although God always knew the disposition of their hearts, the testing allowed the people to see themselves in the same light. It also allowed them to exercise their faith (1 Cor. 10:13). By resisting the temptation to follow false gods, they would strengthen their faith and increase their love for God.

13:6–9 Each of these relationships stresses intimacy. However, because of the seriousness of the sin, there could be no security or tolerance for such a person, regardless of the relationship. Such sin was to be reported and punished with execution by stoning. The most tragic nature of this sin would be that the trusted friend would have to be the one to expose the sin, and his hand would throw the first stone in the execution. To those who witnessed such a death, the memory of the pain to both parties would not soon fade. Hopefully, the event would serve as a deterrent to others who would consider idolatry (Lev. 24:14). The people were strongly warned not to yield to, listen to, show pity to, or shield an enticer for a false religion.

Improper Mourning

14 "You are the children of the LORD your God; you shall not cut yourselves nor shave the front of your head for the dead. 2For you are a holy people to the LORD your God, and the LORD has chosen you to be a people for Himself, a special treasure above all the peoples who are on the face of the earth.

Clean and Unclean Meat

3"You shall not eat any detestable thing. 4These are the animals which you may eat: the ox, the sheep, the goat, 5the deer, the gazelle, the roe deer, the wild goat, the mountain goat,[a] the antelope, and the mountain sheep. 6And you may eat every animal with cloven hooves, having the hoof split into two parts, and that chews the cud, among the animals. 7Nevertheless, of those that chew the cud or have cloven hooves, you shall not eat, such as these: the camel, the hare, and the rock hyrax; for they chew the cud but do not have cloven hooves; they are unclean for you. 8Also the swine is unclean for you, because it has cloven hooves, yet does not chew the cud; you shall not eat their flesh or touch their dead carcasses.

9"These you may eat of all that are in the waters: you may eat all that have fins and scales.
10And whatever does not have fins and scales you shall not eat; it is unclean for you.

11"All clean birds you may eat. 12But these you shall not eat: the eagle, the vulture, the buzzard, 13the red kite, the falcon, and the kite after their kinds; 14every raven after its kind; 15the ostrich, the short-eared owl, the sea gull, and the hawk after their kinds; 16the little owl, the screech owl, the white owl, 17the jackdaw, the carrion vulture, the fisher owl, 18the stork, the heron after its kind, and the hoopoe and the bat.

19"Also every creeping thing that flies is unclean for you; they shall not be eaten.

20"You may eat all clean birds.

21"You shall not eat anything that dies of itself;
you may give it to the alien who is within your gates, that he may eat it, or you may sell it to a foreigner;
for you are a holy people to the LORD your God.

"You shall not boil a young goat in its mother's milk.

Tithing Principles

22"You shall truly tithe all the increase of your grain that the field produces year by year. 23And you shall eat before the LORD your God, in the place where He chooses to make His name abide, the tithe of your grain and your new wine and your oil, of the firstborn of your herds and your flocks, that you may learn to fear the LORD your God always. 24But if the journey is too long for you, so that you are not able to carry the tithe, or if the place where the LORD your God chooses to put His name is too far from you, when the LORD your God has blessed you, 25then you shall exchange it for money, take the money in your hand, and go to the place which the LORD your God chooses. 26And you shall spend that money for whatever your heart desires: for oxen or sheep, for wine or similar drink, for whatever your heart desires; you shall eat there before the LORD your God, and you shall rejoice, you and your household. 27You shall not forsake the Levite who is within your gates, for he has no part nor inheritance with you.

28"At the end of every third year you shall bring out the tithe of your produce of that year and store it up within your gates. 29And the Levite,

14:5 [a]Or addax

14:1 A holy lifestyle. As "children of the Lord" the Israelites were to differentiate themselves from the pagan Canaanite religions. The Canaanites shaved their heads and cut themselves in a ritual to mourn the dead. Israel, as a holy nation, was not to identify with any pagan practices.

14:3 The system behind distinguishing between clean and unclean foods is uncertain. Hygiene may be one criterion. Some meats were more toxic than others and would be unhealthy for the nation to consume. Some animals listed as unclean were predators that ate the blood of their prey. To eat the meat of these predators would defile the Israelite. Another criterion for the distinction between clean and unclean may be based on the pagan religions. Some animals, such as the serpent and the pig, were sacred among foreign religions. This association with idolatry made them unclean to the Israelite. Another explanation is that the distinctions could be based solely on the random choice of God for the purpose of presenting Israel as unique and holy in every area of life. Whatever the principle behind the distinctions, the observance of these food laws would serve as a testimony to separate Israel from other nations. A more comprehensive listing of the meats is given (Lev. 11:9–30, 41–43; see also Lev. 10, Clean vs. Unclean).

14:21 Anything that dies of itself would not have had its blood properly drained as commanded (Deut. 12:16, 23, 24). A common practice among the Canaanites' fertility cult was to cook a young goat in the milk from its mother. The Israelites were to abstain from this practice not only because of its association with the pagan ritual, but also because it was profaning that which gives life (the mother's milk). Instead of being used to sustain the life of the young goat, it would be the medium of its death (Ex. 23:18, 19, note; 34:26).

14:22 The giving of the tithe (lit. "a tenth") was an act of worship acknowledging God as the Creator of the produce as well as the Sustainer and Provider of the nation (see Luke 16, Stewardship).

14:28 In God's economy, provision was always made for those less fortunate (see Luke 9, the Homeless; 14, Poverty). Every third year the tithe was kept within their own community to provide for those who were poor as well as for the Levite. By obeying God's command to provide for these, Israel would enjoy the blessing of God on their labor. As long as this cycle was unbroken, both the rich and the poor would enjoy the provision of the Lord.

The most important filter your child can have in any decision-making process is the Word of God.

because he has no portion nor inheritance with you, and the stranger and the fatherless and the widow who are within your gates, may come and eat and be satisfied, that the LORD your God may bless you in all the work of your hand which you do.

Debts Canceled Every Seven Years

15 "At the end of every seven years you shall grant a release of debts. 2And this is the form of the release: Every creditor who has lent anything to his neighbor shall release it; he shall not require it of his neighbor or his brother, because it is called the LORD's release. 3Of a foreigner you may require it; but you shall give up your claim to what is owed by your brother, 4except when there may be no poor among you; for the LORD will greatly bless you in the land which the LORD your God is giving you to possess as an inheritance— 5only if you carefully obey the voice of the LORD your God, to observe with care all these commandments which I command you today. 6For the LORD your God will bless you just as He promised you; you shall lend to many nations, but you shall not borrow; you shall reign over many nations, but they shall not reign over you.

Generosity to the Poor

7 "If there is among you a poor man of your brethren, within any of the gates in your land which the LORD your God is giving you, you shall not harden your heart nor shut your hand from your poor brother, 8but you shall open your hand wide to him and willingly lend him sufficient for his need, whatever he needs. 9Beware lest there be a wicked thought in your heart, saying, 'The seventh year, the year of release, is at hand,' and your eye be evil against your poor brother and you give him nothing, and he cry out to the LORD against you, and it become sin among you. 10You shall surely give to him, and your heart should not be grieved when you give to him, because for this thing the LORD your God will bless you in all your works and in all to which you put your hand. 11For the poor will never cease from the land; therefore I command you, saying, 'You shall open your hand wide to your brother, to your poor and your needy, in your land.'

The Law Concerning Bondservants

12 "If your brother, a Hebrew man, or a Hebrew woman, is sold to you and serves you six years, then in the seventh year you shall let him go free from you. 13And when you send him away free from you, you shall not let him go away empty-handed; 14you shall supply him liberally from your flock, from your threshing floor, and from your winepress. From what the LORD your God has blessed you with, you shall give to him. 15You shall remember that you were a slave in the land of Egypt, and the LORD your God redeemed you; therefore I command you this thing today. 16And if it happens that he says to you, 'I will not go away from you,' because he loves you and your house, since he prospers with you, 17then you shall take an awl and thrust it through his ear to the door, and he shall be your servant forever. Also to your female servant you shall do likewise. 18It shall not seem hard to you when you send him away free from you; for he has been worth a double hired servant in serving you six years. Then the LORD your God will bless you in all that you do.

The Law Concerning Firstborn Animals

19 "All the firstborn males that come from your herd and your flock you shall sanctify to the LORD your God; you shall do no work with the firstborn of your herd, nor shear the firstborn of your flock. 20You and your household shall eat it before the LORD your God year by year in the place which the LORD chooses. 21But if there is a defect in it, if it is lame or blind or has any serious defect, you shall not sacrifice it to the LORD your God. 22You may 15:1–4 As an antidote to poverty, a provision was made every seven years to cancel outstanding debts. The release of debt in the seventh year would help to rid the nation of poverty and to promote brotherhood within the community. The elimination of poverty from the nation could become a reality only if the people were careful to obey the commands of God (see Luke 9, The Homeless; 14, Poverty).

15:7–10 As the year of release approached, some would withhold their generosity because the debt would be canceled soon and the payback would be minimal if any. Moses warned against this attitude. To be generous at all times, regardless of the year or possibility of collection, would invoke God's blessing of prosperity.

15:16, 17 After six years of serving his employer, a close relationship might have developed so that the slave would not wish to leave. If that were the case, the owner was to push a piercing tool through the slave's ear lobe and into the doorpost of the home. This action symbolically joined the slave to the master's household, marking him as a slave for life (Ex. 21:5, 6).

eat it within your gates; the unclean and the clean person alike may eat it, as if it were a gazelle or a deer. 23Only you shall not eat its blood; you shall pour it on the ground like water.

The Passover Reviewed

16 "Observe the month of Abib, and keep the Passover to the LORD your God, for in the month of Abib the LORD your God brought you out of Egypt by night. 2Therefore you shall sacrifice the Passover to the LORD your God, from the flock and the herd, in the place where the LORD chooses to put His name. 3You shall eat no leavened bread with it; seven days you shall eat unleavened bread with it, that is, the bread of affliction (for you came out of the land of Egypt in haste), that you may remember the day in which you came out of the land of Egypt all the days of your life. 4And no leaven shall be seen among you in all your territory for seven days, nor shall any of the meat which you sacrifice the first day at twilight remain overnight until morning.

5"You may not sacrifice the Passover within any of your gates which the LORD your God gives you; 6but at the place where the LORD your God chooses to make His name abide, there you shall sacrifice the Passover at twilight, at the going down of the sun, at the time you came out of Egypt. 7And you shall roast and eat it in the place which the LORD your God chooses, and in the morning you shall turn and go to your tents. 8Six days you shall eat unleavened bread, and on the seventh day there shall be a sacred assembly to the LORD your God. You shall do no work on it.

The Feast of Weeks Reviewed

9"You shall count seven weeks for yourself; begin to count the seven weeks from the time you begin to put the sickle to the grain. 10Then you shall keep the Feast of Weeks to the LORD your God with the tribute of a freewill offering from your hand, which you shall give as the LORD your God blesses you. 11You shall rejoice before the LORD your God, you and your son and your daughter, your male servant and your female servant, the Levite who is within your gates, the stranger and the fatherless and the widow who are among you, at the place where the LORD your God chooses to make His name abide. 12And you shall remember that you were a slave in Egypt, and you shall be careful to observe these statutes.

The Feast of Tabernacles Reviewed

13"You shall observe the Feast of Tabernacles seven days, when you have gathered from your threshing floor and from your winepress. 14And you shall rejoice in your feast, you and your son and your daughter, your male servant and your female servant and the Levite, the stranger and the fatherless and the widow, who are within your gates. 15Seven days you shall keep a sacred feast to the LORD your God in the place which the LORD chooses, because the LORD your God will bless you in all your produce and in all the work of your hands, so that you surely rejoice.

16"Three times a year all your males shall appear before the LORD your God in the place which He chooses: at the Feast of Unleavened Bread, at the Feast of Weeks, and at the Feast of Tabernacles; and they shall not appear before the LORD empty-handed. 17Every man shall give as he is able, according to the blessing of the LORD your God which He has given you.

Justice Must Be Administered

18"You shall appoint judges and officers in all your gates, which the LORD your God gives you, according to your tribes, and they shall judge the people with just judgment. 19You shall not pervert justice; you shall not show partiality, nor take a bribe, for a bribe blinds the eyes of the wise and twists the words of the righteous. 20You shall follow what is altogether just, that you may live and inherit the land which the LORD your God is giving you.

16:1 On the 14th day of Abib, in the spring month corresponding to March-April, the people were to celebrate the night the Lord "passed over" the homes of the Israelites that had been sprinkled with the blood of a lamb (see charts, The Jewish Sacred Calendar; The Feasts of Israel). The firstborn of the Israelite was spared death (Ex. 12:1–28; see also 1 Cor. 5:7 in which Christ is pictured as our passover).

16:3, 4 The Feast of Passover and the Feast of Unleavened Bread were closely linked. The Passover was observed on the 14th of the month, and the Unleavened Bread Feast began on the 15th and lasted seven days (Ex. 23:15; see chart, The Feasts of Israel).

16:9–12 The Feast of Weeks or Feast of Harvest, later called Pentecost, is also mentioned (Ex. 23:16; 34:22). This feast to celebrate the blessing of God on the harvest began on the day following the Sabbath of the Feast of Passover (Lev. 23:15, 16; see also chart, The Feasts of Israel).

16:13–17 The Feast of Tabernacles, Booths, or Ingathering lasted from the 15th day to the 21st day of Tishri which corresponds to September-October (see chart, The Jewish Sacred Calendar). During this feast the people were to live in booths and rejoice in the goodness of God (Lev. 23:34–39, 42; Num. 29:12; see also chart, The Feasts of Israel).

16:16 Only the men, as representatives of their families, were required to make these three pilgrimages. Although women at times did accompany them (v. 11, 14), they were not required to do so—probably because of domestic obligations and the monthly occurrence of their menstrual cycle, during which they were considered unclean (see Lev. 15, Menstrual Cycle).

21"You shall not plant for yourself any tree, as a wooden image, near the altar which you build for yourself to the LORD your God. 22You shall not set up a sacred pillar, which the LORD your God hates.

17 "You shall not sacrifice to the LORD your God a bull or sheep which has any blemish or defect, for that is an abomination to the LORD your God.

2"If there is found among you, within any of your gates which the LORD your God gives you, a man or a woman who has been wicked in the sight of the LORD your God, in transgressing His covenant, 3who has gone and served other gods and worshiped them, either the sun or moon or any of the host of heaven, which I have not commanded, 4and it is told you, and you hear of it, then you shall inquire diligently. And if it is indeed true and certain that such an abomination has been committed in Israel, 5then you shall bring out to your gates that man or woman who has committed that wicked thing, and shall stone to death that man or woman with stones. 6Whoever is deserving of death shall be put to death on the testimony of two or three witnesses; he shall not be put to death on the testimony of one witness. 7The hands of the witnesses shall be the first against him to put him to death, and afterward the hands of all the people. So you shall put away the evil from among you.

8"If a matter arises which is too hard for you to judge, between degrees of guilt for bloodshed, between one judgment or another, or between one punishment or another, matters of controversy within your gates, then you shall arise and go up to the place which the LORD your God chooses.
9And you shall come to the priests, the Levites, and to the judge there in those days, and inquire of them; they shall pronounce upon you the sentence of judgment. 10You shall do according to the sentence which they pronounce upon you in that place which the LORD chooses. And you shall be careful to do according to all that they order you.
11According to the sentence of the law in which they instruct you, according to the judgment which they tell you, you shall do; you shall not turn aside to the right hand or to the left from the sentence which they pronounce upon you. 12Now the man who acts presumptuously and will not heed the priest who stands to minister there before the LORD your God, or the judge, that man shall die. So you shall put away the evil from Israel. 13And all the people shall hear and fear, and no longer act presumptuously.

Principles Governing Kings

14"When you come to the land which the LORD your God is giving you, and possess it and dwell in it, and say, 'I will set a king over me like all the nations that are around me,' 15you shall surely set a king over you whom the LORD your God chooses; one from among your brethren you shall set as king over you; you may not set a foreigner over you, who is not your brother. 16But he shall not multiply horses for himself, nor cause the people to return to Egypt to multiply horses, for the LORD has said to you, 'You shall not return that way again.' 17Neither shall he multiply wives for himself, lest his heart turn away; nor shall he greatly multiply silver and gold for himself.

18"Also it shall be, when he sits on the throne of his kingdom, that he shall write for himself a copy of this law in a book, from the one before the priests, the Levites. 19And it shall be with him, and he shall read it all the days of his life, that he may learn to fear the LORD his God and be careful to observe all the words of this law and these statutes, 20that his heart may not be lifted above

16:21, 22 The wooden image and the "sacred pillar" were symbolic of the pagan goddess, Asherah, and the pagan god, Baal, respectively (see Is. 42, Idolatry; Jer. 7, Paganism; chart, The Goddesses of Egypt).

17:5 The gates designated the place where judges assembled to hear the disputes of the people.

17:6, 7 One witness was not sufficient to convict a person because of the inability to substantiate his testimony. The one who brought the accusation would throw the first stone in the execution. If later his testimony proved to be false, the accuser would suffer the same execution as his penalty for murdering the innocent one he had accused (Deut. 13:6–9, note; 19:15–21).

17:12, 13 Authority was to be respected and obeyed. Disobedience was punishable by death. The Law was strict at this point in order to deter others from committing the same sin.

17:14, 15 The prophecy of Moses was fulfilled (1 Sam. 8:5). Moses envisaged a time when the nation would call for an earthly king in the manner of the other nations. Knowing this, Moses set forth requirements for a king: the man must be chosen by God (Deut. 17:15); he must be an Israelite (v. 15); his heart was to be wholly dependent on and devoted to God (vv. 16–20).

17:16 Horses were synonymous with military power. To amass an army of horses and chariots, rather than the usual infantry, would cause the people to rely on their own resources in battle. Israel's strength was her God.

17:17 Often, for political reasons, kings would marry foreign women, a practice Moses had already forbidden (Deut. 7:3–5). The religious influence of these pagan wives would corrupt the king, and ultimately the nation, with idolatry (1 Kin. 11, Solomon's Pagan Wives). Affluence also could cause a king's heart to turn away from the Lord.

17:20 The king was to possess a copy of the covenant-treaty as his sole source of wisdom. By learning and studying the Law, the king would display his devotion to God and would rule wisely.

his brethren, that he may not turn aside from the commandment to the right hand or to the left, and that he may prolong his days in his kingdom, he and his children in the midst of Israel.

The Portion of the Priests and Levites

18 "The priests, the Levites—all the tribe of Levi—shall have no part nor inheritance with Israel; they shall eat the offerings of the LORD made by fire, and His portion. 2Therefore they shall have no inheritance among their brethren; the LORD is their inheritance, as He said to them.

3"And this shall be the priest's due from the people, from those who offer a sacrifice, whether it is bull or sheep: they shall give to the priest the shoulder, the cheeks, and the stomach. 4The firstfruits of your grain and your new wine and your oil, and the first of the fleece of your sheep, you shall give him. 5For the LORD your God has chosen him out of all your tribes to stand to minister in the name of the LORD, him and his sons forever.

6"So if a Levite comes from any of your gates, from where he dwells among all Israel, and comes with all the desire of his mind to the place which the LORD chooses, 7then he may serve in the name of the LORD his God as all his brethren the Levites do, who stand there before the LORD. 8They shall have equal portions to eat, besides what comes from the sale of his inheritance.

Avoid Wicked Customs

9"When you come into the land which the LORD your God is giving you, you shall not learn to follow the abominations of those nations. 10There shall not be found among you anyone who makes his son or his daughter pass through the fire, or one who practices witchcraft, or a soothsayer, or one who interprets omens, or a sorcerer, 11or one who conjures spells, or a medium, or a spiritist, or one who calls up the dead. 12For all who do these things are an abomination to the LORD, and because of these abominations the LORD your God drives them out from before you. 13You shall be blameless before the LORD your God. 14For these nations which you will dispossess listened to soothsayers and diviners; but as for you, the LORD your God has not appointed such for you.

A New Prophet Like Moses

15"The LORD your God will raise up for you a Prophet like me from your midst, from your brethren. Him you shall hear, 16according to all you desired of the LORD your God in Horeb in the day of the assembly, saying, 'Let me not hear again the voice of the LORD my God, nor let me see this great fire anymore, lest I die.'

17"And the LORD said to me: 'What they have spoken is good. 18I will raise up for them a Prophet like you from among their brethren, and will put My words in His mouth, and He shall speak to them all that I command Him. 19And it shall be that whoever will not hear My words, which He speaks in My name, I will require it of him. 20But the prophet who presumes to speak a word in My name, which I have not commanded him to speak, or who speaks in the name of other gods, that prophet shall die.' 21And if you say in your heart, 'How shall we know the word which the LORD has not spoken?'—22when a prophet speaks in the name of the LORD, if the thing does not happen or come to pass, that is the thing which the LORD has not spoken; the prophet has spoken it presumptuously; you shall not be afraid of him.

Three Cities of Refuge

19 "When the LORD your God has cut off the nations whose land the LORD your God is giving you, and you dispossess them and dwell in their cities and in their houses, 2you shall separate three cities for yourself in the midst of your land which the LORD your God is giving you to possess. 3You shall prepare roads for yourself, and divide into three parts the territory of your land which the LORD your God is giving you to inherit, that any manslayer may flee there.

18:1–4 The Levites were to serve as priests, ministers, and teachers of the Law. Only the Levites in the line of Aaron were allowed to serve as priests. The rest of the Levites served in various assisting roles. Since the Levites did not receive a portion of the Land, the nation was responsible for their sustenance.

18:10 All the practices listed here were common among the Canaanite religions. These exercises were dangerous not only because they identified the participant with pagan cults but also because wisdom was sought through magical and spiritualistic means rather than from God. A "soothsayer" was someone who received magical powers by incantations. A "sorcerer" would brew herbs to make magical potions to control circumstances as well as people. One who "conjures spells" (lit. "one who ties knots") sought to bind people by the use of magic spells and incantations. Cultic practices were used as an attempt to communicate with evil and departed spirits (see also The Occult; 1 Sam. 15, Witchcraft).

18:15 By way of contrast, Moses directed the people away from magic and to the true prophets of God, who would deliver the truth from the heart of God. This prophecy was ultimately fulfilled in the Lord Jesus Christ (John 6:14; Acts 3:22, 23).

19:1–4 Three cities on the east side of the Jordan had already been set aside as cities of refuge (Deut. 4:41–43). Moses instructed the people to do the same on the west side of the Jordan. These cities provided a safe haven for anyone guilty of involuntary manslaughter. The "avenger of blood" was the nearest male relative to the deceased (Deut. 19:6). One of his responsibilities was to vindicate the death of a relative (see also Num. 35:19–28).

THE OCCULT EXTRAORDINARY MANIPULATION

The word "occult" is derived from the Latin occultus, which means something "hidden" or "concealed," referring to that which is inner, secret, mysterious, and beyond the range of ordinary human knowledge. Occultism involves various types of secret techniques directed at altering human consciousness and manipulating the supernatural in order to attain psycho-spiritual power. White and black magic, spiritism (spirit contact), and fortune telling are common forms.

Occultists distinguish between white and black magic. White magic is considered by its practitioners to be beneficent—helpful for the good of others. It ceremonially evokes spirits and seeks to control them with such ritual tools as wands, daggers, robes, and belts. White magic is associated with the contemporary practice of feminist goddess worship and witchcraft. Black magic refers to the practice of sorcery and necromancy (1 Sam. 28:7–25). In contrast to white magic, it is used against others or for the purpose of personal and material gain.

Other occultic practices include:

- Spiritism—making contact with deceased or invisible personalities through spirit mediums (1 Sam. 28:3–20) or through trance channeling, a form of voluntary possession.
- Fortune telling (divination)—using a wide variety of methods and objects to give advice (Acts 16:16–18).
- Astrology—the ancient method of mapping celestial events by means of horoscopes (Is. 47:13–15; Dan. 2:2; 5:7).
- Numerology—which attaches special significance to numbers and uses those numbers to analyze character and to predict the future (Gen. 41:1–36).
- Palmistry—which interprets the future by analyzing the lines on the palms of the hands.
- Tarot cards—which use special occultic symbols to predict the future.
- Automatic writing—in which the participant writes in a trance-like state without conscious control.

All these occultic practices are demonic in origin and prohibited by Scripture (Deut. 18:10, 11).

4"And this is the case of the manslayer who flees there, that he may live: Whoever kills his neighbor unintentionally, not having hated him in time past— 5as when a man goes to the woods with his neighbor to cut timber, and his hand swings a stroke with the ax to cut down the tree, and the head slips from the handle and strikes his neighbor so that he dies—he shall flee to one of these cities and live; 6lest the avenger of blood, while his anger is hot, pursue the manslayer and overtake him, because the way is long, and kill him, though he was not deserving of death, since he had not hated the victim in time past. 7There-fore I command you, saying, 'You shall separate three cities for yourself.'

8"Now if the LORD your God enlarges your territory, as He swore to your fathers, and gives you the land which He promised to give to your fathers, 9and if you keep all these commandments and do them, which I command you today, to love the LORD your God and to walk always in His ways, then you shall add three more cities for yourself besides these three, 10lest innocent blood be shed in the midst of your land which the LORD your God is giving you as an inheritance, and thus guilt of bloodshed be upon you.

11"But if anyone hates his neighbor, lies in wait for him, rises against him and strikes him mortally, so that he dies, and he flees to one of these cities, 12then the elders of his city shall send and bring him from there, and deliver him over to the hand of the avenger of blood, that he may die.
13Your eye shall not pity him, but you shall put away the guilt of innocent blood from Israel, that it may go well with you.

Property Boundaries

14"You shall not remove your neighbor's landmark, which the men of old have set, in your inheritance which you will inherit in the land that the LORD your God is giving you to possess.

The Law Concerning Witnesses

15"One witness shall not rise against a man concerning any iniquity or any sin that he commits; by the mouth of two or three witnesses the matter shall be established. 16If a false witness rises against any man to testify against him of wrongdoing, 17then both men in the controversy shall stand before the LORD, before the priests and the judges who serve in those days. 18And the judges shall make careful inquiry, and indeed, if the witness is a false witness, who has testified falsely against his brother, 19then you shall do to him as he thought to have done to his brother; so you shall put away the evil from among you. 20And

those who remain shall hear and fear, and hereafter they shall not again commit such evil among you. 21Your eye shall not pity: life shall be for life, eye for eye, tooth for tooth, hand for hand, foot for foot.

Principles Governing Warfare

20 "When you go out to battle against your enemies, and see horses and chariots and people more numerous than you, do not be afraid of them; for the LORD your God is with you, who brought you up from the land of Egypt. 2So it shall be, when you are on the verge of battle, that the priest shall approach and speak to the people. 3And he shall say to them, 'Hear, O Israel: Today you are on the verge of battle with your enemies. Do not let your heart faint, do not be afraid, and do not tremble or be terrified because of them; 4for the LORD your God is He who goes with you, to fight for you against your enemies, to save you.'

5"Then the officers shall speak to the people, saying: 'What man is there who has built a new house and has not dedicated it? Let him go and return to his house, lest he die in the battle and another man dedicate it. 6Also what man is there who has planted a vineyard and has not eaten of it? Let him go and return to his house, lest he die in the battle and another man eat of it. 7And what man is there who is betrothed to a woman and has not married her? Let him go and return to his house, lest he die in the battle and another man marry her.'

8"The officers shall speak further to the people, and say, 'What man is there who is fearful and fainthearted? Let him go and return to his house, lest the heart of his brethren faint[a] like his heart.' 9And so it shall be, when the officers have finished speaking to the people, that they shall make captains of the armies to lead the people.

10"When you go near a city to fight against it, then proclaim an offer of peace to it. 11And it shall be that if they accept your offer of peace, and open to you, then all the people who are found in it shall be placed under tribute to you, and serve you. 12Now if the city will not make peace with you, but war against you, then you shall besiege it. 13And when the LORD your God delivers it into your hands, you shall strike every male in it with the edge of the sword. 14But the women, the little ones, the livestock, and all that is in the city, all its spoil, you shall plunder for yourself; and you shall eat the enemies' plunder which the LORD your God gives you. 15Thus you shall do to all the cities which are very far from you, which are not of the cities of these nations.

16"But of the cities of these peoples which the LORD your God gives you as an inheritance, you shall let nothing that breathes remain alive, 17but you shall utterly destroy them: the Hittite and the Amorite and the Canaanite and the Perizzite and the Hivite and the Jebusite, just as the LORD your God has commanded you, 18lest they teach you to do according to all their abominations which they have done for their gods, and you sin against the LORD your God.

19"When you besiege a city for a long time, while making war against it to take it, you shall not destroy its trees by wielding an ax against them; if you can eat of them, do not cut them down to use in the siege, for the tree of the field is man's food. 20Only the trees which you know are not trees for food you may destroy and cut down, to build siegeworks against the city that makes war with you, until it is subdued.

The Law Concerning Unsolved Murder

21 "If anyone is found slain, lying in the field in the land which the LORD your God is giving you to possess, and it is not known who killed him, 2then your elders and your judges shall go out and 20:8 [a]Following Masoretic Text and Targum; Samaritan Pentateuch, Septuagint, Syriac, and Vulgate read lest he make his brother's heart faint.

19:21 The law of retribution was not license for vengeance. It was used to set boundaries for punishment to guard against leniency as well as excessiveness and to ensure justice (Ex. 21:23–25; Lev. 24:17–20).

20:5 The first three exemptions were not based on a person's moral opposition to war but his moral responsibility to domestic affairs.

20:6 The fruit of the vineyard was not eaten during the first three years. In the fourth year, the fruit was consecrated to the Lord. Personal enjoyment of the fruit did not come until the fifth year.

20:7 Exemption from military service for the newlywed was for one year (Deut. 24:5). Even in the case of war, the sanctity of the family was a priority to God.

20:8 The last exemption was for the coward. To remove the fainthearted from the battle ranks would protect the morale of the other soldiers. The fearful were those whose faith in God was weak and who did not receive the encouragement from the priests (vv. 3, 4).

20:15 The cities which are very far from you were cities beyond Transjordan and Canaan. They were not subject to total destruction as were the Canaanite nations.

20:16–18 Canaanite cities had to be completely destroyed to dispel the influence of their pagan religions and to execute the judgment of God on their wicked, degenerate practices (Deut. 2:34; 7:1–2).

21:1–9 When a murderer was not apprehended and escaped judgment, even though the people of the city were innocent, they incurred the guilt of the unknown murderer. Atonement for justice had to be made. A procedure is provided to satisfy the Lord's justice and remove corporate guilt. An unworked heifer would be substituted for the murderer. It would be measure the distance from the slain man to the surrounding cities. 3And it shall be that the elders of the city nearest to the slain man will take a heifer which has not been worked and which has not pulled with a yoke. 4The elders of that city shall bring the heifer down to a valley with flowing water, which is neither plowed nor sown, and they shall break the heifer's neck there in the valley. 5Then the priests, the sons of Levi, shall come near, for the LORD your God has chosen them to minister to Him and to bless in the name of the LORD; by their word every controversy and every assault shall be settled. 6And all the elders of that city nearest to the slain man shall wash their hands over the heifer whose neck was broken in the valley. 7Then they shall answer and say, 'Our hands have not shed this blood, nor have our eyes seen it. 8Provide atonement, O LORD, for Your people Israel, whom You have redeemed, and do not lay innocent blood to the charge of Your people Israel.' And atonement shall be provided on their behalf for the blood. 9So you shall put away the guilt of innocent blood from among you when you do what is right in the sight of the LORD.

Female Captives

10"When you go out to war against your enemies, and the LORD your God delivers them into your hand, and you take them captive, 11and you see among the captives a beautiful woman, and desire her and would take her for your wife, 12then you shall bring her home to your house, and she shall shave her head and trim her nails. 13She shall put off the clothes of her captivity, remain in your house, and mourn her father and her mother a full month; after that you may go in to her and be her husband, and she shall be your wife. 14And it shall be, if you have no delight in her, then you shall set her free, but you certainly shall not sell her for money; you shall not treat her brutally, because you have humbled her.

Firstborn Inheritance Rights

15"If a man has two wives, one loved and the other unloved, and they have borne him children, both the loved and the unloved, and if the firstborn son is of her who is unloved, 16then it shall be, on the day he bequeaths his possessions to his sons, that he must not bestow firstborn status on the son of the loved wife in preference to the son of the unloved, the true firstborn. 17But he shall acknowledge the son of the unloved wife as the firstborn by giving him a double portion of all that he has, for he is the beginning of his strength; the right of the firstborn is his.

The Rebellious Son

18"If a man has a stubborn and rebellious son who will not obey the voice of his father or the voice of his mother, and who, when they have chastened him, will not heed them, 19then his father and his mother shall take hold of him and bring him out to the elders of his city, to the gate of his city. 20And they shall say to the elders of his city, 'This son of ours is stubborn and rebellious; he will not obey our voice; he is a glutton and a

taken to an unworked valley with a flowing brook and there its neck would be broken. The flowing water would carry away the blood, and the ground would drink the rest. By breaking the neck of the heifer, the elders symbolized the fact that the unknown murderer deserved the death penalty. The heifer, by its death, cleared the land of the guilt of bloodshed. The elders symbolized that they were free of the guilt of bloodshed by washing their hands, although they accepted responsibility for it. Atonement for the crime was effected only when the elders kept this charge.

21:12, 13 As a symbol of purification and initiation into the Israelite nation, the captured woman would shave her head and cut her nails (Lev. 14:8; Num. 8:7)—actions that indicated mourning. She would exchange the clothes of her former life for the clothing of an Israelite woman, thus depicting a change in status. Out of sensitivity to the natural grieving that would occur, the woman was allowed a full month to lament. The time spent in her prospective husband's home would also allow her to disassociate herself from her former life and to grow accustomed to her new family and lifestyle. Men would be restrained from rape, and women would have time to adjust to a new environment (see article, Renewed by His Grace).

21:14 No perimeters were set for the husband's motivation for divorce from a former captive. Most likely, the grounds for divorce were based on some type of incompatibility, probably from the husband's point of view. Nevertheless, the woman was entitled to certain rights. She retained her social status and was not to be sold as a slave or exchanged for another woman or material goods.

21:15 Whether the two wives are successive or concurrent is unclear. If concurrent, the dangers and problems of polygamy are illustrated. Polygamy was a very old practice (Gen. 4:19), but it was not the design God intended for marriage (see Gen. 2; 2 Sam. 6; Prov. 5; Hos. 2; Amos 3; 2 Cor. 13; Heb. 12, Marriage; Gen. 4, God's Plan for Marriage). Whenever practiced, polygamy produced a variety of problems, such as the one mentioned in this passage. The families of both Jacob and Solomon illustrate how a polygamous situation creates a problem of primogeniture or lineage. Normally birth order and not the favoritism of the father governed succession. The "unloved" wife was not necessarily a hated wife; she was sometimes simply loved or desired less than the other wife. Such was the case in Jacob's treatment of Leah (Gen. 29:30; see also Prov. 28, Favoritism; 1 Tim. 3, Polygamy).

21:17 Regardless of the father's feelings for the son's mother, the oldest son as successor to his father was entitled to a double portion of the father's estate according to Israelite law.

21:18–21 A rebellious society is an extension of rebellious families. For this reason, disobedience in the home was not to be tolerated (Deut. 5:16). If the child would not obey the authority of his parents, his rebellion against the elders and ultimately against God would lead to his death. In cases of perdrunkard.' 21Then all the men of his city shall stone him to death with stones; so you shall put away the evil from among you, and all Israel shall hear and fear.

Miscellaneous Laws

22"If a man has committed a sin deserving of death, and he is put to death, and you hang him on a tree, 23his body shall not remain overnight on the tree, but you shall surely bury him that day, so that you do not defile the land which the LORD your God is giving you as an inheritance; for he who is hanged is accursed of God.

22 "You shall not see your brother's ox or his sheep going astray, and hide yourself from them; you shall certainly bring them back to your brother. 2And if your brother is not near you, or if you do not know him, then you shall bring it to your own house, and it shall remain with you until your brother seeks it; then you shall restore it to him. 3You shall do the same with his donkey, and so shall you do with his garment; with any lost thing of your brother's, which he has lost and you have found, you shall do likewise; you must not hide yourself.

4"You shall not see your brother's donkey or his ox fall down along the road, and hide yourself from them; you shall surely help him lift them up again.

5"A woman shall not wear anything that pertains to a man, nor shall a man put on a woman's garment, for all who do so are an abomination to the LORD your God.

6"If a bird's nest happens to be before you along the way, in any tree or on the ground, with young ones or eggs, with the mother sitting on the young or on the eggs, you shall not take the mother with the young; 7you shall surely let the mother go, and take the young for yourself, that it may be well with you and that you may prolong your days.

8"When you build a new house, then you shall make a parapet for your roof, that you may not bring guilt of bloodshed on your household if anyone falls from it.

9"You shall not sow your vineyard with different kinds of seed, lest the yield of the seed which you have sown and the fruit of your vineyard be defiled.

10"You shall not plow with an ox and a donkey together.

11"You shall not wear a garment of different sorts, such as wool and linen mixed together.

12"You shall make tassels on the four corners of the clothing with which you cover yourself.

Laws of Sexual Morality

13"If any man takes a wife, and goes in to her, and detests her, 14and charges her with shameful conduct, and brings a bad name on her, and says, 'I took this woman, and when I came to her I found she was not a virgin,' 15then the father and mother of the young woman shall take and bring out the evidence of the young woman's virginity to the elders of the city at the gate. 16And the young woman's father shall say to the elders, 'I gave my daughter to this man as wife, and he detests her.

sistent rebellion against parental authority and chastisement, the child was to be subject to the judgment of the elders. The parents could not bring the child to the elders unless he had been disciplined and subsequently had rejected that discipline. Both parents were to be in agreement in their decision to set the boy before the elders. If the parents' claims were found true, then the child was to be stoned to death by the men of the city. No examples of parents going to this extreme are found in the OT. This warning against rebellion was a deterrent as well as a strong incentive for parents to disciple their children in the Law of God (Deut. 6:6–9; see also Prov. 22, Children).

21:22, 23 After a criminal was executed, his body would be hanged on a tree for display to remind the people of the sure judgment that would follow such crimes. The body was accursed of God, not because it was hanging on a tree, but because the individual had incurred the wrath of God. Christ became accursed and incurred the divine wrath for us (Gal. 3:13).

22:5 The wearing of clothing of the opposite sex could suggest a role reversal and blur the distinction of the sexes God had designed (Gen. 1:27). It especially refers to the practice of transvestism (the adoption of dress and behavior unnatural to one's own sex), which was associated with some forms of homosexuality as well as some pagan cults. "Abomination" is also used in reference to homosexuality (Lev. 18:22; 20:13).

22:6, 7 This law esteemed motherhood and protected the food supply. If the mother had been taken with the young, the future food supply would be jeopardized. Even if the mother had been taken alone, the young would not survive. Therefore, the mother is left to reproduce and supply more food while the young bird or the eggs are taken for sustenance. This seemingly insignificant law demonstrates the wisdom of God in every area of life.

22:8 A parapet was a retaining wall built around the roof of the house to serve as a safeguard against falling. Without a parapet, the owner of the home could be guilty of involuntary manslaughter (Deut. 19:4–7).

22:15 Evidence of the young woman's virginity was a blood-stained article of clothing or bedsheet from the woman's wedding night, indicating her first intercourse (v. 17). Knowing that the life of the girl hinged on proof of virginity, the parents would keep these sheets to present as proof. A young woman was often engaged to be married soon after she entered puberty. Proof of a regular menstruation cycle would confirm that the woman was not pregnant at the time of marriage and thus had not been unfaithful during her engagement (see Lev. 15, Menstrual Cycle). The Law protected an innocent bride from an unreasonable husband who might seek to put her away on a whim, and it discouraged premarital infidelity among young women. Other laws addressed a husband who had previously been unfaithful (Deut. 22:22–29).

BATTERED WIVES A TREASURE UNPROTECTED

To batter means to hit or beat repeatedly with heavy blows so as to bruise, shatter, demolish, or kill. The Hebrews frowned on wife-battering. The Jewish ideal was that a wife was a man's crown, the queen of her home, and a treasure to be defended at all costs (Prov. 12:4; 31:10–31). Nonetheless, although Scripture records no particular example of wife-beating in the home, some men doubtless regarded women as their "property" and as a result treated them as socially inferior.

Under the Levitical Law, if a new bride could not produce evidence of her virginity (a blood-stained bedsheet after initial intercourse), by law she could be stoned (or battered) to death (Deut. 22:13–21). Since the Law forbade adultery (Deut. 22:22), a wife accused of having intercourse with another man faced embarrassing "tests" (Num. 5:16–31). If the tests proved her guilty, she faced death by stoning.

In the New Testament, even as wives are encouraged to submit to the leadership of their husbands (Eph. 5:22), those husbands are admonished to love their wives unconditionally and sacrificially (Eph. 5:25) as they would their own bodies (Eph. 5:28, 29). This would certainly preclude abuse of any kind!

For a woman who has experienced abuse, the Lord, as the "God of all comfort," offers His love and acceptance. She should reach out to Him to meet her innermost needs. She should also turn to family, the household of faith, and civil authorities for protection.

17 Now he has charged her with shameful conduct, saying, "I found your daughter was not a virgin," and yet these are the evidences of my daughter's virginity.' And they shall spread the cloth before the elders of the city. 18 Then the elders of that city shall take that man and punish him; 19 and they shall fine him one hundred shekels of silver and give them to the father of the young woman, because he has brought a bad name on a virgin of Israel. And she shall be his wife; he cannot divorce her all his days.

20 "But if the thing is true, and evidences of virginity are not found for the young woman, 21 then they shall bring out the young woman to the door of her father's house, and the men of her city shall stone her to death with stones, because she has done a disgraceful thing in Israel, to play the harlot in her father's house. So you shall put away the evil from among you.

22 "If a man is found lying with a woman married to a husband, then both of them shall die—the man that lay with the woman, and the woman;
so you shall put away the evil from Israel.

23 "If a young woman who is a virgin is betrothed to a husband, and a man finds her in the city and lies with her, 24 then you shall bring them both out to the gate of that city, and you shall stone them to death with stones, the young woman because she did not cry out in the city, and the man because he humbled his neighbor's wife;
so you shall put away the evil from among you.

25 "But if a man finds a betrothed young woman in the countryside, and the man forces her and lies with her, then only the man who lay with her shall die. 26 But you shall do nothing to the young woman; there is in the young woman no sin deserving of death, for just as when a man rises against his neighbor and kills him, even so is this matter.
27 For he found her in the countryside, and the betrothed young woman cried out, but there was no one to save her.

28 "If a man finds a young woman who is a virgin, who is not betrothed, and he seizes her and lies with her, and they are found out, 29 then the man who lay with her shall give to the young woman's father fifty shekels of silver, and she shall be his wife because he has humbled her; he shall not be permitted to divorce her all his days.

22:19 Because of his false accusation, the husband was not allowed to divorce the woman. She was protected from the further humiliation of divorce and was guaranteed support the rest of her life.

22:21 If the young wife was judged guilty, then she was stoned in front of her father's home. This action served as a deterrent to fornication and also showed the partial responsibility the father had in the conduct of his daughter. "In her father's house" does not necessarily imply that the sin took place in that locality but rather that she was under the care of her father when the sin was committed.

22:24 Engagement was considered as legally binding as marriage. The fact that the woman did not cry out implied that she consented to the act, making both guilty of adultery and subject to the death penalty (see Gen. 34, Rape; 2 Sam. 13, Date Rape).

22:25–27 The young woman who was raped in a secluded area, such as the countryside, would not suffer death because her cries would have been unheard. Rape is likened to murder in this passage (see Gen. 34, Rape).

22:28 The man who raped an unbetrothed virgin did not receive the death penalty, for this act was not considered adultery as in verses 22–27. However, he must pay a fine to her father and marry the girl with no chance of divorce. This law protected the girl and any child that might be born as a result of the rape (see Gen. 34, Rape).

30"A man shall not take his father's wife, nor uncover his father's bed.

Those Excluded from the Congregation

23 "He who is emasculated by crushing or mutilation shall not enter the assembly of the LORD.

2"One of illegitimate birth shall not enter the assembly of the LORD; even to the tenth generation none of his descendants shall enter the assembly of the LORD.

3"An Ammonite or Moabite shall not enter the assembly of the LORD; even to the tenth generation none of his descendants shall enter the assembly of the LORD forever, 4because they did not meet you with bread and water on the road when you came out of Egypt, and because they hired against you Balaam the son of Beor from Pethor of Mesopotamia,[a] to curse you. 5Nevertheless the LORD your God would not listen to Balaam, but the LORD your God turned the curse into a blessing for you, because the LORD your God loves you. 6You shall not seek their peace nor their prosperity all your days forever.

7"You shall not abhor an Edomite, for he is your brother. You shall not abhor an Egyptian, because you were an alien in his land. 8The children of the third generation born to them may enter the assembly of the LORD.

Cleanliness of the Campsite

9"When the army goes out against your enemies, then keep yourself from every wicked thing. 10If there is any man among you who becomes unclean by some occurrence in the night, then he shall go outside the camp; he shall not come inside the camp. 11But it shall be, when evening comes, that he shall wash with water; and when the sun sets, he may come into the camp.

12"Also you shall have a place outside the camp, where you may go out; 13and you shall have an implement among your equipment, and when you sit down outside, you shall dig with it and turn and cover your refuse. 14For the LORD your God walks in the midst of your camp, to deliver you and give your enemies over to you; therefore your camp shall be holy, that He may see no unclean thing among you, and turn away from you.

Miscellaneous Laws

15"You shall not give back to his master the slave who has escaped from his master to you. 16He may dwell with you in your midst, in the place which he chooses within one of your gates, where it seems best to him; you shall not oppress him.

17"There shall be no ritual harlot[a] of the daughters of Israel, or a perverted[b] one of the sons of Israel. 18You shall not bring the wages of a harlot or the price of a dog to the house of the LORD your God for any vowed offering, for both of these are an abomination to the LORD your God.

19"You shall not charge interest to your brother—interest on money or food or anything that is lent out at interest. 20To a foreigner you may charge interest, but to your brother you shall not charge interest, that the LORD your God may bless you in all to which you set your hand in the land which you are entering to possess.

21"When you make a vow to the LORD your God, you shall not delay to pay it; for the LORD your God will surely require it of you, and it would be sin to you. 22But if you abstain from vowing, it shall not be sin to you. 23That which has gone from your lips you shall keep and perform, for you voluntarily vowed to the LORD your God what you have promised with your mouth.

24"When you come into your neighbor's vineyard, you may eat your fill of grapes at your pleasure, but you shall not put any in your container. 25When you come into your neighbor's standing grain, you may pluck the heads with your hand,

23:4 [a]Hebrew Aram Naharaim 23:17 [a]Hebrew qedeshah, feminine of qadesh (see note b) [b]Hebrew qadesh, that is, one practicing sodomy and prostitution in religious rituals

23:1–3 The assembly of the LORD refers to a gathering of the people of Israel at feasts, wars, and religious activities. Different groups of people were excluded from this assembly. Eunuchs were excluded because of their castration, which was often a sign of their involvement in a pagan cult. To God, such deliberate mutilations were an abomination for His holy people. Those who had been castrated by accident or illness would not be included in this category (Is. 56:3–5). Those "of illegitimate birth," who were born as a result of incest or cultic prostitution, were likewise prohibited from the assembly. The Ammonites and the Moabites were excluded from the assembly also based on their treatment of Israel in the wilderness and because they were descended from the incestuous relationship of Lot and his daughters (Gen. 19:30–38). The Moabitess Ruth, who was an ancestor of both King David and the Lord Jesus, is a reminder of God's lovingkindness and redemptive work (Matt. 1:5). "To the tenth generation" indicates forever. "Ten" is a number of completeness (see chart, The Significance of Numbers in Scripture). Therefore, these three groups were to be excluded from the assembly of the Lord as long as the nation existed.

23:9–14 Cleanliness in the camp was not only for hygiene but also was a symbol of purity, for the Lord Himself walked in their midst.

23:18 The term dog refers to a male cultic prostitute. Money that had been procured through evil practices was not to be presented to the Lord.

23:24, 25 Hospitality to neighbors was common in the Near East. Someone passing by could quench his appetite in the field of his fellow Israelite. However, to carry any sustenance with him would be stealing (see 1 Pet. 4, Hospitality).

but you shall not use a sickle on your neighbor's standing grain.

Law Concerning Divorce

24 "When a man takes a wife and marries her, and it happens that she finds no favor in his eyes because he has found some uncleanness in her, and he writes her a certificate of divorce, puts it in her hand, and sends her out of his house, 2when she has departed from his house, and goes and becomes another man's wife, 3*if* the latter husband detests her and writes her a certificate of divorce, puts it in her hand, and sends her out of his house, or if the latter husband dies who took her as his wife, 4*then* her former husband who divorced her must not take her back to be his wife after she has been defiled; for that is an abomination before the LORD, and you shall not bring sin on the land which the LORD your God is giving you as an inheritance.

Miscellaneous Laws

5 "When a man has taken a new wife, he shall not go out to war or be charged with any business; he shall be free at home one year, and bring happiness to his wife whom he has taken.

6 "No man shall take the lower or the upper millstone in pledge, for he takes one's living in pledge.

7 "If a man is found kidnapping any of his brethren of the children of Israel, and mistreats him or sells him, then that kidnapper shall die; and you shall put away the evil from among you.

8 "Take heed in an outbreak of leprosy, that you carefully observe and do according to all that the priests, the Levites, shall teach you; just as I commanded them, so you shall be careful to do. 9Remember what the LORD your God did to Miriam on the way when you came out of Egypt!

10 "When you lend your brother anything, you shall not go into his house to get his pledge. 11You shall stand outside, and the man to whom you lend shall bring the pledge out to you. 12And if the man is poor, you shall not keep his pledge overnight. 13You shall in any case return the pledge to him again when the sun goes down, that he may sleep in his own garment and bless you; and it shall be righteousness to you before the LORD your God.

14 "You shall not oppress a hired servant who is poor and needy, whether one of your brethren or one of the aliens who is in your land within your gates. 15Each day you shall give him his wages, and not let the sun go down on it, for he is poor and has set his heart on it; lest he cry out against you to the LORD, and it be sin to you.

16 "Fathers shall not be put to death for their children, nor shall children be put to death for their fathers; a person shall be put to death for his own sin.

17 "You shall not pervert justice due the stranger or the fatherless, nor take a widow's garment as a pledge. 18But you shall remember that you were a slave in Egypt, and the LORD your God redeemed you from there; therefore I command you to do this thing.

19 "When you reap your harvest in your field, and forget a sheaf in the field, you shall not go back to get it; it shall be for the stranger, the fatherless, and the widow, that the LORD your God

24:1–4 This passage contains information about divorce and remarriage but does not legislate these matters. Although divorce, even at this time, was widespread (Lev. 21:7, 14; 22:13; Num. 30:9), it was never encouraged by God (Mal. 2:16). This case concerns remarriage after divorce with the impetus found in the phrase "some uncleanness in her." This "uncleanness" cannot refer to adultery, for the penalty for adultery was death (Deut. 22:22). It must refer to some indecent exposure or unwomanly conduct. The husband in such a case might choose to divorce his wife. Divorce was initiated by men, not by women. If the woman was remarried and divorced again, her first husband could not remarry her because her remarriage after the first divorce would be considered equivalent to adultery in the sense that she had then lived with another man. This strictness on divorce would also stop the practice of wife swapping and loaning for procreation or merely on a whim (see Matt. 5, Remarriage; Matt. 19, Divorce).

24:5 A newly married man was exempted from military service as well as any public service that might be required. This guarded against the untimely death of the husband and prohibited his prolonged absence from the home immediately after the wedding. The sanctity of marriage and the home is seen in this legislation. God directed a man to fortify his marriage and home with unique devotion to his wife during their first year of marriage.

24:6 Each Israelite home was equipped with a small milling machine. The top stone would rotate over the bottom stone to grind the grain. This grain was used to prepare the bread. To take either the whole mill, or even a part of it, was to take away life itself since it would deprive a family of their daily bread.

24:10–13 A borrower's home was protected from intrusion by the lender. The creditor could only stand outside the home and wait for the borrower to bring his pledge. The very poor could only offer some piece of clothing, called a "garment" (v. 13). This "garment" would be used as a coat during the daytime but as a blanket at night. If the "garment" was taken as a pledge, it must be returned by nightfall for the protection of its poor owner against the elements.

24:17–22 Moses is concerned with the protection of the rights of those who were often subjects of oppression, such as the stranger, the fatherless, and the widow. The nation is compelled to show mercy and kindness to the needy in light of their oppression by Pharaoh (see Luke 9, The Homeless; Luke 14, Poverty). Those who were needy were supposed to be able to glean during the harvest and not have to beg or borrow (Lev. 23:22; Ruth 2:7, note).

may bless you in all the work of your hands. 20When you beat your olive trees, you shall not go over the boughs again; it shall be for the stranger, the fatherless, and the widow. 21When you gather the grapes of your vineyard, you shall not glean it afterward; it shall be for the stranger, the fatherless, and the widow. 22And you shall remember that you were a slave in the land of Egypt; therefore I command you to do this thing.

25 "If there is a dispute between men, and they come to court, that the judges may judge them, and they justify the righteous and condemn the wicked, 2then it shall be, if the wicked man deserves to be beaten, that the judge will cause him to lie down and be beaten in his presence, according to his guilt, with a certain number of blows. 3Forty blows he may give him and no more, lest he should exceed this and beat him with many blows above these, and your brother be humiliated in your sight.

4"You shall not muzzle an ox while it treads out the grain.

Marriage Duty of the Surviving Brother

5"If brothers dwell together, and one of them dies and has no son, the widow of the dead man shall not be married to a stranger outside the family; her husband's brother shall go in to her, take her as his wife, and perform the duty of a husband's brother to her. 6And it shall be that the firstborn son which she bears will succeed to the name of his dead brother, that his name may not be blotted out of Israel. 7But if the man does not want to take his brother's wife, then let his brother's wife go up to the gate to the elders, and say, 'My husband's brother refuses to raise up a name to his brother in Israel; he will not perform the duty of my husband's brother.' 8Then the elders of his city shall call him and speak to him. But if he stands firm and says, 'I do not want to take her,' 9then his brother's wife shall come to him in the presence of the elders, remove his sandal from his foot, spit in his face, and answer and say, 'So shall it be done to the man who will not build up his brother's house.' 10And his name shall be called in Israel, 'The house of him who had his sandal removed.'

Miscellaneous Laws

11"If two men fight together, and the wife of one draws near to rescue her husband from the hand of the one attacking him, and puts out her hand and seizes him by the genitals, 12then you shall cut off her hand; your eye shall not pity her.

13"You shall not have in your bag differing weights, a heavy and a light. 14You shall not have in your house differing measures, a large and a small. 15You shall have a perfect and just weight, a perfect and just measure, that your days may be lengthened in the land which the LORD your God is giving you. 16For all who do such things, all who behave unrighteously, are an abomination to the LORD your God.

Destroy the Amalekites

17"Remember what Amalek did to you on the way as you were coming out of Egypt, 18how he met you on the way and attacked your rear ranks, all the stragglers at your rear, when you were tired and weary; and he did not fear God. 19Therefore it shall be, when the LORD your God has given you rest from your enemies all around, in the land which the LORD your God is giving you to possess

25:3 The maximum number of lashes with the rod was set at 40. To go over that would humiliate a man and be inhumane, perhaps endangering health and life. By NT times, the Jews set the maximum at 39 in fear of exceeding 40 (2 Cor. 11:24).

25:4 The ox was used to pull a threshing sledge over the grain. To muzzle him would prevent him from eating as he worked. The apostle Paul quoted this verse to defend the laborer's right to his wage (1 Cor. 9:9; 1 Tim. 5:18).

25:5, 6 Levirate marriage (from the Latin levir, "brother-in-law" or husband's brother) was to assure the continuity of the family and the rightful land distribution to that family through a legal heir. Prerequisites vary, perhaps due to historical development or from trying to interpret the passages too rigidly (see Gen. 38; Ruth 3:3–9, note; Deut. 5—10). The two brothers had to be living together and sharing the responsibilities of that family unit. Another requirement was that a son had not been born to the deceased man. Without a son, there was not a legal inheritor of the father's property. If these prerequisites were met, the brother-in-law of the widow would take her as a wife, and legally the firstborn son of this new union would be considered the son of the deceased and would inherit the property of his father.

25:7–10 The brother-in-law reserved the right to refuse to marry the widow. If that was the case, he would be subjected to public humiliation. The removing of the sandal symbolized the fact that the brother had rejected his responsibility, and spitting in his face brought disgrace upon him. If there were not a male child as a legal heir to the deceased brother's inheritance, then the brother-in-law would become the heir. Selfishness, therefore, could be the motive behind not marrying his sister-in-law.

25:11, 12 This legislation is the only occurrence in the Law where maiming served as judgment against a crime. The purpose of such legislation was to emphasize the need for modesty of women and to protect the man's ability to reproduce.

25:13–16 The Israelites were to be characterized as honest and just in their business practices. The stones were used to measure. A large stone in buying would allow the Israelite more than his portion, and a small stone when selling would cheat the buyer of his portion. Dishonesty in business was another way of showing lack of faith in God's ability to provide (see Ps. 26, Integrity).

as an inheritance, that you will blot out the remembrance of Amalek from under heaven. You shall not forget.

Offerings of Firstfruits and Tithes

26 "And it shall be, when you come into the land which the LORD your God is giving you as an inheritance, and you possess it and dwell in it, 2that you shall take some of the first of all the produce of the ground, which you shall bring from your land that the LORD your God is giving you, and put it in a basket and go to the place where the LORD your God chooses to make His name abide. 3And you shall go to the one who is priest in those days, and say to him, 'I declare today to the LORD your[a] God that I have come to the country which the LORD swore to our fathers to give us.'

4"Then the priest shall take the basket out of your hand and set it down before the altar of the LORD your God. 5And you shall answer and say before the LORD your God: 'My father was a Syrian,[a] about to perish, and he went down to Egypt and dwelt there, few in number; and there he became a nation, great, mighty, and populous. 6But the Egyptians mistreated us, afflicted us, and laid hard bondage on us. 7Then we cried out to the LORD God of our fathers, and the LORD heard our voice and looked on our affliction and our labor and our oppression. 8So the LORD brought us out of Egypt with a mighty hand and with an outstretched arm, with great terror and with signs and wonders. 9He has brought us to this place and has given us this land, "a land flowing with milk and honey";[a] 10and now, behold, I have brought the firstfruits of the land which you, O LORD, have given me.'

"Then you shall set it before the LORD your God, and worship before the LORD your God. 11So you shall rejoice in every good thing which the LORD your God has given to you and your house, you and the Levite and the stranger who is among you.

12"When you have finished laying aside all the tithe of your increase in the third year—the year of tithing—and have given it to the Levite, the stranger, the fatherless, and the widow, so that they may eat within your gates and be filled, 13then you shall say before the LORD your God: 'I have removed the holy tithe from my house, and also have given them to the Levite, the stranger, the fatherless, and the widow, according to all Your commandments which You have commanded me; I have not transgressed Your commandments, nor have I forgotten them. 14I have not eaten any of it when in mourning, nor have I removed any of it for an unclean use, nor given any of it for the dead. I have obeyed the voice of the LORD my God, and have done according to all that You have commanded me. 15Look down from Your holy habitation, from heaven, and bless Your people Israel and the land which You have given us, just as You swore to our fathers, "a land flowing with milk and honey." '[a]

A Special People of God

16"This day the LORD your God commands you to observe these statutes and judgments; therefore you shall be careful to observe them with all your heart and with all your soul. 17Today you have proclaimed the LORD to be your God, and that you will walk in His ways and keep His statutes, His commandments, and His judgments, and that you will obey His voice. 18Also today the LORD has proclaimed you to be His special people, just as He promised you, that you should keep all His commandments, 19and that He will set you high above all nations which He has made, in praise, in name, and in honor, and that you may be a holy people to the LORD your God, just as He has spoken."

The Law Inscribed on Stones

27 Now Moses, with the elders of Israel, commanded the people, saying: "Keep all the commandments which I command you today. 2And it shall be, on the day when you cross over the Jordan to the land which the LORD your God is giving you, that you shall set up for yourselves large stones, and whitewash them with lime. 3You shall write on them all the words of this law, when you

25:19 The Amalekites were the offspring of Esau's son Eliphaz. They were finally wiped out during the days of Hezekiah (1 Chr. 4:41–43).

26:18 Israel was special (Heb. segullah, lit. "treasured possession") to God. This position in God's heart was not given because of the merit of the people but because God graciously conferred it.

27:2 Upon entering the Promised Land, one of the nation's first tasks would be to erect large stones upon which the Law would be written. At that time, a common practice in the Near East, especially in Egypt, was to write laws upon whitewashed boulders. The whitewashing was produced by roasting gypsum producing lime. Gypsum was readily available in the Dead Sea valley as well as the Jordan valley. This white background made the Law easier to read.

27:4 Mount Ebal was located about 35 miles north of Jerusalem. At its base was the city of Shechem. Here the Lord first appeared to Abraham and gave him the promise of a nation and a land, and Abraham built his first altar to the Lord (Gen. 12:1–7). Mount Ebal would serve as a reminder of the covenant and of Israel's commitment to the Lord.

have crossed over, that you may enter the land which the LORD your God is giving you, 'a land flowing with milk and honey,'[a] just as the LORD God of your fathers promised you. 4Therefore it shall be, when you have crossed over the Jordan, that on Mount Ebal you shall set up these stones, which I command you today, and you shall whitewash them with lime. 5And there you shall build an altar to the LORD your God, an altar of stones; you shall not use an iron tool on them. 6You shall build with whole stones the altar of the LORD your God, and offer burnt offerings on it to the LORD your God. 7You shall offer peace offerings, and shall eat there, and rejoice before the LORD your God. 8And you shall write very plainly on the stones all the words of this law."

9Then Moses and the priests, the Levites, spoke to all Israel, saying, "Take heed and listen, O Israel: This day you have become the people of the LORD your God. 10Therefore you shall obey the voice of the LORD your God, and observe His commandments and His statutes which I command you today."

Curses Pronounced from Mount Ebal

11And Moses commanded the people on the same day, saying, 12"These shall stand on Mount Gerizim to bless the people, when you have crossed over the Jordan: Simeon, Levi, Judah, Issachar, Joseph, and Benjamin; 13and these shall stand on Mount Ebal to curse: Reuben, Gad, Asher, Zebulun, Dan, and Naphtali.

14"And the Levites shall speak with a loud voice and say to all the men of Israel: 15'Cursed is the one who makes a carved or molded image, an abomination to the LORD, the work of the hands of the craftsman, and sets it up in secret.'

"And all the people shall answer and say, 'Amen!'

16'Cursed is the one who treats his father or his mother with contempt.'

"And all the people shall say, 'Amen!'

17'Cursed is the one who moves his neighbor's landmark.'

"And all the people shall say, 'Amen!'

18'Cursed is the one who makes the blind to wander off the road.'

"And all the people shall say, 'Amen!'

19'Cursed is the one who perverts the justice due the stranger, the fatherless, and widow.'

"And all the people shall say, 'Amen!'

20'Cursed is the one who lies with his father's wife, because he has uncovered his father's bed.'

"And all the people shall say, 'Amen!'

21'Cursed is the one who lies with any kind of animal.'

"And all the people shall say, 'Amen!'

22'Cursed is the one who lies with his sister, the daughter of his father or the daughter of his mother.'

"And all the people shall say, 'Amen!'

23'Cursed is the one who lies with his mother-in-law.'

"And all the people shall say, 'Amen!'

24'Cursed is the one who attacks his neighbor secretly.'

"And all the people shall say, 'Amen!'

25'Cursed is the one who takes a bribe to slay an innocent person.'

"And all the people shall say, 'Amen!'

26'Cursed is the one who does not confirm all the words of this law by observing them.'

"And all the people shall say, 'Amen!' "

Blessings on Obedience

28 "Now it shall come to pass, if you diligently obey the voice of the LORD your God, to observe carefully all His commandments which I command you today, that the LORD your God will set you high above all nations of the earth. 2And all these blessings shall come upon you and over-

27:3 [a]Exodus 3:8

27:5, 6 The Israelites did not possess iron. Acquiring iron tools meant going to a foreign people to buy them. This action would create a dependency on foreign nations and their metalsmiths (1 Sam. 13:19–23).

27:11–13 Curses or blessings? The six tribes that pronounced the blessings from Mount Gerizim descended from Leah and Rachel. These were the legitimate wives of Jacob. The six remaining tribes stood on Mount Ebal to pronounce the curses. Four of these tribes—Gad, Asher, Dan, and Naphtali—were descended from Jacob's concubines Bilhah and Zilpah. Reuben and Zebulun also stood to pronounce curses. Reuben was the firstborn of Leah, who lost his birthright because of incest (Gen. 35:22; 49:3–4), and Zebulun was the youngest son of Leah. The Levites stood in the valley between the two mountains and recited the blessings and the curses (Josh. 8:30–35). "Curse" (Heb. qelalah) is sometimes translated "humiliated" (Deut. 25:3). The reference is to shame or disgrace by the lowering of a person's social status. If Israel did not keep her commitment to the covenant of God, she would surely be humiliated, disgraced, and lowered in her social status in the eyes of the nations around her.

27:26 By replying amen, the people were agreeing with and assenting to the proclamation. They were affirming the legitimacy of the curses and agreeing to the judgment incurred by breaking the covenant.

28:1–14 The blessings of God were contingent on Israel's obedience as a nation. Just as disobedience would bring the humiliation of Israel among the nations (see Deut. 27:11–13, note), so obedience would bring national exaltation (v. 1). The blessings of God encompassed every area of life.

28:2 The blessings of God will "overtake" (Heb. nasag, lit. "to reach") or seek and find those who are obedient. The same Hebrew word is used of the avenger of blood (Deut. 19:6).

take you, because you obey the voice of the LORD your God:

3"Blessed shall you be in the city, and blessed shall you be in the country.

4"Blessed shall be the fruit of your body, the produce of your ground and the increase of your herds, the increase of your cattle and the offspring of your flocks.

5"Blessed shall be your basket and your kneading bowl.

6"Blessed shall you be when you come in, and blessed shall you be when you go out.

7"The LORD will cause your enemies who rise against you to be defeated before your face; they shall come out against you one way and flee before you seven ways.

8"The LORD will command the blessing on you in your storehouses and in all to which you set your hand, and He will bless you in the land which the LORD your God is giving you.

9"The LORD will establish you as a holy people to Himself, just as He has sworn to you, if you keep the commandments of the LORD your God and walk in His ways. 10Then all peoples of the earth shall see that you are called by the name of the LORD, and they shall be afraid of you. 11And the LORD will grant you plenty of goods, in the fruit of your body, in the increase of your livestock, and in the produce of your ground, in the land of which the LORD swore to your fathers to give you. 12The LORD will open to you His good treasure, the heavens, to give the rain to your land in its season, and to bless all the work of your hand. You shall lend to many nations, but you shall not borrow. 13And the LORD will make you the head and not the tail; you shall be above only, and not be beneath, if you heed the commandments of the LORD your God, which I command you today, and are careful to observe them. 14So you shall not turn aside from any of the words which I command you this day, to the right or the left, to go after other gods to serve them.

Curses on Disobedience

15"But it shall come to pass, if you do not obey the voice of the LORD your God, to observe carefully all His commandments and His statutes which I command you today, that all these curses will come upon you and overtake you:

16"Cursed shall you be in the city, and cursed shall you be in the country.

17"Cursed shall be your basket and your kneading bowl.

18"Cursed shall be the fruit of your body and the produce of your land, the increase of your cattle and the offspring of your flocks.

19"Cursed shall you be when you come in, and cursed shall you be when you go out.

20"The LORD will send on you cursing, confusion, and rebuke in all that you set your hand to do, until you are destroyed and until you perish quickly, because of the wickedness of your doings in which you have forsaken Me. 21The LORD will make the plague cling to you until He has consumed you from the land which you are going to possess. 22The LORD will strike you with consumption, with fever, with inflammation, with severe burning fever, with the sword, with scorching, and with mildew; they shall pursue you until you perish. 23And your heavens which are over your head shall be bronze, and the earth which is under you shall be iron. 24The LORD will change the rain of your land to powder and dust; from the heaven it shall come down on you until you are destroyed.

25"The LORD will cause you to be defeated before your enemies; you shall go out one way against them and flee seven ways before them; and you shall become troublesome to all the kingdoms of the earth. 26Your carcasses shall be food for all the birds of the air and the beasts of the earth, and no one shall frighten them away. 27The LORD will strike you with the boils of Egypt, with tumors, with the scab, and with the itch, from which you cannot be healed. 28The LORD will strike you with madness and blindness and confusion of heart. 29And you shall grope at noonday, as a blind man gropes in darkness; you shall not prosper in your ways; you shall be only oppressed and plundered continually, and no one shall save you.

30"You shall betroth a wife, but another man shall lie with her; you shall build a house, but you shall not dwell in it; you shall plant a vineyard, but shall not gather its grapes. 31Your ox shall be slaughtered before your eyes, but you shall not eat of it; your donkey shall be violently taken away from before you, and shall not be restored to you; your sheep shall be given to your enemies, and you shall have no one to rescue them. 32Your sons and your daughters shall be given to another people, and your eyes shall look and fail with longing for them all day long; and there shall be no strength in

28:5 The basket and "kneading bowl" blessing refers to provision of daily food. The basket was used to gather and keep food. The kneading bowl was used to prepare the daily bread.

28:10 The blessings of God were not an end in themselves. They were the outcome of obedience for the purpose of glorifying God among the nations (see Gen. 12, Blessings).

28:23 The bronze heavens indicate that the sun would be hot and never darkened by rain clouds. The drought would make the earth as hard as "iron" so that crops could not grow.

28:32, 33 Disobedience to the Lord would result in the taking of the sons and daughters of Israel into captivity as slaves to foreign nations. The parents would be unable to save their children. Their only recourse would be to wait endlessly for them to return.

your hand. 33A nation whom you have not known shall eat the fruit of your land and the produce of your labor, and you shall be only oppressed and crushed continually. 34So you shall be driven mad because of the sight which your eyes see. 35The LORD will strike you in the knees and on the legs with severe boils which cannot be healed, and from the sole of your foot to the top of your head.

36"The LORD will bring you and the king whom you set over you to a nation which neither you nor your fathers have known, and there you shall serve other gods—wood and stone. 37And you shall become an astonishment, a proverb, and a byword among all nations where the LORD will drive you.

38"You shall carry much seed out to the field but gather little in, for the locust shall consume it. 39You shall plant vineyards and tend them, but you shall neither drink of the wine nor gather the grapes; for the worms shall eat them. 40You shall have olive trees throughout all your territory, but you shall not anoint yourself with the oil; for your olives shall drop off. 41You shall beget sons and daughters, but they shall not be yours; for they shall go into captivity. 42Locusts shall consume all your trees and the produce of your land.

43"The alien who is among you shall rise higher and higher above you, and you shall come down lower and lower. 44He shall lend to you, but you shall not lend to him; he shall be the head, and you shall be the tail.

45"Moreover all these curses shall come upon you and pursue and overtake you, until you are destroyed, because you did not obey the voice of the LORD your God, to keep His commandments and His statutes which He commanded you. 46And they shall be upon you for a sign and a wonder, and on your descendants forever.

47"Because you did not serve the LORD your God with joy and gladness of heart, for the abundance of everything, 48therefore you shall serve your enemies, whom the LORD will send against you, in hunger, in thirst, in nakedness, and in need of everything; and He will put a yoke of iron on your neck until He has destroyed you. 49The LORD will bring a nation against you from afar, from the end of the earth, as swift as the eagle flies, a nation whose language you will not understand, 50a nation of fierce countenance, which does not respect the elderly nor show favor to the young.
51And they shall eat the increase of your livestock and the produce of your land, until you are destroyed; they shall not leave you grain or new wine or oil, or the increase of your cattle or the offspring of your flocks, until they have destroyed
you.

52"They shall besiege you at all your gates until your high and fortified walls, in which you trust, come down throughout all your land; and they shall besiege you at all your gates throughout all your land which the LORD your God has given you.
53You shall eat the fruit of your own body, the flesh of your sons and your daughters whom the LORD your God has given you, in the siege and desperate straits in which your enemy shall distress
you. 54The sensitive and very refined man among you will be hostile toward his brother, toward the wife of his bosom, and toward the rest of his children whom he leaves behind, 55so that he will not give any of them the flesh of his children whom he will eat, because he has nothing left in the siege and desperate straits in which your enemy shall distress you at all your gates. 56The tender and delicate woman among you, who would not venture to set the sole of her foot on the ground because of her delicateness and sensitivity, will refuse[a] to the husband of her bosom, and to her son and her daughter, 57her placenta which comes out from between her feet and her children whom she bears; for she will eat them secretly for lack of everything in the siege and desperate straits in which your enemy shall distress you at all your gates.

58"If you do not carefully observe all the words of this law that are written in this book, that you may fear this glorious and awesome name, THE LORD YOUR GOD, 59then the LORD will bring upon you and your descendants extraordinary plagues—great and prolonged plagues—and serious and prolonged sicknesses. 60Moreover He will bring back on you all the diseases of Egypt, of which you were afraid, and they shall cling to you.
61Also every sickness and every plague, which is not written in this Book of the Law, will the LORD bring upon you until you are destroyed. 62You shall be left few in number, whereas you were as the stars of heaven in multitude, because you would not obey the voice of the LORD your God.
63And it shall be, that just as the LORD rejoiced over you to do you good and multiply you, so the 28:56 [a]Literally her eye shall be evil toward

28:46 The curses upon a rebellious nation would attest to the holiness of a righteous God (see Is. 6, Attributes of God). They would serve to educate future generations and pagan nations. Just as the blessings of God were not an end in themselves (see v. 10, note), neither are the curses.

28:53–57 Israel, by virtue of her own disobedience to God, would be reduced to a nation enveloped in perversity and depravity to the extent that parents would eat their own children while their enemies received the produce of the land (v. 51). A woman would become anesthetized to the suffering of her own family and would devour her own newborn infant. The natural selflessness of motherhood would be obliterated by hunger and hopelessness. Such is the nature of disobedience to God.

LORD will rejoice over you to destroy you and bring you to nothing; and you shall be plucked from off the land which you go to possess.

64"Then the LORD will scatter you among all peoples, from one end of the earth to the other, and there you shall serve other gods, which neither you nor your fathers have known—wood and stone. 65And among those nations you shall find no rest, nor shall the sole of your foot have a resting place; but there the LORD will give you a trembling heart, failing eyes, and anguish of soul. 66Your life shall hang in doubt before you; you shall fear day and night, and have no assurance of life. 67In the morning you shall say, 'Oh, that it were evening!' And at evening you shall say, 'Oh, that it were morning!' because of the fear which terrifies your heart, and because of the sight which your eyes see.

68"And the LORD will take you back to Egypt in ships, by the way of which I said to you, 'You shall never see it again.' And there you shall be offered for sale to your enemies as male and female slaves, but no one will buy you."

The Covenant Renewed in Moab

29 These are the words of the covenant which the LORD commanded Moses to make with the children of Israel in the land of Moab, besides the covenant which He made with them in Horeb.

2Now Moses called all Israel and said to them: "You have seen all that the LORD did before your eyes in the land of Egypt, to Pharaoh and to all his servants and to all his land— 3the great trials which your eyes have seen, the signs, and those great wonders. 4Yet the LORD has not given you a heart to perceive and eyes to see and ears to hear, to this very day. 5And I have led you forty years in the wilderness. Your clothes have not worn out on you, and your sandals have not worn out on your feet. 6You have not eaten bread, nor have you drunk wine or similar drink, that you may know that I am the LORD your God. 7And when you came to this place, Sihon king of Heshbon and Og king of Bashan came out against us to battle, and we conquered them. 8We took their land and gave it as an inheritance to the Reubenites, to the Gadites, and to half the tribe of Manasseh. 9Therefore keep the words of this covenant, and do them, that you may prosper in all that you do.

10"All of you stand today before the LORD your God: your leaders and your tribes and your elders and your officers, all the men of Israel, 11your little ones and your wives—also the stranger who is in your camp, from the one who cuts your wood to the one who draws your water— 12that you may enter into covenant with the LORD your God, and into His oath, which the LORD your God makes with you today, 13that He may establish you today as a people for Himself, and that He may be God to you, just as He has spoken to you, and just as He has sworn to your fathers, to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob.

14"I make this covenant and this oath, not with you alone, 15but with him who stands here with us today before the LORD our God, as well as with him who is not here with us today 16(for you know that we dwelt in the land of Egypt and that we came through the nations which you passed by, 17and you saw their abominations and their idols which were among them—wood and stone and silver and gold); 18so that there may not be among you man or woman or family or tribe, whose heart turns away today from the LORD our God, to go and serve the gods of these nations, and that there may not be among you a root bearing bitterness or wormwood; 19and so it may not happen, when he hears the words of this curse, that he blesses himself in his heart, saying, 'I shall have peace, even though I follow the dictates[a] of my heart'—as though the drunkard could be included with the sober.

20"The LORD would not spare him; for then the anger of the LORD and His jealousy would burn against that man, and every curse that is written in this book would settle on him, and the LORD would blot out his name from under heaven. 21And the LORD would separate him from all the tribes of Israel for adversity, according to all the curses of the covenant that are written in this Book of the Law, 22so that the coming generation of your children who rise up after you, and the foreigner who comes from a far land, would say, when they see the plagues of that land and the sicknesses which the LORD has laid on it:

23'The whole land is brimstone, salt, and burning; it is not sown, nor does it bear, nor

29:19 [a]Or stubbornness

29:2–4 The people of Israel had seen all that the Lord had done on their behalf; yet they had not fully realized all the implications of the working of God among their nation. When they were in the midst of such difficulties and trials, often their focus was on their circumstances and not on the direction of God. With time and wisdom, they would be able to look back and see the hand of God in their experiences, but even then it would require faith to receive the insight.

29:18–20 The sin of one affects a nation. Israel was a covenant community. As such, it would experience national blessing or cursing (Deut. 27:14—28:68). The individual who sinned could not expect to find anonymity within the community as a whole and escape the judgment of God. The metaphor of the "root bearing bitterness or wormwood" refers to a tree that is no longer bearing good fruit because of one branch that bears poisonous fruit. The sin of the single individual or family would affect the nation as a whole.

does any grass grow there, like the overthrow of Sodom and Gomorrah, Admah, and Zeboiim, which the LORD overthrew in His anger and His wrath.' 24All nations would say, 'Why has the LORD done so to this land? What does the heat of this great anger mean?' 25Then people would say: 'Because they have forsaken the covenant of the LORD God of their fathers, which He made with them when He brought them out of the land of Egypt; 26for they went and served other gods and worshiped them, gods that they did not know and that He had not given to them. 27Then the anger of the LORD was aroused against this land, to bring on it every curse that is written in this book. 28And the LORD uprooted them from their land in anger, in wrath, and in great indignation, and cast them into another land, as it is this day.'

29"The secret things belong to the LORD our God, but those things which are revealed belong to us and to our children forever, that we may do all the words of this law.

The Blessing of Returning to God

30 "Now it shall come to pass, when all these things come upon you, the blessing and the curse which I have set before you, and you call them to mind among all the nations where the LORD your God drives you, 2and you return to the LORD your God and obey His voice, according to all that I command you today, you and your children, with all your heart and with all your soul, 3that the LORD your God will bring you back from captivity, and have compassion on you, and gather you again from all the nations where the LORD your God has scattered you. 4If any of you are driven out to the farthest parts under heaven, from there the LORD your God will gather you, and from there He will bring you. 5Then the LORD your God will bring you to the land which your fathers possessed, and you shall possess it. He will prosper you and multiply you more than your fathers. 6And the LORD your God will circumcise your heart and the heart of your descendants, to love the LORD your God with all your heart and with all your soul, that you may live.

7"Also the LORD your God will put all these curses on your enemies and on those who hate you, who persecuted you. 8And you will again obey the voice of the LORD and do all His commandments which I command you today. 9The LORD your God will make you abound in all the work of your hand, in the fruit of your body, in the increase of your livestock, and in the produce of your land for good. For the LORD will again rejoice over you for good as He rejoiced over your fathers, 10if you obey the voice of the LORD your God, to keep His commandments and His statutes which are written in this Book of the Law, and if you turn to the LORD your God with all your heart and with all your soul.

The Choice of Life or Death

11"For this commandment which I command you today is not too mysterious for you, nor is it far off. 12It is not in heaven, that you should say, 'Who will ascend into heaven for us and bring it to us, that we may hear it and do it?' 13Nor is it beyond the sea, that you should say, 'Who will go over the sea for us and bring it to us, that we may hear it and do it?' 14But the word is very near you, in your mouth and in your heart, that you may do it.

15"See, I have set before you today life and good, death and evil, 16in that I command you today to love the LORD your God, to walk in His ways, and to keep His commandments, His statutes, and His judgments, that you may live and multiply; and the LORD your God will bless you in the land which you go to possess. 17But if your heart turns away so that you do not hear, and are drawn away, and worship other gods and serve them, 18I announce to you today that you shall surely perish; you shall not prolong your days in the land which you cross over the Jordan to go in and possess. 19I call heaven and earth as witnesses today against you, that I have set before you life and death, blessing and cursing; therefore choose life, that both you and your descendants may live; 20that you may love the LORD your God, that you may obey His voice, and that you may cling to Him, for He is your life and the length of your days; and that you may dwell in the land which the LORD swore to your fathers, to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, to give them."

29:29 The secret things refer to future events or motives of God that are not disclosed to man. The "revealed" things, such as the Law of God and His will according to the Law, are sufficient to lead the people into obedience. Being acquainted with the secret things of God is not necessary to know Him and to pledge allegiance to Him.

30:1–3 Because of the grace of God, a promise of restoration is offered to the nation of Israel if the people will return wholeheartedly to the Lord.

30:6 This verse refers to the New Covenant of which Jeremiah and Ezekiel prophesied (Jer. 31:31–34; Ezek. 36:24–32). Israel will no longer be characterized by her stubbornness but by her love for her God (Deut. 9:27).

30:11–14 A special interpreter or envoy was not needed to bring the will of God to the people. Because of God's great love for His people, His commands were within reach. Indeed, the commands were in their mouths so that they were able to teach them to their children, and they were in their own hearts to be obeyed.

Joshua the New Leader of Israel

31 Then Moses went and spoke these words to all Israel. 2And he said to them: "I am one hundred and twenty years old today. I can no longer go out and come in. Also the LORD has said to me, 'You shall not cross over this Jordan.' 3The LORD your God Himself crosses over before you;
He will destroy these nations from before you, and you shall dispossess them. Joshua himself crosses over before you, just as the LORD has said. 4And the LORD will do to them as He did to Sihon and Og, the kings of the Amorites and their land, when He destroyed them. 5The LORD will give them over to you, that you may do to them according to every commandment which I have commanded you. 6Be strong and of good courage, do not fear nor be afraid of them; for the LORD your God, He is the One who goes with you. He will not leave you nor forsake you."

7Then Moses called Joshua and said to him in the sight of all Israel, "Be strong and of good courage, for you must go with this people to the land which the LORD has sworn to their fathers to give them, and you shall cause them to inherit it.
8And the LORD, He is the One who goes before you.
He will be with you, He will not leave you nor forsake you; do not fear nor be dismayed."

The Law to Be Read Every Seven Years

9So Moses wrote this law and delivered it to the priests, the sons of Levi, who bore the ark of the covenant of the LORD, and to all the elders of Israel. 10And Moses commanded them, saying: "At the end of every seven years, at the appointed time in the year of release, at the Feast of Tabernacles, 11when all Israel comes to appear before the LORD your God in the place which He chooses, you shall read this law before all Israel in their hearing. 12Gather the people together, men and women and little ones, and the stranger who is within your gates, that they may hear and that they may learn to fear the LORD your God and carefully observe all the words of this law, 13and that their children, who have not known it, may hear and learn to fear the LORD your God as long as you live in the land which you cross the Jordan to possess."

Prediction of Israel's Rebellion

14Then the LORD said to Moses, "Behold, the days approach when you must die; call Joshua, and present yourselves in the tabernacle of meeting, that I may inaugurate him."

So Moses and Joshua went and presented themselves in the tabernacle of meeting. 15Now the LORD appeared at the tabernacle in a pillar of cloud, and the pillar of cloud stood above the door of the tabernacle.

16And the LORD said to Moses: "Behold, you will rest with your fathers; and this people will rise and play the harlot with the gods of the foreigners of the land, where they go to be among them, and they will forsake Me and break My covenant which I have made with them. 17Then My anger shall be aroused against them in that day, and I will forsake them, and I will hide My face from them, and they shall be devoured. And many evils and troubles shall befall them, so that they will say in that day, 'Have not these evils come upon us because our God is not among us?' 18And I will surely hide My face in that day because of all the evil which they have done, in that they have turned to other gods.

19"Now therefore, write down this song for yourselves, and teach it to the children of Israel; put it in their mouths, that this song may be a witness for Me against the children of Israel.
20When I have brought them to the land flowing with milk and honey, of which I swore to their fathers, and they have eaten and filled themselves and grown fat, then they will turn to other gods and serve them; and they will provoke Me and break My covenant. 21Then it shall be, when many evils and troubles have come upon them, that this song will testify against them as a witness; for it will not be forgotten in the mouths of their descendants, for I know the inclination of their behavior today, even before I have brought them to the land of which I swore to give them."

22Therefore Moses wrote this song the same day, and taught it to the children of Israel. 23Then
He inaugurated Joshua the son of Nun, and said,
"Be strong and of good courage; for you shall bring the children of Israel into the land of which I swore to them, and I will be with you."

31:2 I can no longer go out and come in is a Hebrew idiom for engaging in a day's work (Deut. 28:6). Because Moses would not be allowed to enter the Land of Promise with the nation, he would not be able to fulfill his normal daily affairs.

31:9–13 The written Law was entrusted to the Levitical priests and the elders. It was such a treasure to the people that every seven years, during the year of canceling debt, the priests were to read the entire Law at the Feast of Tabernacles (see chart, The Feasts of Israel). Traveling to the central sanctuary for the public reading of the Law reminded Israel that they were a covenant community with covenant obligations. This event was not the only time they heard the Law. If parents were obeying God's command, the Law was being repeated and taught daily (Deut. 6:6, 7, note).

31:19 Moses is instructed to write a song and to teach it to the nation. Words that are set to a melody settle deeply into the mind and are more easily recalled than just a spoken word (see Ps. 147, Music). The unforgettable song would testify to Israel's unfaithfulness to a holy God.

24So it was, when Moses had completed writing the words of this law in a book, when they were finished, 25that Moses commanded the Levites, who bore the ark of the covenant of the LORD, saying: 26"Take this Book of the Law, and put it beside the ark of the covenant of the LORD your God, that it may be there as a witness against you; 27for I know your rebellion and your stiff neck. If today, while I am yet alive with you, you have been rebellious against the LORD, then how much more after my death? 28Gather to me all the elders of your tribes, and your officers, that I may speak these words in their hearing and call heaven and earth to witness against them. 29For I know that after my death you will become utterly corrupt, and turn aside from the way which I have commanded you. And evil will befall you in the latter days, because you will do evil in the sight of the LORD, to provoke Him to anger through the work of your hands."

The Song of Moses

30Then Moses spoke in the hearing of all the assembly of Israel the words of this song until they were ended:

32 "Give ear, O heavens, and I will speak;
And hear, O earth, the words of my mouth.
2Let my teaching drop as the rain,
My speech distill as the dew,
As raindrops on the tender herb,
And as showers on the grass.
3For I proclaim the name of the LORD:
Ascribe greatness to our God.
4*He is* the Rock, His work is perfect;
For all His ways are justice,
A God of truth and without injustice;
Righteous and upright is He.

5"They have corrupted themselves;
They are not His children,
Because of their blemish:
A perverse and crooked generation.
6Do you thus deal with the LORD,
O foolish and unwise people?
Is He not your Father, who bought you?
Has He not made you and established you?

7"Remember the days of old,
Consider the years of many generations.
Ask your father, and he will show you;
Your elders, and they will tell you:
8When the Most High divided their inheritance to the nations,
When He separated the sons of Adam,
He set the boundaries of the peoples
According to the number of the children of Israel.
9For the LORD's portion is His people;
Jacob is the place of His inheritance.

10"He found him in a desert land
And in the wasteland, a howling wilderness;
He encircled him, He instructed him,
He kept him as the apple of His eye.
11As an eagle stirs up its nest,
Hovers over its young,
Spreading out its wings, taking them up,
Carrying them on its wings,
12*So* the LORD alone led him,
And there was no foreign god with him.

13"He made him ride in the heights of the earth,
That he might eat the produce of the fields;
He made him draw honey from the rock,
And oil from the flinty rock;
14Curds from the cattle, and milk of the flock,
With fat of lambs;
And rams of the breed of Bashan, and goats,
With the choicest wheat;
And you drank wine, the blood of the grapes.

15"But Jeshurun grew fat and kicked;
You grew fat, you grew thick,
You are obese!
Then he forsook God who made him,
And scornfully esteemed the Rock of his salvation.
16They provoked Him to jealousy with foreign gods;
With abominations they provoked Him to anger.
17They sacrificed to demons, not to God,
To gods they did not know,
To new gods, new arrivals
That your fathers did not fear.
18Of the Rock who begot you, you are unmindful,
And have forgotten the God who fathered you.

31:26 The Book of the Law was to be beside the ark of the covenant, which was housed in the tabernacle (see chart, The Furniture of the Tabernacle). Only the Decalogue, along with a pot of manna and Aaron's rod, was placed in the ark (Ex. 16:33; 25:16; Num. 17:10; 1 Kin. 8:9).

32:11, 12 A loving God. Moses compared the loving care of God for His people to that of an eagle for her young. An eagle teaches her young to fly by pushing them out of the nest so that they may try their wings (see chart, Female Metaphors for God). She does not leave them to fend for themselves, however. She swoops down below and allows them to drop onto her wings, then carries them safely to the nest. The Lord, in the same manner, took Israel from captivity in Egypt and thrust them into the desert but did not leave them there to fend for themselves. He remained with the nation to give them protection, strength, and guidance.

32:15 Jeshurun (lit. "the upright one") is an ironic reference to Israel. The term reminded Israel of her calling and of her ingratitude.

19 "And when the LORD saw it, He spurned them,
Because of the provocation of His sons and His daughters.
20 And He said: 'I will hide My face from them,
I will see what their end will be,
For they are a perverse generation,
Children in whom is no faith.
21 They have provoked Me to jealousy by what is not God;
They have moved Me to anger by their foolish idols.
But I will provoke them to jealousy by those who are not a nation;
I will move them to anger by a foolish nation.
22 For a fire is kindled in My anger,
And shall burn to the lowest hell;
It shall consume the earth with her increase,
And set on fire the foundations of the mountains.

23 'I will heap disasters on them;
I will spend My arrows on them.
24 They shall be wasted with hunger,
Devoured by pestilence and bitter destruction;
I will also send against them the teeth of beasts,
With the poison of serpents of the dust.
25 The sword shall destroy outside;
There shall be terror within
For the young man and virgin,
The nursing child with the man of gray hairs.
26 I would have said, "I will dash them in pieces, I will make the memory of them to cease from among men,"
27 Had I not feared the wrath of the enemy,
Lest their adversaries should misunderstand,
Lest they should say, "Our hand is high;
And it is not the LORD who has done all this." '

28 "For they are a nation void of counsel,
Nor is there any understanding in them.
29 Oh, that they were wise, that they understood this,
That they would consider their latter end!
30 How could one chase a thousand,
And two put ten thousand to flight,
Unless their Rock had sold them,
And the LORD had surrendered them?
31 For their rock is not like our Rock,
Even our enemies themselves being judges.
32 For their vine is of the vine of Sodom
And of the fields of Gomorrah;
Their grapes are grapes of gall,
Their clusters are bitter.
33 Their wine is the poison of serpents,
And the cruel venom of cobras.

34 'Is this not laid up in store with Me,
Sealed up among My treasures?
35 Vengeance is Mine, and recompense;
Their foot shall slip in due time;
For the day of their calamity is at hand,
And the things to come hasten upon them.'

36 "For the LORD will judge His people
And have compassion on His servants,
When He sees that their power is gone,
And there is no one remaining, bond or free.
37 He will say: 'Where are their gods,
The rock in which they sought refuge?
38 Who ate the fat of their sacrifices,
And drank the wine of their drink offering?
Let them rise and help you,
And be your refuge.

39 'Now see that I, even I, am He,
And there is no God besides Me;
I kill and I make alive;
I wound and I heal;
Nor is there any who can deliver from My hand.
40 For I raise My hand to heaven,
And say, "As I live forever,
41 If I whet My glittering sword,
And My hand takes hold on judgment,
I will render vengeance to My enemies,
And repay those who hate Me.
42 I will make My arrows drunk with blood,
And My sword shall devour flesh,
With the blood of the slain and the captives,
From the heads of the leaders of the enemy." '

43 "Rejoice, O Gentiles, with His people;[a]
For He will avenge the blood of His servants,
And render vengeance to His adversaries;
He will provide atonement for His land and His people."

44 So Moses came with Joshua[a] the son of Nun and spoke all the words of this song in the hearing of the people. 45 Moses finished speaking all these words to all Israel, 46 and he said to them: "Set your hearts on all the words which I testify among you today, which you shall command your

32:43 [a]A Dead Sea Scroll fragment adds And let all the gods (angels) worship Him (compare Septuagint and Hebrews 1:6). 32:44 [a]Hebrew Hoshea (compare Numbers 13:8, 16)

32:40 Raising the hand symbolized making an oath. Normally an oath was initiated by the statement, "As the Lord lives, I will . . . " However, here the Lord swears by His own name and authenticates the oath.

32:46, 47 The words of the Lord were to be the desire and life of the people of Israel. The Law was not to be considered insignificant or secondary, for it was the essence of life. Their obedience to the Law would determine their quality of life.

children to be careful to observe—all the words of this law. 47For it is not a futile thing for you, because it is your life, and by this word you shall prolong your days in the land which you cross over the Jordan to possess."

Moses to Die on Mount Nebo

48Then the LORD spoke to Moses that very same day, saying: 49"Go up this mountain of the Abarim, Mount Nebo, which is in the land of Moab, across from Jericho; view the land of Canaan, which I give to the children of Israel as a possession; 50and die on the mountain which you ascend, and be gathered to your people, just as Aaron your brother died on Mount Hor and was gathered to his people; 51because you trespassed against Me among the children of Israel at the waters of Meribah Kadesh, in the Wilderness of Zin, because you did not hallow Me in the midst of the children of Israel. 52Yet you shall see the land before you, though you shall not go there, into the land which I am giving to the children of Israel."

Moses' Final Blessing on Israel

33 Now this is the blessing with which Moses the man of God blessed the children of Israel before his death. 2And he said:

"The LORD came from Sinai,
And dawned on them from Seir;
He shone forth from Mount Paran,
And He came with ten thousands of saints;
From His right hand
Came a fiery law for them.
3Yes, He loves the people;
All His saints are in Your hand;
They sit down at Your feet;
Everyone receives Your words.
4Moses commanded a law for us,
A heritage of the congregation of Jacob.
5And He was King in Jeshurun,
When the leaders of the people were gathered,
All the tribes of Israel together.
6"Let Reuben live, and not die, Nor let his men be few."

7And this he said of Judah:

"Hear, LORD, the voice of Judah,
And bring him to his people;
Let his hands be sufficient for him,
And may You be a help against his enemies."

8And of Levi he said:

"Let Your Thummim and Your Urim be with Your holy one, Whom You tested at Massah,
And with whom You contended at the waters of Meribah, 9Who says of his father and mother,
'I have not seen them';
Nor did he acknowledge his brothers,
Or know his own children;
For they have observed Your word
And kept Your covenant.
10They shall teach Jacob Your judgments,
And Israel Your law.
They shall put incense before You,
And a whole burnt sacrifice on Your altar.
11Bless his substance, LORD,
And accept the work of his hands;
Strike the loins of those who rise against him,
And of those who hate him, that they rise not again."

12Of Benjamin he said:

"The beloved of the LORD shall dwell in safety by Him,
Who shelters him all the day long;
And he shall dwell between His shoulders."

13And of Joseph he said:

"Blessed of the LORD is his land,
With the precious things of heaven, with the dew,

32:49 Mt. Nebo is a peak in the Abarim mountain range, overlooking the northern coast of the Dead Sea. Moses forfeited his right to enter the Promised Land because of disobedience (Num. 20:1–13), but by God's grace, he was permitted to see the Land.

33:1 Moses, acting as a father to the nation of Israel, invoked a blessing upon Israel before his death. In a similar passage, Jacob blessed his sons (Gen. 49).

33:7 Judah marched at the head of the army of Israel. In this position, the tribe would be most vulnerable to attack. Moses prayed for Judah to have military success by God's help.

33:8 The blessing of Levi was for strength and protection to perform duties of education and worship. The "Thummim" (Heb., lit. "perfections") and the "Urim" (Heb., lit. "lights"), the two stones kept in the high priest's breastplate, were used to determine the will of God in matters where the decision was difficult. The method for accomplishing this task is uncertain, however. The stones were apparently inscribed with the words "Urim" and "Thummim." The "Urim" may have symbolized a negative answer and the "Thummim" a positive answer, though there is no absolute certainty how they were used. When the stones were tossed by the high priest, if both stones showed Urim, the answer was a negative one. If Thummim was shown on both stones, then the answer was a positive one (see Ex. 28:15, note). Perhaps more than anything else, the stones represented the faithfulness of the Lord in giving wisdom to the high priest as he led the people and represented them before the Lord.

ATTRIBUTES OF GOD HE IS RIGHTEOUS

As the ultimate standard for right, God always does the right thing (Ps. 18:30). The idea of righteousness (Heb. tsedeq) is "to be straight." It denotes a right behavior, conforming to an ethical or moral standard.

God is the standard of "right"—His ways are right because He is right (Ps. 145:17). He loves His standards (Ps. 45:7) and never deviates from them (1 John 1:5). His only limitation is what He chooses to place on Himself.

God's righteousness is immovable (Ps. 36:5, 6). In other words, His standards are nonnegotiable. Often His righteousness is coupled with judgment (Ps. 36:6; 50:1–6). He is the perfect Judge—fair, just, and consistent. He does wrong to no one—ever!

Setting your own standards about what is right and wrong is an attempt at being God and as such is doomed to failure (Rom. 3:10). Though you cannot determine righteousness (Rom. 10:3), you can become righteous in Christ (2 Cor. 5:21) and be led in the paths of righteousness through His presence within (Ps. 23:3).

One day you will be clothed and crowned in righteousness (Rev. 19:8). In other words, a day will come when you will always want to live and be able to live the right way.

And the deep lying beneath,
14 With the precious fruits of the sun,
With the precious produce of the months,
15 With the best things of the ancient mountains,
With the precious things of the everlasting hills,
16 With the precious things of the earth and its fullness,
And the favor of Him who dwelt in the bush.
Let the blessing come 'on the head of Joseph,
And on the crown of the head of him who was separate from his brothers.'[a] 17 His glory is like a firstborn bull,
And his horns like the horns of the wild ox;
Together with them
He shall push the peoples
To the ends of the earth;
They are the ten thousands of Ephraim,
And they are the thousands of Manasseh."

18 And of Zebulun he said:

"Rejoice, Zebulun, in your going out,
And Issachar in your tents!
19 They shall call the peoples to the mountain;
There they shall offer sacrifices of righteousness;
For they shall partake of the abundance of the seas
And of treasures hidden in the sand."

20 And of Gad he said:

"Blessed is he who enlarges Gad;
He dwells as a lion,
And tears the arm and the crown of the head.
21 He provided the first part for himself,
Because a lawgiver's portion was reserved there.
He came with the heads of the people;
He administered the justice of the LORD,
And His judgments with Israel."

22 And of Dan he said:

"Dan is a lion's whelp;
He shall leap from Bashan."

23 And of Naphtali he said:

"O Naphtali, satisfied with favor,
And full of the blessing of the LORD,
Possess the west and the south."

24 And of Asher he said:

"Asher is most blessed of sons;
Let him be favored by his brothers,
And let him dip his foot in oil.
25 Your sandals shall be iron and bronze;
As your days, so shall your strength be.

26 "There is no one like the God of Jeshurun,
Who rides the heavens to help you,
And in His excellency on the clouds.
27 The eternal God is your refuge,
And underneath are the everlasting arms;
He will thrust out the enemy from before you,
And will say, 'Destroy!'
28 Then Israel shall dwell in safety,

The fountain of Jacob alone,
In a land of grain and new wine;
His heavens shall also drop dew.
29 Happy are you, O Israel!
Who is like you, a people saved by the LORD,
The shield of your help
And the sword of your majesty!
Your enemies shall submit to you,
And you shall tread down their high places."

Moses Dies on Mount Nebo

34 Then Moses went up from the plains of Moab to Mount Nebo, to the top of Pisgah, which is across from Jericho. And the LORD showed him all the land of Gilead as far as Dan, 2 all Naphtali and the land of Ephraim and Manasseh, all the land of Judah as far as the Western Sea,[a] 3 the South, and the plain of the Valley of Jericho, the city of palm trees, as far as Zoar. 4 Then the LORD said to him, "This is the land of which I swore to give Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, saying, 'I will give it to your descendants.' I have caused you to see it with your eyes, but you shall not cross over there."

5 So Moses the servant of the LORD died there in the land of Moab, according to the word of the LORD. 6 And He buried him in a valley in the land of Moab, opposite Beth Peor; but no one knows his grave to this day. 7 Moses was one hundred and twenty years old when he died. His eyes were not dim nor his natural vigor diminished. 8 And the children of Israel wept for Moses in the plains of Moab thirty days. So the days of weeping and mourning for Moses ended.

9 Now Joshua the son of Nun was full of the spirit of wisdom, for Moses had laid his hands on him; so the children of Israel heeded him, and did as the LORD had commanded Moses.

10 But since then there has not arisen in Israel a prophet like Moses, whom the LORD knew face to face, 11 in all the signs and wonders which the LORD sent him to do in the land of Egypt, before Pharaoh, before all his servants, and in all his land, 12 and by all that mighty power and all the great terror which Moses performed in the sight of all Israel.

34:2 [a] That is, the Mediterranean

34:6 The people of Israel no doubt watched as Moses ascended Mt. Nebo until he was no longer in their sight. Jewish tradition states that God took away the soul of Moses with a kiss. No one knows the manner in which Moses died, only that he died according to the word of the Lord and was buried by God Himself. So special was Moses to the heart of God that his death was not a public matter but a private communion between two good friends.

34:10–12 Moses was the greatest of all the prophets, and the signs and wonders performed through him were unequaled throughout Israel's history. However, nothing Moses experienced can surpass the greatness of being known intimately by God (1 Cor. 8:3).

TERMINOLOGY FOR THE PEOPLE OF GOD

HEBREWS

The term "Hebrews," an alternate designation for the Israelites, often is applied by foreigners (Gen. 39:14; Ex. 1:16), although on occasion the term "Hebrew" is applied also by the Israelites to themselves (Ex. 1:15–19; Jon. 1:9). In such cases the terms Hebrew and Israelite are interchangeable. The ancestor of the Hebrews is identified as Eber, son of Shem (Gen. 10:21–32). Abraham, Nahor, and Lot are included among his descendants (Gen. 11:10–32). Abraham is the ancestor of the Hebrews, Nahor of the Arameans, and Lot of the Moabites and Ammonites. Abraham is called "the Hebrew" (Gen. 14:13). Generally the term "Hebrew" is an ethnic term.

JEWS

In the postexilic period, the designation "Jew" referred to a member of the Babylonian or Persian province of Judah (Neh. 4:1; Esth. 9:15–19; Zech. 8:23). In Esther 8:17, the term refers to a proselyte to the Jewish faith. The designation "Jew" also appears in Jeremiah, whose ministry is dated in the late seventh and early sixth centuries B.C. (Jer. 32:12; 40:11). Thus, the usage of the term "Jew" was somewhat fluid in biblical times. A person may be characterized as a Jew by religion and/or by ethnic origin.

ISRAEL

The name "Israel" first is applied to the patriarch Jacob after his encounter with God at Peniel (Gen. 32:28). Israel also functions in the Old Testament as a designation for God's people as a whole. Israel, the children of Israel, and the twelve tribes of Israel designate God's people during the times of their sojourn in Egypt, the Exodus from Egypt, their journey in the wilderness, their entry into Canaan under Joshua, and during the time of the judges and Samuel (Gen. 49:28; Deut. 33:5, 10, 28).

ZION

Zion appears in the Old Testament as a designation for the people of Jerusalem as a community (Joel 2:23; Is. 3:16; Jer. 4:31).

TERMINOLOGY FOR THE LAND

PALESTINE

The term "Palestine" originated from the name of the Pelishtim or Philistines (1 Sam. 4:1), one of the tribes of Sea Peoples who invaded the area early in the twelfth century B.C. Since these Sea Peoples dominated the Canaanites and also took possession of the most accessible part of the land, their name was applied by strangers to the whole land. In the Old Testament, the designation "Philistia" is used, not for the whole land, but only for the southern seacoast plain, Philistia proper (see Ex. 15:14; Is. 14:29–31; Joel 3:4). In modern usage the designation "Palestine" is applied to the whole territory allotted to the Twelve Tribes, located both east and west of the Jordan River.

CANAAN

In the Old Testament, "Canaan" designated the whole territory west of the Jordan inhabited by the Canaanites (Gen. 12:5; Num. 33:51). In other passages the Canaanites appear to be occupants of a limited area along the coast or in the plain (Num. 13:29; 14:25; Josh. 11:3). Thus, in the Old Testament, the designation "Canaan" may refer to a limited area or to the whole area west of the Jordan.

ISRAEL

References to both God's people and the Promised Land as "Israel" appear in the time of the early monarchy during the reigns of Saul, David, and Solomon. Saul was anointed king over Israel (1 Sam. 9:16, 17). David also was anointed by Samuel as king over Israel in place of Saul (1 Sam. 16:1, 13). In reality, David reigned first as king of Judah, establishing his capital at Hebron (2 Sam. 2:4, 11). Ishbosheth, son of Saul, reigned over Israel (2 Sam. 2:8–10). Eventually David ruled over all Israel, including Judah, establishing his capital at Jerusalem (2 Sam. 5:1–5). Solomon inherited the kingdom of his father David (1 Kin. 2:11, 12; 4:1).

Following Solomon's reign and the division of the kingdom in 931 B.C., Israel became the designation for the northern kingdom, consisting essentially of ten tribes (1 Kin. 11:30, 31). The northern kingdom also is termed the "house of Israel" (Hos. 5:1; Amos 5:1; Mic. 1:5). "Israel" is used to designate the southern kingdom, after the fall of the northern kingdom in 722 B.C. (Ezra 1:3; 4:3).

TERMINOLOGY FOR THE DIVIDED KINGDOM

NORTHERN KINGDOM

This designation was applied to the northern ten tribes following the division of the kingdom (931 B.C.). Alternate designations for the northern kingdom include Israel, Ephraim, and Samaria (Hos. 4:16, 17; 7:1).

SOUTHERN KINGDOM

The southern kingdom is an alternate designation for Judah applied after the division of the kingdom in 931 B.C. The tribe of Simeon (and/or Benjamin) was included in this terminology.

EPHRAIM

The basis for the designation of Israel as Ephraim resulted from the outcome of the Syro-Ephraimitic War (734 B.C.) in which Israel lost its peripheral territories and was reduced to the area originally occupied by the tribes of Ephraim and Manasseh. Because Ephraim, the most influential tribe in the north, overshadowed Manasseh, the title "Ephraim" became associated with the area.

JUDAH

Judah was the designation for the southern kingdom following the division of the kingdom in 931 B.C. When Jeroboam I led the northern tribes to revolt, the southern tribe of Judah remained loyal to Rehoboam and stayed faithful to the Davidic dynasty until its fall in 586 B.C. Basically this area consisted of territory belonging to the tribes of Judah and Simeon. The chronicler designated the inhabitants of the south as "Judah and Benjamin" (1 Chr. 12:16; 2 Chr. 11:1). After the fall of the northern kingdom, Judah sometimes was designated as Israel (Ezra 1:3; 4:3).

SAMARIA

This is an alternate designation for Ephraim, the northern kingdom, and Israel. This northern area did not become so designated until Samaria became its capital under Omri in the ninth century B.C. After the fall of the northern kingdom (722 B.C.) and the deportation of its inhabitants, the Assyrians settled captives from other areas in the cities of Samaria (2 Kin. 17:24–26). The Assyrians called the territory the province of Samerena and ruled it until the late seventh century B.C. King Josiah of Judah (640–609 B.C.) was able to destroy the high places in the cities of Samaria (2 Kin. 23:19). With the fall of Nineveh, the capital of Assyria, in 612 B.C., the territory of Samaria became a Babylonian province.

After the southern kingdom fell in 586 B.C., the northern hill country of Judah, including Jerusalem, became a part of the province of Samaria. With the conquest of the Persians in 539 B.C., the territory became a province or satrapy of the Persian Empire. In the period of Ezra (about 450 B.C.) and Nehemiah (about 445–424 B.C.), the governors of Samaria attempted to prevent the exiles from rebuilding the temple and the walls (Ezra 4:4–24; Neh. 2:9–20). In Nehemiah's time, the hill country of northern Judah was made a separate province, and the southern border of Samaria was established approximately in its pre-Babylonian location. This area became the center of the Samaritans, following the split between Jews and Samaritans in the time of Ezra and Nehemiah.

ZION

The name "Zion" first appeared (2 Sam. 5:6–10; 1 Chr. 11:4–9) in connection with David's conquest of Jerusalem. "Zion" there referred to a specific fortified hill. The term "Zion" later was extended to the temple area itself (Ps. 2:6; 132:13). Zion became an equivalent of Jerusalem (Is. 28:16; 40:9; Joel 3:16; Mic. 3:10). Zion also became equivalent to the heavenly Jerusalem in the New Testament (Rev. 14:1).

Joshua

TITLE

Joshua's birth name was Hoshea (Heb., lit. "salvation," Num. 13:8), but Moses called him "Joshua" (Heb. yehoshua, lit. "the Lord saves"; Num. 13:16). "Jesus" is the Greek form of the Hebrew "Joshua." While parts of the book appear to be written after Joshua's death (Josh. 10:12, 13; 24:29–33), tradition identifies Joshua as the primary author of the work. Assuming that Joshua and his fellow spy Caleb were of similar age when they were part of the original spy mission to Canaan forty years earlier, Joshua would have been about eighty years old when the Israelites entered the Promised Land.

AUTHOR

Joshua was divinely prepared to lead the Israelites (see chart, Preparation for Leadership). He had been a slave, a free man, a man without a country, the general of an ill-equipped nomadic army, a conqueror against incredible odds, a land agent, a statesman, and a settler. He witnessed extraordinary miracles: the ten plagues of Egypt, the parting of the Red Sea and the Jordan River, the miraculous provision of food for forty years in the wilderness, water flowing from rocks, city walls falling down, the sun standing still, and army after army falling away at his approach.

DATE

The Book of Joshua covers approximately thirty years during what is now called the Late Bronze Age (1500–1200 B.C.). The actual invasion probably occurred about 1405 B.C. during the reign of Amenhotep III in Egypt (see Deut. 1:3–8; 1 Kin. 6:1).

BACKGROUND

SETTING: The first five books of the Bible (the Pentateuch) provide background for the Book of Joshua. The people's preparation began in Genesis with the promise of the Land to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob (Gen. 12:1–3, 7; 13:15; 15:7, 18; 17:8; 26:3; 28:13). Preparation continued as for two centuries Abraham's descendants lived in the Land but never fully controlled it.

For the next four centuries the Israelites lived in Egypt. The Book of Exodus records their escape from slavery and the giving of the Law. Leviticus prepares them for worship. Numbers and Deuteronomy provide for them a civic structure. Even the language in Joshua's account detailing Israel's entry into the Land is similar to the Deuteronomy description of Israel's preparation for entry into the Promised Land. The Book of Joshua refers to the Pentateuch as a completed entity normative for that generation (Josh. 1:7, 8).

Although the Law and Israel's special covenant relationship with God defined the nation's identity, God also had promised the Israelites a Land of their own. The Book of Joshua is the record of their conquest of that Land under God's leadership.

Canaan, the strategic land bridge connecting Africa with Asia and ultimately with Europe, is a unique land (see chart, Terminology for the Land). It links the Indian Ocean (via the Red Sea) with the Atlantic Ocean (via the Mediterranean). It claims more military occupations, battles, and blood baths than any country on the globe; at least thirty world powers have trampled its soil. People living in this land need a special relationship with their defender.

The Promised Land was a pagan land. Though God had placed a witness to Himself in the land with the election of Abraham and his descendants as His chosen people, the people of Canaan persisted in the worship of numerous gods and goddesses. By the time of the conquest, the religious climate of Canaan had grown so decadent that a variety of detestable practices expressly forbidden to the Israelites, including cult prostitution and child sacrifice, had evolved (Lev. 18:21; Deut. 12:31; 23:17).

Egypt, the political Goliath of the day, showed little concern. Other political powers had waned, and Canaan's own native inhabitants lacked unity. The timing for the Israelite invasion was perfect.

PURPOSE: The book is a reminder to the Israelites, including future generations, that their Land was a gift from God and that their possession of the Land was the fulfillment of His promise. What began as a promise to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, and continued through Moses now would be fulfilled under Joshua.

The faithfulness of Joshua's generation would be tested in battle. Greater tests would come, however, as future generations changed from the nomadic life of herdsmen to a new life as permanent settlers.

THEMES

Though Joshua is a history book, its primary theme is the faithfulness of God as exhibited repeatedly through His presence, power, protection, provision, and fulfilled promises. A secondary theme is the faithfulness of God's people. The Israelites were about to enter an advanced culture of experienced farmers whose life was tied elaborately to the worship of pagan gods of nature; those gods would be a constant temptation to the Israelites. Their willingness to obey God would be tested, and many times they failed the test. Yet God's faithfulness never ceased.

OUTLINE

I. The Conquest of the Land (1:1—12:24)
   A. Preparation for conquest (1:1—5:15)
      1. Preparing Joshua (1:1–9)
      2. Preparing the leaders (1:10–18)
      3. Preparing the strategy (2:1–24)
      4. Preparing the approach (3:1—4:24)
      5. Preparing the people (5:1–15)
   B. The conquest of the Land (6:1—12:24)
      1. The conquest of Jericho (6:1–27)
      2. The conquest of Ai (7:1—8:29)
      3. The renewal of the covenant (8:30–35)
      4. The treaty with the Gibeonites (9:1–27)
      5. The conquest of southern Canaan (10:1–43)
      6. The conquest of northern Canaan (11:1–15)
      7. A summary of the conquest (11:16—12:24)

II. The Division of the Land (13:1—21:45)
   A. The assignment of land to individual tribes (13:1—19:51)
      1. Instructions to Joshua (13:1–7)
      2. Borders for the eastern tribes (13:8–33)
      3. Borders for the western tribes (14:1—19:51)
   B. The assignment of special cities (20:1—21:45)
      1. The cities of refuge (20:1–9)
      2. The cities of the Levites (21:1–45)

III. The Settlement of the Land (22:1—24:33)
   A. The settlement of the eastern tribes (22:1–34)
      1. Joshua's message to the eastern tribes (22:1–9)
      2. The building of an altar by the eastern tribes (22:10–34)
   B. The settlement of the western tribes (23:1—24:33)
      1. Joshua's farewell address to all Israel (23:1—24:24)
      2. The covenant at Shechem (24:25–28)
      3. The death and burial of godly leaders (24:29–33)

God's Commission to Joshua

1 After the death of Moses the servant of the LORD, it came to pass that the LORD spoke to Joshua the son of Nun, Moses' assistant, saying:
2 "Moses My servant is dead. Now therefore, arise, go over this Jordan, you and all this people, to the land which I am giving to them—the children of Israel. 3 Every place that the sole of your foot will tread upon I have given you, as I said to Moses. 4 From the wilderness and this Lebanon as far as the great river, the River Euphrates, all the land of the Hittites, and to the Great Sea toward the going down of the sun, shall be your territory. 5 No man shall be able to stand before you all the days of your life; as I was with Moses, so I will be with you. I will not leave you nor forsake you. 6 Be strong and of good courage, for to this people you shall divide as an inheritance the land which I swore to their fathers to give them. 7 Only be strong and very courageous, that you may observe to do according to all the law which Moses My servant commanded you; do not turn from it to the right hand or to the left, that you may prosper wherever you go. 8 This Book of the Law shall not depart from your mouth, but you shall meditate in it day and night, that you may observe to do according to all that is written in it. For then you will make your way prosperous, and then you will have good success. 9 Have I not commanded you? Be strong and of good courage; do not be afraid, nor be dismayed, for the LORD your God is with you wherever you go."

The Order to Cross the Jordan

10 Then Joshua commanded the officers of the people, saying, 11 "Pass through the camp and command the people, saying, 'Prepare provisions for yourselves, for within three days you will cross over this Jordan, to go in to possess the land which the LORD your God is giving you to possess.'"

12 And to the Reubenites, the Gadites, and half the tribe of Manasseh Joshua spoke, saying, 13 "Remember the word which Moses the servant of the LORD commanded you, saying, 'The LORD your God is giving you rest and is giving you this land.' 14 Your wives, your little ones, and your livestock shall remain in the land which Moses gave you on this side of the Jordan. But you shall pass before your brethren armed, all your mighty men of valor, and help them, 15 until the LORD has given your brethren rest, as He gave you, and they also have taken possession of the land which the LORD your God is giving them. Then you shall return to the land of your possession and enjoy it, which Moses the LORD's servant gave you on this side of the Jordan toward the sunrise."

16 So they answered Joshua, saying, "All that you command us we will do, and wherever you send us we will go. 17 Just as we heeded Moses in all things, so we will heed you. Only the LORD your God be with you, as He was with Moses. 18 Whoever rebels against your command and does not heed your words, in all that you command him, shall be put to death. Only be strong and of good courage."

Rahab Hides the Spies

2 Now Joshua the son of Nun sent out two men from Acacia Grove[a] to spy secretly, saying, "Go, view the land, especially Jericho."

So they went, and came to the house of a har-

2:1 [a]Hebrew Shittim

1:1 The Israelites had been at the border of the Promised Land 40 years earlier (Num. 13:1—14:45), at which time the people had doubted that God could accomplish His promises. They refused to enter Canaan, and their disobedience resulted in God's judgment (see chart, Tale of Two Committees). None of the adults except Joshua and Caleb were allowed to enter the Land (Josh. 5:6; see chart, Caleb: Portrait of a Hero). The death of Moses completed this judgment. God was ready to lead the Israelites into the Land as He had promised. Joshua's position as "assistant" indicates a unique position of personal service, and thus the new leader of Israel began with a direct communication from the Lord (see chart, Preparation for Leadership).

1:2 The crossing of the Jordan was considered the first step of the campaign (Deut. 32:47; Josh. 3:10–13). Although normally not very wide this close to Jericho, at flood stage the river could have been a mile wide.

1:3 Treading upon the soil symbolized acceptance of property ownership (Deut. 11:24; Josh. 14:9); handing your shoe to another symbolized the transfer of land (Ruth 4:7, note). The transaction bound the new owners to the law, the land, and the god of that region. God used the same formula (Law, Josh. 1:7, 8; Land, v. 2; Himself, vv. 5, 9).

1:6 Repetition was typically used by the Hebrews for emphasis, with the threefold repetition as the highest degree (vv. 6, 7, 9; see also Is. 6:3; John 21:15–17). God's renewed promise to guide Joshua not only through the conquest but also through the distribution of the Land followed (Josh. 13—21; see map, The Division of the Land).

1:8 The command to meditate on God's Law (the Torah) included incorporating its teachings into one's lifestyle as the basis of true success in life.

1:12–15 The Reubenites, the Gadites, and half the tribe of Manasseh already had claimed and settled the Land east of the Jordan with the understanding that they would fight alongside their brothers until the rest of the Land was conquered. This commitment was important for the unity of the nation and demonstrated the faith of these tribes that God would provide for and protect those left behind while the fighting men were away (Num. 34:14, 15).

2:1 Ancient Jericho (Heb., lit. "moon" and thus "moon city") may be the oldest city in the world and likely was dedicated to the worship of a moon god. Located about five miles west of the Jordan River, Jericho was an oasis in the Dead Sea area. This fortress city controlled the entrance to the Land. The lot named Rahab, and lodged there. 2And it was told the king of Jericho, saying, "Behold, men have come here tonight from the children of Israel to search out the country."

3So the king of Jericho sent to Rahab, saying, "Bring out the men who have come to you, who have entered your house, for they have come to search out all the country."

4Then the woman took the two men and hid them. So she said, "Yes, the men came to me, but I did not know where they were from. 5And it happened as the gate was being shut, when it was dark, that the men went out. Where the men went I do not know; pursue them quickly, for you may overtake them." 6(But she had brought them up to the roof and hidden them with the stalks of flax, which she had laid in order on the roof.) 7Then the men pursued them by the road to the Jordan, to the fords. And as soon as those who pursued them had gone out, they shut the gate.

8Now before they lay down, she came up to them on the roof, 9and said to the men: "I know that the LORD has given you the land, that the terror of you has fallen on us, and that all the inhabitants of the land are fainthearted because of you. 10For we have heard how the LORD dried up the water of the Red Sea for you when you came out of Egypt, and what you did to the two kings of the Amorites who were on the other side of the Jordan, Sihon and Og, whom you utterly destroyed. 11And as soon as we heard these things, our hearts melted; neither did there remain any more courage in anyone because of you, for the LORD your God, He is God in heaven above and on earth beneath. 12Now therefore, I beg you, swear to me by the LORD, since I have shown you kindness, that you also will show kindness to my father's house, and give me a true token, 13and spare my father, my mother, my brothers, my sisters, and all that they have, and deliver our lives from death."

14So the men answered her, "Our lives for yours, if none of you tell this business of ours. And it shall be, when the LORD has given us the land, that we will deal kindly and truly with you."

15Then she let them down by a rope through the window, for her house was on the city wall; she dwelt on the wall. 16And she said to them, "Get to the mountain, lest the pursuers meet you. Hide there three days, until the pursuers have returned. Afterward you may go your way."

17So the men said to her: "We will be blameless of this oath of yours which you have made us swear, 18unless, when we come into the land, you bind this line of scarlet cord in the window through which you let us down, and unless you bring your father, your mother, your brothers, and all your father's household to your own home. 19So it shall be that whoever goes outside the doors of your house into the street, his blood shall be on his own head, and we will be guiltless. And whoever is with you in the house, his blood shall be on our head if a hand is laid on him. 20And if you tell this business of ours, then we will be free from your oath which you made us swear."

21Then she said, "According to your words, so be it." And she sent them away, and they departed. And she bound the scarlet cord in the window.

22They departed and went to the mountain, and stayed there three days until the pursuers returned. The pursuers sought them all along the way, but did not find them. 23So the two men returned, descended from the mountain, and crossed over; and they came to Joshua the son of Nun, and told him all that had befallen them.

conquest of Jericho formed the initial stage of Joshua's military strategy of "divide and conquer." Rahab's house was probably built over the gap between the two walls, 12 to 15 feet apart, a common practice in that day (v. 15). Rahab is described as a "harlot" (Heb. zanah). There is no evidence that she was a sacred prostitute in the service of her pagan gods (see Rahab). Prostitution was practiced commonly in the Canaanite culture. Lodging in the house of a prostitute may have been a way for the spies to avoid detection when entering and leaving the city.

2:9 The spies needed help, and Rahab needed protection. Apparently of all the inhabitants of Jericho, Rahab alone believed in Israel's God. Her words are an indictment of the Israelites whose unbelief caused them to lose 40 years in the wilderness. In effect, she told them the battle had been won when God delivered them from Egypt (vv. 10, 11). Rahab did lie to protect the spies (vv. 4, 5), for deception and espionage are part of warfare. Scripture unequivocally forbids lying, and nowhere does God condone Rahab's lying (Prov. 12:22). However, we must affirm Rahab's great faith and leave any judgment of her to God. Extenuating circumstances challenged the new faith of this resourceful woman, and God honored her faith by giving her a place in the lineage of the Messiah (Matt. 1:5).

2:11 Our hearts melted indicated physical and emotional distress resulting in the inability to act (Ps. 97:5). Rahab's words confirm the fulfillment of Moses' song of victory after crossing the Red Sea (Ex. 15:14–16). Rahab drew a contrast between the one God of Israel and the many gods of the Canaanites. Unlike the Canaanite gods, Yahweh is not a god of a particular place and function; rather He is supreme everywhere. He is actively involved in the lives and events of His people (Josh. 2:9–11). In contrast, the Canaanite gods competed for rule, were limited to particular areas and functions, and were involved with their own lusts, murders, and intrigues.

2:12–21 Middle Eastern culture centered around the family and clan. The faith and actions of one member could affect the whole family (see Josh. 7:24, 25; chart, Temptation: The Analysis of a Successful Trap). The agreement betweeen Rahab and the spies required faithfulness on both sides (Josh. 2:14). Rahab was to keep secret the activities of the spies, bring all her family into her house, and display the scarlet cord (vv. 14, 17, 18). The spies were to see that all Israel spared her house and everyone in it.

BEGINNING TO READ AND STUDY THE BIBLE (From Passport to the Bible)

The Bible tells us how to know God . . . how to find eternal life . . . and how to experience genuine life in our inner person. It gives health to our souls and tells us how to heal broken relationships. The answers to life's questions are found in the Bible. But where does a person begin in reading and studying the Bible. Here's an approach that has been effective in the lives of many people around the world:

Start By Reading Ten Minutes a Day. The truth of the Bible is like food for your soul. The Bible will literally become a part of you, and your hunger for God's Word will increase if you begin reading God's Word daily. If you find that ten minutes a day isn't enough to satisfy your spiritual hunger for the Word, try ten minutes in the morning and ten minutes in the evening. You may need several ten-minute feedings throughout the day.

Make sure you have a small, readable copy of the Bible that you can carry with you. Ask God to guide your reading. If you have difficulty concentrating as your read, read the Bible out loud.

Read as if God Is Speaking Directly to You. Always look for the personal application. God knows the number of hairs on your head, and he desires to make his Word come alive to you in practical, personal ways. This does not mean that you are the sole source of interpreting the Bible or that you can bend the Bible's message to fit your own life and your own ideas. Bible truths are eternal and absolute. The Bible spans all cultures, history, social levels, and occupations, all ages, races, and nationalities. But the way in which a particular passage of the Bible applies to your circumstances and your experience is unique to you each day. If a verse stands out to you in a particular way, write it down on a card and carry it with you all day. Read it over and over. Think about why the verse stood out to you.

Five Ways to Study the Bible. In addition to your daily reading of the Bible, discipline yourself to engage periodically in a more in-depth study of the Bible. Here are five approaches to Bible study:

- Word and Subject Studies. This approach to study begins with the question, "I wonder what the Bible has to say about . . . ?" The word or topic you choose is the subject of your study! Use a concordance to look up various references from Genesis to Revelation. With pencil and paper in hand, begin to look up references, and as you read each one, write down a few words that summarize what you believe to be a practical meaning or application of the verse to your life. Be sure to look up a number of verses or passages in both the Old Testament and New Testament—perhaps a dozen or more verses or passages. You may also want to look up synonyms (similar words) and antonyms (opposite words).

  Word and subject studies make great devotional studies to share with others. They reveal the nature of God and God's "opinion" on a wide variety of problems and issues.
- Journey Studies. The Bible tells the story of many journeys—both journeys of individuals and the journey of the children of God. A study of these journeys can help us see that life happens in stages . . . situations do change . . . and that no circumstance lasts forever. Life has good times and bad times. You may want to study the journeys of these men and women: Joseph, the Children of Israel as they left Egypt, Abraham and Sarah, David, Paul, and most certainly, Jesus. Journey studies lead us to an understanding that life is in constant motion and that natural life has a progression to it.
- Progression Studies. In progression studies we are concerned with progress in our spiritual lives. The Christian life must have an upward trend so that we are always growing more into the likeness of Christ, closer to God, and upward in spirit. Some very familiar passages may be read in a progressive way that reveals growth toward spiritual maturity, including the Beatitude portion of the Sermon on the Mount (Matt. 5:3–12), Psalm 22–24 (which gives insight into Jesus as our Shepherd), Galatians 5:22–23 (one character trait gives rise to the next as we bear the fruit of the Spirit), Ephesians 3:14–19 (a spiritual progression for those who pray with boldness and confidence), 1 Thessalonians 5:16–18 (for those who are living in the day of the Lord's return). As you engage in a progression study, read the whole before dissecting the parts. Look for a strong relationship among the verses—don't contrive a relationship that doesn't exist; check your progression with other Scriptures; keep in mind that the last verse or last passage must bring you closer to Jesus than the first.
- Type and Shadow Studies. A rewarding way to study the Old Testament is to look for the people, objects, and events that cast spiritual shadows. These studies reflect "types" of experiences and events that happen to us on a spiritual level today. In themselves, the stories are about Old Testament people and events. The shadows of these stories tell us more about God, outlining for us the nature and working of God on the spiritual level. As such, they tell us a great deal about our spiritual selves and help us understand our spiritual purpose. Type and shadow studies reveal the interplay of the Holy Spirit and Jesus in our lives as we make the steps.

  How do these studies differ from Journey and Progression studies?
- Journey studies show how God works in our natural lives; type and shadow studies, in contrast, show us the master plan for our lives in the context of eternity.

- Progression studies make us aware of the steps that occur in spiritual growth. A type and shadow study, in contrast, tells us how these steps occur and why.

  The story of Ruth (Book of Ruth) is a good story for type and shadow studies. (Ask: who is Ruth? Who is Boaz? Who is Naomi?) The way in which God dealt with the Children of Israel in the Book of Deuteronomy makes a good type-and-shadow study, as do the stories of Esther, Jonah, and Job.
- Symbol Studies. The Bible has many symbols, including numbers, colors, and tangible objects used as symbols in various places. In many cases, understanding a symbol is the key to understanding an entire story or teaching. Symbols indicate eternal value, eternal meaning, and eternal reasons. For an object to be a genuine symbol, the meaning associated with that symbol must run from cover to cover in the Bible. Among the symbols that make great studies are: gold and silver, wood, crown, seals, stone vs. dust. Objects that are filled with symbols make good studies, including the Ark of the Covenant, Noah's ark, Nehemiah's wall, and Daniel's den of lions. Ask the Holy Spirit to make the meanings of the symbols known to you and be sure to check and cross-check your interpretation of a symbol to make certain that your interpretation is valid. A true symbol does not mean one thing in one place and another thing in another place—it must have a consistent meaning throughout the Bible.

The more you read and study your Bible, the more you will want to read and study it. Its spiritual riches cannot be fully mined in any one lifetime . . . that's all the more reason to begin today and continue reading and studying every day for the rest of your life!

24 And they said to Joshua, "Truly the LORD has delivered all the land into our hands, for indeed all the inhabitants of the country are fainthearted because of us."

Israel Crosses the Jordan

3 Then Joshua rose early in the morning; and they set out from Acacia Grove[a] and came to the Jordan, he and all the children of Israel, and lodged there before they crossed over. 2 So it was, after three days, that the officers went through the camp; 3 and they commanded the people, saying, "When you see the ark of the covenant of the LORD your God, and the priests, the Levites, bearing it, then you shall set out from your place and go after it. 4 Yet there shall be a space between you and it, about two thousand cubits by measure. Do not come near it, that you may know the way by which you must go, for you have not passed this way before."

5 And Joshua said to the people, "Sanctify yourselves, for tomorrow the LORD will do wonders among you." 6 Then Joshua spoke to the priests, saying, "Take up the ark of the covenant and cross over before the people."

So they took up the ark of the covenant and went before the people.

7 And the LORD said to Joshua, "This day I will begin to exalt you in the sight of all Israel, that they may know that, as I was with Moses, so I will be with you. 8 You shall command the priests who bear the ark of the covenant, saying, 'When you have come to the edge of the water of the Jordan, you shall stand in the Jordan.' "

9 So Joshua said to the children of Israel, "Come here, and hear the words of the LORD your God." 10 And Joshua said, "By this you shall know that the living God is among you, and that He will without fail drive out from before you the Canaanites and the Hittites and the Hivites and the Perizzites and the Girgashites and the Amorites and the Jebusites: 11 Behold, the ark of the covenant of the Lord of all the earth is crossing over before you into the Jordan. 12 Now therefore, take for yourselves twelve

2:24 The report of the spies reflected Rahab's words (vv. 9–11). Unlike the report of the spies who returned to Moses 40 years earlier with a report emphasizing the weakness of the Israelites and the strength of the inhabitants of the Land, this report emphasized God's strength and faithfulness to deliver the Land into the hands of His people (see Num. 13:26–33; see chart, Tale of Two Committees).

3:3 The ark of the covenant (a wooden box overlaid with gold, approximately 45″ long × 27″ wide by 27″ high) was the centerpiece of the tabernacle (see chart, The Plan of the Tabernacle). The ark contained the tablets God gave Moses on Mt. Sinai, a jar of manna, and Aaron's rod (Ex. 25:10–16; Heb. 9:4, 5; see chart, The Furniture of the Tabernacle). The "mercy seat" symbolized the presence of God and rested on top of the ark (Ex. 25:17–22). Here the priests sprinkled the sacrificial blood for the sins of the people and met God (Lev. 16:14). The bringing of the ark, which represented God's presence, before the people meant that they were about to move. As the people prepared to enter the Land, they were to follow the ark of the covenant.

3:4 Two thousand cubits was about 3,000 feet or 925 meters (one cubit equals approximately 18 inches; see chart, Money and Measurements in the Bible). The ark still functioned as a guide. The distance required emphasized the sacred nature of the ark of the covenant and also affirmed the inappropriateness of irreverent familiarity.

RAHAB A Discerning Deliverer

Rahab was obviously an intelligent woman. She showed a remarkable knowledge of the recent history of Israel as well as of what God was doing for the Israelites when they approached her country. In fact, she seemed more aware of God's intervention for Israel than Israel was (notice the similarity of her words in Josh. 2:9–11 with Josh. 1:2, 11, 13). In addition, she obtained an agreement for protection from the spies, hid them, and outsmarted her own people when they came looking for them.

Rahab also showed initiative in arranging for the deliverance of her entire family. She was a woman of great courage. Siding with the Israelites was treason, punishable by death, not only for herself but also for all her family. Once she made her decision, there was no turning back.

Finally, Rahab was a woman with spiritual insight. She recognized the disparity between Israel's God and the gods she and her people served. Israel's God was supreme—He did not share the rule in the heavens and the earth the way their gods reportedly did (Josh. 2:11). Rahab's initial confession of faith is seen in the use of the name Yahweh. Without any support or input from her world or Israel's, she claimed the covenant name God gave to Moses when the Israelites first left Egypt (Ex. 3:14). Then, again without any encouragement from others, she acted on her commitment by hiding the spies. This kind of faith was not often seen in God's people in the Old Testament, let alone from a Gentile harlot.

Rahab is a role model for making the right decisions and standing firm, even when it means going against your own peers. No wonder God wanted to honor her faith and courage by placing such a woman in the line of the Messiah. Boaz, one of the most gentle and godly men in the Old Testament, was her offspring (see Matt. 1:5 and the Book of Ruth; see chart, The Family Tree of Jesus). God honored Rahab's faith and courage by placing her in the lineage not only of Israel's great King David (Matt. 1:6) but also of Jesus, the King of Kings (Matt. 1:1).

men from the tribes of Israel, one man from every tribe. 13And it shall come to pass, as soon as the soles of the feet of the priests who bear the ark of the LORD, the Lord of all the earth, shall rest in the waters of the Jordan, that the waters of the Jordan shall be cut off, the waters that come down from upstream, and they shall stand as a heap."

14So it was, when the people set out from their camp to cross over the Jordan, with the priests bearing the ark of the covenant before the people, 15and as those who bore the ark came to the Jordan, and the feet of the priests who bore the ark dipped in the edge of the water (for the Jordan overflows all its banks during the whole time of harvest), 16that the waters which came down from upstream stood still, and rose in a heap very far away at Adam, the city that is beside Zaretan. So the waters that went down into the Sea of the Arabah, the Salt Sea, failed, and were cut off; and the people crossed over opposite Jericho. 17Then the priests who bore the ark of the covenant of the LORD stood firm on dry ground in the midst of the Jordan; and all Israel crossed over on dry ground, until all the people had crossed completely over the Jordan.

The Memorial Stones

4 And it came to pass, when all the people had completely crossed over the Jordan, that the LORD spoke to Joshua, saying: 2"Take for yourselves twelve men from the people, one man from every tribe, 3and command them, saying, 'Take for yourselves twelve stones from here, out of the midst of the Jordan, from the place where the priests' feet stood firm. You shall carry them over with you and leave them in the lodging place where you lodge tonight.' "

4Then Joshua called the twelve men whom he had appointed from the children of Israel, one man from every tribe; 5and Joshua said to them: "Cross over before the ark of the LORD your God into the midst of the Jordan, and each one of you take up a stone on his shoulder, according to the number of the tribes of the children of Israel, 6that this may be a sign among you when your children ask in time to come, saying, 'What do these stones mean to you?' 7Then you shall answer

3:14–17 Only the priests (the spiritual leaders) had to get their feet wet. Seeing the priests obey God through their obedience to Joshua was important for the people.

4:3–9 As a reminder of His miraculous provision, the Lord instructed the people to build a monument with stones taken from the riverbed they had crossed. The Hebrew text itself, according to some scholars, suggests a second monument in the river itself (v. 9). In any event, the monument was to serve as a witness of God's faithfulness to His children for future generations.

TALE OF TWO COMMITTEES

	SPIES OF MOSES (NUM. 13)	SPIES OF JOSHUA (JOSH. 2)
NUMBER:	Twelve men were chosen.	Two men were helped and perhaps inspired by a woman–Rahab.
IDENTIFICATION:	The spies were named by Moses.	The spies were chosen by Joshua.
DEBRIEFING PROCEDURE:	The spies reported directly to the people.	The spies reported directly to Joshua.
REPORT:	The enemy is "bigger than we are."	"God is bigger" than any enemy.
COMMITTEE VOTE:	Ten out of twelve agreed with the report.	100% supported the report.
DEBRIEFING REPORT:	Mission impossible!	Go for it!
ACTION TAKEN:	The people voted.	The people acted.
RESULTS:	The people wandered 40 more years.	The people settled in the Land of Promise.

them that the waters of the Jordan were cut off before the ark of the covenant of the LORD; when it crossed over the Jordan, the waters of the Jordan were cut off. And these stones shall be for a memorial to the children of Israel forever."

8And the children of Israel did so, just as Joshua commanded, and took up twelve stones from the midst of the Jordan, as the LORD had spoken to Joshua, according to the number of the tribes of the children of Israel, and carried them over with them to the place where they lodged, and laid them down there. 9Then Joshua set up twelve stones in the midst of the Jordan, in the place where the feet of the priests who bore the ark of the covenant stood; and they are there to this day.

10So the priests who bore the ark stood in the midst of the Jordan until everything was finished that the LORD had commanded Joshua to speak to the people, according to all that Moses had commanded Joshua; and the people hurried and crossed over. 11Then it came to pass, when all the people had completely crossed over, that the ark of the LORD and the priests crossed over in the presence of the people. 12And the men of Reuben, the men of Gad, and half the tribe of Manasseh crossed over armed before the children of Israel, as Moses had spoken to them. 13About forty thousand prepared for war crossed over before the LORD for battle, to the plains of Jericho. 14On that day the LORD exalted Joshua in the sight of all Israel; and they feared him, as they had feared Moses, all the days of his life.

19Now the people came up from the Jordan on the tenth day of the first month, and they camped in Gilgal on the east border of Jericho. 20And those twelve stones which they took out of the Jordan, Joshua set up in Gilgal. 21Then he spoke to the children of Israel, saying: "When your children ask their fathers in time to come, saying, 'What are these stones?' 22then you shall let your children know, saying, 'Israel crossed over this Jordan on dry land'; 23for the LORD your God dried up the waters of the Jordan before you until you had crossed over, as the LORD your God did to the Red Sea, which He dried up before us until we had crossed over, 24that all the peoples of the earth may know the hand of the LORD, that it is mighty, that you may fear the LORD your God forever."

JUSTICE — THE DESTRUCTION OF INNOCENTS

God's command to destroy everyone in these cities often troubles modern readers (Deut. 7:1–6). Two basic reasons are given for this command:

1) the inhabitants had reached the point of no return in their depravity (see Gen. 6:5, 6), and
2) if the Israelites lived beside these pagan people, they, too, would be infected with their wickedness (Ex. 34:12–16; Deut. 7:4).

In any case, Joshua was obeying a specific directive from God just as in the devastation of the Flood (Gen. 7:23) and the destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah (Gen. 19:24, 25). While the loss of innocent life is always a tragedy, at times only radical action can save, as would be true with a deadly cancer in the body. We living on this side of the Cross are much more fortunate and have the promise of ultimate victory (Rom. 8:31–39).

Even secular scholars acknowledge that the practices of these Canaanite religions are some of the most perverse recorded in history. The goddess Asherah is noted for love of murder and war. When the people wanted their gods to do something, they would sometimes enact the deed themselves. They lived in an agricultural society. To insure that Baal (the fertility god) would provide the rain (which they believed to be his semen), they practiced every imaginable sexual perversion with both male and female prostitutes as well as with animals (Ex. 22:19, 20). They did everything God hated (Lev. 18:20–24). They even threw their children into the fire as sacrifices (Lev. 18:21; Deut. 12:31). This act is a measure of their depravity, for no mother worthy of the name would willingly participate in the murder of her own child. God identified the abominations as so detestable that the land itself was defiled (Lev. 18:25).

These people had known about God (see Josh. 2:8–14). God had given them hundreds of years to change (Gen. 15:16). The destruction of the Canaanites was not ordered merely to secure the Land for Israel. God was not unjust to other nations in order to reward Israel. The pagan nations were to be destroyed because of their own wickedness. God is a God of patience and mercy, but He is also a just God (Gen. 18:25). He does what is right, however it may appear to our finite minds and limited judgment. He will judge sin because He is holy (Deut. 7:10; 9:3–5; see also Ex. 14, Justice). Some of these perplexities await final understanding from God Himself.

The Second Generation Circumcised

5 So it was, when all the kings of the Amorites who were on the west side of the Jordan, and all the kings of the Canaanites who were by the sea, heard that the LORD had dried up the waters of the Jordan from before the children of Israel until we[a] had crossed over, that their heart melted; and there was no spirit in them any longer because of the children of Israel.

2 At that time the LORD said to Joshua, "Make flint knives for yourself, and circumcise the sons of Israel again the second time." 3 So Joshua made flint knives for himself, and circumcised the sons of Israel at the hill of the foreskins.[a] 4 And this is the reason why Joshua circumcised them: All the people who came out of Egypt who were males, all the men of war, had died in the wilderness on the way, after they had come out of Egypt. 5 For all the people who came out had been circumcised, but all the people born in the wilderness, on the way as they came out of Egypt, had not been circumcised. 6 For the children of Israel walked forty years in the wilderness, till all the people who were men of war, who came out of Egypt, were consumed, because they did not obey the voice of the LORD— to whom the LORD swore that He would not show them the land which the LORD had sworn to their fathers that He would give us, "a land flowing with milk and honey."[a] 7 Then Joshua circumcised their sons whom He raised up in their place; for they were uncircumcised, because they had not been circumcised on the way.

8 So it was, when they had finished circumcising all the people, that they stayed in their places in the camp till they were healed. 9 Then the LORD said to Joshua, "This day I have rolled away the reproach of Egypt from you." Therefore the name of the place is called Gilgal[a] to this day.

10 Now the children of Israel camped in Gilgal,

5:5 Circumcision had been a covenant requirement since the time of Abraham (Gen. 17:9–14). The reason Hebrew males were not circumcised during the 40 years in the wilderness is not known, though the answer may be in the phrase "on the way," indicating that during the years of constant wandering it was not feasible. For whatever reason, clearly God intended this time as another reminder to the Israelites of their special relationship with Him (see Gen. 17, Circumcision).

5:6 The land flowing with milk and honey was not a tropical garden but rather one that was hospitable to flocks and meadows (the milk of goats and the honey of bees).

5:10–12 The reminders of God's faithfulness became apparent to the Israelites after they completed their wilderness wanderings, crossed the Jordan River, and prepared to take the city of Jericho. The "Passover" was celebrated in remem-

PREPARATION FOR LEADERSHIP

The relationship between Moses and Joshua shows a mentoring pattern for developing leadership qualities.

EARLY YEARS	• Joshua was born in slavery and oppression (Ex. 1:13). • He was among those who cried out to God for deliverance (Ex. 2:23).
THE EXODUS	• Joshua observed the plagues (Ex. 7:14—12:29). • He saw the impotency of Egypt's gods (Ex. 7:10–13). • He observed Pharaoh's humiliation (Ex. 8:8–10). • He witnessed the miraculous provision of God (Num. 11:31–33).
LEADERSHIP TRAINING	• Joshua was the leader of a tribe (Num. 13:2, 8, 16). • He stood for God at the risk of his own life (Num. 14:6–10). • Though in the minority, he wholly followed God (Num. 32:11, 12). • He co-led the people (Num. 27:18–23). • He led battles (Ex. 17:9, 10).
OBSERVATION OF MOSES	• Moses delegated authority (Ex.18:17–26). • He encountered God on Mt. Sinai (Ex. 24:12, 13). • He experienced the rebellion of the people (Num. 12:1–15; 16:1–50). • He responded to complaining (Ex. 17:1–7). • He experienced frustration at the disobedience of the people (Ex. 16:25–30). • He obeyed God (Ex. 40:16–19).
TEACHING BY MOSES	• Joshua received the book written by Moses (Ex. 17:14). • He shared authority with Moses (Num. 27:18–23). • Moses gave instructions to Joshua (Josh. 1:7).
OBSERVATIONS OF JOSHUA'S PREPARATION	• Joshua learned patience (40 years waiting to get into the Land). • He learned to seek God (Num. 27:15–18). • He learned to obey only God (Num. 14:8, 9). • He learned to lead (Num. 27:18–23).
GOD'S CALL	• God told Moses that Joshua was the new leader (Num. 27:15–23). • God told Joshua that he was the new leader (Josh 1:1–9). • God showed the people Joshua was the leader (Josh. 3:7). • God personally appeared to Joshua (Josh. 5:13–15).
GOD'S SPECIFIC PROMISES	• Joshua would possess every place his foot would tread (Josh. 1:3). • God would be with Joshua as He was with Moses (Josh. 1:5, 9). • No one would be able to usurp Joshua's position (Josh. 1:5). • Joshua would prosper (Josh. 1:7).
GOD'S INSTRUCTIONS	• Be strong and courageous (Josh. 1:6, 9). • Observe all Moses' commands (Josh. 1:7, 13). • Meditate on the Book day and night (Josh. 1:8). • Do not be afraid (Josh. 1:9).
PUBLIC AFFIRMATION	• The people accepted him as Moses' replacement (Josh. 1:16, 17). • They gave him their allegiance (Josh. 1:18). • Leaders (priests) responded to him (Josh. 3:8–17; 4:16–18).
JOSHUA'S LEADERSHIP	• Joshua acted quickly (Josh. 3:1). • He sent only two spies, and they reported to him (Josh. 2:1, 23). • He relayed God's promises to the people (Josh. 3:5, 8). • He set up memorials (Josh. 4:1–9). • He recognized and worshiped the real Commander (Josh. 5:13–15). • He made mistakes (Josh. 7:1–9). • He experienced God's direct involvement (Josh. 10:14). • He administered the division of Land (Josh. 13—19).
EVALUATIONS OF JOSHUA'S LEADERSHIP	• Joshua practiced immediate obedience (Josh. 11:23). • He learned from the past (Josh. 10:25). • He held to God's Word (Josh. 8:34, 35). • He taught the people the importance of God's Word (Josh. 23:6). • He read God's Word to the people (Josh. 8:35). • In victory, he praised God (Josh. 8:30). • He recognized that God fulfilled every need (Josh. 23:14). • He continually gave God the credit (Josh. 3:5, 10; 4:23, 24; 23:3). • He made a life-long commitment (Josh. 24:15).

and kept the Passover on the fourteenth day of the month at twilight on the plains of Jericho. 11And they ate of the produce of the land on the day after the Passover, unleavened bread and parched grain, on the very same day. 12Then the manna ceased on the day after they had eaten the produce of the land; and the children of Israel no longer had manna, but they ate the food of the land of Canaan that year.

The Commander of the Army of the LORD

13And it came to pass, when Joshua was by Jericho, that he lifted his eyes and looked, and behold, a Man stood opposite him with His sword drawn in His hand. And Joshua went to Him and said to Him, "Are You for us or for our adversaries?"

14So He said, "No, but as Commander of the army of the LORD I have now come."

And Joshua fell on his face to the earth and worshiped, and said to Him, "What does my Lord say to His servant?"

15Then the Commander of the LORD's army said to Joshua, "Take your sandal off your foot, for the place where you stand is holy." And Joshua did so.

The Destruction of Jericho

6 Now Jericho was securely shut up because of the children of Israel; none went out, and none came in. 2And the LORD said to Joshua: "See! I have given Jericho into your hand, its king, and the mighty men of valor. 3You shall march around the city, all you men of war; you shall go all around the city once. This you shall do six days. 4And seven priests shall bear seven trumpets of rams' horns before the ark. But the seventh day you shall march around the city seven times, and the priests shall blow the trumpets. 5It shall come to pass, when they make a long blast with the ram's horn, and when you hear the sound of the trumpet, that all the people shall shout with a great shout; then the wall of the city will fall down flat. And the people shall go up every man straight before him."

6Then Joshua the son of Nun called the priests and said to them, "Take up the ark of the covenant, and let seven priests bear seven trumpets of rams' horns before the ark of the LORD." 7And he said to the people, "Proceed, and march around the city, and let him who is armed advance before the ark of the LORD."

8So it was, when Joshua had spoken to the people, that the seven priests bearing the seven trumpets of rams' horns before the LORD advanced and blew the trumpets, and the ark of the covenant of the LORD followed them. 9The armed men went before the priests who blew the trumpets, and the rear guard came after the ark, while the priests continued blowing the trumpets. 10Now Joshua had commanded the people, saying, "You shall not shout or make any noise with your voice, nor shall a word proceed out of your mouth, until the day I say to you, 'Shout!' Then you shall shout." 11So he had the ark of the LORD circle the city, going around it once. Then they came into the camp and lodged in the camp.

12And Joshua rose early in the morning, and the priests took up the ark of the LORD. 13Then seven priests bearing seven trumpets of rams' horns before the ark of the LORD went on continually and blew with the trumpets. And the armed men went before them. But the rear guard came after the ark of the LORD, while the priests continued blowing the trumpets. 14And the second day they marched around the city once and returned to the camp. So they did six days.

15But it came to pass on the seventh day that they rose early, about the dawning of the day, and marched around the city seven times in the same manner. On that day only they marched around the city seven times. 16And the seventh time it happened, when the priests blew the trumpets, that Joshua said to the people: "Shout, for the LORD has given you the city! 17Now the city shall be doomed by the LORD to destruction, it and all who are in it. Only Rahab the harlot shall live, she and all who are with her in the house, because she hid the messengers that we sent. 18And you, by all means abstain from the accursed things, lest you brance of their deliverance from slavery in Egypt (see chart, The Feasts of Israel). As they ate the "produce of the land," surely they must have marveled that God timed their arrival in Canaan during a season when the Land would support them. As they ate of the Land's abundance, the "manna ceased." This miraculous provision of food, gathered each morning, had been a daily reminder that God fulfilled His promises.

5:13–15 The visitation to Joshua is similar to Moses' experience at the burning bush (Ex. 3:2–8). In the appearances to both men, the Lord pronounced the ground "holy" and instructed them to remove their sandals (Josh. 5:15). Joshua would have recognized the scenario immediately and understood this theophany (a visible appearance of God in bodily form) as another affirmation of his appointment as Moses' successor. The presence of this divine Commander had been promised 40 years earlier (Ex. 23:20; Josh. 1:9).

6:5 Conquering a walled city usually required breaching the walls or laying siege until the inhabitants exhausted their food and water supplies (a process often taking months). But God displayed His power to the Israelites by leveling the walls that had frightened their fathers 40 years earlier (Num. 13:28).

6:8–16 The psychological warfare is ingenious. The residents of Jericho already were paralyzed with fear. In addition, for six days they watched this fearsome people, led by the ark, symbolizing God's presence, march daily around their city with only trumpet blasts piercing the silence. Imagine how they felt on the seventh day when the process was repeated over and over!

become accursed when you take of the accursed things, and make the camp of Israel a curse, and trouble it. 19But all the silver and gold, and vessels of bronze and iron, are consecrated to the LORD; they shall come into the treasury of the LORD."

20So the people shouted when the priests blew the trumpets. And it happened when the people heard the sound of the trumpet, and the people shouted with a great shout, that the wall fell down flat. Then the people went up into the city, every man straight before him, and they took the city. 21And they utterly destroyed all that was in the city, both man and woman, young and old, ox and sheep and donkey, with the edge of the sword.

22But Joshua had said to the two men who had spied out the country, "Go into the harlot's house, and from there bring out the woman and all that she has, as you swore to her." 23And the young men who had been spies went in and brought out Rahab, her father, her mother, her brothers, and all that she had. So they brought out all her relatives and left them outside the camp of Israel. 24But they burned the city and all that was in it with fire. Only the silver and gold, and the vessels of bronze and iron, they put into the treasury of the house of the LORD. 25And Joshua spared Rahab the harlot, her father's household, and all that she had. So she dwells in Israel to this day, because she hid the messengers whom Joshua sent to spy out Jericho.

devoting these spoils to a deity. To covet and take what had been devoted to God was sin and would have far-reaching consequences. A consistent OT theme is the effect of an individual's sin on the family, the community, and even an entire nation (see Josh. 7:10–26; chart, Temptation: The Analysis of a Successful Trap). When a nation comes under judgment and even innocents are destroyed, its people have themselves to blame and not God (Amos 2:4). The booty was not important to God but rather the obedience of His people. He did not demand the spoils from all the cities (Josh. 8:2). But the booty of Jericho, the first victory, was considered the firstfruits. The firstfruits were to be given to Him in acknowledgment that all comes from Him (Ex. 23:19; 34:19, 26).

6:23 Rahab was willing to give up her pagan gods and turn to the one true God. She is listed among the heroes of faith (Heb. 11:31; see Josh. 2, Rahab).

[26]Then Joshua charged them at that time, saying, "Cursed be the man before the LORD who rises up and builds this city Jericho; he shall lay its foundation with his firstborn, and with his youngest he shall set up its gates."

[27]So the LORD was with Joshua, and his fame spread throughout all the country.

Defeat at Ai

7 But the children of Israel committed a trespass regarding the accursed things, for Achan the son of Carmi, the son of Zabdi,[a] the son of Zerah, of the tribe of Judah, took of the accursed things; so the anger of the LORD burned against the children of Israel.

[2]Now Joshua sent men from Jericho to Ai, which is beside Beth Aven, on the east side of Bethel, and spoke to them, saying, "Go up and spy out the country." So the men went up and spied out Ai. [3]And they returned to Joshua and said to him, "Do not let all the people go up, but let about two or three thousand men go up and attack Ai. Do not weary all the people there, for the people of Ai are few." [4]So about three thousand men went up there from the people, but they fled before the men of Ai. [5]And the men of Ai struck down about thirty-six men, for they chased them from before the gate as far as Shebarim, and struck them down on the descent; therefore the hearts of the people melted and became like water.

[6]Then Joshua tore his clothes, and fell to the earth on his face before the ark of the LORD until evening, he and the elders of Israel; and they put dust on their heads. [7]And Joshua said, "Alas, Lord GOD, why have You brought this people over the Jordan at all—to deliver us into the hand of the Amorites, to destroy us? Oh, that we had been content, and dwelt on the other side of the Jordan! [8]O Lord, what shall I say when Israel turns its back before its enemies? [9]For the Canaanites and all the inhabitants of the land will hear it, and surround us, and cut off our name from the earth. Then what will You do for Your great name?"

The Sin of Achan

[10]So the LORD said to Joshua: "Get up! Why do you lie thus on your face? [11]Israel has sinned, and they have also transgressed My covenant which I commanded them. For they have even taken some of the accursed things, and have both stolen and deceived; and they have also put it among their own stuff. [12]Therefore the children of Israel could not stand before their enemies, but turned their backs before their enemies, because they have become doomed to destruction. Neither will I be with you anymore, unless you destroy the accursed from among you. [13]Get up, sanctify the people, and say, 'Sanctify yourselves for tomorrow, because thus says the LORD God of Israel: "There is an accursed thing in your midst, O Israel; you cannot stand before your enemies until you take away the accursed thing from among you." [14]In the morning therefore you shall be brought according to your tribes. And it shall be that the tribe which the LORD takes shall come according to families; and the family which the LORD takes shall come by households; and the household which the LORD takes shall come man by man. [15]Then it shall be that he who is taken with the accursed thing shall be burned with fire, he and all that he has, because he has transgressed the covenant of the LORD, and because he has done a disgraceful thing in Israel.' "

[16]So Joshua rose early in the morning and brought Israel by their tribes, and the tribe of Judah was taken. [17]He brought the clan of Judah, and he took the family of the Zarhites; and he brought the family of the Zarhites man by man, and Zabdi was taken. [18]Then he brought his household man by man, and Achan the son of Carmi, the son of Zabdi, the son of Zerah, of the tribe of Judah, was taken.

[19]Now Joshua said to Achan, "My son, I beg you, give glory to the LORD God of Israel, and make confession to Him, and tell me now what you have done; do not hide it from me."

7:1 [a]Called Zimri in 1 Chronicles 2:6

6:26 To sacrifice a firstborn child at the founding of a city was not uncommon for ancient pagans. Joshua's prediction came true in the time of Ahab, one of Israel's most evil kings (see 1 Kin. 16:34, note).

7:1 Accursed things. When taking Jericho, the Israelites were commanded to spare Rahab and her family and to abstain from the things "accursed" (Heb. cherem, lit. "devoted"). The term has evolved to describe the enclosed, private apartments for women. This curse applied to Jericho was the most severe, meaning that someone and/or something was absolutely and irrevocably consecrated to destruction with no possibility of redemption (Lev. 27:28, 29). The experience of Achan illustrates how the sin of an individual has consequences for the family and community. However unfair it may seem, the wrongdoing of one does indeed affect others adversely (Deut. 5:9; Josh. 6:17–19). Individual responsibility and corporate guilt often go hand in hand (see chart, Temptation: The Analysis of a Successful Trap).

7:4–7 The path to depression is clear in this experience of Joshua at Ai (see also 1 Sam. 16, Depression). It begins with overwhelming defeat (v. 4). Defeat brought discouragement (v. 5), followed by depression (v. 6) and loss of vision (v. 7). God offered recovery: Sanctify or set yourself apart (v. 13) and do what the Lord directs you to do (Josh. 8:1).

7:19 Personal confession. Though God pointed the finger at Achan, Achan himself needed to confess his sin before the people. The expression "give glory to the LORD God of Israel" is used here and elsewhere to call for an honest confession (1 Sam. 6:5; Jer. 13:16; John 9:24).

Faith is being in advance of what only makes sense in reverse.

20 And Achan answered Joshua and said, "Indeed I have sinned against the LORD God of Israel, and this is what I have done: 21 When I saw among the spoils a beautiful Babylonian garment, two hundred shekels of silver, and a wedge of gold weighing fifty shekels, I coveted them and took them.
And there they are, hidden in the earth in the midst of my tent, with the silver under it."

22 So Joshua sent messengers, and they ran to the tent; and there it was, hidden in his tent, with the silver under it. 23 And they took them from the midst of the tent, brought them to Joshua and to all the children of Israel, and laid them out before the LORD. 24 Then Joshua, and all Israel with him, took Achan the son of Zerah, the silver, the garment, the wedge of gold, his sons, his daughters, his oxen, his donkeys, his sheep, his tent, and all that he had, and they brought them to the Valley of Achor. 25 And Joshua said, "Why have you troubled us? The LORD will trouble you this day." So all Israel stoned him with stones; and they burned them with fire after they had stoned them with stones.

26 Then they raised over him a great heap of stones, still there to this day. So the LORD turned from the fierceness of His anger. Therefore the name of that place has been called the Valley of Achor[a] to this day.

The Fall of Ai

8 Now the LORD said to Joshua: "Do not be afraid, nor be dismayed; take all the people of war with you, and arise, go up to Ai. See, I have given into your hand the king of Ai, his people, his city, and his land. 2 And you shall do to Ai and its king as you did to Jericho and its king. Only its spoil and its cattle you shall take as booty for yourselves. Lay an ambush for the city behind it."

3 So Joshua arose, and all the people of war, to go up against Ai; and Joshua chose thirty thousand mighty men of valor and sent them away by night. 4 And he commanded them, saying: "Behold, you shall lie in ambush against the city, behind the city. Do not go very far from the city, but all of you be ready. 5 Then I and all the people who are with me will approach the city; and it will come about, when they come out against us as at the first, that we shall flee before them. 6 For they will come out after us till we have drawn them from the city, for they will say, 'They are fleeing before us as at the first.' Therefore we will flee before them. 7 Then you shall rise from the ambush and seize the city, for the LORD your God will deliver it into your hand. 8 And it will be, when you have taken the city, that you shall set the city on fire.
According to the commandment of the LORD you shall do. See, I have commanded you."

9 Joshua therefore sent them out; and they went to lie in ambush, and stayed between Bethel and Ai, on the west side of Ai; but Joshua lodged that night among the people. 10 Then Joshua rose up early in the morning and mustered the people, and went up, he and the elders of Israel, before the people to Ai. 11 And all the people of war who were with him went up and drew near; and they came before the city and camped on the north side of Ai. Now a valley lay between them and Ai. 12 So he took about five thousand men and set them in ambush between Bethel and Ai, on the west side of the city. 13 And when they had set the people, all the army that was on the north of the city, and its rear guard on the west of the city, Joshua went that night into the midst of the valley.

14 Now it happened, when the king of Ai saw it, that the men of the city hurried and rose early and went out against Israel to battle, he and all his people, at an appointed place before the plain. But he did not know that there was an ambush against him behind the city. 15 And Joshua and all Israel made as if they were beaten before them, and fled by the way of the wilderness. 16 So all the people who were in Ai were called together to pursue them. And they pursued Joshua and were drawn away from the city. 17 There was not a man left in Ai or Bethel who did not go out after Israel. So they left the city open and pursued Israel.

18 Then the LORD said to Joshua, "Stretch out the spear that is in your hand toward Ai, for I will give it into your hand." And Joshua stretched out the spear that was in his hand toward the city. 19 So those in ambush arose quickly out of their place;
they ran as soon as he had stretched out his hand, and they entered the city and took it, and hurried

7:26 [a]Literally Trouble

7:24 The Valley of Achor (Heb., lit. "trouble") is so named because of Achan's sin and the consequences it brought on the Israelites. Later through the prophet Hosea, God promised to make the Valley of Achor "a door of hope" (Hos. 2:15).

8:2 The booty of Ai was not the firstfruits as in the case of Jericho (see Josh. 6:18, note); so Israel was allowed to take the booty specified. Consulting the Lord concerning each battle was important because the Lord seldom used the same method twice. He led the Israelites in psychological warfare at Jericho but used military strategy at Ai.

to set the city on fire. 20And when the men of Ai looked behind them, they saw, and behold, the smoke of the city ascended to heaven. So they had no power to flee this way or that way, and the people who had fled to the wilderness turned back on the pursuers.

21Now when Joshua and all Israel saw that the ambush had taken the city and that the smoke of the city ascended, they turned back and struck down the men of Ai. 22Then the others came out of the city against them; so they were caught in the midst of Israel, some on this side and some on that side. And they struck them down, so that they let none of them remain or escape. 23But the king of Ai they took alive, and brought him to Joshua.

24And it came to pass when Israel had made an end of slaying all the inhabitants of Ai in the field, in the wilderness where they pursued them, and when they all had fallen by the edge of the sword until they were consumed, that all the Israelites returned to Ai and struck it with the edge of the sword. 25So it was that all who fell that day, both men and women, were twelve thousand—all the people of Ai. 26For Joshua did not draw back his hand, with which he stretched out the spear, until he had utterly destroyed all the inhabitants of Ai. 27Only the livestock and the spoil of that city Israel took as booty for themselves, according to the word of the LORD which He had commanded Joshua. 28So Joshua burned Ai and made it a heap forever, a desolation to this day. 29And the king of Ai he hanged on a tree until evening. And as soon as the sun was down, Joshua commanded that they should take his corpse down from the tree, cast it at the entrance of the gate of the city, and raise over it a great heap of stones that remains to this day.

Joshua Renews the Covenant

30Now Joshua built an altar to the LORD God of Israel in Mount Ebal, 31as Moses the servant of the LORD had commanded the children of Israel, as it is written in the Book of the Law of Moses: "an altar of whole stones over which no man has wielded an iron tool."[a] And they offered on it burnt offerings to the LORD, and sacrificed peace offerings. 32And there, in the presence of the children of Israel, he wrote on the stones a copy of the law of Moses, which he had written. 33Then all Israel, with their elders and officers and judges, stood on either side of the ark before the priests, the Levites, who bore the ark of the covenant of the LORD, the stranger as well as he who was born among them. Half of them were in front of Mount Gerizim and half of them in front of Mount Ebal, as Moses the servant of the LORD had commanded before, that they should bless the people of Israel. 34And afterward he read all the words of the law, the blessings and the cursings, according to all that is written in the Book of the Law. 35There was not a word of all that Moses had commanded which Joshua did not read before all the assembly of Israel, with the women, the little ones, and the strangers who were living among them.

The Treaty with the Gibeonites

9 And it came to pass when all the kings who were on this side of the Jordan, in the hills and in the lowland and in all the coasts of the Great Sea toward Lebanon—the Hittite, the Amorite, the Canaanite, the Perizzite, the Hivite, and the Jebusite—heard about it, 2that they gathered together to fight with Joshua and Israel with one accord.

3But when the inhabitants of Gibeon heard what Joshua had done to Jericho and Ai, 4they worked craftily, and went and pretended to be ambassadors. And they took old sacks on their donkeys, old wineskins torn and mended, 5old and patched sandals on their feet, and old garments on themselves; and all the bread of their provision was dry and moldy. 6And they went to Joshua, to the camp at Gilgal, and said to him and to the men of Israel, "We have come from a far country; now therefore, make a covenant with us."

7Then the men of Israel said to the Hivites, "Perhaps you dwell among us; so how can we make a covenant with you?"

8But they said to Joshua, "We are your servants."

8:31 [a]Deuteronomy 27:5, 6

8:33 The stranger in this verse may refer to non-Israelites who had accepted Israel's God and therefore had been accepted into the Hebrew community (see also v. 35). Aliens or strangers who embraced Yahweh as God and chose to live among God's people were assimilated into the nation (1 Kin. 8:41–43).

8:34 The blessings and curses are outlined in Deuteronomy 27:1—28:68.

8:35 Two requirements were fulfilled by Joshua: the altar and its sacrifices were a visual reaffirmation of Moses' covenant (vv. 30, 31; Ex. 24:3–8), and the reading was a fulfillment of Moses' written memorial (Ex. 17:14; Josh. 1:8).

9:1, 2 The reputation of Israel's conquering army under the leadership of Joshua provided the impetus needed to unite these traditionally independent cities. From this point, Israel faced a coalition of united forces rather than one city at a time.

9:1–15 The inhabitants of Gibeon were identified as the Hivites, one of the seven nations God had promised to drive out of the Land before Israel (v. 7; Josh. 3:10; see also Deut. 7:1–2; map, The Division of the Land). The testimony of the Gibeonites provides additional evidence that the people of Canaan were not totally ignorant of God's truth (v. 9). They knew Israel was allowed to make treaties with cities that accepted peace and became Israel's servants, except for the seven nations named (Deut. 20:10, 11); so they concealed their identity to deceive Joshua and save themselves.

Goals are a joint effort process: getting in touch with our heart and setting a course; then depending on and being willing for God to direct us one step at a time.

Sheila West

And Joshua said to them, "Who are you, and where do you come from?"

9So they said to him: "From a very far country your servants have come, because of the name of the LORD your God; for we have heard of His fame, and all that He did in Egypt, 10and all that He did to the two kings of the Amorites who were beyond the Jordan—to Sihon king of Heshbon, and Og king of Bashan, who was at Ashtaroth. 11Therefore our elders and all the inhabitants of our country spoke to us, saying, 'Take provisions with you for the journey, and go to meet them, and say to them, "We are your servants; now therefore, make a covenant with us." ' 12This bread of ours we took hot for our provision from our houses on the day we departed to come to you. But now look, it is dry and moldy. 13And these wineskins which we filled were new, and see, they are torn; and these our garments and our sandals have become old because of the very long journey."

14Then the men of Israel took some of their provisions; but they did not ask counsel of the LORD. 15So Joshua made peace with them, and made a covenant with them to let them live; and the rulers of the congregation swore to them.

16And it happened at the end of three days, after they had made a covenant with them, that they heard that they were their neighbors who dwelt near them. 17Then the children of Israel journeyed and came to their cities on the third day. Now their cities were Gibeon, Chephirah, Beeroth, and Kirjath Jearim. 18But the children of Israel did not attack them, because the rulers of the congregation had sworn to them by the LORD God of Israel. And all the congregation complained against the rulers.

19Then all the rulers said to all the congregation, "We have sworn to them by the LORD God of Israel; now therefore, we may not touch them. 20This we will do to them: We will let them live, lest wrath be upon us because of the oath which we swore to them." 21And the rulers said to them, "Let them live, but let them be woodcutters and water carriers for all the congregation, as the rulers had promised them."

22Then Joshua called for them, and he spoke to them, saying, "Why have you deceived us, saying, 'We are very far from you,' when you dwell near us? 23Now therefore, you are cursed, and none of you shall be freed from being slaves—woodcutters and water carriers for the house of my God."

24So they answered Joshua and said, "Because your servants were clearly told that the LORD your God commanded His servant Moses to give you all the land, and to destroy all the inhabitants of the land from before you; therefore we were very much afraid for our lives because of you, and have done this thing. 25And now, here we are, in your hands; do with us as it seems good and right to do to us." 26So he did to them, and delivered them out of the hand of the children of Israel, so that they did not kill them. 27And that day Joshua made them woodcutters and water carriers for the congregation and for the altar of the LORD, in the place which He would choose, even to this day.

The Sun Stands Still

10 Now it came to pass when Adoni-Zedek king of Jerusalem heard how Joshua had taken Ai and had utterly destroyed it—as he had done to Jericho and its king, so he had done to Ai and its king—and how the inhabitants of Gibeon had made peace with Israel and were among them, 2that they feared greatly, because Gibeon was a great city, like one of the royal cities, and because it was greater than Ai, and all its men were mighty. 3Therefore Adoni-Zedek king of Jerusalem sent to Hoham king of Hebron, Piram king of Jarmuth, Japhia king of Lachish, and Debir king of Eglon, saying, 4"Come up to me and help me, that we may attack Gibeon, for it has made peace with Joshua and with the children of Israel." 5Therefore the five kings of the Amorites, the king of Jerusalem, the king of Hebron, the king of Jarmuth, the king of Lachish, and the king of Eglon, gathered together and went up, they and all their armies, and camped before Gibeon and made war against it.

6And the men of Gibeon sent to Joshua at the camp at Gilgal, saying, "Do not forsake your servants; come up to us quickly, save us and help us,

9:19–20 Even though the treaty was based on deceit, the leaders of Israel were obligated to honor it since they had sworn by the Lord God of Israel. The commitment of the oath was to the Lord, not to the Gibeonites (vv. 18–20).

10:1 The five kings of the Amorites. As a result of their previous victories and the surrender of the Gibeonites, the Israelites were entrenched in the central highlands close to Jerusalem. The coalition's strategy was to recapture Gibeon because of its strategic location.

10:6–11 Gibeon's treaty with Israel required Israel to come to the aid of the Gibeonites (Josh. 9:15). God gave His people victory.

for all the kings of the Amorites who dwell in the mountains have gathered together against us."

7So Joshua ascended from Gilgal, he and all the people of war with him, and all the mighty men of valor. 8And the LORD said to Joshua, "Do not fear them, for I have delivered them into your hand; not a man of them shall stand before you." 9Joshua therefore came upon them suddenly, having marched all night from Gilgal. 10So the LORD routed them before Israel, killed them with a great slaughter at Gibeon, chased them along the road that goes to Beth Horon, and struck them down as far as Azekah and Makkedah. 11And it happened, as they fled before Israel and were on the descent of Beth Horon, that the LORD cast down large hailstones from heaven on them as far as Azekah, and they died. There were more who died from the hailstones than the children of Israel killed with the sword.

12Then Joshua spoke to the LORD in the day when the LORD delivered up the Amorites before the children of Israel, and he said in the sight of Israel:

"Sun, stand still over Gibeon;
And Moon, in the Valley of Aijalon." 13So the sun stood still,
And the moon stopped,
Till the people had revenge
Upon their enemies.

Is this not written in the Book of Jasher? So the sun stood still in the midst of heaven, and did not hasten to go down for about a whole day. 14And there has been no day like that, before it or after it, that the LORD heeded the voice of a man; for the LORD fought for Israel.

15Then Joshua returned, and all Israel with him, to the camp at Gilgal.

The Amorite Kings Executed

16But these five kings had fled and hidden themselves in a cave at Makkedah. 17And it was told Joshua, saying, "The five kings have been found hidden in the cave at Makkedah."

18So Joshua said, "Roll large stones against the mouth of the cave, and set men by it to guard them. 19And do not stay there yourselves, but pursue your enemies, and attack their rear guard. Do not allow them to enter their cities, for the LORD your God has delivered them into your hand."

20Then it happened, while Joshua and the children of Israel made an end of slaying them with a very great slaughter, till they had finished, that those who escaped entered fortified cities. 21And all the people returned to the camp, to Joshua at Makkedah, in peace.

No one moved his tongue against any of the children of Israel.

22Then Joshua said, "Open the mouth of the cave, and bring out those five kings to me from the cave." 23And they did so, and brought out those five kings to him from the cave: the king of Jerusalem, the king of Hebron, the king of Jarmuth, the king of Lachish, and the king of Eglon.

24So it was, when they brought out those kings to Joshua, that Joshua called for all the men of Israel, and said to the captains of the men of war who went with him, "Come near, put your feet on the necks of these kings." And they drew near and put their feet on their necks. 25Then Joshua said to them, "Do not be afraid, nor be dismayed; be strong and of good courage, for thus the LORD will do to all your enemies against whom you fight." 26And afterward Joshua struck them and killed them, and hanged them on five trees; and they were hanging on the trees until evening. 27So it was at the time of the going down of the sun that Joshua commanded, and they took them down from the trees, cast them into the cave where they had been hidden, and laid large stones against the cave's mouth, which remain until this very day.

Conquest of the Southland

28On that day Joshua took Makkedah, and struck it and its king with the edge of the sword. He utterly destroyed them[a]—all the people who were in it. He let none remain. He also did to the king of Makkedah as he had done to the king of Jericho.

29Then Joshua passed from Makkedah, and all Israel with him, to Libnah; and they fought against Libnah. 30And the LORD also delivered it and its king into the hand of Israel; he struck it and all the people who were in it with the edge of the sword. He let none remain in it, but did to its king as he had done to the king of Jericho.

10:28 [a]Following Masoretic Text and most authorities; many Hebrew manuscripts, some manuscripts of the Septuagint, and some manuscripts of the Targum read it.

10:12–14 Joshua's longest day. One of God's most spectacular miracles is cited also in the Book of Jasher, a piece of Hebrew poetic literature chronicling Israel's victories that is now lost (see 2 Sam. 1:18). Subsequent verses give strategic and military details of the battle. Exact details on the inner workings of the miracle are not recorded. Perhaps the earth tilted so that Israel would experience a northern-type long day, or the rotation of the earth may have slowed. Numerous details about the battle are noted: the extent of Israel's march, their attack and pursuit, the names of battle sites, the names of kings, a description of the hailstorm. The supplying of such details shows that this is not mere legend but an actual military debriefing. We do know these three things about the miracle of the sun standing still: nothing like this ever happened before or after; God was responsible for whatever transpired; and He acted because Joshua called upon Him for help.

We are not interested in the possibilities of defeat.

31Then Joshua passed from Libnah, and all Israel with him, to Lachish; and they encamped against it and fought against it. 32And the LORD delivered Lachish into the hand of Israel, who took it on the second day, and struck it and all the people who were in it with the edge of the sword, according to all that he had done to Libnah. 33Then Horam king of Gezer came up to help Lachish; and Joshua struck him and his people, until he left him none remaining.

34From Lachish Joshua passed to Eglon, and all Israel with him; and they encamped against it and fought against it. 35They took it on that day and struck it with the edge of the sword; all the people who were in it he utterly destroyed that day, according to all that he had done to Lachish.

36So Joshua went up from Eglon, and all Israel with him, to Hebron; and they fought against it. 37And they took it and struck it with the edge of the sword—its king, all its cities, and all the people who were in it; he left none remaining, according to all that he had done to Eglon, but utterly destroyed it and all the people who were in it.

38Then Joshua returned, and all Israel with him, to Debir; and they fought against it. 39And he took it and its king and all its cities; they struck them with the edge of the sword and utterly destroyed all the people who were in it. He left none remaining; as he had done to Hebron, so he did to Debir and its king, as he had done also to Libnah and its king.

40So Joshua conquered all the land: the mountain country and the South[a] and the lowland and the wilderness slopes, and all their kings; he left none remaining, but utterly destroyed all that breathed, as the LORD God of Israel had commanded. 41And Joshua conquered them from Kadesh Barnea as far as Gaza, and all the country of Goshen, even as far as Gibeon. 42All these kings and their land Joshua took at one time, because the LORD God of Israel fought for Israel. 43Then Joshua returned, and all Israel with him, to the camp at Gilgal.

The Northern Conquest

11 And it came to pass, when Jabin king of Hazor heard these things, that he sent to Jobab king of Madon, to the king of Shimron, to the king of Achshaph, 2and to the kings who were from the north, in the mountains, in the plain south of Chinneroth, in the lowland, and in the heights of Dor on the west, 3to the Canaanites in the east and in the west, the Amorite, the Hittite, the Perizzite, the Jebusite in the mountains, and the Hivite below Hermon in the land of Mizpah. 4So they went out, they and all their armies with them, as many people as the sand that is on the seashore in multitude, with very many horses and chariots. 5And when all these kings had met together, they came and camped together at the waters of Merom to fight against Israel.

6But the LORD said to Joshua, "Do not be afraid because of them, for tomorrow about this time I will deliver all of them slain before Israel. You shall hamstring their horses and burn their chariots with fire." 7So Joshua and all the people of war with him came against them suddenly by the waters of Merom, and they attacked them. 8And the LORD delivered them into the hand of Israel, who defeated them and chased them to Greater Sidon, to the Brook Misrephoth,[a] and to the Valley of Mizpah eastward; they attacked them until they left none of them remaining. 9So Joshua did to them as the LORD had told him: he hamstrung their horses and burned their chariots with fire.

10Joshua turned back at that time and took Hazor, and struck its king with the sword; for Hazor was formerly the head of all those kingdoms. 11And they struck all the people who were in it with the edge of the sword, utterly destroying them. There was none left breathing. Then he burned Hazor with fire.

12So all the cities of those kings, and all their kings, Joshua took and struck with the edge of the sword. He utterly destroyed them, as Moses the servant of the LORD had commanded. 13But as for

10:40 [a]Hebrew Negev, and so throughout this book 11:8 [a]Hebrew Misrephoth Maim

10:40 Joshua conquered all the Land. This summary statement indicated that by the taking of certain strategically located cities, Israel gained a measure of control over the southern region. Full political control would take place much later under King David.

11:1 Hazor was much more formidable than any of the previous cities (see map, The Division of Land). Located ten miles north of the Sea of Chinnereth (later Sea of Galilee), Hazor covered at least 200 acres (compared with Jericho's approximately seven acres). It had massive walls and was surrounded by a fortified ditch. Conquering Hazor was essential to the conquest of the northern portion of the country. Recent archaeological excavations at Hazor have uncovered a wide variety of Canaanite structures.

the cities that stood on their mounds,[a] Israel burned none of them, except Hazor only, which Joshua burned. 14And all the spoil of these cities and the livestock, the children of Israel took as booty for themselves; but they struck every man with the edge of the sword until they had destroyed them, and they left none breathing. 15As the LORD had commanded Moses his servant, so Moses commanded Joshua, and so Joshua did. He left nothing undone of all that the LORD had commanded Moses.

Summary of Joshua's Conquests

16Thus Joshua took all this land: the mountain country, all the South, all the land of Goshen, the lowland, and the Jordan plain[a]—the mountains of Israel and its lowlands, 17from Mount Halak and the ascent to Seir, even as far as Baal Gad in the Valley of Lebanon below Mount Hermon. He captured all their kings, and struck them down and killed them. 18Joshua made war a long time with all those kings. 19There was not a city that made peace with the children of Israel, except the Hivites, the inhabitants of Gibeon. All the others they took in battle. 20For it was of the LORD to harden their hearts, that they should come against Israel in battle, that He might utterly destroy them, and that they might receive no mercy, but that He might destroy them, as the LORD had commanded Moses.

21And at that time Joshua came and cut off the Anakim from the mountains: from Hebron, from Debir, from Anab, from all the mountains of Judah, and from all the mountains of Israel; Joshua utterly destroyed them with their cities. 22None of the Anakim were left in the land of the children of Israel; they remained only in Gaza, in Gath, and in Ashdod.

23So Joshua took the whole land, according to all that the LORD had said to Moses; and Joshua gave it as an inheritance to Israel according to their divisions by their tribes. Then the land rested from war.

The Kings Conquered by Moses

12 These are the kings of the land whom the children of Israel defeated, and whose land they possessed on the other side of the Jordan toward the rising of the sun, from the River Arnon to Mount Hermon, and all the eastern Jordan plain: 2*One king was* Sihon king of the Amorites, who dwelt in Heshbon and ruled half of Gilead, from Aroer, which is on the bank of the River Arnon, from the middle of that river, even as far as the River Jabbok, which is the border of the Ammonites, 3and the eastern Jordan plain from the Sea of Chinneroth as far as the Sea of the Arabah (the Salt Sea), the road to Beth Jeshimoth, and southward below the slopes of Pisgah. 4*The other king was* Og king of Bashan and his territory, who was of the remnant of the giants, who dwelt at Ashtaroth and at Edrei, 5and reigned over Mount Hermon, over Salcah, over all Bashan, as far as the border of the Geshurites and the Maachathites, and over half of Gilead to the border of Sihon king of Heshbon.

6These Moses the servant of the LORD and the children of Israel had conquered; and Moses the servant of the LORD had given it as a possession to the Reubenites, the Gadites, and half the tribe of Manasseh.

The Kings Conquered by Joshua

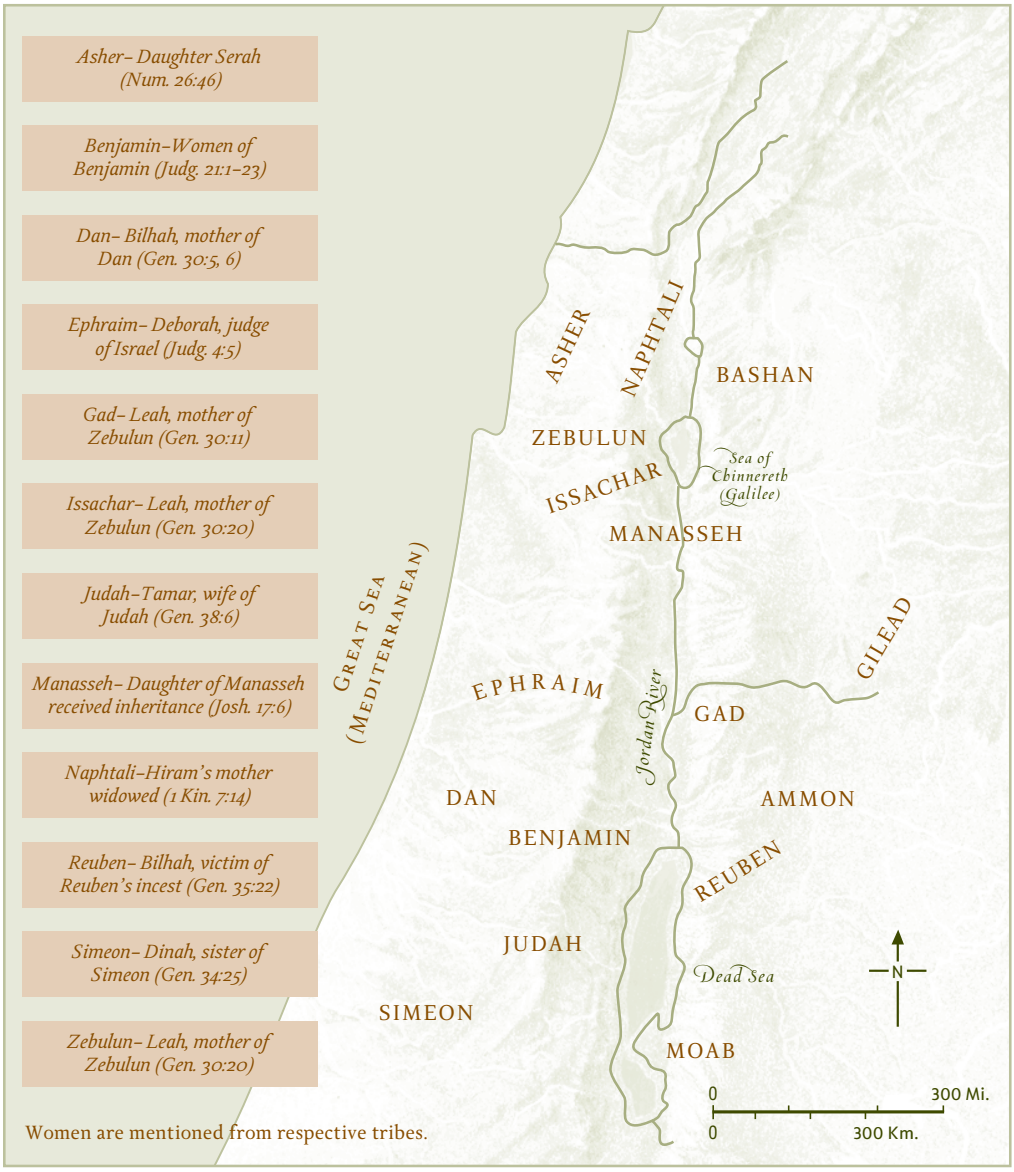
7And these are the kings of the country which Joshua and the children of Israel conquered on this side of the Jordan, on the west, from Baal Gad in the Valley of Lebanon as far as Mount Halak and the ascent to Seir, which Joshua gave to the tribes of Israel as a possession according to their divisions, 8in the mountain country, in the lowlands, in the Jordan plain, in the slopes, in the wilderness, and in the South—the Hittites, the Amorites, the Canaanites, the Perizzites, the Hivites, and the Jebusites: 9the king of Jericho, one; the king of Ai, which is beside Bethel, one; 10the king of Jerusalem, one; the king of Hebron, one; 11the king of Jarmuth, one; the king of Lachish, one; 12the king of Eglon, one; the king of Gezer, one; 13the king of Debir, one; the king of Geder, one; 14the king of Hormah, one; the king of Arad, one; 15the king of Libnah, one; the king of Adullam, one; 16the king of Makkedah, one; the king of Bethel, one; 17the king of Tappuah, one; the king of Hepher, one; 18the king of Aphek, one; the king of Lasharon, one; 19the king of Madon, one; the 11:19, 20 Instruments of judgment. When God promised the Land to Abraham, He did not instruct him to drive out or destroy the inhabitants of the Land because at that time the iniquity of the Amorites was "not yet complete" (Gen. 15:16). God was patient with the inhabitants of Canaan for hundreds of years, giving them many opportunities to repent. Yet despite the witness of God's people to the one true God and such warnings as the destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah, the sin, rebellion, and depravity of the Canaanites continued until the day came when God's judgment fell on them. God uses many instruments of judgment. In the case of the Canaanites, the instrument was the Israelite army (see Josh. 6, Justice).

11:22 The Anakim were the "giants" who frightened the Israelites 40 years earlier (Num. 13:33).

12:1–24 The leadership of Moses and Joshua (vv. 1–24) displayed the continuity of God's mission. A list of the defeated kings would be a permanent record and reminder of the reality of the conquest.

THE DIVISION OF LAND



king of Hazor, one; [20]the king of Shimron Meron, one; the king of Achshaph, one; [21]the king of Taanach, one; the king of Megiddo, one; [22]the king of Kedesh, one; the king of Jokneam in Carmel, one; [23]the king of Dor in the heights of Dor, one; the king of the people of Gilgal, one; [24]the king of Tirzah, one—all the kings, thirty-one.

Remaining Land to Be Conquered

13 Now Joshua was old, advanced in years. And the LORD said to him: "You are old, advanced in years, and there remains very much land yet to be possessed. [2]This is the land that yet remains: all the territory of the Philistines and all that of the Geshurites, [3]from Sihor, which is east of Egypt, as far as the border of Ekron northward (which is counted as Canaanite); the five lords of the Philistines—the Gazites, the Ashdodites, the Ashkelonites, the Gittites, and the Ekronites; also the Avites; 4from the south, all the land of the Canaanites, and Mearah that belongs to the Sidonians as far as Aphek, to the border of the Amorites; 5the land of the Gebalites,[a] and all Lebanon, toward the sunrise, from Baal Gad below Mount Hermon as far as the entrance to Hamath; 6all the inhabitants of the mountains from Lebanon as far as the Brook Misrephoth,[a] and all the Sidonians—them I will drive out from before the children of Israel; only divide it by lot to Israel as an inheritance, as I have commanded you. 7Now therefore, divide this land as an inheritance to the nine tribes and half the tribe of Manasseh."

The Land Divided East of the Jordan

8With the other half-tribe the Reubenites and the Gadites received their inheritance, which Moses had given them, beyond the Jordan eastward, as Moses the servant of the LORD had given them: 9from Aroer which is on the bank of the River Arnon, and the town that is in the midst of the ravine, and all the plain of Medeba as far as Dibon; 10all the cities of Sihon king of the Amorites, who reigned in Heshbon, as far as the border of the children of Ammon; 11Gilead, and the border of the Geshurites and Maachathites, all Mount Hermon, and all Bashan as far as Salcah; 12all the kingdom of Og in Bashan, who reigned in Ashtaroth and Edrei, who remained of the remnant of the giants; for Moses had defeated and cast out these.

13Nevertheless the children of Israel did not drive out the Geshurites or the Maachathites, but the Geshurites and the Maachathites dwell among the Israelites until this day.

14Only to the tribe of Levi he had given no inheritance; the sacrifices of the LORD God of Israel made by fire are their inheritance, as He said to them.

The Land of Reuben

15And Moses had given to the tribe of the children of Reuben an inheritance according to their families. 16Their territory was from Aroer, which is on the bank of the River Arnon, and the city that is in the midst of the ravine, and all the plain by Medeba; 17Heshbon and all its cities that are in the plain: Dibon, Bamoth Baal, Beth Baal Meon, 18Jahaza, Kedemoth, Mephaath, 19Kirjathaim, Sibmah, Zereth Shahar on the mountain of the valley, 20Beth Peor, the slopes of Pisgah, and Beth Jeshimoth— 21all the cities of the plain and all the kingdom of Sihon king of the Amorites, who reigned in Heshbon, whom Moses had struck with the princes of Midian: Evi, Rekem, Zur, Hur, and Reba, who were princes of Sihon dwelling in the country. 22The children of Israel also killed with the sword Balaam the son of Beor, the soothsayer, among those who were killed by them. 23And the border of the children of Reuben was the bank of the Jordan. This was the inheritance of the children of Reuben according to their families, the cities and their villages.

The Land of Gad

24Moses also had given an inheritance to the tribe of Gad, to the children of Gad according to their families. 25Their territory was Jazer, and all the cities of Gilead, and half the land of the Ammonites as far as Aroer, which is before Rabbah, 26and from Heshbon to Ramath Mizpah and Betonim, and from Mahanaim to the border of Debir, 27and in the valley Beth Haram, Beth Nimrah, Succoth, and Zaphon, the rest of the kingdom of Sihon king of Heshbon, with the Jordan as its border, as far as the edge of the Sea of Chinnereth, on the other side of the Jordan eastward. 28This is the inheritance of the children of Gad according to their families, the cities and their villages.

Half the Tribe of Manasseh (East)

29Moses also had given an inheritance to half the tribe of Manasseh; it was for half the tribe of the children of Manasseh according to their families: 30Their territory was from Mahanaim, all Bashan, all the kingdom of Og king of Bashan, and all the towns of Jair which are in Bashan, sixty cities; 31half of Gilead, and Ashtaroth and Edrei, cities of the kingdom of Og in Bashan, were for the children of Machir the son of Manasseh, for half of the children of Machir according to their families.

32These are the areas which Moses had distributed as an inheritance in the plains of Moab on the other side of the Jordan, by Jericho eastward. 33But to the tribe of Levi Moses had given no inheritance; the LORD God of Israel was their inheritance, as He had said to them.

13:5 [a]Or Giblites 13:6 [a]Hebrew Misrephoth Maim

13:2 The designation Palestine comes from the name "Philistines" (see chart, Terminology for the Land).

13:7 The land not yet conquered was to be allotted to the various tribes (see Josh. 13—21). From this point, the conquest would be carried out by the respective tribes in the allotted area of each.

13:14 The tribe of Levi was to be scattered among the people with the assignment of performing the sacrifices and teaching the Law (Deut. 33:8–10). Therefore, this tribe would not be counted among the 12 in the land division. The inheritance of Joseph was divided between two tribes named after Joseph's sons Ephraim and Manasseh, bringing the count again to 12 tribes (see chart, The Breastplate of the High Priest's Clothing).

CALEB: PORTRAIT OF A HERO

CALEB'S ACTIONS	GOD'S EVALUATION	GOD'S REWARDS
1. He sided with the Lord (Num. 14:6–10).	1. You have "a different spirit" (Num. 14:24).	1. God named Caleb as one of only two adults who left Egypt and were allowed to enter the Land of Promise (Num. 14:29, 30).
2. He was not afraid of God's enemies, even though others were (Num. 13:30–33).	2. "You have wholly followed the LORD my God" (Josh. 14:8, 9).	2. He kept Caleb alive forty more years (Josh. 14:10).
3. He risked his life rather than forsake the Lord (Num. 14:6–10).	3. You are "My servant" (Num. 14:24).	3. He preserved his energy and strength (Josh. 14:11).
4. He suffered in the wilderness because of the lack of faith of others (Num. 14:20–24, 30–38).		4. He gave Caleb victory over the Canaanites in his own territory (Josh. 15:13, 14).
5. He kept his faith and enthusiasm for God through the wilderness wandering (Josh. 14:7, 8).		5. He gave Caleb and his descendants the promised inheritance (Josh. 14:13, 14).
6. He was ready to move against God's enemies (the Anakim) forty years later (Josh. 15:14–16).

The Land Divided West of the Jordan

14 These are the areas which the children of Israel inherited in the land of Canaan, which Eleazar the priest, Joshua the son of Nun, and the heads of the fathers of the tribes of the children of Israel distributed as an inheritance to them. 2 Their inheritance was by lot, as the LORD had commanded by the hand of Moses, for the nine tribes and the half-tribe. 3 For Moses had given the inheritance of the two tribes and the half-tribe on the other side of the Jordan; but to the Levites he had given no inheritance among them. 4 For the children of Joseph were two tribes: Manasseh and Ephraim. And they gave no part to the Levites in the land, except cities to dwell in, with their common-lands for their livestock and their property. 5 As the LORD had commanded Moses, so the children of Israel did; and they divided the land.

Caleb Inherits Hebron

6 Then the children of Judah came to Joshua in Gilgal. And Caleb the son of Jephunneh the Kenizzite said to him: "You know the word which the LORD said to Moses the man of God concerning you and me in Kadesh Barnea. 7 I was forty years old when Moses the servant of the LORD sent me from Kadesh Barnea to spy out the land, and I brought back word to him as it was in my heart. 8 Nevertheless my brethren who went up with me made the heart of the people melt, but I wholly followed the LORD my God. 9 So Moses swore on that day, saying, 'Surely the land where your foot has trodden shall be your inheritance and your children's forever, because you have wholly followed the LORD my God.' 10 And now, behold, the LORD has kept me alive, as He said, these forty-five years, ever since the LORD spoke this word to Moses while Israel wandered in the wilderness; and now, here I am this day, eighty-five years old. 11 As yet I am as strong this day as on the day that Moses sent me; just as my strength was then, so now is my strength for war, both for going out and for coming in. 12 Now therefore, give me this mountain of which the LORD spoke in that day; for you heard in that day how the Anakim were there,

14:1 Eleazar is named first because he, as priest, would have the ephod with the Urim and Thummim (see Ex. 28:15; Deut. 33:8, notes). Though the exact procedure is not clear, the Urim and Thummim apparently were sacred lots used to determine God's direction. The Israelites considered the use of lots as a way to leave the choice completely in God's hands.

ACHSAH The Clever Daughter of Caleb

Achsah, Caleb's daughter, appeared on the scene when her father offered a marriage between her and whomever was able to conquer the town Kirjath Sepher. The primary interest for everyone at that time was the land. Everything depended on it—their worship, home, food, financial and political security, and the ability to raise a family. Since it was the custom of the day for parents to arrange marriages, the offer Caleb made was not unusual.

Caleb's nephew Othniel accepted the challenge, took the Canaanite town, and won both Achsah and the portion of land promised. Yet Achsah knew their land would only be productive with a water source. Seeing the solution in the nearby springs, Achsah discussed the situation with her husband and convinced him that they needed to approach her father for help. Her approach to her father for a blessing was likely a request for a wedding present and was consistent with the blessings for weddings and families (Deut. 28:1–14).

Achsah showed interest and involvement in her inheritance, her marriage, and her future. She was not greedy, but neither was she hesitant to pursue what was needed just as the industrious woman pictured in Proverbs 31:27.

and that the cities were great and fortified. It may be that the LORD will be with me, and I shall be able to drive them out as the LORD said."

13And Joshua blessed him, and gave Hebron to Caleb the son of Jephunneh as an inheritance. 14Hebron therefore became the inheritance of Caleb the son of Jephunneh the Kenizzite to this day, because he wholly followed the LORD God of Israel. 15And the name of Hebron formerly was Kirjath Arba (Arba was the greatest man among the Anakim).

Then the land had rest from war.

The Land of Judah

15 So this was the lot of the tribe of the children of Judah according to their families:

The border of Edom at the Wilderness of Zin southward was the extreme southern boundary. 2And their southern border began at the shore of the Salt Sea, from the bay that faces southward. 3Then it went out to the southern side of the Ascent of Akrabbim, passed along to Zin, ascended on the south side of Kadesh Barnea, passed along to Hezron, went up to Adar, and went around to Karkaa. 4*From there* it passed toward Azmon and went out to the Brook of Egypt; and the border ended at the sea. This shall be your southern border.

5The east border was the Salt Sea as far as the mouth of the Jordan.

And the border on the northern quarter began at the bay of the sea at the mouth of the Jordan. 6The border went up to Beth Hoglah and passed north of Beth Arabah; and the border went up to the stone of Bohan the son of Reuben. 7Then the border went up toward Debir from the Valley of Achor, and it turned northward toward Gilgal, which is before the Ascent of Adummim, which is on the south side of the valley. The border continued toward the waters of En Shemesh and ended at En Rogel. 8And the border went up by the Valley of the Son of Hinnom to the southern slope of the Jebusite city (which is Jerusalem). The border went up to the top of the mountain that lies before the Valley of Hinnom westward, which is at the end of the Valley of Rephaim[a] northward. 9Then the border went around from the top of the hill to the fountain of the water of Nephtoah, and extended to the cities of Mount Ephron. And the border went around to Baalah (which is Kirjath Jearim). 10Then the border turned westward from Baalah to Mount Seir, passed along to the side of Mount Jearim on the north (which is Chesalon), went down to Beth Shemesh, and passed on to Timnah. 11And the border went out to the side of Ekron northward. Then the border went around to Shicron, passed along to Mount Baalah, and extended to Jabneel; and the border ended at the sea.

12The west border was the coastline of the Great Sea. This is the boundary of the children of Judah all around according to their families.

Caleb Occupies Hebron and Debir

13Now to Caleb the son of Jephunneh he gave a share among the children of Judah, according to

15:8 [a]Literally Giants

15:1 The tribe of Judah was not the largest, nor was Judah the eldest son of Jacob. However, a line of kings, beginning with David and ending with Christ, the King of Kings, came from this tribe (Gen. 49:10).

15:4 The Brook of Egypt was a stream that ran into the Mediterranean and served as the southern boundary between Judah's inheritance and Egypt. The sea (or Great Sea, v. 12) is the Mediterranean (see map, The Division of Land).

the commandment of the LORD to Joshua, namely, Kirjath Arba, which is Hebron (Arba was the father of Anak). 14Caleb drove out the three sons of Anak from there: Sheshai, Ahiman, and Talmai, the children of Anak. 15Then he went up from there to the inhabitants of Debir (formerly the name of Debir was Kirjath Sepher).

16And Caleb said, "He who attacks Kirjath Sepher and takes it, to him I will give Achsah my daughter as wife." 17So Othniel the son of Kenaz, the brother of Caleb, took it; and he gave him Achsah his daughter as wife. 18Now it was so, when she came to him, that she persuaded him to ask her father for a field. So she dismounted from her donkey, and Caleb said to her, "What do you wish?" 19She answered, "Give me a blessing; since you have given me land in the South, give me also springs of water." So he gave her the upper springs and the lower springs.

The Cities of Judah

20This was the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Judah according to their families:

21The cities at the limits of the tribe of the children of Judah, toward the border of Edom in the South, were Kabzeel, Eder, Jagur, 22Kinah, Dimonah, Adadah, 23Kedesh, Hazor, Ithnan, 24Ziph, Telem, Bealoth, 25Hazor, Hadattah, Kerioth, Hezron (which is Hazor), 26Amam, Shema, Moladah, 27Hazar Gaddah, Heshmon, Beth Pelet, 28Hazar Shual, Beersheba, Bizjothjah, 29Baalah, Ijim, Ezem, 30Eltolad, Chesil, Hormah, 31Ziklag, Madmannah, Sansannah, 32Lebaoth, Shilhim, Ain, and Rimmon: all the cities are twenty-nine, with their villages.

33In the lowland: Eshtaol, Zorah, Ashnah, 34Zanoah, En Gannim, Tappuah, Enam, 35Jarmuth, Adullam, Socoh, Azekah, 36Sharaim, Adithaim, Gederah, and Gederothaim: fourteen cities with their villages; 37Zenan, Hadashah, Migdal Gad, 38Dilean, Mizpah, Joktheel, 39Lachish, Bozkath, Eglon, 40Cabbon, Lahmas,[a] Kithlish, 41Gederoth, Beth Dagon, Naamah, and Makkedah: sixteen cities with their villages; 42Libnah, Ether, Ashan, 43Jiphtah, Ashnah, Nezib, 44Keilah, Achzib, and Mareshah: nine cities with their villages; 45Ekron, with its towns and villages; 46from Ekron to the sea, all that lay near Ashdod, with their villages; 47Ashdod with its towns and villages, Gaza with its towns and villages—as far as the Brook of Egypt and the Great Sea with its coastline.

48And in the mountain country: Shamir, Jattir, Sochoh, 49Dannah, Kirjath Sannah (which is Debir), 50Anab, Eshtemoh, Anim, 51Goshen, Holon, and Giloh: eleven cities with their villages; 52Arab, Dumah, Eshean, 53Janum, Beth Tappuah, Aphekah, 54Humtah, Kirjath Arba (which is Hebron), and Zior: nine cities with their villages; 55Maon, Carmel, Ziph, Juttah, 56Jezreel, Jokdeam, Zanoah, 57Kain, Gibeah, and Timnah: ten cities with their villages; 58Halhul, Beth Zur, Gedor, 59Maarath, Beth Anoth, and Eltekon: six cities with their villages; 60Kirjath Baal (which is Kirjath Jearim) and Rabbah: two cities with their villages.

61In the wilderness: Beth Arabah, Middin, Secacah, 62Nibshan, the City of Salt, and En Gedi: six cities with their villages.

63As for the Jebusites, the inhabitants of Jerusalem, the children of Judah could not drive them out; but the Jebusites dwell with the children of Judah at Jerusalem to this day.

Ephraim and West Manasseh

16 The lot fell to the children of Joseph from the Jordan, by Jericho, to the waters of Jericho on the east, to the wilderness that goes up from Jericho through the mountains to Bethel, 2then went out from Bethel to Luz,[a] passed along to the border of the Archites at Ataroth, 3and went down westward to the boundary of the Japhletites, as far as the boundary of Lower Beth Horon to Gezer; and it ended at the sea.

4So the children of Joseph, Manasseh and Ephraim, took their inheritance.

The Land of Ephraim

5The border of the children of Ephraim, according to their families, was thus: The border of their inheritance on the east side was Ataroth Addar as far as Upper Beth Horon.

6And the border went out toward the sea on the north side of Michmethath; then the border went around eastward to Taanath Shiloh, and passed by it on the east of Janohah. 7Then it went 15:40 [a]Or Lahmam 16:2 [a]Septuagint reads Bethel (that is, Luz).

15:18, 19 Caleb apparently reared his family well (see chart, Caleb: Portrait of a Hero). His daughter Achsah was not afraid to speak up, and her forthrightness was rewarded (see Achsah). Othniel, Caleb's nephew, became Achsah's husband, and later was one of the judges of Israel (Judg. 1:12–15; 3:9–11; see chart, The Period of the Judges).

15:63 The final conquest of Jerusalem occurred under King David, several hundred years later (see 2 Sam. 5:6, 7). The Book of Joshua combines victories and failures in a natural way. The rewards of obedience and penalties for disobedience are clear (see chart, Models of Obedience and Disobedience). God responds to the cries of His people, but He is not subject to them.

16:1 The descendants of Joseph drew one lot, but the land was divided between the tribes of Joseph's two sons, Ephraim and Manasseh. Jacob, Joseph's father, had regarded the two sons of Joseph as his own (Gen. 48:5), bringing the count of the territories to 12, since the Levites did not inherit a specific area (see Josh. 13:14, note).

down from Janohah to Ataroth and Naarah,[a] reached to Jericho, and came out at the Jordan.

8The border went out from Tappuah westward to the Brook Kanah, and it ended at the sea. This was the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Ephraim according to their families. 9The separate cities for the children of Ephraim were among the inheritance of the children of Manasseh, all the cities with their villages.

10And they did not drive out the Canaanites who dwelt in Gezer; but the Canaanites dwell among the Ephraimites to this day and have become forced laborers.

The Other Half-Tribe of Manasseh (West)

17 There was also a lot for the tribe of Manasseh, for he was the firstborn of Joseph: namely for Machir the firstborn of Manasseh, the father of Gilead, because he was a man of war; therefore he was given Gilead and Bashan. 2And there was a lot for the rest of the children of Manasseh according to their families: for the children of Abiezer,[a] the children of Helek, the children of Asriel, the children of Shechem, the children of Hepher, and the children of Shemida; these were the male children of Manasseh the son of Joseph according to their families.

3But Zelophehad the son of Hepher, the son of Gilead, the son of Machir, the son of Manasseh, had no sons, but only daughters. And these are the names of his daughters: Mahlah, Noah, Hoglah, Milcah, and Tirzah. 4And they came near before Eleazar the priest, before Joshua the son of Nun, and before the rulers, saying, "The LORD commanded Moses to give us an inheritance among our brothers." Therefore, according to the commandment of the LORD, he gave them an inheritance among their father's brothers. 5Ten shares fell to Manasseh, besides the land of Gilead and Bashan, which were on the other side of the Jordan, 6because the daughters of Manasseh received an inheritance among his sons; and the rest of Manasseh's sons had the land of Gilead.

10Southward it was Ephraim's, northward it was Manasseh's, and the sea was its border. Manasseh's territory was adjoining Asher on the north and Issachar on the east. 11And in Issachar and in Asher, Manasseh had Beth Shean and its towns, Ibleam and its towns, the inhabitants of Dor and its towns, the inhabitants of En Dor and its towns, the inhabitants of Taanach and its towns, and the inhabitants of Megiddo and its towns—three hilly regions. 12Yet the children of Manasseh could not drive out the inhabitants of those cities, but the Canaanites were determined to dwell in that land. 13And it happened, when the children of Israel grew strong, that they put the Canaanites to forced labor, but did not utterly drive them out.

More Land for Ephraim and Manasseh

14Then the children of Joseph spoke to Joshua, saying, "Why have you given us only one lot and one share to inherit, since we are a great people, inasmuch as the LORD has blessed us until now?"

15So Joshua answered them, "If you are a great people, then go up to the forest country and clear a place for yourself there in the land of the Perizzites and the giants, since the mountains of Ephraim are too confined for you."

16But the children of Joseph said, "The mountain country is not enough for us; and all the Canaanites who dwell in the land of the valley have chariots of iron, both those who are of Beth Shean and its towns and those who are of the Valley of Jezreel."

17And Joshua spoke to the house of Joseph—to Ephraim and Manasseh—saying, "You are a great people and have great power; you shall not have only one lot, 18but the mountain country shall be yours. Although it is wooded, you shall cut it down, and its farthest extent shall be yours; for you shall drive out the Canaanites, though they have iron chariots and are strong."

The Remainder of the Land Divided

18 Now the whole congregation of the children of Israel assembled together at Shiloh, and

16:7 [a]Or Naaran (compare 1 Chronicles 7:28) 17:2 [a]Called Jeezer in Numbers 26:30

17:3, 4 See Num. 26, Daughters of Zelophehad; 27:1–4, 5–7; 36:1–12, notes.

17:14–18 The descendants of Joseph approached Joshua with two problems: They faced the iron chariots of the Canaanites, and they expressed the need for more land because of their size. Their allotment was already one of the largest as well as being in one of the most fertile regions, but it did include a large mountain range. Joshua turned their argument around and suggested that they could best drive out the Canaanites and clear the mountain ranges precisely because their tribe was so large.

18:1 The camp was moved from Gilgal on the fringe of the inheritance to the center at Shiloh (modern Khirbet Seilun about 12 miles south of Shechem). Moving the ark of the covenant and setting up the tabernacle of meeting indicated the certainty of conquest and symbolized unification under God's presence as the tribes began settling the Land.

Even Christians struggle with negative fear, but I believe it's possible to turn fear into faith, renewed confidence, and positive action.

set up the tabernacle of meeting there. And the land was subdued before them. 2But there remained among the children of Israel seven tribes which had not yet received their inheritance.

3Then Joshua said to the children of Israel: "How long will you neglect to go and possess the land which the LORD God of your fathers has given you? 4Pick out from among you three men for each tribe, and I will send them; they shall rise and go through the land, survey it according to their inheritance, and come back to me. 5And they shall divide it into seven parts. Judah shall remain in their territory on the south, and the house of Joseph shall remain in their territory on the north. 6You shall therefore survey the land in seven parts and bring the survey here to me, that I may cast lots for you here before the LORD our God. 7But the Levites have no part among you, for the priesthood of the LORD is their inheritance. And Gad, Reuben, and half the tribe of Manasseh have received their inheritance beyond the Jordan on the east, which Moses the servant of the LORD gave them."

8Then the men arose to go away; and Joshua charged those who went to survey the land, saying, "Go, walk through the land, survey it, and come back to me, that I may cast lots for you here before the LORD in Shiloh." 9So the men went, passed through the land, and wrote the survey in a book in seven parts by cities; and they came to Joshua at the camp in Shiloh. 10Then Joshua cast lots for them in Shiloh before the LORD, and there Joshua divided the land to the children of Israel according to their divisions.

The Land of Benjamin

11Now the lot of the tribe of the children of Benjamin came up according to their families, and the territory of their lot came out between the children of Judah and the children of Joseph. 12Their border on the north side began at the Jordan, and the border went up to the side of Jericho on the north, and went up through the mountains westward; it ended at the Wilderness of Beth Aven. 13The border went over from there toward Luz, to the side of Luz (which is Bethel) southward; and the border descended to Ataroth Addar, near the hill that lies on the south side of Lower Beth Horon.

14Then the border extended around the west side to the south, from the hill that lies before Beth Horon southward; and it ended at Kirjath Baal (which is Kirjath Jearim), a city of the children of Judah. This was the west side.

15The south side began at the end of Kirjath Jearim, and the border extended on the west and went out to the spring of the waters of Nephtoah. 16Then the border came down to the end of the mountain that lies before the Valley of the Son of Hinnom, which is in the Valley of the Rephaim[a] on the north, descended to the Valley of Hinnom, to the side of the Jebusite city on the south, and descended to En Rogel. 17And it went around from the north, went out to En Shemesh, and extended toward Geliloth, which is before the Ascent of Adummim, and descended to the stone of Bohan the son of Reuben. 18Then it passed along toward the north side of Arabah,[a] and went down to Arabah. 19And the border passed along to the north side of Beth Hoglah; then the border ended at the north bay at the Salt Sea, at the south end of the Jordan. This was the southern boundary.

20The Jordan was its border on the east side. This was the inheritance of the children of Benjamin, according to its boundaries all around, according to their families.

21Now the cities of the tribe of the children of Benjamin, according to their families, were Jericho, Beth Hoglah, Emek Keziz, 22Beth Arabah, Zemaraim, Bethel, 23Avim, Parah, Ophrah, 24Chephar Haammoni, Ophni, and Gaba: twelve cities with their villages; 25Gibeon, Ramah, Beeroth, 26Mizpah, Chephirah, Mozah, 27Rekem, Irpeel, Taralah, 28Zelah, Eleph, Jebus (which is Jerusalem), Gibeath, and Kirjath: fourteen cities with their villages. This was the inheritance of the children of Benjamin according to their families.

Simeon's Inheritance with Judah

19 The second lot came out for Simeon, for the tribe of the children of Simeon according to their families. And their inheritance was within

18:16 [a]Literally Giants 18:18 [a]Or Beth Arabah (compare 15:6 and 18:22)

18:6 The casting of lots would have been done by Eleazar the priest in the presence of the ark of the covenant, establishing the results as God's choice (see Deut. 33:8, note).

18:11–28 The inheritance of Benjamin is described at length. Though Judah was the tribe of the promised line of kings, Saul, the first king of Israel, came from the tribe of Benjamin. Jerusalem, which eventually would be captured by King David and become the capital of the nation, was near the border between the territories of Benjamin and Judah.

the inheritance of the children of Judah. 2They had in their inheritance Beersheba (Sheba), Moladah, 3Hazar Shual, Balah, Ezem, 4Eltolad, Bethul, Hormah, 5Ziklag, Beth Marcaboth, Hazar Susah, 6Beth Lebaoth, and Sharuhen: thirteen cities and their villages; 7Ain, Rimmon, Ether, and Ashan: four cities and their villages; 8and all the villages that were all around these cities as far as Baalath Beer, Ramah of the South. This was the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Simeon according to their families.

9The inheritance of the children of Simeon was included in the share of the children of Judah, for the share of the children of Judah was too much for them. Therefore the children of Simeon had their inheritance within the inheritance of that people.

The Land of Zebulun

10The third lot came out for the children of Zebulun according to their families, and the border of their inheritance was as far as Sarid. 11Their border went toward the west and to Maralah, went to Dabbasheth, and extended along the brook that is east of Jokneam. 12Then from Sarid it went eastward toward the sunrise along the border of Chisloth Tabor, and went out toward Daberath, bypassing Japhia. 13And from there it passed along on the east of Gath Hepher, toward Eth Kazin, and extended to Rimmon, which borders on Neah. 14Then the border went around it on the north side of Hannathon, and it ended in the Valley of Jiphthah El. 15Included were Kattath, Nahallal, Shimron, Idalah, and Bethlehem: twelve cities with their villages. 16This was the inheritance of the children of Zebulun according to their families, these cities with their villages.

The Land of Issachar

17The fourth lot came out to Issachar, for the children of Issachar according to their families. 18And their territory went to Jezreel, and included Chesulloth, Shunem, 19Haphraim, Shion, Anaharath, 20Rabbith, Kishion, Abez, 21Remeth, En Gannim, En Haddah, and Beth Pazzez. 22And the border reached to Tabor, Shahazimah, and Beth Shemesh; their border ended at the Jordan: sixteen cities with their villages. 23This was the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Issachar according to their families, the cities and their villages.

The Land of Asher

24The fifth lot came out for the tribe of the children of Asher according to their families. 25And their territory included Helkath, Hali, Beten, Achshaph, 26Alammelech, Amad, and Mishal; it reached to Mount Carmel westward, along the Brook Shihor Libnath. 27It turned toward the sunrise to Beth Dagon; and it reached to Zebulun and to the Valley of Jiphthah El, then northward beyond Beth Emek and Neiel, bypassing Cabul which was on the left, 28including Ebron,[a] Rehob, Hammon, and Kanah, as far as Greater Sidon. 29And the border turned to Ramah and to the fortified city of Tyre; then the border turned to Hosah, and ended at the sea by the region of Achzib. 30Also Ummah, Aphek, and Rehob were included: twenty-two cities with their villages. 31This was the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Asher according to their families, these cities with their villages.

The Land of Naphtali

32The sixth lot came out to the children of Naphtali, for the children of Naphtali according to their families. 33And their border began at Heleph, enclosing the territory from the terebinth tree in Zaanannim, Adami Nekeb, and Jabneel, as far as Lakkum; it ended at the Jordan. 34From Heleph the border extended westward to Aznoth Tabor, and went out from there toward Hukkok; it adjoined Zebulun on the south side and Asher on the west side, and ended at Judah by the Jordan toward the sunrise. 35And the fortified cities are Ziddim, Zer, Hammath, Rakkath, Chinnereth, 36Adamah, Ramah, Hazor, 37Kedesh, Edrei, En Hazor, 38Iron, Migdal El, Horem, Beth Anath, and Beth Shemesh: nineteen cities with their villages. 39This was the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Naphtali according to their families, the cities and their villages.

The Land of Dan

40The seventh lot came out for the tribe of the children of Dan according to their families. 41And the territory of their inheritance was Zorah, Eshtaol, Ir Shemesh, 42Shaalabbin, Aijalon, Jethlah, 43Elon, Timnah, Ekron, 44Eltekeh, Gibbethon, Baalath, 45Jehud, Bene Berak, Gath Rimmon, 46Me Jarkon, and Rakkon, with the region near Joppa. 47And the border of the children of Dan went beyond these, because the children of Dan went up to fight against Leshem and took it; and they struck it with the edge of the sword, took possession of it, and dwelt in it. They called Leshem, Dan, after the name of Dan their father. 48This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Dan according to their families, these cities with their villages.

19:28 [a]Following Masoretic Text, Targum, and Vulgate; a few Hebrew manuscripts read Abdon (compare 21:30 and 1 Chronicles 6:74).

19:15 Bethlehem was the site east of Mount Carmel, not the Bethlehem in Judah where Jesus was born.

Joshua's Inheritance

49When they had made an end of dividing the land as an inheritance according to their borders, the children of Israel gave an inheritance among them to Joshua the son of Nun. 50According to the word of the LORD they gave him the city which he asked for, Timnath Serah in the mountains of Ephraim; and he built the city and dwelt in it.

51These were the inheritances which Eleazar the priest, Joshua the son of Nun, and the heads of the fathers of the tribes of the children of Israel divided as an inheritance by lot in Shiloh before the LORD, at the door of the tabernacle of meeting. So they made an end of dividing the country.

The Cities of Refuge

20 The LORD also spoke to Joshua, saying,
2"Speak to the children of Israel, saying: 'Appoint for yourselves cities of refuge, of which I spoke to you through Moses, 3that the slayer who kills a person accidentally or unintentionally may flee there; and they shall be your refuge from the avenger of blood. 4And when he flees to one of those cities, and stands at the entrance of the gate of the city, and declares his case in the hearing of the elders of that city, they shall take him into the city as one of them, and give him a place, that he may dwell among them. 5Then if the avenger of blood pursues him, they shall not deliver the slayer into his hand, because he struck his neighbor unintentionally, but did not hate him beforehand. 6And he shall dwell in that city until he stands before the congregation for judgment, and until the death of the one who is high priest in those days. Then the slayer may return and come to his own city and his own house, to the city from which he fled.' "

7So they appointed Kedesh in Galilee, in the mountains of Naphtali, Shechem in the mountains of Ephraim, and Kirjath Arba (which is Hebron) in the mountains of Judah. 8And on the other side of the Jordan, by Jericho eastward, they assigned Bezer in the wilderness on the plain, from the tribe of Reuben, Ramoth in Gilead, from the tribe of Gad, and Golan in Bashan, from the tribe of Manasseh. 9These were the cities appointed for all the children of Israel and for the stranger who dwelt among them, that whoever killed a person accidentally might flee there, and not die by the hand of the avenger of blood until he stood before the congregation.

Cities of the Levites

21 Then the heads of the fathers' houses of the Levites came near to Eleazar the priest, to Joshua the son of Nun, and to the heads of the fathers' houses of the tribes of the children of Israel.
2And they spoke to them at Shiloh in the land of Canaan, saying, "The LORD commanded through Moses to give us cities to dwell in, with their common-lands for our livestock." 3So the children of Israel gave to the Levites from their inheritance, at the commandment of the LORD, these cities and their common-lands:

4Now the lot came out for the families of the Kohathites. And the children of Aaron the priest, who were of the Levites, had thirteen cities by lot from the tribe of Judah, from the tribe of Simeon, and from the tribe of Benjamin. 5The rest of the children of Kohath had ten cities by lot from the families of the tribe of Ephraim, from the tribe of Dan, and from the half-tribe of Manasseh.

6And the children of Gershon had thirteen cities by lot from the families of the tribe of Is-sachar, from the tribe of Asher, from the tribe of Naphtali, and from the half-tribe of Manasseh in Bashan.

7The children of Merari according to their families had twelve cities from the tribe of Reuben, from the tribe of Gad, and from the tribe of Zebulun.

8And the children of Israel gave these cities with their common-lands by lot to the Levites, as the LORD had commanded by the hand of Moses.

9So they gave from the tribe of the children of Judah and from the tribe of the children of Simeon these cities which are designated by name, 10which were for the children of Aaron, one of the families of the Kohathites, who were of the children of Levi; for the lot was theirs first. 11And they gave them Kirjath Arba (Arba was the father of Anak), which is Hebron, in the mountains of Judah, with the common-land surrounding it. 12But the fields of the city and its villages they gave to Caleb the son of Jephunneh as his possession.

13Thus to the children of Aaron the priest they gave Hebron with its common-land (a city of refuge for the slayer), Libnah with its common-land, 14Jattir with its common-land, Eshtemoa with its common-land, 15Holon with its common-land,

19:49 The allotments began with Caleb's (Josh. 14:13) and ended with Joshua's. These were the only two men who experienced the entire saga of leaving Egypt, wandering in the wilderness, and participating in the conquest.

20:1–9 Cities of refuge were established to provide asylum for an individual who accidentally killed another (Ex. 21:12, 13; Num. 35:6–34). A distinction was to be made between willful murder and accidental killing or manslaughter (Num. 35:6–34; Deut. 19:1–13). The practice of blood revenge (often leading to long-lasting feuds) was customary in OT times.

21:1–42 The 48 cities of the Levites were scattered among all the territories because a major part of the role of the priests was to teach all the people God's Law (see Josh. 13:14, note).

Debir with its common-land, [16]Ain with its common-land, Juttah with its common-land, and Beth Shemesh with its common-land: nine cities from those two tribes; [17]and from the tribe of Benjamin, Gibeon with its common-land, Geba with its common-land, [18]Anathoth with its common-land, and Almon with its common-land: four cities. [19]All the cities of the children of Aaron, the priests, were thirteen cities with their common-lands.

[20]And the families of the children of Kohath, the Levites, the rest of the children of Kohath, even they had the cities of their lot from the tribe of Ephraim. [21]For they gave them Shechem with its common-land in the mountains of Ephraim (a city of refuge for the slayer), Gezer with its common-land, [22]Kibzaim with its common-land, and Beth Horon with its common-land: four cities; [23]and from the tribe of Dan, Eltekeh with its common-land, Gibbethon with its common-land, [24]Aijalon with its common-land, and Gath Rimmon with its common-land: four cities; [25]and from the half-tribe of Manasseh, Tanach with its common-land and Gath Rimmon with its common-land: two cities. [26]All the ten cities with their common-lands were for the rest of the families of the children of Kohath.

[27]Also to the children of Gershon, of the families of the Levites, from the other half-tribe of Manasseh, they gave Golan in Bashan with its common-land (a city of refuge for the slayer), and Be Eshterah with its common-land: two cities; [28]and from the tribe of Issachar, Kishion with its common-land, Daberath with its common-land, [29]Jarmuth with its common-land, and En Gannim with its common-land: four cities; [30]and from the tribe of Asher, Mishal with its common-land, Abdon with its common-land, [31]Helkath with its common-land, and Rehob with its common-land: four cities; [32]and from the tribe of Naphtali, Kedesh in Galilee with its common-land (a city of refuge for the slayer), Hammoth Dor with its common-land, and Kartan with its common-land: three cities. [33]All the cities of the Gershonites according to their families were thirteen cities with their common-lands.

[34]And to the families of the children of Merari, the rest of the Levites, from the tribe of Zebulun, Jokneam with its common-land, Kartah with its common-land, [35]Dimnah with its common-land, and Nahalal with its common-land: four cities; [36]and from the tribe of Reuben, Bezer with its common-land, Jahaz with its common-land, [37]Kedemoth with its common-land, and Mephaath with its common-land: four cities;[a] [38]and from the tribe of Gad, Ramoth in Gilead with its common-land (a city of refuge for the slayer), Mahanaim with its common-land, [39]Heshbon with its common-land, and Jazer with its common-land: four cities in all. [40]So all the cities for the children of Merari according to their families, the rest of the families of the Levites, were by their lot twelve cities.

[41]All the cities of the Levites within the possession of the children of Israel were forty-eight cities with their common-lands. [42]Every one of these cities had its common-land surrounding it; thus were all these cities.

The Promise Fulfilled

[43]So the LORD gave to Israel all the land of which He had sworn to give to their fathers, and they took possession of it and dwelt in it. [44]The LORD gave them rest all around, according to all that He had sworn to their fathers. And not a man of all their enemies stood against them; the LORD delivered all their enemies into their hand. [45]Not a word failed of any good thing which the LORD had spoken to the house of Israel. All came to pass.

Eastern Tribes Return to Their Lands

22 Then Joshua called the Reubenites, the Gadites, and half the tribe of Manasseh, [2]and said to them: "You have kept all that Moses the servant of the LORD commanded you, and have obeyed my voice in all that I commanded you. [3]You have not left your brethren these many days, up to this day, but have kept the charge of the commandment of the LORD your God. [4]And now the LORD your God has given rest to your brethren, as He promised them; now therefore, return and go to your tents and to the land of your possession, which Moses the servant of the LORD gave you on the other side of the Jordan. [5]But take careful heed to do the commandment and the law which Moses the servant of the LORD commanded you, to love the LORD your God, to walk in all His ways, to keep His commandments, to hold fast to Him, and to serve Him with all your heart and with all your soul." [6]So Joshua blessed them and sent them away, and they went to their tents.

21:37 [a]Following Septuagint and Vulgate (compare 1 Chronicles 6:78, 79); Masoretic Text, Bomberg, and Targum omit verses 36 and 37.

22:10–34 The move to Shiloh for the two and a half eastern tribes made immediate access to the tabernacle of meeting impossible (see Josh. 18:1, note). The Jordan River divided them from the rest of Israel (Josh. 22:25). To avoid becoming a separated people, they built an altar before God as a "witness" to their unity with the tribes on the western side of the river (v. 34). This action was misinterpreted by those on the western side. Thinking the group had already regressed into worshiping other gods, they feared God's judgment would come upon all of them again as it had when they sinned at Peor by falling into Baal worship (v. 17). Their zeal might have meant disaster if they had not followed God's plan for dealing with conflict or misunderstanding. Their action was postponed until the facts were clear (see Deut. 13:13–15).

7Now to half the tribe of Manasseh Moses had given a possession in Bashan, but to the other half of it Joshua gave a possession among their brethren on this side of the Jordan, westward. And indeed, when Joshua sent them away to their tents, he blessed them, 8and spoke to them, saying, "Return with much riches to your tents, with very much livestock, with silver, with gold, with bronze, with iron, and with very much clothing. Divide the spoil of your enemies with your brethren."
9So the children of Reuben, the children of Gad, and half the tribe of Manasseh returned, and departed from the children of Israel at Shiloh, which is in the land of Canaan, to go to the country of Gilead, to the land of their possession, which they had obtained according to the word of the LORD by the hand of Moses.

An Altar by the Jordan

10And when they came to the region of the Jordan which is in the land of Canaan, the children of Reuben, the children of Gad, and half the tribe of Manasseh built an altar there by the Jordan—a great, impressive altar. 11Now the children of Israel heard someone say, "Behold, the children of Reuben, the children of Gad, and half the tribe of Manasseh have built an altar on the frontier of the land of Canaan, in the region of the Jordan—on the children of Israel's side." 12And when the children of Israel heard of it, the whole congregation of the children of Israel gathered together at Shiloh to go to war against them.
13Then the children of Israel sent Phinehas the son of Eleazar the priest to the children of Reuben, to the children of Gad, and to half the tribe of Manasseh, into the land of Gilead, 14and with him ten rulers, one ruler each from the chief house of every tribe of Israel; and each one was the head of the house of his father among the divisions[a] of Israel. 15Then they came to the children of Reuben, to the children of Gad, and to half the tribe of Manasseh, to the land of Gilead, and they spoke with them, saying, 16"Thus says the whole congregation of the LORD: 'What treachery is this that you have committed against the God of Israel, to turn away this day from following the LORD, in that you have built for yourselves an altar, that you might rebel this day against the LORD? 17*Is* the iniquity of Peor not enough for us, from which we are not cleansed till this day, although there was a plague in the congregation of the LORD, 18but that you must turn away this day from following the LORD? And it shall be, if you rebel today against the LORD, that tomorrow He will be angry with the whole congregation of Israel. 19Nevertheless, if the land of your possession is unclean, then cross over to the land of the possession of the LORD, where the LORD's tabernacle stands, and take possession among us; but do not rebel against the LORD, nor rebel against us, by building yourselves an altar besides the altar of the LORD our God. 20Did not Achan the son of Zerah commit a trespass in the accursed thing, and wrath fell on all the congregation of Israel? And that man did not perish alone in his iniquity.' " 21Then the children of Reuben, the children of Gad, and half the tribe of Manasseh answered and said to the heads of the divisions[a] of Israel: 22"The LORD God of gods, the LORD God of gods, He knows, and let Israel itself know—if it is in rebellion, or if in treachery against the LORD, do not save us this day. 23If we have built ourselves an altar to turn from following the LORD, or if to offer on it burnt offerings or grain offerings, or if to offer peace offerings on it, let the LORD Himself require an account. 24But in fact we have done it for fear, for a reason, saying, 'In time to come your descendants may speak to our descendants, saying,
"What have you to do with the LORD God of Israel?
25For the LORD has made the Jordan a border between you and us, you children of Reuben and children of Gad. You have no part in the LORD." So your descendants would make our descendants cease fearing the LORD.' 26Therefore we said, 'Let us now prepare to build ourselves an altar, not for burnt offering nor for sacrifice, 27but that it may be a witness between you and us and our generations after us, that we may perform the service of the LORD before Him with our burnt offerings, with our sacrifices, and with our peace offerings;
that your descendants may not say to our descendants in time to come, "You have no part in the LORD." ' 28Therefore we said that it will be, when they say this to us or to our generations in time to come, that we may say, 'Here is the replica of the altar of the LORD which our fathers made, though not for burnt offerings nor for sacrifices; but it is a witness between you and us.' 29Far be it from us that we should rebel against the LORD, and turn from following the LORD this day, to build an altar for burnt offerings, for grain offerings, or for sacrifices, besides the altar of the LORD our God which is before His tabernacle." 30Now when Phinehas the priest and the rulers of the congregation, the heads of the divisions[a] of Israel who were with him, heard the words that the children of Reuben, the children of Gad, and the children of Manasseh spoke, it pleased them.
31Then Phinehas the son of Eleazar the priest said to the children of Reuben, the children of Gad, and the children of Manasseh, "This day we perceive that the LORD is among us, because you have not committed this treachery against the LORD.
Now you have delivered the children of Israel out of the hand of the LORD."

22:14, 21, 30 [a]Literally thousands

32And Phinehas the son of Eleazar the priest, and the rulers, returned from the children of Reuben and the children of Gad, from the land of Gilead to the land of Canaan, to the children of Israel, and brought back word to them. 33So the thing pleased the children of Israel, and the children of Israel blessed God; they spoke no more of going against them in battle, to destroy the land where the children of Reuben and Gad dwelt.

34The children of Reuben and the children of Gad[a] called the altar, Witness, "For it is a witness between us that the LORD is God."

Joshua's Farewell Address

23 Now it came to pass, a long time after the LORD had given rest to Israel from all their enemies round about, that Joshua was old, advanced in age. 2And Joshua called for all Israel, for their elders, for their heads, for their judges, and for their officers, and said to them:

"I am old, advanced in age. 3You have seen all that the LORD your God has done to all these nations because of you, for the LORD your God is He who has fought for you. 4See, I have divided to you by lot these nations that remain, to be an inheritance for your tribes, from the Jordan, with all the nations that I have cut off, as far as the Great Sea westward. 5And the LORD your God will expel them from before you and drive them out of your sight. So you shall possess their land, as the LORD your God promised you. 6Therefore be very courageous to keep and to do all that is written in the Book of the Law of Moses, lest you turn aside from it to the right hand or to the left, 7*and* lest you go among these nations, these who remain among you. You shall not make mention of the name of their gods, nor cause anyone to swear by them; you shall not serve them nor bow down to them, 8but you shall hold fast to the LORD your God, as you have done to this day. 9For the LORD has driven out from before you great and strong nations; but as for you, no one has been able to stand against you to this day. 10One man of you shall chase a thousand, for the LORD your God is He who fights for you, as He promised you. 11Therefore take careful heed to yourselves, that you love the LORD your God. 12Or else, if indeed you do go back, and cling to the remnant of these nations—these that remain among you—and make marriages with them, and go in to them and they to you, 13know for certain that the LORD your God will no longer drive out these nations from before you. But they shall be snares and traps to you, and scourges on your sides and thorns in your eyes, until you perish from this good land which the LORD your God has given you.

14"Behold, this day I am going the way of all the earth. And you know in all your hearts and in all your souls that not one thing has failed of all the good things which the LORD your God spoke concerning you. All have come to pass for you; not one word of them has failed. 15Therefore it shall come to pass, that as all the good things have come upon you which the LORD your God promised you, so the LORD will bring upon you all harmful things, until He has destroyed you from this good land which the LORD your God has given you. 16When you have transgressed the covenant of the LORD your God, which He commanded you, and have gone and served other gods, and bowed down to them, then the anger of the LORD will burn against you, and you shall perish quickly from the good land which He has given you."

The Covenant at Shechem

24 Then Joshua gathered all the tribes of Israel to Shechem and called for the elders of Israel, for their heads, for their judges, and for their officers; and they presented themselves before God. 2And Joshua said to all the people, "Thus says

22:34 [a]Septuagint adds and half the tribe of Manasseh.

23:2 The farewell addresses of Joshua are recorded (Josh. 23; 24). Chapter 23 may have been addressed to the leaders (v. 2), while chapter 24 was addressed to all the people (Josh. 23:2).

23:3 The secret of Joshua's success was his acknowledgment of the Lord as the great Defender of Israel. He pointed out an important principle: Faith in the Lord is rooted in historical realities. The NT teaches the same principle (John 20:30, 31).

23:6 The command to demonstrate courage in obedience has not lost its importance (Josh. 1:6, 7, 9, 18). It would require as much courage for the Israelites to stay true to the Lord in peace as it did for them to march for the Lord in war. Joshua gave the people, almost verbatim, the same instructions the Lord gave him (Josh. 1:7).

23:8 Joshua's personal commitment to the Lord is described by the words "hold fast" (Heb. davaq). The same Hebrew word appears in Genesis 2:24 where a man is instructed to leave his father and mother and to "be joined to" or "cling" to his wife in the most binding, intimate human relationship. It also describes a uniquely close relationship with the Lord (Deut. 4:4; 10:20; 11:22; 13:4).

23:14, 15 God's faithfulness is the constant theme in Joshua (Josh. 1:3; 2:24; 3:10; 10:42; 11:8; 21:43–45). Israel had seen God's faithfulness in keeping His promises; they needed to be reminded that He is also faithful in His judgment against sin.

23:16 The word covenant does not occur often in the Book of Joshua, but the idea of covenant is at the heart of all that Joshua and the Israelites experienced. Marks of the covenant are clearly recognized: the ark (Josh. 3:8–17), circumcision (Josh. 5:2–7), the Passover (Josh. 5:10), the altar, the rereading of the Law of Moses with the blessings and curses (Josh. 8:30–35), and a recitation of the Lord's faithfulness (Josh. 24:2–13).

24:1 At Shechem, located in the hill country of Ephraim, Joshua presented covenant renewal. Joshua's first message, in abbreviated form, was to the two and a half tribes who were the LORD God of Israel: 'Your fathers, including Terah, the father of Abraham and the father of Nahor, dwelt on the other side of the River[a] in old times; and they served other gods. 3Then I took your father Abraham from the other side of the River, led him throughout all the land of Canaan, and multiplied his descendants and gave him Isaac. 4To Isaac I gave Jacob and Esau. To Esau I gave the mountains of Seir to possess, but Jacob and his children went down to Egypt. 5Also I sent Moses and Aaron, and I plagued Egypt, according to what I did among them. Afterward I brought you out.

6'Then I brought your fathers out of Egypt, and you came to the sea; and the Egyptians pursued your fathers with chariots and horsemen to the Red Sea. 7So they cried out to the LORD; and He put darkness between you and the Egyptians, brought the sea upon them, and covered them. And your eyes saw what I did in Egypt. Then you dwelt in the wilderness a long time. 8And I brought you into the land of the Amorites, who dwelt on the other side of the Jordan, and they fought with you. But I gave them into your hand, that you might possess their land, and I destroyed them from before you. 9Then Balak the son of Zippor, king of Moab, arose to make war against Israel, and sent and called Balaam the son of Beor to curse you. 10But I would not listen to Balaam; therefore he continued to bless you. So I delivered you out of his hand. 11Then you went over the Jordan and came to Jericho. And the men of Jericho fought against you—also the Amorites, the Perizzites, the Canaanites, the Hittites, the Girgashites, the Hivites, and the Jebusites. But I delivered them into your hand. 12I sent the hornet before you which drove them out from before you, also the two kings of the Amorites, but not with your sword or with your bow. 13I have given you a land for which you did not labor, and cities which you did not build, and you dwell in them; you eat of the vineyards and olive groves which you did not plant.'

14"Now therefore, fear the LORD, serve Him in sincerity and in truth, and put away the gods which your fathers served on the other side of the River and in Egypt. Serve the LORD! 15And if it seems evil to you to serve the LORD, choose for yourselves this day whom you will serve, whether the gods which your fathers served that were on the other side of the River, or the gods of the Amorites, in whose land you dwell. But as for me and my house, we will serve the LORD."

16So the people answered and said: "Far be it from us that we should forsake the LORD to serve other gods; 17for the LORD our God is He who brought us and our fathers up out of the land of Egypt, from the house of bondage, who did those great signs in our sight, and preserved us in all the way that we went and among all the people through whom we passed. 18And the LORD drove out from before us all the people, including the Amorites who dwelt in the land. We also will serve the LORD, for He is our God."

19But Joshua said to the people, "You cannot serve the LORD, for He is a holy God. He is a jealous God; He will not forgive your transgressions nor your sins. 20If you forsake the LORD and serve foreign gods, then He will turn and do you harm and consume you, after He has done you good."

21And the people said to Joshua, "No, but we will serve the LORD!"

22So Joshua said to the people, "You are witnesses against yourselves that you have chosen the LORD for yourselves, to serve Him."

And they said, "We are witnesses!"

23"Now therefore," he said, "put away the foreign gods which are among you, and incline your heart to the LORD God of Israel."

24And the people said to Joshua, "The LORD our God we will serve, and His voice we will obey!"

25So Joshua made a covenant with the people

24:2 [a]Hebrew Nahar, the Euphrates, and so in verses 3, 14, and 15 returning to their land on the east side of the Jordan (Josh. 22:1–5). The second was possibly to a group of the nation's leaders (Josh. 23). At Shechem, where God previously promised the Land of Canaan to Abraham and his descendants (Gen. 12:6, 7), Joshua renewed the covenant for the last time (see Josh. 8:30–35).

24:3 Joshua began with Abraham, whose decision to separate himself from the safety and community of his clan in Ur and to walk away from the religion of his fathers was a mighty act of faith. Throughout Scripture Abraham is presented as the prime example of faith (Acts 7:2–8; Rom. 4:1–4; Gal. 3:6, 7; Heb. 11:8–12, 17–19; James 2:23).

24:6, 7 The safe passage through the Red Sea often is used by God as a reference pointing to His faithfulness and power (Deut. 11:4; Josh. 2:10; 4:23; Neh. 9:9–11; Ps. 106:8–11, 22; 136:13–15; Is. 51:10; Acts 7:36; Heb. 11:29).

24:15 God's faithfulness is a constant theme in Joshua (see Josh. 23:14, 15, note). The question is: Will His people respond faithfully in return? Joshua presented only two choices: Serve the Lord God or serve foreign gods. They could not serve both (see Josh. 24:19, 20, note). Such a challenge might seem more appropriate at the beginning of the book rather than at the end because at this stage the people had won the wars, obtained their land, and begun settling it. But Joshua understood that the challenge of choice—faithfulness and obedience, or unfaithfulness and disobedience—would be continually faced in the daily routines of life. He called the people to declare their loyalty and allegiance to God.

24:19, 20 The Lord stands alone. Other religions cannot be incorporated with devotion to the Lord. The first commandment makes this clear (Ex. 20:3). Apostasy seldom starts with an outright denial of the Lord, but rather with small compromises of His teachings. God will not tolerate unfaithfulness and idolatry.

that day, and made for them a statute and an ordinance in Shechem.

26Then Joshua wrote these words in the Book of the Law of God. And he took a large stone, and set it up there under the oak that was by the sanctuary of the LORD. 27And Joshua said to all the people, "Behold, this stone shall be a witness to us, for it has heard all the words of the LORD which He spoke to us. It shall therefore be a witness to you, lest you deny your God." 28So Joshua let the people depart, each to his own inheritance.

Death of Joshua and Eleazar

29Now it came to pass after these things that Joshua the son of Nun, the servant of the LORD, died, being one hundred and ten years old. 30And they buried him within the border of his inheritance at Timnath Serah, which is in the mountains of Ephraim, on the north side of Mount Gaash.

31Israel served the LORD all the days of Joshua, and all the days of the elders who outlived Joshua, who had known all the works of the LORD which He had done for Israel.

32The bones of Joseph, which the children of Israel had brought up out of Egypt, they buried at Shechem, in the plot of ground which Jacob had bought from the sons of Hamor the father of Shechem for one hundred pieces of silver, and which had become an inheritance of the children of Joseph.

33And Eleazar the son of Aaron died. They buried him in a hill belonging to Phinehas his son, which was given to him in the mountains of Ephraim.

24:31 The testimony to the effectiveness of Joshua's leadership is that not only he but also those he trained were faithful to the Lord (Josh. 11:15; 24:15; see chart, Preparation for Leadership).

24:32 The bones of Joseph were to be buried in the Land which God had promised to give to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob—the Land in which the Israelites now lived (Gen. 50:24, 25). Following Joseph's instructions symbolized the completion of this stage of Israel's national life and testified to God's faithfulness in fulfilling His promises to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob.

24:33 The death of a servant of God begins and ends this book (Josh. 1:1; 24:29–33). However, God's work continues, and His faithfulness to His children never ends.

Judges

TITLE

The title of the Book of Judges (Heb. shophetim, Gk. kritai in LXX; lit. "judges") is the same in the Vulgate as well (Lat. Liber Judicum). The book introduces the military leaders known as judges, whom God raised up to deliver Israel from oppression. Divinely appointed and empowered, they did not rule by heredity.

AUTHOR

Although containing no explicit claim to authorship, traditionally the Book of Judges has been ascribed to Samuel.

DATE

Some scholars view the Book of Judges as a series of stories compiled by anonymous individuals during the Exile, sometime after 586 B.C. Most evangelical scholars believe the Book of Judges was written during the early period of the monarchy, beginning around 1050 B.C. Evidence for this earlier date is stronger:

1) The reference to the Jebusites in Jerusalem, indicating a time before David's capture of the city (Judg. 1:21; 2 Sam. 5:6, 7).

2) The mention of the Canaanites in Gezer, which suggests a date prior to Pharaoh's gift of this city to his daughter as a dowry on the occasion of her marriage to Solomon (Judg. 1:29; see 1 Kin. 9, Dowry).

3) The prominence of Sidon over Tyre, which was only true prior to the twelfth century (Judg. 3:3).

BACKGROUND

SETTING: During this time of decadence and weakness in the Egyptian, Hittite, and Assyrian empires, a vacuum of power existed. In Canaan, Israel was a tiny, emerging nation (actually still a league of tribes). Canaan, an extremely important land at the crossroads of three empires, was inhabited by an incredible mix of peoples and religions. It was regarded as the linking highway of the ancient world. The Book of Judges records the history of Israel from Joshua's death to Samuel's leadership and the beginning of the monarchy around 1050 B.C. If the terms of all the judges were added together, the total span of time recorded in the Book of Judges would exceed four hundred years, presenting a chronological difficulty. A solution to this challenge lies in the observation that most likely the judges were local deliverers whose terms overlapped except for some, like Deborah, who were national leaders.

PURPOSE: The Book of Judges describes the history of Israel from a theological or spiritual viewpoint. The book records one of the darkest periods in Israel's history. This history is recorded honestly, with no apparent attempt to gloss over the repeated failures of God's people. Israel's unfaithfulness to God began with the nation's failure to possess the Promised Land as God commanded. After Joshua's death, an adulterous generation of Israelites failed to love and obey God and His Law. They reaped the painful consequences of their disobedience. God disciplined His people by allowing neighboring nations to enslave and oppress them. Yet God proved faithful, and, with the testing, He provided leaders for deliverance.

A recurring cycle appears in the stories of the six major judges.

1) At the first stage in the cycle, God's people sinned against Him by rebellion and disobedience, turning away from the Lord.

2) As a consequence, God allowed His people to be oppressed by their enemies.

3) Eventually the people would cry out to the Lord for deliverance.

4) Then God would raise up a military deliverer or judge to rescue His people.

The Book of Judges reveals that obedience to the Lord results in blessing, while disobedience brings punishment. The Lord Himself is identified as the sovereign Judge of His people (Judg. 11:27).

AUDIENCE: Because the book was written in the early period of the monarchy, Judges could have helped Israel see the advantages of a faithful king over the local and temporary leadership of a judge. Presumably a king would provide central leadership and guide the nation as a whole in obedient and righteous ways, a development much preferred over the turbulent and immoral times they had experienced. Eventually, however, their own history would demonstrate the inability of an earthly king to provide peace or righteousness without the commitment of the people to walk obediently before God.

The Book of Judges reminds Christians of the serious nature of sin. As in the times of the judges, Christians wage war continually against the temptation to be unfaithful to God and His Word. Through judgment or discipline, the Lord draws His children closer to Himself, seeking to conform them to His image. Finally, the Book of Judges reveals the need for a true King who will bring the peace and rest that can be found only in Christ, the Prince of Peace and King of Kings.

LITERARY CHARACTERISTICS: The Book of Judges is a collection of material that records the history of Israel in short episodes and cycles. The book consists of the introduction (Judg. 1:1—3:6), the history of the judges (Judg. 3:7—16:31), and examples of the moral depravity of the Land (Judg. 17:1—21:25). Judges contains colorful stories, word riddles, old songs, ironic sayings, and vivid descriptions of brutal events. Deborah's song is an ancient piece of Hebrew poetry (Judg. 5). Jotham's parable of the trees (Judg. 9:7–15) and Samson's ancient riddles (Judg. 14:14, 18; 15:16) are other literary forms appearing in the book.

THEMES

In the Book of Judges, God's faithfulness to His covenant and His people prevailed despite Israel's unfaithfulness. God's love for His people was revealed in His patient discipline.

Failure to obtain rest in the Promised Land was the result of disobedience to the covenant (Deut. 12:9; 28:65). The failure of the generations after Joshua to teach God's covenant to their children brought devastating spiritual, political, social, and economic consequences. A lack of godly leadership caused chaos and a breakdown of justice in the Land.

God uses those people who willingly offer themselves to serve Him regardless of their background. The divinely appointed leaders were not always those expected: a woman like Deborah, who came out of a family setting, a repentant idolater like Gideon, a foreigner like Shamgar, an illegitimate son like Jephthah. Leaders like these challenged cultural and political expectations and traditions. As the sovereign God, the Lord is in control of history, and He is a reality in the daily lives of His people.

OUTLINE

I. Israel's Continued Conquest (1:1—3:6)
   A. General: God's faithfulness to His people and Israel's unfaithfulness (1:1—2:6)
      1. Obedience to God, resulting in possession of the Land and rest (1:1–20)
      2. Disobedience, resulting in incomplete possession of the Land (1:21–36)
      3. God's judgment on His people (2:1–6)
   B. Specific: a detailed account of God's plan for Israel after Joshua's death (2:7—3:6)
      1. The death of Joshua (2:7–10)
      2. The calamity of disobedience and unfaithfulness (2:11–15)
      3. Deliverance because of God's faithfulness (2:16–18)
      4. Israel's continuous idolatry (2:19)
      5. God's testing and disciplining of the nation (2:20—3:6)

II. The Cycles of Israel's Oppression and Deliverance (3:7—16:31)
   A. Oppression from the Mesopotamians and deliverance under Othniel (3:7–11)
   B. Oppression from the Moabites and deliverance under Ehud (3:12–30)
   C. Oppression from the Philistines and deliverance under Shamgar (3:31)
   D. Oppression from the Canaanites and deliverance under Deborah (4:1—5:31)
   E. Oppression from the Midianites and deliverance under Gideon (6:1—8:35)
   F. Abimelech's conspiracy (9:1–57)
   G. Deliverance under Tola (10:1, 2)
   H. Deliverance under Jair (10:3–5)
   I. Oppression from the Ammonites and deliverance under Jephthah (10:6—12:7)
   J. Deliverance under Ibzan, Elon, and Abdon (12:8–15)
   K. Oppression from the Philistines and deliverance under Samson (13:1—16:31)

III. Apostasy, Violence, and the Breakdown of Justice: Moral Depravity in the Land (17:1—21:24)
   A. Disobedience in northern Israel (17:1—18:31)
      1. Personal apostasy and violence: Micah (17:1–13)
      2. Tribal apostasy and violence: the tribe of Dan (18:1–31)
   B. Disobedience in central Israel (19:1—21:24)
      1. Personal immorality, violence, and injustice: the Levite and his concubine (19:1–30)
      2. Tribal immorality, violence, and injustice: the tribe of Benjamin (20:1—21:24)

Conclusion: The Cause of Israel's Troubles As a Nation (21:25)

The Continuing Conquest of Canaan

1 Now after the death of Joshua it came to pass that the children of Israel asked the LORD, saying, "Who shall be first to go up for us against the Canaanites to fight against them?"

2 And the LORD said, "Judah shall go up. Indeed I have delivered the land into his hand."

3 So Judah said to Simeon his brother, "Come up with me to my allotted territory, that we may fight against the Canaanites; and I will likewise go with you to your allotted territory." And Simeon went with him. 4 Then Judah went up, and the LORD delivered the Canaanites and the Perizzites into their hand; and they killed ten thousand men at Bezek. 5 And they found Adoni-Bezek in Bezek, and fought against him; and they defeated the Canaanites and the Perizzites. 6 Then Adoni-Bezek fled, and they pursued him and caught him and cut off his thumbs and big toes. 7 And Adoni-Bezek said, "Seventy kings with their thumbs and big toes cut off used to gather scraps under my table; as I have done, so God has repaid me." Then they brought him to Jerusalem, and there he died.

8 Now the children of Judah fought against Jerusalem and took it; they struck it with the edge of the sword and set the city on fire. 9 And afterward the children of Judah went down to fight against the Canaanites who dwelt in the mountains, in the South,[a] and in the lowland. 10 Then Judah went against the Canaanites who dwelt in Hebron. (Now the name of Hebron was formerly Kirjath Arba.) And they killed Sheshai, Ahiman, and Talmai.

11 From there they went against the inhabitants of Debir. (The name of Debir was formerly Kirjath Sepher.)

12 Then Caleb said, "Whoever attacks Kirjath Sepher and takes it, to him I will give my daughter Achsah as wife." 13 And Othniel the son of Kenaz, Caleb's younger brother, took it; so he gave him his daughter Achsah as wife. 14 Now it happened, when she came to him, that she urged him[a] to ask her father for a field. And she dismounted from her donkey, and Caleb said to her, "What do you wish?" 15 So she said to him, "Give me a blessing; since you have given me land in the South, give me also springs of water."

And Caleb gave her the upper springs and the lower springs.

16 Now the children of the Kenite, Moses' father-in-law, went up from the City of Palms with the children of Judah into the Wilderness of Judah, which lies in the South near Arad; and they went and dwelt among the people. 17 And Judah went with his brother Simeon, and they attacked the Canaanites who inhabited Zephath, and utterly destroyed it. So the name of the city was called Hormah. 18 Also Judah took Gaza with its territory, Ashkelon with its territory, and Ekron with its territory. 19 So the LORD was with Judah. And they drove out the mountaineers, but they could not drive out the inhabitants of the lowland, because they had chariots of iron. 20 And they

1:9 [a]Hebrew Negev, and so throughout this book 1:14 [a]Septuagint and Vulgate read he urged her.

1:1 The death of a leader. Like the Book of Joshua, the Book of Judges begins by recording the death of a great leader. Later in the book the writer gives more details about Joshua's death (see Judg. 2:7–9). Here the notation serves as a general introduction to the book, giving a framework for events that took place during the latter part of Joshua's life and after his death. The introduction, like the two appendices at the end of the book, is arranged in thematic rather than chronological order. The ark of the covenant (Num. 10:35), the rod of Moses, and the sacred lots served as symbols for Israel. Israel customarily inquired concerning the Lord's will before a military campaign. The method of casting lots through the Urim and Thummim was believed to be controlled by God (Ex. 28:15, note). The main encampment of the Israelites was probably at Gilgal, near Jericho. The Canaanites lived mostly in cities in the hill country.

1:2, 3 Judah played a crucial role in leading Israel to war against external and internal enemies at the beginning and at the end of Judges (Judg. 20:18). The writer is aware that the righteous leadership Israel needed will come from the tribe of Judah. Because its inheritance lay within Judah's borders, Simeon assisted Judah and gradually lost its own tribal identity, while Judah became powerful in the southern part of Canaan.

1:4–6 The Canaanites were already living in Canaan, mainly along the coastline (Deut. 1:7). However, the term here generally refers to all the inhabitants of the Land at the time of the conquest (see Judg. 3:3, 6, notes). What the Israelites did to Adoni-Bezek was a common practice with prisoners of war in the ancient Near East. Mutilation prevented men from fighting again because they could not hold and use a weapon. Since Adoni-Bezek had admitted to mutilating others (v. 7), this could be an example of the law of retaliation (lex talionis, Lat.; Ex. 21:24).

1:8 Jerusalem, in the period of the judges, was occupied by the Jebusites (see Judg. 3:3, note). Despite this successful attack on Jerusalem, the Israelites did not occupy the city until David's reign (2 Sam. 5:6, 7).

1:13–15 Achsah. In ancient Near Eastern cultures, the groom commonly gave a dowry or bride price for a wife (Gen. 34:11, 12; see also 1 Kin. 9, Dowry), and, in this case, victory in battle was an adequate payment (see 1 Sam. 18:25). Achsah's bold petition had tremendous advantages for her husband's clan (see Josh. 15, Achsah; chart, The Period of the Judges). The Kenizzites could establish themselves in the well-watered lands of southern Palestine.

1:19–21 The conquest of Canaan was a long-term endeavor that started under Joshua's leadership (see also vv. 27–36). In the time of David, portions of the Land remained under enemy control. David went to war repeatedly against the Philistines. Joshua had led the major conquest, but it remained for each tribe to drive out the Canaanites and settle in its allotted section. The Israelites doubted their ability to occupy the coastal plains because of the Canaanites' superior weapons (v. 19). In some instances, the people of God decided to make treaties with their enemies. In other cases, some tribes decided to impose tribute on the conquered peoples, eventually mixing with them (vv. 28, 30, 33, 35). Israel failed by disobeying God's command to reject covenants with the inhabitants of the Land, to avoid intermarriage, and to have nothing to do with Canaanite religions.

gave Hebron to Caleb, as Moses had said. Then he expelled from there the three sons of Anak. 21But the children of Benjamin did not drive out the Jebusites who inhabited Jerusalem; so the Jebusites dwell with the children of Benjamin in Jerusalem to this day.

22And the house of Joseph also went up against Bethel, and the LORD was with them. 23So the house of Joseph sent men to spy out Bethel. (The name of the city was formerly Luz.) 24And when the spies saw a man coming out of the city, they said to him, "Please show us the entrance to the city, and we will show you mercy." 25So he showed them the entrance to the city, and they struck the city with the edge of the sword; but they let the man and all his family go. 26And the man went to the land of the Hittites, built a city, and called its name Luz, which is its name to this day.

Incomplete Conquest of the Land

27However, Manasseh did not drive out the inhabitants of Beth Shean and its villages, or Taanach and its villages, or the inhabitants of Dor and its villages, or the inhabitants of Ibleam and its villages, or the inhabitants of Megiddo and its villages; for the Canaanites were determined to dwell in that land. 28And it came to pass, when Israel was strong, that they put the Canaanites under tribute, but did not completely drive them out.

29Nor did Ephraim drive out the Canaanites who dwelt in Gezer; so the Canaanites dwelt in Gezer among them.

30Nor did Zebulun drive out the inhabitants of Kitron or the inhabitants of Nahalol; so the Canaanites dwelt among them, and were put under tribute.

31Nor did Asher drive out the inhabitants of Acco or the inhabitants of Sidon, or of Ahlab, Achzib, Helbah, Aphik, or Rehob. 32So the Asherites dwelt among the Canaanites, the inhabitants of the land; for they did not drive them out.

33Nor did Naphtali drive out the inhabitants of Beth Shemesh or the inhabitants of Beth Anath; but they dwelt among the Canaanites, the inhabitants of the land. Nevertheless the inhabitants of Beth Shemesh and Beth Anath were put under tribute to them.

34And the Amorites forced the children of Dan into the mountains, for they would not allow them to come down to the valley; 35and the Amorites were determined to dwell in Mount Heres, in Aijalon, and in Shaalbim;[a] yet when the strength of the house of Joseph became greater, they were put under tribute.

36Now the boundary of the Amorites was from the Ascent of Akrabbim, from Sela, and upward.

Israel's Disobedience

2 Then the Angel of the LORD came up from Gilgal to Bochim, and said: "I led you up from Egypt and brought you to the land of which I swore to your fathers; and I said, 'I will never break My covenant with you. 2And you shall make no covenant with the inhabitants of this land; you shall tear down their altars.' But you have not obeyed My voice. Why have you done this? 3Therefore I also said, 'I will not drive them out before you; but they shall be thorns in your side,[a] and their gods shall be a snare to you.' " 4So it was, when the Angel of the LORD spoke these words to all the children of Israel, that the people lifted up their voices and wept.

5Then they called the name of that place Bochim;[a] and they sacrificed there to the LORD. 6And when Joshua had dismissed the people, the children of Israel went each to his own inheritance to possess the land.

Death of Joshua

7So the people served the LORD all the days of Joshua, and all the days of the elders who outlived Joshua, who had seen all the great works of the LORD which He had done for Israel. 8Now Joshua the son of Nun, the servant of the LORD, died when he was one hundred and ten years old. 9And they buried him within the border of his inheritance at Timnath Heres, in the mountains of Ephraim, on the north side of Mount Gaash. 10When all that generation had been gathered to their fathers, another generation arose after them who did not know the LORD nor the work which He had done for Israel.

2:1–5 The Angel of the Lord is a mysterious emissary from God who appeared to the people, bringing deliverance, revelation, or judgment (see chart, The Angel of the Lord). Some scholars believe these visits were theophanies (visible appearances of God in bodily form). The Angel (lit. "messenger") announced the consequences of Israel's disobedience. The Israelites had doubted God's ability to provide victory in the face of superior weapons. They had disobeyed clear instructions with regard to intermarriage and pagan religions. To cleanse and prepare them to be a holy nation, God's judgment would come in the form of oppression by neighboring countries. "Bochim" (Heb., lit. "weepers") was an adequate name to describe their new painful relationship with God. God, however, still loved His people and did not abandon them to their sufferings. Repeatedly He provided them with deliverers (see v. 16, note).

2:10 A tragic and inevitable consequence of sin is that it always affects others. Because of the failure of the previous generation to teach their children about the Lord, an unfaithful generation of Israelites who were ignorant of God's char-

Israel's Unfaithfulness

11 Then the children of Israel did evil in the sight of the LORD, and served the Baals; 12 and they forsook the LORD God of their fathers, who had brought them out of the land of Egypt; and they followed other gods from among the gods of the people who were all around them, and they bowed down to them; and they provoked the LORD to anger. 13 They forsook the LORD and served Baal and the Ashtoreths.[a] 14 And the anger of the LORD was hot against Israel. So He delivered them into the hands of plunderers who despoiled them; and He sold them into the hands of their enemies all around, so that they could no longer stand before their enemies. 15 Wherever they went out, the hand of the LORD was against them for calamity, as the LORD had said, and as the LORD had sworn to them. And they were greatly distressed.

16 Nevertheless, the LORD raised up judges who delivered them out of the hand of those who plundered them. 17 Yet they would not listen to their judges, but they played the harlot with other gods, and bowed down to them. They turned quickly from the way in which their fathers walked, in obeying the commandments of the LORD; they did not do so. 18 And when the LORD raised up judges for them, the LORD was with the judge and delivered them out of the hand of their enemies all the days of the judge; for the LORD was moved to pity by their groaning because of those who oppressed them and harassed them.
19 And it came to pass, when the judge was dead, that they reverted and behaved more corruptly than their fathers, by following other gods, to serve them and bow down to them. They did not cease from their own doings nor from their stubborn way.

20 Then the anger of the LORD was hot against acter and His Law arose (see chart, Israel's Unfaithfulness to God).

2:11–23 Among the Canaanite gods, an inactive father-god named El was followed by a court of deities who represented the masculine and feminine aspects of the fertility cult. Ba'al (Heb., lit. "lord") was associated with the storm god Hadad. Anat (in other places in the Bible known as "Beth-anath") was his consort. Asherah and Astarte were other goddesses associated with wooden cult objects representing provocative sacred courtesans, pregnant mothers, or bloodthirsty women of war. According to this pagan belief, Ba'al's annual death and resurrection provided the power behind fertility in nature. In Baalism, men and women participated in sexual immorality in order to convince the gods to bring fertility to the land, to animals, and to people. Thus, this religion was totally devoid of social and moral concerns. In following this nature religion, Israel was abandoning its unique place in God's purpose and calling in history (see chart, Israel's Unfaithfulness to God).

2:16 The judges (Heb. shophetim) were primarily military leaders, though some, like Deborah (Judg. 4:4, 5), were also administrators and judges. These judges were also empowered by God to lead the Israelites against their oppressors. Some judges are mentioned only briefly (Judg. 3:31; 10:1, 3; 12:8, 11, 13). The judges were primarily local deliverers. In some cases, several judges ruled in different parts of the Land at the same time.

Israel; and He said, "Because this nation has transgressed My covenant which I commanded their fathers, and has not heeded My voice, 21I also will no longer drive out before them any of the nations which Joshua left when he died, 22so that through them I may test Israel, whether they will keep the ways of the LORD, to walk in them as their fathers kept them, or not." 23Therefore the LORD left those nations, without driving them out immediately; nor did He deliver them into the hand of Joshua.

The Nations Remaining in the Land

3 Now these are the nations which the LORD left, that He might test Israel by them, that is, all who had not known any of the wars in Canaan 2(this was only so that the generations of the children of Israel might be taught to know war, at least those who had not formerly known it), 3*namely,* five lords of the Philistines, all the Canaanites, the Sidonians, and the Hivites who dwelt in Mount Lebanon, from Mount Baal Hermon to the entrance of Hamath. 4And they were left, that He might test Israel by them, to know whether they would obey the commandments of the LORD, which He had commanded their fathers by the hand of Moses.

5Thus the children of Israel dwelt among the Canaanites, the Hittites, the Amorites, the Perizzites, the Hivites, and the Jebusites. 6And they took their daughters to be their wives, and gave their daughters to their sons; and they served their gods.

Othniel

7So the children of Israel did evil in the sight of the LORD. They forgot the LORD their God, and served the Baals and Asherahs.[a] 8Therefore the anger of the LORD was hot against Israel, and He sold them into the hand of Cushan-Rishathaim king of Mesopotamia; and the children of Israel served Cushan-Rishathaim eight years. 9When the children of Israel cried out to the LORD, the LORD raised up a deliverer for the children of Israel, who delivered them: Othniel the son of Kenaz, Caleb's younger brother. 10The Spirit of the LORD came upon him, and he judged Israel. He went out to war, and the LORD delivered Cushan-Rishathaim king of Mesopotamia into his hand; and his hand prevailed over Cushan-Rishathaim. 11So the land had rest for forty years. Then Othniel the son of Kenaz died.

Ehud

12And the children of Israel again did evil in the sight of the LORD. So the LORD strengthened Eglon king of Moab against Israel, because they had done evil in the sight of the LORD. 13Then he gathered to himself the people of Ammon and Amalek, went and defeated Israel, and took possession of the City of Palms. 14So the children of Israel served Eglon king of Moab eighteen years.

15But when the children of Israel cried out to the LORD, the LORD raised up a deliverer for them:

3:7 [a]Name or symbol for Canaanite goddesses

3:1, 2, 4 God tested Israel by leaving enemies in the Land. Yet His providence was active even in the darkest times of Israel's history. God wanted His people to remain faithful to His commandments when they faced the alternative of disobedience. God's people would reveal their love for Him by choosing to obey Him. Compare Judges 2:20–23, where the writer noted that God allowed other nations to remain in the Land to chasten or discipline His people. Human history is not a series of chance events or the result of impersonal forces. The history of Israel is the history of God's providence and guidance. God's people could choose their response to His covenant of love. Obedience to His law would bring blessing, while disobedience would result in suffering the curses of the covenant (Lev. 26:25; Deut. 28:15). Even in the times of discipline and testing, God is present with His people (Ps. 23:4, 5).

3:3 Canaan, the land bridge of the ancient world, linked Egypt and Mesopotamia. Thus this region became an incredible melting pot of peoples and religions. The Canaanites were culturally united but without any political identity. They were already in the Land at the time of the occupation of Israel under Joshua. They lived mainly along the coastline (Deut. 1:7). The Amorites occupied the hill country and had arrived in the Land during the time of Abram, around 2090 B.C. The Hittites usually represented the non-Semitic elements in the population. The Perizzites and the Hivites (which also included the Girgashites and the Jebusites) were the descendants of an old Hurrian immigration which had arrived in Canaan between 1700 and 1500 B.C. The Sidonians were the forefathers of the Phoenicians and lived along the coastline (see Introduction). Finally, the Philistines were "the peoples of the sea" who arrived in Palestine following the dissolution of the Greek Mycenaen Empire after the Trojan War. They brought with them superior weapons and a more sophisticated culture.

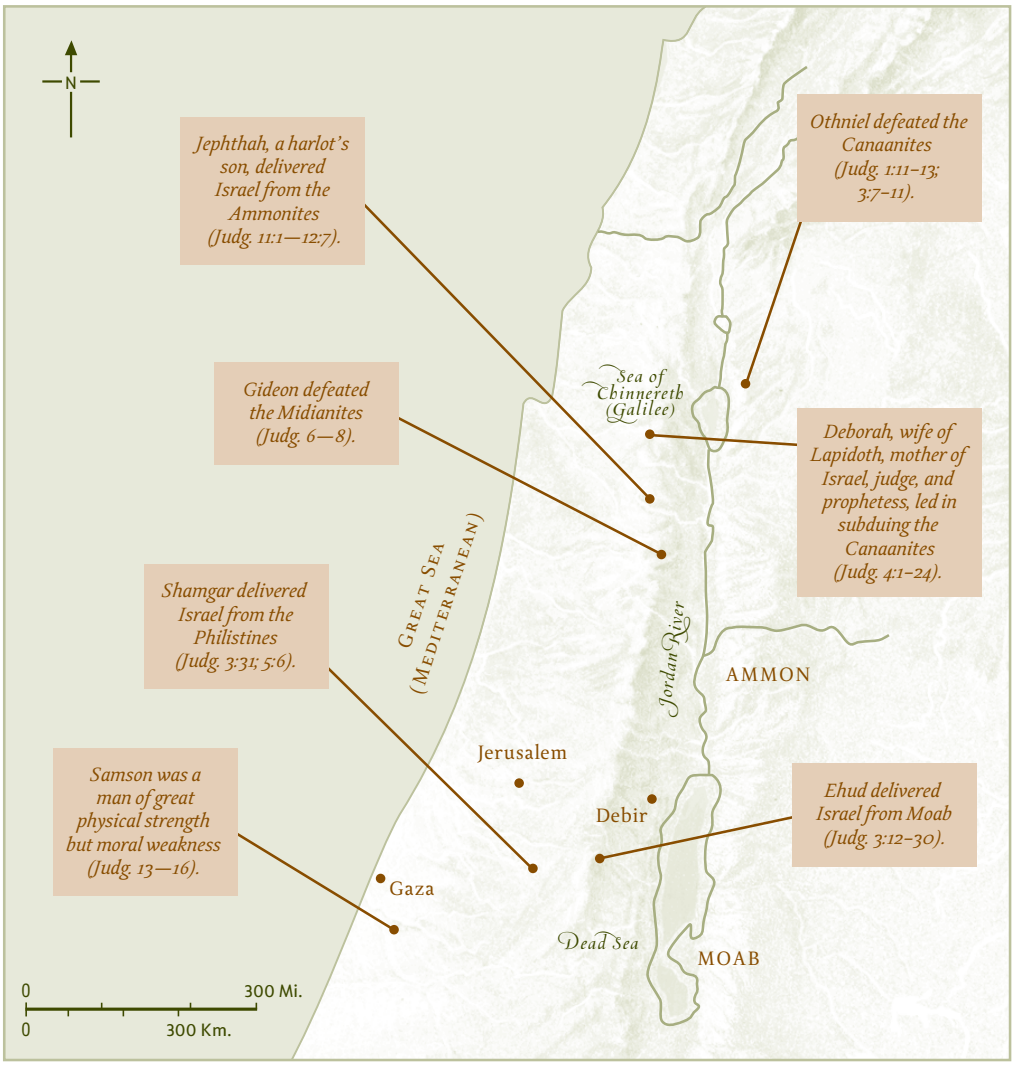
3:6 Intermarriage in the Land. An important way of insuring peace among the different groups of the Land was through marriage alliances (1 Kin. 11, Solomon's Pagan Wives; Neh. 10, Interfaith Marriage). The graphic imagery of the Bible in describing Israel's unfaithfulness to Yahweh as "playing the harlot" with other gods had striking connections with reality. Idolatry in Israel started in an intimate, domestic setting.

3:7 Israel's apostasy followed a cycle of oppression, repentance, and deliverance. The cycle always began with the people doing "evil in the sight of the LORD."

3:8 Mesopotamia refers to modern eastern Syria and northern Iraq, a region around the city of Haran (Gen. 24:10). The kings mentioned in Judges, for the most part, ruled over small states as a hereditary noble class with semi-free peasantry and numerous slaves. An approximate date for this incident is 1360 B.C.

3:15 Ehud killed Eglon, king of Moab, with his dagger. He was successful in his mission because he was left-handed. His dagger was fastened on his right thigh, which evidently was not checked. He gained entrance to the king's presence with his dagger and killed the king. Ehud was a Benjamite. Ironically, here was a member of the tribe of Benjamin, which means "son of the right hand," who was left-handed or ambidextrous (see chart, The Period of the Judges).

THE JUDGES OF ISRAEL



Ehud the son of Gera, the Benjamite, a left-handed man. By him the children of Israel sent tribute to Eglon king of Moab. 16Now Ehud made himself a dagger (it was double-edged and a cubit in length) and fastened it under his clothes on his right thigh. 17So he brought the tribute to Eglon king of Moab. (Now Eglon was a very fat man.) 18And when he had finished presenting the tribute, he sent away the people who had carried the tribute. 19But he himself turned back from the stone images that were at Gilgal, and said, "I have a secret message for you, O king."

He said, "Keep silence!" And all who attended him went out from him.

20So Ehud came to him (now he was sitting upstairs in his cool private chamber). Then Ehud said, "I have a message from God for you." So he arose from his seat. 21Then Ehud reached with his left hand, took the dagger from his right thigh, and thrust it into his belly. 22Even the hilt went in after the blade, and the fat closed over the blade, for he did not draw the dagger out of his belly; and his entrails came out. 23Then Ehud went out through the porch and shut the doors of the upper room behind him and locked them.

24When he had gone out, Eglon's[a] servants came

DEBORAH A Distinguished Judge

Deborah (Heb. "bee") appears to have been a homemaker at the time she is selected for service to her country. Having no aristocratic lineage, she is identified simply as "the wife of Lapidoth." Yet Deborah was the only woman in Scripture elevated to high political power by the common consent of her peers. Though her homemaking responsibilities well may have taken a backseat during her service to her country, she described herself as "a mother in Israel" (Judg. 5:7) before she became a judge. Whether this is a reference to her own offspring or an expression of her spiritual motherhood toward every son and daughter of Israel is immaterial.

In spiritually parched Israel, characterized by rejection of God and by a determination among the people for each to do things her own way (Judg. 17:6; 21:25), Deborah was first a counselor, as she displayed her leadership under a large palm tree near her home by discussing and suggesting solutions to people with problems. The civil court system was inept; the military was too weak to defend national borders; the priesthood of what had been a theocracy was impotent and ineffective. Normal life was no longer possible, and thus Deborah became a judge and finally a deliverer of her people in time of war.

In this area the despised King Jabin was harassing the Israelites. Deborah summoned Barak, from the tribe of Naphtali on the northern border, and ordered him to recruit an army of ten thousand men from his own tribe and the neighboring tribe Zebulun.

Barak wavered, insisting that Deborah accompany him for the task (Judg. 4:8). She not only joined the drive to raise an army but also suggested their strategy. God had spoken in the past through His leaders Moses and Joshua, and now He was speaking through Deborah. Yahweh came to her aid with a violent thunderstorm (Judg. 5:4). In a mini-replay of the crossing of the Red Sea, the horse-drawn chariots of the enemy floundered.

The destruction of the Canaanite power was immortalized in one of the finest specimens of Hebrew poetry by Deborah and Barak, as they picture in a song of praise the events which led to victory for the people (see Judg. 5). Long before Deborah exercised her uncommon leadership and decision-making skills to save her nation in a time of trouble, she was a homemaker—a wife and mother in Israel. Her compassion had been awakened by the atrocities suffered by her people. She arose to make herself available, and she was victorious as she herself trusted God, then inspired others within her sphere of influence with that same trust.

to look, and to their surprise, the doors of the upper room were locked. So they said, "He is probably attending to his needs in the cool chamber."
25 So they waited till they were embarrassed, and still he had not opened the doors of the upper room. Therefore they took the key and opened them. And there was their master, fallen dead on the floor.

26 But Ehud had escaped while they delayed, and passed beyond the stone images and escaped to Seirah. 27 And it happened, when he arrived, that he blew the trumpet in the mountains of Ephraim, and the children of Israel went down with him from the mountains; and he led them. 28 Then he said to them, "Follow me, for the LORD has delivered your enemies the Moabites into your hand." So they went down after him, seized the fords of the Jordan leading to Moab, and did not allow anyone to cross over. 29 And at that time they killed about ten thousand men of Moab, all stout men of valor; not a man escaped. 30 So Moab was subdued that day under the hand of Israel. And the land had rest for eighty years.

Shamgar

31 After him was Shamgar the son of Anath, who killed six hundred men of the Philistines with an ox goad; and he also delivered Israel.

Deborah

4 When Ehud was dead, the children of Israel again did evil in the sight of the LORD. 2 So the LORD sold them into the hand of Jabin king of Canaan, who reigned in Hazor. The commander of 4:1–24 The Canaanite oppression probably resulted from a coalition of Canaanite cities in the north of Palestine which sought to restore Canaanite power in the Land (a more serious threat than simple plunder). Moreover, with the introduction of iron, military strategy was revolutionized, forcing the Israelites to build and seek refuge in fortress towns like Megiddo. Sisera, the commander of King Jabin's army, wanted to take advantage of the Israelites by fighting in the valley of Jezreel where he could utilize his chariots of iron. Deborah's call to the tribes in the south of Ephraim is evidence of the unity of the tribes at this time. Deborah, a judge in the south, heard the plight of the northern tribes and chose Barak, a military commander from the north.

4:3 Chariots of iron normally would mean an army was nearly invincible, but in the providence of God a storm turned the his army was Sisera, who dwelt in Harosheth Hagoyim. 3And the children of Israel cried out to the LORD; for Jabin had nine hundred chariots of iron, and for twenty years he had harshly oppressed the children of Israel.

4Now Deborah, a prophetess, the wife of Lapidoth, was judging Israel at that time. 5And she would sit under the palm tree of Deborah between Ramah and Bethel in the mountains of Ephraim. And the children of Israel came up to her for judgment. 6Then she sent and called for Barak the son of Abinoam from Kedesh in Naphtali, and said to him, "Has not the LORD God of Israel commanded, 'Go and deploy troops at Mount Tabor; take with you ten thousand men of the sons of Naphtali and of the sons of Zebulun; 7and against you I will deploy Sisera, the commander of Jabin's army, with his chariots and his multitude at the River Kishon; and I will deliver him into your hand'?"

8And Barak said to her, "If you will go with me, then I will go; but if you will not go with me, I will not go!"

9So she said, "I will surely go with you; nevertheless there will be no glory for you in the journey you are taking, for the LORD will sell Sisera into the hand of a woman." Then Deborah arose and went with Barak to Kedesh. 10And Barak called Zebulun and Naphtali to Kedesh; he went up with ten thousand men under his command,[a] and Deborah went up with him.

11Now Heber the Kenite, of the children of Hobab the father-in-law of Moses, had separated himself from the Kenites and pitched his tent near the terebinth tree at Zaanaim, which is beside Kedesh.

12And they reported to Sisera that Barak the son of Abinoam had gone up to Mount Tabor. 13So Sisera gathered together all his chariots, nine hundred chariots of iron, and all the people who were with him, from Harosheth Hagoyim to the River Kishon.

14Then Deborah said to Barak, "Up! For this is the day in which the LORD has delivered Sisera into your hand. Has not the LORD gone out before you?" So Barak went down from Mount Tabor with ten thousand men following him. 15And the LORD routed Sisera and all his chariots and all his army with the edge of the sword before Barak; and Sisera alighted from his chariot and fled away on foot. 16But Barak pursued the chariots and the army as far as Harosheth Hagoyim, and all the army of Sisera fell by the edge of the sword; not a man was left.

17However, Sisera had fled away on foot to the tent of Jael, the wife of Heber the Kenite; for there was peace between Jabin king of Hazor and the house of Heber the Kenite. 18And Jael went out to meet Sisera, and said to him, "Turn aside, my lord, turn aside to me; do not fear." And when he had turned aside with her into the tent, she covered him with a blanket.

19Then he said to her, "Please give me a little water to drink, for I am thirsty." So she opened a jug of milk, gave him a drink, and covered him. 20And he said to her, "Stand at the door of the tent, and if any man comes and inquires of you, and says, 'Is there any man here?' you shall say, 'No.' "

21Then Jael, Heber's wife, took a tent peg and took a hammer in her hand, and went softly to him and drove the peg into his temple, and it went down into the ground; for he was fast asleep and weary. So he died. 22And then, as Barak pursued Sisera, Jael came out to meet him, and said to him, "Come, I will show you the man whom you seek." And when he went into her tent, there lay Sisera, dead with the peg in his temple.

23So on that day God subdued Jabin king of Canaan in the presence of the children of Israel. 24And the hand of the children of Israel grew stronger and stronger against Jabin king of Canaan, until they had destroyed Jabin king of Canaan.

4:10 [a]Literally at his feet

Kishon River into a mud hole in which chariots were useless (see Judg. 4:6, 7; 5:19–21).

4:4 Deborah (Heb., lit. "bee") is the only woman judge (see chart, The Period of the Judges). She has been described as "a bee in peace and a wasp in war." She was also a prophetess and military leader. Other prophetesses in the Bible included Miriam (Ex. 15:20), Huldah (2 Kin. 22:14), Noadiah (Neh. 6:14), and Anna (Luke 2:36; see also Acts 21:9). Through the generations God has chosen women to serve in leadership roles (see charts, Deborah: A Leader of Israel; Esther: A Leader of the Jews).

4:9 For a man to die at the hands of a woman was considered a disgrace in the ancient Near East (Judg. 9:54). Ironically, the victory over the Canaanites is an example of God's warfare strategy: God's power (the flood) overturned the strength of the enemies (great numbers of warriors with chariots of iron) and built upon the weaknesses of His faithful people (a few warriors and a woman).

4:11 Jael was in a difficult position of conflicting loyalties. Her husband Heber the Kenite had made an alliance with the enemies of Israel. The Israelites were distant relatives of the Kenites, who are identified as "children of Hobab the father-in-law of Moses" (v. 11). They had been associated closely with the Israelites since earlier times. This clan of metalworkers in the Sinai peninsula was semi-nomadic, living in tents and engaging partly in agriculture. Jael's decision and actions proved her loyalty to the Israelites and their God.

JAEL A Cunning Bedouin

Jael, Heber's wife, belonged to the semi-nomadic desert tribe of the Kenites, who since the time of Moses were in close contact with the Israelites. They were farmers and metalworkers who had possibly learned their skills in the Egyptian copper mines of the Sinai peninsula.

Heber (which means "ally") had left his own people, the Kenites, and had pitched his tent far north, close to Hazor. He had become an ally of Jabin, possibly helping him to develop his powerful chariots. Thus Jael's decision to side with the Israelites and not with the Canaanites, her husband's allies, was highly significant. Such action suggests that she placed her heart's commitment to God above that to her own husband.

Clearly, Jael called to Sisera and granted him refuge in her tent. She gave him goat's milk or yogurt (still a precious drink for Bedouins) and cunningly helped him to sleep. Then, using her own working tools, a peg and a hammer with which she erected her tents, Jael killed her guest, the enemy of Israel and of Yahweh.

The fact that Sisera sought safety in the tent of a friend and found death is ironic, as is the fact that he fearfully hid from the mighty warriors who pursued him, while fearlessly trusting himself for shelter to the hands of an humble woman. Sisera, the great warrior, suffered the ultimate in humiliation in dying at the hands of a woman; Jael received consummate praise for her heroic act in Deborah's song (Judg. 5:24).

Yahweh again showed Himself as the one true God through fulfilled prophecy (Judg. 4:9, 21) and glorious victory (vv. 23, 24). Womanhood was honored as Deborah and Jael were used of God to accomplish His purpose of delivering His people from their enemies.

The Song of Deborah

5 Then Deborah and Barak the son of Abinoam sang on that day, saying:

2 "When leaders lead in Israel,
When the people willingly offer themselves,
Bless the LORD!

3 "Hear, O kings! Give ear, O princes!
I, even I, will sing to the LORD;
I will sing praise to the LORD God of Israel.

4 "LORD, when You went out from Seir,
When You marched from the field of Edom,
The earth trembled and the heavens poured,
The clouds also poured water;
5 The mountains gushed before the LORD,
This Sinai, before the LORD God of Israel.

6 "In the days of Shamgar, son of Anath,
In the days of Jael,
The highways were deserted,
And the travelers walked along the byways.
7 Village life ceased, it ceased in Israel,
Until I, Deborah, arose, Arose a mother in Israel.
8 They chose new gods;
Then there was war in the gates;
Not a shield or spear was seen among forty thousand in Israel.
9 My heart is with the rulers of Israel
Who offered themselves willingly with the people.
Bless the LORD!

10 "Speak, you who ride on white donkeys,
Who sit in judges' attire,
And who walk along the road.
11 Far from the noise of the archers, among the watering places,
There they shall recount the righteous acts of the LORD,
The righteous acts for His villagers in Israel;
Then the people of the LORD shall go down to the gates.

5:1 Deborah's song, an ancient piece of Hebrew poetry, was probably written by Deborah. A common practice among the Israelites was to commemorate a national victory in song (see Num. 21:14, 15, note; chart, Hymns and Songs Associated with Women). One of the oldest poems of the Bible, Deborah's song builds on central themes of the OT, such as God's covenant with His people.

The poem can be divided as follows: purpose (Judg. 5:2), the call of witnesses (v. 3), God's past deliverances (vv. 4, 5), oppression in Israel before God's deliverance (vv. 6–9), an accounting of God's righteous acts (vv. 10, 11), Deborah's call (v. 12), a remembrance of the response of the tribes of Israel (vv. 13–18), the battle (vv. 19–23), Jael's triumph (vv. 24–27), the anxiety of Sisera's mother (vv. 28–30), and the conclusion (v. 31). This song also illustrates a type of Hebrew poetic parallelism in which themes or concepts are repeated in different words (vv. 26, 27). The same words are repeated also to make the poem flow like a song. The poem or song ends with irony in which Jael's killing is contrasted with the anxious waiting of Sisera's mother (vv. 28–30). Finally, this song is one of the earliest sources describing life and conditions in Israel at that time.

DEBORAH: A LEADER OF ISRAEL

EARLY YEARS	There is no information on Deborah's early years.
FAMILY STATUS	She was a homemaker, the wife of Lapidoth (Judg. 4:4). She is called "a mother in Israel" (Judg. 5:7) though children are not named.
LEADERSHIP TRAINING	She judged Israel during the oppression by Jabin (Judg. 4:3, 4).
GOD'S CALL	She was a prophetess when God chose her to judge Israel (Judg. 4:4).
GOD'S PROMISES	God promised to deliver Israel from Sisera (Judg. 4:7).
GOD'S INSTRUCTION	The Lord commanded her to send the troops out to destroy Sisera (Judg. 4:6, 7).
THE PEOPLE'S AFFIRMATION	Barak and the people followed the leadership of Deborah (Judg. 4:8).
DEBORAH'S LEADERSHIP	She inspired Barak to pursue God's plan, leading him into battle (Judg. 4:9).
OBSERVATIONS	She listened to God (Judg. 4:5). She had a servant's heart (Judg. 4:9). She delegated tasks (Judg. 4:6, 7). She offered praise (Judg. 5:2). She led with authority from God (Judg. 4:4). She motivated the people (Judg. 4:9, 14). She was a respected leader (Judg. 4:8).

12 "Awake, awake, Deborah!
Awake, awake, sing a song!
Arise, Barak, and lead your captives away,
O son of Abinoam!

13 "Then the survivors came down, the people against the nobles;
The LORD came down for me against the mighty.
14 From Ephraim were those whose roots were in Amalek.
After you, Benjamin, with your peoples,
From Machir rulers came down,
And from Zebulun those who bear the recruiter's staff.
15 And the princes of Issachar[a] were with Deborah;
As Issachar, so was Barak
Sent into the valley under his command;[b]
Among the divisions of Reuben
There were great resolves of heart.
16 Why did you sit among the sheepfolds,
To hear the pipings for the flocks?
The divisions of Reuben have great searchings of heart.
17 Gilead stayed beyond the Jordan,
And why did Dan remain on ships?[a] Asher continued at the seashore,
And stayed by his inlets.
18 Zebulun is a people who jeopardized their lives to the point of death,
Naphtali also, on the heights of the battlefield.

19 "The kings came and fought,
Then the kings of Canaan fought
In Taanach, by the waters of Megiddo;
They took no spoils of silver.
20 They fought from the heavens;
The stars from their courses fought against Sisera.
21 The torrent of Kishon swept them away,
That ancient torrent, the torrent of Kishon.
O my soul, march on in strength!
22 Then the horses' hooves pounded,
The galloping, galloping of his steeds.
23 'Curse Meroz,' said the angel[a] of the LORD,
'Curse its inhabitants bitterly,
Because they did not come to the help of the LORD,
To the help of the LORD against the mighty.'

24 "Most blessed among women is Jael,
The wife of Heber the Kenite;
Blessed is she among women in tents.

5:15 [a]Following Septuagint, Syriac, Targum, and Vulgate; Masoretic Text reads And my princes in Issachar. [b]Literally at his feet 5:17 [a]Or at ease 5:23 [a]Or Angel

25 He asked for water, she gave milk;
She brought out cream in a lordly bowl.
26 She stretched her hand to the tent peg,
Her right hand to the workmen's hammer;
She pounded Sisera, she pierced his head,
She split and struck through his temple.
27 At her feet he sank, he fell, he lay still;
At her feet he sank, he fell;
Where he sank, there he fell dead.

28 "The mother of Sisera looked through the window,
And cried out through the lattice,
'Why is his chariot so long in coming?
Why tarries the clatter of his chariots?'
29 Her wisest ladies answered her,
Yes, she answered herself,
30 'Are they not finding and dividing the spoil:
To every man a girl or two;
For Sisera, plunder of dyed garments,
Plunder of garments embroidered and dyed,
Two pieces of dyed embroidery for the neck of the looter?'

31 "Thus let all Your enemies perish, O LORD!
But let those who love Him be like the sun
When it comes out in full strength."

So the land had rest for forty years.

Midianites Oppress Israel

6 Then the children of Israel did evil in the sight of the LORD. So the LORD delivered them into the hand of Midian for seven years, 2 and the hand of Midian prevailed against Israel. Because of the Midianites, the children of Israel made for themselves the dens, the caves, and the strongholds which are in the mountains. 3 So it was, whenever Israel had sown, Midianites would come up; also Amalekites and the people of the East would come up against them. 4 Then they would encamp against them and destroy the produce of the earth as far as Gaza, and leave no sustenance for Israel, neither sheep nor ox nor donkey. 5 For they would come up with their livestock and their tents, coming in as numerous as locusts; both they and their camels were without number; and they would enter the land to destroy it. 6 So Israel was greatly impoverished because of the Midianites, and the children of Israel cried out to the LORD.

7 And it came to pass, when the children of Israel cried out to the LORD because of the Midianites, 8 that the LORD sent a prophet to the children of Israel, who said to them, "Thus says the LORD God of Israel: 'I brought you up from Egypt and brought you out of the house of bondage; 9 and I delivered you out of the hand of the Egyptians and out of the hand of all who oppressed you, and drove them out before you and gave you their land. 10 Also I said to you, "I am the LORD your God; do not fear the gods of the Amorites, in whose land you dwell." But you have not obeyed My voice.' "

Gideon

11 Now the Angel of the LORD came and sat under the terebinth tree which was in Ophrah, which belonged to Joash the Abiezrite, while his son Gideon threshed wheat in the winepress, in order to hide it from the Midianites. 12 And the Angel of the LORD appeared to him, and said to him, "The LORD is with you, you mighty man of valor!"

13 Gideon said to Him, "O my lord,[a] if the LORD is with us, why then has all this happened to us? And where are all His miracles which our fathers told us about, saying, 'Did not the LORD bring us up from Egypt?' But now the LORD has forsaken us and delivered us into the hands of the Midianites."

14 Then the LORD turned to him and said, "Go in this might of yours, and you shall save Israel from the hand of the Midianites. Have I not sent you?"

15 So he said to Him, "O my Lord,[a] how can I save Israel? Indeed my clan is the weakest in Manasseh, and I am the least in my father's house."

16 And the LORD said to him, "Surely I will be with you, and you shall defeat the Midianites as one man."

17 Then he said to Him, "If now I have found favor in Your sight, then show me a sign that it is You who talk with me. 18 Do not depart from here, I pray, until I come to You and bring out my offering and set it before You."

6:13 [a]Hebrew adoni, used of man 6:15 [a]Hebrew Adonai, used of God

6:1–10. The Midianite and Amalekite oppression. The first reference to semi-nomadic, camel-riding Bedouins who infiltrated Israel occurs here (v. 5). The Midianites lived in the south of Edom (close to the Gulf of Aqaba) and were joined in their raids by the Amalekites who lived in the wasteland of the Sinai peninsula and by the "people of the East" who were a nomadic group from the Syrian desert. The speed and mobility of the camel made raids possible even from long distances, causing great terror and destruction for the Israelites. Moreover, these nomads with their tents and livestock inevitably clashed with the sedentary Israelite farmers, reducing them almost to servitude.

6:11–27 Gideon was the youngest in his father's house and came from the weakest clan in the tribe of Manasseh (see charts, The Period of the Judges; The Angel of the Lord). He did not have impressive credentials for leadership. But Gideon obeyed the Lord by cleansing his father's household of idols. Despite Gideon's need of reassurance (see vv. 36–40, note), he was willing to die for others in the battle against the enemy. Leadership requires personal sacrifice (see chart, Esther: A Leader of the Jews).

And He said, "I will wait until you come back."
19So Gideon went in and prepared a young goat, and unleavened bread from an ephah of flour. The meat he put in a basket, and he put the broth in a pot; and he brought them out to Him under the terebinth tree and presented them.
20The Angel of God said to him, "Take the meat and the unleavened bread and lay them on this rock, and pour out the broth." And he did so.
21Then the Angel of the LORD put out the end of the staff that was in His hand, and touched the meat and the unleavened bread; and fire rose out of the rock and consumed the meat and the unleavened bread. And the Angel of the LORD departed out of his sight.
22Now Gideon perceived that He was the Angel of the LORD. So Gideon said, "Alas, O Lord GOD! For I have seen the Angel of the LORD face to face."
23Then the LORD said to him, "Peace be with you; do not fear, you shall not die." 24So Gideon built an altar there to the LORD, and called it The-LORD-Is-Peace.[a] To this day it is still in Ophrah of the Abiezrites.
25Now it came to pass the same night that the LORD said to him, "Take your father's young bull, the second bull of seven years old, and tear down the altar of Baal that your father has, and cut down the wooden image[a] that is beside it; 26and build an altar to the LORD your God on top of this rock in the proper arrangement, and take the second bull and offer a burnt sacrifice with the wood of the image which you shall cut down." 27So Gideon took ten men from among his servants and did as the LORD had said to him. But because he feared his father's household and the men of the city too much to do it by day, he did it by night.

Gideon Destroys the Altar of Baal

28And when the men of the city arose early in the morning, there was the altar of Baal, torn down; and the wooden image that was beside it was cut down, and the second bull was being offered on the altar which had been built. 29So they said to one another, "Who has done this thing?" And when they had inquired and asked, they said, "Gideon the son of Joash has done this thing."
30Then the men of the city said to Joash, "Bring out your son, that he may die, because he has torn down the altar of Baal, and because he has cut down the wooden image that was beside it."
31But Joash said to all who stood against him, "Would you plead for Baal? Would you save him? Let the one who would plead for him be put to death by morning! If he is a god, let him plead for himself, because his altar has been torn down!"
32Therefore on that day he called him Jerubbaal,[a] saying, "Let Baal plead against him, because he has torn down his altar."
33Then all the Midianites and Amalekites, the people of the East, gathered together; and they crossed over and encamped in the Valley of Jezreel. 34But the Spirit of the LORD came upon Gideon; then he blew the trumpet, and the Abiezrites gathered behind him. 35And he sent messengers throughout all Manasseh, who also gathered behind him. He also sent messengers to Asher, Zebulun, and Naphtali; and they came up to meet them.

The Sign of the Fleece

36So Gideon said to God, "If You will save Israel by my hand as You have said— 37look, I shall put a fleece of wool on the threshing floor; if there is dew on the fleece only, and it is dry on all the ground, then I shall know that You will save Israel by my hand, as You have said." 38And it was so. When he rose early the next morning and squeezed the fleece together, he wrung the dew out of the fleece, a bowlful of water. 39Then Gideon said to God, "Do not be angry with me, but let me speak just once more: Let me test, I pray, just once more with the fleece; let it now be dry only on the fleece, but on all the ground let there be dew." 40And God did so that night. It was dry on the fleece only, but there was dew on all the ground.

Gideon's Valiant Three Hundred

7 Then Jerubbaal (that is, Gideon) and all the people who were with him rose early and encamped beside the well of Harod, so that the camp of the Midianites was on the north side of them by the hill of Moreh in the valley.
2And the LORD said to Gideon, "The people who are with you are too many for Me to give the Midianites into their hands, lest Israel claim glory for itself against Me, saying, 'My own hand has saved me.' 3Now therefore, proclaim in the hearing of

6:24 [a]Hebrew YHWH Shalom 6:25 [a]Hebrew Asherah, a Canaanite goddess 6:32 [a]Literally Let Baal Plead

6:36–40 In the incident with the fleece, Gideon, who already had obeyed the Lord by destroying idolatry in his father's household, was not necessarily trying to guess God's will. Rather, he was asking boldly for reassurance of God's help in the military campaign, in the style of Jacob's clinging to God (Gen. 32:22–32). God was patient and gracious to Gideon and obviously responded to his request.

7:2–7 No conclusive evidence demonstrates something special or better about those warriors who knelt down and scooped up the water, while remaining alert (vv. 5–7). Rather this limitation in the number of troops reaffirmed that the battle was God's. God's power, not human power, would destroy the enemies of His people.

the people, saying, 'Whoever is fearful and afraid, let him turn and depart at once from Mount Gilead.' " And twenty-two thousand of the people returned, and ten thousand remained.

4But the LORD said to Gideon, "The people are still too many; bring them down to the water, and I will test them for you there. Then it will be, that of whom I say to you, 'This one shall go with you,' the same shall go with you; and of whomever I say to you, 'This one shall not go with you,' the same shall not go." 5So he brought the people down to the water. And the LORD said to Gideon, "Everyone who laps from the water with his tongue, as a dog laps, you shall set apart by himself; likewise everyone who gets down on his knees to drink." 6And the number of those who lapped, putting their hand to their mouth, was three hundred men; but all the rest of the people got down on their knees to drink water. 7Then the LORD said to Gideon, "By the three hundred men who lapped I will save you, and deliver the Midianites into your hand. Let all the other people go, every man to his place." 8So the people took provisions and their trumpets in their hands. And he sent away all the rest of Israel, every man to his tent, and retained those three hundred men. Now the camp of Midian was below him in the valley.

9It happened on the same night that the LORD said to him, "Arise, go down against the camp, for I have delivered it into your hand. 10But if you are afraid to go down, go down to the camp with Purah your servant, 11and you shall hear what they say; and afterward your hands shall be strengthened to go down against the camp." Then he went down with Purah his servant to the outpost of the armed men who were in the camp. 12Now the Midianites and Amalekites, all the people of the East, were lying in the valley as numerous as locusts; and their camels were without number, as the sand by the seashore in multitude.

13And when Gideon had come, there was a man telling a dream to his companion. He said, "I have had a dream: To my surprise, a loaf of barley bread tumbled into the camp of Midian; it came to a tent and struck it so that it fell and overturned, and the tent collapsed."

14Then his companion answered and said, "This is nothing else but the sword of Gideon the son of Joash, a man of Israel! Into his hand God has delivered Midian and the whole camp."

15And so it was, when Gideon heard the telling of the dream and its interpretation, that he worshiped. He returned to the camp of Israel, and said, "Arise, for the LORD has delivered the camp of Midian into your hand." 16Then he divided the three hundred men into three companies, and he put a trumpet into every man's hand, with empty pitchers, and torches inside the pitchers. 17And he said to them, "Look at me and do likewise; watch, and when I come to the edge of the camp you shall do as I do: 18When I blow the trumpet, I and all who are with me, then you also blow the trumpets on every side of the whole camp, and say, 'The sword of the LORD and of Gideon!' "

19So Gideon and the hundred men who were with him came to the outpost of the camp at the beginning of the middle watch, just as they had posted the watch; and they blew the trumpets and broke the pitchers that were in their hands. 20Then the three companies blew the trumpets and broke the pitchers—they held the torches in their left hands and the trumpets in their right hands for blowing—and they cried, "The sword of the LORD and of Gideon!" 21And every man stood in his place all around the camp; and the whole army ran and cried out and fled. 22When the three hundred blew the trumpets, the LORD set every man's sword against his companion throughout the whole camp; and the army fled to Beth Acacia,[a] toward Zererah, as far as the border of Abel Meholah, by Tabbath.

23And the men of Israel gathered together from Naphtali, Asher, and all Manasseh, and pursued the Midianites.

24Then Gideon sent messengers throughout all the mountains of Ephraim, saying, "Come down against the Midianites, and seize from them the watering places as far as Beth Barah and the Jordan." Then all the men of Ephraim gathered together and seized the watering places as far as Beth Barah and the Jordan. 25And they captured two princes of the Midianites, Oreb and Zeeb. They killed Oreb at the rock of Oreb, and Zeeb they killed at the winepress of Zeeb. They pursued Midian and brought the heads of Oreb and Zeeb to Gideon on the other side of the Jordan.

Gideon Subdues the Midianites

8 Now the men of Ephraim said to him, "Why have you done this to us by not calling us when

7:22 [a]Hebrew Beth Shittah

7:13–15 God revealed the future in dreams in the OT on several occasions (Gen. 40:1–22; 41:1–36; Dan. 2:1–45; 4:4–27). In this case, both dreamer and interpreter are not Israelites, reassuring Gideon that God is in control of everything: of the battle, the enemies, and Israel. The loaf of barley (bread made from an inferior grain grown by many poor Israelite farmers) symbolized a weak Israel fighting against a strong Midian (symbolized by a nomadic tent). Like Rahab and the inhabitants of Jericho, the enemy was afraid and knew that Israel's powerful God would give the victory to Israel. God not only provided Gideon with encouragement; He did it through the mouths of his enemies. A suitable response to such encouragement was not further speculation or fear but worship.

8:1–3 This tribal dispute gives evidence of early tensions

What if I am a woman? Is not the God of ancient times the God of these modern days? Did he not raise up Deborah, to be a mother, and a judge in Israel? Did not queen Esther save the lives of the Jews?

you went to fight with the Midianites?" And they reprimanded him sharply.

2So he said to them, "What have I done now in comparison with you? Is not the gleaning of the grapes of Ephraim better than the vintage of Abiezer? 3God has delivered into your hands the princes of Midian, Oreb and Zeeb. And what was I able to do in comparison with you?" Then their anger toward him subsided when he said that.

4When Gideon came to the Jordan, he and the three hundred men who were with him crossed over, exhausted but still in pursuit. 5Then he said to the men of Succoth, "Please give loaves of bread to the people who follow me, for they are exhausted, and I am pursuing Zebah and Zalmunna, kings of Midian."

6And the leaders of Succoth said, "Are the hands of Zebah and Zalmunna now in your hand, that we should give bread to your army?"

7So Gideon said, "For this cause, when the LORD has delivered Zebah and Zalmunna into my hand, then I will tear your flesh with the thorns of the wilderness and with briers!" 8Then he went up from there to Penuel and spoke to them in the same way. And the men of Penuel answered him as the men of Succoth had answered. 9So he also spoke to the men of Penuel, saying, "When I come back in peace, I will tear down this tower!"

10Now Zebah and Zalmunna were at Karkor, and their armies with them, about fifteen thousand, all who were left of all the army of the people of the East; for one hundred and twenty thousand men who drew the sword had fallen. 11Then Gideon went up by the road of those who dwell in tents on the east of Nobah and Jogbehah; and he attacked the army while the camp felt secure. 12When Zebah and Zalmunna fled, he pursued them; and he took the two kings of Midian, Zebah and Zalmunna, and routed the whole army.

13Then Gideon the son of Joash returned from battle, from the Ascent of Heres. 14And he caught a young man of the men of Succoth and interrogated him; and he wrote down for him the leaders of Succoth and its elders, seventy-seven men. 15Then he came to the men of Succoth and said, "Here are Zebah and Zalmunna, about whom you ridiculed me, saying, 'Are the hands of Zebah and Zalmunna now in your hand, that we should give bread to your weary men?' " 16And he took the elders of the city, and thorns of the wilderness and briers, and with them he taught the men of Succoth. 17Then he tore down the tower of Penuel and killed the men of the city.

18And he said to Zebah and Zalmunna, "What kind of men were they whom you killed at Tabor?"

So they answered, "As you are, so were they; each one resembled the son of a king."

19Then he said, "They were my brothers, the sons of my mother. As the LORD lives, if you had let them live, I would not kill you." 20And he said to Jether his firstborn, "Rise, kill them!" But the youth would not draw his sword; for he was afraid, because he was still a youth.

21So Zebah and Zalmunna said, "Rise yourself, and kill us; for as a man is, so is his strength." So Gideon arose and killed Zebah and Zalmunna, and took the crescent ornaments that were on their camels' necks.

Gideon's Ephod

22Then the men of Israel said to Gideon, "Rule over us, both you and your son, and your grandson

among the tribes of Israel, eventually leading to the division of Israel after Solomon's death. However, in this case, Gideon chose to maintain peace by telling the Ephraimites that even the gleanings (the worst) of Ephraim were better than the entire harvest (the best) of Abiezer, Gideon's clan. Gideon's statement appears to be an ancient proverb reflecting the superiority of Ephraim.

8:19 Men frequently had several wives and concubines in the ancient Near East. Thus, it was necessary to distinguish between full and half-brothers, especially when disputes over inheritance occurred. Polygamy entered history when Lamech (the seventh in Cain's line starting with Adam) wanted to appropriate God's original blessings (fruitfulness and multiplication) on his own terms (Gen. 4:19; see also 1 Tim. 3, Polygamy). However, in the beginning God had established monogamy (see Gen. 2, God's Plan for Marriage; Judg. 8:31, note; 19:1, 2).

8:22, 23 Gideon's rejection of the monarchy was a recognition that God was Israel's king. Two motivations can be found in this petition. First, the people longed for a lasting security that would not die with the death of the judge. Second, perhaps the people sought to imitate the Canaanite kingdoms. They thought deliverance and power would come from a human king. Gideon's answer seemed to criticize this second motivation. He encouraged the people to depend on the Lord for security.

also; for you have delivered us from the hand of Midian."

23But Gideon said to them, "I will not rule over you, nor shall my son rule over you; the LORD shall rule over you." 24Then Gideon said to them, "I would like to make a request of you, that each of you would give me the earrings from his plunder." For they had golden earrings, because they were Ishmaelites.

25So they answered, "We will gladly give them." And they spread out a garment, and each man threw into it the earrings from his plunder. 26Now the weight of the gold earrings that he requested was one thousand seven hundred shekels of gold, besides the crescent ornaments, pendants, and purple robes which were on the kings of Midian, and besides the chains that were around their camels' necks. 27Then Gideon made it into an ephod and set it up in his city, Ophrah. And all Israel played the harlot with it there. It became a snare to Gideon and to his house.

28Thus Midian was subdued before the children of Israel, so that they lifted their heads no more. And the country was quiet for forty years in the days of Gideon.

Death of Gideon

29Then Jerubbaal the son of Joash went and dwelt in his own house. 30Gideon had seventy sons who were his own offspring, for he had many wives. 31And his concubine who was in Shechem also bore him a son, whose name he called Abimelech. 32Now Gideon the son of Joash died at a good old age, and was buried in the tomb of Joash his father, in Ophrah of the Abiezrites.

33So it was, as soon as Gideon was dead, that the children of Israel again played the harlot with the Baals, and made Baal-Berith their god. 34Thus the children of Israel did not remember the LORD their God, who had delivered them from the hands of all their enemies on every side; 35nor did they show kindness to the house of Jerubbaal (Gideon) in accordance with the good he had done for Israel.

Abimelech's Conspiracy

9 Then Abimelech the son of Jerubbaal went to Shechem, to his mother's brothers, and spoke with them and with all the family of the house of his mother's father, saying, 2"Please speak in the hearing of all the men of Shechem: 'Which is better for you, that all seventy of the sons of Jerubbaal reign over you, or that one reign over you?' Remember that I am your own flesh and bone."

3And his mother's brothers spoke all these words concerning him in the hearing of all the men of Shechem; and their heart was inclined to follow Abimelech, for they said, "He is our brother." 4So they gave him seventy shekels of silver from the temple of Baal-Berith, with which Abimelech hired worthless and reckless men; and they followed him. 5Then he went to his father's house at Ophrah and killed his brothers, the seventy sons of Jerubbaal, on one stone. But Jotham the youngest son of Jerubbaal was left, because he hid himself. 6And all the men of Shechem gathered together, all of Beth Millo, and they went and made Abimelech king beside the terebinth tree at the pillar that was in Shechem.

The Parable of the Trees

7Now when they told Jotham, he went and stood on top of Mount Gerizim, and lifted his voice and cried out. And he said to them:

"Listen to me, you men of Shechem,
That God may listen to you!

8"The trees once went forth to anoint a king over them.

8:27 The ephod is described as a colorful vest worn by the priest and used to discern God's will (see Ex. 28, The High Priest's Clothing). However, this object also became associated with idolatry (as a free standing image) in the final chapters of Judges (see Judg. 17:5, 6, note). The tragic words, "all Israel played the harlot with it there," indicate that Gideon's intentions, as well as the Israelites' response, were highly influenced by the surrounding Canaanite idol worship.

8:31 Abimelech and his origins (see chart, The Period of the Judges). Gideon had many wives and concubines, a common sign of wealth or royalty in the ancient Near East. But the disastrous effects of this custom in Israel can be traced back at least as early as the case of Sarah and Hagar (Gen. 16:2), where the violation of marriage occurred because of basic disbelief in God's promises. The passage clearly distinguishes between the 70 sons of Gideon who "were his own offspring" (Judg. 8:30) and Abimelech who was the son of Gideon's concubine in Shechem. That concubine may well have remained in her family's home (see Judg. 14:10, 11, note). The children of these illegitmate relationships generally belonged to the wife's family, thus undermining even further Abimelech's subsequent unlawful claim to a monarchy which his father Gideon had rejected!

8:33 Baal-Berith is described as the god of Shechem, orginally a Canaanite city located about 40 miles north of Jerusalem between Mt. Ebal and Mt. Gerizim (Judg. 9:46). The city later became an important religious and political center in Israel. The form of worship at Shechem, at best, was a blending of Canaanite and Israelite elements. Ironically, Shechem had been the place where Joshua had renewed two crucial covenants between God and Israel (Josh. 8:30–35; 24:25–27; see also Gen. 12:6, 7; 33:18–20).

9:7–15 Mount Gerizim, located near Shechem, where Joshua fulfilled Moses' command to renew the covenant between God and Israel, was the place chosen by Jotham to relate his parable. He preached against the lawlessness of Abimelech and the Shechemites and prophesied against the disastrous

And they said to the olive tree,
'Reign over us!'
9But the olive tree said to them,
'Should I cease giving my oil,
With which they honor God and men,
And go to sway over trees?'

10"Then the trees said to the fig tree,
'You come and reign over us!'
11But the fig tree said to them,
'Should I cease my sweetness and my good fruit,
And go to sway over trees?'

12"Then the trees said to the vine,
'You come and reign over us!'
13But the vine said to them,
'Should I cease my new wine,
Which cheers both God and men,
And go to sway over trees?'

14"Then all the trees said to the bramble,
'You come and reign over us!'
15And the bramble said to the trees,
'If in truth you anoint me as king over you,
Then come and take shelter in my shade;
But if not, let fire come out of the bramble
And devour the cedars of Lebanon!'

16"Now therefore, if you have acted in truth and sincerity in making Abimelech king, and if you have dealt well with Jerubbaal and his house, and have done to him as he deserves— 17for my father fought for you, risked his life, and delivered you out of the hand of Midian; 18but you have risen up against my father's house this day, and killed his seventy sons on one stone, and made Abimelech, the son of his female servant, king over the men of Shechem, because he is your brother— 19if then you have acted in truth and sincerity with Jerubbaal and with his house this day, then rejoice in Abimelech, and let him also rejoice in you. 20But if not, let fire come from Abimelech and devour the men of Shechem and Beth Millo; and let fire come from the men of Shechem and from Beth Millo and devour Abimelech!" 21And Jotham ran away and fled; and he went to Beer and dwelt there, for fear of Abimelech his brother.

Downfall of Abimelech

22After Abimelech had reigned over Israel three years, 23God sent a spirit of ill will between Abimelech and the men of Shechem; and the men of Shechem dealt treacherously with Abimelech, 24that the crime done to the seventy sons of Jerubbaal might be settled and their blood be laid on Abimelech their brother, who killed them, and on the men of Shechem, who aided him in the killing of his brothers. 25And the men of Shechem set men in ambush against him on the tops of the mountains, and they robbed all who passed by them along that way; and it was told Abimelech.

26Now Gaal the son of Ebed came with his brothers and went over to Shechem; and the men of Shechem put their confidence in him. 27So they went out into the fields, and gathered grapes from their vineyards and trod them, and made merry. And they went into the house of their god, and ate and drank, and cursed Abimelech. 28Then Gaal the son of Ebed said, "Who is Abimelech, and who is Shechem, that we should serve him? Is he not the son of Jerubbaal, and is not Zebul his officer? Serve the men of Hamor the father of Shechem; but why should we serve him? 29If only this people were under my authority![a] Then I would remove Abimelech." So he[b] said to Abimelech, "Increase your army and come out!"

30When Zebul, the ruler of the city, heard the words of Gaal the son of Ebed, his anger was aroused. 31And he sent messengers to Abimelech secretly, saying, "Take note! Gaal the son of Ebed and his brothers have come to Shechem; and here they are, fortifying the city against you. 32Now therefore, get up by night, you and the people who are with you, and lie in wait in the field. 33And it shall be, as soon as the sun is up in the morning, that you shall rise early and rush upon the city; and when he and the people who are with him come out against you, you may then do to them as you find opportunity."

34So Abimelech and all the people who were with him rose by night, and lay in wait against Shechem in four companies. 35When Gaal the son of Ebed went out and stood in the entrance to the city gate, Abimelech and the people who were with him rose from lying in wait. 36And when Gaal saw the people, he said to Zebul, "Look, people are coming down from the tops of the mountains!"

But Zebul said to him, "You see the shadows of the mountains as if they were men."

37So Gaal spoke again and said, "See, people are coming down from the center of the land, and rule of Abimelech in Shechem. The ironic tone of the story is obvious. The trees of the forest invited the valued olive, fig, and vine to rule over them. Each refused. The worthless bramble representing Abimelech (a menace to farmers and fit only to be burned) accepted the invitation. The bramble's offer to provide the trees with shade was a false promise because the bramble lies too close to the earth to provide shade. The ominous threat of fire was a true prophecy of the Shechemites' future death (vv. 45–49).

ABIMELECH'S KILLER

The unnamed woman was in a desperate situation. Abimelech, an impostor king, had already burned to death a thousand men and women in the tower of Shechem and intended to do the same to this humble woman and her people in the tower of Thebez, ten miles northeast of Shechem. She had located whatever she could find for defending herself, namely, a simple millstone (typically 2 or 3 inches thick and 18 inches in diameter with a hole in the center) with which she usually did the grinding of the corn.

Like Abimelech, people still forget that God uses the weak, the poor, and the lowly to make and change history. "Thus God repaid the wickedness of Abimelech," and in so doing memorialized this unnamed heroine, a patriot who used her simple millstone to do what she could to save her people.

another company is coming from the Diviners'[a] Terebinth Tree."

38Then Zebul said to him, "Where indeed is your mouth now, with which you said, 'Who is Abimelech, that we should serve him?' Are not these the people whom you despised? Go out, if you will, and fight with them now."

39So Gaal went out, leading the men of Shechem, and fought with Abimelech. 40And Abimelech chased him, and he fled from him; and many fell wounded, to the very entrance of the gate. 41Then Abimelech dwelt at Arumah, and Zebul drove out Gaal and his brothers, so that they would not dwell in Shechem.

42And it came about on the next day that the people went out into the field, and they told Abimelech. 43So he took his people, divided them into three companies, and lay in wait in the field. And he looked, and there were the people, coming out of the city; and he rose against them and attacked them. 44Then Abimelech and the company that was with him rushed forward and stood at the entrance of the gate of the city; and the other two companies rushed upon all who were in the fields and killed them. 45So Abimelech fought against the city all that day; he took the city and killed the people who were in it; and he demolished the city and sowed it with salt.

46Now when all the men of the tower of Shechem had heard that, they entered the stronghold of the temple of the god Berith. 47And it was told Abimelech that all the men of the tower of Shechem were gathered together. 48Then Abimelech went up to Mount Zalmon, he and all the people who were with him. And Abimelech took an ax in his hand and cut down a bough from the trees, and took it and laid it on his shoulder; then he said to the people who were with him, "What you have seen me do, make haste and do as I have done." 49So each of the people likewise cut down his own bough and followed Abimelech, put them against the stronghold, and set the stronghold on fire above them, so that all the people of the tower of Shechem died, about a thousand men and women.

50Then Abimelech went to Thebez, and he encamped against Thebez and took it. 51But there was a strong tower in the city, and all the men and women—all the people of the city—fled there and shut themselves in; then they went up to the top of the tower. 52So Abimelech came as far as the tower and fought against it; and he drew near the door of the tower to burn it with fire. 53But a certain woman dropped an upper millstone on Abimelech's head and crushed his skull. 54Then he called quickly to the young man, his armorbearer, and said to him, "Draw your sword and kill me, lest men say of me, 'A woman killed him.' " So his young man thrust him through, and he died. 55And when the men of Israel saw that Abimelech was dead, they departed, every man to his place.

56Thus God repaid the wickedness of Abimelech, which he had done to his father by killing his seventy brothers. 57And all the evil of the men of Shechem God returned on their own heads, and on them came the curse of Jotham the son of Jerubbaal.

Tola

10After Abimelech there arose to save Israel Tola the son of Puah, the son of Dodo, a man of Issachar; and he dwelt in Shamir in the mountains of Ephraim. 2He judged Israel twenty-three years; and he died and was buried in Shamir.

9:37 [a]Hebrew Meonenim

9:53, 54 In fulfillment of Jotham's parable, the Shechemites and the rebels found fire instead of shade under Abimelech's rule (see vv. 7–15, note). While the men defended the tower with their weapons (arrows and spears), women helped by dropping stones that were normally used for domestic purposes. God is in control of history. Abimelech reaped the results of his wickedness through the actions of a woman (see Judg. 4:9, note; Abimelech's Killer).

Jair

3After him arose Jair, a Gileadite; and he judged Israel twenty-two years. 4Now he had thirty sons who rode on thirty donkeys; they also had thirty towns, which are called "Havoth Jair"[a] to this day, which are in the land of Gilead. 5And Jair died and was buried in Camon.

Israel Oppressed Again

6Then the children of Israel again did evil in the sight of the LORD, and served the Baals and the Ashtoreths, the gods of Syria, the gods of Sidon, the gods of Moab, the gods of the people of Ammon, and the gods of the Philistines; and they forsook the LORD and did not serve Him. 7So the anger of the LORD was hot against Israel; and He sold them into the hands of the Philistines and into the hands of the people of Ammon. 8From that year they harassed and oppressed the children of Israel for eighteen years—all the children of Israel who were on the other side of the Jordan in the land of the Amorites, in Gilead. 9Moreover the people of Ammon crossed over the Jordan to fight against Judah also, against Benjamin, and against the house of Ephraim, so that Israel was severely distressed.

10And the children of Israel cried out to the LORD, saying, "We have sinned against You, because we have both forsaken our God and served the Baals!"

11So the LORD said to the children of Israel, "Did I not deliver you from the Egyptians and from the Amorites and from the people of Ammon and from the Philistines? 12Also the Sidonians and Amalekites and Maonites[a] oppressed you; and you cried out to Me, and I delivered you from their hand. 13Yet you have forsaken Me and served other gods. Therefore I will deliver you no more. 14Go and cry out to the gods which you have chosen; let them deliver you in your time of distress."

15And the children of Israel said to the LORD, "We have sinned! Do to us whatever seems best to You; only deliver us this day, we pray." 16So they put away the foreign gods from among them and served the LORD. And His soul could no longer endure the misery of Israel.

17Then the people of Ammon gathered together and encamped in Gilead. And the children of Israel assembled together and encamped in Mizpah. 18And the people, the leaders of Gilead, said to one another, "Who is the man who will begin the fight against the people of Ammon? He shall be head over all the inhabitants of Gilead."

Jephthah

11 Now Jephthah the Gileadite was a mighty man of valor, but he was the son of a harlot; and Gilead begot Jephthah. 2Gilead's wife bore sons; and when his wife's sons grew up, they drove Jephthah out, and said to him, "You shall have no inheritance in our father's house, for you are the son of another woman." 3Then Jephthah fled from his brothers and dwelt in the land of Tob; and worthless men banded together with Jephthah and went out raiding with him.

4It came to pass after a time that the people of Ammon made war against Israel. 5And so it was, when the people of Ammon made war against Israel, that the elders of Gilead went to get Jephthah from the land of Tob. 6Then they said to Jephthah, "Come and be our commander, that we may fight against the people of Ammon."

7So Jephthah said to the elders of Gilead, "Did you not hate me, and expel me from my father's house? Why have you come to me now when you are in distress?"

8And the elders of Gilead said to Jephthah, "That is why we have turned again to you now, that you may go with us and fight against the people of Ammon, and be our head over all the inhabitants of Gilead."

9So Jephthah said to the elders of Gilead, "If you take me back home to fight against the people of Ammon, and the LORD delivers them to me, shall I be your head?"

10And the elders of Gilead said to Jephthah, "The LORD will be a witness between us, if we do not do according to your words." 11Then Jephthah went with the elders of Gilead, and the people made him head and commander over them; and 11:1–10 Jephthah's credentials for leadership, like many of Israel's judges, were not impressive. The son of a prostitute, he had been expelled from his father's house and had become a bandit, a social outcast. Unlike Gideon, Jephthah's initial answer to the elders of Gilead seems to have been motivated by his own self-interest rather than by a desire to serve the Lord. At the end, however, his decision to lead Israel also was motivated by loyalty to the same people who had first rejected him because of his origins (see chart, The Period of the Judges).

JEPHTHAH'S OBEDIENT DAUGHTER

Jephthah's daughter illuminates the hard realities of daily life during the period of the judges. This period of Israel's history was a time of widespread defection from and disobedience toward God. Judges were generally political or military leaders whom, imperfect as they were, God was able to use to deliver His people.

Nothing is known about this young woman except what is captured in these verses, but they express a significant teaching. Obviously, even though the Spirit of the Lord had come upon him (Judg. 11:29), Jephthah evidently still felt the need to do something further to win assurance of God's favor in battle. Making a vow before battle was common, and Jephthah lived in a society where human sacrifices to pagan gods were routine. The original language indicates that Jephthah intentionally made a vow which could well include human sacrifice, although God had specifically prohibited such (Lev. 18:21; 20:1–5). This vow signifies Jephthah's incomplete knowledge of or blatant insensitivity to the law of Moses.

What do we learn about this young girl in these few verses? When her father returned after the battle with the Ammonites, she ran to greet him with timbrels and dancing, the customary greeting of women for their men who were returning victoriously from battle. No doubt she was as horrified as he was when she learned that she was to be the fulfillment of her father's vow. Rather than grieving over the tragedy that she would never marry and have children, the supreme fulfillment of Hebrew women, or even the tragedy of her impending death, as Josephus and most commentators understand the passage to mean, she submitted to the very limited understanding she had of her father's fatal vow (Judg. 11:36). This young girl exhibited total commitment, albeit to a misguided understanding of God's expectations.

What can Jephthah's daughter teach women today? Certainly she is a sterling example of a daughter's willing obedience to her father and total commitment to God. However, with the entire witness of Scripture as guidance for life, there is little excuse for such gross misinterpretation of God's requirements. Today, as in the time of Jephthah's daughter, children often bear the consequences of their parents' decisions. Parents need to be exceedingly wise as well as deliberate in making decisions that affect their children's lives (see Eph. 6:4).

Jephthah spoke all his words before the LORD in Mizpah.

12 Now Jephthah sent messengers to the king of the people of Ammon, saying, "What do you have against me, that you have come to fight against me in my land?"

13 And the king of the people of Ammon answered the messengers of Jephthah, "Because Israel took away my land when they came up out of Egypt, from the Arnon as far as the Jabbok, and to the Jordan. Now therefore, restore those lands peaceably."

14 So Jephthah again sent messengers to the king of the people of Ammon, 15 and said to him, "Thus says Jephthah: 'Israel did not take away the land of Moab, nor the land of the people of Ammon; 16 for when Israel came up from Egypt, they walked through the wilderness as far as the Red Sea and came to Kadesh. 17 Then Israel sent messengers to the king of Edom, saying, "Please let me pass through your land." But the king of Edom would not heed. And in like manner they sent to the king of Moab, but he would not consent. So Israel remained in Kadesh. 18 And they went along through the wilderness and bypassed the land of Edom and the land of Moab, came to the east side of the land of Moab, and encamped on the other side of the Arnon. But they did not enter the border of Moab, for the Arnon was the border of Moab. 19 Then Israel sent messengers to Sihon king of the Amorites, king of Heshbon; and Israel said to him, "Please let us pass through your land into our place." 20 But Sihon did not trust Israel to pass through his territory. So Sihon gathered all his people together, encamped in Jahaz, and fought against Israel. 21 And the LORD God of Israel delivered Sihon and all his people into the hand of Israel, and they defeated them. Thus Israel gained possession of all the land of the Amorites, who inhabited that country. 22 They took possession of all the territory of the Amorites, from the Arnon to the Jabbok and from the wilderness to the Jordan.

23 'And now the LORD God of Israel has dispossessed the Amorites from before His people Israel; should you then possess it? 24 Will you not possess

11:14–28 Jephthah's response to the Ammonite menace was an example of contemporary international diplomacy. Often appeals were made to the gods (in this case, the one true God, v. 27) to establish and protect territorial frontiers. Jephthah's ironic reply goes back to when Israel began the conquest of the Land by battling against the Amorites and not against the Ammonites (Num. 21:21–32). God had long ago given the Promised Land to Israel. It was ridiculous for the Ammonites to try to claim a territory that previously belonged to the Amorites and now belonged to Israel! If the Ammonites had some claim to the Land, why did they wait 300 years to press it (v. 26)?

whatever Chemosh your god gives you to possess? So whatever the LORD our God takes possession of before us, we will possess. 25And now, are you any better than Balak the son of Zippor, king of Moab? Did he ever strive against Israel? Did he ever fight against them? 26While Israel dwelt in Heshbon and its villages, in Aroer and its villages, and in all the cities along the banks of the Arnon, for three hundred years, why did you not recover them within that time? 27Therefore I have not sinned against you, but you wronged me by fighting against me. May the LORD, the Judge, render judgment this day between the children of Israel and the people of Ammon.' " 28However, the king of the people of Ammon did not heed the words which Jephthah sent him.

Jephthah's Vow and Victory

29Then the Spirit of the LORD came upon Jephthah, and he passed through Gilead and Manasseh, and passed through Mizpah of Gilead; and from Mizpah of Gilead he advanced toward the people of Ammon. 30And Jephthah made a vow to the LORD, and said, "If You will indeed deliver the people of Ammon into my hands, 31then it will be that whatever comes out of the doors of my house to meet me, when I return in peace from the people of Ammon, shall surely be the LORD's, and I will offer it up as a burnt offering."

32So Jephthah advanced toward the people of Ammon to fight against them, and the LORD delivered them into his hands. 33And he defeated them from Aroer as far as Minnith—twenty cities—and to Abel Keramim,[a] with a very great slaughter. Thus the people of Ammon were subdued before the children of Israel.

Jephthah's Daughter

34When Jephthah came to his house at Mizpah, there was his daughter, coming out to meet him with timbrels and dancing; and she was his only child. Besides her he had neither son nor daughter. 35And it came to pass, when he saw her, that he tore his clothes, and said, "Alas, my daughter! You have brought me very low! You are among those who trouble me! For I have given my word to the LORD, and I cannot go back on it."

36So she said to him, "My father, if you have given your word to the LORD, do to me according to what has gone out of your mouth, because the LORD has avenged you of your enemies, the people of Ammon." 37Then she said to her father, "Let this thing be done for me: let me alone for two months, that I may go and wander on the mountains and bewail my virginity, my friends and I."

38So he said, "Go." And he sent her away for two months; and she went with her friends, and bewailed her virginity on the mountains. 39And it was so at the end of two months that she returned to her father, and he carried out his vow with her which he had vowed. She knew no man.

And it became a custom in Israel 40*that* the daughters of Israel went four days each year to lament the daughter of Jephthah the Gileadite.

Jephthah's Conflict with Ephraim

12 Then the men of Ephraim gathered together, crossed over toward Zaphon, and said to Jephthah, "Why did you cross over to fight against the people of Ammon, and did not call us to go with you? We will burn your house down on you with fire!"

2And Jephthah said to them, "My people and I were in a great struggle with the people of Ammon; and when I called you, you did not deliver me out of their hands. 3So when I saw that you would not deliver me, I took my life in my hands and crossed over against the people of Ammon; and the LORD delivered them into my hand. Why then have you come up to me this day to fight against me?" 4Now Jephthah gathered together all the men of Gilead and fought against Ephraim. And

11:33 [a]Literally Plain of Vineyards

11:27 The Lord alone receives the designation "Judge" in the Book of Judges, although others are described as exercising the function of a judge.

11:30, 31 In the midst of the battle, Jephthah sought to bargain with God by offering the Lord a private sacrifice to ensure his own victory (see Jephthah's Obedient Daughter). God's use of Jephthah to deliver the Israelites was not in response to Jephthah's vow. God had rejected human sacrifice and had given specific prohibitions against it (Lev. 18:21; 20:1–5; Deut. 12:29–32; 18:9–12). Parents were not allowed to sacrifice their children. But here Jephthah, influenced no doubt by the customs of the pagan cultures around him, tried to get what he wanted in his own way, without knowing the outcome of his foolish vow. Ironically, as Jephthah suffered for the sins of his parents, his daughter was to suffer because of her father's foolish vow. The unnamed girl responded with courage and accepted the consequences of her father's vow (Judg. 11:39, 40). Jephthah's line came to an end—even if Jephthah merely devoted his daughter to perpetual virginity, as some scholars believe happened. Other references are made to unlawful human sacrifices (2 Kin. 16:3; 17:17; 21:6; 2 Chr. 33:6; Jer. 7:31; 19:5; 32:35; Ezek. 16:20, 21).

12:1–7 Jephthah, unlike Gideon, did not seek to appease the Ephraimites (Judg. 8:1–3). Apparently the Israelites who lived east of the Jordan pronounced the first letter of "Shibboleth" (Heb., lit. "flowing stream" or "ear of grain") with a "sh" sound, while those living in Canaan pronounced it with an "s" sound, giving evidence of the growing separation between eastern and western tribes. Thus, the Ephraimites were identified by their speech. Jephthah, though vindicated as a leader of Gilead, responded to the insults of Ephraim with force. This intertribal war was costly in that 42,000 Ephraimites were slain.

PREGNANCY — THE ULTIMATE CREATIVE ACTIVITY

The biblical description of pregnancy is not comforting. From the time of Eve's disobedience God stated clearly, "I will greatly multiply your sorrow and your conception; In pain you shall bring forth children" (Gen. 3:16).

Anyone who has endured the nausea or vomiting of the first trimester or the seemingly endless misery of the last trimester clearly knows what God meant. The trials of pregnancy, however, produce results that are highly positive.

First, this condition can produce in the mother patience that will be of crucial importance after her child is born. A mother's patience, in turn, can both calm and strengthen her children. On the other hand, a woman who becomes angry and self-pitying during pregnancy can produce damage in both herself and her child. Second, the pain and discomfort of pregnancy only serves to heighten the joy associated with birth.

Instead of considering Genesis 1:28 as a commandment, look at these words as the unveiling of a divine blessing. Such is certainly consistent with the whole of Scripture. Procreation is not something we must do to please God so much as what God allows us to do with Him. All babies are created with unique purpose by Him (Ps. 139:13–16). Of course, the possibility of morning sickness, weight gain, and the awkwardness of body and schedule changes may overshadow this potentially delightful and joyous experience. Nevertheless, as we share in the ultimate creative activity, we have God's promise that children are a rewarding gift from Him (Ps. 127:3–5).

the men of Gilead defeated Ephraim, because they said, "You Gileadites are fugitives of Ephraim among the Ephraimites and among the Manassites." 5The Gileadites seized the fords of the Jordan before the Ephraimites arrived. And when any Ephraimite who escaped said, "Let me cross over," the men of Gilead would say to him, "Are you an Ephraimite?" If he said, "No," 6then they would say to him, "Then say, 'Shibboleth'!" And he would say, "Sibboleth," for he could not pronounce it right. Then they would take him and kill him at the fords of the Jordan. There fell at that time forty-two thousand Ephraimites.

7And Jephthah judged Israel six years. Then Jephthah the Gileadite died and was buried among the cities of Gilead.

Ibzan, Elon, and Abdon

8After him, Ibzan of Bethlehem judged Israel. 9He had thirty sons. And he gave away thirty daughters in marriage, and brought in thirty daughters from elsewhere for his sons. He judged Israel seven years. 10Then Ibzan died and was buried at Bethlehem.

11After him, Elon the Zebulunite judged Israel. He judged Israel ten years. 12And Elon the Zebulunite died and was buried at Aijalon in the country of Zebulun.

13After him, Abdon the son of Hillel the Pirathonite judged Israel. 14He had forty sons and thirty grandsons, who rode on seventy young donkeys. He judged Israel eight years. 15Then Abdon the son of Hillel the Pirathonite died and was buried in Pirathon in the land of Ephraim, in the mountains of the Amalekites.

The Birth of Samson

13 Again the children of Israel did evil in the sight of the LORD, and the LORD delivered them into the hand of the Philistines for forty years.

2Now there was a certain man from Zorah, of the family of the Danites, whose name was Manoah; and his wife was barren and had no children. 3And the Angel of the LORD appeared to the woman and said to her, "Indeed now, you are barren and have borne no children, but you shall conceive and bear a son. 4Now therefore, please be careful not to drink wine or similar drink, and not to eat anything unclean. 5For behold, you shall conceive and bear a son. And no razor shall come upon his head, for the child shall be a 13:1 The final oppression recorded in Judges lasted 40 years and involved Samson, a Danite judge. He probably judged western Israel around the time of Jephthah's judgeship. Eventually, the Philistine threat led Israel to seek the stronger and more permanent leadership of a king.

13:2–5 Samson's mother, childless, as were Sarah (Gen. 11:30; 16:1), Rebekah (Gen. 25:21), Hannah (1 Sam. 1:2), and Elizabeth (Luke 1:7), received two visits from the Angel of the Lord (see chart, The Angel of the Lord). God's announcement to her must have seemed an incredible gift. She had been humiliated, bearing the reproach of a woman who would soon be forgotten because she had no children to keep her memory alive (see Samson's Confident Mother).

THE ANGEL OF THE LORD

THE ANGEL OF THE LORD APPEARED	THE ANGEL OF THE LORD ACTED	THE ANGEL OF THE LORD EXPRESSED GOD'S CONCERN
To Hagar	By telling Hagar to return to Sarah (Gen. 16:9).	For a mistreated WOMAN by promising her many descendants (Gen. 16:10).
To the Israelites	By announcing judgment against God's people because of their disobedience (Judg. 2:1–3).	For a fledgling NATION by bringing them to repentance (Judg. 2:4, 5).
To Gideon	By commissioning Gideon to destroy idolatry in his father's house and to wage war against the Midianites (Judg. 6:11–25).	For FAMILIES by cleansing Gideon's family from idolatry (Judg. 6:26–28).
To Samson's mother	By announcing Samson's birth (Judg. 13:3–5).	For a barren WOMAN by blessing her with the birth of a special child (Judg. 13:24).
To Samson's parents	By announcing Samson's ministry (Judg. 13:5–21).	For a COUPLE by helping them with godly parenting (Judg. 13:11–14).
To Elizabeth's husband	By announcing the birth of John the Baptist (Luke 1:13–17).	For a MAN of God and his WIFE by giving them a son and heir in their old age (Luke 1:24, 25, 57, 58).

Note: The Angel of the Lord is shrouded in mystery. Clearly He is a messenger of the Lord appearing according to divine assignment to deliver God's Word concerning revelation, deliverance, or judgment. Many consider this heavenly messenger to be a Christophany or an appearance of the pre-incarnate Christ to human beings who otherwise would not have been able to look upon God and live (see Ex. 33:20).

Nazirite to God from the womb; and he shall begin to deliver Israel out of the hand of the Philistines."

6So the woman came and told her husband, saying, "A Man of God came to me, and His countenance was like the countenance of the Angel of God, very awesome; but I did not ask Him where He was from, and He did not tell me His name. 7And He said to me, 'Behold, you shall conceive and bear a son. Now drink no wine or similar drink, nor eat anything unclean, for the child shall be a Nazirite to God from the womb to the day of his death.' "

8Then Manoah prayed to the LORD, and said, "O my Lord, please let the Man of God whom You sent come to us again and teach us what we shall do for the child who will be born."

9And God listened to the voice of Manoah, and the Angel of God came to the woman again as she was sitting in the field; but Manoah her husband was not with her. 10Then the woman ran in haste and told her husband, and said to him, "Look, the Man who came to me the other day has just now appeared to me!"

11So Manoah arose and followed his wife. When he came to the Man, he said to Him, "Are You the Man who spoke to this woman?"

And He said, "I am."

12Manoah said, "Now let Your words come to pass! What will be the boy's rule of life, and his work?"

13So the Angel of the LORD said to Manoah, "Of all that I said to the woman let her be careful. 14She may not eat anything that comes from the

SAMSON'S CONFIDENT MOTHER

An humble and childless woman was accosted in the field by an Angel of the Lord who prophesied that she would bear a son who would deliver Israel from the heavy-handed Philistines. This unnamed woman was married to Manoah of the tribe of Dan. They lived in Zorah, west of Jerusalem.

Manoah and his wife were apparently devout believers, but the Angel's prophecy seemed almost too good to be true. The wife told her husband all that had happened, and Manoah prayed that the Man of God would return in order to "teach us what we shall do for the child who will be born" (Judg. 13:8). They did not hesitate to believe. The Angel returned for the third time to repeat the rules of the Nazirite vow: no wine or fruit, no razor on the head, no touching of anything unclean.

Although this woman may have been illiterate and dependent upon her husband, as a believer and an expectant mother she had no trouble complying with the instruction of the heavenly messenger. Manoah made an offering to God on the spot, and as the flame ascended, the Angel went with it. Terrified, the two fell on their faces (vv. 19, 20).

The revelation of the supernatural was required for a depraved society such as theirs, and the dramatic display confirmed God's supernatural intervention, no doubt answering their prayers. When Manoah expressed his fear that they themselves would die because they had seen God, his wife demonstrated confidence in God: "If the LORD had desired to kill us, He would not have accepted [an offering]" (v. 23).

The promised son, Samson (meaning "sunlike" or "splendor"), chose a lifestyle reflecting the fallen nature of his world; nevertheless, God used him to restrain the Philistines. As a result, his name is found with the heroes of faith in Hebrews (Judg. 11:32).

The disappointment of barrenness was transformed into the joy of motherhood. Though grateful for a son of such unusual strength, this humble mother must also have grieved over Samson's selfishness and disobedience to God. Certainly his mother's prayers and nurturing played a part in the contribution Samson made as a deliverer of his people. This unnamed woman will be remembered as a believing woman who left her testimony: Every woman must not only listen for God's direction but also obey Him even in the minutest details (Judg. 13:14). God's holy angels are poised to bring about His will even when least expected.

vine, nor may she drink wine or similar drink, nor eat anything unclean. All that I commanded her let her observe."

15Then Manoah said to the Angel of the LORD, "Please let us detain You, and we will prepare a young goat for You."

16And the Angel of the LORD said to Manoah, "Though you detain Me, I will not eat your food. But if you offer a burnt offering, you must offer it to the LORD." (For Manoah did not know He was the Angel of the LORD.)

17Then Manoah said to the Angel of the LORD, "What is Your name, that when Your words come to pass we may honor You?"

18And the Angel of the LORD said to him, "Why do you ask My name, seeing it is wonderful?"

19So Manoah took the young goat with the grain offering, and offered it upon the rock to the LORD. And He did a wondrous thing while Manoah and his wife looked on— 20it happened as the flame went up toward heaven from the altar— the Angel of the LORD ascended in the flame of the altar! When Manoah and his wife saw this, they fell on their faces to the ground. 21When the Angel of the LORD appeared no more to Manoah and his wife, then Manoah knew that He was the Angel of the LORD.

22And Manoah said to his wife, "We shall surely die, because we have seen God!"

23But his wife said to him, "If the LORD had desired to kill us, He would not have accepted a burnt offering and a grain offering from our hands, nor would He have shown us all these things, nor would He have told us such things as these at this time."

24So the woman bore a son and called his name Samson; and the child grew, and the LORD blessed him. 25And the Spirit of the LORD began to move upon him at Mahaneh Dan[a] between Zorah and Eshtaol.

13:25 [a]Literally Camp of Dan (compare 18:12)

13:24 Samson was to be a Nazirite from birth (see v. 5), serving the Lord all his life. As a Nazirite, he was to abstain from wine or strong drink, to avoid the razor, and to avoid defilement by contact with anything dead (Num. 6:1, 2, 3–8, notes). Samson (Heb., lit. "sun" or "brightness"), like the nation of Israel, had been chosen to be holy to God. But just as Samson was attracted to foreign women, Israel was attracted to the pagan practices of the Canaanites. Finally, just as a defeated and blind Samson ended his life grinding corn in chains, Israel also succumbed to a long period of Philistine oppression (see chart, The Period of the Judges).

Samson's Philistine Wife

14 Now Samson went down to Timnah, and saw a woman in Timnah of the daughters of the Philistines. 2So he went up and told his father and mother, saying, "I have seen a woman in Tim-nah of the daughters of the Philistines; now therefore, get her for me as a wife."

3Then his father and mother said to him, "Is there no woman among the daughters of your brethren, or among all my people, that you must go and get a wife from the uncircumcised Philistines?"

And Samson said to his father, "Get her for me, for she pleases me well."

4But his father and mother did not know that it was of the LORD—that He was seeking an occasion to move against the Philistines. For at that time the Philistines had dominion over Israel.

5So Samson went down to Timnah with his father and mother, and came to the vineyards of Timnah.

Now to his surprise, a young lion came roaring against him. 6And the Spirit of the LORD came mightily upon him, and he tore the lion apart as one would have torn apart a young goat, though he had nothing in his hand. But he did not tell his father or his mother what he had done.

7Then he went down and talked with the woman; and she pleased Samson well. 8After some time, when he returned to get her, he turned aside to see the carcass of the lion. And behold, a swarm of bees and honey were in the carcass of the lion. 9He took some of it in his hands and went along, eating. When he came to his father and mother, he gave some to them, and they also ate.
But he did not tell them that he had taken the honey out of the carcass of the lion.

10So his father went down to the woman. And Samson gave a feast there, for young men used to do so. 11And it happened, when they saw him, that they brought thirty companions to be with him.

12Then Samson said to them, "Let me pose a riddle to you. If you can correctly solve and explain it to me within the seven days of the feast, then I will give you thirty linen garments and thirty changes of clothing. 13But if you cannot explain it to me, then you shall give me thirty linen garments and thirty changes of clothing."

And they said to him, "Pose your riddle, that we may hear it."

14So he said to them:

"Out of the eater came something to eat,
And out of the strong came something sweet."

Now for three days they could not explain the riddle.

15But it came to pass on the seventh[a] day that they said to Samson's wife, "Entice your husband, that he may explain the riddle to us, or else we will burn you and your father's house with fire.
Have you invited us in order to take what is ours?
Is that not so?"

16Then Samson's wife wept on him, and said,
"You only hate me! You do not love me! You have 14:15 [a]Following Masoretic Text, Targum, and Vulgate; Septuagint and Syriac read fourth.

14:1–3 Timnah was a Philistine town in the Sorek valley approximately four miles southwest of Zorah (Judg. 13:25). The Philistines (or "sea peoples") already had mastered the use of iron (see Judg. 3:3, note). Marrying someone from a stronger and more prestigious culture may have seemed attractive and beneficial by human standards. Samson's decision to marry the unnamed woman of Timnah, however, was a conscious choice to neglect his special ministry and disobey God's explicit command not to intermarry with the Canaanites (Ex. 34:11–16; Deut. 7:1–3; see also Samson's Pagan Bride). Samson's parents were rightly upset. In Hebrew society, the father was expected to choose a wife for his son. Samson's parents were in a difficult position because they remembered what the Angel of the Lord had required of their son (see Judg. 14:4, note; chart, The Angel of the Lord).

14:4 God is in control of history, but people are also fully responsible and accountable for their actions. This tension exists in the daily lives of God's people. The Book of Judges correctly records the history of Israel from this theological viewpoint. Samson was fully responsible for his disobedience, but God in His providence, despite Samson's failure, used him to bring deliverance to the Israelites.

14:10, 11 Samson's feast was held to celebrate a marriage commitment in which the bride did not join her husband's family but stayed with her own family and received occasional visits from her husband. In metronymic marriage, the husband was viewed as joining his wife's family and in theory was subservient to his wife's father, and any children of such a marriage were considered members of the mother's family. Samson's marriage feast lasted seven days. The marriage could be physically consummated at the end of the feast. The 30 companions served as protectors of the wedding party. How ironic that the usually joyful occasion of a wedding became the tragic cause of Samson's breaking two of his Nazirite vows—the prohibitions against drinking wine and having contact with a dead body.

14:15–17 A disgraced bride. Unhappy at the possibility of having to come up with payment to Samson if they could not solve his riddle, the 30 companions, who were supposedly wedding protectors, threatened physical violence against the bride and her family if she did not learn the riddle's answer for them. They even implied that she was involved in an attempt to relieve them of their wedding finery. Linen garments and changes of clothing, frequently taken as spoils of war by triumphant forces, were costly items and used for special events. A person might possess only one such garment in an entire lifetime. This young Timnite woman, in seeking to save herself, lost everything. In his anger, Samson never entered the bridal chamber; thus she became a disgraced bride (see Judg. 15:1, 2).

SAMSON'S PAGAN BRIDE

This impressive woman from Timnah captured Samson's affection with her beauty and charm, and she, too, must have been infatuated with his strength and wit. They married hurriedly and despite parental opposition. The marriage was doomed from its beginning because of competing loyalties which pulled at the young couple as well as selfishness and immaturity on the part of both.

The Timnite, who had remained in her parents' home after her wedding, was most concerned with her own self-preservation. Just as Samson, she was accustomed to getting her own way, if by no other means, through her tears and whining (Judg. 14:2, 3, 16, 17). She used all her manipulative skills, including a week of tears, to meet the demands of her countrymen, knowing all the while that they planned evil against her husband. When Samson finally trusted her with his secret, she blatantly, and seemingly without remorse, betrayed him. She was under threat for the lives of herself and her family, but in the end, perhaps because of her own wrong choices, all their lives were lost (Judg. 15:6). Who knows what protection Samson might have afforded the family if only his wife had communicated her fears to him.

The Timnite and Samson erred when they rushed into the serious commitment of marriage based upon initial infatuation and physical attraction (Judg. 14:2, 3). Neither had left father and mother in order to give primary loyalty to the other (see Gen. 2:24). Neither reached beyond self to be concerned about the best interest of the other (see Eph. 5:33). Neither had considered the ramifications of being linked to another who did not have the same spiritual commitments (see Amos 3:3). Marriage to a foreign woman who was not committed to the God of Israel was strictly forbidden because intermarriage was a definite factor in the destruction of the nation (see Deut. 7:1–4; Judg. 3:5, 6). Not only was Samson an Israelite and thus committed to Yahweh, but he was also a Nazirite and thus set apart by God in a special way (Judg. 13:4, 5). For a judge to fail in this area shows the far-reaching result of spiritual apathy. This marriage put Samson on the road to estrangement from Yahweh; yet only the Lord could have given wisdom and channeled the love needed to overcome the overwhelming obstacles that faced Samson and the Timnite in their challenging marriage.

posed a riddle to the sons of my people, but you have not explained it to me."

And he said to her, "Look, I have not explained it to my father or my mother; so should I explain it to you?" 17Now she had wept on him the seven days while their feast lasted. And it happened on the seventh day that he told her, because she pressed him so much. Then she explained the riddle to the sons of her people. 18So the men of the city said to him on the seventh day before the sun went down:

"What is sweeter than honey?
And what is stronger than a lion?"

And he said to them:

"If you had not plowed with my heifer,
You would not have solved my riddle!"

19Then the Spirit of the LORD came upon him mightily, and he went down to Ashkelon and killed thirty of their men, took their apparel, and gave the changes of clothing to those who had explained the riddle. So his anger was aroused, and he went back up to his father's house. 20And Samson's wife was given to his companion, who had been his best man.

Samson Defeats the Philistines

15 After a while, in the time of wheat harvest, it happened that Samson visited his wife with a young goat. And he said, "Let me go in to my wife, into her room." But her father would not permit him to go in.

2Her father said, "I really thought that you thoroughly hated her; therefore I gave her to your companion. Is not her younger sister better than she? Please, take her instead."

3And Samson said to them, "This time I shall be blameless regarding the Philistines if I harm them!" 4Then Samson went and caught three hundred foxes; and he took torches, turned the foxes tail to tail, and put a torch between each pair of tails. 5When he had set the torches on fire, he let the foxes go into the standing grain of the Philistines, and burned up both the shocks and the standing grain, as well as the vineyards and olive groves.

6Then the Philistines said, "Who has done this?"

And they answered, "Samson, the son-in-law of the Timnite, because he has taken his wife and given her to his companion." So the Philistines came up and burned her and her father with fire.

7Samson said to them, "Since you would do a thing like this, I will surely take revenge on you, and after that I will cease." 8So he attacked them hip and thigh with a great slaughter; then he went down and dwelt in the cleft of the rock of Etam.

9Now the Philistines went up, encamped in Judah, and deployed themselves against Lehi. 10And the men of Judah said, "Why have you come up against us?"

So they answered, "We have come up to arrest Samson, to do to him as he has done to us."

11Then three thousand men of Judah went down to the cleft of the rock of Etam, and said to Samson, "Do you not know that the Philistines rule over us? What is this you have done to us?"

And he said to them, "As they did to me, so I have done to them."

12But they said to him, "We have come down to arrest you, that we may deliver you into the hand of the Philistines."

Then Samson said to them, "Swear to me that you will not kill me yourselves."

13So they spoke to him, saying, "No, but we will tie you securely and deliver you into their hand; but we will surely not kill you." And they bound him with two new ropes and brought him up from the rock.

14When he came to Lehi, the Philistines came shouting against him. Then the Spirit of the LORD came mightily upon him; and the ropes that were on his arms became like flax that is burned with fire, and his bonds broke loose from his hands. 15He found a fresh jawbone of a donkey, reached out his hand and took it, and killed a thousand men with it. 16Then Samson said:

"With the jawbone of a donkey,
Heaps upon heaps,
With the jawbone of a donkey
I have slain a thousand men!"

17And so it was, when he had finished speaking, that he threw the jawbone from his hand, and called that place Ramath Lehi.[a]

18Then he became very thirsty; so he cried out to the LORD and said, "You have given this great deliverance by the hand of Your servant; and now shall I die of thirst and fall into the hand of the uncircumcised?" 19So God split the hollow place that is in Lehi,[a] and water came out, and he drank; and his spirit returned, and he revived. Therefore he called its name En Hakkore,[b] which is in Lehi to this day. 20And he judged Israel twenty years in the days of the Philistines.

Samson and Delilah

16 Now Samson went to Gaza and saw a harlot there, and went in to her. 2*When* the Gazites were told, "Samson has come here!" they surrounded the place and lay in wait for him all night at the gate of the city. They were quiet all night, saying, "In the morning, when it is daylight, we will kill him." 3And Samson lay low till midnight; then he arose at midnight, took hold of the doors of the gate of the city and the two gateposts, pulled them up, bar and all, put them on his shoulders, and carried them to the top of the hill that faces Hebron.

4Afterward it happened that he loved a woman in the Valley of Sorek, whose name was Delilah. 5And the lords of the Philistines came up to her and said to her, "Entice him, and find out where his great strength lies, and by what means we may overpower him, that we may bind him to afflict him; and every one of us will give you eleven hundred pieces of silver."

6So Delilah said to Samson, "Please tell me where your great strength lies, and with what you may be bound to afflict you."

7And Samson said to her, "If they bind me with seven fresh bowstrings, not yet dried, then I shall become weak, and be like any other man."

8So the lords of the Philistines brought up to her seven fresh bowstrings, not yet dried, and she bound him with them. 9Now men were lying in 15:11 The great fear of the Israelites for the Philistines is evidenced in their lack of loyalty to one of their own countrymen. The men of Judah clearly were willing to deliver Samson over to the Philistines in return for their own safety.

15:19 Though Samson had disobeyed his Nazirite vows and though clearly he was controlled by his sensual nature, he was used by God as an agent of deliverance for God's people. God's grace in Samson's life was evidenced by the supernatural provision of water when Samson was exhausted and discouraged.

16:1 Gaza, an important Philistine city, was southwest of Zorah, a few miles inland from the Mediterranean Sea, along the trade routes between Egypt and western Asia. The man whom God had blessed with supernatural strength again showed himself to be morally and spiritually weak.

16:4 Delilah lived in the Valley of Sorek, close to Zorah. Much intermarriage had occurred between the Philistines and those whom they conquered. Most likely Delilah was a Philistine (see Delilah; Seduction). Her relationship with Samson must have been a lengthy and important one for the Philistine leaders to have noticed it. Regardless of the depth of their relationship, she was heartless when given the choice between her lover Samson and a large sum of money.

16:5 The amount of money offered by the Philistine lords for Samson's betrayal and capture indicates their great fear of Samson. Each Philistine lord offered Delilah 1,100 shekels of silver. The payment to a Levite for an entire year of service was about ten shekels (Judg. 17:10; see chart, Money and Measurements in the Bible).

DELILAH The Teasing Temptress

Samson and Delilah are among the most well-known couples in the Bible. Samson is known for his strength; Delilah is known for her seductive manipulation.

Delilah lived in a small village near Samson's hometown. She was possibly a Philistine, although her name is Semitic. She may have been a temple prostitute. Apparently Samson had been visiting her frequently, and their relationship became known to the Philistine leaders. They went to Delilah with an offer she could not refuse.

Samson's background, his upbringing, and his own experience should have taught him to stay away from foreign entanglements, but the record is clear that Samson felt an emotional attachment to Delilah. No evidence exists that she felt personal admiration or affection for him. To the contrary, clearly she was motivated by greed; she was perfectly willing to use all her charming seductiveness (which apparently was considerable) to earn a large cash bonus.

The ingredients for disaster were in place: a morally weak man with uncontrollable sexual passions; a seductive temptress motivated by greed; a group of foreign leaders with unlimited funds and the strong conviction that their national security, perhaps even their national survival, was at stake.

Her methods were simple, and though it took time, they eventually worked. She was playful and teasing. She was coquettish and provocative. She was alluring and enticing. She coaxed and cajoled. She pouted and demanded. There was a fortune waiting for her if she could discover the secret of his strength. She was determined, and she ultimately succeeded in prying Samson's secret from him.

Convinced that he had finally told her the truth, she sent for the Philistine leaders. She lulled her lover to sleep and had his hair cut off. With utter heartlessness she watched as he struggled out of a deep sleep, thinking he would fend off his attackers as easily as before, only to discover to his horror that his strength was gone. No doubt she was counting her money as they led him out.

Delilah personifies the immoral woman of Proverbs 5. "In the end she is bitter as wormwood" (see Prov. 5:4–6).

wait, staying with her in the room. And she said to him, "The Philistines are upon you, Samson!" But he broke the bowstrings as a strand of yarn breaks when it touches fire. So the secret of his strength was not known.

10 Then Delilah said to Samson, "Look, you have mocked me and told me lies. Now, please tell me what you may be bound with."

11 So he said to her, "If they bind me securely with new ropes that have never been used, then I shall become weak, and be like any other man."

12 Therefore Delilah took new ropes and bound him with them, and said to him, "The Philistines are upon you, Samson!" And men were lying in wait, staying in the room. But he broke them off his arms like a thread.

13 Delilah said to Samson, "Until now you have mocked me and told me lies. Tell me what you may be bound with."

And he said to her, "If you weave the seven locks of my head into the web of the loom"—

14 So she wove it tightly with the batten of the loom, and said to him, "The Philistines are upon you, Samson!" But he awoke from his sleep, and pulled out the batten and the web from the loom.

15 Then she said to him, "How can you say, 'I love you,' when your heart is not with me? You have mocked me these three times, and have not told me where your great strength lies." 16 And it came to pass, when she pestered him daily with her words and pressed him, so that his soul was vexed to death, 17 that he told her all his heart, and said to her, "No razor has ever come upon my head, for I have been a Nazirite to God from my mother's womb. If I am shaven, then my strength will leave me, and I shall become weak, and be like any other man."

18 When Delilah saw that he had told her all his heart, she sent and called for the lords of the Philistines, saying, "Come up once more, for he has told me all his heart." So the lords of the Philistines came up to her and brought the money in their hand. 19 Then she lulled him to sleep on her knees, and called for a man and had him shave off the seven locks of his head. Then she began to tor-

16:19–21 Samson found himself in the most tragic situation when the third of his Nazirite vows was broken by the cutting of his hair. God had left him. Samson's source of strength was not in his long hair but in the Lord's power, which was available to him only as long as he faithfully kept the Nazirite vow. Samson was completely at the mercy of his captors, who blinded him and assigned him to the menial task of grinding grain in a prison near Gaza, the scene of some of his previous great exploits.

ment him,[a] and his strength left him. 20And she said, "The Philistines are upon you, Samson!" So he awoke from his sleep, and said, "I will go out as before, at other times, and shake myself free!" But he did not know that the LORD had departed from him.

21Then the Philistines took him and put out his eyes, and brought him down to Gaza. They bound him with bronze fetters, and he became a grinder in the prison. 22However, the hair of his head began to grow again after it had been shaven.

Samson Dies with the Philistines

23Now the lords of the Philistines gathered together to offer a great sacrifice to Dagon their god, and to rejoice. And they said:

"Our god has delivered into our hands Samson our enemy!"

24When the people saw him, they praised their god; for they said:

"Our god has delivered into our hands our enemy,
The destroyer of our land,
And the one who multiplied our dead."

25So it happened, when their hearts were merry, that they said, "Call for Samson, that he may perform for us." So they called for Samson from the prison, and he performed for them. And they stationed him between the pillars. 26Then Samson said to the lad who held him by the hand, "Let me feel the pillars which support the temple, so that I can lean on them." 27Now the temple was full of men and women. All the lords of the Philistines were there—about three thousand men and women on the roof watching while Samson performed.

28Then Samson called to the LORD, saying, "O Lord GOD, remember me, I pray! Strengthen me, I pray, just this once, O God, that I may with one blow take vengeance on the Philistines for my two eyes!" 29And Samson took hold of the two middle pillars which supported the temple, and he braced himself against them, one on his right and the other on his left. 30Then Samson said, "Let me die with the Philistines!" And he pushed with all his might, and the temple fell on the lords and all the people who were in it. So the dead that he killed at his death were more than he had killed in his life.

31And his brothers and all his father's household came down and took him, and brought him up and buried him between Zorah and Eshtaol in the tomb of his father Manoah. He had judged Israel twenty years.

Micah's Idolatry

17 Now there was a man from the mountains of Ephraim, whose name was Micah. 2And he said to his mother, "The eleven hundred shekels of silver that were taken from you, and on which you put a curse, even saying it in my ears—here is the silver with me; I took it."

And his mother said, "May you be blessed by the LORD, my son!" 3So when he had returned the eleven hundred shekels of silver to his mother, his mother said, "I had wholly dedicated the silver from my hand to the LORD for my son, to make a carved image and a molded image; now therefore, I will return it to you." 4Thus he returned the silver to his mother. Then his mother took two hundred shekels of silver and gave them to the silversmith, and he made it into a carved image and a 16:19 [a]Following Masoretic Text, Targum, and Vulgate; Septuagint reads he began to be weak.

16:23 Dagon (Heb., lit. "grain") was a god of vegetation adopted by the Philistines as their principal deity upon their arrival in Canaan. The size of the crowd indicated a nationally organized observance honoring Dagon because of Samson's capture.

16:24–30 Samson's final act occurred in an open court, where Samson was humiliated and forced to perform publicly. Ancient Near Eastern temples had similar constructions in which a covered portion overlooked the court. The roof was supported by wooden pillars placed on stone foundations. Some 3,000 spectators were on the roof (v. 27). One final burst of strength enabled Samson to push the large columns off their foundations, and the roof collapsed, killing those below. God responded to Samson's prayer (v. 28).

17:1—21:25 Two examples of the moral depravity in the land contained in this final section (Judg. 17—21) do not follow the previous chapter chronologically but rather serve as examples of the moral and religious chaos which resulted when "everyone did what was right in his own eyes" (Judg. 21:25). The behavior recorded in these two stories was not condoned by God. Instead, these accounts, written under the guidance of the Holy Spirit, are honest portrayals of one of the bleakest periods in Israel's history.

17:1, 2 The unnamed mother of Micah pronounced a curse on the large amount of money that someone had stolen from her (see Micah's Unfaithful Mother). Because curses were taken seriously in the superstitious pagan cultures of the ancient Near East, no doubt she was hoping to increase her chances of recovering the money. The text does not indicate whether she knew that her son had taken the money. There is reason, however, to question her genuineness in dedicating the money to the Lord. Only about one fifth of the total was actually given. To make matters worse, for her, dedicating the money to the Lord meant having the money made into idols, which is indicative of her ignorance of God's Law. Such total ignorance of the true worship of the Lord exemplifies an entire generation in Israel, who, following Joshua's death, uncritically adopted Canaanite practices, bringing moral and religious decay to the Land (see Judg. 2:10, note).

SEDUCTION ROOTED IN A LIE

Seduction extends far beyond sexual misconduct, although that is certainly included among its manifestations (see Rev. 2:20). Seducers, "imposters" who present evil as good, include those who have "spoken nonsense" and those who have presented falsehood as truth (Ezek. 13:10; 2 Tim. 3:13).

The seducer acts consciously and willfully to put another person into a position of vulnerability or weakness with the ultimate intent to dominate completely or destroy. Delilah purposefully set herself to bring about Samson's destruction (Judg. 16:15–17). Her seduction was unrelenting as she "pestered" and "pressed" Samson daily (v. 16). She aimed ultimately at Samson's spirit so that his soul was "vexed to death" (v. 16). Her seduction was rooted in a lie that everything would be all right, even to the point of believing that the Lord is unconcerned about and approves of wrong behavior (v. 20).

The ultimate seduction—whether in Samson's life, in the life of Israel, or in your life today—is to be led astray from God's presence and power and not even realize what is happening.

molded image; and they were in the house of Micah.

5 The man Micah had a shrine, and made an ephod and household idols;[a] and he consecrated one of his sons, who became his priest. 6 In those days there was no king in Israel; everyone did what was right in his own eyes.

7 Now there was a young man from Bethlehem in Judah, of the family of Judah; he was a Levite, and was staying there. 8 The man departed from the city of Bethlehem in Judah to stay wherever he could find a place. Then he came to the mountains of Ephraim, to the house of Micah, as he journeyed. 9 And Micah said to him, "Where do you come from?"

So he said to him, "I am a Levite from Bethlehem in Judah, and I am on my way to find a place to stay."

10 Micah said to him, "Dwell with me, and be a father and a priest to me, and I will give you ten shekels of silver per year, a suit of clothes, and your sustenance." So the Levite went in. 11 Then the Levite was content to dwell with the man; and the young man became like one of his sons to him. 12 So Micah consecrated the Levite, and the young man became his priest, and lived in the house of Micah. 13 Then Micah said, "Now I know that the LORD will be good to me, since I have a Levite as priest!"

The Danites Adopt Micah's Idolatry

18 In those days there was no king in Israel. And in those days the tribe of the Danites was seeking an inheritance for itself to dwell in; for until that day their inheritance among the tribes of Israel had not fallen to them. 2 So the children of Dan sent five men of their family from their territory, men of valor from Zorah and Eshtaol, to spy out the land and search it. They said to them, "Go, search the land." So they went to the mountains of Ephraim, to the house of Micah, and lodged there. 3 While they were at the house of Micah, they recognized the voice of the young Levite. They turned aside and said to him, "Who brought you here? What are you doing in this place? What do you have here?"

4 He said to them, "Thus and so Micah did for me. He has hired me, and I have become his priest."

5 So they said to him, "Please inquire of God, that we may know whether the journey on which we go will be prosperous."

6 And the priest said to them, "Go in peace. The presence of the LORD be with you on your way."

7 So the five men departed and went to Laish. They saw the people who were there, how they dwelt safely, in the manner of the Sidonians, quiet

17:5 [a]Hebrew teraphim

17:5, 6 The paganized worship of God that the Danites later adopted started in a simple household. A disobedient mother had shaped her son's worldview to the point that he carried out concretely what he had been taught and had viewed as "normal" in his house. In this case, the shrine and the ephod were used for divination, seeking to control the deity (see Judg. 8:27, note).

18:1 The territory of the tribe of Dan originally consisted of a western part of Canaan between the territories of Judah and Ephraim. This land, however, was attacked and settled by the Philistines and the Amorites, thus forcing the Danites to move north. Confined in an area too small for them and unable to drive out the Amorites and Philistines, the Danites were trying to find a more suitable situation.

18:5, 6 A pagan inquiry of God. God had already revealed His will by giving each tribe its own original territory. But the Danites were unfaithful to this covenant and decided to search for new territory through their own methods. Their cynical inquiry of the Lord was matched by an equally cynical priest who reassured them in their unjust exploits and who proved to be more interested in money than in true worship of the Lord (see vv. 18–20, note).

and secure. There were no rulers in the land who might put them to shame for anything. They were far from the Sidonians, and they had no ties with anyone.[a]

[8]Then the spies came back to their brethren at Zorah and Eshtaol, and their brethren said to them, "What is your report?"

[9]So they said, "Arise, let us go up against them. For we have seen the land, and indeed it is very good. Would you do nothing? Do not hesitate to go, and enter to possess the land. [10]When you go, you will come to a secure people and a large land. For God has given it into your hands, a place where there is no lack of anything that is on the earth."

[11]And six hundred men of the family of the Danites went from there, from Zorah and Eshtaol, armed with weapons of war. [12]Then they went up and encamped in Kirjath Jearim in Judah. (Therefore they call that place Mahaneh Dan[a] to this day. There it is, west of Kirjath Jearim.) [13]And they passed from there to the mountains of Ephraim, and came to the house of Micah.

[14]Then the five men who had gone to spy out the country of Laish answered and said to their brethren, "Do you know that there are in these houses an ephod, household idols, a carved image, and a molded image? Now therefore, consider what you should do." [15]So they turned aside there, and came to the house of the young Levite man—to the house of Micah—and greeted him. [16]The six hundred men armed with their weapons of war, who were of the children of Dan, stood by the entrance of the gate. [17]Then the five men who had gone to spy out the land went up. Entering there, they took the carved image, the ephod, the household idols, and the molded image. The priest stood at the entrance of the gate with the six hundred men who were armed with weapons of war.

[18]When these went into Micah's house and took the carved image, the ephod, the household idols, and the molded image, the priest said to them, "What are you doing?"

[19]And they said to him, "Be quiet, put your hand over your mouth, and come with us; be a father and a priest to us. Is it better for you to be a priest to the household of one man, or that you be a priest to a tribe and a family in Israel?" [20]So the priest's heart was glad; and he took the ephod, the household idols, and the carved image, and took his place among the people.

[21]Then they turned and departed, and put the little ones, the livestock, and the goods in front of them. [22]When they were a good way from the house of Micah, the men who were in the houses near Micah's house gathered together and overtook the children of Dan. [23]And they called out to the children of Dan. So they turned around and said to Micah, "What ails you, that you have gathered such a company?"

[24]So he said, "You have taken away my gods which I made, and the priest, and you have gone away. Now what more do I have? How can you say to me, 'What ails you?' "

[25]And the children of Dan said to him, "Do not let your voice be heard among us, lest angry men fall upon you, and you lose your life, with the lives of your household!" [26]Then the children of Dan went their way. And when Micah saw that they were too strong for him, he turned and went back to his house.

Danites Settle in Laish

[27]So they took the things Micah had made, and the priest who had belonged to him, and went to Laish, to a people quiet and secure; and they struck them with the edge of the sword and burned the city with fire. [28]There was no deliverer, because it was far from Sidon, and they had no ties with anyone. It was in the valley that belongs to Beth Rehob. So they rebuilt the city and dwelt there. [29]And they called the name of the city Dan, after the name of Dan their father, who was born to Israel. However, the name of the city formerly was Laish.

[30]Then the children of Dan set up for themselves the carved image; and Jonathan the son of Gershom, the son of Manasseh,[a] and his sons were priests to the tribe of Dan until the day of the captivity of the land. [31]So they set up for themselves Micah's carved image which he made, all the time that the house of God was in Shiloh.

The Levite's Concubine

19 And it came to pass in those days, when there was no king in Israel, that there was a certain Levite staying in the remote mountains of Ephraim. He took for himself a concubine from Bethlehem in Judah. [2]But his concubine played the harlot against him, and went away from him to her father's house at Bethlehem in Judah, and was 18:18–20 Cynicism and distortion of true worship of the Lord are clearly evident in the mercenary Levite's obvious intent and willingness to promote himself.

19:1, 2 This second appendix is another reflection of the religious, political, and social chaos of the period. Having concubines had become an accepted custom, originating with childless couples who sought to produce heirs. Later, the custom evolved into relationships with free women who did not have the full status of a wife. This custom was not pleasing to God, though He had regulated its potential problems in the Law (Ex. 21:7–11; Deut. 21:10–14; see The Levite's Defenseless Concubine; article, Renewed by His Grace).

MICAH'S UNFAITHFUL MOTHER

Someone had stolen 1,100 pieces of silver from Micah's mother. Thus she pronounced a curse on the money, a really fearful threat for ancient Near Eastern cultures. Whether or not she knew that her own son was the thief is not clear, but, curiously enough, she made sure to tell her son that the stolen money had become taboo because she had not only cursed it but also dedicated it to Yahweh. She believed the curse and the dedication would enhance the seriousness of the theft and increase the possibilities of recovering it.

The mother's tactic worked: Micah confessed, and she reversed the curse by blessing him. Then, as an offering of thanksgiving, she gave a fifth of the total originally promised to Yahweh to a local silversmith to make idols for her son. She apparently wanted to worship God but was ignorant of the one true God.

This mother characterized a whole generation in Israel who did not know the Lord and who had already brought up their children in superstition. She thought that God could be manipulated by techniques of magic to fulfill human wishes of fertility and security, that God could be reduced to pottery, and that He could be carried around like a talisman of good luck. This unnamed mother, by ignoring God and His law, not only failed to obey the Lord but, more tragically, led her own son to his spiritual death.

there four whole months. 3Then her husband arose and went after her, to speak kindly to her and bring her back, having his servant and a couple of donkeys with him. So she brought him into her father's house; and when the father of the young woman saw him, he was glad to meet him. 4Now his father-in-law, the young woman's father, detained him; and he stayed with him three days. So they ate and drank and lodged there.

5Then it came to pass on the fourth day that they arose early in the morning, and he stood to depart; but the young woman's father said to his son-in-law, "Refresh your heart with a morsel of bread, and afterward go your way."

6So they sat down, and the two of them ate and drank together. Then the young woman's father said to the man, "Please be content to stay all night, and let your heart be merry." 7And when the man stood to depart, his father-in-law urged him; so he lodged there again. 8Then he arose early in the morning on the fifth day to depart, but the young woman's father said, "Please refresh your heart." So they delayed until afternoon; and both of them ate.

9And when the man stood to depart—he and his concubine and his servant—his father-in-law, the young woman's father, said to him, "Look, the day is now drawing toward evening; please spend the night. See, the day is coming to an end; lodge here, that your heart may be merry. Tomorrow go your way early, so that you may get home."

10However, the man was not willing to spend that night; so he rose and departed, and came opposite Jebus (that is, Jerusalem). With him were the two saddled donkeys; his concubine was also with him. 11They were near Jebus, and the day was far spent; and the servant said to his master, "Come, please, and let us turn aside into this city of the Jebusites and lodge in it."

12But his master said to him, "We will not turn aside here into a city of foreigners, who are not of the children of Israel; we will go on to Gibeah." 13So he said to his servant, "Come, let us draw near to one of these places, and spend the night in Gibeah or in Ramah." 14And they passed by and went their way; and the sun went down on them near Gibeah, which belongs to Benjamin. 15They turned aside there to go in to lodge in Gibeah. And when he went in, he sat down in the open square of the city, for no one would take them into his house to spend the night.

16Just then an old man came in from his work in the field at evening, who also was from the mountains of Ephraim; he was staying in Gibeah, whereas the men of the place were Benjamites. 17And when he raised his eyes, he saw the traveler in the open square of the city; and the old man said, "Where are you going, and where do you come from?"

18So he said to him, "We are passing from Bethlehem in Judah toward the remote mountains of Ephraim; I am from there. I went to Bethlehem in Judah; now I am going to the house of the LORD. But there is no one who will take me into his house, 19although we have both straw and fodder for our donkeys, and bread and wine for myself, for your female servant, and for the young man who is with your servant; there is no lack of anything."

20And the old man said, "Peace be with you!

19:11–21 The Levite and his servant consciously avoided Jebus (or Jerusalem, a city of foreigners at that time; see Judg. 1:8, note), seeking hospitality instead from the Benjamites in Gibeah. Ironically enough, another foreigner, who was also an Ephraimite, opened his house to them.

However, let all your needs be my responsibility; only do not spend the night in the open square." 21So he brought him into his house, and gave fodder to the donkeys. And they washed their feet, and ate and drank.

Gibeah's Crime

22As they were enjoying themselves, suddenly certain men of the city, perverted men,[a] surrounded the house and beat on the door. They spoke to the master of the house, the old man, saying, "Bring out the man who came to your house, that we may know him carnally!"

23But the man, the master of the house, went out to them and said to them, "No, my brethren! I beg you, do not act so wickedly! Seeing this man has come into my house, do not commit this outrage. 24Look, here is my virgin daughter and the man's[a] concubine; let me bring them out now. Humble them, and do with them as you please; but to this man do not do such a vile thing!" 25But the men would not heed him. So the man took his concubine and brought her out to them. And they knew her and abused her all night until morning; and when the day began to break, they let her go.

26Then the woman came as the day was dawning, and fell down at the door of the man's house where her master was, till it was light.

27When her master arose in the morning, and opened the doors of the house and went out to go his way, there was his concubine, fallen at the door of the house with her hands on the threshold. 28And he said to her, "Get up and let us be going." But there was no answer. So the man lifted her onto the donkey; and the man got up and went to his place.

29When he entered his house he took a knife, laid hold of his concubine, and divided her into twelve pieces, limb by limb,[a] and sent her throughout all the territory of Israel. 30And so it was that all who saw it said, "No such deed has been done or seen from the day that the children of Israel came up from the land of Egypt until this day. Consider it, confer, and speak up!"

Israel's War with the Benjamites

20So all the children of Israel came out, from Dan to Beersheba, as well as from the land of Gilead, and the congregation gathered together as one man before the LORD at Mizpah. 2And the leaders of all the people, all the tribes of Israel, presented themselves in the assembly of the people of God, four hundred thousand foot soldiers who drew the sword. 3(Now the children of Benjamin heard that the children of Israel had gone up to Mizpah.)

Then the children of Israel said, "Tell us, how did this wicked deed happen?"

4So the Levite, the husband of the woman who was murdered, answered and said, "My concubine and I went into Gibeah, which belongs to Benjamin, to spend the night. 5And the men of Gibeah rose against me, and surrounded the house at night because of me. They intended to kill me, but instead they ravished my concubine so that she died. 6So I took hold of my concubine, cut her in pieces, and sent her throughout all the territory of the inheritance of Israel, because they committed lewdness and outrage in Israel. 7Look! All of you are children of Israel; give your advice and counsel here and now!"

8So all the people arose as one man, saying, "None of us will go to his tent, nor will any turn back to his house; 9but now this is the thing which we will do to Gibeah: We will go up against it by lot. 10We will take ten men out of every hundred throughout all the tribes of Israel, a hundred out of every thousand, and a thousand out of every ten thousand, to make provisions for the people, that when they come to Gibeah in Benjamin, they may repay all the vileness that they have done in Israel." 11So all the men of Israel were gathered against the city, united together as one man.

12Then the tribes of Israel sent men through all the tribe of Benjamin, saying, "What is this wickedness that has occurred among you? 13Now

19:22 [a]Literally sons of Belial 19:24 [a]Literally his 19:29 [a]Literally with her bones

19:22–28 The peaceful domestic scene in Gibeah became a nightmare of violence, depravity, and injustice similar to Lot's situation in Sodom (Gen. 19:1–29). The Levite's disregard for his concubine reflected a total breakdown of justice in the Land, a lack of loyalty to God, and the absence of concern for others. Furthermore, his apparent disinterest toward his abused concubine highlights his scandalous lack of spiritual leadership (Judg. 20:4–6).

19:29, 30 The dismemberment of the concubine's body was an outrageous action. Its significance has received varied interpretations. Some scholars interpret this action as a ritual sacrifice, which served as a call to redress this grievance or be struck with the sword themselves. Other scholars view it as a way to incite horror and indignation (see 1 Sam. 11:1–8 where Saul performed a similar action with oxen).

20:1–48 In this second example, a domestic event again evolves into a tribal problem. The irony in this final section of Judges is that the tribe of Judah, who led the Israelites against the Canaanites at the beginning of Judges, was leading the Israelites against their own countrymen, the Benjamites, who chose to defend the actions of the men of Gibeah. Judah represented righteous leadership against an overt case of immorality and disobedience.

20:4–6 The Levite's incomplete account of the events in Gibeah revealed the lack of justice and the violence experienced by the weaker members of this society. Furthermore, the Levite sought justice because of the tribal system's emphasis on loyalty; yet he himself failed to show loyalty to his closest neighbor, his concubine.

THE LEVITE'S DEFENSELESS CONCUBINE

The concubine had been unfaithful to the Levite and left him (Judg. 19:2). The Levite had gone after her (v. 3). They had come from the house of the concubine's father in Bethlehem when they stopped in Gibeah for the night. As darkness came, apparently nobody in Gibeah wanted to extend hospitality to the Levite, his servant, and his concubine (one privileged over slaves but not a full legal wife).

Having intentionally passed by the pagan city Jebus (renamed Jerusalem after David's conquest), they had sought a better place of rest among the Israelites. Finally, an old man, a foreigner himself in that unfriendly town, opened his home, ominously begging them not to spend the night outside in the marketplace. Then, while they were eating and resting, men who were willing sodomites surrounded the house, seeking to rape the Levite guest. The Levite, supposedly a spiritual leader, sacrificed his defenseless concubine to a night of brutality to save his own life. This incident occurred during the darkest period of Israel's history, during which everyone was a law unto himself (see Judg. 21:25). Israel as a community was repulsed by this heinous crime and accordingly took serious steps to hold the guilty accountable (Judg. 20:6, 13, 23).

The concubine was betrayed by her lover and his host. She was raped, tortured, and murdered. She lived in an unjust world where violence permeated even the closest of relationships and where moral decay extended even to the spiritual leaders.

therefore, deliver up the men, the perverted men[a] who are in Gibeah, that we may put them to death and remove the evil from Israel!" But the children of Benjamin would not listen to the voice of their brethren, the children of Israel. 14Instead, the children of Benjamin gathered together from their cities to Gibeah, to go to battle against the children of Israel. 15And from their cities at that time the children of Benjamin numbered twenty-six thousand men who drew the sword, besides the inhabitants of Gibeah, who numbered seven hundred select men. 16Among all this people were seven hundred select men who were left-handed; every one could sling a stone at a hair's breadth and not miss. 17Now besides Benjamin, the men of Israel numbered four hundred thousand men who drew the sword; all of these were men of war.

18Then the children of Israel arose and went up to the house of God[a] to inquire of God. They said, "Which of us shall go up first to battle against the children of Benjamin?"

The LORD said, "Judah first!"

19So the children of Israel rose in the morning and encamped against Gibeah. 20And the men of Israel went out to battle against Benjamin, and the men of Israel put themselves in battle array to fight against them at Gibeah. 21Then the children of Benjamin came out of Gibeah, and on that day cut down to the ground twenty-two thousand men of the Israelites. 22And the people, that is, the men of Israel, encouraged themselves and again formed the battle line at the place where they had put themselves in array on the first day. 23Then the children of Israel went up and wept before the LORD until evening, and asked counsel of the LORD, saying, "Shall I again draw near for battle against the children of my brother Benjamin?"

And the LORD said, "Go up against him."

24So the children of Israel approached the children of Benjamin on the second day. 25And Benjamin went out against them from Gibeah on the second day, and cut down to the ground eighteen thousand more of the children of Israel; all these drew the sword.

26Then all the children of Israel, that is, all the people, went up and came to the house of God[a] and wept. They sat there before the LORD and fasted that day until evening; and they offered burnt offerings and peace offerings before the LORD. 27So the children of Israel inquired of the LORD (the ark of the covenant of God was there in those days, 28and Phinehas the son of Eleazar, the son of Aaron, stood before it in those days), saying, "Shall I yet again go out to battle against the children of my brother Benjamin, or shall I cease?"

And the LORD said, "Go up, for tomorrow I will deliver them into your hand."

29Then Israel set men in ambush all around Gibeah. 30And the children of Israel went up against the children of Benjamin on the third day, and put themselves in battle array against Gibeah as at the other times. 31So the children of Benjamin went out against the people, and were drawn away from the city. They began to strike down and kill some of the people, as at the other times, in the highways (one of which goes up to Bethel and the other to Gibeah) and in the field, about thirty men of Israel. 32And the children of Benjamin said, "They are defeated before us, as at first."

20:27, 28 The only mention of the ark of the covenant in Judges occurs in verse 27. Since Phinehas, the grandson of Aaron, was mentioned as the priest in the tabernacle during Joshua's time (Num. 25:9; Josh. 22:13), the events of this second incident must have occurred in the early period of the judges.

But the children of Israel said, "Let us flee and draw them away from the city to the highways." 33So all the men of Israel rose from their place and put themselves in battle array at Baal Tamar. Then Israel's men in ambush burst forth from their position in the plain of Geba. 34And ten thousand select men from all Israel came against Gibeah, and the battle was fierce. But the Benjamites[a] did not know that disaster was upon them. 35The LORD defeated Benjamin before Israel. And the children of Israel destroyed that day twenty-five thousand one hundred Benjamites; all these drew the sword.

36So the children of Benjamin saw that they were defeated. The men of Israel had given ground to the Benjamites, because they relied on the men in ambush whom they had set against Gibeah. 37And the men in ambush quickly rushed upon Gibeah; the men in ambush spread out and struck the whole city with the edge of the sword. 38Now the appointed signal between the men of Israel and the men in ambush was that they would make a great cloud of smoke rise up from the city, 39whereupon the men of Israel would turn in battle. Now Benjamin had begun to strike and kill about thirty of the men of Israel. For they said, "Surely they are defeated before us, as in the first battle." 40But when the cloud began to rise from the city in a column of smoke, the Benjamites looked behind them, and there was the whole city going up in smoke to heaven. 41And when the men of Israel turned back, the men of Benjamin panicked, for they saw that disaster had come upon them. 42Therefore they turned their backs before the men of Israel in the direction of the wilderness; but the battle overtook them, and whoever came out of the cities they destroyed in their midst. 43They surrounded the Benjamites, chased them, and easily trampled them down as far as the front of Gibeah toward the east. 44And eighteen thousand men of Benjamin fell; all these were men of valor. 45Then they[a] turned and fled toward the wilderness to the rock of Rimmon; and they cut down five thousand of them on the highways. Then they pursued them relentlessly up to Gidom, and killed two thousand of them. 46So all who fell of Benjamin that day were twenty-five thousand men who drew the sword; all these were men of valor.

47But six hundred men turned and fled toward the wilderness to the rock of Rimmon, and they stayed at the rock of Rimmon for four months. 48And the men of Israel turned back against the children of Benjamin, and struck them down with the edge of the sword—from every city, men and beasts, all who were found. They also set fire to all the cities they came to.

Wives Provided for the Benjamites

21 Now the men of Israel had sworn an oath at Mizpah, saying, "None of us shall give his daughter to Benjamin as a wife." 2Then the people came to the house of God,[a] and remained there before God till evening. They lifted up their voices and wept bitterly, 3and said, "O LORD God of Israel, why has this come to pass in Israel, that today there should be one tribe missing in Israel?"

4So it was, on the next morning, that the people rose early and built an altar there, and offered burnt offerings and peace offerings. 5The children of Israel said, "Who is there among all the tribes of Israel who did not come up with the assembly to the LORD?" For they had made a great oath concerning anyone who had not come up to the LORD at Mizpah, saying, "He shall surely be put to death." 6And the children of Israel grieved for Benjamin their brother, and said, "One tribe is cut off from Israel today. 7What shall we do for wives for those who remain, seeing we have sworn by the LORD that we will not give them our daughters as wives?"

8And they said, "What one is there from the tribes of Israel who did not come up to Mizpah to the LORD?" And, in fact, no one had come to the camp from Jabesh Gilead to the assembly. 9For when the people were counted, indeed, not one of the inhabitants of Jabesh Gilead was there. 10So

21:1–25 The wives of Benjamin. Against a sordid background of violence and immorality the record of the Israelite judges closes with lawlessness as "everyone did what was right in his own eyes" (v. 25). Sexual perversion and family erosion had left many women as pawns or booty.

A hideous murder (see Judg. 19:25–29) provoked a bloody civil war from which only 600 unmarried men of the tribe of Benjamin survived (see Judg. 20:47). The question then was how to save this tribe from extinction. In the wake of this crime, the opposing tribes swore an oath not to allow their daughters to marry Benjamites; however, to preserve Benjamin's future, the men could choose wives from Jabesh Gilead from among the 400 young virgins who had survived the onslaught (Judg. 21:10–12). From Shiloh were gathered 200 additional virgins who could become wives of the remaining Benjamites (vv. 19–23). Because the people of this city had not participated in the oath, these women would be chosen as they danced in a religious feast (v. 23). The men then returned to their homes to rebuild. Their wives had opportunity to influence their husbands away from evil.

THE WIVES OF BENJAMIN

The hideous murder of the Levite's concubine (see Judg. 19:29) provoked a bloody civil war in which only six hundred unmarried men of the tribe of Benjamin survived (see Judg. 20:47). In the wake of this retaliatory crime of passion, the opposing tribes swore an unwise oath not to allow their daughters to marry Benjamites (Judg. 21:1, 18). The elders of Israel, instead of consulting the Lord, again tried by their own means to correct the wrong perpetrated. Every wrong was answered with another wrong, which is certainly not God's way.

The question then arose concerning how to preserve the future of the tribe of Benjamin. The Israelite leaders continued their own problem-solving with their proposed abduction of the innocent women of Jabesh Gilead and Shiloh. The men of Benjamin were instructed to choose wives from the surviving four hundred young virgins of Jabesh Gilead (vv. 10–12).

The remaining two hundred Benjamites without spouses were to capture the "daughters of Shiloh" for wives (vv. 14, 19–23). The local unmarried women from the Shiloh area were merely celebrating the festival (likely the Feast of Tabernacles) by dancing in the vineyards. As unmarried women, they were viewed as potential wives for the Benjamites. The senseless and cruel plan was to ambush the young virgins, seize the number required, and carry them off. This highly unorthodox method of obtaining a wife must have disturbed the relatives of the victims. Though there is no explicit recorded complaint from the fathers or brothers of these innocent young women, the elders were certain enough that such would be forthcoming that they prepared an answer (v. 22).

Against a sordid background of violence and immorality the record of the Israelite judges closes with a reminder of the lawlessness that prevailed as "everyone did what was right in his own eyes" (v. 25). Sexual perversion and family erosion left women as pawns in the power brokering of the tribes. In the midst of sin and tragedy, these women married, bore children, and reared another generation. God in His grace used the victims of this tragedy to accomplish His own purpose in selecting Saul, a member of the tribe of Benjamin, as the first king of Israel (1 Sam. 9:1, 2).

the congregation sent out there twelve thousand of their most valiant men, and commanded them, saying, "Go and strike the inhabitants of Jabesh Gilead with the edge of the sword, including the women and children. 11And this is the thing that you shall do: You shall utterly destroy every male, and every woman who has known a man intimately." 12So they found among the inhabitants of Jabesh Gilead four hundred young virgins who had not known a man intimately; and they brought them to the camp at Shiloh, which is in the land of Canaan.

13Then the whole congregation sent word to the children of Benjamin who were at the rock of Rimmon, and announced peace to them. 14So Benjamin came back at that time, and they gave them the women whom they had saved alive of the women of Jabesh Gilead; and yet they had not found enough for them.

15And the people grieved for Benjamin, because the LORD had made a void in the tribes of Israel.

16Then the elders of the congregation said, "What shall we do for wives for those who remain, since the women of Benjamin have been destroyed?" 17And they said, "There must be an inheritance for the survivors of Benjamin, that a tribe may not be destroyed from Israel. 18However, we cannot give them wives from our daughters, for the children of Israel have sworn an oath, saying, 'Cursed be the one who gives a wife to Benjamin.' " 19Then they said, "In fact, there is a yearly feast of the LORD in Shiloh, which is north of Bethel, on the east side of the highway that goes up from Bethel to Shechem, and south of Lebonah."

20Therefore they instructed the children of Benjamin, saying, "Go, lie in wait in the vineyards, 21and watch; and just when the daughters of Shiloh come out to perform their dances, then come out from the vineyards, and every man catch a wife for himself from the daughters of Shiloh; then go to the land of Benjamin. 22Then it shall be, when their fathers or their brothers come to us to complain, that we will say to them, 'Be kind to them for our sakes, because we did not take a wife for any of them in the war; for it is not as though you have given the women to them at this time, making yourselves guilty of your oath.' "

21:18–23 The children of Israel had vowed not to give their daughters as wives for the Benjamites. Their vow could not be broken. Practically speaking, however, they achieved a technical compliance with their vow while arranging a method whereby the Benjamites could "steal" wives from a feast.

23 And the children of Benjamin did so; they took enough wives for their number from those who danced, whom they caught. Then they went and returned to their inheritance, and they rebuilt the cities and dwelt in them. 24 So the children of Israel departed from there at that time, every man to his tribe and family; they went out from there, every man to his inheritance.

25 In those days there was no king in Israel;
everyone did what was right in his own eyes.

21:25 This single verse is a sad and revealing commentary on the period of the judges. Because the children of Israel did not serve the one true God as their King, they fell prey to the moral and political chaos that is the inevitable result of spiritual decay. Though later in their history they would establish a monarchy over the nation, that monarchy would serve only to illustrate the necessity of obedience to the divine King if they were to experience peace and blessing.

Ruth

AUTHOR

The author is not identified in the text. Samuel is suggested by the Talmud and Jewish tradition because of the similarity of language within the books of Ruth, Judges, and Samuel. Hezekiah and David also have been suggested as possible authors. However, the textual evidence does not confirm any of these theories.

DATE

According to the text, the story is set during the period of the judges, probably the latter part of that era (Ruth 1:1; 4:18–22), but the date of authorship is generally understood to be during the reign of David (1010–970 B.C.). The book must not have been completed before the time of David (Ruth 4:22); yet surely it was not completed after the time of Solomon, or Solomon would have been included.

BACKGROUND

SETTING: The setting for Ruth begins and ends in the Judahite village of Bethlehem with a Moab sojourn in between. Moab was the pagan nation that began with the incestuous relationship between Lot and his elder daughter (Gen. 19:36, 37). The Moabites, as perpetual enemies of Israel, were the recipients of consistent pronouncements of judgment from the prophets (see Is. 15:1–9).

PURPOSE: With its sad beginning and happy ending, the Book of Ruth portrays the village life of a family faithfully honoring Yahweh and pictures divine providence even in the midst of adversities and sorrows. God uses simple people and ordinary events to accomplish His great purposes.

AUDIENCE: The Book of Ruth is a primer on family relationships with a message for all. However, women must have been especially interested in this narrative in which the virtues of womanhood are abundantly clear. Also, those interested in history must have found the account of David's genealogy helpful. The book makes clear David's faithful ancestry, though he was also of Moabite descent.

LITERARY CHARACTERISTICS: The author uses chiastic structure, a device which consists of repeating a series of elements in reverse order through the restating or paralleling of words, ideas, actions, or characters that meet in the center. Especially common in the Old Testament, this device organizes extensive narratives like the Book of Ruth, in which the turning point is found at the end of chapter 2. Note this expression of chiastic structure:

1:1–5 The Family of Elimelech
  1:6–22 The Faithfulness of Ruth
    2:1–23 The Kinsman-Redeemer in the Barley Field
    3:1–18 The Kinsman-Redeemer at the Threshing Floor
  4:1–17 The Faithfulness of Boaz
4:18–22 The Family of David

THEMES

Some distinct themes appear in the Book of Ruth:

Divine Providence—God's undergirding hand is seen and felt throughout the book. God brought comfort to Naomi in her greatest hurt, following the deaths of her husband and sons, through Ruth's tender and loving care (Ruth 1:16, 17). God provided sustenance in the days of poverty for Ruth and Naomi, through the generous "close relative" Boaz, who became the kinsman-redeemer (Ruth 2:7, 8; 4:10). God replaced Naomi's root of bitterness with a fountain of joy, through the birth of her grandson Obed (Ruth 4:15, 16). God used the brokenness of two women who, though seeming to lose all, found the highest honor in becoming part of the ancestry of the Messiah (Ruth 4:17; see also Matt. 1:3–6; Luke 3:31–33).

Commitment in Relationships—The Book of Ruth clearly establishes commitment as the key to all interpersonal relationships (see Ruth 1; Matt. 16, Commitment). The following elements of commitment are clearly illustrated in Ruth herself (Ruth 1:16, 17): a willingness to give up home and family; a determination to follow the living God; an acceptance of different people, a strange land, and a new faith; an awareness of the exclusiveness of a new faith; a testimony to the permanency of her pledge; and a consistent example of perseverance even in the midst of adversities. Ruth's commitment was tested repeatedly, beginning with the departure from her birth family, her native land, and her secure environment, and continuing as she experienced the opportunities and trials of a new life and faith. The routine cycles of life—up and down, good and bad, hope and despair (see chart, The Cycle of Life)—typically challenge all commitments.

Friendship Between Women—The remarkable friendship between Ruth and Naomi—women from diverse backgrounds (one a Gentile and the other a Hebrew) and different generations (one young and in the prime of life and the other old and beyond childbearing age)—illustrates the unique joys found in the caring relationships women have with one another as their lives and hearts are knit together in mutual affection and reciprocal commitment (see Luke 1, Friendship). They are carried through difficult times not only by God's providential care but also by their extraordinary devotion to one another and creative initiative to care for one another.

Romantic Love—This book also describes the growing relationship between a man and a woman, as the romance of Ruth and Boaz unfolds in a charming way (see Song 2, Romance). Gentile and Hebrew are ultimately united in marriage to become a link in the chain of redemption.

Redemption and Reconciliation—The Moabitess Ruth experienced spiritual reconciliation as she was drawn into the family of God. She chose the godly Hebrew family; then God adopted Ruth into His family. As Ruth remained committed even in the midst of sorrow and poverty, God in His providence rewarded her with the security of a husband's protective care, the joy of a mother's nurturing task, and the legacy of her own place in the ancestry of Messiah.

OUTLINE

I. Elimelech and Naomi Left the Land and Lost Divine Protection (1:1–22)
   A. The family experienced tragedy (1:1–5)
   B. Ruth modeled faithfulness (1:6–22)

II. The Widowed Naomi Returned to the Land and Sought Divine Protection (2:1—3:18)
   A. Ruth met the kinsman-redeemer (2:1–23)
   B. The kinsman-redeemer provided security for Ruth and Naomi (3:1–18)

III. Boaz and Ruth Obeyed God and Received a Place in the Ancestry of the Messiah (4:1–22)
   A. Boaz exemplified faithfulness (4:1–17)
   B. The family of David received blessing (4:18–22)

COMMITMENT THE BEDROCK OF A RELATIONSHIP

Commitment is the foundation for every relationship, whether earthly or heavenly. The Book of Ruth brings the heavenly concept of covenant into vital contact with earthly life. Ruth's statement of commitment (Ruth 1:16, 17) concerned events, situations, and relationships that would permanently bind the two women. She willingly accepted an unsettled future and bound herself by solemn oath not only to Naomi but also to the God of Israel. Only here did Ruth use the covenant name Yahweh instead of the impersonal Elohim, though Naomi, Boaz, and others used Yahweh frequently for blessing or complaint. Ruth officially joined the people whose God was Yahweh. He had become her God as well as Naomi's and was the present witness to and future judge of all subsequent activities. A commitment described by permanent bonding of hearts and pervasive linking of lives extends beyond a passing companionship.

Ruth "clung" to Naomi (Ruth 1:14; see 2:8, 21, where the same word is translated "stayed close"). This covenant language is also used to describe the intimate relationship between husband and wife (Gen. 2:24) and to picture the faithfulness of God to His covenant people (Deut. 10:20). The word describes friendship more binding than brotherhood.

A foundation of purposeful love and the outworking of devoted deeds set Ruth's commitment apart from verbal cliches and the whim of momentary emotions. Abram left home after being commanded to do so (Gen. 12:1); Ruth left her pagan homeland on her own initiative, despite the protest of her mother-in-law, in order to come under the "wings" of God (Ruth 2:12). Ruth offered herself first to Naomi and ultimately to God.

Elimelech's Family Goes to Moab

1 Now it came to pass, in the days when the judges ruled, that there was a famine in the land. And a certain man of Bethlehem, Judah, went to dwell in the country of Moab, he and his wife and his two sons. 2The name of the man was Elimelech, the name of his wife was Naomi, and the names of his two sons were Mahlon and Chilion—Ephrathites of Bethlehem, Judah. And they went to the country of Moab and remained there. 3Then Elimelech, Naomi's husband, died; and she was left, and her two sons. 4Now they took wives of the women of Moab: the name of the one was Orpah, and the name of the other Ruth. And they dwelt there about ten years. 5Then both Mahlon and Chilion also died; so the woman survived her two sons and her husband.

Naomi Returns with Ruth

6Then she arose with her daughters-in-law that she might return from the country of Moab, for she had heard in the country of Moab that the LORD had visited His people by giving them bread. 7Therefore she went out from the place where she was, and her two daughters-in-law with her; and they went on the way to return to the land of Judah. 8And Naomi said to her two daughters-in-law, "Go, return each to her mother's house. The LORD deal kindly with you, as you have dealt with the dead and with me. 9The LORD grant that you may find rest, each in the house of her husband."

So she kissed them, and they lifted up their voices and wept. 10And they said to her, "Surely we will return with you to your people."

11But Naomi said, "Turn back, my daughters;

1:1 The text gives no evidence that God directed Elimelech (Heb., lit. "my God is king") to leave Bethlehem (contrast Abraham's exodus from his homeland, Gen. 12:1). Fertility of soil and abundance in harvest have never been ultimate security against famine. Neither is changing location necessarily God's way of dealing with a crisis (see Rom. 8:37–39). Elimelech's departure from Bethlehem (Heb., lit. "house of bread") did not keep him and his two sons from dying in a foreign land, leaving his wife Naomi perhaps more destitute and isolated than if she had remained among friends and relatives.

1:5 The plight of a widow in biblical days was especially precarious. Young widows were allowed lodging in their father's home (Gen. 38:11; see also 2 Kin. 4; Ps. 68; Jer. 29; 1 Cor. 2, Widowhood), but an older widow whose parents were dead was dependent upon her children for support. Seemingly, God had snatched away her family's usefulness and productivity.

1:8 God's dealings with His children are described theologically as "kindly" (Heb. chesed; see Ex. 20:5, 6, note; 34:5–7; Ruth 3:10). No ingredient is more essential in an intimate relationship because such an attitude precludes bitterness, retaliation, negative criticism, or other destructive behavior. Chesed is love joined to loyalty and integrated with mutual commitment (see Jer. 31:3); it is action and feeling combined. What is received is returned. The mixture of divine will and human activity joins the warmth of God's fellowship with the security of His faithfulness.

1:9 Rest is more than the cessation of work and the absence of anxiety. Certainly this "rest" implied much more than a marriage ceremony, and included security, provision, and blessing (see Josh. 21:44). The same word is translated "security" in Ruth 3:1.

THE CYCLE OF LIFE

why will you go with me? Are there still sons in my womb, that they may be your husbands? 12Turn back, my daughters, go— for I am too old to have a husband. If I should say I have hope, if I should have a husband tonight and should also bear sons, 13would you wait for them till they were grown?
Would you restrain yourselves from having husbands? No, my daughters; for it grieves me very much for your sakes that the hand of the LORD has gone out against me!"

14Then they lifted up their voices and wept again; and Orpah kissed her mother-in-law, but Ruth clung to her.

15And she said, "Look, your sister-in-law has gone back to her people and to her gods; return after your sister-in-law."

16But Ruth said:

"Entreat me not to leave you,
Or to turn back from following after you;
For wherever you go, I will go;
And wherever you lodge, I will lodge;
Your people shall be my people,
And your God, my God.

17Where you die, I will die,
And there will I be buried.
The LORD do so to me, and more also,
If anything but death parts you and me."

18When she saw that she was determined to go with her, she stopped speaking to her.

19Now the two of them went until they came to Bethlehem. And it happened, when they had come to Bethlehem, that all the city was excited because of them; and the women said, "Is this Naomi?"

20But she said to them, "Do not call me Naomi;[a] call me Mara,[b] for the Almighty has dealt very bitterly with me. 21I went out full, and the LORD has brought me home again empty. Why do you call me Naomi, since the LORD has testified against me, and the Almighty has afflicted me?"

22So Naomi returned, and Ruth the Moabitess her daughter-in-law with her, who returned from the country of Moab. Now they came to Bethlehem at the beginning of barley harvest.

1:20 [a]Literally Pleasant [b]Literally Bitter

1:13 For anyone who accepts full sovereignty of a just and merciful God, the existence of evil by divine permission (theodicy) is a natural dilemma. Naomi implied an indictment of unfaithfulness against God, whose relationship to His people had always been based squarely upon the presupposition of His faithfulness. Naomi determined, because of her personal losses, that God had turned away from her, and she decided to reciprocate by turning away from Him. She asked to be called "Mara" (Heb., lit. "bitter"; see v. 20). Nevertheless, a glimmer of hope existed for Naomi because she, by her reference to the LORD (Heb. Yahweh), placed these tragic experiences of losing her husband, sons, and earthly belongings in the setting of the covenant promise. This use of the Lord's personal covenant name reminded Naomi and her daughters-in-law of God's ultimate faithfulness.

1:20, 21 The Almighty has dealt bitterly with me. What a natural reaction to blame God for any misfortune (see Heb.12, Bitterness). Naomi was conscious of her own wrong-doing and viewed her suffering as God's punishment for her own sins (see Ruth 1:13, 20, 21). On the other hand, God views affliction as a necessary part of His sovereign and loving purpose (Eccl. 7:14; 2 Cor. 12:7–10; see also Ps. 33; Is. 43; 1 Pet. 5, Suffering). A believer going through the fire can produce a beautiful and pleasant aroma to the Lord (Num. 29:6; 2 Cor. 2:15).

In contrast to the verse 1 reference to the devastation of famine, Naomi testified, "I went out full," realizing that her husband and sons were worth far more than land and wealth (a restoration of her own sense of values). She had been genuinely blessed in Bethlehem, even in the midst of famine and poverty. Naomi chose to assign the blame for her tragedies to the Lord. Contrasting her own weakness, she referred to His power by calling Him Shaddai (Heb.), here translated "Almighty" and understood by some to mean "all-sufficiency." God must be trusted "for better or worse" (see Prov. 24:10).

NAOMI A Wise Mother-in-Law

During the period of the judges, approximately 1200 B.C., a famine in the region of Bethlehem caused Elimelech to take his wife Naomi and their two sons to the green fields of Moab east of the Dead Sea. Shortly after arriving, however, Elimelech died, and Naomi was left as an alien to work in a nation that practiced polygamy and idol worship.

In time, her two sons chose wives, Ruth and Orpah, before whom Naomi continued to live a pious life of dedication to Yahweh. As a widow and a single parent, she demonstrated inner strength; when both of her sons died, she faced her destitution with resoluteness, determined to return to her home in Israel. She believed that God had dealt harshly with her. Her life had been disappointing, but her faith was intact. Consequently, she insisted that her daughters-in-law return to their mothers' homes. Both of them resisted, but eventually Orpah, the widow of Chilion, returned. Ruth, however, vowed to accompany Naomi back to Jerusalem, renouncing her own family and religion. Naomi learned that even in the midst of greatest suffering and adversity, God is good and full of mercy.

Having returned to her homeland, Naomi wisely introduced Ruth to her new environment and coached her on proper behavior, masterminding Ruth's contacts with Boaz, a relative of Elimelech. Naomi models the way God works through a woman who moves forward, even in the midst of tragedy and trial, actively seizing every opportunity God provides rather than waiting passively for events to happen. In the providential care of God, eventually Boaz agreed to act as the goel (Heb.) or kinsman-redeemer provided in Jewish law, buying the estate of Naomi and taking Ruth as his wife. The blessing of God on their home produced a son, Obed, who became an ancestor of King David and of Jesus Christ.

Naomi had not always responded appropriately in her time of affliction. Though she acknowledged God's working in her life, she misjudged God, for example, when she said that she left Bethlehem full. Actually it had been the emptiness of famine that had driven her family away from their homeland. She continued her analogy by accusing God of bringing her back empty, and indeed she had lost her husband and sons, but in their place God had given her Ruth, a devoted daughter-in-law (Ruth 4:15). By focusing on the negative, Naomi became so bitter (Ruth 1:20) that she could not see the good and positive plans God was working.

Naomi lives as a true heroine. Her stalwart faith during years of adversity and her careful tutoring of her young protégé Ruth under difficult circumstances exemplify a woman of deep spiritual understanding. The result of her wisdom shines throughout Scripture.

Ruth Meets Boaz

2 There was a relative of Naomi's husband, a man of great wealth, of the family of Elimelech. His name was Boaz. 2So Ruth the Moabitess said to Naomi,
"Please let me go to the field, and glean heads of grain after him in whose sight I may find favor."

And she said to her, "Go, my daughter."

3Then she left, and went and gleaned in the field after the reapers. And she happened to come to the part of the field belonging to Boaz, who was of the family of Elimelech.

4Now behold, Boaz came from Bethlehem, and said to the reapers, "The LORD be with you!"

And they answered him, "The LORD bless you!"

5Then Boaz said to his servant who was in charge of the reapers, "Whose young woman is this?"

6So the servant who was in charge of the reapers answered and said, "It is the young Moabite woman who came back with Naomi from the country of Moab. 7And she said, 'Please let me glean and gather after the reapers among the sheaves.' So she came and has continued from morning until now, though she rested a little in the house."

8Then Boaz said to Ruth, "You will listen, my daughter, will you not? Do not go to glean in another field, nor go from here, but stay close by my young women. 9*Let* your eyes be on the field which

2:1 Boaz was rich and influential (v. 1), a landowner (v. 3), a kind and considerate employer (v. 4), a gentleman who showed respect and courtesy to Ruth and others (vv. 8, 9), a sensitive leader who complimented Ruth with genuine praise (v. 12), a generous benefactor (v. 14; Ruth 3:15), a spiritual leader (Ruth 2:12), a man who chose to be a channel for happiness (vv. 15, 16), and a man of high moral character (Ruth 3:7–13; see also Gen. 2, Masculinity; chart, Biblical Manhood and Womanhood).

2:3 The bringing together of Ruth and Boaz cannot be attributed to chance, especially when God begins with provision of food in famine (Ruth 1:6) and ends with the gift of a child to an empty womb (Ruth 4:13). Chance ("happened") simply means that no human intent was involved; the fact that Ruth chose the field of her close relative in which to glean was unplanned and unforeseen on her part.

2:7 The ancient custom of gleaning as codified in the Law gave the widow, or even a resident alien, the right to gather grain anywhere she pleased (Lev. 19:9; 23:22; Deut. 24:19). In OT Law, a landowner was instructed not to reap completely the corners of his fields, leaving the gleanings for the they reap, and go after them. Have I not commanded the young men not to touch you? And when you are thirsty, go to the vessels and drink from what the young men have drawn."

10So she fell on her face, bowed down to the ground, and said to him, "Why have I found favor in your eyes, that you should take notice of me, since I am a foreigner?"

11And Boaz answered and said to her, "It has been fully reported to me, all that you have done for your mother-in-law since the death of your husband, and how you have left your father and your mother and the land of your birth, and have come to a people whom you did not know before. 12The LORD repay your work, and a full reward be given you by the LORD God of Israel, under whose wings you have come for refuge."

13Then she said, "Let me find favor in your sight, my lord; for you have comforted me, and have spoken kindly to your maidservant, though I am not like one of your maidservants."

14Now Boaz said to her at mealtime, "Come here, and eat of the bread, and dip your piece of bread in the vinegar." So she sat beside the reapers, and he passed parched grain to her; and she ate and was satisfied, and kept some back. 15And when she rose up to glean, Boaz commanded his young men, saying, "Let her glean even among the sheaves, and do not reproach her. 16Also let grain from the bundles fall purposely for her; leave it that she may glean, and do not rebuke her."

17So she gleaned in the field until evening, and beat out what she had gleaned, and it was about an ephah of barley. 18Then she took it up and went into the city, and her mother-in-law saw what she had gleaned. So she brought out and gave to her what she had kept back after she had been satisfied.

19And her mother-in-law said to her, "Where have you gleaned today? And where did you work? Blessed be the one who took notice of you."

So she told her mother-in-law with whom she had worked, and said, "The man's name with whom I worked today is Boaz."

20Then Naomi said to her daughter-in-law, "Blessed be he of the LORD, who has not forsaken His kindness to the living and the dead!" And Naomi said to her, "This man is a relation of ours, one of our close relatives."

21Ruth the Moabitess said, "He also said to me, 'You shall stay close by my young men until they have finished all my harvest.' " strangers and the poor. God's welfare plan has always made provision for the poor (Lev. 19:9, 10; 23:22; see Luke 9, the Homeless; 14, Poverty), but the needy, as they were able, also willingly worked for what they received (2 Thess. 3:10). This generous provision in the Law is understood to be an act of grace freely given and not a mandate for personal rights forcibly demanded. Those who receive are to accept whatever care God provides, including food and shelter, with an humble spirit and grateful heart (Ruth 2:17–19; see Eph. 5:20). Those who can share from abundance are to express spiritual concern, exemplifying the character of God that prompts such generosity to others (Ruth 2:11, 12; see Matt. 10:8; Luke 6:38).

2:20 Two important Hebrew concepts were motivated by commitment to family and a determination to cooperate in continuing the family line: the function of the go'el (Heb., lit. "kinsman-redeemer" or "close relative"; see Ruth 3:1–18) and the practice of levirate marriage (see also Deut. 25:5–10). Only in the Book of Ruth are these two concepts linked. The "close relative" (Heb. go'el) or "kinsman-redeemer" functioned in behalf of another person and his property within the family circle in times of crisis. These are his functions:

1) He redeems property by purchasing what has been lost and returning it to the one who was forced to sell (Lev. 25:25–28).
2) He redeems persons, that is, a relative who was forced to sell himself into slavery (Lev. 25:47–55).

ORPAH The Daughter-in-Law With a Wavering Faith

Orpah is a name with root meanings as diverse as "fawn or young doe," "double-minded," or even "nape of the neck"—suggesting the meaning of "stubborn" or "stiff-necked." She wavered in her commitment to Naomi and chose to return to her life in Moab instead of clinging to Yahweh (Ruth 1:4–14; 4:9, 10).

Orpah was not a bad woman and, in fact, showed deep affection for the mother of her deceased husband Chilion. However, although Orpah loved and respected her mother-in-law Naomi, she did not have the depth of loyalty and spirit of selflessness for a permanent lifestyle commitment to Naomi and the God of Israel.

Naomi's persuasive words painted a vivid picture of the uncertainties to come, and Orpah seemingly turned her thoughts to her own devices for happiness. With her return to Moab, she vanished from the pages of biblical history.

22 And Naomi said to Ruth her daughter-in-law,
"It is good, my daughter, that you go out with his young women, and that people do not meet you in any other field." 23 So she stayed close by the young women of Boaz, to glean until the end of barley harvest and wheat harvest; and she dwelt with her mother-in-law.

Ruth's Redemption Assured

3 Then Naomi her mother-in-law said to her, "My daughter, shall I not seek security for you, that it may be well with you? 2 Now Boaz, whose young women you were with, is he not our relative? In fact, he is winnowing barley tonight at the threshing floor. 3 Therefore wash yourself and anoint yourself, put on your best garment and go down to the threshing floor; but do not make yourself known to the man until he has finished eating and drinking. 4 Then it shall be, when he lies down, that you shall notice the place where he lies; and you shall go in, uncover his feet, and lie down; and he will tell you what you should do."

5 And she said to her, "All that you say to me I will do."

6 So she went down to the threshing floor and did according to all that her mother-in-law instructed her. 7 And after Boaz had eaten and drunk, and his heart was cheerful, he went to lie down at the end of the heap of grain; and she came softly, uncovered his feet, and lay down.

8 Now it happened at midnight that the man was startled, and turned himself; and there, a woman was lying at his feet. 9 And he said, "Who are you?"

So she answered, "I am Ruth, your maidservant.
Take your maidservant under your wing,[a] for you are a close relative."

10 Then he said, "Blessed are you of the LORD, my daughter! For you have shown more kindness

3:9 [a]Or Spread the corner of your garment over your maidservant

3) He redeems blood; that is, he avenges the death of a relative who has been murdered (Num. 35:16–21, 31).

Because Boaz (Heb., lit. "in him is strength") was a relative of Elimelech, he was eligible to be the go'el or "kinsman-redeemer" with the right and responsibility to redeem the forfeited inheritance of the family so that the property of the dead man remained within the family. This responsibility usually included care for the widow (see Deut. 25:5–10). Boaz functioned as Ruth's "kinsman-redeemer" and in so doing prefigured Christ as the ultimate go'el. Three requirements of the go'el have been fulfilled in Christ: He must be related by blood (Phil. 2:5–8); He must be able to pay the price (1 Pet. 1:18, 19); and He must be willing to redeem (Matt. 20:28).

3:3–9 Naomi's daring plan. Love culminating in a desire for the highest good in the person loved, even to the point of self-sacrifice, is illustrated in Naomi. Sensing that Boaz and Ruth were already genuinely attracted to one another and understanding well the law of the "kinsman-redeemer," Naomi devised a strategy based upon knowledge of levirate marriage (see Deut. 25:5–10). By this practice a widow became the wife of her husband's brother or another close relative in order to produce a child who would inherit her first husband's estate and preserve his name. Some scholars debate whether levirate marriage is fully applicable in the story of Ruth. In any case, the producing of a male child to continue the "name" of the deceased was at stake in Ruth. Ruth's loyalty to the tradition of her husband's people and her desire to care for Naomi by marrying someone within the family was a tribute to her commitment to the family of her deceased husband. Without any effort to trap Boaz or put him in a compromising situation, Ruth made a straightforward, yet delicate and beautiful, appeal to inspire Boaz to do the duty of a "close relative." The "kinsman" duty was one performed, not for personal gain but as an act of pure love. The go'el was motivated to marry not by the force of law but by the influence of custom prompted by the intent expressed in Deuteronomy 25.

Ruth's request, "Take your maidservant under your wing," is a metaphor suggesting her need for protection just as young birds would run under the wings of their mothers to escape birds of prey. Yahweh's "wing" is Boaz's "wing"! A Jewish husband covers his bride with the end of his prayer shawl (Heb. tallith) as a symbolic gesture that she is under his protection (see Ezek. 16:8). Ruth's humble request to Boaz is for his protection as a "close relative." Any argument for sexual consummation goes beyond what the text states and runs counter to the characterization of Ruth and Boaz as a virtuous couple who would not have yielded to the temptation to consummate their relationship before the proper time. The risk to spoil God's plan is certainly there. The Hebrew text uses words that are commonly used for sexual relationships ("lie down" and "uncover," vv. 4, 7), implying that Ruth and Boaz at the end than at the beginning, in that you did not go after young men, whether poor or rich. 11And now, my daughter, do not fear. I will do for you all that you request, for all the people of my town know that you are a virtuous woman. 12Now it is true that I am a close relative; however, there is a relative closer than I. 13Stay this night, and in the morning it shall be that if he will perform the duty of a close relative for you—good; let him do it. But if he does not want to perform the duty for you, then I will perform the duty for you, as the LORD lives! Lie down until morning."

14So she lay at his feet until morning, and she arose before one could recognize another. Then he said, "Do not let it be known that the woman came to the threshing floor." 15Also he said, "Bring the shawl that is on you and hold it." And when she held it, he measured six ephahs of barley, and laid it on her. Then she[a] went into the city.

Boaz Redeems Ruth

4 Now Boaz went up to the gate and sat down there; and behold, the close relative of whom Boaz had spoken came by. So Boaz said, "Come aside, friend,[a] sit down here." So he came aside and sat down. 2And he took ten men of the elders of the city, and said, "Sit down here." So they sat down. 3Then he said to the close relative, "Naomi, who has come back from the country of Moab, sold the piece of land which belonged to our brother Elimelech. 4And I thought to inform you, saying, 'Buy it back in the presence of the inhabitants and the elders of my people. If you will redeem it, redeem it; but if you[a] will not redeem it, then tell me, that I may know; for there is no one but you to redeem it, and I am next after you.' "

And he said, "I will redeem it." had opportunity but rightly refused to disobey God's Law. Compare and contrast Ruth, who did the honorable thing, with Tamar, who played the harlot (see Gen. 38, Tamar). Ruth trusted God; Tamar took matters into her own hands.

RUTH A Faithful Moabitess

Ruth, a Moabitess, grew up on the high plateau south of the Arnon River, probably in a polygamous nation as a worshiper of the false god Chemosh.

A Hebrew family came from Bethlehem to Moab, and they were different. The mother, Naomi, was treated with respect by her husband Elimelech.

Ruth, who was asked to be the bride of Naomi's son Mahlon, was thus introduced into a close, mentoring relationship with this wise, stable woman whom she came to love and admire. Ruth and her sister-in-law Orpah bonded closely with Naomi. The three women clung together as they watched their husbands die.

Naomi had heard that the famine in Bethlehem was past, and she wanted to return home. She strongly urged her daughters-in-law to return to their respective homes to live in the women's quarters so that once again they would be eligible for marriage. Both young women wanted to stay with her, but after an emotional farewell, Orpah relented and returned to her home.

Ruth, however, steadfastly clung to Naomi. Her name is a contraction of the Hebrew reuth, from the root for "sight," meaning "something worth seeing," or possibly "friendship." Ruth understood that moving to Bethlehem meant total renunciation of her heritage and a lifetime of living as a foreigner. Her vow to Naomi stands as one of the most beautiful statements of commitment in history (Ruth 1:16, 17).

The arrival of the two women in Bethlehem marked the beginning of a new life for Ruth. She worked in the barley fields of Naomi's relative, Boaz, gleaning the edges left for the poor people. The stalks of grain were collected and threshed with a heavy wooden hand tool; then with a large fork the grain was lifted into the air to allow the wind to blow away the chaff. Many of the poor women flirted with the reapers and tried to steal grain, but Ruth soon gained a reputation for such honesty and integrity that the owner commended her.

Following the wise counsel of her mother-in-law, humble Ruth won the respect and eventually the love of Naomi's kinsman Boaz, who bought the estate of Naomi and took Ruth as his wife. In so doing he became a kinsman-redeemer (see Lev. 25:25).

Ruth lives in history as a model of womanhood, willing in joy and confidence to break with her past on the basis of God's revelation taught to her by a loving mother-in-law. God uses the faithfulness of ordinary women to accomplish His extraordinary plans: He provided bread for two widows through Ruth's gleaning; He provided security for the young widow Ruth through her marriage to Boaz; He provided posterity for Naomi through Obed, the son born to Ruth and Boaz; God provided a great king for Israel and even the Messiah through this Gentile woman.

perpetuate[a] the name of the dead through his inheritance."

6 And the close relative said, "I cannot redeem it for myself, lest I ruin my own inheritance. You redeem my right of redemption for yourself, for I cannot redeem it."

7 Now this was the custom in former times in Israel concerning redeeming and exchanging, to confirm anything: one man took off his sandal and gave it to the other, and this was a confirmation in Israel.

8 Therefore the close relative said to Boaz, "Buy it for yourself." So he took off his sandal. 9 And Boaz said to the elders and all the people, "You are witnesses this day that I have bought all that was Elimelech's, and all that was Chilion's and Mahlon's, from the hand of Naomi. 10 Moreover, Ruth the Moabitess, the widow of Mahlon, I have acquired as my wife, to perpetuate the name of the dead through his inheritance, that the name of the dead may not be cut off from among his brethren and from his position at the gate.[a] You are witnesses this day."

11 And all the people who were at the gate, and the elders, said, "We are witnesses. The LORD make the woman who is coming to your house like Rachel and Leah, the two who built the house of Israel; and may you prosper in Ephrathah and be famous in Bethlehem. 12 May your house be like the house of Perez, whom Tamar bore to Judah,

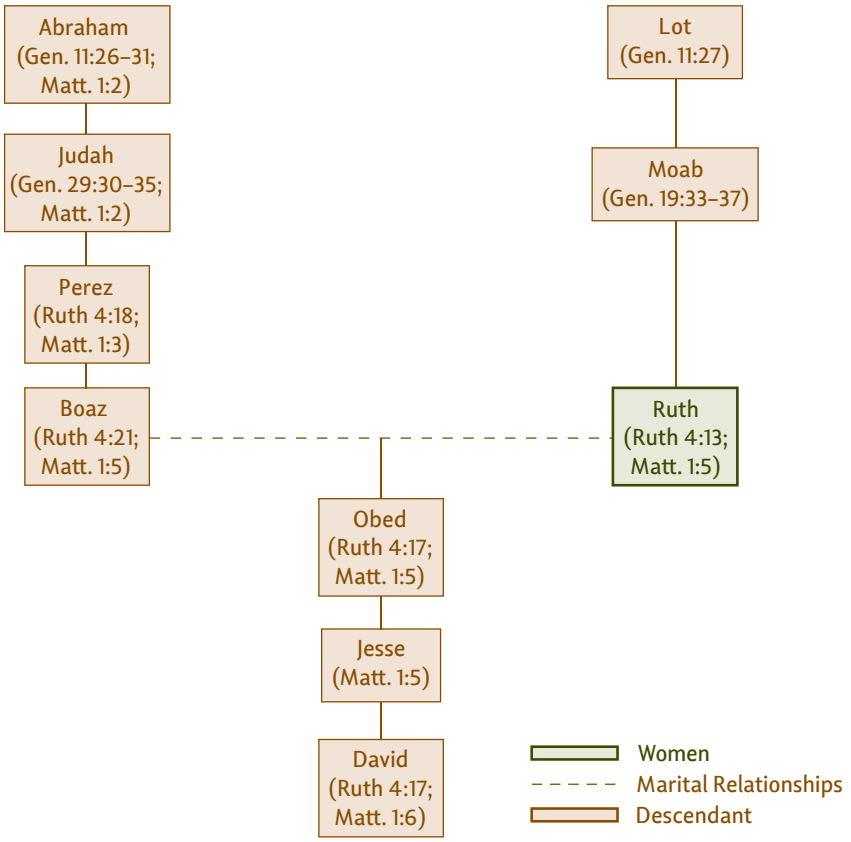
4:7 The nearest kinsman could refuse to act as go'el (see Ruth 2:20, note), thereby losing the right to the inheritance and perhaps even experiencing the indignity of the contemptuous spitting in the face. In this case, the next kinsman could then come forward. Since treading upon the soil signified taking possession of fixed property, taking off the sandal and giving it to another would symbolize the transfer of property or possession.

4:11 This wedding prayer suggests a blessing which might have customarily been recited on the occasion of betrothals in Bethlehem. Ruth was like Rachel in being blessed with children after a long period of barrenness.

THE FAMILY TREE OF RUTH



because of the offspring which the LORD will give you from this young woman."

Descendants of Boaz and Ruth

13So Boaz took Ruth and she became his wife; and when he went in to her, the LORD gave her conception, and she bore a son. 14Then the women said to Naomi, "Blessed be the LORD, who has not left you this day without a close relative; and may his name be famous in Israel! 15And may he be to you a restorer of life and a nourisher of your old age; for your daughter-in-law, who loves you, who is better to you than seven sons, has borne him." 16Then Naomi took the child and laid him on her bosom, and became a nurse to him. 17Also the neighbor women gave him a name, saying, "There is a son

4:15 To be described as better than seven sons, in a culture in which sons were so highly esteemed, is a supreme compliment. This commendation of Ruth as an extraordinary woman also bears testimony to the loving ministries she performed in Naomi's behalf above what would have been expected of any daughter or son. The relationship between mother and daughter-in-law is described by many as the most troublesome in the human family. Yet the lives of Ruth and Naomi portray an example of the joy found when divine principles are followed even in that most difficult relationship. The result is loving commitment, mutual comfort, and consistent edification (see chart, In-Law or In-Love).

Decisions to follow God's way are always honored and blessed by God. Ruth determined to respond to Naomi in a loving and godly way. Her decision to care for the aged, impoverished, and embittered Naomi is rewarded both by the security of a wealthy and devoted husband and by the joy and blessing of motherhood in bearing a son, who, in turn, gave her a place in the ancestry of the Messiah. The commitment between these two is a pattern for mutual benefit and a doorway for the blessings of heaven to be showered upon them both (Ruth 1:7, 8, 16, 17).

4:17 The book ends with an outline of the lineage of the Messiah as a reminder of redemption. The focus falls upon the vital link in which the Hebrew (Boaz) and the Gentile (Ruth) unite to share in the ancestry of David, through whom would come Jesus Christ.

IN-LAW OR IN-LOVE

The family unit in the Bible includes many domestic relationships: both those related by blood and those related by marriage. In the Hebrew society, a husband and wife were more closely associated with the groom's parents than the bride's. The bride left her family and people to become a member of her husband's family with all the rights and responsibilities of a daughter (Ruth 1:1–7). These relationships ranged from extremely hostile (Gen. 26:34, 35) to lovingly helpful (Ruth 4:15). Ideally, in-law relationships were mutually beneficial to all within the family circle, extending the supportive base of the family for helping and encouraging one another and exemplifying spiritual values to successive generations (Ps. 78:4–6).

MOTHER-IN-LAW	DAUGHTER-IN-LAW
• Commits (Ruth 1:7, 8) • Expresses gratitude (Ruth 1:8, 9) • Acts unselfishly (Ruth 1:11–13) • Becomes bitter (Ruth 1:20, 21) • Shows interest (Ruth 2:19) • Offers counsel (Ruth 3:2–4, 18)	• Commits (Ruth 1:16, 17) • Expresses loyalty (Ruth 1:10) • Responds unselfishly (Ruth 2:14–18) • Exercises creativity (Ruth 2:1–3) • Communicates response (Ruth 2:19, 21, 23) • Accepts counsel (Ruth 3:5, 6)

MUTUAL COMMITMENT BETWEEN THE WOMEN

Gratitude on the part of one awakens loyalty in the heart of the other.
Selflessness on the part of one demands unselfishness from the other.
Bitterness in one gives opportunity for creativity in the other.
Interest from one is rewarded by responsive communication in the other.
Counsel from one bears fruit as accepted and honored by the other.

1 Samuel

TITLE

First and 2 Samuel are one book in Hebrew tradition. Though there is no reference to an author in the biblical text, Samuel made some written records (1 Sam. 10:25); and the prophets Samuel, Nathan, and Gad recorded many of the acts of David (1 Chr. 29:29). This has led Jewish tradition to claim that Samuel wrote the first part of the book, while others supplied supplementary information after Samuel died (see 2 Sam. 1:18). Most likely an ancient historian or editor compiled the books, making use of records such as those of Samuel, Nathan, and Gad.

DATE

First Samuel records the history of Israel from the end of the age of the judges to the death of Saul, the first king of Israel's monarchy. This period covers approximately 110 years (about 1120–1010 B.C.). Since the "last words of David" are recorded, the Samuel books could not have been completed before David's death in about 970 B.C. (2 Sam. 23:1). The majority of scholars place the date of the composition of the books of Samuel somewhere between the death of David and the Assyrian captivity (722 B.C.).

BACKGROUND

SETTING: The Book of 1 Samuel begins with Israel at one of the lowest points in her history. During the conquest of Canaan, the tribes of Israel had not fully carried out God's command to drive out the Canaanites (Josh. 17:12, 13). Moral and spiritual failures resulted. Thus God brought discipline through foreign nations. A tragic cycle began in which Israel would briefly return to God under the leadership of a divinely appointed judge/deliverer, only to lapse again into disobedience. At the beginning of 1 Samuel, Israel's priest Eli was weak and his family corrupt. Disrespect for God and His ways permeated the culture. At this point in time Israel constituted a group of twelve tribes loosely held together by worship, gathered around a central sanctuary, the tabernacle, where Yahweh was to dwell among them. They had no central leader and frequently fell prey to other nations because of their failure to trust and obey their God. But tremendous changes—politically, socially, and religiously—were about to take place. At the end of 1 Samuel this same nation was ready to anoint its second king, David, whose appointment would usher in the period recognized as the zenith of the kingdom of Israel in the Old Testament world.

PURPOSE: The Book of 1 Samuel was written to show the rise and development of the monarchy in Israel and the need for its leadership to reverence and obey God.

AUDIENCE: First and 2 Samuel were originally one book in the Hebrew Bible, recording Israel's history from the end of the period of the judges through the rise of the monarchy. The historical narrative was compiled for the people of Israel at the end of David's reign, or at least no later than the Assyrian captivity of 722 B.C., which would probably have been mentioned in the text if the date were after that major event.

LITERARY CHARACTERISTICS: First Samuel contains historical prose narratives, with the exception of Hannah's prayer in the form of a poetic hymn, and a few proverbial statements.

THEMES

Within the historical narrative of 1 Samuel, key themes are found. The rise of the monarchy in Israel is described. Clearly this period of history affirms that leaders must be led by God, not by their desires, culture, religious tradition, or situation.

Reverence for God is demonstrated by obedience to His commands (see chart, Models of Obedience and Disobedience). God must be the object of faith; patience and trust are necessary to allow Him to work in His time and way. The sovereignty of God is specifically seen in Hannah's life and in the choosing of Samuel (1 Sam. 1:1, 20), Saul (1 Sam. 10:20–24), and David (1 Sam. 16:6–13).

The Family of Elkanah

1 Now there was a certain man of Ramathaim Zophim, of the mountains of Ephraim, and his name was Elkanah the son of Jeroham, the son of Elihu,[a] the son of Tohu,[b] the son of Zuph, an Ephraimite. 2And he had two wives: the name of one was Hannah, and the name of the other Peninnah. Peninnah had children, but Hannah had no children. 3This man went up from his city yearly to worship and sacrifice to the LORD of hosts in Shiloh. Also the two sons of Eli, Hophni and Phinehas, the priests of the LORD, were there. 4And whenever the time came for Elkanah to make an offering, he would give portions to Peninnah his wife and to all her sons and daughters. 5But to Hannah he would give a double portion, for he loved Hannah, although the LORD had closed her womb. 6And her rival also provoked her severely, to make her miserable, because the LORD had closed her womb. 7So it was, year by year, when she went up to the house of the LORD, that she provoked her; therefore she wept and did not eat.

Hannah's Vow

8Then Elkanah her husband said to her, "Hannah, why do you weep? Why do you not eat? And why is your heart grieved? Am I not better to you than ten sons?"

9So Hannah arose after they had finished eating and drinking in Shiloh. Now Eli the priest was sitting on the seat by the doorpost of the tabernacle[a] of the LORD. 10And she was in bitterness of soul, and prayed to the LORD and wept in anguish. 11Then she made a vow and said, "O LORD of hosts, if You will indeed look on the affliction of Your maidservant and remember me, and not forget Your maidservant, but will give Your maidservant a male child, then I will give him to the LORD all the days of his life, and no razor shall come upon his head."

12And it happened, as she continued praying before the LORD, that Eli watched her mouth. 13Now Hannah spoke in her heart; only her lips moved, but her voice was not heard. Therefore Eli thought she was drunk. 14So Eli said to her, "How long will you be drunk? Put your wine away from you!"

15But Hannah answered and said, "No, my lord, I am a woman of sorrowful spirit. I have drunk neither wine nor intoxicating drink, but have poured out my soul before the LORD. 16Do not consider your maidservant a wicked woman,[a] for out of the abundance of my complaint and grief I have spoken until now."

17Then Eli answered and said, "Go in peace, and the God of Israel grant your petition which you have asked of Him."

18And she said, "Let your maidservant find favor in your sight." So the woman went her way and ate, and her face was no longer sad.

Samuel Is Born and Dedicated

19Then they rose early in the morning and worshiped before the LORD, and returned and came to their house at Ramah. And Elkanah knew Hannah

1:1 Birthplace and lineage of Samuel. "Ramathaim Zophim" (also "Ramah," v. 19) was a city located in the hill country of Ephraim, five and a half miles north of Jerusalem. This was the home of Elkanah and Hannah and the birthplace of their son, Samuel (see Hannah). Both Elkanah (Heb., lit. "God created") and his son Samuel were Levites by lineage (1 Chr. 6:33–38). Therefore, the young boy Samuel was qualified to serve in the tabernacle and later as a priest for the nation (1 Sam. 7:9; 9:13; 10:8; 11:15; 16:5). Following the instructions of the Law, Elkanah took his two wives to the tabernacle at Shiloh to worship and sacrifice to the Lord (1 Sam. 1:3; Ex. 34:23; Deut. 16:16) despite religious corruption at Shiloh (1 Sam. 2:12–17).

1:2 Polygamy was culturally acceptable in Samuel's day. High priority was placed on having numerous descendants to carry on the family name and inheritance as well as to work the fields. However, whenever God discusses, arranges, or illustrates marriage in Scripture, it is always in a context of monogamy (see Gen. 2:24, note; 1 Tim. 3, Polygamy). God gave Adam one wife (Gen. 2:18); God's concept of oneness in marriage implies one spouse (Gen. 2:22–24); God designed marriage as a complementary relationship of two people (Gen. 2:18, 21, 22); the king of Israel was specifically commanded not to take many wives (Deut. 17:15–17; see also 1 Kin. 11, Solomon's Pagan Wives).

1:6 Barrenness was a disgrace in OT times (see Ps. 113, Suffering). However, it is clear from the text that the sovereign God was responsible for Hannah's barrenness (1 Sam. 1:5, 6; see also Gen. 16:2; 20:18; 30:2). In addition to her sorrow, Hannah repeatedly experienced the cruelty of Elkanah's other wife, Peninnah (1 Sam. 1:2, 6, 7). This prolific childbearer ("all her sons and daughters," v. 4) made Hannah miserable, provoking her to the point of grief and pain (v. 6). Yet in the midst of Hannah's suffering, she became a woman of prayer and praise (v. 10; 1 Sam. 2:1–10). When the situation was unbearable, Hannah turned in prayer to God, not to someone or something else. In spite of her bitterness of soul, Hannah in fervent prayer focused on the Person of God as Lord of the hosts of heaven and earth (v. 11). Her perspective is significant since Israel was at one of the lowest points in her history, with a small and weak army, surrounded by powerful enemies. Hannah also was content to trust God to avenge Peninnah's cruelty (see Deut. 32:35; and David's words in 2 Sam. 3:39).

1:11 Devout Israelite parents were expected to commit their firstborn son to the Lord, a requirement of the Mosaic Law (Ex. 22:29). Hannah went further in her prayer (see Phil. 1, Prayers for Your Children). Though she did not use the word "Nazirite," Hannah clearly was dedicating the entire life of her anticipated son for service to the Lord. Though the Nazirite vow was seldom taken for a lifetime, no other incidents of the taking of this vow in behalf of someone else are found (Num. 6:2–7).

HANNAH A Devoted Mother

Out of the materialism and ruthlessness of Israel during the period of the judges, Hannah emerged as a woman of faith. From her home in the hills north of Jerusalem, she had traveled to Shiloh, the national place of worship. Her sadness of heart and persistence in prayer contrasted sharply with the prevalent corruption in worship led by Eli's sons (1 Sam. 2:12–17).

Hannah's personal life was one of despair in her childlessness as she recoiled from Peninnah's pestering reproach. Her prayer exhibits selflessness as she pleads for a son whom she might present to God for His use (1 Sam. 1:11). Clearly, Hannah was loved and valued for herself by her husband, Elkanah, but even the intensity of a devoted husband's love could not penetrate her inner disquiet nor overcome her yearning for a child (v. 8). The throbbing emotions of her despair were so evident in Hannah's prayers that the aged Eli accused her of drunkenness. But beyond her prayers and tears, a vow erupts. Hannah, in effect, makes a pact with God; she pledges to give back to Him the precious life He might give to her. God honored her bold and decisive act.

Hannah's faith is rewarded, and her son is named Samuel (Heb. shemu'el, "Heard by God") because she "asked for him from the LORD" (1 Sam. 1:20). According to custom, she probably nursed him several years, giving time for her to convey to Samuel her own spirit of deep reverence and piety and also to knit her heart with his through maternal bonding. Nonetheless, she kept her word to the Lord. Into the defiled worship center she placed her very young, impressionable son. Although humanly it seemed to border on foolishness, this was an act of saintly sacrifice. Her commitment was to God; her gift was pre-arranged with Him. With prophetic insight she planted the next generation just as promised.

Samuel grew up to become the last judge, an outstanding and gifted prophet, and the one who would anoint the first two kings of Israel. Samuel was the pivotal spiritual leader who turned the nation toward Yahweh. His mother Hannah played her part in this spiritual awakening as she trusted God, leaving for all posterity an example of determined devotion in her motherhood.

his wife, and the LORD remembered her. 20So it came to pass in the process of time that Hannah conceived and bore a son, and called his name Samuel,[a] saying, "Because I have asked for him from the LORD."

21Now the man Elkanah and all his house went up to offer to the LORD the yearly sacrifice and his vow. 22But Hannah did not go up, for she said to her husband, "Not until the child is weaned; then I will take him, that he may appear before the LORD and remain there forever."

23So Elkanah her husband said to her, "Do what seems best to you; wait until you have weaned him. Only let the LORD establish His[a] word." Then the woman stayed and nursed her son until she had weaned him.

24Now when she had weaned him, she took him up with her, with three bulls,[a] one ephah of flour, and a skin of wine, and brought him to the house of the LORD in Shiloh. And the child was young. 25Then they slaughtered a bull, and brought the child to Eli. 26And she said, "O my lord! As your soul lives, my lord, I am the woman who stood by you here, praying to the LORD. 27For this child I prayed, and the LORD has granted me my petition which I asked of Him. 28Therefore I also have lent him to the LORD; as long as he lives he shall be lent to the LORD." So they worshiped the LORD there.

1:24 The normal time for weaning a child among the Israelite mothers of this period was about three years of age (see Ex. 2, Breastfeeding).

1:24 Hannah was faithful to her vow as she brought Samuel to the house of the Lord. At the birth of the monarchy in Israel, God focused on one family and in particular one woman in that family, Hannah, who modeled reverence for God and obedience to Him (vv. 7, 11, 24–28; 1 Sam. 2:19; see also Hannah; Prov. 31, The Virtuous Wife of Proverbs). Such an attitude is a key theme as 1 Samuel records the rise of the monarchy in Israel. Though leadership that reverenced and obeyed God was practically non-existent at this time in Israel's history, both reverence and obedience to God were modeled by Hannah for her son Samuel, who in turn modeled them for a nation (see chart, Models of Obedience and Disobedience). The example of Samuel's life also was observed by Israel's first two kings, Saul and David (1 Sam.10:1; 16:13). The influence of one life can never be underestimated.

1:28 Samuel (Heb., lit. "God heard") was presented to Eli the priest at the tabernacle (v. 24), but in actuality he had already been dedicated to the Lord and belonged to Him (v. 28; see also Is. 45, Naming of Children). First, Samuel's father worshiped the Lord (1 Sam. 1:28); then his mother worshiped in a song of praise that focuses on the One who heard her prayer (1 Sam. 2:1–10). Samuel personified the response of God to the prayerful intercession of His people.

MODELS OF OBEDIENCE AND DISOBEDIENCE

THE MODELING OF OBEDIENCE	THE MODELING OF DISOBEDIENCE
The Obedience of Samuel's Parents 1. They were obedient in worship (1 Sam. 1:3, 7, 19; 2:19, 21). 2. They were obedient to a vow (1 Sam. 1:11, 24, 27, 28).	The Disobedience of Eli 1. Eli disobeyed the Lord's commands concerning His sacrifices and offerings (1 Sam. 2:13–17, 29). 2. Eli put his sons before the Lord (1 Sam. 2:29). 3. Eli did not discipline his sons (1 Sam. 3:13).
The Obedience of Samuel 1. As a child, Samuel ministered to the Lord (1 Sam. 2:11, 18; 3:1). 2. Samuel was obedient to Eli (1 Sam. 3:4–9). 3. Samuel was obedient to God (1 Sam. 3:10).	The Disobedience of Eli's Sons 1. Eli's sons despised the Lord's sacrifices and offerings (1 Sam. 2:13–17). 2. Eli's sons disobeyed the Lord's moral commands (1 Sam. 2:22). 3. Eli's sons did not obey their father (1 Sam. 2:25).
The Result of Obedience 1. Samuel saw the blessing of the Lord on his parents (1 Sam. 2:20, 21). 2. Samuel grew before the Lord (1 Sam. 2:21). 3. Samuel "grew in stature, and in favor both with the LORD and men" (1 Sam. 2:26). 4. Samuel was established and sustained as the Lord's prophet by God's presence (1 Sam. 3:19, 20). 5. Samuel became God's spokesman to the people (1 Sam. 3:21–4:1).	The Result of Disobedience 1. Eli's sons were corrupt; they did not know the Lord (1 Sam. 2:12). 2. The disobedient model of Eli's sons caused the Lord's people to sin (1 Sam. 2:17, 24). 3. The house of Eli was judged by God (1 Sam. 2:27–36; 3:11–14). 4. The death of Hophni and Phinehas occurred on the same day (1 Sam. 2:34; 4:11).

Hannah's Prayer

2 And Hannah prayed and said:

"My heart rejoices in the LORD;
My horn[a] is exalted in the LORD.
I smile at my enemies,
Because I rejoice in Your salvation.

2 "No one is holy like the LORD,
For there is none besides You,
Nor is there any rock like our God.

3 "Talk no more so very proudly;
Let no arrogance come from your mouth,
For the LORD is the God of knowledge;
And by Him actions are weighed.

4 "The bows of the mighty men are broken,
And those who stumbled are girded with strength.
5 Those who were full have hired themselves out for bread,

2:1 [a] That is, strength

2:1 Hannah's praise, like the psalms, is in the poetic hymnic form of Hebrew poetry. Hers is the fruit of an intimate relationship with God developed in the midst of trial and the declaration of who God is and what He does (vv. 1–10; see Deut. 10:21). Hannah, led by the Spirit of God, spoke prophetically of the future king the Lord would give His people (1 Sam. 2:10). Significantly, Hannah's words were similar to the praise of Mary, the mother of Jesus, in the Magnificat (Luke 1:46–55) and of Zacharias, the father of John the Baptist (Luke 1:68–79). Hannah not only focused her praise on the Person of God but also on what He had done for her. "Horn" was used as a symbol of strength in the OT (see Ps. 89:17, 24). Hannah rejoiced that "my horn is lifted high" because the Lord had strengthened her to have a child.

2:2 Declaring the unique holiness of God, Hannah used "rock" imagery to highlight God's divine strength, refuge, and stability (see Deut. 32:4). She joyously testified to God's powerful intervention in her personal life, using the strongest of terms to express her deliverance and salvation. In light of God's character, Hannah warned all, including Peninnah, how foolish it is to be arrogant. God knows our pride and will evaluate it by His standards. The Lord also will "thunder against" all who oppose Him (1 Sam. 2:10).

2:4–8 God's sovereignty is emphasized through a series of vivid life reversals (for example, the strong are broken, while the weak are strengthened, vv. 4–8). This section of contrasts

MOTHERHOOD MOTHERS AND SONS

Mothers have a unique relationship with their sons. The understanding and forgiveness is usually free-flowing, as is the affection; yet for some sons a good mother also needs to be firm, expecting and demanding appropriate respect. Mothers must regulate the atmosphere in order to receive its blessings. If they are too busy or overloaded, they will not be in the mood for receiving.

Never is it too early or too late to begin ministering to your children. Jochebed and Hannah are two women in the Bible who have often been sources of encouragement and example. Both of these godly women had their little boys only until they were weaned, which in those days meant perhaps three to four years (Ex. 2:9, 10; 1 Sam. 1:22). Then Moses was sent to the immoral and affluent Egyptian court (Ex. 2:10), and Samuel was sent to the temple to be trained and raised by an elderly priest who had not been able to train his own sons (1 Sam. 1:27, 28; 3:13). Yet both Moses and Samuel grew to become powerful men of God (Ex. 9:16; 1 Sam. 3:19). The influence of a mother on her son can be significant just as the early influence of Jochebed and Hannah no doubt played a vital role in the later success of their sons.

And the hungry have ceased to hunger.
Even the barren has borne seven,
And she who has many children has become feeble.
6"The LORD kills and makes alive;
He brings down to the grave and brings up.
7The LORD makes poor and makes rich;
He brings low and lifts up.
8He raises the poor from the dust
And lifts the beggar from the ash heap,
To set them among princes
And make them inherit the throne of glory.

"For the pillars of the earth are the LORD's,
And He has set the world upon them.
9He will guard the feet of His saints,
But the wicked shall be silent in darkness.

"For by strength no man shall prevail.
10The adversaries of the LORD shall be broken in pieces;
From heaven He will thunder against them.
The LORD will judge the ends of the earth.

"He will give strength to His king,
And exalt the horn of His anointed."

11Then Elkanah went to his house at Ramah. But the child ministered to the LORD before Eli the priest.

The Wicked Sons of Eli

12Now the sons of Eli were corrupt;[a] they did not know the LORD. 13And the priests' custom with the people was that when any man offered a sacrifice, the priest's servant would come with a three-pronged fleshhook in his hand while the meat was boiling. 14Then he would thrust it into the pan, or kettle, or caldron, or pot; and the priest would take for himself all that the fleshhook brought up. So they did in Shiloh to all the Israelites who came there. 15Also, before they burned the fat, the priest's servant would come and say to the man who sacrificed, "Give meat for roasting to the priest, for he will not take boiled meat from you, but raw."

16And if the man said to him, "They should really burn the fat first; then you may take as much as your heart desires," he would then answer him, "No, but you must give it now; and if not, I will take it by force."

17Therefore the sin of the young men was very

2:12 [a]Literally sons of Belial

climaxes in declaring God's power over life and death (v. 6). Hannah illustrates that a sovereign God can, and in her situation did, reverse human circumstances (1 Sam. 1:20; 2:5; see also Eccl. 7, Providence).

2:8 The "pillars of the earth" pictures the stability and firmness of God's creation under His sovereign control. Along with upholding His creation, God protects and sustains the righteous (1 Sam. 2:8, 9; see Job 38:4; Ps. 75:3, 10).

2:10 Even before the establishment of the monarchy, Hannah spoke prophetically of Israel's coming king whose kingdom would culminate in the Messiah (see also Gen. 49:10; Deut. 17:14–20).

2:14 God had provided for specified portions of the sacrificial offering to go to the priests after the fat had been burned on the altar (Lev. 7:30–36), but Eli's sons, Hophni and Phinehas, took unlawful portions even before the Lord received what was His (1 Sam. 2:16, 17), treating the Lord's offering with contempt (v. 17). Worst of all, they caused the Lord's people to sin (v. 24).

Being busy is not a satisfactory substitute for being holy.
Jo Ann Leavell

great before the LORD, for men abhorred the offering of the LORD.

Samuel's Childhood Ministry

18But Samuel ministered before the LORD, even as a child, wearing a linen ephod. 19Moreover his mother used to make him a little robe, and bring it to him year by year when she came up with her husband to offer the yearly sacrifice. 20And Eli would bless Elkanah and his wife, and say, "The LORD give you descendants from this woman for the loan that was given to the LORD." Then they would go to their own home.

21And the LORD visited Hannah, so that she conceived and bore three sons and two daughters. Meanwhile the child Samuel grew before the LORD.

Prophecy Against Eli's Household

22Now Eli was very old; and he heard everything his sons did to all Israel,[a] and how they lay with the women who assembled at the door of the tabernacle of meeting. 23So he said to them, "Why do you do such things? For I hear of your evil dealings from all the people. 24No, my sons! For it is not a good report that I hear. You make the LORD's people transgress. 25If one man sins against another, God will judge him. But if a man sins against the LORD, who will intercede for him?" Nevertheless they did not heed the voice of their father, because the LORD desired to kill them.

26And the child Samuel grew in stature, and in favor both with the LORD and men.

27Then a man of God came to Eli and said to him, "Thus says the LORD: 'Did I not clearly reveal Myself to the house of your father when they were in Egypt in Pharaoh's house? 28Did I not choose him out of all the tribes of Israel to be My priest, to offer upon My altar, to burn incense, and to wear an ephod before Me? And did I not give to the house of your father all the offerings of the children of Israel made by fire? 29Why do you kick at My sacrifice and My offering which I have commanded in My dwelling place, and honor your sons more than Me, to make yourselves fat with the best of all the offerings of Israel My people?' 30Therefore the LORD God of Israel says: 'I said indeed that your house and the house of your father would walk before Me forever.' But now the LORD says: 'Far be it from Me; for those who honor Me I will honor, and those who despise Me shall be lightly esteemed. 31Behold, the days are coming that I will cut off your arm and the arm of your father's house, so that there will not be an old man in your house. 32And you will see an enemy in My dwelling place, despite all the good which God does for Israel. And there shall not be an old man in your house forever. 33But any of your men whom I do not cut off from My altar shall consume your

2:22 [a]Following Masoretic Text, Targum, and Vulgate; Dead Sea Scrolls and Septuagint omit the rest of this verse.

2:19 Samuel ministered unto the Lord as he grew up under the oversight of Eli, participating in the duties performed by priests in connection with the worship of God. He wore the white linen ephod, the priest's short sleeveless tunic with a belt (v. 18). Each year when Hannah came to worship at Shiloh, bringing a handmade robe, probably resembling the "robe of the ephod" described but without the symbolical ornaments of the official garment (see Ex. 28:31–34; see 1 Sam. 1, Motherhood; chart, The High Priest's Clothing). Hannah's annual gift to her son may have been a visual reminder to Samuel that he had been set apart to lifelong service to the Lord.

2:22 Though the Israelites conquered the Promised Land, they did not fulfill the Lord's command to drive out the Canaanites, whose influence permeated Israel, especially in the religious realm. "Sacred prostitution" was practiced by the Canaanites and may have influenced Eli's immoral sons, who slept with women at the door of the tabernacle (see Ex. 38:8), thus desecrating the sanctuary. Such behavior was specifically forbidden to the people of God (Deut. 23:17). The sin of Hophni and Phinehas was against the Lord (1 Sam. 2:12–17, 22, 25). Eli's mild rebuke had no effect on his wicked sons, who had neither reverence for God nor respect for their father (see 1 Sam. 3, Family). A person who disobeys authority does not grow properly (1 Sam. 2:11—3:18). The ultimate authority for Eli's sons was self, not God (see Prov. 22, Children). The ultimate penalty for showing contempt for the priesthood (Deut. 17:12, 13), as well as for constant, blatant rebellion against one's parents, was death (Deut. 21:18–21).

2:27 As high priest, Eli was to illustrate reverence for God. But Eli did not model this reverence to his sons when he honored them more than God (v. 29) and with them was a part in choosing the best of all the offerings of God's people (vv. 13–16). Eli knew the evil actions of his sons and did not discipline them (1 Sam. 3:13). For God's leaders in particular, continuing disrespect for God and His ways brings discipline and judgment (1 Sam. 2:17, 27–34; 3:11–14). Scripture records the fulfillment of God's prophecy against the house of Eli (1 Sam. 4:11, 18; 22:17–20; 1 Kin. 2:26, 27), illustrating the truth in Psalm 119:89. The predicted "enemy in My dwelling place" (1 Sam. 2:32, the tabernacle) implies the Philistines' capture of the ark (1 Sam. 4:11) and the subsequent destruction of Shiloh (see 1 Sam. 4:22).

THE DYSFUNCTIONAL FAMILY FAILURE TO MEET NEEDS

In a fallen world, there is no such thing as a perfect family. Children have many needs: physical needs (food, shelter, clothing); emotional needs (love, acceptance, affirmation); intellectual needs (the opportunity to learn daily living skills and to develop intellectually); and spiritual needs (guidance in how to know God personally and to mature in that relationship). However, a dysfunctional family is one which is consistently inadequate in meeting some or all of these needs. Notable dysfunctional families in the Bible include those of Isaac (Gen. 25:19—28:9), Jacob (Gen. 29:14—35:26; 37:1—38:30), Eli (1 Sam. 2:12–36; 3:11–14), and David (2 Sam. 11:1—19:8).

Dysfunctional families have common patterns: they do not talk, keeping the family secrets; they do not see, ignoring inappropriate behavior as well as altered perceptions of reality; they do not feel, disregarding legitimate emotions; they do not trust, living in isolation and fearing more broken promises; the children strive desperately to be perfect, trying to meet all parental expectations.

Such families are shaped by impaired parents who consistently distort or deny reality to conceal their own problems, such as workaholism or abusive behavior (addictive, sexual, physical, emotional). The result in their children's lives is shame, a deep sense of inadequacy and worthlessness, and the burden of unmet, unrealistic parental expectations. The good news is that the Lord desires to be the "Repairer of the Breach" for families in which children have been maligned or afflicted (Is. 58:9–12).

eyes and grieve your heart. And all the descendants of your house shall die in the flower of their age. 34Now this shall be a sign to you that will come upon your two sons, on Hophni and Phinehas: in one day they shall die, both of them. 35Then I will raise up for Myself a faithful priest who shall do according to what is in My heart and in My mind. I will build him a sure house, and he shall walk before My anointed forever. 36And it shall come to pass that everyone who is left in your house will come and bow down to him for a piece of silver and a morsel of bread, and say, "Please, put me in one of the priestly positions, that I may eat a piece of bread." Samuel's First Prophecy

3 Now the boy Samuel ministered to the LORD before Eli. And the word of the LORD was rare in those days; there was no widespread revelation. 2And it came to pass at that time, while Eli was lying down in his place, and when his eyes had begun to grow so dim that he could not see, 3and before the lamp of God went out in the tabernacle[a] of the LORD where the ark of God was, and while Samuel was lying down, 4that the LORD called Samuel. And he answered, "Here I am!" 5So he ran to Eli and said, "Here I am, for you called me."

And he said, "I did not call; lie down again." And he went and lay down.

6Then the LORD called yet again, "Samuel!"

So Samuel arose and went to Eli, and said, "Here I am, for you called me." He answered, "I did not call, my son; lie down again." 7(Now Samuel did not yet know the LORD, nor was the word of the LORD yet revealed to him.)

8And the LORD called Samuel again the third time. So he arose and went to Eli, and said, "Here I am, for you did call me."

Then Eli perceived that the LORD had called the boy. 9Therefore Eli said to Samuel, "Go, lie down; and it shall be, if He calls you, that you must say, 'Speak, LORD, for Your servant hears.' " So Samuel went and lay down in his place.

10Now the LORD came and stood and called as at other times, "Samuel! Samuel!"

3:3 [a]Hebrew heykal, palace or temple

3:3 Samuel's encounter with the Lord most likely took place at night as evidenced by the fact that lamps on the seven-branched lampstand in the tabernacle, filled with olive oil and lit at twilight, burned until morning (v. 3; Ex. 25:31–40; 30:8).

3:4 Samuel's heart of obedience is demonstrated by his response to what he perceived as calls from Eli as well as by his following Eli's instructions explicitly (vv. 4–10, 16, 18). However difficult it may have been for Samuel to tell Eli the Lord's word of judgment on his house, the boy was obedient (see Philem., Obedience). He hid nothing from Eli (v. 18). Such a heart attitude soon would enable Samuel to know the Lord (vv. 7, 11). The young boy had seen the obedience of his parents and the result of blessing in their lives (1 Sam. 1:28; 2:19–21). Samuel, the apprentice priest, was about to become the spokesman of God—Samuel, the prophet (1 Sam. 3:19–21), at a time when a word from God was rare (v. 1). Becoming a prophet was based solely upon a divine call and the empowerment of God's Spirit. Samuel's faithfulness to speak God's word indicated that he was fit to be God's voice in Israel (v. 18). When Samuel spoke, people listened (v. 20; 1 Sam. 4:1). God caused Samuel's words to come true (vv. 19, 21).

And Samuel answered, "Speak, for Your servant hears."

11Then the LORD said to Samuel: "Behold, I will do something in Israel at which both ears of everyone who hears it will tingle. 12In that day I will perform against Eli all that I have spoken concerning his house, from beginning to end. 13For I have told him that I will judge his house forever for the iniquity which he knows, because his sons made themselves vile, and he did not restrain them. 14And therefore I have sworn to the house of Eli that the iniquity of Eli's house shall not be atoned for by sacrifice or offering forever."

15So Samuel lay down until morning,[a] and opened the doors of the house of the LORD. And Samuel was afraid to tell Eli the vision. 16Then Eli called Samuel and said, "Samuel, my son!"

He answered, "Here I am."

17And he said, "What is the word that the LORD spoke to you? Please do not hide it from me. God do so to you, and more also, if you hide anything from me of all the things that He said to you." 18Then Samuel told him everything, and hid nothing from him. And he said, "It is the LORD. Let Him do what seems good to Him."

19So Samuel grew, and the LORD was with him and let none of his words fall to the ground. 20And all Israel from Dan to Beersheba knew that Samuel had been established as a prophet of the LORD. 21Then the LORD appeared again in Shiloh. For the LORD revealed Himself to Samuel in Shiloh by the word of the LORD.

4 And the word of Samuel came to all Israel.[a]

The Ark of God Captured

Now Israel went out to battle against the Philistines, and encamped beside Ebenezer; and the Philistines encamped in Aphek. 2Then the Philistines put themselves in battle array against Israel. And when they joined battle, Israel was defeated by the Philistines, who killed about four thousand men of the army in the field. 3And when the people had come into the camp, the elders of Israel said, "Why has the LORD defeated us today before the Philistines? Let us bring the ark of the covenant of the LORD from Shiloh to us, that when it comes among us it may save us from the hand of our enemies." 4So the people sent to Shiloh, that they might bring from there the ark of the covenant of the LORD of hosts, who dwells between the cherubim. And the two sons of Eli, Hophni and Phinehas, were there with the ark of the covenant of God.

5And when the ark of the covenant of the LORD came into the camp, all Israel shouted so loudly that the earth shook. 6Now when the Philistines heard the noise of the shout, they said, "What does the sound of this great shout in the camp of the Hebrews mean?" Then they understood that the ark of the LORD had come into the camp. 7So the Philistines were afraid, for they said, "God has come into the camp!" And they said, "Woe to us! For such a thing has never happened before. 8Woe to us! Who will deliver us from the hand of these mighty gods? These are the gods who struck the Egyptians with all the plagues in the wilderness. 9Be strong and conduct yourselves like men, you Philistines, that you do not become servants of the Hebrews, as they have been to you. Conduct yourselves like men, and fight!"

10So the Philistines fought, and Israel was defeated, and every man fled to his tent. There was a very great slaughter, and there fell of Israel thirty thousand foot soldiers. 11Also the ark of God was captured; and the two sons of Eli, Hophni and Phinehas, died.

Death of Eli

12Then a man of Benjamin ran from the battle line the same day, and came to Shiloh with his clothes torn and dirt on his head. 13Now when he came, there was Eli, sitting on a seat by the wayside watching,[a] for his heart trembled for the ark of God. And when the man came into the city and told it, all the city cried out. 14When Eli heard the

4:3 Israel experienced a terrible defeat at Aphek (v. 2). Instead of engaging in sober reflection as to why God had allowed the Philistine victory (v. 3), the Israelites brought the ark of the covenant into the camp (v. 5). Their quick solution is a tragic example of misplaced confidence. Israel confused a sacred, but material, object with God Himself, demonstrating their lack of understanding of God's omnipotence and omnipresence. They superstitiously believed that divine power resided in the ark itself (see Josh. 6). In this, Israel may have been influenced by her pagan neighbors, who believed their gods inhabited their idols of wood and stone. To the Philistines, the arrival of the ark on the battle site meant Israel's God had come (1 Sam. 4:6–8). Israel also expectantly believed her God would perform (v. 5). But Israel's sovereign God could not be manipulated (1 Sam. 4—7). Israel's Almighty God was present, however, faithfully performing His prophetic word (1 Sam. 4:10, 11, 16–22; see 1 Sam. 2:31–36), but the outcome was not what the people expected. Israel learned the battle's tragic outcome when the messenger arrived with clothes torn and dust on his head, the sign of extreme anguish. God is not mocked, nor can He be manipulated by man. Twenty years later at this same site, the Israelites, led by Samuel, would learn that victory is preceded by repentance and a return to God and His ways.

noise of the outcry, he said, "What does the sound of this tumult mean?" And the man came quickly and told Eli. 15Eli was ninety-eight years old, and his eyes were so dim that he could not see.

16Then the man said to Eli, "I am he who came from the battle. And I fled today from the battle line."

And he said, "What happened, my son?"

17So the messenger answered and said, "Israel has fled before the Philistines, and there has been a great slaughter among the people. Also your two sons, Hophni and Phinehas, are dead; and the ark of God has been captured."

18Then it happened, when he made mention of the ark of God, that Eli fell off the seat backward by the side of the gate; and his neck was broken and he died, for the man was old and heavy. And he had judged Israel forty years.

Ichabod

19Now his daughter-in-law, Phinehas's wife, was with child, due to be delivered; and when she heard the news that the ark of God was captured, and that her father-in-law and her husband were dead, she bowed herself and gave birth, for her labor pains came upon her. 20And about the time of her death the women who stood by her said to her, "Do not fear, for you have borne a son." But she did not answer, nor did she regard it. 21Then she named the child Ichabod,[a] saying, "The glory has departed from Israel!" because the ark of God had been captured and because of her father-in-law and her husband. 22And she said, "The glory has departed from Israel, for the ark of God has been captured."

The Philistines and the Ark

5 Then the Philistines took the ark of God and brought it from Ebenezer to Ashdod. 2When the Philistines took the ark of God, they brought it into the house of Dagon[a] and set it by Dagon. 3And when the people of Ashdod arose early in the morning, there was Dagon, fallen on its face to the earth before the ark of the LORD. So they took Dagon and set it in its place again. 4And when they arose early the next morning, there was Dagon, fallen on its face to the ground before the ark of the LORD. The head of Dagon and both the palms of its hands were broken off on the threshold; only Dagon's torso[a] was left of it. 5Therefore neither the priests of Dagon nor any who come into Dagon's house tread on the threshold of Dagon in Ashdod to this day.

6But the hand of the LORD was heavy on the people of Ashdod, and He ravaged them and struck them with tumors,[a] both Ashdod and its territory. 7And when the men of Ashdod saw how it was, they said, "The ark of the God of Israel must not remain with us, for His hand is harsh toward us and Dagon our god." 8Therefore they sent and gathered to themselves all the lords of the Philistines, and said, "What shall we do with the ark of the God of Israel?"

And they answered, "Let the ark of the God of Israel be carried away to Gath." So they carried the ark of the God of Israel away. 9So it was, after they had carried it away, that the hand of the LORD was against the city with a very great destruction; and He struck the men of the city, both small and great, and tumors broke out on them.

10Therefore they sent the ark of God to Ekron. So it was, as the ark of God came to Ekron, that the Ekronites cried out, saying, "They have brought the ark of the God of Israel to us, to kill us and our people!" 11So they sent and gathered together all the lords of the Philistines, and said, "Send away the ark of the God of Israel, and let it go back to its own place, so that it does not kill us and our people." For there was a deadly destruction throughout all the city; the hand of God was very heavy there. 12And the men who did not die were stricken with the tumors, and the cry of the city went up to heaven.

The Ark Returned to Israel

6 Now the ark of the LORD was in the country of the Philistines seven months. 2And the Philistines called for the priests and the diviners, saying, "What shall we do with the ark of the LORD? Tell us how we should send it to its place."

3So they said, "If you send away the ark of the God of Israel, do not send it empty; but by all means return it to Him with a trespass offering. Then you will be healed, and it will be known to you why His hand is not removed from you."

4Then they said, "What is the trespass offering which we shall return to Him?"

4:21 [a]Literally Inglorious 5:2 [a]A Philistine idol 5:4 [a]Following Septuagint, Syriac, Targum, and Vulgate; Masoretic Text reads Dagon. 5:6 [a]Probably bubonic plague. Septuagint and Vulgate add here And in the midst of their land rats sprang up, and there was a great death panic in the city.

4:21 Phinehas's wife went into premature labor when she heard her father-in-law (the high priest), as well as her husband and his brother (the high priest's successors), were all dead (v. 19). She viewed it as an even greater tragedy that the ark of the covenant had been captured by pagans (evidenced by her repetition of this fact, vv. 21, 22). Even in the agony of dying in childbirth, she recognized these events as the judgment of God. She interpreted the situation accurately when she named her newborn child Ichabod (Heb., lit. "no glory") because the ark of the covenant had departed. In the OT the departure of the Lord's glory is always a sign of God's judgment (see Ezek. 1; 9—11). God's glory had left Israel because of the sins of the people, in particular the sins of Israel's leadership. There is archaeological evidence that Shiloh was burned during this time period. This destruction likely was caused by the Philistine invasion (compare Jer. 7:12–14; 26:6–9).

They answered, "Five golden tumors and five golden rats, according to the number of the lords of the Philistines. For the same plague was on all of you and on your lords. 5Therefore you shall make images of your tumors and images of your rats that ravage the land, and you shall give glory to the God of Israel; perhaps He will lighten His hand from you, from your gods, and from your land. 6Why then do you harden your hearts as the Egyptians and Pharaoh hardened their hearts? When He did mighty things among them, did they not let the people go, that they might depart? 7Now therefore, make a new cart, take two milk cows which have never been yoked, and hitch the cows to the cart; and take their calves home, away from them. 8Then take the ark of the LORD and set it on the cart; and put the articles of gold which you are returning to Him as a trespass offering in a chest by its side. Then send it away, and let it go. 9And watch: if it goes up the road to its own territory, to Beth Shemesh, then He has done us this great evil. But if not, then we shall know that it is not His hand that struck us—it happened to us by chance."

10Then the men did so; they took two milk cows and hitched them to the cart, and shut up their calves at home. 11And they set the ark of the LORD on the cart, and the chest with the gold rats and the images of their tumors. 12Then the cows headed straight for the road to Beth Shemesh, and went along the highway, lowing as they went, and did not turn aside to the right hand or the left. And the lords of the Philistines went after them to the border of Beth Shemesh.

13Now the people of Beth Shemesh were reaping their wheat harvest in the valley; and they lifted their eyes and saw the ark, and rejoiced to see it. 14Then the cart came into the field of Joshua of Beth Shemesh, and stood there; a large stone was there. So they split the wood of the cart and offered the cows as a burnt offering to the LORD. 15The Levites took down the ark of the LORD and the chest that was with it, in which were the articles of gold, and put them on the large stone. Then the men of Beth Shemesh offered burnt offerings and made sacrifices the same day to the LORD. 16So when the five lords of the Philistines had seen it, they returned to Ekron the same day.

17These are the golden tumors which the Philistines returned as a trespass offering to the LORD: one for Ashdod, one for Gaza, one for Ashkelon, one for Gath, one for Ekron; 18and the golden rats, according to the number of all the cities of the Philistines belonging to the five lords, both fortified cities and country villages, even as far as the large stone of Abel on which they set the ark of the LORD, which stone remains to this day in the field of Joshua of Beth Shemesh.

19Then He struck the men of Beth Shemesh, because they had looked into the ark of the LORD. He struck fifty thousand and seventy men[a] of the people, and the people lamented because the LORD had struck the people with a great slaughter.

The Ark at Kirjath Jearim

20And the men of Beth Shemesh said, "Who is able to stand before this holy LORD God? And to whom shall it go up from us?" 21So they sent messengers to the inhabitants of Kirjath Jearim, saying, "The Philistines have brought back the ark of the LORD; come down and take it up with you."

7 Then the men of Kirjath Jearim came and took the ark of the LORD, and brought it into the house of Abinadab on the hill, and consecrated Eleazar his son to keep the ark of the LORD.

Samuel Judges Israel

2So it was that the ark remained in Kirjath Jearim a long time; it was there twenty years. And all the house of Israel lamented after the LORD.

6:19 [a]Or He struck seventy men of the people and fifty oxen of a man

6:13 The Philistines set up an impossible test (vv. 6–9) but to no avail. Against animal instinct, the cows had not returned to their newborn calves but had gone in the opposite direction, drawing the cart carrying the ark back to Israel (v. 12). Without realizing it the Philistines had set up a test that provided an opportunity for the living God to demonstrate His power and glory before those who did not know Him (vv. 12–16). The Philistines had learned they could neither mock nor defy God, but Israel still needed to understand this principle. The Israelites of Beth Shemesh were jubilant when they saw the ark of the covenant (v. 13). They praised God and consecrated themselves unto the Lord (vv. 14, 15). Some, however, were grossly disrespectful because they still had the same perspective as when the ark had left (v. 19). God had allowed the ark to be taken because of the lack of faithfulness and the disobedience of Israel's leadership. The leadership had not modeled obedience, nor had they taught the people reverence for God's ways (1 Sam. 2:17, 26; see chart, Models for Obedience and Disobedience). The irreverence for a holy God, demonstrated by some of the men of Beth Shemesh when they casually looked into the ark, is illustrative of this permissive disrespect (v. 19). Whether foolish curiosity resulting from ignorance of God's Word, lack of enforcement of God's ways, or just lustful pleasure, these men played with the things of God. Their action was incompatible with the holiness of the ark of God. The Law strictly prohibited any Israelite from having contact with the ark of God (Num. 4:5, 15, 20). Now, as the ark returned to Israel, the necessity of reverence for God had to be reemphasized.

6:19 The number of men put to death is problematic. Some scholars eliminate the 50,000 because a few manuscripts do not include this phrase. Though these scholars maintain that the reference to 50,000 is scarce in extant texts, this number is found in all major ancient versions. Josephus interestingly recorded the number as seventy. What we do know clearly is that there was a great smiting by the Lord at Beth Shemesh (v. 19).

TRADITIONS PRESERVING YOUR HERITAGE

Many cultures create and practice traditions to commemorate and preserve a piece of significant history (Ex. 12:1–28). The Bible itself is a source for many traditions. One of those involves the concept of God's covenant with His people to protect and sustain them (Ex. 31:12, 13; Deut. 6:2–13).

Much of the Law is related to personal, family, and social customs or traditions (Deut. 6:8, for example, is a reference to phylacteries, or small containers holding Scripture, worn by the Jews). The Old Testament prophet Samuel called for the Israelites to put away their false gods and serve the Lord God alone. They complied, and, in anticipation of an attack by the Philistines, they asked Samuel to pray to God for protection. To honor God's provision, they established a tradition in honor of God's protection against an enemy attack. Samuel named a stone "Ebenezer," literally "stone of help," reminding the Israelites then and throughout the generations of what God had done for His people after they repented and returned to Him (1 Sam. 7:1–13).

The entire liturgical calendar, which varies among the various denominations—with its holy days and seasons of Advent, Christmas, Epiphany, Lent, Easter, and Pentecost—represents a sequence of traditions established by the early church as a means of relating faith in God to daily life and activities. Many families, communities, and churches, of course, have developed their own traditions over time to commemorate special events—such as anniversaries and birthdays. Scripture does not speak against such traditions—as long as they do not detract in any way from the covenant relationship that the Lord seeks to have with His people.

Traditions provide a reminder to us of who God is and where He is taking us (Luke 22:14–20). They are an integral part of the Judeo-Christian faith; and when we keep them, we come closer to understanding what God has done for us and desires to do through us (Deut. 27:1–8).

See also Josh. 4:1–24; chart on The Feasts of Israel; notes on Celebrations and Holidays (Ex. 12); Family (Gen. 32; 1 Sam. 3; Ps. 78; 127); The Lord's Day (Ex. 23)

3 Then Samuel spoke to all the house of Israel, saying, "If you return to the LORD with all your hearts, then put away the foreign gods and the Ashtoreths[a] from among you, and prepare your hearts for the LORD, and serve Him only; and He will deliver you from the hand of the Philistines." 4 So the children of Israel put away the Baals and the Ashtoreths,[a] and served the LORD only.
5 And Samuel said, "Gather all Israel to Mizpah, and I will pray to the LORD for you." 6 So they gathered together at Mizpah, drew water, and poured it out before the LORD. And they fasted that day, and said there, "We have sinned against the LORD."
And Samuel judged the children of Israel at Mizpah.
7 Now when the Philistines heard that the children of Israel had gathered together at Mizpah, the lords of the Philistines went up against Israel.
And when the children of Israel heard of it, they were afraid of the Philistines. 8 So the children of Israel said to Samuel, "Do not cease to cry out to the LORD our God for us, that He may save us from the hand of the Philistines." 9 And Samuel took a suckling lamb and offered it as a whole burnt offering to the LORD. Then Samuel cried out to the LORD for Israel, and the LORD answered him. 10 Now as Samuel was offering up the burnt offering, the Philistines drew near to battle against Israel. But the LORD thundered with a loud thunder upon the Philistines that day, and so confused them that they were overcome before Israel. 11 And the men of Israel went out of Mizpah and pursued the Philistines, and drove them back as far as below Beth Car. 12 Then Samuel took a stone and set it up between Mizpah and Shen, and called its name Ebenezer,[a] saying, "Thus far the LORD has helped us."

7:3 [a]Canaanite goddesses 7:4 [a]Canaanite goddesses 7:12 [a]Literally Stone of Help

7:4 Reverence and obedience. Finally Israel began to understand reverential awe for the Lord (vv. 3–6; 1 Sam. 6:20), which in turn produced a heart of repentance (1 Sam. 7:6). Such a return to the Lord preceded their deliverance from enemy domination (vv. 10–14; see 1 Sam. 4:3, note).

7:9 When the Israelites were afraid of the Philistines, Samuel modeled a response of prayer (v. 9; see also chart, Solomon's Prayer). The people knew Samuel prayed (vv. 8, 9). As his mother before him (1 Sam. 1:10–12; 2:1–10), Samuel was deeply committed to prayer (1 Sam. 7:8, 9; 8:6; 12:19, 23; 15:11; Ps. 99:6). Scripture repeatedly records that Samuel prayed when he was troubled (1 Sam. 8:6; 15:11), as did his mother (1 Sam. 1:15; see also chart, Prayers for Your Children).

God heard Samuel's prayers (1 Sam. 7:9; see Ps. 99:6), and the people knew it (1 Sam. 7:8; 12:19). The event recorded in 1 Sam. 7:10 is illustrative of God's response to Samuel's prayer. Before the Israelites even began to fight, the Lord thundered against the Philistines, and they were routed before the Israelites (see 1 Sam. 2:10; 2 Sam. 22:14, 15). To wait on God is not a waste of time. Samuel took time to intercede for the people (1 Sam. 8:6, 21, 22). He did not stop praying for the people (1 Sam. 12:23), even after they rejected him (1 Sam. 8:5).

13So the Philistines were subdued, and they did not come anymore into the territory of Israel. And the hand of the LORD was against the Philistines all the days of Samuel. 14Then the cities which the Philistines had taken from Israel were restored to Israel, from Ekron to Gath; and Israel recovered its territory from the hands of the Philistines. Also there was peace between Israel and the Amorites.
15And Samuel judged Israel all the days of his life. 16He went from year to year on a circuit to Bethel, Gilgal, and Mizpah, and judged Israel in all those places. 17But he always returned to Ramah, for his home was there. There he judged Israel, and there he built an altar to the LORD.

Israel Demands a King

8 Now it came to pass when Samuel was old that he made his sons judges over Israel. 2The name of his firstborn was Joel, and the name of his second, Abijah; they were judges in Beersheba. 3But his sons did not walk in his ways; they turned aside after dishonest gain, took bribes, and perverted justice.
4Then all the elders of Israel gathered together and came to Samuel at Ramah, 5and said to him,
"Look, you are old, and your sons do not walk in your ways. Now make us a king to judge us like all the nations."
6But the thing displeased Samuel when they said, "Give us a king to judge us." So Samuel prayed to the LORD. 7And the LORD said to Samuel,
"Heed the voice of the people in all that they say to you; for they have not rejected you, but they have rejected Me, that I should not reign over them. 8According to all the works which they have done since the day that I brought them up out of Egypt, even to this day— with which they have forsaken Me and served other gods— so they are doing to you also. 9Now therefore, heed their voice.
However, you shall solemnly forewarn them, and show them the behavior of the king who will reign over them."
10So Samuel told all the words of the LORD to the people who asked him for a king. 11And he said, "This will be the behavior of the king who will reign over you: He will take your sons and appoint them for his own chariots and to be his horsemen, and some will run before his chariots. 12He will appoint captains over his thousands and captains over his fifties, will set some to plow his ground and reap his harvest, and some to make his weapons of war and equipment for his chariots.
13He will take your daughters to be perfumers, cooks, and bakers. 14And he will take the best of your fields, your vineyards, and your olive groves, and give them to his servants. 15He will take a tenth of your grain and your vintage, and give it to his officers and servants. 16And he will take your male servants, your female servants, your finest young men,[a] and your donkeys, and put them to his work. 17He will take a tenth of your sheep. And you will be his servants. 18And you will cry out in that day because of your king whom you have chosen for yourselves, and the LORD will not hear you in that day." 19Nevertheless the people refused to obey the voice of Samuel; and they said, "No, but we will have a king over us, 20that we also may be like all the nations, and that our king may judge us and go out before us and fight our battles."
21And Samuel heard all the words of the people, and he repeated them in the hearing of the LORD. 22So the LORD said to Samuel, "Heed their voice, and make them a king."
And Samuel said to the men of Israel, "Every man go to his city."

Saul Chosen to Be King

9 There was a man of Benjamin whose name was Kish the son of Abiel, the son of Zeror, the son of Bechorath, the son of Aphiah, a Benjamite, a mighty man of power. 2And he had a choice and 8:16 [a]Septuagint reads cattle.

8:5 God was Israel's king, guiding, protecting, and caring for her (v. 7; Ex. 19:5, 6), but God's people went their own way, disobeying Him. God disciplined His children through the oppression of other nations (Deut. 29:14—30:1). However, they thought they were being overtaken by other armies because they did not have a visible human king. Samuel, as prophet and priest, had repeatedly pointed the people to God, their king (1 Sam. 7:3); and at the same time, Samuel modeled a life of reverence and obedience to God (see chart, Models of Obedience and Disobedience). When Samuel was old, he appointed his sons as judges over Israel, but they chose not to follow in his godly ways (1 Sam. 8:5). Having a king was not inherently wrong, since God had already promised a king (Gen. 49:10) and had given guidelines through Moses for a king's behavior (Deut. 17:14–20). Even Samuel's godly mother prophesied that the Lord "will give strength to his king" (1 Sam. 2:10). But the people's motive was wrong in asking for a king (1 Sam. 8:20). They desired to be like other nations, having a king to fight their battles for them, even after Samuel warned the people how a king would treat them (vv. 11–18, taxation, forced labor, military service). The paradox was that Israel's true King desired to do just what their hearts desired (v. 7; see 1 Sam. 10:19). The people would soon learn their mistake when their difficulties increased.

8:6 Samuel's prayer relationship with God is demonstrated. Samuel was concerned with Israel's demand for a king, and he spoke to the Lord. When the Lord responded to Samuel (vv. 7–9), Samuel knew what to say to the people (vv. 10–18). The people's refusal to listen and their insistent demand for a king saddened Samuel (vv. 19, 20); as a result, he talked to the Lord again (v. 21). The Lord's response enabled Samuel to guide the people (v. 22). Samuel constantly modeled that prayer is the key for effective ministry (1 Sam. 7:5; see 1 Thess. 5:17; James 5:16; see also chart, Solomon's Prayer).

handsome son whose name was Saul. There was not a more handsome person than he among the children of Israel. From his shoulders upward he was taller than any of the people.

3Now the donkeys of Kish, Saul's father, were lost. And Kish said to his son Saul, "Please take one of the servants with you, and arise, go and look for the donkeys." 4So he passed through the mountains of Ephraim and through the land of Shalisha, but they did not find them. Then they passed through the land of Shaalim, and they were not there. Then he passed through the land of the Benjamites, but they did not find them.

5When they had come to the land of Zuph, Saul said to his servant who was with him, "Come, let us return, lest my father cease caring about the donkeys and become worried about us."

6And he said to him, "Look now, there is in this city a man of God, and he is an honorable man; all that he says surely comes to pass. So let us go there; perhaps he can show us the way that we should go."

7Then Saul said to his servant, "But look, if we go, what shall we bring the man? For the bread in our vessels is all gone, and there is no present to bring to the man of God. What do we have?"

8And the servant answered Saul again and said, "Look, I have here at hand one-fourth of a shekel of silver. I will give that to the man of God, to tell us our way." 9(Formerly in Israel, when a man went to inquire of God, he spoke thus: "Come, let us go to the seer"; for he who is now called a prophet was formerly called a seer.)

10Then Saul said to his servant, "Well said; come, let us go." So they went to the city where the man of God was.

11As they went up the hill to the city, they met some young women going out to draw water, and said to them, "Is the seer here?"

12And they answered them and said, "Yes, there he is, just ahead of you. Hurry now; for today he came to this city, because there is a sacrifice of the people today on the high place. 13As soon as you come into the city, you will surely find him before he goes up to the high place to eat. For the people will not eat until he comes, because he must bless the sacrifice; afterward those who are invited will eat. Now therefore, go up, for about this time you will find him." 14So they went up to the city. As they were coming into the city, there was Samuel, coming out toward them on his way up to the high place.

15Now the LORD had told Samuel in his ear the day before Saul came, saying, 16"Tomorrow about this time I will send you a man from the land of Benjamin, and you shall anoint him commander over My people Israel, that he may save My people from the hand of the Philistines; for I have looked upon My people, because their cry has come to Me."

17So when Samuel saw Saul, the LORD said to him, "There he is, the man of whom I spoke to you. This one shall reign over My people." 18Then Saul drew near to Samuel in the gate, and said, "Please tell me, where is the seer's house?"

19Samuel answered Saul and said, "I am the seer. Go up before me to the high place, for you shall eat with me today; and tomorrow I will let you go and will tell you all that is in your heart. 20But as for your donkeys that were lost three days ago, do not be anxious about them, for they have been found. And on whom is all the desire of Israel? Is it not on you and on all your father's house?"

21And Saul answered and said, "Am I not a Benjamite, of the smallest of the tribes of Israel, and my family the least of all the families of the tribe[a] of Benjamin? Why then do you speak like this to me?"

22Now Samuel took Saul and his servant and brought them into the hall, and had them sit in the place of honor among those who were invited; there were about thirty persons. 23And Samuel said to the cook, "Bring the portion which I gave you, of which I said to you, 'Set it apart.' " 24So the cook took up the thigh with its upper part and set it before Saul. And Samuel said, "Here it is, what was kept back. It was set apart for you. Eat; for until this time it has been kept for you, since I said I invited the people." So Saul ate with Samuel that day.

25When they had come down from the high place into the city, Samuel spoke with Saul on the top of the house.[a] 26They arose early; and it was about the dawning of the day that Samuel called to Saul on the top of the house, saying, "Get up, that I may send you on your way." And Saul arose, and both of them went outside, he and Samuel.

Saul Anointed King

27As they were going down to the outskirts of the city, Samuel said to Saul, "Tell the servant to go on ahead of us." And he went on. "But you stand here awhile, that I may announce to you the word of God."

9:3 The establishment of Israel's monarchy in chapters 9 and 10 illustrated the sovereignty of God as Israel's true King. Saul, Israel's future king, was brought into contact with Samuel, the kingmaker (1 Sam. 9:14–18), through the human circumstance of the lost donkeys (vv. 3–6). The sovereignty of God was demonstrated through the manner in which God confirmed to Saul that he was to be Israel's first king (1 Sam. 10:2–7). God revealed to Israel that Saul was their new chosen king (1 Sam. 10:20–22, 24).

10 Then Samuel took a flask of oil and poured it on his head, and kissed him and said: "Is it not because the LORD has anointed you commander over His inheritance?[a] 2When you have departed from me today, you will find two men by Rachel's tomb in the territory of Benjamin at Zelzah; and they will say to you, 'The donkeys which you went to look for have been found. And now your father has ceased caring about the donkeys and is worrying about you, saying, "What shall I do about my son?" ' 3Then you shall go on forward from there and come to the terebinth tree of Tabor. There three men going up to God at Bethel will meet you, one carrying three young goats, another carrying three loaves of bread, and another carrying a skin of wine. 4And they will greet you and give you two loaves of bread, which you shall receive from their hands. 5After that you shall come to the hill of God where the Philistine garrison is. And it will happen, when you have come there to the city, that you will meet a group of prophets coming down from the high place with a stringed instrument, a tambourine, a flute, and a harp before them; and they will be prophesying. 6Then the Spirit of the LORD will come upon you, and you will prophesy with them and be turned into another man. 7And let it be, when these signs come to you, that you do as the occasion demands; for God is with you. 8You shall go down before me to Gilgal; and surely I will come down to you to offer burnt offerings and make sacrifices of peace offerings. Seven days you shall wait, till I come to you and show you what you should do."

9So it was, when he had turned his back to go from Samuel, that God gave him another heart; and all those signs came to pass that day. 10When they came there to the hill, there was a group of prophets to meet him; then the Spirit of God came upon him, and he prophesied among them. 11And it happened, when all who knew him formerly saw that he indeed prophesied among the prophets, that the people said to one another, "What is this that has come upon the son of Kish? Is Saul also among the prophets?" 12Then a man from there answered and said, "But who is their father?" Therefore it became a proverb: "Is Saul also among the prophets?" 13And when he had finished prophesying, he went to the high place.

14Then Saul's uncle said to him and his servant, "Where did you go?"

So he said, "To look for the donkeys. When we saw that they were nowhere to be found, we went to Samuel."

15And Saul's uncle said, "Tell me, please, what Samuel said to you."

16So Saul said to his uncle, "He told us plainly that the donkeys had been found." But about the matter of the kingdom, he did not tell him what Samuel had said.

Saul Proclaimed King

17Then Samuel called the people together to the LORD at Mizpah, 18and said to the children of Israel, "Thus says the LORD God of Israel: 'I brought up Israel out of Egypt, and delivered you from the hand of the Egyptians and from the hand of all kingdoms and from those who oppressed you.' 19But you have today rejected your God, who Himself saved you from all your adversities and your tribulations; and you have said to Him, 'No, set a king over us!' Now therefore, present yourselves before the LORD by your tribes and by your clans."[a]

20And when Samuel had caused all the tribes of Israel to come near, the tribe of Benjamin was chosen. 21When he had caused the tribe of Benjamin to come near by their families, the family of Matri was chosen. And Saul the son of Kish was chosen. But when they sought him, he could not be found. 22Therefore they inquired of the LORD further, "Has the man come here yet?"

And the LORD answered, "There he is, hidden among the equipment."

23So they ran and brought him from there; and when he stood among the people, he was taller

10:1 The anointing ceremony was a public expression of divine consecration to office. It recognized God's choice of an individual and the empowerment of the Holy Spirit for accomplishing the God-appointed job (Ex. 28:41; 40:13–15; 1 Sam. 9:16). NT believers are also anointed and empowered by the Spirit who indwells each one (2 Cor. 1:21; 1 John 2:20, 21).

than any of the people from his shoulders upward.
24And Samuel said to all the people, "Do you see him whom the LORD has chosen, that there is no one like him among all the people?"

So all the people shouted and said, "Long live the king!"

25Then Samuel explained to the people the behavior of royalty, and wrote it in a book and laid it up before the LORD. And Samuel sent all the people away, every man to his house. 26And Saul also went home to Gibeah; and valiant men went with him, whose hearts God had touched. 27But some rebels said, "How can this man save us?" So they despised him, and brought him no presents. But he held his peace.

Saul Saves Jabesh Gilead

11 Then Nahash the Ammonite came up and encamped against Jabesh Gilead; and all the men of Jabesh said to Nahash, "Make a covenant with us, and we will serve you."

2And Nahash the Ammonite answered them,
"On this condition I will make a covenant with you, that I may put out all your right eyes, and bring reproach on all Israel."

3Then the elders of Jabesh said to him, "Hold off for seven days, that we may send messengers to all the territory of Israel. And then, if there is no one to save us, we will come out to you."

4So the messengers came to Gibeah of Saul and told the news in the hearing of the people. And all the people lifted up their voices and wept. 5Now there was Saul, coming behind the herd from the field; and Saul said, "What troubles the people, that they weep?" And they told him the words of the men of Jabesh. 6Then the Spirit of God came upon Saul when he heard this news, and his anger was greatly aroused. 7So he took a yoke of oxen and cut them in pieces, and sent them throughout all the territory of Israel by the hands of messengers, saying, "Whoever does not go out with Saul and Samuel to battle, so it shall be done to his oxen."

And the fear of the LORD fell on the people, and they came out with one consent. 8When he numbered them in Bezek, the children of Israel were three hundred thousand, and the men of Judah thirty thousand. 9And they said to the messengers who came, "Thus you shall say to the men of Jabesh Gilead: 'Tomorrow, by the time the sun is hot, you shall have help.' " Then the messengers came and reported it to the men of Jabesh, and they were glad. 10Therefore the men of Jabesh said, "Tomorrow we will come out to you, and you may do with us whatever seems good to you."

11So it was, on the next day, that Saul put the people in three companies; and they came into the midst of the camp in the morning watch, and killed Ammonites until the heat of the day. And it happened that those who survived were scattered, so that no two of them were left together.

12Then the people said to Samuel, "Who is he who said, 'Shall Saul reign over us?' Bring the men, that we may put them to death."

13But Saul said, "Not a man shall be put to death this day, for today the LORD has accomplished salvation in Israel."

14Then Samuel said to the people, "Come, let us go to Gilgal and renew the kingdom there." 15So all the people went to Gilgal, and there they made Saul king before the LORD in Gilgal. There they made sacrifices of peace offerings before the LORD, and there Saul and all the men of Israel rejoiced greatly.

Samuel's Address at Saul's Coronation

12 Now Samuel said to all Israel: "Indeed I have heeded your voice in all that you said to me, and have made a king over you. 2And now here is the king, walking before you; and I am old and grayheaded, and look, my sons are with you. I have walked before you from my childhood to this day.
3Here I am. Witness against me before the LORD and before His anointed: Whose ox have I taken, or whose donkey have I taken, or whom have I cheated? Whom have I oppressed, or from whose hand have I received any bribe with which to blind my eyes? I will restore it to you."

4And they said, "You have not cheated us or op-

10:24 Israel had been ruled as a theocracy. Now the establishment of an earthly monarchy was bringing Israel to a strategic point in her history. The only way Israel's monarchy could work was for her king to submit to divine leadership and dominion as he ruled over Israel. The king's authority was to be carried out in the name of the Lord. Israel's ruler was to be God's instrument for accomplishing God's will. God raised up prophets to work alongside the king, making known God's purposes. Israel as a nation would be blessed when the heart of the king followed this pattern. Tragically, however, Israel's kings seldom had such a heart attitude. All too often they opposed God's will, lacking personal discipline and causing the nation ultimately to go into captivity under God's judgment.

11:13 At the beginning of Saul's reign, his attitude was one of humility (1 Sam. 10:16, 21–23) and graciousness (1 Sam. 10:26, 27). He was valiant (1 Sam. 11:7, 11), giving honor due to the Lord (v. 13). The "Spirit of the Lord" had come upon Saul to enable him to rule God's people Israel (1 Sam. 10:6; see Judg. 3:10; 6:34; 1 Sam. 16:13; see Ezek. 11:5).

12:1 Samuel—the priest, prophet, and judge of Israel—combined his farewell warning (vv. 14, 15) and challenge to Israel (vv. 20, 21, 24, 25) with a covenant renewal ceremony. Here Samuel again modeled commitment to God's will. At God's command, Samuel listened to the people asking for a king (1 Sam. 8:7, 9, 22). Though personally reluctant, Samuel officially transferred the leadership from himself to Saul (1 Sam. 8:6; 12:2, 13). At this point the period of the monarchy formally began. Saul was now the official leader of Israel, although Samuel continued in his role as priest and prophet (1 Sam. 12:23; 13:8–12; 15:30, 31; 16:13). The monarchy had

5Then he said to them, "The LORD is witness against you, and His anointed is witness this day, that you have not found anything in my hand."

And they answered, "He is witness."

6Then Samuel said to the people, "It is the LORD who raised up Moses and Aaron, and who brought your fathers up from the land of Egypt. 7Now therefore, stand still, that I may reason with you before the LORD concerning all the righteous acts of the LORD which He did to you and your fathers:

been preceded by the development of the prophetic office (1 Sam. 3:19—4:1). Israel's first king, Saul, had been anointed and presented to the people by Samuel (1 Sam. 10:1, 24), the official head of the prophetic line (1 Sam. 9:6–10, 19; Acts 3:24; Heb. 11:32). The offices of king and prophet were to work together. The king was to administer the Lord's covenant; the prophet was to give spiritual counsel as well as divine instruction, exhortation, and rebuke. This working relationship made it necessary for the king to respect and be sensitive to the prophets. The prophet's responsibility in this regard was to be above reproach. Samuel's godly behavior and determination never to use his prophetic office for selfish gain is set in contrast to his previous warnings of oppressive kingship (1 Sam. 8:11–17).

[8]When Jacob had gone into Egypt,[a] and your fathers cried out to the LORD, then the LORD sent Moses and Aaron, who brought your fathers out of Egypt and made them dwell in this place. [9]And when they forgot the LORD their God, He sold them into the hand of Sisera, commander of the army of Hazor, into the hand of the Philistines, and into the hand of the king of Moab; and they fought against them. [10]Then they cried out to the LORD, and said, 'We have sinned, because we have forsaken the LORD and served the Baals and Ashtoreths;[a] but now deliver us from the hand of our enemies, and we will serve You.' [11]And the LORD sent Jerubbaal,[a] Bedan,[b] Jephthah, and Samuel,[c] and delivered you out of the hand of your enemies on every side; and you dwelt in safety. [12]And when you saw that Nahash king of the Ammonites came against you, you said to me, 'No, but a king shall reign over us,' when the LORD your God was your king.

[13]"Now therefore, here is the king whom you have chosen and whom you have desired. And take note, the LORD has set a king over you. [14]If you fear the LORD and serve Him and obey His voice, and do not rebel against the commandment of the LORD, then both you and the king who reigns over you will continue following the LORD your God. [15]However, if you do not obey the voice of the LORD, but rebel against the commandment of the LORD, then the hand of the LORD will be against you, as it was against your fathers.

[16]"Now therefore, stand and see this great thing which the LORD will do before your eyes: [17]Is today not the wheat harvest? I will call to the LORD, and He will send thunder and rain, that you may perceive and see that your wickedness is great, which you have done in the sight of the LORD, in asking a king for yourselves."

[18]So Samuel called to the LORD, and the LORD sent thunder and rain that day; and all the people greatly feared the LORD and Samuel.

[19]And all the people said to Samuel, "Pray for your servants to the LORD your God, that we may not die; for we have added to all our sins the evil of asking a king for ourselves."

[20]Then Samuel said to the people, "Do not fear. You have done all this wickedness; yet do not turn aside from following the LORD, but serve the LORD with all your heart. [21]And do not turn aside; for then you would go after empty things which cannot profit or deliver, for they are nothing. [22]For the LORD will not forsake His people, for His great name's sake, because it has pleased the LORD to make you His people. [23]Moreover, as for me, far be it from me that I should sin against the LORD in ceasing to pray for you; but I will teach you the good and the right way. [24]Only fear the LORD, and serve Him in truth with all your heart; for consider what great things He has done for you. [25]But if you still do wickedly, you shall be swept away, both you and your king."

Saul's Unlawful Sacrifice

13 Saul reigned one year; and when he had reigned two years over Israel,[a] [2]Saul chose for himself three thousand men of Israel. Two thousand were with Saul in Michmash and in the mountains of Bethel, and a thousand were with Jonathan in Gibeah of Benjamin. The rest of the people he sent away, every man to his tent.

[3]And Jonathan attacked the garrison of the Philistines that was in Geba, and the Philistines heard of it. Then Saul blew the trumpet throughout all the land, saying, "Let the Hebrews hear!" [4]Now all Israel heard it said that Saul had attacked a garrison of the Philistines, and that Israel had also become an abomination to the Philistines. And the people were called together to Saul at Gilgal.

[5]Then the Philistines gathered together to fight with Israel, thirty[a] thousand chariots and six thousand horsemen, and people as the sand which is on the seashore in multitude. And they came up and encamped in Michmash, to the east of Beth Aven. [6]When the men of Israel saw that they were in danger (for the people were distressed), then the people hid in caves, in thickets, in rocks, in holes, and in pits. [7]And some of the Hebrews crossed over the Jordan to the land of Gad and Gilead.

As for Saul, he was still in Gilgal, and all the people followed him trembling. [8]Then he waited seven days, according to the time set by Samuel. But Samuel did not come to Gilgal; and the people were scattered from him. [9]So Saul said, "Bring a burnt offering and peace offerings here to me." And he offered the burnt offering. [10]Now it happened, as soon as he had finished presenting the burnt offering, that Samuel came; and Saul went out to meet him, that he might greet him.

12:14 Samuel's exhortation to Israel emphasized reverence for God ("fear the Lord" v. 14; see Prov. 1:7; Ps. 111:10). The fear of the Lord is evidenced by departing from evil (1 Sam. 12:14; see Job 28:28) and obeying God's commands (1 Sam. 12:14; see Eccl. 12:13). A strong warning was given to the people about impending consequences if they did not heed the exhortation (1 Sam. 12:15). Samuel concluded with the encouraging promise that God "will not forsake His people" (v. 22); and he, Samuel, would not cease to pray for them (v. 23).

11And Samuel said, "What have you done?"

Saul said, "When I saw that the people were scattered from me, and that you did not come within the days appointed, and that the Philistines gathered together at Michmash, 12then I said, 'The Philistines will now come down on me at Gilgal, and I have not made supplication to the LORD.' Therefore I felt compelled, and offered a burnt offering."

13And Samuel said to Saul, "You have done foolishly. You have not kept the commandment of the LORD your God, which He commanded you. For now the LORD would have established your kingdom over Israel forever. 14But now your kingdom shall not continue. The LORD has sought for Himself a man after His own heart, and the LORD has commanded him to be commander over His people, because you have not kept what the LORD commanded you."

15Then Samuel arose and went up from Gilgal to Gibeah of Benjamin.[a] And Saul numbered the people present with him, about six hundred men.

No Weapons for the Army

16Saul, Jonathan his son, and the people present with them remained in Gibeah of Benjamin. But the Philistines encamped in Michmash. 17Then raiders came out of the camp of the Philistines in three companies. One company turned onto the road to Ophrah, to the land of Shual, 18another company turned to the road to Beth Horon, and another company turned to the road of the border that overlooks the Valley of Zeboim toward the wilderness.

19Now there was no blacksmith to be found throughout all the land of Israel, for the Philistines said, "Lest the Hebrews make swords or spears." 20But all the Israelites would go down to the Philistines to sharpen each man's plowshare, his mattock, his ax, and his sickle; 21and the charge for a sharpening was a pim[a] for the plowshares, the mattocks, the forks, and the axes, and to set the points of the goads. 22So it came about, on the day of battle, that there was neither sword nor spear found in the hand of any of the people who were with Saul and Jonathan. But they were found with Saul and Jonathan his son.

23And the garrison of the Philistines went out to the pass of Michmash.

Jonathan Defeats the Philistines

14 Now it happened one day that Jonathan the son of Saul said to the young man who bore his armor, "Come, let us go over to the Philistines' garrison that is on the other side." But he did not tell his father. 2And Saul was sitting in the outskirts of Gibeah under a pomegranate tree which is in Migron. The people who were with him were about six hundred men. 3Ahijah the son of Ahitub, Ichabod's brother, the son of Phinehas, the son of Eli, the LORD's priest in Shiloh, was wearing an ephod. But the people did not know that Jonathan had gone.

4Between the passes, by which Jonathan sought to go over to the Philistines' garrison, there was a sharp rock on one side and a sharp rock on the other side. And the name of one was Bozez, and the name of the other Seneh. 5The front of one faced northward opposite Michmash, and the other southward opposite Gibeah.

6Then Jonathan said to the young man who bore his armor, "Come, let us go over to the garrison of these uncircumcised; it may be that the LORD will work for us. For nothing restrains the LORD from saving by many or by few."

7So his armorbearer said to him, "Do all that is in your heart. Go then; here I am with you, according to your heart."

8Then Jonathan said, "Very well, let us cross over to these men, and we will show ourselves to them. 9If they say thus to us, 'Wait until we come to you,' then we will stand still in our place and not go up to them. 10But if they say thus, 'Come up to us,' then we will go up. For the LORD has delivered them into our hand, and this will be a sign to us."

11So both of them showed themselves to the garrison of the Philistines. And the Philistines said, "Look, the Hebrews are coming out of the holes where they have hidden." 12Then the men of the garrison called to Jonathan and his armorbearer, and said, "Come up to us, and we will show you something."

Jonathan said to his armorbearer, "Come up after me, for the LORD has delivered them into the hand of Israel." 13And Jonathan climbed up on his hands and knees with his armorbearer after him; and they fell before Jonathan. And as he came after him, his armorbearer killed them. 14That first slaughter which Jonathan and his armorbearer made was about twenty men within about half an acre of land.[a]

13:15 [a]Following Masoretic Text and Targum; Septuagint and Vulgate add And the rest of the people went up after Saul to meet the people who fought against them, going from Gilgal to Gibeah in the hill of Benjamin. 13:21 [a]About two-thirds shekel weight 14:14 [a]Literally half the area plowed by a yoke (of oxen in a day)

13:13 As king of Israel, Saul was to submit to divine leadership (see 1 Sam. 10:24, note). God's specific command had been given to Saul through Samuel the prophet (1 Sam. 10:8). During the pressure of military crisis, Saul did not follow God's instructions (1 Sam. 13:5, 6). He chose his own way as the best plan (vv. 11, 12). He disobeyed God's word and thus sinned (v. 9). Saul also failed to give godly leadership to his dwindling army and to put his trust in the Lord (contrast Jonathan, 1 Sam. 14:6–23; see 1 Sam. 15:22–23; 17:8, note).

15And there was trembling in the camp, in the field, and among all the people. The garrison and the raiders also trembled; and the earth quaked, so that it was a very great trembling. 16Now the watchmen of Saul in Gibeah of Benjamin looked, and there was the multitude, melting away; and they went here and there. 17Then Saul said to the people who were with him, "Now call the roll and see who has gone from us." And when they had called the roll, surprisingly, Jonathan and his armorbearer were not there. 18And Saul said to Ahijah, "Bring the ark[a] of God here" (for at that time the ark[b] of God was with the children of Israel). 19Now it happened, while Saul talked to the priest, that the noise which was in the camp of the Philistines continued to increase; so Saul said to the priest, "Withdraw your hand." 20Then Saul and all the people who were with him assembled, and they went to the battle; and indeed every man's sword was against his neighbor, and there was very great confusion. 21Moreover the Hebrews who were with the Philistines before that time, who went up with them into the camp from the surrounding country, they also joined the Israelites who were with Saul and Jonathan. 22Likewise all the men of Israel who had hidden in the mountains of Ephraim, when they heard that the Philistines fled, they also followed hard after them in the battle. 23So the LORD saved Israel that day, and the battle shifted to Beth Aven.

Saul's Rash Oath

24And the men of Israel were distressed that day, for Saul had placed the people under oath, saying, "Cursed is the man who eats any food until evening, before I have taken vengeance on my enemies." So none of the people tasted food. 25Now all the people of the land came to a forest; and there was honey on the ground. 26And when the people had come into the woods, there was the honey, dripping; but no one put his hand to his mouth, for the people feared the oath. 27But Jonathan had not heard his father charge the people with the oath; therefore he stretched out the end of the rod that was in his hand and dipped it in a honeycomb, and put his hand to his mouth; and his countenance brightened. 28Then one of the people said, "Your father strictly charged the people with an oath, saying, 'Cursed is the man who eats food this day.' " And the people were faint.

29But Jonathan said, "My father has troubled the land. Look now, how my countenance has brightened because I tasted a little of this honey. 30How much better if the people had eaten freely today of the spoil of their enemies which they found! For now would there not have been a much greater slaughter among the Philistines?"

31Now they had driven back the Philistines that day from Michmash to Aijalon. So the people were very faint. 32And the people rushed on the spoil, and took sheep, oxen, and calves, and slaughtered them on the ground; and the people ate them with the blood. 33Then they told Saul, saying, "Look, the people are sinning against the LORD by eating with the blood!"

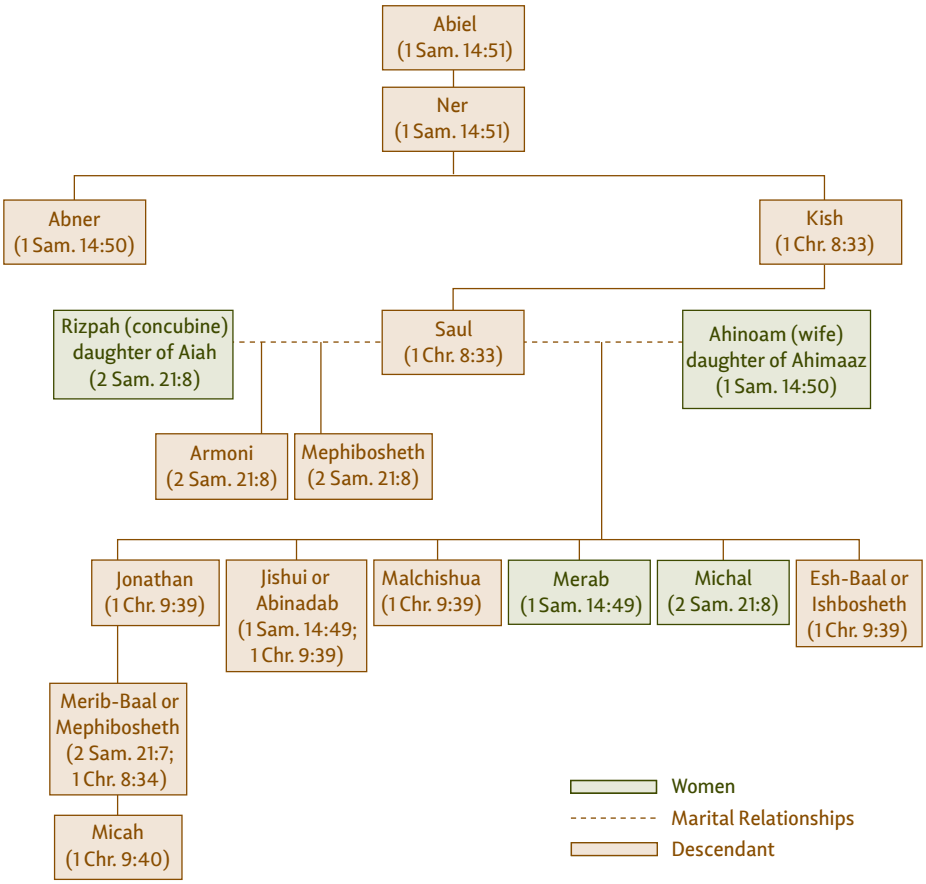
14:18 [a]Following Masoretic Text, Targum, and Vulgate; Septuagint reads ephod. [b]Following Masoretic Text, Targum, and Vulgate; Septuagint reads ephod.

14:18 Knowing God's will. The Septuagint's use here of the word "ephod" instead of the term "ark" may be the better reading. The ark had already been deposited at Kirjath Jearim (1 Sam. 7:1). The ark remained there (1 Sam. 7:2) until David moved it to Jerusalem (2 Sam. 6:1–17). Bringing it to Saul's camp seems unlikely since the ark was not an object casually carried about (see Num. 4:15, 20). Since Saul is speaking to a priest, it would seem more logical that he would be seeking to know God's will rather than to have the ark present.

In the OT era, the priest wore a special garment, the "ephod," upon which were fastened the Urim and Thummim (see Ex. 28:15, note). This "ephod" was also used to consult God (Ex. 28:8–14; 1 Sam. 2:28; 14:3; 23:9–12). The Urim and Thummim of the ephod served as a means of knowing God's will (Ex. 28:30; Lev. 8:8). Scripture is not clear as to what these objects looked like or how they were used. One theory is that the priests used the stones in a type of lot-casting manner, answering "yes" or "no" questions (1 Sam. 14:41).

14:19 The heart of Saul, characterized by religious performance without genuine commitment to God, is revealed (1 Sam. 13—15). Saul offered the burnt offering to the Lord before the Philistine battle, disobeying God's specific commands given through Samuel (1 Sam. 13:9, 13). When Jonathan's courageous attack on the Philistines created tumult in their camp, Saul called for the "ark of God" (LXX reads "ephod") to inquire of the Lord as to what to do (1 Sam. 14:18). But Saul canceled the inquiry when it appeared more expedient to go quickly to the battle (vv. 19, 20). Neglecting the needs of his men, Saul foolishly placed them under oath not to eat until the battle was over (v. 24). His foolish oath encouraged the people to sin. Their hunger and battle fatigue caused them to break the Lord's command (v. 32; see Lev. 3:17; 17:10–14). Properly, Saul stopped the people and dealt with their offense (1 Sam. 14:34, 35). When Saul did inquire of the Lord and He was silent, Saul initiated an investigation, assuming God's silence was the result of the violation of the fasting vow (vv. 24, 37). Piously, Saul declared the death penalty for the offender, making his second rash vow (vv. 39, 44). Saul was shown to be a fool when the people overruled him to save their innocent hero (v. 45). Distracted by his hasty vow, Saul lost his best opportunity to rid Israel of the Philistines (v. 46). God gave a specific "ban" instruction to Saul (see 1 Sam. 15:3, note). But Saul disobeyed the Lord's command ("unwilling" to destroy, a verb linked elsewhere with the sin of rebellion, Deut. 1:26), finding something good in what the Lord had condemned (1 Sam. 14:9). Saul gave in to the people (lit. "obeyed them") when he should have been obeying God (vv. 19, 22). Being a people pleaser, Saul seemed more afraid of the people than God (the paradox of such behavior is seen in Prov. 29:25; Is. 51:12, 13). Arrogantly, Saul set up a monument for himself (v. 12). When confronted by Samuel, Saul rationalized his sinful actions, passing blame onto the people (vv. 18–21). The opinions of people were more important to Saul than genuine repentance (vv. 25, 30).

THE FAMILY TREE OF SAUL



So he said, "You have dealt treacherously; roll a large stone to me this day." [34]Then Saul said, "Disperse yourselves among the people, and say to them, 'Bring me here every man's ox and every man's sheep, slaughter them here, and eat; and do not sin against the LORD by eating with the blood.'" So every one of the people brought his ox with him that night, and slaughtered it there. [35]Then Saul built an altar to the LORD. This was the first altar that he built to the LORD.

[36]Now Saul said, "Let us go down after the Philistines by night, and plunder them until the morning light; and let us not leave a man of them."

And they said, "Do whatever seems good to you."

Then the priest said, "Let us draw near to God here."

[37]So Saul asked counsel of God, "Shall I go down after the Philistines? Will You deliver them into the hand of Israel?" But He did not answer him that day. [38]And Saul said, "Come over here, all you chiefs of the people, and know and see what this sin was today. [39]For as the LORD lives, who saves Israel, though it be in Jonathan my son, he shall surely die." But not a man among all the people answered him. [40]Then he said to all Israel, "You be on one side, and my son Jonathan and I will be on the other side."

And the people said to Saul, "Do what seems good to you."

[41]Therefore Saul said to the LORD God of Israel, "Give a perfect lot."[a] So Saul and Jonathan were taken, but the people escaped. [42]And Saul said, 14:41 [a]Following Masoretic Text and Targum; Septuagint and Vulgate read Why do You not answer Your servant today? If the injustice is with me or Jonathan my son, O LORD God of Israel, give proof; and if You say it is with Your people Israel, give holiness.

"Cast lots between my son Jonathan and me." So Jonathan was taken. 43Then Saul said to Jonathan, "Tell me what you have done."

And Jonathan told him, and said, "I only tasted a little honey with the end of the rod that was in my hand. So now I must die!"

44Saul answered, "God do so and more also; for you shall surely die, Jonathan."

45But the people said to Saul, "Shall Jonathan die, who has accomplished this great deliverance in Israel? Certainly not! As the LORD lives, not one hair of his head shall fall to the ground, for he has worked with God this day." So the people rescued Jonathan, and he did not die.

46Then Saul returned from pursuing the Philistines, and the Philistines went to their own place.

Saul's Continuing Wars

47So Saul established his sovereignty over Israel, and fought against all his enemies on every side, against Moab, against the people of Ammon, against Edom, against the kings of Zobah, and against the Philistines. Wherever he turned, he harassed them.[a] 48And he gathered an army and attacked the Amalekites, and delivered Israel from the hands of those who plundered them.

49The sons of Saul were Jonathan, Jishui,[a] and Malchishua. And the names of his two daughters were these: the name of the firstborn Merab, and the name of the younger Michal. 50The name of Saul's wife was Ahinoam the daughter of Ahimaaz. And the name of the commander of his army was Abner the son of Ner, Saul's uncle. 51Kish was the father of Saul, and Ner the father of Abner was the son of Abiel.

52Now there was fierce war with the Philistines all the days of Saul. And when Saul saw any strong man or any valiant man, he took him for himself.

Saul Spares King Agag

15 Samuel also said to Saul, "The LORD sent me to anoint you king over His people, over Israel. Now therefore, heed the voice of the words of the LORD. 2Thus says the LORD of hosts: 'I will punish Amalek for what he did to Israel, how he ambushed him on the way when he came up from Egypt. 3Now go and attack Amalek, and utterly destroy all that they have, and do not spare them. But kill both man and woman, infant and nursing child, ox and sheep, camel and donkey.' "

4So Saul gathered the people together and numbered them in Telaim, two hundred thousand foot soldiers and ten thousand men of Judah. 5And Saul came to a city of Amalek, and lay in wait in the valley.

6Then Saul said to the Kenites, "Go, depart, get down from among the Amalekites, lest I destroy you with them. For you showed kindness to all the children of Israel when they came up out of Egypt." So the Kenites departed from among the Amalekites. 7And Saul attacked the Amalekites, from Havilah all the way to Shur, which is east of Egypt. 8He also took Agag king of the Amalekites alive, and utterly destroyed all the people with the edge of the sword. 9But Saul and the people spared Agag and the best of the sheep, the oxen, the fatlings, the lambs, and all that was good, and were unwilling to utterly destroy them. But everything despised and worthless, that they utterly destroyed.

Saul Rejected as King

10Now the word of the LORD came to Samuel, saying, 11"I greatly regret that I have set up Saul as king, for he has turned back from following Me, and has not performed My commandments." And it grieved Samuel, and he cried out to the LORD all night. 12So when Samuel rose early in the morning to meet Saul, it was told Samuel, saying, "Saul went to Carmel, and indeed, he set up a monument for himself; and he has gone on around, passed by, and gone down to Gilgal." 13Then Samuel went to Saul, and Saul said to him, "Blessed are you of the LORD! I have performed the commandment of the LORD."

14But Samuel said, "What then is this bleating of the sheep in my ears, and the lowing of the oxen which I hear?"

15And Saul said, "They have brought them from the Amalekites; for the people spared the best of the sheep and the oxen, to sacrifice to the LORD your God; and the rest we have utterly destroyed."

14:47 [a]Septuagint and Vulgate read prospered. 14:49 [a]Called Abinadab in 1 Chronicles 8:33 and 9:39

15:3 The Amalekites, descendants of Esau (Gen. 36:12), were put under divine judgment by God after they attacked Israel at Rephidim during the time of the Exodus (Ex. 17:8–16). Saul was commanded to carry out this judgment, putting the Amalekites under the ban (Heb. cherem). Such action meant that the city, people, animals, and possessions were devoted to the Lord for destruction (see Deut. 7:2–6; 12:2, 3; 20:16–18). The destruction of all people and goods removed any financial motivation for the war, making it solely a "holy war" divinely planned and executed. Some are troubled that a loving God could give such a command. But to be consistent with Scripture it must be remembered that God, while graciously longsuffering, is also just and judges sin (1 Sam. 15:2, 18). Furthermore, the total circumstances surrounding this judgment are unknown. For example, consider the extent of evil among the Amalekites. They were responsible for the contamination of surrounding peoples, especially Israel, and they threatened painful losses of, if not extermination for, the nation of Israel. Since religious aspects were a part of almost all wars in the ancient Near East, the battlefield was often viewed as a place of divine retribution (see also Rom. 9:15–24).

16Then Samuel said to Saul, "Be quiet! And I will tell you what the LORD said to me last night."
And he said to him, "Speak on."
17So Samuel said, "When you were little in your own eyes, were you not head of the tribes of Israel?
And did not the LORD anoint you king over Israel?
18Now the LORD sent you on a mission, and said,
'Go, and utterly destroy the sinners, the Amale-kites, and fight against them until they are consumed.' 19Why then did you not obey the voice of the LORD? Why did you swoop down on the spoil, and do evil in the sight of the LORD?"
20And Saul said to Samuel, "But I have obeyed the voice of the LORD, and gone on the mission on which the LORD sent me, and brought back Agag king of Amalek; I have utterly destroyed the Amalekites. 21But the people took of the plunder, sheep and oxen, the best of the things which should have been utterly destroyed, to sacrifice to the LORD your God in Gilgal." 22So Samuel said:

"Has the LORD as great delight in burnt offerings and sacrifices,
As in obeying the voice of the LORD?
Behold, to obey is better than sacrifice,
And to heed than the fat of rams.
23For rebellion is as the sin of witchcraft,
And stubbornness is as iniquity and idolatry.
Because you have rejected the word of the LORD,
He also has rejected you from being king."

24Then Saul said to Samuel, "I have sinned, for I have transgressed the commandment of the LORD and your words, because I feared the people and obeyed their voice. 25Now therefore, please pardon my sin, and return with me, that I may worship the LORD."
26But Samuel said to Saul, "I will not return with you, for you have rejected the word of the LORD, and the LORD has rejected you from being king over Israel."
27And as Samuel turned around to go away, Saul seized the edge of his robe, and it tore. 28So Samuel said to him, "The LORD has torn the kingdom of Israel from you today, and has given it to a neighbor of yours, who is better than you. 29And also the Strength of Israel will not lie nor relent.
For He is not a man, that He should relent." 30Then he said, "I have sinned; yet honor me now, please, before the elders of my people and before Israel, and return with me, that I may worship the LORD your God." 31So Samuel turned back after Saul, and Saul worshiped the LORD.
32Then Samuel said, "Bring Agag king of the Amalekites here to me." So Agag came to him cautiously.
And Agag said, "Surely the bitterness of death is past."
33But Samuel said, "As your sword has made women childless, so shall your mother be childless among women." And Samuel hacked Agag in pieces before the LORD in Gilgal.
34Then Samuel went to Ramah, and Saul went up to his house at Gibeah of Saul. 35And Samuel went no more to see Saul until the day of his death. Nevertheless Samuel mourned for Saul, and the LORD regretted that He had made Saul king over Israel.

David Anointed King

16 Now the LORD said to Samuel, "How long will you mourn for Saul, seeing I have rejected him from reigning over Israel? Fill your horn with oil, and go; I am sending you to Jesse the Bethlehemite. For I have provided Myself a king among his sons." 2And Samuel said, "How can I go? If Saul hears it, he will kill me."
But the LORD said, "Take a heifer with you, and say, 'I have come to sacrifice to the LORD.' 3Then invite Jesse to the sacrifice, and I will show you what you shall do; you shall anoint for Me the one I name to you."
4So Samuel did what the LORD said, and went to Bethlehem. And the elders of the town trembled at his coming, and said, "Do you come peaceably?" 5And he said, "Peaceably; I have come to sacrifice to the LORD. Sanctify yourselves, and come with me to the sacrifice." Then he consecrated Jesse and his sons, and invited them to the sacrifice.
6So it was, when they came, that he looked at Eliab and said, "Surely the LORD's anointed is before Him!" 7But the LORD said to Samuel, "Do not look at his appearance or at his physical stature, because I have refused him. For the LORD does not see as man sees;[a] for man looks at the outward appearance, but the LORD looks at the heart."

16:7 [a]Septuagint reads For God does not see as man sees; Targum reads It is not by the appearance of a man; Vulgate reads Nor do I judge according to the looks of a man.

16:2 Saul's actions had been erratic (1 Sam. 14:24–26), and Samuel's concern over the danger involved in anointing Saul's successor is realistic. The Lord promised to lead Samuel through the difficult situation (1 Sam. 16:3, 12, 17). The Lord gave Samuel another legitimate reason for going to Bethlehem so that the prophet would not attract attention when he anointed David (vv. 2, 3). Sacrifices were offered at different places after the ark had been removed from the tabernacle. Despite Samuel's sadness over Saul's disobedience and rejection by God and his fear of what Saul would do to him, Samuel still obeyed God's command (vv. 2–4; see Philem. Obedience).

WITCHCRAFT SORCERY AND MAGIC

Witchcraft is closely associated with goddess worship and radical feminism. Witches claim the "goddess" as a model for the stages of a woman's life. They maintain that the feminine life-force of the universe, the goddess, appears in three forms: the maiden, the mother, and the crone. This triple aspect of the goddess is supposedly intertwined with the cycle of the moon. The waxing moon is the maiden, the full moon is the mother, and the waning moon is the crone. Witches draw meaning from the fact that the moon's twenty-eight day cycle is mirrored by the twenty-eight day menstrual cycle.

Witches characteristically belong to a coven—a small group of no more than thirteen members who meet to cast spells, conduct rituals, or raise a cone of healing energy at the full moon or solstice when the lunar or solar energies are considered to be at their high points.

"White" magic is somewhat related to but contrasted with "black" magic and blatant Satanism. Black magic attempts to produce evil results through such methods as curses, spells, and alliance with evil spirits. White magic tries to undo curses and spells and to use occult means (gods, demons, spirits, or "forces") for what the coven perceives to be the good of themselves or others. Rituals are used in both black and white magic to bend psychic force to the will of those in a coven.

Witchcraft, sorcery, and magic are always condemned in Scripture (see Lev. 19:26; 20:27; Deut. 18:10–14; Judg. 8:21, 26; 2 Kin. 9:22; Is. 3:18–23; Ezek. 13:17–23; Mic. 5:12).

8So Jesse called Abinadab, and made him pass before Samuel. And he said, "Neither has the LORD chosen this one." 9Then Jesse made Shammah pass by. And he said, "Neither has the LORD chosen this one." 10Thus Jesse made seven of his sons pass before Samuel. And Samuel said to Jesse, "The LORD has not chosen these." 11And Samuel said to Jesse,
"Are all the young men here?" Then he said,
"There remains yet the youngest, and there he is, keeping the sheep."

And Samuel said to Jesse, "Send and bring him.
For we will not sit down[a] till he comes here." 12So he sent and brought him in. Now he was ruddy, with bright eyes, and good-looking. And the LORD said, "Arise, anoint him; for this is the one!" 13Then Samuel took the horn of oil and anointed him in the midst of his brothers; and the Spirit of the LORD came upon David from that day forward. So Samuel arose and went to Ramah.

A Distressing Spirit Troubles Saul

14But the Spirit of the LORD departed from Saul, and a distressing spirit from the LORD troubled him. 15And Saul's servants said to him,
"Surely, a distressing spirit from God is troubling
you. 16Let our master now command your servants, who are before you, to seek out a man who is a skillful player on the harp. And it shall be that he will play it with his hand when the distressing spirit from God is upon you, and you shall be well."

17So Saul said to his servants, "Provide me now a man who can play well, and bring him to me."

18Then one of the servants answered and said,
"Look, I have seen a son of Jesse the Bethlehemite, who is skillful in playing, a mighty man of valor, a 16:11 [a]Following Septuagint and Vulgate; Masoretic Text reads turn around; Targum and Syriac read turn away.

16:11 David is introduced as a shepherd tending his father's flock. In the ancient world, "shepherd" was often used as a metaphor for a ruler. In the OT and NT, God's people are by analogy described as a flock, while God's representatives are called shepherds (2 Sam. 5:2; 7:7, 8; Ps. 23:1; 78:71, 72; Ezek. 34:1–31; John 10:1–18). David reflected on the model of God Himself as a Shepherd (Ps. 23). The shepherd/flock image is a recurring theme associated with David, as it is with the Lord Himself (see 1 Sam. 17:15, 20, 28, 34, 40; 2 Sam. 5:2; 7:8; Ezek. 34:23).

16:12 God sought out a man after his own heart for Israel's next king (1 Sam. 13:14). Above all else this description meant reverencing and obeying God (see 1 Sam. 2:30; 15:22). The uniqueness of God's perspective was stressed in Samuel's process of reflection as he met the sons of Jesse. Initially, Samuel assumed the new king would look like his predecessor (1 Sam. 16:6). On the contrary, God's concern was the heart. He "saw" into the heart of the brothers (v. 7; see 1 Kin. 8:39; 1 Chr. 28:9; Luke 16:15). Jesse's son David, was chosen because he was a man after God's own heart. Though chosen, David did not receive the Spirit of the Lord in power until he was officially anointed (1 Sam. 16:13).

16:14 God's judgment upon Saul for his sin and lack of repentance was twofold. God's Spirit departed (v. 14), leaving Saul to rule in his own strength. Saul had already chosen his own way when he rebelled against God's word (vv. 13–15). Instead of God's Spirit, a troubling (lit., a "distressing," "injurious," or "evil") spirit from the Lord came to Saul, causing him to be severely miserable and depressed, even to the point of madness (vv. 14, 23; see Depression; Ps. 18, Distress). That God used evil spirits to serve Him is seen in the OT (1 Chr. 21:1). This spirit may have been sent to humble Saul so he would turn and seek the Lord's help.

man of war, prudent in speech, and a handsome person; and the LORD is with him."

19Therefore Saul sent messengers to Jesse, and said, "Send me your son David, who is with the sheep." 20And Jesse took a donkey loaded with bread, a skin of wine, and a young goat, and sent them by his son David to Saul. 21So David came to Saul and stood before him. And he loved him greatly, and he became his armorbearer. 22Then Saul sent to Jesse, saying, "Please let David stand before me, for he has found favor in my sight." 23And so it was, whenever the spirit from God was upon Saul, that David would take a harp and play it with his hand. Then Saul would become refreshed and well, and the distressing spirit would depart from him.

David and Goliath

17 Now the Philistines gathered their armies together to battle, and were gathered at Sochoh, which belongs to Judah; they encamped between Sochoh and Azekah, in Ephes Dammim. 2And Saul and the men of Israel were gathered together, and they encamped in the Valley of Elah, and drew up in battle array against the Philistines. 3The Philistines stood on a mountain on one side, and Israel stood on a mountain on the other side, with a valley between them.

4And a champion went out from the camp of the Philistines, named Goliath, from Gath, whose height was six cubits and a span. 5*He had* a bronze helmet on his head, and he was armed with a coat of mail, and the weight of the coat was five thousand shekels of bronze. 6And he had bronze armor on his legs and a bronze javelin between his shoulders. 7Now the staff of his spear was like a weaver's beam, and his iron spearhead weighed six hundred shekels; and a shield-bearer went before him. 8Then he stood and cried out to the armies of Israel, and said to them, "Why have you come out to line up for battle? Am I not a Philistine, and you the servants of Saul? Choose a man for yourselves, and let him come down to me. 9If he is able to fight with me and kill me, then we will be your servants. But if I prevail against him and kill him, then you shall be our servants and serve us." 10And the Philistine said, "I defy the armies of Israel this day; give me a man, that we may fight together." 11When Saul and all Israel heard these words of the Philistine, they were dismayed and greatly afraid.

12Now David was the son of that Ephrathite of Bethlehem Judah, whose name was Jesse, and who had eight sons. And the man was old, advanced in years, in the days of Saul. 13The three oldest sons of Jesse had gone to follow Saul to the battle. The names of his three sons who went to the battle were Eliab the firstborn, next to him Abinadab, and the third Shammah. 14David was the youngest. And the three oldest followed Saul. 15But David occasionally went and returned from Saul to feed his father's sheep at Bethlehem.

16And the Philistine drew near and presented himself forty days, morning and evening.

17Then Jesse said to his son David, "Take now for your brothers an ephah of this dried grain and these ten loaves, and run to your brothers at the camp. 18And carry these ten cheeses to the captain of their thousand, and see how your brothers fare, and bring back news of them." 19Now Saul and they and all the men of Israel were in the Valley of Elah, fighting with the Philistines.

20So David rose early in the morning, left the sheep with a keeper, and took the things and went as Jesse had commanded him. And he came to the camp as the army was going out to the fight and shouting for the battle. 21For Israel and the Philistines had drawn up in battle array, army against army. 22And David left his supplies in the hand of the supply keeper, ran to the army, and came and greeted his brothers. 23Then as he talked with them, there was the champion, the Philistine of Gath, Goliath by name, coming up from the armies of the Philistines; and he spoke according to the same words. So David heard them. 24And all the men of Israel, when they saw the man, fled from him and were dreadfully afraid. 25So the men of Israel said, "Have you seen this man who has come up? Surely he has come up to defy Israel; and it shall be that the man who kills him the king will enrich with great riches, will give him his daughter, and give his father's house exemption from taxes in Israel."

26Then David spoke to the men who stood by him, saying, "What shall be done for the man who kills this Philistine and takes away the reproach from Israel? For who is this uncircumcised Philistine, that he should defy the armies of the living God?"

27And the people answered him in this manner, saying, "So shall it be done for the man who kills him."

17:8 One form of warfare between nations during this period was to select a warrior from one nation who would "duel" with the champion of the other nation. The loser's nation was to submit to that of the winner. Often, the champion was the king of the nation since he was the chief of the army and normally a strong warrior. In the battle between the Israelites and Philistines, Saul himself might have been expected to confront Goliath. But once again Saul forfeited an opportunity to achieve victory by relying upon himself instead of God (compare 1 Sam. 13; 14, especially 13:13, note). David, the shepherd, accepted the blasphemous challenge of the more than nine-foot-tall giant, Goliath (1 Sam. 17:32). The success of David was not his own. Like Jonathan before him (1 Sam. 14:6), David put his faith in God (1 Sam. 17:45–47; see 1 Sam. 14:6, 45). God was the source of David's accomplishment (1 Sam. 17:50).

DEPRESSION THE ULTIMATE DESPAIR

The word "depressed" literally means "pressed down," that is, not up to your usual bounce. Saul was depressed because he felt rejected. He had been chosen to be king and pledged to obey God's Word; but he made his own rules, did not follow the Lord, and when caught, he blamed the people (1 Sam. 15:24).

Samuel, under divine direction, anointed David to be king (1 Sam. 16:13) and even as the Spirit of the Lord came upon David, "the Spirit of the Lord departed from Saul, and a distressing spirit from the Lord troubled him" (1 Sam. 16:14). Such a "distressing spirit" would be understood as depression.

Saul's depression was rooted in the fact that he had disobeyed God's clear direction for his life. David, on the other hand, was rejected by his own family as well as by some of his best friends for following God's leading. When this happened, he cried out to the Lord (Ps. 6:2, 3).

When a woman is troubled with depression, God has a plan for her healing:

1) Long for Him (Ps. 42:1, 2)
2) Call out to Him (Ps. 3:4)
3) Rest in Him (Ps. 3:5; 23:2)
4) Know that He hears (Ps. 6:8; 31:22)
5) Recognize that He sees (Ps. 10:14; 34:15)
6) Acknowledge that He will keep you (Ps. 17:8; 34:18)
7) Praise God (Ps. 35:17, 18; 109:30)
8) Seek restoration and witness to others (Ps. 51:12, 13)
9) Keep praying (Ps. 55:16, 17, 22)

28 Now Eliab his oldest brother heard when he spoke to the men; and Eliab's anger was aroused against David, and he said, "Why did you come down here? And with whom have you left those few sheep in the wilderness? I know your pride and the insolence of your heart, for you have come down to see the battle."
29 And David said, "What have I done now? Is there not a cause?" 30 Then he turned from him toward another and said the same thing; and these people answered him as the first ones did.
31 Now when the words which David spoke were heard, they reported them to Saul; and he sent for him. 32 Then David said to Saul, "Let no man's heart fail because of him; your servant will go and fight with this Philistine." 33 And Saul said to David, "You are not able to go against this Philistine to fight with him; for you are a youth, and he a man of war from his youth." 34 But David said to Saul, "Your servant used to keep his father's sheep, and when a lion or a bear came and took a lamb out of the flock, 35 I went out after it and struck it, and delivered the lamb from its mouth; and when it arose against me, I caught it by its beard, and struck and killed it. 36 Your servant has killed both lion and bear; and this uncircumcised Philistine will be like one of them, seeing he has defied the armies of the living God." 37 Moreover David said, "The LORD, who delivered me from the paw of the lion and from the paw of the bear, He will deliver me from the hand of this Philistine."
And Saul said to David, "Go, and the LORD be with you!"
38 So Saul clothed David with his armor, and he put a bronze helmet on his head; he also clothed him with a coat of mail. 39 David fastened his sword to his armor and tried to walk, for he had not tested them. And David said to Saul, "I cannot walk with these, for I have not tested them." So David took them off.
40 Then he took his staff in his hand; and he chose for himself five smooth stones from the brook, and put them in a shepherd's bag, in a pouch which he had, and his sling was in his hand.
And he drew near to the Philistine. 41 So the Philis-tine came, and began drawing near to David, and the man who bore the shield went before him.
42 And when the Philistine looked about and saw David, he disdained him; for he was only a youth, ruddy and good-looking. 43 So the Philistine said to David, "Am I a dog, that you come to me with sticks?" And the Philistine cursed David by his gods. 44 And the Philistine said to David, "Come to me, and I will give your flesh to the birds of the air and the beasts of the field!"

45Then David said to the Philistine, "You come to me with a sword, with a spear, and with a javelin. But I come to you in the name of the LORD of hosts, the God of the armies of Israel, whom you have defied. 46This day the LORD will deliver you into my hand, and I will strike you and take your head from you. And this day I will give the carcasses of the camp of the Philistines to the birds of the air and the wild beasts of the earth, that all the earth may know that there is a God in Israel. 47Then all this assembly shall know that the LORD does not save with sword and spear; for the battle is the LORD's, and He will give you into our hands."

48So it was, when the Philistine arose and came and drew near to meet David, that David hurried and ran toward the army to meet the Philistine. 49Then David put his hand in his bag and took out a stone; and he slung it and struck the Philistine in his forehead, so that the stone sank into his forehead, and he fell on his face to the earth. 50So David prevailed over the Philistine with a sling and a stone, and struck the Philistine and killed him. But there was no sword in the hand of David. 51Therefore David ran and stood over the Philistine, took his sword and drew it out of its sheath and killed him, and cut off his head with it.

And when the Philistines saw that their champion was dead, they fled. 52Now the men of Israel and Judah arose and shouted, and pursued the Philistines as far as the entrance of the valley[a] and to the gates of Ekron. And the wounded of the Philistines fell along the road to Shaaraim, even as far as Gath and Ekron. 53Then the children of Israel returned from chasing the Philistines, and they plundered their tents. 54And David took the head of the Philistine and brought it to Jerusalem, but he put his armor in his tent.

55When Saul saw David going out against the Philistine, he said to Abner, the commander of the army, "Abner, whose son is this youth?"

And Abner said, "As your soul lives, O king, I do not know."

56So the king said, "Inquire whose son this young man is."

57Then, as David returned from the slaughter of the Philistine, Abner took him and brought him before Saul with the head of the Philistine in his hand. 58And Saul said to him, "Whose son are you, young man?"

So David answered, "I am the son of your servant Jesse the Bethlehemite."

Saul Resents David

18 Now when he had finished speaking to Saul, the soul of Jonathan was knit to the soul of David, and Jonathan loved him as his own

17:52 [a]Following Masoretic Text, Syriac, Targum, and Vulgate; Septuagint reads Gath.

17:45 The Lord of Hosts (see 1 Sam. 1:11; 4:4; 15:2). This majestic title for God is used in the book which records the beginnings of Israel's monarchy. This is a fitting name for Israel's true King, whose sovereignty could never be overshadowed by an earthly ruler (Josh. 5:14, 15; 2 Sam. 5:10; 7:26; 1 Chr. 17:24; Ps. 24:8–10; Is. 5:7; 6:3, 5; 24:23; Mal. 1:14). Since "hosts" can mean celestial bodies or the armies of heaven or earth, this term describes all the powers under God's command throughout creation, as well as identifying His military role as chief of the armies of Israel.

17:46 David maintained a perspective focused on the Person of God rather than upon the nine-foot-tall giant before him. Though Goliath was carrying an impressive sword, spear, and javelin, David was armed "in the name of the LORD of Hosts" (v. 45). In OT times, the name of a person represented the totality of his being. To David, the Almighty God dwarfed the giant (vv. 26, 36). By claiming the Lord of Hosts as his strength, David declared that Goliath was confronting God Himself (v. 47).

17:55 Saul's ignorance of David's father was not unreasonable, though it appears to conflict with 1 Samuel 16:14–23. Saul was first introduced to David as a shepherd harpist whose music soothed Saul's troubled soul (1 Sam. 16:16–23). At that time, Saul's only interest in David may have been in one who met his need. Now in a different context Saul was very curious about David, the warrior (three times Saul states his desire to know the identity of this "young man," 1 Sam. 17:55, 56, 58; see Saul's policy in 1 Sam. 14:52). Saul was interested in David's family and perhaps his social standing. Also Saul may have forgotten David's father's name in the period between 1 Samuel 16 and 17. Perhaps Saul was eager to learn more of David's background after his victory over Goliath. The conversation between Saul and David was longer than a mere answer to Saul's question would require (1 Sam. 18:1).

18:1 The close bond of friendship between David and Jonathan is described in the phrase, "the soul of Jonathan was knit to the soul of David" (v. 1, Heb. nephesh, lit. "soul bound with soul"). The word for "love" here (Heb. 'ahab) is a term used in political, commercial, and friendship covenants (see 1 Kin. 5:1 for 'ahab in a treaty/covenant). It bound together the two parties in loyalty and reciprocal responsibility—a relationship in which both parties could depend upon each other. The word is fitting in this context where Jonathan made a covenant of friendship with David (1 Sam. 18:3). The characteristics of commitment, loyalty (1 Sam. 19:1, 4, 5, 7), affection, self-sacrifice, and responsibility understood in such covenants were evidenced in their purest form through the lives of Jonathan and David (see Luke 1, Friendship). The sober sincerity of this relationship was demonstrated by its being stated, then reaffirmed four times (1 Sam. 18:3; 20:16, 42; 23:18). Though the covenant was mutually binding, the circumstances put a heavier burden on Jonathan (see Jonathan's sober vow, 1 Sam. 20:13). As a covenant pledge, Jonathan gave his robe (a symbol of the kingdom, see 1 Sam. 15:27, 28), along with his weapons, to David. This relatively common practice in antiquity indicated transfer of position. Jonathan was likely signifying acknowledgment and acceptance of God's choice of David as king by transferring, with complete disregard of self, his place as heir to the throne to David.

MICHAL A Scornful Wife

Michal (lit. "Who is like God?"), the younger daughter of Saul, was in love with David. Saul sought to use this as a snare to lure David to his death (1 Sam. 18:21). David accepted her love to better his position before Saul (1 Sam. 18:26).

Saul feared David, but when he sent soldiers to David's house to kill him, Michal lied and schemed in order to save him. However, by helping David to escape, she lost him. Later, Michal was given away by her father to another man as wife.

During the years of their separation, there is no record of David's concern for Michal or of any attempt on his part to contact her. Fourteen years later and seven years after the death of Saul, David was still not king over all of Israel. As a condition of a treaty with Abner, David demanded the return of Michal in order to stabilize his position over the kingdom. Once again, Michal was used for political advantage. Her brother, Ishbosheth, took Michal from her sobbing husband, Paltiel, and gave her back to David.

In Michal's final encounter with David, she accused him of acting unlike a king when the ark was returned to Jerusalem (2 Sam. 6:20). Her scorn for her husband, who also happened to be God's chosen king, resulted in the loss of her ability to bear children, the ultimate curse for any Hebrew woman (2 Sam. 6:23).

soul. [2]Saul took him that day, and would not let him go home to his father's house anymore. [3]Then Jonathan and David made a covenant, because he loved him as his own soul. [4]And Jonathan took off the robe that was on him and gave it to David, with his armor, even to his sword and his bow and his belt.

[5]So David went out wherever Saul sent him, and behaved wisely. And Saul set him over the men of war, and he was accepted in the sight of all the people and also in the sight of Saul's servants. [6]Now it had happened as they were coming home, when David was returning from the slaughter of the Philistine, that the women had come out of all the cities of Israel, singing and dancing, to meet King Saul, with tambourines, with joy, and with musical instruments. [7]So the women sang as they danced, and said:

"Saul has slain his thousands,
And David his ten thousands."

[8]Then Saul was very angry, and the saying displeased him; and he said, "They have ascribed to David ten thousands, and to me they have ascribed only thousands. Now what more can he have but the kingdom?" [9]So Saul eyed David from that day forward.

[10]And it happened on the next day that the distressing spirit from God came upon Saul, and he prophesied inside the house. So David played music with his hand, as at other times; but there was a spear in Saul's hand. [11]And Saul cast the spear, for he said, "I will pin David to the wall!" But David escaped his presence twice.

[12]Now Saul was afraid of David, because the LORD was with him, but had departed from Saul. [13]Therefore Saul removed him from his presence, and made him his captain over a thousand; and he went out and came in before the people. [14]And David behaved wisely in all his ways, and the LORD was with him. [15]Therefore, when Saul saw that he behaved very wisely, he was afraid of him. [16]But all Israel and Judah loved David, because he went out and came in before them.

David Marries Michal

[17]Then Saul said to David, "Here is my older daughter Merab; I will give her to you as a wife. Only be valiant for me, and fight the LORD's battles." For Saul thought, "Let my hand not be against him, but let the hand of the Philistines be against him."

[18]So David said to Saul, "Who am I, and what is my life or my father's family in Israel, that I should be son-in-law to the king?" [19]But it happened at the time when Merab, Saul's daughter, should have been given to David, that she was given to Adriel the Meholathite as a wife.

18:5 This significant summary statement obviously postdates the arrival home of the army from the battlefield where David killed Goliath (vv. 6–9). David's increasing popularity and military success is recorded as Saul's schizophrenic behavior is revealed. Saul's attitude toward David had changed from one of love (1 Sam. 16:21) to one of hate (1 Sam. 18:11). Chapter 18 presents Saul as jealous and afraid of David, even desiring to destroy him at times (vv. 8, 9, 11, 12, 15). But this verse indicates there were times when Saul appreciated David enough to reward his service. David's continued triumphs as a warrior are summarized using the root that combines the virtues of success and wisdom (Heb. skl; see vv. 14, 15, 30) as characteristic aspects of David's victories.

18:10 See 1 Samuel 16:14, note.

20Now Michal, Saul's daughter, loved David. And they told Saul, and the thing pleased him. 21So Saul said, "I will give her to him, that she may be a snare to him, and that the hand of the Philistines may be against him." Therefore Saul said to David a second time, "You shall be my son-in-law today." 22And Saul commanded his servants, "Communicate with David secretly, and say, 'Look, the king has delight in you, and all his servants love you.
Now therefore, become the king's son-in-law.' " 23So Saul's servants spoke those words in the hearing of David. And David said, "Does it seem to you a light thing to be a king's son-in-law, seeing I am a poor and lightly esteemed man?" 24And the servants of Saul told him, saying, "In this manner David spoke."
25Then Saul said, "Thus you shall say to David:
'The king does not desire any dowry but one hundred foreskins of the Philistines, to take vengeance on the king's enemies.' " But Saul thought to make David fall by the hand of the Philistines. 26So when his servants told David these words, it pleased David well to become the king's son-in-law. Now the days had not expired; 27therefore David arose and went, he and his men, and killed two hundred men of the Philistines.
And David brought their foreskins, and they gave them in full count to the king, that he might become the king's son-in-law. Then Saul gave him Michal his daughter as a wife.
28Thus Saul saw and knew that the LORD was with David, and that Michal, Saul's daughter, loved him; 29and Saul was still more afraid of David. So Saul became David's enemy continually. 30Then the princes of the Philistines went out to war. And so it was, whenever they went out, that David behaved more wisely than all the servants of Saul, so that his name became highly esteemed.

Saul Persecutes David

19 Now Saul spoke to Jonathan his son and to all his servants, that they should kill David;
but Jonathan, Saul's son, delighted greatly in David. 2So Jonathan told David, saying, "My father Saul seeks to kill you. Therefore please be on your guard until morning, and stay in a secret place and hide. 3And I will go out and stand beside my father in the field where you are, and I will speak with my father about you. Then what I observe, I will tell you."
4Thus Jonathan spoke well of David to Saul his father, and said to him, "Let not the king sin against his servant, against David, because he has not sinned against you, and because his works have been very good toward you. 5For he took his life in his hands and killed the Philistine, and the LORD brought about a great deliverance for all Israel.
You saw it and rejoiced. Why then will you sin against innocent blood, to kill David without a cause?"
6So Saul heeded the voice of Jonathan, and Saul swore, "As the LORD lives, he shall not be killed." 7Then Jonathan called David, and Jonathan told him all these things. So Jonathan brought David to Saul, and he was in his presence as in times past.
8And there was war again; and David went out and fought with the Philistines, and struck them with a mighty blow, and they fled from him.
9Now the distressing spirit from the LORD came upon Saul as he sat in his house with his spear in his hand. And David was playing music with his hand. 10Then Saul sought to pin David to the wall with the spear, but he slipped away from Saul's presence; and he drove the spear into the wall. So David fled and escaped that night.
11Saul also sent messengers to David's house to watch him and to kill him in the morning. And Michal, David's wife, told him, saying, "If you do not save your life tonight, tomorrow you will be killed." 12So Michal let David down through a window. And he went and fled and escaped. 13And Michal took an image and laid it in the bed, put a cover of goats' hair for his head, and covered it with clothes. 14So when Saul sent messengers to take David, she said, "He is sick."
15Then Saul sent the messengers back to see David, saying, "Bring him up to me in the bed, that I may kill him." 16And when the messengers had come in, there was the image in the bed, with a cover of goats' hair for his head. 17Then Saul said to Michal, "Why have you deceived me like this, and sent my enemy away, so that he has escaped?"
And Michal answered Saul, "He said to me, 'Let me go! Why should I kill you?' " 18So David fled and escaped, and went to Samuel at Ramah, and told him all that Saul had done to him. And he and Samuel went and stayed in Naioth. 19Now it was told Saul, saying, "Take note, David is at Naioth in Ramah!" 20Then Saul

18:25 A snare turns to an advantage. Saul offered his daughter at a bride price intended to cost David his life (vv. 21, 25; see Michal). Yet God protected David (v. 27; see also 2 Chr. 16:9), turning Saul's evil plot (1 Sam. 18:25) into an advantage through which David's prestige grew (vv. 27, 28, 30). The event also illustrates the contrast between Saul's malicious pride (vv. 17, 19, 21, 25) and David's humility (vv. 18, 23; see also Prov. 29:23). A tragic aspect of David's success is that it sealed Saul's hatred and fear of David (a fear with deep psychological roots stemming from Saul's awareness that the Lord had departed from him and was with David, 1 Sam. 18:12, 29).

19:18–24 Saul's prophesying. The passage demonstrates God's power over the hearts of individuals to guide them at will. Thus, not only were Saul's messengers (vv. 20, 21), and finally Saul himself (vv. 22, 23), unable to capture David, but their evil purpose was reversed to bring praise to God. The events demonstrated to Saul that David was God's choice to sent messengers to take David. And when they saw the group of prophets prophesying, and Samuel standing as leader over them, the Spirit of God came upon the messengers of Saul, and they also prophesied. 21And when Saul was told, he sent other messengers, and they prophesied likewise. Then Saul sent messengers again the third time, and they prophesied also. 22Then he also went to Ramah, and came to the great well that is at Sechu. So he asked, and said, "Where are Samuel and David?"

And someone said, "Indeed they are at Naioth in Ramah." 23So he went there to Naioth in Ramah. Then the Spirit of God was upon him also, and he went on and prophesied until he came to Naioth in Ramah. 24And he also stripped off his clothes and prophesied before Samuel in like manner, and lay down naked all that day and all that night. Therefore they say, "Is Saul also among the prophets?"[a]

Jonathan's Loyalty to David

20 Then David fled from Naioth in Ramah, and went and said to Jonathan, "What have I done? What is my iniquity, and what is my sin before your father, that he seeks my life?"

2So Jonathan said to him, "By no means! You shall not die! Indeed, my father will do nothing either great or small without first telling me. And why should my father hide this thing from me? It is not so!"

3Then David took an oath again, and said, "Your father certainly knows that I have found favor in your eyes, and he has said, 'Do not let Jonathan know this, lest he be grieved.' But truly, as the LORD lives and as your soul lives, there is but a step between me and death."

4So Jonathan said to David, "Whatever you yourself desire, I will do it for you."

5And David said to Jonathan, "Indeed tomorrow is the New Moon, and I should not fail to sit with the king to eat. But let me go, that I may hide in the field until the third day at evening. 6If your father misses me at all, then say, 'David earnestly asked permission of me that he might run over to Bethlehem, his city, for there is a yearly sacrifice there for all the family.' 7If he says thus: 'It is well,' your servant will be safe. But if he is very angry, be sure that evil is determined by him. 8Therefore you shall deal kindly with your servant, for you have brought your servant into a covenant of the LORD with you. Nevertheless, if there is iniquity in me, kill me yourself, for why should you bring me to your father?"

9But Jonathan said, "Far be it from you! For if I knew certainly that evil was determined by my father to come upon you, then would I not tell you?"

10Then David said to Jonathan, "Who will tell me, or what if your father answers you roughly?"

11And Jonathan said to David, "Come, let us go out into the field." So both of them went out into the field. 12Then Jonathan said to David: "The LORD God of Israel is witness! When I have sounded out my father sometime tomorrow, or the third day, and indeed there is good toward David, and I do not send to you and tell you, 13may the LORD do so and much more to Jonathan. But if it pleases my father to do you evil, then I will report it to you and send you away, that you may go in safety. And the LORD be with you as He has been with my father. 14And you shall not only be king. David's future was indicated not just by Samuel's word or by David's popularity with the people but by the expressed will and purpose of God. Before the call of Samuel as prophet, God's word was rare in Israel (1 Sam. 3:1). The passage also suggests that a group of prophets under the leadership of Samuel may have resided in Naioth (a common building or a town, though Samuel had his own house at Ramah, 1 Sam. 7:17). This is the initial hint of an association or School of Prophets, which possibly continued into the days of Elijah and Elisha as the "sons of the prophets" (see 1 Kin. 20:35, 41; 2 Kin. 2:3–15; 4:1, 38; 5:22; 6:1–7; 9:1; Amos 7:14). This group apparently existed to disciple men called of God (some for the prophetic office). The times of Samuel and those of the prophets Elijah and Elisha were both characterized by rampant sin and idolatry.

20:5 A joyous celebration took place at the appearance of the new moon (Num. 10:10). Burnt offerings were offered in the midst of the feast as a monthly reminder that the Lord was their God (Num. 28:14). When Samuel was a boy, the normal place of the feast was Shiloh, the place of the tabernacle (1 Sam. 1:3). But in David's day, since Shiloh had been destroyed, the sacrifices were offered in the home towns of the celebrants.

20:13 The close relationship between Jonathan and David was underscored when the stark reality that Saul was seeking to take David's life became evident to David (vv. 1–17; 1 Sam. 19:10, 11) but not to Jonathan (1 Sam. 20:2). Even so Jonathan promised to be loyal. His dependence upon the sovereignty of God in terms of the immediate danger facing David was evident (v. 22). Agreeing with others that the Lord was with David (1 Sam. 16:18; 17:37; 18:12, 14, 28), Jonathan prayed, "the LORD be with you as He has been with my father." This indicates Jonathan's recognition that David, not Jonathan, would be the next king, making Jonathan's love for and protection of David even more remarkable. Reminding David twice of their everlasting covenant of friendship (1 Sam. 20:17, 23; see 1 Sam. 18:3), Jonathan asked that it be extended to include that David would never cut off his kindness to Jonathan's line (1 Sam. 20:15; 24:21; 2 Sam. 9:3). Since mutual responsibilities were involved in such covenants, Jonathan asked David to vow agreement. For both men the Lord was "between you and me forever" as witness and judge should one of them break this covenant (see v. 23; Gen. 31:48–50). David kept his vow of kindness in his treatment of Jonathan's son, Mephibosheth (2 Sam. 9:3–7; 21:7).

show me the kindness of the LORD while I still live, that I may not die; 15but you shall not cut off your kindness from my house forever, no, not when the LORD has cut off every one of the enemies of David from the face of the earth." 16So Jonathan made a covenant with the house of David, saying, "Let the LORD require it at the hand of David's enemies."

17Now Jonathan again caused David to vow, because he loved him; for he loved him as he loved his own soul. 18Then Jonathan said to David, "Tomorrow is the New Moon; and you will be missed, because your seat will be empty. 19And when you have stayed three days, go down quickly and come to the place where you hid on the day of the deed; and remain by the stone Ezel. 20Then I will shoot three arrows to the side, as though I shot at a target; 21and there I will send a lad, saying, 'Go, find the arrows.' If I expressly say to the lad, 'Look, the arrows are on this side of you; get them and come'—then, as the LORD lives, there is safety for you and no harm. 22But if I say thus to the young man, 'Look, the arrows are beyond you'—go your way, for the LORD has sent you away. 23And as for the matter which you and I have spoken of, indeed the LORD be between you and me forever."

24Then David hid in the field. And when the New Moon had come, the king sat down to eat the feast. 25Now the king sat on his seat, as at other times, on a seat by the wall. And Jonathan arose,[a] and Abner sat by Saul's side, but David's place was empty. 26Nevertheless Saul did not say anything that day, for he thought, "Something has happened to him; he is unclean, surely he is unclean." 27And it happened the next day, the second day of the month, that David's place was empty. And Saul said to Jonathan his son, "Why has the son of Jesse not come to eat, either yesterday or today?"

28So Jonathan answered Saul, "David earnestly asked permission of me to go to Bethlehem. 29And he said, 'Please let me go, for our family has a sacrifice in the city, and my brother has commanded me to be there. And now, if I have found favor in your eyes, please let me get away and see my brothers.' Therefore he has not come to the king's table."

30Then Saul's anger was aroused against Jonathan, and he said to him, "You son of a perverse, rebellious woman! Do I not know that you have chosen the son of Jesse to your own shame and to the shame of your mother's nakedness? 31For as long as the son of Jesse lives on the earth, you shall not be established, nor your kingdom. Now therefore, send and bring him to me, for he shall surely die."

32And Jonathan answered Saul his father, and said to him, "Why should he be killed? What has he done?" 33Then Saul cast a spear at him to kill him, by which Jonathan knew that it was determined by his father to kill David.

34So Jonathan arose from the table in fierce anger, and ate no food the second day of the month, for he was grieved for David, because his father had treated him shamefully.

35And so it was, in the morning, that Jonathan went out into the field at the time appointed with David, and a little lad was with him. 36Then he said to his lad, "Now run, find the arrows which I shoot." As the lad ran, he shot an arrow beyond him. 37When the lad had come to the place where the arrow was which Jonathan had shot, Jonathan cried out after the lad and said, "Is not the arrow beyond you?" 38And Jonathan cried out after the lad, "Make haste, hurry, do not delay!" So Jonathan's lad gathered up the arrows and came back to his master. 39But the lad did not know anything. Only Jonathan and David knew of the matter. 40Then Jonathan gave his weapons to his lad, and said to him, "Go, carry them to the city."

41As soon as the lad had gone, David arose from a place toward the south, fell on his face to the ground, and bowed down three times. And they kissed one another; and they wept together, but David more so. 42Then Jonathan said to David, "Go in peace, since we have both sworn in the name of the LORD, saying, 'May the LORD be between you and me, and between your descendants and my descendants, forever.' " So he arose and departed, and Jonathan went into the city.

David and the Holy Bread

21 Now David came to Nob, to Ahimelech the priest. And Ahimelech was afraid when he met David, and said to him, "Why are you alone, and no one is with you?"

20:25 [a]Following Masoretic Text, Syriac, Targum, and Vulgate; Septuagint reads he sat across from Jonathan.

21:1 Nob, a city of priests (1 Sam. 22:19), may have been the location of the tabernacle, though not the ark of the covenant (see 1 Sam. 7:2), and the site of legal worship after the destruction of Shiloh (see 1 Sam. 4:22). When David fled from Saul and came to Nob, Ahimelech the priest was fearful and made anxious inquiry of David because he recognized David's authority. Why David resorted to deception at this point is not clear. He may have responded in panic either to get Ahimelech to supply his needs and/or to protect the priest from later accusations concerning knowledge of David's flight. The brief mention of Doeg anticipated his future merciless role (1 Sam. 22:18, 19). In the twisted mind of the rejected king the presence of David at Nob and the help Ahimelech gave David seemed a conspiracy (1 Sam. 22:8, 13, 16, 17). With total contempt for the priesthood, Saul called for death of the priests (1 Sam. 22:16–18). His Israelite servants refused such a heinous order, but there was no hesitancy on the part of the Edomite Doeg (1 Sam. 20:18), who extended the massacre to all Nob as a city under the ban (see 1 Sam. 15:3, note). This was a further fulfillment of the prophecy against Eli's house

2So David said to Ahimelech the priest, "The king has ordered me on some business, and said to me, 'Do not let anyone know anything about the business on which I send you, or what I have commanded you.' And I have directed my young men to such and such a place. 3Now therefore, what have you on hand? Give me five loaves of bread in my hand, or whatever can be found."

4And the priest answered David and said, "There is no common bread on hand; but there is holy bread, if the young men have at least kept themselves from women."

5Then David answered the priest, and said to him, "Truly, women have been kept from us about three days since I came out. And the vessels of the young men are holy, and the bread is in effect common, even though it was consecrated in the vessel this day."

6So the priest gave him holy bread; for there was no bread there but the showbread which had been taken from before the LORD, in order to put hot bread in its place on the day when it was taken away.

7Now a certain man of the servants of Saul was there that day, detained before the LORD. And his name was Doeg, an Edomite, the chief of the herdsmen who belonged to Saul.

8And David said to Ahimelech, "Is there not here on hand a spear or a sword? For I have brought neither my sword nor my weapons with me, because the king's business required haste."

9So the priest said, "The sword of Goliath the Philistine, whom you killed in the Valley of Elah, there it is, wrapped in a cloth behind the ephod. If you will take that, take it. For there is no other except that one here."

And David said, "There is none like it; give it to me."

David Flees to Gath

10Then David arose and fled that day from before Saul, and went to Achish the king of Gath. 11And the servants of Achish said to him, "Is this not David the king of the land? Did they not sing of him to one another in dances, saying:

'Saul has slain his thousands,
And David his ten thousands'?"[a]

12Now David took these words to heart, and was very much afraid of Achish the king of Gath. 13So he changed his behavior before them, pretended madness in their hands, scratched on the doors of the gate, and let his saliva fall down on his beard. 14Then Achish said to his servants, "Look, you see the man is insane. Why have you brought him to me? 15Have I need of madmen, that you have brought this fellow to play the madman in my presence? Shall this fellow come into my house?"

David's Four Hundred Men

22 David therefore departed from there and escaped to the cave of Adullam. So when his brothers and all his father's house heard it, they went down there to him. 2And everyone who was in distress, everyone who was in debt, and everyone who was discontented gathered to him. So he became captain over them. And there were about four hundred men with him.

3Then David went from there to Mizpah of Moab; and he said to the king of Moab, "Please let my father and mother come here with you, till I know what God will do for me." 4So he brought them before the king of Moab, and they dwelt with him all the time that David was in the stronghold.

5Now the prophet Gad said to David, "Do not stay in the stronghold; depart, and go to the land of Judah." So David departed and went into the forest of Hereth.

Saul Murders the Priests

6When Saul heard that David and the men who were with him had been discovered—now Saul was staying in Gibeah under a tamarisk tree in Ramah, with his spear in his hand, and all his servants standing about him— 7then Saul said to his servants who stood about him, "Hear now, you Benjamites! Will the son of Jesse give every one of you fields and vineyards, and make you all captains of thousands and captains of hundreds? 8All of you have conspired against me, and there is no one who reveals to me that my son has made a covenant

21:11 [a]Compare 1 Samuel 18:7

(1 Sam. 2:31–33; 4:11, 18; 1 Kin. 2:26, 27). When David learned of the disaster through Abiathar, he confessed that he was ultimately responsible for it. This is a tragic example of how sin affects others. David assured Abiathar safety because David was sure of divine protection (1 Sam. 22:23).

21:4 The holy bread or "consecrated bread" was set apart for use in the tabernacle and was only to be eaten by the priests (Ex. 25:30; Lev. 24:5–9). Ahimelech apparently realized that moral obligation to preserve David's life superseded the ceremonial regulation concerning the bread, a conclusion Jesus honored in the NT (Matt. 12:3, 4; Mark 2:25, 26). The issue here does not involve God's moral law, which is immutable. After David's men were ceremonially clean (see Lev. 15:16), Ahimelech offered David the "consecrated bread."

22:2 The early band of men drawn to David were united by all types of adverse circumstances. God later brought an army of valiant warriors to David (see 1 Chr. 12:8).

22:3 David's journey to Moab and his request of the Moabite king to care for his father and mother are of special interest in light of the fact that his great grandmother Ruth was from Moab, meaning that David probably had family ties there.

with the son of Jesse; and there is not one of you who is sorry for me or reveals to me that my son has stirred up my servant against me, to lie in wait, as it is this day."

9Then answered Doeg the Edomite, who was set over the servants of Saul, and said, "I saw the son of Jesse going to Nob, to Ahimelech the son of Ahitub. 10And he inquired of the LORD for him, gave him provisions, and gave him the sword of Goliath the Philistine."

11So the king sent to call Ahimelech the priest, the son of Ahitub, and all his father's house, the priests who were in Nob. And they all came to the king. 12And Saul said, "Hear now, son of Ahitub!"

He answered, "Here I am, my lord."

13Then Saul said to him, "Why have you conspired against me, you and the son of Jesse, in that you have given him bread and a sword, and have inquired of God for him, that he should rise against me, to lie in wait, as it is this day?"

14So Ahimelech answered the king and said, "And who among all your servants is as faithful as David, who is the king's son-in-law, who goes at your bidding, and is honorable in your house? 15Did I then begin to inquire of God for him? Far be it from me! Let not the king impute anything to his servant, or to any in the house of my father. For your servant knew nothing of all this, little or much."

16And the king said, "You shall surely die, Ahimelech, you and all your father's house!" 17Then the king said to the guards who stood about him, "Turn and kill the priests of the LORD, because their hand also is with David, and because they knew when he fled and did not tell it to me." But the servants of the king would not lift their hands to strike the priests of the LORD. 18And the king said to Doeg, "You turn and kill the priests!" So Doeg the Edomite turned and struck the priests, and killed on that day eighty-five men who wore a linen ephod. 19Also Nob, the city of the priests, he struck with the edge of the sword, both men and women, children and nursing infants, oxen and donkeys and sheep—with the edge of the sword.

20Now one of the sons of Ahimelech the son of Ahitub, named Abiathar, escaped and fled after David. 21And Abiathar told David that Saul had killed the LORD's priests. 22So David said to Abiathar, "I knew that day, when Doeg the Edomite was there, that he would surely tell Saul. I have caused the death of all the persons of your father's house. 23Stay with me; do not fear. For he who seeks my life seeks your life, but with me you shall be safe."

David Saves the City of Keilah

23 Then they told David, saying, "Look, the Philistines are fighting against Keilah, and they are robbing the threshing floors."

2Therefore David inquired of the LORD, saying, "Shall I go and attack these Philistines?"

And the LORD said to David, "Go and attack the Philistines, and save Keilah."

3But David's men said to him, "Look, we are afraid here in Judah. How much more then if we go to Keilah against the armies of the Philistines?" 4Then David inquired of the LORD once again.

And the LORD answered him and said, "Arise, go down to Keilah. For I will deliver the Philistines into your hand." 5And David and his men went to Keilah and fought with the Philistines, struck them with a mighty blow, and took away their livestock. So David saved the inhabitants of Keilah.

6Now it happened, when Abiathar the son of Ahimelech fled to David at Keilah, that he went down with an ephod in his hand.

7And Saul was told that David had gone to Keilah. So Saul said, "God has delivered him into my hand, for he has shut himself in by entering a town that has gates and bars." 8Then Saul called all the people together for war, to go down to Keilah to besiege David and his men.

9When David knew that Saul plotted evil against him, he said to Abiathar the priest, "Bring the ephod here." 10Then David said, "O LORD God of Israel, Your servant has certainly heard that Saul seeks to come to Keilah to destroy the city for my sake. 11Will the men of Keilah deliver me into his hand? Will Saul come down, as Your servant has heard? O LORD God of Israel, I pray, tell Your servant."

And the LORD said, "He will come down."

12Then David said, "Will the men of Keilah deliver me and my men into the hand of Saul?"

And the LORD said, "They will deliver you."

23:9 The use of the ephod helped David realize his dangerous situation. The "yes" or "no" questions assume the use of the Urim and Thummim (see Ex. 28:15; Deut. 33:8, notes). This shows that God knows all the alternatives and is able to reveal them.

13So David and his men, about six hundred, arose and departed from Keilah and went wherever they could go. Then it was told Saul that David had escaped from Keilah; so he halted the expedition.

David in Wilderness Strongholds

14And David stayed in strongholds in the wilderness, and remained in the mountains in the Wilderness of Ziph. Saul sought him every day, but God did not deliver him into his hand. 15So David saw that Saul had come out to seek his life. And David was in the Wilderness of Ziph in a forest.[a] 16Then Jonathan, Saul's son, arose and went to David in the woods and strengthened his hand in God. 17And he said to him, "Do not fear, for the hand of Saul my father shall not find you. You shall be king over Israel, and I shall be next to you. Even my father Saul knows that." 18So the two of them made a covenant before the LORD. And David stayed in the woods, and Jonathan went to his own house.

19Then the Ziphites came up to Saul at Gibeah, saying, "Is David not hiding with us in strongholds in the woods, in the hill of Hachilah, which is on the south of Jeshimon? 20Now therefore, O king, come down according to all the desire of your soul to come down; and our part shall be to deliver him into the king's hand."

21And Saul said, "Blessed are you of the LORD, for you have compassion on me. 22Please go and find out for sure, and see the place where his hideout is, and who has seen him there. For I am told he is very crafty. 23See therefore, and take knowledge of all the lurking places where he hides; and come back to me with certainty, and I will go with you. And it shall be, if he is in the land, that I will search for him throughout all the clans[a] of Judah."

24So they arose and went to Ziph before Saul. But David and his men were in the Wilderness of Maon, in the plain on the south of Jeshimon. 25When Saul and his men went to seek him, they told David. Therefore he went down to the rock, and stayed in the Wilderness of Maon. And when Saul heard that, he pursued David in the Wilderness of Maon. 26Then Saul went on one side of the mountain, and David and his men on the other side of the mountain. So David made haste to get away from Saul, for Saul and his men were encircling David and his men to take them.

27But a messenger came to Saul, saying, "Hurry and come, for the Philistines have invaded the land!" 28Therefore Saul returned from pursuing David, and went against the Philistines; so they called that place the Rock of Escape.[a] 29Then David went up from there and dwelt in strongholds at En Gedi.

David Spares Saul

24 Now it happened, when Saul had returned from following the Philistines, that it was told him, saying, "Take note! David is in the Wilderness of En Gedi." 2Then Saul took three thousand chosen men from all Israel, and went to seek David and his men on the Rocks of the Wild Goats. 3So he came to the sheepfolds by the road, where there was a cave; and Saul went in to attend to his needs. (David and his men were staying in the recesses of the cave.) 4Then the men of David said to him, "This is the day of which the LORD said to you, 'Behold, I will deliver your enemy into your hand, that you may do to him as it seems good to you.' " And David arose and secretly cut off a corner of Saul's robe. 5Now it happened afterward that David's heart troubled him because he had cut Saul's robe. 6And he said to his men, "The LORD forbid that I should do this thing to my master, the LORD's anointed, to stretch out my hand against him, seeing he is the anointed of the LORD." 7So David restrained his servants with these words, and did not allow them to rise against Saul. And Saul got up from the cave and went on his way.

8David also arose afterward, went out of the cave, and called out to Saul, saying, "My lord the king!" And when Saul looked behind him, David stooped with his face to the earth, and bowed down. 9And David said to Saul: "Why do you listen to the words of men who say, 'Indeed David seeks your harm'? 10Look, this day your eyes have seen that the LORD delivered you today into my hand in the cave, and someone urged me to kill you. But my eye spared you, and I said, 'I will not stretch out my hand against my lord, for he is the LORD's anointed.' 11Moreover, my father, see! Yes, see the corner of your robe in my hand! For in that I cut off the corner of your robe, and did not kill you, know and see that there is neither evil nor rebellion in my hand, and I have not sinned against you. Yet you hunt my life to take it. 12Let the LORD judge between you and me, and let the LORD avenge me on you. But my hand shall not be against you. 13As the proverb of the ancients says, 'Wickedness proceeds from the wicked.' But my hand shall not be against you. 14After whom has the king of Israel come out? Whom do you pursue? A dead dog? A flea? 15Therefore let the LORD be judge, and judge between you and me, and see and plead my case, and deliver me out of your hand."

23:15 [a]Or in Horesh 23:23 [a]Literally thousands 23:28 [a]Hebrew Sela Hammahlekoth

23:15 Jonathan encouraged David. Jonathan came to David in the wilderness of Ziph in a forest at a time when David was in great need of encouragement that God's will concerning him would be fulfilled (v. 17). Jonathan strengthened David by the 16So it was, when David had finished speaking these words to Saul, that Saul said, "Is this your voice, my son David?" And Saul lifted up his voice and wept. 17Then he said to David: "You are more righteous than I; for you have rewarded me with good, whereas I have rewarded you with evil.

18And you have shown this day how you have dealt well with me; for when the LORD delivered me into your hand, you did not kill me. 19For if a man finds his enemy, will he let him get away safely? Therefore may the LORD reward you with good for what you have done to me this day. 20And now I know indeed that you shall surely be king, and that the kingdom of Israel shall be established in your hand. 21Therefore swear now to me by the LORD that you will not cut off my descendants after me, and that you will not destroy my name from my father's house."

22So David swore to Saul. And Saul went home, but David and his men went up to the stronghold.

ered together and lamented for him, and buried him at his home in Ramah. And David arose and went down to the Wilderness of Paran.[a]

Abigail. And she was a woman of good understanding and beautiful appearance; but the man was harsh and evil in his doings. He was of the house of Caleb.

4When David heard in the wilderness that Nabal was shearing his sheep, 5David sent ten young men; and David said to the young men, "Go up to Carmel, go to Nabal, and greet him in my name.
6And thus you shall say to him who lives in prosper- ity: 'Peace be to you, peace to your house, and peace to all that you have! 7Now I have heard that you have shearers. Your shepherds were with us, and we did not hurt them, nor was there anything missing from them all the while they were in Carmel. 8Ask your young men, and they will tell you. Therefore let my young men find favor in your eyes, for we come on a feast day. Please give whatever comes to your hand to your servants and to your son David.' "

9So when David's young men came, they spoke to Nabal according to all these words in the name of David, and waited.

10Then Nabal answered David's servants, and said, "Who is David, and who is the son of Jesse?
There are many servants nowadays who break away each one from his master. 11Shall I then take my bread and my water and my meat that I have killed for my shearers, and give it to men when I do not know where they are from?"

12So David's young men turned on their heels and went back; and they came and told him all these words. 13Then David said to his men, "Every man gird on his sword." So every man girded on his sword, and David also girded on his sword.

promises of God, reminding David of the Lord's concern that Saul would not find him, and of the fact that he, David, would be king over Israel (see 2 Pet. 1, The Promises of God). Jonathan's selfless perspective is an OT example of Philippians 2:2–4, and his friendship for David embodies the concept of Proverbs 18:24. After making a covenant together, they parted, perhaps never to see each other again since no other meetings are recorded. They modeled a friendship to be emulated by all generations (see Luke 1, Friendship).

24:1 En Gedi was a lovely oasis with a freshwater spring above the bleak shores of the Dead Sea. The area around the spring stands in stark contrast to the surrounding desert. The limestone rock in the region is permeated with caves, providing good places to hide.

24:6 David's reverence for God and His sovereignty over the affairs of mankind and history influenced his actions even in the midst of severe persecution (see 1 Sam. 24; 26). To David's men, Saul's presence inside the same cave in which they were hiding was a door of opportunity from the Lord to get rid of their enemy (1 Sam. 24:4); but to David, Saul was the Lord's anointed, both by divine appointment and human proclamation (v. 6; see also 1 Sam. 9:16; 10:1, 24; 11:15). Thus David felt he had no right to lay a hand against "the LORD's anointed," a phrase used repeatedly (1 Sam. 24:6, 10; 26:9, 11, 16, 23). "David's heart troubled him" after he cut off a corner of Saul's robe (1 Sam. 24:5), for David considered this act as harm done to the king himself, and therefore sin on David's part. Restraining his men, David solemnly vowed he would never do harm to his master, for in no way should he harm one whom God had placed in authority (v. 7). In no way did this attitude toward Saul condone the wretched sinfulness of Saul's life. Rather, out of respect for God, David refused to take matters into his own hands (vv. 12, 15; 1 Sam. 26:9); instead he trusted God to bring about justice (Deut. 32:35; Rom. 12:17–21).

25:13 David's impassioned desire to take immediate vengeance upon Nabal for his insult and cruelty to David and his men, if carried out, would have caused David to sin against the Lord and His people. God preserved David from shedding innocent blood (a major theme in 1 Sam. 24—26 but perhaps most obvious in 1 Sam. 25) through the swift and wise intervention of Nabal's wife Abigail, a woman described as "beautiful" (lit. "lovely in form," the same phrase describing Rachel in Gen. 29:17 and Esther in Esth. 2:7) and good in understanding (2 Chr. 30:22; Ps. 111:10; Prov. 13:15; see also Abigail). Sensing the impending disaster that would come after Nabal repaid David's good with evil (1 Sam. 25:10, 11), a young man in Nabal's household came to Abigail explaining the praiseworthy behavior of David and his men (vv. 15, 16) and imploring her to right the wrong of her husband (vv. 14,

ABIGAIL An Intelligent Beauty

Abigail was the intelligent and beautiful wife (1 Sam. 25:3) of Nabal, a wealthy, foolish scoundrel who was harsh and overbearing (1 Sam. 25:3, 17). Although many women are in unhappy marriages by their own choices, Abigail probably entered this union with such a difficult man through no choice of her own, since most marriages in her day were arranged by parents. This woman of faith acted humbly and wisely in giving David and his men food to save the lives of her household.

After Nabal rudely insulted the future king of Israel and his men, David reacted swiftly, intent on hotheaded vengeance. Forewarned by a servant, Abigail moved with perception and precision to try to avert the extermination of the entire household. She intercepted David with humility and warm hospitality. Her voice was a call to reason, and her manner was altogether disarming. She used all her creativity to minimize the damage done by her foolish husband. In going against Nabal's wishes, she acted to save his life.

How did she dissuade David and his men? She could have been a resentful wife, looking for ways to blame her husband, but her speech was artfully persuasive and honest. She showed deference for her husband by claiming that it was her own oversight that David's men saw Nabal instead of her, perhaps suggesting that she was not available for hospitality (1 Sam. 25:25). Her words were not a betrayal but rather a tactful confession that defused David's anger. She made no effort to deceive her husband but chose wisely the time to give him a full account of what she had done (1 Sam. 25:36, 37). Her conversation with David showed respect for his position and knowledge of his character and actions, resulting in the future king's pronouncement of a threefold blessing: praise to God, gratitude for her advice, and thanksgiving for Abigail herself (1 Sam. 25:32, 33).

When David heard that Nabal had died, he was greatly relieved that he had allowed God to take the vengeance. He also wasted no time in asking Abigail to continue to bless his life as his own wife. She was the one to whom David said, "I . . . respected your person" (1 Sam. 25:35). She had earned from him respect, and she illustrates for wives today vital principles of restraint and proper priorities, as well as the determination to make the best out of a difficult situation.

And about four hundred men went with David, and two hundred stayed with the supplies.
14 Now one of the young men told Abigail, Nabal's wife, saying, "Look, David sent messengers from the wilderness to greet our master; and he reviled them. 15 But the men were very good to us, and we were not hurt, nor did we miss anything as long as we accompanied them, when we were in the fields. 16 They were a wall to us both by night and day, all the time we were with them keeping the sheep. 17 Now therefore, know and consider what you will do, for harm is determined against our master and against all his household. For he is such a scoundrel[a] that one cannot speak to him."

18 Then Abigail made haste and took two hundred loaves of bread, two skins of wine, five sheep already dressed, five seahs of roasted grain, one hundred clusters of raisins, and two hundred cakes of figs, and loaded them on donkeys. 19 And she said to her servants, "Go on before me; see, I am coming after you." But she did not tell her husband Nabal.

20 So it was, as she rode on the donkey, that she went down under cover of the hill; and there were David and his men, coming down toward her, and she met them. 21 Now David had said, "Surely in vain I have protected all that this fellow has in the wilderness, so that nothing was missed of all that belongs to him. And he has repaid me evil for good. 22 May God do so, and more also, to the enemies of David, if I leave one male of all who belong to him by morning light."

23 Now when Abigail saw David, she dismounted quickly from the donkey, fell on her face before David, and bowed down to the ground. 24 So she fell at his feet and said: "On me, my lord, on me let this iniquity be! And please let your maidservant speak in your ears, and hear the words of 17). As a godly wife, Abigail was first responsible to God, then to her husband. Thus she acted with speed to prepare generous supplies for David and his men with the hope of intercepting them enroute. Encountering the angry army of 400 men, Abigail courageously demonstrated wisdom, respect, and submissiveness as she admonished David not to avenge himself and blot his career with blood guilt (vv. 26, 28, 30, 31). She reminded David that he was the Lord's anointed, fighting the Lord's battles, and thus under God's protection (vv. 28, 29). David's teachable spirit, illustrated both by his listening to Abigail's words as well as his heeding her advice, is admirable here. David honored Abigail by stating that she had been sent by the Lord to keep him from sin (vv. 32–34). As a responsible wife, Abigail returned to her husband and at an appropriate time told him all she had done, willing to accept any possible consequences. God demonstrated to David that He is faithful to avenge wrong in striking Nabal dead (v. 38).

your maidservant. 25Please, let not my lord regard this scoundrel Nabal. For as his name is, so is he: Nabal[a] is his name, and folly is with him! But I, your maidservant, did not see the young men of my lord whom you sent. 26Now therefore, my lord, as the LORD lives and as your soul lives, since the LORD has held you back from coming to bloodshed and from avenging yourself with your own hand, now then, let your enemies and those who seek harm for my lord be as Nabal. 27And now this present which your maidservant has brought to my lord, let it be given to the young men who follow my lord. 28Please forgive the trespass of your maidservant. For the LORD will certainly make for my lord an enduring house, because my lord fights the battles of the LORD, and evil is not found in you throughout your days. 29Yet a man has risen to pursue you and seek your life, but the life of my lord shall be bound in the bundle of the living with the LORD your God; and the lives of your enemies He shall sling out, as from the pocket of a sling. 30And it shall come to pass, when the LORD has done for my lord according to all the good that He has spoken concerning you, and has appointed you ruler over Israel, 31that this will be no grief to you, nor offense of heart to my lord, either that you have shed blood without cause, or that my lord has avenged himself. But when the LORD has dealt well with my lord, then remember your maidservant."

32Then David said to Abigail: "Blessed is the LORD God of Israel, who sent you this day to meet me! 33And blessed is your advice and blessed are you, because you have kept me this day from coming to bloodshed and from avenging myself with my own hand. 34For indeed, as the LORD God of Israel lives, who has kept me back from hurting you, unless you had hurried and come to meet me, surely by morning light no males would have been left to Nabal!" 35So David received from her hand what she had brought him, and said to her, "Go up in peace to your house. See, I have heeded your voice and respected your person."

36Now Abigail went to Nabal, and there he was, holding a feast in his house, like the feast of a king. And Nabal's heart was merry within him, for he was very drunk; therefore she told him nothing, little or much, until morning light. 37So it was, in the morning, when the wine had gone from Nabal, and his wife had told him these things, that his heart died within him, and he became like a stone. 38Then it happened, after about ten days, that the LORD struck Nabal, and he died.

39So when David heard that Nabal was dead, he said, "Blessed be the LORD, who has pleaded the cause of my reproach from the hand of Nabal, and has kept His servant from evil! For the LORD has returned the wickedness of Nabal on his own head."

And David sent and proposed to Abigail, to take her as his wife. 40When the servants of David had come to Abigail at Carmel, they spoke to her saying, "David sent us to you, to ask you to become his wife."

41Then she arose, bowed her face to the earth, and said, "Here is your maidservant, a servant to wash the feet of the servants of my lord." 42So Abigail rose in haste and rode on a donkey, attended by five of her maidens; and she followed the messengers of David, and became his wife. 43David also took Ahinoam of Jezreel, and so both of them were his wives.

44But Saul had given Michal his daughter, David's wife, to Palti[a] the son of Laish, who was from Gallim.

David Spares Saul a Second Time

26 Now the Ziphites came to Saul at Gibeah, saying, "Is David not hiding in the hill of Hachilah, opposite Jeshimon?" 2Then Saul arose and went down to the Wilderness of Ziph, having three thousand chosen men of Israel with him, to seek David in the Wilderness of Ziph. 3And Saul encamped in the hill of Hachilah, which is opposite Jeshimon, by the road. But David stayed in the wilderness, and he saw that Saul came after him into the wilderness. 4David therefore sent out spies, and understood that Saul had indeed come.

5So David arose and came to the place where Saul had encamped. And David saw the place where Saul lay, and Abner the son of Ner, the commander of his army. Now Saul lay within the camp, with the people encamped all around him. 6Then David answered, and said to Ahimelech the Hittite and to Abishai the son of Zeruiah, brother of Joab, saying, "Who will go down with me to Saul in the camp?"

And Abishai said, "I will go down with you."

25:25 [a]Literally Fool 25:44 [a]Spelled Paltiel in 2 Samuel 3:15

25:27 In the wilderness of Paran, where David fled after Samuel died, roving bands of robbers were very common. Even to the present day, groups of men protect the life and property of wilderness dwellers in return for gifts. Even during David's most difficult times, he took upon himself the care and protection of his countrymen (vv. 7, 8, 15, 16).

25:29 Bound in the bundle of the living is a graphic Hebrew saying used by Abigail to picture the Lord's care for David. This phrase is often found on Jewish tombstones referring to life beyond the grave. The image comes from the custom of bundling valuable possessions to keep them from being broken or damaged. The picture is one of a precious jewel, carefully tied up in a bundle in order to keep it secure and safe. Abigail is saying that David is in God's bundle and is securely protected.

THE MEDIUM OF EN DOR An Accomplice to Disobedience

Saul's desperate attempt to learn the future on the eve of battle introduces the medium of En Dor in Scripture. The medium, a mere prop on history's stage, set the scene for Saul's final disobedience to God, which ended in judgment (1 Chr. 10:13, 14). There was a tragic submissiveness in her repeated compliance to Saul's evil request.

The medium lived in eleventh-century B.C. En Dor, a Canaanite city three miles southwest of Mt. Tabor and within the territory of Manasseh's tribe. She practiced divination, a common occupation among ancient Near Eastern women. During Saul's time, the term "medium" meant one who consulted the dead on behalf of the living. Witchcraft had flourished in the nations Israel had been commanded to expel during the conquest of the Promised Land. Manasseh, however, had not driven the Canaanites from En Dor (Josh. 17:12, 13).

Though the medium likely was pagan, she knew her craft was forbidden. All forms of witchcraft had been condemned by God (Ex. 22:18; Lev. 19:31; 20:6, 27; Deut. 18:10–12, 14); Saul himself had exercised civil authority and driven mediums from the land (1 Sam. 28:3). Yet this medium was still in Israel, and her presence was known (1 Sam. 28:7)!

The woman was cautious and suspicious of a trap when asked to bring up Samuel (1 Sam. 28:9). But she quickly complied to Saul's request after being assured of personal safety. God's word was not her authority. Her fearful shock at the sight of Samuel implied that she had never experienced the appearance of such a figure. With sudden clairvoyance, she recognized Saul and boldly challenged the king with his own deception (v. 12). Again Saul assured her safety, and she responded to his request.

When Saul fell to the ground in despair, the woman showed natural sympathy as she prepared food to try to revive his strength (v. 22). As she coaxed Saul to respond, she twice referred to herself with the submissive phrase "your maidservant" (vv. 21, 22). Then she put forth her best hospitality in preparing a royal meal.

The medium of En Dor stands, however, as an example of one who, while doing good in practicing human kindness, did evil in disobeying God and sinned in so doing. She will be remembered as one who chose to be an accomplice to King Saul in his personal disobedience to God.

7 So David and Abishai came to the people by night; and there Saul lay sleeping within the camp, with his spear stuck in the ground by his head. And Abner and the people lay all around him. 8 Then Abishai said to David, "God has delivered your enemy into your hand this day. Now therefore, please, let me strike him at once with the spear, right to the earth; and I will not have to strike him a second time!"
9 But David said to Abishai, "Do not destroy him; for who can stretch out his hand against the LORD's anointed, and be guiltless?" 10 David said furthermore, "As the LORD lives, the LORD shall strike him, or his day shall come to die, or he shall go out to battle and perish. 11 The LORD forbid that I should stretch out my hand against the LORD's anointed. But please, take now the spear and the jug of water that are by his head, and let us go." 12 So David took the spear and the jug of water by Saul's head, and they got away; and no man saw or knew it or awoke. For they were all asleep, because a deep sleep from the LORD had fallen on them.
13 Now David went over to the other side, and stood on the top of a hill afar off, a great distance being between them. 14 And David called out to the people and to Abner the son of Ner, saying, "Do you not answer, Abner?"
Then Abner answered and said, "Who are you, calling out to the king?"
15 So David said to Abner, "Are you not a man?
And who is like you in Israel? Why then have you not guarded your lord the king? For one of the people came in to destroy your lord the king.
16 This thing that you have done is not good. As the LORD lives, you deserve to die, because you have not guarded your master, the LORD's anointed.
And now see where the king's spear is, and the jug of water that was by his head." 17 Then Saul knew David's voice, and said, "Is that your voice, my son David?"
David said, "It is my voice, my lord, O king." 18 And he said, "Why does my lord thus pursue his servant? For what have I done, or what evil is in my hand? 19 Now therefore, please, let my lord the king hear the words of his servant: If the LORD has stirred you up against me, let Him accept an offering. But if it is the children of men, may they be cursed before the LORD, for they have driven me out this day from sharing in the inheritance of the LORD, saying, 'Go, serve other gods.' 20 So now, do not let my blood fall to the earth before the face of the LORD. For the king of Israel has come out to seek a flea, as when one hunts a partridge in the mountains." 21 Then Saul said, "I have sinned. Return, my son David. For I will harm you no more, because my life was precious in your eyes this day. Indeed I have played the fool and erred exceedingly."

22And David answered and said, "Here is the king's spear. Let one of the young men come over and get it. 23May the LORD repay every man for his righteousness and his faithfulness; for the LORD delivered you into my hand today, but I would not stretch out my hand against the LORD's anointed. 24And indeed, as your life was valued much this day in my eyes, so let my life be valued much in the eyes of the LORD, and let Him deliver me out of all tribulation."

25Then Saul said to David, "May you be blessed, my son David! You shall both do great things and also still prevail."

So David went on his way, and Saul returned to his place.

David Allied with the Philistines

27 And David said in his heart, "Now I shall perish someday by the hand of Saul. There is nothing better for me than that I should speedily escape to the land of the Philistines; and Saul will despair of me, to seek me anymore in any part of Israel. So I shall escape out of his hand." 2Then David arose and went over with the six hundred men who were with him to Achish the son of Maoch, king of Gath. 3So David dwelt with Achish at Gath, he and his men, each man with his household, and David with his two wives, Ahinoam the Jezreelitess, and Abigail the Carmelitess, Nabal's widow. 4And it was told Saul that David had fled to Gath; so he sought him no more.

5Then David said to Achish, "If I have now found favor in your eyes, let them give me a place in some town in the country, that I may dwell there. For why should your servant dwell in the royal city with you?" 6So Achish gave him Ziklag that day. Therefore Ziklag has belonged to the kings of Judah to this day. 7Now the time that David dwelt in the country of the Philistines was one full year and four months.

8And David and his men went up and raided the Geshurites, the Girzites,[a] and the Amalekites. For those nations were the inhabitants of the land from of old, as you go to Shur, even as far as the land of Egypt. 9Whenever David attacked the land, he left neither man nor woman alive, but took away the sheep, the oxen, the donkeys, the camels, and the apparel, and returned and came to Achish. 10Then Achish would say, "Where have you made a raid today?" And David would say, "Against the southern area of Judah, or against the southern area of the Jerahmeelites, or against the southern area of the Kenites." 11David would save neither man nor woman alive, to bring news to Gath, saying, "Lest they should inform on us, saying, 'Thus David did.' " And thus was his behavior all the time he dwelt in the country of the Philistines. 12So Achish believed David, saying, "He has made his people Israel utterly abhor him; therefore he will be my servant forever."

28 Now it happened in those days that the Philistines gathered their armies together for war, to fight with Israel. And Achish said to David, "You assuredly know that you will go out with me to battle, you and your men."

2So David said to Achish, "Surely you know what your servant can do."

And Achish said to David, "Therefore I will make you one of my chief guardians forever."

Saul Consults a Medium

3Now Samuel had died, and all Israel had lamented for him and buried him in Ramah, in his own city. And Saul had put the mediums and the spiritists out of the land.

4Then the Philistines gathered together, and came and encamped at Shunem. So Saul gathered all Israel together, and they encamped at Gilboa. 5When Saul saw the army of the Philistines, he was afraid, and his heart trembled greatly. 6And when Saul inquired of the LORD, the LORD did not answer him, either by dreams or by Urim or by the prophets.

7Then Saul said to his servants, "Find me a woman who is a medium, that I may go to her and inquire of her."

And his servants said to him, "In fact, there is a woman who is a medium at En Dor."

8So Saul disguised himself and put on other clothes, and he went, and two men with him; and they came to the woman by night. And he said, "Please conduct a séance for me, and bring up for me the one I shall name to you."

27:8 [a]Or Gezrites

27:6 Ziklag, originally assigned to the tribe of Simeon (Josh. 19:1–5) but later incorporated into the Negev province of Judah (Josh. 15:20–31), was located about 15 miles southeast of Gath. During the reign of Saul, Ziklag was under Philistine control. When David despaired after running from Saul for a long time, he concluded that Saul would kill him. So David left Israel and went to the land of the Philistines (1 Sam. 27:1). Achish, the king of Gath, knowing the hostility between Saul and David, brought David under his protection as a vassal (v. 5). Achish gave the unoccupied Philistine city of Ziklag to David as a gift for David's presumed loyalty (v. 6). The city became the base from which David and his men successfully attacked various groups who threatened Judah's southern borders (vv. 8, 9, 11).

LEADERSHIP AN AWESOME RESPONSIBILITY

Jewish culture accepted women in positions of leadership. Though highly valued and given a new dignity by Christ, the roles of women were different from those of the men Christ selected for leadership positions. No woman was called, commissioned, or named as one of the twelve apostles. Yet women gave to Christ, served Him, fellowshiped with Him, learned from Him, prayed for Him, and testified of Him as the Savior. They provided leadership through their service.

Leadership is an awesome responsibility, demanding spiritual preparation grounded in consistent personal devotional time (Matt. 6:33). Leaders must also seek godly counsel (Prov. 15:22). They must work willingly and energetically (Eccl. 9:10). Essential ingredients in leadership include creativity, encouragement of others (Prov. 15:23; 25:11), inspiration (Prov. 16:24; 17:22), expressions of gratitude (Ps. 13:6; 69:30; Eph. 5:20), and a servant's heart (Prov. 3:27; Matt. 23:11).

Abigail's unique leadership of her household staff included a servant's heart and boldness, which was tempered with restraint and discretion (1 Sam. 25:23–33). Abigail exerted great influence over David when she persuaded him not to kill Nabal. In fact, David later recognized that Abigail changed the direction of his life.

People must consistently be more important than tasks. Self-sacrifice, gentleness, service without expected reward, patience, kindness, nurturing of relationships, mercy—all these qualities are a part of the Lord's leadership. We see exemplified in the Lord Himself those qualities which are necessary in all godly leaders.

9 Then the woman said to him, "Look, you know what Saul has done, how he has cut off the mediums and the spiritists from the land. Why then do you lay a snare for my life, to cause me to die?"
10 And Saul swore to her by the LORD, saying,
"As the LORD lives, no punishment shall come upon you for this thing." 11 Then the woman said, "Whom shall I bring up for you?"
And he said, "Bring up Samuel for me."
12 When the woman saw Samuel, she cried out with a loud voice. And the woman spoke to Saul, saying, "Why have you deceived me? For you are Saul!"
13 And the king said to her, "Do not be afraid.
What did you see?"
And the woman said to Saul, "I saw a spirit[a] ascending out of the earth."
14 So he said to her, "What is his form?"
And she said, "An old man is coming up, and he is covered with a mantle." And Saul perceived that it was Samuel, and he stooped with his face to the ground and bowed down.
15 Now Samuel said to Saul, "Why have you disturbed me by bringing me up?"
And Saul answered, "I am deeply distressed; for the Philistines make war against me, and God has departed from me and does not answer me anymore, neither by prophets nor by dreams. Therefore I have called you, that you may reveal to me what I should do."
16 Then Samuel said: "So why do you ask me, seeing the LORD has departed from you and has become your enemy? 17 And the LORD has done for Himself[a] as He spoke by me. For the LORD has torn the kingdom out of your hand and given it to your neighbor, David. 18 Because you did not obey the voice of the LORD nor execute His fierce wrath upon Amalek, therefore the LORD has done this thing to you this day. 19 Moreover the LORD will also deliver Israel with you into the hand of the Philistines. And tomorrow you and your sons will be with me. The LORD will also deliver the army of Israel into the hand of the Philistines." 20 Immediately Saul fell full length on the ground, and was dreadfully afraid because of the words of Samuel. And there was no strength in him, for he had eaten no food all day or all night.
21 And the woman came to Saul and saw that he was severely troubled, and said to him, "Look, your maidservant has obeyed your voice, and I have put my life in my hands and heeded the words which you spoke to me. 22 Now therefore, please, heed also the voice of your maidservant, and let me set a piece of bread before you; and eat, that you may have strength when you go on your way."
23 But he refused and said, "I will not eat."
So his servants, together with the woman, urged him; and he heeded their voice. Then he arose from the ground and sat on the bed. 24 Now the woman had a fatted calf in the house, and she hastened to kill it. And she took flour and kneaded it, and baked unleavened bread from it.
25 So she brought it before Saul and his servants, and they ate. Then they rose and went away that night.

The Philistines Reject David

29 Then the Philistines gathered together all their armies at Aphek, and the Israelites encamped by a fountain which is in Jezreel. 2And the lords of the Philistines passed in review by hundreds and by thousands, but David and his men passed in review at the rear with Achish. 3Then the princes of the Philistines said, "What are these Hebrews doing here?"

And Achish said to the princes of the Philistines, "Is this not David, the servant of Saul king of Israel, who has been with me these days, or these years? And to this day I have found no fault in him since he defected to me."

4But the princes of the Philistines were angry with him; so the princes of the Philistines said to him, "Make this fellow return, that he may go back to the place which you have appointed for him, and do not let him go down with us to battle, lest in the battle he become our adversary. For with what could he reconcile himself to his master, if not with the heads of these men? 5*Is* this not David, of whom they sang to one another in dances, saying:

'Saul has slain his thousands,

6Then Achish called David and said to him, "Surely, as the LORD lives, you have been upright, and your going out and your coming in with me in the army is good in my sight. For to this day I have not found evil in you since the day of your coming to me. Nevertheless the lords do not favor you. 7Therefore return now, and go in peace, that you may not displease the lords of the Philistines."

8So David said to Achish, "But what have I done? And to this day what have you found in your servant as long as I have been with you, that I may not go and fight against the enemies of my lord the king?"

9Then Achish answered and said to David, "I know that you are as good in my sight as an angel of God; nevertheless the princes of the Philistines have said, 'He shall not go up with us to the battle.' 10Now therefore, rise early in the morning with your master's servants who have come with you.[a] And as soon as you are up early in the morning and have light, depart."

11So David and his men rose early to depart in the morning, to return to the land of the Philistines. And the Philistines went up to Jezreel.

David's Conflict with the Amalekites

30 Now it happened, when David and his men came to Ziklag, on the third day, that the Amalekites had invaded the South and Ziklag, attacked Ziklag and burned it with fire, 2and had taken captive the women and those who were there, from small to great; they did not kill anyone, but carried them away and went their way. 3So David and his men came to the city, and there it was, burned with fire; and their wives, their sons, and their daughters had been taken captive. 4Then David and the people who were with him lifted up their voices and wept, until they had no more power to weep. 5And David's two wives, Ahinoam the Jezreelitess, and Abigail the widow of Nabal the Carmelite, had been taken captive. 6Now David was greatly distressed, for the people spoke of stoning him, because the soul of all the people was grieved, every man for his sons and his daughters. But David strengthened himself in the LORD his God.

7Then David said to Abiathar the priest, Ahimelech's son, "Please bring the ephod here to me." And Abiathar brought the ephod to David. 8So David inquired of the LORD, saying, "Shall I pursue this troop? Shall I overtake them?"

And He answered him, "Pursue, for you shall surely overtake them and without fail recover all."

9So David went, he and the six hundred men who were with him, and came to the Brook Besor, where those stayed who were left behind. 10But David pursued, he and four hundred men; for two hundred stayed behind, who were so weary that they could not cross the Brook Besor.

11Then they found an Egyptian in the field, and brought him to David; and they gave him bread and he ate, and they let him drink water. 12And they gave him a piece of a cake of figs and two clusters of raisins. So when he had eaten, his strength came back to him; for he had eaten no bread nor drunk water for three days and three nights. 13Then David said to him, "To whom do you belong, and where are you from?"

And he said, "I am a young man from Egypt, servant of an Amalekite; and my master left me behind, because three days ago I fell sick. 14We made an invasion of the southern area of the Cherethites, in the territory which belongs to Judah, 29:5 [a]Compare 1 Samuel 18:7 29:10 [a]Following Masoretic Text, Targum, and Vulgate; Septuagint adds and go to the place which I have selected for you there; and set no bothersome word in your heart, for you are good before me. And rise on your way.

30:6 With the devastating scene of nothing but their burned city before them and with the loss of their families, the grief of David's men was so overwhelming that they wanted to stone David. David had faced countless trials before. There was a purpose for David's trials in that they made real what David believed (see Ps. 11, Testing). David had learned that in the midst of trials God is trustworthy (1 Sam. 23:27, 28; 25:39). David had developed within himself a pattern for strength because he had come to know God (see Ps. 34; 54; 56; 59). Knowledge of God makes no difference in a life unless it is lived out. Now in this ultimate crisis, "David strengthened himself in the LORD his God."

and of the southern area of Caleb; and we burned Ziklag with fire."

15And David said to him, "Can you take me down to this troop?"

So he said, "Swear to me by God that you will neither kill me nor deliver me into the hands of my master, and I will take you down to this troop."

16And when he had brought him down, there they were, spread out over all the land, eating and drinking and dancing, because of all the great spoil which they had taken from the land of the Philistines and from the land of Judah. 17Then David attacked them from twilight until the evening of the next day. Not a man of them escaped, except four hundred young men who rode on camels and fled. 18So David recovered all that the Amalekites had carried away, and David rescued his two wives. 19And nothing of theirs was lacking, either small or great, sons or daughters, spoil or anything which they had taken from them; David recovered all. 20Then David took all the flocks and herds they had driven before those other livestock, and said, "This is David's spoil."

21Now David came to the two hundred men who had been so weary that they could not follow David, whom they also had made to stay at the Brook Besor. So they went out to meet David and to meet the people who were with him. And when David came near the people, he greeted them. 22Then all the wicked and worthless men[a] of those who went with David answered and said, "Because they did not go with us, we will not give them any of the spoil that we have recovered, except for every man's wife and children, that they may lead them away and depart."

23But David said, "My brethren, you shall not do so with what the LORD has given us, who has preserved us and delivered into our hand the troop that came against us. 24For who will heed you in this matter? But as his part is who goes down to the battle, so shall his part be who stays by the supplies; they shall share alike." 25So it was, from that day forward; he made it a statute and an ordinance for Israel to this day.

26Now when David came to Ziklag, he sent some of the spoil to the elders of Judah, to his friends, saying, "Here is a present for you from the spoil of the enemies of the LORD"— 27to those who were in Bethel, those who were in Ramoth of the South, those who were in Jattir, 28*those* who were in Aroer, those who were in Siphmoth, those who were in Eshtemoa, 29*those* who were in Rachal, those who were in the cities of the Jerahmeelites, those who were in the cities of the Kenites, 30*those* who were in Hormah, those who were in Chorashan,[a] those who were in Athach, 31*those* who were in Hebron, and to all the places where David himself and his men were accustomed to rove.

The Tragic End of Saul and His Sons

31 Now the Philistines fought against Israel; and the men of Israel fled from before the Philistines, and fell slain on Mount Gilboa. 2Then the Philistines followed hard after Saul and his sons. And the Philistines killed Jonathan, Abinadab, and Malchishua, Saul's sons. 3The battle became fierce against Saul. The archers hit him, and he was severely wounded by the archers.

4Then Saul said to his armorbearer, "Draw your sword, and thrust me through with it, lest these uncircumcised men come and thrust me through and abuse me."

But his armorbearer would not, for he was greatly afraid. Therefore Saul took a sword and fell on it. 5And when his armorbearer saw that Saul was dead, he also fell on his sword, and died with him. 6So Saul, his three sons, his armorbearer, and all his men died together that same day.

7And when the men of Israel who were on the other side of the valley, and those who were on the other side of the Jordan, saw that the men of Israel had fled and that Saul and his sons were dead, they forsook the cities and fled; and the Philistines came and dwelt in them. 8So it happened the next day, when the Philistines came to strip the slain, that they found Saul and his three sons fallen on Mount Gilboa. 9And they cut off his head and stripped off his armor, and sent word throughout the land of the Philistines, to proclaim it in the temple of their idols and among the people. 10Then they put his armor in the temple of the Ashtoreths, and they fastened his body to the wall of Beth Shan.[a]

11Now when the inhabitants of Jabesh Gilead heard what the Philistines had done to Saul, 12all the valiant men arose and traveled all night, and took the body of Saul and the bodies of his sons from the wall of Beth Shan; and they came to Jabesh and burned them there. 13Then they took their bones and buried them under the tamarisk tree at Jabesh, and fasted seven days.

2 Samuel

TITLE

In the Hebrew text, 1 and 2 Samuel originally made up one volume. Though its author is not named, tradition assigns both 1 and 2 Samuel to the prophet Samuel and credits the prophets Nathan and Gad with the completion of the volume after Samuel's death (1 Sam. 25:1; see 1 Sam., Introduction).

DATE

The Book of 2 Samuel covers the forty years of David's reign (1010 B.C. to 970 B.C.).

BACKGROUND

SETTING: As one of the historical books of the Old Testament, 2 Samuel was written primarily to give the Hebrew people the facts as well as the implications of King David's reign. The book focuses on the effects of David's reign on the nation from a spiritual perspective.

After the death of Saul, David first ruled over Judah in Hebron for seven and one-half years. He then united Judah with Israel and established Jerusalem as his capital city. Through military conquest and political alliances, he extended his control from the Gulf of Aqaba to the Phoenician coast. As his empire grew, David set up an efficient administration and developed trade and international relations. He also organized the nation's religious life and encouraged musical expression. Despite domestic and political problems, which this book describes in detail, David left his son Solomon a strong, pacified kingdom.

THEMES

Second Samuel is part of the larger story of God's relationship with the people of Israel. This book focuses on King David, one of the nation's greatest leaders. David was concerned above all with God's approval and humbly recognized that all his victories came from the Lord. God promised to establish from David's line a dynasty of kings that would rule forever. This covenant looks forward to the Messiah, the Son of David, and His eternal reign. David was called a man after God's own heart; yet his sins, including adultery and murder, led to disaster in David's family and in the nation.

Second Samuel shows how God deals with His children in sin. When they repent, their relationship with Him is fully restored, and they again can experience peace and hope. There are painful consequences to their actions that cannot be avoided, but in the midst of correction, God also reveals His grace. The people of God suffer when a leader sins; yet hope exists, even in the worst situations. God is with His people to deliver and to provide a better way.

Finally, the life of King David illustrates the danger of multiple marriages. Even when such polygamous unions are culturally acceptable, they undermine moral character and weaken parental authority. An additional consequence of polgamy is that children often suffer from jealousy, strife, and abuse (see Gen. 32, Blended Family; Prov. 28, Favoritism; 1 Tim. 3., Polygamy).

   C. David's heroes (23:1–39)
   D. The census and plague (24:1–25)

The Report of Saul's Death

1 Now it came to pass after the death of Saul, when David had returned from the slaughter of the Amalekites, and David had stayed two days in Ziklag, 2on the third day, behold, it happened that a man came from Saul's camp with his clothes torn and dust on his head. So it was, when he came to David, that he fell to the ground and prostrated himself.

3And David said to him, "Where have you come from?"

So he said to him, "I have escaped from the camp of Israel."

4Then David said to him, "How did the matter go? Please tell me."

And he answered, "The people have fled from the battle, many of the people are fallen and dead, and Saul and Jonathan his son are dead also."

5So David said to the young man who told him,
"How do you know that Saul and Jonathan his son are dead?"

6Then the young man who told him said, "As I happened by chance to be on Mount Gilboa, there was Saul, leaning on his spear; and indeed the chariots and horsemen followed hard after him.
7Now when he looked behind him, he saw me and called to me. And I answered, 'Here I am.' 8And he said to me, 'Who are you?' So I answered him, 'I am an Amalekite.' 9He said to me again, 'Please stand over me and kill me, for anguish has come upon me, but my life still remains in me.' 10So I stood over him and killed him, because I was sure that he could not live after he had fallen. And I took the crown that was on his head and the bracelet that was on his arm, and have brought them here to my lord."

11Therefore David took hold of his own clothes and tore them, and so did all the men who were with him. 12And they mourned and wept and fasted until evening for Saul and for Jonathan his son, for the people of the LORD and for the house of Israel, because they had fallen by the sword.

13Then David said to the young man who told him, "Where are you from?"

And he answered, "I am the son of an alien, an Amalekite."

14So David said to him, "How was it you were not afraid to put forth your hand to destroy the LORD's anointed?" 15Then David called one of the young men and said, "Go near, and execute him!"
And he struck him so that he died. 16So David said to him, "Your blood is on your own head, for your own mouth has testified against you, saying, 'I have killed the LORD's anointed.' "

The Song of the Bow

17Then David lamented with this lamentation over Saul and over Jonathan his son, 18and he told them to teach the children of Judah the Song of the Bow; indeed it is written in the Book of Jasher:

19"The beauty of Israel is slain on your high places!
How the mighty have fallen!
20Tell it not in Gath,
Proclaim it not in the streets of Ashkelon—
Lest the daughters of the Philistines rejoice, Lest the daughters of the uncircumcised triumph.

21"O mountains of Gilboa,
Let there be no dew nor rain upon you,
Nor fields of offerings.
For the shield of the mighty is cast away
there!
The shield of Saul, not anointed with oil.
22From the blood of the slain,
From the fat of the mighty,
The bow of Jonathan did not turn back,
And the sword of Saul did not return empty.

23"Saul and Jonathan were beloved and pleasant in their lives,
And in their death they were not divided;
They were swifter than eagles,
They were stronger than lions.

24"O daughters of Israel, weep over Saul,
Who clothed you in scarlet, with luxury;
Who put ornaments of gold on your apparel.

25"How the mighty have fallen in the midst of the battle!
Jonathan was slain in your high places.

1:2 Torn clothes and dust on the head indicated that a person was in mourning. Also common was the expression of grief by loud weeping, fasting, and wearing sackcloth. This behavior was expected at a time of death or major disaster.

1:16 Saul had committed suicide, but the Amalekite claimed he had helped Saul take his life (1 Sam. 31:4). He probably fabricated this story, hoping to gain a reward from David. Whether the tale was true or not, David refused any part in the death of Saul. Only God should take the life of His anointed king. The Amalekite was judged on his own words and executed for murder and treason.

1:18 The book of Jasher is a lost collection of ancient songs that praise the heroes of Israel.

1:21 Anointing a shield with oil is a poetic image in which David recognized Saul's valor as a warrior. When in use, a wooden or leather shield was oiled to keep it from drying out or cracking, but Saul's shield had been abandoned on the battlefield where he died on Mount Gilboa. Although Saul had been his enemy, David was sincere in expressing grief at Saul's tragic end.

RIZPAH A Silent Witness

Rizpah, having little or no control over her own life, still managed to maintain a sense of the dignity of life. As a concubine of King Saul, she bore him two sons, Armoni and Mephibosheth (apparently a namesake of the son of David's beloved friend Jonathan).

Concubines in the ancient world were considered property, though they were not slaves. Though afforded some protection by Mosaic Law, they could be divorced more easily than wives. To sleep with the concubine of a king was considered an act of usurpation against the throne.

Rizpah, one of King Saul's concubines, was caught in the middle of the political intrigue surrounding the king's death. Although Saul's army commander Abner remained the real power behind the throne, he named Saul's son Ishbosheth king. When Ishbosheth later accused Abner of sleeping with a royal concubine, the charge amounted to treason, since a king's harem usually passed to his heir. Abner was so angry that he determined to work to "transfer the kingdom from the house of Saul, and set up the throne of David" (see 2 Sam. 3:10).

Over the ensuing months, with Abner's help, David consolidated his power over all of Israel and was crowned king. Later in the midst of a dreadful famine, David searched for a reason for what he interpreted as God's judgment on the land. Because it was due to King Saul's killing of the Gibeonites in violation of their ancient covenant with the Israelites, David inquired as to what would avenge their loss. Their reply was this: the death of seven of Saul's descendants.

Rizpah watched helplessly as her beloved sons were hanged because they were descendants of Saul. She paid a terrible price for the sins of Saul and his family. The grief of a mother's heart took the form of a fierce determination to watch over the bodies. Spreading her sackcloth (a sign of mourning), she protected the unburied bodies from the birds during the day and from beasts during the night.

When King David heard of Rizpah's long and lonely vigil over the corpses of her loved ones, he was moved to provide a proper burial for the bodies that Rizpah had shielded, as well as for King Saul and Jonathan, in the tomb of Saul's father Kish. Though she was helpless to save them in life, Rizpah's courage in protecting those she loved in death was rewarded with the knowledge that her profound witness to decency and the dignity of the human body provided a proper burial for those over whom she had watched.

Rizpah's reverence for life and respect for the bodies of her sons who had been executed contributed to God's favorable response to the nation, hearing and answering prayer (see 2 Sam. 21:14).

26 I am distressed for you, my brother Jonathan;
You have been very pleasant to me;
Your love to me was wonderful,
Surpassing the love of women.

27 "How the mighty have fallen,
And the weapons of war perished!"

David Anointed King of Judah

2 It happened after this that David inquired of the LORD, saying, "Shall I go up to any of the cities of Judah?"

And the LORD said to him, "Go up."

David said, "Where shall I go up?"

And He said, "To Hebron."

2 So David went up there, and his two wives also, Ahinoam the Jezreelitess, and Abigail the widow of Nabal the Carmelite. 3 And David brought up the men who were with him, every man with his household. So they dwelt in the cities of Hebron.

4 Then the men of Judah came, and there they anointed David king over the house of Judah. And they told David, saying, "The men of Jabesh Gilead were the ones who buried Saul." 5 So David sent messengers to the men of Jabesh Gilead, and said to them, "You are blessed of the LORD, for you have shown this kindness to your lord, to Saul, and have buried him. 6 And now may the LORD show kindness and truth to you. I also will repay you this kindness, because you have done this thing. 7 Now therefore, let your hands be strengthened, and be valiant; for your master Saul is dead, and also the house of Judah has anointed me king over them."

Ishbosheth Made King of Israel

8 But Abner the son of Ner, commander of Saul's army, took Ishbosheth[a] the son of Saul and brought him over to Mahanaim; 9 and he made him

2:8 [a]Called Esh-Baal in 1 Chronicles 8:33 and 9:39

1:26 Jonathan's love for David in no way implies a homosexual relationship. The word "love" is used in this poetic statement to describe the quality of friendship between David and Jonathan. Homosexuality was clearly forbidden in the OT (see Lev. 18, Homosexuality). Jonathan loved David as his own soul (1 Sam. 18:1). There was a selfless quality in his friendship. Between the two men grew a deep bond of brotherhood.

king over Gilead, over the Ashurites, over Jezreel, over Ephraim, over Benjamin, and over all Israel. 10Ishbosheth, Saul's son, was forty years old when he began to reign over Israel, and he reigned two years. Only the house of Judah followed David. 11And the time that David was king in Hebron over the house of Judah was seven years and six months.

Israel and Judah at War

12Now Abner the son of Ner, and the servants of Ishbosheth the son of Saul, went out from Mahanaim to Gibeon. 13And Joab the son of Zeruiah, and the servants of David, went out and met them by the pool of Gibeon. So they sat down, one on one side of the pool and the other on the other side of the pool. 14Then Abner said to Joab, "Let the young men now arise and compete before us."

And Joab said, "Let them arise."

15So they arose and went over by number, twelve from Benjamin, followers of Ishbosheth the son of Saul, and twelve from the servants of David. 16And each one grasped his opponent by the head and thrust his sword in his opponent's side; so they fell down together. Therefore that place was called the Field of Sharp Swords,[a] which is in Gibeon. 17So there was a very fierce battle that day, and Abner and the men of Israel were beaten before the servants of David.

18Now the three sons of Zeruiah were there: Joab and Abishai and Asahel. And Asahel was as fleet of foot as a wild gazelle. 19So Asahel pursued Abner, and in going he did not turn to the right hand or to the left from following Abner.

20Then Abner looked behind him and said, "Are you Asahel?"

He answered, "I am."

21And Abner said to him, "Turn aside to your right hand or to your left, and lay hold on one of the young men and take his armor for yourself." But Asahel would not turn aside from following him. 22So Abner said again to Asahel, "Turn aside from following me. Why should I strike you to the ground? How then could I face your brother Joab?" 23However, he refused to turn aside. Therefore Abner struck him in the stomach with the blunt end of the spear, so that the spear came out of his back; and he fell down there and died on the spot. So it was that as many as came to the place where Asahel fell down and died, stood still.

24Joab and Abishai also pursued Abner. And the sun was going down when they came to the hill of Ammah, which is before Giah by the road to the Wilderness of Gibeon. 25Now the children of Benjamin gathered together behind Abner and became a unit, and took their stand on top of a hill. 26Then Abner called to Joab and said, "Shall the sword devour forever? Do you not know that it will be bitter in the latter end? How long will it be then until you tell the people to return from pursuing their brethren?"

27And Joab said, "As God lives, unless you had spoken, surely then by morning all the people would have given up pursuing their brethren." 28So Joab blew a trumpet; and all the people stood still and did not pursue Israel anymore, nor did they fight anymore. 29Then Abner and his men went on all that night through the plain, crossed over the Jordan, and went through all Bithron; and they came to Mahanaim.

30So Joab returned from pursuing Abner. And when he had gathered all the people together, there were missing of David's servants nineteen men and Asahel. 31But the servants of David had struck down, of Benjamin and Abner's men, three hundred and sixty men who died. 32Then they took up Asahel and buried him in his father's tomb, which was in Bethlehem. And Joab and his men went all night, and they came to Hebron at daybreak.

3 Now there was a long war between the house of Saul and the house of David. But David grew stronger and stronger, and the house of Saul grew weaker and weaker.

Sons of David

2Sons were born to David in Hebron: His firstborn was Amnon by Ahinoam the Jezreelitess; 3his second, Chileab, by Abigail the widow of Nabal the Carmelite; the third, Absalom the son of

2:16 [a]Hebrew Helkath Hazzurim

2:13 The pool of Gibeon has been discovered by archaeologists. It is an impressive pit, approximately 36 feet in diameter and 30 feet deep, dug into solid rock and used in connection with the local wine-making industry.

2:14 In the battle by the pool of Gibeon, 24 young men had been selected by Joab and Abner to fight in representative combat, according to the rules of that day. The hope was that one side would come out ahead so that further hatred and bloodshed would be avoided. However, the opponents were so well matched that they killed each other, and a fierce general battle ensued.

2:23 Abner wanted to avoid a blood feud with Joab, and he did not necessarily intend to kill Asahel with this blow. Perhaps he only tried to stop the young man from pursuing him. However, the butt of the spear was sharp and hit him in the stomach with such force that he was not only wounded but killed instantly.

3:2–5 Polygamy was widely practiced by the nations surrounding Israel. Although the Law warned against multiple wives, the custom was tolerated in OT times (Deut. 17:17; see also 1 Tim. 3, Polygamy). Some of David's marriages amounted to a political alliance, as with Maacah, princess of Maacah, the daughter of Talmai, king of Geshur; 4the fourth, Adonijah the son of Haggith; the fifth, Shephatiah the son of Abital; 5and the sixth, Ithream, by David's wife Eglah. These were born to David in Hebron.

Abner Joins Forces with David

6Now it was so, while there was war between the house of Saul and the house of David, that Abner was strengthening his hold on the house of Saul.

7And Saul had a concubine, whose name was Rizpah, the daughter of Aiah. So Ishbosheth said to Abner, "Why have you gone in to my father's concubine?"

8Then Abner became very angry at the words of Ishbosheth, and said, "Am I a dog's head that belongs to Judah? Today I show loyalty to the house of Saul your father, to his brothers, and to his friends, and have not delivered you into the hand of David; and you charge me today with a fault concerning this woman? 9May God do so to Abner, and more also, if I do not do for David as the LORD has sworn to him— 10to transfer the kingdom from the house of Saul, and set up the throne of David over Israel and over Judah, from Dan to Beersheba." 11And he could not answer Abner another word, because he feared him.

12Then Abner sent messengers on his behalf to David, saying, "Whose is the land?" saying also,
"Make your covenant with me, and indeed my hand shall be with you to bring all Israel to you."

13And David said, "Good, I will make a covenant with you. But one thing I require of you: you shall not see my face unless you first bring Michal, Saul's daughter, when you come to see my face."
14So David sent messengers to Ishbosheth, Saul's son, saying, "Give me my wife Michal, whom I betrothed to myself for a hundred foreskins of the Philistines." 15And Ishbosheth sent and took her from her husband, from Paltiel[a] the son of Laish.
16Then her husband went along with her to
