many of my father's hired servants have bread enough and to spare, and I perish with hunger! 18I will arise and go to my father, and will say to him, "Father, I have sinned against heaven and before you, 19and I am no longer worthy to be called your son. Make me like one of your hired servants." '

20"And he arose and came to his father. But when he was still a great way off, his father saw him and had compassion, and ran and fell on his neck and kissed him. 21And the son said to him, 'Father, I have sinned against heaven and in your sight, and am no longer worthy to be called your son.'

22"But the father said to his servants, 'Bring[a] out the best robe and put it on him, and put a ring on his hand and sandals on his feet. 23And bring the fatted calf here and kill it, and let us eat and be merry; 24for this my son was dead and is alive again; he was lost and is found.' And they began to be merry.

25"Now his older son was in the field. And as he came and drew near to the house, he heard music and dancing. 26So he called one of the servants and asked what these things meant. 27And he said to him, 'Your brother has come, and because he has received him safe and sound, your father has killed the fatted calf.'

28"But he was angry and would not go in. Therefore his father came out and pleaded with him. 29So he answered and said to his father, 'Lo, these many years I have been serving you; I never transgressed your commandment at any time; and yet you never gave me a young goat, that I might make merry with my friends. 30But as soon as this son of yours came, who has devoured your livelihood with harlots, you killed the fatted calf for him.'

31"And he said to him, 'Son, you are always with me, and all that I have is yours. 32It was right that we should make merry and be glad, for your brother was dead and is alive again, and was lost and is found.' "

16 He also said to His disciples: "There was a certain rich man who had a steward, and an accusation was brought to him that this man was wasting his goods. 2So he called him and said to him, 'What is this I hear about you? Give an account of your stewardship, for you can no longer be steward.'

3"Then the steward said within himself, 'What shall I do? For my master is taking the stewardship away from me. I cannot dig; I am ashamed to beg. 4I have resolved what to do, that when I am put out of the stewardship, they may receive me into their houses.'

5"So he called every one of his master's debtors to him, and said to the first, 'How much do you owe my master?' 6And he said, 'A hundred measures[a] of oil.' So he said to him, 'Take your bill, and sit down quickly and write fifty.' 7Then he said to another, 'And how much do you owe?' So he said, 'A hundred measures[a] of wheat.' And he said to him, 'Take your bill, and write eighty.' 8So the master commended the unjust steward because he had dealt shrewdly. For the sons of this world are more shrewd in their generation than the sons of light.

CHILDREN PARENTING ADULT CHILDREN

In the parable of the prodigal, Jesus provided a pattern for a healthy relationship between adult children and their parents (Luke 15:11–32):

- The father acknowledged the independence of both sons—even against his better judgment in the case of the younger (vv. 12, 31).
- Rather than demanding childlike obedience from the elder son, who protested the generous welcome extended to his wayward brother, the father reasoned with him as one adult to another (vv. 31, 32).
- The father allowed both sons to make their own decisions and bear the consequences of their actions.
- The father extended to each son unconditional, forgiving love (vv. 21–24, 31).

While even Jesus felt compelled to assert His adult independence (Matt. 12:46–50), adulthood does not preclude loving interdependence between children and parents. Noah's adult sons benefited from his protection (Gen. 6:18–22). Judah attempted to spare his elderly father Jacob from heartbreak (Gen. 44:19–34). While enduring the Cross, Jesus made provision for the care of His mother (John 19:26, 27).

The loving bond between parent and child is not to be broken by aging, inevitable transfer of residence, and subsequent realignment of loyalties. Rather it remains as an enduring commitment between parent and offspring from birth to death to be available to each other and responsive to each other's needs (Prov. 4:3–6, 10–13).

they may receive you into an everlasting home.

least is unjust also in much. 11 Therefore if you have not been faithful in the unrighteous mamriches? 12 And if you have not been faithful in what is another man's, who will give you what is your own?

he will hate the one and love the other, or else he will be loyal to the one and despise the other. You cannot serve God and mammon."

The Law, the Prophets, and the Kingdom

14 Now the Pharisees, who were lovers of money, also heard all these things, and they derided Him.
15 And He said to them, "You are those who justify yourselves before men, but God knows your hearts. For what is highly esteemed among men is an abomination in the sight of God.

The Rich Man and Lazarus

tuously every day. 20 But there was a certain beggar

16:13 Mammon represented money, riches, or worldly possessions. Jesus used the illustration to depict a divided heart, one devoted to both money and God. Jesus' point is that service to Mammon prohibits giving wholehearted devotion to God (Luke 9:23–26).

16:18 Jesus emphasized that marriage is a lifelong commitment. Mosaic Law required a "certificate of divorce" when a man wanted to divorce his wife (Deut. 24:1). Some teachers held that a man could divorce his wife for any reason, no matter how trivial. Only in rare cases could a wife divorce her husband. But God hates divorce (Mal. 2:16). Jesus taught that divorce was a provision made simply because of the hardness of the human heart. God's original intention, however, was that a husband and wife remain in permanent union (Gen. 2:24, note; Matt. 19, Divorce; Mark 10:8).

16:19 To be clothed in purple indicated great wealth. Purple was an expensive dye made from mollusks found in the Mediterranean Sea (see chart, Colors in the Bible). Lydia, a believer from Thyatira, was a seller of purple cloth (Acts 16:14). Purple was worn by royalty and represented luxury. The "fine linen" probably refers to expensive Egyptian linen undergarments.

16:21 Food was eaten with the hands, not utensils, in Jesus' time. In order to clean their hands during the meal, the

STEWARDSHIP ACCOUNTABLE TO GOD

Accountability is an integral part of daily living. It is the requirement of the giver and the responsibility of the recipient (1 Cor. 4:2). The employed are accountable to the employer, the married to spouse and family, the citizen to society, and all of us to God (Rom. 14:12).

Jesus tells the parable about a rich man whose steward was accused of wasting his master's goods (Luke 16:1, 2). The steward was summoned and told, "Give an account of your stewardship." While this steward was able to act quickly and wisely to set things in order (vv. 3–9), Jesus used this story to make an important point: "He who is faithful in what is least is faithful also in much; and he who is unjust in what is least is unjust also in much" (v. 10).

God is Creator and Owner of all things (Deut. 10:14; Ps. 24:1, 2). All that is possessed comes as a gift from His hand (Acts 17:25). Our master Jesus Christ will ultimately require an accounting of each person's stewardship (2 Cor. 5:10).

Christian stewards can be prepared for that day of accountability by taking seriously their stewardship responsibilities. Whether the managed resource is time, talent, or money, the steward should endeavor to avoid waste, maximize return, and, above all, assure that the investment is pleasing to God.

Time should be used wisely; talents should be shared to edify others and glorify God; money should be spent carefully and given responsibly. Our drive to execute these requirements faithfully comes from having an acute awareness of our personal accountability to God (1 Pet. 4:10).

came and licked his sores. 22So it was that the beggar died, and was carried by the angels to Abraham's bosom. The rich man also died and was buried. 23And being in torments in Hades, he lifted up his eyes and saw Abraham afar off, and Lazarus in his bosom.

24"Then he cried and said, 'Father Abraham, have mercy on me, and send Lazarus that he may dip the tip of his finger in water and cool my tongue; for I am tormented in this flame.' 25But Abraham said, 'Son, remember that in your lifetime you received your good things, and likewise Lazarus evil things; but now he is comforted and you are tormented. 26And besides all this, between us and you there is a great gulf fixed, so that those who want to pass from here to you cannot, nor can those from there pass to us.'

27"Then he said, 'I beg you therefore, father, that you would send him to my father's house, 28for I have five brothers, that he may testify to them, lest they also come to this place of torment.' 29Abraham said to him, 'They have Moses and the prophets; let them hear them.' 30And he said, 'No, father Abraham; but if one goes to them from the dead, they will repent.' 31But he said to him, 'If they do not hear Moses and the prophets, neither will they be persuaded though one rise from the dead.'"

Jesus Warns of Offenses

17 Then He said to the disciples, "It is impossible that no offenses should come, but woe to him through whom they do come! 2It would be better for him if a millstone were hung around his neck, and he were thrown into the sea, than that he should offend one of these little ones. 3Take heed to yourselves. If your brother sins against you,[a] rebuke him; and if he repents, forgive him. 4And if he sins against you seven times in a day, and seven times in a day returns to you,[a] saying, 'I repent,' you shall forgive him."

wealthy used chunks of bread. The bread was then dropped on the floor, here described as "crumbs which fell." The beggar waited for the bread to fall so that he could eat.

16:22 Lazarus, the beggar, was God's faithful servant. When he died, he was not buried. When unknown or unclaimed beggars died, their bodies were not buried but thrown into the burning garbage heap ("Gehenna") outside the city. Lazarus is portrayed in the afterlife as leaning his head on Abraham's bosom (perhaps reclining against Abraham's chest at a great feast table), indicating close fellowship. Luke identified the poor man by name (Lazarus), but he left the rich man unnamed.

16:26 The rich man's fate was irreversible and eternal. The chasm or "great gulf fixed" was unbridgeable. The rich man was kept in misery in Hades, and Lazarus could not cross over the chasm to help him. Upon death, the respective destinies of the rich man and the poor man had been sealed for eternity.

17:2 Millstones were circular stones used for grinding grain. Some were small enough for women to use; others were so large that they required an animal's strength to operate. "Little ones" may refer to young believers or (possibly) believers of any age.

17:3, 4 Jesus spoke here of one believer sinning against another believer. If the one who committed the wrong repented, the believer wronged was obligated to forgive him and not

Faith and Duty

5And the apostles said to the Lord, "Increase our faith."

6So the Lord said, "If you have faith as a mustard seed, you can say to this mulberry tree, 'Be pulled up by the roots and be planted in the sea,' and it would obey you. 7And which of you, having a servant plowing or tending sheep, will say to him when he has come in from the field, 'Come at once and sit down to eat'? 8But will he not rather say to him, 'Prepare something for my supper, and gird yourself and serve me till I have eaten and drunk, and afterward you will eat and drink'? 9Does he thank that servant because he did the things that were commanded him? I think not.[a] 10So likewise you, when you have done all those things which you are commanded, say, 'We are unprofitable servants. We have done what was our duty to do.' "

Ten Lepers Cleansed

11Now it happened as He went to Jerusalem that He passed through the midst of Samaria and Galilee. 12Then as He entered a certain village, there met Him ten men who were lepers, who stood afar off. 13And they lifted up their voices and said, "Jesus, Master, have mercy on us!"

14So when He saw them, He said to them, "Go, show yourselves to the priests." And so it was that as they went, they were cleansed.

15And one of them, when he saw that he was healed, returned, and with a loud voice glorified God, 16and fell down on his face at His feet, giving Him thanks. And he was a Samaritan.

17So Jesus answered and said, "Were there not ten cleansed? But where are the nine? 18Were there not any found who returned to give glory to God except this foreigner?" 19And He said to him, "Arise, go your way. Your faith has made you well."

The Coming of the Kingdom

20Now when He was asked by the Pharisees when the kingdom of God would come, He answered them and said, "The kingdom of God does not come with observation; 21nor will they say, 'See here!' or 'See there!'[a] For indeed, the kingdom of God is within you."

22Then He said to the disciples, "The days will come when you will desire to see one of the days of the Son of Man, and you will not see it. 23And they will say to you, 'Look here!' or 'Look there!'[a] Do not go after them or follow them. 24For as the lightning that flashes out of one part under heaven shines to the other part under heaven, so also the Son of Man will be in His day. 25But first He must suffer many things and be rejected by this generation. 26And as it was in the days of Noah, so it will be also in the days of the Son of Man: 27They ate, they drank, they married wives, they were given in marriage, until the day that Noah entered the ark, and the flood came and destroyed them all. 28Likewise as it was also in the days of Lot: They ate, they drank, they bought, they sold, they planted, they built; 29but on the day that Lot went out of Sodom it rained fire and brimstone from heaven and destroyed them all. 30Even so will it be in the day when the Son of Man is revealed.

31"In that day, he who is on the housetop, and his goods are in the house, let him not come down to take them away. And likewise the one who is in the field, let him not turn back. 32Remember Lot's wife. 33Whoever seeks to save his life will lose it, and whoever loses his life will preserve it. 34I tell you, in that night there will be two men in one bed: the one will be taken and the other will be left. 35Two women will be grinding together: the one will be taken and the other left. 36Two men will be in the field: the one will be taken and the other left."[a] bear a grudge. The number of times he was to forgive his brother was unlimited.

17:11 Samaria, in the first century A.D., was the region of Palestine between Galilee in the north and Judea in the south. Its inhabitants included Jews who, over the centuries, had intermarried with Gentiles. They had also brought in foreign gods to worship. The result was considerable hatred and prejudice between the Jews and Samaritans. When a Jew traveled between Galilee and Judea, he typically went a greater distance and crossed into Perea on the east bank of the Jordan to avoid going through Samaria. Jesus, however, felt no animosity toward the Samaritans (see John 4:4–6, note).

17:14–19 Mosaic Law gave the priests the responsibility of declaring a leper's healing valid (see Matt. 8:2, 3, note). The person would then be allowed to reenter society. Only one of the ten, a Samaritan, returned to thank Jesus, (see Ps. 95, Gratitude). Jesus was, no doubt, grieved over the ingratitude of the other nine.

17:28, 29 Lot was the nephew of Abraham and the son of Haran. When Abraham traveled to Canaan, Lot and his household went with him. Lot chose to settle in the fertile Jordan valley, and he eventually moved into Sodom. Even though the people of Sodom and Gomorrah were intensely evil, Jesus placed the emphasis on their lack of preparation for God's coming judgment.

17:34–36 Jesus used this picture to describe the separation that will happen at His return. "Night" emphasizes the unexpectedness of His coming. Believers will be taken; non believers will be left to face the judgment. Although He did not explain the meaning of "taken," the emphasis is that the believers will be taken to Himself, escaping judgment.

17:37 When the disciples asked Jesus "where" His return would take place, Jesus answered with a word picture. "Body" represented a dead body, and an eagle (vulture) was a bird of prey. Since vultures would feed upon dead bodies, they would know where the carcasses lay. Jesus' point is that much as a

THE PERSISTENT WIDOW

Jesus was discussing the coming of God's Kingdom on earth (Luke 17:20–37), declaring that His return would be sudden and without warning. In the meantime, He encouraged His disciples to continue praying persistently for God's justice to be manifested so that the wrongs of this present evil age would be righted with triumph for His people (Luke 18:1, 7, 8).

To make His point, Jesus gave the example of a widow (vv. 18:2–5). Widows were often among the most vulnerable people in Jewish society, and apparently this one had no other family member to help plead her case. The wicked, arrogant, unjust judge was probably a Gentile official. He despised the woman and her cause and clearly considered her a nuisance. Nevertheless, he finally granted her request, not because he cared about her or her just cause but because she disturbed him with her persistent pleas.

The parable's central teaching is not that believers need to badger a reluctant God to meet their needs. After all, God and the unjust judge are opposites! Rather, if even an unjust judge will occasionally give justice, how much more will the righteous, loving Judge of all the earth hear the persistent cries of His distressed people. When the proper time comes, He will suddenly and speedily avenge them. Thus, women and men should remain steadfast and persistent in prayer as they await His Coming.

See also Lam. 3:22, note; Matt. 7:7–12; notes on Widowhood (Ps. 68; Jer. 29; 1 Cor. 2)

So He said to them, "Wherever the body is, there the eagles will be gathered together."

The Parable of the Persistent Widow

18 Then He spoke a parable to them, that men always ought to pray and not lose heart,
2 saying: "There was in a certain city a judge who did not fear God nor regard man. 3 Now there was a widow in that city; and she came to him, saying, 'Get justice for me from my adversary.' 4 And he would not for a while; but afterward he said within himself, 'Though I do not fear God nor regard man, 5 yet because this widow troubles me I will avenge her, lest by her continual coming she weary me.' "

6 Then the Lord said, "Hear what the unjust judge said. 7 And shall God not avenge His own elect who cry out day and night to Him, though He bears long with them? 8 I tell you that He will avenge them speedily. Nevertheless, when the Son of Man comes, will He really find faith on the earth?"

The Parable of the Pharisee and the Tax Collector

9 Also He spoke this parable to some who trusted in themselves that they were righteous, and despised others: 10 "Two men went up to the temple to pray, one a Pharisee and the other a tax collector. 11 The Pharisee stood and prayed thus with himself, 'God, I thank You that I am not like other men— extortioners, unjust, adulterers, or even as this tax collector. 12 I fast twice a week; I give tithes of all that I possess.' 13 And the tax collector, standing afar off, would not so much as raise his eyes to heaven, but beat his breast, saying, 'God, be merciful to me a sinner!' 14 I tell you, this man went down to his house justified rather than the other; for everyone who exalts himself will be humbled, and he who humbles himself will be exalted."

Jesus Blesses Little Children

15 Then they also brought infants to Him that He might touch them; but when the disciples saw it, they rebuked them. 16 But Jesus called them to Him and said, "Let the little children come to Me, and do not forbid them; for of such is the kingdom of God. 17 Assuredly, I say to you, whoever does not receive the kingdom of God as a little child will by no means enter it."

Jesus Counsels the Rich Young Ruler

18 Now a certain ruler asked Him, saying, "Good Teacher, what shall I do to inherit eternal life?"

19 So Jesus said to him, "Why do you call Me dead body would draw vultures, so unrepentant people would draw God's judgment.

18:2, 3 This dishonest judge represented corrupted power, for he neither feared God nor sought justice for the people. The widow represented complete helplessness, for she had no money to bribe him and no one powerful enough to intervene on her behalf (see The Persistent Widow).

18:10–14 Both public and private prayers were allowed in the temple. Pharisees often stood and prayed publicly in order to be heard by others. The tax collector, on the other hand, ashamed of his sinfulness, humbly bowed his head, beat his breast (a sign of grief), and prayed for God's mercy. That God heard the prayer of the tax collector and not of the Pharisee surprised Jesus' listeners (see chart, Lessons from the Model Prayer).

18:18–23 The rich ruler was most likely a member of the Sanhedrin or a synagogue ruler. He sought to flatter Jesus (v. 18) since this title of distinction was not commonly used among the rabbis. Jesus listed only those commandments that dealt with one's relationship with a neighbor (see Deut. 5:16–20).

21And he said, "All these things I have kept from my youth."

22So when Jesus heard these things, He said to him, "You still lack one thing. Sell all that you have and distribute to the poor, and you will have treasure in heaven; and come, follow Me."

23But when he heard this, he became very sorrowful, for he was very rich.

With God All Things Are Possible

24And when Jesus saw that he became very sorrowful, He said, "How hard it is for those who have riches to enter the kingdom of God! 25For it is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for a rich man to enter the kingdom of God."

26And those who heard it said, "Who then can be saved?"

27But He said, "The things which are impossible with men are possible with God."

28Then Peter said, "See, we have left all[a] and followed You."

29So He said to them, "Assuredly, I say to you, there is no one who has left house or parents or brothers or wife or children, for the sake of the kingdom of God, 30who shall not receive many times more in this present time, and in the age to come eternal life."

18:20 [a]Exodus 20:12–16; Deuteronomy 5:16–20 18:28 [a]NU-Text reads our own.

18:24, 25 Those rich in material possessions could be tempted to depend on earthly wealth rather than on God. The intellectually blessed could be tempted to depend on self-effort rather than on God. Jesus used a well-known figure of speech about a camel going through the eye of a needle to emphasize the difficulty rich people have in turning from their riches to find salvation (see Matt. 6:24, note).

FORGIVENESS EXTENDING MERCY TO OTHERS

When someone comes seeking your forgiveness, you have an obligation to grant forgiveness and extend mercy—even if the person has sinned against you repeatedly and regardless of how severe the sin may have been (Matt. 18:21, 22; Luke 17:4; Eph. 4:32; Col 3:12, 13). Your forgiveness of others is a prerequisite for your receiving God's forgiveness (Matt. 6:14, 15; Luke 11:4; James 2:13).

God does indeed forgive us (Ps. 32:1–5; 103:12; 130:3, 4; Is. 43:25; Jer. 31:34; Eph. 1:7; Col. 1:14; 2:13). We forgive others, if we do not want to disobey God and break our fellowship with Him (Matt. 6:14, 15; Mark 11:25, 26; Luke 17:3, 4). No less important is the willingness for one who blames God for wrongs experienced to remember that the Lord does not direct evil against us, though He may choose to allow us to go through a trial resulting from our own sinful choices or from the sinfulness of the world in which we live (Gen. 50:20; Deut. 32:4; Rom. 8:28, 38, 39). Finally, we must be willing to forgive ourselves since we are finite beings and since our failures often open the door for His glory and provide the environment for our own growth (Phil. 3:12–14).

Love is the prime ingredient in forgiveness (Prov. 10:12). Often the one wounded must forgive with an act of the will, giving time for working through feelings and experiencing healing. Forgiveness comes with the removal of past offenses from the mind (Phil. 3:13), followed by meditation upon Scripture (Ps. 119:157–160), giving over to God our hurts (1 Pet. 2:21–23), praying for the offender (1 Sam. 12:23; Matt. 5:44), and serving as a willing channel for God's grace. God has promised that He will take care of all judgment so that revenge is not an option (Rom. 12:19–21).

Meaningful forgiveness demands thought and planning. Forgiveness is the willingness to search for new solutions. Forgiveness insists on a new way—neither yours nor theirs but one mutually acceptable. You must use words that do not cast blame or create questions (Prov. 15:23). You must be concerned with seeking forgiveness only for your wrong (Ps. 51:1–4). You must remember that a forgiving attitude does not excuse self (Gen. 3:12), defend self (Gen. 3:10), or accuse another (Gen. 3:13).

Seeking forgiveness frees you to receive God's mercy (Prov. 28:13). Showing mercy by a forgiving spirit brings blessing from God and gratitude from the one forgiven. A forgiving spirit brings good to yourself (Prov. 11:17) and to others (15:23).

Jesus a Third Time Predicts His Death and Resurrection

31 Then He took the twelve aside and said to them, "Behold, we are going up to Jerusalem, and all things that are written by the prophets concerning the Son of Man will be accomplished.
32 For He will be delivered to the Gentiles and will be mocked and insulted and spit upon. 33 They will scourge Him and kill Him. And the third day He will rise again."
34 But they understood none of these things;
this saying was hidden from them, and they did not know the things which were spoken.

A Blind Man Receives His Sight

35 Then it happened, as He was coming near Jericho, that a certain blind man sat by the road begging. 36 And hearing a multitude passing by, he asked what it meant. 37 So they told him that Jesus of Nazareth was passing by. 38 And he cried out, saying, "Jesus, Son of David, have mercy on me!"
39 Then those who went before warned him that he should be quiet; but he cried out all the more, "Son of David, have mercy on me!" 40 So Jesus stood still and commanded him to be brought to Him. And when he had come near, He asked him, 41 saying, "What do you want Me to do for you?"
He said, "Lord, that I may receive my sight." 42 Then Jesus said to him, "Receive your sight; your faith has made you well." 43 And immediately he received his sight, and followed Him, glorifying God. And all the people, when they saw it, gave praise to God.

Jesus Comes to Zacchaeus' House

19 Then Jesus entered and passed through Jericho. 2 Now behold, there was a man named Zacchaeus who was a chief tax collector, and he was rich. 3 And he sought to see who Jesus was, but could not because of the crowd, for he was of short stature. 4 So he ran ahead and climbed up into a sycamore tree to see Him, for He was going to pass that way. 5 And when Jesus came to the place, He looked up and saw him,[a] and said to him,
"Zacchaeus, make haste and come down, for today I must stay at your house." 6 So he made haste and came down, and received Him joyfully. 7 But when they saw it, they all complained, saying, "He has gone to be a guest with a man who is a sinner."

19:5 [a]NU-Text omits and saw him.

8Then Zacchaeus stood and said to the Lord,
"Look, Lord, I give half of my goods to the poor; and if I have taken anything from anyone by false accusation, I restore fourfold." 9And Jesus said to him, "Today salvation has come to this house, because he also is a son of Abraham; 10for the Son of Man has come to seek and to save that which was lost."

The Parable of the Minas

11Now as they heard these things, He spoke another parable, because He was near Jerusalem and because they thought the kingdom of God would appear immediately. 12Therefore He said: "A certain nobleman went into a far country to receive for himself a kingdom and to return. 13So he called ten of his servants, delivered to them ten minas,[a] and said to them, 'Do business till I come.'
14But his citizens hated him, and sent a delegation after him, saying, 'We will not have this man to reign over us.'
15"And so it was that when he returned, having received the kingdom, he then commanded these servants, to whom he had given the money, to be called to him, that he might know how much every man had gained by trading. 16Then came the first, saying, 'Master, your mina has earned ten minas.' 17And he said to him, 'Well done, good servant; because you were faithful in a very little, have authority over ten cities.' 18And the second came, saying, 'Master, your mina has earned five minas.' 19Likewise he said to him, 'You also be over five cities.'
20"Then another came, saying, 'Master, here is your mina, which I have kept put away in a handkerchief. 21For I feared you, because you are an austere man. You collect what you did not deposit, and reap what you did not sow.' 22And he said to him, 'Out of your own mouth I will judge you, you wicked servant. You knew that I was an austere man, collecting what I did not deposit and reaping what I did not sow. 23Why then did you not put my money in the bank, that at my coming I might have collected it with interest?' 24"And he said to those who stood by, 'Take the mina from him, and give it to him who has ten minas.' 25(But they said to him, 'Master, he has ten minas.') 26'For I say to you, that to everyone who has will be given; and from him who does not have, even what he has will be taken away from him. 27But bring here those enemies of mine, who did not want me to reign over them, and slay them before me.' "

The Triumphal Entry

28When He had said this, He went on ahead, going up to Jerusalem. 29And it came to pass, when He drew near to Bethphage[a] and Bethany, at the mountain called Olivet, that He sent two of His disciples, 30saying, "Go into the village opposite you, where as you enter you will find a colt tied, on which no one has ever sat. Loose it and bring it here. 31And if anyone asks you, 'Why are you loosing it?' thus you shall say to him, 'Because the Lord has need of it.' " 32So those who were sent went their way and found it just as He had said to them. 33But as they were loosing the colt, the owners of it said to them, "Why are you loosing the colt?"
34And they said, "The Lord has need of him."
35Then they brought him to Jesus. And they threw their own clothes on the colt, and they set Jesus on him. 36And as He went, many spread their clothes on the road.
37Then, as He was now drawing near the descent of the Mount of Olives, the whole multitude of the disciples began to rejoice and praise God with a loud voice for all the mighty works they had seen, 38saying:

> " 'Blessed is the King who comes in the name of the > LORD!'[a] > Peace in heaven and glory in the highest!"

39And some of the Pharisees called to Him from the crowd, "Teacher, rebuke Your disciples." 40But He answered and said to them, "I tell you that if these should keep silent, the stones would immediately cry out."

Jesus Weeps over Jerusalem

41Now as He drew near, He saw the city and wept over it, 42saying, "If you had known, even you,

19:13 [a]The mina (Greek mna, Hebrew minah) was worth about three months' salary. 19:29 [a]M-Text reads Bethsphage. 19:38 [a]Psalm 118:26

19:20, 21 The mina was worth about 100 drachmas, or three months' wages (Matt. 25:14–30, note; see chart, Money and Measurements in the Bible).

19:29 Bethphage was near Bethany, although the exact location is unknown. The village of Bethany, a suburb of Jerusalem, was two or three miles from Jerusalem near the Mount of Olives on Jerusalem's east side. To enter Jerusalem, Jesus had to go down the Mount of Olives, through the Kidron valley (a deep ravine), and through the Eastern Gate (later called the "Golden Gate").

19:30–36 The village opposite probably referred to Bethphage. The loan of the colt was seemingly prearranged with the phrase "because the Lord has need of it" as a password (v. 31). The donkey symbolized that Jesus came in peace. The colt had never been ridden; thus it could be used for a sacred purpose (see Zech. 9:9). The disciples' clothes made a saddle for Jesus (Luke 20:35). "Spreading their clothes on the road" was an act of honor and made a triumphal carpet (v. 36).

FINANCIAL PLANNING — WISE MONEY MANAGEMENT

Good financial planning is a part of wise stewardship. To be a truly effective steward, you must believe unequivocally that the money being managed is someone else's money—God's money. Having this perspective gives a person the freedom to use finances as a tool to accomplish God's purposes, recognizing that no one comes into this world with any possessions, and no one will leave with anything (Eccl. 5:15).

God has entrusted each person with certain resources. Money is something that God uses to test your ability to handle properly the other gifts He desires to give you (Luke 16:11). One day He will ask for an accounting of how you managed the resources He has given you (Luke 19:11–26). A wife who manages resources wisely is a blessing to her husband and family (Prov. 31:28).

You are wise to remember:

- The earth and all its fullness is the Lord's (Ps. 24:1). Every resource, even money, is His, and you are simply stewards of His resources.
- Avoid an overly consumptive lifestyle. The Bible teaches moderation in all things (1 Cor. 9:25).
- Avoid debt (Prov. 22:7; Rom. 13:8).
- Maintain a savings program. (Prov. 12:11).
- Set long-term goals (Prov. 13:22).

especially in this your day, the things that make for your peace! But now they are hidden from your eyes. 43For days will come upon you when your enemies will build an embankment around you, surround you and close you in on every side, 44and level you, and your children within you, to the ground; and they will not leave in you one stone upon another, because you did not know the time of your visitation."

Jesus Cleanses the Temple

45Then He went into the temple and began to drive out those who bought and sold in it,[a] 46saying to them, "It is written, 'My house is[a] a house of prayer,'[b] but you have made it a 'den of thieves.'"[c]

47And He was teaching daily in the temple. But the chief priests, the scribes, and the leaders of the people sought to destroy Him, 48and were unable to do anything; for all the people were very attentive to hear Him.

Jesus' Authority Questioned

20 Now it happened on one of those days, as He taught the people in the temple and preached the gospel, that the chief priests and the scribes, together with the elders, confronted Him 2and spoke to Him, saying, "Tell us, by what authority are You doing these things? Or who is he who gave You this authority?"

3But He answered and said to them, "I also will ask you one thing, and answer Me: 4The baptism of John— was it from heaven or from men?"

5And they reasoned among themselves, saying, "If we say, 'From heaven,' He will say, 'Why then[a] did you not believe him?' 6But if we say, 'From men,' all the people will stone us, for they are persuaded that John was a prophet." 7So they answered that they did not know where it was from.

8And Jesus said to them, "Neither will I tell you by what authority I do these things."

The Parable of the Wicked Vinedressers

9Then He began to tell the people this parable: "A certain man planted a vineyard, leased it to vinedressers, and went into a far country for a long time. 10Now at vintage-time he sent a servant to the vinedressers, that they might give him some of the fruit of the vineyard. But the vinedressers beat him and sent him away empty-handed. 11Again he sent another servant; and they beat him also, treated him shamefully, and sent him away empty-handed. 12And again he sent a third; and they wounded him also and cast him out.

13"Then the owner of the vineyard said, 'What

19:45 [a]NU-Text reads those who were selling. 19:46 [a]NU-Text reads shall be. [b]Isaiah 56:7 [c]Jeremiah 7:11 20:5 [a]NU-Text and M-Text omit then.

19:45, 46 Every Jewish man coming to Jerusalem for the Passover feast had to pay a temple tax equivalent to two days of a laborer's wage (see chart, Money and Measurements in the Bible). Many types of currencies were circulating, and, since only special temple coins were acceptable, money changers could charge a fee for the necessary exchange. Money changers could make handsome profits at the expense of the people. A temple visit usually involved a sacrifice. If a man brought his own animal, the temple authorities would inspect it for perfection. To make sure an animal passed inspection, many people bought their animal sacrifices at booths set up in the temple. However, these animal sellers often charged outrageous prices, thus making a high profit for themselves. Jesus forcefully drove out those who exploited the worshipers.

shall I do? I will send my beloved son. Probably they will respect him when they see him.' 14But when the vinedressers saw him, they reasoned among themselves, saying, 'This is the heir. Come, let us kill him, that the inheritance may be ours.' 15So they cast him out of the vineyard and killed him. Therefore what will the owner of the vineyard do to them? 16He will come and destroy those vinedressers and give the vineyard to others."

And when they heard it they said, "Certainly not!"

17Then He looked at them and said, "What then is this that is written:

'The stone which the builders rejected
Has become the chief cornerstone'?[a]

18Whoever falls on that stone will be broken; but on whomever it falls, it will grind him to powder."

19And the chief priests and the scribes that very hour sought to lay hands on Him, but they feared the people[a]—for they knew He had spoken this parable against them.

The Pharisees: Is It Lawful to Pay Taxes to Caesar?

20So they watched Him, and sent spies who pretended to be righteous, that they might seize on His words, in order to deliver Him to the power and the authority of the governor.

21Then they asked Him, saying, "Teacher, we know that You say and teach rightly, and You do not show personal favoritism, but teach the way of God in truth: 22Is it lawful for us to pay taxes to Caesar or not?"

23But He perceived their craftiness, and said to them, "Why do you test Me?[a] 24Show Me a denarius. Whose image and inscription does it have?"

They answered and said, "Caesar's."

25And He said to them, "Render therefore to Caesar the things that are Caesar's, and to God the things that are God's."

26But they could not catch Him in His words in the presence of the people. And they marveled at His answer and kept silent.

The Sadducees: What About the Resurrection?

27Then some of the Sadducees, who deny that there is a resurrection, came to Him and asked Him, 28saying: "Teacher, Moses wrote to us that if a man's brother dies, having a wife, and he dies without children, his brother should take his wife and raise up offspring for his brother. 29Now there were seven brothers. And the first took a wife, and died without children. 30And the second[a] took her as wife, and he died childless. 31Then the third took her, and in like manner the seven also; and they left no children,[a] and died. 32Last of all the woman died also. 33Therefore, in the resurrection, whose wife does she become? For all seven had her as wife."

34Jesus answered and said to them, "The sons of this age marry and are given in marriage. 35But those who are counted worthy to attain that age, and the resurrection from the dead, neither marry nor are given in marriage; 36nor can they die anymore, for they are equal to the angels and are sons of God, being sons of the resurrection. 37But even Moses showed in the burning bush passage that the dead are raised, when he called the Lord 'the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob.'[a] 38For He is not the God of the dead but of the living, for all live to Him."

39Then some of the scribes answered and said, "Teacher, You have spoken well." 40But after that they dared not question Him anymore.

Jesus: How Can David Call His Descendant Lord?

41And He said to them, "How can they say that the Christ is the Son of David? 42Now David himself said in the Book of Psalms:

'The Lord said to my Lord,
"Sit at My right hand,
43*Till I make Your enemies Your footstool."'*[a]

44Therefore David calls Him 'Lord'; how is He then his Son?"

Beware of the Scribes

45Then, in the hearing of all the people, He said to His disciples, 46"Beware of the scribes, who desire to go around in long robes, love greetings in the marketplaces, the best seats in the synagogues, and the best places at feasts, 47who devour widows' houses, and for a pretense make long prayers. These will receive greater condemnation."

20:17 [a]Psalm 118:22 20:19 [a]M-Text reads but they were afraid. 20:23 [a]NU-Text omits Why do you test Me? 20:30 [a]NU-Text ends verse 30 here. 20:31 [a]NU-Text and M-Text read the seven also left no children. 20:37 [a]Exodus 3:6, 15 20:43 [a]Psalm 110:1

20:22 Jews, ages 14 to 65, were required to pay a tax to Caesar. Jews hated to pay this poll tax, which was one denarius (see chart, Money and Measurements in the Bible). Tiberius was the emperor at that time. Embossed on the front of the coin was the face of Caesar Tiberius, which demonstrated this right to impose the tax (v. 24).

20:27 The Sadducees (lit. "righteous ones") claimed to be descendants of Zadok, high priest under David (see chart, Jewish Sects). They organized shortly after the Maccabean revolt (167–160 B.C.). They disappeared in A.D. 70 when the Jerusalem temple was destroyed. They were a wealthy, politically active, materialistic group who opposed both the Pharisees and Jesus. They denied the existence of angels and demons, life after death, and bodily resurrection.

The Widow's Two Mites

21 And He looked up and saw the rich putting their gifts into the treasury, 2and He saw also a certain poor widow putting in two mites.
3So He said, "Truly I say to you that this poor widow has put in more than all; 4for all these out of their abundance have put in offerings for God,[a] but she out of her poverty put in all the livelihood that she had."

Jesus Predicts the Destruction of the Temple

5Then, as some spoke of the temple, how it was adorned with beautiful stones and donations, He said, 6"These things which you see—the days will come in which not one stone shall be left upon another that shall not be thrown down."

The Signs of the Times and the End of the Age

7So they asked Him, saying, "Teacher, but when will these things be? And what sign will there be when these things are about to take place?"

8And He said: "Take heed that you not be deceived. For many will come in My name, saying, 'I am He,' and, 'The time has drawn near.' Therefore[a] do not go after them. 9But when you hear of wars and commotions, do not be terrified; for these things must come to pass first, but the end will not come immediately."

10Then He said to them, "Nation will rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom.
11And there will be great earthquakes in various places, and famines and pestilences; and there will be fearful sights and great signs from heaven.
12But before all these things, they will lay their hands on you and persecute you, delivering you up to the synagogues and prisons. You will be brought before kings and rulers for My name's sake. 13But it will turn out for you as an occasion for testimony.
14Therefore settle it in your hearts not to meditate beforehand on what you will answer; 15for I will give you a mouth and wisdom which all your adversaries will not be able to contradict or resist. 16You will be betrayed even by parents and brothers, relatives and friends; and they will put some of you to death. 17And you will be hated by all for My name's sake. 18But not a hair of your head shall be lost. 19By your patience possess your souls.

The Destruction of Jerusalem

20"But when you see Jerusalem surrounded by armies, then know that its desolation is near.
21Then let those who are in Judea flee to the mountains, let those who are in the midst of her depart, and let not those who are in the country enter her. 22For these are the days of vengeance, that all things which are written may be fulfilled.
23But woe to those who are pregnant and to those who are nursing babies in those days! For there will be great distress in the land and wrath upon this people. 24And they will fall by the edge of the sword, and be led away captive into all nations.
And Jerusalem will be trampled by Gentiles until the times of the Gentiles are fulfilled.

The Coming of the Son of Man

25"And there will be signs in the sun, in the moon, and in the stars; and on the earth distress of nations, with perplexity, the sea and the waves roaring; 26men's hearts failing them from fear and the expectation of those things which are coming on the earth, for the powers of the heavens will be shaken. 27Then they will see the Son of Man coming in a cloud with power and great glory. 28Now when these things begin to happen, look up and lift up your heads, because your redemption draws near."

The Parable of the Fig Tree

29Then He spoke to them a parable: "Look at the fig tree, and all the trees. 30When they are already budding, you see and know for yourselves that summer is now near. 31So you also, when you see these things happening, know that the kingdom of God is near. 32Assuredly, I say to you, this generation will by no means pass away till all things take place. 33Heaven and earth will pass away, but My words will by no means pass away.

The Importance of Watching

34"But take heed to yourselves, lest your hearts be weighed down with carousing, drunkenness, and cares of this life, and that Day come on you unexpectedly. 35For it will come as a snare on all those who dwell on the face of the whole earth.
36Watch therefore, and pray always that you may be counted worthy[a] to escape all these things that will come to pass, and to stand before the Son of Man."

37And in the daytime He was teaching in the 21:1, 2 The treasury was the part of the Court of the Women that held 13 collection boxes known as "The Trumpets." Each box stated how its contents would be spent. The widow represented the poorest of the poor in 1st-century Judea (see Mark 12:41–44, note; Mark 12, Widow with Two Mites). A widow could find few ways to earn money. The mite was the least valuable coin in use (see chart, Money and Measurements in the Bible).

21:8 Jesus warned the people about false teachers who would come and claim to be the Messiah, giving a prediction about the end time. He forewarned His disciples about the coming persecution they would face from both the Gentiles and the Jews. The years between the Crucifixion and A.D. 70 proved a harsh period of persecution for believers.

THE LAST WEEK IN THE LIFE OF JESUS

A.D. 33 IN JERUSALEM
SUNDAY	• The triumphal entry into Jerusalem (Mark 11:1–11).
MONDAY	• Cleansing the temple in Jerusalem (Mark 11:15–19).
TUESDAY	• Challenge of Jesus' authority before the Sanhedrin (Luke 20:1–8). • Foretelling of the destruction of Jerusalem and Jesus' return (Matt. 24:15–28). • Anointing of Jesus at Bethany (John 12:2–8). • Judas' bargain with the Jewish rulers to betray Jesus (Luke 22:3–6).
WEDNESDAY
THURSDAY	• The Passover meal with His disciples and institution of the Memorial Supper (Mark 14:22–26; John 13:1–30). • Prayer in Gethsemane for His disciples (John 17:1–26).
FRIDAY	• His betrayal and arrest in Gethsemane (Mark 14:43–50). • Questioning by Annas, the former high priest (John 18:12–24). • Condemnation by Caiaphas and the Sanhedrin (Mark 14:53–65). • Peter's denial (John 18:15–27). • Formal condemnation by the Sanhedrin (Luke 22:66–71). • Judas' suicide (Matt. 27:3–10). • The trial of Jesus before Pilate (Luke 23:1–5). • Jesus' appearance before Herod Antipas (Luke 23:6–12). • Formal sentence to death by Pilate (Luke 23:13–25). • Jesus' Crucifixion between two thieves (Mark 15:16–27). • The tearing of the temple's veil (Matt. 27:51–56). • Jesus' burial in the tomb of Joseph of Arimathea (John 19:31–42).
SATURDAY
SUNDAY	• Jesus' Resurrection from the dead (Luke 24:1–9).

temple, but at night He went out and stayed on the mountain called Olivet. [38]Then early in the morning all the people came to Him in the temple to hear Him.

The Plot to Kill Jesus

22 Now the Feast of Unleavened Bread drew near, which is called Passover. [2]And the chief priests and the scribes sought how they might kill Him, for they feared the people.

[3]Then Satan entered Judas, surnamed Iscariot, who was numbered among the twelve. [4]So he went his way and conferred with the chief priests and captains, how he might betray Him to them. [5]And they were glad, and agreed to give him money. [6]So he promised and sought opportunity to betray Him to them in the absence of the multitude.

Jesus and His Disciples Prepare the Passover

[7]Then came the Day of Unleavened Bread, when the Passover must be killed. [8]And He sent Peter and John, saying, "Go and prepare the Passover for us, that we may eat."

22:1 Jews celebrated Passover and the Feast of Unleavened Bread for seven days around the middle of March ("Nisan," see charts, The Jewish Sacred Calendar; The Feasts of Israel). It was the most important of Hebrew feasts. Large crowds attended the festival. To remember their deliverance from Egyptian slavery, they ate unleavened bread as their ancestors had done on the night of their hasty departure from Egypt (see Ex. 12).

9So they said to Him, "Where do You want us to prepare?"

10And He said to them, "Behold, when you have entered the city, a man will meet you carrying a pitcher of water; follow him into the house which he enters. 11Then you shall say to the master of the house, 'The Teacher says to you, "Where is the guest room where I may eat the Passover with My disciples?" ' 12Then he will show you a large, furnished upper room; there make ready."

13So they went and found it just as He had said to them, and they prepared the Passover.

Jesus Institutes the Lord's Supper

14When the hour had come, He sat down, and the twelve[a] apostles with Him. 15Then He said to them, "With fervent desire I have desired to eat this Passover with you before I suffer; 16for I say to you, I will no longer eat of it until it is fulfilled in the kingdom of God."

17Then He took the cup, and gave thanks, and said, "Take this and divide it among yourselves; 18for I say to you,[a] I will not drink of the fruit of the vine until the kingdom of God comes."

19And He took bread, gave thanks and broke it, and gave it to them, saying, "This is My body which is given for you; do this in remembrance of Me."

20Likewise He also took the cup after supper, saying, "This cup is the new covenant in My blood, which is shed for you. 21But behold, the hand of My betrayer is with Me on the table. 22And truly the Son of Man goes as it has been determined, but woe to that man by whom He is betrayed!"

23Then they began to question among themselves, which of them it was who would do this thing.

The Disciples Argue About Greatness

24Now there was also a dispute among them, as to which of them should be considered the greatest. 25And He said to them, "The kings of the Gentiles exercise lordship over them, and those who exercise authority over them are called 'benefactors.' 26But not so among you; on the contrary, he who is greatest among you, let him be as the younger, and he who governs as he who serves. 27For who is greater, he who sits at the table, or he who serves? Is it not he who sits at the table? Yet I am among you as the One who serves.

28"But you are those who have continued with Me in My trials. 29And I bestow upon you a kingdom, just as My Father bestowed one upon Me, 30that you may eat and drink at My table in My kingdom, and sit on thrones judging the twelve tribes of Israel."

Jesus Predicts Peter's Denial

31And the Lord said,[a] "Simon, Simon! Indeed, Satan has asked for you, that he may sift you as wheat. 32But I have prayed for you, that your faith should not fail; and when you have returned to Me, strengthen your brethren."

33But he said to Him, "Lord, I am ready to go with You, both to prison and to death."

34Then He said, "I tell you, Peter, the rooster shall not crow this day before you will deny three times that you know Me."

Supplies for the Road

35And He said to them, "When I sent you without money bag, knapsack, and sandals, did you lack anything?"

So they said, "Nothing."

36Then He said to them, "But now, he who has a money bag, let him take it, and likewise a knapsack; and he who has no sword, let him sell his garment and buy one. 37For I say to you that this which is written must still be accomplished in Me: 'And He was numbered with the transgressors.'[a] For the things concerning Me have an end."

38So they said, "Lord, look, here are two swords."

And He said to them, "It is enough."

The Prayer in the Garden

39Coming out, He went to the Mount of Olives, as He was accustomed, and His disciples also followed Him. 40When He came to the place, He said to them, "Pray that you may not enter into temptation."

41And He was withdrawn from them about a stone's throw, and He knelt down and prayed, 42saying, "Father, if it is Your will, take this cup away from Me; nevertheless not My will, but Yours, be done." 43Then an angel appeared to Him from heaven, strengthening Him. 44And being in agony, He prayed more earnestly. Then His sweat became like great drops of blood falling down to the ground.[a]

22:14 [a]NU-Text omits twelve. 22:18 [a]NU-Text adds from now on. 22:31 [a]NU-Text omits And the Lord said. 22:37 [a]Isaiah 53:12 22:44 [a]NU-Text brackets verses 43 and 44 as not in the original text.

22:10, 11 Jesus and His disciples needed a room in which to celebrate the Passover meal. To secure a room, Jesus told them to look for a man "carrying a pitcher of water," possibly by prearrangement (v. 10). To meet a man carrying such a heavy pitcher was highly unusual, since this was considered a woman's job.

22:39–43 The cup represents Jesus' suffering. Jesus struggled so intensely in prayer that an angel appeared to give Him additional strength. The Garden of Gethsemane was located on the Mount of Olives (v. 39; see Matt. 26:36–44, note).

45When He rose up from prayer, and had come to His disciples, He found them sleeping from sorrow. 46Then He said to them, "Why do you sleep?
Rise and pray, lest you enter into temptation."

Betrayal and Arrest in Gethsemane

47And while He was still speaking, behold, a multitude; and he who was called Judas, one of the twelve, went before them and drew near to Jesus to kiss Him. 48But Jesus said to him, "Judas, are you betraying the Son of Man with a kiss?" 49When those around Him saw what was going to happen, they said to Him, "Lord, shall we strike with the sword?" 50And one of them struck the servant of the high priest and cut off his right ear.
51But Jesus answered and said, "Permit even this." And He touched his ear and healed him.
52Then Jesus said to the chief priests, captains of the temple, and the elders who had come to Him, "Have you come out, as against a robber, with swords and clubs? 53When I was with you daily in the temple, you did not try to seize Me. But this is your hour, and the power of darkness."

Peter Denies Jesus, and Weeps Bitterly

54Having arrested Him, they led Him and brought Him into the high priest's house. But Peter followed at a distance. 55Now when they had kindled a fire in the midst of the courtyard and sat down together, Peter sat among them. 56And a certain servant girl, seeing him as he sat by the fire, looked intently at him and said, "This man was also with Him." 57But he denied Him,[a] saying, "Woman, I do not know Him."
58And after a little while another saw him and said, "You also are of them."
But Peter said, "Man, I am not!"
59Then after about an hour had passed, another confidently affirmed, saying, "Surely this fellow also was with Him, for he is a Galilean." 60But Peter said, "Man, I do not know what you are saying!"
Immediately, while he was still speaking, the rooster[a] crowed. 61And the Lord turned and looked at Peter. Then Peter remembered the word of the Lord, how He had said to him, "Before the rooster crows,[a] you will deny Me three times." 62So Peter went out and wept bitterly.

Jesus Mocked and Beaten

63Now the men who held Jesus mocked Him and beat Him. 64And having blindfolded Him, they struck Him on the face and asked Him,[a] saying,
"Prophesy! Who is the one who struck You?" 65And many other things they blasphemously spoke against Him.

Jesus Faces the Sanhedrin

66As soon as it was day, the elders of the people, both chief priests and scribes, came together and led Him into their council, saying, 67"If You are the Christ, tell us."
But He said to them, "If I tell you, you will by no means believe. 68And if I also ask you, you will by no means answer Me or let Me go.[a] 69Hereafter the Son of Man will sit on the right hand of the power of God."
70Then they all said, "Are You then the Son of God?"
So He said to them, "You rightly say that I am."
71And they said, "What further testimony do we need? For we have heard it ourselves from His own mouth."

Jesus Handed Over to Pontius Pilate

23 Then the whole multitude of them arose and led Him to Pilate. 2And they began to accuse Him, saying, "We found this fellow perverting the[a] nation, and forbidding to pay taxes to Caesar, saying that He Himself is Christ, a King." 3Then Pilate asked Him, saying, "Are You the King of the Jews?"
He answered him and said, "It is as you say." 4So Pilate said to the chief priests and the crowd, "I find no fault in this Man." 5But they were the more fierce, saying, "He stirs up the people, teaching throughout all Judea, beginning from Galilee to this place."

Jesus Faces Herod

6When Pilate heard of Galilee,[a] he asked if the Man were a Galilean. 7And as soon as he knew that He belonged to Herod's jurisdiction, he sent Him to Herod, who was also in Jerusalem at that time.

22:57 [a]NU-Text reads denied it. 22:60 [a]NU-Text and M-Text read a rooster. 22:61 [a]NU-Text adds today. 22:64 [a]NU-Text reads And having blindfolded Him, they asked Him. 22:68 [a]NU-Text omits also and Me or let Me go. 23:2 [a]NU-Text reads our. 23:6 [a]NU-Text omits of Galilee.

22:47, 48 A kiss from a student to his master was a sign of respect. The kiss also represented acceptance and reverence. In the early church, the "holy kiss" was a sign used to greet others, impart blessing, and express Christian unity (Rom. 16:16; 2 Cor. 13:12; 1 Thess. 5:26). The fact that Judas, a disciple, would betray his Master (Jesus) with a kiss heightened the atrocity.

23:1 Pontius Pilate was governor (actually "procurator") of Judea (see chart, New Testament Political Rulers). Coming to power in A.D. 26, Pilate unjustly provoked the Jews and made life difficult for them. Jesus was brought to Pilate because the Jews at that time had no authority to enforce capital punishment; only Pilate could authorize the death sentence. In the eyes of the Jews, Jesus was guilty of blasphemy. But He had not been found guilty of any crime warranting Roman intervention.

8Now when Herod saw Jesus, he was exceedingly glad; for he had desired for a long time to see Him, because he had heard many things about Him, and he hoped to see some miracle done by Him. 9Then he questioned Him with many words, but He answered him nothing. 10And the chief priests and scribes stood and vehemently accused Him.
11Then Herod, with his men of war, treated Him with contempt and mocked Him, arrayed Him in a gorgeous robe, and sent Him back to Pilate. 12That very day Pilate and Herod became friends with each other, for previously they had been at enmity with each other.

Taking the Place of Barabbas

13Then Pilate, when he had called together the chief priests, the rulers, and the people, 14said to them, "You have brought this Man to me, as one who misleads the people. And indeed, having examined Him in your presence, I have found no fault in this Man concerning those things of which you accuse Him; 15no, neither did Herod, for I sent you back to him;[a] and indeed nothing deserving of death has been done by Him. 16I will therefore chastise Him and release Him" 17(for it was necessary for him to release one to them at the feast).[a]

18And they all cried out at once, saying, "Away with this Man, and release to us Barabbas"— 19who had been thrown into prison for a certain rebellion made in the city, and for murder.

20Pilate, therefore, wishing to release Jesus, again called out to them. 21But they shouted, saying, "Crucify Him, crucify Him!"

22Then he said to them the third time, "Why, what evil has He done? I have found no reason for death in Him. I will therefore chastise Him and let Him go."

23But they were insistent, demanding with loud voices that He be crucified. And the voices of these men and of the chief priests prevailed.[a] 24So Pilate gave sentence that it should be as they requested.
25And he released to them[a] the one they requested, who for rebellion and murder had been thrown into prison; but he delivered Jesus to their will.

The King on a Cross

26Now as they led Him away, they laid hold of a certain man, Simon a Cyrenian, who was coming from the country, and on him they laid the cross that he might bear it after Jesus.

27And a great multitude of the people followed Him, and women who also mourned and lamented Him. 28But Jesus, turning to them, said, "Daughters of Jerusalem, do not weep for Me, but weep for yourselves and for your children. 29For indeed the days are coming in which they will say, 'Blessed are the barren, wombs that never bore, and breasts which never nursed!' 30Then they will begin *'to say to the mountains, "Fall on us!"
and to the hills, "Cover us!"'*[a] 31For if they do these things in the green wood, what will be done in the dry?"

32There were also two others, criminals, led with Him to be put to death. 33And when they had come to the place called Calvary, there they crucified Him, and the criminals, one on the right hand and the other on the left. 34Then Jesus said, "Father, forgive them, for they do not know what they do."[a]

And they divided His garments and cast lots.
35And the people stood looking on. But even the rulers with them sneered, saying, "He saved others; let Him save Himself if He is the Christ, the chosen of God."

36The soldiers also mocked Him, coming and offering Him sour wine, 37and saying, "If You are the King of the Jews, save Yourself."

38And an inscription also was written over Him in letters of Greek, Latin, and Hebrew:[a]

THIS IS THE KING OF THE JEWS.

39Then one of the criminals who were hanged blasphemed Him, saying, "If You are the Christ,[a] save Yourself and us."

40But the other, answering, rebuked him, saying, "Do you not even fear God, seeing you are under the same condemnation? 41And we indeed justly, for we receive the due reward of our deeds; but this Man has done nothing wrong." 42Then he said to Jesus, "Lord,[a] remember me when You come into Your kingdom."

43And Jesus said to him, "Assuredly, I say to you, today you will be with Me in Paradise."

23:21 Crucifixion, though once considered too brutal a penalty for anyone but slaves, had become a common form of capital punishment to execute any enemy of the state. In the ancient world, crucifixion proved a painful and humiliating way to die. The condemned criminal was made to carry his own cross to the place of execution. Too weak from the beating to carry His Cross all the way to the execution site, Jesus was helped by a passerby, Simon from Cyrene, a city in northern Africa (v. 26).

23:42, 43 Matthew and Mark noted that the thieves, crucified on each side of Jesus, abused Him (Matt. 27:44; Mark 15:32). Only Luke recorded that one of them repented and sought mercy as he suffered death on the cross. Jesus assured him of salvation and a place in "Paradise."

In all dangers, troubles, and extremities, which fell to our Saviour, when all men fled Him, living or dead, women never forsook Him.

Ester Sowerman, 1617

Jesus Dies on the Cross

44Now it was[a] about the sixth hour, and there was darkness over all the earth until the ninth hour. 45Then the sun was darkened,[a] and the veil of the temple was torn in two. 46And when Jesus had cried out with a loud voice, He said, "Father,
'into Your hands I commit My spirit.' "[a] Having said this, He breathed His last.
47So when the centurion saw what had happened, he glorified God, saying, "Certainly this was a righteous Man!"
48And the whole crowd who came together to that sight, seeing what had been done, beat their breasts and returned. 49But all His acquaintances, and the women who followed Him from Galilee, stood at a distance, watching these things.

Jesus Buried in Joseph's Tomb

50Now behold, there was a man named Joseph, a council member, a good and just man. 51He had not consented to their decision and deed. He was from Arimathea, a city of the Jews, who himself was also waiting[a] for the kingdom of God. 52This man went to Pilate and asked for the body of Jesus. 53Then he took it down, wrapped it in linen, and laid it in a tomb that was hewn out of the rock, where no one had ever lain before. 54That day was the Preparation, and the Sabbath drew near.
55And the women who had come with Him from Galilee followed after, and they observed the tomb and how His body was laid. 56Then they returned and prepared spices and fragrant oils. And they rested on the Sabbath according to the commandment.

He Is Risen

24 Now on the first day of the week, very early in the morning, they, and certain other women with them,[a] came to the tomb bringing the spices which they had prepared. 2But they found the stone rolled away from the tomb. 3Then they went in and did not find the body of the Lord Jesus. 4And it happened, as they were greatly[a] perplexed about this, that behold, two men stood by them in shining garments. 5Then, as they were afraid and bowed their faces to the earth, they said to them, "Why do you seek the living among the dead? 6He is not here, but is risen! Remember how He spoke to you when He was still in Galilee, 7say-ing, 'The Son of Man must be delivered into the hands of sinful men, and be crucified, and the third day rise again.' " 8And they remembered His words. 9Then they returned from the tomb and told all these things to the eleven and to all the rest. 10It was Mary Magdalene, Joanna, Mary the mother of James, and the other women with them, who told these things to the apostles. 11And their words seemed to them like idle tales, and they did not believe them. 12But Peter arose and ran to the tomb; and stooping down, he saw the linen cloths lying[a] by themselves; and he departed, marveling to himself at what had happened.

The Road to Emmaus

13Now behold, two of them were traveling that same day to a village called Emmaus, which was seven miles[a] from Jerusalem. 14And they talked together of all these things which had happened.
15So it was, while they conversed and reasoned, that Jesus Himself drew near and went with them.

23:45 The veil of the temple referred to the thick curtain used to separate the Most Holy Place (the innermost sanctuary where God's presence was uniquely found) from the rest of the temple (see chart, The Plan of Herod's Temple). Only on the Day of Atonement could the high priest enter the Most Holy Place to offer sacrifices to God on behalf of himself, his family, and the people of Israel (Lev. 16:2). The offerings restored fellowship with God. The ripping of the "veil" in two symbolized a great truth: Through Jesus' death as a sacrifice for sin, people no longer had to depend on a sacrificial system but could instead have direct access to God through Christ (see Rom. 5:2; Eph. 2:18; 3:12).

23:53 Joseph from Arimathea, a wealthy and important member of the Sanhedrin in Jerusalem, was evidently a secret follower of Jesus. Joseph personally removed Jesus' body from the Cross and, with the help of Nicodemus, another influential follower, prepared the body for burial. Jewish law forbade a crucified body to hang on the cross after sunset. Preparation would include wrapping the body in long strips of linen, with various spices placed within the linen shroud. Joseph placed the body in the tomb he had prepared for himself. Crucified criminals were usually buried in a common place. Tombs at that time were carved out of rock and thus expensive. Some had several compartments that could be used for a number of people. Joseph's tomb was new.

24:13–16 Emmaus seems to have been located about seven miles from Jerusalem. As two unnamed disciples traveled from Jerusalem to Emmaus on the day of Jesus' Resurrection,

16But their eyes were restrained, so that they did not know Him.
17And He said to them, "What kind of conversation is this that you have with one another as you walk and are sad?"[a] 18Then the one whose name was Cleopas answered and said to Him, "Are You the only stranger in Jerusalem, and have You not known the things which happened there in these days?"
19And He said to them, "What things?"
So they said to Him, "The things concerning Jesus of Nazareth, who was a Prophet mighty in deed and word before God and all the people, 20and how the chief priests and our rulers delivered Him to be condemned to death, and crucified Him. 21But we were hoping that it was He who was going to redeem Israel. Indeed, besides all this, today is the third day since these things happened.
22Yes, and certain women of our company, who arrived at the tomb early, astonished us. 23When they did not find His body, they came saying that they had also seen a vision of angels who said He was alive. 24And certain of those who were with us went to the tomb and found it just as the women had said; but Him they did not see." 25Then He said to them, "O foolish ones, and slow of heart to believe in all that the prophets have spoken! 26Ought not the Christ to have suffered these things and to enter into His glory?" 27And beginning at Moses and all the Prophets, He expounded to them in all the Scriptures the things concerning Himself.

The Disciples' Eyes Opened

28Then they drew near to the village where they were going, and He indicated that He would have gone farther. 29But they constrained Him, saying, "Abide with us, for it is toward evening, and the day is far spent." And He went in to stay with them.
30Now it came to pass, as He sat at the table with them, that He took bread, blessed and broke it, and gave it to them. 31Then their eyes were opened and they knew Him; and He vanished from their sight.
32And they said to one another, "Did not our heart burn within us while He talked with us on the road, and while He opened the Scriptures to us?" 33So they rose up that very hour and returned to Jerusalem, and found the eleven and those who were with them gathered together, 34saying, "The Lord is risen indeed, and has appeared to Simon!"
35And they told about the things that had happened on the road, and how He was known to them in the breaking of bread.

Jesus Appears to His Disciples

36Now as they said these things, Jesus Himself stood in the midst of them, and said to them,
"Peace to you." 37But they were terrified and frightened, and supposed they had seen a spirit.
38And He said to them, "Why are you troubled?
And why do doubts arise in your hearts? 39Behold
My hands and My feet, that it is I Myself. Handle Me and see, for a spirit does not have flesh and bones as you see I have."
40When He had said this, He showed them His hands and His feet.[a] 41But while they still did not believe for joy, and marveled, He said to them,
"Have you any food here?" 42So they gave Him a piece of a broiled fish and some honeycomb.[a] 43And He took it and ate in their presence.

The Scriptures Opened

44Then He said to them, "These are the words which I spoke to you while I was still with you, that all things must be fulfilled which were written in the Law of Moses and the Prophets and the Psalms concerning Me." 45And He opened their understanding, that they might comprehend the Scriptures.
46Then He said to them, "Thus it is written, and thus it was necessary for the Christ to suffer and to rise[a] from the dead the third day, 47and that repentance and remission of sins should be preached in His name to all nations, beginning at Jerusalem. 48And you are witnesses of these things. 49Behold, I send the Promise of My Father upon you; but tarry in the city of Jerusalem[a] until you are endued with power from on high."

24:17 [a]NU-Text reads as you walk? And they stood still, looking sad. 24:40 [a]Some printed New Testaments omit this verse. the Lord joined them. At first they did not recognize Him (v. 16). Luke recorded three Resurrection appearances (see chart, The Appearances of the Risen Christ).

24:36–43 The Resurrection of Jesus Christ was a physical reality. When He "stood in the midst of them," the disciples were shocked, "terrified, and frightened" (v. 37). They thought Jesus was a ghost. Jesus read their hearts, and to prove Himself physically alive, He showed them His pierced hands and feet and invited them to "handle" and "see" Him (v. 39). Then He went one step further to dispel their unbelief by asking for and eating food—something no disembodied spirit could do.

24:47 Repentence in the NT distinguishes the changing of direction of life in order to be obedient (Luke 3:8, 9) from the observing of rituals in life with the hope of escaping penalty. "To repent" (Gk. metamelomai) expresses regret in the way things turned out (such as in the case of Judas, Matt. 27:3), while another word (Gk. metanoeō), means "to change your mind" or "to feel remorse" (Luke 13:3; 2 Cor. 7:10). This is the type of repentance exhibited by the woman of Samaria who

He lifted up His hands and blessed them. 51Now it came to pass, while He blessed them, that He was parted from them and carried up into heaven.
52And they worshiped Him, and returned to Jerusalem with great joy, 53and were continually in the bore testimony of what the Messiah had done in her life (John 4:28, 29, 42).

Repentance in the OT is expressed more in the corporate than in the individual sense. The people felt their guilt more as a nation than as individuals, and God's judgment tended to affect the entire nation just as repentance was expressed more as corporate ritual than individual confession (Ezek. 14:1–3). The ritual involved in this repentance was easily distorted so that a genuine change of the heart did not necessarily occur. The prophets warned about the dangers of insincere repentance (Hos. 5:6; 6:6). Ritual alone could not substitute for a heart's determination (2 Cor. 7:10). Turning from sin must be accompanied by turning to the Lord, which in turn manifests itself in a holy or "set apart" lifestyle (Mic. 6:8).

Individual repentance and contrition of heart precede the receiving of God's gifts, for only when we are willing to admit that we are not and cannot be sufficient in ourselves, can we receive Him who is and can. Repentance is a continuing action in the lives of believers as we grieve for sins committed against a holy God and daily turn from our sinful natures that are self-dependent to depend upon Christ and what He has done on the Cross. Genuine repentance brings abundant life in Christ (John 10:10).

Repentance, for the Creator God, is the willing of change ("relent" in Ps. 106:45; Jer. 18:8). God is not swayed, as we are, to change His mind based upon whim or reason. However, based upon our obedience, He can remember us in His mercies. On the other hand, as His creation, we repent by changing the will. This repentance, then, means to turn away from a sinful past with sorrow of heart and to embrace joyfully a future in Christ Jesus (Phil. 3:13, 14; see also Ps. 51, Forgiveness; 2 Cor. 7, Guilt; Eph. 2, Salvation).

John

AUTHOR

The apostle John was the son of Zebedee, a seemingly well-to-do man (Mark 1:20), and Salome, who was the sister of Jesus' mother Mary (John 19:25; see also Matt. 27:56, 61; Mark 15:40, 47). John wrote his gospel toward the end of his life. Scholars have long debated the authorship of the gospel since it claims only to have been written by the "beloved disciple" (John 21:20, 24). Clement of Alexandria called the Gospel of John the "spiritual Gospel."

DATE

John (lit. "Yahweh has been gracious") was joined by Peter and James in Jesus' inner circle (Mark 5:37; 9:2; 14:33). As fishermen, John and his brother James lived in Capernaum. Jesus labeled them Boanerges (lit. "sons of thunder," Mark 3:17). John and Peter were described as "uneducated and untrained men" (Acts 4:13). John referred to himself throughout this gospel as "the disciple whom Jesus loved" (John 21:20, 24). He was an eyewitness to the life and ministry of Jesus and ministered longer than any other disciple. John was present at the Last Supper (John 13:23–26), stood at the Cross with Jesus' mother (John 19:25–27), accompanied Peter to the empty tomb (John 20:2–10), and recognized Jesus after His Resurrection (John 21:7).

John is also credited with writing the epistles of First, Second, and Third John as well as the Book of Revelation. He played an active role in the Jerusalem church (Acts 3:1) and later served as pastor of the church at Ephesus. The Book of Revelation was written while he was in exile on the island of Patmos during the reign of Emperor Domitian (Rev. 1:9).

Most scholars believe that John's gospel was the last of the four gospels to be written. Although dates have been suggested from A.D. 60 to 90, church tradition narrows the date to sometime between A.D. 80 and 95.

BACKGROUND

SETTING: Irenaeus supports the theory that John wrote the gospel when he lived in Ephesus, a large and cosmopolitan city housing one of the largest Christian communities in the Gentile world of the first century.

PURPOSE: The Gospel of John presents Jesus as the divine Word, the Logos (Gk., lit. "Word"), the Christ, and the Son of God. Jesus is the Revealer and Redeemer. He is the sacrificial "Lamb" who came to take away "the sin of the world" (John 1:29). John's gospel is often seen as the most evangelistic of the four gospels.

AUDIENCE: John wrote this evangelistic gospel to fellow Jews, encouraging them to confess Jesus as the Christ. The Jews who accepted Christ were expelled from the synagogue and were persecuted by the Jewish community. John's gospel helped provide the Christian community with purpose and identity.

LITERARY CHARACTERISTICS: The Gospel of John is a theological retelling of history. It is written in narrative form. While it does not contain parables, as do Matthew, Mark, and Luke, the book does record allegories and extended discourses used by Jesus in His teaching ministry.

THEMES

More than any other book in the New Testament, John introduces Jesus as the unique Son of God (John 20:31). The gospel begins with an introduction (John 1:1–51), then proceeds into the ministry of Christ (John 2:1—4:54), the opposition He experienced (John 5:1—12:50), and finally His deeds and words (John 13:1—21:25).

OUTLINE

Introduction: The Prologue (1:1–18)

I. Jesus' Preparation for Public Ministry (1:19–51)
   - A. The ministry of John the Baptist (1:19–34)
   - B. Jesus' calling of His disciples (1:35–51)

II. Jesus' Public Ministry (2:1—4:54)
   - A. The first miracle: water to wine (2:1–12)
   - B. The cleansing of the temple (2:13–25)
   - C. Jesus' encounter with Nicodemus (3:1–21)
   - D. The affirmation of Jesus by John the Baptist (3:22–36)
   - E. Jesus' witness to the Samaritan woman (4:1–42)
   - F. Jesus' arrival in Galilee (4:43–54)

III. Jesus' Opposition (5:1—12:50)
   - A. Jesus' healing at the pool of Bethesda (5:1–15)
   - B. Jesus' authority (5:16–47)
   - C. The events around the Sea of Galilee (6:1–71)
     1. The feeding of the five thousand (6:1–14)
     2. Jesus walking on the sea (6:15–21)
     3. Jesus as the Bread of Life (6:22–40)
     4. Jesus' rejection (6:41–71)
   - D. Jesus and the Feast of Tabernacles (7:1–53)

     1. The adulterous woman (8:1–12)
     2. Jesus as the Light of the World (8:13–59)
   - F. Jesus' healing of a man born blind (9:1–41)
   - G. Jesus as the Shepherd (10:1–42)
   - H. Jesus and Lazarus (11:1–57)
   - I. The final days of public ministry (12:1–50)
     1. Jesus' anointing by Mary (12:1–8)
     2. The plot to kill Lazarus (12:9–11)
     3. The triumphal entry (12:12–19)
     4. Jesus' response to the Greeks (12:20–36)
     5. Jewish unbelief (12:37–50)

IV. Jesus' Final Deeds and Words (13:1—21:25)
   - A. Jesus' private ministry to His disciples (13:1—16:33)
     1. The washing of the disciples' feet (13:1–17)
     2. The identification of Judas as the betrayer (13:18–30)
     3. The giving of a new commandment (13:31–35)
     4. The prediction of Peter's denial (13:36–38)
     5. Jesus as the only Way to the Father (14:1–11)
     6. Prayer and the Holy Spirit (14:12–31)
     7. Jesus as the Vine (15:1–17)
     8. The world's hatred and rejection of Jesus (15:18—16:4)
     9. The work of the Holy Spirit (16:5–33)
   - B. Jesus' high priestly prayer (17:1–26)
   - C. Jesus' arrest and trials (18:1—19:16)
   - D. Jesus' death and burial (19:17–42)
   - E. Jesus' Resurrection (20:1—21:25)
     1. Jesus' post-Resurrection appearances (20:1–29)
     2. John's purpose in writing (20:30, 31)
     3. Jesus and the disciples in Galilee (21:1–14)
     4. Jesus' forgiveness and restoration of Peter (21:15–25)

JESUS, GOD'S REFRESHING WORD (From Forever in Love with Jesus, 65-68)

When The Word spoke the world into being in Genesis, it was Jesus, in the mystery of the Trinity, speaking the world into existence. When "the Word of the Lord came to Hosea," it was Jesus, in the mystery of the Trinity, speaking to Hosea. When the law was given to Moses, it was Jesus communicating to the heart of His people. Not only does the Word include memra, or God's supportive presence among His people, but it contains the Law: the words, and the holy judgment of God as seen in the Torah. (The Torah is the first five books of Moses: Genesis through Deuteronomy.)

This communicative aspect of the Word has both a terrible and wonderful side. It can feel terrible when it convicts us of sin. It can seem harsh when you read of someone being cast out into the outer darkness where there is weeping and gnashing of teeth. It can be wonderful when we hear how wide and high His love is, when He tells us He will never leave us, and when He promises us that one day, we will no longer weep.

Because God is always good and just, what may seem terrible is not. It is a holy mystery. The picture of Jesus coming on a white horse one day with fire in His eyes and a sword in His mouth causes us to tremble. And yet, that day is when He is waging war against all the enemies of His bride, because He is holy and just. We have come to love this picture of Jesus because we see the sword being used on our behalf and in our defense. The sword, Paul told us in Ephesians 6, represents the Word of God, and we can use it, as well, to defeat our spiritual enemies. When the enemy comes, and he will, we can use the sword of the Spirit, the Word of God, against him.

Jesus, as the Word, is here with us and is filled with wisdom, power, and comfort. And as He, through His Spirit and His Word, falls upon hearts eager to receive, He cannot help but produce fruit. Hosea talked about the Lord coming to us "like the rain, like the latter and former rain to the earth" (6:3). Likewise, Isaiah extends the analogy, and in his picture is an exciting truth: For as the rain comes down, and the snow from heaven, and do not return there, but water the earth, and make it bring forth and bud, that it may give seed to the sower and bread to the eater, so shall My word be that goes forth from My mouth; it shall not return to Me void, but it shall accomplish what I please, and it shall prosper in the thing for which I sent" (55:10, 11).

Do you see? Once rain and snow have started falling, they never suddenly reverse their course. In the same way, once The Word has started speaking into our hearts, it doesn't all of a sudden, like a child say, "I take it back." Once He has started a new creative work in us, He will bring it to completion (Phil. 1:6).

The Eternal Word

1 In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God. 2He was in the beginning with God. 3All things were made through Him, and without Him nothing was made that was made. 4In Him was life, and the life was the light of men. 5And the light shines in the darkness, and the darkness did not comprehend[a] it.

John's Witness: The True Light

6There was a man sent from God, whose name was John. 7This man came for a witness, to bear witness of the Light, that all through him might believe. 8He was not that Light, but was sent to bear witness of that Light. 9That was the true Light which gives light to every man coming into the world.[a]

10He was in the world, and the world was made through Him, and the world did not know Him.
11He came to His own,[a] and His own[b] did not receive Him. 12But as many as received Him, to them He gave the right to become children of God, to those who believe in His name: 13who were born, not of blood, nor of the will of the flesh, nor of the will of man, but of God.

1:5 [a]Or overcome 1:9 [a]Or That was the true Light which, coming into the world, gives light to every man. 1:11 [a]That is, His own things or domain [b]That is, His own people

1:1, 2 Jesus Christ has always existed and will exist eternally. He is the living Word. Jesus and God the Father, along with the Holy Spirit, have always had an intimate relationship as the triune God. Jesus is God who took on a human body and nature in order to redeem mankind (see chart, The Definitive Christological Passages).

1:4 Gnosticism, a dualistic heresy that reached its full strength in the 2nd and 3rd centuries A.D., regarded the spiritual as being inherently good and the earthly (that is, the created world) as inherently evil. Asceticism is another response to this concept that the created order is inherently evil. John may have emphasized Christ's humanity in his gospel in order to combat the beginnings of the philosophical-spiritual ideology called Gnosticism. Gnostics believed that the spirit world contained many different levels of knowledge and that everyone must ascend through them to achieve gnōsis (Gk.), a secret inner knowledge resulting in salvation and available only to those who had their consciousness raised to such a level.

Gnostics argued that through Christ they had experienced a spiritual resurrection and had arrived at knowledge (Gk. gnōsis). Therefore, since the sins of the body were totally unconnected with the spiritual life, they were free on a spiritual

The Word Becomes Flesh

14 And the Word became flesh and dwelt among us, and we beheld His glory, the glory as of the only begotten of the Father, full of grace and truth.
15 John bore witness of Him and cried out, saying, "This was He of whom I said, 'He who comes after me is preferred before me, for He was before me.' " 16 And[a] of His fullness we have all received, and grace for grace. 17 For the law was given through Moses, but grace and truth came through Jesus Christ. 18 No one has seen God at any time. The only begotten Son,[a] who is in the bosom of the Father, He has declared Him.

A Voice in the Wilderness

19 Now this is the testimony of John, when the Jews sent priests and Levites from Jerusalem to ask him, "Who are you?"
20 He confessed, and did not deny, but confessed, "I am not the Christ."
21 And they asked him, "What then? Are you Elijah?"
He said, "I am not."
"Are you the Prophet?"
And he answered, "No."
22 Then they said to him, "Who are you, that we may give an answer to those who sent us? What do you say about yourself?"
23 He said: "I am

'The voice of one crying in the wilderness:
"Make straight the way of the LORD*," '*[a] as the prophet Isaiah said."

24 Now those who were sent were from the Pharisees. 25 And they asked him, saying, "Why then do you baptize if you are not the Christ, nor Elijah, nor the Prophet?" 26 John answered them, saying, "I baptize with water, but there stands One among you whom you do not know. 27 It is He who, coming after me, is preferred before me, whose sandal strap I am not worthy to loose."
28 These things were done in Bethabara[a] beyond the Jordan, where John was baptizing.

The Lamb of God

29 The next day John saw Jesus coming toward him, and said, "Behold! The Lamb of God who takes away the sin of the world! 30 This is He of whom I said, 'After me comes a Man who is preferred before me, for He was before me.' 31 I did not know Him; but that He should be revealed to Israel, therefore I came baptizing with water." 32 And John bore witness, saying, "I saw the Spirit descending from heaven like a dove, and He remained upon Him. 33 I did not know Him, but He who sent me to baptize with water said to me,
'Upon whom you see the Spirit descending, and remaining on Him, this is He who baptizes with the Holy Spirit.' 34 And I have seen and testified that this is the Son of God."

The First Disciples

35 Again, the next day, John stood with two of his disciples. 36 And looking at Jesus as He walked, he said, "Behold the Lamb of God!"
37 The two disciples heard him speak, and they followed Jesus. 38 Then Jesus turned, and seeing them following, said to them, "What do you seek?"

plane to worship God through Christ Jesus and on a physical plane to do as they pleased. Paul strongly taught against this viewpoint as did the early church fathers (2 Cor. 7:1; Eph. 4:17–24). First Timothy 1:3–7 and Jude 3–19 may also refer to teachers of incipient (or developing) Gnosticism.

Since Gnostics believed the flesh is always evil, they taught that a sinless Christ could not have become truly human. Gnostics were divided over the Incarnation. The Docetic Gnostics claimed that Christ's human body was only an illusion, while Cerinthian Gnostics taught that God's divine spirit filled the human Jesus at His baptism but fled before His death. Like all other tenets of Gnostic belief, Scripture refutes both of these positions (Col. 1:15–18; Heb. 2:14; 1 John 4:2–6; see 1 Cor. 1, Heresies; Gal. 4, Christology; Eph. 2, Salvation).

1:14 Jesus Christ, the eternal Word of God and Second Person of the Trinity, "became flesh." To His divine nature He added a perfect human nature. As Paul later explained, this involved His "taking the form of a bondservant, and coming in the likeness of men" (Phil. 2:7). As the incarnate God, His wholly divine and perfectly human natures are forever united—without change, mixture, or separation—in one Person (John 10:30; Col. 2:9; 1 John 1:1–5). "Dwelt" (Gk. skēnoō, sharing its root with skēnē, lit. "tent") refers to the fact that God dwelt temporarily among His people as the perfect God-Man, Jesus Christ, just as God manifested His presence to His people in the tabernacle in the wilderness (Ex. 24:16; 40:35; see chart, The Plan of the Tabernacle).

1:23 John the Baptist was thought by some to be the prophet Isaiah (see Is. 40:3), while others believed he was Elijah. The Jews believed that Elijah would appear on earth before the Messiah would come, and John resembled Elijah. He dressed like a prophet; he was rugged; he lived in the wilderness; and, like Elijah, he was a prophet. Jesus praised John as a great prophet, and he was popular among the Jews of his day. His ministry began near the Jordan River around A.D. 26. He was sent as a "voice" to prepare the people for the coming of the Messiah.

1:29 John called Jesus the Lamb of God. In this title, John pictured the Passover lamb slain at the time of deliverance of the children of Israel from Egyptian slavery (see Ex. 12:12, 13). To the Jews, the slaughtered lamb represented meekness, innocence, sacrifice, redemption, and the substitutionary forgiveness of sins (see chart, The Plan of the Tabernacle).

WEDDINGS A PUBLIC COMMITMENT

In Bible times, the period of engagement (or betrothal) was spent in preparation—the groom preparing a home for his bride and the bride preparing herself and her trousseau. When the time came for the marriage to be consummated, the groom went to the bride's home (often at an unannounced time) to accompany her to his home where they met friends of the two families, as arranged by the groom, not the bride (see Judg. 14:5–11; Matt. 25:1–13). Wedding celebrations generally lasted a week, during which time the bride and groom dressed and were treated as royalty amidst festivities and the presentation of gifts (Gen. 29:27; Judg. 14:12–18; John 2:1–11).

In the modern era, weddings range from formal, solemn ceremonies to informal, private gatherings. The type of ceremony is not necessarily important, but these biblical criteria are:

1) The marriage should be established in the name of the Lord Jesus (Mark 10:9), and
2) Thanks should be given to God (Col. 3:17). A wedding should be a time of worship and should celebrate each marriage partner's commitment grounded in the love of God.

Weddings are much more than beautiful gowns, crowds of people, and expensive decorating. A wedding is a time of COMMITMENT. It should include worship and giving thanks to God as well as the celebrating of the wonderful blessing God has given both the bride and groom.

The wedding ceremony is an appropriate time to reflect on the example of unconditional love, which God has demonstrated (Rom. 5:8). The couple should "commit" to follow the Lord in their home no matter what circumstances arise and "till death do us part" (see Matt. 19:6). The importance of this permanency of the union grows out of the fact that the vows are not merely between one man and one woman but include the heavenly Father Himself, and also because such commitment is modeled after Christ's commitment to the church (Eph. 5:21–33).

See also Gen. 2:15–25; notes on Celebrations and Holidays (Ex. 12); Engagement (Matt. 1); Marriage (Gen. 2; 2 Sam. 6; Prov. 5; Hos. 2; Amos 3; 2 Cor. 13; Heb. 12); Traditions (1 Sam. 7); Vows (Num. 30)

They said to Him, "Rabbi" (which is to say, when translated, Teacher), "where are You staying?"

39 He said to them, "Come and see." They came and saw where He was staying, and remained with Him that day (now it was about the tenth hour).

40 One of the two who heard John speak, and followed Him, was Andrew, Simon Peter's brother. 41 He first found his own brother Simon, and said to him, "We have found the Messiah" (which is translated, the Christ). 42 And he brought him to Jesus.

Now when Jesus looked at him, He said, "You are Simon the son of Jonah.[a] You shall be called Cephas" (which is translated, A Stone).

Philip and Nathanael

43 The following day Jesus wanted to go to Galilee, and He found Philip and said to him, "Follow Me." 44 Now Philip was from Bethsaida, the city of Andrew and Peter. 45 Philip found Nathanael and said to him, "We have found Him of whom Moses in the law, and also the prophets, wrote—Jesus of Nazareth, the son of Joseph."

46 And Nathanael said to him, "Can anything good come out of Nazareth?"

Philip said to him, "Come and see."

47 Jesus saw Nathanael coming toward Him, and said of him, "Behold, an Israelite indeed, in whom is no deceit!"

48 Nathanael said to Him, "How do You know me?"

Jesus answered and said to him, "Before Philip called you, when you were under the fig tree, I saw you."

49 Nathanael answered and said to Him, "Rabbi, You are the Son of God! You are the King of Israel!"

50 Jesus answered and said to him, "Because I said to you, 'I saw you under the fig tree,' do you believe? You will see greater things than these." 51 And He said to him, "Most assuredly, I say to you, hereafter[a] you shall see heaven open, and the angels of God ascending and descending upon the Son of Man."

1:38 Rabbi (lit. "great one," "master," or "teacher") was a title of respect used by students of their wise teachers. The title later became especially identified with the teachers of the Law of Moses.

1:46 Jesus gave prominence to Nazareth, a city not mentioned in the OT. Located between the Sea of Galilee and the Mediterranean Sea, Nazareth was Jesus' hometown, where He grew from boyhood to manhood. With Nathanael's question, John revealed Nazareth's poor reputation. The people of Nazareth would later reject Jesus (see Mark 6:4, note).

Water Turned to Wine

2 On the third day there was a wedding in Cana of Galilee, and the mother of Jesus was there.
2 Now both Jesus and His disciples were invited to the wedding. 3 And when they ran out of wine, the mother of Jesus said to Him, "They have no wine."

4 Jesus said to her, "Woman, what does your concern have to do with Me? My hour has not yet come."

5 His mother said to the servants, "Whatever He says to you, do it."

6 Now there were set there six waterpots of stone, according to the manner of purification of the Jews, containing twenty or thirty gallons apiece. 7 Jesus said to them, "Fill the waterpots with water." And they filled them up to the brim.
8 And He said to them, "Draw some out now, and take it to the master of the feast." And they took it.
9 When the master of the feast had tasted the water that was made wine, and did not know where it came from (but the servants who had drawn the water knew), the master of the feast called the

2:1, 2 The wedding at Cana was attended by Jesus, His mother, and His disciples. The town was located in Galilee, although its exact location is unknown. A wedding in Jesus' day could last as long as a week (see Weddings). To run out of wine was an embarrassing and inhospitable offense for the wedding host. At the request of His mother Mary, Jesus performed the first miracle of His public ministry by turning water into wine (see chart, Jesus' Miracles Among Women).

2:4 Jesus showed no disrespect when He addressed His mother as "woman" instead of "mother." His public ministry had begun, and with the Cross before Him, He was possibly putting some distance between Himself and His mother to spare her added suffering. This polite form of address was used by Jesus in addressing other women (John 4:21; 20:13; see Matt. 15:28; Luke 13:12). Mary acknowledged her own confidence in her Son and approval of His independent action as she instructed the servants to follow His instructions. Although Jesus was still her Son, He was now more than her Child: He was her Lord. Jesus was aware of God's timing regarding His mission on earth. A miracle or "sign" would help the people understand His identity and purpose.

2:6 The waterpots, often made of clay but sometimes of stone, were vessels used for storing water. Each waterpot contained about 17 to 25 gallons of water. Six waterpots would have held 100 to 150 gallons. The Jews used water for cleansing and purification rituals, and these large stone waterpots probably stored the water used for washing. Smaller waterpots were used by women to transport water from wells.

bridegroom. 10And he said to him, "Every man at the beginning sets out the good wine, and when the guests have well drunk, then the inferior. You have kept the good wine until now!"

11This beginning of signs Jesus did in Cana of Galilee, and manifested His glory; and His disciples believed in Him.

12After this He went down to Capernaum, He, His mother, His brothers, and His disciples; and they did not stay there many days.

Jesus Cleanses the Temple

13Now the Passover of the Jews was at hand, and Jesus went up to Jerusalem. 14And He found in the temple those who sold oxen and sheep and doves, and the money changers doing business. 15When He had made a whip of cords, He drove them all out of the temple, with the sheep and the oxen, and poured out the changers' money and overturned the tables. 16And He said to those who sold doves, "Take these things away! Do not make My Father's house a house of merchandise!" 17Then His disciples remembered that it was written, "Zeal for Your house has eaten[a] Me up."[b]

18So the Jews answered and said to Him, "What sign do You show to us, since You do these things?"

19Jesus answered and said to them, "Destroy this temple, and in three days I will raise it up."

20Then the Jews said, "It has taken forty-six years to build this temple, and will You raise it up in three days?"

21But He was speaking of the temple of His body. 22Therefore, when He had risen from the dead, His disciples remembered that He had said this to them;[a] and they believed the Scripture and the word which Jesus had said.

The Discerner of Hearts

23Now when He was in Jerusalem at the Passover, during the feast, many believed in His name when they saw the signs which He did. 24But Jesus did not commit Himself to them, because He knew all men, 25and had no need that anyone should testify of man, for He knew what was in man.

The New Birth

3 There was a man of the Pharisees named Nicodemus, a ruler of the Jews. 2This man came to Jesus by night and said to Him, "Rabbi, we know that You are a teacher come from God; for no one can do these signs that You do unless God is with him."

3Jesus answered and said to him, "Most assuredly, I say to you, unless one is born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God."

2:19–22 The temple in Jerusalem was the central place for Jewish worship, the dwelling place of the presence of God. King David planned to build the temple, but his son Solomon actually built it. This building stood for almost 400 years, but it was finally plundered and burned by the Babylonians in 586 B.C. The Jews in Babylon were given permission to rebuild the temple, and the new governor, Zerubbabel, completed the structure in 516 B.C. Beginning in 19 B.C., Herod added to the temple and refurbished it so that it was much more magnificent than Zerubbabel's temple. Mary and Joseph brought the infant Jesus to be circumcised in this temple, and Jesus taught there at age 12. It was destroyed in A.D. 70 by the Romans under Titus. The Jews thought Jesus referred to Herod's temple in Jerusalem. Jesus, however, did not say He would destroy the actual temple building. Jesus was speaking of Himself as the temple and of His own death and Resurrection.

3:1 Nicodemus, a pious and knowledgeable teacher, was a Pharisee and a member of the Jewish Sanhedrin. This highest Jewish court had 70 distinguished members. Nicodemus came from an important aristocratic family in Jerusalem and was an authority on Scripture. His coming at night could have been for any of several reasons: He wanted to speak to Jesus in secret so as not to arouse suspicion or to evoke criticism among his Sanhedrin colleagues; he wanted the privacy that night afforded so as not to be competitive with, nor intimidated by, the daytime crowds that surrounded Jesus; because of the darkness of his own great sins, he may have wanted private counsel with Jesus, the Light (v. 2); or perhaps he simply could not wait until morning. Nicodemus later publicly participated in Jesus' burial by supplying abundant spices to be folded within the shroud wrapped around Jesus' body.

3:3–10 Nicodemus was confused by Jesus' emphasis on rebirth. The word "again" (Gk. anothen) has several meanings: "from conception" or "the very beginning," "anew" or "a sec-

4 Nicodemus said to Him, "How can a man be born when he is old? Can he enter a second time into his mother's womb and be born?"
5 Jesus answered, "Most assuredly, I say to you, unless one is born of water and the Spirit, he cannot enter the kingdom of God. 6 That which is born of the flesh is flesh, and that which is born of the Spirit is spirit. 7 Do not marvel that I said to you, 'You must be born again.' 8 The wind blows where it wishes, and you hear the sound of it, but cannot tell where it comes from and where it goes. So is everyone who is born of the Spirit." 9 Nicodemus answered and said to Him, "How can these things be?"
10 Jesus answered and said to him, "Are you the teacher of Israel, and do not know these things?
11 Most assuredly, I say to you, We speak what We know and testify what We have seen, and you do not receive Our witness. 12 If I have told you earthly things and you do not believe, how will you believe if I tell you heavenly things? 13 No one has ascended to heaven but He who came down from heaven, that is, the Son of Man who is in heaven.[a] 14 And as Moses lifted up the serpent in the wilderness, even so must the Son of Man be lifted up, 15 that whoever believes in Him should not perish but[a] have eternal life. 16 For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whoever believes in Him should not perish but have everlasting life. 17 For God did not send His Son into the world to condemn the world, but that the world through Him might be saved.
18 "He who believes in Him is not condemned;
but he who does not believe is condemned already, because he has not believed in the name of the only begotten Son of God. 19 And this is the condemnation, that the light has come into the world, and men loved darkness rather than light, because their deeds were evil. 20 For everyone practicing evil hates the light and does not come to the light, lest his deeds should be exposed. 21 But he who does the truth comes to the light, that his deeds may be clearly seen, that they have been done in God."

John the Baptist Exalts Christ

22 After these things Jesus and His disciples came into the land of Judea, and there He remained with them and baptized. 23 Now John also was baptizing in Aenon near Salim, because there was much water there. And they came and were baptized. 24 For John had not yet been thrown into prison.
25 Then there arose a dispute between some of John's disciples and the Jews about purification.
26 And they came to John and said to him, "Rabbi,
He who was with you beyond the Jordan, to whom you have testified—behold, He is baptizing, and all are coming to Him!" 27 John answered and said, "A man can receive nothing unless it has been given to him from heaven. 28 You yourselves bear me witness, that I said, 'I am not the Christ,' but, 'I have been sent before Him.' 29 He who has the bride is the bridegroom; but the friend of the bridegroom, who stands and hears him, rejoices greatly because of the bridegroom's voice. Therefore this joy of mine is fulfilled. 30 He must increase, but I must decrease. 31 He who comes from above is above all; he who is of the earth is earthly and speaks of the earth. He who comes from heaven is above all.
32 And what He has seen and heard, that He testifies; and no one receives His testimony. 33 He who has received His testimony has certified that God is true. 34 For He whom God has sent speaks the words of God, for God does not give the Spirit by ond time," "from above" or "from God." Nicodemus knew a physical rebirth was impossible. "Spirit" (Gk. pneuma) can also mean "wind," depending on the context. Jesus used the word to illustrate the Spirit's activity. Jesus made the point to Nicodemus that he must be born of the Spirit in order to understand the spiritual things of God.

3:13 Jesus described Himself as the One who descended from heaven, the Son of Man. The description "Son of Man" appears more than 80 times in the gospels, but only four times in the NT outside the gospels. "Son of Man" points to Jesus' special ministry and commission from God; His suffering, death, and Resurrection; and His return.

3:14, 15 John stressed both the shame of the Cross and the majesty of the Resurrection throughout his gospel. God punished the Israelites in the wilderness with deadly serpents after they had complained and spoken against God and Moses (see Num. 21:4–9). Many people were bitten and died. When the people repented and begged for mercy, God told Moses to lift a fiery serpent high upon a pole within the camp. God promised that anyone looking at the raised bronze serpent would be healed of the snake's venomous bite and saved from death. The OT incident pointed to Jesus, who would be lifted up on a Cross as the sacrifice necessary for salvation.

THE SAMARITAN WOMAN

Perhaps in order to avoid the respectable townswomen who filled their water jars at sunrise and sunset, "the Samaritan woman" came to the well at noon, the hottest hour of the day. This immoral woman, who had had five husbands, now lived with a man who was not her husband.

When Jesus purposely passed through Samaria on His way to Galilee, He met and spoke to the woman at Jacob's Well, near the city of Sychar, breaking three major social rules:

- First, women were considered greatly inferior to men; in public no Middle Eastern man ever spoke to a woman, not even to his wife, mother, or sister.
- Second, no Jew ever spoke to a Samaritan. Jews believed Samaritans had betrayed their faith because they had intermarried with foreigners. The Jews and Samaritans hated and avoided each other.
- Third, no self-respecting man, especially a teacher, would ever speak to a woman of such despicable reputation. This woman was a well-known social outcast.

Jesus disregarded these social barriers when He conversed with the Samaritan woman. He revealed Himself as the greatly anticipated Messiah, offering forgiveness, redemption, and new life. She drank from His cup of living water, ran back to town to the very ones who despised her, the people of Samaria. There she proclaimed with unembarrassed excitement the arrival of the promised Messiah.

The people of Samaria eagerly responded to Christ. They, too, yearned for His living water. Later, Jesus would challenge His disciples to witness in Samaria (Acts 1:8), and Philip, a deacon, would open a mission there (Acts 8:5). Yet the Good News of Jesus Christ was first proclaimed to the people of Samaria through the testimony of a sinful, immoral woman who drank the offered water and was forgiven, cleansed, and renewed, never again to thirst.

measure. 35The Father loves the Son, and has given all things into His hand. 36He who believes in the Son has everlasting life; and he who does not believe the Son shall not see life, but the wrath of God abides on him."

A Samaritan Woman Meets Her Messiah

4 Therefore, when the Lord knew that the Pharisees had heard that Jesus made and baptized more disciples than John 2(though Jesus Himself did not baptize, but His disciples), 3He left Judea and departed again to Galilee. 4But He needed to go through Samaria.

5So He came to a city of Samaria which is called Sychar, near the plot of ground that Jacob gave to his son Joseph. 6Now Jacob's well was there. Jesus therefore, being wearied from His journey, sat thus by the well. It was about the sixth hour.

7A woman of Samaria came to draw water. Jesus said to her, "Give Me a drink." 8For His disciples had gone away into the city to buy food.

9Then the woman of Samaria said to Him,
"How is it that You, being a Jew, ask a drink from me, a Samaritan woman?" For Jews have no dealings with Samaritans.

10Jesus answered and said to her, "If you knew the gift of God, and who it is who says to you,
'Give Me a drink,' you would have asked Him, and He would have given you living water."

11The woman said to Him, "Sir, You have nothing to draw with, and the well is deep. Where then do You get that living water? 12Are You greater than our father Jacob, who gave us the well, and drank from it himself, as well as his sons and his livestock?"

13Jesus answered and said to her, "Whoever drinks of this water will thirst again, 14but whoever drinks of the water that I shall give him will never thirst. But the water that I shall give him will become in him a fountain of water springing up into everlasting life."

15The woman said to Him, "Sir, give me this water, that I may not thirst, nor come here to draw."

4:4–6 Jesus did not follow the usual way for Jews to travel between Galilee and Judea, which was to avoid Samaritan territory by crossing to the east bank of the Jordan River (vv. 3, 4). At Sychar, Jacob bought a piece of land from the children of Hamor for 100 pieces of money and pitched his tent (v. 5; see Gen. 33:18–20). While Jesus was resting at Jacob's well, a site not mentioned in the OT, He met the Samaritan woman (see The Samaritan Woman).

4:7 For a woman to come to the well at noon, the hottest part of the day, was unusual. Middle Eastern women usually filled their water jars in the early morning and at sunset, when it was cooler. The Samaritan woman was a woman of bad reputation and may have filled her jars at noon in order to avoid meeting other women who would shun her.

4:9 Jesus simply disregarded the social rules of His day in order to talk with the Samaritan woman.

Jesus did not take volunteers as disciples. He put His finger on each one . . . because He saw potential in them.

16 Jesus said to her, "Go, call your husband, and come here."
17 The woman answered and said, "I have no husband."
Jesus said to her, "You have well said, 'I have no husband,' 18 for you have had five husbands, and the one whom you now have is not your husband;
in that you spoke truly."
19 The woman said to Him, "Sir, I perceive that You are a prophet. 20 Our fathers worshiped on this mountain, and you Jews say that in Jerusalem is the place where one ought to worship." 21 Jesus said to her, "Woman, believe Me, the hour is coming when you will neither on this mountain, nor in Jerusalem, worship the Father.
22 You worship what you do not know; we know what we worship, for salvation is of the Jews. 23 But the hour is coming, and now is, when the true worshipers will worship the Father in spirit and truth; for the Father is seeking such to worship Him. 24 God is Spirit, and those who worship Him must worship in spirit and truth." 25 The woman said to Him, "I know that Messiah is coming" (who is called Christ). "When He comes, He will tell us all things."
26 Jesus said to her, "I who speak to you am He."

The Whitened Harvest

27 And at this point His disciples came, and they marveled that He talked with a woman; yet no one said, "What do You seek?" or, "Why are You talking with her?"
28 The woman then left her waterpot, went her way into the city, and said to the men, 29 "Come, see a Man who told me all things that I ever did.
Could this be the Christ?" 30 Then they went out of the city and came to Him.
31 In the meantime His disciples urged Him, saying, "Rabbi, eat."
32 But He said to them, "I have food to eat of which you do not know."
33 Therefore the disciples said to one another,
"Has anyone brought Him anything to eat?" 34 Jesus said to them, "My food is to do the will of Him who sent Me, and to finish His work. 35 Do you not say, 'There are still four months and then comes the harvest'? Behold, I say to you, lift up your eyes and look at the fields, for they are already white for harvest! 36 And he who reaps receives wages, and gathers fruit for eternal life, that both he who sows and he who reaps may rejoice together. 37 For in this the saying is true: 'One sows and another reaps.' 38 I sent you to reap that for which you have not labored; others have labored, and you have entered into their labors."

The Savior of the World

39 And many of the Samaritans of that city believed in Him because of the word of the woman who testified, "He told me all that I ever did." 40 So when the Samaritans had come to Him, they urged Him to stay with them; and He stayed there two days. 41 And many more believed because of His own word.
42 Then they said to the woman, "Now we believe, not because of what you said, for we ourselves have heard Him and we know that this is indeed the Christ,[a] the Savior of the world."

Welcome at Galilee

43 Now after the two days He departed from there and went to Galilee. 44 For Jesus Himself testified that a prophet has no honor in his own country. 45 So when He came to Galilee, the Galileans received Him, having seen all the things
He did in Jerusalem at the feast; for they also had gone to the feast.

A Nobleman's Son Healed

46 So Jesus came again to Cana of Galilee where He had made the water wine. And there was a certain nobleman whose son was sick at Capernaum.
47 When he heard that Jesus had come out of Judea into Galilee, he went to Him and implored Him to 4:20–24 The ancient city of Samaria was located about 40 miles north of Jerusalem. Years before, a remnant of Israel's Jews in Samaria had intermarried with Gentiles and had begun to worship foreign gods. The Samaritans worshiped at Mount Gerizim, where they had been given permission to build a temple. A small Samaritan community continues to worship there even now.

4:25, 26 The Jews of Samaria were also awaiting the arrival of the promised Messiah (see Deut. 18:15, 18). Jesus told the Samaritan woman that He was the long-awaited Messiah. The woman believed Jesus' self-disclosure and told others the Good News.

4:46 The man was a royal official in the court of Herod Antipas, the tetrarch of Galilee. Whether he was a Jew or Gentile is not known. The fact that a nobleman would request the help of a "carpenter" is extraordinary.

WOMEN'S MINISTRIES — WOMEN IN EVANGELISM

Jesus affirmed the ministry of women in evangelism. This was most evident in His interaction with the Samaritan woman at the well of Sychar (John 4:1–30). Culturally, Jews and Samaritans did not associate with each other. Moreover, for a rabbi to speak to a woman in public was considered improper. Christ's regard for this woman was therefore truly revolutionary. After their meeting, she returned to her city and presented her witness. Many believed in Him because of her testimony (vv. 28, 39). At that time, women were not considered reliable witnesses; yet Christ chose a woman as His witness.

God chose women as the first witnesses of Christ's Resurrection (Matt. 28:1–8), and they were entrusted with Christ's first post-Resurrection message to His disciples (John 20:15–18). The coming of the Spirit reinforced the role of women in evangelism. Women, together with men, were empowered to be witnesses to the ends of the earth (Acts 1:8). The establishment of the Philippian church involved women (Acts 16:11–15), and women were also involved in spreading the gospel in Berea (Acts 17:12). New Testament women, along with men, were commissioned to be the "light of the world" and were thus extensively involved in the ministry of evangelism (Matt. 5:14–16).

come down and heal his son, for he was at the point of death. 48Then Jesus said to him, "Unless you people see signs and wonders, you will by no means believe."

49The nobleman said to Him, "Sir, come down before my child dies!"

50Jesus said to him, "Go your way; your son lives." So the man believed the word that Jesus spoke to him, and he went his way. 51And as he was now going down, his servants met him and told him, saying, "Your son lives!"

52Then he inquired of them the hour when he got better. And they said to him, "Yesterday at the seventh hour the fever left him." 53So the father knew that it was at the same hour in which Jesus said to him, "Your son lives." And he himself believed, and his whole household.

54This again is the second sign Jesus did when He had come out of Judea into Galilee.

A Man Healed at the Pool of Bethesda

5 After this there was a feast of the Jews, and Jesus went up to Jerusalem. 2Now there is in Jerusalem by the Sheep Gate a pool, which is called in Hebrew, Bethesda,[a] having five porches. 3In these lay a great multitude of sick people, blind, lame, paralyzed, waiting for the moving of the water. 4For an angel went down at a certain time into the pool and stirred up the water; then whoever stepped in first, after the stirring of the water, was made well of whatever disease he had.[a] 5Now a certain man was there who had an infirmity thirty-eight years. 6When Jesus saw him lying there, and knew that he already had been in that condition a long time, He said to him, "Do you want to be made well?"

7The sick man answered Him, "Sir, I have no man to put me into the pool when the water is stirred up; but while I am coming, another steps down before me."

8Jesus said to him, "Rise, take up your bed and walk." 9And immediately the man was made well, took up his bed, and walked.

And that day was the Sabbath. 10The Jews therefore said to him who was cured, "It is the Sabbath; it is not lawful for you to carry your bed."

11He answered them, "He who made me well said to me, 'Take up your bed and walk.' "

12Then they asked him, "Who is the Man who

5:2 [a]NU-Text reads Bethzatha. 5:4 [a]NU-Text omits waiting for the moving of the water at the end of verse 3, and all of verse 4.

4:53 An ordinary household with its variety of relationships was basic to society in ancient times. The word "household" could suggest an immediate family, the servants of that family, an extended family, and even the descendants of a particular nation. The head of the household usually determined the faith of the household. Thus, it was that the nobleman's "whole household" followed him in believing in Jesus.

5:2 The Sheep Gate is one of the entrances carved into Jerusalem's city wall. Pools were reservoirs, often cut from stone, that collected rainwater for drinking and other purposes. Water was a valuable and precious resource in the arid Middle East. These pools were usually deep enough for swimming. The pool at Bethesda was a famous place where the handicapped and sick gathered because of its reputed healing properties.

5:10 The Sabbath was the seventh day of the week, the day God rested from creating the world (Gen. 2:2, 3). It was a holy day of rest for all Jews, as well as foreigners, slaves, and even animals (see chart, The Principle of the Sabbath). Desecration of the Sabbath could be punished by death. The prohibition against carrying one's bed on the Sabbath was just one of the numerous oral laws (a part of the tradition of the elders) that had grown from the Law of Moses.

said to you, 'Take up your bed and walk'?" 13But the one who was healed did not know who it was, for Jesus had withdrawn, a multitude being in that place. 14Afterward Jesus found him in the temple, and said to him, "See, you have been made well. Sin no more, lest a worse thing come upon you."

15The man departed and told the Jews that it was Jesus who had made him well.

Honor the Father and the Son

16For this reason the Jews persecuted Jesus, and sought to kill Him,[a] because He had done these things on the Sabbath. 17But Jesus answered them, "My Father has been working until now, and I have been working."

18Therefore the Jews sought all the more to kill Him, because He not only broke the Sabbath, but also said that God was His Father, making Himself equal with God. 19Then Jesus answered and said to them, "Most assuredly, I say to you, the Son can do nothing of Himself, but what He sees the Father do; for whatever He does, the Son also does in like manner. 20For the Father loves the Son, and shows Him all things that He Himself does; and He will show Him greater works than these, that you may marvel. 21For as the Father raises the dead and gives life to them, even so the Son gives life to whom He will. 22For the Father judges no one, but has committed all judgment to the Son, 23that all should honor the Son just as they honor the Father. He who does not honor the Son does not honor the Father who sent Him.

Life and Judgment Are Through the Son

24"Most assuredly, I say to you, he who hears My word and believes in Him who sent Me has everlasting life, and shall not come into judgment, but has passed from death into life. 25Most assuredly, I say to you, the hour is coming, and now is, when the dead will hear the voice of the Son of God; and those who hear will live. 26For as the Father has life in Himself, so He has granted the Son to have life in Himself, 27and has given Him authority to execute judgment also, because He is the Son of Man. 28Do not marvel at this; for the hour is coming in which all who are in the graves will hear His voice 29and come forth—those who have done good, to the resurrection of life, and those who have done evil, to the resurrection of condemnation. 30I can of Myself do nothing. As I hear, I judge; and My judgment is righteous, because I do not seek My own will but the will of the Father who sent Me.

The Fourfold Witness

31"If I bear witness of Myself, My witness is not true. 32There is another who bears witness of Me, and I know that the witness which He witnesses of Me is true. 33You have sent to John, and he has borne witness to the truth. 34Yet I do not receive testimony from man, but I say these things that you may be saved. 35He was the burning and shining lamp, and you were willing for a time to rejoice in his light. 36But I have a greater witness than John's; for the works which the Father has given Me to finish—the very works that I do—bear witness of Me, that the Father has sent Me. 37And the Father Himself, who sent Me, has testified of Me. You have neither heard His voice at any time, nor seen His form. 38But you do not have His word abiding in you, because whom He sent, Him you do not believe. 39You search the Scriptures, for in them you think you have eternal life; and these are they which testify of Me. 40But you are not willing to come to Me that you may have life.

41"I do not receive honor from men. 42But I know you, that you do not have the love of God in you. 43I have come in My Father's name, and you do not receive Me; if another comes in his own name, him you will receive. 44How can you believe, who receive honor from one another, and do not seek the honor that comes from the only God? 45Do not think that I shall accuse you to the Father; there is one who accuses you—Moses, in whom you trust. 46For if you believed Moses, you would believe Me; for he wrote about Me. 47But if you do not believe his writings, how will you believe My words?"

Feeding the Five Thousand

6 After these things Jesus went over the Sea of Galilee, which is the Sea of Tiberias. 2Then a great multitude followed Him, because they saw His signs which He performed on those who were diseased. 3And Jesus went up on the mountain, and there He sat with His disciples.

4Now the Passover, a feast of the Jews, was near. 5Then Jesus lifted up His eyes, and seeing a great multitude coming toward Him, He said to Philip, "Where shall we buy bread, that these may eat?" 6But this He said to test him, for He Himself knew what He would do.

7Philip answered Him, "Two hundred denarii worth of bread is not sufficient for them, that every one of them may have a little."

8One of His disciples, Andrew, Simon Peter's brother, said to Him, 9"There is a lad here who has five barley loaves and two small fish, but what are they among so many?"

10Then Jesus said, "Make the people sit down." Now there was much grass in the place. So the men sat down, in number about five thousand.

5:16 [a]NU-Text omits and sought to kill Him.

PROBLEM SOLVING SEEKING GOD'S SOLUTION

The first step in overcoming problems, whether they are physical, emotional, or spiritual, is to admit you are in need and desire a change. Jesus asked the man who had been lying by the Bethesda pool for thirty-eight years a very important question: "Do you want to be made well?" (John 5:1–15). In other words, Do you care enough about your problem to do something about it—even if it requires on your part some action, effort, sacrifice, or even suffering?

As is typical of so many in need, this man answered the Lord with self-pity. When Jesus sees you in need of help and sends a willing person to help, do you play the martyr role? "There's no hope for me. Nobody loves me." The person who clings to this attitude is unlikely to experience healing.

Because Jesus is gracious and knows your deepest desires, He often cuts through your weeping and self-martyrdom and puts you to the test. "Get up," He says. "Take your problem and move on. Do not wait for other people to pity you. Get up."

If you are in need of a touch from the Lord, ask yourself if you are so eager to be changed that you are willing to do something about your situation. When you let God know you are obedient to His will and eager to do whatever it takes for you to be whole, He will send Jesus in the form of a person, a verse from His Word, or a new thought in your mind. Act upon what God tells you to do. He made you, and He knows how to fix precisely what is broken within you.

Finally, when you feel God's power bring about positive changes in your life, do not let doubters convince you these changes are only coincidence. Walk firmly away as did the man with his mat under his arm and say simply "Jesus healed me."

[11]And Jesus took the loaves, and when He had given thanks He distributed them to the disciples, and the disciples[a] to those sitting down; and likewise of the fish, as much as they wanted. [12]So when they were filled, He said to His disciples, "Gather up the fragments that remain, so that nothing is lost." [13]Therefore they gathered them up, and filled twelve baskets with the fragments of the five barley loaves which were left over by those who had eaten. [14]Then those men, when they had seen the sign that Jesus did, said, "This is truly the Prophet who is to come into the world."

Jesus Walks on the Sea

[15]Therefore when Jesus perceived that they were about to come and take Him by force to make Him king, He departed again to the mountain by Himself alone.

[16]Now when evening came, His disciples went down to the sea, [17]got into the boat, and went over the sea toward Capernaum. And it was already dark, and Jesus had not come to them. [18]Then the sea arose because a great wind was blowing. [19]So when they had rowed about three or four miles,[a] they saw Jesus walking on the sea and drawing near the boat; and they were afraid. [20]But He said to them, "It is I; do not be afraid." [21]Then they willingly received Him into the boat, and immediately the boat was at the land where they were going.

The Bread from Heaven

[22]On the following day, when the people who were standing on the other side of the sea saw that there was no other boat there, except that one which His disciples had entered,[a] and that Jesus had not entered the boat with His disciples, but His disciples had gone away alone— [23]however, other boats came from Tiberias, near the place where they ate bread after the Lord had given thanks— [24]when the people therefore saw that Jesus was not there, nor His disciples, they also got into boats and came to Capernaum, seek-

6:15 The Jews awaited the Prophet (the Messiah) that Moses had promised to them (Deut. 18:15). After the feeding of the 5,000, the crowd believed that Jesus was that Prophet, the Promised One. Jesus, like Moses, had miraculously fed the large crowds. They thought, however, that their Messiah would become a conqueror. Therefore, the crowd reacted strongly, even violently, and sought to capture or kidnap Jesus to take Him to Jerusalem and make Him their king. They wanted Jesus to assume political leadership, to set up a kingdom, and to release them from the yoke of Roman authority. Jesus understood the situation and slipped away into the mountains to escape them.

ing Jesus. 25And when they found Him on the other side of the sea, they said to Him, "Rabbi, when did You come here?"

26Jesus answered them and said, "Most assuredly, I say to you, you seek Me, not because you saw the signs, but because you ate of the loaves and were filled. 27Do not labor for the food which perishes, but for the food which endures to everlasting life, which the Son of Man will give you, because God the Father has set His seal on Him."

28Then they said to Him, "What shall we do, that we may work the works of God?"

29Jesus answered and said to them, "This is the work of God, that you believe in Him whom He sent."

30Therefore they said to Him, "What sign will You perform then, that we may see it and believe You? What work will You do? 31Our fathers ate the manna in the desert; as it is written, 'He gave them bread from heaven to eat.' "[a]

32Then Jesus said to them, "Most assuredly, I say to you, Moses did not give you the bread from heaven, but My Father gives you the true bread from heaven. 33For the bread of God is He who comes down from heaven and gives life to the world."

34Then they said to Him, "Lord, give us this bread always."

35And Jesus said to them, "I am the bread of life. He who comes to Me shall never hunger, and he who believes in Me shall never thirst. 36But I said to you that you have seen Me and yet do not believe. 37All that the Father gives Me will come to Me, and the one who comes to Me I will by no means cast out. 38For I have come down from heaven, not to do My own will, but the will of Him who sent Me. 39This is the will of the Father who sent Me, that of all He has given Me I should lose nothing, but should raise it up at the last day. 40And this is the will of Him who sent Me, that everyone who sees the Son and believes in Him may have everlasting life; and I will raise him up at the last day."

Rejected by His Own

41The Jews then complained about Him, because He said, "I am the bread which came down from heaven." 42And they said, "Is not this Jesus, the son of Joseph, whose father and mother we know? How is it then that He says, 'I have come down from heaven'?"

43Jesus therefore answered and said to them, "Do not murmur among yourselves. 44No one can come to Me unless the Father who sent Me draws him; and I will raise him up at the last day. 45It is written in the prophets, 'And they shall all be taught by God.'[a] Therefore everyone who has heard and learned[b] from the Father comes to Me. 46Not that anyone has seen the Father, except He who is from God; He has seen the Father. 47Most assuredly, I say to you, he who believes in Me[a] has everlasting life. 48I am the bread of life. 49Your fathers ate the manna in the wilderness, and are dead. 50This is the bread which comes down from heaven, that one may eat of it and not die. 51I am the living bread which came down from heaven. If anyone eats of this bread, he will live forever; and the bread that I shall give is My flesh, which I shall give for the life of the world."

52The Jews therefore quarreled among themselves, saying, "How can this Man give us His flesh to eat?"

53Then Jesus said to them, "Most assuredly, I say to you, unless you eat the flesh of the Son of Man and drink His blood, you have no life in you. 54Whoever eats My flesh and drinks My blood has eternal life, and I will raise him up at the last day. 55For My flesh is food indeed,[a] and My blood is drink indeed. 56He who eats My flesh and drinks My blood abides in Me, and I in him. 57As the living Father sent Me, and I live because of the Father, so he who feeds on Me will live because of Me. 58This is the bread which came down from 6:31 [a]Exodus 16:4; Nehemiah 9:15; Psalm 78:24 6:45 [a]Isaiah 54:13 [b]M-Text reads hears and has learned. 6:47 [a]NU-Text omits in Me. 6:55 [a]NU-Text reads true food and true drink.

6:31–33 God supplied manna to feed the Israelites as they fled Egyptian slavery and as they traveled, with Moses as their leader, for 40 years throughout the wilderness. Manna, a small, round substance, appeared each morning with the dew. This "bread from heaven" was then gathered, made into cakes, and either baked or boiled (see Ex. 16:13–36). The people believed that when the Messiah came, He would bring them "manna." The OT "manna" pointed to the true Bread of Heaven, Jesus.

6:52–57 Flesh and blood represented life, in particular Christ's self-sacrificed life fueled by His self-sacrificing love. "My flesh" referred to Jesus' body, which He gave up in death (v. 54). "My blood" referred to the shedding of His blood on the cross at Calvary (v. 54). This imagery would sound familiar to those from pagan backgrounds in ancient times. They routinely offered sacrifices to their gods and actually ate part of the cooked flesh of the sacrifice. They would have considered eating the sacrificed flesh as becoming one with a god, in the sense of sharing an identity with that deity. The Jew of Jesus' day would have understood blood to stand for life. Thus, to drink Jesus' blood would suggest bringing His life into their lives. This paradox then explains both the essence of the gospel (Christ's sacrifice of His life) and the essence of personal holiness (our unique partaking of His life into our own). Christ came from the Father to offer the gift of Himself to all who would receive Him (vv. 51, 54, 56).

EVANGELISM DIVINE APPOINTMENTS

Jesus took every opportunity to make the message of God's love and forgiveness known. Although He was weary as He sat by the well of Sychar, He accepted the arrival of a woman from Samaria as a "divine appointment." Asking for a drink of water, He got her attention and engaged her in conversation, then proceeded to make His message relevant to her life and situation. What a great example of how believers can share their faith!

Just as women are increasingly choosing the "good life" without regard for biblical standards, this woman had chosen to live in a way that was not pleasing to God. Many are looking for what they perceive to be the best quality of life without regard for the relevancy of Christ's message to their daily lives.

Without an application of biblical standards, individuals as well as an entire nation tend to sink into moral decadence and disintegrate. The Bible alone is God's textbook about how to relate to God and to one another—husbands to wives, parents to children, employer to employee, friend to friend. Your view of God will determine much of your lifestyle. God has given His timeless blueprint, which when followed humbly and with obedience, gives the greatest quality of life the human heart can know.

Christian women have the "fresh water" for which the thirsty hearts of all people yearn. They must learn to make His message relevant, to anticipate divine appointments, and to be ready to show that the life Jesus offers is desirable and attractive.

Jesus always met with those who had honest questions or needs on their terms regarding place, method of access, or style of communication. He never, however, changed His message or altered the way in which He loved.

heaven—not as your fathers ate the manna, and are dead. He who eats this bread will live forever."

59These things He said in the synagogue as He taught in Capernaum.

Many Disciples Turn Away

60Therefore many of His disciples, when they heard this, said, "This is a hard saying; who can understand it?"

61When Jesus knew in Himself that His disciples complained about this, He said to them, "Does this offend you? 62*What* then if you should see the Son of Man ascend where He was before? 63It is the Spirit who gives life; the flesh profits nothing. The words that I speak to you are spirit, and they are life. 64But there are some of you who do not believe." For Jesus knew from the beginning who they were who did not believe, and who would betray Him. 65And He said, "Therefore I have said to you that no one can come to Me unless it has been granted to him by My Father."

66From that time many of His disciples went back and walked with Him no more. 67Then Jesus said to the twelve, "Do you also want to go away?"

68But Simon Peter answered Him, "Lord, to whom shall we go? You have the words of eternal life. 69Also we have come to believe and know that You are the Christ, the Son of the living God."[a] 70Jesus answered them, "Did I not choose you, the twelve, and one of you is a devil?" 71He spoke of Judas Iscariot, the son of Simon, for it was he who would betray Him, being one of the twelve.

Jesus' Brothers Disbelieve

7 After these things Jesus walked in Galilee; for He did not want to walk in Judea, because the Jews[a] sought to kill Him. 2Now the Jews' Feast of Tabernacles was at hand. 3His brothers therefore said to Him, "Depart from here and go into Judea, that Your disciples also may see the works that You

6:66–69 The crowd that followed Jesus was very large, but they began to discover that His teachings were difficult to put into practice. In fact, following Him pointed to the possibility of sharing in His suffering and violent death. Slowly His disciples began to fall away. Perhaps those who left Jesus could foresee or anticipate the "tragedy" that would befall Jesus at the hands of the Roman government. Others, perhaps, lost interest or hope in Jesus. Their action prompted Jesus to ask the 12 disciples if they, too, would "go away." Jesus was not surprised by the many who turned away from Him. He knew of their discontentment, for He could read their hearts.

7:2 The Feast of Tabernacles (or Feast of Ingathering) lasted seven days (see chart, The Feasts of Israel). The celebrations are doing. [4]For no one does anything in secret while he himself seeks to be known openly. If You do these things, show Yourself to the world." [5]For even His brothers did not believe in Him.

[6]Then Jesus said to them, "My time has not yet come, but your time is always ready. [7]The world cannot hate you, but it hates Me because I testify of it that its works are evil. [8]You go up to this feast. I am not yet[a] going up to this feast, for My time has not yet fully come." [9]When He had said these things to them, He remained in Galilee.

The Heavenly Scholar

[10]But when His brothers had gone up, then He also went up to the feast, not openly, but as it were in secret. [11]Then the Jews sought Him at the feast, and said, "Where is He?" [12]And there was much complaining among the people concerning Him. Some said, "He is good"; others said, "No, on the contrary, He deceives the people." [13]However, no one spoke openly of Him for fear of the Jews.

[14]Now about the middle of the feast Jesus went up into the temple and taught. [15]And the Jews marveled, saying, "How does this Man know letters, having never studied?"

[16]Jesus[a] answered them and said, "My doctrine is not Mine, but His who sent Me. [17]If anyone wills to do His will, he shall know concerning the doctrine, whether it is from God or whether I speak on My own authority. [18]He who speaks from himself seeks his own glory; but He who seeks the glory of the One who sent Him is true, and no unrighteousness is in Him. [19]Did not Moses give you the law, yet none of you keeps the law? Why do you seek to kill Me?"

[20]The people answered and said, "You have a demon. Who is seeking to kill You?"

[21]Jesus answered and said to them, "I did one work, and you all marvel. [22]Moses therefore gave you circumcision (not that it is from Moses, but from the fathers), and you circumcise a man on the Sabbath. [23]If a man receives circumcision on the Sabbath, so that the law of Moses should not be broken, are you angry with Me because I made a man completely well on the Sabbath? [24]Do not judge according to appearance, but judge with righteous judgment."

Could This Be the Christ?

[25]Now some of them from Jerusalem said, "Is this not He whom they seek to kill? [26]But look! He speaks boldly, and they say nothing to Him. Do the rulers know indeed that this is truly[a] the Christ? [27]However, we know where this Man is from; but when the Christ comes, no one knows where He is from."

[28]Then Jesus cried out, as He taught in the temple, saying, "You both know Me, and you know where I am from; and I have not come of Myself, but He who sent Me is true, whom you do not know. [29]But[a] I know Him, for I am from Him, and He sent Me."

[30]Therefore they sought to take Him; but no one laid a hand on Him, because His hour had not yet come. [31]And many of the people believed in Him, and said, "When the Christ comes, will He do more signs than these which this Man has done?"

Jesus and the Religious Leaders

[32]The Pharisees heard the crowd murmuring these things concerning Him, and the Pharisees and the chief priests sent officers to take Him. [33]Then Jesus said to them,[a] "I shall be with you a little while longer, and then I go to Him who sent Me. [34]You will seek Me and not find Me, and where I am you cannot come."

[35]Then the Jews said among themselves, included the ingathering of crops. Participants made booths or "tabernacles" of tree branches. These booths represented shelter and protection. The Israelites lived in these booths throughout the festival period in order to remember their fathers who, when they left Egypt and journeyed in the wilderness, had lived in similar structures.

7:34 Jesus spoke to nominal disciples, those who were not willing to invest their lives in a personal commitment to Him. Jesus referred to His death, telling them that He would go to the Father and they would not be able to find Him. These Jews had put their trust in belonging to the family of Abraham. They had not put their trust in God's plan of salvation through Jesus. Jesus told them, in effect, that when they did come to an understanding of God and the Good News and wanted to place their faith in Him, it would then be too late.

7:35 God had given the Jews the land of Palestine, the Promised Land, for an inheritance. The Dispersion or Diaspora, which took place over several centuries, was responsible for forcing the Jews out of Palestine. This scattering of the Jews throughout the world was due to the Assyrians' capture

FORGIVEN ADULTERESS

The woman caught in the very act of sexual immorality is simply known as the adulteress. Israel's covenant law prohibited adultery (Ex. 20:14). The punishment of death was dictated for both the adulterous man and woman (Lev. 20:10). Yet while this woman faced death, the man with whom she had been involved went free.

The accusing scribes and Pharisees threw the woman at Jesus' feet. They sought to trap Jesus between His allegiance to the Law and His merciful love for all, even those who violated the Law.

The adulteress was guilty of sin. The Mosaic Law stated that she deserved the sentence of death (Deut. 17:5, 6). The zealous religious leaders quoted the Law and waited impatiently for Jesus to respond.

Then Jesus answered, slowly and wisely. For the Messiah clarified the Law's intent and reminded each religious leader of his own sins and of his own guilt in breaking the Law of Moses. Each one knew, somewhere deep within his own sinful heart, that he, too, deserved the sentence of death.

Jesus also affirmed the sanctity of marriage, making it clear that men, as well as women, are expected to keep their vows. He did not condemn the woman caught in the act of adultery. Instead, He forgave her, as He would later forgive the very people who nailed Him to a Cross (see John 3:17). Jesus faced the sentence of death Himself, for the adulteress, for the sinful scribes and Pharisees, for everyone. His grace provides hope for every sinful soul (see John 8:12).

The Promise of the Holy Spirit

37On the last day, that great day of the feast, Jesus stood and cried out, saying, "If anyone thirsts, let him come to Me and drink. 38He who believes in Me, as the Scripture has said, out of his heart will flow rivers of living water." 39But this He spoke concerning the Spirit, whom those believing[a] in Him would receive; for the Holy[b] Spirit was not yet given, because Jesus was not yet glorified.

Who Is He?

40Therefore many[a] from the crowd, when they heard this saying, said, "Truly this is the Prophet." 41Others said, "This is the Christ."

But some said, "Will the Christ come out of Galilee? 42Has not the Scripture said that the Christ comes from the seed of David and from the town of Bethlehem, where David was?" 43So there was a division among the people because of Him. 44Now some of them wanted to take Him, but no one laid hands on Him.

Rejected by the Authorities

45Then the officers came to the chief priests and Pharisees, who said to them, "Why have you not brought Him?"

46The officers answered, "No man ever spoke like this Man!"

47Then the Pharisees answered them, "Are you also deceived? 48Have any of the rulers or the Pharisees believed in Him? 49But this crowd that does not know the law is accursed."

50Nicodemus (he who came to Jesus by night,[a] being one of them) said to them, 51"Does our law judge a man before it hears him and knows what he is doing?"

52They answered and said to him, "Are you also from Galilee? Search and look, for no prophet has arisen[a] out of Galilee."

2Now early[a] in the morning He came again into the temple, and all the people came to Him;

of Israel (722 B.C.), the capture of Judah by the Babylonians (586 B.C.), and other wars fought in Palestine by the Romans and Greeks. Some simply came upon hard times and emigrated to other places to find work and resources. In Jesus' time, as many Jews lived outside of Palestine as lived in the Land.

7:38 The particular quotation from Scripture used by Jesus has never been identified with certainty. He probably had in mind Psalm 78:15, 16 and Zechariah 14:8 (see also Ezek. 47:1–11; Rev. 22:1, 2). The "heart" was believed to be the seat of the emotions, the innermost being of a person. In essence, Jesus said that the person would have a continual, life-giving source of satisfaction within.

The gate of Heaven is very low; only the humble can enter it.

and He sat down and taught them. 3Then the scribes and Pharisees brought to Him a woman caught in adultery. And when they had set her in the midst, 4they said to Him, "Teacher, this woman was caught[a] in adultery, in the very act. 5Now Moses, in the law, commanded[a] us that such should be stoned.[b] But what do You say?"[c] 6This they said, testing Him, that they might have something of which to accuse Him. But Jesus stooped down and wrote on the ground with His finger, as though He did not hear.[a]

7So when they continued asking Him, He raised Himself up[a] and said to them, "He who is without sin among you, let him throw a stone at her first." 8And again He stooped down and wrote on the ground. 9Then those who heard it, being convicted by their conscience,[a] went out one by one, beginning with the oldest even to the last. And Jesus was left alone, and the woman standing in the midst. 10When Jesus had raised Himself up and saw no one but the woman, He said to her,[a] "Woman, where are those accusers of yours?[b] Has no one condemned you?"

11She said, "No one, Lord."

And Jesus said to her, "Neither do I condemn you; go and[a] sin no more."

12Then Jesus spoke to them again, saying, "I am the light of the world. He who follows Me shall not walk in darkness, but have the light of life."

Jesus Defends His Self-Witness

13The Pharisees therefore said to Him, "You bear witness of Yourself; Your witness is not true."

14Jesus answered and said to them, "Even if I bear witness of Myself, My witness is true, for I know where I came from and where I am going; but you do not know where I come from and where I am going. 15You judge according to the flesh; I judge no one. 16And yet if I do judge, My judgment is true; for I am not alone, but I am with the Father who sent Me. 17It is also written in your law that the testimony of two men is true. 18I am One who bears witness of Myself, and the Father who sent Me bears witness of Me."

19Then they said to Him, "Where is Your Father?"

Jesus answered, "You know neither Me nor My Father. If you had known Me, you would have known My Father also."

20These words Jesus spoke in the treasury, as He taught in the temple; and no one laid hands on Him, for His hour had not yet come.

Jesus Predicts His Departure

21Then Jesus said to them again, "I am going away, and you will seek Me, and will die in your sin. Where I go you cannot come."

22So the Jews said, "Will He kill Himself, because He says, 'Where I go you cannot come'?"

23And He said to them, "You are from beneath; I am from above. You are of this world; I am not of this world. 24Therefore I said to you that you will die in your sins; for if you do not believe that I am He, you will die in your sins."

25Then they said to Him, "Who are You?"

And Jesus said to them, "Just what I have been saying to you from the beginning. 26I have many things to say and to judge concerning you, but He who sent Me is true; and I speak to the world those things which I heard from Him."

27They did not understand that He spoke to them of the Father.

28Then Jesus said to them, "When you lift up the Son of Man, then you will know that I am He, and that I do nothing of Myself; but as My Father taught Me, I speak these things. 29And He who sent Me is with Me. The Father has not left Me alone, for I always do those things that please Him." 30As He spoke these words, many believed in Him.

The Truth Shall Make You Free

8:4, 5 The Law of Moses had strict rules about sexuality (Ex. 20:14). The punishment for adultery was death by stoning for both the man and the woman (Lev. 20:10). If Jesus confirmed the death penalty, His compassion would be questioned; if He refused to confirm the penalty, He would be accused of contradicting God's Law. He wisely referred the question to the woman's accusers, for Jewish law also called for the witness to cast the first stone in the case of capital punishment (see Forgiven Adulteress).

indeed. 32And you shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free."

33They answered Him, "We are Abraham's descendants, and have never been in bondage to anyone. How can You say, 'You will be made free'?"

34Jesus answered them, "Most assuredly, I say to you, whoever commits sin is a slave of sin. 35And a slave does not abide in the house forever, but a son abides forever. 36Therefore if the Son makes you free, you shall be free indeed.

Abraham's Seed and Satan's

37"I know that you are Abraham's descendants, but you seek to kill Me, because My word has no place in you. 38I speak what I have seen with My Father, and you do what you have seen with[a] your father."

39They answered and said to Him, "Abraham is our father."

Jesus said to them, "If you were Abraham's children, you would do the works of Abraham. 40But now you seek to kill Me, a Man who has told you the truth which I heard from God. Abraham did not do this. 41You do the deeds of your father."

Then they said to Him, "We were not born of fornication; we have one Father—God."

42Jesus said to them, "If God were your Father, you would love Me, for I proceeded forth and came from God; nor have I come of Myself, but He sent Me. 43Why do you not understand My speech? Because you are not able to listen to My word. 44You are of your father the devil, and the desires of your father you want to do. He was a murderer from the beginning, and does not stand in the truth, because there is no truth in him. When he speaks a lie, he speaks from his own resources, for he is a liar and the father of it. 45But because I tell the truth, you do not believe Me. 46Which of you convicts Me of sin? And if I tell the truth, why do you not believe Me? 47He who is of God hears God's words; therefore you do not hear, because you are not of God."

Before Abraham Was, I AM

48Then the Jews answered and said to Him, "Do we not say rightly that You are a Samaritan and have a demon?"

49Jesus answered, "I do not have a demon; but I honor My Father, and you dishonor Me. 50And I do not seek My own glory; there is One who seeks and judges. 51Most assuredly, I say to you, if anyone keeps My word he shall never see death."

52Then the Jews said to Him, "Now we know that You have a demon! Abraham is dead, and the prophets; and You say, 'If anyone keeps My word he shall never taste death.' 53Are You greater than our father Abraham, who is dead? And the prophets are dead. Who do You make Yourself out to be?"

54Jesus answered, "If I honor Myself, My honor is nothing. It is My Father who honors Me, of whom you say that He is your[a] God. 55Yet you have not known Him, but I know Him. And if I say, 'I do not know Him,' I shall be a liar like you; but I do know Him and keep His word. 56Your father Abraham rejoiced to see My day, and he saw it and was glad."

57Then the Jews said to Him, "You are not yet fifty years old, and have You seen Abraham?"

58Jesus said to them, "Most assuredly, I say to you, before Abraham was, I AM."

59Then they took up stones to throw at Him; but Jesus hid Himself and went out of the temple,[a] going through the midst of them, and so passed by.

8:32–36 The Jews put blind trust in religious tradition and ceremonies. They depended on ancestry and obedience to the Law of Moses and the oral tradition of the elders for their hope. Throughout the years, they had been in bondage to Egypt, Babylonia, Persia, Syria, and, at present, Rome. Regardless of their political slavery, they felt free spiritually because they were a holy nation, an elect race chosen by God. Jesus disagreed with them and thus angered them. He told them they were slaves of sin, not sons of God, and that only through Him could they find true spiritual freedom.

8:41 With much pride, the Jews assured Jesus that they were born from the seed of Abraham. They probably meant to insult Jesus directly. The common belief among the Jews was that Mary had been unfaithful to Joseph and that Jesus was the illegitimate son of Mary, the result of an adulterous union.

8:44 The devil (Satan) is mentioned only a few times in the OT (see chart, The Names for Satan). The chief of the fallen angels, Satan is always an adversary to God (see chart, A Portrait of the Adversary). In the NT, the gospel writers taught that Satan is a personal being, the agent and originator of evil. John considered Satan the "ruler of this world" (John 12:31; 14:30; 16:11). The self-righteous Jews claimed God as their Father. Jesus, however, told them that they were indeed Abraham's descendants and physical progeny. But in spirit, their father was not God, but the devil. Their behavior confirmed their parentage.

8:58, 59 When asked His identity, Jesus responded, "I AM." This enraged the Jews. "I AM" is the name for God that He had revealed to Moses (Ex. 3:13, 14). Thus, Jesus identified Himself as One with God. The Jews considered this statement blasphemy (lit. "harmful speech" or "slander"). In the OT sense, blasphemy meant showing disrespect to the character and name of God. The penalty for blasphemy (for a Jew or foreigner) was death by stoning (Lev. 24:14–16).

A Man Born Blind Receives Sight

9 Now as Jesus passed by, He saw a man who was blind from birth. 2And His disciples asked Him, saying, "Rabbi, who sinned, this man or his parents, that he was born blind?"

3Jesus answered, "Neither this man nor his parents sinned, but that the works of God should be revealed in him. 4I[a] must work the works of Him who sent Me while it is day; the night is coming when no one can work. 5As long as I am in the world, I am the light of the world."

6When He had said these things, He spat on the ground and made clay with the saliva; and He anointed the eyes of the blind man with the clay. 7And He said to him, "Go, wash in the pool of Siloam" (which is translated, Sent). So he went and washed, and came back seeing.

8Therefore the neighbors and those who previously had seen that he was blind[a] said, "Is not this he who sat and begged?"

9Some said, "This is he." Others said, "He is like him."[a]

He said, "I am he."

10Therefore they said to him, "How were your eyes opened?"

11He answered and said, "A Man called Jesus made clay and anointed my eyes and said to me, 'Go to the pool of[a] Siloam and wash.' So I went and washed, and I received sight."

12Then they said to him, "Where is He?"

He said, "I do not know."

The Pharisees Excommunicate the Healed Man

13They brought him who formerly was blind to the Pharisees. 14Now it was a Sabbath when Jesus made the clay and opened his eyes. 15Then the Pharisees also asked him again how he had received his sight. He said to them, "He put clay on my eyes, and I washed, and I see."

16Therefore some of the Pharisees said, "This Man is not from God, because He does not keep the Sabbath."

Others said, "How can a man who is a sinner do such signs?" And there was a division among them.

9:2 Blindness was common in Jesus' day, often resulting from a birth defect, infection, leprosy, cataracts, or advanced age. The Jews associated blindness (and suffering in general) with sin:

- The man might have sinned while still in his mother's womb (some Jews believed in prenatal sin);
- The man, in his pre-existent state (an idea that emerged from the Greek philosopher Plato about 427–327 B.C.) might have sinned before his conception;
- The blind man's parents might have sinned and brought the affliction of blindness upon their son. Jews believed the sins of the parents could cause suffering for the child (see Ex. 20:5; 34:7; Num. 14:18).

9:6, 7 This healing was one of two healings in which Jesus used saliva (see Mark 7:33). No medicinal value was associated with the pool of Siloam, a water supply located just inside the southeastern city wall. The pool was an engineering feat for that day created by the construction of Hezekiah's tunnel, which diverted waters from Siloam to the Gihon spring (a less vulnerable point to the Assyrian armies). Dug through solid rock, this 583-yard tunnel of Hezekiah provided water diverted into the city from the Kidron valley outside the city wall in the event of an enemy siege. The Siloam pool measured 20 by 30 feet and is still used as a source of water.

9:16 A debate occurred when the Pharisees accused Jesus of not keeping the Sabbath:

- Jesus had made clay, and they considered that work forbidden on the Sabbath;

ORGANIZATION ORDERING OUR DAYS

The concept of organization in Scripture relates far more to our relationships with people than to the handling of things. Organization allows us to move through life with order and purpose. This discipline is not reserved only for organized people, for God delights in helping each person to turn weakness into strength and to bring order from chaos (1 Cor. 14:40). He redeems our time as well as our souls (Col. 4:5).

Smooth communication, effective problem solving, successful task management, and coordination of life's pursuits is just as necessary for meaningful interpersonal relationships as for juggling events and sorting activities. The Lord insisted, through the advice of Jethro, that Moses establish a multi-tiered judicial system, which effectively placed "men of truth" as rulers of thousands, hundreds, fifties, and tens (Ex. 18:13–26). Jesus created order so that the hungry crowds could be fed by seating the people on the grass, allowing the disciples to move freely among them with bread and fish (Matt. 15:35). Jesus, in sending out His disciples, organized them in teams of two and gave them well-ordered guidelines (Mark 6:7).

Decision making, assignment of space, accomplishment of tasks, and clear lines of communication are thus ordered with one goal in mind—that our lives and environment might be so ordered as to give maximum freedom for achieving His goals. In organizing home or office, priority should be given to policies and structures that benefit and bless people. People always matter more to the Lord than rules, a principle readily evident in the ministry of Jesus, who frequently overstepped the boundaries set by the "religious" leaders of His day in order to bring truth, comfort, and healing to those in need.

17 They said to the blind man again, "What do you say about Him because He opened your eyes?"
He said, "He is a prophet."
18 But the Jews did not believe concerning him, that he had been blind and received his sight, until they called the parents of him who had received his sight. 19 And they asked them, saying, "Is this your son, who you say was born blind? How then does he now see?" 20 His parents answered them and said, "We know that this is our son, and that he was born blind; 21 but by what means he now sees we do not know, or who opened his eyes we do not know. He is of age; ask him. He will speak for himself." 22 His parents said these things because they feared the Jews, for the Jews had agreed already that if anyone confessed that He was Christ, he would be put out of the synagogue. 23 Therefore his parents said, "He is of age; ask him."
24 So they again called the man who was blind, and said to him, "Give God the glory! We know that this Man is a sinner."
25 He answered and said, "Whether He is a sinner or not I do not know. One thing I know: that though I was blind, now I see." 26 Then they said to him again, "What did He do to you? How did He open your eyes?" 27 He answered them, "I told you already, and you did not listen. Why do you want to hear it again? Do you also want to become His disciples?"
28 Then they reviled him and said, "You are His disciple, but we are Moses' disciples. 29 We know that God spoke to Moses; as for this fellow, we do not know where He is from."
30 The man answered and said to them, "Why, this is a marvelous thing, that you do not know where He is from; yet He has opened my eyes!
31 Now we know that God does not hear sinners; but if anyone is a worshiper of God and does His will, He hears him. 32 Since the world began it has been unheard of that anyone opened the eyes of one who was born blind. 33 If this Man were not from God, He could do nothing." 34 They answered and said to him, "You were completely born in sins, and are you teaching us?"
And they cast him out.

True Vision and True Blindness

35 Jesus heard that they had cast him out; and when He had found him, He said to him, "Do you believe in the Son of God?"[a] 36 He answered and said, "Who is He, Lord, that I may believe in Him?"
37 And Jesus said to him, "You have both seen Him and it is He who is talking with you."

9:35 [a]NU-Text reads Son of Man.

- Jesus had healed the blind man (v. 14), and any non-life-threatening medical attention was not allowed on the Sabbath;
- Jesus had put saliva on the man's eyes, a practice not allowed on the Sabbath.

Therefore, the Pharisees thought Jesus could not have come from God. But others, astounded and impressed by Jesus' miracles ("signs"), could not consider Jesus a "sinner."

Love him totally who gave himself totally for your love.
St. Clare of Assisi

[38]Then he said, "Lord, I believe!" And he worshiped Him.

[39]And Jesus said, "For judgment I have come into this world, that those who do not see may see, and that those who see may be made blind."

[40]Then some of the Pharisees who were with Him heard these words, and said to Him, "Are we blind also?"

[41]Jesus said to them, "If you were blind, you would have no sin; but now you say, 'We see.' Therefore your sin remains.

Jesus the True Shepherd

10 "Most assuredly, I say to you, he who does not enter the sheepfold by the door, but climbs up some other way, the same is a thief and a robber. [2]But he who enters by the door is the shepherd of the sheep. [3]To him the doorkeeper opens, and the sheep hear his voice; and he calls his own sheep by name and leads them out. [4]And when he brings out his own sheep, he goes before them; and the sheep follow him, for they know his voice. [5]Yet they will by no means follow a stranger, but will flee from him, for they do not know the voice of strangers." [6]Jesus used this illustration, but they did not understand the things which He spoke to them.

Jesus the Good Shepherd

[7]Then Jesus said to them again, "Most assuredly, I say to you, I am the door of the sheep. [8]All who ever came before Me[a] are thieves and robbers, but the sheep did not hear them. [9]I am the door. If anyone enters by Me, he will be saved, and will go in and out and find pasture. [10]The thief does not come except to steal, and to kill, and to destroy. I have come that they may have life, and that they may have it more abundantly.

[11]"I am the good shepherd. The good shepherd gives His life for the sheep. [12]But a hireling, he who is not the shepherd, one who does not own the sheep, sees the wolf coming and leaves the sheep and flees; and the wolf catches the sheep and scatters them. [13]The hireling flees because he is a hireling and does not care about the sheep. [14]I am the good shepherd; and I know My sheep, and am known by My own. [15]As the Father knows Me, even so I know the Father; and I lay down My life for the sheep. [16]And other sheep I have which are not of this fold; them also I must bring, and they will hear My voice; and there will be one flock and one shepherd.

[17]"Therefore My Father loves Me, because I lay down My life that I may take it again. [18]No one takes it from Me, but I lay it down of Myself. I have power to lay it down, and I have power to take it again. This command I have received from My Father."

[19]Therefore there was a division again among the Jews because of these sayings. [20]And many of them said, "He has a demon and is mad. Why do you listen to Him?"

[21]Others said, "These are not the words of one who has a demon. Can a demon open the eyes of the blind?"

The Shepherd Knows His Sheep

[22]Now it was the Feast of Dedication in Jerusalem, and it was winter. [23]And Jesus walked in the temple, in Solomon's porch. [24]Then the Jews surrounded Him and said to Him, "How long do You keep us in doubt? If You are the Christ, tell us plainly."

[25]Jesus answered them, "I told you, and you do

10:8 [a]M-Text omits before Me.

9:39–41 Jesus used this situation in which individuals were responding to Him so differently to make a point about blindness and sight. On one side was the man born blind, now fully seeing and on his knees worshiping the Lord. On the other side were the religious leaders, stubborn and hard-hearted, rejecting Jesus and calling for His death. In Jesus' day, blindness was a metaphor for sin. Sight was a metaphor for righteousness. Jesus told the Pharisees that, even though they could see clearly physically, they were deliberately choosing to be blind spiritually.

10:2–5 Sheep provided food, milk, and clothing. A shepherd fed them, led them to water, guarded them lest they wander off and get lost, protected them from predators (usually wolves), carried them when they were sick or weak, and constantly cared for them. The job of shepherding was a tiring and dangerous one. Often the shepherd spent years with a particular herd of sheep and called each sheep by its own descriptive name. The sheep knew and followed the voice of their shepherd, but they would not respond to a stranger's voice. The shepherd went "before them" to make sure the path was safe for the sheep (v. 4). The "door" referred to the entrance of the sheepfold (v. 2). Jesus described Himself as the Good Shepherd, a metaphor the people of His day would have understood clearly.

10:16 The other sheep was a reference to the Gentiles. "This fold" was a reference to Judaism. Jesus anticipated the mission to the Gentiles after His death and Resurrection. The Gentiles, as well as the believing Jews, would share an intimate relationship with Him.

MENTAL HEALTH — A SOUND MIND

When Jesus referred to the abundant life, He described a life in balance, all aspects of which are under the authority of God, and one in which an individual would grow in the image of Christ. Elements necessary for positive mental health include: reasonable independence (Prov. 31:12–16), trustworthiness (v. 11), the ability to take responsibility (v. 13), the ability to work under rules and authority (Heb. 13:7), tolerance of others (Eph. 4:32), the ability to show friendliness and love (Prov. 17:17), a sense of humor (v. 22), the capacity to give and take (Eccl. 3:5), and most of all a devotion beyond self (1 John 4:10, 11). Jesus not only provided salvation but also underscored the quality of life and set new standards for the abundant life.

Because a healthy life is intertwined with a healthy mind, Christians are warned by Paul to guard what the mind absorbs so that they do not become "blinded" to the truth (2 Cor. 3:14; 4:3, 4). Scripture strongly states that what goes into the mind comes out in actions, good or negative (Prov. 23:7; Mark 7:20–23). In healing the Gadarene demoniac, Jesus put him in his right mind (Luke 8:35). The restored man surely returned to a useful role in his home and community, and he did not forget to testify of God's goodness to him (Luke 8:39).

Paul encouraged Timothy by saying, "God has not given us a spirit of fear, but of power and of love and of a sound mind" (2 Tim. 1:7). We can be certain the Lord wants us to enjoy excellent mental health.

not believe. The works that I do in My Father's name, they bear witness of Me. 26But you do not believe, because you are not of My sheep, as I said to you.[a] 27My sheep hear My voice, and I know them, and they follow Me. 28And I give them eternal life, and they shall never perish; neither shall anyone snatch them out of My hand. 29My Father, who has given them to Me, is greater than all; and no one is able to snatch them out of My Father's hand. 30I and My Father are one."

Renewed Efforts to Stone Jesus

31Then the Jews took up stones again to stone Him. 32Jesus answered them, "Many good works I have shown you from My Father. For which of those works do you stone Me?"

34Jesus answered them, "Is it not written in your law, 'I said, "You are gods" '?[a] 35If He called them gods, to whom the word of God came (and the Scripture cannot be broken), 36do you say of Him whom the Father sanctified and sent into the world, 'You are blaspheming,' because I said, 'I am the Son of God'? 37If I do not do the works of My Father, do not believe Me; 38but if I do, though you do not believe Me, believe the works, that you may know and believe[a] that the Father is in Me, and I in Him." 39Therefore they sought again to seize Him, but He escaped out of their hand.

The Believers Beyond Jordan

40And He went away again beyond the Jordan to the place where John was baptizing at first, and there He stayed. 41Then many came to Him and said, "John performed no sign, but all the things that John spoke about this Man were true." 42And many believed in Him there.

The Death of Lazarus

11 Now a certain man was sick, Lazarus of Bethany, the town of Mary and her sister

10:26 [a]NU-Text omits as I said to you. 10:34 [a]Psalm 82:6 10:38 [a]NU-Text reads understand.

10:22 The Feast of Dedication of the Altar or the Feast of the Purification of the Temple (Hanukkah) occurs in December and lasts eight days. A candle is lit each day in observance of this celebration, often called the Feast of Lights.

The feast celebrates the victories of Judas Maccabaeus (165 B.C.). When Antiochus Epiphanes, the king of Syria (175–164 B.C.), tried to abolish the Jewish religion, he attacked Jerusalem. He killed 80,000 Jews, profaned the temple courts and chambers, and sacrificed swine to the pagan god Zeus on the temple altar. Judas Maccabaeus and his brothers fought Epiphanes and won. They cleansed and restored the temple and rebuilt the altar. This Feast of Hanukkah is still celebrated by the Jews. John referred to the various Jewish feasts more than the other gospel writers (see chart, The Feasts of Israel).

10:23 Jesus walked on Solomon's porch, a structure with a roof supported by rows of 40-foot-high pillars. This structure would have protected Jesus from the wintry weather. People often walked there to meditate, pray, and teach. It is also called "the portico of Solomon" or "Solomon's colonnade." While Solomon had built the oldest of the porches on the east side, Herod had built the porch on which Jesus walked.

10:30–33 Jesus referred to Himself as one with God, separate in Person but identical in nature. The godhead includes Father, Son, and Holy Spirit—a triunity of separate persons united in essence as one. The Jews regarded Jesus' claim to be one with God as blasphemy.

Martha. 2It was that Mary who anointed the Lord with fragrant oil and wiped His feet with her hair, whose brother Lazarus was sick. 3Therefore the sisters sent to Him, saying, "Lord, behold, he whom You love is sick."

4When Jesus heard that, He said, "This sickness is not unto death, but for the glory of God, that the Son of God may be glorified through it."

5Now Jesus loved Martha and her sister and Lazarus. 6So, when He heard that he was sick, He stayed two more days in the place where He was. 7Then after this He said to the disciples, "Let us go to Judea again."

8*The* disciples said to Him, "Rabbi, lately the Jews sought to stone You, and are You going there again?"

9Jesus answered, "Are there not twelve hours in the day? If anyone walks in the day, he does not stumble, because he sees the light of this world. 10But if one walks in the night, he stumbles, because the light is not in him." 11These things He said, and after that He said to them, "Our friend Lazarus sleeps, but I go that I may wake him up."

12Then His disciples said, "Lord, if he sleeps he will get well." 13However, Jesus spoke of his death, but they thought that He was speaking about taking rest in sleep.

14Then Jesus said to them plainly, "Lazarus is dead. 15And I am glad for your sakes that I was not there, that you may believe. Nevertheless let us go to him."

16Then Thomas, who is called the Twin, said to his fellow disciples, "Let us also go, that we may die with Him."

I Am the Resurrection and the Life

17So when Jesus came, He found that he had already been in the tomb four days. 18Now Bethany was near Jerusalem, about two miles[a] away. 19And many of the Jews had joined the women around Martha and Mary, to comfort them concerning their brother.

20Now Martha, as soon as she heard that Jesus was coming, went and met Him, but Mary was sitting in the house. 21Now Martha said to Jesus, "Lord, if You had been here, my brother would not have died. 22But even now I know that whatever You ask of God, God will give You."

23Jesus said to her, "Your brother will rise again."

24Martha said to Him, "I know that he will rise again in the resurrection at the last day."

25Jesus said to her, "I am the resurrection and the life. He who believes in Me, though he may die, he shall live. 26And whoever lives and believes in Me shall never die. Do you believe this?"

27She said to Him, "Yes, Lord, I believe that You are the Christ, the Son of God, who is to come into the world."

Jesus and Death, the Last Enemy

28And when she had said these things, she went her way and secretly called Mary her sister, saying, "The Teacher has come and is calling for you." 29As soon as she heard that, she arose quickly and came to Him. 30Now Jesus had not yet come into the town, but was[a] in the place where Martha met Him. 31Then the Jews who were with her in the house, and comforting her, when they saw that Mary rose up quickly and went out, followed her, saying, "She is going to the tomb to weep there."[a]

32Then, when Mary came where Jesus was, and saw Him, she fell down at His feet, saying to Him, "Lord, if You had been here, my brother would not have died."

33Therefore, when Jesus saw her weeping, and the Jews who came with her weeping, He groaned in the spirit and was troubled. 34And He said, "Where have you laid him?"

They said to Him, "Lord, come and see."

35Jesus wept. 36Then the Jews said, "See how He loved him!"

11:18 [a]Literally fifteen stadia 11:30 [a]NU-Text adds still. 11:31 [a]NU-Text reads supposing that she was going to the tomb to weep there.

11:11–14 Lazarus from Bethany, along with his sisters Mary and Martha, was a personal friend of Jesus (see chart, Women and Their Families in the New Testament). Jesus told the disciples that Lazarus was asleep, using the term "sleep" as a euphemism for death (see Matt. 9:24; Acts 7:60; 1 Cor. 15:6; 1 Thess. 4:13).

11:17 Death and burial usually took place on the same day in Jesus' time, due to the hot climate. The body was carefully but hurriedly wrapped in strips of cloth with expensive spices and ointments. Jesus probably began His journey to Bethany the day of, or the day after, Lazarus' death and burial. The journey took two to three days. When Jesus arrived in Bethany, Lazarus would have been in the tomb four days, which John carefully noted. Jewish tradition taught that the deceased person's soul hovered over the body for three days after death in hopes of reunion. However untrue, this superstition was widely believed. The fact that Lazarus had been dead for four days instead of three left little doubt in Jewish minds that Lazarus' restoration to life by Jesus was, in fact, an unmistakable miracle.

11:33 Jesus groaned in the spirit and was troubled when He saw Mary and the others grieving and weeping (see chart, The Emotions of Jesus). The verb translated "groaned" may mean "deeply disturbed." "Troubled" (Gk. tarassō) has the connotation of being agitated or disturbed. Jesus could have been perplexed and grieved for several reasons:

- His heart was filled with indignation against sin, the cause of suffering and death.
- A large number of strangers had traveled from the Passover feast in Jerusalem to wail at Lazarus' funeral, and He might have been angered by their hypocrisy. Often funeral wailing was only an artificial display of emotion.

MARY OF BETHANY A Committed Follower

Mary of Bethany stands as a role model for every dedicated disciple of Christ. She was apparently unmarried, living with her older sister Martha and their brother Lazarus. Their home was a friendly retreat for the Lord, who may have been in their age group.

Mary, more than any other in the New Testament, is associated with sitting at Jesus' feet, a testimony to her hunger for spiritual truth and understanding (Luke 10:39; John 11:32; 12:3). Yet she not only sat at His feet; she also served Him by anointing Him with costly ointment to show her desire to meet practical needs as well as to seek spiritual blessing.

Mary's example demonstrates her strong decision-making capability. She chose, Jesus said, to listen to Him, and later her gift of ointment poured out in preparation for His burial was a premeditated act of worship. She was contemplative and sensitive, not given to verbal expression. When Lazarus died, tears and very few words expressed her heart's grief. Jesus understood and wept with her (John 11:35).

True to Jesus' prophecy, Mary has lived in history as one personifying commitment. Three gospels include her significant sacrificial gesture—ten and one-third ounces of pure spikenard ointment, worth a year's wages, lavished in humility upon her Savior (Matt. 26:6–13; Mark 14:1–9; John 12:1–8). Mary, a woman characterized by spiritual insight and readiness to act upon her faith, was thus commended by Christ (Matt. 26:13).

See also Matt. 26:6–13; Mark 14:1–9; Luke 10:38–42; John 11:28–36, 45; 12:3–8; chart on Women and Jesus; note on Heroines (Heb. 11)

37 And some of them said, "Could not this Man, who opened the eyes of the blind, also have kept this man from dying?"

Lazarus Raised from the Dead

38 Then Jesus, again groaning in Himself, came to the tomb. It was a cave, and a stone lay against it. 39 Jesus said, "Take away the stone."

Martha, the sister of him who was dead, said to Him, "Lord, by this time there is a stench, for he has been dead four days."

40 Jesus said to her, "Did I not say to you that if you would believe you would see the glory of God?" 41 Then they took away the stone from the place where the dead man was lying.[a] And Jesus lifted up His eyes and said, "Father, I thank You that You have heard Me. 42 And I know that You always hear Me, but because of the people who are standing by I said this, that they may believe that You sent Me." 43 Now when He had said these things, He cried with a loud voice, "Lazarus, come forth!" 44 And he who had died came out bound hand and foot with graveclothes, and his face was wrapped with a cloth. Jesus said to them, "Loose him, and let him go."

The Plot to Kill Jesus

45 Then many of the Jews who had come to Mary, and had seen the things Jesus did, believed in Him. 46 But some of them went away to the Pharisees and told them the things Jesus did.
47 Then the chief priests and the Pharisees gathered a council and said, "What shall we do? For this Man works many signs. 48 If we let Him alone like this, everyone will believe in Him, and the Romans will come and take away both our place and nation."

11:41 [a]NU-Text omits from the place where the dead man was lying.

- Tears might have come to Jesus because He entered so deeply into the agony of others.
- Jesus could have foreseen His own approaching Crucifixion and grieved in advance for those who would mourn His death.

11:35 John gave insight into the deep compassion of Jesus (see chart, The Emotions of Jesus). Even though Jesus knew He could restore Lazarus to physical life, He wept with sorrow and sympathy. Here, the word "wept" did not refer to the wailing that customarily accompanied funerals in that day. Funeral wailing ordinarily meant uninhibited loud crying, even screaming or shrieking. This open display of emotion was often done by people who did not know or care about the dead person. The more dramatic the wailing, the greater tribute the Jews believed they paid to the deceased. In Jesus' case, the word "wept" simply means "shedding tears" (see Ps. 56, Tears). Obviously, Jesus suffered a deep agony of spirit and was genuinely moved by Lazarus's death. Jesus' tears provided remarkable insight into His true humanity.

11:48 Jesus' raising of Lazarus from the dead caused many of the Jews to believe in Him. Jewish authorities felt they could no longer allow Jesus to work miracles and convert the Jews. The Sadducees and Pharisees quickly called a meeting of the Sanhedrin (the Jewish supreme court) to discuss the problem (see chart, Jewish Sects). The Jewish nation held a privileged status within the Roman Empire, and the Sanhedrin feared that Jesus would gain a large following, cause a civil uproar, and anger the governing Roman Empire. If that happened, these religious leaders would lose their positions and political power. The high priest Caiaphas suggested that Jesus should be killed (v. 50).

49And one of them, Caiaphas, being high priest that year, said to them, "You know nothing at all, 50nor do you consider that it is expedient for us[a] that one man should die for the people, and not that the whole nation should perish." 51Now this he did not say on his own authority; but being high priest that year he prophesied that Jesus would die for the nation, 52and not for that nation only, but also that He would gather together in one the children of God who were scattered abroad.
53Then, from that day on, they plotted to put Him to death. 54Therefore Jesus no longer walked openly among the Jews, but went from there into the country near the wilderness, to a city called Ephraim, and there remained with His disciples.
55And the Passover of the Jews was near, and many went from the country up to Jerusalem before the Passover, to purify themselves. 56Then they sought Jesus, and spoke among themselves as they stood in the temple, "What do you think—that He will not come to the feast?" 57Now both the chief priests and the Pharisees had given a command, that if anyone knew where He was, he should report it, that they might seize Him.

The Anointing at Bethany

12 Then, six days before the Passover, Jesus came to Bethany, where Lazarus was who had been dead,[a] whom He had raised from the dead. 2There they made Him a supper; and Martha served, but Lazarus was one of those who sat at the table with Him. 3Then Mary took a pound of very costly oil of spikenard, anointed the feet of Jesus, and wiped His feet with her hair. And the house was filled with the fragrance of the oil.
4But one of His disciples, Judas Iscariot, Simon's son, who would betray Him, said, 5"Why was this fragrant oil not sold for three hundred denarii[a] and given to the poor?" 6This he said, not that he cared for the poor, but because he was a thief, and had the money box; and he used to take what was put in it.
7But Jesus said, "Let her alone; she has kept[a] this for the day of My burial. 8For the poor you have with you always, but Me you do not have always."

The Plot to Kill Lazarus

9Now a great many of the Jews knew that He was there; and they came, not for Jesus' sake only, but that they might also see Lazarus, whom He had raised from the dead. 10But the chief priests plotted to put Lazarus to death also, 11because on account of him many of the Jews went away and believed in Jesus.

The Triumphal Entry

12The next day a great multitude that had come to the feast, when they heard that Jesus was coming to Jerusalem, 13took branches of palm trees and went out to meet Him, and cried out:

"Hosanna!
'Blessed is He who comes in the name of the LORD*!'*[a]
The King of Israel!"

14Then Jesus, when He had found a young donkey, sat on it; as it is written:

15*"Fear not, daughter of Zion;*
Behold, your King is coming,
Sitting on a donkey's colt."[a]

16His disciples did not understand these things at first; but when Jesus was glorified, then they remembered that these things were written about Him and that they had done these things to Him.

11:50 [a]NU-Text reads you. 12:1 [a]NU-Text omits who had been dead. 12:5 [a]About one year's wages for a worker 12:7 [a]NU-Text reads that she may keep. 12:13 [a]Psalm 118:26 12:15 [a]Zechariah 9:9

12:3 The perfumed ointment with which Mary anointed the feet of Jesus was genuine spikenard, scarce and thus very expensive. Spikenard was a fragrant herb obtained from the roots of a plant grown in the Himalayas and transported to Palestine by camel. "Three hundred denarii" equals the annual wages of an average worker (v. 5; see chart, Money and Measurements in the Bible).

12:3–7 Jewish pilgrims were preparing for the Passover Feast, which was only six days away. Jesus visited His good friends Lazarus (whom He had raised from the dead), Martha, and Mary in Bethany. Martha cooked and served the supper (see Martha). Jesus would die during the Passover feast, and Mary seemed to sense Jesus' approaching death. With actions symbolic of preparing a body for burial, Mary took her most precious possession, "fragrant oil," and lovingly poured it over Jesus' feet (v. 5; see Mary of Bethany). Then, not caring what the others thought of her, she wiped His feet with her hair. A woman in Mary's day would never let her hair down in public but would keep it firmly bound or braided. The fact that Mary anointed His feet instead of His head demonstrated her humility. Only servants attended to the feet. When Judas (the money-keeper and betrayer) objected to Mary's extravagance, Jesus silenced Judas and praised Mary's actions.

12:10, 11 The chief priests wanted to kill not only Jesus but also Lazarus, who had become important evidence of Jesus' miracles (John 11:43–45). The Sadducees feared an insurrection by Jesus and His followers. Such disruption of peace might cost them their position of power and influence. The chief priests, who were all Sadducees, did not believe in the resurrection of the dead. Confronted with a clearly living Lazarus, they felt their foundation of power slipping away.

12:13, 14 Large crowds met Jesus coming into Jerusalem for the Passover feast. They spread palm branches in His entry path. Palm trees were among the earliest cultivated trees. They were a symbol of victory and success as well as of beauty. Images of the trees decorated the temple, and its branches were used as part of the Feast of Tabernacles' celebration. The people received Jesus into Jerusalem as the promised Messiah, shouting Hosanna (Heb., lit. "save now").

MARTHA A Busy Hostess

Jesus often went to the home of Martha, who was apparently single, whether by choice or circumstances, and living in Bethany with her sister Mary and their brother Lazarus. John's comment shows that Jesus and the family from Bethany were close friends (John 11:5). Martha seemed to enjoy her gift of hospitality and her probable position as the older of the two sisters.

Three scenes appear to reveal Martha's intensity, which the Lord faced with loving firmness, as recorded by Luke (Luke 10:41, 42). Martha's irritation with her sister led to a confrontation with Jesus as, in effect, she blamed Him for Mary's lack of assistance. His loving response was not a condemnation of Martha's servant's heart or a rejection of her zealous and gracious hospitality. He simply asked her to reconsider her priorities, to make her choices on the basis of eternal values instead of immediate pressures, and He suggested that she allow Mary to make her own choices.

Several months later, Lazarus became ill while Jesus was traveling many miles away. Although the sisters sent for Him, by the time the Lord arrived in Bethany, Lazarus was dead and had been buried for four days. Ignoring the custom of mourners to remain in their homes, Martha took the initiative to meet Jesus as He approached the town and to attribute her brother's untimely death to Jesus' delay in reaching Bethany (John 11:21). Again, with trusting faith, Martha acknowledged Jesus' power over death (v. 22). Jesus explained that He Himself was the Resurrection. She agreed and saw an immediate manifestation of that faith in her brother's resurrection (v. 44).

The third glimpse of Martha was reported by John (John 12:2). The simple fact that Martha assumed hostessing duties once more confirms the fact that her uncommon talents were being used. Undoubtedly she had become a disciple who experienced God's power in practical service. Jesus, as well as countless others, needed the physical refreshment of Martha's warm hospitality. She did not consider her homemaking responsibilities as worthless drudgery. She obviously loved her home and counted it joy to pour her energies into the efficient management of her household. Martha is a poignant reminder to every woman of the balance between fellowship with the family and the work necessary to meet their mundane needs.

17 Therefore the people, who were with Him when He called Lazarus out of his tomb and raised him from the dead, bore witness. 18 For this reason the people also met Him, because they heard that He had done this sign. 19 The Pharisees therefore said among themselves, "You see that you are accomplishing nothing. Look, the world has gone after Him!"

The Fruitful Grain of Wheat

20 Now there were certain Greeks among those who came up to worship at the feast. 21 Then they came to Philip, who was from Bethsaida of Galilee, and asked him, saying, "Sir, we wish to see Jesus." 22 Philip came and told Andrew, and in turn Andrew and Philip told Jesus.
23 But Jesus answered them, saying, "The hour has come that the Son of Man should be glorified.
24 Most assuredly, I say to you, unless a grain of wheat falls into the ground and dies, it remains alone; but if it dies, it produces much grain. 25 He who loves his life will lose it, and he who hates his life in this world will keep it for eternal life. 26 If anyone serves Me, let him follow Me; and where I am, there My servant will be also. If anyone serves Me, him My Father will honor.

Jesus Predicts His Death on the Cross

27 "Now My soul is troubled, and what shall I say? 'Father, save Me from this hour'? But for this purpose I came to this hour. 28 Father, glorify Your name."
Then a voice came from heaven, saying, "I have both glorified it and will glorify it again." 29 Therefore the people who stood by and heard it said that it had thundered. Others said, "An angel has spoken to Him."
30 Jesus answered and said, "This voice did not come because of Me, but for your sake. 31 Now is the judgment of this world; now the ruler of this world will be cast out. 32 And I, if I am lifted up from the earth, will draw all peoples to Myself." 33 This He said, signifying by what death He would die.
34 The people answered Him, "We have heard from the law that the Christ remains forever; and 12:31, 32 The ruler of this world was John's synonym for Satan (see chart, The Names for Satan). Through succumbing to Satan's temptation, the man and woman had been driven out of the Garden of Eden by God. Though Jesus' Crucifixion seemed to indicate that the ruler of this world had won, actually His death on the Cross would render Satan impotent and would forever break the power of this Evil One. "Lifted up" referred to the way Jesus would die by crucifixion (v. 32). "All peoples" was a reference to people from all nations, regardless of nationality, race, or status.

how can You say, 'The Son of Man must be lifted up'? Who is this Son of Man?"

35Then Jesus said to them, "A little while longer the light is with you. Walk while you have the light, lest darkness overtake you; he who walks in darkness does not know where he is going. 36While you have the light, believe in the light, that you may become sons of light." These things Jesus spoke, and departed, and was hidden from them.

Who Has Believed Our Report?

37But although He had done so many signs before them, they did not believe in Him, 38that the word of Isaiah the prophet might be fulfilled, which he spoke:

"Lord, who has believed our report?
And to whom has the arm of the LORD been revealed?"[a]

39Therefore they could not believe, because Isaiah said again:

40*"He has blinded their eyes and hardened their hearts,*
Lest they should see with their eyes,
Lest they should understand with their hearts and turn,
So that I should heal them."[a]

41These things Isaiah said when[a] he saw His glory and spoke of Him.

Walk in the Light

42Nevertheless even among the rulers many believed in Him, but because of the Pharisees they did not confess Him, lest they should be put out of the synagogue; 43for they loved the praise of men more than the praise of God.

44Then Jesus cried out and said, "He who believes in Me, believes not in Me but in Him who sent Me. 45And he who sees Me sees Him who sent Me. 46I have come as a light into the world, that whoever believes in Me should not abide in darkness. 47And if anyone hears My words and does not believe,[a] I do not judge him; for I did not come to judge the world but to save the world. 48He who rejects Me, and does not receive My words, has that which judges him—the word that I have spoken will judge him in the last day. 49For I have not spoken on My own authority; but the Father who sent Me gave Me a command, what I should say and what I should speak. 50And I know that His command is everlasting life. Therefore, whatever I speak, just as the Father has told Me, so I speak."

Jesus Washes the Disciples' Feet

13 Now before the Feast of the Passover, when Jesus knew that His hour had come that He should depart from this world to the Father, having loved His own who were in the world, He loved them to the end.

2And supper being ended,[a] the devil having already put it into the heart of Judas Iscariot, Simon's son, to betray Him, 3Jesus, knowing that the Father had given all things into His hands, and that He had come from God and was going to God, 4rose from supper and laid aside His garments, took a towel and girded Himself. 5After that, He poured water into a basin and began to wash the disciples' feet, and to wipe them with the towel with which He was girded. 6Then He came to Simon Peter. And Peter said to Him, "Lord, are You washing my feet?"

7Jesus answered and said to him, "What I am doing you do not understand now, but you will know after this."

8Peter said to Him, "You shall never wash my feet!"

Jesus answered him, "If I do not wash you, you have no part with Me."

9Simon Peter said to Him, "Lord, not my feet only, but also my hands and my head!"

10Jesus said to him, "He who is bathed needs only to wash his feet, but is completely clean; and you are clean, but not all of you." 11For He knew who would betray Him; therefore He said, "You are not all clean."

12So when He had washed their feet, taken His garments, and sat down again, He said to them, "Do you know what I have done to you? 13You call Me Teacher and Lord, and you say well, for so I am. 14If I then, your Lord and Teacher, have washed your feet, you also ought to wash one another's feet. 15For I have given you an example, that you should do as I have done to you. 16Most assuredly, I say to you, a servant is not greater than his master; nor is he who is sent greater than he who sent him. 17If you know these things, blessed are you if you do them.

Jesus Identifies His Betrayer

18"I do not speak concerning all of you. I know whom I have chosen; but that the Scripture may be fulfilled, 'He who eats bread with Me[a] has lifted up his heel against Me.'[b] 19Now I tell you before it

12:38 [a]Isaiah 53:1 12:40 [a]Isaiah 6:10 12:41 [a]NU-Text reads because. 12:47 [a]NU-Text reads keep them. 13:2 [a]NU-Text reads And during supper. 13:18 [a]NU-Text reads My bread. [b]Psalm 41:9

13:4, 5 To wash the feet of others was a slave's job in NT times. People wore sandals and walked along the unpaved dusty roads of Palestine. A servant would wash the guests' feet as they came into the house. Jesus Himself took a towel, knelt, and washed His disciples' feet. In doing so, Jesus gave His disciples a tremendous example to follow. They, too, must be willing to serve, to wash the feet of others. He showed them that love meant servanthood (see Mark 10, Servanthood). Through this passage, John gave keen insight into the character and love of Jesus.

comes, that when it does come to pass, you may believe that I am He. [20]Most assuredly, I say to you, he who receives whomever I send receives Me; and he who receives Me receives Him who sent Me."

[21]When Jesus had said these things, He was troubled in spirit, and testified and said, "Most assuredly, I say to you, one of you will betray Me." [22]Then the disciples looked at one another, perplexed about whom He spoke.

[23]Now there was leaning on Jesus' bosom one of His disciples, whom Jesus loved. [24]Simon Peter therefore motioned to him to ask who it was of whom He spoke.

[25]Then, leaning back[a] on Jesus' breast, he said to Him, "Lord, who is it?"

[26]Jesus answered, "It is he to whom I shall give a piece of bread when I have dipped it." And having dipped the bread, He gave it to Judas Iscariot, the son of Simon. [27]Now after the piece of bread, Satan entered him. Then Jesus said to him, "What you do, do quickly." [28]But no one at the table knew for what reason He said this to him. [29]For some thought, because Judas had the money box, that Jesus had said to him, "Buy those things we need for the feast," or that he should give something to the poor.

[30]Having received the piece of bread, he then went out immediately. And it was night.

The New Commandment

[31]So, when he had gone out, Jesus said, "Now the Son of Man is glorified, and God is glorified in Him. [32]If God is glorified in Him, God will also glorify Him in Himself, and glorify Him immediately. [33]Little children, I shall be with you a little while longer. You will seek Me; and as I said to the Jews, 'Where I am going, you cannot come,' so now I say to you. [34]A new commandment I give to you, that you love one another; as I have loved you, that you also love one another. [35]By this all will know that you are My disciples, if you have love for one another."

Jesus Predicts Peter's Denial

[36]Simon Peter said to Him, "Lord, where are You going?"

Jesus answered him, "Where I am going you cannot follow Me now, but you shall follow Me afterward."

[37]Peter said to Him, "Lord, why can I not follow You now? I will lay down my life for Your sake."

[38]Jesus answered him, "Will you lay down your life for My sake? Most assuredly, I say to you, the rooster shall not crow till you have denied Me three times.

The Way, the Truth, and the Life

14 "Let not your heart be troubled; you believe in God, believe also in Me. [2]In My Father's house are many mansions;[a] if it were not so, I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you.[b] [3]And if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again and receive you to Myself; that where I am, there you may be also. [4]And where I go you know, and the way you know."

[5]Thomas said to Him, "Lord, we do not know where You are going, and how can we know the way?" [6]Jesus said to him, "I am the way, the truth, and the life. No one comes to the Father except through Me.

The Father Revealed

[7]"If you had known Me, you would have known My Father also; and from now on you know Him and have seen Him."

[8]Philip said to Him, "Lord, show us the Father, and it is sufficient for us."

[9]Jesus said to him, "Have I been with you so long, and yet you have not known Me, Philip? He who has seen Me has seen the Father; so how can you say, 'Show us the Father'? [10]Do you not believe that I am in the Father, and the Father in Me? The words that I speak to you I do not speak on My own authority; but the Father who dwells in Me does the works. [11]Believe Me that I am in the Father and the Father in Me, or else believe Me for the sake of the works themselves.

The Answered Prayer

[12]"Most assuredly, I say to you, he who believes in Me, the works that I do he will do also; and greater

13:25 [a]NU-Text and M-Text add thus. 14:2 [a]Literally dwellings [b]NU-Text adds a word which would cause the text to read either if it were not so, would I have told you that I go to prepare a place for you? or if it were not so I would have told you; for I go to prepare a place for you.

13:23 Some scholars believe that Lazarus, whom Jesus raised from the dead, was the disciple "whom Jesus loved." It is more plausible, however, that John, the author of the book, was speaking of himself. However, this disciple who sat next to Jesus in the place of honor is not specifically identified in the text. Reclining instead of sitting at the table for a meal was customary, although usually optional. "Leaning on Jesus' bosom" would be a natural position for a person reclining next to Jesus. Here, however, this position of honor also expressed an intimate fellowship.

13:26 Judas was a common name in Jesus' day. Iscariot (Aram., lit. "man of Kerioth") was the only disciple out of the 12 from Judea. He kept and managed the money for the disciples, often stealing portions for himself (John 12:5, 6). Judas Iscariot is remembered primarily as the one who betrayed Jesus for 30 pieces of silver. An unrepentant Judas later hung himself (see Luke 24:47, note).

13:38 Roosters served as time indicators. They typically crowed first at midnight, then a second time at three o'clock in the morning. So accurate was their crowing that the Roman guards relied on roosters to signal a changing of the guard. True to Jesus' prophecy, Peter had denied Jesus three times by a few hours before dawn.

WOMEN AND THEIR FAMILIES IN THE NEW TESTAMENT

WOMAN	HER FAMILY	COMMENTS
Elizabeth (Luke 1:5–25, 57–80)	Husband Zacharias—a priest; Son John the Baptist-forerunner of the Messiah	Homemaker; she had a pregnancy and bore a child late in life; her son was hated because of his prophetic ministry, and he was brutally murdered in the prime of life.
Mary of Nazareth (Luke 1:26–38; 2:1–21; John 19:25–27)	Husband Joseph—a carpenter; Son Jesus—the Messiah; Sons James, Joses, Judas, Simon; Daughter unnamed (Mark 6:3; Luke 4:22)	Homemaker; she endured gossip and rejection from family and friends because of her unique pregnancy before her marriage to Joseph; she watched the Crucifixion of her son Jesus; she showed an unwavering commitment to the Lord.
Unnamed mother-in-law (Mark 1:30, 31)	Son-in-law Peter—a fisherman; and one of the apostles	She had an illness that brought her close to death; Jesus healed her; she exhibited a servant's heart.
Wife of Zebedee (Matt. 20:20–28; 27:55, 56)	Husband Zebedee—a fisherman; Sons James and John	Homemaker; she was proud of her sons and encouraged their advancement; her unbridled ambition was unwise.
The woman of Canaan (Matt. 15:21–28)	Daughter possessed by demons	Member of minority race; single parent; her faith gained Jesus' attention and brought healing to her daughter.
Jairus' wife (Mark 5:22–24, 35–42)	Husband Jairus—synagogue leader; Daughter aged twelve	Homemaker; experienced death of only child; turned to and trusted in Christ; experienced joy of having daughter restored to life.
Anna (Luke 2:36–38)	None	Widow (84 years of age) who served in the temple; she made prophetic pronouncement concerning the Christ Child; alone most of her life but never bitter or self-centered.
Widow of Nain (Luke 7:11–16)	Son	Single parent; she lost her only son, but Jesus restored the boy to her; her faith was noteworthy for all.
Joanna (Luke 8:1–3)	Husband Chuza—Herod's steward	Affluent; Joanna gave generously of her time and resources to further the work of the kingdom.
Mary and Martha of Bethany (Luke 10:38–42; John 11:1–41)	Brother Lazarus	Unmarried sisters; Martha offered hospitality to Jesus and His followers; Mary sat at Jesus' feet to study and learn spiritual things; both sisters looked to the Lord in faith at the death of their brother, and Jesus raised him from the dead.
Woman of Samaria (John 4:7–42)	Live-in-lover who was not her husband	Divorced (five previous husbands); she listened to Jesus and accepted His offer of salvation.
Woman caught in adultery (John 8:3–11)	None stated	Lived in immorality; confronted about her sin, she was forgiven by Jesus.
Mother (John 9:1–41)	Husband; Son who was blind	Homemaker; reared disabled child to adulthood; Jesus restored the son's sight; perhaps the nurture of these parents helped the son to remain loyal to Jesus even under pressures.
Sapphira (Acts 5:1–11)	Husband Ananias	Wealthy; tried to deceive the church and died under judgment of the Lord.
Four sisters from Caesarea (Acts 21:9)	Father Philip—an evangelist	Unmarried sisters living with their father and helping him in his ministry; they were committed to serving the Lord.
Mary (Acts 12:12–17)	Son John Mark—traveled with missionary Barnabas (his kinsman); Rhoda—household servant	Homemaker; an affluent woman; seemingly a single parent; opened her home to believers for meetings; reared her son in the nurture of the Lord; her son also made a great contribution to the kingdom of Christ.
Eunice (Acts 16:1; 2 Tim. 1:3–7)	Husband (Gentile); Son Timothy; Mother Lois	Homemaker; interfaith marriage; both she and her mother (Lois) invested wisely in young Timothy's spiritual nurture.
Lydia of Philippi (Acts 16:13–40)	None mentioned	Businesswoman; hospitable; courageous in helping to begin a church in a hostile environment.
Priscilla (Acts 18:1–28; Rom. 16:3; 1 Cor. 16:19; 2 Tim. 4:19)	Husband Aquila	Without children; partner in tentmaking business and in ministry; gift for mentoring.
Drusilla (Acts 24:24)	Husband Felix	Jewish daughter of Herod Agrippa I; married Roman procurator of Judea; she was ambitious and without moral scruples.
Bernice (Acts 25:13–27)	Brother (and lover) Herod Agrippa II	Daughter of Herod Agrippa I and sister of Drusilla; lived in incest and immorality.
Apphia (Philem. 2)	Husband Philemon (possibly); Slave Onesimus	Opened her home to meetings of believers; committed supporter of the apostle Paul.

CHILD CARE PROTECTING OUR CHILDREN

In Bible times, children seemingly always had care within the context of family—often a large extended family. Children were rarely out of reach of familiar, loving arms and authoritative, life-shaping discipline. Seeking child care beyond the family circle necessitates that parents attempt to recreate the special nurturing a parent can best provide in the protection and peace of the family circle. To build self-confidence, trust, and contentment from afar can be a stressful challenge for all.

Nothing seems worse, in biblical terms, than for us to feel we have been left as orphans, isolated and alone. Jesus assured His disciples, when they began to fear the worst about their future with Him, "I will not leave you orphans: I will come to you" (John 14:18). Something in the nature of divine love finds its fullest realization when intimacy, nearness, and availability are there for the taking.

The story of divine love in the Bible reveals a "being there" quality from beginning to end. Child care outside the home may be expedient for some families, but such a decision should always be bathed in prayer and carefully weighed. If we, as parents, are God's representatives to our children in this world, we must make sure that a "being there" quality is built into all our dealings with our children and make our decisions about child care accordingly.

See also Deut. 6:1–9; Ps. 127; 128; 139; Ezek. 16:20, 21; Matt. 18:3, note; notes on Children (2 Sam. 21; Ps. 128; Prov. 22; Luke 15); Employment (Is. 26); Motherhood (1 Sam. 1; Is. 49; Ezek. 16)

works than these he will do, because I go to My Father. 13And whatever you ask in My name, that I will do, that the Father may be glorified in the Son. 14If you ask[a] anything in My name, I will do it.

Jesus Promises Another Helper

15"If you love Me, keep[a] My commandments. 16And I will pray the Father, and He will give you another Helper, that He may abide with you forever— 17the Spirit of truth, whom the world cannot receive, because it neither sees Him nor knows Him; but you know Him, for He dwells with you and will be in you. 18I will not leave you orphans; I will come to you.

Indwelling of the Father and the Son

19"A little while longer and the world will see Me no more, but you will see Me. Because I live, you will live also. 20At that day you will know that I am in My Father, and you in Me, and I in you. 21He who has My commandments and keeps them, it is he who loves Me. And he who loves Me will be loved by My Father, and I will love him and manifest Myself to him."

22Judas (not Iscariot) said to Him, "Lord, how is it that You will manifest Yourself to us, and not to the world?"

23Jesus answered and said to him, "If anyone loves Me, he will keep My word; and My Father will love him, and We will come to him and make Our home with him. 24He who does not love Me does not keep My words; and the word which you hear is not Mine but the Father's who sent Me.

The Gift of His Peace

25"These things I have spoken to you while being present with you. 26But the Helper, the Holy Spirit, whom the Father will send in My name, He will teach you all things, and bring to your remembrance all things that I said to you. 27Peace I leave with you, My peace I give to you; not as the world gives do I give to you. Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid. 28You have heard Me say to you, 'I am going away and coming back to you.' If you loved Me, you would rejoice because I said,[a] 'I am going to the Father,' for My Father is greater than I.

14:14 [a]NU-Text adds Me. 14:15 [a]NU-Text reads you will keep. 14:28 [a]NU-Text omits I said.

14:16, 17 Jesus referred to the Holy Spirit as "another Helper" He would send to the disciples after He returned to the Father (v. 16). Jesus requested the Holy Spirit, and the Father gave the Spirit in answer to His request. When speaking of the Holy Spirit, John used "Helper" (Gk., paraklētos, lit. "one who is called beside") and "Spirit of Truth" to designate the Holy Spirit, the third Person of the Trinity. The Holy Spirit as mediator or intercessor indwells the believer and serves as the revealer of God's will, the Teacher, the Agent of empowerment, the Comforter, and the Counselor (see chart, The Work of the Holy Spirit).

14:18 Jesus compared Himself to an earthly father who would die and leave helpless children as orphans. No doubt, the disciples already sensed that tragedy would follow. Speaking here of the Resurrection, Jesus promised to return to the disciples.

14:26 The Holy Spirit is the third Person of the Trinity and thus should be referenced as "He," not "it" (John 14:17; 15:26; 16:7, 13). He possesses all God's attributes and is fully God. Throughout history God has acted, revealed His will, empowered individuals, and disclosed His personal presence through the Holy Spirit.

The Holy Spirit has specific functions. In the OT, the Holy Spirit was given to an individual at a specific time to aid in ac-

Right priorities and good time management demand an awareness that today is the only time with which we ever have to work. The past is irretrievably gone, and the future is only a possibility.

29"And now I have told you before it comes, that when it does come to pass, you may believe. 30I will no longer talk much with you, for the ruler of this world is coming, and he has nothing in Me. 31But that the world may know that I love the Father, and as the Father gave Me commandment, so I do.
Arise, let us go from here.

The True Vine

15 "I am the true vine, and My Father is the vinedresser. 2Every branch in Me that does not bear fruit He takes away;[a] and every branch that bears fruit He prunes, that it may bear more fruit. 3You are already clean because of the word which I have spoken to you. 4Abide in Me, and I in you. As the branch cannot bear fruit of itself, unless it abides in the vine, neither can you, unless you abide in Me.

5"I am the vine, you are the branches. He who abides in Me, and I in him, bears much fruit; for without Me you can do nothing. 6If anyone does not abide in Me, he is cast out as a branch and is withered; and they gather them and throw them into the fire, and they are burned. 7If you abide in Me, and My words abide in you, you will[a] ask what you desire, and it shall be done for you. 8By this My Father is glorified, that you bear much fruit;
so you will be My disciples.

Love and Joy Perfected

9"As the Father loved Me, I also have loved you; abide in My love. 10If you keep My commandments, you will abide in My love, just as I have kept My Father's commandments and abide in His love.

11"These things I have spoken to you, that My joy may remain in you, and that your joy may be full. 12This is My commandment, that you love one another as I have loved you. 13Greater love has no one than this, than to lay down one's life for his friends. 14You are My friends if you do whatever I command you. 15No longer do I call you servants, for a servant does not know what his master is doing; but I have called you friends, for all things that I heard from My Father I have made known to you. 16You did not choose Me, but I chose you and appointed you that you should go and bear fruit, and that your fruit should remain, that whatever you ask the Father in My name He may give you.
17These things I command you, that you love one another.

The World's Hatred

18"If the world hates you, you know that it hated Me before it hated you. 19If you were of the complishing a particular assignment or mission (Num. 11:26; Ezek. 2:2). He was not constantly present in the life of every follower of Yahweh. However, from the coming of the Spirit in the NT until the end of the age, the Holy Spirit indwells all believers from the moment they trust completely in the Lord and His saving power. When an individual accepts Jesus as Savior, the Holy Spirit comes to indwell, never to leave (Eph. 4:30).

The Holy Spirit is the believer's greatest asset and is essential for survival in this sinful world. The Holy Spirit is the believer's advocate (Gk. paraklētos, lit. "one called alongside"; John 14:16). In other words, the Holy Spirit is "Comforter" and "Teacher" (John 16:7, 13). The Holy Spirit gives the believer help and advice for living the Christian life. As moment by moment believers surrender their lives to God and allow themselves to be used for God's service, the filling of the Holy Spirit occurs. Through the filling of the Holy Spirit believers are controlled by the Spirit and equipped for service (Eph. 5:18–21; Rom. 12, Spiritual Gifts; 2 Cor. 1, Conscience; Eph. 5, God's Will; 1 Pet. 2, Priesthood of the Believer; see chart, the Work of the Holy Spirit).

15:1–5 Vines grow all over Palestine. Every year, gardeners prune the branches in order to produce high-quality fruit. The branch is considered useless unless it produces fruit. Fruitless vines are drastically cut back. The pruned limbs are good for nothing and are destroyed. The OT pictured Israel as the vineyard of God. The vine became a symbol for the nation of Israel. Jesus called Himself the "true" Vine, using the vine and branches as an analogy to show how a believer must abide (live or remain) in Him (v. 1). His followers who believed in Him were the branches on God's vine. The branches had no source of life within themselves but received life from the Vine. Without the Vine, the branches could produce no fruit and were good for nothing.

15:15 While the disciples must be servants to others, as Jesus demonstrated when He washed their feet (John 13:4, 5), Jesus considered them His friends. Only to His friends would Jesus give such a revelation of God and His purposes on the earth. The disciples did not choose Jesus; rather Jesus chose them. Jesus no longer called them "servants" (Gk. doulos, lit. "slave"). He offered them something far better than this, a personal and intimate relationship with God, the sort of rare relationship that exists between confidants or close friends.

CHILDBIRTH THE MIRACLE OF BIRTH

Although Scripture often uses childbirth and motherhood as a metaphor, the reality and importance of birth is also present. The womb is the natural incubator prepared by the Creator for the protection and growth of the child. If birth occurs prematurely (Ex. 21:22–25) the result could be tragic, such as the death of the mother (1 Sam. 4:19–22) or the death of the child (Ps. 58:8; Hos. 9:14).

Other allusions to the birth process in Scripture include personnel, such as the midwives (Gen. 35:17; Ex. 1:15); props, such as the birthstool (Ex. 1:16); procedures, such as the cutting of the navel cord that binds the child to the mother and the cleansing of the child (Ezek. 16:4); and penalties, such as the woman's ritual uncleanness for forty to eighty days after the birth (Lev. 12:1–8).

Pain contrasts with joy in the miracle of childbirth. The conception and birth of a child exemplify God's greatest creative masterpiece (Gen. 1:26–28). The bringing forth of young from the womb is an experience marked by extreme contrast. Most women who have borne a child will agree that carrying the child is very uncomfortable, and the birth of the baby is downright painful. But the indescribable joy of the new life created encourages every mother to rejoice. The pain is quickly forgotten, "for joy that a human being is born into the world" (John 16:21).

world, the world would love its own. Yet because you are not of the world, but I chose you out of the world, therefore the world hates you. 20Remember the word that I said to you, 'A servant is not greater than his master.' If they persecuted Me, they will also persecute you. If they kept My word, they will keep yours also. 21But all these things they will do to you for My name's sake, because they do not know Him who sent Me. 22If I had not come and spoken to them, they would have no sin, but now they have no excuse for their sin. 23He who hates Me hates My Father also. 24If I had not done among them the works which no one else did, they would have no sin; but now they have seen and also hated both Me and My Father. 25But this happened that the word might be fulfilled which is written in their law, 'They hated Me without a cause.'[a]

The Coming Rejection

26"But when the Helper comes, whom I shall send to you from the Father, the Spirit of truth who proceeds from the Father, He will testify of Me. 27And you also will bear witness, because you have been with Me from the beginning.

16 "These things I have spoken to you, that you should not be made to stumble. 2They will put you out of the synagogues; yes, the time is coming that whoever kills you will think that he offers God service. 3And these things they will do to you[a] because they have not known the Father nor Me. 4But these things I have told you, that when the[a] time comes, you may remember that I told you of them.

"And these things I did not say to you at the beginning, because I was with you.

5"But now I go away to Him who sent Me, and none of you asks Me, 'Where are You going?' 6But because I have said these things to you, sorrow has filled your heart. 7Nevertheless I tell you the truth. It is to your advantage that I go away; for if I do not go away, the Helper will not come to you; but if I depart, I will send Him to you. 8And when He has come, He will convict the world of sin, and of righteousness, and of judgment: 9of sin, because they do not believe in Me; 10of righteousness, because I go to My Father and you see Me no more; 11of judgment, because the ruler of this world is judged.

12"I still have many things to say to you, but you cannot bear them now. 13However, when He, the Spirit of truth, has come, He will guide you into all truth; for He will not speak on His own authority, but whatever He hears He will speak; and He will tell you things to come. 14He will glorify Me, for He will take of what is Mine and declare it to you. 15All things that the Father has are Mine. Therefore I said that He will take of Mine and declare it to you.[a]

Sorrow Will Turn to Joy

16"A little while, and you will not see Me; and again a little while, and you will see Me, because I go to the Father."

17Then some of His disciples said among themselves, "What is this that He says to us, 'A little while, and you will not see Me; and again a little while, and you will see Me'; and, 'because I go to the Father'?" [18]They said therefore, "What is this that He says, 'A little while'? We do not know what He is saying."

[19]Now Jesus knew that they desired to ask Him, and He said to them, "Are you inquiring among yourselves about what I said, 'A little while, and you will not see Me; and again a little while, and you will see Me'? [20]Most assuredly, I say to you that you will weep and lament, but the world will rejoice; and you will be sorrowful, but your sorrow will be turned into joy. [21]A woman, when she is in labor, has sorrow because her hour has come; but as soon as she has given birth to the child, she no longer remembers the anguish, for joy that a human being has been born into the world. [22]Therefore you now have sorrow; but I will see you again and your heart will rejoice, and your joy no one will take from you.

[23]"And in that day you will ask Me nothing. Most assuredly, I say to you, whatever you ask the Father in My name He will give you. [24]Until now you have asked nothing in My name. Ask, and you will receive, that your joy may be full.

Jesus Christ Has Overcome the World

[25]"These things I have spoken to you in figurative language; but the time is coming when I will no longer speak to you in figurative language, but I will tell you plainly about the Father. [26]In that day you will ask in My name, and I do not say to you that I shall pray the Father for you; [27]for the Father Himself loves you, because you have loved Me, and have believed that I came forth from God. [28]I came forth from the Father and have come into the world. Again, I leave the world and go to the Father."

[29]His disciples said to Him, "See, now You are speaking plainly, and using no figure of speech! [30]Now we are sure that You know all things, and have no need that anyone should question You. By this we believe that You came forth from God."

[31]Jesus answered them, "Do you now believe? [32]Indeed the hour is coming, yes, has now come, that you will be scattered, each to his own, and will leave Me alone. And yet I am not alone, because the Father is with Me. [33]These things I have spoken to you, that in Me you may have peace. In the world you will[a] have tribulation; but be of good cheer, I have overcome the world."

Jesus Prays for Himself

17 Jesus spoke these words, lifted up His eyes to heaven, and said: "Father, the hour has come. Glorify Your Son, that Your Son also may glorify You, [2]as You have given Him authority over all flesh, that He should[a] give eternal life to as many as You have given Him. [3]And this is eternal life, that they may know You, the only true God, and Jesus Christ whom You have sent. [4]I have glorified You on the earth. I have finished the work which You have given Me to do. [5]And now, O Father, glorify Me together with Yourself, with the glory which I had with You before the world was.

Jesus Prays for His Disciples

[6]"I have manifested Your name to the men whom You have given Me out of the world. They were Yours, You gave them to Me, and they have kept Your word. [7]Now they have known that all things which You have given Me are from You. [8]For I have given to them the words which You have given Me; and they have received them, and have known surely that I came forth from You; and they have believed that You sent Me.

[9]"I pray for them. I do not pray for the world but for those whom You have given Me, for they are Yours. [10]And all Mine are Yours, and Yours are Mine, and I am glorified in them. [11]Now I am no longer in the world, but these are in the world, and I come to You. Holy Father, keep through Your name those whom You have given Me,[a] that they may be one as We are. [12]While I was with them in the world,[a] I kept them in Your name. Those whom You gave Me I have kept;[b] and none of them is lost except the son of perdition, that the Scripture might be fulfilled. [13]But now I come to You,

16:33 The world represented the earthly system that was opposed to Jesus. John pictured the world and Christ as direct opposites. Through Jesus' life, death, and Resurrection, He overcame the world. In His life, He overcame the temptation to sin directed at Him by the Evil One. In His death, He became sin for each person and thus overcame the power of sin. In His Resurrection, He overcame death and arose victoriously from its stronghold. Jesus told the disciples that the world would bring them tribulation but that He would bring them peace. John ended his discourse with this encouraging statement of victory.

PERFECTIONISM — AN UNREACHABLE GOAL

The compelling need to be more than what you are capable of ever becoming is the driving motivation behind perfectionism. It stems from deep insecurity, a gnawing fear that being the woman God made you to be is somehow not good enough.

The longing for absolute perfection is rooted in the lost recollection of Paradise. Within every believer is an internal barometer of how things ought to be, a deep yearning for the perfection that only heaven will bring. Something inside knows that no matter how good things are—they should be better. One day they will be, but not now. Knowing how it could be while living with how it actually is often causes an unhealthy tension.

Understanding the innate desire for perfection can lead to a deeper anticipation and hope in eternity. It also helps release the demand that life in the present must satisfy all longings.

At the same time, the Lord calls each believer to pursue wholeness and soundness of spirit—concepts that are frequently described as "perfect" in the New Testament (Matt. 5:48). The foremost trait you are called to perfect in your life is the ability to love (1 John 4:17–19). "Completion" or perfection as human beings is not possible, however, as the result of your own striving. It is the manifestation of God's work in you (Heb. 13:20, 21).

and these things I speak in the world, that they may have My joy fulfilled in themselves. 14I have given them Your word; and the world has hated them because they are not of the world, just as I am not of the world. 15I do not pray that You should take them out of the world, but that You should keep them from the evil one. 16They are not of the world, just as I am not of the world. 17Sanctify them by Your truth. Your word is truth. 18As You sent Me into the world, I also have sent them into the world. 19And for their sakes I sanctify Myself, that they also may be sanctified by the truth.

Jesus Prays for All Believers

20"I do not pray for these alone, but also for those who will[a] believe in Me through their word; 21that they all may be one, as You, Father, are in Me, and I in You; that they also may be one in Us, that the world may believe that You sent Me. 22And the glory which You gave Me I have given them, that they may be one just as We are one: 23I in them, and You in Me; that they may be made perfect in one, and that the world may know that You have sent Me, and have loved them as You have loved Me.

24"Father, I desire that they also whom You gave Me may be with Me where I am, that they may behold My glory which You have given Me; for You loved Me before the foundation of the world. 25O righteous Father! The world has not known You, but I have known You; and these have known that You sent Me. 26And I have declared to them Your name, and will declare it, that the love with which You loved Me may be in them, and I in them."

Betrayal and Arrest in Gethsemane

18 When Jesus had spoken these words, He went out with His disciples over the Brook Kidron, where there was a garden, which He and His disciples entered. 2And Judas, who betrayed Him, also knew the place; for Jesus often met there with His disciples. 3Then Judas, having received a detachment of troops, and officers from the chief priests and Pharisees, came there with lanterns, torches, and weapons. 4Jesus therefore, knowing all things that would come upon Him, went forward and said to them, "Whom are you seeking?"

5They answered Him, "Jesus of Nazareth."

Jesus said to them, "I am He." And Judas, who betrayed Him, also stood with them. 6Now when He said to them, "I am He," they drew back and fell to the ground.

7Then He asked them again, "Whom are you seeking?"

And they said, "Jesus of Nazareth."

17:20 [a]NU-Text and M-Text omit will.

17:14–16 In this beautiful prayer, which is actually the Lord's prayer, since Jesus prayed these words before His approaching death, He asked the Father not to take the disciples out of the world (see chart, Lessons from the Model Prayer). Instead He asked the Father to protect the disciples from the Evil One, who is Satan. Jesus commissioned the disciples and sent them into the world to spread the Good News of the gospel.

17:20 Jesus prayed to the Father in behalf of all believers, not just for His small band of disciples. These were the "other sheep" to whom Jesus referred (John 10:16). He prayed for the Jews as well as the Gentiles, for all the people who would come to believe in Jesus through the disciples' testimonies. His prayer embraced the distant future.

[8]Jesus answered, "I have told you that I am He. Therefore, if you seek Me, let these go their way," [9]that the saying might be fulfilled which He spoke, "Of those whom You gave Me I have lost none."

[10]Then Simon Peter, having a sword, drew it and struck the high priest's servant, and cut off his right ear. The servant's name was Malchus.

[11]So Jesus said to Peter, "Put your sword into the sheath. Shall I not drink the cup which My Father has given Me?"

Before the High Priest

[12]Then the detachment of troops and the captain and the officers of the Jews arrested Jesus and bound Him. [13]And they led Him away to Annas first, for he was the father-in-law of Caiaphas who was high priest that year. [14]Now it was Caiaphas who advised the Jews that it was expedient that one man should die for the people.

Peter Denies Jesus

[15]And Simon Peter followed Jesus, and so did another[a] disciple. Now that disciple was known to the high priest, and went with Jesus into the courtyard of the high priest. [16]But Peter stood at the door outside. Then the other disciple, who was known to the high priest, went out and spoke to her who kept the door, and brought Peter in. [17]Then the servant girl who kept the door said to Peter, "You are not also one of this Man's disciples, are you?"

He said, "I am not."

[18]Now the servants and officers who had made a fire of coals stood there, for it was cold, and they warmed themselves. And Peter stood with them and warmed himself.

Jesus Questioned by the High Priest

[20]Jesus answered him, "I spoke openly to the world. I always taught in synagogues and in the temple, where the Jews always meet,[a] and in secret I have said nothing. [21]Why do you ask Me? Ask those who have heard Me what I said to them. Indeed they know what I said."

[22]And when He had said these things, one of the officers who stood by struck Jesus with the palm of his hand, saying, "Do You answer the high priest like that?"

[23]Jesus answered him, "If I have spoken evil, bear witness of the evil; but if well, why do you strike Me?"

[24]Then Annas sent Him bound to Caiaphas the high priest.

Peter Denies Twice More

[25]Now Simon Peter stood and warmed himself. Therefore they said to him, "You are not also one of His disciples, are you?"

He denied it and said, "I am not!"

[26]One of the servants of the high priest, a relative of him whose ear Peter cut off, said, "Did I not see you in the garden with Him?" [27]Peter then denied again; and immediately a rooster crowed.

In Pilate's Court

[28]Then they led Jesus from Caiaphas to the Praetorium, and it was early morning. But they themselves did not go into the Praetorium, lest they should be defiled, but that they might eat the Passover. [29]Pilate then went out to them and said, "What accusation do you bring against this Man?"

[30]They answered and said to him, "If He were not an evildoer, we would not have delivered Him up to you."

[31]Then Pilate said to them, "You take Him and judge Him according to your law."

Therefore the Jews said to him, "It is not lawful for us to put anyone to death," [32]that the saying of Jesus might be fulfilled which He spoke, signifying by what death He would die.

[33]Then Pilate entered the Praetorium again, called Jesus, and said to Him, "Are You the King of the Jews?"

[34]Jesus answered him, "Are you speaking for yourself about this, or did others tell you this concerning Me?"

[35]Pilate answered, "Am I a Jew? Your own nation and the chief priests have delivered You to me. What have You done?"

[36]Jesus answered, "My kingdom is not of this world. If My kingdom were of this world, My servants would fight, so that I should not be delivered to the Jews; but now My kingdom is not from here."

[37]Pilate therefore said to Him, "Are You a king then?"

18:15 [a]M-Text reads the other. 18:20 [a]NU-Text reads where all the Jews meet.

18:15 Peter and another disciple stayed, but the others fled. The identity of the unnamed disciple is uncertain. He is often connected with Joseph of Arimathea (who gave his new, stone-cut tomb for Jesus' body). Nicodemus may have been the one, for he helped Joseph prepare Jesus' body for burial. Tradition holds that John himself was the disciple. Whoever this unnamed man might have been, he was well known to the high priest.

18:28 While the Sanhedrin could pronounce death, only the Romans could carry out the execution. Jesus was led from Caiaphas to the Praetorium, which was probably located next to Herod's palace. The members of the Sanhedrin, however, would not enter the Praetorium (the governor's residence), where Jesus was mocked by the soldiers before He was crucified, lest they be ceremonially defiled. If defiled, they could not eat the Passover.

AUTHORITY — WHO'S IN CHARGE?

God Himself is the ultimate authority and the source of all human authority. Christians are commanded to recognize God's authority behind human governing institutions by being compliant and respectful citizens.

Even when human authority, corrupted by sin, is bent on evil purposes, God is working concurrently through that power to accomplish His perfect purposes. This paradox is never more strikingly revealed than when Jesus, standing before Pilate said, "You could have no power at all against Me unless it had been given you from above" (John 19:11). The purposes of the human authorities that led to Jesus' Crucifixion were stained with evil. At the same time, God's good, gracious, and loving purpose of redemption was being accomplished through those human powers, even though they did not acknowledge Him as the source of their authority.

All power and authority is God's alone and He uses it always for the ultimate good of His children. Even when we do not see the beginning or ending of God's plan, we have to trust Him to be the Alpha and Omega, Beginning and Ending of all things, including the events of our individual lives (Rev. 22:13).

Jesus answered, "You say rightly that I am a king. For this cause I was born, and for this cause I have come into the world, that I should bear witness to the truth. Everyone who is of the truth hears My voice."

38Pilate said to Him, "What is truth?" And when he had said this, he went out again to the Jews, and said to them, "I find no fault in Him at all.

Taking the Place of Barabbas

39"But you have a custom that I should release someone to you at the Passover. Do you therefore want me to release to you the King of the Jews?"

40Then they all cried again, saying, "Not this Man, but Barabbas!" Now Barabbas was a robber.

The Soldiers Mock Jesus

19 So then Pilate took Jesus and scourged Him. 2And the soldiers twisted a crown of thorns and put it on His head, and they put on Him a purple robe. 3Then they said,[a] "Hail, King of the Jews!" And they struck Him with their hands.

4Pilate then went out again, and said to them, "Behold, I am bringing Him out to you, that you may know that I find no fault in Him."

Pilate's Decision

5Then Jesus came out, wearing the crown of thorns and the purple robe. And Pilate said to them, "Behold the Man!"

6Therefore, when the chief priests and officers saw Him, they cried out, saying, "Crucify Him, crucify Him! "

Pilate said to them, "You take Him and crucify Him, for I find no fault in Him."

7The Jews answered him, "We have a law, and according to our[a] law He ought to die, because He made Himself the Son of God."

8Therefore, when Pilate heard that saying, he was the more afraid, 9and went again into the Praetorium, and said to Jesus, "Where are You from?" But Jesus gave him no answer.

10Then Pilate said to Him, "Are You not speaking to me? Do You not know that I have power to crucify You, and power to release You?"

11Jesus answered, "You could have no power at all against Me unless it had been given you from above. Therefore the one who delivered Me to you has the greater sin."

12From then on Pilate sought to release Him, but the Jews cried out, saying, "If you let this Man go, you are not Caesar's friend. Whoever makes himself a king speaks against Caesar."

13When Pilate therefore heard that saying, he brought Jesus out and sat down in the judgment seat in a place that is called The Pavement, but in Hebrew, Gabbatha. 14Now it was the Preparation

19:3 [a]NU-Text reads And they came up to Him and said. 19:7 [a]NU-Text reads the law.

19:1 Scourging was a severe form of punishment. The victim was tied to a post so that his back was fully exposed. Then he was whipped 39 times with a leather lash containing sharpened pieces of bone and lead. A servant or soldier administered the lashes, 13 to the victim's chest and 26 to his back. The beating literally tore away the flesh. The punishment was not only cruel, but it was also used before crucifixion to hasten the death of the condemned person. Often the victim died before the 39th lash (see Deut. 25:3, note). Pilate ordered that Jesus be scourged.

19:12 Pontius Pilate, the anti-Semitic Roman governor/procurator of Judea, wanted to release Jesus after he had been scourged (see chart, New Testament Political Rulers). The crowd threatened Pilate by saying that he would no longer be a "friend" of Caesar unless he yielded to their demands and

Day of the Passover, and about the sixth hour. And he said to the Jews, "Behold your King!"

15But they cried out, "Away with Him, away with Him! Crucify Him!"

Pilate said to them, "Shall I crucify your King?"

The chief priests answered, "We have no king but Caesar!"

16Then he delivered Him to them to be crucified. Then they took Jesus and led Him away.[a]

The King on a Cross

17And He, bearing His cross, went out to a place called the Place of a Skull, which is called in Hebrew, Golgotha, 18where they crucified Him, and two others with Him, one on either side, and Jesus in the center. 19Now Pilate wrote a title and put it on the cross. And the writing was:

JESUS OF NAZARETH,
THE KING OF THE JEWS.

20Then many of the Jews read this title, for the place where Jesus was crucified was near the city; and it was written in Hebrew, Greek, and Latin.

21Therefore the chief priests of the Jews said to Pilate, "Do not write, 'The King of the Jews,' but, 'He said, "I am the King of the Jews." ' "

22Pilate answered, "What I have written, I have written."

23Then the soldiers, when they had crucified Jesus, took His garments and made four parts, to each soldier a part, and also the tunic. Now the tunic was without seam, woven from the top in one piece. 24They said therefore among themselves, "Let us not tear it, but cast lots for it, whose it shall be," that the Scripture might be fulfilled which says:

"They divided My garments among them,
And for My clothing they cast lots."[a]

Therefore the soldiers did these things.

Behold Your Mother

25Now there stood by the cross of Jesus His mother, and His mother's sister, Mary the wife of Clopas, and Mary Magdalene. 26When Jesus therefore saw His mother, and the disciple whom He loved standing by, He said to His mother, "Woman, behold your son!" 27Then He said to the disciple, "Behold your mother!" And from that hour that disciple took her to his own home.

It Is Finished

28After this, Jesus, knowing[a] that all things were now accomplished, that the Scripture might be fulfilled, said, "I thirst!" 29Now a vessel full of sour wine was sitting there; and they filled a sponge with sour wine, put it on hyssop, and put it to His mouth. 30So when Jesus had received the sour wine, He said, "It is finished!" And bowing His head, He gave up His spirit.

Jesus' Side Is Pierced

31Therefore, because it was the Preparation Day, that the bodies should not remain on the cross on the Sabbath (for that Sabbath was a high day), the Jews asked Pilate that their legs might be crucified Jesus. Pilate was directly responsible to the emperor, Tiberius Caesar, for the Roman judicial, military, and financial operations in Judea. He feared that the Jews would draft a formal complaint against him, arousing the wrath of Tiberius. Such action would most certainly cost his position and perhaps even his life. John carefully recorded Pilate's "not guilty" verdict of Jesus to prove that Jesus was innocent of any crime against the Roman government.

19:13 After questioning Him, Pilate brought Jesus out to the "Pavement" (Heb. Gabbatha; Gk. lithostroton, lit. "stone pavement"). On this elevated platform (whether natural or man-made) in front of the Praetorium, Pilate sat in the judgment seat to pronounce his official decisions.

19:14 The Friday of Passover week, or Preparation Day, was used to prepare for the Sabbath, including such tasks as cooking food to be eaten on the Sabbath and drawing extra water, since any type of work was prohibited on the Sabbath. Jesus was sentenced, executed, and buried on this Friday (see chart, The Last Week in the Life of Jesus).

19:19, 20 Pilate, the Roman procurator (A.D. 26–36), hated the Jewish people (see chart, New Testament Political Rulers). To ridicule them, he wrote a mocking title for Jesus and put it on the Cross for public view. Often a tablet naming the criminal's crimes was hung around the dying man's neck. The sign ironically declared the true title of Jesus. It was written in Hebrew, Greek, and Latin, thus indicating, though unintentionally, that the death of Jesus Christ had universal implications.

19:23, 24 Roman soldiers nailed Jesus to the Cross. Tradition holds that Mary wove the robe worn by her Son Jesus. The robe was woven in one piece as was the robe worn by the high priest (see chart, The High Priest's Clothing). The symbolism here is rich, for the high priest served as a mediator between God and the people. Since the robe could not be torn without ruining it, the soldiers threw dice ("cast lots," v. 24) for the garment, thus fulfilling the OT prophecy (Ps. 22:18).

19:26, 27 Several women (Jesus' mother Mary and her sister Salome, Mary the wife of Clopas, and Mary Magdalene), as well as John, one of the 12 disciples, stood beneath the Cross as Jesus died (see chart, Women and Jesus). Jesus, even in His agony, was concerned about the future welfare of His mother. As the eldest Son, He took the responsibility of providing His mother with a protector and provider, the "disciple whom He loved," John.

19:31, 32 Crucifixion often would take days to kill its victim. Breaking the victim's legs caused the body to go into shock and hastened death. Roman law demanded that a criminal hang on the cross until he died, no matter how long that took. The body was then fed to the vultures. Jewish law, however, required that a body be removed the same day and buried before evening. The Jews could not allow a body to hang upon

CAREGIVERS A COMMITMENT TO ELDERLY PARENTS

The Bible's plan for families is a fairly straightforward one. Parents care for children until they reach adulthood; then children have a responsibility for the care of their parents. This was considered an integral part of "honoring" mothers and fathers, as commanded by the Law (Ex. 20:12). In Old Testament times, parents and children generally lived together or in proximity all their lives. Jacob and his wives, their maids, his children and grandchildren were considered a family unit as they journeyed to Egypt for provision at the hand of Joseph (Gen. 46:5–27).

Jesus was critical of those Pharisees who refused to provide for the material needs of their parents under the guise of giving their all to the Lord (Mark 7:10–13). Paul wrote to Timothy concerning the responsibility of children to parents (1 Tim. 5:4). While on the Cross, Jesus made certain that His widowed mother had a means of provision (John 19:26, 27).

While obligated to provide materially for parents, an adult child is not obligated to meet all of a parent's emotional or spiritual needs, and she is never to follow in a parent's pattern of sin (Ezek. 18:19–22). Children are to follow the leading of the Lord for their own lives (Matt. 8:21, 22; Mark 10: 29, 30).

broken, and that they might be taken away. 32Then the soldiers came and broke the legs of the first and of the other who was crucified with Him. 33But when they came to Jesus and saw that He was already dead, they did not break His legs. 34But one of the soldiers pierced His side with a spear, and immediately blood and water came out. 35And he who has seen has testified, and his testimony is true; and he knows that he is telling the truth, so that you may believe. 36For these things were done that the Scripture should be fulfilled, "Not one of His bones shall be broken."[a] 37And again another Scripture says, "They shall look on Him whom they pierced."[a]

38After this, Joseph of Arimathea, being a disciple of Jesus, but secretly, for fear of the Jews, asked Pilate that he might take away the body of Jesus; and Pilate gave him permission. So he came and took the body of Jesus. 39And Nicodemus, who at first came to Jesus by night, also came, bringing a mixture of myrrh and aloes, about a hundred pounds. 40Then they took the body of Jesus, and bound it in strips of linen with the spices, as the custom of the Jews is to bury. 41Now in the place where He was crucified there was a garden, and in the garden a new tomb in which no one had yet been laid. 42So there they laid Jesus, because of the Jews' Preparation Day, for the tomb was nearby.

The Empty Tomb

20 Now on the first day of the week Mary Magdalene went to the tomb early, while it was still dark, and saw that the stone had been taken away from the tomb. 2Then she ran and came to Simon Peter, and to the other disciple, whom Jesus loved, and said to them, "They have taken away the Lord out of the tomb, and we do not know where they have laid Him."

3Peter therefore went out, and the other disciple, and were going to the tomb. 4So they both ran together, and the other disciple outran Peter and came to the tomb first. 5And he, stooping down and looking in, saw the linen cloths lying there; yet he did not go in. 6Then Simon Peter came, following him, and went into the tomb; and he saw the linen cloths lying there, 7and the handkerchief that had been around His head, not lying with the linen cloths, but folded together in a place by itself. 8Then the other disciple, who came to the tomb first, went in also; and he saw and believed. 9For as yet they did not know the Scripture, that the cross on the Sabbath, which was the next day. Jesus' legs were not broken, for He was already dead when the soldiers came and broke the legs of the criminals who were crucified on each side of Him. The fact that none of Jesus' bones were broken fulfilled another prophecy (v. 36; Ps. 34:20; chart, Prophecies Fulfilled on the Cross).

20:7 Upon hearing Mary's story, Peter and John ran to the tomb. They expected to find the grave clothes gone, for they suspected a thief had stolen the body. Instead, they found the shroud resting exactly where the body had been placed. Instead of a disheveled mess, the clothes were still neatly folded as if around a body. Jesus was gone, but His grave clothes lay in the same folded fashion. A handkerchief (or towel or napkin) was used to cover the face of the dead for burial. The handkerchief that covered Jesus' head was still in place where His head had lain. The position of the grave clothes puzzled Peter, John, and Mary, for they had not yet understood that the Resurrection had occurred.

MARY MAGDALENE A Devoted Woman

Mary lived in Magdala (now called El Mejdel, located south of the Plain of Gennesaret on the shores of the Sea of Galilee), an important agricultural, fishing, and trade center. Suffering from demon possession, Mary met Jesus face to face, an encounter that changed her life. Jesus cast from Mary the seven evil demonic spirits that had ruled and ruined her life (see Mark 16:9).

The gospel writers distinguished demon possession from other diseases. The New Testament clearly describes its symptoms—for example, speechlessness (Matt. 9:33), violence (Matt. 8:28), blindness (Matt. 12:22), convulsions (Mark 1:26), foaming at the mouth (Luke 9:39). Mary's demonic possession may have been physical, mental, or spiritual illness, or perhaps even immorality (though there is no textual evidence for prostitution on her part).

After her healing experience, Mary became a devoted follower of Christ. Unflappable in her faithfulness, she was counted among the small group of women who, at their own expense, served Jesus and His disciples as they preached and ministered to the masses.

Mary became an important leader among the ministering women. Scripture mentions her fourteen times. She proved to be a passionate follower who gave her time, energy, and wealth to the Lord's work. She faithfully followed Jesus throughout His ministry. Even when nearly everyone fled with fear after Christ's arrest, Mary lingered lovingly all the way to the Cross and witnessed His painful death. Mary remained faithful to Jesus long after the others had given up hope. Early one morning, after the Jewish Sabbath ended, she crept through the predawn darkness to the tomb. In her arms she carried the customary spices to prepare the Lord's body for burial.

The Lord richly rewarded Mary for her faithfulness to Him. For when she arrived at the tomb, the heavy stone slab that sealed the three-foot square entrance had been removed. To her horror, Mary discovered the tomb empty, but her grief turned to joy when she came face to face with Jesus, the risen Lord. In His incredible grace, God chose a faithful woman, Mary of Magdala, to proclaim to the disciples and to the world the glorious life-changing news of the Resurrection of Jesus Christ. Imagine her excitement! "I have seen the Lord!" she shouted with unequaled enthusiasm to the small band of bewildered and unbelieving disciples (Mark 16:11).

Mary Magdalene's devoted faithfulness to Jesus and her announcement of Christ's victory over death shouts to women everywhere how an encounter with Christ changes a life forever. Mary Magdalene personifies the many women for whom Christ has demonstrated His depth of mercy and forgiveness.

He must rise again from the dead. [10]Then the disciples went away again to their own homes.

Mary Magdalene Sees the Risen Lord

[11]But Mary stood outside by the tomb weeping, and as she wept she stooped down and looked into the tomb. [12]And she saw two angels in white sitting, one at the head and the other at the feet, where the body of Jesus had lain. [13]Then they said to her, "Woman, why are you weeping?"

She said to them, "Because they have taken away my Lord, and I do not know where they have laid Him."

[14]Now when she had said this, she turned around and saw Jesus standing there, and did not know that it was Jesus. [15]Jesus said to her, "Woman, why are you weeping? Whom are you seeking?"

She, supposing Him to be the gardener, said to Him, "Sir, if You have carried Him away, tell me where You have laid Him, and I will take Him away."

[16]Jesus said to her, "Mary!"

She turned and said to Him,[a] "Rabboni!" (which is to say, Teacher).

[17]Jesus said to her, "Do not cling to Me, for I have not yet ascended to My Father; but go to My brethren and say to them, 'I am ascending to My Father and your Father, and to My God and your God.' "

[18]Mary Magdalene came and told the disciples that she had seen the Lord,[a] and that He had spoken these things to her.

The Apostles Commissioned

[19]Then, the same day at evening, being the first day of the week, when the doors were shut where the disciples were assembled,[a] for fear of the Jews, Jesus came and stood in the midst, and said to them, "Peace be with you." [20]When He had said this, He showed them His hands and His side.

Then the disciples were glad when they saw the Lord.

21So Jesus said to them again, "Peace to you! As the Father has sent Me, I also send you." 22And when He had said this, He breathed on them, and said to them, "Receive the Holy Spirit. 23If you forgive the sins of any, they are forgiven them; if you retain the sins of any, they are retained."

Seeing and Believing

24Now Thomas, called the Twin, one of the twelve, was not with them when Jesus came. 25The other disciples therefore said to him, "We have seen the Lord."

So he said to them, "Unless I see in His hands the print of the nails, and put my finger into the print of the nails, and put my hand into His side, I will not believe."

26And after eight days His disciples were again inside, and Thomas with them. Jesus came, the doors being shut, and stood in the midst, and said, "Peace to you!" 27Then He said to Thomas, "Reach your finger here, and look at My hands; and reach your hand here, and put it into My side. Do not be unbelieving, but believing."

28And Thomas answered and said to Him, "My Lord and my God!"

29Jesus said to him, "Thomas,[a] because you have seen Me, you have believed. Blessed are those who have not seen and yet have believed."

That You May Believe

30And truly Jesus did many other signs in the presence of His disciples, which are not written in this book; 31but these are written that you may believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God, and that believing you may have life in His name.

Breakfast by the Sea

21 After these things Jesus showed Himself again to the disciples at the Sea of Tiberias, and in this way He showed Himself: 2Simon Peter, Thomas called the Twin, Nathanael of Cana in Galilee, the sons of Zebedee, and two others of His disciples were together. 3Simon Peter said to them, "I am going fishing."

They said to him, "We are going with you also." They went out and immediately[a] got into the boat, and that night they caught nothing. 4But when the morning had now come, Jesus stood on the shore; yet the disciples did not know that it was Jesus. 5Then Jesus said to them, "Children, have you any food?"

They answered Him, "No."

6And He said to them, "Cast the net on the right side of the boat, and you will find some." So they cast, and now they were not able to draw it in because of the multitude of fish.

7Therefore that disciple whom Jesus loved said to Peter, "It is the Lord!" Now when Simon Peter heard that it was the Lord, he put on his outer garment (for he had removed it), and plunged into the sea. 8But the other disciples came in the little boat (for they were not far from land, but about two hundred cubits), dragging the net with fish. 9Then, as soon as they had come to land, they saw a fire of coals there, and fish laid on it, and bread. 10Jesus said to them, "Bring some of the fish which you have just caught."

11Simon Peter went up and dragged the net to land, full of large fish, one hundred and fifty-three; and although there were so many, the net was not broken. 12Jesus said to them, "Come and eat breakfast." Yet none of the disciples dared ask Him, "Who are You?"—knowing that it was the Lord. 13Jesus then came and took the bread and gave it to them, and likewise the fish.

14This is now the third time Jesus showed Himself to His disciples after He was raised from the dead.

Jesus Restores Peter

15So when they had eaten breakfast, Jesus said to Simon Peter, "Simon, son of Jonah,[a] do you love Me more than these?"

He said to Him, "Yes, Lord; You know that I love You."

He said to him, "Feed My lambs."

16He said to him again a second time, "Simon, son of Jonah,[a] do you love Me?"

He said to Him, "Yes, Lord; You know that I love You."

He said to him, "Tend My sheep."

17He said to him the third time, "Simon, son of Jonah,[a] do you love Me?" Peter was grieved because He said to him the third time, "Do you love Me?"

And he said to Him, "Lord, You know all things; You know that I love You."

Jesus said to him, "Feed My sheep. 18Most assuredly, I say to you, when you were younger, you girded yourself and walked where you wished; but when you are old, you will stretch out your hands, and another will gird you and carry you where you do not wish." 19This He spoke, signifying by what

21:18, 19 Jesus prophesied that Peter would die as a result of following Him. He made a comparison between Peter's life as a youth and as an old man. Jesus indicated that Peter would die a martyr's death. "Stretch out your hands" referred to crucifixion. Tradition holds that Peter was crucified upside down in Rome between A.D. 64 and 68.

death he would glorify God. And when He had spoken this, He said to him, "Follow Me."

The Beloved Disciple and His Book

[20]Then Peter, turning around, saw the disciple whom Jesus loved following, who also had leaned on His breast at the supper, and said, "Lord, who is the one who betrays You?" [21]Peter, seeing him, said to Jesus, "But Lord, what about this man?"

[22]Jesus said to him, "If I will that he remain till I come, what is that to you? You follow Me."

[23]Then this saying went out among the brethren that this disciple would not die. Yet Jesus did not say to him that he would not die, but, "If I will that he remain till I come, what is that to you?"

[24]This is the disciple who testifies of these things, and wrote these things; and we know that his testimony is true.

[25]And there are also many other things that Jesus did, which if they were written one by one, I suppose that even the world itself could not contain the books that would be written. Amen.

Acts

AUTHOR

Although not mentioned by name, Luke, the Gentile physician (Col. 4:14), is believed to be the author of the Book of Acts, the companion volume to the Gospel of Luke. The dear friend and traveling companion of Paul, Luke was an eyewitness to many of the events he recorded in Acts. His well-written books illustrate Luke's keen knowledge of Greek literature and language.

DATE

The Book of Acts ends abruptly with Paul in his second year of house imprisonment in Rome, which began around A.D. 60. Luke does not give information concerning Paul's trial or death (Paul died between A.D. 66 and 68). Nor does Acts record the Neronian persecution (A.D. 64–68) or the destruction of Jerusalem (A.D. 70). Scholars believe Luke would have included these important events if he had written Acts after A.D. 64. Thus, Acts was probably written sometime between A.D. 61 and 63.

SETTING: Luke wrote Luke and Acts while in Rome with Paul during the time of the apostle's first Roman imprisonment.

PURPOSE: The Book of Acts provides the history of the early Christian church. It tells how the gospel spread with miraculous and unhindered success from its Jewish roots in Jerusalem to Rome, the center of the Roman Empire. Acts especially follows the activities of the two apostles, Peter and Paul. As a historian, Luke had researched the events found in Luke and Acts so that he might provide a reliable written account for his readers. He also wanted his readers to know with certainty what they had been taught about the Christian faith. He desired to confirm them in their faith. He wanted his readers to live a strong and committed Christian life even in the midst of a pagan world.

AUDIENCE: Acts is addressed to a specific person, Theophilus. While Luke might have written to a specific man by the name of "Theophilus," many have suggested that Luke addressed all those who love God, since "Theophilus" means "lover of God." Either way, Luke wrote Acts to be read by many. These readers were evidently familiar with the Roman Empire and Asia Minor but perhaps not with Palestine, which would explain Luke's carefully researched information about places in Palestine.

LITERARY CHARACTERISTICS: Acts is written in narrative style with a precise beginning and ending, characters, and a plot. Luke clearly meant the books of Luke and Acts to be read as a unified composition.

THEMES

- An accounting of the spread of the gospel, universal in nature, unhindered in action, and unending in scope;

- The unique role of the Holy Spirit in equipping those who share the gospel and in energizing the church;
- The development of a theology in which early Jewish Christians became a more inclusive people of God, adding believing Gentiles to the church.

Prologue

1 The former account I made, O Theophilus, of all that Jesus began both to do and teach, 2until the day in which He was taken up, after He through the Holy Spirit had given commandments to the apostles whom He had chosen, 3to whom He also presented Himself alive after His suffering by many infallible proofs, being seen by them during forty days and speaking of the things pertaining to the kingdom of God.

The Holy Spirit Promised

4And being assembled together with them, He commanded them not to depart from Jerusalem, but to wait for the Promise of the Father, "which,"
He said, "you have heard from Me; 5for John truly baptized with water, but you shall be baptized with the Holy Spirit not many days from now." 6Therefore, when they had come together, they asked Him, saying, "Lord, will You at this time restore the kingdom to Israel?" 7And He said to them, "It is not for you to know times or seasons which the Father has put in His own authority.
8But you shall receive power when the Holy Spirit has come upon you; and you shall be witnesses to Me[a] in Jerusalem, and in all Judea and Samaria, and to the end of the earth."

Jesus Ascends to Heaven

9Now when He had spoken these things, while they watched, He was taken up, and a cloud received Him out of their sight. 10And while they looked steadfastly toward heaven as He went up, behold, two men stood by them in white apparel, 11who also said, "Men of Galilee, why do you stand gazing up into heaven? This same Jesus, who was taken up from you into heaven, will so come in like manner as you saw Him go into heaven."

The Upper Room Prayer Meeting

12Then they returned to Jerusalem from the mount called Olivet, which is near Jerusalem, a Sabbath day's journey. 13And when they had entered, they went up into the upper room where they were staying: Peter, James, John, and Andrew; Philip and Thomas; Bartholomew and Matthew;
James the son of Alphaeus and Simon the Zealot;
and Judas the son of James. 14These all continued with one accord in prayer and supplication,[a] with the women and Mary the mother of Jesus, and with His brothers.

Matthias Chosen

15And in those days Peter stood up in the midst of the disciples[a] (altogether the number of names was about a hundred and twenty), and said, 16"Men and brethren, this Scripture had to be fulfilled, which the Holy Spirit spoke before by the mouth of David concerning Judas, who became a guide to those who arrested Jesus; 17for he was numbered with us and obtained a part in this ministry."

18(Now this man purchased a field with the wages of iniquity; and falling headlong, he burst open in the middle and all his entrails gushed out.
19And it became known to all those dwelling in Jerusalem; so that field is called in their own language, Akel Dama, that is, Field of Blood.)

20"For it is written in the Book of Psalms:

'Let his dwelling place be desolate,
And let no one live in it';[a]

and,

'Let[b] another take his office.'[c]

21"Therefore, of these men who have accompanied us all the time that the Lord Jesus went in and out among us, 22beginning from the baptism of John to that day when He was taken up from us, one of these must become a witness with us of His resurrection."

23And they proposed two: Joseph called Barsabas, who was surnamed Justus, and Matthias.
24And they prayed and said, "You, O Lord, who know the hearts of all, show which of these two
You have chosen 25to take part in this ministry and

1:1 Luke may have been writing to a specific man named Theophilus (Gk., lit. "lover of God" or "dear to God"), or he may have been addressing all those who love God. The Gospel of Luke is also addressed to Theophilus.

1:8 To be a witness (Gk. martus) for Jesus was costly to men and women who faithfully shared the gospel and, according to history, suffered torture and even death. Because of this, martus eventually was transliterated as, and became synonymous with, "martyr." A witness is a person who has seen an event and, in a court of law, can tell her own experience based on personal observation. Here, Christ challenged believers to bear witness of Him in their lifestyle and speech.

1:9–11 Jesus' return to His glory is described in this passage. Forty days had passed since the Resurrection. Luke recorded Christ's Ascension in both Luke and Acts. The Ascension followed Jesus' commission to the disciples to be His witnesses. From somewhere on the Mount of Olives, Jesus was taken up into heaven as the disciples watched. At the same time, two men wearing white clothes spoke to them of Christ's return, noting that He would return just as He had gone.

1:18–20 Akel Dama (Aram., lit. "field of blood") was the piece of land where Judas, the disciple who betrayed Jesus, killed himself. The land had been bought with the 30 pieces of silver paid to Judas for his betrayal of Jesus (Matt. 27:3–10).

1:23, 26 The disciples proposed two men to replace Judas Iscariot, who had committed suicide after he betrayed Jesus.

WOMEN'S MINISTRIES — COWORKERS IN THE KINGDOM

Women in the New Testament were not spectators. They played an active, vibrant, and vital role in the day-to-day function of the church. God poured out His Spirit upon both sons and daughters (Joel 2:28; Acts 2:17, 18), and Spirit-empowered women ministered using the full spectrum of gifts. Besides evangelism, prophecy, teaching, and discipleship, women were involved in countless other ministries, together with service to their families (1 Tim. 5:10), according to their respective spiritual gifts (Acts 1:14; 12:12; 1 Cor. 12:8–10; 1 Tim. 5:5; Philem. 2). Women were an active part of the assembly in Philippi (Acts 16:11–15) and were involved in the establishment of churches in Thessalonica (Acts 17:4) and Berea (Acts 17:12).

Paul often referred to women as his "fellow workers." He specifically acknowledged Mary (Rom. 16:6), Tryphena, Tryphosa, and Persis (Rom. 16:12), Euodia and Syntyche (Phil. 4:2), and Priscilla (Rom. 16:3) as women who had labored hard for the gospel. The coming of the kingdom revolutionized the involvement of ordinary people in the work of God. Whether Jew or Greek, slave or free, male or female—kingdom ministry became the responsibility of all.

See also chart on Spiritual Gifts of Women in the Bible; notes on Evangelism (John 6; Col. 4; 1 Pet. 3); Spiritual Gifts (Rom. 12); Women's Ministries (John 4; 1 Cor. 11; Eph. 2; 1 Tim. 3; Titus 2)

apostleship from which Judas by transgression fell, that he might go to his own place." [26]And they cast their lots, and the lot fell on Matthias. And he was numbered with the eleven apostles.

Coming of the Holy Spirit

2 When the Day of Pentecost had fully come, they were all with one accord[a] in one place. [2]And suddenly there came a sound from heaven, as of a rushing mighty wind, and it filled the whole house where they were sitting. [3]Then there appeared to them divided tongues, as of fire, and one sat upon each of them. [4]And they were all filled with the Holy Spirit and began to speak with other tongues, as the Spirit gave them utterance.

The Crowd's Response

[5]And there were dwelling in Jerusalem Jews, devout men, from every nation under heaven. [6]And when this sound occurred, the multitude came together, and were confused, because everyone heard them speak in his own language. [7]Then they were all amazed and marveled, saying to one another, "Look, are not all these who speak Galileans? [8]And how is it that we hear, each in our own language in which we were born? [9]Parthians and Medes and Elamites, those dwelling in Mesopotamia, Judea and Cappadocia, Pontus and Asia, [10]Phrygia and Pamphylia, Egypt and the parts of Libya adjoining Cyrene, visitors from Rome, both Jews and proselytes, [11]Cretans and Arabs—we hear them speaking in our own tongues the wonderful works of God." [12]So they were all amazed and perplexed, saying to one another, "Whatever could this mean?"

Peter's Sermon

[14]But Peter, standing up with the eleven, raised his voice and said to them, "Men of Judea and all who dwell in Jerusalem, let this be known to you,

2:1 [a]NU-Text reads together.

These two men had a close association with Jesus when He began His ministry, and they had witnessed Jesus' Ascension. Joseph Barsabas (lit. "son of the elder") was also known as Justus (Lat.). He might have been the brother of Judas Barsabas (see Acts 15:22). Matthias (lit. "gift of Yah") has no other mention in Scripture. The disciples prayed over selecting the 12th disciple, then cast lots to determine God's choice for the position (see Prov. 6:33). This method of determining God's will was common enough at the time, but no record exists of its use after Pentecost (see Ex. 28:15; Deut. 33:8, notes). Matthias was chosen to replace Judas.

2:1 Fifty days after Jesus' Resurrection, the Holy Spirit came upon the believers during the Feast of Pentecost, also called the Feast of Weeks (see chart, The Feasts of Israel).

2:2–4 The Book of Acts has been called "the book of the Holy Spirit." Luke, among the four gospel writers, placed the heaviest emphasis on the Holy Spirit (see chart, The Work of the Holy Spirit). The "wind" and "fire," both familiar signs of the presence of God, provided a visual representation of the Holy Spirit's ministry of filling and equipping each believer for a special role in Christ's ministry. Some have said that the wind symbolized power and the fire purity. The unusual speaking in "tongues" or diverse languages underscored the universal outreach of the church, a reversal of the Babel experience (Gen. 11). At Babel the language was confused so that people could no longer understand one another; at Pentecost the linguistic miracle ("other tongues") enabled people visiting from outside Judea, including Jews who no longer understood Hebrew or Aramaic, to understand the message of the gospel. So unusual was this occurrence that the believers were accused by others of being drunk with "new wine" (see Acts 2:13). This Spirit-gift was the fulfillment of the promise made by Jesus (John 14—16).

THE WORK OF THE HOLY SPIRIT

ATTRIBUTES: WHO HE IS	RECORD: WHAT HE HAS DONE	WORK: WHAT HE WILL DO
He possesses omniscience (1 Cor. 2:11, 12). He possesses omnipresence (Ps. 139:7). He possesses omnipotence (Job 33:4). He is truth (1 John 5:6). He gives life (Luke 11:13). He possesses creative wisdom (Is. 40:13). He possesses all the attributes of deity; He is God (Acts 5:3, 4).	IN THE OLD TESTAMENT: He was active at creation (Gen. 1:2). He was the bestower of supernatural giftedness (Gen. 41:38). He was the giver of creativity (Ex. 31:2–5). He was the source of power (Judg. 3:9, 10). He inspired prophecy (1 Sam. 19:20, 23). He was the mediator of God's message (Mic. 3:8). IN THE NEW TESTAMENT: He was part of the Incarnation (Luke 1:35). He declared the truth about Christ (John 16:13, 14). He endowed believers with power for witnessing (Acts 1:8). He poured out God's love (Rom. 5:5). He interceded (Rom. 8:26). He was the inspiration for the writing of Holy Scripture (2 Tim. 3:16; 2 Pet. 1:21). He distributed giftedness for ministry (1 Cor. 12:4–11). He empowered believers with characteristics for godly living (Gal. 5:22, 23). He strengthened believers within (Eph. 3:16).	He will guide the believer (Acts 8:29; Rom. 8:14). He will give assurance of salvation (Rom. 8:14–17). He will be the believer's teacher (1 John 2:27). He will intercede (Rom. 8:26). He will comfort (John 14:16). He will sanctify (2 Thess. 2:13). He will accomplish regeneration (John 3:6). He will make you aware of sin (John 16:8). He will convince you of the truth of the gospel (John 16:8, 13, 14). He will empower you to witness (Acts 1:8; 4:31). He will destroy the power of sin in your life (Rom. 8:2–6). He will lead and even control your life (Rom. 8:14; Gal. 5:16, 25). He will distribute gifts to be used in the kingdom (1 Cor. 12:4–11).

The Holy Spirit was promised as a gift to believers (Luke 24:49; John 14:16; Acts 1:5). Part of His ministry is to seal believers at the moment they place saving faith in Christ. The term "seal" includes four truths: He is a provision of security, a mark of ownership, a certification of genuineness, and a sign of approval (Eph. 4:30). Indeed, the Holy Spirit's presence in the believing woman's life is the final evidence, both to herself and to others, of the truth of what she has believed. Further, He is the down payment, providing both a foretaste of the believer's spiritual inheritance and a legal claim to the fullness of that inheritance in the future (see 2 Cor. 1:22).

and heed my words. 15For these are not drunk, as you suppose, since it is only the third hour of the day. 16But this is what was spoken by the prophet Joel:

17 'And it shall come to pass in the last days, says God,
That I will pour out of My Spirit on all flesh;
Your sons and your daughters shall prophesy,
Your young men shall see visions,
Your old men shall dream dreams.
18 And on My menservants and on My maidservants
I will pour out My Spirit in those days;
And they shall prophesy.
19 I will show wonders in heaven above
And signs in the earth beneath:
Blood and fire and vapor of smoke.
20 The sun shall be turned into darkness,
And the moon into blood,
Before the coming of the great and awesome day of the LORD.
21 And it shall come to pass
That whoever calls on the name of the LORD Shall be saved.'[a]

22"Men of Israel, hear these words: Jesus of Nazareth, a Man attested by God to you by miracles, wonders, and signs which God did through Him in your midst, as you yourselves also know—23Him, being delivered by the determined purpose and foreknowledge of God, you have taken[a] by lawless hands, have crucified, and put to death;
24whom God raised up, having loosed the pains of death, because it was not possible that He should be held by it. 25For David says concerning Him:

'I foresaw the LORD always before my face,
For He is at my right hand, that I may not be shaken.
26 Therefore my heart rejoiced, and my tongue was glad;
Moreover my flesh also will rest in hope.
27 For You will not leave my soul in Hades,
Nor will You allow Your Holy One to see corruption.
28 You have made known to me the ways of life;
You will make me full of joy in Your presence.'[a]

29"Men and brethren, let me speak freely to you of the patriarch David, that he is both dead and buried, and his tomb is with us to this day.
30Therefore, being a prophet, and knowing that God had sworn with an oath to him that of the fruit of his body, according to the flesh, He would raise up the Christ to sit on his throne,[a] 31he, foreseeing this, spoke concerning the resurrection of the Christ, that His soul was not left in Hades, nor did His flesh see corruption.
32This Jesus God has raised up, of which we are all witnesses.
33Therefore being exalted to the right hand of God, and having received from the Father the promise of the Holy Spirit, He poured out this which you now see and hear.

34"For David did not ascend into the heavens, but he says himself:

'The LORD said to my Lord,
"Sit at My right hand,
35 Till I make Your enemies Your footstool."'[a]

36"Therefore let all the house of Israel know assuredly that God has made this Jesus, whom you crucified, both Lord and Christ."

37Now when they heard this, they were cut to the heart, and said to Peter and the rest of the apostles, "Men and brethren, what shall we do?"

38Then Peter said to them, "Repent, and let every one of you be baptized in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins; and you shall receive the gift of the Holy Spirit.
39For the promise is to you and to your children, and to all who are afar off, as many as the Lord our God will call."

A Vital Church Grows

40And with many other words he testified and exhorted them, saying, "Be saved from this perverse generation."
41Then those who gladly[a] received his word were baptized; and that day about three thousand souls were added to them.
42And they continued steadfastly in the apostles' doctrine and fellowship, in the breaking of bread, and in prayers.
43Then fear came upon every soul, and many wonders and signs were done through the apostles.
44Now all who believed were together, and had all things in common, 45and sold their

2:23, 24 The death of Jesus on the Cross was not accidental. Luke clearly informed his readers that the Cross was in the eternal plan of God for the salvation of the world. "Having loosed the pains of death" refers to the fact that death could not hold Jesus, a reference to His Resurrection (v. 24).

2:29 Peter referred to King David, who had requested escape from Sheol (Heb., lit. "the place of the dead," for both righteous and wicked; see Ps. 16:8–11). Peter told the Jews that David was not speaking of himself, for eventually David died and was buried in a tomb. Instead, David spoke prophetically of one of his descendants, Jesus the promised Messiah, whom God would raise from the dead.

2:37–41 Peter's listeners were deeply convicted of their sin (v. 37). When they asked Peter what they should do, he urged them to repent (the changing of mind that would result in their turning from sin and placing their faith in Christ) and be baptized (a public testimony to their repentance and faith in Christ). Large numbers responded to Peter's words and repented, believed, and were baptized (see Luke 24:47, note). In doing so, they committed themselves to the community of believers.

46So continuing daily with one accord in the temple, and breaking bread from house to house, they ate their food with gladness and simplicity of heart, 47praising God and having favor with all the people. And the Lord added to the church[a] daily those who were being saved.

A Lame Man Healed

3 Now Peter and John went up together to the temple at the hour of prayer, the ninth hour. 2And a certain man lame from his mother's womb was carried, whom they laid daily at the gate of the temple which is called Beautiful, to ask alms from those who entered the temple; 3who, seeing Peter and John about to go into the temple, asked for alms. 4And fixing his eyes on him, with John, Peter said, "Look at us." 5So he gave them his attention, expecting to receive something from them. 6Then Peter said, "Silver and gold I do not have, but what I do have I give you: In the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth, rise up and walk." 7And he took him by the right hand and lifted him up, and immediately his feet and ankle bones received strength. 8So he, leaping up, stood and walked and entered the temple with them—walking, leaping, and praising God. 9And all the people saw him walking and praising God. 10Then they knew that it was he who sat begging alms at the Beautiful Gate of the temple; and they were filled with wonder and amazement at what had happened to him.

Preaching in Solomon's Portico

11Now as the lame man who was healed held on to Peter and John, all the people ran together to them in the porch which is called Solomon's, greatly amazed. 12So when Peter saw it, he responded to the people: "Men of Israel, why do you marvel at this? Or why look so intently at us, as though by our own power or godliness we had made this man walk? 13The God of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, the God of our fathers, glorified His Servant Jesus, whom you delivered up and denied in the presence of Pilate, when he was determined to let Him go. 14But you denied the Holy One and the Just, and asked for a murderer to be granted to you, 15and killed the Prince of life, whom God raised from the dead, of which we are witnesses. 16And His name, through faith in His name, has made this man strong, whom you see and know. Yes, the faith which comes through Him has given him this perfect soundness in the presence of you all.

17"Yet now, brethren, I know that you did it in ignorance, as did also your rulers. 18But those things which God foretold by the mouth of all His prophets, that the Christ would suffer, He has thus fulfilled. 19Repent therefore and be converted, that your sins may be blotted out, so that times of refreshing may come from the presence of the Lord, 20and that He may send Jesus Christ, who was preached to you before,[a] 21whom heaven must receive until the times of restoration of all things, which God has spoken by the mouth of all His holy prophets since the world began. 22For Moses truly said to the fathers, 'The LORD your God will raise up for you a Prophet like me from your brethren. Him you shall hear in all things, whatever He says to you. 23And it shall be that every soul who will not hear that Prophet shall be utterly destroyed from among the people.'[a] 24Yes, and all the prophets, from Samuel and those who follow, as many as have spoken, have also foretold[a] these days. 25You are sons of the 3:2, 3 Peter and John were going into the temple to pray. At the Beautiful Gate, which Christian tradition has identified as the Golden Gate on the eastern side of the temple, the apostles met a lame beggar. Beggars often gathered around the temple entrances to ask for "alms" or gifts for the poor.

3:22, 23 Moses delivered the Israelites from Egyptian bondage and founded the nation of Israel. God gave Moses laws to provide religious and social structure for the nation and the personal authority to render judgment when those laws were violated. In this passage, Peter declared Jesus to be the "Prophet" about whom Moses spoke (Deut. 18:15–19; see also John 6:14). Christ is pictured as having a ministry similar to Moses because He brought both deliverance and judgment.

3:24 Samuel's mother Hannah was barren, but God answered her prayer for a son (1 Sam. 1:10). She dedicated Samuel to the Lord before his birth (see 1 Sam. 1, Hannah). After he was weaned, she sent the boy to the priest Eli at the Shiloh sanctuary to be reared as a servant of God. God gave Samuel his prophetic role in the days of his youth (1 Sam. 3).

ADVERSITY A MOUNTAIN TO CLIMB

Adversity is not God's ultimate desire for His creation; yet, there is a clear message that God uses adversity. He is in control over the most adverse of circumstances. We are wrong to presume that God is necessarily in the business of removing our adverse circumstances or reversing the situation that led to adversity. Rather, the Bible points to the conclusion that instead of taking us out of adversity God is much more interested in taking us through it, using the adversity to effect something good in our lives (Is. 43:2; Rom. 5:3–5; James 1:2–4).

Naomi and Ruth provide a great example of triumph over adversity. Women in Bible times had few independent or autonomous rights. As a result, most women depended upon the patronage of father, family, or husband. To lack such a protecting relationship was to invite adversity in many guises. Naomi's family left Judah and went to Moab in search of food. There Naomi not only subsequently suffered the loss of her husband but later the loss of her two sons as well. Utterly unprotected in a foreign land, she determined to return to her native city Bethlehem for safety.

Naomi's story is significant because of the faithfulness of her daughter-in-law Ruth, who could have chosen the protection of her homeland, Moab, but rather gave up her own rights. Ruth did not choose the suffering of widowhood, but she did choose the vulnerability and possible suffering involved in following Naomi back to Judah, turning her back on the security and protection of her family in Moab (Ruth 1). Here God clearly emerges as the Protector of the unprotected who place their faith in Him. The womanly wisdom of Naomi foreshadows Jesus' character as revealed in the New Testament where He seeks those in need of being defended. Naomi was able to direct Ruth to Boaz, her kinsman redeemer, who, as Ruth's husband, became a guardian both for her and Naomi. In this story of faith were to be sown the seeds that would ultimately result in the birth not only of Israel's greatest king, David, but also of the Lord Jesus Christ Himself. This is one of the clearest examples of how God's ultimate purpose is worked out through human adversity.

On a completely different plane, Esther first experienced adversity in being an orphan. Yet God provided loving nurture for her through her cousin Mordecai. Her utter trust in the sovereign God helped her to place all her human resources in God's hands, and as a result the Jews, God's people, were ultimately preserved.

Adversity is something from which the human condition naturally recoils, but the higher message of the Bible exhorts believers to embrace every circumstance God sends or allows, even to go as far as to "count it all joy" in the hope that God's ultimate purposes will be fulfilled (James 1:20).

Peter and John Arrested

4 Now as they spoke to the people, the priests, the captain of the temple, and the Sadducees came upon them, [2]being greatly disturbed that they taught the people and preached in Jesus the resurrection from the dead. [3]And they laid hands on them, and put them in custody until the next day, for it was already evening. [4]However, many of those who heard the word believed; and the number of the men came to be about five thousand.

Addressing the Sanhedrin

[5]And it came to pass, on the next day, that their rulers, elders, and scribes, [6]as well as Annas the high priest, Caiaphas, John, and Alexander, and as many as were of the family of the high priest, were gathered together at Jerusalem. [7]And

4:3 The Sadducees did not believe in bodily resurrection; therefore, Peter's proclamation of Jesus' Resurrection greatly disturbed them (see chart, Jewish Sects). The temple authorities feared that Peter and John would cause a riot among the people because of their teachings about Jesus. If a riot ensued, the Romans could easily take away the priestly power and authority of the religious leaders. Thus they arrested Peter and John and placed them in jail until the next day.

4:6 Annas had been high priest from A.D. 6 to 15. He was replaced by Caiaphas but remained an elder statesman. Jesus, as well as Peter and other church leaders, was questioned by Annas, who had five sons who served as high priests (Eleazar, Jonathan, Theophilus, Matthias, and Annas II). Caiaphas was the high priest at the time of Jesus' Crucifixion. He was Annas' son-in-law and held the position of high priest longer than any other member of Annas' family (A.D. 18–36). Little is known of John and Alexander.

The true test of walking in the Spirit will not be the way we act but the way we react to the daily frustrations of life.

when they had set them in the midst, they asked, "By what power or by what name have you done this?"

[8]Then Peter, filled with the Holy Spirit, said to them, "Rulers of the people and elders of Israel: [9]If we this day are judged for a good deed done to a helpless man, by what means he has been made well, [10]let it be known to you all, and to all the people of Israel, that by the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth, whom you crucified, whom God raised from the dead, by Him this man stands here before you whole. [11]This is the 'stone which was rejected by you builders, which has become the chief cornerstone.'[a] [12]Nor is there salvation in any other, for there is no other name under heaven given among men by which we must be saved."

The Name of Jesus Forbidden

[13]Now when they saw the boldness of Peter and John, and perceived that they were uneducated and untrained men, they marveled. And they realized that they had been with Jesus. [14]And seeing the man who had been healed standing with them, they could say nothing against it. [15]But when they had commanded them to go aside out of the council, they conferred among themselves, [16]saying, "What shall we do to these men? For, indeed, that a notable miracle has been done through them is evident to all who dwell in Jerusalem, and we cannot deny it. [17]But so that it spreads no further among the people, let us severely threaten them, that from now on they speak to no man in this name."

[18]So they called them and commanded them not to speak at all nor teach in the name of Jesus. [19]But Peter and John answered and said to them, "Whether it is right in the sight of God to listen to you more than to God, you judge. [20]For we cannot but speak the things which we have seen and heard." [21]So when they had further threatened them, they let them go, finding no way of punishing them, because of the people, since they all glorified God for what had been done. [22]For the man was over forty years old on whom this miracle of healing had been performed.

Prayer for Boldness

[23]And being let go, they went to their own companions and reported all that the chief priests and elders had said to them. [24]So when they heard that, they raised their voice to God with one accord and said: "Lord, You are God, who made heaven and earth and the sea, and all that is in them, [25]who by the mouth of Your servant David[a] have said:

'Why did the nations rage,
And the people plot vain things?
[26]The kings of the earth took their stand,
And the rulers were gathered together
Against the LORD and against His Christ.'[a]

[27]"For truly against Your holy Servant Jesus, whom You anointed, both Herod and Pontius Pilate, with the Gentiles and the people of Israel, were gathered together [28]to do whatever Your hand and Your purpose determined before to be done. [29]Now, Lord, look on their threats, and grant to Your servants that with all boldness they may speak Your word, [30]by stretching out Your hand to heal, and that signs and wonders may be done through the name of Your holy Servant Jesus."

[31]And when they had prayed, the place where they were assembled together was shaken; and they were all filled with the Holy Spirit, and they spoke the word of God with boldness.

4:11 [a]Psalm 118:22 4:25 [a]NU-Text reads who through the Holy Spirit, by the mouth of our father, Your servant David. 4:26 [a]Psalm 2:1, 2

4:11 The cornerstone of the building, which symbolized strength, held two walls together. Here Peter quoted Psalm 118:22, naming Jesus Christ as the Chief Cornerstone, the very foundation of the Christian faith, which the "builders" (Jewish rulers) had rejected.

4:13, 14 Peter and John amazed the court, primarily because they were unschooled or uneducated in rabbinic theology and were ordinary nonprofessional men. As the court listened to Peter and John speak, they realized that Jesus, who Himself had sought neither formal theological education nor the status of rabbi, was the source of their teachings. Considering this fact, they "marveled" at the healing of the lame man. They could neither deny the miracle, nor could they afford to acknowledge it.

4:21–23 The man's age suggested that he had passed the point when cures usually or naturally occurred. Fearing the excitement of the people who had witnessed this healing and had seen the man walk, the council could do nothing but threaten Peter and John and release them. After their release, Peter and John rejoined their friends and reported their experiences.

SAPPHIRA

A Deceitful Beauty

Married to Ananias, Sapphira, whose name means "beautiful" or "sapphire," was the first woman singled out for prominence in Acts. But Sapphira failed God and, in doing so, caused her own death. Throughout the ages, her name has been linked, not with "beauty," but with deliberate deceit.

Sapphira and Ananias apparently had an agreeable marriage and cooperated with each other. As members of the early Jerusalem church and devoted disciples of Jesus, they had allied themselves with the apostles.

But Sapphira and her husband made a fatal mistake in judgment. They mixed greed with generosity. The members of the church in Jerusalem sold their property and presented the proceeds as a gift to the apostles. Such selflessness earned admiration, and their gift of money was then used to help the poor.

Selfishness and deceit entered into the hearts of this couple, however. They sold their plot of ground but submitted only a portion of the profits. The couple then lied about the full price received for their land so that they could keep part of the money for themselves, while appearing to give all profit to the church. With perceptive insight, Peter challenged Ananias about his duplicity and sin against God. Ananias, caught in his own deliberate lie, fell down and died instantly.

Several hours later, Sapphira came to Peter. She, too, was questioned about the price of the land. Unaware of her husband's death, Sapphira confirmed his deceit. Peter also charged her with offense to the Spirit of God, informed her of Ananias' death, then predicted her own imminent death. Immediately, she fell down and died and was buried next to her husband.

The deaths of Sapphira and Ananias stunned and frightened the small congregation. God showed Sapphira and Ananias as well as the Jerusalem church that He allows no dishonesty in His relationship with His disciples. Through the tragic story of Sapphira, the "beautiful one," God continues to show women that one's relationship with the Lord must be based on more than outward beauty and empty promises—that is, upon the integrity of a heart commitment.

Sharing in All Things

32 Now the multitude of those who believed were of one heart and one soul; neither did anyone say that any of the things he possessed was his own, but they had all things in common. 33 And with great power the apostles gave witness to the resurrection of the Lord Jesus. And great grace was upon them all. 34 Nor was there anyone among them who lacked; for all who were possessors of lands or houses sold them, and brought the proceeds of the things that were sold, 35 and laid them at the apostles' feet; and they distributed to each as anyone had need.

36 And Joses,[a] who was also named Barnabas by the apostles (which is translated Son of Encouragement), a Levite of the country of Cyprus, 37 having land, sold it, and brought the money and laid it at the apostles' feet.

Lying to the Holy Spirit

5 But a certain man named Ananias, with Sapphira his wife, sold a possession. 2 And he kept back part of the proceeds, his wife also being aware of it, and brought a certain part and laid it at the apostles' feet. 3 But Peter said, "Ananias, why has Satan filled your heart to lie to the Holy Spirit and keep back part of the price of the land for yourself? 4 While it remained, was it not your own? And after it was sold, was it not in your own control?
Why have you conceived this thing in your heart?
You have not lied to men but to God."

5 Then Ananias, hearing these words, fell down and breathed his last. So great fear came upon all those who heard these things. 6 And the young

4:36 [a]NU-Text reads Joseph.

4:36, 37 Joses (Joseph), a Levite, was a native of the island of Cyprus. The apostles added Barnabas (Aram., lit. "son of encouragement") to his name. Barnabas was also known for his generous monetary gifts to the early church. He was a Hellenistic Jew (one whose residence had been in the cities located within the Roman Empire), and he was the kinsman of John Mark. He formed a natural link between the Hellenistic world and the Jerusalem church.

5:1–11 The story of Ananias and Sapphira showed that the early church consisted of imperfect people (see Sapphira). Luke compared the generosity of Barnabas with the selfishness and deceitfulness of Ananias (lit. "Yahweh has dealt graciously") and Sapphira, members of the early Jerusalem church. When this couple sold private property, they purposely did not give all the proceeds from the sale to the fellowship. They then lied by saying they had given the full amount. When asked about the proceeds held back, first Ananias and then Sapphira lied both to the Holy Spirit and to the church leaders. Both husband and wife, at different times, were struck dead. This experience brought great fear to the other church members.

7Now it was about three hours later when his wife came in, not knowing what had happened. 8And Peter answered her, "Tell me whether you sold the land for so much?"

She said, "Yes, for so much."

9Then Peter said to her, "How is it that you have agreed together to test the Spirit of the Lord? Look, the feet of those who have buried your husband are at the door, and they will carry you out." 10Then immediately she fell down at his feet and breathed her last. And the young men came in and found her dead, and carrying her out, buried her by her husband. 11So great fear came upon all the church and upon all who heard these things.

Continuing Power in the Church

12And through the hands of the apostles many signs and wonders were done among the people. And they were all with one accord in Solomon's Porch. 13Yet none of the rest dared join them, but the people esteemed them highly. 14And believers were increasingly added to the Lord, multitudes of both men and women, 15so that they brought the sick out into the streets and laid them on beds and couches, that at least the shadow of Peter passing by might fall on some of them. 16Also a multitude gathered from the surrounding cities to Jerusalem, bringing sick people and those who were tormented by unclean spirits, and they were all healed.

Imprisoned Apostles Freed

17Then the high priest rose up, and all those who were with him (which is the sect of the Sadducees), and they were filled with indignation, 18and laid their hands on the apostles and put them in the common prison. 19But at night an angel of the Lord opened the prison doors and brought them out, and said, 20"Go, stand in the temple and speak to the people all the words of this life."

21And when they heard that, they entered the temple early in the morning and taught. But the high priest and those with him came and called the council together, with all the elders of the children of Israel, and sent to the prison to have them brought.

Apostles on Trial Again

22But when the officers came and did not find them in the prison, they returned and reported, 23saying, "Indeed we found the prison shut securely, and the guards standing outside[a] before the doors; but when we opened them, we found no one inside!" 24Now when the high priest,[a] the captain of the temple, and the chief priests heard these things, they wondered what the outcome would be. 25So one came and told them, saying,[a] "Look, the men whom you put in prison are standing in the temple and teaching the people!"

26Then the captain went with the officers and brought them without violence, for they feared the people, lest they should be stoned. 27And when they had brought them, they set them before the council. And the high priest asked them, 28saying, "Did we not strictly command you not to teach in this name? And look, you have filled Jerusalem with your doctrine, and intend to bring this Man's blood on us!"

29But Peter and the other apostles answered and

5:15 The Sanhedrin had warned the apostles not to teach about Jesus. Not only did the apostles continue to teach about Christ, but they taught boldly and openly from Solomon's Porch, the outermost, raised part of the temple surrounded with columns. Increasingly, both women and men became believers. They continued to bring large numbers of sick people to Peter for healing. People were so impressed with Peter's ability to heal that many believed even his "shadow" had healing powers.

5:17, 18 Peter's healing ministry in the temple attracted large numbers of people. The Sadducees were controlled by jealousy fueled both by the popularity of the apostles with the people and by fear of the ruling Romans. Thus they decided they must take action to stop the activities of the apostles. Not only Peter and John but all the apostles were arrested and imprisoned. Throughout his writings, Luke portrayed the Sadducees as the primary enemy of Christianity (see chart, Jewish Sects). Luke presented the Pharisees, however, in a kinder, more positive light.

said: "We ought to obey God rather than men. 30The God of our fathers raised up Jesus whom you murdered by hanging on a tree. 31Him God has exalted to His right hand to be Prince and Savior, to give repentance to Israel and forgiveness of sins. 32And we are His witnesses to these things, and so also is the Holy Spirit whom God has given to those who obey Him."

Gamaliel's Advice

33When they heard this, they were furious and plotted to kill them. 34Then one in the council stood up, a Pharisee named Gamaliel, a teacher of the law held in respect by all the people, and commanded them to put the apostles outside for a little while. 35And he said to them: "Men of Israel, take heed to yourselves what you intend to do regarding these men. 36For some time ago Theudas rose up, claiming to be somebody. A number of men, about four hundred, joined him. He was slain, and all who obeyed him were scattered and came to nothing. 37After this man, Judas of Galilee rose up in the days of the census, and drew away many people after him. He also perished, and all who obeyed him were dispersed. 38And now I say to you, keep away from these men and let them alone; for if this plan or this work is of men, it will come to nothing; 39but if it is of God, you cannot overthrow it—lest you even be found to fight against God."

40And they agreed with him, and when they had called for the apostles and beaten them, they commanded that they should not speak in the name of Jesus, and let them go. 41So they departed from the presence of the council, rejoicing that they were counted worthy to suffer shame for His[a] name. 42And daily in the temple, and in every house, they did not cease teaching and preaching Jesus as the Christ.

Seven Chosen to Serve

6 Now in those days, when the number of the disciples was multiplying, there arose a complaint against the Hebrews by the Hellenists,[a] because their widows were neglected in the daily distribution. 2Then the twelve summoned the multitude of the disciples and said, "It is not desirable that we should leave the word of God and serve tables. 3Therefore, brethren, seek out from among you seven men of good reputation, full of the Holy Spirit and wisdom, whom we may appoint over this business; 4but we will give ourselves continually to prayer and to the ministry of the word."

5And the saying pleased the whole multitude. And they chose Stephen, a man full of faith and the Holy Spirit, and Philip, Prochorus, Nicanor, Timon, Parmenas, and Nicolas, a proselyte from Antioch, 6whom they set before the apostles; and when they had prayed, they laid hands on them.

7Then the word of God spread, and the number of the disciples multiplied greatly in Jerusalem, and a great many of the priests were obedient to the faith.

Stephen Accused of Blasphemy

8And Stephen, full of faith[a] and power, did great wonders and signs among the people. 9Then there arose some from what is called the Synagogue of the Freedmen (Cyrenians, Alexandrians, and those from Cilicia and Asia), disputing with Stephen. 10And they were not able to resist the wisdom and

5:34 Gamaliel was a highly respected Pharisee, a teacher of the Law and a member of the Sanhedrin. The grandson of the great rabbi Hillel, Gamaliel was known for his wisdom. He was Paul's teacher in Jerusalem and intervened on behalf of the apostles when the Sanhedrin attempted to kill them.

5:36 Gamaliel referred to the rebellion of Theudas when he intervened in the Sanhedrin's plot to kill the apostles. He reminded the Sanhedrin that there had been other messianic rebellions that were unsuccessful. Theudas, the leader of a previous Jewish uprising of some 400 men, failed in his revolt. Later he was beheaded and his followers killed. This Theudas was not the same man who led a later rebellion, following the rebellion of Judas (v. 37). Rebellions of this type were common in the 1st century. Gamaliel suggested that the Sanhedrin watch and wait before they took violent action against the apostles.

6:1 The Hellenists were Greek-speaking Christian Jews. They were often viewed with suspicion by the Aramaic-speaking Jews of Palestine, and they generally neither spoke nor understood Aramaic, the native language of Palestine. Hellenistic widows, often destitute, were coming to Palestine in increasing numbers, and these women needed help. Conflict erupted over the equal distribution of food to the widows. Seemingly the Hellenistic widows were being neglected, since the giving of charity was controlled by the Palestinian Jews. This conflict was the first major division to confront the early church.

6:3–6 To ease the conflict over the distribution of food among Hellenistic widows, the apostles chose seven men with Greek names, which probably meant they themselves were Hellenists (v. 5). Certain qualities were expected of the men: a good reputation, wisdom, and the filling of the Holy Spirit. These seven were set before the apostles, who prayed over them and laid hands on them, symbolizing their administrative appointment in the church. With this benevolent work delegated to the seven men, the apostles were free to devote themselves fully to church worship and preaching the Word. This response to the conflict over the widows greatly pleased the congregation.

the Spirit by which he spoke. [11]Then they secretly induced men to say, "We have heard him speak blasphemous words against Moses and God." [12]And they stirred up the people, the elders, and the scribes; and they came upon him, seized him, and brought him to the council. [13]They also set up false witnesses who said, "This man does not cease to speak blasphemous[a] words against this holy place and the law; [14]for we have heard him say that this Jesus of Nazareth will destroy this place and change the customs which Moses delivered to us." [15]And all who sat in the council, looking steadfastly at him, saw his face as the face of an angel.

Stephen's Address: The Call of Abraham

7 Then the high priest said, "Are these things so?"

[2]And he said, "Brethren and fathers, listen: The God of glory appeared to our father Abraham when he was in Mesopotamia, before he dwelt in Haran, [3]and said to him, 'Get out of your country and from your relatives, and come to a land that I will show you.'[a] [4]Then he came out of the land of the Chaldeans and dwelt in Haran. And from there, when his father was dead, He moved him to this land in which you now dwell. [5]And God gave him no inheritance in it, not even enough to set his foot on. But even when Abraham had no child, He promised to give it to him for a possession, and to his descendants after him. [6]But God spoke in this way: that his descendants would dwell in a foreign land, and that they would bring them into bondage and oppress them four hundred years. [7]'And the nation to whom they will be in bondage I will judge,'[a] said God, 'and after that they shall come out and serve Me in this place.'[b] [8]Then He gave him the covenant of circumcision; and so Abraham begot Isaac and circumcised him on the eighth day; and Isaac begot Jacob, and Jacob begot the twelve patriarchs.

The Patriarchs in Egypt

[9]"And the patriarchs, becoming envious, sold Joseph into Egypt. But God was with him [10]and delivered him out of all his troubles, and gave him favor and wisdom in the presence of Pharaoh, king of Egypt; and he made him governor over Egypt and all his house. [11]Now a famine and great trouble came over all the land of Egypt and Canaan, and our fathers found no sustenance. [12]But when Jacob heard that there was grain in Egypt, he sent out our fathers first. [13]And the second time Joseph was made known to his brothers, and Joseph's family became known to the Pharaoh. [14]Then Joseph sent and called his father Jacob and all his relatives to him, seventy-five[a] people. [15]So Jacob went down to Egypt; and he died, he and our fathers. [16]And they were carried back to Shechem and laid in the tomb that Abraham bought for a sum of money from the sons of Hamor, the father of Shechem.

God Delivers Israel by Moses

7:4 The Chaldeans lived in central and southeastern Mesopotamia (modern-day Iraq), the land between the Tigris and Euphrates rivers. God had revealed Himself to Abraham in Mesopotamia. The city of Haran became Abraham's home for some years before he moved on to Palestine. Stephen began his defense with Abraham, with whom Jewish history began. The supposed discrepancy as to where God issued His call to Abram is easily explained. God could have spoken to him twice—in Ur and in Haran. Also, the call could have come to Abram in Ur with the Haran incident as parenthetical background (see Gen. 11:27–32; 12:1–3; 15:7; Neh. 9:7).

7:6 The length of time in bondage is obviously here rounded off to 400 years. Elsewhere in the book it is rounded off to 450 years (Acts 13:9, 20). Both are appropriate since the precise number of years in Egyptian slavery, according to most evangelical scholars, was 430 years (Ex. 12:40). The allusion to "this place" is apparently to Canaan (Acts. 7:7; Gen. 15:13–15; Ex. 3:12).

7:16 Shechem, located on the slope of Mount Ebal in north central Palestine, was the first capital of the northern kingdom of Israel and an important city long before the Israelites settled there. Jacob settled at Shechem and bought land from the sons of Hamor. Due to the famine predicted by Joseph, Jacob and all his sons traveled to Egypt and died there. The remains of Joseph and Jacob were returned to Canaan. Seventy people went down to Egypt (Gen. 46:27; Ex. 1:5). However, the Septuagint text, which evidently was used by Stephen, added two sons of Manasseh, two sons of Ephraim, and one grandson of Ephraim, making a total of 75 (see Gen. 46:20). Joseph was buried at Shechem. Again Stephen was bringing together two historical events: Abraham's purchase of Machpelah in Hebron (Gen. 23:17, 18) and Jacob's purchase of a field in Shechem (Gen. 33:19). Stephen's use of the plural "they" indicates the use of this acceptable method of streamlining the recounting of history.

grew and multiplied in Egypt [18]till another king arose who did not know Joseph. [19]This man dealt treacherously with our people, and oppressed our forefathers, making them expose their babies, so that they might not live. [20]At this time Moses was born, and was well pleasing to God; and he was brought up in his father's house for three months. [21]But when he was set out, Pharaoh's daughter took him away and brought him up as her own son. [22]And Moses was learned in all the wisdom of the Egyptians, and was mighty in words and deeds.

[23]"Now when he was forty years old, it came into his heart to visit his brethren, the children of Israel. [24]And seeing one of them suffer wrong, he defended and avenged him who was oppressed, and struck down the Egyptian. [25]For he supposed that his brethren would have understood that God would deliver them by his hand, but they did not understand. [26]And the next day he appeared to two of them as they were fighting, and tried to reconcile them, saying, 'Men, you are brethren; why do you wrong one another?' [27]But he who did his neighbor wrong pushed him away, saying, 'Who made you a ruler and a judge over us? [28]Do you want to kill me as you did the Egyptian yesterday?'[a] [29]Then, at this saying, Moses fled and became a dweller in the land of Midian, where he had two sons.

[30]"And when forty years had passed, an Angel of the Lord[a] appeared to him in a flame of fire in a bush, in the wilderness of Mount Sinai. [31]When Moses saw it, he marveled at the sight; and as he drew near to observe, the voice of the Lord came to him, [32]saying, 'I am the God of your fathers—the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob.'[a] And Moses trembled and dared not look. [33]'Then the LORD said to him, "Take your sandals off your feet, for the place where you stand is holy ground. [34]I have surely seen the oppression of My people who are in Egypt; I have heard their groaning and have come down to deliver them. And now come, I will send you to Egypt." '[a] [35]"This Moses whom they rejected, saying, 'Who made you a ruler and a judge?'[a] is the one God sent to be a ruler and a deliverer by the hand of the Angel who appeared to him in the bush. [36]He brought them out, after he had shown wonders and signs in the land of Egypt, and in the Red Sea, and in the wilderness forty years.

Israel Rebels Against God

[37]"This is that Moses who said to the children of Israel,[a] 'The LORD your God will raise up for you a Prophet like me from your brethren. Him you shall hear.'[b]

[38]"This is he who was in the congregation in the wilderness with the Angel who spoke to him on Mount Sinai, and with our fathers, the one who received the living oracles to give to us, [39]whom our fathers would not obey, but rejected. And in their hearts they turned back to Egypt, [40]saying to Aaron, 'Make us gods to go before us; as for this Moses who brought us out of the land of Egypt, we do not know what has become of him.'[a] [41]And they made a calf in those days, offered sacrifices to the idol, and rejoiced in the works of their own hands. [42]Then God turned and gave them up to worship the host of heaven, as it is written in the book of the Prophets:

'Did you offer Me slaughtered animals and sacrifices during forty years in the wilderness,
O house of Israel?
[43]You also took up the tabernacle of Moloch,
And the star of your god Remphan,
Images which you made to worship;
And I will carry you away beyond Babylon.'[a]

7:20, 21 Since Stephen had been accused of speaking against Moses, he gave a fuller account of Moses than he did of the other biblical characters cited (Acts 6:11). That Moses took the side of one of the quarreling Israelites in no way suggests he was not trying to make peace between the two men (Acts 7:26; see Ex. 2:13). Stephen's description of Moses as "mighty in words" is an observation of what Moses became (Acts 7:22) and stands in contrast to Moses' self-evaluation (Ex. 4:10–16).

7:29 Midian was the land to which Moses fled from Pharaoh after he was charged with killing an Egyptian (Ex. 2:15). Some confusion exists about the exact location of Midian, but evidence points to northwestern Arabia east of the Gulf of Aqaba. There Moses met Jethro, the priest of Midian, and married his daughter. Moses fled Egypt because of his fear of the pharaoh (Ex. 2:15) and the rejection by his people (Acts 7:29).

7:30 In the wilderness of Mount Sinai, Moses came upon a bush that was burning but not consumed by the fire. Through the burning bush, God captured Moses' attention and instructed him to return to Egypt and deliver the Hebrew people out of slavery (see Ex. 3:2). Stephen reversed the chronological order of these events in suggesting that God revealed Himself to Moses before telling him to remove his sandals. However, Stephen could well have been merely emphasizing that the God appearing to Moses was the God of his ancestors Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob (Acts 7:32, 33; see Ex. 3:5, 6).

7:44 The tabernacle was a sacred sanctuary where God met with His people. The "tabernacle of witness" or tent of witness was an elaborate portable tent used by the children of Israel in the wilderness. After the sin of worshiping the golden calf at Mount Sinai, Moses set up the sacred tent outside the camp, for God refused to dwell in the midst of the Israelites.

I knew nothing; I was nothing. For this reason God picked me out.

possessed by the Gentiles, whom God drove out before the face of our fathers until the days of David, 46who found favor before God and asked to find a dwelling for the God of Jacob. 47But Solomon built Him a house.
48"However, the Most High does not dwell in temples made with hands, as the prophet says:

49'Heaven is My throne,
And earth is My footstool.
What house will you build for Me? says the LORD,
Or what is the place of My rest?
50*Has My hand not made all these things?*'[a]

Israel Resists the Holy Spirit

51"You stiff-necked and uncircumcised in heart and ears! You always resist the Holy Spirit; as your fathers did, so do you. 52Which of the prophets did your fathers not persecute? And they killed those who foretold the coming of the Just One, of whom you now have become the betrayers and murderers, 53who have received the law by the direction of angels and have not kept it."

Stephen the Martyr

54When they heard these things they were cut to the heart, and they gnashed at him with their teeth. 55But he, being full of the Holy Spirit, gazed into heaven and saw the glory of God, and Jesus standing at the right hand of God, 56and said, "Look! I see the heavens opened and the Son of Man standing at the right hand of God!"
57Then they cried out with a loud voice, stopped their ears, and ran at him with one accord; 58and they cast him out of the city and stoned him. And the witnesses laid down their clothes at the feet of a young man named Saul. 59And they stoned Stephen as he was calling on God and saying, "Lord Jesus, receive my spirit." 60Then he knelt down and cried out with a loud voice, "Lord, do not charge them with this sin." And when he had said this, he fell asleep.

Saul Persecutes the Church

8 Now Saul was consenting to his death.
At that time a great persecution arose against the church which was at Jerusalem; and they were all scattered throughout the regions of Judea and Samaria, except the apostles. 2And devout men carried Stephen to his burial, and made great lamentation over him.
3As for Saul, he made havoc of the church, entering every house, and dragging off men and women, committing them to prison.

Christ Is Preached in Samaria

4Therefore those who were scattered went everywhere preaching the word. 5Then Philip went down to the[a] city of Samaria and preached Christ to them. 6And the multitudes with one accord heeded the things spoken by Philip, hearing and seeing the miracles which he did. 7For unclean spirits, crying with a loud voice, came out of many who were possessed; and many who were paralyzed and lame were healed. 8And there was great joy in that city.

7:50 [a]Isaiah 66:1, 2 8:5 [a]Or a

Only Moses actually entered the tent. Stephen rightly identified this period in Israel's history as one of apostasy (vv. 42, 43). Some have misunderstood the prophet Amos who described the period as exemplary, though with the obvious intent of denouncing Israel as well (Amos 5:25).

7:58, 59 Stephen had spoken boldly and with unusual courage. The devout Jews believed Stephen had committed blasphemy or spoken evil against God. The Sanhedrin was infuriated by Stephen's accusations. Although stoning was the penalty for blasphemy (see Deut. 13:6–11), the Romans had taken away the Jews' right to execute a person. Thus this act was a mob reaction to Stephen's statement, not a formal execution. Stephen was ready to become the first Christian martyr. Luke quietly introduced Saul of Tarsus here, stating that Saul watched in agreement as Stephen was being murdered.

8:3 Saul was the Jewish name of Paul, who is better known by this official Roman name. Paul was born in the Roman city Tarsus and possessed Roman citizenship. He became a scholar in Jewish tradition and in the interpretation of Scripture, studying under the famous rabbi Gamaliel. Like all Jewish boys, Paul had to learn a trade. His trade was tentmaking. As a Pharisee, he committed himself to teaching and practicing OT laws and traditions. He zealously persecuted and imprisoned followers of Jesus Christ.

8:5 Jews and Samaritans hated each other for various religious and political reasons. They would go miles out of their way to avoid one another. After the stoning of Stephen, persecution increased, and Jewish believers were scattered. Philip, one of the seven chosen to do the work of deacons (Acts 6:5), took the gospel into Samaria, where God greatly blessed his ministry. He was the father of four unmarried daughters, who were prophetesses (see Acts 21, The Daughters of Philip).

CANDACE The Queen of the Ethiopians

Almost nothing is known about this woman. Candace was the title used by the queens of Meroe, the capital of Ethiopia, a region of Nubia just south of Egypt.

This woman surfaced briefly, not because she was a prominent figure but because of the actions of her servant. Scripture records her servant as "a man of Ethiopia, a eunuch of great authority under Candace the queen of the Ethiopians" (Acts 8:27).

An angel of the Lord told the apostle Philip to travel from Jerusalem to Gaza. Philip obeyed and met the Ethiopian eunuch during his journey. The eunuch was reading from Isaiah the prophet when Philip encountered him. After a deep, but brief, theological conversation, the eunuch became a believer in Jesus Christ. When they came to some water, upon the eunuch's request, Philip baptized him. The new believer went on his way, rejoicing. He is not mentioned again.

When the eunuch returned home, did his newfound faith and vibrant testimony have an impact on his queen, Candace? The Bible does not say. Even with her royal status, the queen remains secondary as Scripture highlights her servant, the Ethiopian eunuch. For one day on the road from Jerusalem to Gaza, he made a decision that granted him royal status even greater than that of a queen. He became a son of the heavenly King.

The Sorcerer's Profession of Faith

9 But there was a certain man called Simon, who previously practiced sorcery in the city and astonished the people of Samaria, claiming that he was someone great, 10 to whom they all gave heed, from the least to the greatest, saying, "This man is the great power of God." 11 And they heeded him because he had astonished them with his sorceries for a long time. 12 But when they believed Philip as he preached the things concerning the kingdom of God and the name of Jesus Christ, both men and women were baptized.
13 Then Simon himself also believed; and when he was baptized he continued with Philip, and was amazed, seeing the miracles and signs which were done.

The Sorcerer's Sin

14 Now when the apostles who were at Jerusalem heard that Samaria had received the word of God, they sent Peter and John to them, 15 who, when they had come down, prayed for them that they might receive the Holy Spirit. 16 For as yet He had fallen upon none of them. They had only been baptized in the name of the Lord Jesus. 17 Then they laid hands on them, and they received the Holy Spirit.

18 And when Simon saw that through the laying on of the apostles' hands the Holy Spirit was given, he offered them money, 19 saying, "Give me this power also, that anyone on whom I lay hands may receive the Holy Spirit."

20 But Peter said to him, "Your money perish with you, because you thought that the gift of God could be purchased with money! 21 You have neither part nor portion in this matter, for your heart is not right in the sight of God. 22 Repent therefore of this your wickedness, and pray God if perhaps the thought of your heart may be forgiven you. 23 For I see that you are poisoned by bitterness and bound by iniquity."

24 Then Simon answered and said, "Pray to the Lord for me, that none of the things which you have spoken may come upon me."

25 So when they had testified and preached the word of the Lord, they returned to Jerusalem, preaching the gospel in many villages of the Samaritans.

Christ Is Preached to an Ethiopian

26 Now an angel of the Lord spoke to Philip, saying, "Arise and go toward the south along the road which goes down from Jerusalem to Gaza." This is desert. 27 So he arose and went. And behold, a man

8:9 Simon, from Samaria, was a magician. Whether or not he believed the gospel Philip preached is not clear, but he was baptized. Later, however, anticipating increased personal power and prestige, Simon tried to buy for himself the gift of laying on of hands and the resulting power of the Holy Spirit (vv. 18, 19). To this day, the word "simony" refers to the unworthy buying and selling of ecclesiastical offices.

8:26 The road from Jerusalem to Gaza was a busy avenue of travel. Gaza (Old or Desert Gaza) had been destroyed in 93 B.C., and the new Gaza had been built just to the south of the old site in 57 B.C. Positioned along a major coastal plain highway three miles inland from the Mediterranean Sea, this Philistine city connected Egypt with the rest of the ancient Near East. On this well-traveled road Philip met the eunuch from Ethiopia.

8:27 Eunuchs were men who were deprived of some or all of their sexual organs. In the ancient Near East, eunuchs generally were considered extremely trustworthy. Royalty often employed them, sometimes as keepers of harems. The unnamed eunuch was returning from worship in Jerusalem to his

OBSESSIONS INVADING THE MIND

An obsession is an idea, usually charged with emotion, that repetitively and insistently invades the consciousness even if unwelcome. When these ideas are manifested in behavior patterns, they are called compulsions.

Obsessions often indicate serious underlying difficulties. They are pervasive and become problematic when they interfere substantially with the ability to think rationally. Obsessions are usually short-lived and can be minimized or negated by diverting your attention. They usually occur in one of the following ways:

1) impulsive obsessions—ideas that lead to actions which are repetitive and can be destructive (the persecution of Christians by Saul of Tarsus, Acts 8:3; Gal. 1:13);
2) inhibiting obsessions—doubts about actions (the actions and reactions of King David in his lust for Bathsheba, 2 Sam. 11:1–17); or
3) intellectual obsessions—questions about the purpose of life or ultimate destiny (the thought-provoking encounter of the rich young ruler with Jesus, Matt. 19:16–22).

Ultimately, only the Lord Jesus can remove the anxieties and worries that accompany obsessive behavior. He has challenged believers to trust Him with their cares (1 Pet. 5:7). Being free of obsessions is part of experiencing "the mind of Christ," which is available to all believers (1 Cor. 2:16).

of Ethiopia, a eunuch of great authority under Candace the queen of the Ethiopians, who had charge of all her treasury, and had come to Jerusalem to worship, [28]was returning. And sitting in his chariot, he was reading Isaiah the prophet. [29]Then the Spirit said to Philip, "Go near and overtake this chariot."

[30]So Philip ran to him, and heard him reading the prophet Isaiah, and said, "Do you understand what you are reading?"

[31]And he said, "How can I, unless someone guides me?" And he asked Philip to come up and sit with him. [32]The place in the Scripture which he read was this:

"He was led as a sheep to the slaughter;
And as a lamb before its shearer is silent,
So He opened not His mouth.
[33]In His humiliation His justice was taken away,
And who will declare His generation?
For His life is taken from the earth."[a]

[34]So the eunuch answered Philip and said, "I ask you, of whom does the prophet say this, of himself or of some other man?" [35]Then Philip opened his mouth, and beginning at this Scripture, preached Jesus to him. [36]Now as they went down the road, they came to some water. And the eunuch said, "See, here is water. What hinders me from being baptized?"

[37]Then Philip said, "If you believe with all your heart, you may."

And he answered and said, "I believe that Jesus Christ is the Son of God."[a] [38]So he commanded the chariot to stand still. And both Philip and the eunuch went down into the water, and he baptized him. [39]Now when they came up out of the water, the Spirit of the Lord caught Philip away, so that the eunuch saw him no more; and he went on his way rejoicing. [40]But Philip was found at Azotus. And passing through, he preached in all the cities till he came to Caesarea.

The Damascus Road: Saul Converted

9 Then Saul, still breathing threats and murder against the disciples of the Lord, went to the high priest [2]and asked letters from him to the synagogues of Damascus, so that if he found any who were of the Way, whether men or women, he might bring them bound to Jerusalem.

[3]As he journeyed he came near Damascus, and suddenly a light shone around him from heaven.

homeland of Ethiopia (the region of Nubia just south of Egypt). He was an important official in the court of Candace, a title for all the queens of Ethiopia (see Candace; chart, The Queens of the New Testament).

8:40 Azotus or Ashdod, recorded in history as early as the Late Bronze period, was one of five principal cities of the Philistines. It was located ten miles north of Ashkelon and two-and-a-half miles east of the Mediterranean Sea. In the 1st century, Ashdod was an important center for the production of purple wool.

9:3, 4 Through God's dramatic intervention and continuing transformation in his life, Paul became the greatest early

DORCAS The Generous Disciple

Dorcas is named for the gazelle, a small, graceful, and swift antelope known for its radiant, glowing eyes. Dorcas (Gk.) or Tabitha (Heb. or Aram.) was apparently well named. Dorcas, a Hellenist or Jewess who lived among the Greeks and spoke the Greek language, had become a Christian. Luke, the author of Acts calls her a Christian "disciple," the first and only time in the New Testament this title is used to describe a woman.

Dorcas lived in Joppa, a beautiful city situated on the Mediterranean coast, thirty-five miles northwest of Jerusalem. Being a seacoast city, Joppa saw numerous husbands and fathers depart into the dangers of perilous waters. Many men never returned from the sea, and they left behind them bereaved and destitute widows and orphans.

Dorcas had a heart for the Lord. She had loving eyes that saw another's most urgent need. With skilled fingers, this disciple put her faith into everyday action. She stitched beautiful garments (see Prov. 31:13, 20) and distributed them generously to the city's widows and children, the most pitiful victims of shipwrecks and storms.

Joppa's residents loved Dorcas for her continual humble but worthwhile deeds of kindness and charity. After Dorcas became sick and died, her grieving friends prepared her body for burial, then sent two men to nearby Lydda to fetch the apostle Peter.

Peter came quickly. When he entered the upper chamber where the lifeless body lay, he saw the many widows wearing the garments Dorcas had sewn. Asking them to leave, Peter knelt and prayed. He said, "Tabitha, arise." Taking her hand, Peter lifted her up and called her beloved friends to welcome her back to life. What a celebration that must have been!

The seacoast city of Joppa was no longer the same after Dorcas returned to life. Upon hearing and seeing the miracle of the living Dorcas, many turned to the Lord and believed. No doubt this generous disciple, gifted with skilled fingers and a heart for the Lord, picked up her needle and thread and continued her compassionate and benevolent ministry to all who lived around her. How often does a woman offer the most meaningful service to God by doing what seems to be the least important thing to the world?

4 Then he fell to the ground, and heard a voice saying to him, "Saul, Saul, why are you persecuting Me?"

5 And he said, "Who are You, Lord?"

Then the Lord said, "I am Jesus, whom you are persecuting.[a] It is hard for you to kick against the goads."

6 So he, trembling and astonished, said, "Lord, what do You want me to do?"

Then the Lord said to him, "Arise and go into the city, and you will be told what you must do."

7 And the men who journeyed with him stood speechless, hearing a voice but seeing no one. 8 Then Saul arose from the ground, and when his eyes were opened he saw no one. But they led him by the hand and brought him into Damascus. 9 And he was three days without sight, and neither ate nor drank.

Ananias Baptizes Saul

10 Now there was a certain disciple at Damascus named Ananias; and to him the Lord said in a vision, "Ananias."

And he said, "Here I am, Lord."

11 So the Lord said to him, "Arise and go to the street called Straight, and inquire at the house of Judas for one called Saul of Tarsus, for behold, he is praying. 12 And in a vision he has seen a man named Ananias coming in and putting his hand on him, so that he might receive his sight."

13 Then Ananias answered, "Lord, I have heard from many about this man, how much harm he has done to Your saints in Jerusalem. 14 And here he has authority from the chief priests to bind all who call on Your name."

15 But the Lord said to him, "Go, for he is a chosen vessel of Mine to bear My name before Gentiles, kings, and the children of Israel. 16 For I will show him how many things he must suffer for My name's sake."

17 And Ananias went his way and entered the house; and laying his hands on him he said, witness and missionary to the risen Lord, taking the gospel to the Gentiles.

9:12 Laying on of hands was an OT custom that was also practiced in rabbinic Judaism for the ordination of a student to serve as a rabbi (see Gen. 48:14, 20; Num. 27:15–17; Deut. 34:9). In the NT, hands were placed on a person for healing (see Mark 8:23–25; Acts 9:12, 17), for blessing (Matt. 19:13–15), for setting someone apart for a specific ministry (Acts 6:6; 13:3), and as a visible sign of God's promise to pour out His Spirit (Acts 8:17; 19:6).

Living in the past is the only prison that will prevent you from soaring into an abundant future.

Claudine Boutros

"Brother Saul, the Lord Jesus,[a] who appeared to you on the road as you came, has sent me that you may receive your sight and be filled with the Holy Spirit." [18]Immediately there fell from his eyes something like scales, and he received his sight at once; and he arose and was baptized.

[19]So when he had received food, he was strengthened. Then Saul spent some days with the disciples at Damascus.

Saul Preaches Christ

[20]Immediately he preached the Christ[a] in the synagogues, that He is the Son of God.

[21]Then all who heard were amazed, and said, "Is this not he who destroyed those who called on this name in Jerusalem, and has come here for that purpose, so that he might bring them bound to the chief priests?"

[22]But Saul increased all the more in strength, and confounded the Jews who dwelt in Damascus, proving that this Jesus is the Christ.

Saul Escapes Death

[23]Now after many days were past, the Jews plotted to kill him. [24]But their plot became known to Saul. And they watched the gates day and night, to kill him. [25]Then the disciples took him by night and let him down through the wall in a large basket.

Saul at Jerusalem

[26]And when Saul had come to Jerusalem, he tried to join the disciples; but they were all afraid of him, and did not believe that he was a disciple. [27]But Barnabas took him and brought him to the apostles. And he declared to them how he had seen the Lord on the road, and that He had spoken to him, and how he had preached boldly at Damascus in the name of Jesus. [28]So he was with them at Jerusalem, coming in and going out. [29]And he spoke boldly in the name of the Lord Jesus and disputed against the Hellenists, but they attempted to kill him. [30]When the brethren found out, they brought him down to Caesarea and sent him out to Tarsus.

The Church Prospers

[31]Then the churches[a] throughout all Judea, Galilee, and Samaria had peace and were edified. And walking in the fear of the Lord and in the comfort of the Holy Spirit, they were multiplied.

Aeneas Healed

[32]Now it came to pass, as Peter went through all parts of the country, that he also came down to the saints who dwelt in Lydda. [33]There he found a certain man named Aeneas, who had been bedridden eight years and was paralyzed. [34]And Peter said to him, "Aeneas, Jesus the Christ heals you. Arise and make your bed." Then he arose immediately. [35]So all who dwelt at Lydda and Sharon saw him and turned to the Lord.

Dorcas Restored to Life

[36]At Joppa there was a certain disciple named Tabitha, which is translated Dorcas. This woman was full of good works and charitable deeds which she did. [37]But it happened in those days that she became sick and died. When they had washed her, they laid her in an upper room. [38]And since Lydda was near Joppa, and the disciples had heard that Peter was there, they sent two men to him, imploring him not to delay in coming to them. [39]Then Peter arose and went with them. When he had come, they brought him to the upper room.

9:17 [a]M-Text omits Jesus. 9:20 [a]NU-Text reads Jesus. 9:31 [a]NU-Text reads church . . . was edified.

9:25 Paul worked and preached in Damascus for about three years. "The wall" refers to the wide wall that was built around the city to fortify and protect it from invaders. Some walls in biblical times were built wide enough for one to six chariots to be driven side-by-side atop them. Paul escaped over this city wall with the help of friends by means of a rope and large basket.

9:32 Lydda was located at the intersection of the route from Egypt to Babylon with the road from Joppa to Jerusalem. The district capital of Samaria, Lydda was evangelized through Peter's ministry, and by the 2nd century a strong Christian church existed there. Peter referred to the Christians at Lydda as "saints" (Gk. hagios, lit. "set apart" or "holy"). The term became a synonym for Christians in the early church and stressed the fact that God had declared them holy and righteous in His eyes and had set them apart for His purposes.

9:36 Tabitha (Aram., lit. "gazelle") or Dorcas (Gk.) lived in Joppa and ministered constantly to the many widows who lived there. Joppa was a seacoast town, and women would often lose their seafaring husbands to accidents at sea. Dorcas was especially generous in her sewing of garments for the widows, who greatly loved and admired her. When Dorcas died, the widows gathered around her and showed off the many lovely articles of clothing she had made for them. Peter restored Dorcas to life and, in doing so, brought many to personal faith in Christ (see Dorcas).

RACIAL RELATIONS NO RESPECTER OF PERSONS

The task of each Christian woman is twofold—to proclaim the gospel and to love her neighbor. Jesus Christ demonstrates that racial relations must be based on love (Mark 2:15–17; 7:25–30) and that the gospel is intended for all races, tribes, and nations (Luke 2:32; Rev. 14:6).

The Bible does not contain any clear definition of race, referring instead to nations, tribes, tongues, and peoples. Yet racial prejudices appear to be intolerable. The Lord showed His displeasure by disciplining Miriam for her criticism of Moses' Ethiopian wife (Num. 12:1–15). Jonah was disciplined when he refused to take his ministry to those of another culture (Jon. 1:12). Peter, after opening the "door of faith to the Gentiles," was admonished when his behavior did not exemplify grace (Acts 10:15; Gal. 2:11–18). We must avoid the idea that God approves any mistreatment according to race.

The Bible contains no justification that the people of one race are superior to those of another. Eve is called the "mother of all living" (Gen. 3:20), and all are created in the image of God (Gen. 1:26, 27). All people are under the power of sin and are sinners, and everyone falls short of the glory of God and needs redemption (Rom. 3:23). Jesus Christ did not die on the Cross exclusively for one group but for all (John 1:29; Rom. 8:32). God does not respect persons according to their outward status or condition, and neither should His children (Luke 6:43–45; James 2:1).

The evaluative question must be, "Would God be pleased with the way I treat those of other races?" As ambassadors of Christ, believers must exemplify His standard of love for all people (2 Cor. 5:20; John 15:12).

And all the widows stood by him weeping, showing the tunics and garments which Dorcas had made while she was with them. 40But Peter put them all out, and knelt down and prayed. And turning to the body he said, "Tabitha, arise." And she opened her eyes, and when she saw Peter she sat up. 41Then he gave her his hand and lifted her up; and when he had called the saints and widows, he presented her alive. 42And it became known throughout all Joppa, and many believed on the Lord. 43So it was that he stayed many days in Joppa with Simon, a tanner.

Cornelius Sends a Delegation

10 There was a certain man in Caesarea called Cornelius, a centurion of what was called the Italian Regiment, 2a devout man and one who feared God with all his household, who gave alms generously to the people, and prayed to God always. 3About the ninth hour of the day he saw clearly in a vision an angel of God coming in and saying to him, "Cornelius!"

4And when he observed him, he was afraid, and said, "What is it, lord?"

So he said to him, "Your prayers and your alms have come up for a memorial before God. 5Now send men to Joppa, and send for Simon whose surname is Peter. 6He is lodging with Simon, a tanner, whose house is by the sea.[a] He will tell you what you must do." 7And when the angel who spoke to him had departed, Cornelius called two of his household servants and a devout soldier from among those who waited on him continually. 8So when he had explained all these things to them, he sent them to Joppa.

Peter's Vision

9The next day, as they went on their journey and drew near the city, Peter went up on the housetop to pray, about the sixth hour. 10Then he became very hungry and wanted to eat; but while they made ready, he fell into a trance 11and saw heaven opened and an object like a great sheet bound at the four corners, descending to him and let down to the earth. 12In it were all kinds of four-footed animals of the earth, wild beasts, creeping

10:6 [a]NU-Text and M-Text omit the last sentence of this verse.

9:43 Peter stayed in the seaport city of Joppa "many days" and discipled the new believers. During this time, he lived in the house of Simon, a tanner of animal skins. Peter's stay in the house of a tanner is interesting, since handling dead animals in order to tan their skin was considered by the Jews a profession ceremonially "unclean." For some reason, Peter disregarded these strict Jewish laws, perhaps as part of God's preparation for his Gentile mission at Caesarea. During his stay in Simon's house, Peter experienced a vision from God concerning clean and unclean food (see Acts 10:9–16).

10:1 Cornelius, a centurion, was stationed in Caesarea, a city named for Augustus Caesar. A centurion was a Roman army officer in charge of 100 soldiers. Cornelius was kind to the Jewish people; and although he was a Gentile, he worshiped God. Through Peter's gospel presentation, Cornelius became a follower of Jesus Christ. Peter baptized Cornelius, the first Gentile convert, and Cornelius's conversion marked the beginning of Gentile missionary activity.

10:10–16 While staying at the home of Simon the tanner in Joppa, Peter went up to the housetop to pray at midday.

things, and birds of the air. 13And a voice came to him, "Rise, Peter; kill and eat."

14But Peter said, "Not so, Lord! For I have never eaten anything common or unclean."

15And a voice spoke to him again the second time, "What God has cleansed you must not call common." 16This was done three times. And the object was taken up into heaven again.

Summoned to Caesarea

17Now while Peter wondered within himself what this vision which he had seen meant, behold, the men who had been sent from Cornelius had made inquiry for Simon's house, and stood before the gate. 18And they called and asked whether Simon, whose surname was Peter, was lodging there.

19While Peter thought about the vision, the Spirit said to him, "Behold, three men are seeking you. 20Arise therefore, go down and go with them, doubting nothing; for I have sent them."

21Then Peter went down to the men who had been sent to him from Cornelius,[a] and said, "Yes, I am he whom you seek. For what reason have you come?"

22And they said, "Cornelius the centurion, a just man, one who fears God and has a good reputation among all the nation of the Jews, was divinely instructed by a holy angel to summon you to his house, and to hear words from you." 23Then he invited them in and lodged them.

On the next day Peter went away with them, and some brethren from Joppa accompanied him.

Peter Meets Cornelius

24And the following day they entered Caesarea. Now Cornelius was waiting for them, and had called together his relatives and close friends. 25As Peter was coming in, Cornelius met him and fell down at his feet and worshiped him. 26But Peter lifted him up, saying, "Stand up; I myself am also a man." 27And as he talked with him, he went in and found many who had come together. 28Then he said to them, "You know how unlawful it is for a Jewish man to keep company with or go to one of another nation. But God has shown me that I should not call any man common or unclean. 29Therefore I came without objection as soon as I was sent for. I ask, then, for what reason have you sent for me?"

30So Cornelius said, "Four days ago I was fasting until this hour; and at the ninth hour[a] I prayed in my house, and behold, a man stood before me in bright clothing, 31and said, 'Cornelius, your prayer has been heard, and your alms are remembered in the sight of God. 32Send therefore to Joppa and call Simon here, whose surname is Peter. He is lodging in the house of Simon, a tanner, by the sea.[a] When he comes, he will speak to you.' 33So I sent to you immediately, and you have done well to come. Now therefore, we are all present before God, to hear all the things commanded you by God."

Preaching to Cornelius' Household

34Then Peter opened his mouth and said: "In truth I perceive that God shows no partiality. 35But in every nation whoever fears Him and works righteousness is accepted by Him. 36The word which God sent to the children of Israel, preaching peace through Jesus Christ—He is Lord of all— 37that word you know, which was proclaimed throughout all Judea, and began from Galilee after the baptism which John preached: 38how God anointed Jesus of Nazareth with the Holy Spirit and with power, who went about doing good and healing all who were oppressed by the devil, for God was with Him. 39And we are witnesses of all things which He did both in the land of the Jews and in Jerusalem, whom they[a] killed by hanging on a tree. 40Him God raised up on the Houses typically had flat roofs, enabling a person to escape the heat of a small, crowded house and to enjoy cool breezes as well as privacy and quiet. Often daily work was done on the roofs. The Jews had strict regulations about what could and could not be eaten, and Peter had never eaten what a Jew considered an unclean animal (see Lev. 10, Clean vs. Unclean). The sheet, however, contained a variety of animals, both clean and unclean. By repeating the vision of the sheet three times, God underscored the importance of His message to Peter (Acts 10:16).

10:28 Extreme prejudice existed between Jews and Gentiles in biblical days. Jews referred to Gentiles as dogs, considered them unclean, and would have little to do with them. No orthodox Jew would enter the house of a Gentile, much less sit down at his table to eat. Peter's vision of the clean and unclean animals convinced him that, just as there is no clean or unclean animal flesh, so no human being should be considered clean or unclean. Through God's revelation, Peter recognized that Jesus Christ had died for all people.

MARY The Mother of John Mark

Scripture mentions Mary, the mother of John Mark, only once. During the persecution of Herod Agrippa, this brave woman offered her house to the first group of Christians at Jerusalem as a place to worship God and to pray.

Mary was a woman of means, with servants and a house large enough to accommodate the entire Jerusalem congregation. Since Scripture records no husband, Mary was probably a widow.

Times proved difficult for Christ's followers during those early turbulent years. Herod Agrippa had imprisoned Peter after killing James, the brother of John, with the sword. Yet, in spite of the risks involved, Mary courageously opened her home regularly to Christians.

After an angel miraculously escorted him from prison, Peter went immediately to Mary's house, a familiar place of hospitality for the disciples. There he found the entire congregation praying for his release.

With the dauntless example of a mother like Mary, no wonder John Mark became a missionary, church leader, and the author of the second gospel.

third day, and showed Him openly, [41]not to all the people, but to witnesses chosen before by God, even to us who ate and drank with Him after He arose from the dead. [42]And He commanded us to preach to the people, and to testify that it is He who was ordained by God to be Judge of the living and the dead. [43]To Him all the prophets witness that, through His name, whoever believes in Him will receive remission of sins."

The Holy Spirit Falls on the Gentiles

[44]While Peter was still speaking these words, the Holy Spirit fell upon all those who heard the word. [45]And those of the circumcision who believed were astonished, as many as came with Peter, because the gift of the Holy Spirit had been poured out on the Gentiles also. [46]For they heard them speak with tongues and magnify God.

Then Peter answered, [47]"Can anyone forbid water, that these should not be baptized who have received the Holy Spirit just as we have?" [48]And he commanded them to be baptized in the name of the Lord. Then they asked him to stay a few days.

Peter Defends God's Grace

11 Now the apostles and brethren who were in Judea heard that the Gentiles had also received the word of God. [2]And when Peter came up to Jerusalem, those of the circumcision contended with him, [3]saying, "You went in to uncircumcised men and ate with them!"

[4]But Peter explained it to them in order from the beginning, saying: [5]"I was in the city of Joppa praying; and in a trance I saw a vision, an object descending like a great sheet, let down from heaven by four corners; and it came to me. [6]When I observed it intently and considered, I saw four-footed animals of the earth, wild beasts, creeping things, and birds of the air. [7]And I heard a voice saying to me, 'Rise, Peter; kill and eat.' [8]But I said, 'Not so, Lord! For nothing common or unclean has at any time entered my mouth.' [9]But the voice answered me again from heaven, 'What God has cleansed you must not call common.' [10]Now this was done three times, and all were drawn up again into heaven. [11]At that very moment, three men stood before the house where I was, having been sent to me from Caesarea. [12]Then the Spirit told me to go with them, doubting nothing. Moreover these six brethren accompanied me, and we entered the man's house. [13]And he told us how he had seen an angel standing in his house, who said to him, 'Send men to Joppa, and call for Simon whose surname is Peter, [14]who will tell you words by which you and all your household will be saved.' [15]And as I began to speak, the Holy Spirit fell upon them, as upon us at the beginning. [16]Then I remembered the word of the Lord, how He said, 'John indeed baptized with water, but you shall be baptized with the Holy Spirit.' [17]If therefore God gave them the same gift as He gave us when we believed on the Lord Jesus Christ, who was I that I could withstand God?"

[18]When they heard these things they became silent; and they glorified God, saying, "Then God

10:45–48 Those of the circumcision were the orthodox Jews (v. 45). The Jews were "astonished" when the Gentiles received the Holy Spirit because they would not have expected God to bless these who were outside the covenant. With the outpouring of the Holy Spirit, the Gentiles began to "speak with tongues" (the ability to speak in languages never studied, see Acts 2:2–4, note) and to "magnify" God (Acts 10:46). Speaking in other languages offered proof to the Jews that the Gentiles had received the Holy Spirit, since this was the same sign that God had given to the Jews on Pentecost. Peter immediately baptized them and stayed in their household for "a few days" to nurture them in their new faith (v. 48).

has also granted to the Gentiles repentance to life."

Barnabas and Saul at Antioch

19Now those who were scattered after the persecution that arose over Stephen traveled as far as Phoenicia, Cyprus, and Antioch, preaching the word to no one but the Jews only. 20But some of them were men from Cyprus and Cyrene, who, when they had come to Antioch, spoke to the Hellenists, preaching the Lord Jesus. 21And the hand of the Lord was with them, and a great number believed and turned to the Lord.

22Then news of these things came to the ears of the church in Jerusalem, and they sent out Barnabas to go as far as Antioch. 23When he came and had seen the grace of God, he was glad, and encouraged them all that with purpose of heart they should continue with the Lord. 24For he was a good man, full of the Holy Spirit and of faith. And a great many people were added to the Lord.

25Then Barnabas departed for Tarsus to seek Saul. 26And when he had found him, he brought him to Antioch. So it was that for a whole year they assembled with the church and taught a great many people. And the disciples were first called Christians in Antioch.

Relief to Judea

27And in these days prophets came from Jerusalem to Antioch. 28Then one of them, named Agabus, stood up and showed by the Spirit that there was going to be a great famine throughout all the world, which also happened in the days of Claudius Caesar. 29Then the disciples, each according to his ability, determined to send relief to the brethren dwelling in Judea. 30This they also did, and sent it to the elders by the hands of Barnabas and Saul.

Herod's Violence to the Church

12 Now about that time Herod the king stretched out his hand to harass some from the church. 2Then he killed James the brother of John with the sword. 3And because he saw that it pleased the Jews, he proceeded further to seize Peter also. Now it was during the Days of Unleavened Bread. 4So when he had arrested him, he put him in prison, and delivered him to four squads of soldiers to keep him, intending to bring him before the people after Passover.

Peter Freed from Prison

5Peter was therefore kept in prison, but constant[a] prayer was offered to God for him by the church. 6And when Herod was about to bring him out, that night Peter was sleeping, bound with two chains between two soldiers; and the guards before the door were keeping the prison. 7Now behold, an angel of the Lord stood by him, and a light shone in the prison; and he struck Peter on the side and raised him up, saying, "Arise quickly!" And his chains fell off his hands. 8Then the angel said to him, "Gird yourself and tie on your sandals"; and so he did. And he said to him, "Put on your garment and follow me." 9So he went out and followed him, and did not know that what was done by the angel was real, but thought he was seeing a vision. 10When they were past the first and the second guard posts, they came to the iron

12:5 [a]NU-Text reads constantly (or earnestly).

11:22 Barnabas (lit. "son of encouragement") was sent to Antioch. He was a generous man who earlier sold his material possessions and gave the money to the Jersusalem church (Acts 4:36). He was sent by the Jerusalem church to verify and guide this radical church growth among the Gentiles. Barnabas was the man responsible for bringing Paul to Antioch, and he later accompanied Paul on his first missionary journey (Acts 13:1–3; see map, Paul's First Missionary Journey).

11:26 Many Jews who lived outside Palestine (known as Diaspora Jews) settled in Antioch, the first place where believers in Christ were called "Christians." What started as a nickname became a means of identifying those who lived and behaved like Christ.

11:28 Agabus was a prophet (Gk. prophētēs, lit. "proclaimer" or "interpreter" or "one who speaks for"). Prophets had an important ministry in the early church and were held in high esteem. They not only told the future, but they also revealed the will of God. Agabus visited the church at Antioch and predicted a universal famine, which happened a decade later. As a result, the church at Antioch began a famine relief program for the congregation in Jerusalem.

12:2 Herod Agrippa I, the grandson of Herod the Great, began to attack Christians and especially their leaders (see chart, The Family Tree of Herod the Great). This outbreak of persecution against Christians had both religious and political intent. Herod had been careful to observe Jewish customs and thus popularize himself with the Jews. In order to gain and keep their support, Herod beheaded James, the son of Zebedee and brother of John. Then Herod imprisoned Peter but postponed his execution until after the Passover Feast.

RHODA A Fragrant Life

Rhoda's name means "rose." She lived about A.D. 43, during the first Christian persecution of Herod Agrippa, the grandson of the infamous Herod the Great (see Matt. 2). She was the maid of John Mark's mother Mary, in whose home the small congregation in Jerusalem often gathered to pray. One night, they had prayed long past midnight for the release of Peter from prison. Since James, the brother of John, had already been put to death, the infant church feared the same fate for Peter.

During the prayer session, Rhoda heard a knock at the gate and ran to the door. She immediately recognized Peter's voice when he spoke to her. But in her excitement, she failed to open the door. She left Peter standing outside the closed gate. Bolting into the room and interrupting those praying, Rhoda announced with great excitement that Peter himself stood at the door.

The Christians did not believe her. They even questioned her sanity. They concluded that the "visitor" was Peter's angel, as it was a common Jewish belief that every Israelite was given a special guardian angel who resembled him. They knew Peter was being held in a well-guarded prison. Rhoda never doubted whose voice she had heard. She was terribly excited but not surprised that God had heard the prayers of the young congregation. Unlike the others, who had to open the door and see Peter with their own eyes, Rhoda had faith great enough to know God would answer their prayers, even in the most unexpected way. The mundane tasks assigned to Rhoda as a household servant did not keep her from experiencing the joys of being a part of kingdom business through her genuine, believing faith.

gate that leads to the city, which opened to them of its own accord; and they went out and went down one street, and immediately the angel departed from him.

11 And when Peter had come to himself, he said, "Now I know for certain that the Lord has sent His angel, and has delivered me from the hand of Herod and from all the expectation of the Jewish people."

12 So, when he had considered this, he came to the house of Mary, the mother of John whose surname was Mark, where many were gathered together praying. 13 And as Peter knocked at the door of the gate, a girl named Rhoda came to answer. 14 When she recognized Peter's voice, because of her gladness she did not open the gate, but ran in and announced that Peter stood before the gate. 15 But they said to her, "You are beside yourself!" Yet she kept insisting that it was so. So they said, "It is his angel."

16 Now Peter continued knocking; and when they opened the door and saw him, they were astonished. 17 But motioning to them with his hand to keep silent, he declared to them how the Lord had brought him out of the prison. And he said, "Go, tell these things to James and to the brethren." And he departed and went to another place.

18 Then, as soon as it was day, there was no small stir among the soldiers about what had become of Peter. 19 But when Herod had searched for him and not found him, he examined the guards and commanded that they should be put to death.

And he went down from Judea to Caesarea, and stayed there.

Herod's Violent Death

20 Now Herod had been very angry with the people of Tyre and Sidon; but they came to him with one accord, and having made Blastus the king's personal aide their friend, they asked for peace, because their country was supplied with food by the king's country.

21 So on a set day Herod, arrayed in royal apparel, sat on his throne and gave an oration to them. 22 And the people kept shouting, "The voice of a god and not of a man!" 23 Then immediately an angel of the Lord struck him, because he did not give glory to God. And he was eaten by worms and died.

24 But the word of God grew and multiplied.

12:23 Herod Agrippa, the son of Aristobulus and grandson of Herod the Great, ruled Palestine as king from A.D. 41–44 (see charts, The Family Tree of Herod the Great; New Testament Political Rulers). After Passover, Herod Agrippa returned to his residence at Caesarea to settle a quarrel with the people of Tyre and Sidon. On the second day of a festival honoring Emperor Claudius, Herod clad himself in a silver robe. When the robe glistened in the sunlight, the dazzled crowd cried out to Herod, calling him a god. He did not rebuke their claim but instead enjoyed the adulation. Immediately Herod became ill and after several days of intense pain, he died. Luke considered the death of Herod as punishment from God.

12:25 Accompanying Paul and Barnabas as they returned from the Jerusalem church to Antioch was John Mark, the son they also took with them John whose surname was Mark.

13 Now in the church that was at Antioch there were certain prophets and teachers: Barnabas, Simeon who was called Niger, Lucius of Cyrene, Manaen who had been brought up with Herod the tetrarch, and Saul. 2As they ministered to the Lord and fasted, the Holy Spirit said, "Now separate to Me Barnabas and Saul for the work to which I have called them." 3Then, having fasted and prayed, and laid hands on them, they sent them away.

Preaching in Cyprus

4So, being sent out by the Holy Spirit, they went down to Seleucia, and from there they sailed to Cyprus. 5And when they arrived in Salamis, they preached the word of God in the synagogues of the Jews. They also had John as their assistant.

6Now when they had gone through the island[a] to Paphos, they found a certain sorcerer, a false prophet, a Jew whose name was Bar-Jesus, 7who was with the proconsul, Sergius Paulus, an intelligent man. This man called for Barnabas and Saul and sought to hear the word of God. 8But Elymas the sorcerer (for so his name is translated) withstood them, seeking to turn the proconsul away from the faith. 9Then Saul, who also is called Paul, filled with the Holy Spirit, looked intently at him 10and said, "O full of all deceit and all fraud, you son of the devil, you enemy of all righteousness, will you not cease perverting the straight ways of the Lord? 11And now, indeed, the hand of the Lord is upon you, and you shall be blind, not seeing the sun for a time."

And immediately a dark mist fell on him, and he went around seeking someone to lead him by the hand. 12Then the proconsul believed, when he saw what had been done, being astonished at the teaching of the Lord.

of Mary, in whose house the church worshiped. John Mark became an important helper to Paul and Barnabas. He, too, preached the gospel to the Gentiles. He later wrote the Gospel of Mark for Gentile Christians.

13:1 Luke listed five prophets and teachers residing at Antioch.

- Barnabas (lit. "son of encouragement") was a peacemaker; he often settled disputes between the Jewish and Gentile Christians; he was responsible for bringing Paul (or Saul) to Antioch.
- Simeon was also called "Niger" (lit. "black").
- Little is known about Lucius except that he was from Cyrene in northern Africa.
- Manaen, who grew up with Herod Antipas (4 B.C. to A.D. 37; see chart, New Testament Political Rulers), was probably a member of the court.
- Saul or Paul, a trained rabbi and Pharisee, became a great missionary and martyr of the early Christian church.

These men came from different traditions, backgrounds, and religions, but they were unified in their mission for Christ.

13:2 Fasting can be both a private and a community act, in which people put aside food (and/or drink) for a period of time (see Matt. 6:16–18, note). The early church fasted and prayed in order to understand and receive direction in their task of taking the gospel of Jesus Christ throughout the world.

13:4, 5 Seleucia, a Syrian city located about 15 miles from Antioch on the Mediterranean coast, was founded in 301 B.C. by Seleucus Nicator, a general of Alexander the Great. The missionaries boarded a ship after leaving Seleucia and traveled some 130 miles to Cyprus, an island 138 miles long and 60 miles wide located in the eastern Mediterranean Sea. The Romans took control of Cyprus in 57 or 58 B.C. The mountainous island contained an abundance of trees and copper mines whose products were widely marketed. Cyprus was the birthplace of Barnabas, Paul's companion on his first missionary journey. Salamis was the most important city on the island. Most sailing in the Mediterranean had to be done from May to September due to severe weather, fog, and storms at sea.

13:6 Paphos, the capital of Cyprus, was located on the southwest side of the island. Paphos was an important center for the worship of Venus, the goddess of love (see chart, Graeco-Roman Goddesses).

13:7, 8 Sergius Paulus, an "intelligent man," was the governor of Cyprus. This Gentile was converted to Christianity after hearing the gospel. Bar-Jesus or Elymas, the magician, was his personal sorcerer (Gk. magos). Many important men had personal wizards or sorcerers because of the prevalence of superstition. He saw the faith of the missionaries as a real threat to his career and livelihood. Elymas was struck with temporary blindness when he tried to prevent the governor from hearing the gospel.

13:13 Perga was located eight miles from the Mediterranean Sea in the province of Pamphylia. Paul, Barnabas, and John Mark headed for Perga after leaving Paphos. At this point Paul evidently took leadership in the missionary endeavors. Barnabas, however, who had previously been in charge, did

EMPLOYMENT CHOOSING A PROFESSION

The Bible provides numerous examples of professions and jobs. In most cases, professions in the Old Testament were "inherited"—passed down from father to son or mother to daughter in something of a mentoring manner or apprenticeship relationship. Occasionally, a person's special talents in a particular area or the call of God on the person's life were noted, and that person then was singled out for a unique position, such as when Deborah became a judge of Israel (Judg. 4:4, 5).

In the New Testament, women and men enjoyed much more autonomy in "choosing" a line of work or a profession. Lydia was a notable businesswoman in the textile industry (Acts 16:14); Dorcas was a well-respected seamstress (Acts 9:39); and Priscilla worked in the tentmaking trade (Acts 18:2, 3).

The understanding of the New Testament believers, however, was that their entire lives were subject to God's command and direction, including their choices of careers. The Holy Spirit was to be trusted both for direction and timing.

The idea of a "career path" was not regarded as something that a person must engineer on her own, but something that flowed naturally from a person's talents and abilities and in response to opportunities that arose. You are to be motivated in your work by a desire to use your abilities to their fullest for the glory of God rather than being motivated by positions on corporate ladders, work incentives, higher salaries, or cultural standards of prestige and status.

The Bible clearly warns against worshiping the work of your own hands or exalting that which you have created or earned to the place of supreme honor in your life (Ps. 115:1–8; Jer. 25:6, 7).

14 But when they departed from Perga, they came to Antioch in Pisidia, and went into the synagogue

the synagogue sent to them, saying, "Men and not seem to mind and worked diligently with Paul. Young John Mark, their helper, gave up at this stage in the journey and went home. Paul found it extremely hard to excuse John Mark for this action. Paul and Barnabas later split company over a dispute concerning whether John Mark should travel with them on the second missionary journey (see Acts 15:38, 39).

13:15 Exhortation, such as in the phrases "Listen" and "Beware therefore," occurs at the beginning and end of Paul's message to the Jews in Pisidia (vv. 16, 40). His words were not just one more discourse on a Sabbath day but an urgent message that demanded action from the hearers (vv. 38–41). Before Paul's ministry, Moses, the prophets, and Jesus called out to women and men throughout the ages to hear the truth from God and believe it (Ex. 24:3; John 3:23; 2 Pet. 1:19). In exhorting one another, be equally urgent and uncompromisingly clear in bringing the message of Christ to one another and to the unbeliever (see Ps. 149, Praise; Matt. 28; John 6; Col. 4; 1 Pet. 3, Evangelism; Rom. 12, Spiritual Gifts; Eph. 4, Encouragement).

13:21 Saul, whose father was Kish from the tribe of Benjamin, reigned as the first king of a united Israel. Once an effective king, Saul eventually became deranged. Due to fear and jealousy, he tried to kill David, the shepherd boy whom God had anointed to become king after him. He also ordered the slaughter of 85 priests at Nob (1 Sam. 22:17–19). The day before his tragic death, Saul disguised himself and consulted the witch of En Dor (1 Sam. 28:3–25).

those who dwell in Jerusalem, and their rulers, because they did not know Him, nor even the voices of the Prophets which are read every Sabbath, have fulfilled them in condemning Him. [28]And though they found no cause for death in Him, they asked Pilate that He should be put to death. [29]Now when they had fulfilled all that was written concerning Him, they took Him down from the tree and laid Him in a tomb. [30]But God raised Him from the dead. [31]He was seen for many days by those who came up with Him from Galilee to Jerusalem, who are His witnesses to the people. [32]And we declare to you glad tidings—that promise which was made to the fathers. [33]God has fulfilled this for us their children, in that He has raised up Jesus. As it is also written in the second Psalm:

'You are My Son,
Today I have begotten You.'[a]

[34]And that He raised Him from the dead, no more to return to corruption, He has spoken thus:

'I will give you the sure mercies of David.'[a]

[35]Therefore He also says in another Psalm:

'You will not allow Your Holy One to see corruption.'[a]

[36]"For David, after he had served his own generation by the will of God, fell asleep, was buried with his fathers, and saw corruption; [37]but He whom God raised up saw no corruption. [38]Therefore let it be known to you, brethren, that through this Man is preached to you the forgiveness of sins; [39]and by Him everyone who believes is justified from all things from which you could not be justified by the law of Moses. [40]Beware therefore, lest what has been spoken in the prophets come upon you:

[41] 'Behold, you despisers,
Marvel and perish!
For I work a work in your days,
A work which you will by no means believe,
Though one were to declare it to you.' "[a] preached to them the next Sabbath. 43Now when the congregation had broken up, many of the Jews and devout proselytes followed Paul and Barnabas, who, speaking to them, persuaded them to continue in the grace of God.

44On the next Sabbath almost the whole city came together to hear the word of God. 45But when the Jews saw the multitudes, they were filled with envy; and contradicting and blaspheming, they opposed the things spoken by Paul. 46Then Paul and Barnabas grew bold and said, "It was necessary that the word of God should be spoken to you first; but since you reject it, and judge yourselves unworthy of everlasting life, behold, we turn to the Gentiles. 47For so the Lord has commanded us:

'I have set you as a light to the Gentiles,
That you should be for salvation to the ends of the earth.'"[a] 48Now when the Gentiles heard this, they were glad and glorified the word of the Lord. And as many as had been appointed to eternal life believed.

49And the word of the Lord was being spread throughout all the region. 50But the Jews stirred up the devout and prominent women and the chief men of the city, raised up persecution against Paul and Barnabas, and expelled them from their region. 51But they shook off the dust from their feet against them, and came to Iconium. 52And the disciples were filled with joy and with the Holy Spirit.

At Iconium

14 Now it happened in Iconium that they went together to the synagogue of the Jews, and so spoke that a great multitude both of the Jews and of the Greeks believed. 2But the unbelieving Jews stirred up the Gentiles and poisoned their minds against the brethren. 3Therefore they stayed there a long time, speaking boldly in the Lord, who was bearing witness to the word of His grace, granting signs and wonders to be done by their hands.

4But the multitude of the city was divided: part sided with the Jews, and part with the apostles. 5And when a violent attempt was made by both the Gentiles and Jews, with their rulers, to abuse and stone them, 6they became aware of it and fled to Lystra and Derbe, cities of Lycaonia, and to the surrounding region. 7And they were preaching the gospel there.

Idolatry at Lystra

8And in Lystra a certain man without strength in his feet was sitting, a cripple from his mother's womb, who had never walked. 9*This* man heard Paul speaking. Paul, observing him intently and seeing that he had faith to be healed, 10said with a loud voice, "Stand up straight on your feet!" And he leaped and walked. 11Now when the people saw what Paul had done, they raised their voices, saying in the Lycaonian language, "The gods have come down to us in the likeness of men!" 12And Barnabas they called Zeus, and Paul, Hermes, because he was the chief speaker. 13Then the priest of Zeus, whose temple was in front of their city, brought oxen and garlands to the gates, intending to sacrifice with the multitudes.

14But when the apostles Barnabas and Paul heard this, they tore their clothes and ran in among the multitude, crying out 15and saying, "Men, why are you doing these things? We also are men with the same nature as you, and preach to you that you should turn from these useless things to the living God, who made the heaven,

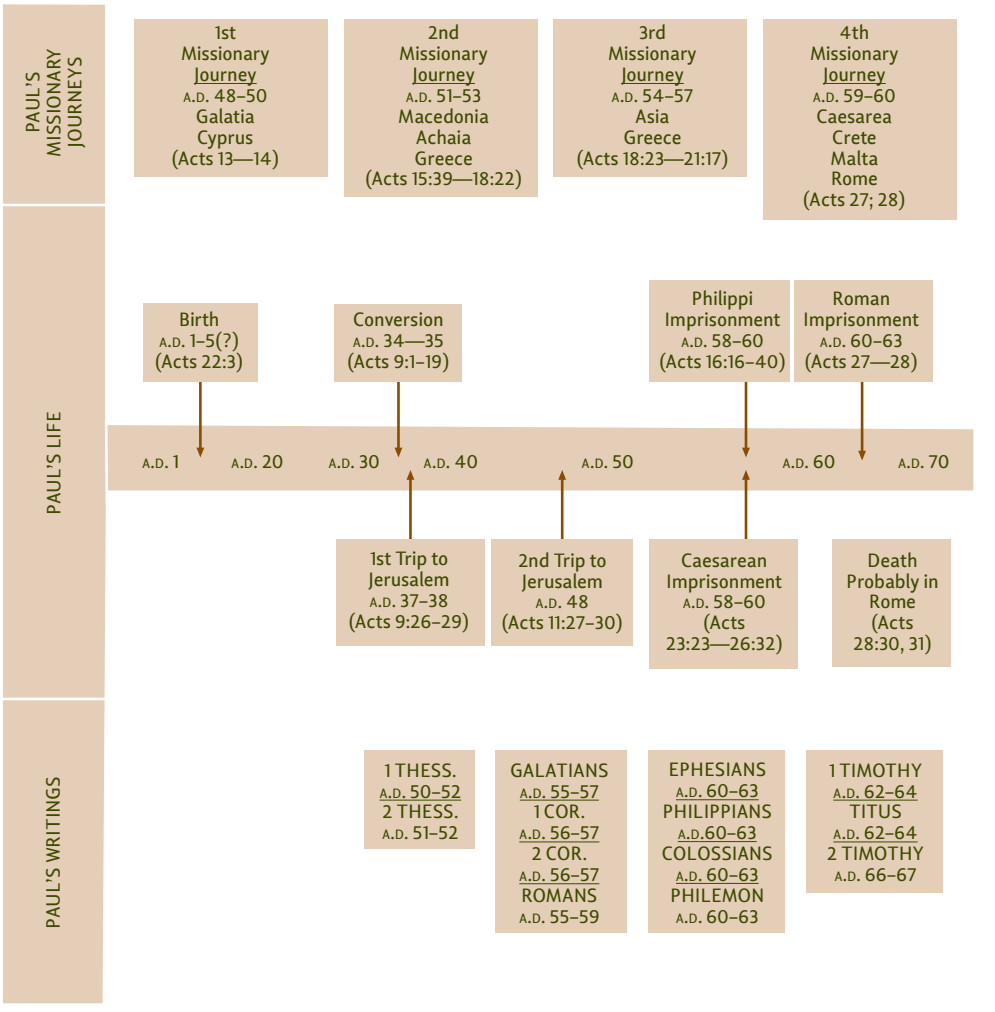
13:51 Paul suffered much persecution in Iconium, a city in the province of Galatia. To shake the dust from one's feet was to declare Gentile territory to be unclean. The devout Jews rejected the gospel. Thus, the missionaries shook dust from their feet as they left the city to show that the Jews had become like Gentiles, whom the Jews considered unclean.

14:12–14 The people in Lystra were very superstitious. When Paul healed the lame man (v. 8), the people reacted as pagans toward Paul and Barnabas. They immediately began to worship Barnabas as Zeus, the king of the gods, and Paul as Hermes, the god of speech, believing that these missionaries were the gods visiting in human flesh. Ancient legend had stated that Hermes and Zeus once came to earth incognito. The people did not recognize them as gods during that earthly visit and thus showed them no hospitality. As a result, the gods destroyed all but two of the city's inhabitants. Wanting to avoid such a possibility, the local priest of Zeus prepared to worship the missionaries with sacrificial animals. Because the people spoke in the Lycaonian language, Paul and Barnabas were slow to understand exactly what was happening. When finally they understood, the men tore their clothes as a sign of outrageous disgust and sought to stop the people.

THE TIMELINE OF PAUL



the earth, the sea, and all things that are in them, [16]who in bygone generations allowed all nations to walk in their own ways. [17]Nevertheless He did not leave Himself without witness, in that He did good, gave us rain from heaven and fruitful seasons, filling our hearts with food and gladness." [18]And with these sayings they could scarcely restrain the multitudes from sacrificing to them.

Stoning, Escape to Derbe

[19]Then Jews from Antioch and Iconium came there; and having persuaded the multitudes, they stoned Paul and dragged him out of the city, supposing him to be dead. [20]However, when the disciples gathered around him, he rose up and went into the city. And the next day he departed with Barnabas to Derbe.

Strengthening the Converts

[21]And when they had preached the gospel to that city and made many disciples, they returned to Lystra, Iconium, and Antioch, [22]strengthening the souls of the disciples, exhorting them to continue in the faith, and saying, "We must through many tribulations enter the kingdom of God." [23]So when they had appointed elders in every church, and prayed with fasting, they commended them

PREJUDICE IMPEDING THE KINGDOM'S GROWTH

Prejudice denies believers free fellowship, thereby impeding access to the spiritual gifts God has placed throughout the body of Christ. The different gifts and their varied administrations are given so that all the people of God might be made stronger (1 Cor. 12:7).

Jews and Gentiles had been longtime adversaries when God directed Peter, a Jew, to go to the home of Cornelius, a Gentile. Though reluctant, Peter obeyed and went to the Gentile home and preached, and the entire family believed (Acts 10:28–35). Peter marveled at God's grace. Peter's visit initiated open access to the gospel of Jesus Christ for all.

Believers are wise to use caution when segregating themselves according to ethnic, gender, or socio-economic differences. All believers are one in Christ (Gal. 3:28). Communication and shared fellowship are perhaps the greatest weapons against prejudice because they weaken hasty, harsh judgments and clear the way for compassion.

See also Gal. 3:28; notes on Fruit of the Spirit (Ps. 86; Rom. 5; 15; 1 Cor. 10; 13; Gal. 5; Eph. 4; Col. 3; 2 Thess. 1; Rev. 2); The Homeless (Luke 9); Poverty (Luke 14); Prisoners (Is. 61); Racial Relations (Acts 10) to the Lord in whom they had believed. 24And after they had passed through Pisidia, they came to Pamphylia. 25Now when they had preached the word in Perga, they went down to Attalia. 26From there they sailed to Antioch, where they had been commended to the grace of God for the work which they had completed.

27Now when they had come and gathered the church together, they reported all that God had done with them, and that He had opened the door of faith to the Gentiles. 28So they stayed there a long time with the disciples.

Conflict over Circumcision

15 And certain men came down from Judea and taught the brethren, "Unless you are circumcised according to the custom of Moses, you cannot be saved." 2Therefore, when Paul and Barnabas had no small dissension and dispute with them, they determined that Paul and Barnabas and certain others of them should go up to Jerusalem, to the apostles and elders, about this question.

3So, being sent on their way by the church, they passed through Phoenicia and Samaria, describing the conversion of the Gentiles; and they caused great joy to all the brethren. 4And when they had come to Jerusalem, they were received by the church and the apostles and the elders; and they reported all things that God had done with them. 5But some of the sect of the Pharisees who believed rose up, saying, "It is necessary to circumcise them, and to command them to keep the law of Moses."

The Jerusalem Council

6Now the apostles and elders came together to consider this matter. 7And when there had been much dispute, Peter rose up and said to them: "Men and brethren, you know that a good while ago God chose among us, that by my mouth the Gentiles should hear the word of the gospel and believe. 8So God, who knows the heart, acknowledged them by giving them the Holy Spirit, just as He did to us, 9and made no distinction between us and them, purifying their hearts by faith. 10Now therefore, why do you test God by putting a yoke on the neck of the disciples which neither our fathers nor we were able to bear? 11But we believe that through the grace of the Lord Jesus Christ[a] we shall be saved in the same manner as they."

12Then all the multitude kept silent and listened to Barnabas and Paul declaring how many miracles and wonders God had worked through them among the Gentiles. 13And after they had become silent, James answered, saying, "Men and brethren, listen to me: 14Simon has declared how God at the first visited the Gentiles to take out of them a people for His name. 15And with this the words of the prophets agree, just as it is written:

16 'After this I will return
And will rebuild the tabernacle of David, which has fallen down;

15:11 [a]NU-Text and M-Text omit Christ.

14:24, 25 Pamphylia was a small district located in Asia Minor, now southern Turkey. About 80 miles long and 20 miles wide, Pamphylia was inhabited by non-Hellenized people, making communication of the gospel difficult. Attalia in Asia Minor was located on the Mediterranean coast. After leaving Attalia, Paul and Barnabas sailed to Seleucia.

15:10 The yoke was a wooden instrument placed on the necks or backs of working farm animals, enabling two animals to pull a plow together and thus doubling their strength. In this passage, Peter referred to the yoke as an instrument of bondage and hardship that improperly linked Jews and Gentiles together. He argued that Gentile believers should not be made to undergo circumcision nor forced to a strict keeping of the Law of Moses.

God has designed work as the common denominator for the Christian and non-Christian, and the job is the place where the Christian must meet the non-Christian world.

I will rebuild its ruins,

18 "Known to God from eternity are all His works.[a] 19 Therefore I judge that we should not trouble those from among the Gentiles who are turning to God, 20 but that we write to them to abstain from things polluted by idols, from sexual immorality,[a] from things strangled, and from blood. 21 For Moses has had throughout many generations those who preach him in every city, being read in the synagogues every Sabbath."

The Jerusalem Decree

22 Then it pleased the apostles and elders, with the whole church, to send chosen men of their own company to Antioch with Paul and Barnabas, namely, Judas who was also named Barsabas,[a] and Silas, leading men among the brethren.

23 They wrote this letter by them:

The apostles, the elders, and the brethren,

To the brethren who are of the Gentiles in Antioch, Syria, and Cilicia:

Greetings.

24 Since we have heard that some who went out from us have troubled you with words, unsettling your souls, saying, "You must be circumcised and keep the law"— to whom we gave no such commandment— 25 it seemed good to us, being assembled with one accord, to send chosen men to you with our beloved Barnabas and Paul, 26 men who have risked their lives for the name of our Lord Jesus Christ. 27 We have therefore sent Judas and Silas, who will also report the same things by word of mouth. 28 For it seemed good to the Holy Spirit, and to us, to lay upon you no greater burden than these necessary things: 29 that you abstain from things offered to idols, from blood, from things strangled, and from sexual immorality.[a] If you keep yourselves from these, you will do well.

Farewell.

Continuing Ministry in Syria

30 So when they were sent off, they came to Antioch; and when they had gathered the multitude together, they delivered the letter. 31 When they had read it, they rejoiced over its encouragement. 32 Now Judas and Silas, themselves being prophets also, exhorted and strengthened the brethren with many words. 33 And after they had stayed there for a time, they were sent back with greetings from the brethren to the apostles.[a]

34 However, it seemed good to Silas to remain there.[a] 35 Paul and Barnabas also remained in Antioch, teaching and preaching the word of the Lord, with many others also.

Division over John Mark

36 Then after some days Paul said to Barnabas, "Let us now go back and visit our brethren in every city where we have preached the word of the Lord, and see how they are doing." 37 Now Barnabas was determined to take with them John called Mark. 38 But Paul insisted that they should not take with them the one who had departed from them in Pamphylia, and had not gone with them to the work. 39 Then the contention became so

15:17 [a]Amos 9:11, 12 15:18 [a]NU-Text (combining with verse 17) reads Says the Lord, who makes these things known from eternity (of old). 15:20 [a]Or fornication 15:22 [a]NU-Text and M-Text read Barsabbas. 15:24 [a]NU-Text omits saying, "You must be circumcised and keep the law." 15:29 [a]Or fornication 15:33 [a]NU-Text reads to those who had sent them. 15:34 [a]NU-Text and M-Text omit this verse.

15:22 Barsabas and Silas were chosen by the Jerusalem church to travel with Barnabas and Paul to Antioch. Silas accompanied both Paul and Peter on their respective missionary journeys.

15:37–40 Paul decided that he and Barnabas should return to the Christian churches they had birthed to observe the work of the congregation and to strengthen them in the faith. Barnabas wanted to take John Mark with them, but Paul opposed this, since the young man had deserted them on the first journey. Paul and Barnabas argued sharply over the issue, then went their separate ways. Barnabas took John Mark and sailed to Cyprus. Paul took Silas and returned to Syria and Cilicia. No record exists of Paul and Barnabas working together again. Barnabas' faith in John Mark proved to be justified, and the young man became a valuable Christian worker (2 Tim. 4:11).

LYDIA An Influential Businesswoman

Lydia came from Thyatira, a city in the western province of Lydia in Asia Minor. Her name originally might have been the designation of her home, "a woman of Lydia." At the time Lydia met Paul, she lived at Philippi, a leading city of Macedonia on the European continent.

As a wealthy and influential businesswoman, Lydia sold articles dyed purple, a prized color made from certain mollusks—a respectable and lucrative trade. She had a spacious home that could accommodate many guests and servants to meet their needs. This had to be a rare achievement in her day. She surely must have been a hard-working, bold, intelligent woman to achieve the success she enjoyed.

One Sabbath day, Lydia went to the river's shore that had been designated by the Roman authorities of Philippi as a place of prayer and worship for the Jews. There she met Paul and Silas, who had been in Philippi only a short time. While others along the river may have rejected Paul's words about Jesus, Lydia accepted them and became a believer. Once she believed, she made a confession of her faith to her whole world through baptism and then, she assembled her entire household, told them what had happened to her, and asked them to believe. After her entire household accepted Christ as Savior and were baptized, Lydia invited Paul and Silas to stay in her home. When Paul and Silas were thrown into a Philippian prison, Lydia visited them and attended to their needs. Her house became the meeting place of the first European church.

Lydia was quick to perceive that what had been hers before her conversion—home, business, and possessions—now belonged to the Lord. She had a new partner, the Lord Jesus; a new purpose, to serve Him; and a new satisfaction in seeking to be effective and successful in order to glorify the Lord. Her career aspirations did not hinder her sharing the gospel with family and friends. She was not too busy to take time for hospitality (Acts 16:15).

Lydia's name appears in Scripture only twice. She was seemingly the first Gentile convert in Europe, the first Christian businesswoman, and the first believer to open her home as a worship center for European Christians. Not only to Paul and the early church but also to the generations to come, Lydia proved the importance and influence of a woman of determination, foresight, and generosity.

sharp that they parted from one another. And so Barnabas took Mark and sailed to Cyprus; 40but Paul chose Silas and departed, being commended by the brethren to the grace of God. 41And he went through Syria and Cilicia, strengthening the churches.

Timothy Joins Paul and Silas

16 Then he came to Derbe and Lystra. And behold, a certain disciple was there, named Timothy, the son of a certain Jewish woman who believed, but his father was Greek. 2He was well spoken of by the brethren who were at Lystra and Iconium. 3Paul wanted to have him go on with him. And he took him and circumcised him because of the Jews who were in that region, for they all knew that his father was Greek. 4And as they went through the cities, they delivered to them the decrees to keep, which were determined by the apostles and elders at Jerusalem. 5So the churches were strengthened in the faith, and increased in number daily.

The Macedonian Call

6Now when they had gone through Phrygia and the region of Galatia, they were forbidden by the Holy Spirit to preach the word in Asia. 7After they had come to Mysia, they tried to go into Bithynia, but the Spirit[a] did not permit them. 8So passing by Mysia, they came down to Troas. 9And a vision appeared to Paul in the night. A man of Macedonia stood and pleaded with him, saying, "Come over to Macedonia and help us." 10Now after he had seen the vision, immediately we sought to go to Macedonia, concluding that the Lord had called us to preach the gospel to them.

16:7 [a]NU-Text adds of Jesus.

16:1–3 Timothy's father was Greek and his mother Jewish. Timothy became Paul's close friend and trusted fellow worker (Phil. 2:20). Paul probably witnessed young Timothy's conversion in Lystra, and he chose Timothy to replace John Mark as his traveling companion. Because of Timothy's mixed Greek and Jewish background, Paul had the young man circumcised. Timothy represented Paul when the latter was imprisoned and could not travel. When Paul faced death in Rome, Timothy was the one called to be with him (see 1 Timothy, Introduction: Author).

16:8 Paul passed through the province of Mysia and came to Troas, a city in northwestern Asia Minor. Troas, which Paul visited during his second and third missionary journeys, was located ten miles from the city of Troy. Under the leadership of Emperor Augustus, Troas became a Roman colony and a highly valued seaport.

Christ does not force our will. He only takes what we give Him. But He does give Himself entirely until He sees that we yield ourselves entirely to Him.

St. Teresa of Avila

Lydia Baptized at Philippi

11Therefore, sailing from Troas, we ran a straight course to Samothrace, and the next day came to Neapolis, 12and from there to Philippi, which is the foremost city of that part of Macedonia, a colony. And we were staying in that city for some days. 13And on the Sabbath day we went out of the city to the riverside, where prayer was cus-tomarily made; and we sat down and spoke to the women who met there. 14Now a certain woman named Lydia heard us. She was a seller of purple from the city of Thyatira, who worshiped God.
The Lord opened her heart to heed the things spoken by Paul. 15And when she and her household were baptized, she begged us, saying, "If you have judged me to be faithful to the Lord, come to my house and stay." So she persuaded us.

Paul and Silas Imprisoned

16Now it happened, as we went to prayer, that a certain slave girl possessed with a spirit of divination met us, who brought her masters much profit by fortune-telling. 17This girl followed Paul and us, and cried out, saying, "These men are the servants of the Most High God, who proclaim to us the way of salvation." 18And this she did for many days.

But Paul, greatly annoyed, turned and said to the spirit, "I command you in the name of Jesus Christ to come out of her." And he came out that very hour. 19But when her masters saw that their hope of profit was gone, they seized Paul and Silas and dragged them into the marketplace to the authorities.

20And they brought them to the magistrates, and said, "These men, being Jews, exceedingly trouble our city; 21and they teach customs which are not lawful for us, being Romans, to receive or observe." 22Then the multitude rose up together against them; and the magistrates tore off their clothes and commanded them to be beaten with rods. 23And when they had laid many stripes on them, they threw them into prison, commanding the jailer to keep them securely. 24Having received such a charge, he put them into the inner prison and fastened their feet in the stocks.

The Philippian Jailer Saved

25But at midnight Paul and Silas were praying and singing hymns to God, and the prisoners were listening to them. 26Suddenly there was a great earthquake, so that the foundations of the prison were shaken; and immediately all the doors were opened and everyone's chains were loosed. 27And the keeper of the prison, awaking from sleep and seeing the prison doors open, supposing the prisoners had fled, drew his sword and was about to kill himself. 28But Paul called with a loud voice, saying, "Do yourself no harm, for we are all here."

29Then he called for a light, ran in, and fell down trembling before Paul and Silas. 30And he brought them out and said, "Sirs, what must I do to be saved?"

31So they said, "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and you will be saved, you and your household." 32Then they spoke the word of the Lord to him and to all who were in his house. 33And he took them the same hour of the night and washed their stripes. And immediately he and all his family were baptized. 34Now when he had brought them into his house, he set food before them; and he rejoiced, having believed in God with all his household.

Paul Refuses to Depart Secretly

35And when it was day, the magistrates sent the officers, saying, "Let those men go."

36So the keeper of the prison reported these words to Paul, saying, "The magistrates have sent to let you go. Now therefore depart, and go in peace."

37But Paul said to them, "They have beaten us openly, uncondemned Romans, and have thrown us into prison. And now do they put us out secretly? No indeed! Let them come themselves and get us out."

38And the officers told these words to the magistrates, and they were afraid when they heard that they were Romans. 39Then they came and pleaded with them and brought them out, and asked them to depart from the city. 40So they went out of the prison and entered the house of Lydia; and when they had seen the brethren, they encouraged them and departed.

Preaching Christ at Thessalonica

17 Now when they had passed through Amphipolis and Apollonia, they came to Thessalonica, where there was a synagogue of the Jews.
2Then Paul, as his custom was, went in to them,

17:1 Paul and Silas passed through Amphipolis, a city near the Aegean Gulf, on their way to Thessalonica. Apollonia was about 30 miles beyond Amphipolis, and Thessalonica was still 38 miles farther. The cosmopolitan city of Thessalonica,

THE FORTUNE-TELLING SLAVE

Divination was widely practiced in the ancient Middle East. This attempt to contact supernatural powers sought unknown answers that usually foretold the future. The Old Testament strongly condemns such practices (see Lev. 19:26; Jer. 27:9).

Paul and Silas had come to preach in Philippi where they met a fortune teller. We know her only as a "certain slave girl possessed with a spirit of divination." Luke recognized her phenomena as being identical to those of the priestesses of Delphi. In other words, she was not seen as merely a lunatic or skillful ventriloquist but was indeed possessed of a demonic spirit, giving her extraordinary powers to predict the future, which was strictly forbidden (see Lev. 19:31). Her masters used and abused her, receiving much money from her fortune-telling, especially by making her answer those with problems and difficulties who were more vulnerable to such deception.

The girl followed Paul and Silas for days, crying out loudly and hindering their ministry. Annoyed, Paul exorcised the problem-causing demonic spirit from the girl's body. Deprived of their potential gain, her masters dragged Paul and Silas into the marketplace and had them beaten and imprisoned.

In prison, however, Paul and Silas witnessed the power of the living Christ. Not only were they miraculously delivered, but the keeper of the prison and his entire family were saved and baptized.

Acts mentions no more about the fortune-telling slave girl. However, her testimony stands forever to prove that God can bring glory even out of the most harsh and unfair situations.

and for three Sabbaths reasoned with them from the Scriptures, 3explaining and demonstrating that the Christ had to suffer and rise again from the dead, and saying, "This Jesus whom I preach to you is the Christ." 4And some of them were persuaded; and a great multitude of the devout Greeks, and not a few of the leading women, joined Paul and Silas.

Assault on Jason's House

5But the Jews who were not persuaded, becoming envious,[a] took some of the evil men from the marketplace, and gathering a mob, set all the city in an uproar and attacked the house of Jason, and sought to bring them out to the people. 6But when they did not find them, they dragged Jason and some brethren to the rulers of the city, crying out, "These who have turned the world upside down have come here too. 7Jason has harbored them, and these are all acting contrary to the decrees of Caesar, saying there is another king—Jesus." 8And they troubled the crowd and the rulers of the city when they heard these things. 9So when they had taken security from Jason and the rest, they let them go.

Ministering at Berea

10Then the brethren immediately sent Paul and Silas away by night to Berea. When they arrived, they went into the synagogue of the Jews. 11These were more fair-minded than those in Thessalonica, in that they received the word with all readiness, and searched the Scriptures daily to find out whether these things were so. 12Therefore many of them believed, and also not a few of the Greeks, prominent women as well as men. 13But when the Jews from Thessalonica learned that the word of God was preached by Paul at Berea, they came there also and stirred up the crowds. 14Then immediately the brethren sent Paul away, to go to the sea; but both Silas and Timothy remained there. 15So those who conducted Paul brought him to Athens; and receiving a command for Silas and Timothy to come to him with all speed, they departed.

The Philosophers at Athens

16Now while Paul waited for them at Athens, his spirit was provoked within him when he saw that the city was given over to idols. 17Therefore he reasoned in the synagogue with the Jews and with the Gentile worshipers, and in the marketplace daily with those who happened to be there. 18Then[a] certain Epicurean and Stoic philosophers encountered him. And some said, "What does this babbler want to say?"

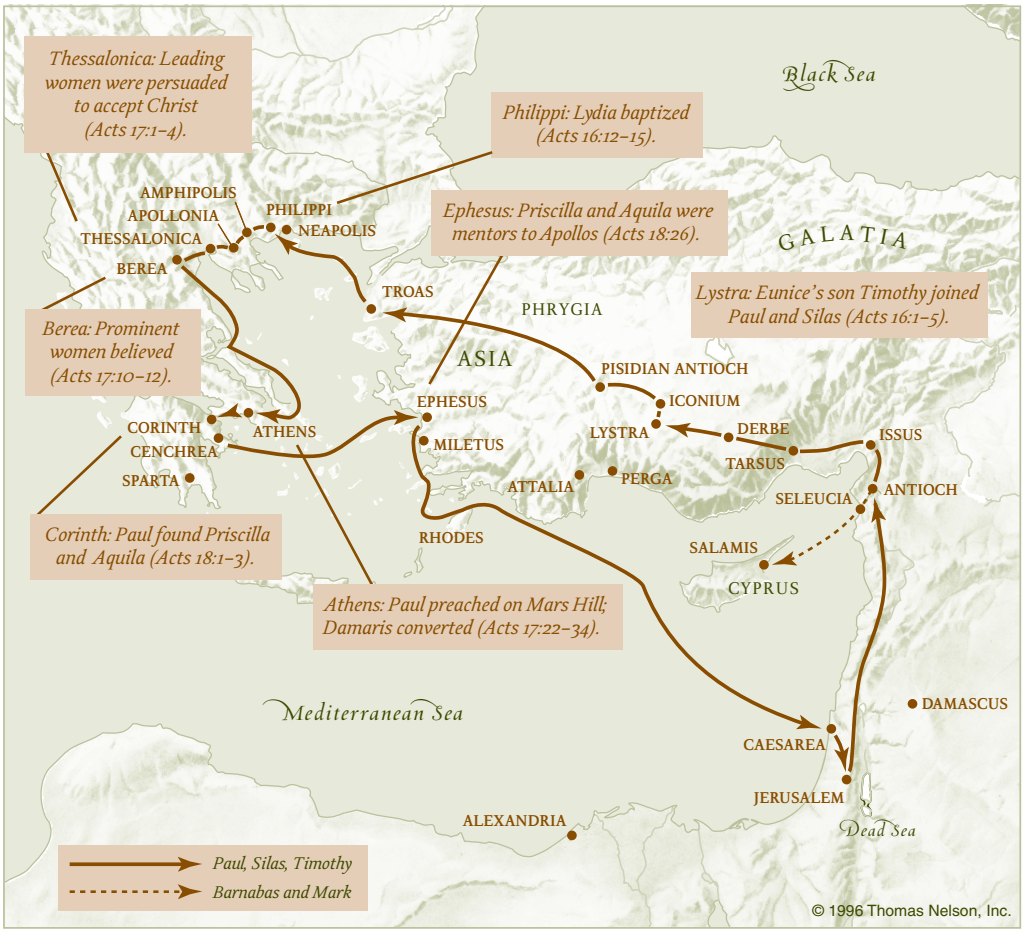
founded by a general of Alexander the Great and located on the Thermaic Gulf, was one of the important commercial centers of Greece.

17:15, 16 Paul preached to the Greek philosophers in Athens. Few people were won to Christ, and no viable church seems to have been established there at the time of Paul's visit. Named for Athena, the goddess of wisdom, this ancient city was originally settled before 3000 B.C. (see chart, Graeco-Roman Goddesses). Paul preached to the extremely religious Athenians from the Areopagus, a hill about 370 feet high near the Acropolis (v. 19).

PAUL'S SECOND MISSIONARY JOURNEY



Others said, "He seems to be a proclaimer of foreign gods," because he preached to them Jesus and the resurrection.

19 And they took him and brought him to the Areopagus, saying, "May we know what this new doctrine is of which you speak? 20 For you are bringing some strange things to our ears. Therefore we want to know what these things mean." 21 For all the Athenians and the foreigners who were there spent their time in nothing else but either to tell or to hear some new thing.

Addressing the Areopagus

22 Then Paul stood in the midst of the Areopagus and said, "Men of Athens, I perceive that in all things you are very religious; 23 for as I was passing through and considering the objects of your worship, I even found an altar with this inscription:

TO THE UNKNOWN GOD.

Therefore, the One whom you worship without knowing, Him I proclaim to you: 24 God, who made the world and everything in it, since He is Lord of heaven and earth, does not dwell in temples made with hands. 25 Nor is He worshiped with men's hands, as though He needed anything, since He gives to all life, breath, and all things. 26 And He has made from one blood[a] every nation of men to dwell on all the face of the earth, and has determined their preappointed times and the boundaries of their dwellings, 27 so that they should seek the Lord, in the hope that they might grope for Him and find Him, though He is not far from each one of us; 28 for in Him we live and move and have

DAMARIS A Courageous Believer

Damaris, an Athenian woman, became a believer in Christ after hearing Paul's sermon at Mars' Hill, the highest court in Athens (see Acts 17:19). An idol worshiper, she heard, and accepted by faith, Paul's message, while the disbelieving crowds belittled him and called him a "babbler."

Who was this feminine spectator who listened so intently to Paul as he preached at the Areopagus? Scripture mentions her in the same verse with the Athenian judge, Dionysius, suggesting that she was a woman of distinction and prominence. She could well have been one of the hetairai (the intellectual women who associated with philosophers and politicians), who, as free women, might be part of such a gathering.

On the other hand, Luke, the author of Acts refers to Damaris merely as "a woman," which, though unlikely in this setting and context, could have implied that she was a "public woman," perhaps one of low moral character or even a prostitute. Refined, respectable women of that day would not usually attend public gatherings such as the one Paul addressed (Acts 17:22).

Whether a prominent woman or a public woman, Damaris listened carefully to the gospel message of salvation. Then with rare courage and God-given wisdom, she chose to oppose the mocking debaters and to express her commitment to the resurrected Christ. Like other believing women, Damaris became more than just a spectator of Paul's ministry. She became a teammate, a woman in the early church who helped to spread the Good News of Jesus Christ.

our being, as also some of your own poets have said, 'For we are also His offspring.' 29Therefore, since we are the offspring of God, we ought not to think that the Divine Nature is like gold or silver or stone, something shaped by art and man's devising. 30Truly, these times of ignorance God overlooked, but now commands all men everywhere to repent, 31because He has appointed a day on which He will judge the world in righteousness by the Man whom He has ordained. He has given assurance of this to all by raising Him from the dead."

32And when they heard of the resurrection of the dead, some mocked, while others said, "We will hear you again on this matter." 33So Paul departed from among them. 34However, some men joined him and believed, among them Dionysius the Areopagite, a woman named Damaris, and others with them.

Ministering at Corinth

18 After these things Paul departed from Athens and went to Corinth. 2And he found a certain Jew named Aquila, born in Pontus, who had recently come from Italy with his wife Priscilla (because Claudius had commanded all the Jews to depart from Rome); and he came to them. 3So, because he was of the same trade, he stayed with them and worked; for by occupation they were tentmakers. 4And he reasoned in the synagogue every Sabbath, and persuaded both Jews and Greeks.

5When Silas and Timothy had come from Macedonia, Paul was compelled by the Spirit, and testified to the Jews that Jesus is the Christ. 6But when they opposed him and blasphemed, he shook his garments and said to them, "Your blood be upon your own heads; I am clean. From now on I will go to the Gentiles." 7And he departed from there and entered the house of a certain man named Justus,[a] one who worshiped God, whose house was next door to the synagogue. 8Then Crispus, the ruler of the synagogue, believed on the Lord with all his household. And many of the Corinthians, hearing, believed and were baptized.

9Now the Lord spoke to Paul in the night by a vision, "Do not be afraid, but speak, and do not keep silent; 10for I am with you, and no one will attack you to hurt you; for I have many people in this city." 11And he continued there a year and six months, teaching the word of God among them.

12When Gallio was proconsul of Achaia, the Jews with one accord rose up against Paul and brought him to the judgment seat, 13saying, "This fellow persuades men to worship God contrary to the law."

14And when Paul was about to open his mouth, Gallio said to the Jews, "If it were a matter of wrongdoing or wicked crimes, O Jews, there would be reason why I should bear with you. 15But if it is a question of words and names and your own law, look to it yourselves; for I do not want to be a judge of such matters." 16And he drove them from the judgment seat. 17Then all the Greeks[a] took 18:17 Sosthenes was ruler of the synagogue in Corinth. Crispus, who had become a Christian, was the former ruler. When the proconsul Gallio would not take sides and prosecute Paul, the Jews incited a mob that angrily took revenge by beating Sosthenes.

PRISCILLA A Respected Christian Leader

Priscilla, whom Paul usually called by her more formal name, Prisca, was his valued "fellow worker" (Rom. 16:3). As a Jewess who had come out of Rome, she and her husband Aquila were deeply involved in the spread of the gospel. Her name unexpectedly precedes her husband's in three of the six references to them (Acts 18:18; Rom. 16:3; 2 Tim. 4:19). This may have indicated that she belonged to a higher social class than Aquila, or it could have designated her as the more active of the two in Christian service. It could have merely been an expression of deference toward Priscilla as a woman.

When Paul arrived in Corinth in late A.D. 50, he worked with this dynamic couple in their tentmaking business (Acts 18:3). They had recently been forced to relocate from Rome, due to the emperor's edict expelling all Jews. Likely Priscilla and Aquila were already Christians since Paul described Stephanas and his household as the first converts in Corinth (1 Cor. 16:15). In any case, as they worked together in the shop and in evangelistic outreach, Priscilla and Aquila had the priceless opportunity to be taught and trained personally by the apostle Paul.

When Paul left Corinth a year and a half later (Acts 18:11), Priscilla and Aquila accompanied him as far as Ephesus (Acts 18:18, 19). For several years they were leaders in the Ephesian church. In addition to leading a house church (1 Cor. 16:19), they had a significant ministry to Apollos. Although an eloquent speaker, Apollos had some serious gaps in his understanding of the Christian message. Priscilla and Aquila wisely took Apollos aside privately and, with extraordinary wisdom, tact, and courage, lovingly gave him a thorough, step-by-step explanation of Christian doctrine (Acts 18:26).

Sometime after Paul's visit in A.D. 57, Priscilla and Aquila returned to Rome, for Paul later sends special greetings to them and to the members of the house church that they led (Rom. 16:3, 4). Interestingly, he also mentioned a time when they risked their lives to save his, possibly at the time of the Ephesian riot (Acts 19:23–41). From Rome they evidently returned to Ephesus, for the last mention of this dedicated Christian couple comes at the very end of Paul's life, when he greeted them in his last letter to Timothy (2 Tim. 4:19).

Priscilla presented a picture of a strong, competent woman who was actively involved in Christian ministry. Though she managed her household and pursued a trade, she found time to gain a thorough understanding of Scripture, and she was obviously adept in teaching. As a well-respected leader in the early church, she was also noted for her hospitality. She worked side-by-side with her husband, and together they made a significant contribution to the spread of the gospel in the early decades.

Sosthenes, the ruler of the synagogue, and beat him before the judgment seat. But Gallio took no notice of these things.

Paul Returns to Antioch

18So Paul still remained a good while. Then he took leave of the brethren and sailed for Syria, and Priscilla and Aquila were with him. He had his hair cut off at Cenchrea, for he had taken a vow. 19And he came to Ephesus, and left them there; but he himself entered the synagogue and reasoned with the Jews. 20When they asked him to stay a longer time with them, he did not consent, 21but took leave of them, saying, "I must by all means keep this coming feast in Jerusalem;[a] but I will return again to you, God willing." And he sailed from Ephesus.

22And when he had landed at Caesarea, and gone up and greeted the church, he went down to Antioch. 23After he had spent some time there, he departed and went over the region of Galatia and Phrygia in order, strengthening all the disciples.

Ministry of Apollos

24Now a certain Jew named Apollos, born at Alexandria, an eloquent man and mighty in the Scriptures, came to Ephesus. 25This man had been instructed in the way of the Lord; and being fervent in spirit, he spoke and taught accurately the things of the Lord, though he knew only the baptism of John. 26So he began to speak boldly in the synagogue. When Aquila and Priscilla heard him, they took him aside and explained to him the way of God more accurately. 27And when he desired to cross to Achaia, the brethren wrote, exhorting the disciples to receive him; and when he arrived, he greatly helped those who had believed through grace; 28for he vigorously refuted the Jews publicly, showing from the Scriptures that Jesus is the Christ.

18:19 Ephesus, an important city in Asia Minor, played a major part in the spread of early Christianity. Located at the mouth of the Cayster River, this commercial seaport flourished along the major overland trade route. The city was under Roman control at the time of Paul and was the fourth largest city in the known world.

18:24 Apollos was an Alexandrian Jew who became an influential minister and powerful preacher. Priscilla and Aquila taught him Christian doctrine in Ephesus. Paul stayed in Ephesus almost three years, longer than he stayed anywhere.

Paul at Ephesus

19 And it happened, while Apollos was at Corinth, that Paul, having passed through the upper regions, came to Ephesus. And finding some disciples 2he said to them, "Did you receive the Holy Spirit when you believed?"

So they said to him, "We have not so much as heard whether there is a Holy Spirit."

3And he said to them, "Into what then were you baptized?"

So they said, "Into John's baptism."

4Then Paul said, "John indeed baptized with a baptism of repentance, saying to the people that they should believe on Him who would come after him, that is, on Christ Jesus."

5When they heard this, they were baptized in the name of the Lord Jesus. 6And when Paul had laid hands on them, the Holy Spirit came upon them, and they spoke with tongues and prophesied. 7Now the men were about twelve in all.

8And he went into the synagogue and spoke boldly for three months, reasoning and persuading concerning the things of the kingdom of God. 9But when some were hardened and did not believe, but spoke evil of the Way before the multitude, he departed from them and withdrew the disciples, reasoning daily in the school of Tyrannus. 10And this continued for two years, so that all who dwelt in Asia heard the word of the Lord Jesus, both Jews and Greeks.

Miracles Glorify Christ

11Now God worked unusual miracles by the hands of Paul, 12so that even handkerchiefs or aprons were brought from his body to the sick, and the diseases left them and the evil spirits went out of them. 13Then some of the itinerant Jewish exorcists took it upon themselves to call the name of the Lord Jesus over those who had evil spirits, saying, "We[a] exorcise you by the Jesus whom Paul preaches." 14Also there were seven sons of Sceva, a Jewish chief priest, who did so.

15And the evil spirit answered and said, "Jesus I know, and Paul I know; but who are you?"

16Then the man in whom the evil spirit was leaped on them, overpowered[a] them, and prevailed against them,[b] so that they fled out of that house naked and wounded. 17This became known both to all Jews and Greeks dwelling in Ephesus; and fear fell on them all, and the name of the Lord Jesus was magnified. 18And many who had believed came confessing and telling their deeds. 19Also, many of those who had practiced magic brought their books together and burned them in the sight of all. And they counted up the value of them, and it totaled fifty thousand pieces of silver. 20So the word of the Lord grew mightily and prevailed.

The Riot at Ephesus

21When these things were accomplished, Paul purposed in the Spirit, when he had passed through Macedonia and Achaia, to go to Jerusalem, saying, "After I have been there, I must also see Rome." 22So he sent into Macedonia two of those who ministered to him, Timothy and Erastus, but he himself stayed in Asia for a time.

23And about that time there arose a great commotion about the Way. 24For a certain man named Demetrius, a silversmith, who made silver shrines of Diana,[a] brought no small profit to the craftsmen. 25He called them together with the workers of similar occupation, and said: "Men, you know that we have our prosperity by this trade. 26Moreover you see and hear that not only at Ephesus, but throughout almost all Asia, this Paul has persuaded and turned away many people, saying that they are not gods which are made with hands. 27So not only is this trade of ours in danger of falling

19:9 Although little is known about Tyrannus, his school in Ephesus was well-known in its day. Tyrannus was a philosopher, a man who had authority. When Jewish opposition forced Paul to stop preaching at the synagogue, Paul preached for two years at the school or lecture hall of Tyrannus. While in Ephesus, Paul wrote the first Epistle to the Corinthians.

GRAECO-ROMAN GODDESSES

NAME	DESCRIPTION
Aphrodite (Greek) (see Venus)	Goddess of sexual love and beauty; identified with Semitic (Phoenician) goddess Ishtar/Astarte; temple in Corinth supposedly employed a thousand cultic prostitutes, contributing to city's immorality
Artemis (Greek) (see Diana)	Daughter of Leto and Zeus; sister of Apollo; goddess of fertility; mother goddess of Asia Minor; helper of women in childbirth; giver of gentle death to women; her temple was one of the seven wonders of the world and the object of pilgrimage; represented in sculpture as female figure with multiple breasts; Paul encountered her devotees in Ephesus ("Diana," Acts 19:21–40)
Athena (Greek) (see Minerva)	Guardian and namesake of Athens; goddess of wisdom, fertility, and war
Cybele (Roman)	Mother-earth; known as "the Great Mother"
Demeter (Greek) (see Ceres)	Goddess of grain and changing seasons; guardian of marriage
Diana (Roman) (see Artemis)	Goddess of fertility; goddess of the moon, hunting, wild animals, and virginity (see Acts 19:21–40); Paul encountered her devotees in Ephesus (Acts 19:21–40)
Hera (Greek) (see Juno)	Wife of Zeus; goddess of women, marriage, and motherhood
Hestia (Greek) (see Vesta)	Goddess of the hearth, the center of home and family
Juno (Roman) (see Hera)	Wife of Jupiter; goddess of women; goddess of the rainbow; queen of the gods
Minerva (Roman) (see Athena)	Goddess of wisdom, fertility, and war
Venus (Roman) (see Aphrodite)	Daughter of Jupiter; wife of Vulcan; mother of Cupid; goddess of love and beauty
Vesta (see Hestia)	Goddess of the hearth, the center of home and family
Ceres (Roman) (see Demeter)	Daughter of Saturn and Rhea; mother of Proserpine, who became the wife of Pluto; queen of the Dead; goddess of agriculture

Note: The Greeks and Romans had many comparable deities, though those related would not be considered exactly the same. Graeco-Roman gods mentioned in the New Testament include: Hermes (Acts 14:12), Mars (Acts 17:22), Zeus (Acts 14:12, 13). The name of Hades, the Greek god of the underworld, was assigned to the abode of the dead in the New Testament (Matt. 11:23; Luke 10:15).

into disrepute, but also the temple of the great goddess Diana may be despised and her magnificence destroyed,[a] whom all Asia and the world worship."

28Now when they heard this, they were full of wrath and cried out, saying, "Great is Diana of the Ephesians!" 29So the whole city was filled with confusion, and rushed into the theater with one accord, having seized Gaius and Aristarchus, Macedonians, Paul's travel companions. 30And when Paul wanted to go in to the people, the disciples would not allow him. 31Then some of the officials of Asia, who were his friends, sent to him pleading that he would not venture into the theater. 32Some therefore cried one thing and some another, for the assembly was confused, and most of them did not know why they had come together. 33And they drew Alexander out of the multitude, the Jews putting him forward. And Alexander motioned with his hand, and wanted to make his defense to the people. 34But when they found out that he was a Jew, all with one voice cried out for about two hours, "Great is Diana of the Ephesians!"

35And when the city clerk had quieted the crowd, he said: "Men of Ephesus, what man is there who does not know that the city of the Ephesians is temple guardian of the great goddess Diana, and of the image which fell down from Zeus? 36Therefore, since these things cannot be denied, you ought to be quiet and do nothing rashly. 37For you have brought these men here who are neither robbers of temples nor blasphemers of your[a] goddess. 38Therefore, if Demetrius and his fellow craftsmen have a case against anyone, the courts are open and there are proconsuls. Let them bring charges against one another. 39But if you have any other inquiry to make, it shall be determined in the lawful assembly. 40For we are in danger of being called in question for today's uproar, there being no reason which we may give to account for this disorderly gathering." 41And when he had said these things, he dismissed the assembly.

Journeys in Greece

20 After the uproar had ceased, Paul called the disciples to himself, embraced them, and departed to go to Macedonia. 2Now when he had gone over that region and encouraged them with many words, he came to Greece 3and stayed three months. And when the Jews plotted against him as he was about to sail to Syria, he decided to return through Macedonia. 4And Sopater of Berea accompanied him to Asia—also Aristarchus and Secundus of the Thessalonians, and Gaius of Derbe, and Timothy, and Tychicus and Trophimus of Asia. 5These men, going ahead, waited for us at Troas. 6But we sailed away from Philippi after the Days of Unleavened Bread, and in five days joined them at Troas, where we stayed seven days.

Ministering at Troas

7Now on the first day of the week, when the disciples came together to break bread, Paul, ready to depart the next day, spoke to them and continued his message until midnight. 8There were many lamps in the upper room where they[a] were gathered together. 9And in a window sat a certain young man named Eutychus, who was sinking into a deep sleep. He was overcome by sleep; and as Paul continued speaking, he fell down from the third story and was taken up dead. 10But Paul went down, fell on him, and embracing him said, "Do not trouble yourselves, for his life is in him." 11Now when he had come up, had broken bread and eaten, and talked a long while, even till daybreak, he departed. 12And they brought the young man in alive, and they were not a little comforted.

From Troas to Miletus

13Then we went ahead to the ship and sailed to Assos, there intending to take Paul on board; for so he had given orders, intending himself to go on foot. 14And when he met us at Assos, we took him on board and came to Mitylene. 15We sailed from there, and the next day came opposite Chios. The following day we arrived at Samos and stayed at Trogyllium. The next day we came to Miletus. 16For Paul had decided to sail past Ephesus, so that he would not have to spend time in Asia; for he was hurrying to be at Jerusalem, if possible, on the Day of Pentecost.

The Ephesian Elders Exhorted

17From Miletus he sent to Ephesus and called for the elders of the church. 18And when they had come to him, he said to them: "You know, from the first day that I came to Asia, in what manner I always lived among you, 19serving the Lord with all humility, with many tears and trials which happened to me by the plotting of the Jews; 20how I kept back nothing that was helpful, but proclaimed it to you, and taught you publicly and from house to house, 21testifying to Jews, and also to Greeks, repentance toward God and faith toward our Lord Jesus Christ. 22And see, now I go bound in the spirit to Jerusalem, not knowing the things that will happen to me there, 23except that the Holy Spirit testifies in every city, saying that chains and tribulations await me. 24But none of these things move me; nor do I count my life dear to myself,[a] so that I may finish my race with joy, and the ministry which I received from the Lord Jesus, to testify to the gospel of the grace of God.

25"And indeed, now I know that you all, among whom I have gone preaching the kingdom of God, will see my face no more. 26Therefore I testify to you this day that I am innocent of the blood of all men. 27For I have not shunned to declare to you the whole counsel of God. 28Therefore take heed to yourselves and to all the flock, among which the Holy Spirit has made you overseers, to shepherd the church of God[a] which He purchased with His own blood. 29For I know this, that after my departure savage wolves will come in among you, not sparing the flock. 30Also from among yourselves men will rise up, speaking perverse things, to draw away the disciples after themselves. 31Therefore watch, and remember that for three years I did not cease to warn everyone night and day with tears.

32"So now, brethren, I commend you to God and to the word of His grace, which is able to build you up and give you an inheritance among all those who are sanctified. 33I have coveted no one's silver or gold or apparel. 34Yes,[a] you yourselves know that these hands have provided for my necessities, and for those who were with me. 35I have shown you in every way, by laboring like this, that you must support the weak. And remember the words of the Lord Jesus, that He said, 'It is more blessed to give than to receive.' "

36And when he had said these things, he knelt down and prayed with them all. 37Then they all wept freely, and fell on Paul's neck and kissed him, 38sorrowing most of all for the words which he spoke, that they would see his face no more. And they accompanied him to the ship.

Warnings on the Journey to Jerusalem

21 Now it came to pass, that when we had departed from them and set sail, running a straight course we came to Cos, the following day to Rhodes, and from there to Patara. 2And finding a ship sailing over to Phoenicia, we went aboard and set sail. 3When we had sighted Cyprus, we passed it on the left, sailed to Syria, and landed at Tyre; for there the ship was to unload her cargo. 4And finding disciples,[a] we stayed there seven days. They told Paul through the Spirit not to go up to Jerusalem. 5When we had come to the end of those days, we departed and went on our way; and they all accompanied us, with wives and children, till we were out of the city. And we knelt down on the shore and prayed. 6When we had taken our leave of one another, we boarded the ship, and they returned home.

7And when we had finished our voyage from Tyre, we came to Ptolemais, greeted the brethren, and stayed with them one day. 8On the next day we who were Paul's companions[a] departed and came to Caesarea, and entered the house of Philip the evangelist, who was one of the seven, and stayed with him. 9Now this man had four virgin daughters who prophesied. 10And as we stayed many days, a certain prophet named Agabus came down from Judea. 11When he had come to us, he took Paul's belt, bound his own hands and feet, and said, "Thus says the Holy Spirit, 'So shall the Jews at Jerusalem bind the man who owns this belt, and deliver him into the hands of the Gentiles.' "

12Now when we heard these things, both we and those from that place pleaded with him not to go up to Jerusalem. 13Then Paul answered, "What do you mean by weeping and breaking my heart? For I am ready not only to be bound, but also to die at Jerusalem for the name of the Lord Jesus."

14So when he would not be persuaded, we ceased, saying, "The will of the Lord be done."

Paul Urged to Make Peace

15And after those days we packed and went up to Jerusalem. 16Also some of the disciples from Caesarea went with us and brought with them a certain Mnason of Cyprus, an early disciple, with whom we were to lodge.

17And when we had come to Jerusalem, the

THE DAUGHTERS OF PHILIP

These four extraordinary women were the daughters of the evangelist Philip, who had been one of the seven disciples set apart for special service in the early church (see Acts 6:1–7). Since no mention is made of the wife and mother in this home, Philip may have been a widower whose daughters presided over his home and cared for his needs. The text does not indicate the ages of the unnamed women, though their spiritual gifts would suggest a maturity of years and wealth of experience. At least for a time the women were unmarried, having chosen celibacy or the single life, possibly because of their sense of being especially devoted to God in using their special gift (see 1 Cor. 7:25–34). The idea of a life consecrated to God in virginity was not new and had received the sanction of the Lord Himself (see Matt. 19:12).

Concerning their actual sphere of service in the early church, there is no explicit information. Their gift for "prophecy" must be interpreted harmoniously with Paul's references to this gift (see 1 Cor. 11:5; 14:1). Their ministry could have been among women, as Miriam in the Old Testament (see Ex. 15:20). Whether or not they accompanied Philip on his evangelistic excursions is not noted, but they surely would have had opportunities to share the gospel and disciple women in whatever setting they found themselves, especially in the Greek society in which they lived.

In any case, these women certainly must have been well versed in Scripture, and they worked among the leaders of the early church, sharing in the privileges of the gospel with unusual opportunities both to grow in the Lord and to make a contribution to the Kingdom.

brethren received us gladly. 18On the following day Paul went in with us to James, and all the elders were present. 19When he had greeted them, he told in detail those things which God had done among the Gentiles through his ministry. 20And when they heard it, they glorified the Lord. And they said to him, "You see, brother, how many myriads of Jews there are who have believed, and they are all zealous for the law; 21but they have been informed about you that you teach all the Jews who are among the Gentiles to forsake Moses, saying that they ought not to circumcise their children nor to walk according to the customs. 22What then? The assembly must certainly meet, for they will[a] hear that you have come. 23Therefore do what we tell you: We have four men who have taken a vow. 24Take them and be purified with them, and pay their expenses so that they may shave their heads, and that all may know that those things of which they were informed concerning you are nothing, but that you yourself also walk orderly and keep the law. 25But concerning the Gentiles who believe, we have written and decided that they should observe no such thing, except[a] that they should keep themselves from things offered to idols, from blood, from things strangled, and from sexual immorality."

Arrested in the Temple

27Now when the seven days were almost ended, the Jews from Asia, seeing him in the temple, stirred up the whole crowd and laid hands on him, 28crying out, "Men of Israel, help! This is the man who teaches all men everywhere against the people, the law, and this place; and furthermore he also brought Greeks into the temple and has defiled this holy place." 29(For they had previously[a] seen Trophimus the Ephesian with him in the city, whom they supposed that Paul had brought into the temple.)

30And all the city was disturbed; and the people ran together, seized Paul, and dragged him out of the temple; and immediately the doors were shut. 31Now as they were seeking to kill him, news came to the commander of the garrison that all Jerusalem was in an uproar. 32He immediately took soldiers and centurions, and ran down to them. And when they saw the commander and the soldiers, they stopped beating Paul. 33Then the commander came near and took him, and commanded him to be bound with two chains; and he asked who he was and what he had done. 34And some among the multitude cried one thing and some another.

So when he could not ascertain the truth because of the tumult, he commanded him to be taken into the barracks. 35When he reached the stairs, he had to be carried by the soldiers because of the violence of the mob. 36For the multitude of the people followed after, crying out, "Away with him!"

Addressing the Jerusalem Mob

37Then as Paul was about to be led into the barracks, he said to the commander, "May I speak to you?"

He replied, "Can you speak Greek? 38Are you not the Egyptian who some time ago stirred up a rebellion and led the four thousand assassins out into the wilderness?"

39But Paul said, "I am a Jew from Tarsus, in Cilicia, a citizen of no mean city; and I implore you, permit me to speak to the people."

40So when he had given him permission, Paul stood on the stairs and motioned with his hand to the people. And when there was a great silence, he spoke to them in the Hebrew language, saying,

22 "Brethren and fathers, hear my defense before you now." 2And when they heard that he spoke to them in the Hebrew language, they kept all the more silent.

Then he said: 3"I am indeed a Jew, born in Tarsus of Cilicia, but brought up in this city at the feet of Gamaliel, taught according to the strictness of our fathers' law, and was zealous toward God as you all are today. 4I persecuted this Way to the death, binding and delivering into prisons

DISABILITIES — THE VALUE OF SPECIAL-NEEDS CHILDREN

Physical and mental handicaps are forever a part of this fallen world. Most families have been affected by disabilities in one way or another. In many cases, such families have their sensitivities to the needs of those with disabilities heightened.

When a mother is disabled, the children can learn very early that caring for such a woman is a privilege. Because she cannot run to catch and discipline her children, they have to learn to obey her instantly because of their love and respect for her.

When a child with a handicap is born into a home, the family has an opportunity to turn to the Lord in a fresh way, realizing that though God allowed the handicap to occur, He would in some way work it to the good of all involved (Rom. 8:28). Such a child demands unconditional love.

Through the handicap of one, others can learn lessons:

- Patience—waiting to see God's final work (Is. 40:31; 1 Thess. 5:14);
- Gratitude—being thankful for any small gain made (Eph. 5:20);
- Faith—learning to depend absolutely upon God and His Word whatever the circumstances (2 Cor. 12:9);
- Kindness toward others—accepting them and responding to them in lovingkindness (Heb. 12:2).

Ministering to those with disabilities teaches us lessons that could never be learned in any other way, and God blesses in the process (Matt. 25:40). Through the weakness found in disabilities, the Lord's strength is made perfect (Heb. 11:34). Those who lovingly serve the disabled are made strong in the love of God. The Lord told us to love one another and to bear the burdens of one another (Gal. 6:2). There is value in service to those with disabilities and much to be learned by both those who serve and those who are being served. This value is primarily found in being drawn close to our Savior who Himself set the example for us.

both men and women, [5]as also the high priest bears me witness, and all the council of the elders, from whom I also received letters to the brethren, and went to Damascus to bring in chains even those who were there to Jerusalem to be punished.

[6]"Now it happened, as I journeyed and came near Damascus at about noon, suddenly a great light from heaven shone around me. [7]And I fell to the ground and heard a voice saying to me, 'Saul, Saul, why are you persecuting Me?' [8]So I answered, 'Who are You, Lord?' And He said to me, 'I am Jesus of Nazareth, whom you are persecuting.'

[9]"And those who were with me indeed saw the light and were afraid,[a] but they did not hear the voice of Him who spoke to me. [10]So I said, 'What shall I do, Lord?' And the Lord said to me, 'Arise and go into Damascus, and there you will be told all things which are appointed for you to do.' [11]And since I could not see for the glory of that light, being led by the hand of those who were with me, I came into Damascus.

[12]"Then a certain Ananias, a devout man according to the law, having a good testimony with all the Jews who dwelt there, [13]came to me; and he stood and said to me, 'Brother Saul, receive your sight.' And at that same hour I looked up at him. [14]Then he said, 'The God of our fathers has chosen you that you should know His will, and see the Just One, and hear the voice of His mouth. [15]For you will be His witness to all men of what you have seen and heard. [16]And now why are you waiting? Arise and be baptized, and wash away your sins, calling on the name of the Lord.'

[17]"Now it happened, when I returned to Jerusalem and was praying in the temple, that I was in a trance [18]and saw Him saying to me, 'Make haste and get out of Jerusalem quickly, for they will not receive your testimony concerning Me.' [19]So I said, 'Lord, they know that in every synagogue I imprisoned and beat those who believe on You. [20]And when the blood of Your martyr Stephen was shed, I also was standing by consenting to his death,[a] and guarding the clothes of those who were killing him.' [21]Then He said to me, 'Depart, for I will send you far from here to the Gentiles.' "

Paul's Roman Citizenship

[22]And they listened to him until this word, and then they raised their voices and said, "Away with such a fellow from the earth, for he is not fit to live!" [23]Then, as they cried out and tore off their

22:23 Throwing dust in the air showed contempt or scorn, and here it might have been a demand for justice born out of intense anger. The mention of Gentiles stirred up the mob. The real point of contention was that Paul believed Jews and Gentiles were equal apart from the Law of Moses (see Eph. 2:11–22; 3:2–6).

clothes and threw dust into the air, [24]the commander ordered him to be brought into the barracks, and said that he should be examined under scourging, so that he might know why they shouted so against him. [25]And as they bound him with thongs, Paul said to the centurion who stood by, "Is it lawful for you to scourge a man who is a Roman, and uncondemned?"

[26]When the centurion heard that, he went and told the commander, saying, "Take care what you do, for this man is a Roman."

[27]Then the commander came and said to him, "Tell me, are you a Roman?"

He said, "Yes."

[28]The commander answered, "With a large sum I obtained this citizenship."

And Paul said, "But I was born a citizen."

[29]Then immediately those who were about to examine him withdrew from him; and the commander was also afraid after he found out that he was a Roman, and because he had bound him.

The Sanhedrin Divided

[30]The next day, because he wanted to know for certain why he was accused by the Jews, he released him from his bonds, and commanded the chief priests and all their council to appear, and brought Paul down and set him before them.

23 Then Paul, looking earnestly at the council, said, "Men and brethren, I have lived in all good conscience before God until this day." [2]And the high priest Ananias commanded those who stood by him to strike him on the mouth. [3]Then Paul said to him, "God will strike you, you whitewashed wall! For you sit to judge me according to the law, and do you command me to be struck contrary to the law?"

[4]And those who stood by said, "Do you revile God's high priest?"

[5]Then Paul said, "I did not know, brethren, that he was the high priest; for it is written, 'You shall not speak evil of a ruler of your people.'"[a]

[6]But when Paul perceived that one part were Sadducees and the other Pharisees, he cried out in the council, "Men and brethren, I am a Pharisee, the son of a Pharisee; concerning the hope and resurrection of the dead I am being judged!"

[7]And when he had said this, a dissension arose between the Pharisees and the Sadducees; and the assembly was divided. [8]For Sadducees say that there is no resurrection—and no angel or spirit; but the Pharisees confess both. [9]Then there arose a loud outcry. And the scribes of the Pharisees' party arose and protested, saying, "We find no evil in this man; but if a spirit or an angel has spoken to him, let us not fight against God."[a]

[10]Now when there arose a great dissension, the commander, fearing lest Paul might be pulled to pieces by them, commanded the soldiers to go down and take him by force from among them, and bring him into the barracks.

The Plot Against Paul

[11]But the following night the Lord stood by him and said, "Be of good cheer, Paul; for as you have testified for Me in Jerusalem, so you must also bear witness at Rome."

[12]And when it was day, some of the Jews banded together and bound themselves under an oath, saying that they would neither eat nor drink till they had killed Paul. [13]Now there were more than forty who had formed this conspiracy. [14]They came to the chief priests and elders, and said, "We have bound ourselves under a great oath that we will eat nothing until we have killed Paul. [15]Now

23:5 [a]Exodus 22:28 23:9 [a]NU-Text omits last clause and reads what if a spirit or an angel has spoken to him?

24:1 The orator Tertullus opposed Paul as the prosecutor before the Roman governor of Judea, Felix (see chart, New Testament Political Rulers). He accused Paul of causing political unrest and defiling the temple. Whether he was a Jew or a Roman is uncertain, but he did possess distinctive gifts in judicial oratory. He began his speech to Felix with extreme but, no doubt, false flattery.

25:11 The new procurator, Festus, wanted to uphold Roman law, while at the same time keeping peace with the Jews who opposed Paul. Roman law provided that a citizen who believed he was not being treated justly could appeal to the emperor. Such an appeal could only be made if the person had not already been sentenced by a lower tribunal. Except in the case of murder and other crimes, the "criminal" had to be sent to Rome for a personal audience with the emperor. Festus had no choice but to send Paul to Rome.

25:13 Herod Agrippa II, the son of Herod Agrippa I, and his sister Bernice came to Caesarea to visit Festus (see charts, The Family Tree of Herod the Great; New Testament Political Rulers). Their visit coincided with Paul's appeal to Caesar. It was rumored that the relationship between Agrippa II and Bernice was incestuous (see Bernice). Festus took this opportunity to engage Agrippa in helping him draft a written report of Paul's "crimes."

DRUSILLA A Shameful Beauty

A daughter of Herod Agrippa and the younger sister of Bernice, Drusilla, a professing Jewess, may have been named for Emperor Caligula's sister. Her great-grandfather, Herod the Great, murdered Jewish baby boys in his effort to destroy the newborn Jesus, the promised Messiah.

Drusilla was a woman of rare beauty—beauty that corrupted her and led to her moral decadence. When only fourteen years old, she married King Azizus of Emessa. A year or so after her marriage, Felix, the Roman governor of Judea, persuaded Drusilla to leave Azizus and to marry him illegally.

Mentioned only once in Scripture, Drusilla was present when the imprisoned apostle Paul gave his defense of the gospel before Felix. From Paul's own lips, she heard firsthand the Good News of Jesus Christ. Drusilla, however, did not respond to Paul's message. The apostle's words so frightened Felix that, to please the Jews, the governor returned Paul to his confinement under house arrest.

Drusilla lived a shameful, wasted life. Before her forty-first birthday, she died a horrible, violent death. While she and her only child, Agrippa, were in Pompeii, Mount Vesuvius erupted, burying under burning lava Pompeii and Herculaneum, as well as Drusilla and her son.

you, therefore, together with the council, suggest to the commander that he be brought down to you tomorrow,[a] as though you were going to make further inquiries concerning him; but we are ready to kill him before he comes near."

16So when Paul's sister's son heard of their ambush, he went and entered the barracks and told Paul. 17Then Paul called one of the centurions to him and said, "Take this young man to the commander, for he has something to tell him." 18So he took him and brought him to the commander and said, "Paul the prisoner called me to him and asked me to bring this young man to you. He has something to say to you."

19Then the commander took him by the hand, went aside, and asked privately, "What is it that you have to tell me?"

20And he said, "The Jews have agreed to ask that you bring Paul down to the council tomorrow, as though they were going to inquire more fully about him. 21But do not yield to them, for more than forty of them lie in wait for him, men who have bound themselves by an oath that they will neither eat nor drink till they have killed him; and now they are ready, waiting for the promise from you."

22So the commander let the young man depart, and commanded him, "Tell no one that you have revealed these things to me."

Sent to Felix

23And he called for two centurions, saying, "Prepare two hundred soldiers, seventy horsemen, and two hundred spearmen to go to Caesarea at the third hour of the night; 24and provide mounts to set Paul on, and bring him safely to Felix the governor." 25He wrote a letter in the following manner:

26Claudius Lysias,

To the most excellent governor Felix:

Greetings.

27This man was seized by the Jews and was about to be killed by them. Coming with the troops I rescued him, having learned that he was a Roman. 28And when I wanted to know the reason they accused him, I brought him before their council. 29I found out that he was accused concerning questions of their law, but had nothing charged against him deserving of death or chains. 30And when it was told me that the Jews lay in wait for the man,[a] I sent him immediately to you, and also commanded his accusers to state before you the charges against him.

Farewell.

31Then the soldiers, as they were commanded, took Paul and brought him by night to Antipatris. 32The next day they left the horsemen to go on with him, and returned to the barracks. 33When they came to Caesarea and had delivered the letter to the governor, they also presented Paul to him. 34And when the governor had read it, he asked what province he was from. And when he understood that he was from Cilicia, 35he said, "I will hear you when your accusers also have come." And he commanded him to be kept in Herod's Praetorium.

23:15 [a]NU-Text omits tomorrow. 23:30 [a]NU-Text reads there would be a plot against the man.

Accused of Sedition

24 Now after five days Ananias the high priest came down with the elders and a certain orator named Tertullus. These gave evidence to the governor against Paul.

2 And when he was called upon, Tertullus began his accusation, saying: "Seeing that through you we enjoy great peace, and prosperity is being brought to this nation by your foresight, 3 we accept it always and in all places, most noble Felix, with all thankfulness. 4 Nevertheless, not to be tedious to you any further, I beg you to hear, by your courtesy, a few words from us. 5 For we have found this man a plague, a creator of dissension among all the Jews throughout the world, and a ringleader of the sect of the Nazarenes. 6 He even tried to profane the temple, and we seized him,[a] and wanted to judge him according to our law. 7 But the commander Lysias came by and with great violence took him out of our hands, 8 commanding his accusers to come to you. By examining him yourself you may ascertain all these things of which we accuse him." 9 And the Jews also assented,[a] maintaining that these things were so.

The Defense Before Felix

10 Then Paul, after the governor had nodded to him to speak, answered: "Inasmuch as I know that you have been for many years a judge of this nation, I do the more cheerfully answer for myself, 11 because you may ascertain that it is no more than twelve days since I went up to Jerusalem to worship. 12 And they neither found me in the temple disputing with anyone nor inciting the crowd, either in the synagogues or in the city. 13 Nor can they prove the things of which they now accuse me. 14 But this I confess to you, that according to the Way which they call a sect, so I worship the God of my fathers, believing all things which are written in the Law and in the Prophets. 15 I have hope in God, which they themselves also accept, that there will be a resurrection of the dead,[a] both of the just and the unjust. 16 This being so, I myself always strive to have a conscience without offense toward God and men.

17 "Now after many years I came to bring alms and offerings to my nation, 18 in the midst of which some Jews from Asia found me purified in the temple, neither with a mob nor with tumult. 19 They ought to have been here before you to object if they had anything against me. 20 Or else let those who are here themselves say if they found any wrongdoing[a] in me while I stood before the council, 21 unless it is for this one statement which I cried out, standing among them, 'Concerning the resurrection of the dead I am being judged by you this day.' "

Felix Procrastinates

22 But when Felix heard these things, having more accurate knowledge of the Way, he adjourned the proceedings and said, "When Lysias the commander comes down, I will make a decision on your case." 23 So he commanded the centurion to keep Paul and to let him have liberty, and told him not to forbid any of his friends to provide for or visit him.

24 And after some days, when Felix came with his wife Drusilla, who was Jewish, he sent for Paul and heard him concerning the faith in Christ. 25 Now as he reasoned about righteousness, self-control, and the judgment to come, Felix was afraid and answered, "Go away for now; when I have a convenient time I will call for you." 26 Meanwhile he also hoped that money would be given him by Paul, that he might release him.[a] Therefore he sent for him more often and conversed with him.

27 But after two years Porcius Festus succeeded Felix; and Felix, wanting to do the Jews a favor, left Paul bound.

Paul Appeals to Caesar

25 Now when Festus had come to the province, after three days he went up from Caesarea to Jerusalem. 2 Then the high priest[a] and the chief men of the Jews informed him against Paul; and they petitioned him, 3 asking a favor against him, that he would summon him to Jerusalem—while they lay in ambush along the road to kill him. 4 But Festus answered that Paul should be kept at Caesarea, and that he himself was going there shortly. 5 "Therefore," he said, "let those who have authority among you go down with me and accuse this man, to see if there is any fault in him."

6 And when he had remained among them more

BERNICE An Unrepentant Sinner

As the daughter of Herod Agrippa I and the older sister of Drusilla, Bernice was born about A.D. 28 into a racially mixed family. At age thirteen she was married to Marcus, the son of Tiberius Julius Alexander. Marcus died, and she next married her uncle, Herod of Chalcis. They had two sons, Berniceanus and Hyrancus. Widowed again about A.D. 48, Bernice was the subject of incestuous scandal when she became a consort to her own brother, Agrippa II. Years later, she married a third time to Ptolemy, king of Cicilia. The marriage, however, did not last, and she returned to her brother. She was later the mistress of the Roman emperors Vespasian and his son Titus.

Bernice, a woman of strong opinions, was once a dauntless defender of the Jewish people. Some sources report that she even risked her own life to intercede on behalf of the Jews. So strong was her faith that at one time she shaved her head and walked barefoot in keeping a vow to God. But her lifestyle pulled her away, and Bernice evidently abandoned her Jewish faith.

When Agrippa and Bernice went to Caesarea with Festus on state business, Agrippa agreed to hear the case of a prisoner, the apostle Paul. Bernice heard Paul argue his case for Christ; yet she ignored his message. Maintaining her wicked ways, Bernice died in Rome after the fall of Jerusalem. Bernice represents all those women throughout history who have heard the gospel, yet have chosen to reject Christ. She embraced a sinful life that caused the deterioration of her character—a character that could have been changed by Jesus Christ, making her useful in the Kingdom.

than ten days, he went down to Caesarea. And the next day, sitting on the judgment seat, he commanded Paul to be brought. 7When he had come, the Jews who had come down from Jerusalem stood about and laid many serious complaints against Paul, which they could not prove, 8while he answered for himself, "Neither against the law of the Jews, nor against the temple, nor against Caesar have I offended in anything at all."

9But Festus, wanting to do the Jews a favor, answered Paul and said, "Are you willing to go up to Jerusalem and there be judged before me concerning these things?"

10So Paul said, "I stand at Caesar's judgment seat, where I ought to be judged. To the Jews I have done no wrong, as you very well know. 11For if I am an offender, or have committed anything deserving of death, I do not object to dying; but if there is nothing in these things of which these men accuse me, no one can deliver me to them. I appeal to Caesar."

12Then Festus, when he had conferred with the council, answered, "You have appealed to Caesar? To Caesar you shall go!"

Paul Before Agrippa

13And after some days King Agrippa and Bernice came to Caesarea to greet Festus. 14When they had been there many days, Festus laid Paul's case before the king, saying: "There is a certain man left a prisoner by Felix, 15about whom the chief priests and the elders of the Jews informed me, when I was in Jerusalem, asking for a judgment against him. 16To them I answered, 'It is not the custom of the Romans to deliver any man to destruction[a] before the accused meets the accusers face to face, and has opportunity to answer for himself concerning the charge against him.' 17Therefore when they had come together, without any delay, the next day I sat on the judgment seat and commanded the man to be brought in. 18When the accusers stood up, they brought no accusation against him of such things as I supposed, 19but had some questions against him about their own religion and about a certain Jesus, who had died, whom Paul affirmed to be alive. 20And because I was uncertain of such questions, I asked whether he was willing to go to Jerusalem and there be judged concerning these matters. 21But when Paul appealed to be reserved for the decision of Augustus, I commanded him to be kept till I could send him to Caesar."

22Then Agrippa said to Festus, "I also would like to hear the man myself."

"Tomorrow," he said, "you shall hear him."

23So the next day, when Agrippa and Bernice had come with great pomp, and had entered the auditorium with the commanders and the prominent men of the city, at Festus' command Paul was brought in. 24And Festus said: "King Agrippa and all the men who are here present with us, you see this man about whom the whole assembly of the Jews petitioned me, both at Jerusalem and here, crying out that he was not fit to live any longer. 25But when I found that he had committed nothing deserving of death, and that he himself had appealed to Augustus, I decided to send him. 26I have nothing certain to write to my lord concerning him. Therefore I have brought him out before you, and especially before you, King Agrippa, so that after the examination has taken place I may have something to write. 27For it seems to me unreasonable to send a prisoner and not to specify the charges against him."

Paul's Early Life

26 Then Agrippa said to Paul, "You are permitted to speak for yourself."

So Paul stretched out his hand and answered for himself: 2"I think myself happy, King Agrippa, because today I shall answer for myself before you concerning all the things of which I am accused by the Jews, 3especially because you are expert in all customs and questions which have to do with the Jews. Therefore I beg you to hear me patiently.

4"My manner of life from my youth, which was spent from the beginning among my own nation at Jerusalem, all the Jews know. 5They knew me from the first, if they were willing to testify, that according to the strictest sect of our religion I lived a Pharisee. 6And now I stand and am judged for the hope of the promise made by God to our fathers. 7To this promise our twelve tribes, earnestly serving God night and day, hope to attain. For this hope's sake, King Agrippa, I am accused by the Jews. 8Why should it be thought incredible by you that God raises the dead?

9"Indeed, I myself thought I must do many things contrary to the name of Jesus of Nazareth. 10This I also did in Jerusalem, and many of the saints I shut up in prison, having received authority from the chief priests; and when they were put to death, I cast my vote against them. 11And I punished them often in every synagogue and compelled them to blaspheme; and being exceedingly enraged against them, I persecuted them even to foreign cities.

Paul Recounts His Conversion

12"While thus occupied, as I journeyed to Damascus with authority and commission from the chief priests, 13at midday, O king, along the road I saw a light from heaven, brighter than the sun, shining around me and those who journeyed with me. 14And when we all had fallen to the ground, I heard a voice speaking to me and saying in the Hebrew language, 'Saul, Saul, why are you persecuting Me? It is hard for you to kick against the goads.' 15So I said, 'Who are You, Lord?' And He said, 'I am Jesus, whom you are persecuting. 16But rise and stand on your feet; for I have appeared to you for this purpose, to make you a minister and a witness both of the things which you have seen and of the things which I will yet reveal to you. 17I will deliver you from the Jewish people, as well as from the Gentiles, to whom I now[a] send you, 18to open their eyes, in order to turn them from darkness to light, and from the power of Satan to God, that they may receive forgiveness of sins and an inheritance among those who are sanctified by faith in Me.'

Paul's Post-Conversion Life

19"Therefore, King Agrippa, I was not disobedient to the heavenly vision, 20but declared first to those in Damascus and in Jerusalem, and throughout all the region of Judea, and then to the Gentiles, that they should repent, turn to God, and do works befitting repentance. 21For these reasons the Jews seized me in the temple and tried to kill me. 22Therefore, having obtained help from God, to this day I stand, witnessing both to small and great, saying no other things than those which the prophets and Moses said would come— 23that the Christ would suffer, that He would be the first to rise from the dead, and would proclaim light to the Jewish people and to the Gentiles."

Agrippa Parries Paul's Challenge

24Now as he thus made his defense, Festus said with a loud voice, "Paul, you are beside yourself! Much learning is driving you mad!"

25But he said, "I am not mad, most noble Festus, but speak the words of truth and reason. 26For the king, before whom I also speak freely, knows these things; for I am convinced that none of these things escapes his attention, since this thing was not done in a corner. 27King Agrippa, do you believe the prophets? I know that you do believe."

28Then Agrippa said to Paul, "You almost persuade me to become a Christian."

29And Paul said, "I would to God that not only you, but also all who hear me today, might become both almost and altogether such as I am, except for these chains."

26:17 [a]NU-Text and M-Text omit now.

I need nothing but God, and to lose myself in the heart of God.

[30]When he had said these things, the king stood up, as well as the governor and Bernice and those who sat with them; [31]and when they had gone aside, they talked among themselves, saying, "This man is doing nothing deserving of death or chains."

[32]Then Agrippa said to Festus, "This man might have been set free if he had not appealed to Caesar."

The Voyage to Rome Begins

27 And when it was decided that we should sail to Italy, they delivered Paul and some other prisoners to one named Julius, a centurion of the Augustan Regiment. [2]So, entering a ship of Adramyttium, we put to sea, meaning to sail along the coasts of Asia. Aristarchus, a Macedonian of Thessalonica, was with us. [3]And the next day we landed at Sidon. And Julius treated Paul kindly and gave him liberty to go to his friends and receive care. [4]When we had put to sea from there, we sailed under the shelter of Cyprus, because the winds were contrary. [5]And when we had sailed over the sea which is off Cilicia and Pamphylia, we came to Myra, a city of Lycia. [6]There the centurion found an Alexandrian ship sailing to Italy, and he put us on board.

[7]When we had sailed slowly many days, and arrived with difficulty off Cnidus, the wind not permitting us to proceed, we sailed under the shelter of Crete off Salmone. [8]Passing it with difficulty, we came to a place called Fair Havens, near the city of Lasea.

Paul's Warning Ignored

[9]Now when much time had been spent, and sailing was now dangerous because the Fast was already over, Paul advised them, [10]saying, "Men, I perceive that this voyage will end with disaster and much loss, not only of the cargo and ship, but also our lives." [11]Nevertheless the centurion was more persuaded by the helmsman and the owner of the ship than by the things spoken by Paul. [12]And because the harbor was not suitable to winter in, the majority advised to set sail from there also, if by any means they could reach Phoenix, a harbor of Crete opening toward the southwest and northwest, and winter there.

In the Tempest

[13]When the south wind blew softly, supposing that they had obtained their desire, putting out to sea, they sailed close by Crete. [14]But not long after, a tempestuous head wind arose, called Euroclydon.[a] [15]So when the ship was caught, and could not head into the wind, we let her drive. [16]And running under the shelter of an island called Clauda,[a] we secured the skiff with difficulty. [17]When they had taken it on board, they used cables to undergird the ship; and fearing lest they should run aground on the Syrtis[a] Sands, they struck sail and so were driven. [18]And because we were exceedingly tempest-tossed, the next day they lightened the ship. [19]On the third day we threw the ship's tackle overboard with our own hands. [20]Now when neither sun nor stars appeared for many days, and no small tempest beat on us, all hope that we would be saved was finally given up.

[21]But after long abstinence from food, then Paul stood in the midst of them and said, "Men, you should have listened to me, and not have sailed from Crete and incurred this disaster and loss. [22]And now I urge you to take heart, for there will be no loss of life among you, but only of the ship. [23]For there stood by me this night an angel of the God to whom I belong and whom I serve, [24]saying, 'Do not be afraid, Paul; you must be brought before Caesar; and indeed God has granted you all those who sail with you.' [25]Therefore take heart, men, for I believe God that it will be just as it was told me. [26]However, we must run aground on a certain island."

[27]Now when the fourteenth night had come, as we were driven up and down in the Adriatic Sea, about midnight the sailors sensed that they were drawing near some land. [28]And they took soundings and found it to be twenty fathoms; and when they had gone a little farther, they took soundings again and found it to be fifteen fathoms. [29]Then, fearing lest we should run aground on the rocks, they dropped four anchors from the stern, and prayed for day to come. [30]And as the sailors were seeking to escape from the ship, when they had let down the skiff into the sea, under pretense of putting out an-

27:14 On the ship to Rome, Paul encountered Euroclydon, a northeast wind that produced mighty waves. So severe was the storm that Paul's ship was wrecked. Sailing was not usually done after September due to difficult weather. Paul sailed during the first half of October.

PAUL'S FOURTH MISSIONARY JOURNEY

chors from the prow, 31Paul said to the centurion and the soldiers, "Unless these men stay in the ship, you cannot be saved." 32Then the soldiers cut away the ropes of the skiff and let it fall off.

33And as day was about to dawn, Paul implored them all to take food, saying, "Today is the fourteenth day you have waited and continued without food, and eaten nothing. 34Therefore I urge you to take nourishment, for this is for your survival, since not a hair will fall from the head of any of you." 35And when he had said these things, he took bread and gave thanks to God in the presence of them all; and when he had broken it he began to eat. 36Then they were all encouraged, and also took food themselves. 37And in all we were two hundred and seventy-six persons on the ship. 38So when they had eaten enough, they lightened the ship and threw out the wheat into the sea.

Shipwrecked on Malta

39When it was day, they did not recognize the land; but they observed a bay with a beach, onto which they planned to run the ship if possible. 40And they let go the anchors and left them in the sea, meanwhile loosing the rudder ropes; and they hoisted the mainsail to the wind and made for shore. 41But striking a place where two seas met, they ran the ship aground; and the prow stuck fast and remained immovable, but the stern was being broken up by the violence of the waves.

42And the soldiers' plan was to kill the prisoners, lest any of them should swim away and escape. 43But the centurion, wanting to save Paul, kept them from their purpose, and commanded that those who could swim should jump overboard first and get to land, 44and the rest, some on boards and some on parts of the ship. And so it was that they all escaped safely to land.

Paul's Ministry on Malta

28 Now when they had escaped, they then found out that the island was called Malta. 2And the natives showed us unusual kindness; for they kindled a fire and made us all welcome,

28:1 The island of Malta is located 50 miles southwest of Sicily, and here the apostle Paul was shipwrecked. In order to prevent the prisoners from escaping, the soldiers asked permission to kill them. Their request was denied, for to kill one prisoner meant that all the prisoners must be killed. Paul had been helpful during the trauma. The 276 persons aboard the wrecked ship swam for Malta, and all arrived there safely.

because of the rain that was falling and because of the cold. 3But when Paul had gathered a bundle of sticks and laid them on the fire, a viper came out because of the heat, and fastened on his hand. 4So when the natives saw the creature hanging from his hand, they said to one another, "No doubt this man is a murderer, whom, though he has escaped the sea, yet justice does not allow to live." 5But he shook off the creature into the fire and suffered no harm. 6However, they were expecting that he would swell up or suddenly fall down dead. But after they had looked for a long time and saw no harm come to him, they changed their minds and said that he was a god.

7In that region there was an estate of the leading citizen of the island, whose name was Publius, who received us and entertained us courteously for three days. 8And it happened that the father of Publius lay sick of a fever and dysentery. Paul went in to him and prayed, and he laid his hands on him and healed him. 9So when this was done, the rest of those on the island who had diseases also came and were healed. 10They also honored us in many ways; and when we departed, they provided such things as were necessary.

Arrival at Rome

11After three months we sailed in an Alexandrian ship whose figurehead was the Twin Brothers, which had wintered at the island. 12And landing at Syracuse, we stayed three days. 13From there we circled round and reached Rhegium. And after one day the south wind blew; and the next day we came to Puteoli, 14where we found brethren, and were invited to stay with them seven days. And so we went toward Rome. 15And from there, when the brethren heard about us, they came to meet us as far as Appii Forum and Three Inns. When Paul saw them, he thanked God and took courage.

16Now when we came to Rome, the centurion delivered the prisoners to the captain of the guard; but Paul was permitted to dwell by himself with the soldier who guarded him.

Paul's Ministry at Rome

17And it came to pass after three days that Paul called the leaders of the Jews together. So when they had come together, he said to them: "Men and brethren, though I have done nothing against our people or the customs of our fathers, yet I was delivered as a prisoner from Jerusalem into the hands of the Romans, 18who, when they had examined me, wanted to let me go, because there was no cause for putting me to death. 19But when the Jews[a] spoke against it, I was compelled to appeal to Caesar, not that I had anything of which to accuse my nation. 20For this reason therefore I have called for you, to see you and speak with you, because for the hope of Israel I am bound with this chain."

23So when they had appointed him a day, many came to him at his lodging, to whom he explained and solemnly testified of the kingdom of God, persuading them concerning Jesus from both the Law of Moses and the Prophets, from morning till evening. 24And some were persuaded by the things which were spoken, and some disbelieved. 25So when they did not agree among themselves, they departed after Paul had said one word: "The Holy Spirit spoke rightly through Isaiah the prophet to our[a] fathers, 26saying,

'Go to this people and say:
"Hearing you will hear, and shall not understand;
And seeing you will see, and not perceive;
27*For the hearts of this people have grown dull.*
Their ears are hard of hearing,
And their eyes they have closed,
Lest they should see with their eyes and hear with their ears,
Lest they should understand with their hearts and turn,
So that I should heal them." '[a]

28"Therefore let it be known to you that the salvation of God has been sent to the Gentiles, and they will hear it!" 29And when he had said these words, the Jews departed and had a great dispute among themselves.[a]

30Then Paul dwelt two whole years in his own rented house, and received all who came to him, 31preaching the kingdom of God and teaching the things which concern the Lord Jesus Christ with all confidence, no one forbidding him.

Romans

AUTHOR

The apostle Paul wrote the Epistle to the Romans. Paul, who at birth received the Jewish name Saul, was born in the city of Tarsus located in Cilicia (Acts 22:3). His birth occurred probably between A.D. 1 and 5. Although he grew up in Greek culture, Paul remained loyal to his Hebrew heritage (Phil. 3:5). As citizens of Rome, members of his family were probably wealthy and socially influential (Acts 22:28). A Pharisee, Saul received the finest available education from the renowned teacher Gamaliel (Acts 22:3; Gal. 1:14). Not only did Saul adhere to a life governed by the Law of Moses, but most likely he followed its strictest interpretations laid down by generations of Jewish teachers.

Saul launched vicious attacks on the followers of Christ (Acts 8:1–3). In the midst of his authorized and zealous pursuit of the followers of "the Way," he was blinded by a supernatural light and heard the voice of Jesus Christ (Acts 9:1–19). Confronted by Christ Himself, Paul's life was permanently redirected. His zeal as a messenger for Christ was as dedicated as had been his former role as persecutor. Changing his name to the Greek "Paul" (Acts 13:9), he proclaimed Christ's "Good News" to the Gentiles with an all-consuming passion.

In his lifetime, Paul launched at least four missionary journeys into previously unreached countries (3 recorded in Acts), survived tremendous opposition and hardship, and wrote letters to instruct and encourage those who had become believers (see maps, Paul's First, Second, Third, and Fourth Missionary Journeys). Imprisonment often resulted from Paul's contention with the religious legalism of the Jews. The Book of Acts ends with Paul under house arrest in his own rented house in Rome (Acts 28:30, 31). Events surrounding the end of Paul's life are uncertain. After a possible release and a later imprisonment in Rome, Paul may have been tried and executed for his continued proclamation of the gospel of Jesus Christ (see 2 Tim.), which he comprehensively articulated in his letter to the church at Rome.

Paul probably wrote this letter to the Christians in Rome from Corinth between A.D. 55 and 59 on his third missionary journey, perhaps in the winter of A.D. 57 (see map, Paul's Third Missionary Journey). At the time Paul wrote to the church at Rome, he had never visited that church. He was preparing to go to Jerusalem and personally deliver a significant offering the churches had collected for the needy Christians in Jerusalem. Paul was uncertain regarding what might happen to him in Jerusalem. He, therefore, wrote his theology and sent it to Rome because he could foresee the strategic importance of that church for the future.

BACKGROUND

SETTING: The Roman church may have been formed by believers who heard Peter's message during the celebration of Pentecost (Acts 2). Paul had never visited the church at Rome, but he recognized the strategic significance of the church there. Thus Paul shared in detail the basic tenets of Christianity with these believers.

PURPOSE: Paul had several purposes in writing to the Roman church. He wrote the Book of Romans to explain why he had been delayed in visiting the Roman believers and to prepare the way for his anticipated visit (Rom. 1:10–13). Paul wanted the Romans to know that he had not abandoned his mission to the Gentiles. He wanted them to know he had not lost confidence in the gospel of Christ for all people (Rom. 1:16). Paul also desired to promote unity and to resolve a possible conflict between Jewish and Gentile Christians.

AUDIENCE: The letter is addressed to Christians in Rome. Paul had neither founded nor visited the church at Rome, which consisted of both Jews and Gentiles. The variety of backgrounds and interpretations within that church called for a clear, concise articulation of the work of Christ. Paul's focus was upon Christ's life, death, and Resurrection.

LITERARY CHARACTERISTICS: Paul's letter to the Romans has the literary framework of a lawyer establishing his case carefully and accurately. Of all Paul's letters, the Epistle to the Romans comes closest to being a systematic theological treatise. Through the literary form of a letter (with greeting, body of information, and closing signature) and the application of rhetorical skills of questioning argument, Paul presented a clear explanation of God's purposes throughout history, culminating in the sending of His Son for the salvation of all who would turn to Him in faith.

THEMES

The major theme of Romans is that of righteousness received as a gift from God, not achieved by works of the Law (Rom. 1:16, 17). Salvation comes by grace through faith (Rom. 3:21–31). Other themes include mankind's rejection of God's revelation, death to sin and life in Christ by the Holy Spirit's power, Christian freedom, God's sovereignty, God's plan of salvation as encompassing Gentiles as well as Jews, obedience to Christ involving sacrificial commitment, and practical Christian living.

Conclusion (15:14—16:27)

Greeting

1 Paul, a bondservant of Jesus Christ, called to be an apostle, separated to the gospel of God
2 which He promised before through His prophets in the Holy Scriptures, 3 concerning His Son Jesus Christ our Lord, who was born of the seed of David according to the flesh, 4 and declared to be the Son of God with power according to the Spirit of holiness, by the resurrection from the dead. 5 Through Him we have received grace and apostleship for obedience to the faith among all nations for His name, 6 among whom you also are the called of Jesus Christ;

7 To all who are in Rome, beloved of God, called to be saints:

Grace to you and peace from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ.

Desire to Visit Rome

8 First, I thank my God through Jesus Christ for you all, that your faith is spoken of throughout the whole world. 9 For God is my witness, whom I serve with my spirit in the gospel of His Son, that without ceasing I make mention of you always in my prayers, 10 making request if, by some means, now at last I may find a way in the will of God to come to you. 11 For I long to see you, that I may impart to you some spiritual gift, so that you may be established— 12 that is, that I may be encouraged together with you by the mutual faith both of you and me.

13 Now I do not want you to be unaware, brethren, that I often planned to come to you (but was hindered until now), that I might have some fruit among you also, just as among the other Gentiles. 14 I am a debtor both to Greeks and to barbarians, both to wise and to unwise. 15 So, as much as is in me, I am ready to preach the gospel to you who are in Rome also.

The Just Live by Faith

16 For I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ,[a] for it is the power of God to salvation for everyone who believes, for the Jew first and also for the Greek. 17 For in it the righteousness of God is revealed from faith to faith; as it is written, "The just shall live by faith."[a]

God's Wrath on Unrighteousness

18 For the wrath of God is revealed from heaven against all ungodliness and unrighteousness of men, who suppress the truth in unrighteousness, 19 because what may be known of God is manifest in them, for God has shown it to them. 20 For since the creation of the world His invisible attributes are clearly seen, being understood by the things that are made, even His eternal power and Godhead, so that they are without excuse, 21 because, although they knew God, they did not glorify Him as God, nor were thankful, but became futile in their thoughts, and their foolish hearts were darkened. 22 Professing to be wise, they became fools, 23 and changed the glory of the incorruptible God into an image made like corruptible man—and birds and four-footed animals and creeping things.

24 Therefore God also gave them up to uncleanness, in the lusts of their hearts, to dishonor their bodies among themselves, 25 who exchanged the truth of God for the lie, and worshiped and served the creature rather than the Creator, who is blessed forever. Amen.

26 For this reason God gave them up to vile

1:16 [a]NU-Text omits of Christ. 1:17 [a]Habakkuk 2:4

1:1–4 Paul introduced himself as a bondservant, a slave of his master Jesus Christ. Such a sense of utter devotion springs from the great love Christ had demonstrated. Paul (Gk. paulos, lit. "small" or "little") was called or set apart by God to be an apostle, one who is sent by authority with a mission.

1:7 Saints demonstrate their unique relationship to Christ by setting themselves apart from a worldly lifestyle and giving themselves wholly to the Lord. God calls believers to this set-apart lifestyle in which they increasingly demonstrate outwardly the inward transformation of the heart (Rom. 12:1, 2). Paul typically employed this greeting (Rom. 1:5; 1 Cor. 1:3; 2 Cor. 1:2; Gal. 1:3; Eph. 1:2). "Peace" refers to the sense of wholeness and well-being that comes through a right relationship with God. The Hebrews used "peace" (shalom) as a greeting. The Greeks often greeted one another with a word similar to "grace" but meaning "joy." Paul employed a distinctive combination of these familiar salutations.

1:11 A spiritual gift comes from and is given by the Holy Spirit and has the effect of edifying the body (see chart, The Work of the Holy Spirit). Paul listed seven of the spiritual gifts (Rom. 12:6–8; see chart, Spiritual Gifts of Women in the Bible).

1:14 The Greeks were those who accepted Hellenistic culture and spoke the Greek language. The barbarians were viewed as the uncultured.

1:16, 17 The righteousness of God is not simply a moral attribute. God's righteousness is revealed in His work of salvation. Paul stressed the importance of living by faith, the heart of Paul's theme in his letter to the Romans (see Hab. 2:4; Gal. 3:11; Heb. 10:38).

1:20 God has revealed Himself not only in history but also in the beauty and order of His created world (see Ps. 19:1–6) thereby removing any excuse for ignorance of Himself. Although sin distorts, it does not remove the possibility of perceiving God in nature (see Acts 14:15).

1:24, 25 God's wrath involves abandoning individuals to the consequences of their wrong choices. God's mercy is operating even in His wrath as He seeks to draw them back to Himself.

1:26, 27 Homosexuality was practiced commonly in the pagan world of Paul's day. Paul condemned this practice as contrary to God's design (see Lev. 18, Homosexuality).

ATTRIBUTES OF GOD — HE IS LONGSUFFERING

God's judgment is sure (Rev. 19:2, 11). God is called "longsuffering" because He does not execute judgment immediately. He waits (Is. 42:14–16), not to see what will happen—He knows what will happen; not to see more clearly—He sees perfectly; not to gain more information—He knows everything. God waits because His priority is self-revelation, not judgment.

Longsuffering is not the absence of anger but being slow to anger (Ps. 145:8). God's longsuffering shows an infinite amount of power, mercy, patience, and love—all of which He has in abundance (Num. 14:18).

God, for a time, tolerates insults, rejection, and indifference in order to draw people to repentance (Rom. 2:4). His longsuffering is linked with His great compassion and becomes active in order to draw us to Himself (2 Pet. 3:9).

See also Ex. 34:6; Ps. 51:1; 86:15; 103:8; Jer. 3:12; Lam. 3:22, note; Nah. 1:3; Rom. 9:22, 23; 15:5, 6; notes on Attributes of God (Ex. 33; Deut. 4; 32; 2 Chr. 19; Job 23; 42; Ps. 25; 90; 102; 119; Is. 6; 65; Jer. 23; Eph. 1; 1 John 5); Commitment (Matt. 16); Forgiveness (Ps. 51; Luke 17); Fruit of the Spirit (Ps. 86; Rom. 5; 15; 1 Cor. 10; 13; Gal. 5; Eph. 4; Col. 3; 2 Thess. 1; Rev. 2) passions. For even their women exchanged the natural use for what is against nature. 27Likewise also the men, leaving the natural use of the woman, burned in their lust for one another, men with men committing what is shameful, and receiving in themselves the penalty of their error which was due.

28And even as they did not like to retain God in their knowledge, God gave them over to a debased mind, to do those things which are not fitting; 29being filled with all unrighteousness, sexual immorality,[a] wickedness, covetousness, maliciousness; full of envy, murder, strife, deceit, evil-mindedness; they are whisperers, 30backbiters, haters of God, violent, proud, boasters, inventors of evil things, disobedient to parents, 31undiscerning, untrustworthy, unloving, unforgiving,[a] unmerciful; 32who, knowing the righteous judgment of God, that those who practice such things are deserving of death, not only do the same but also approve of those who practice them.

God's Righteous Judgment

2 Therefore you are inexcusable, O man, whoever you are who judge, for in whatever you judge another you condemn yourself; for you who judge practice the same things. 2But we know that the judgment of God is according to truth against those who practice such things. 3And do you think this, O man, you who judge those practicing such things, and doing the same, that you will escape the judgment of God? 4Or do you despise the riches of His goodness, forbearance, and longsuffering, not knowing that the goodness of God leads you to repentance? 5But in accordance with your hardness and your impenitent heart you are treasuring up for yourself wrath in the day of wrath and revelation of the righteous judgment of God, 6who "will render to each one according to his deeds":[a] 7eternal life to those who by patient continuance in doing good seek for glory, honor, and immortality; 8but to those who are self-seeking and do not obey the truth, but obey unrighteousness— indignation and wrath, 9tribulation and anguish, on every soul of man who does evil, of the Jew first and also of the Greek; 10but glory, honor, and peace to everyone who works what is good, to the Jew first and also to the Greek. 11For there is no partiality with God.

12For as many as have sinned without law will

1:29 [a]NU-Text omits sexual immorality. 1:31 [a]NU-Text omits unforgiving. 2:6 [a]Psalm 62:12; Proverbs 24:12

1:28 The individual with a debased or degenerate mind no longer can perceive God and ultimately will reap spiritual death as the consequence of his sin (v. 32; see Rom. 6:23). "Fitting" as employed by Stoic philosophers described appropriate or proper conduct.

2:4 The contemptible attitude of the Jews stood in stark contrast to the goodness of God (v. 5). God had shown abundant kindness and patience despite the nation's persistent rebellion and rejection of His will. Judgment had only been postponed, not overlooked (Amos 3:1, 2). God's kindness gives opportunity for repentance, but the Jews interpreted it as a sign of immunity from judgment (Acts 3:19; 2 Pet. 3:9).

2:5–10 Without the exercise of wrath against evil, God would be an unrighteous and immoral God (see 2 Chr. 19, Attributes of God). Those who continually sin make themselves the object of God's "wrath" (Gk. orgē, meaning "the eternal divine disposition of settled anger"). Paul anticipated a future day when God would righteously judge the world. God's judgment includes everyone; yet it is individually assigned (Rom. 2:6; 2 Cor. 5:10). The judgment described here, based on deeds, is applied to two groups: the righteous (Rom. 2:7, 10) and the wicked (vv. 8, 9). For Paul, as well as for James, faith must issue in deeds (see Rom. 1:17; James 2:17).

2:12–15 God's justice demands from both Jew and Gentile absolute righteousness, which can never be obtained through also perish without law, and as many as have sinned in the law will be judged by the law [13](for not the hearers of the law are just in the sight of God, but the doers of the law will be justified; [14]for when Gentiles, who do not have the law, by nature do the things in the law, these, although not having the law, are a law to themselves, [15]who show the work of the law written in their hearts, their conscience also bearing witness, and between themselves their thoughts accusing or else excusing them) [16]in the day when God will judge the secrets of men by Jesus Christ, according to my gospel.

The Jews Guilty as the Gentiles

[17]Indeed[a] you are called a Jew, and rest on the law, and make your boast in God, [18]and know His will, and approve the things that are excellent, being instructed out of the law, [19]and are confident that you yourself are a guide to the blind, a light to those who are in darkness, [20]an instructor of the foolish, a teacher of babes, having the form of knowledge and truth in the law. [21]You, therefore, who teach another, do you not teach yourself? You who preach that a man should not steal, do you steal? [22]You who say, "Do not commit adultery," do you commit adultery? You who abhor idols, do you rob temples? [23]You who make your boast in the law, do you dishonor God through breaking the law? [24]For "the name of God is blasphemed among the Gentiles because of you,"[a] as it is written.

Circumcision of No Avail

[25]For circumcision is indeed profitable if you keep the law; but if you are a breaker of the law, your circumcision has become uncircumcision. [26]Therefore, if an uncircumcised man keeps the righteous requirements of the law, will not his uncircumcision be counted as circumcision? [27]And will not the physically uncircumcised, if he fulfills the law, judge you who, even with your written code and circumcision, are a transgressor of the law? [28]For he is not a Jew who is one outwardly, nor is circumcision that which is outward in the flesh; [29]but he is a Jew who is one inwardly; and circumcision is that of the heart, in the Spirit, not in the letter; whose praise is not from men but from God.

God's Judgment Defended

3 What advantage then has the Jew, or what is the profit of circumcision? [2]Much in every way! Chiefly because to them were committed the oracles of God. [3]For what if some did not believe? Will their unbelief make the faithfulness of God without effect? [4]Certainly not! Indeed, let God be true but every man a liar. As it is written:

"That You may be justified in Your words,
And may overcome when You are judged."[a]

[5]But if our unrighteousness demonstrates the righteousness of God, what shall we say? Is God unjust who inflicts wrath? (I speak as a man.) [6]Certainly not! For then how will God judge the world?

[7]For if the truth of God has increased through my lie to His glory, why am I also still judged as a sinner? [8]And why not say, "Let us do evil that good may come"?—as we are slanderously reported and as some affirm that we say. Their condemnation is just.

All Have Sinned

[9]What then? Are we better than they? Not at all. For we have previously charged both Jews and Greeks that they are all under sin.

[10]As it is written:

"There is none righteous, no, not one;
[11]There is none who understands;
There is none who seeks after God.
[12]They have all turned aside;

2:17 [a]NU-Text reads But if. 2:24 [a]Isaiah 52:5; Ezekiel 36:22 3:4 [a]Psalm 51:4

inadequate human efforts to keep the Law. Good works do not bring salvation; salvation brings good works. All have received some degree of God's revelation and thus stand responsible (Rom. 1:20, 21).

2:17–24 The Jews regarded themselves as better than the Gentiles because they possessed the Law; yet they did not keep the Law. The hypocrisy and contradiction between Jewish belief and behavior caused the Gentiles to blaspheme God's name. The Gentiles concluded that the God of a people who behaved in such fashion could not be a worthy God (see Is. 52:5).

2:25–29 Circumcision, regarded as the sign of the covenant, had marked the Jewish male since the time of Abram (see Gen. 17, Circumcision). Many Jews in Paul's time believed the physical circumcision of the body insured membership in God's family (see Acts 15:1–29).

2:29 The designation Jew is derived from Judah (Heb., lit. "praise"; see Gen. 29:35), one of Jacob's sons and one of the 12 tribes of Israel. Paul utilized a wordplay in this verse to emphasize that the true Jew is one who inwardly depends on God and submits to Him, not one who relies on external appearance and the approval of men.

3:1, 2 Paul acknowledged the benefits of belonging to the Jewish nation—possession of the oracles of God, through which God revealed Himself. This privilege carried with it a heavy responsibility.

3:10–18 Paul linked together a number of OT passages to emphasize that all have sinned (see Ps. 5:9, 10; 14:1–3; 36:1–4; Is. 59:7, 8). The various references to parts of the human body (throat, tongue, lips, mouth, feet, eyes) reveal that sin corrupts throughout. "Fear of God" refers to reverent respect (Rom. 3:18).

WORRY THE PARALYSIS OF FAITH

Depending on context, words translated as "cares" and "concerns" or "fear" and "anxiety" can be either right or wrong attitudes in a Christian's life. Fear is right when it is reverence toward God because of His holiness (Is. 8:13); and care is good when showing concern for others (1 Cor. 12:25; 2 Cor. 11:28).

But worry is always wrong, for it paralyzes active faith in your life. When you worry, you assume responsibility for things you were never intended to handle. Jesus repeatedly taught: "Do not worry" (Gk. merimneō, lit. "to divide the mind"), even about the basic essentials of life (Matt. 6:25–34). Worry divides your mind between useful and hurtful thinking. Worrying does not change anything (Matt. 6:27) except to draw your focus away from God and His faithfulness and righteousness to concerns about the things of life, such as possessions and material goods (Matt. 6:31). Worry is a choking, harmful emotion that saps your energy and elevates human strength and ingenuity above God's strength and His purposeful plan.

Sources of worry include change, lack of understanding, and lack of control over your life. Worry opens the door to worldliness, that is, preoccupation with the things of this life. Though the children of Israel had watched God split open the Red Sea to deliver them from Egypt, they could not believe He would provide water in the desert to meet their needs. Worry is the opposite of faith, suggesting that God cannot be trusted to take care of you or to provide what you need (Phil. 4:19). Worry causes fear to crowd out faith. Thus, in the final reckoning, "the cowardly" are listed alongside the "unbelieving" (Rev. 21:8).

Linking worry with unbelief, Scripture gives direction for a return to full faith. The road from worry to faith begins with recognition that worry is sin and confession of lack of faith (Ps. 139:23), continues with deliverance (Ps. 34:4), and finally ends with the assurance that absolutely nothing can separate you from the love of God who is the great I AM (Rom. 8:35; Ex. 3:14, 15). In place of anxious thoughts, you then freely offer thanksgiving from a heart established with trust in God as all sufficient (Ps. 112:7, 8; Phil. 4:6, 7).

19 Now we know that whatever the law says, it says to those who are under the law, that every mouth may be stopped, and all the world may become guilty before God. 20 Therefore by the deeds of the law no flesh will be justified in His sight, for by the law is the knowledge of sin.

God's Righteousness Through Faith

21 But now the righteousness of God apart from the law is revealed, being witnessed by the Law and the Prophets, 22 even the righteousness of God, through faith in Jesus Christ, to all and on all[a] who believe. For there is no difference; 23 for all have sinned and fall short of the glory of God, 24 being justified freely by His grace through the redemption that is in Christ Jesus, 25 whom God set forth as a propitiation by His blood, through faith, to demonstrate His righteousness, because

3:23 Sin (Gk. hamartia, lit. "to miss the mark") falls short of attaining God's standard. Sin is often identified as deeds, such as stealing, murder, adultery, or lying (Ex. 20:1–17; Deut. 5:1–21). However, a more fundamental attitude deep within the human heart underlies all "sins" and is expressed as "I know better than God in this matter." This attitude led Eve to that first, fatal, disobedient act in the Garden of Eden. Adam had told her that God had forbidden the eating of the fruit, but when the fruit was presented to her as good, pleasant, and desirable, she allowed her own judgment to take precedence over the Word directly from God, and she ate the forbidden fruit (Gen. 3:3, 6). God has not given us His Word so we can make a reasoned evaluation of His judgment and decide whether or not we want to obey. He has given us His Word because that Word is truth and life, and we are to obey it without question and with unhesitating confidence. To follow our own judgments in disobedience of God's Word is to put self in the place of God (Prov. 3:5, 7; 14:12), no matter how innocent or noble the deed may seem (see Luke 24:47, note; Num. 16, Rebellion; Ps. 51, Forgiveness; 2 Cor. 7, Guilt; Philem., Obedience).

3:24 Justification is a legal term referring to a right standing before God (see chart, Theological Terms). That standing can in His forbearance God had passed over the sins that were previously committed, [26]to demonstrate at the present time His righteousness, that He might be just and the justifier of the one who has faith in Jesus.

Boasting Excluded

[27]Where is boasting then? It is excluded. By what law? Of works? No, but by the law of faith. [28]Therefore we conclude that a man is justified by faith apart from the deeds of the law. [29]Or is He the God of the Jews only? Is He not also the God of the Gentiles? Yes, of the Gentiles also, [30]since there is one God who will justify the circumcised by faith and the uncircumcised through faith. [31]Do we then make void the law through faith? Certainly not! On the contrary, we establish the law.

Abraham Justified by Faith

4 What then shall we say that Abraham our father has found according to the flesh?[a] [2]For if Abraham was justified by works, he has something to boast about, but not before God. [3]For what does the Scripture say? "Abraham believed God, and it was accounted to him for righteousness."[a] [4]Now to him who works, the wages are not counted as grace but as debt.

David Celebrates the Same Truth

[5]But to him who does not work but believes on Him who justifies the ungodly, his faith is accounted for righteousness, [6]just as David also describes the blessedness of the man to whom God imputes righteousness apart from works:

[7]"Blessed are those whose lawless deeds are forgiven,
And whose sins are covered;
[8]Blessed is the man to whom the LORD shall not impute sin."[a]

Abraham Justified Before Circumcision

[9]Does this blessedness then come upon the circumcised only, or upon the uncircumcised also? For we say that faith was accounted to Abraham for righteousness. [10]How then was it accounted? While he was circumcised, or uncircumcised? Not while circumcised, but while uncircumcised. [11]And he received the sign of circumcision, a seal of the righteousness of the faith which he had while still uncircumcised, that he might be the father of all those who believe, though they are uncircumcised, that righteousness might be imputed to them also, [12]and the father of circumcision to those who not only are of the circumcision, but who also walk in the steps of the faith which our father Abraham had while still uncircumcised.

The Promise Granted Through Faith

[13]For the promise that he would be the heir of the world was not to Abraham or to his seed through the law, but through the righteousness of faith. [14]For if those who are of the law are heirs, faith is made void and the promise made of no effect, [15]because the law brings about wrath; for where there is no law there is no transgression.

[16]Therefore it is of faith that it might be according to grace, so that the promise might be sure to all the seed, not only to those who are of the law, but also to those who are of the faith of never be earned. "Redemption" refers to the act by which a slave is given freedom. Through faith in Christ, sinners are delivered from slavery to sin.

3:25 Propitiation (Gk. hilastērion) has the idea of appeasing or satisfying. Thus propitiation refers to the work of Christ on the Cross, by which He both satisfied the demands of God's justice and canceled the sinner's guilt. In other texts, the same Greek word is translated "mercy seat."Christ's death on the Cross is interpreted in terms of the Day of Atonement, on which the blood of the sacrificial animals was sprinkled on the mercy seat in the Most Holy Place to atone for the sins of the people (see Lev. 16:14–16). In either case, through the death of Christ on the Cross, God took the initiative to bring mankind into right relationship with Himself.

4:1–4 Paul used the example of Abraham to emphasize the significance of faith. Abraham responded in faith to God's call (Gen. 12:1–3). "Accounted" (Gk. logizomai) is a bookkeeping term. Abraham's faith resulted in "balanced books" with God (Rom. 4:3). Paul had encountered Jews who claimed they did not need to have faith in Christ for salvation because they were descendants of Abraham. Paul countered that argument by showing that Abraham himself was made right with God by faith.

4:5–8 Paul next turned to David, Israel's celebrated king, as another example of an individual who received God's free pardon (vv. 7, 8; see 2 Sam. 11:1—12:23; Ps. 32:1, 2). No sacrifice for such grave offenses as David had committed was prescribed in the Law. David could only cast himself on the mercy of God (see Heb. 11:6).

4:9–12 Circumcision was a physical sign or seal of the covenant between God and His chosen nation (see Gen. 17, Circumcision). But God did not give Abraham this sign of the covenant until Abraham was 99 years old (see Gen. 17:1–14). Many years prior to that time Abraham had responded to God in faith and received right standing before God. He was justified before he was circumcised (see Gen. 15:6).

4:13–15 Right standing with God comes only through faith. Abraham received God's promise by faith long before the Law of Moses was given. Salvation does not come by keeping the Law. Legalism shifts the focus from the power of God to the ability of individuals to keep the Law. With the Law came increased awareness of sin and of God's wrath. With faith came the realization of God's promise (2 Cor. 4:6).

4:16–25 The true heirs of Abraham are those who receive the promises of God by faith as Abraham did. All who place faith

Christ in Our Place

[6]For when we were still without strength, in due time Christ died for the ungodly. [7]For scarcely for a righteous man will one die; yet perhaps for a good man someone would even dare to die. [8]But God demonstrates His own love toward us, in that while we were still sinners, Christ died for us. [9]Much more then, having now been justified by His blood, we shall be saved from wrath through Him. [10]For if when we were enemies we were reconciled to God through the death of His Son, much more, having been reconciled, we shall be saved by His life. [11]And not only that, but we also rejoice in God through our Lord Jesus Christ, through whom we have now received the reconciliation.

Death in Adam, Life in Christ

[12]Therefore, just as through one man sin entered the world, and death through sin, and thus death spread to all men, because all sinned— [13](For until the law sin was in the world, but sin is not imputed when there is no law. [14]Nevertheless death reigned from Adam to Moses, even over those who had not sinned according to the likeness of the transgression of Adam, who is a type of Him who was to come. [15]But the free gift is not like the offense. For if by the one man's offense many died, much more the grace of God and the gift by the grace of the one Man, Jesus Christ, abounded to many. [16]And the gift is not like that which came through the one who sinned. For the judgment which came from one offense resulted in condemnation, but the free gift which came from many offenses resulted in justification. [17]For if by the one man's offense death reigned through the one, much more those who receive abundance of grace and of the gift of righteousness will reign in life through the One, Jesus Christ.)

[18]Therefore, as through one man's offense judgment came to all men, resulting in condemnation, even so through one Man's righteous act the free gift came to all men, resulting in justification of life. [19]For as by one man's disobedience many were made sinners, so also by one Man's obedience many will be made righteous.

[20]Moreover the law entered that the offense might abound. But where sin abounded, grace abounded much more, [21]so that as sin reigned in death, even so grace might reign through righteousness to eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord.

Dead to Sin, Alive to God

6 What shall we say then? Shall we continue in sin that grace may abound? [2]Certainly not! How shall we who died to sin live any longer in it? [3]Or do you not know that as many of us as were baptized into Christ Jesus were baptized into His death? [4]Therefore we were buried with Him through baptism into death, that just as Christ was raised from the dead by the glory of the Father, even so we also should walk in newness of life.

[5]For if we have been united together in the likeness of His death, certainly we also shall be in the likeness of His resurrection, [6]knowing this, that our old man was crucified with Him, that the body of sin might be done away with, that we should no

5:6–11 Jesus' unique love (Gk. agapē) focuses on the nature of the one loving rather than on the merit of the one being loved. God's nature is self-giving love, which always acts in the best interest of His creation, even of His enemies (v. 8). "Reconciliation" describes the new relationship with Christ (vv. 10, 11).

5:12–14 Death comes to all because all have sinned (see Rom. 3:23). Condemned in Adam we can be redeemed in Christ. We remain profoundly affected by Adam's sin, having inherited a sinful nature from him.

6:1, 2 The proper response to God's grace is gratitude. Those with a distorted perspective argued that since grace would be more abundant where sin was greater, they should go on sinning in order to experience more of God's grace (Rom. 5:20). Such an attitude trifled with God's grace and reflected a total lack of understanding of the New Birth. When an individual accepts Christ in faith, the sinful desires of the old nature are put to death and the believer receives a new nature through Christ's resurrected life (Rom. 6:2; see also 2 Cor. 5:17). God does not need more sins to reveal His grace; He desires more lives to reflect His righteousness and goodness.

6:3, 4 Paul utilized the imagery of baptism to support his argument. Death to sin and resurrection to life eternal are the focus here. The woman who has accepted Christ by faith has committed herself to a new kind of life. Baptism is a sign of this wonderful reality.

6:5–14 The old man and the body of sin refer to the old self or sinful human nature (v. 6). The "body of sin" also could designate all of unredeemed humanity in bondage to sin and death in opposition to the "body of Christ" or the church. The believer has died to sin (vv. 5–8). The ethical demands of the Christian life are based on the new relationship Christians have with Christ (vv. 11–13). Failure in Christian living results from failure to appropriate Christ's power in daily living (v. 14).

FREEDOM NO MORE BONDAGE

In both Old and New Testaments, freedom refers to liberation from slavery, whether in a socio-political sense (see Joseph's imprisonment, Gen. 39:20–23), a spiritual sense (Gal. 4:21—5:15), or with regard to our mortality (Heb. 2:15).

Given this context, our freedom—whether political or spiritual—depends on God's initiative (Mic. 6:4; Rom. 8:2). When Adam and Eve sinned, God came to them (Gen. 3:8) with the promise of freedom from sin's curse (Gen. 3:15).

This promise was fulfilled when God sent His Son to be the Way to eternal freedom (Luke 4:18, 19). We do not have to be slaves of sin (John 8:34), for the Truth (that is, Christ) can make us free if we will accept the price of deliverance (John 8:31, 32). Paradoxically we are freed from sin's bondage for a purpose: to become "slaves of God" (Rom. 6:22). We are free from the judgment of ourselves and others (Rom. 5:9) and, at the same time, free for service to Him and others (Gal. 5:13, 14). Ultimate freedom, that is, being ransomed from the slavery of sin, is vital to any understanding of redemption through the blood of Christ (Rom. 6:15–23).

See also Is. 61:1; 2 Cor. 3:17; notes on Access to God (Rom. 10); Government and Citizenship (Rom. 13); Priesthood of the Believer (1 Pet. 2)

longer be slaves of sin. 7For he who has died has been freed from sin. 8Now if we died with Christ, we believe that we shall also live with Him, 9knowing that Christ, having been raised from the dead, dies no more. Death no longer has dominion over Him. 10For the death that He died, He died to sin once for all; but the life that He lives, He lives to God. 11Likewise you also, reckon yourselves to be dead indeed to sin, but alive to God in Christ Jesus our Lord.

12Therefore do not let sin reign in your mortal body, that you should obey it in its lusts. 13And do not present your members as instruments of unrighteousness to sin, but present yourselves to God as being alive from the dead, and your members as instruments of righteousness to God. 14For sin shall not have dominion over you, for you are not under law but under grace.

From Slaves of Sin to Slaves of God

15What then? Shall we sin because we are not under law but under grace? Certainly not! 16Do you not know that to whom you present yourselves slaves to obey, you are that one's slaves whom you obey, whether of sin leading to death, or of obedience leading to righteousness? 17But God be thanked that though you were slaves of sin, yet you obeyed from the heart that form of doctrine to which you were delivered. 18And having been set free from sin, you became slaves of righteousness. 19I speak in human terms because of the weakness of your flesh. For just as you presented your members as slaves of uncleanness, and of lawlessness leading to more lawlessness, so now present your members as slaves of righteousness for holiness.

20For when you were slaves of sin, you were free in regard to righteousness. 21What fruit did you have then in the things of which you are now ashamed? For the end of those things is death. 22But now having been set free from sin, and having become slaves of God, you have your fruit to holiness, and the end, everlasting life. 23For the wages of sin is death, but the gift of God is eternal life in Christ Jesus our Lord.

Freed from the Law

7Or do you not know, brethren (for I speak to those who know the law), that the law has dominion over a man as long as he lives? 2For the woman who has a husband is bound by the law to her husband as long as he lives. But if the husband dies, she is released from the law of her husband. 3So then if, while her husband lives, she marries another man, she will be called an adulteress; but if her husband dies, she is free from that law, so that she is no adulteress, though she has married another man. 4Therefore, my brethren, you also

6:15–22 Some viewed salvation as a deliverance only from the consequences of sin and its penalty rather than deliverance from its power as well. Paul utilized an analogy from the slave market to deal with this casual attitude toward sin. One is either a slave of sin or a slave of righteousness (vv. 16–18). The Greek word translated "slaves" is the same word Paul used to describe himself as a "bond-servant" of Christ (v. 16; Rom. 1:1). Obedience to God is the measure of devotion to Him.

7:1–6 Paul denounced a religion that consists of trying to earn merit with God by keeping the Law. He employed the analogy of marriage. A married woman is bound to her husband as long as he lives. When her husband dies, however, she is free to remarry (see 1 Cor. 7:39). Christians, having died to the Law, are free to be joined to Christ (see Gal. 2:19, 20). The Christian woman has been delivered from slavery to the Law as her old master and experiences a life of freedom in Christ, her new Lord. The motive for her new life of fruitfulness comes not from the Law's demands but from a desire to respond to God's love (Rom. 7:4). The Holy Spirit provides the power to live in newness of life with Christ (v. 6).

FLESH VS. SPIRIT

SINFUL NATURE	SPIRITUAL NATURE
Focuses on things of the flesh (Rom. 8:5)	Focuses on things of the Spirit (Rom. 8:5)
Is death (Rom. 8:6)	Is life and peace (Rom. 8:6)
Is enmity against God (Rom. 8:7)	Meets the requirement of the Law (Rom. 8:4)
Means you do not have the Spirit of Christ and are not His (Rom. 8:9)	Means that Christ lives in you and you are in the Spirit (Rom. 8:9)
Is not subject to the Law of God (Rom. 8:7)	Is life (Rom. 8:10)
Cannot please God (Rom. 8:8)	Will give life to your mortal bodies (Rom. 8:11)

A heart set on worldly, carnal things lacks the power to resist sin. Such a mind-set leads to death and eternal separation from God (see Ps. 1:1–6; Gal. 5:19–24).

have become dead to the law through the body of Christ, that you may be married to another—to Him who was raised from the dead, that we should bear fruit to God. 5For when we were in the flesh, the sinful passions which were aroused by the law were at work in our members to bear fruit to death. 6But now we have been delivered from the law, having died to what we were held by, so that we should serve in the newness of the Spirit and not in the oldness of the letter.

Sin's Advantage in the Law

7What shall we say then? Is the law sin? Certainly not! On the contrary, I would not have known sin except through the law. For I would not have known covetousness unless the law had said, "You shall not covet."[a] 8But sin, taking opportunity by the commandment, produced in me all manner of evil desire. For apart from the law sin was dead. 9I was alive once without the law, but when the commandment came, sin revived and I died. 10And the commandment, which was to bring life, I found to bring death. 11For sin, taking occasion by the commandment, deceived me, and by it killed me. 12Therefore the law is holy, and the commandment holy and just and good.

Law Cannot Save from Sin

13Has then what is good become death to me? Certainly not! But sin, that it might appear sin, was producing death in me through what is good, so that sin through the commandment might become exceedingly sinful. 14For we know that the law is spiritual, but I am carnal, sold under sin. 15For what I am doing, I do not understand. For what I will to do, that I do not practice; but what I hate, that I do. 16If, then, I do what I will not to do, I agree with the law that it is good. 17But now, it is no longer I who do it, but sin that dwells in me. 18For I know that in me (that is, in my flesh) nothing good dwells; for to will is present with me, but how to perform what is good I do not find. 19For the good that I will to do, I do not do; but the evil I will not to do, that I practice. 20Now if I do what I will not to do, it is no longer I who do it, but sin that dwells in me.

21I find then a law, that evil is present with me, the one who wills to do good. 22For I delight in the law of God according to the inward man. 23But I see another law in my members, warring against

7:7 [a]Exodus 20:17; Deuteronomy 5:21

7:14–25 Several interpretations have been suggested for these verses:

- A reflection of life before conversion;
- The experience of the saved or unsaved who seek merely to obey the Law;
- A picture of the carnal Christian's internal struggle between the spiritual nature's desire to obey God and the fleshly nature's desire to go one's own way;
- The process of growing sanctification after conversion.

The latter seems more probable. Though the believing woman would be delivered from the guilt and penalty of sin, she would not be free from the presence of sin until Christ returned. The struggle against sin continues throughout life on earth. The difference for the Christian woman, who has the mind of Christ, is that there is the hope of being rescued from her sins and the power to achieve victory over the sinful nature. Even though the struggle with sin remains while on earth, the Christian is no longer condemned before God but stands righteous before Him.

FATHERHOOD OF GOD — MY HEAVENLY FATHER

In recent years, much discussion has been given to the practice of referring to God as "Father." While clearly God transcends sexuality, being neither male nor female, the writers of the Bible were inspired to address Him with male pronouns. The Spirit of God enables believers to call God "Abba, Father" (lit. "Daddy," Rom. 8:15).

God revealed Himself throughout the Old Testament as "Father" (Jer. 3:19), and this was the term Jesus used in addressing Him (John 17). The Fatherhood of God is not merely one of many suitable "God metaphors." It is in a class of its own, what scholars would label as an analogy sui generis. The title "Father" not only tells us what God does—or what some aspect of His character is like; rather, it identifies more of who He actually is. The same cannot be said of biblical God metaphors such as "tree," "door," "rock," "mother hen," or "mistress of the house."

True Fatherhood is grounded in the basis of God's being—in the basis of God the Father relating to the Son and the Spirit. Human fatherhood is but an imperfect symbol of this transcendent reality. The Fatherhood of God is not inconsequential or alterable, for it is the primary basis by which God has determined that believers will relate to Him: "I will be a Father to you, And you shall be My sons and daughters, Says the Lord Almighty" (2 Cor. 6:18).

the law of my mind, and bringing me into captivity to the law of sin which is in my members. 24O wretched man that I am! Who will deliver me from this body of death? 25I thank God—through Jesus Christ our Lord!

So then, with the mind I myself serve the law of God, but with the flesh the law of sin.

Free from Indwelling Sin

8 There is therefore now no condemnation to those who are in Christ Jesus,[a] who do not walk according to the flesh, but according to the Spirit. 2For the law of the Spirit of life in Christ Jesus has made me free from the law of sin and death. 3For what the law could not do in that it was weak through the flesh, God did by sending His own Son in the likeness of sinful flesh, on account of sin: He condemned sin in the flesh, 4that the righteous requirement of the law might be fulfilled in us who do not walk according to the flesh but according to the Spirit. 5For those who live according to the flesh set their minds on the things of the flesh, but those who live according to the Spirit, the things of the Spirit. 6For to be carnally minded is death, but to be spiritually minded is life and peace. 7Because the carnal mind is enmity against God; for it is not subject to the law of God, nor indeed can be. 8So then, those who are in the flesh cannot please God.

9But you are not in the flesh but in the Spirit, if indeed the Spirit of God dwells in you. Now if anyone does not have the Spirit of Christ, he is not His. 10And if Christ is in you, the body is dead because of sin, but the Spirit is life because of righteousness. 11But if the Spirit of Him who raised Jesus from the dead dwells in you, He who raised Christ from the dead will also give life to your mortal bodies through His Spirit who dwells in you.

Sonship Through the Spirit

12Therefore, brethren, we are debtors—not to the flesh, to live according to the flesh. 13For if you live according to the flesh you will die; but if by the Spirit you put to death the deeds of the body, you will live. 14For as many as are led by the Spirit of God, these are sons of God. 15For you did

8:1 [a]NU-Text omits the rest of this verse.

8:1 Paul contrasted walking in the flesh with walking in the Spirit. "Walk" refers to lifestyle, and walking in the flesh is living according to the sinful, selfish dictates of one's desires (see Gal. 5:19–21). Walking in the Spirit describes a life yielded to the control of God's Spirit (see Gal. 5:22, 23).

8:9–11 The Spirit of God permanently indwells every believer at the moment that individual believes in Jesus Christ. The presence or absence of the Holy Spirit within determines whether or not one has experienced salvation (Gal. 2:20).

8:12–17 As children of God, Christians are debtors (v. 12). They are obligated not to live according to the sinful, selfish desires of the flesh. "The deeds of the body" is another designation for fleshly or carnal desires (v. 13). Those who are led by God's Spirit are indeed God's children (v. 14). Obedience is the test of personal relationship with the Lord.

Believers are God's children and his heirs by adoption (vv. 15, 17; see Esth. 2, Adoption). The adopted individual was regarded as a new person beginning a new life. Legally, the adopted one gained all the rights of one born into the family as the legitimate heir to the father's estate. God's children enjoy security in their relationship with Him. They also enjoy intimacy. "Abba" (Aram., lit. "Daddy") was the familiar expression of intimacy used by Jewish children to address their fathers (Rom. 8:15).

not receive the spirit of bondage again to fear, but you received the Spirit of adoption by whom we cry out, "Abba, Father." 16The Spirit Himself bears witness with our spirit that we are children of God, 17and if children, then heirs—heirs of God and joint heirs with Christ, if indeed we suffer with Him, that we may also be glorified together.

From Suffering to Glory

18For I consider that the sufferings of this present time are not worthy to be compared with the glory which shall be revealed in us. 19For the earnest expectation of the creation eagerly waits for the revealing of the sons of God. 20For the creation was subjected to futility, not willingly, but because of Him who subjected it in hope; 21because the creation itself also will be delivered from the bondage of corruption into the glorious liberty of the children of God. 22For we know that the whole creation groans and labors with birth pangs together until now. 23Not only that, but we also who have the firstfruits of the Spirit, even we ourselves groan within ourselves, eagerly waiting for the adoption, the redemption of our body. 24For we were saved in this hope, but hope that is seen is not hope; for why does one still hope for what he sees? 25But if we hope for what we do not see, we eagerly wait for it with perseverance.

26Likewise the Spirit also helps in our weaknesses. For we do not know what we should pray for as we ought, but the Spirit Himself makes intercession for us[a] with groanings which cannot be uttered. 27Now He who searches the hearts knows what the mind of the Spirit is, because He makes intercession for the saints according to the will of God.

28And we know that all things work together for good to those who love God, to those who are the called according to His purpose. 29For whom He foreknew, He also predestined to be conformed to the image of His Son, that He might be the firstborn among many brethren. 30Moreover whom He predestined, these He also called; whom He called, these He also justified; and whom He justified, these He also glorified.

God's Everlasting Love

31What then shall we say to these things? If God is for us, who can be against us? 32He who did not spare His own Son, but delivered Him up for us all, how shall He not with Him also freely give us all things? 33Who shall bring a charge against God's elect? It is God who justifies. 34Who is he who condemns? It is Christ who died, and furthermore is also risen, who is even at the right hand of God, who also makes intercession for us. 35Who shall separate us from the love of Christ? Shall tribulation, or distress, or persecution, or famine, or nakedness, or peril, or sword? 36As it is written:

"For Your sake we are killed all day long;
We are accounted as sheep for the slaughter."[a]

37Yet in all these things we are more than conquerors through Him who loved us. 38For I am persuaded that neither death nor life, nor angels nor principalities nor powers, nor things present nor things to come, 39nor height nor depth, nor any other created thing, shall be able to separate us from the love of God which is in Christ Jesus our Lord.

Israel's Rejection of Christ

9 I tell the truth in Christ, I am not lying, my conscience also bearing me witness in the Holy Spirit, 2that I have great sorrow and continual grief in my heart. 3For I could wish that I myself were accursed from Christ for my brethren, my countrymen[a] according to the flesh, 4who are Israelites, to whom pertain the adoption, the glory, the covenants, the giving of the law, the service of God, and the promises; 5of whom are the fathers

8:26 [a]NU-Text omits for us. 8:36 [a]Psalm 44:22 9:3 [a]Or relatives

8:18–25 Paul contrasted the sufferings of the present with the glorious hope for the future. Paul had suffered greatly for the sake of the gospel (see 2 Cor. 1:8–11; 4:7–12, 16–18; 11:23–30). Yet he affirmed that those sufferings were nothing compared to the future glory he anticipated (see 2 Cor. 4:17). God's children will participate in the glory of Christ; they will experience complete conformity to Christ (see Col. 1:27). The Feast of Weeks or Pentecost involved the dedication of the firstfruits of the wheat harvest to the Lord (Lev. 23:15–21). Believers have received the firstfruits of the Holy Spirit as God's down payment or guarantee of ultimate victory (Rom. 8:24, 25).

8:26, 27 The Spirit helps believers know how to pray (v. 26). Paul prayed for the removal of a hindrance in his life, but God did not take away that burden (2 Cor. 12:7–10). The Spirit articulates those prayer burdens that God's people cannot even express. The Spirit's intercession can be trusted because He intercedes according to God's will (Rom. 8:27).

8:28 God works for good in all things. This verse does not affirm that all things are good or that all things work together for good for all people. Rather the great promise is that God will overrule and work even through the tragedies caused by sin's presence in the world to accomplish His purposes in the lives of those who love Him and who have responded to His call.

8:29, 30 God alone has complete knowledge, for certainly nothing can be hidden from Him (Prov. 15:11; Is. 29:15, 16; Matt. 10:29–31; Heb. 4:13). Foreknowledge must be understood as a part of God's relationship to His creation (Jer. 1:5). Reconciling God's foreknowledge with the moral responsibility of mankind is a wonderful mystery in the tension of theology. In any case, God's salvation is born out of His eternal purposes and is not dependent upon human initiative or the world's changing circumstances (Rom. 8:21, 22; 1 Pet. 1:20).

9:1–5 Paul expressed his grief over the fact that most of the Jews were alienated from God (vv. 1–5). Paul wished himself

ACCESS TO GOD — A PERSONAL ENCOUNTER

Under the old covenant, human access to God was limited. Only the high priest once a year could enter the Most Holy Place to meet directly with the Lord.

New Covenant believers, however, regarded the tearing of the veil, the thick curtain that separated the holy place from the Most Holy Place, at the time of the Crucifixion as a sign that all could freely come to God through Christ Jesus (Matt. 27:51–54; Eph. 2:13).

PRIOR to the death of Jesus on the Cross . . .

- Only priests (of the Levite tribe) could offer gifts and sacrifices;
- Only Hebrews could be called the sons and daughters of the Lord;
- Only those who kept the Day of Atonement were considered in right relationship with God;
- Only those who fully knew and followed the Law could be called righteous.

AFTER the death of Jesus on the Cross . . .

- Whoever calls on the name of the Lord shall be saved (Rom. 10:12–13);
- A person can be called a child of God regardless of race, sex, or social status (Gal. 3:26–29; 4:1–7; Col. 3:9–11);
- Whoever believes in Christ shall be counted as righteous (1 John 2:29) and shall inherit everlasting life (John 3:16);
- All who believe can make the ultimate sacrifice to God, which is to do His will with all of your heart, mind, and soul (Rom. 12:1; Heb. 10:7).

and from whom, according to the flesh, Christ came, who is over all, the eternally blessed God. Amen.

Israel's Rejection and God's Purpose

6 But it is not that the word of God has taken no effect. For they are not all Israel who are of Israel, 7 nor are they all children because they are the seed of Abraham; but, "In Isaac your seed shall be called."[a] 8 That is, those who are the children of the flesh, these are not the children of God; but the children of the promise are counted as the seed.
9 For this is the word of promise: "At this time I will come and Sarah shall have a son."[a]

10 And not only this, but when Rebecca also had conceived by one man, even by our father Isaac 11 (for the children not yet being born, nor having done any good or evil, that the purpose of God according to election might stand, not of works but of Him who calls), 12 it was said to her, "The older shall serve the younger."[a] 13 As it is written, "Jacob I have loved, but Esau I have hated."[a]

Israel's Rejection and God's Justice

14 What shall we say then? Is there unrighteousness with God? Certainly not! 15 For He says to Moses, "I will have mercy on whomever I will have mercy, and I will have compassion on whomever I will have compassion."[a] 16 So then it is not of him who wills, nor of him who runs, but of God who shows mercy. 17 For the Scripture says to the Pharaoh,
"For this very purpose I have raised you up, that I may show My power in you, and that My name may be declared in all the earth."[a] 18 Therefore He has mercy on whom He wills, and whom He wills He hardens.

19 You will say to me then, "Why does He still find fault? For who has resisted His will?" 20 But

"accursed" (Gk. anathema) and devoted to destruction in place of his countrymen (Rom. 9:3). Although Paul's mission was primarily to the Gentiles, he never ceased to show deep concern for his brothers "according to the flesh," that is, his fellow Jews (v. 3). Paul mentioned some advantages enjoyed by the Jews in their relationship with God that made their rejection of Christ even more tragic (vv. 4, 5): The glory of God's presence, the covenants, the Law, and the promises. Even Jesus the Messiah was born a Jew.

9:14–18 Israel's rejection must be understood in light of Israel's responsibility (see Rom. 9—11). God rejected Israel because Israel rejected God. Likewise God raised up Pharaoh and hardened his heart (Rom. 9:17, 18) even as Pharaoh first decided to reject God (Ex. 4:21; 5:2; see Ex. 14, Justice; chart, The Ten Plagues on Egypt). God raised up Pharaoh to demonstrate His power; yet Pharaoh rejected God in his own heart (Ex. 8:15). God let Pharaoh have his own way, hardening Pharaoh's heart in his disbelief (Ex. 7:3, 4, note).

9:19–26 God is not required to answer to mankind. Just as the clay lacks power and authority to question the work of the potter, so no one has authority to question the ways of God. In all things, God, as the potter, prepared vessels both indeed, O man, who are you to reply against God? Will the thing formed say to him who formed it, "Why have you made me like this?" [21]Does not the potter have power over the clay, from the same lump to make one vessel for honor and another for dishonor?

[22]What if God, wanting to show His wrath and to make His power known, endured with much longsuffering the vessels of wrath prepared for destruction, [23]and that He might make known the riches of His glory on the vessels of mercy, which He had prepared beforehand for glory, [24]even us whom He called, not of the Jews only, but also of the Gentiles?

[25]As He says also in Hosea:

"I will call them My people, who were not My people,
And her beloved, who was not beloved."[a] [26]"And it shall come to pass in the place where it was said to them,
'You are not My people,'
There they shall be called sons of the living God."[a]

[27]Isaiah also cries out concerning Israel:[a]

"Though the number of the children of Israel be as the sand of the sea,
The remnant will be saved.
[28]For He will finish the work and cut it short in righteousness,
Because the LORD will make a short work upon the earth."[a]

[29]And as Isaiah said before:

"Unless the LORD of Sabaoth[a] had left us a seed,
We would have become like Sodom,
And we would have been made like Gomorrah."[b]

Present Condition of Israel

[30]What shall we say then? That Gentiles, who did not pursue righteousness, have attained to righteousness, even the righteousness of faith; [31]but Israel, pursuing the law of righteousness, has not attained to the law of righteousness.[a] [32]Why? Because they did not seek it by faith, but as it were, by the works of the law.[a] For they stumbled at that stumbling stone. [33]As it is written:

"Behold, I lay in Zion a stumbling stone and rock of offense,
And whoever believes on Him will not be put to shame."[a]

Israel Needs the Gospel

10 Brethren, my heart's desire and prayer to God for Israel[a] is that they may be saved. [2]For I bear them witness that they have a zeal for God, but not according to knowledge. [3]For they being ignorant of God's righteousness, and seeking to establish their own righteousness, have not submitted to the righteousness of God. [4]For Christ is the end of the law for righteousness to everyone who believes.

[5]For Moses writes about the righteousness which is of the law, "The man who does those things shall live by them."[a] [6]But the righteousness of faith speaks in this way, "Do not say in your heart, 'Who will ascend into heaven?' "[a] (that is, to bring Christ down from above) [7]or, " 'Who will descend into the abyss?' "[a] (that is, to bring Christ up from the dead). [8]But what does it say? "The word is near you, in your mouth and in your heart"[a] (that is, the word of faith which we preach): [9]that if you confess with your mouth the Lord Jesus and believe in your heart that God has raised Him from the dead, you will be saved. [10]For with the heart one for destruction in order to reveal His wrath and power and for mercy to reveal His glory and love. God acts consistently with His character as He has revealed Himself in Christ. Gentiles as well as Jews were included in God's redemptive plan (vv. 25, 26; see Hos. 1:10; 2:23). "My people" is covenant language indicating the restoration of the covenant relationship (Rom. 9:25, 26; see Jer. 32:38). The designation "vessels of wrath" refers to the unbelieving to whom God has unceasingly extended pleading hands (Rom. 9:22; see 10:21).

9:27–29 Paul emphasized that only a remnant of Israel or the Jews would experience salvation (Is. 1:9; 10:22, 23). The title "Lord of Sabaoth" or Lord of Hosts is a reminder of God's sovereignty (Rom. 9:29).

9:30–33 Paul contrasted Jews and Gentiles. The apostle's greater concern was the failure of Israel. For the Jews, Christ was a "stumbling stone" because they persisted in trying to attain righteousness by keeping the Law (vv. 32, 33). The Gentiles, in contrast, accepted by faith the righteousness of God. This does not imply that all Gentiles will be saved. Only those who avoid the mistake of Israel—that is, dependence upon the Law for salvation—will experience redemption (v. 24). Nowhere is it any clearer that works are futile as a means of justification. Those who place their faith in God need never fear that He might prove unreliable (v. 33; see Is. 8:14; 28:16).

10:1–13 All people, both Jew and Gentile, experience right standing with God in the same way (v. 12). The Jews failed in their search to obtain a right relationship with God by keeping the Law (vv. 1–3). Paul declared that Christ is the end or goal of the Law (v. 4). The Law was fulfilled in Christ. Both Jews and Gentiles receive right standing with God by faith in Christ (vv. 8–13; compare v. 13 with Joel 2:32). God in Christ has done everything necessary for salvation (Rom. 10:6, 7). No human effort or accomplishment can save and make a person right with God (Eph 2:8, 9).

believes unto righteousness, and with the mouth confession is made unto salvation. 11For the Scripture says, "Whoever believes on Him will not be put to shame."[a] 12For there is no distinction between Jew and Greek, for the same Lord over all is rich to all who call upon Him. 13For "whoever calls on the name of the LORD shall be saved."[a]

Israel Rejects the Gospel

14How then shall they call on Him in whom they have not believed? And how shall they believe in Him of whom they have not heard? And how shall they hear without a preacher? 15And how shall they preach unless they are sent? As it is written:

"How beautiful are the feet of those who preach the gospel of peace,[a]
Who bring glad tidings of good things!"[b]

16But they have not all obeyed the gospel. For Isaiah says, "LORD, who has believed our report?"[a] 17So then faith comes by hearing, and hearing by the word of God.

18But I say, have they not heard? Yes indeed:

"Their sound has gone out to all the earth,
And their words to the ends of the world."[a] 19But I say, did Israel not know? First Moses says:

"I will provoke you to jealousy by those who are not a nation,
I will move you to anger by a foolish nation."[a] 20But Isaiah is very bold and says:

"I was found by those who did not seek Me;
I was made manifest to those who did not ask for Me."[a] 21But to Israel he says:

"All day long I have stretched out My hands
To a disobedient and contrary people."[a]

Israel's Rejection Not Total

11 I say then, has God cast away His people? Certainly not! For I also am an Israelite, of the seed of Abraham, of the tribe of Benjamin. 2God has not cast away His people whom He foreknew. Or do you not know what the Scripture says of Elijah, how he pleads with God against Israel, saying, 3*"LORD, they have killed Your prophets and torn down Your altars, and I alone am left, and they seek my life"*?[a] 4But what does the divine response say to him? "I have reserved for Myself seven thousand men who have not bowed the knee to Baal."[a] 5Even so then, at this present time there is a remnant according to the election of grace. 6And if by grace, then it is no longer of works-; otherwise grace is no longer grace.[a] But if it is of works, it is no longer grace; otherwise work is no longer work.

7What then? Israel has not obtained what it seeks; but the elect have obtained it, and the rest were blinded. 8Just as it is written:

"God has given them a spirit of stupor,
Eyes that they should not see
And ears that they should not hear,
To this very day."[a]

9And David says:

"Let their table become a snare and a trap,
A stumbling block and a recompense to them.
10*Let their eyes be darkened, so that they do not see,*
And bow down their back always."[a]

Israel's Rejection Not Final

11I say then, have they stumbled that they should fall? Certainly not! But through their fall, to provoke them to jealousy, salvation has come to the Gentiles. 12Now if their fall is riches for the 10:14–21 God's own people, the Jews, rejected His message. Paul clearly stated that Israel was responsible for rejecting the gospel. Paul refuted any potential arguments the Jews might raise, such as claiming that they lacked messengers from God (vv. 14–17), an opportunity to hear (v. 18), or a clear understanding of the message (vv. 19–21). Paul clearly assigned responsibility to the Jews for rejecting the gospel. Israel's failure stemmed not from a lack of hearing or understanding but from disobedience and rebellion (v. 21).

11:1–10 God preserved a faithful remnant. Paul identified himself as belonging to this remnant of Jewish believers (v. 1). The remnant provided evidence that God had not totally abandoned His people. Good works do not merit God's grace; they are evidence of His grace (vv. 5, 6; see Eph. 2:8–10). Paul quoted Isaiah 29:10 to illustrate the blindness of disobedience (Rom. 11:8). Some understand that this verse does not describe God's intended result for His people but the inevitable result when people close their hearts and minds to God. Others believe God's grace is extended to the elect who constitute the remnant (vv. 5–9), while those remaining are blinded in their sins (vv. 7, 8).

11:11–24 The Jews' rejection of the gospel amazingly resulted in its being extended more quickly to the Gentiles. The 1st-century missionaries proclaimed the gospel to the Jews first as recorded in the Book of Acts. When the Jews rejected the message, the Christians turned to the Gentile audience (see Acts 13:46). Nevertheless, Paul had not given up on the Jews. Paul employed the imagery of an olive tree to warn the world, and their failure riches for the Gentiles, how much more their fullness!

13For I speak to you Gentiles; inasmuch as I am an apostle to the Gentiles, I magnify my ministry, 14if by any means I may provoke to jealousy those who are my flesh and save some of them. 15For if their being cast away is the reconciling of the world, what will their acceptance be but life from the dead?

16For if the firstfruit is holy, the lump is also holy; and if the root is holy, so are the branches. 17And if some of the branches were broken off, and you, being a wild olive tree, were grafted in among them, and with them became a partaker of the root and fatness of the olive tree, 18do not boast against the branches. But if you do boast, remember that you do not support the root, but the root supports you.

19You will say then, "Branches were broken off that I might be grafted in." 20Well said. Because of unbelief they were broken off, and you stand by faith. Do not be haughty, but fear. 21For if God did not spare the natural branches, He may not spare you either. 22Therefore consider the goodness and severity of God: on those who fell, severity; but toward you, goodness,[a] if you continue in His goodness. Otherwise you also will be cut off. 23And they also, if they do not continue in unbelief, will be grafted in, for God is able to graft them in again. 24For if you were cut out of the olive tree which is wild by nature, and were grafted contrary to nature into a cultivated olive tree, how much more will these, who are natural branches, be grafted into their own olive tree?

25For I do not desire, brethren, that you should be ignorant of this mystery, lest you should be wise in your own opinion, that blindness in part has happened to Israel until the fullness of the Gentiles has come in. 26And so all Israel will be saved,[a] as it is written:

"The Deliverer will come out of Zion,
And He will turn away ungodliness from Jacob;
27*For this is My covenant with them,*
When I take away their sins."[a]

28Concerning the gospel they are enemies for your sake, but concerning the election they are beloved for the sake of the fathers. 29For the gifts and the calling of God are irrevocable. 30For as you were once disobedient to God, yet have now obtained mercy through their disobedience, 31even so these also have now been disobedient, that through the mercy shown you they also may obtain mercy. 32For God has committed them all to disobedience, that He might have mercy on all.

33Oh, the depth of the riches both of the wisdom and knowledge of God! How unsearchable are His judgments and His ways past finding out!

34*"For who has known the mind of the* LORD*?*
Or who has become His counselor?"[a] 35*"Or who has first given to Him*
And it shall be repaid to him?"[a]

36For of Him and through Him and to Him are all things, to whom be glory forever. Amen.

Living Sacrifices to God

Gentiles against boasting about their new status (Rom. 11:17–24). The unbelieving Jews are the natural branches that have been cut from God's olive tree. The Gentile believers are only wild olive branches that have been grafted in. How much more easily can the natural branches again be grafted into the tree when Jews respond in faith (vv. 23, 24)!

11:25–36 Israel will never experience utter rejection or abandonment. Always a remnant of believers will exist. Paul affirmed that "all Israel will be saved," not suggesting every individual Jew, but a great number of Jews would turn to Christ in the end times (v. 26). The phrase "all Israel" includes "the fullness of the Gentiles" (v. 25). A few critical scholars interpret "all Israel" to include the idea that all people ultimately will experience salvation, which is universalism. Still others believe that "all Israel" is a spiritual designation for the church. The eschatological understanding seems the better interpretation. Paul ended this passage on a note of praise celebrating God's wisdom and grace toward mankind (vv. 33–36).

12:1, 2 Paul turned to practical matters concerning the application of salvation (see Rom. 12—15). These verses constitute a call ("beseech," Gk. parakalō , lit. "call alongside") to

SPIRITUAL GIFTS EQUIPPED FOR SERVICE

Spiritual gifts are special abilities given to believers for ministry and service. God is the divine source of all gifts (1 Pet. 4:10), and His gifts are very diverse (1 Cor. 12:4, 5). These spiritual gifts are not given only to the elite, however. Each believer receives at least one spiritual gift (1 Cor. 12:7–11). All spiritual gifts are to be used for Christian service, not for personal edification (Eph. 4:11–16).

The "gifts of the Spirit" are unique manifestations of the Holy Spirit. While natural or inherited talents are also God-given, spiritual gifts are not dependent upon genetic codes and are specifically intended to serve others. Whereas the "fruit of the Holy Spirit" refers to the character of a believer, the "gifts of the Spirit" describe the service of a believer. At the time of salvation, a believer receives the gift of the Holy Spirit's presence; then throughout life she uses specific spiritual gifts given by the Spirit for the benefit of others.

The New Testament identifies a variety of spiritual gifts. Paul's listing of about twenty different spiritual gifts is not to be considered comprehensive but rather presents examples of the diversity of potential gifts available for service.

Two New Testament words describe these gifts: "Spirit gifts" (Gk. pneumatikōn, 1 Cor. 12:1), designed for the edification of the church, and "grace gifts" (Gk. charismatōn, 1 Cor. 12:4), not given according to our personal desires or productivity but sovereignly dispensed by God. The words are obviously synonymous, though emphasizing different aspects.

Some of the gifts are employed in serving, others in teaching, and all for edifying the church. Most important in the eyes of the Lord is not the particular gift but rather an individual's faithfulness to use the gift bestowed unselfishly and for the edification of the church.

One of the greatest challenges a Christian woman faces is that of discovering and using her specific spiritual gifts. Personal Bible study and prayer can help a Christian unwrap unique gifts of the Spirit. Various inventories are also available to assess spiritual gifts. Since God has carefully selected specific spiritual gifts for each of His children, each Christian is responsible for discovering, developing, and using her personal gifts for God's service.

to this world, but be transformed by the renewing of your mind, that you may prove what is that good and acceptable and perfect will of God.

Serve God with Spiritual Gifts

3For I say, through the grace given to me, to everyone who is among you, not to think of himself more highly than he ought to think, but to think soberly, as God has dealt to each one a measure of faith. 4For as we have many members in one body, but all the members do not have the same function, 5so we, being many, are one body in Christ, and individually members of one another. 6Having then gifts differing according to the grace that is given to us, let us use them: if prophecy, let us prophesy in proportion to our faith; 7or ministry, let us use it in our ministering; he who teaches, in teaching; 8he who exhorts, in exhortation; he who gives, with liberality; he who leads, with diligence; he who shows mercy, with cheerfulness.

Behave Like a Christian

9*Let* love be without hypocrisy. Abhor what is evil. Cling to what is good. 10*Be* kindly affectionate to one another with brotherly love, in honor giving preference to one another; 11not lagging in committed living. In light of "the mercies of God," all that God has done for believers as presented in the earlier chapters of Romans, God's people should in gratitude offer a consecrated lifestyle to Him (Rom. 12:1). The verb "present" (Gk. parastesai, "receive challenge") can carry the connotation of "to place at the disposal of" or "to yield." The Christian woman's sacrifice to God is to live her life as holy or set apart to God and to please Him. Her lifestyle is to express complete devotion to the Lord. The believer is not to be molded by the pressures of the sinful world ("conformed," Gk. skematizō, v. 2). The believer is to experience a transformation (Gk. metamorphoō, lit. "to change"), a new way of thinking made possible through the power of the Holy Spirit. The verb is used sparingly elsewhere in the NT—only twice concerning the Transfiguration of Jesus and once concerning the change in believers who are contemplating Jesus (Matt. 17:2; Mark 9:2; 2 Cor. 3:18).

12:9–21 Paul's letters always include a practical section instructing believers how to live daily as a Christian. Paul began by an appeal to love—the primary motivating factor in Christian living. Christlike behavior or character includes showing genuine love (without hypocrisy); avoiding evil and holding to good; respecting others; being diligent in service; demonstrating hope, joy, patience, and steadfastness; meeting the needs of others; showing hospitality; living humbly and peaceably; and repaying evil with good. Parts of this passage are reminiscent of Jesus' teachings in the Sermon on the

GOVERNMENT AND CITIZENSHIP — LAW AND ORDER

Contrary to the thinking of most people, government is not limited to state and federal rule or even to secular jurisdiction. Government—which is management, oversight, policy-making, and administration—exists on many levels and in virtually all areas of life.

First and foremost, God's people are called to obey God as Judge, Lawgiver, and King (Is. 33:22). Second, people are called to govern themselves—to rule their spirits (Prov. 25:28). This stands in sharp contrast to the self-indulgent spirit of the present age.

The family is the primary arena for governance within a God-fearing society. Husbands are to be the spiritual leaders of their wives and children (Eph. 5:23, 6:1), and parents are to govern their children (Eph. 6:1–4). Schools govern children, and employers govern workers (Col. 3:22). Society provides numerous examples of "cultural government," including friendships and associations (Prov. 13:20; 1 Cor. 15:33). Finally, civil government exists to enforce good conduct among its citizenry (Rom. 13:1–7).

God, the King of kings (Rev. 19:16), commissioned government in its multiple forms to promote order and godliness. Our duty as citizens is to obey and pray for all our leaders (1 Tim. 2:1, 2).

diligence, fervent in spirit, serving the Lord; 12rejoicing in hope, patient in tribulation, continuing steadfastly in prayer; 13distributing to the needs of the saints, given to hospitality.

14Bless those who persecute you; bless and do not curse. 15Rejoice with those who rejoice, and weep with those who weep. 16Be of the same mind toward one another. Do not set your mind on high things, but associate with the humble. Do not be wise in your own opinion.

17Repay no one evil for evil. Have regard for good things in the sight of all men. 18If it is possible, as much as depends on you, live peaceably with all men. 19Beloved, do not avenge yourselves, but rather give place to wrath; for it is written, "Vengeance is Mine, I will repay,"[a] says the Lord. 20Therefore

> "If your enemy is hungry, feed him;
> If he is thirsty, give him a drink;
> For in so doing you will heap coals of fire on his head."[a] 21Do not be overcome by evil, but overcome evil with good.

Submit to Government

13 Let every soul be subject to the governing authorities. For there is no authority except from God, and the authorities that exist are appointed by God. 2Therefore whoever resists the authority resists the ordinance of God, and those who resist will bring judgment on themselves. 3For rulers are not a terror to good works, but to evil. Do you want to be unafraid of the authority? Do what is good, and you will have praise from the same. 4For he is God's minister to you for good. But if you do evil, be afraid; for he does not bear the sword in vain; for he is God's minister, an avenger to execute wrath on him who practices evil. 5Therefore you must be subject, not only because of wrath but also for conscience' sake. 6For because of this you also pay taxes, for they are God's ministers attending continually to this very thing. 7Render therefore to all their due: taxes to whom taxes are due, customs to whom customs, fear to whom fear, honor to whom honor.

Love Your Neighbor

8Owe no one anything except to love one another, for he who loves another has fulfilled the law. 9For the commandments, "You shall not commit adultery," "You shall not murder," "You shall not steal," "You shall not bear false witness,"[a] "You shall not covet,"[b] and if there is any other commandment, are all summed up in this saying, namely, "You shall love

Mount (Matt. 5—7). A genuine relationship with Christ will be evident in personal relationships with others.

13:1–7 Paul recognized that government is ordained by God. Thus Christians should obey the law and pay their taxes out of a sense of service to God (vv. 1, 2). Paul viewed the government as God's instrument to prevent chaos in the world. Paul may have emphasized the need for civil obedience on the part of Christians to disassociate them completely from certain rebellious Jews. The Jews, particularly the Zealots, were noted for their insurrections. The government provided to individuals certain protections and services that they could not enjoy otherwise.

13:8–10 Paul summarized a Christian's obligations to others in the commandment to love one's neighbor, identified as anyone in need. A believer who demonstrates love by acting in the best interest of another person has fulfilled the Law

PORNOGRAPHY — A DEGRADING IMAGE

Pornography assaults the senses and sensibilities of the Christian. Scripture admonishes us to live holy and moral lives (Lev. 18; 19; 1 Cor. 6:9) and to respect every God-created individual (Rom. 14:19).

Pornography depicts not only sexually explicit material but drug abuse and violence. Its most devastating aspect is the false presentation of women and children as sexual objects who supposedly enjoy brutality and violence. Pornography encourages images that are antithetical to the biblical concept of sexuality and features a degrading and unrealistic portrayal of sexual intimacy. It condones antisocial, destructive behavior, and its use has a subtle, drugging effect on morality.

Pornography becomes a moral problem in that it subordinates and exploits God's plan for sexuality and encourages sadistic and violent practices. To assume that pornography has no influence on behavior is naive at best and irresponsible at worst. Our entire educational system has proven that what we read or view does shape beliefs and behaviors. Children, because of their impressionability and underdeveloped skills of discernment, need particular protection from pornography in all forms.

Whatever its form, pornography denigrates God's ideal (Eph. 4:17–19). Christians are encouraged to seek—even to "meditate" on—all that is true, noble, just, pure, lovely, and of a good report (Phil. 4:8).

your neighbor as yourself."[c] [10]Love does no harm to a neighbor; therefore love is the fulfillment of the law.

Put on Christ

[11]And do this, knowing the time, that now it is high time to awake out of sleep; for now our salvation is nearer than when we first believed. [12]The night is far spent, the day is at hand. Therefore let us cast off the works of darkness, and let us put on the armor of light. [13]Let us walk properly, as in the day, not in revelry and drunkenness, not in lewdness and lust, not in strife and envy. [14]But put on the Lord Jesus Christ, and make no provision for the flesh, to fulfill its lusts.

The Law of Liberty

14 Receive one who is weak in the faith, but not to disputes over doubtful things. [2]For one believes he may eat all things, but he who is weak eats only vegetables. [3]Let not him who eats despise him who does not eat, and let not him who does not eat judge him who eats; for God has received him. [4]Who are you to judge another's servant? To his own master he stands or falls. Indeed, he will be made to stand, for God is able to make him stand.

[5]One person esteems one day above another; another esteems every day alike. Let each be fully convinced in his own mind. [6]He who observes the day, observes it to the Lord;[a] and he who does not observe the day, to the Lord he does not observe it. He who eats, eats to the Lord, for he gives God thanks; and he who does not eat, to the Lord he does not eat, and gives God thanks. [7]For none of us lives to himself, and no one dies to himself. [8]For if we live, we live to the Lord; and if we die, we die to the Lord. Therefore, whether we live or die, we are

(see Matt. 22:35–40). The debt of love can never be fully paid (Rom. 13:8).

13:11–14 The early Christians anticipated the return of Christ in the near future. "Knowing the time" (Gk. kairos), meaning "right time," is a reference to the time when Christians have an opportunity to take a stand for God (v. 11). Thus Paul exhorted Christians to awaken from sleep. The present age of darkness was passing; the new day of Christ's return was dawning. The Christian woman's hope in the Lord's return should motivate her to consistent, daily, Christlike living. Anticipation of Christ's return should encourage rather than discourage ethical living.

14:1–13 Paul's understanding of freedom in Christ was characterized by a deep respect for others. Although Paul identified those who felt bound by external matters like dietary regulations as weak in the faith, he indicated that their convictions were not to be taken lightly. These persons were not to be ridiculed or treated with contempt. Neither were the weaker believers to condemn the stronger ones. Freedom in Christ means that a believing woman is free to follow her own convictions. It also means that each Christian must allow other believers that same freedom. Therefore no basis exists for judging one another. Christ alone qualifies as Judge (vv. 10–12). Furthermore, one should focus not primarily on herself but rather on others, seeking not to present a stumbling block to their faith. "Stumbling block" refers to any attitude or action that causes another believer to sin or to become confused about God's character and purposes (v. 13). The kind of attitude Paul encouraged would promote unity and harmony in the church. Liberty is to be regulated by love. Elsewhere Paul viewed unity as vital to the life of God's people (see 1 Cor. 12:12–27; Phil., Introduction: Outline on Unity).

the Lord's. 9For to this end Christ died and rose[a] and lived again, that He might be Lord of both the dead and the living. 10But why do you judge your brother? Or why do you show contempt for your brother? For we shall all stand before the judgment seat of Christ.[a] 11For it is written:

"As I live, says the LORD,
Every knee shall bow to Me,
And every tongue shall confess to God."[a]

12So then each of us shall give account of himself to God. 13Therefore let us not judge one another anymore, but rather resolve this, not to put a stumbling block or a cause to fall in our brother's way.

The Law of Love

14I know and am convinced by the Lord Jesus that there is nothing unclean of itself; but to him who considers anything to be unclean, to him it is unclean. 15Yet if your brother is grieved because of your food, you are no longer walking in love. Do not destroy with your food the one for whom Christ died. 16Therefore do not let your good be spoken of as evil; 17for the kingdom of God is not eating and drinking, but righteousness and peace and joy in the Holy Spirit. 18For he who serves Christ in these things[a] is acceptable to God and approved by men.

19Therefore let us pursue the things which make for peace and the things by which one may edify another. 20Do not destroy the work of God for the sake of food. All things indeed are pure, but it is evil for the man who eats with offense. 21*It is* good neither to eat meat nor drink wine nor do anything by which your brother stumbles or is offended or is made weak.[a] 22Do you have faith?[a] Have it to yourself before God. Happy is he who does not condemn himself in what he approves. 23But he who doubts is condemned if he eats, because he does not eat from faith; for whatever is not from faith is sin.[a]

Bearing Others' Burdens

15 We then who are strong ought to bear with the scruples of the weak, and not to please ourselves. 2Let each of us please his neighbor for his good, leading to edification. 3For even Christ did not please Himself; but as it is written, "The reproaches of those who reproached You fell on Me."[a] 4For whatever things were written before were written for our learning, that we through the patience and comfort of the Scriptures might have hope. 5Now may the God of patience and comfort grant you to be like-minded toward one another, according to Christ Jesus, 6that you may with one mind and one mouth glorify the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ.

Glorify God Together

7Therefore receive one another, just as Christ also received us,[a] to the glory of God. 8Now I say that Jesus Christ has become a servant to the circumcision for the truth of God, to confirm the promises made to the fathers, 9and that the Gentiles might glorify God for His mercy, as it is written:

"For this reason I will confess to You among the Gentiles, And sing to Your name."[a] 10And again he says:

"Rejoice, O Gentiles, with His people!"[a]

14:14–23 Paul asserted that in Christ the dietary laws of the OT are no longer in effect (see Mark 7:19; Acts 10). However, a more mature believer should do nothing that might hinder the faith of a weaker believer. In the kingdom of God, love is more important than liberty; relationships are more important than observing regulations. One aspect of the kingdom of God is God's reign in the hearts of believers (Luke 17:21; John 3:3). The kingdom of God is the realm where God's sovereignty is recognized and His will is supreme. The believer is to live in a manner that promotes harmony and edifies or builds up others. Paul asserted that all failure to live by faith is sin, that is, missing God's aim for life (Rom. 14:23).

15:1–6 Paul encouraged a life of self-denial and consideration for others within the fellowship of believers. He specifically referred to the duty of the stronger toward the weaker members of the body of Christ (see Gal. 6:1, 2). He set before the Roman Christians the example of Christ. The Greek word translated "bear" (Rom. 15:1) is the same word used of Christ bearing His Cross (John 19:17). Paul realized that people change more quickly in an atmosphere of love than in an atmosphere of criticism. A genuine consideration for the concerns and needs of others promotes harmony and unity within the church. Such unity (Rom. 15:6) brings glory to God (Rom. 3:23, note; see Ps. 19:1, note). Strength in a woman of God is evident by her willingness to focus on the needs of others and her desire to foster a spirit of genuine harmony among God's people.

15:7–13 The fellowship of believers is to be inclusive rather than exclusive. Paul emphasized the unity of Jew and Gentile within the body of Christ. Christ came to His own people, to the "circumcision" or the Jews, but they did not receive Him (v. 8; John 1:11). Christ also came for the Gentiles. Paul quoted the OT to show the place of the Gentiles in God's plan (Deut. 32:43; 2 Sam. 22:50; Ps. 18:49; 117:1; Is. 11:1, 10). Because Christ has freely welcomed all into His family, His family members should welcome one another with full acceptance.

FRUIT OF THE SPIRIT JOY

A number of Hebrew and Greek words are used in the Bible to convey the concept of joy. In fact, the word "joy" is found more than 150 times in the Bible.

Joy comes from God as a result of faith and obedience (John 15:10, 11; Rom. 15:13). The abundance of joy is in direct proportion to the intimacy and steadfastness of a believer's walk with the Lord. Sin in a believer's life can rob her of joy (Ps. 51:8, 12). True joy is evident regardless of circumstances. The Spirit-filled believer continues to rejoice even amidst troubles (James 1:2, 3). Biblical joy is clearly different from earthly, temporal pleasures that are bound to circumstances.

The purpose of joy is to provide blessing for the believer. Joy enables you to enjoy all that God has given—health, family, friends, opportunities, and salvation. As you experience true joy, your joy can then be shared with others (Rom. 12:15). Abundant joy is a fruit of the Holy Spirit for those who walk in faith.

See also notes on Contentment (1 Tim. 6); Fruit of the Spirit (Ps. 86; Rom. 5; 1 Cor. 10; 13; Gal. 5; Eph. 4; Col. 3; 2 Thess. 1; Rev. 2); Humor (Prov. 17); Praise (Ps. 149)

11 And again:

"Praise the LORD, all you Gentiles!
Laud Him, all you peoples!"[a]

12 And again, Isaiah says:

"There shall be a root of Jesse;
And He who shall rise to reign over the Gentiles,
In Him the Gentiles shall hope."[a] 13 Now may the God of hope fill you with all joy and peace in believing, that you may abound in hope by the power of the Holy Spirit.

From Jerusalem to Illyricum

14 Now I myself am confident concerning you, my brethren, that you also are full of goodness, filled with all knowledge, able also to admonish one another.[a] 15 Nevertheless, brethren, I have written more boldly to you on some points, as reminding you, because of the grace given to me by God, 16 that I might be a minister of Jesus Christ to the Gentiles, ministering the gospel of God, that the offering of the Gentiles might be acceptable, sanctified by the Holy Spirit. 17 Therefore I have reason to glory in Christ Jesus in the things which pertain to God. 18 For I will not dare to speak of any of those things which Christ has not accomplished through me, in word and deed, to make the Gentiles obedient— 19 in mighty signs and wonders, by the power of the Spirit of God, so that from Jerusalem and round about to Illyricum I have fully preached the gospel of Christ. 20 And so I have made it my aim to preach the gospel, not where Christ was named, lest I should build on another man's foundation, 21 but as it is written:

"To whom He was not announced, they shall see;
And those who have not heard shall understand."[a]

Plan to Visit Rome

22 For this reason I also have been much hindered from coming to you. 23 But now no longer

15:11 [a]Psalm 117:1 15:12 [a]Isaiah 11:10 15:14 [a]M-Text reads others. 15:21 [a]Isaiah 52:15

15:14–21 Paul was a pioneer missionary. His goal was to preach the gospel in areas where it had never been heard (vv. 20, 21). He identified himself as a minister of Christ to the Gentiles. Paul had shared the gospel on journeys from Jerusalem to the frontier area of Illyricum, a Roman province bordering the eastern side of the Adriatic Sea (v. 19). Again Paul commended the virtues of his readers (v. 14; see Rom. 1:8, 12). Paul boldly instructed the Romans because God had commissioned him to minister (Rom. 15:15, 16). He expressed faith in the triune God, referring to God, Jesus Christ, and the Holy Spirit (vv. 16–19). He claimed glory not on his own merits but only as a servant or minister of Christ (vv. 17, 18). Any woman who genuinely desires to serve Christ focuses not on what she is able to achieve by her own efforts but rather on Christ who is at work in her life.

15:22–33 Paul had long desired to visit the Romans, but each time he had been delayed (Rom. 1:10–15). He did not want them to think that he had abandoned his mission to the Gentiles. He was preparing to go to Jerusalem because the Gentile churches had collected a significant offering for the Jewish church in Jerusalem (Rom. 15:25, 26). The church in Jerusalem had great financial needs. Paul wanted to deliver the offering in person to make sure Christians understood the significance of the offering for the unity of Jews and Gentiles in the church. Though he wanted to visit Rome and then journey to Spain, Paul was apprehensive about his visit to Jerusalem to deliver the offering (vv. 24, 28). Paul requested the Roman Christians to pray for him (vv. 30–32). This doxology may have formed an intended ending of the letter to the Roman Christians (v. 33; see Rom. 16:3, 4, note). However, Paul was moved further by the Holy Spirit to pen chapter 16.

PHOEBE A Significant Servant

Phoebe was a Gentile Christian from the port city of Cenchrea. Her name, derived from Greek mythology, means "pure" or "radiant as the moon." Paul described Phoebe as a "servant" (Gk. diakonon) and "helper" (Gk. prostatis). She may have been a patron of some sort.

In Greek cities, rulers routinely appointed patrons to look after the interests of foreigners. Therefore, Phoebe may have functioned in an official capacity to protect the rights and meet the needs of Cenchrea's numerous foreign visitors and resident Jews. She was obviously a person of significance who used her wealth and influence in the service of the Christians there.

On this occasion, Phoebe had traveled to Rome, possibly on a business trip. Paul, knowing that she would pass through Corinth, took the opportunity to write to the Roman Christians. This letter commended Phoebe, its bearer, to the church in Rome. Paul knew that the Roman Christians would be able to provide Phoebe with hospitality and fellowship, as well as with advice on the state of Roman politics and law.

Paul spoke highly of Phoebe. He introduced her to the Roman Christians as "sister," "servant," "saint," and "helper." Though the word here translated "servant" is also transliterated as "deacon," note both generic and technical usages of the word. The Greek root means literally "one who ministers or serves." Of course, taken in that sense, the word describes not only Phoebe and other "deaconesses" in the early church but also countless women who have given and do give themselves untiringly to the work of the Kingdom through ministries within the local church. However, the word is also used by some in a technical sense to describe a functional ecclesiastical office such as assigned to Stephen (Acts 6:1–7). This office was created to equip a corps of godly saints to meet physical and social needs so that the apostles would not be pulled away from the primary ministry of the Word (Acts 6:4).

Certainly in the New Testament sense of deacon or deaconess, women can find ample opportunity for service with or without an official title. On the other hand, if deacon or deaconess is considered a position of official spiritual leadership, there are other passages for consideration (see 1 Tim. 2:11–15; 3:8–13). In any case, Paul noted that Phoebe was a highly capable Greek woman of significant social status, and apparently through the gospel, she had also overcome the pagan origins of her name to gain status—in Paul's eyes—as a pure and radiant light for Jesus.

having a place in these parts, and having a great desire these many years to come to you, 24whenever I journey to Spain, I shall come to you.[a] For I hope to see you on my journey, and to be helped on my way there by you, if first I may enjoy your company for a while. 25But now I am going to Jerusalem to minister to the saints. 26For it pleased those from Macedonia and Achaia to make a certain contribution for the poor among the saints who are in Jerusalem. 27It pleased them indeed, and they are their debtors. For if the Gentiles have been partakers of their spiritual things, their duty is also to minister to them in material things. 28Therefore, when I have performed this and have sealed to them this fruit, I shall go by way of you to Spain. 29But I know that when I come to you, I shall come in the fullness of the blessing of the gospel[a] of Christ.

30Now I beg you, brethren, through the Lord Jesus Christ, and through the love of the Spirit, that you strive together with me in prayers to God for me, 31that I may be delivered from those in Judea who do not believe, and that my service for Jerusalem may be acceptable to the saints, 32that I may come to you with joy by the will of God, and may be refreshed together with you. 33Now the God of peace be with you all. Amen.

Sister Phoebe Commended

16 I commend to you Phoebe our sister, who is a servant of the church in Cenchrea, 2that you may receive her in the Lord in a manner worthy of the saints, and assist her in whatever business she has need of you; for indeed she has been a helper of many and of myself also.

16:21–27 Paul sent greetings from those working with him. Timothy, the best known of this group of workers, was a native of Lystra (see Acts 16:1–3). Gaius is identified as Paul's host. Tertius functioned as Paul's secretary or amanuensis. A final benediction or doxology is included (Rom. 16:25–27). The "mystery" now revealed is God's gift of salvation for all through Jesus Christ (vv. 25, 26). The purpose of preaching the gospel is identified as "for obedience to the faith" (v. 26). Paul ended this chapter on a note of praise, the only appropriate response to God who graciously has done so much for all through His Son Jesus Christ.

AUTHOR

The language, style, and theology of 1 Corinthians are all typically Pauline. Paul identified himself as the author, and the authenticity of this claim has never been seriously challenged.

DATE

The church at Corinth was established by Paul about A.D. 50 during an eighteen-month stay on his second missionary journey (Acts 18:1–17; see map, Paul's Second Missionary Journey). Later, while in Ephesus on his third journey (Acts 19), Paul received disturbing reports of sexual immorality among the Corinthian believers. In response, he wrote them a letter, which has not been found (1 Cor. 5:9–11). Some from the household of Chloe, who may have been a member of the church in Corinth, went to Paul, informing him of divisive factions within the church (see 1 Cor. 1, Chloe). Before Paul could reply, another delegation from Corinth arrived with a letter containing questions (1 Cor. 7:1; 16:17). Paul immediately sent Timothy to Corinth to help correct the problems (1 Cor. 4:17). He also wrote them a letter (1 Cor.), anticipating that it would arrive before Timothy did (1 Cor. 16:10). Paul wrote 1 Corinthians near the end of his time in Ephesus (1 Cor. 16:8) about A.D. 56.

SETTING: Corinth, located on a narrow isthmus of land, was the political capital of Greece and the seat of its commercial and intellectual life. As the land route between northern Greece and the Peloponnese and the funnel controlling shipping between the East and the West, Corinth was the emporium of Mediterranean trade.

The city had a reputation not only for luxury but also for sexual vice and sacred prostitution. Ancient Corinth had been the site of a temple of Aphrodite, the goddess of love, where hundreds of temple prostitutes had plied their trade (see chart, Graeco-Roman Goddesses). Corinth was totally destroyed in 146 B.C., but the Greeks quickly reinstituted goddess worship when the city was rebuilt by the Romans a hundred years later. Roman deities, as well as the eastern mystery cults of Asia and Egypt, were introduced to Corinth at that time. At least twenty-six temples and sacred places were built to honor the various gods and goddesses. Furthermore, along with the massive influx of people came a significant Jewish population who built a synagogue to worship God. Corinth attracted tradesmen, businessmen, philosophers, and artists from all corners of the known world. It was a bustling cosmopolitan center with a broad plethora of peoples, cultures, and religions.

PURPOSE: First Corinthians was written to resolve ethical, doctrinal, and practical problems that had arisen in the recently established church in Corinth.

AUDIENCE: Corinth was a Roman colony, and many of its citizens immigrated from Italy. The population was augmented by Greeks, Levantines (including Jews), Egyptians, and Asians. Both culturally and socio-economically the church mirrored this diversity. Among the people Paul named in his letter were Jews, Romans, Greeks, aristocrats, and slaves.

THEMES

The Corinthians were proud of their knowledge. They considered themselves spiritually mature. Throughout this letter, Paul contrasted worldly and spiritual wisdom. His primary theme was that love, and not knowledge, provides the basis for Christian ethics.

   Final exhortations (16:13–18)
   Farewell and greetings (16:19–24)

CHLOE A Founding Mother of the Faith

Paul's letter to the Corinthian church addresses the influences of their pagan culture. The apostle is disturbed that members of Chloe's household have reported among believers disputes which threaten to divide the local body at Corinth. Regardless of whether or not Chloe was from Corinth, she was certainly well known by the Corinthians.

The term "household" could mean immediate members of her family, fellow-worshipers of the church meeting in her house, or servants belonging to her. Whether those in Chloe's household were involved in the disputes or merely relating details about the group is uncertain. They did report the matter to the apostle Paul.

Little is known about Chloe, but Paul called her by name. This passage supports the fact that Paul had many women as friends and that he esteemed them as co-heirs in the gospel. In contrast to their places in secular society, women were considered to be valuable and influential participants in the building up of the Christian church.

Greeting

1 Paul, called to be an apostle of Jesus Christ through the will of God, and Sosthenes our brother,

2 To the church of God which is at Corinth, to those who are sanctified in Christ Jesus, called to be saints, with all who in every place call on the name of Jesus Christ our Lord, both theirs and ours:

3 Grace to you and peace from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ.

Spiritual Gifts at Corinth

4 I thank my God always concerning you for the grace of God which was given to you by Christ Jesus, 5 that you were enriched in everything by Him in all utterance and all knowledge, 6 even as the testimony of Christ was confirmed in you, 7 so that you come short in no gift, eagerly waiting for the revelation of our Lord Jesus Christ, 8 who will also confirm you to the end, that you may be blameless in the day of our Lord Jesus Christ. 9 God is faithful, by whom you were called into the fellowship of His Son, Jesus Christ our Lord.

Sectarianism Is Sin

10 Now I plead with you, brethren, by the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, that you all speak the same thing, and that there be no divisions among you, but that you be perfectly joined together in the same mind and in the same judgment. 11 For it has been declared to me concerning you, my brethren, by those of Chloe's household, that there are contentions among you. 12 Now I say this, that each of you says, "I am of Paul," or "I am of Apollos," or "I am of Cephas," or "I am of Christ." 13 Is Christ divided? Was Paul crucified for you? Or were you baptized in the name of Paul?

14 I thank God that I baptized none of you except Crispus and Gaius, 15 lest anyone should say that I had baptized in my own name. 16 Yes, I also baptized the household of Stephanas. Besides, I do not know whether I baptized any other. 17 For Christ did not send me to baptize, but to preach the gospel, not with wisdom of words, lest the cross of Christ should be made of no effect.

Christ the Power and Wisdom of God

18 For the message of the cross is foolishness to those who are perishing, but to us who are being saved it is the power of God. 19 For it is written:

> "I will destroy the wisdom of the wise,
> And bring to nothing the understanding of the prudent."[a] 20 Where is the wise? Where is the scribe?

Where is the disputer of this age? Has not God made foolish the wisdom of this world? 21 For since, in the wisdom of God, the world through wisdom did not know God, it pleased God through the foolishness of the message preached

1:19 [a] Isaiah 29:14

1:2 Paul addressed the Corinthian believers as saints (Gk. hagiois, lit. "set apart" or "holy" ones), a favorite description for Christians in this corrective epistle. He used the word more than 60 times in his letters. Through Jesus, believers have been forgiven and set apart from sin. Paul reminded the Corinthians of this fact. They were saints—God's holy, sanctified people—and they ought to be acting as such.

1:11 Contentions (Gk. eris) suggests a "sharp challenge," "quarreling," or "strife." Paul received information about these "contentions" from members of Chloe's household (see Chloe).

1:21 Quarreling and divisiveness had erupted among the Corinthians in the name of "wisdom." The people within the

to save those who believe. 22For Jews request a sign, and Greeks seek after wisdom; 23but we preach Christ crucified, to the Jews a stumbling block and to the Greeks[a] foolishness, 24but to those who are called, both Jews and Greeks, Christ the power of God and the wisdom of God. 25Because the foolishness of God is wiser than men, and the weakness of God is stronger than men.

Glory Only in the Lord

26For you see your calling, brethren, that not many wise according to the flesh, not many mighty, not many noble, are called. 27But God has chosen the foolish things of the world to put to shame the wise, and God has chosen the weak things of the world to put to shame the things which are mighty; 28and the base things of the world and the things which are despised God has chosen, and the things which are not, to bring to nothing the things that are, 29that no flesh should glory in His presence. 30But of Him you are in Christ Jesus, who became for us wisdom from God—and righteousness and sanctification and redemption— 31that, as it is written, "He who glories, let him glory in the LORD*."*[a]

Christ Crucified

2 And I, brethren, when I came to you, did not come with excellence of speech or of wisdom declaring to you the testimony[a] of God. 2For I determined not to know anything among you except Jesus Christ and Him crucified. 3I was with you in weakness, in fear, and in much trembling. 4And my speech and my preaching were not with persuasive words of human[a] wisdom, but in demonstration of the Spirit and of power, 5that your faith should not be in the wisdom of men but in the power of God.

Spiritual Wisdom

6However, we speak wisdom among those who are mature, yet not the wisdom of this age, nor of the rulers of this age, who are coming to nothing. 7But we speak the wisdom of God in a mystery, the hidden wisdom which God ordained before the ages for our glory, 8which none of the rulers of this age knew; for had they known, they would not have crucified the Lord of glory.

9But as it is written:

"Eye has not seen, nor ear heard,
Nor have entered into the heart of man
The things which God has prepared for those who love Him."[a] 10But God has revealed them to us through His Spirit. For the Spirit searches all things, yes, the deep things of God. 11For what man knows the things of a man except the spirit of the man which is in him? Even so no one knows the things of God except the Spirit of God. 12Now we have received, not the spirit of the world, but the Spirit who is from God, that we might know the things that have been freely given to us by God.

13These things we also speak, not in words which man's wisdom teaches but which the Holy[a] Spirit teaches, comparing spiritual things with spiritual. 14But the natural man does not receive the things of the Spirit of God, for they are church had aligned themselves with various Christian leaders, boasting in the wisdom of one over the other. The theme of wisdom dominated Paul's discussion (1 Cor. 1—3). Paul argued that God's wisdom is foolishness to humanly-conceived wisdom. On their own, people fail to know God. They can only gain a true knowledge of God through the Spirit, whom they receive upon believing the "foolishness" of the gospel. Paul asserted that it pleased God to arrange things in this manner. If God were to be found through human wisdom, He would only be accessible to the elite. But by extending salvation through His "foolishness" (which is wiser than men, 1 Cor. 1:25), God forces His creation to trust and glory in Him, and not in the wisdom of sinful flesh (v. 29).

1:26–28 Paul explained that the gospel of Christ appears foolish to human reason. To further his point, he encouraged the Corinthians to remember their own humble origins. According to human standards, most of them were not intelligent, influential, or rich. On the contrary, they were members of the common lower class and would have been considered weak, lowly, and even despised. Nevertheless, God called them. A "call" (Gk. klēsis) is an invitation or an official summons by God to enter into a personal relationship with Him. A call is not based on human wisdom or status but on the grace of God who, in His "foolishness," has chosen the unworthy things of the world to shame those of high human worth. This was done so that His chosen people would glory in Him and not in their own status or accomplishments.

2:6–8 God's wisdom is a "mystery" that was formerly hidden from human eyes but was revealed through Christ and made understandable to believers through the Spirit. The Corinthians had the wisdom of God, yet were living by the wisdom of men (1 Cor. 3:1).

2:11 The key to understanding God's wisdom lies with the Spirit. No individual possesses the ability to know God or God's wisdom; only God can know God. The thrust of Paul's argument was easily understood by the Corinthians, who were familiar with the Greek philosophic principle of "like is known only by like." The Spirit knows the things of God because the Spirit is God. The Spirit is therefore the link between God and humanity that makes knowing God possible.

2:14–16 The natural woman cannot receive the things of God, for they are foolishness to her. "Foolish" means dull, insipid, or tasteless, and this is precisely how spiritual things are perceived by those who do not have the Spirit. Such individuals lack the capacity to discern the truth, excellence, or beauty of

HERESIES FALSE DOCTRINES IN THE CHURCH

Heresy (Gk. hairesis) is properly defined as "the taking" of a choice, option, way, plan, or philosophic set of principles. The basic idea is "choice." The word most often denotes the existence within a parent body of a group of self-willed individuals who have a sectarian spirit. However, the term was also used in the New Testament to refer to Christians who were considered separatists or sectarians by some of the Jewish religious leaders (Acts 24:14; 28:22).

Paul refers to heretic parties appearing within the church and implies that these divisions demonstrate the falsity or genuineness of our faith (1 Cor. 11:18, 19). Heretic divisions occur when God's people are not walking in the Spirit (Gal. 5:20), and heretics are to be admonished twice, then disciplined or rejected (Titus 3:10).

"Heresy" in the sense of doctrinal error occurs when the person and work of Jesus Christ is denied (2 Pet. 2:1). Gnosticism (Col. 2:8–23; 1 Tim. 6:20) and Docetism (1 John 4:2, 3; 2 John 7) are among the doctrinal heresies challenged in the New Testament.

Modern heresies show a startling resemblance to the ancient ones. The New Age movement tends to regard everything as a part of God rather than acknowledging God as transcendent. Heresies often reject the full deity or full humanity of Christ and typically add some form of human works to the finished work of Christ on the Cross.

foolishness to him; nor can he know them, because they are spiritually discerned. 15But he who is spiritual judges all things, yet he himself is rightly judged by no one. 16For "who has known the mind of the LORD that he may instruct Him?"[a] But we have the mind of Christ.

Sectarianism Is Carnal

3 And I, brethren, could not speak to you as to spiritual people but as to carnal, as to babes in Christ. 2I fed you with milk and not with solid food; for until now you were not able to receive it, and even now you are still not able; 3for you are still carnal. For where there are envy, strife, and divisions among you, are you not carnal and behaving like mere men? 4For when one says, "I am of Paul," and another, "I am of Apollos," are you not carnal?

Watering, Working, Warning

5Who then is Paul, and who is Apollos, but ministers through whom you believed, as the Lord gave to each one? 6I planted, Apollos watered, but God gave the increase. 7So then neither he who plants is anything, nor he who waters, but God who gives the increase. 8Now he who plants and he who waters are one, and each one will receive his own reward according to his own labor.

9For we are God's fellow workers; you are God's field, you are God's building. 10According to the grace of God which was given to me, as a wise master builder I have laid the foundation, and another builds on it. But let each one take heed how he builds on it. 11For no other foundation can anyone lay than that which is laid, which is Jesus Christ. 12Now if anyone builds on this foundation with gold, silver, precious stones, wood, hay, straw, 13each one's work will become clear; for the Day will declare it, because it will be revealed by fire; and the fire will test each one's work, of what sort it is. 14If anyone's work which he has built on it en-divine things, judging them to be absurd and distasteful. Paul valued self-judgment (1 Cor. 11:31), constructive criticism (1 Cor. 11:17), and church discipline (1 Cor. 5:3–5), but he argued that believers are ultimately accountable to God alone and cannot be judged by those who are operating out of a carnal mind-set. Because the Corinthians were not demonstrating "the mind of Christ," they were not in a position to judge Paul.

3:2, 3 The Corinthians were preoccupied with attaining wisdom and in wisdom's name had aligned themselves with their favorite leader. Their divisiveness revealed human pride at the root of their desire. According to Paul, true spirituality does not lead to an elitist attitude but rather to a deeper understanding of the profound mystery of God—Christ crucified (1 Cor. 3:2).

3:10–15 The judgment seat of Christ (Gk. bēma) is not the place for assigning eternal destiny but rather for determining rewards for believers (see Rom. 14:10; 2 Cor. 5:10; chart, Judgments in the New Testament). This judgment is marked by these characteristics:

- Only those whose foundation is laid in Jesus Christ will appear (1 Cor. 3:11);
- Every believer has a choice to build with the valuable and lasting or with the worthless and fleeting (vv. 12, 13);
- These works will be judged by the discerning gaze of Christ Himself (v. 13; see Rev. 1:14; 2:18);
- Rewards will be given for those works of permanent value (1 Cor. 3:14);
- Worthless and insincere works will be destroyed, but the believer will be saved, even without reward (v. 15).

dures, he will receive a reward. 15If anyone's work is burned, he will suffer loss; but he himself will be saved, yet so as through fire.

16Do you not know that you are the temple of God and that the Spirit of God dwells in you? 17If anyone defiles the temple of God, God will destroy him. For the temple of God is holy, which temple you are.

Avoid Worldly Wisdom

18Let no one deceive himself. If anyone among you seems to be wise in this age, let him become a fool that he may become wise. 19For the wisdom of this world is foolishness with God. For it is written, "He catches the wise in their own craftiness";[a] 20and again, "The LORD knows the thoughts of the wise, that they are futile."[a] 21Therefore let no one boast in men. For all things are yours: 22whether Paul or Apollos or Cephas, or the world or life or death, or things present or things to come—all are yours. 23And you are Christ's, and Christ is God's.

Stewards of the Mysteries of God

4 Let a man so consider us, as servants of Christ and stewards of the mysteries of God. 2Moreover it is required in stewards that one be found faithful. 3But with me it is a very small thing that I should be judged by you or by a human court.[a] In fact, I do not even judge myself. 4For I know of nothing against myself, yet I am not justified by this; but He who judges me is the Lord. 5Therefore judge nothing before the time, until the Lord comes, who will both bring to light the hidden things of darkness and reveal the counsels of the hearts. Then each one's praise will come from God.

Fools for Christ's Sake

6Now these things, brethren, I have figuratively transferred to myself and Apollos for your sakes, that you may learn in us not to think beyond what is written, that none of you may be puffed up on behalf of one against the other. 7For who makes you differ from another? And what do you have that you did not receive? Now if you did indeed receive it, why do you boast as if you had not received it?

8You are already full! You are already rich! You have reigned as kings without us—and indeed I could wish you did reign, that we also might reign with you! 9For I think that God has displayed us, the apostles, last, as men condemned to death; for we have been made a spectacle to the world, both to angels and to men. 10We are fools for Christ's sake, but you are wise in Christ! We are weak, but you are strong! You are distinguished, but we are dishonored! 11To the present hour we both hunger and thirst, and we are poorly clothed, and beaten, and homeless. 12And we labor, working with our

3:19 [a]Job 5:13 3:20 [a]Psalm 94:11 4:3 [a]Literally day

3:16, 17 Paul described the Corinthians as God's temple (Gk. naos), referring to the innermost dwelling place of God, the Most Holy Place, in contrast to the entire temple complex (Gk. hiera). Because of the indwelling Holy Spirit, the Corinthians were God's Most Holy Place. The words "defile" and "destroy" are the same in the Greek text, meaning "spoil" or "ruin" instead of "annihilate." The idea then is that when an individual spoils God's temple, God will then spoil him. Paul pointed out that God had only one temple in Corinth, and the Corinthians were that temple.

4:1 Many Corinthian believers were rejecting both Paul's teaching and his authority. Paul reasserted his authority, while emphasizing his role as "servant" and "steward" of the mysteries of God—the truths of the gospel. A "steward" (Gk. oikonomos) is the servant who is entrusted with the administration of his master's business or property.

4:3–5 Paul left the judgment of motives and thoughts of others completely in God's domain. He affirmed his own indifference to the Corinthians' judgment of him; he lacked fear for any judgment of himself by others; and he refused to judge himself (v. 3). Nevertheless, Paul did not consider his thoughts and actions automatically justified, and he continued to declare that ultimately God was his judge (v. 4; chart, The Judgments in the New Testament). This "time" (Gk. kairos) is the Lord's chosen time rather than "time" (Gk. chronos) in the sense of merely a sequence of chronological events. "The counsels of the hearts" suggests the motives behind actions.

4:7–9 The Corinthians viewed their gifts as personal accomplishments, and they were critical of others, particularly Paul. Conquering Roman generals staged parades to display their armies as well as the booty of their conquest. At the end of the procession, positioned as a "spectacle," were the prisoners condemned to die in the arena. Paul used this imagery to convey the utter humiliation and degradation with which he was being treated by the Corinthians. The Corinthians were puffed up with their own self-worth. Figuratively, they had positioned themselves at the front of the parade as the victors and Paul at the end as a condemned prisoner.

COMPETITION WHEN SISTERS FIGHT

Competition in the sense of a common struggle for the same objective can be a healthy thing. It can inspire us to study harder and run faster. To be challenged and pushed to reach a goal is not wrong in itself. However, when sin starts to edge its way into the competition, the goal of personal achievement is distorted into an obsession to "show up" someone else. Such competition can move our eyes from focus on the intended goal and instead make us dwell upon comparing ourselves to another. This makes competition wrong (2 Cor. 10:12).

Competition has become so commonplace in our culture that we assume it is acceptable to God in any form. Scripture does not support that position. The ideal advocated in the Bible is cooperation, agreement, and unity among believers. Several metaphors are used to describe such cooperation among believers: we are a "building" with parts jointly fitted together, a "body of Christ," a "chosen generation," and a "royal priesthood" (1 Cor. 12:27; Eph. 2:20–22; 1 Pet. 2:9). The bestowal of the Holy Spirit upon the early church came as those gathered reached "one accord in one place" (Acts 2:1). The apostle Paul spoke on numerous occasions of the need for unity of spirit (Eph. 4:3).

When Jesus came to visit, Mary and Martha started using their gifts of service. Mary sat at Jesus' feet, loving and being loved by Him. Martha, a practical "doer," started preparing food and a place to rest. However, Martha looked away from her goal of serving Christ and began to evaluate Mary's performance. Both women were serving in meaningful ways. The problem came when Martha, in her anxiety, overlooked the fact that she and her sister were both on the same team and began to sit in judgment of her sister (Luke 10:41, 42).

The gifts of the Spirit are to work in harmony with one another as the Holy Spirit directs, so that the entire body of believers is built up (1 Cor. 12:7, 11, 12). We are responsible for one another's welfare; we are to pray for one another; we are called to be one-minded and to live in peace (2 Cor. 13:11). Indeed, when arguments arise, we are to give "preference" to one another—or to defer for the sake of achieving harmony (Rom. 12:10).

own hands. Being reviled, we bless; being persecuted, we endure; [13]being defamed, we entreat. We have been made as the filth of the world, the offscouring of all things until now.

Paul's Paternal Care

[14]I do not write these things to shame you, but as my beloved children I warn you. [15]For though you might have ten thousand instructors in Christ, yet you do not have many fathers; for in Christ Jesus I have begotten you through the gospel. [16]Therefore I urge you, imitate me. [17]For this reason I have sent Timothy to you, who is my beloved and faithful son in the Lord, who will remind you of my ways in Christ, as I teach everywhere in every church.

[18]Now some are puffed up, as though I were not coming to you. [19]But I will come to you shortly, if the Lord wills, and I will know, not the word of those who are puffed up, but the power. [20]For the kingdom of God is not in word but in power. [21]What do you want? Shall I come to you with a rod, or in love and a spirit of gentleness?

Immorality Defiles the Church

5 It is actually reported that there is sexual immorality among you, and such sexual immorality as is not even named[a] among the Gentiles—that a man has his father's wife! [2]And you are puffed up, and have not rather mourned, that he who has done this deed might be taken away from among you. [3]For I indeed, as absent in body but present in spirit, have already judged (as though I were present) him who has so done this deed. [4]In the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, when you are gathered together, along with my spirit, with the power of our Lord Jesus Christ, [5]deliver such a one to Satan for the destruction of the flesh, that his spirit may be saved in the day of the Lord Jesus.[a]

[6]Your glorying is not good. Do you not know that

4:18–20 Some Corinthians had become puffed up in their own wisdom. They claimed to be spiritual, but Paul reminded them that true religion does not consist in the professions of the mouth, but in the reality of the Spirit's control of one's life.

5:1 Jewish law forbade a son to marry his stepmother (Lev. 18:8; Deut. 22:30). This incest was also taboo in Greek culture. Nevertheless, a man in the church at Corinth was sexually involved with his father's wife or perhaps even married to her. Paul was incredulous that in the name of "wisdom" they could bring the gospel into disrepute and condone a kind of sexual immorality even disallowed by pagans.

5:6–8 Israelite women used the sourdough process for making their bread. Every week they would withhold a small

JUDGMENTS IN THE NEW TESTAMENT

NAME	SCRIPTURE	DESCRIPTION
1. The judgment of the Cross itself	All who have accepted Christ as Savior have passed from death to life, and sin is thus judged.	Rom. 8:34
2. The judgment of angels	According to Peter, this judgment is in the future; according to Paul, believers will be judges.	1 Cor. 6:3; 2 Pet. 2:4
3. The judgment of the church	The church must exercise judgment within its own fellowship.	1 Cor. 5:13
4. The judgment seat of Christ	Believers face this judgment immediately upon their translation into heaven. This becomes the reward seat of Christ.	Rom. 14:10; 2 Cor. 5:10
5. The Sheep and Goat Judgment	This judgment determines who will enter the millennial kingdom at the end of the Great Tribulation.	Matt. 25:32–46
6. The Great White Throne Judgment	This judgment apparently takes place at the end of earth's history after the millennium. It is God's ultimate judgment against the lost.	Rev. 20:11–15 a little leaven leavens the whole lump? 7Therefore purge out the old leaven, that you may be a new lump, since you truly are unleavened. For indeed Christ, our Passover, was sacrificed for us.[a] 8Therefore let us keep the feast, not with old leaven, nor with the leaven of malice and wickedness, but with the unleavened bread of sincerity and truth.

Immorality Must Be Judged

9I wrote to you in my epistle not to keep company with sexually immoral people. 10Yet I certainly did not mean with the sexually immoral people of this world, or with the covetous, or extortioners, or idolaters, since then you would need to go out of the world. 11But now I have written to you not to keep company with anyone named a brother, who is sexually immoral, or covetous, or an idolater, or a reviler, or a drunkard, or an extortioner—not even to eat with such a person.

12For what have I to do with judging those also who are outside? Do you not judge those who are inside? 13But those who are outside God judges. Therefore "put away from yourselves the evil person."[a]

Do Not Sue the Brethren

6 Dare any of you, having a matter against another, go to law before the unrighteous, and not before the saints? 2Do you not know that the saints will judge the world? And if the world will be judged by you, are you unworthy to judge the smallest matters? 3Do you not know that we shall judge angels? How much more, things that pertain to this life? 4If then you have judgments concerning things pertaining to this life, do you appoint those who are least esteemed by the church to portion of bread dough and allow it to ferment as a "starter" for the following week's batch. When added to new ingredients, the leaven "starter" would ferment the whole lump. This process continued for an entire year until the Feast of Unleavened Bread (Ex. 12:15; 13:6) when all the old leaven from the house was cleared so that a completely fresh start might be made. Leaven is symbolic of the process by which evil spreads to affect an entire community. The Corinthians failed to realize that the incestuous man's sin was like leaven.

5:13 While believers are to associate freely with all people outside the church, their fellowship within the church is to be limited to those who are committed to holiness. Those who persist in sinning—not those who are struggling to overcome sin—do not belong to the community.

6:1–8 Two members of the church in Corinth had taken a grievance before the civil magistrates at the judgment seat (Gk. bēma), publicly located in the midst of the city marketplace. Paul was appalled that Spirit-filled believers should submit their disagreements to the judgment of non-believers, who were totally lacking in spiritual insight (vv. 5, 6). Pagan courts were not the proper arena for the administration of justice between Christians. The ethics of Christian behavior

SEXUAL PURITY PRINCIPLE MUST RULE PASSION

The love life of a Christian is a crucial battleground. Each Christian woman must consider the authority of Christ over human passions, then set her heart on purity. Chastity means abstention from sexual activity outside of marriage and is a Christian obligation. For the Christian there is one rule and one rule only: total abstention from sexual activity prior to marriage and total faithfulness within marriage (1 Cor. 7:1–9).

Christians are to prize the sanctity of sex. This means learning the disciplines of longing, loneliness, uncertainty, hope, trust, and unconditional commitment to Christ—a commitment requiring that regardless of what passion we may feel, we must be pure.

Chastity presupposes not taking lightly any act or thought that is not appropriate to the kind of commitment you have to God. To equate any and every personal sexual desire as natural, healthy, and God-given is a powerful lie. God does not give desires that cannot be fulfilled according to His standards of holiness, wholeness, and purity. Sexual purity is one of the foremost means of safeguarding a marriage from behaviors that pollute, corrupt, infect, or destroy it—physically, emotionally, or spiritually.

Purity means freedom from contamination, from anything that would spoil the taste or the pleasure, reduce the power, or in any way adulterate what a thing is meant to be. Within marriage, sexual union is natural, healthy, and pleasurable not only for the moment—but for all of life together. Sexual intimacy is natural, in the sense in which the original Designer created it to be. When virginity and purity are no longer protected and prized, there is dullness, monotony, and sheer boredom. By trying to grab fulfillment everywhere, you find it nowhere.

Purity before marriage consists of giving ourselves to and for each other in obedience to God. Passion must be held by principle. The principle is love—not merely erotic, sentimental, or sexual feeling. There is no other way to control passion and no other route to purity and joy. If you choose to avoid the sin of sexual immorality, that is God's ideal; but if you have already given away your virginity, the message of the gospel proclaims New Birth, a new beginning, and a new creation (2 Cor. 5:17).

The Scriptures have strong admonitions about abstaining from both adultery and fornication. Paul made special mention of sins related to the body. He clearly stated that the body of the believer belongs to the Lord (1 Cor. 6:19). It is His temple (1 Cor. 3:16). A believing woman is to use both her body and spirit to bring glory and praise to God (1 Cor. 6:20).

Fornication—engaging in sexual activity with a person outside the commitment of marriage—is a sin against your own body. Physically, this sin can reap diseases from which those who keep themselves sexually pure are protected. This sin also can reap emotional distress that those who practice purity do not experience. Spiritually, those who habitually practice this sin will miss the fullness of His blessings. Fornication (Gk. Porneia) can describe harlotry and prostitution (Rev. 2:14, 20) and various other forms of unchastity (John 8:41; Acts 15:20; 1 Cor. 5:1).

Masturbation is defined as the self-stimulation or manipulation of the genital organs, often to the point of sexual climax or orgasm. Some consider it a means of reducing excessive sexual tension when the normal sexual activity of married life is unavailable or as an alternative for promiscuity or fornication. On the other hand, such self-gratification may originate in lustful fantasies for selfish pleasure. Women should be aware of the danger of masturbating while fantasizing about a desired but inappropriate sexual partner, which Jesus equates with actual commission of sexual intercourse (Matt. 5:27, 28).

Scripture neither explicitly condones nor condemns masturbation. Jesus does not mention it, nor does Paul include it in his list of vile passions (Rom. 1:26–31). Nevertheless, the moral and psychological ramifications of masturbation can prove disruptive to a relationship with God as well as others, particularly in a marriage. Certainly masturbation does not fulfill God's plan for sexual intimacy between husband and wife (Gen. 2:24).

Overall, Scripture advocates an ever-present awareness that human beings are more than sexual or physical. God is interested in our wholeness, which encompasses every area of life.

judge? 5I say this to your shame. Is it so, that there is not a wise man among you, not even one, who will be able to judge between his brethren? 6But brother goes to law against brother, and that before unbelievers!

7Now therefore, it is already an utter failure demanded that either the dispute be resolved within the church (v. 4) or that the wronged party choose the more excellent way and endure the injustice without seeking redress (vv. 7, 8).

for you that you go to law against one another. Why do you not rather accept wrong? Why do you not rather let yourselves be cheated? 8No, you yourselves do wrong and cheat, and you do these things to your brethren! 9Do you not know that the unrighteous will not inherit the kingdom of God? Do not be deceived. Neither fornicators, nor idolaters, nor adulterers, nor homosexuals,[a] nor sodomites, 10nor thieves, nor covetous, nor drunkards, nor revilers, nor extortioners will inherit the kingdom of God. 11And such were some of you. But you were washed, but you were sanctified, but you were justified in the name of the Lord Jesus and by the Spirit of our God.

Glorify God in Body and Spirit

12All things are lawful for me, but all things are not helpful. All things are lawful for me, but I will not be brought under the power of any. 13Foods for the stomach and the stomach for foods, but God will destroy both it and them. Now the body is not for sexual immorality but for the Lord, and the Lord for the body. 14And God both raised up the Lord and will also raise us up by His power.

15Do you not know that your bodies are members of Christ? Shall I then take the members of Christ and make them members of a harlot? Certainly not! 16Or do you not know that he who is joined to a harlot is one body with her? For "the two," He says, "shall become one flesh."[a] 17But he who is joined to the Lord is one spirit with Him.

18Flee sexual immorality. Every sin that a man does is outside the body, but he who commits sexual immorality sins against his own body. 19Or do you not know that your body is the temple of the Holy Spirit who is in you, whom you have from God, and you are not your own? 20For you were bought at a price; therefore glorify God in your body[a] and in your spirit, which are God's.

Principles of Marriage

7 Now concerning the things of which you wrote to me:

It is good for a man not to touch a woman. 2Nevertheless, because of sexual immorality, let each man have his own wife, and let each woman have her own husband. 3Let the husband render to his wife the affection due her, and likewise also the wife to her husband. 4The wife does not have authority over her own body, but the husband does. And likewise the husband does not have authority over his own body, but the wife does. 5Do not deprive one another except with consent for a time, that you may give yourselves to fasting and prayer; and come together again so that Satan does not tempt you because of your lack of self-control. 6But I say this as a concession, not as a commandment. 7For I wish that all men were even as I myself. But each one has his own gift from God, one in this manner and another in that.

8But I say to the unmarried and to the widows: It is good for them if they remain even as I am; 9but if they cannot exercise self-control, let them marry. For it is better to marry than to burn with passion.

6:9 [a]That is, catamites 6:16 [a]Genesis 2:24 6:20 [a]NU-Text ends the verse at body.

6:9 Sodomites is a reference to men who engage in sexual acts with other men (see Lev. 18, Homosexuality).

6:12 All things are lawful for me was the theological slogan the Corinthians had adopted to justify their behavior. Paul affirmed his own doctrine of Christian liberty. But the Corinthians needed to understand that the "lawfulness" of any given behavior was qualified by its "helpfulness." Freedom to act as one pleases is not really freedom at all. It is the most insidious form of bondage. Paul provided guidelines for decision making (see 1 Cor. 8, Decision Making).

6:18, 19 Some within the Christian community had continued to visit prostitutes, arguing that they were unaffected by behavior that merely involved the body. Paul sternly pointed out that what Christians intimately do with their bodies affects the spiritual state of their souls. This is particularly the case with sexual sin. The "one flesh" union of marital sex reflects realities about God. Sexual activity outside of this context violates the image that God has stamped into our psyches and even into our bodies as male and female.

7:4 Normal sexual behavior is summarized by the apostle as an intimacy in which the bodies of husband and wife belong to one another. The phrase "authority over" (Gk. exousiazō , lit. "has rights over") applies equally to both and connotes exclusivity (see 1 Cor. 6:16). Furthermore, neither is to withhold marital rights from the other except for a spiritual pursuit, and that only with consent and limitation (1 Cor. 7:5; see 1 Cor. 6:17). Paul may have been addressing some who were trying to practice celibacy within marriage under the guise of spiritual superiority (1 Cor. 7:5). Nevertheless, Paul is also making clear the importance of physical intimacy in marriage by speaking in the strongest terms ("deprive," meaning "defraud") of sexual abstinence within marriage.

7:8 Marriage is a temporary institution and thus will not continue throughout eternity (Matt. 22:30). Being married is of no greater value than being single but is simply a picture of the greater relationship that exists between Christ and the believer. Those who are called to singleness for the sake of the gospel are in a unique position, not "distracted" by the day-to-day realities of the human marital relationship, to concentrate more fully on the eternal relationship to which marriage points and to which all are ultimately called (1 Cor. 7:35; see Ps. 62; Celibacy;1 Cor. 12, Singleness; John 2).

7:9 To burn has been interpreted primarily in two ways: as a reference to the fires of judgment, which might ensue as a result of sexual sin, or as a metaphor for unbridled passions. The latter seems more likely since the emphasis is on self-control and since Paul is here addressing believers.

buy as though they did not possess, [31]and those who use this world as not misusing it. For the form of this world is passing away.

[32]But I want you to be without care. He who is unmarried cares for the things of the Lord—how he may please the Lord. [33]But he who is married cares about the things of the world—how he may please his wife. [34]There is[a] a difference between a wife and a virgin. The unmarried woman cares about the things of the Lord, that she may be holy both in body and in spirit. But she who is married cares about the things of the world—how she may please her husband. [35]And this I say for your own profit, not that I may put a leash on you, but for what is proper, and that you may serve the Lord without distraction.

[36]But if any man thinks he is behaving improperly toward his virgin, if she is past the flower of youth, and thus it must be, let him do what he wishes. He does not sin; let them marry. [37]Nevertheless he who stands steadfast in his heart, having no necessity, but has power over his own will, and has so determined in his heart that he will keep his virgin,[a] does well. [38]So then he who gives her[a] in marriage does well, but he who does not give her in marriage does better.

[39]A wife is bound by law as long as her husband lives; but if her husband dies, she is at liberty to be married to whom she wishes, only in the Lord. [40]But she is happier if she remains as she is, according to my judgment—and I think I also have the Spirit of God.

Be Sensitive to Conscience

8 Now concerning things offered to idols: We know that we all have knowledge. Knowledge puffs up, but love edifies. [2]And if anyone thinks that he knows anything, he knows nothing yet as he ought to know. [3]But if anyone loves God, this one is known by Him.

[4]Therefore concerning the eating of things offered to idols, we know that an idol is nothing in the world, and that there is no other God but one. [5]For even if there are so-called gods, whether in heaven or on earth (as there are many gods and many lords), [6]yet for us there is one God, the Father, of whom are all things, and we for Him; and one Lord Jesus Christ, through whom are all things, and through whom we live.

[7]However, there is not in everyone that knowledge; for some, with consciousness of the idol, until now eat it as a thing offered to an idol; and their conscience, being weak, is defiled. [8]But food does not commend us to God; for neither if we eat are we the better, nor if we do not eat are we the worse.

[9]But beware lest somehow this liberty of yours become a stumbling block to those who are weak. [10]For if anyone sees you who have knowledge eating in an idol's temple, will not the conscience of him who is weak be emboldened to eat those things offered to idols? [11]And because of your knowledge shall the weak brother perish, for whom Christ died? [12]But when you thus sin against the brethren, and wound their weak conscience, you sin against Christ. [13]Therefore, if food makes my brother stumble, I will never again eat meat, lest I make my brother stumble.

A Pattern of Self-Denial

9 Am I not an apostle? Am I not free? Have I not seen Jesus Christ our Lord? Are you not my work in the Lord? [2]If I am not an apostle to others, yet doubtless I am to you. For you are the seal of my apostleship in the Lord.

[3]My defense to those who examine me is this: [4]Do we have no right to eat and drink? [5]Do we have no right to take along a believing wife, as do also the other apostles, the brothers of the Lord, and Cephas? [6]Or is it only Barnabas and I who have no right to refrain from working? [7]Who ever goes to war at his own expense? Who plants a vineyard were drawing together toward the time of the Lord's return. Therefore, the Corinthians were to keep themselves as free as possible from the ordinary pressures and distractions of life. Marriage, the processes of birth and death, material possessions, and all the other things that belong to this age are of a temporary nature. These are legitimate, but Christians are to view them from the perspective of eternity. Their lives are to focus on the eternal and not on the temporal.

7:36, 37 The action of a father toward his daughter seems to be in view, or perhaps a man and his fiancée, though this passage cannot be interpreted with certainty. Paul continued to be clear in upholding the sanctity of marriage, while indicating the beauty of a celibate life committed unto God.

8:1, 2 Things offered to idols could allude to meat sold in the markets or to meat served at such banquets. The feasts were attended by some converts to Christianity who argued that since idols were "nothing," they were free to eat the meat. Furthermore, they looked down upon those whose consciences prohibited their participation. Paul argued that love and not knowledge was the basis of Christian conduct. Although idols were indeed "nothing," this little bit of knowledge had puffed them up and had prevented their correct behavior toward their Christian friends.

8:10–12 Real idolatry, not just the eating of meat, was the issue at hand. Paul denied that any true "gods" were involved in paganism but pointed out what the Corinthians failed to note: Pagan religion was often the locus of demonic activity. The issue was not that of merely "offending" someone in the church but of weakening someone's commitment to Christ. The Corinthians had arrogantly insisted on their own rights and freedoms and had jeopardized the spiritual well-being of others.

8:13 See 1 Corinthians 6:12, note.

DECISION MAKING TOUGH CHOICES

Every person faces decisions with immediate and long-term consequences. For the Christian woman, wise decisions can be made with the confidence that God directs her every step as she seeks His will in prayer, Bible study, and listening to the Holy Spirit, the divine Counselor (John 14:26; 15:26). While Scripture offers precise guidance for many issues in our daily lives, the Bible appears silent on others.

In all cases, you can benefit from the principles Paul offered to the first-century Corinthian believers who were facing the moral dilemma of eating meat sacrificed to idols:

1) Will the course considered lead a fellow Christian to sin by your example? (1 Cor 8:13)
2) Will the action provide strength and encouragement to your own life? (1 Cor. 6:12; 10:23)
3) Will the action ultimately glorify God? (1 Cor. 10:31)

These same questions are appropriate for your prayerful consideration in every decision you make.

and does not eat of its fruit? Or who tends a flock and does not drink of the milk of the flock?

8 Do I say these things as a mere man? Or does not the law say the same also? 9 For it is written in the law of Moses, "You shall not muzzle an ox while it treads out the grain."[a] Is it oxen God is concerned about? 10 Or does He say it altogether for our sakes? For our sakes, no doubt, this is written, that he who plows should plow in hope, and he who threshes in hope should be partaker of his hope. 11 If we have sown spiritual things for you, is it a great thing if we reap your material things? 12 If others are partakers of this right over you, are we not even more?

Nevertheless we have not used this right, but endure all things lest we hinder the gospel of Christ. 13 Do you not know that those who minister the holy things eat of the things of the temple, and those who serve at the altar partake of the offerings of the altar? 14 Even so the Lord has commanded that those who preach the gospel should live from the gospel.

15 But I have used none of these things, nor have I written these things that it should be done so to me; for it would be better for me to die than that anyone should make my boasting void. 16 For if I preach the gospel, I have nothing to boast of, for necessity is laid upon me; yes, woe is me if I do not preach the gospel! 17 For if I do this willingly, I have a reward; but if against my will, I have been entrusted with a stewardship. 18 What is my reward then? That when I preach the gospel, I may present the gospel of Christ[a] without charge, that I may not abuse my authority in the gospel.

Serving All Men

19 For though I am free from all men, I have made myself a servant to all, that I might win the more; 20 and to the Jews I became as a Jew, that I might win Jews; to those who are under the law, as under the law,[a] that I might win those who are under the law; 21 to those who are without law, as without law (not being without law toward God,[a] but under law toward Christ[b]), that I might win those who are without law; 22 to the weak I became as[a] weak, that I might win the weak. I have become all things to all men, that I might by all means save some. 23 Now this I do for the gospel's sake, that I may be partaker of it with you.

9:10, 11 Though Paul may have been supported financially in some way by patrons like Lydia (see Acts 16:15), he seemed to favor supporting himself through tentmaking. Problems arose when the Corinthians observed other teachers (perhaps Apollos and Peter) accepting patronage. Because of Paul's refusal to do the same, they began to question the authenticity of his apostleship. Paul argued that although he had the right to be supported by them, he also had the right to refuse support. He had chosen to preach the gospel without pay so that he could not be accused of benefiting financially from what he taught. By presenting the gospel "free of charge," he himself was "free from all men," constrained to preach only by obedience to Christ (1 Cor. 9:19).

9:19 Paul conformed to the culture and practices of those with whom he worked. When with Jews, he observed Jewish custom; when with Gentiles, Gentile custom. With the "weak," those who were over-scrupulous in their observances, he was particularly careful to regulate his conduct to their standards. Paul's adaptability appeared as "inconsistency" to his critics. They had failed to note that his "inconsistency" was governed by a greater principle to which he consistently yielded. "I have become all things to all men, that I might by all means save some" (1 Cor. 9:22). Paul was uncompromising on beliefs and behaviors that were governed by the gospel but flexible and adaptable on those matters that were not.

THE TWO TYPES OF WISDOM

WORLDLY WISDOM	SPIRITUAL WISDOM
Sees the message of the Cross as foolishness (1 Cor. 1:18)	Realizes the message of the Cross is the power of God (1 Cor. 1:18)
Does not know God (1 Cor. 1:21)	Demonstrates the power of God (1 Cor. 2:5)
Boasts in men (1 Cor. 3:21)	Glories in the Lord (1 Cor. 1:31)
Takes pride in human knowledge (1 Cor. 8:2)	Knows the mind of Christ (1 Cor. 2:16)
Is puffed up (1 Cor. 4:6)	Seeks meekness and humility (1 Cor. 2:3)
Criticizes leadership (1 Cor. 4:8)	Submits to spiritual leadership (1 Cor. 14:37; 16:16)
Relies on the power of words (1 Cor. 4:20)	Relies on the power of God (1 Cor. 4:20)
Takes pride in personal accomplishments (1 Cor. 4:7)	Recognizes God as source of everything (1 Cor. 6:19, 20)
Scoffs at differences (1 Cor. 12:21)	Respects diversity (1 Cor. 12:11)
Insists on personal rights (1 Cor. 8:9)	Becomes servant of all (1 Cor. 9:19)
Is insensitive to others (1 Cor. 8:11)	Edifies others (1 Cor. 8:1)
Arrogantly wounds others (1 Cor. 8:12)	Seeks another's well-being (1 Cor. 10:24)
Leads to envy, strife, and division (1 Cor.1:10; 3:3)	Pursues unity (1 Cor. 12:13)
Is full of malice (1 Cor. 14:20)	Walks in the way of love (1 Cor. 13:1)
Is subject to "fall" (1 Cor. 10:12)	Stands up under temptation (1 Cor. 10:13)
Will be caught in its own craftiness (1 Cor. 3:19)	Maintains self-control and discipline (1 Cor. 6:12; 9:27)
Has immature understanding (1 Cor. 3:1; 14:20)	Develops maturity (1 Cor. 2:6)
Will not last (1 Cor. 3:15)	Will last (1 Cor. 3:10–14)

way that you may obtain it. [25]And everyone who competes for the prize is temperate in all things. Now they do it to obtain a perishable crown, but we for an imperishable crown. [26]Therefore I run thus: not with uncertainty. Thus I fight: not as one who beats the air. [27]But I discipline my body and bring it into subjection, lest, when I have preached to others, I myself should become disqualified.

Old Testament Examples

10 Moreover, brethren, I do not want you to be unaware that all our fathers were under the cloud, all passed through the sea, [2]all were baptized into Moses in the cloud and in the sea, [3]all ate the same spiritual food, [4]and all drank the same spiritual drink. For they drank of that spiritual Rock that followed them, and that Rock was

9:27 The Greeks hosted the great athletic festivals of the Olympic and Isthmian games. The latter were held at Corinth and were therefore familiar to the recipients of Paul's letter. Contestants in the games participated in ten months of mandatory training. If they failed to complete this training, they were barred from competition. The major attraction at the games was the lengthy race, and that was the illustration Paul used to depict the faithful Christian life. Paul contended that his actions had not been those of an aimless competitor but were comparable to those of the

MISSIONS PREPARED TO SERVE

Anyone with a mission to win someone to Christ becomes a missionary. You become a missionary because you have a mission to share the message of salvation. There are ways to equip yourself for the greatest effectiveness:

- Become acquainted with the customs of those to whom you minister (1 Cor. 9:22).
- Learn to speak the language of those with whom you work.
- Make an effort to eat their foods (1 Cor. 10:27).
- Be willing to wear their ethnic clothing, especially for festive occasions.
- Listen to their problems (Gal. 6:2).
- Pray for individuals and specific needs (James 5:16).
- Avoid local politics (Acts 5:29).
- Treat others as you yourself wish to be treated (Matt. 7:12).
- Never compromise your faith (Rom. 1:16).

Christ. 5But with most of them God was not well pleased, for their bodies were scattered in the wilderness.

6Now these things became our examples, to the intent that we should not lust after evil things as they also lusted. 7And do not become idolaters as were some of them. As it is written, "The people sat down to eat and drink, and rose up to play."[a] 8Nor let us commit sexual immorality, as some of them did, and in one day twenty-three thousand fell; 9nor let us tempt Christ, as some of them also tempted, and were destroyed by serpents; 10nor complain, as some of them also complained, and were destroyed by the destroyer. 11Now all[a] these things happened to them as examples, and they were written for our admonition, upon whom the ends of the ages have come.

12Therefore let him who thinks he stands take heed lest he fall. 13No temptation has overtaken you except such as is common to man; but God is faithful, who will not allow you to be tempted beyond what you are able, but with the temptation will also make the way of escape, that you may be able to bear it.

Flee from Idolatry

14Therefore, my beloved, flee from idolatry. 15I speak as to wise men; judge for yourselves what I say. 16The cup of blessing which we bless, is it not the communion of the blood of Christ? The bread which we break, is it not the communion of the body of Christ? 17For we, though many, are one bread and one body; for we all partake of that one bread.

18Observe Israel after the flesh: Are not those who eat of the sacrifices partakers of the altar? 19What am I saying then? That an idol is anything, or what is offered to idols is anything? 20Rather, that the things which the Gentiles sacrifice they sacrifice to demons and not to God, and I do not want you to have fellowship with demons. 21You cannot drink the cup of the Lord and the cup of demons; you cannot partake of the Lord's table and of the table of demons. 22Or do we provoke the Lord to jealousy? Are we stronger than He?

athlete who had trained with the goal of winning. Paul had disciplined himself—curtailing his own rights for exercising his freedoms—all for the sake of the gospel. He admonished the Corinthians to do the same so that they, too, might attain the eternal prize.

10:4 The Israelites were supplied with water from the rock of Meribah both at the beginning (Ex. 17:1–7) and toward the end of their desert wanderings in the Pentateuch narrative (Num. 20:2–13). Jewish legend referred to a water-supplying "rock" which traveled alongside the people throughout their 40-year journey. Paul did not endorse this account as literal history but affirmed that a supernatural "Rock" had indeed accompanied them, and that "Rock" was Jesus.

10:11, 12 The Corinthians had become overconfident in their spirituality; so Paul directed their attention to the example of the Israelite people. He pointed out that although the Israelites had consumed the same spiritual food and drink as the Corinthians, they had failed to please God (vv. 3, 4). They had fallen into sins of idolatry and sexual immorality, complaining against God and tempting Him. To "tempt" (Gk. ekpeirazō, lit. "to put to the test") God is to try or test His patience thoroughly (v. 10). The Israelites had pushed God to the limit by constantly compromising His commands. Paul admonished the Corinthians to exercise caution, for they were beginning to place confidence in their own spiritual state and were thus susceptible to falling into sin just as the Israelites had done.

10:21, 22 The cup of libation poured at the end of pagan feasts in honor of the sponsoring deity was incompatible with drinking the cup of the Lord. The Lord's cup, symbolic of the

FRUIT OF THE SPIRIT — SELF-CONTROL

Self-discipline is essential to personal development, spiritual growth, and Christian service. However, self-discipline does not "just happen" or appear as a natural trait. People must practice self-control in order to lead disciplined lives. For the Christian woman, God's unlimited power can be added to limited human willpower to develop divine discipline. Divine discipline requires a personal action to receive the Holy Spirit's power.

Christians must learn to discipline both outward behaviors and inward feelings in order to be godly. Words and actions as well as thoughts and passions must be acceptable to God (Ps. 19:14). A disciplined life involves a genuine, personal commitment to obey God's statutes, and frequently it requires lifestyle changes. God's supernatural power is added to personal willpower as believers practice His presence, receive His power, and seek His joy.

The acceptance by, affirmation from, and accountability to other people also help a believer develop self-control. Divine discipline should be a part of every believer's spiritual growth. A personal choice to become disciplined can effect change in others as well.

Scripture teaches that self-control is the crowning fruit of the Holy Spirit (Gal. 5:22). Without self-control, the believer has little opportunity to experience fully the blessings of God.

All to the Glory of God

23 All things are lawful for me,[a] but not all things are helpful; all things are lawful for me,[b] but not all things edify. 24 Let no one seek his own, but each one the other's well-being.
25 Eat whatever is sold in the meat market, asking no questions for conscience' sake; 26 for
"the earth is the LORD*'s, and all its fullness."[a] 27 If any of those who do not believe invites you to dinner, and you desire to go, eat whatever is set before you, asking no question for conscience' sake. 28 But if anyone says to you, "This was offered to idols," do not eat it for the sake of the one who told you, and for conscience' sake;[a] for "the earth is the LORD's, and all its fullness."*[b] 29 "Conscience," I say, not your own, but that of the other.
For why is my liberty judged by another man's conscience? 30 But if I partake with thanks, why am I evil spoken of for the food over which I give thanks?
31 Therefore, whether you eat or drink, or whatever you do, do all to the glory of God. 32 Give no offense, either to the Jews or to the Greeks or to the church of God, 33 just as I also please all men in all things, not seeking my own profit, but the profit of many, that they may be saved.

11 Imitate me, just as I also imitate Christ.

Head Coverings

2 Now I praise you, brethren, that you remember me in all things and keep the traditions just as I delivered them to you. 3 But I want you to know that the head of every man is Christ, the head of woman is man, and the head of Christ is God.
4 Every man praying or prophesying, having his head covered, dishonors his head. 5 But every woman who prays or prophesies with her head believer's relationship to God, excluded the possibility of any relationship to demons. Furthermore, sharing the bread of the Lord, which was symbolic of the believer's commitment to Christ's body—the church—barred them from communing (and therefore being bound) with people who communed with demons (v. 17). Attendance at pagan feasts therefore violated both the vertical dimension of their relationship to God and the horizontal dimension of their relationship to each other.

10:23 See 1 Cor. 6:12, note; 8, Decision Making.

10:31 See 1 Cor. 6:12, note; 8, Decision Making.

11:3 Paul presented headship as divinely ordered: God-Christ, Christ-man, man-woman (see chart, Theological Foundation for Headship). A Christian perspective on authority radically differs from that of the world. To begin, Christian authority is for the purpose of service. Jesus commanded those in authority to exercise their roles with love, humility, and justice (Luke 22:24–27). Husbands, for example, were instructed to imitate Christ's servant leadership in their relationships to their wives (Eph. 5:25–29; see chart, Role Relationships Between Men and Women). Also, the husband's headship is not based upon any inherent virtue of the male. Rather, the relationship between redeemed man and woman is a model that is to reflect to the world the nature of the relationships within the Godhead as well as God's relationship to His church. Finally, the relationship between God and Christ helps us understand what headship means. The Father and Son are always equal in essence, including the time of Jesus' subordination during His Incarnation; yet they have different roles (Phil. 2:6, 7). Likewise, the different roles of man and woman do not imply the superiority of one, or the inferiority of the other. Paul was careful to point out that they are interdependent and equal—"all things are from God" (1 Cor. 11:8–12).

WEIGHT CONTROL — A DISCIPLINED BODY

If you struggle with weight control, God's Word has both encouragement and admonishment:

1. Be accepting. God designed your physical make-up. Refrain from criticizing His creation (Ps. 139:13–16).
2. Be grateful. God has given you a triumphal new nature at your conversion. You are admonished to give thanks to God who gives you victory in the Lord Jesus Christ (1 Cor. 15:57).
3. Be careful. The Bible, speaking for moderation and against gluttony, condemns over-indulgence (Prov. 23:20–21). Resist extra helpings and rich foods that add additional inches.
4. Be disciplined. Achieving temperance in eating will strengthen other areas in your life. Paul proclaimed that although all things were lawful for him, he refused to be brought under the power of any (1 Cor. 10:23) because all things were not helpful to him (1 Cor. 6:12).
5. Be active. Regular exercise will help you to reach and maintain your ideal weight. Activity also improves productivity, cardiovascular stamina, and mental alertness. The writer of Hebrews encourages believers to run with endurance (Heb. 12:1; see also 1 Tim. 4:8).
6. Be persistent. Just as Paul finished the race (2 Tim. 4:7), you, too, can persevere if you set a goal and move forward victoriously to achieve it!

uncovered dishonors her head, for that is one and the same as if her head were shaved. 6For if a woman is not covered, let her also be shorn. But if it is shameful for a woman to be shorn or shaved, let her be covered. 7For a man indeed ought not to cover his head, since he is the image and glory of God; but woman is the glory of man. 8For man is not from woman, but woman from man. 9Nor was man created for the woman, but woman for the man. 10For this reason the woman ought to have a symbol of authority on her head, because of the angels. 11Nevertheless, neither is man independent of woman, nor woman independent of man, in the Lord. 12For as woman came from man, even so man also comes through woman; but all things are from God.

13Judge among yourselves. Is it proper for a woman to pray to God with her head uncovered? 14Does not even nature itself teach you that if a man has long hair, it is a dishonor to him? 15But if a woman has long hair, it is a glory to her; for her hair is given to her[a] for a covering. 16But if anyone seems to be contentious, we have no such custom, nor do the churches of God.

Conduct at the Lord's Supper

17Now in giving these instructions I do not praise you, since you come together not for the better but for the worse. 18For first of all, when you come together as a church, I hear that there are divisions among you, and in part I believe it. 19For there must also be factions among you, that those who are approved may be recognized among you. 20Therefore when you come together in one place, it is not to eat the Lord's Supper. 21For in eating, each one takes his own supper ahead of others; and one is hungry and another is drunk. 22What! Do you not have houses to eat and drink in? Or do you despise the church of God and shame those who have nothing? What shall I say to you? Shall I praise you in this? I do not praise you.

Institution of the Lord's Supper

23For I received from the Lord that which I also delivered to you: that the Lord Jesus on the same night in which He was betrayed took bread; 24and when He had given thanks, He broke it and said, "Take, eat;[a] this is My body which is broken[b] for you; do this in remembrance of Me." 25In the same manner He also took the cup after supper, saying, "This cup is the new covenant in My blood. This do, as often as you drink it, in remembrance of Me."

26For as often as you eat this bread and drink this cup, you proclaim the Lord's death till He comes.

Examine Yourself

27Therefore whoever eats this bread or drinks this cup of the Lord in an unworthy manner will be

11:15 [a]M-Text omits to her. 11:24 [a]NU-Text omits Take, eat. [b]NU-Text omits broken.

11:23–34 The observance of the Lord's Supper begins with giving "thanks" (Gk. eucharisteō, lit. "give thanks," transliterated "eucharist," (v. 24). This experience is also a memorial of Christ's atonement on the Cross (vv. 24, 25), an experience of fellowship among believers (v. 18); a testimony of Christ's death in their behalf (v. 26), and a means by which believers are challenged to examine their spiritual lives (v. 28). The sharing of a common loaf indicated the unity of the body of Christ. Eating the bread and drinking the cup are also a reminder of the Lord's sacrificial death on the Cross.

HEAD COVERINGS FOR WOMEN

TYPE OF COVERING	DESCRIPTION
Headband (Heb. shabis)	Probably a head ornament or front-band of gold or silver (Is. 3:18, 20; v. 18, "scarves" in NKJV).
Headdress (Heb. pe'er)	Ornamental head covering worn by wealthy women, probably wound about the head (Is. 3:20; Ezek. 24:17). Also used to describe the garland of the bridegroom or turban worn by men as well as the cap worn by priests (Is. 61:10; Ezek. 24:17, 23; 44:18).
Head covering (Gk. peribolaios, lit. "covering")	First Corinthians probably refers to some kind of hair covering—perhaps even a shawl. The wearing of long, loose hair by an adulteress confirms that such would be considered shameful (Num. 5:18). The importance of the covering seems to be twofold: to show clear distinction between the sexes and to affirm publicly a wife's commitment to her husband's leadership (1 Cor. 11:2–16). This custom may have been especially important to the Corinthians because of the pagan and immoral influence around them.
Veil (Heb. tsaciph)	Rebekah put on a veil when she approached Isaac before her marriage, perhaps as a sign of her betrothal. The veil was to be removed at the time of marriage (Gen. 24:65). Tamar used the veil to trick Judah (Gen. 38:14, 19).
(Heb. redid)	The veil-like, thin garment was probably for summer (Song 5:7; Is. 3:23).
(Heb. tsamah)	This face veil (lit. "locks") was probably ornamental, perhaps a long train of adornment for women of high social standing (Song 4:1, 3; 6:7; Is. 47:2).
(Heb. mispachoth)	This covering (probably a cap fitting close to the head) is associated with the activities of false prophetesses (Ezek. 13:18, 21).

Full veiling does not seem to be part of the Old Testament culture. However, head coverings were important to women in biblical days. They not only offered protection from the elements but also served as symbols of modesty and, for a married woman, as a token of her commitment to her husband.

The theological principle of divine order remains unchanged even though its specific manifestations, such as a woman's covering her head in Corinth, may differ from place to place and culture to culture (see chart, Theological Foundations for Headship). This order was evident in the chronological sequence of creation (1 Cor. 11:8, 9). Furthermore, woman was man's "glory" (v. 7). This concept refers to the act of "manifesting or pointing to the role of another." The woman, who pointed to the man, was to be covered in the presence of God; while man, who pointed to God, was not. The practice was also followed "because of the angels" (v. 10). Paul reasoned that angels, the most submissive of all creatures, would be offended by non-compliance. Furthermore, God had provided a natural analogy that emphasized the appropriateness of the head covering: "Nature" favors women over men in the provision of hair on the head (vv. 13–15). Finally, Paul appealed to the universality of Christian practice (v. 16). The principle of headship was important, and its symbol was to be observed in all the churches.

WOMEN'S MINISTRIES THE GIFT OF PROPHECY

The Bible abounds with many examples of women who ministered prophetically. The prophetess Miriam led the women to celebrate the Lord's triumph over Egypt (Ex. 15:20, 21). Deborah was a prophetess who functioned as a judge (Judg. 4:4, 5), and the prophetess Huldah was consulted on behalf of the king (2 Kin. 22:14–20). Other Old Testament women had prophetic ministries as well (Is. 8:3).

In the New Testament, we encounter Anna (Luke 2:36–38) and the four daughters of the evangelist Philip (Acts 21:9). Joel foretold that both sons and daughters would prophesy after God poured His Spirit out on all flesh (Joel 2:28)—a promise that was cited by Peter at the time of Pentecost (Acts 2:17, 18). Paul encouraged women to exercise the gift of prophecy and instructed them how to do so in the public assembly of the church (1 Cor. 11:5).

The nature of prophecy changed with the outpouring of God's Spirit. Old Testament prophets, individually commissioned by God, were to be put to death if they misrepresented God's message to the people (Deut. 13:1–5; 18:20–22). New Testament prophecy, on the other hand, was a gift given to many believers, and its transmission was not guaranteed as infallible. It needed to be sifted, weighed, and evaluated by the leadership of the church (1 Cor. 14:29; 1 Thess. 5:20, 21). Nevertheless, it was regarded as a valuable and necessary gift for the church and an area of effective ministry for women.

guilty of the body and blood[a] of the Lord. 28But let a man examine himself, and so let him eat of the bread and drink of the cup. 29For he who eats and drinks in an unworthy manner[a] eats and drinks judgment to himself, not discerning the Lord's[b] body. 30For this reason many are weak and sick among you, and many sleep. 31For if we would judge ourselves, we would not be judged. 32But when we are judged, we are chastened by the Lord, that we may not be condemned with the world.

33Therefore, my brethren, when you come together to eat, wait for one another. 34But if anyone is hungry, let him eat at home, lest you come together for judgment. And the rest I will set in order when I come.

Spiritual Gifts: Unity in Diversity

12 Now concerning spiritual gifts, brethren, I do not want you to be ignorant: 2You know that[a] you were Gentiles, carried away to these dumb idols, however you were led. 3Therefore I make known to you that no one speaking by the Spirit of God calls Jesus accursed, and no one can say that Jesus is Lord except by the Holy Spirit.

4There are diversities of gifts, but the same Spirit. 5There are differences of ministries, but the same Lord. 6And there are diversities of activities, but it is the same God who works all in all. 7But the manifestation of the Spirit is given to each one for the profit of all: 8for to one is given the word of wisdom through the Spirit, to another the word of knowledge through the same Spirit, 9to another faith by the same Spirit, to another gifts of healings by the same[a] Spirit, 10to another the working of miracles, to another prophecy, to another discerning of spirits, to another different kinds of tongues, to another the interpretation of tongues. 11But one and the same Spirit works all these things, distributing to each one individually as He wills.

Unity and Diversity in One Body

12For as the body is one and has many members, but all the members of that one body, being many, are one body, so also is Christ. 13For by one Spirit we were all baptized into one body—whether Jews

11:27 [a]NU-Text and M-Text read the blood. 11:29 [a]NU-Text omits in an unworthy manner. [b]NU-Text omits Lord's. 12:2 [a]NU-Text and M-Text add when. 12:9 [a]NU-Text reads one.

11:29 As an alternative to the cultic feasts of the pagans, the Corinthians had begun to sponsor their own "love feasts," celebrated in conjunction with the Lord's Supper. Apparently, the rich Christians were feasting and drinking in isolated cliques, while the poor remained hungry. Emphasizing social divisions among themselves was an offense against the body of Christ, for it contradicted both the purpose of Christ's self-sacrifice and the spirit in which it was made. The reality of the Corinthians' common standing in the Lord was not to be compromised by prejudice and divisive, judgmental spirits (v. 30).

12:3 The title Lord (Gk. kurios), a term of respect for people of high rank or distinction, was also used in a unique way to refer to God. Confessing Jesus as Lord was understood as confessing Jesus as God. Whether or not the Spirit of God was guiding someone was determined by whether or not that person would confess "Jesus is Lord."

12:13 All Christians, regardless of race, social standing, or gender, are baptized into Christ's body and receive Christ's Spirit (Gal. 3:28). The implication is not that social, cultural, or gender differences be obliterated but rather that these differ-

SINGLENESS MANY OPPORTUNITIES

Singleness is a permanent state in life for some people and a temporary state in life for most. Adam was created by God and knew an experience of solitude in the garden before God created Eve. Most teenagers and young adults today experience a similar period of aloneness. The response of faith is to see singleness as a call to a committed life, not a lonely life. Made in the image of God (Gen. 1:26), the single woman ideally lives in a covenant relationship with God and is called to develop her gifts—human and spiritual—to contribute to the building up of the church (1 Cor. 12:7).

St. Francis deSales observed that the single person who later marries faces the challenge of preserving a heart capable of love—as opposed to a heart "quite worn out, spoiled, and weary with love instead of a whole and sincere heart."

The single woman is called to develop a deep love relationship with the Lord and to channel her love in pure, productive, and generous ways to the benefit of others. A vital spiritual life can be her anchor for chastity and a source of stability in an evil and perverse generation (Luke 9:41; 11:29).

The single person can experience great freedom to devote herself to work, friendship, and service—all of which can contribute greatly to the church and the extension of God's kingdom on the earth. The single person has an opportunity to give a unique level of service to those in need—a level of service that is unfettered and "without distraction" (1 Cor. 7:35).

A generous willingness to assist others can lead to happiness and fulfillment for the single woman. A spirit of generous service, which can be a tremendous witness to the power of God, is a gift to be sought from God.

or Greeks, whether slaves or free—and have all been made to drink into[a] one Spirit. 14For in fact the body is not one member but many.

15If the foot should say, "Because I am not a hand, I am not of the body," is it therefore not of the body? 16And if the ear should say, "Because I am not an eye, I am not of the body," is it therefore not of the body? 17If the whole body were an eye, where would be the hearing? If the whole were hearing, where would be the smelling? 18But now God has set the members, each one of them, in the body just as He pleased. 19And if they were all one member, where would the body be?

20But now indeed there are many members, yet one body. 21And the eye cannot say to the hand, "I have no need of you"; nor again the head to the feet, "I have no need of you." 22No, much rather, those members of the body which seem to be weaker are necessary. 23And those members of the body which we think to be less honorable, on these we bestow greater honor; and our unpresentable parts have greater modesty, 24but our presentable parts have no need. But God composed the body, having given greater honor to that part which lacks it, 25that there should be no schism in the body, but that the members should have the same care for one another. 26And if one member suffers, all the members suffer with it; or if one member is honored, all the members rejoice with it.

27Now you are the body of Christ, and members individually. 28And God has appointed these in the church: first apostles, second prophets, third teachers, after that miracles, then gifts of healings, helps, administrations, varieties of tongues. 29*Are* all apostles? Are all prophets? Are all teachers? Are all workers of miracles? 30Do all have gifts of healings? Do all speak with tongues? Do all interpret? 31But earnestly desire the best[a] gifts. And yet I show you a more excellent way.

The Greatest Gift

13 Though I speak with the tongues of men and of angels, but have not love, I have become sounding brass or a clanging cymbal. 2And though I have the gift of prophecy, and understand all mysteries and all knowledge, and though ences are of no consequence with regard to one's access to God.

12:13 [a]NU-Text omits into. 12:31 [a]NU-Text reads greater.

12:20–24 The Corinthians regarded some spiritual gifts as superior to others. Paul argued that just as the physical body is comprised of parts with different roles and functions, so the body of the church exhibits variety in the giftedness of its members. Furthermore, he argued that the appearance of bodily parts is deceptive. Their apparent "weakness" has no direct relationship to their value or necessity. The hidden internal organs are not attractive, yet are much more essential to one's health than the visible, external ones. Also, the "unpresentable" sexual organs are given higher honor by being carefully clothed (v. 23). The members of the church body that appear to be weak and less worthy are accorded greater honor either by the importance of their function or by the special attention they require.

12:31 The Corinthians were preoccupied with who was wiser, more spiritual, more liberated, or more important. Therefore,

FRUIT OF THE SPIRIT — LOVE

In both Hebrew (ahab) and Greek (agapē), words translated "love" are action words, indicating conscious acts on behalf of a beloved. However, biblical love seems to demand going beyond merely a particular behavior to include a certain inner attitude, that is, a positive inner response (1 John 3:17).

While several Greek words describe specific forms of love, the Greek word agapē most expresses Christlike, selfless love. Unselfish, loyal, benevolent concern for the well-being of another is called by Paul "the greatest" gift of all (1 Cor. 13:13). Christian love is a fruit of the Holy Spirit, a virtue of godly living (Gal. 5:22).

The attributes of love reflect both feelings and loving acts (1 Cor. 13:4–8). True love is characterized as

- patient and slow to anger (v. 4)
- kind and gentle to all (v. 4)
- unselfish and giving (v. 5)
- truthful and honest (v. 6)
- hopeful and encouraging (v. 7)
- enduring, without end (v. 7)

Biblical love is not envious, proud, self-centered, rude, or provoking (vv. 4, 5).

Without love, the gifts of the Spirit are deemed worthless and the fruit of the Spirit incomplete (v. 8). Christian love is eternal. While all else fails, love never fails. It is a permanent, unconditional concern for others that results from the indwelling power of the Holy Spirit, rather than from human effort or desire.

I have all faith, so that I could remove mountains, but have not love, I am nothing. 3And though I bestow all my goods to feed the poor, and though I give my body to be burned,[a] but have not love, it profits me nothing.

4Love suffers long and is kind; love does not envy; love does not parade itself, is not puffed up; 5does not behave rudely, does not seek its own, is not provoked, thinks no evil; 6does not rejoice in iniquity, but rejoices in the truth; 7bears all things, believes all things, hopes all things, endures all things.

8Love never fails. But whether there are prophecies, they will fail; whether there are tongues, they will cease; whether there is knowledge, it will vanish away. 9For we know in part and we prophesy in part. 10But when that which is perfect has come, then that which is in part will be done away.

11When I was a child, I spoke as a child, I understood as a child, I thought as a child; but when I became a man, I put away childish things. 12For now we see in a mirror, dimly, but then face to face. Now I know in part, but then I shall know just as I also am known.

13And now abide faith, hope, love, these three; but the greatest of these is love.

Prophecy and Tongues

14 Pursue love, and desire spiritual gifts, but especially that you may prophesy. 2For he who speaks in a tongue does not speak to men but to

they desired to have what they viewed as the "best" spiritual gift—speaking in tongues. Paul did not rebuke them for seeking "the best" but pointed out that their assessment of the value of tongues was erroneous. The "best" gift, he argued, was not the flashy outward one but rather a gift such as prophecy, which edified the whole church (1 Cor. 14:12). Paul wanted them to use their gifts in "a more excellent way"—the way of love.

13:2 Paul considered the gift of prophecy to be of primary significance for the Christian community (1 Thess. 5:19, 20; 1 Cor. 14:1–25). The Corinthians, on the other hand, favored "knowledge" (1 Cor. 1:5; 8:1). Love is the essential undergirding for the proper management of any spiritual gift.

13:12, 13 The city of Corinth was famous for producing some of the finest bronze mirrors in antiquity. Paul used the analogy of looking in a mirror to explain the indirect nature of one's view of God and His ways. One "sees" God and His "mysteries" only indirectly and partially. Although good, the image is limited (v. 12) and falls short of the real thing. Spiritual gifts were undoubtedly good but were only necessary for the present age of partial seeing and knowledge. Christian love, on the other hand, was eternal. Paul wanted the Corinthians to correct their perspective and focus on the greatness of the eternal rather than that of the temporal.

14:1 The verb to prophesy (Gk. prophēteuō , lit. "to speak forth") is found more than 25 times in the NT. Paul used it

God's Spirit is present from the beginning and is the giver of life (Gen. 1:2; Job 33:4). The coming of the Holy Spirit to dwell permanently in the hearts of believers is specifically recorded in the New Testament to coincide with the Day of Pentecost (Acts 2:17, 18) and is a direct partial fulfillment of the prophecy of Joel 2:28, 29. Thus, the attributing of gifts to Old Testament women or New Testament women ministering before the coming of the Spirit at Pentecost would be considered inappropriate by some and difficult to define by all. Even after Pentecost, the possible reference to a gift is so brief as to make it impossible to identify the assignment with certainty. Nevertheless, we can be inspired by gifted women who have gone before.

Spiritual gifts cannot be sought or grasped; rather, they are divinely bestowed, not to magnify the individual possessing the gift but to enhance her efforts for ministry. The gifts were poured out upon women and men, but without requirement that every gift be found in either sex. For example, there is little evidence that the gift of apostleship was given to a woman, nor do we see clear examples in the text of the gifts of healings and miracles given to women. Though everyone has some gift(s), no one has all the gifts. Never does God give a gift to be used in contradiction to His written Word just as His Spirit never leads anyone to exercise a gift that contradicts Scripture. The sovereignly bestowed gifts are to be used according to the purposes of the Holy Spirit for the edification of the church.

WIDOWHOOD FILLING THE EMPTINESS

During intense grief, widows need intimate times with family. In quietness and seclusion anxious hearts express heartache, fears, loss, and pain (Phil. 4:6). Communication flows; prayer times increase; God's plans are seen more clearly as He is allowed to fill our emptiness with Himself (Eph. 5:17, 18).

Often without realizing it, an outpouring of God's grace comes through obedience (2 Kin. 4:5). No one is exempt from its overflow. Family and friends are touched by its reality. And hope is renewed through faithfulness in doing God's implicit will (Jer. 29:11–14).

Offering empty vessels to God involves hands, bodies, brains, emotions, thoughts, dreams (Rom. 12:1, 2). It is giving Him all we are, have, or hope to be. Behind shut doors we can immerse ourselves in His presence (Ps. 139:23, 24).

God could go on filling cleansed, empty vessels, but He knows just how much is needed (Phil. 4:6, 19). His ending of the flow is as deliberate as the beginning. His oil will always be in sufficient supply (2 Kin. 4:6).

God's intentions for women emerging from the life-changing experience of widowhood and child rearing are unlimited. He has provided material needs (2 Kin. 4:7). And He sent His Son that we might have life, and that we might have it more abundantly (John 10:10). With the presence of God's Spirit within, widows can find new relationships and responsibilities, which should be accepted by them with great joy, realizing that each is a gift from God's heart (Eph. 3:16–21).

God, for no one understands him; however, in the spirit he speaks mysteries. 3But he who prophesies speaks edification and exhortation and comfort to men. 4He who speaks in a tongue edifies himself, but he who prophesies edifies the church. 5I wish you all spoke with tongues, but even more that you prophesied; for[a] he who prophesies is greater than he who speaks with tongues, unless indeed he interprets, that the church may receive edification.

Tongues Must Be Interpreted

6But now, brethren, if I come to you speaking with tongues, what shall I profit you unless I speak to you either by revelation, by knowledge, by prophesying, or by teaching? 7Even things without life, whether flute or harp, when they make a sound, unless they make a distinction in the sounds, how will it be known what is piped or played? 8For if the trumpet makes an uncertain sound, who will prepare for battle? 9So likewise you, unless you utter by the tongue words easy to understand, how will it be known what is spoken? For you will be speaking into the air. 10There are, it may be, so many kinds of languages in the world, and none of them is without significance. 11Therefore, if I do not know the meaning of the language, I shall be a foreigner to him who speaks, and he who speaks will be a foreigner to me. 12Even so you, since you are zealous for spiritual gifts, let it be for the edification of the church that you seek to excel.

13Therefore let him who speaks in a tongue pray that he may interpret. 14For if I pray in a tongue, my spirit prays, but my understanding is unfruitful. 15What is the conclusion then? I will pray with the spirit, and I will also pray with the understanding. I will sing with the spirit, and I will also sing with the understanding. 16Otherwise, if you bless with the spirit, how will he who occupies the place of the uninformed say "Amen" at your giving of thanks, since he does not understand what you

11 times, all in 1 Corinthians. To prophesy is to speak a divine message as directed by the Spirit of God. The message may be ethical, that is, to comfort, exhort, teach (1 Cor. 14:3); revelatory or revealing supernatural knowledge of a particular situation (Matt. 26:68); or it may point to the future or foretell (Matt. 15:7). Prophecy is Spirit-inspired speech from God to His creation (1 Cor. 14:2, 3). All prophetic messages were to be "tested" for their prophetic character (1 Cor. 14:29; 1 Thess. 5:19–21) and for their agreement with the teachings of Scripture (Deut. 13:1–5; Matt. 7:15; 24:11; 2 Pet. 2:1).

14:5 The Corinthians had a tendency to exaggerate the importance of the gift of speaking in tongues. This gift, they reasoned, constituted the highest and greatest form of spirituality. Paul disagreed. He compared the gift of tongues with that of prophecy. He pointed out that the benefit of tongues was limited by the ability of the congregation to understand what was said. Prophecy, on the other hand, was intelligible; thus, it was "greater" because it served the whole body: In order to be "great" in the kingdom, one must become the servant of all (Mark 10:43). Since the Corinthians were intent on seeking the greatest gifts, Paul argued that they should seek those that served the whole body rather than those that merely benefited themselves.

WHAT IS LOVE?

WORD	MEANING	COMMENTS	BIBLICAL USAGE
Agapē (Gk.)	Indicates a choice to serve God, to love neighbor, to accept self without expecting something in return (Matt. 22:34–40).	Appears rarely in secular Greek writings; Coined by New Testament writers to describe God's love (John 3:16); Christian love is based on the deliberate choice of the lover rather than the worthiness of the one loved (1 Cor. 13:1–13).	Love: is longsuffering is kind is not jealous is not boastful is not arrogant is not rude is not selfish is not resentful does not think evil rejoices in truth bears all things believes all things hopes all things endures all things (1 Cor. 13:1–13).
Philia (Gk.)	Refers to esteem and affection reflected in the loving concern friends have for one another.	Used in the New Testament (John 21:15–17; Titus 2:4); Sometimes used interchangeably or synonymously with agapē.	The nature of Peter's love is the question. Jesus uses agapē (unselfish commitment) in His questions; Peter uses philia (esteem or high regard) in his response. Perhaps his caution comes from his bitter experience of denying the Lord (John 21:15–17). The love of a woman for her husband and children must be marked with philia or esteem and respect, not just agape or unselfish commitment (Titus 2:4; see also Eph. 5:33).
Eros (Gk.)	Describes appetitive, self-centered love, including sexual desire and physical craving.	Does not appear in the New Testament.
Storgē (Gk.)	Alludes to affection, especially among family members.	Does not appear in the New Testament.

say? [17]For you indeed give thanks well, but the other is not edified.

[18]I thank my God I speak with tongues more than you all; [19]yet in the church I would rather speak five words with my understanding, that I may teach others also, than ten thousand words in a tongue.

Tongues a Sign to Unbelievers

[20]Brethren, do not be children in understanding; however, in malice be babes, but in understanding be mature.

[21]In the law it is written:

"With men of other tongues and other lips

I will speak to this people;
And yet, for all that, they will not hear Me,"[a] says the Lord.

[22]Therefore tongues are for a sign, not to those who believe but to unbelievers; but prophesying is not for unbelievers but for those who believe. [23]Therefore if the whole church comes together in one place, and all speak with tongues, and there come in those who are uninformed or unbelievers, will they not say that you are out of your mind? [24]But if all prophesy, and an unbeliever or an uninformed person comes in, he is convinced by all, he is convicted by all. [25]And thus[a] the secrets of his heart are revealed; and so, falling down on his face, he will worship God and report that God is truly among you.

Order in Church Meetings

[26]How is it then, brethren? Whenever you come together, each of you has a psalm, has a teaching, has a tongue, has a revelation, has an interpretation. Let all things be done for edification. [27]If anyone speaks in a tongue, let there be two or at the most three, each in turn, and let one interpret. [28]But if there is no interpreter, let him keep silent in church, and let him speak to himself and to God. [29]Let two or three prophets speak, and let the others judge. [30]But if anything is revealed to another who sits by, let the first keep silent. [31]For you can all prophesy one by one, that all may learn and all may be encouraged. [32]And the spirits of the prophets are subject to the prophets. [33]For God is not the author of confusion but of peace, as in all the churches of the saints.

[34]Let your[a] women keep silent in the churches, for they are not permitted to speak; but they are to be submissive, as the law also says. [35]And if they want to learn something, let them ask their own husbands at home; for it is shameful for women to speak in church.

[36]Or did the word of God come originally from you? Or was it you only that it reached? [37]If anyone thinks himself to be a prophet or spiritual, let him acknowledge that the things which I write to you are the commandments of the Lord. [38]But if anyone is ignorant, let him be ignorant.[a]

[39]Therefore, brethren, desire earnestly to prophesy, and do not forbid to speak with tongues. [40]Let all things be done decently and in order.

The Risen Christ, Faith's Reality

15 Moreover, brethren, I declare to you the gospel which I preached to you, which also you received and in which you stand, [2]by which also you are saved, if you hold fast that word which I preached to you— unless you believed in vain.

[3]For I delivered to you first of all that which I also received: that Christ died for our sins according to the Scriptures, [4]and that He was buried, and that He rose again the third day according to the Scriptures, [5]and that He was seen by Cephas, then by the twelve. [6]After that He was seen by over five hundred brethren at once, of whom the greater part remain to the present, but some have fallen asleep. [7]After that He was seen by James, then by all the apostles. [8]Then last of all He was seen by me also, as by one born out of due time.

[9]For I am the least of the apostles, who am not

14:21 [a]Isaiah 28:11, 12 14:25 [a]NU-Text omits And thus. 14:34 [a]NU-Text omits your. 14:38 [a]NU-Text reads if anyone does not recognize this, he is not recognized.

14:26 Everyone had opportunity to participate in the corporate ministry of the church in NT times. During worship, various members offered psalms, teachings, tongues, revelations, and interpretations. Paul encouraged this practice, but stressed that all aspects of corporate worship were to edify the church. "Edification" (Gk. oikodome, lit. "house building") was used figuratively as growing, improving, or maturing. Paul was concerned that spiritual gifts not be exercised in the interest of self-development or self-display, but rather according to the law of love that served and built others up.

14:34, 35 Paul recognized that women were praying and prophesying in public worship and did not condemn them for doing so (1 Cor. 11:5). Yet here he commanded that women "keep silent in the churches" (1 Cor. 14:34). One way of resolving what some consider a discrepancy is by considering the particular type of speech that Paul disallowed. In this passage, he was probably discussing the gift of prophecy, and more specifically, the evaluation or judgment of prophecy (1 Cor. 14:29–39). Paul allowed women to participate in worship and, indeed, expected that they would do so (v. 26), but here he may have been forbidding them from giving spoken criticisms of the prophecies that were made because he was concerned that the principle of headship be evidenced in the public assembly of believers. Women's silence during the evaluation of prophecy was one of the ways in which this was to be accomplished. Another way to understand this command for women to be silent is in relationship to Paul's command to the believers to do all things "decently and in order" (v. 40). God "is not the author of confusion" (v. 33). The women could have been displaying some kind of disorderly conduct (v. 35). Others suggest, since the subject of major discussion in chapter 14 is tongues, that the prohibition to women is to refrain from ecstatic utterance. Clearly this cannot mean that women are forbidden altogether to speak in the assembly (1 Cor. 11:5).

15:2 To hold fast means to keep in memory and to hold firmly. It implies continued holding and lasting possession. Paul wanted the Corinthians to hold fast to the essence of the gospel—Jesus' death and Resurrection—lest their faith be "in vain," that is, without cause or purpose.

15:4 The Resurrection body of Christ had these characteristics: He could pass through shut doors (John 20:19, 26); He could vanish from view (Luke 24:31); His body was real and could be touched (Luke 24:39; John 20:17, 27); He was able to eat (Luke 24:42, 43).

worthy to be called an apostle, because I persecuted the church of God. [10]But by the grace of God I am what I am, and His grace toward me was not in vain; but I labored more abundantly than they all, yet not I, but the grace of God which was with me. [11]Therefore, whether it was I or they, so we preach and so you believed.

The Risen Christ, Our Hope

[12]Now if Christ is preached that He has been raised from the dead, how do some among you say that there is no resurrection of the dead? [13]But if there is no resurrection of the dead, then Christ is not risen. [14]And if Christ is not risen, then our preaching is empty and your faith is also empty. [15]Yes, and we are found false witnesses of God, because we have testified of God that He raised up Christ, whom He did not raise up—if in fact the dead do not rise. [16]For if the dead do not rise, then Christ is not risen. [17]And if Christ is not risen, your faith is futile; you are still in your sins! [18]Then also those who have fallen asleep in Christ have perished. [19]If in this life only we have hope in Christ, we are of all men the most pitiable.

The Last Enemy Destroyed

[20]But now Christ is risen from the dead, and has become the firstfruits of those who have fallen asleep. [21]For since by man came death, by Man also came the resurrection of the dead. [22]For as in Adam all die, even so in Christ all shall be made alive. [23]But each one in his own order: Christ the firstfruits, afterward those who are Christ's at His coming. [24]Then comes the end, when He

15:17 Some Ancient Greek philosophy viewed everything spiritual as intrinsically good and everything physical as intrinsically evil. To those holding this view, the idea of a resurrected body would have been repugnant. The Corinthians were affected by contemporary philosophy. Although they had faith in the Resurrection of Christ, some had begun to question the resurrection of believers. Paul demonstrated that the two go hand in hand (vv. 13–19). Resurrection is not only possible but is essential to the Christian faith. In order to vindicate the work of His Son, God raised Christ from the dead. Therefore, a denial of the resurrection of the dead is a denial of the gospel. Paul argued that if Christ were not risen from the dead, all believers throughout history would have believed for nothing, lived for nothing, and died for nothing.

15:23 Prior to reaping their fields, Israelites were to bring a representative sample of their crop to the priests as an

DEATH — THE END OR THE BEGINNING?

Jesus Christ repeatedly overturned the enemy, Death, and robbed Death of its sting (1 Cor. 15:26; 2 Tim. 1:8–10). After Lazarus' dead body had been in its grave for four days, Jesus prayed, then called Lazarus back to life (John 11:1–44). When Jesus arrived at the house of Jairus, He found the ruler's twelve-year-old daughter dead. He took the child by the hand and told her to arise. To her parents' astonishment, she came back to life (Mark 5:38–42). Jesus stopped a funeral procession in Nain. He touched the open coffin of a widow's only son and commanded him back to life. Then Jesus presented the living son to his mother (Luke 7:11–15).

In Scripture, death is often connected with sin (Rom. 6:23; 5:12–21). Death was considered a curse when it occurred to someone in the prime of life or to a childless person.

Death has two stages: 1) The permanent cessation of all bodily vital functions and the separation of the spirit and soul from the body (James 2:26); and finally 2) Resurrection in Christ (Is. 26:19). Through His death and resurrection, Jesus gives to all hope for everlasting life (John 5:24).

delivers the kingdom to God the Father, when He puts an end to all rule and all authority and power. 25For He must reign till He has put all enemies under His feet. 26The last enemy that will be destroyed is death. 27For "He has put all things under His feet."[a] But when He says "all things are put under Him," it is evident that He who put all things under Him is excepted. 28Now when all things are made subject to Him, then the Son Himself will also be subject to Him who put all things under Him, that God may be all in all.

Effects of Denying the Resurrection

29Otherwise, what will they do who are baptized for the dead, if the dead do not rise at all? Why then are they baptized for the dead? 30And why do we stand in jeopardy every hour? 31I affirm, by the boasting in you which I have in Christ Jesus our Lord, I die daily. 32If, in the manner of men, I have fought with beasts at Ephesus, what advantage is it to me? If the dead do not rise, "Let us eat and drink, for tomorrow we die!"[a]

33Do not be deceived: "Evil company corrupts good habits." 34Awake to righteousness, and do not sin; for some do not have the knowledge of God. I speak this to your shame.

A Glorious Body

35But someone will say, "How are the dead raised up? And with what body do they come?" 36Foolish one, what you sow is not made alive unless it dies. 37And what you sow, you do not sow that body that shall be, but mere grain—perhaps wheat or some other grain. 38But God gives it a body as He pleases, and to each seed its own body.

39All flesh is not the same flesh, but there is one kind of flesh[a] of men, another flesh of animals, another of fish, and another of birds.

40*There are* also celestial bodies and terrestrial bodies; but the glory of the celestial is one, and the glory of the terrestrial is another. 41*There is* one glory of the sun, another glory of the moon, and another glory of the stars; for one star differs from another star in glory.

42So also is the resurrection of the dead. The body is sown in corruption, it is raised in incorruption. 43It is sown in dishonor, it is raised in glory. It is sown in weakness, it is raised in power. 44It is sown a natural body, it is raised a spiritual body. There is a natural body, and there is a spiritual body. 45And so it is written, "The first man Adam became a living being."[a] The last Adam became a life-giving spirit.

46However, the spiritual is not first, but the natural, and afterward the spiritual. 47The first man was of the earth, made of dust; the second Man is the Lord[a] from heaven. 48As was the man of offering to the Lord (Lev. 23:10). Full harvest was not allowed until this sample, called the "firstfruits," was offered. This practice was behind Paul's imagery of Christ as the "firstfruits." Christ's Resurrection was the first sample of the coming harvest of the resurrection of the believing dead. He Himself was the offering made to the Father on their behalf. In referring to Christ as "firstfruits," Paul furthered his resurrection argument. The "firstfruits" were only the initial installment; the rest of the crop would follow. Therefore, in order to complete the Father's harvest, it was necessary that all those who believed in Christ also be resurrected.

15:29 A difficult and obscure text cannot structure biblical doctrine. Though there is no easy explanation, the sense seems to be that the preposition "for" (Gk. huper) is better translated "concerning" so that Christian baptism "concerning" death as it relates to the Resurrection is meaningless unless the Resurrection is, in fact, true.

15:45 Paul concluded his presentation on the doctrine of the Resurrection by explaining that there were two types of boddust, so also are those who are made of dust; and as is the heavenly Man, so also are those who are heavenly. 49And as we have borne the image of the man of dust, we shall also bear[a] the image of the heavenly Man.

Our Final Victory

50Now this I say, brethren, that flesh and blood cannot inherit the kingdom of God; nor does corruption inherit incorruption. 51Behold, I tell you a mystery: We shall not all sleep, but we shall all be changed— 52in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trumpet. For the trumpet will sound, and the dead will be raised incorruptible, and we shall be changed. 53For this corruptible must put on incorruption, and this mortal must put on immortality. 54So when this corruptible has put on incorruption, and this mortal has put on immortality, then shall be brought to pass the saying that is written: "Death is swallowed up in victory."[a]

55*"O Death, where is your sting?*[a] O Hades, where is your victory?"[b]

56The sting of death is sin, and the strength of sin is the law. 57But thanks be to God, who gives us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ.

58Therefore, my beloved brethren, be steadfast, immovable, always abounding in the work of the Lord, knowing that your labor is not in vain in the Lord.

Collection for the Saints

16 Now concerning the collection for the saints, as I have given orders to the churches of Galatia, so you must do also: 2On the first day of the week let each one of you lay something aside, storing up as he may prosper, that there be no collections when I come. 3And when I come, whomever you approve by your letters I will send to bear your gift to Jerusalem. 4But if it is fitting that I go also, they will go with me.

Personal Plans

5Now I will come to you when I pass through Macedonia (for I am passing through Macedonia). 6And it may be that I will remain, or even spend the winter with you, that you may send me on my journey, wherever I go. 7For I do not wish to see you now on the way; but I hope to stay a while with you, if the Lord permits.

8But I will tarry in Ephesus until Pentecost. 9For a great and effective door has opened to me, and there are many adversaries.

10And if Timothy comes, see that he may be with you without fear; for he does the work of the Lord, as I also do. 11Therefore let no one despise him. But send him on his journey in peace, that he may come to me; for I am waiting for him with the brethren.

12Now concerning our brother Apollos, I strongly urged him to come to you with the brethren, but he was quite unwilling to come at this time; however, he will come when he has a convenient time.

ies, "natural" and "spiritual" (v. 46). The first man, Adam, was created with a natural, physical body, which became subject to decay and death. Jesus Christ, "the last Adam," overcame death and was given a "spiritual" (glorified), immortal body. Therefore, by virtue of creation, Adam was "of the earth," and by virtue of the Resurrection, Christ was "from heaven" (v. 47). Paul said that these two were prototypes: the first bearers of the two kinds of bodies. The first man Adam represents all those who share in having a physical body. The last Adam represents all those who bear His spiritual likeness. The first Adam was human, the last, infinitely more. Believers have borne the image of the former, and they shall someday also bear the image of the latter (v. 49).

15:50–52 Paul affirmed that some Christians would not face death. When Christ returns, the dead in Christ will be raised first (v. 52), but then those believers who are alive will be caught up to meet Him (vv. 51, 52; see 1 Thess. 4:17, note; chart, Glossary Terms in Eschatology).

16:2 Paul had solicited various churches for contributions for the needy Christians in Jerusalem (Rom. 15:26; 2 Cor. 8:1–5). In NT times, Jerusalem was a poor city. The area had experienced a severe famine some years earlier, and many residents remained financially stressed (Acts 11:28). Paul instructed the Corinthians to set aside some money each week according to how much they had prospered. This amount was not to be a certain percentage of their income. It was, rather, to be based upon the believer's personal examination of his own heart. The Corinthian contributions not only brought relief to the poor but also brought unity between Gentile and Jewish Christians. Paul reasoned that since the Gentiles had shared in the Jew's spiritual blessings, they ought to reciprocate by giving some of their material blessings to the Jews (Rom. 15:27; 2 Cor. 9:12–14).

Final Exhortations

13 Watch, stand fast in the faith, be brave, be strong. 14 Let all that you do be done with love.
15 I urge you, brethren—you know the household of Stephanas, that it is the firstfruits of Achaia, and that they have devoted themselves to the ministry of the saints— 16 that you also submit to such, and to everyone who works and labors with us.
17 I am glad about the coming of Stephanas, Fortunatus, and Achaicus, for what was lacking on your part they supplied. 18 For they refreshed my spirit and yours. Therefore acknowledge such men.

Greetings and a Solemn Farewell

19 The churches of Asia greet you. Aquila and Priscilla greet you heartily in the Lord, with the church that is in their house. 20 All the brethren greet you.

Greet one another with a holy kiss.

21 The salutation with my own hand—Paul's.

22 If anyone does not love the Lord Jesus Christ, let him be accursed.[a] O Lord, come![b]

23 The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you. 24 My love be with you all in Christ Jesus.
Amen.

16:22 [a]Greek anathema [b]Aramaic Maranatha

16:14 Paul did not use the word love frequently in this letter, but two crucial passages (1 Cor. 8:1–3; 13), as well as this closing imperative, indicate that he regarded love as the essential girder for all of his ethical instructions. "Let all that you do" would have included the divisive quarrels (1 Cor. 1–3), their attitude toward him (1 Cor. 4; 9), church discipline (1 Cor. 5), the lawsuits (1 Cor. 6), marital relationships (1 Cor. 7), the abuse of the "weak" (1 Cor. 8—10), the abuse of the poor at the Lord's Supper, and the failure to edify the church in worship (1 Cor. 11—14). Had they followed the way of love, they would not have encountered many of these problems. The Corinthians had all the gifts, but love is what they needed most.

16:19 Aquila and Priscilla were a unique husband-wife team who were viewed as capable teachers in the early church. Both had a significant influence on the learned Apollos (see Acts 18, Priscilla).

2 Corinthians

AUTHOR

In style and content, no other letter is more characteristic of the apostle Paul than 2 Corinthians. This letter contains much autobiographical information as well as references to people, situations, and events with which Paul and his readers were obviously familiar. The conclusion that Paul is the author of 2 Corinthians is indisputable.

DATE

Second Corinthians was written from somewhere in Macedonia (2 Cor. 2:13; 7:5–7) during Paul's third missionary journey (see map, Paul's Third Missionary Journey). Paul was revisiting the churches that he had founded during his second journey; so he may have composed the letter in Philippi or Thessalonica (see map, Paul's Second Missionary Journey). Second Corinthians is closely related to 1 Corinthians; only a few months had elapsed between the writing of the two letters. Therefore, this epistle was written during the late summer or autumn of the year 56 A.D. After writing, Paul continued to travel in Macedonia as far as the borders of Illyricum (Rom. 15:19). Then, as promised in the letter, he journeyed to Corinth to spend the winter months of 56–57 A.D.

SETTING: For information on the city of Corinth, see the Introduction to 1 Corinthians. Paul wrote 1 Corinthians to resolve doctrinal and ethical problems in the church at Corinth. He also sent Timothy to help the Corinthians correct the problems in their congregation (1 Cor. 4:17). Apparently, these measures did not have the desired effect. Therefore, Paul sailed directly from Ephesus to Corinth, seeking personally to resolve the matters. This second visit was painful for him (2 Cor. 2:1). One man in particular took the lead in defying Paul's authority.

Paul returned to Ephesus disheartened, full of sorrow, and humiliated (2 Cor. 2:5; 7:12; 12:21). He sent the Corinthians a third letter, scathingly disciplinary in nature (2 Cor. 7:8, 9). It was borne by Titus, but this third letter is not extant today (2 Cor. 2:3, 4). Paul left Ephesus in the spring of A.D. 56, bound for Macedonia (Acts 20:1; see map, Paul's Third Missionary Journey). He planned to rendezvous with Titus on a stopover in Troas in order to receive news about the situation in Corinth (2 Cor. 2:13).

Paul waited anxiously for Titus until the opportunity for navigation across the Aegean had ceased for the winter. Then, knowing Titus would need to take the land route through Macedonia, Paul departed. He finally met Titus in Macedonia and received good news about the general condition of the Corinthian church as well as bad news about a small faction that continued to oppose him. Paul wrote a fourth letter—the epistle identified as 2 Corinthians—to prepare the Corinthian church for his third visit (Acts 20:2, 3). The first letter (1 Cor. 5:9) and third letter (2 Cor. 2:3, 4) have been lost. The second letter is 1 Corinthians, and the fourth, 2 Corinthians.

PURPOSE: Paul was overjoyed to hear from Titus that the Corinthians had accepted the reproofs of his disciplinary letter and had dealt with the offender. To vindicate himself in their eyes, Paul explained his conduct in the matter and defended his integrity. He reinforced the authenticity of both his apostleship and his message. The dominating purpose of this epistle was to prepare the Corinthian church for Paul's impending third visit.

AUDIENCE: The church in Corinth consisted mainly of converted Gentiles, some Romans, and a few Jews. Most of these had little education and were low in social status. According to 1 Corinthians, immorality was rife in the church, and the believers had become proud and divisive. Second Corinthians was written after most of these problems had been resolved. However, a small faction of anti-Paul activists remained.

LITERARY CHARACTERISTICS: Second Corinthians is the most personal and intimate of all Paul's letters as well as the one containing the majority of autobiographical references. The tone of the first seven chapters is loving and gentle, but after that point the tone becomes quite severe. Some scholars have suggested that the latter portion of 2 Corinthians was part of the "tearful letter," but little evidence exists to support this theory. The transition in tone from chapter seven to eight is substantial. However, transitions to difficult subjects are always awkward. Paul needed to confront the Corinthians directly in order to win their affections for a singular devotion to Christ and to himself as Christ's apostle. That he put off his severe remarks until the end of his letter is not surprising.

THEMES

In 2 Corinthians, Paul was seeking to vindicate himself and expose the false apostles who were disrupting the Corinthian church. He discussed the correct motives for serving Christ and pointed out that he, as an apostle, had served both diligently and faithfully. The primary theme of the letter is that obedience to Christ means respect and submission to the authority of Christ's messenger—in this case, Paul. A second, underlying theme is that of selfless giving—both in Christian service and in the sharing of personal possessions and resources.

A. Paul's parental love for the Corinthians (12:14–19)
B. His apprehension regarding their spiritual condition (12:20, 21)
C. Paul's use of his authority for their edification (13:1–10)
Conclusion: Closing Salutation and Benediction (13:11–14)

Greeting

1 Paul, an apostle of Jesus Christ by the will of God, and Timothy our brother,

To the church of God which is at Corinth, with all the saints who are in all Achaia:

2 Grace to you and peace from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ.

Comfort in Suffering

3 Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Father of mercies and God of all comfort, 4 who comforts us in all our tribulation, that we may be able to comfort those who are in any trouble, with the comfort with which we ourselves are comforted by God. 5 For as the sufferings of Christ abound in us, so our consolation also abounds through Christ. 6 Now if we are afflicted, it is for your consolation and salvation, which is effective for enduring the same sufferings which we also suffer. Or if we are comforted, it is for your consolation and salvation. 7 And our hope for you is steadfast, because we know that as you are partakers of the sufferings, so also you will partake of the consolation.

Delivered from Suffering

8 For we do not want you to be ignorant, brethren, of our trouble which came to us in Asia: that we were burdened beyond measure, above strength, so that we despaired even of life. 9 Yes, we had the sentence of death in ourselves, that we should not trust in ourselves but in God who raises the dead, 10 who delivered us from so great a death, and does[a] deliver us; in whom we trust that He will still deliver us, 11 you also helping together in prayer for us, that thanks may be given by many persons on our[a] behalf for the gift granted to us through many.

Paul's Sincerity

12 For our boasting is this: the testimony of our conscience that we conducted ourselves in the

1:4 Paul mentioned tribulations (Gk. thlipsis, lit. "burdens," "afflictions," or "troubles") nine times in this letter (twice in v. 4; see also v. 8; 2 Cor. 2:4; 4:17; 6:4; 7:4; 8:2, 13) and the corresponding verb three times: "afflicted" (2 Cor. 1:6); "hard pressed" (2 Cor. 4:8); "troubled" (2 Cor. 7:5). Paul experienced numerous troubles as did many because of their allegiance to the gospel. These believers not only endured trials, but they were actually able to derive benefit from them. Difficult experiences forced them to focus on the internal rather than the external, and the eternal rather than the temporal (2 Cor. 4:17, 18). They received the comfort of God in time of trial. This consolation enabled them, in turn, to help others through difficult experiences.

1:12 In a previous letter, Paul expressed the hope of visiting Corinth for an extended stay after visiting Macedonia (1 Cor. 16:5–7). However, he modified his original plan and passed quickly through Corinth en route to Macedonia, intending to return for a lengthy visit later. Paul encountered strong opposition and public insult in Corinth and therefore canceled his return visit (2 Cor. 2:5; 7:12; 12:21). The Corinthians did not understand the rationale behind Paul's twice-changed travel plans and accused him of duplicity and fickleness. Paul defended his integrity and explained that his recent conduct was sincere and true to a higher power—being guided not by earthly wisdom but by the grace of God. "Sincerity" connotes the idea of being found unstained when examined in sunlight. Paul was not fickle, but reliable. His character would be found pure beneath the searching gaze of God (1 Cor. 4:4, 5).

CONSCIENCE RIGHT OR WRONG?

Conscience is a universal, innate, God-given capacity to distinguish between right and wrong (Rom. 2:14, 15). It has two functions: to urge an individual to do what is perceived to be right; and subsequently to commend or condemn, depending on whether the individual did what was perceived as right. A person who has a "good" and "pure" conscience consistently and genuinely acts in conformity with an inner set of godly standards (2 Cor. 1:12; 1 Tim. 1:5, 19; 3:9).

Conscience can be distorted, however. While this inner set of standards will be accurate if it is based on biblical truth, the conscience will be unreliable if faulty standards have been consistently presented to it as being true. The old saying, "Let your conscience be your guide," will only be true if the individual's conscience has been infused with godly principles. Thus, Christian parents have the important responsibility of communicating accurate standards of right and wrong to their children.

Conscience can also be disabled. For example, it can become insensitive and calloused if the person consistently acts contrary to its standards (Eph. 4:19). Even more seriously, the conscience can become "seared" and of no value through deliberately choosing to believe the lies of deceiving spirits rather than God's truth (1 Tim. 4:2).

world in simplicity and godly sincerity, not with fleshly wisdom but by the grace of God, and more abundantly toward you. 13For we are not writing any other things to you than what you read or understand. Now I trust you will understand, even to the end 14(as also you have understood us in part), that we are your boast as you also are ours, in the day of the Lord Jesus.

Sparing the Church

15And in this confidence I intended to come to you before, that you might have a second benefit— 16to pass by way of you to Macedonia, to come again from Macedonia to you, and be helped by you on my way to Judea. 17Therefore, when I was planning this, did I do it lightly? Or the things I plan, do I plan according to the flesh, that with me there should be Yes, Yes, and No, No? 18But as God is faithful, our word to you was not Yes and No. 19For the Son of God, Jesus Christ, who was preached among you by us—by me, Silvanus, and Timothy—was not Yes and No, but in Him was Yes. 20For all the promises of God in Him are Yes, and in Him Amen, to the glory of God through us. 21Now He who establishes us with you in Christ and has anointed us is God, 22who also has sealed us and given us the Spirit in our hearts as a guarantee.

23Moreover I call God as witness against my soul, that to spare you I came no more to Corinth. 24Not that we have dominion over your faith, but are fellow workers for your joy; for by faith you stand.

2 But I determined this within myself, that I would not come again to you in sorrow. 2For if I make you sorrowful, then who is he who makes me glad but the one who is made sorrowful by me?

Forgive the Offender

3And I wrote this very thing to you, lest, when I came, I should have sorrow over those from whom I ought to have joy, having confidence in you all that my joy is the joy of you all. 4For out of much affliction and anguish of heart I wrote to you, with many tears, not that you should be grieved, but that you might know the love which I have so abundantly for you.

5But if anyone has caused grief, he has not grieved me, but all of you to some extent—not to be too severe. 6This punishment which was inflicted by the majority is sufficient for such a man, 7so that, on the contrary, you ought rather to forgive and comfort him, lest perhaps such a one be swallowed up with too much sorrow. 8Therefore I urge

1:18–20 The Corinthians had accused Paul of being shifty, of saying "yes" and "no" in the same breath. Paul explained that his twice-changed travel plans were associated with the well-being of the Corinthians and not suggestive of a lack of reliability (v. 23). God is faithful, and the message preached by Paul was based on the Person of Jesus Christ, who completely affirms all of God's promises to His people. "Amen" (v. 20; Heb. and Gk., lit. "let it be so") was the response of those who accepted the gospel, experiencing security in Christ. Paul's actions were prompted by God, who was and is completely and totally faithful.

2:7 Paul's authority as an apostle had been publicly challenged during his last visit to Corinth. Paul apparently later wrote the Corinthians a letter (which has since been lost) that helped them understand the connection between a challenge to his authority and their own spiritual well-being as a body of believers (2 Cor. 2:3, 4). In wronging Paul, the offender had wronged the church (2 Cor. 2:5). In response to Paul's letter, the Corinthians disciplined the offender, who was apparently penitent. Therefore, Paul urged the church to forgive and comfort him (2 Cor. 2:11).

EMPLOYMENT WITNESS IN THE MARKETPLACE

God intended for believers to be people with a distinctive fragrance that can be identified. This fragrance should be recognized everywhere, including jobs, homes, communities, social engagements.

Scripture teaches that the aroma of Jesus Christ has different effects on different people (2 Cor. 2:14–16). To those who know Christ or are searching to know the truth, it is the aroma of life. But to those who are perishing and who have no desire to live any other way, it is the aroma of death. The fragrance of Jesus Christ will attract some people, and it will repel others. God has purposely placed you with this distinctive fragrance among different kinds of people.

The fact that not all with whom you come in contact are impressed with your Christian aroma should not be surprising. Jesus warned that in this world believers will suffer persecution (Matt. 5:11, 12). However you need to be certain that the aroma of Jesus and not an aroma that comes from your lack of compassion and love for others causes the adverse reaction.

Being a witness on the job is much tougher than most can imagine. Often ears are deaf and hearts are cold to even the most effective witness (Acts 26:28). If you are not spreading the fragrance of the Lord Jesus Christ, then you are failing those around you who are searching for truth. The most effective sharing of your faith begins with a heart of love and caring, seeing people though His eyes, the way God sees them. God has given you the opportunity in the marketplace to be His fragrance to a lost world.

See also 2 Kin. 5:1–15; Acts 16:11–15; notes on Employment (Eccl. 9; Acts 18; Col. 3; 1 Pet. 2); Evangelism (John 6; Col. 4; 1 Pet. 3); Friendship (Luke 1); Salvation (Eph. 2)

you to reaffirm your love to him. [9]For to this end I also wrote, that I might put you to the test, whether you are obedient in all things. [10]Now whom you forgive anything, I also forgive. For if indeed I have forgiven anything, I have forgiven that one[a] for your sakes in the presence of Christ, [11]lest Satan should take advantage of us; for we are not ignorant of his devices.

Triumph in Christ

[12]Furthermore, when I came to Troas to preach Christ's gospel, and a door was opened to me by the Lord, [13]I had no rest in my spirit, because I did not find Titus my brother; but taking my leave of them, I departed for Macedonia.

[14]Now thanks be to God who always leads us in triumph in Christ, and through us diffuses the fragrance of His knowledge in every place. [15]For we are to God the fragrance of Christ among those who are being saved and among those who are perishing. [16]To the one we are the aroma of death leading to death, and to the other the aroma of life leading to life. And who is sufficient for these things? [17]For we are not, as so many,[a] peddling the word of God; but as of sincerity, but as from God, we speak in the sight of God in Christ.

Christ's Epistle

3 Do we begin again to commend ourselves? Or do we need, as some others, epistles of commendation to you or letters of commendation from you? [2]You are our epistle written in our hearts, known and read by all men; [3]clearly you are an epistle of Christ, ministered by us, written not with ink but by the Spirit of the living God, not on tablets of stone but on tablets of flesh, that is, of the heart.

The Spirit, Not the Letter

[4]And we have such trust through Christ toward God. [5]Not that we are sufficient of ourselves to think of anything as being from ourselves, but

2:10 [a]NU-Text reads For indeed, what I have forgiven, if I have forgiven anything, I did it. 2:17 [a]M-Text reads the rest.

2:14 Paul's image of a triumphal parade was based on the Roman victory procession in which enemy prisoners were forced to march to reward a conquering general. God through Christ, has vanquished His enemies (Rom. 5:10; Col. 2:15). Paul, who had formerly been an enemy of God, was now taken captive by Christ and led in triumph. In the Roman parade, incense was burned. Paul compared this aroma to the knowledge of Christ, diffused like a fragrance through those whom Christ had captured.

2:16 OT animal sacrifices were a sweet aroma to God (Gen. 8:21; Ex. 29:18). However, after Christ offered Himself as the ultimate sacrifice for sin (Heb. 9:12), animal sacrifices became unnecessary. God now desires that an aroma be offered up to Him through the holy lives of Christians (Rom. 12:1). To God, this aroma is sweet; and to those who are being saved, it is the aroma of life. But to those who reject God, the aroma of Christ is a repugnant death stench.

3:3 Emissaries to NT churches often bore letters of recommendation, establishing the bearer's identity and credentials. The Corinthians themselves were the epistle or letter establishing Paul's credibility. The conversion of the Corinthians was a supernatural work, confirming that Paul, whom God used for the work, was a minister of Christ. The old covenant was inscribed on stone tablets (Ex. 24:12), but the New Covenant was written on human hearts (Ezek. 11:19).

3:5, 6 Who was sufficient for the overwhelming responsibility of being the aroma of Christ in the world (2 Cor. 2:16)? No one

APPEARANCE UNFADING BEAUTY

A Christian should be a complement to the kingdom of God in every aspect of life (2 Cor. 3:2, 3). Maintaining a clean, neat, modest, and appropriate appearance is a responsibility. To neglect how you look can diminish your total effectiveness since Scripture describes your body as the dwelling place of the Holy Spirit (1 Cor. 3:16, 17; 6:19, 20)! What is nurtured internally is ultimately manifested externally (Prov. 23:7).

Appropriate attire is essential for women who represent Christ. Women are admonished not merely to have outward adornment but to use such adornment to emphasize what is within (1 Pet. 3:3, 4). A Christlike spirit is preferred over excessive make-up, gaudy jewelry, or revealing clothes. Style and beauty, however, need not be compromised. We can be stylish with modesty and flair!

Good manners also blend into your total image. Consideration of another's feelings and opinions is an opportunity to reflect the character traits described in Scripture as the fruit of the Spirit (Gal. 5:22, 23). Having appropriate social skills can relax and free you to impart energy and concentration in other areas, such as sharing a witness for Christ or extending hospitality. Christians are watched, and their lives are scrutinized (Matt. 5:16). How others interpret your words and actions will be, to a great extent, how they regard Christ. Christ's love ought to shine! Unfading beauty is not dependent upon the outer frame but is achieved with the balance of personifying Christ's love and taking care of God's handiwork (1 Pet. 3:3, 4).

our sufficiency is from God, [6]who also made us sufficient as ministers of the new covenant, not of the letter but of the Spirit;[a] for the letter kills, but the Spirit gives life.

Glory of the New Covenant

[7]But if the ministry of death, written and engraved on stones, was glorious, so that the children of Israel could not look steadily at the face of Moses because of the glory of his countenance, which glory was passing away, [8]how will the ministry of the Spirit not be more glorious? [9]For if the ministry of condemnation had glory, the ministry of righteousness exceeds much more in glory. [10]For even what was made glorious had no glory in this respect, because of the glory that excels. [11]For if what is passing away was glorious, what remains is much more glorious.

[12]Therefore, since we have such hope, we use great boldness of speech— [13]unlike Moses, who put a veil over his face so that the children of Israel could not look steadily at the end of what was passing away. [14]But their minds were blinded. For until this day the same veil remains unlifted in the reading of the Old Testament, because the veil is taken away in Christ. [15]But even to this day, when Moses is read, a veil lies on their heart. [16]Nevertheless when one turns to the Lord, the veil is taken away. [17]Now the Lord is the Spirit; and where the Spirit of the Lord is, there is liberty. [18]But we all, with unveiled face, beholding as in a mirror the glory of the Lord, are being transformed into the same image from glory to glory, just as by the Spirit of the Lord.

The Light of Christ's Gospel

4 Therefore, since we have this ministry, as we have received mercy, we do not lose heart. [2]But we have renounced the hidden things of shame, not walking in craftiness nor handling the word of God deceitfully, but by manifestation of the truth commending ourselves to every man's conscience in the sight of God. [3]But even if our gospel is veiled, it is veiled to those who are perishing,

3:6 [a]Or spirit

could possibly be adequate for such a task. Human resources are pitifully insufficient. However, Paul argued that Christ equips believers with divine resources and thus makes them sufficient as ministers of the New Covenant. Therefore, reliance on human rather than divine authority with regard to letters of commendation was short-sighted (2 Cor. 3:1–3).

3:18 When Moses came down from Sinai with the tablets of the Law, his face physically reflected the fact that he had been speaking directly to God (Ex. 34:33–35). Paul maintained that as glorious as Moses' face was, it was a fading, temporal glory. It is outshone by the glory of the gospel, which, through the Spirit, transforms believers into the image of God from glory to ever increasing glory. The New Covenant is superior to the old covenant, for the Spirit removes the veil that obscures one's view of God. With unveiled faces, believers behold God's glory and are being transformed into His image.

4:3, 4 Some of Paul's critics maintained that Paul's message was obscure. Paul argued the problem was not with his message but rather with the veil that covered people's minds and prevented them from seeing truth (2 Cor. 3:15). Unbelievers, "those who are perishing," have had their minds blinded by the "god of this age," Satan (2 Cor. 4:3, 4; see Eph. 2:2), who, though defeated by Christ (Heb. 2:14), temporarily continues

THE GLORY OF THE NEW COVENANT

OLD COVENANT	NEW COVENANT
The Law was written on stone tablets (2 Cor. 3:3).	The New Covenant is written on human hearts (2 Cor. 3:3).
The letter of the Law kills (2 Cor. 3:6).	The Spirit of the Lord gives liberty and life (2 Cor. 3:6, 17).
The Law brings condemnation (2 Cor. 3:9).	The New Covenant brings righteousness (2 Cor. 3:9).
The old covenant was passing away (2 Cor. 3:11).	The New Covenant remains forever (2 Cor. 3:11).
The Israelites could not look on God without a veil (2 Cor. 3:13).	All can look upon the glory of the Lord (2 Cor. 3:16, 18).
The glory of the old covenant was passing (2 Cor. 3:11).	The glory of the New Covenant is ever increasing (2 Cor. 3:18).

4whose minds the god of this age has blinded, who do not believe, lest the light of the gospel of the glory of Christ, who is the image of God, should shine on them. 5For we do not preach ourselves, but Christ Jesus the Lord, and ourselves your bondser-vants for Jesus' sake. 6For it is the God who commanded light to shine out of darkness, who has shone in our hearts to give the light of the knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ.

Cast Down but Unconquered

7But we have this treasure in earthen vessels, that the excellence of the power may be of God and not of us. 8*We are* hard-pressed on every side, yet not crushed; we are perplexed, but not in despair; 9persecuted, but not forsaken; struck down, but not destroyed— 10always carrying about in the body the dying of the Lord Jesus, that the life of Jesus also may be manifested in our body. 11For we who live are always delivered to death for Jesus' sake, that the life of Jesus also may be manifested in our mortal flesh. 12So then death is working in us, but life in you.

13And since we have the same spirit of faith, according to what is written, "I believed and therefore I spoke,"[a] we also believe and therefore speak, 14knowing that He who raised up the Lord Jesus will also raise us up with Jesus, and will present us with you. 15For all things are for your sakes, that grace, having spread through the many, may cause thanksgiving to abound to the glory of God.

Seeing the Invisible

16Therefore we do not lose heart. Even though our outward man is perishing, yet the inward man is being renewed day by day. 17For our light afflic-tion, which is but for a moment, is working for us a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory, 18while we do not look at the things which are seen, but at the things which are not seen. For the things which are seen are temporary, but the things which are not seen are eternal.

4:13 [a]Psalm 116:10

his hold over the world to prevent people from seeing the light of the gospel (1 John 5:19).

4:7 Pottery, bought for one or two copper coins in the Corinthian marketplace, was often used as a receptacle for wick lamps. Though cheap and fragile they fulfilled their job as a holder for the lamp wicks. Paul used the imagery of these jars of clay to illustrate the sharp contrast between himself and the grandeur of the message he bore. He was ordinary and unimpressive, but he preached a gospel of light and power. God intended this so that the true source of the message be recognized as divine and not human.

4:17, 18 Paul suffered severely for the sake of the gospel. But when he reflected on his struggles in light of eternity, he saw them as being light and momentary. Only by comparing the weight of these sufferings to the weight of eternal glory would these sufferings pale into insignificance. Even though afflictions may cause the outer person to waste away, the life-giving Spirit renews the inner person day by day in preparation for the glory to come. Paul encouraged the Corinthians to shift their focus away from the heaviness of temporary, external circumstances toward the internal and eternal weight of glory that is the inheritance of those who believe.

PERSECUTION HOPE UNDER FIRE

The Bible records examples of persecution for the faith in both Old and New Testaments. Accounts of persecution in the Old Testament involved nations as a whole and individuals in particular. The prophets were persecuted because of their faith in God and their obedience to His will (Acts 7:52). In the New Testament, the church body, the twelve disciples, and individual Christians were persecuted for taking a stand for the Lord (Matt. 5:11, 12; 1 Cor. 15:9). Jesus suffered great persecution from the religious leaders of His day (John 5:16).

Persecution typically involves harassment and oppression for religious convictions, which results in physical or emotional suffering and affliction. Tribulation is to be an expected aspect of the Christian's life, in part because Christians are to live according to standards and principles that are more righteous than those advocated by unbelievers (2 Tim. 3:12). However, persecution for the faith is neither unbearable nor useless (John 16:33).

Although persecution may be an inevitable part of a Christian woman's life, she is neither to seek out persecution nor to bring persecution on herself. Much of what is perceived as persecution may actually be a consequence of abuse, a matter of poor self-esteem, or the result of an error in judgment. Believers must be wise in discerning the true source of persecution and the motives that evoke it.

Persecution is also inevitable for these reasons: (1) The sinful world hates God (John 15:18); (2) the things of the flesh battle the things of the Spirit (Gal. 4:29); (3) tribulation is inevitable in the midst of righteous living (Matt. 5:10); yet (4) believers are undergirded with help, strength, and power from God to face their tribulations (Rom.8:35–39).

Christians are to face persecution with patience, endurance, and steadfastness (Rom. 12:12; James 5:7–11). They are to endure persecution and, in the process, receive strength and power to be "more than conquerors" (Rom. 8:35–39). Blessing can actually be experienced in the midst of persecution (1 Pet. 3:14; 4:12–14) because the Christian facing persecution for the kingdom's sake is not forsaken by God (2 Cor. 4:7–10).

Assurance of the Resurrection

5 For we know that if our earthly house, this tent, is destroyed, we have a building from God, a house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens.
2 For in this we groan, earnestly desiring to be clothed with our habitation which is from heaven, 3 if indeed, having been clothed, we shall not be found naked. 4 For we who are in this tent groan, being burdened, not because we want to be unclothed, but further clothed, that mortality may be swallowed up by life. 5 Now He who has prepared us for this very thing is God, who also has given us the Spirit as a guarantee.

6 So we are always confident, knowing that while we are at home in the body we are absent from the Lord. 7 For we walk by faith, not by sight.
8 We are confident, yes, well pleased rather to be absent from the body and to be present with the Lord.

The Judgment Seat of Christ

9 Therefore we make it our aim, whether present or absent, to be well pleasing to Him. 10 For we must all appear before the judgment seat of Christ, that each one may receive the things done in the body, according to what he has done, whether good or bad. 11 Knowing, therefore, the terror of the Lord, we persuade men; but we are well known to God, and I also trust are well known in your consciences.

Be Reconciled to God

12 For we do not commend ourselves again to you, but give you opportunity to boast on our be-

5:1–4 The body is sometimes compared to a "house" in which the soul dwells and sometimes to a garment with which it is clothed (v. 1). Paul combined these two figures here. He spoke of putting on a "house" as though it were a garment. Paul longed for the day when his mortal, temporal body would be replaced by an immortal, imperishable, spiritual one (Phil. 3:21). He certainly had experienced burdens of sorrow and suffering in his life. However, Paul groaned for heaven because his deepest desire was to be fully "present" with the Lord (2 Cor. 5:6, 8).

5:9 The ultimate goal of Paul's life was to be "well pleasing" to the Lord (Gal 1:10; Col. 1:10). This aim was in effect during his time on earth ("present" in the body), and it would remain undiminished in heaven ("absent" from the body). The certainty of judgment and the prospect of eternal glory enabled Paul to persevere through hardship and motivated him to handle the ministry of the gospel with utmost integrity (2 Cor. 6:3).

5:10 Only believers will appear before Christ's "judgment seat" (Gk. bēma). Salvation is not the subject of judgment but rather works (see Rom 14:10; 1 Cor. 3:13; chart, Judgments in the New Testament).

HEALING OF SHAME — A RIGHT UNDERSTANDING OF SELF

Guilt is a God-given emotion that occurs when a woman's mistakes and faults are brought to her own mind or publicly exposed. This may be a personal reminder of her own limitations and sinfulness. Shame, however, says that the person herself is bad, of no value, or unworthy to exist—that she is hopelessly defective, unlovable, inferior, and worthless. Shame begins externally with a subtle implication through silence and neglect or with verbal denunciation through words of abuse. When such messages are repeated often enough, whether through words or actions, they become internalized into a false belief: I must be bad to deserve such terrible treatment. This becomes the core identity and the basis of thousands of future, flawed choices for the one suffering from shame.

Healing of shame begins when a woman identifies and confesses the lies she has believed about herself. She then must begin to replace those lies with biblical truth about who God is and who she is as His beloved child—a person of immeasurable worth, righteous and uncondemned (Rom. 8:1, 31–39; 2 Cor. 5:17, 21).

Sometimes the victimizing acts done to a person may be so shame-producing that she is still emotionally bound by that shame, even though she mentally understands her worth in God's eyes. Or, if she herself has actually committed shameful acts, a deep sense of shame may remain even after confession and repentance. In these situations, those acts must be brought into the presence of Jesus. Ultimately, only He brings full emotional cleansing and freedom.

half, that you may have an answer for those who boast in appearance and not in heart. 13For if we are beside ourselves, it is for God; or if we are of sound mind, it is for you. 14For the love of Christ compels us, because we judge thus: that if One died for all, then all died; 15and He died for all, that those who live should live no longer for themselves, but for Him who died for them and rose again.

16Therefore, from now on, we regard no one according to the flesh. Even though we have known Christ according to the flesh, yet now we know Him thus no longer. 17Therefore, if anyone is in Christ, he is a new creation; old things have passed away; behold, all things have become new. 18Now all things are of God, who has reconciled us to Himself through Jesus Christ, and has given us the ministry of reconciliation, 19that is, that God was in Christ reconciling the world to Himself, not imputing their trespasses to them, and has committed to us the word of reconciliation.

20Now then, we are ambassadors for Christ, as though God were pleading through us: we implore you on Christ's behalf, be reconciled to God. 21For He made Him who knew no sin to be sin for us, that we might become the righteousness of God in Him.

Marks of the Ministry

6 We then, as workers together with Him also plead with you not to receive the grace of God in vain. 2For He says:

> "In an acceptable time I have heard you,
> And in the day of salvation I have helped you."[a]

Behold, now is the accepted time; behold, now is the day of salvation.

3We give no offense in anything, that our ministry may not be blamed. 4But in all things we commend ourselves as ministers of God: in much patience, in tribulations, in needs, in distresses, 5in stripes, in imprisonments, in tumults, in labors, in sleeplessness, in fastings; 6by purity, by knowledge, by longsuffering, by kindness, by the Holy Spirit, by sincere love, 7by the word of truth, by the power of God, by the armor of righteousness on the right hand and on the left, 8by honor and dishonor, by evil report and good report; as deceivers, and yet true; 9as unknown, and yet well known; as dying, and behold we live; as chastened, and yet not killed; 10as sorrowful, yet always rejoicing; as poor, yet making many rich; as having nothing, and yet possessing all things.

6:2 [a]Isaiah 49:8

5:16 Prior to Paul's conversion, he had decided that Jesus could not possibly be the Messiah. However, his conception of Christ was based on fleshly knowledge. His view radically changed when he encountered Christ face to face on the road to Damascus (Acts 9:4). In Christ, the new way of knowing is spiritual in nature. Paul argued that spiritual wisdom does not evaluate people on the basis of external appearances, as the Corinthians were in the habit of doing. Therefore, he urged them to discard their old, carnal ways of assessment so that they could evaluate others according to the new nature that had been given them through Christ (2 Cor. 1:12).

HUSBANDS MARRIAGE TO AN UNBELIEVER

While knowingly marrying an unbeliever violates God's Word (2 Cor. 6:14), Scripture provides very practical encouragement to those who find themselves the wives of unsaved husbands.

- Win without a word. Do not preach to an unsaved husband. He cannot comprehend spiritual truths (2 Cor. 4:4; 1 Pet. 3:1–4). Regeneration is the work of the Holy Spirit. God desires repentance for all (2 Pet. 3:9).
- Cultivate a quiet and gentle spirit. A wife who is saved will at times disagree with her unsaved husband. You may disagree but do not be disagreeable. Avoid agitation and harshness. Concentrate on being the best wife possible. Relax and enjoy your husband. Do not condemn him. Mirror God's love through your pure character and generosity toward him.
- Be submissive in your love. Demonstrate loving respect for your husband. However, submission does not require agreeing to engage in sinful activities or living in fear (2 Tim. 1:7). If your husband dangerously mistreats you or your children, seek protection from civil authorities.
- Pray for your husband's salvation. While his salvation is not guaranteed, your faith and prayers act as a catalyst, binding Satan and opening your husband's heart to the Holy Spirit (Acts 16:31).

Be Holy

11 O Corinthians! We have spoken openly to you, our heart is wide open. 12 You are not restricted by us, but you are restricted by your own affections.
13 Now in return for the same (I speak as to children), you also be open.

14 Do not be unequally yoked together with unbelievers. For what fellowship has righteousness with lawlessness? And what communion has light with darkness? 15 And what accord has Christ with Belial? Or what part has a believer with an unbe-liever? 16 And what agreement has the temple of God with idols? For you[a] are the temple of the living God. As God has said:

"I will dwell in them
And walk among them.
I will be their God,
And they shall be My people."[b]

17 Therefore

"Come out from among them
And be separate, says the Lord.
Do not touch what is unclean,
And I will receive you."[a] 18 "I will be a Father to you,
And you shall be My sons and daughters,
Says the LORD Almighty."[a]

7 Therefore, having these promises, beloved, let us cleanse ourselves from all filthiness of the 6:12 Paul's defense of his changed travel plans and description of his apostolic ministry were to influence the Corinthians to reciprocate the love that he had selflessly poured out upon them.

6:14 Opposites cannot be harmoniously joined (vv. 14-16). The alliances Paul had in mind may have been mixed marriages, improper business associations, or relationships with pagan idolaters (1 Cor. 10:14; see Neh. 10, Interfaith Marriage; 2 Cor. 6, Husbands). However, he most likely was referring to associations with false apostles. He considered these false prophets responsible for the recent schism in his relationship with the Corinthian church (2 Cor. 11:13–15).

6:17 To buffer his argument against alliances with pagans, Paul cited portions of Isaiah and Ezekiel referring to Israel's redemption from bondage. God delivered the Israelites so they could be holy and free from pagan influences for fellowship with Him. Paul argued that in order to attain personal holiness and enjoy God's presence, the Corinthians needed likewise to sever ties with pagan idolaters and false apostles. He was not saying that believers should avoid contact with unbelievers. On the contrary, he encouraged Christians to associate with the unsaved of the world (1 Cor. 5:9, 10). However, Paul was concerned that the Corinthians avoid fellowship or communion with pagans within the church ("religious" unbelievers). He did not want them thus to be led astray from sincere and pure devotion to Christ (2 Cor. 11:3).

7:1 God promised His presence (2 Cor. 6:16) and a special relationship to those who would obey Him (2 Cor. 6:17, 18). Because the promises are from God, Christians must be meticulous to fulfill their responsibilities in satisfying the conditions. First, believers are expected to cleanse themselves by turning from everything that contaminates the body or spirit—including every person who bends the truth (2 Cor. 2:17; 4:2). Second, they are to work toward "perfecting" holiness (2 Cor. 7:1). The use of the present participle in "perfecting" signifies a continual process by which their holiness is brought to completion (v. 1).

flesh and spirit, perfecting holiness in the fear of God.

The Corinthians' Repentance

2Open your hearts to us. We have wronged no one, we have corrupted no one, we have cheated no one. 3I do not say this to condemn; for I have said before that you are in our hearts, to die together and to live together. 4Great is my boldness of speech toward you, great is my boasting on your behalf. I am filled with comfort. I am exceedingly joyful in all our tribulation.

5For indeed, when we came to Macedonia, our bodies had no rest, but we were troubled on every side. Outside were conflicts, inside were fears. 6Nevertheless God, who comforts the downcast, comforted us by the coming of Titus, 7and not only by his coming, but also by the consolation with which he was comforted in you, when he told us of your earnest desire, your mourning, your zeal for me, so that I rejoiced even more.

8For even if I made you sorry with my letter, I do not regret it; though I did regret it. For I perceive that the same epistle made you sorry, though only for a while. 9Now I rejoice, not that you were made sorry, but that your sorrow led to repentance. For you were made sorry in a godly manner, that you might suffer loss from us in nothing.
10For godly sorrow produces repentance leading to salvation, not to be regretted; but the sorrow of the world produces death. 11For observe this very thing, that you sorrowed in a godly manner: What diligence it produced in you, what clearing of yourselves, what indignation, what fear, what vehement desire, what zeal, what vindication! In all things you proved yourselves to be clear in this matter.
12Therefore, although I wrote to you, I did not do it for the sake of him who had done the wrong, nor for the sake of him who suffered wrong, but that our care for you in the sight of God might appear to you.

The Joy of Titus

13Therefore we have been comforted in your comfort. And we rejoiced exceedingly more for the joy of Titus, because his spirit has been refreshed by you all. 14For if in anything I have boasted to him about you, I am not ashamed. But as we spoke all things to you in truth, even so our boasting to Titus was found true. 15And his affections are greater for you as he remembers the obedience of you all, how with fear and trembling you received him. 16Therefore I rejoice that I have confidence in you in everything.

Excel in Giving

8 Moreover, brethren, we make known to you the grace of God bestowed on the churches of Macedonia: 2that in a great trial of affliction the abundance of their joy and their deep poverty abounded in the riches of their liberality. 3For I bear witness that according to their ability, yes, and beyond their ability, they were freely willing, 4imploring us with much urgency that we would receive[a] the gift and the fellowship of the ministering to the saints. 5And not only as we had hoped, but they first gave themselves to the Lord, and then to us by the will of God. 6So we urged Titus, that as he had begun, so he would also complete this grace in you as well. 7But as you abound in everything—in faith, in speech, in knowledge, in all diligence, and in your love for us—see that you abound in this grace also.

Christ Our Pattern

8I speak not by commandment, but I am testing the sincerity of your love by the diligence of 8:4 [a]NU-Text and M-Text omit that we would receive, thus changing text to urgency for the favor and fellowship. . . .

7:8 Following his painful visit, Paul wrote a harsh disciplinary letter to the Corinthians (see Introduction: Setting). He regretted doing this, but the Corinthians did respond to his correction with godly sorrow (v. 11). Such sorrow produced in them a concerted effort to make amends ("diligence"), a desire to vindicate themselves ("clearing of yourselves"), "indignation" against the person who had opposed Paul, alarm at their own passivity ("fear"), a deep longing and concern for Paul ("vehement desire and zeal"; see 2 Cor. 7:7), and a readiness to see justice done ("vindication"; see v. 11). They demonstrated that they did not, in fact, support the man who had publicly opposed Paul. Therefore, their sin was not so much that they had done wrong but that by their indifference they had failed to do what was right.

8:1, 2 Paul had organized a collection for the poor in Jerusalem (Gal. 2:10; Rom. 15:25–28). The Corinthians volunteered to contribute, but their good intentions did not translate into practical aid. Paul made another appeal to them, citing the example of the Macedonian churches, who had become involved entirely on their own initiative, though deeply poor and greatly afflicted (2 Cor. 8:2).

GUILT — A SPIRITUAL WEIGHT

Guilt is the emotional and spiritual weight we bear as the result of sin against others and against God. Christ taught that the acknowledgement of our true guilt is the door through which we can experience the cleansing and renewal of being forgiven (1 John 1:9, 10).

There are two kinds of guilt: false guilt and true guilt. False guilt is what the apostle Paul refers to as "the sorrow of the world" (2 Cor. 7:9, 10). He describes a nebulous sense of free-floating regret and guilt which seem to have no clear source and leave only a deep feeling of condemnation. True guilt, on the other hand, is "godly sorrow [that] produces repentance leading to salvation."

True guilt is the gentle, persistent prodding of the Holy Spirit, which leads us to acknowledge that we have indeed failed or fallen short of God's law (Rom. 3:23). That recognition of failure compels us to repent and seek God's forgiveness and to experience once again the freedom and restoration made possible by Christ's all-sufficient sacrifice (Rom. 5:10). Guilt that leads to repentance liberates the soul.

others. 9For you know the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, that though He was rich, yet for your sakes He became poor, that you through His poverty might become rich.

10And in this I give advice: It is to your advantage not only to be doing what you began and were desiring to do a year ago; 11but now you also must complete the doing of it; that as there was a readiness to desire it, so there also may be a completion out of what you have. 12For if there is first a willing mind, it is accepted according to what one has, and not according to what he does not have.

13For I do not mean that others should be eased and you burdened; 14but by an equality, that now at this time your abundance may supply their lack, that their abundance also may supply your lack—that there may be equality. 15As it is written, "He who gathered much had nothing left over, and he who gathered little had no lack."[a]

Collection for the Judean Saints

16But thanks be to God who puts[a] the same earnest care for you into the heart of Titus. 17For he not only accepted the exhortation, but being more diligent, he went to you of his own accord. 18And we have sent with him the brother whose praise is in the gospel throughout all the churches, 19and not only that, but who was also chosen by the churches to travel with us with this gift, which is administered by us to the glory of the Lord Himself and to show your ready mind, 20avoiding this: that anyone should blame us in this lavish gift which is administered by us— 21providing honorable things, not only in the sight of the Lord, but also in the sight of men.

22And we have sent with them our brother whom we have often proved diligent in many things, but now much more diligent, because of the great confidence which we have in you. 23If anyone inquires about Titus, he is my partner and fellow worker concerning you. Or if our brethren are inquired about, they are messengers of the churches, the glory of Christ. 24Therefore show to them, and[a] before the churches, the proof of your love and of our boasting on your behalf.

8:9 The supreme reason for Christian generosity is the self-giving and self-impoverishment of Christ, who gave up His glory and His rightful position in heaven on our behalf. Christ became what the Corinthians were (poor) so that they could become what He is (rich). Self-sacrifice is the proper test of love. The example of Christ and the debt Christians owe Him should lead them to be generous toward others.

8:15 Paul did not intend that the financial relief of the saints at Jerusalem should impoverish those in Corinth. He was not advocating an artificial equalization of property but rather the relief of need. Paul stressed that all believers had a duty to contribute out of their own abundance to the needs of the poor, but he also stressed that the poor were to work and support themselves to the best of their ability (2 Thess. 3:10). The give and take "equality" (translated "fair" in Col. 4:1) he had in mind could be illustrated by God's provision of manna for the Israelites in the wilderness (Ex. 16:18). All the Israelites gathered manna to eat; but when they measured the amounts, the ones who had gathered more only had as much as they required, even as did the ones who had gathered less. There was neither excess nor insufficiency but equality of provision according to each one's needs.

8:20, 21 Paul was aware that his critics would seize any opportunity to accuse him. It was not enough that honesty be practiced in the Lord's sight; Paul also felt it imperative to be open and honest in the sight of people (Prov. 3:4). Therefore, Paul did not take the gift of money to the church in Jerusalem but sent it with Titus, whom the Corinthians loved and trusted. Furthermore, he had the churches (perhaps those of Judea, Asia Minor, and/or Macedonia) choose two other men to accompany Titus.

Administering the Gift

9 Now concerning the ministering to the saints, it is superfluous for me to write to you; 2for I know your willingness, about which I boast of you to the Macedonians, that Achaia was ready a year ago; and your zeal has stirred up the majority. 3Yet
I have sent the brethren, lest our boasting of you should be in vain in this respect, that, as I said, you may be ready; 4lest if some Macedonians come with me and find you unprepared, we (not to mention you!) should be ashamed of this confident boasting.[a] 5Therefore I thought it necessary to exhort the brethren to go to you ahead of time, and prepare your generous gift beforehand, which you had previously promised, that it may be ready as a mat- ter of generosity and not as a grudging obligation.

The Cheerful Giver

6But this I say: He who sows sparingly will also reap sparingly, and he who sows bountifully will also reap bountifully. 7*So let* each one give as he purposes in his heart, not grudgingly or of necessity; for God loves a cheerful giver. 8And God is able to make all grace abound toward you, that you, always having all sufficiency in all things, may have an abundance for every good work. 9As it is written:

"He has dispersed abroad,
He has given to the poor;
His righteousness endures forever."[a]

10Now may[a] He who supplies seed to the sower, and bread for food, supply and multiply the seed you have sown and increase the fruits of your righteousness, 11while you are enriched in everything for all liberality, which causes thanksgiving through us to God. 12For the administration of this service not only supplies the needs of the saints, but also is abounding through many thanksgivings to God, 13while, through the proof of this ministry, they glorify God for the obedience of your confession to the gospel of Christ, and for your liberal sharing with them and all men, 14and by their prayer for you, who long for you because of the exceeding grace of God in you.
15Thanks be to God for His indescribable gift!

The Spiritual War

10 Now I, Paul, myself am pleading with you by the meekness and gentleness of Christ—who in presence am lowly among you, but being absent am bold toward you. 2But I beg you that when I am present I may not be bold with that confidence by which I intend to be bold against some, who think of us as if we walked according to the flesh. 3For though we walk in the flesh, we do not war according to the flesh. 4For the weapons of our warfare are not carnal but mighty in God for pulling down strongholds, 5casting down arguments and every high thing that exalts itself against the knowledge of God, bringing every thought into captivity to the obedience of Christ, 6and being ready to punish all disobedience when your obedience is fulfilled.

9:4 [a]NU-Text reads this confidence. 9:9 [a]Psalm 112:9 9:10 [a]NU-Text reads Now He who supplies . . . will supply. . . .

9:6 Paul associated the act of giving with the principle of sowing and reaping. Farmers can keep and eat all of their grain, or they can "lose" it by throwing it over the ground. Naturally, the more generous the sowing, the more bountiful the rewards. This principle holds true in the spiritual sphere as well. The liberal giver need not fear destitution, for this giver would receive in return gifts out of all proportion to what had been given (Prov. 11:24, 25; 19:17; Luke 6:38). Christ loves givers who are sincere (not reluctant), spontaneous (not under compulsion), and joyful (not begrudging). He does not look at the amount but at the heart (Mark 12:41–44).

9:10 Generous giving seems hazardous to those who have little; however, the risk dims in light of the greatness of God's power. All resources ultimately come from God, and Paul insisted that God is able to increase these resources for the purpose of giving. God supplies the seed and also multiplies the harvest. The Macedonians had given out of extreme poverty. But such seed as God had supplied, they had sown in liberality. The results of their generosity would be—for both themselves and the recipients of their gift—of a magnitude out of all proportion to the original quantity given.

9:14, 15 This section concludes in the same way it began—by focusing on the grace of God (2 Cor. 8:1). "Thanks" (Gk. charis) is the same word translated "grace" or "favor" (2 Cor. 9:15). The indescribable gift is God's grace or favor, which rests upon those who believe (v.15). Gratitude for God's gift brings to an end all debate on the question of giving. It is only proper that those who have benefited from such a vast, incomparable spiritual gift should generously and freely give material gifts to relieve the needs of others.

10:4–6 Paul knew that the Corinthians were in grave danger of being led astray from the gospel. The Corinthian church needed to express loyalty to Christ by demonstrating loyalty to Paul, Christ's representative (2 Cor. 5:20; 7:15). Paul urged the Corinthians to use spiritual weapons to war against the

GIVING — A GENEROUS HEART

A generous heart is one marked by evidence of the Holy Spirit's work in your life. God's love is demonstrated in the giving of His Son (John 3:16). Giving time, energies, and financial resources is the expression of a grateful heart, the natural response of a woman who realizes she has been lavished with God's grace (Eph. 1:7, 8).

In the Old Testament, the Jewish tithe (the first one tenth) was a prescribed percentage of a person's income. It belonged to the Lord and was used to provide for the priests, the temple, and the needy. Offerings were made on special occasions (see Ex. 35:21—36:7) and as an obligatory part of public sacrifices of thanksgiving, blessing, or sorrow.

In the New Testament, emphasis is placed upon the believer's heart and attitude. Paul declared that a Christian's giving should be the overflow of a worshipful heart and a matter of conviction before God (2 Cor. 9:7). Giving to others in a spirit of forgiveness—without judgment or condemnation—brings joyful, abundant rewards (Luke 6:37, 38).

Reality of Paul's Authority

7 Do you look at things according to the outward appearance? If anyone is convinced in himself that he is Christ's, let him again consider this in himself, that just as he is Christ's, even so we are Christ's.[a] 8 For even if I should boast somewhat more about our authority, which the Lord gave us[a] for edification and not for your destruction, I shall not be ashamed— 9 lest I seem to terrify you by letters. 10 "For his letters," they say, "are weighty and powerful, but his bodily presence is weak, and his speech contemptible." 11 Let such a person consider this, that what we are in word by letters when we are absent, such we will also be in deed when we are present.

Limits of Paul's Authority

12 For we dare not class ourselves or compare ourselves with those who commend themselves. But they, measuring themselves by themselves, and comparing themselves among themselves, are not wise. 13 We, however, will not boast beyond measure, but within the limits of the sphere which God appointed us—a sphere which especially includes you. 14 For we are not overextending ourselves (as though our authority did not extend to you), for it was to you that we came with the gospel of Christ; 15 not boasting of things beyond measure, that is, in other men's labors, but having hope, that as your faith is increased, we shall be greatly enlarged by you in our sphere, 16 to preach the gospel in the regions beyond you, and not to boast in another man's sphere of accomplishment.

17 But "he who glories, let him glory in the LORD."[a] 18 For not he who commends himself is approved, but whom the Lord commends.

Concern for Their Faithfulness

11 Oh, that you would bear with me in a little folly—and indeed you do bear with me. 2 For I am jealous for you with godly jealousy. For I have betrothed you to one husband, that I may present

"strong man," Satan (Luke 11:21). Paul urged them to pull down the strongholds that had been established in their minds by making every thought obedient to Christ. When they had "fulfilled" obedience, Paul could, with their support, punish the false apostles and those who continued to follow these deceivers (2 Cor. 10:6).

10:7 Certain religious leaders had presented themselves to the Corinthian church as ministers of Christ (2 Cor. 11:23). They brought letters of recommendation (2 Cor. 3:1), commended themselves (2 Cor. 10:12), and identified themselves with so called "super apostles" (2 Cor. 11:5). These men had credentials, social status, education, and persuasive rhetoric (1 Cor 1:26; 2:1). However, despite outward appearances, they were not genuine apostles (2 Cor. 11:13). They opposed Paul (2 Cor. 10:10), sought monetary gain (2 Cor. 2:17), and indulged in sensuality (2 Cor. 12:21). Paul urged the Corinthians to evaluate these men by spiritual rather than carnal standards.

10:18 The apostles who were seeking to turn the Corinthian church against Paul were frauds. They evaluated and commended themselves by human standards (v. 12). They claimed authority over the Corinthian church and by their own virtue had thus transgressed the proper limits of an apostle (vv. 13,16). Paul had limits of authority that he did not breach (v. 15). These leaders exalted themselves, claimed ownership of the ministry in Corinth, and took personal credit for the growth there. Paul argued that such self-commendation was not of Christ (Jer. 9:23, 24).

11:2 Paul used a wedding metaphor to present himself as the father of the bride, offering the Corinthians as pure and undefiled to Christ, the Bridegroom.

SELF-ESTEEM A HEALTHY YOU

Self-esteem is how each individual values herself. Poor self-esteem (bad, condemning feelings about yourself) are weights that keep believers under condemnation and cause them to be less than what God intends. Believers are to combat such feelings of inferiority (Heb. 12:1).

Proper self-esteem in a follower of Christ is a matter of recognizing and confronting yourself in your humanity, including the tendency to sin, "going astray" (1 Pet. 2:25). It is also a matter of embracing Jesus' work on the Cross—His grace that covers a multitude of sins. The process of comprehending God's infinite care for the individual—each with unique strengths and weaknesses—puts a perspective on self-esteem. Psalm 139 expresses the wonder of being uniquely created by God and the intimate care of His presence at all times. Jesus tenderly described His love for His children (Matt. 6:25–34).

Prerequisites to healthy self-esteem include these:

- Recognize the need of a Savior (Is. 53:6).
- Accept being "in the beloved" (Eph. 1:6; Rom. 8:1).
- Move forward in God's plan for your life (Phil. 3:13, 14).
- Have a realistic view of yourself (Rom. 12:3).
- Avoid comparisons to others (2 Cor. 10:12).

A person with healthy self-esteem is marked by these characteristics:

- Resting in "ownership" by God (1 Cor. 3:16).
- Submitting to being the "workmanship" of God (Eph. 2:10).
- Appreciating the differences of others (1 Cor. 12:1–31).
- Willingness to take risks, steps of faith (Esth. 4:13–16).
- Forging good relationships with others (Ruth 1:16, 17).

God does not evaluate human worth as we do. He looks to the heart within, while we tend to look only at the outer frame (1 Sam. 16:7; 1 Pet. 3:3, 4). The heart of a healthy self-esteem is recognizing that "self" must be seen as created for God's glory. We might more accurately say that within every believer there must be "God-esteem," which accepts whatever lot in life is ours.

We must be willing to change weaknesses into strengths when possible—and when that is not possible, we are to look for opportunities for God to be glorified even in our failures and suffering. God does not make mistakes, and He is never finished working in us as He continues to refine and edify, helping each woman reach her maximum potential (1 Pet. 5:10). Negatives can be changed into positives and tragedies into triumphs with the Savior's touch.

you as a chaste virgin to Christ. 3But I fear, lest somehow, as the serpent deceived Eve by his craftiness, so your minds may be corrupted from the simplicity[a] that is in Christ. 4For if he who comes preaches another Jesus whom we have not preached, or if you receive a different spirit which you have not received, or a different gospel which you have not accepted—you may well put up with it!

Paul and False Apostles

5For I consider that I am not at all inferior to the most eminent apostles. 6Even though I am untrained in speech, yet I am not in knowledge. But we have been thoroughly manifested[a] among you in all things.

7Did I commit sin in humbling myself that you might be exalted, because I preached the gospel of God to you free of charge? 8I robbed other churches, taking wages from them to minister to you. 9And when I was present with you, and in need, I was a burden to no one, for what I lacked the brethren who came from Macedonia supplied. And in everything I kept myself from being 11:3 [a]NU-Text adds and purity. 11:6 [a]NU-Text omits been.

11:3 Paul cautioned the Corinthians that Satan, the father of all lies (John 8:44), would seek to distract them from the simplicity of the gospel. Satan would attempt to deceive them with complicated and persuasive arguments, just as he had once deceived Eve (Gen. 3:13; see 1 Tim. 2:14). The teachings of the false apostles sounded good, but in actuality they "corrupted" the Christian message (2 Cor. 11:3). The false apostles promoted a spirit of human wisdom and gnōsis (2 Cor. 10:5; see 1 Cor. 2:12; 2 Cor. 1:12), a spirit of bondage to legalistic requirements (2 Cor. 3:6), and a spirit of compromise (2 Cor. 6:14—7:1; 12:21). This spirit was different than the spirit of liberty (2 Cor. 3:17; Gal. 2:4; 5:1), the spirit of love, joy, and peace (Rom. 14:17; Gal. 5:22), and the spirit of power (Eph. 3:20; Col. 1:11; 2 Tim. 1:7) that Paul preached.

CULTS FRAUDULENT FAITH

A "cult" is a religious group that has been established upon a special message not found in the Bible. Most cultic leaders testify of visions, revelations, spirit guides, or audible voices from heaven that have revealed truth to them alone. Their messages are characteristically apocalyptic and are often presented as "inspired."

Cultic leaders are nearly always authoritarian. They typically encourage their followers to adopt a legalistic lifestyle and persecution mentality, adopting an outlook of "exclusivity" for the group.

Many people have suffered from the brainwashing and other fraudulent tactics of cults. Grievances include the lack of full disclosure when luring potential members into the cult through extortion, poor nutrition, sleep deprivation, auditory bombardment, as well as far more severe instances of slavery, physical abuse, and sexual exploitation. Cults tend to entice followers with what appear to be generous expressions of concern and a desire to meet the deep needs of people who are confused, suffering, dejected, or searching for meaning in life. In the minds of many Christian leaders, the increase in cult membership worldwide is a direct indicator of the church's failure to meet these needs genuinely and fully.

burdensome to you, and so I will keep myself. 10As the truth of Christ is in me, no one shall stop me from this boasting in the regions of Achaia. 11Why? Because I do not love you? God knows!

12But what I do, I will also continue to do, that I may cut off the opportunity from those who desire an opportunity to be regarded just as we are in the things of which they boast. 13For such are false apostles, deceitful workers, transforming themselves into apostles of Christ. 14And no wonder! For Satan himself transforms himself into an angel of light. 15Therefore it is no great thing if his ministers also transform themselves into ministers of righteousness, whose end will be according to their works.

Reluctant Boasting

16I say again, let no one think me a fool. If otherwise, at least receive me as a fool, that I also may boast a little. 17What I speak, I speak not according to the Lord, but as it were, foolishly, in this confidence of boasting. 18Seeing that many boast according to the flesh, I also will boast. 19For you put up with fools gladly, since you yourselves are wise! 20For you put up with it if one brings you into bondage, if one devours you, if one takes from you, if one exalts himself, if one strikes you on the face. 21To our shame I say that we were too weak for that! But in whatever anyone is bold—I speak foolishly—I am bold also.

Suffering for Christ

22Are they Hebrews? So am I. Are they Israelites? So am I. Are they the seed of Abraham? So am I. 23Are they ministers of Christ?—I speak as a fool—I am more: in labors more abundant, in stripes above measure, in prisons more frequently, in deaths often. 24From the Jews five times I received forty stripes minus one. 25Three times I was beaten with rods; once I was stoned; three times I was shipwrecked; a night and a day I have been in the deep; 26*in* journeys often, in perils of waters, in perils of robbers, in perils of my own countrymen, in perils of the Gentiles, in perils in the city, in perils in the wilderness, in perils in the sea, in perils among false brethren; 27in weariness and toil, in sleeplessness often, in hunger and thirst, in fastings often, in cold and nakedness— 28besides

11:14, 15 Satan is the father of all lying, and there is no truth in him (John 8:44). His proper sphere is darkness (Eph. 6:12; Col. 1:13). However, he has the ability to transform himself or masquerade as an angel of light. He can change his outward form to appear to be what he is not. Christ has His ministers, and so has Satan. If Satan is able to present himself in a guise so foreign to his real nature, it is no surprise that those who serve him would be able to do the same. The false apostles in the church in Corinth were perverting the truth. Outwardly they appeared to be religious (ministers of righteousness), but neither their character nor their doctrine conformed to the Word of God. They were simply masquerading as messengers of light.

11:17 The Corinthians evaluated others according to external appearances; so Paul used their standard for evaluating himself. Although he regarded this to be an exercise in foolishness, he maintained that he could match and even outdo all the boastful claims of the false apostles. Paul compared his own ministry with theirs and demonstrated that even on the basis of externals, their apostleship was deficient. They had not known the fellowship of Christ's sufferings as he had. They had not been beaten, stoned, shipwrecked, imprisoned, nor had they hungered, thirsted, or gone sleepless for the sake of the kingdom. Although they had some claim to Jewish nationality and lineage; as far as ministry was concerned, they were completely lacking. Paul could boast more than they. However, he recognized that this was foolish, for it was not his own but Christ's power he used for all he had experienced and accomplished (2 Cor. 12:9).

PAIN TURNING PHYSICAL AFFLICTION INTO JOY

Pain was part of the God-given consequence to mankind for believing Satan and disobeying God in the Garden of Eden. Women were to experience pain in childbirth and men, the pain of labor as they worked the ground (Gen. 3:16, 17). As a result the "whole creation groans and labors with birth pangs" (Rom. 8:22). Everyone is subject to pain until God brings "a new heaven and a new earth" and "there shall be no more pain" (Rev. 21:1, 4).

Job, "a blameless and upright man" (Job 2:3), experienced pain as a result of Satan's direct attack (vv. 1–10). Job illustrates what often happens when a person experiences unrelieved pain. He isolated himself (v. 8). His wife became impatient and lacked understanding (v. 9). Job's focus was on himself, even to the point of desiring death as a release (Job 3:20, 21).

The New Testament emphasizes pain's partnership with joy. The woman, through labor, experiences the joy of new life (John 16:21). Paul and Silas sang and prayed while in pain, and the result was their deliverance and the salvation of their jailer's household (Acts 16:23–25, 34). Perhaps Paul knew of the medicinal value of a "merry heart" (Prov. 17:22). Christ, who endured the Cross for the joy that was set before Him (Heb. 12:2), understands pain. He walks with Christians through their painful hours (Ps. 9:9, 10; Is. 41:10).

See also Mark 5:2, note; notes on Adversity (Acts 5); Contentment (1 Tim. 6); Healing (Ps. 13; 133; Eccl. 1; 2 Cor. 5; Gal. 6; James 5); Suffering (Ps. 33; 113; Is. 43; 1 Pet. 5)

the other things, what comes upon me daily: my deep concern for all the churches. 29Who is weak, and I am not weak? Who is made to stumble, and I do not burn with indignation?

30If I must boast, I will boast in the things which concern my infirmity. 31The God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who is blessed forever, knows that I am not lying. 32In Damascus the governor, under Aretas the king, was guarding the city of the Damascenes with a garrison, desiring to arrest me; 33but I was let down in a basket through a window in the wall, and escaped from his hands.

The Vision of Paradise

12 It is doubtless[a] not profitable for me to boast. I will come to visions and revelations of the Lord: 2I know a man in Christ who fourteen years ago—whether in the body I do not know, or whether out of the body I do not know, God knows—such a one was caught up to the third heaven. 3And I know such a man—whether in the body or out of the body I do not know, God knows— 4how he was caught up into Paradise and heard inexpressible words, which it is not lawful for a man to utter. 5Of such a one I will boast; yet of myself I will not boast, except in my infirmities. 6For though I might desire to boast, I will not be a fool; for I will speak the truth. But I refrain, lest anyone should think of me above what he sees me to be or hears from me.

The Thorn in the Flesh

7And lest I should be exalted above measure by the abundance of the revelations, a thorn in the flesh was given to me, a messenger of Satan to buffet me, lest I be exalted above measure. 8Concerning this thing I pleaded with the Lord three times that it might depart from me. 9And He said to me, "My grace is sufficient for you, for My strength is made perfect in weakness." Therefore most gladly I will rather boast in my infirmities, that the power of Christ may rest upon me. 10Therefore I take pleasure in infirmities, in reproaches, in needs, in persecutions, in distresses, for Christ's sake. For when I am weak, then I am strong.

Signs of an Apostle

11I have become a fool in boasting;[a] you have compelled me. For I ought to have been commended by you; for in nothing was I behind the most eminent apostles, though I am nothing. 12Truly the signs of an apostle were accomplished

12:1 [a]NU-Text reads necessary, though not profitable, to boast.
12:11 [a]NU-Text omits in boasting.

12:7 Paul knew there was a danger that others would think more highly of him than they ought because of the visions and revelations he had experienced. However, he himself was protected from self-exaltation by a persistent "thorn in the flesh." No one knows with certainty the nature of Paul's "thorn in the flesh." It may have been a physical malady such as defective eyesight, a lisp, epilepsy, or recurrent malaria. Or, perhaps it was spiritual in nature—temptation or satanic persecution. It may have even been an individual or group who continually harassed Paul. In any case, it was bothersome to him. But instead of removing the "thorn," God assured Paul that His grace and strength would be sufficient for Paul to bear it. Paul's "thorn in the flesh" destroyed his pride and kept him dependent on divine power. Therefore, although unpleasant, Paul regarded the "thorn" as an aid rather than a handicap.

12:12 The false apostles in Corinth had many external credentials. However, Paul pointed out that they had twisted the

MARRIAGE — GOD'S PROVISION

After the Fall of man, Adam and Eve had continued contact with God, evidenced by the fact that Cain and Abel were taught that they were to bring an offering to God. The Lord did not withdraw His presence, even though He allowed the consequences of the sin of Adam and Eve to follow in due course.

Scripture reveals that God was available to women to aid them in their difficulties. God is never the enemy of His children but their most dependable and faithful friend (John 15:14). He assuaged Eve's sorrow at Abel's death by giving her another son (Gen. 4:25). He encouraged Sarah in the time of her barrenness (Gen. 18:10, 14). He answered Rebekah when she inquired of Him (Gen. 25:22, 23). God spoke to Deborah (Judg. 4:6), instructed Samson's mother (Judg. 13:3–5), gave Ruth direction (the Book of Ruth), comforted Hannah and healed her barrenness (1 Sam. 1:26, 27), and used Esther to save her people (Esth. 8).

When Jesus was to be born, an angel of God visited Mary to describe her role in the Incarnation (Luke 1:28–33). God filled Mary with His presence, both literally (through the life planted in her womb) and spiritually (through the presence of the Holy Spirit).

Jesus, in all of His teaching, pointed to the Father's original plan for Christian marriage in which the wife was to be an equal partner to be loved and protected (Matt. 19:4–6). Paul gave instruction to husbands and wives as to how they are to relate in the home (Eph. 5:22–33). God never gives a command to His children unless He makes provision for them to obey. He has given the power of the Holy Spirit to help believers withstand temptation (2 Pet. 2:9) and the presence of Christ that becomes their spiritual armor in withstanding the enemy's fiery darts (Eph. 6:10–18). He also extends His presence through loving and supportive fellow believers in the church (2 Cor. 13:11). He prepares for protection from abuses through establishing civil authorities (Rom. 13:1).

When both husband and wife know the Lord as personal Savior, the Holy Spirit lives in their hearts. As they submit to His Lordship, they are enabled to follow His directions. The husband will be empowered to love his wife as Christ loved the church (Eph. 5:25), and the wife will be inspired to submit as unto the Lord (Eph. 5:22, 24). The atmosphere of the home will become one of joy (Eph. 5:19–21) as hurtful attitudes are laid aside (Eph. 4:25–31). Forgiveness and kindness will become house rules (v. 32).

Couples are enabled to overcome temptation with faithfulness to each other (see 1 John 5:4, 5). When husband and wife give their expectations to God and focus on the good, then peace will rule in their hearts and in their home (Phil. 4:6–8).

among you with all perseverance, in signs and wonders and mighty deeds. 13For what is it in which you were inferior to other churches, except that I myself was not burdensome to you? Forgive me this wrong!

Love for the Church

14Now for the third time I am ready to come to you. And I will not be burdensome to you; for I do not seek yours, but you. For the children ought not to lay up for the parents, but the parents for the children. 15And I will very gladly spend and be spent for your souls; though the more abundantly I love you, the less I am loved.

16But be that as it may, I did not burden you. Nevertheless, being crafty, I caught you by cunning! 17Did I take advantage of you by any of those whom I sent to you? 18I urged Titus, and sent our brother with him. Did Titus take advantage of you? Did we not walk in the same spirit? Did we not walk in the same steps?

19Again, do you think[a] that we excuse ourselves to you? We speak before God in Christ. But we do all things, beloved, for your edification. 20For I fear lest, when I come, I shall not find you such as I wish, and that I shall be found by you such as you truth of the gospel and were lacking in godly character. In contrast, Paul's character and message were above reproach. According to Paul, a genuine apostle preaches the gospel of Christ, shows the character of Christ, and ministers in the power of Christ.

12:15 Paul had determined not to accept financial support from the Corinthians while working among them. He explained that it was not their property but their hearts that he was eager to win. Furthermore, they were his spiritual children (1 Cor. 4:15). Just as earthly parents provide for their offspring, so Paul was more than glad to spend his own resources and to be "spent" personally on their behalf. To be "spent" means to be consumed, used up, or spent entirely. Despite the Corinthians' rejection of him, there was no limit to Paul's love for them.

12:20 Paul was pondering his impending visit to Corinth. He was concerned that the Corinthians deal with the contents of his letter and repent before he arrived. He explained that his do not wish; lest there be contentions, jealousies, outbursts of wrath, selfish ambitions, backbitings, whisperings, conceits, tumults; 21lest, when I come again, my God will humble me among you, and I shall mourn for many who have sinned before and have not repented of the uncleanness, fornication, and lewdness which they have practiced.

Coming with Authority

13 This will be the third time I am coming to you. "By the mouth of two or three witnesses every word shall be established."[a] 2I have told you before, and foretell as if I were present the second time, and now being absent I write[a] to those who have sinned before, and to all the rest, that if I come again I will not spare— 3since you seek a proof of Christ speaking in me, who is not weak toward you, but mighty in you. 4For though He was crucified in weakness, yet He lives by the power of God. For we also are weak in Him, but we shall live with Him by the power of God toward you.

5Examine yourselves as to whether you are in the faith. Test yourselves. Do you not know yourselves, that Jesus Christ is in you?— unless indeed you are disqualified. 6But I trust that you will know that we are not disqualified.

Paul Prefers Gentleness

7Now I[a] pray to God that you do no evil, not that we should appear approved, but that you should do what is honorable, though we may seem disqualified. 8For we can do nothing against the truth, but for the truth. 9For we are glad when we are weak and you are strong. And this also we pray, that you may be made complete. 10Therefore I write these things being absent, lest being present I should use sharpness, according to the authority which the Lord has given me for edification and not for destruction.

Greetings and Benediction

11Finally, brethren, farewell. Become complete. Be of good comfort, be of one mind, live in peace; and the God of love and peace will be with you.

12Greet one another with a holy kiss.

13All the saints greet you.

14The grace of the Lord Jesus Christ, and the love of God, and the communion of the Holy Spirit be with you all. Amen.

boasting was not for the purpose of outdoing his opponents but for the purpose of purifying and building up the church (vv. 1–18). Paul's awareness of their sins caused him to fear lest he not find the Corinthians as he wished (repentant) and lest they find him as they did not wish (forceful and disciplinary).

13:1 Paul wrote 2 Corinthians in anticipation of his third visit. In this, more than any other letter, the apostle Paul poured out his heart. Paul deeply loved the Corinthians and endured many affronts and indignities for their sake. But he dared not endure the charge against the genuineness of his apostleship, for such was no less than a challenge to the authority of Christ. Paul pleaded with the Corinthians to repent so that he would not need to discipline them. He much preferred for them to be strong and himself to be regarded as weak (2 Cor. 13:9). Judgment would be secured "by the mouth of two or three witnesses" (Deut. 19:15). This process was laid down in Mosaic Law and was approved by Christ as applicable to settling disputes within the church (Matt. 18:16).

13:11 Paul urged the Corinthians to become complete (Gk. katartisis, vv. 9, 11). The related verb (Gk. katartizō) is used to describe the disciples' mending of their nets (Matt. 4:21). Paul wanted the Corinthians to repair the problems in their midst in order that they, as a body, might be whole. A list of eight sins are characteristic of a divided church, followed by sins of immorality (2 Cor. 12:20, 21), which had earlier caused Paul to write 1 Corinthians. Paul was glad for the repentance that had already taken place (2 Cor. 7:9) but was keenly aware that the Corinthians needed more in order to become complete.

Galatians

AUTHOR

Paul, a Jewish apostle of Christ, established many New Testament churches and wrote twelve epistles or letters, including this one, which he autographed (Gal. 1:1; 5:2).

DATE

The exact date for Galatians is uncertain and is dependent on the location of the actual recipients of the letter as being in North or South Galatia. If written to churches founded on Paul's first missionary journey to South Galatia, then the date would be A.D. 48 to 50 (see map, Paul's First Missionary Journey). If written to churches founded on the second missionary journey to North Galatia, then A.D. 55 to 57 would be more accurate (see map, Paul's Second Missionary Journey).

BACKGROUND

SETTING: The influence of Greek and Roman culture was confusing to new converts in young churches. Many members of a legalistic Jewish party (Judaizers) taught that salvation for Gentiles must include Jewish circumcision and adherence to the Mosaic Law.

PURPOSE: Paul presented a strong defense of his apostolic mission, emphasizing justification by faith alone, and setting forth his instructions for Christian living.

AUDIENCE: The churches in the region of Galatia are the initial recipients of this letter, but its message is also for churches in every generation.

LITERARY CHARACTERISTICS: This Pauline epistle follows the typical format of a first-century, Graeco-Roman letter. It is in the form of personal correspondence.

THEMES

Within the epistle are found these themes:

- Justification is by faith, not by keeping the Law;
- Christian freedom, which is freedom from the Law and freedom for service to God, is declared; and
- Guidelines for Christian living are given.

OUTLINE

Introduction (1:1–24)
- The greeting (1:1–5)
- The message (1:6–9)
- The testimony (1:10–17)
- The followers (1:18–24)

I. The Presentation of the Gospel (2:1–21)
- A. A defense of the gospel (2:1–10)
- B. The rejection of justification by works (2:11–21)

II. The Reconciliation of Law and Grace (3:1–29)
- A. The gift of grace (3:1–9)
- B. The curse of the Law (3:10–14)
- C. The promises of God (3:15–18)

D. The purpose of the Law (3:19–25)
E. The inheritance of the faith (3:26–29)
III. The Unfolding of God's Plan (4:1–31)
A. From slavery to sonship (4:1–7)
B. Concerns for the church (4:8–20)
C. Covenant promises (4:21–31)
IV. The Challenge to Christian Living (5:1–26)
A. The experience of freedom (5:1–6)
B. The service in love (5:7–15)
C. The walk in the Spirit (5:16–26)
Conclusion (6:1–18)
Sharing one another's burdens (6:1–5)
Doing good (6:6–10)
Boasting in the Cross of Christ (6:11–15)
Bearing the marks of Jesus (6:16–18)

Greeting

1 Paul, an apostle (not from men nor through man, but through Jesus Christ and God the Father who raised Him from the dead), [2]and all the brethren who are with me,

To the churches of Galatia:

[3]Grace to you and peace from God the Father and our Lord Jesus Christ, [4]who gave Himself for our sins, that He might deliver us from this present evil age, according to the will of our God and Father, [5]to whom be glory forever and ever. Amen.

Only One Gospel

[6]I marvel that you are turning away so soon from Him who called you in the grace of Christ, to a different gospel, [7]which is not another; but there are some who trouble you and want to pervert the gospel of Christ. [8]But even if we, or an angel from heaven, preach any other gospel to you than what we have preached to you, let him be accursed. [9]As we have said before, so now I say again, if anyone preaches any other gospel to you than what you have received, let him be accursed.

[10]For do I now persuade men, or God? Or do I seek to please men? For if I still pleased men, I would not be a bondservant of Christ.

Call to Apostleship

[11]But I make known to you, brethren, that the gospel which was preached by me is not according to man. [12]For I neither received it from man, nor was I taught it, but it came through the revelation of Jesus Christ.

[13]For you have heard of my former conduct in Judaism, how I persecuted the church of God beyond measure and tried to destroy it. [14]And I advanced in Judaism beyond many of my contemporaries in my own nation, being more exceedingly zealous for the traditions of my fathers.

[15]But when it pleased God, who separated me from my mother's womb and called me through His grace, [16]to reveal His Son in me, that I might preach Him among the Gentiles, I did not immediately confer with flesh and blood, [17]nor did I go up to Jerusalem to those who were apostles before me; but I went to Arabia, and returned again to Damascus.

Contacts at Jerusalem

[18]Then after three years I went up to Jerusalem to see Peter,[a] and remained with him fifteen days.
[19]But I saw none of the other apostles except James, the Lord's brother. [20](Now concerning the things which I write to you, indeed, before God, I do not lie.)

1:18 [a]NU-Text reads Cephas.

1:3 Paul's introductory greeting is a prayer for "grace" (Gk. charis), meaning "unmerited favor," and "peace" (Gk. eirēnē), a sense of well-being resulting from a personal relationship with God unaffected by the circumstances of life. Paul wanted his fellow believers in Galatia to experience God's presence in their daily lives.

1:4 The atonement of Christ triumphs over Satan's powers and frees the Christian from the penalty of sin, which is death (Rom. 6:23). Ultimate deliverance for the believer comes with physical death or with the return of Christ Jesus.

1:6–10 Paul was disappointed that many new converts were following false teachers who taught a "different" (Gk. heteros) gospel, meaning "another of a different kind." The Judaizers, who were a legalistic Jewish party within the early church, tried to combine Christ's message of salvation with the context of the Mosaic Law (Deut. 4:2). Immature Christians believed their distorted teachings, which demanded more than justification by faith alone. False teachings continue to be very persuasive. Paul warned the Galatians that those who preach the gospel must preach "another" (Gk. allos) gospel, meaning "another of the same kind," the true gospel that comes from God, lest they be "accursed" (Gk. anathema, lit. "set aside for destruction").

1:14–17 Paul firmly answered the accusing question of the Judaizers: Whose gospel do you preach? His personal testimony explained the divine source of his message (vv. 15, 16) and confirmed his pride in his Jewish heritage (v. 14). God's hand guided Paul from birth through life and into ministry. Paul's reference to his separation from his "mother's womb" suggests his familiarity with Jeremiah 1:5.

Perspective

WALKING IN THE LIGHT OF THE WORD (Drawn from Clean House, Strong House)

The Word of God challenges us to walk in the "light." Jesus said, Walk while you have the light, lest darkness overtake you; he who walks in darkness does not know where he is going. While you have the light, believe in the light, that you may become sons of light (John 12:35–36). The Bible says of God's Word: Your word is a lamp to my feet and a light to my path (Ps. 119:105). To walk in the light means that we make a conscious decision not to walk in darkness. We make decisions with our will that we will develop spiritual eyes to see, and then walk in light.

There are three Greek words that address the concept of darkness:

- Skoteinos—opaque and full of darkness; to be a blockhead that cannot see the truth. We find this word in Luke 11:34, which tells us that when the eye is evil, the body is full of darkness.
- Skotos—a shady, obscure darkness (producing swindlers, liars, and deceivers). This word is in Luke 11:35, which says that we, as believers, must be careful that the light in us be not darkness.
- Skotia—obscure, not clear, shady, lukewarm, dim, insipid, unable to distinguish. This word is in John 1:5, which tells us that sometimes even when the light shines in the darkness, the darkness still does not comprehend it.

These words for darkness paint a picture of what we must NOT do if we are to walk in light! These are the manifestations of a person who is in darkness:

- Operating in shady or obscure ways in ministry, even in dealing with people on an everyday basis (Luke 11:35)
- Walking in a spirit of lukewarmness. The lukewarm church was the only one that God did not have a good thing to say about when He addressed the seven churches in the Book of Revelation (Rev. 3:16).
- Exhibiting or showing stubbornness in doctrine or an ungodly drive to be religiously right coupled with an "unteachable spirit." This promotes darkness and hinders new truths. It leads to a shipwreck of faith and a warfare that is not good (1 Tim. 1:19–20; 2 Tim. 2:17–18).
- Being a breeding ground for carnality with no spiritual discipline in the areas of what is holy and what is common (Lev. 10:10).

The Word of God will challenge you again and again to give up darkness! It will challenge you to be open, honest, straightforward . . . to be "hot" in your faith . . . to be teachable . . . to give up pride and self-righteousness . . . and to become pure, holy, and separate from the world.

The world must be able to distinguish the difference between us and all others who claim to come in the name of God. We must allow the Word of God to change us and guide us, and truly to enlighten us.

21 Afterward I went into the regions of Syria and Cilicia. 22 And I was unknown by face to the churches of Judea which were in Christ. 23 But they were hearing only, "He who formerly persecuted us now preaches the faith which he once tried to destroy." 24 And they glorified God in me.

Defending the Gospel

2 Then after fourteen years I went up again to Jerusalem with Barnabas, and also took Titus with me. 2 And I went up by revelation, and communicated to them that gospel which I preach among the Gentiles, but privately to those who were of reputation, lest by any means I might run, or had run, in vain. 3 Yet not even Titus who was with me, being a Greek, was compelled to be circumcised.
4 And this occurred because of false brethren secretly brought in (who came in by stealth to spy out our liberty which we have in Christ Jesus, that they might bring us into bondage), 5 to whom we did not yield submission even for an hour, that the truth of the gospel might continue with you.

6 But from those who seemed to be something—whatever they were, it makes no difference to me; God shows personal favoritism to no man—for those who seemed to be something added nothing to me. 7 But on the contrary, when they saw that the gospel for the uncircumcised had been committed to me, as the gospel for the circumcised was to Peter 8 (for He who worked effectively in Peter for the apostleship to the circumcised also worked effectively in me toward the

1:23, 24 Many observers marveled at the change in Paul's life (compare Acts 8:3 with 9:20, 21). Saul, who had persecuted Christians, became Paul who preached the gospel message. Though his actions did not save him, the changes in Paul's lifestyle brought glory to God. The power of God can transform any sinner into a new creation (2 Cor. 5:17).

2:6 Christian leaders who are highly respected may disappoint us. God does not show favoritism based on position or performance (Rom. 2:11). Leaders are to be respected, but ultimate allegiance must be to Christ. It is possible to respect office without reverencing person.

LAW AND GRACE

THE FUNCTION		THE EFFECT
OF LAW	OF GRACE	OF LAW	OF GRACE
The Law is based on works (Gal. 3:10).	Grace is based on faith (Gal. 3:11, 12).	The Law puts us under a curse (Gal. 3:10).	Grace justifies us by faith (Gal. 3:3, 24).
The Law guards us (Gal. 3:23; 4:2).	Grace centers us in Christ (Gal. 3:24).	The Law keeps us for faith (Gal. 3:23).	Grace lives in us (Gal. 2:20).
The Law tutors us (Gal. 3:24).	Grace certifies our freedom (Gal. 4:30, 31).	The Law shows us the way to Christ (Gal. 3:24).	Grace adopts us as heirs (Gal. 4:7).

Gentiles), [9]and when James, Cephas, and John, who seemed to be pillars, perceived the grace that had been given to me, they gave me and Barnabas the right hand of fellowship, that we should go to the Gentiles and they to the circumcised. [10]They desired only that we should remember the poor, the very thing which I also was eager to do.

No Return to the Law

[11]Now when Peter[a] had come to Antioch, I withstood him to his face, because he was to be blamed; [12]for before certain men came from James, he would eat with the Gentiles; but when they came, he withdrew and separated himself, fearing those who were of the circumcision. [13]And the rest of the Jews also played the hypocrite with him, so that even Barnabas was carried away with their hypocrisy.

[14]But when I saw that they were not straightforward about the truth of the gospel, I said to Peter before them all, "If you, being a Jew, live in the manner of Gentiles and not as the Jews, why do you[a] compel Gentiles to live as Jews?[b] [15]We who are Jews by nature, and not sinners of the Gentiles, [16]knowing that a man is not justified by the works of the law but by faith in Jesus Christ, even we have believed in Christ Jesus, that we might be justified by faith in Christ and not by the works of the law; for by the works of the law no flesh shall be justified.

[17]"But if, while we seek to be justified by Christ, we ourselves also are found sinners, is Christ therefore a minister of sin? Certainly not! [18]For if I build again those things which I destroyed, I make myself a transgressor. [19]For I through the law died to the law that I might live to God. [20]I have been crucified with Christ; it is no longer I who live, but Christ lives in me; and the life which I now live in the flesh I live by faith in the Son of God, who loved me and gave Himself for me. [21]I do not set aside the grace of God; for if righteousness comes through the law, then Christ died in vain."

Justification by Faith

3 O foolish Galatians! Who has bewitched you that you should not obey the truth,[a] before

2:11 [a]NU-Text reads Cephas. 2:14 [a]NU-Text reads how can you. [b]Some interpreters stop the quotation here. 3:1 [a]NU-Text omits that you should not obey the truth. [b]NU-Text omits among you.

2:9 James, Cephas (or Peter), and John preached the gospel to the Jews, while Paul and Barnabas worked among the Gentiles. Instead of criticizing others for their differences, the challenge to believers is to work together to spread the gospel to all people.

2:15, 16 Paul did not reject the Law. Instead, he said, the Law was "holy and just and good" (Rom. 7:12). The Law protects from sin, convicts of sin, and brings to Christ. While the Law does not justify, it does guide in daily Christian living (Rom. 3:20). Paul stated generally that an individual is not justified by the Law but by faith in Jesus; he stated personally that one is justified through faith in Jesus; he stated universally that no one will ever be justified by works. Justification is an act of God through Christ, freely making righteous anyone who believes by faith (see chart, Theological Terms).

2:20, 21 Paul described the justified believer as being "crucified with Christ" (v. 20), as spiritually alive (Rom. 7:4, 6), as possessing life through Christ within (Gal. 2:20; see John 14:20; Col. 1:27), as living a life of faith (Gal. 2:20; Rom. 1:17); and as knowing who made that life possible. Then Paul noted that justification by works ("the law") is diametrically opposite to justification by grace through faith. He also noted that faith plus works is ultimately works (Gal. 4:19–31). If salvation can be earned, then God is merely giving what is earned or deserved, which declares grace null and void and in which case, Christ would have died in vain. While godly living is still essential to the spread of the gospel, obedience to the Law is the fruit of salvation and not a prerequisite for salvation. No one was ever saved by keeping the Law. We do good works not in order to be saved but because we have been saved. Paul, like all believers, had to die to self (Rom. 7:6).

CHRISTOLOGY — THE PERSON OF CHRIST

Because God's plan of salvation depends on His being the God-Man, the study of Christ's nature and person (known as Christology) is central to Christianity. If a Christological position is in error, other doctrines will also suffer.

As God, Christ is Creator (Col. 1:15), Head of the church (Col. 1:18), highest authority (Matt. 28:18), upholder of all things (Heb. 1:3), and King of kings (Rev. 17:14). As Man, He is the Son of a woman (Gal. 4:4), Mediator (1 Tim. 2:5), bondservant (Phil. 2:7), and High Priest (Heb. 7:11–22).

Three important standards are part of an evangelical Christology:

- The reality of His two natures: He is both God and man;
- The integrity of His two natures: they are not contradictory; and
- The unmingled union of these two natures in one. Each nature is independent of the other.

Because the Incarnation is a mystery (1 Tim. 3:16), much controversy was generated in the early church as to how God and man could be one. The Ebionites, Jews who held to a belief in one God, claimed that Christ was not divine, believing that God chose the man Jesus to be Messiah because Jesus had fulfilled the Mosaic law. Arianism, a fourth-century heresy, declared that Christ was a creature, less than God but more than man. The Gnostics denied that Christ was fully human. All of these heresies were refuted by the Council of Chalcedon in A.D. 451, which declared that Jesus is truly God with undiminished deity and truly man with full humanity (John 1:14; Acts 17:3; Heb. 2:14). He is Prophet (John 6:14; 7:40), Priest (Heb. 3:1; 4:14), and King (Ps. 2:6; Mic. 5:2).

See also John 1:4, note; chart on The Definitive Christological Passages; note on Heresies (1 Cor. 1)

whose eyes Jesus Christ was clearly portrayed among you[b] as crucified? 2This only I want to learn from you: Did you receive the Spirit by the works of the law, or by the hearing of faith? 3Are you so foolish? Having begun in the Spirit, are you now being made perfect by the flesh? 4Have you suffered so many things in vain—if indeed it was in vain?

5Therefore He who supplies the Spirit to you and works miracles among you, does He do it by the works of the law, or by the hearing of faith?—6just as Abraham "believed God, and it was accounted to him for righteousness."[a] 7Therefore know that only those who are of faith are sons of Abraham. 8And the Scripture, foreseeing that God would justify the Gentiles by faith, preached the gospel to Abraham beforehand, saying, "In you all the nations shall be blessed."[a] 9So then those who are of faith are blessed with believing Abraham.

The Law Brings a Curse

10For as many as are of the works of the law are under the curse; for it is written, "Cursed is everyone who does not continue in all things which are written in the book of the law, to do them."[a] 11But that no one is justified by the law in the sight of God is evident, for "the just shall live by faith."[a] 12Yet the law is not of faith, but "the man who does them shall live by them."[a]

13Christ has redeemed us from the curse of the law, having become a curse for us (for it is written, "Cursed is everyone who hangs on a tree"[a]), 14that the blessing of Abraham might come upon the Gentiles in Christ Jesus, that we might receive the promise of the Spirit through faith.

The Changeless Promise

15Brethren, I speak in the manner of men: Though it is only a man's covenant, yet if it is confirmed, no one annuls or adds to it. 16Now to Abraham and his Seed were the promises made. He does not say, "And to seeds," as of many, but as of one, "And to your Seed,"[a] who is Christ. 17And this I say, that the law, which was four hundred and thirty years later, cannot annul the covenant that was confirmed before by God in Christ,[a] that it should make the promise of no effect. 18For if the inheritance is of the law, it is no longer of promise; but God gave it to Abraham by promise.

3:6 [a]Genesis 15:6 3:8 [a]Genesis 12:3; 18:18; 22:18; 26:4; 28:14 3:10 [a]Deuteronomy 27:26 3:11 [a]Habakkuk 2:4 3:12 [a]Leviticus 18:5 3:13 [a]Deuteronomy 21:23 3:16 [a]Genesis 12:7; 13:15; 24:7 3:17 [a]NU-Text omits in Christ.

3:7–9 Abraham believed by faith and became a son of God. (Gen. 12:1–3). Gentiles, like Abraham, receive salvation through personal faith (see Gen. 15:6).

3:10 All who look only to their own works as commendation to God are truly under a curse. These who trust in works foolishly believe they have the ability within themselves to do whatever God commands. Yet there is no way humanly possible to obey the Law in all ways at all times. The Law cannot justify or save; it can only condemn (Deut. 27:26). It is not human works but Christ's work that justifies.

3:16 God gave the promise of justification by faith to Abraham and the Law for righteous living to Moses. The Greek word epangelia (lit. "an unchangeable promise") is used nine times in chapter 3. The same covenant promises made to Abraham for his justification are made to all who believe by faith in each succeeding generation (see Prov. 13, Inheritance).

Purpose of the Law

19 What purpose then does the law serve? It was added because of transgressions, till the Seed should come to whom the promise was made; and it was appointed through angels by the hand of a mediator. 20 Now a mediator does not mediate for one only, but God is one.
21 Is the law then against the promises of God?
Certainly not! For if there had been a law given which could have given life, truly righteousness would have been by the law. 22 But the Scripture has confined all under sin, that the promise by faith in Jesus Christ might be given to those who believe. 23 But before faith came, we were kept under guard by the law, kept for the faith which would afterward be revealed. 24 Therefore the law was our tutor to bring us to Christ, that we might be justified by faith. 25 But after faith has come,
we are no longer under a tutor.

Sons and Heirs

26 For you are all sons of God through faith in Christ Jesus. 27 For as many of you as were baptized into Christ have put on Christ. 28 There is neither Jew nor Greek, there is neither slave nor free, there is neither male nor female; for you are all one in Christ Jesus. 29 And if you are Christ's, then you are Abraham's seed, and heirs according to the promise.

4 Now I say that the heir, as long as he is a child, does not differ at all from a slave, though he is master of all, 2 but is under guardians and stewards until the time appointed by the father. 3 Even so we, when we were children, were in bondage under the elements of the world. 4 But when the fullness of the time had come, God sent forth His Son, born[a] of a woman, born under the law, 5 to redeem those

4:4 [a]Or made

3:24 God's Law was never intended to justify sinners. As a "tutor" (Gk. paidagogos), the Law was given as a standard to reveal human sinfulness and inadequacy. The role of a teacher is to instruct, protect, and correct. The "tutor" played a unique role in ancient Greek and Roman households. Wealthy parents began with a wet-nurse who cared for newborn babies. Then a nanny-figure appeared to nurture young children. About age six, the children were placed under the care of a household servant or slave (Gk. paidagogos) who was in charge of rearing his master's offspring until late adolescence, including education and discipline. Though some were kind and loving, the dominant image seems to be one of harshness (see ch.3). The Law is still a teacher, though Christ alone is the Savior. The Law defines the righteous requirements of God and exposes all people as guilty of being unable to meet every requirement of the Law perfectly. Those who believe in Him are no longer considered guilty but counted as righteous or justified before God (Rom. 10:4; see chart, Law and Grace).

3:28 In Christ, all are one (John 17:11). There is no distinction of race, rank, or sex at the foot of the Cross. God is impartial. The only ultimate dividing line among people is the condition of the individual soul (see Equality).

HEALING OVERCOMING ADDICTIONS IN HIS POWER

Simply stopping an addictive behavior is rarely sufficient for true wholeness in the addict's life. The underlying cause—for which the addiction provides protection by covering up painful, shame-filled feelings and unmet needs—must also be healed. Without healing the underlying pain, taking away its mask only increases pain and anxiety and often leads to either the return of that addiction or the substitution of another one.

Healing begins with a recognition that an addiction exists and that the person is unable to overcome that addiction in her own power. With this must come a willingness to allow God to touch and meet the underlying need. As God begins to meet the deeper need, the addict then finds herself able to make the Spirit-empowered choice both to lay down the addictive behavior that has served as pseudo-protection and to follow and obey Jesus as He renews her mind (Luke 9:23–25; Rom. 12:1, 2).

The importance of support and accountability by caring believers cannot be overstated. They are frequently used by God both to mirror the seriousness of the problem to the addict and to provide the consistent encouragement and strength needed to overcome the addiction (Gal. 6:2, 3).

who were under the law, that we might receive the adoption as sons.

6 And because you are sons, God has sent forth the Spirit of His Son into your hearts, crying out, "Abba, Father!" 7 Therefore you are no longer a slave but a son, and if a son, then an heir of[a] God through Christ.

Fears for the Church

8 But then, indeed, when you did not know God, you served those which by nature are not gods. 9 But now after you have known God, or rather are known by God, how is it that you turn again to the weak and beggarly elements, to which you desire again to be in bondage? 10 You observe days and months and seasons and years. 11 I am afraid for you, lest I have labored for you in vain.

12 Brethren, I urge you to become like me, for I became like you. You have not injured me at all. 13 You know that because of physical infirmity I preached the gospel to you at the first. 14 And my trial which was in my flesh you did not despise or reject, but you received me as an angel of God, even as Christ Jesus. 15 What[a] then was the blessing you enjoyed? For I bear you witness that, if possible, you would have plucked out your own eyes and given them to me. 16 Have I therefore become your enemy because I tell you the truth?

17 They zealously court you, but for no good; yes, they want to exclude you, that you may be zealous for them. 18 But it is good to be zealous in a good thing always, and not only when I am present with you. 19 My little children, for whom I labor in birth again until Christ is formed in you, 20 I would like to be present with you now and to change my tone; for I have doubts about you.

4:7 [a]NU-Text reads through God and omits through Christ. 4:15 [a]NU-Text reads Where.

4:5–7 Paul reminded his readers that the Christian was once under Law but is now under grace. In redemption, individuals become children of God, adopted into His family—heirs to His riches on earth and in heaven (Rom. 8:16, 17).

4:8–10 The believers in Galatia were being drawn into the ritualism of the Judaizers. "Days" would refer to the Sabbath as well as to specific feast days. "Months" is a reference to the celebrations such as those addressed with sarcasm by Isaiah (Is. 1:14). "Seasons" indicates the feast celebrations, and "years" is probably a reference to the Jubilee years. Paul placed this ritualistic observance in the same category as pagan festivals when the observance of these events was distorted into legalistic ritual.

4:19, 20 Many new Christians in Galatia had returned to false teachings and lost the joy of their salvation. Deeply troubled, Paul called the Galatian believers his "little children," and he compared his relationship to them as to a mother in labor who longs for her child to be born—an intensely painful, but intimate experience. Paul labored for his "little children" to be born into the fullness of Christ. "Spiritual parents" love those whom they led to Christ as a mother loves her child.

Two Covenants

21 Tell me, you who desire to be under the law, do you not hear the law? 22 For it is written that Abraham had two sons: the one by a bondwoman, the other by a freewoman. 23 But he who was of the bondwoman was born according to the flesh, and he of the freewoman through promise, 24 which things are symbolic. For these are the[a] two covenants: the one from Mount Sinai which gives birth to bondage, which is Hagar— 25 for this Hagar is Mount Sinai in Arabia, and corresponds to Jerusalem which now is, and is in bondage with her children— 26 but the Jerusalem above is free, which is the mother of us all. 27 For it is written:

"Rejoice, O barren,
You who do not bear!
Break forth and shout,
You who are not in labor!
For the desolate has many more children
Than she who has a husband."[a]

28 Now we, brethren, as Isaac was, are children of promise. 29 But, as he who was born according to the flesh then persecuted him who was born according to the Spirit, even so it is now. 30 Nevertheless what does the Scripture say? "Cast out the bond-woman and her son, for the son of the bondwoman shall not be heir with the son of the freewoman."[a] 31 So then, brethren, we are not children of the bondwoman but of the free.

Christian Liberty

Christ has made us free,[a] and do not be entan-

4:24 [a]NU-Text and M-Text omit the. 4:27 [a]Isaiah 54:1 4:30 [a]Genesis 21:10 5:1 [a]NU-Text reads For freedom Christ has made us free; stand fast therefore.

4:27 Jerusalem is likened to a childless widow sitting in the gates in her sackcloth and ashes (Is. 54:1). She was bereft of her husband, who had been taken into captivity, and she had no children to care for her. Yet God admonished her to be joyful and happy. Whatever the precise interpretation, the underlying admonition of moving from a barren condition to a fruitful one and from sorrow to joy would come only through this intervention of Yahweh Himself (Is. 54:5). God's grace is the foundation for justification and faith as well as eternal hope.

4:28, 29 Abraham had two sons—Ishmael of the flesh by Hagar and Isaac of the Spirit by Sarah. Ishmael represents the covenant of bondage given to Moses through the Law; Isaac, the covenant of promise given to Abraham through Christ. Christians are children of the covenant promise. They can expect an inheritance of freedom from bondage. Christians must expect persecution, receive their inheritance, and experience God's grace. The two mothers represent two doctrines of salvation. Hagar represents works or human effort; Sarah, grace or divine initiation (see chart, Hagar and Sarah: A Contrast in Women). Both covenants continue to be upheld.

5:1, 2 Again Paul challenged his friends in Galatia to stand firm in their faith and not to return to the bondage of the Law. Christ died to set free, while the Law continues to en-

FRUIT OF THE SPIRIT A REFLECTION OF THE CHARACTER OF GOD

The "fruit" of the Holy Spirit refers to the godly attributes of those who "walk in the Spirit" (Gal. 5:16). The true manifestation of the Holy Spirit at work in a believer's life is that the believer becomes increasingly more like Christ in character and actions. The fruit of the Spirit should characterize the life of every believer, not just the spiritually mature.

The fruit of the Holy Spirit affects the believer's relationship with God, others, and self. As Christians grow in their relationship with the Lord, they develop unselfish love, true joy, and lasting peace. As they build relationships with others, they are challenged to reflect His patience, kindness, and goodness. As they mature spiritually, Christians discover an inner strength which results in faithfulness, gentleness, and self-control.

While the fruit of the Holy Spirit is not necessary for salvation, these godly virtues are evidence of salvation and the genuine work of the Holy Spirit (Matt. 7:17). The life of Christ is manifested by the fruit of the Spirit; the ministry of Christ is accomplished by the gifts of the Spirit. Followers of Christ not only receive the blessings of God but also reflect His character to all whom they encounter.

gled again with a yoke of bondage. 2Indeed I, Paul, say to you that if you become circumcised, Christ will profit you nothing. 3And I testify again to every man who becomes circumcised that he is a debtor to keep the whole law. 4You have become estranged from Christ, you who attempt to be justified by law; you have fallen from grace. 5For we through the Spirit eagerly wait for the hope of righteousness by faith. 6For in Christ Jesus neither circumcision nor uncircumcision avails anything, but faith working through love.

Love Fulfills the Law

7You ran well. Who hindered you from obeying the truth? 8This persuasion does not come from Him who calls you. 9A little leaven leavens the whole lump. 10I have confidence in you, in the Lord, that you will have no other mind; but he who troubles you shall bear his judgment, whoever he is.

11And I, brethren, if I still preach circumcision, why do I still suffer persecution? Then the offense of the cross has ceased. 12I could wish that those who trouble you would even cut themselves off!

13For you, brethren, have been called to liberty; only do not use liberty as an opportunity for the flesh, but through love serve one another. 14For all the law is fulfilled in one word, even in this: "You shall love your neighbor as yourself."[a] 15But if you bite and devour one another, beware lest you be consumed by one another!

Walking in the Spirit

16I say then: Walk in the Spirit, and you shall not fulfill the lust of the flesh. 17For the flesh lusts against the Spirit, and the Spirit against the flesh; and these are contrary to one another, so that you do not do the things that you wish. 18But if you are led by the Spirit, you are not under the law.

19Now the works of the flesh are evident, which are: adultery,[a] fornication, uncleanness, lewdness, 20idolatry, sorcery, hatred, contentions, jealousies, outbursts of wrath, selfish ambitions, dissensions, heresies, 21envy, murders,[a] drunkenness, revelries, and the like; of which I tell you beforehand, just as I also told you in time past, that those who practice such things will not inherit the kingdom of God.

22But the fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, longsuffering, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, 23gentleness, self-control. Against such there is no law. 24And those who are Christ's have crucified the slave (2 Cor. 3:17). The Law is a heavy yoke—a daily burden for those in bondage. However, for the believer, Christ's "yoke is easy" and His "burden is light" (Matt. 11:30). There is great freedom in Christ!

5:13 Justification by faith does not require works, but it does result in godly living. Paul also believed that "faith without works is dead" (James 2:20). However, he saw examples of extremism in the Galatian Christians. On the one hand, some Galatians were too legalistic. On the other hand, some were totally lawless. The freedom in Christ is freedom to choose what is right. Paul states that the right thing to do is to love and serve one another (1 Cor. 9:19).

While Christians are not spared suffering, they are promised deliverance from sin and the inner resources through the indwelling Holy Spirit to live a righteous life in Christ.

Rhonda H. Kelley

flesh with its passions and desires. 25If we live in the Spirit, let us also walk in the Spirit. 26Let us not become conceited, provoking one another, envying one another.

Bear and Share the Burdens

6 Brethren, if a man is overtaken in any trespass, you who are spiritual restore such a one in a spirit of gentleness, considering yourself lest you also be tempted. 2Bear one another's burdens, and so fulfill the law of Christ. 3For if anyone thinks himself to be something, when he is nothing, he deceives himself. 4But let each one examine his own work, and then he will have rejoicing in himself alone, and not in another. 5For each one shall bear his own load.

Be Generous and Do Good

6Let him who is taught the word share in all good things with him who teaches.

7Do not be deceived, God is not mocked; for whatever a man sows, that he will also reap. 8For he who sows to his flesh will of the flesh reap corruption, but he who sows to the Spirit will of the Spirit reap everlasting life. 9And let us not grow weary while doing good, for in due season we shall reap if we do not lose heart. 10Therefore, as we have opportunity, let us do good to all, especially to those who are of the household of faith.

Glory Only in the Cross

11See with what large letters I have written to you with my own hand! 12As many as desire to make a good showing in the flesh, these would compel you to be circumcised, only that they may not suffer persecution for the cross of Christ. 13For not even those who are circumcised keep the law, but they desire to have you circumcised that they may boast in your flesh. 14But God forbid that I should boast except in the cross of our Lord Jesus Christ, by whom[a] the world has been crucified to me, and I to the world. 15For in Christ Jesus neither circumcision nor uncircumcision avails anything, but a new creation.

Blessing and a Plea

16And as many as walk according to this rule, peace and mercy be upon them, and upon the Israel of God.

17From now on let no one trouble me, for I bear in my body the marks of the Lord Jesus.

18Brethren, the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with your spirit. Amen.

6:14 [a]Or by which (the cross)

5:25 The Christian faith is not a list of "don'ts" but of "dos." When believers "walk in the Spirit," they avoid the deeds of the flesh and "do" the things of the Spirit (Rom. 8:4, 5). The fruit of the Spirit refers to the virtues of godly living that result naturally from a walk in the Spirit. The focus is not to keep the letter of the Law but to follow in the love of Jesus Christ. The fruit of the Spirit is evident in all believers who live out their faith (see Ps. 86; Rom. 5; 15; 1 Cor. 9; 13; Gal. 5; Eph. 4; Col. 3; 2 Thess. 1; Rev. 2, Fruit of the Spirit; chart, A Choice of Lifestyles).

6:2 A responsibility of salvation is personal accountability. Another Christian responsibility is helping others when they become burdened down by sin or problems (Acts 20:35).

6:8 Paul used an example of farming to explain the results of sin and righteousness. Sowing to the flesh leads to a life of sin and corruption. Sowing to the Spirit leads to a life of righteousness and holiness. The believer who sows to her own flesh does not lose the Spirit, but she loses the fruit of the Spirit (Gal. 5:22, 23). However, the believer who sows to the Spirit experiences a harvest of righteousness and peace.

6:9, 10 Busy Christians often grow tired, but they should not become weary. "Tired" describes a physical condition, while "weary" describes a spiritual attitude (see Is. 40, Fatigue). There is much work to be done. Paul encouraged the Christians to persevere. They were not to relax (Gk. ekluō) their standards or give up doing the good they had learned. This mandate is not an invitation to become a workaholic but rather a pep talk to continue walking by faith without becoming discouraged or losing heart (see Luke 18:1; 2 Cor. 4:1; 2 Thess. 3:13). Trust God for a harvest of eternal blessings and the strength to do His will.

6:14 God's gift of grace through faith is a guarantee that one cannot depend on works for salvation. If good works were the way to be justified, we would boast of personal righteousness as did the Judaizers. However, Christ removed that tendency when He died on the Cross to provide our justification. Now believers must boast about Christ who died to justify all those who believe in Him.

Ephesians

AUTHOR

Although Paul's authorship has been questioned by critical scholars in recent years, several factors support the position that the apostle wrote the Book of Ephesians.

- Paul specifically states that he is the author (Eph. 1:1; 3:1).
- The early church fathers were unanimous in ascribing the letter to Paul, some (Clement of Rome and Ignatius) quoting almost verbatim from it.
- The theology expressed in Ephesians is entirely consistent with that of other unquestioned Pauline letters.
- The letter's similarity in content with Colossians (more than 75 of its 155 verses) probably indicates that these letters were penned during the same imprisonment.
- Paul's wider range of style and vocabulary in Ephesians is compatible with his high level of education and the particular subject matter discussed in the letter.

DATE

The letter was written during Paul's first Roman imprisonment (Acts 28:16–31), about A.D. 60–63. Since no hint of his release from prison is given in the letter, it was probably written nearer the beginning of the imprisonment, perhaps about A.D. 60.

BACKGROUND

SETTING: Ephesus was the most important commercial center in Asia Minor (present-day Turkey). Regional trade routes intersected there, and the city possessed a fine natural harbor. Its magnificent temple to the Greek goddess Artemis (Diana to the Romans) was known throughout the Hellenistic world as a center for pagan worship and the magical arts (Acts 19:35; see chart, Graeco-Roman Goddesses).

Paul visited Ephesus at the end of his second missionary journey and left behind Priscilla and Aquila to minister (Acts 18:18–21; see map, Paul's Second Missionary Journey). On his third journey, he spent about three years there, and Ephesus became a center for evangelistic outreach to the rest of the province (Acts 19:8, 10). Paul's Spirit-empowered ministry was marked by mighty miracles, and great numbers were won to Christ (Acts 19:18–20). At one point, a riot was instigated by pagan craftsmen, whose idol-making business had been hurt by so many people turning to Christ and renouncing their pagan ways (Acts 19:21–41).

PURPOSE: Ephesians, unlike other Pauline Epistles, was not written to handle specific problems in the church or to correct particular errors of false teaching. Instead, Paul first proclaimed the spiritual resources believers have received so that they might fulfill God's overall purpose for the church: to bring praise and glory to Himself (Eph. 1). Next, he explained how God had reconciled believers both to Himself and to one another as members of Christ's body, the church (Eph. 2; 3). He then exhorted them to draw on these resources in order to live in loving, maturing unity with one another in the church fellowship, in the family, and in the arena of spiritual battle (Eph. 4–6).

AUDIENCE: This letter was written primarily to Gentile believers living in Asia Minor (Eph. 2:11–13). Since some ancient manuscripts omit the phrase "in Ephesus" (Eph. 1:1), scholars have suggested that this was a circular letter meant to be read to several churches in the area. In this case, the appropriate church's name would have been inserted in the opening line. In view of the strategic importance of the Ephesian church, it seems most likely that the letter was originally addressed to that church; then copies were made to be circulated. Similarly, Paul intended his letters to the churches in Colosse and Laodicea to be read to one another (Col. 4:16). The letter to the Laodiceans may be Ephesians, or it may be a lost epistle that has not been preserved.

THEMES

The apostle Paul presented his most exhaustive case for the authenticity of his apostleship (Eph. 3:1–13). He also expounded upon the unity of Jew and Gentile wrought by the work of Christ on the Cross (Eph. 2:11–18). He developed the glorious theme of the believer's position in Christ and God's purpose for the world as accomplished through the church, using these metaphors: the building (Eph. 2:21), the body (Eph. 4:16), and the bride (Eph. 5:22–33). Paul also presented the believer's corresponding responsibilities in living the Christian life with his clearest statement on the importance of relationships within the family (Eph. 5:21—6:4).

ATTRIBUTES OF GOD — HE IS THE ESSENCE OF GRACE

Grace and mercy are fraternal twins. They are initiated by the same Person, spring from the same source, and appear simultaneously; but they are not identical. Mercy does not give us what we do deserve; grace gives us what we do not deserve.

"Grace" (Gk. charis) denotes goodwill, kindness, and benefit. It evokes images of a superior granting favors to an undeserving inferior. The Lord's grace includes undeserved favor, unexpected acceptance, and unconditional love.

Jesus is the giver of grace (John 1:14, 17). A sampling of "grace gifts" includes: salvation (Eph. 2:8), adoption (Eph. 1:5), inheritance (Eph. 1:11), heavenly citizenship (Phil. 3:20), holiness (Eph. 1:4), access to God (Eph. 2:18), forgiveness (Eph. 1:7), preparation for service (1 Pet. 2:5–9), the indwelling of the Holy Spirit (Eph. 1:13), the armor of God (Eph. 6:10–18), and much more. No wonder His grace is called "manifold" (1 Pet. 4:10).

Sin is no match for God's grace. Whatever sin's impact may be, His grace is more potent (Rom. 5:20). God is a giving God. He gives out of His love and loves to give—grace is one of His greatest pleasures (Eph. 1:5, 9).

Greeting

1 Paul, an apostle of Jesus Christ by the will of God,

To the saints who are in Ephesus, and faithful in Christ Jesus:

2 Grace to you and peace from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ.

Redemption in Christ

3 Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who has blessed us with every spiritual blessing in the heavenly places in Christ, 4 just as He chose us in Him before the foundation of the world, that we should be holy and without blame before Him in love, 5 having predestined us to adoption as sons by Jesus Christ to Himself, according to the good pleasure of His will, 6 to the praise of the glory of His grace, by which He made us accepted in the Beloved.

7 In Him we have redemption through His blood, the forgiveness of sins, according to the riches of His grace 8 which He made to abound toward us in all wisdom and prudence, 9 having made known to us the mystery of His will, according to His good pleasure which He purposed in Himself, 10 that in the dispensation of the fullness of the times He might gather together in one all things in Christ, both[a] which are in heaven and which are on earth— in Him. 11 In Him also we have obtained an inheritance, being predestined according to the purpose of Him who works all things according to the counsel of His will, 12 that we who first trusted in Christ should be to the praise of His glory.

13 In Him you also trusted, after you heard the word of truth, the gospel of your salvation; in whom also, having believed, you were sealed with the Holy Spirit of promise, 14 who[a] is the guarantee of our inheritance until the redemption of the purchased possession, to the praise of His glory.

1:10 [a]NU-Text and M-Text omit both. 1:14 [a]NU-Text reads which.

1:1 Paul had not appointed himself to the apostolic ministry, nor had the early church. Rather, he had been chosen and commissioned by God Himself (Acts 9:3–6, 10–16; see Gal. 1:1). Thus he was not merely offering private opinions, as a gifted but fallible human teacher might do; rather, he was God's apostle, writing under the inspiration of the Holy Spirit, and his words carried God's authority.

1:4–6 In eternity past, when only God existed, He chose those who would believe in Christ (v. 11; Rom. 8:30; 2 Thess. 2:13). God's past choice has present consequences: Those He chose have been set apart to walk in holiness of life (Rom. 8:29; Eph. 2:10). A further consequence of the believers' election is that they were "predestined" or "marked out beforehand" to be adopted as children into God's family with all the rights, privileges, and inheritance of natural-born children (Rom. 8:15–17, 23; Gal. 4:4–7).

1:7 In redemption, believers have been released from bondage to sin (Heb. 9:15) through the priceless payment of the blood of Christ (Col. 1:20). Christ's substitutionary death fully satisfied God's justice (Rom. 3:23, 24; Eph. 2:13). Through "the forgiveness of sins," a woman's relationship with God is restored since sins no longer form a barrier between her and God. Redemption and forgiveness are not identical, but a central feature of redemption is the forgiveness of sins (Col. 1:14).

1:11, 12 Paul focused on Jewish believers ("we"). The Jews had been the first to hear the gospel message and to trust in Christ as Messiah (v. 12). Of course, many Gentiles also believed once the gospel was presented to them (v. 13), and they shared equally with Jews in God's inheritance (vv. 13, 14).

SALVATION GOD'S DELIVERANCE

Salvation can be described as "snatching" someone from serious danger. Just as you would "snatch" your child from before an oncoming automobile to save his life, the Lord Jesus saves or "snatches" every individual who trusts in Him from the pathway that leads to eternal death in Hell (Rom. 6:23). Salvation thus can best be understood as God's deliverance. In the Old Testament, God delivered Israel from their enemies many times (Judg. 3:9, 15, 28). In the New Testament, God delivered sinners from eternity in Hell (Acts. 16:31).

Salvation requires not only God's initial action but also your response. There are basically three aspects of God's salvation or deliverance: justification, sanctification, and glorification. Justification is God's deliverance from sin's penalty. When a person accepts Christ into her life, she becomes totally free from the penalty of sin and spiritual death (Rom. 3:23–25). The penalty for sins that have been committed in the past or sins that will be committed in the future has been paid through the death of Jesus Christ on the Cross.

Sanctification is God's progressive deliverance of a believer from sin's power (Eph. 5:26; 1 Thess. 5:23). God's desire is that a believer mature and become more Christlike, that she become free from sin's control in her life. But if the believer sins because of her fallen nature, God has made provision (1 John 1:9). God has given the Holy Spirit to aid believers in the process of sanctification.

Glorification is God's ultimate deliverance of the believer from sin's presence. Glorification will not be actualized until the Lord returns for His children (1 Cor. 15:51–57). While you are living on this earth, you will always be in the presence of sin. However, those who have trusted in Christ will one day be free from sin completely.

Your personal response to God's action is also of utmost importance in salvation:

- You must know who Christ is, what He has done, and what He is able to do.
- You must have a conviction that this knowledge about Christ is true.
- You must act upon that knowledge and conviction, trusting in Christ daily.

You must have a personal encounter with Christ, surrendering your life to the Lord. At this point salvation or "deliverance" occurs. From that point throughout eternity, the power of Christ in the believer is greater than the power of sin over that believer (2 Tim. 1:12), and Christ, in turn, covers your sins by having paid the penalty for those sins through His death on the Cross. You then are challenged to live for Him and grow in His grace.

Prayer for Spiritual Wisdom

15 Therefore I also, after I heard of your faith in the Lord Jesus and your love for all the saints, 16 do not cease to give thanks for you, making mention of you in my prayers: 17 that the God of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Father of glory, may give to you the spirit of wisdom and revelation in the knowledge of Him, 18 the eyes of your understanding[a] being enlightened; that you may know what is the hope of His calling, what are the riches of the glory of His inheritance in the saints, 19 and what is the exceeding greatness of His power toward us who believe, according to the working of His mighty power 20 which He worked in Christ when He raised Him from the dead and seated Him at His right hand in the heavenly places, 21 far above all principality and power and might and dominion, and every name that is named, not only in this age but also in that which is to come.

22 And He put all things under His feet, and gave Him to be head over all things to the church, 23 which is His body, the fullness of Him who fills all in all.

By Grace Through Faith

2 And you He made alive, who were dead in trespasses and sins, 2 in which you once walked according to the course of this world, according to the prince of the power of the air, the spirit who now works in the sons of disobedience, 3 among whom also we all once conducted ourselves in the lusts of our flesh, fulfilling the desires of the flesh and of the mind, and were by nature children of wrath, just as the others.

1:18 [a]NU-Text and M-Text read hearts.

1:17 The term spirit here may be understood either as an attitude or, most probably, as a reference to the Holy Spirit (see Is. 11:2; chart, The Work of the Holy Spirit). The Spirit already fully indwells all believers (Rom. 8:9), but Paul wants them to be fully endowed with His insight and discernment as they grow in their experiential knowledge of God.

2:3 Paul's change in pronouns ("we," v. 3) signals that his reference was not only to those of Gentile background ("you," v. 1) but also to those like himself who came from Jewish stock. Every human being, apart from a saving relationship with Christ, is subject to divine wrath (John 3:36).

WOMEN'S MINISTRIES SERVING IN THE LOCAL CHURCH

Judge, prophetess, handmaiden, missionary, queen, and businesswoman––these are a few of the ministries God has given women throughout biblical history. As "heirs of God and joint heirs with Christ" (Rom. 8:17) and members of "the body of Christ" (1 Cor. 12:27), every woman receives God's gifts to be used for His glory. The possibilities are as limitless as the needs of the world.

Jesus speaks each woman's name as He did that of Mary in the garden following His Resurrection (see John 20:11–18). When a woman's response is as loving as Mary's, Jesus answers as he did to Mary with a mission and message: "Go to My brethren and say to them, 'I am ascending to My Father and your Father, and to My God and your God'" (John 20:17).

Jesus' desire is that each woman yield herself to Him in utter dependence, recognizing that "without Me you can do nothing" (John 15:5), and relying on His Spirit to fulfill the special ministry He selects for her—a ministry appropriate to her talents and effective in her generation. God challenges each of us as He did Queen Esther, "Yet who knows whether you have come to the kingdom for such a time as this?" (Esth. 4:14).

Each woman is hand-picked by God, situated in Christ's body just as He desires, and is indispensable in reaching her particular sphere of influence for Christ. If a woman feels inadequate for the ministry task the Lord reveals to her, she need only remember Jesus' words, "My grace is sufficient for you, for My strength is made perfect in weakness" (2 Cor. 12:9).

4 But God, who is rich in mercy, because of His great love with which He loved us, 5 even when we were dead in trespasses, made us alive together with Christ (by grace you have been saved), 6 and raised us up together, and made us sit together in the heavenly places in Christ Jesus, 7 that in the ages to come He might show the exceeding riches of His grace in His kindness toward us in Christ Jesus. 8 For by grace you have been saved through faith, and that not of yourselves; it is the gift of God, 9 not of works, lest anyone should boast. 10 For we are His workmanship, created in Christ Jesus for good works, which God prepared beforehand that we should walk in them.

Brought Near by His Blood

11 Therefore remember that you, once Gentiles in the flesh—who are called Uncircumcision by what is called the Circumcision made in the flesh by hands— 12 that at that time you were without Christ, being aliens from the commonwealth of Israel and strangers from the covenants of promise, having no hope and without God in the world.
13 But now in Christ Jesus you who once were far off have been brought near by the blood of Christ.

Christ Our Peace

14 For He Himself is our peace, who has made both one, and has broken down the middle wall of separation, 15 having abolished in His flesh the enmity, that is, the law of commandments contained in ordinances, so as to create in Himself one new man from the two, thus making peace, 16 and that He might reconcile them both to God in one body through the cross, thereby putting to death the enmity. 17 And He came and preached peace to you who were afar off and to those who were near.
18 For through Him we both have access by one Spirit to the Father.

Christ Our Cornerstone

19 Now, therefore, you are no longer strangers and foreigners, but fellow citizens with the saints and members of the household of God, 20 having been built on the foundation of the apostles and prophets, Jesus Christ Himself being the chief cor-

2:4, 5 "Mercy" withholds from a person what is deserved (in this case, judgment); "grace" gives what is not deserved—salvation (v. 5).

2:8, 9 Faith is not itself a work that somehow merits salvation; rather it is a response of trust stimulated by the Holy Spirit and leading to salvation. God's purpose in making salvation a free gift is to eliminate any possibility of people boasting in their own self-efforts (Rom. 3:27).

2:10 Those who have been saved by God's grace are His "workmanship" (lit. "masterpiece" or "work of art"), specially created by Him for the purpose of doing "good works." In eternity past God prepared these good works that He will accomplish in and through each believer by the power of His indwelling Spirit.

2:14–19 God has established peace between Jews and Gentiles by destroying the hostile barrier of spiritual enmity between them. Christ fulfilled the Law (Matt. 5:17; Rom. 10:4), rendering it "abolished" or complete. Through Christ the Law is fulfilled not by human effort of Jews or Gentiles but by faith in Christ, who satisfies the Law.

2:20 Paul described the church by using the metaphor of a building. The NT apostles and prophets had a unique and indispensable part in establishing the church. Jesus Christ is Himself the "chief cornerstone." This is literally the "cap-

FRUIT OF THE SPIRIT GENTLENESS

Those who walk in the Spirit possess a quality of gentleness that is one of the hallmarks necessary for Christian unity. Paul challenges believers to a life worthy of their calling in Christ Jesus that is characterized by lowliness, gentleness, longsuffering, mutual forbearance, and peace (Eph. 4:1–3).

"Gentleness" or "meekness" (Gk. prautēs) refers to a humble, submissive attitude that is the opposite of pride. Not to be confused with weakness, gentleness is strength that is submitted to God and channeled into service to others. The Old Testament characterizes God as gentle (2 Sam. 22:36; Ps. 18:35). The New Testament describes Jesus as "gentle and lowly [humble] in heart" (Matt. 11:29; 2 Cor. 10:1). Believers, like their Lord, should pursue gentleness (1 Tim. 6:11) and wear it like a garment (Col. 3:12).

The godly virtue of gentleness, which is a quality of the heart, is counted as being more influential than outward beauty in winning an unbelieving husband to Christ (1 Pet. 3:1–4). A gentle spirit is precious to God. Gentleness is a fruit of the Holy Spirit necessary for godliness (holy, Christlike living), goodness (kindness toward others), and giftedness (service in the name of Jesus).

nerstone, [21]in whom the whole building, being fitted together, grows into a holy temple in the Lord, [22]in whom you also are being built together for a dwelling place of God in the Spirit.

The Mystery Revealed

3 For this reason I, Paul, the prisoner of Christ Jesus for you Gentiles— [2]if indeed you have heard of the dispensation of the grace of God which was given to me for you, [3]how that by revelation He made known to me the mystery (as I have briefly written already, [4]by which, when you read, you may understand my knowledge in the mystery of Christ), [5]which in other ages was not made known to the sons of men, as it has now been revealed by the Spirit to His holy apostles and prophets: [6]that the Gentiles should be fellow heirs, of the same body, and partakers of His promise in Christ through the gospel, [7]of which I became a minister according to the gift of the grace of God given to me by the effective working of His power.

Purpose of the Mystery

[8]To me, who am less than the least of all the saints, this grace was given, that I should preach among the Gentiles the unsearchable riches of Christ, [9]and to make all see what is the fellowship[a] of the mystery, which from the beginning of the ages has been hidden in God who created all things through Jesus Christ;[b] [10]to the intent that now the manifold wisdom of God might be made known by the church to the principalities and powers in the heavenly places, [11]according to the eternal purpose which He accomplished in Christ Jesus our Lord, [12]in whom we have boldness and access with confidence through faith in Him. [13]Therefore I ask that you do not lose heart at my tribulations for you, which is your glory.

stone," the binding stone that holds the entire building together. This building is described as a temple (Gk. naos), the inner sanctuary in which God dwells by His Spirit.

3:1 Paul had already discussed the union of Jewish and Gentile believers into a new entity—the church. He began to pray that they might experience the power and the love of Christ that they would need to live in practical unity with one another in this life.

3:2–7 Paul reminded the Ephesians that by revelation God gave him a special stewardship (lit., "dispensation") that was for their benefit. This stewardship, which he had written about earlier, is a "mystery" (Gk. musterion), referring to God's wise plan that was previously hidden (v. 9; see Eph. 2:11–22). The focus here is on the union of Jew and Gentile as equal partners in the church—the body of Christ (Eph. 3:6).

3:10 Paul's reference is to the new relationship between believing Jews and Gentiles in one body.

ENCOURAGEMENT WORDS THAT BUILD UP

Paul's words admonish us to speak only good, not corrupt, words—ones that build up, encourage, and edify. Our words are to constitute a gift to the hearer (Eph. 4:29).

Jesus and Paul are examples for us in their use of uplifting words to encourage. Even when his ship started to sink, Paul gave words of encouragement (Acts 27:22). When Jesus' disciples were sinking, He spoke encouragement to them (Matt. 14:27). When Paul was being persecuted, the Lord appeared beside him and encouraged him (Acts 23:11).

Many people are bowed down under heavy emotional loads and are weary of life's struggles. How eager they are to hear a word of encouragement (1 Thess. 5:11)! Often we turn the other way, but the Lord wants to give us kind words to say if we are willing to make ourselves available (Is. 50:4).

In Proverbs, the book of wisdom, much is written about the value of encouraging words (Prov. 16:24; 25:11). Not only do pleasant words taste sweet, but their use can lift us up to high places (Prov. 22:11). Whether we want to be encouragers because Jesus said "be of good cheer," because Paul urged us to "take heart," or because we are simply called to lift up the weary, edify the saints, and evangelize the lost—whatever our reason for wishing to bring sweetness to the soul, now is the time to start (James 4:17).

Appreciation of the Mystery

14For this reason I bow my knees to the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ,[a] 15from whom the whole family in heaven and earth is named, 16that He would grant you, according to the riches of His glory, to be strengthened with might through His Spirit in the inner man, 17that Christ may dwell in your hearts through faith; that you, being rooted and grounded in love, 18may be able to comprehend with all the saints what is the width and length and depth and height— 19to know the love of Christ which passes knowledge; that you may be filled with all the fullness of God.

20Now to Him who is able to do exceedingly abundantly above all that we ask or think, according to the power that works in us, 21to Him be glory in the church by Christ Jesus to all generations, forever and ever. Amen.

Walk in Unity

4 I, therefore, the prisoner of the Lord, beseech you to walk worthy of the calling with which you were called, 2with all lowliness and gentleness, with longsuffering, bearing with one another in love, 3endeavoring to keep the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace. 4*There is* one body and one Spirit, just as you were called in one hope of your calling; 5one Lord, one faith, one baptism; 6one God and Father of all, who is above all, and through all, and in you[a] all.

Spiritual Gifts

7But to each one of us grace was given according to the measure of Christ's gift. 8Therefore He says:

> "When He ascended on high,
> He led captivity captive,
> And gave gifts to men."[a]

9(Now this, "He ascended"—what does it mean but that He also first[a] descended into the lower parts of the earth? 10He who descended is also the One who ascended far above all the heavens, that He might fill all things.)

11And He Himself gave some to be apostles, some prophets, some evangelists, and some pastors and teachers, 12for the equipping of the saints for the work of ministry, for the edifying of the body of Christ, 13till we all come to the unity of the faith and of the knowledge of the Son of God, to a perfect man, to the measure of the stature of 3:14, 15 Although God is the Creator of all human beings and angels, only those who have placed personal faith in Jesus Christ are His children and may call Him Father (John 1:12; Rom. 8:15, 16). The idea of a "father" is derived from God and not from human beings. He is the first Father, and none existed before Him.

3:16–19 Paul's prayer has two parts. First, he prayed that God, whose resources are limitless, would grant believers inner strengthening in their present experience (Eph. 3:16). As a result of this empowering, Christ would become fully at home in their lives (v. 17) with access to each area of their lives and as the governing factor in their attitudes and conduct. Paul's second petition was based on the fact that believers have already been placed in the body of Christ, being rooted and grounded in love (v. 17). He prayed that they might be empowered to grasp the immensity of Christ's love and to know that love in their personal experience (vv. 18, 19).

4:12–16 These gifted individuals seek to equip other believers to do the work of the ministry by leading them into doctrinal

GOD'S WILL CONFORMING TO HIS PURPOSE

A mature Christian seeks God's will and asks for God's wisdom when she is facing a major decision. Believers must pray about decisions—especially life decisions such as "Where shall I go to college?" "Should I marry this man?" "Should I bring my ailing parent to live in my home?" Such decisions have serious consequences, and they deserve the prayerful seeking of God's perfect wisdom. But knowing God's will does not happen solely in prayer. It also requires a commitment to knowing His Word.

The Bible teaches that realizing (or proving) God's will is the result of habitually conforming your thinking and behavior to God's Word over a lifetime. As a Christian woman reads the Bible day by day, her mind is renewed with a new way of thinking about life. Worldly ideas, attitudes, and prejudices are replaced by thoughts that conform to God's ways. This process takes time, and there are no shortcuts. The transformation is never complete until death.

The Christian who has ongoing fellowship with the Lord through His Word comes to decisions equipped with a biblically informed way of thinking. Knowing God's will at major decision points is much easier if you are seeking God's will every day in Bible reading and prayer.

the fullness of Christ; 14that we should no longer be children, tossed to and fro and carried about with every wind of doctrine, by the trickery of men, in the cunning craftiness of deceitful plot-ting, 15but, speaking the truth in love, may grow up in all things into Him who is the head—Christ— 16from whom the whole body, joined and knit together by what every joint supplies, according to the effective working by which every part does its share, causes growth of the body for the edifying of itself in love.

The New Man

17This I say, therefore, and testify in the Lord, that you should no longer walk as the rest of[a] the Gentiles walk, in the futility of their mind, 18hav-ing their understanding darkened, being alienated from the life of God, because of the ignorance that is in them, because of the blindness of their heart; 19who, being past feeling, have given themselves over to lewdness, to work all uncleanness with greediness.

20But you have not so learned Christ, 21if indeed you have heard Him and have been taught by Him, as the truth is in Jesus: 22that you put off, concerning your former conduct, the old man which grows corrupt according to the deceitful lusts, 23and be renewed in the spirit of your mind, 24and that you put on the new man which was created according to God, in true righteousness and holiness.

Do Not Grieve the Spirit

25Therefore, putting away lying, "Let each one of you speak truth with his neighbor,"[a] for we are members of one another. 26*"Be angry, and do not sin"*:[a] do not let the sun go down on your wrath, 27nor give place to the devil. 28Let him who stole steal no longer, but rather let him labor, working with his

and practical stability. This mutual edification (v. 12) will continue until the church reaches maturity and unity (v. 13). The mature church will no longer be led astray doctrinally (v. 14) and will exhibit the character qualities of Christ by mutually edifying itself (vv. 15, 16).

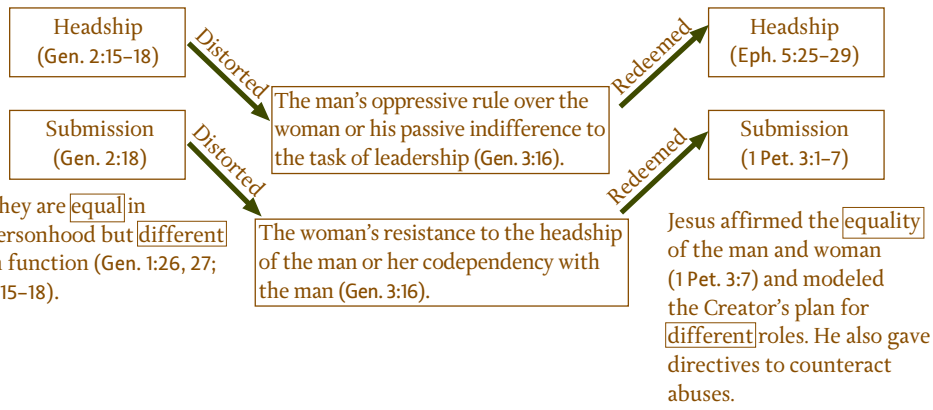
4:17–19 The Ephesians were admonished to avoid the lifestyle typical of unbelieving Gentiles all around them. This lifestyle was characterized by "futility," being empty and without purpose. The understanding of unbelievers had been darkened because they had chosen not to receive God's revelation (Rom. 1:21; 2 Cor. 4:4); they were "alienated" or separated from the life of God and so were unable to hear His voice; they were willfully ignorant of God and His truth (see 2 Tim. 3:7; 1 Pet. 1:4); and their hearts had become blinded and calloused so that they were insensitive to God and had no fear of the consequences of their actions (see John 12:37–40). They had given themselves over to self-indulgent immorality characterized by an insatiable desire for more.

4:22–24 Unlike the unbelievers described, the Ephesians had learned life-changing new truth in Christ: Believers are to put off "the old man," a phrase referring to the sinful lifestyle driven by desires that deceptively promised joy but did not give it; they are to allow the Holy Spirit to renew their thought patterns, changing them from impurity to holiness (Rom. 12:2; Phil. 4:8); they are to put on "the new man," a phrase referring to a new lifestyle of holiness and righteous living. This new lifestyle is put on positionally when a person receives Christ and needs to be lived out experientially through the Spirit's empowering (Col. 3:9, 10).

4:26, 27 God has a plan for dealing with anger (see Ps. 13, Healing; Eccl. 7, Anger; chart, How Can You Prevent Inappropriate Anger).

ROLE RELATIONSHIPS BETWEEN MEN AND WOMEN

ORIGINAL RELATIONSHIP: CREATION	DISTORTION OF THE RELATIONSHIP: THE FALL	RESTORATION OF THE RELATIONSHIP: REDEMPTION
Man and woman are perfectly related to one another and to God (Gen. 2:25).	The relationship between the man and the woman and their relationship to God are distorted by the presence of sin (Gen. 3:7, 8).	Jesus Christ as Redeemer models both servant leadership for the man and selfless submission for the woman (Eph. 5:23–27; Phil. 2:5–8).



According to the egalitarian position, no difference existed between the man and the woman prior to the Fall. They were equal in personhood (as is also true in the complementarian position) and the same in role and function (while the complementarian position maintains a difference in role assignment for the man and for the woman).

See also Gen. 1:26; 2:24; Gal. 3:28; Eph. 5:22–24, 25–31, notes; notes on Headship (Gen. 1); The Creation of the Woman (Gen. 2); Complementarity (Eph. 5); Egalitarianism (Rom. 9); Submission (1 Pet. 3) proceed out of your mouth, but what is good for necessary edification, that it may impart grace to the hearers. 30And do not grieve the Holy Spirit of God, by whom you were sealed for the day of redemption. 31Let all bitterness, wrath, anger, clamor, and evil speaking be put away from you, with all malice. 32And be kind to one another, tenderhearted, forgiving one another, even as God in Christ forgave you.

Walk in Love

5 Therefore be imitators of God as dear children. 2And walk in love, as Christ also has loved us and given Himself for us, an offering and a sacrifice to God for a sweet-smelling aroma.

3But fornication and all uncleanness or covetousness, let it not even be named among you, as is fitting for saints; 4neither filthiness, nor foolish talking, nor coarse jesting, which are not fitting, but rather giving of thanks. 5For this you know,[a] that no fornicator, unclean person, nor covetous man, who is an idolater, has any inheritance in the kingdom of Christ and God. 6Let no one deceive you with empty words, for because of these things the wrath of God comes upon the sons of disobedience. 7Therefore do not be partakers with them.

Walk in Light

8For you were once darkness, but now you are

5:5 [a]NU-Text reads For know this.

4:30 Believers should not grieve the Holy Spirit through sins such as unwholesome speech (v. 29) and the outpouring of repressed anger (v. 31). Since only persons can be grieved, this verse affirms the fact that the Holy Spirit is a Person.

4:32 The basis for believers forgiving others is the fact that they themselves have been graciously forgiven by God (Gk. charizomai), and released from any obligation to make restitution (see Ps. 133, Healing).

BIBLICAL EQUALITY DISTINCT BUT COMPLEMENTARY ROLES

Male and female were created as equal and complementary expressions of the image of God. Both bear His image fully, though in different ways. Their distinct roles in relationship to each other provide a picture of who God is and how He relates to His people.

Christ Jesus is equal with God the Father, yet submissive and responsive to Him (Phil. 2:6–8). God the Father loves the Son and exalts Him. The pattern is repeated in the relationship between Christ and the church. Christ provides loving, servant leadership; the church responds with respect and submission as Christ's "Bride" (Eph. 5:22–33). Another counterpart to the picture is the relationship between church leaders and local bodies of believers (Heb. 13:7, 17).

Sin has distorted the relationship between man and woman at every level, but believers are called to relate according to the Creator's plan instituted in the Garden of Eden before sin entered the world (Gen. 2:15–25). This plan is marked by a holy reciprocity in which the husband's love awakens a responsive submission from the wife just as a wife's respect and appreciation draws from her husband leadership and love.

In Christ, distinctions of rank or sex are removed; yet throughout the New Testament, social and sexual distinctions are clearly seen in the family, the state, and the church. The equality of believers Christ reflects a oneness of relationship, not a sameness of function.

Each individual stands before God created in His image, yet, at the same time, a sinner in need of salvation (Gen. 1:27; Rom. 3:23). Therefore, each person has at the same time both an infinite equality of worth before God and in the midst of others and a total equality of need for Jesus Christ as Savior. Yet out of this same "lump of clay" called humanity, the Creator has chosen to make vessels of various kinds and for various purposes according to His will (Is. 29:16; Rom. 9:19-21). Therefore, in contrast to the world's view, biblical equality recognizes the equality of all people before God but also recognize God's right to assign people different functions and roles (Ezek. 33:17).

A woman's rewards are not based upon her role in the kingdom but upon her faithfulness in fulfilling the assignment God gives. Fully equal before God, women and men enjoy the same free grace, are called to the same obedience, and are capable of receiving the same spiritual gifts and blessings. Yet woman is not man, and man is not woman. They are equal in worth and personhood as the creation of God but remain functionally different in the role assignments each is to fulfill.

light in the Lord. Walk as children of light [9](for the fruit of the Spirit[a] is in all goodness, righteousness, and truth), [10]finding out what is acceptable to the Lord. [11]And have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness, but rather expose them. [12]For it is shameful even to speak of those things which are done by them in secret. [13]But all things that are exposed are made manifest by the light, for whatever makes manifest is light. [14]Therefore He says:

"Awake, you who sleep,
Arise from the dead,
And Christ will give you light."

Walk in Wisdom

[15]See then that you walk circumspectly, not as fools but as wise, [16]redeeming the time, because the days are evil.

[17]Therefore do not be unwise, but understand what the will of the Lord is. [18]And do not be drunk with wine, in which is dissipation; but be filled with the Spirit, [19]speaking to one another in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing and making melody in your heart to the Lord, [20]giving thanks always for all things to God the Father in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, [21]submitting to one another in the fear of God.[a]

5:9 [a]NU-Text reads light. 5:21 [a]NU-Text reads Christ.

5:18 The command to be filled applies to all believers. The passive voice of the verb indicates that this is not a manufactured experience; the Holy Spirit fills and controls them. Further, the present tense of the command indicates that there can be many, successive fillings. This filling is not to be confused with the "baptism of the Spirit" (1 Cor. 12:13), which occurs at the point of conversion.

5:19–21 As a result of the Spirit's filling, believers will communicate with one another in an edifying manner. The Greek verb used includes all sorts of speech—singing of "psalms" (OT psalms), "hymns" (praises composed by Christians), and "spiritual songs" (spontaneous, Spirit–inspired praise). Second, they will sing praises to the Lord (see chart, Hymns and Songs Associated with Women). Third, they will continually give thanks to the Father (Col. 3:17; 1 Thess. 5:18). Fourth, they will mutually submit to one another.

CHILDREN A REQUIREMENT TO OBEY

Children are to obey both their parents. This relationship exists "in the Lord," and the implication is that children and parents live under the authority of Jesus Christ (Eph. 6:1). Children cannot be subject to their parents in a way that is contrary to the obedience they owe to Jesus Christ. They should obey their parents because this is "right" in God's eyes, as illustrated by the fourth Commandment (vv. 1, 2). A child's education would typically include the Ten Commandments; so Paul is drawing attention to truth children would already know. The word "honor" includes the ideas of respect and esteem (v. 2). Life lived in submission to legitimate authority would benefit the child with a better and longer life (v. 3; see Deut. 5:16). The term "father" can be used to represent both parents (see similar usage in Heb. 11:23). Unreasonable demands by parents will provoke children to anger and can push them to perpetual bitterness with the result that children lose hope of ever performing well enough to please (Col. 3:21). Parents should instead rear their children in an atmosphere of nurturing: godly training in what is right, correction of what is wrong, and encouragement at every turn.

Marriage—Christ and the Church

22 Wives, submit to your own husbands, as to the Lord. 23 For the husband is head of the wife, as also Christ is head of the church; and He is the Savior of the body. 24 Therefore, just as the church is subject to Christ, so let the wives be to their own husbands in everything.

25 Husbands, love your wives, just as Christ also loved the church and gave Himself for her, 26 that He might sanctify and cleanse her with the washing of water by the word, 27 that He might present her to Himself a glorious church, not having spot or wrinkle or any such thing, but that she should be holy and without blemish. 28 So husbands ought to love their own wives as their own bodies; he who loves his wife loves himself. 29 For no one ever hated his own flesh, but nourishes and cherishes it, just as the Lord does the church. 30 For we are members of His body,[a] of His flesh and of His bones. 31 "For this reason a man shall leave his father and mother and be joined to his wife, and the two shall become one flesh."[a] 32 This is a great mystery, but I speak concerning Christ and the church. 33 Nevertheless let each one of you in particular so love his own wife as himself, and let the wife see that she respects her husband.

Children and Parents

6 Children, obey your parents in the Lord, for this is right. 2 "Honor your father and mother," which is the first commandment with promise:
3 "that it may be well with you and you may live long on the earth."[a]

4 And you, fathers, do not provoke your children to wrath, but bring them up in the training and admonition of the Lord.

5:30 [a]NU-Text omits the rest of this verse. 5:31 [a]Genesis 2:24 6:3 [a]Deuteronomy 5:16

5:22—6:9 As Paul elaborated on the subject of submission, he showed what would happen in specific relationships within the family (see 1 Pet. 3, Submission; charts, Role Relationships Between Men and Women; Submission).

5:22–24 The exhortation specifies that wives are to submit themselves to their "own" husbands (v. 22). Paul in no way suggests that wives are inferior to their husbands or that they, as women, must submit to all other men. The wife's submission is voluntary rather than forced (v. 22). God does not ask a wife to submit herself to her husband in violation of her Christian responsibility to walk in holiness and righteousness before Him. The marriage relationship is raised to lofty heights as Paul compared it to the relationship of Christ and His church (v. 23). The husband is not the Savior of the wife's body. Nevertheless, the analogy holds that the husband is to be the protector of his wife (see Gen. 2:15–17, note). In voluntary submission, the wife can serve her husband, just as the church serves Christ, with freedom and dignity.

5:25–31 Paul's exhortation is equally clear to husbands: They are to love their wives (an admonition expressed six times in vv. 25–33) in the same manner in which Christ sacrificially loved the church (v. 25). Husbands must not be "bitter" or harsh with their wives (Col. 3:19). Christ's love for His church is presently manifested in His work of atonement (Eph. 5:25) and sanctification (v. 26) so that He might in the end times present her as a pure and spotless bride (v. 27). Returning to the marriage relationship, Paul explained that the husband should love his wife as his own body because the two are actually one (v. 28; see Gen. 2:24). "Body" is used here, as elsewhere, to refer to the whole person (Rom. 12:1; Phil. 1:20). God prescribed that marriage provide a picture of the ultimate and eternal love between Christ and His church.

5:33 Paul summarized by reminding each husband to love his own wife sacrificially as himself and by reminding each wife to show respect to her husband as the God-ordained leader of the family "as to the Lord" (v. 22; see charts, Role Relationships Between Men and Women; Theological Foundations for Headship).

FATHERHOOD PROTECTOR AND PROVIDER

The earliest concept of God for a child is greatly impacted by the relationship she has with her own father. Fathers in the Bible were the supreme authoritative figures in their families. With but a word they could determine the fate of their offspring. In contrast to this autocratic image of fatherhood, Paul's advice to fathers emphasizes patience (Eph. 6:4). The father Jesus describes, just as the heavenly Father, loves unconditionally, forgives without strings attached, and gives abundantly (Luke 15:11–32).

Still, Scripture presents a tender side to fatherhood. A temple official came to Jesus frantic for his daughter's healing (Matt. 9:18–26); Jacob and David displayed deep sorrow at the loss of their sons (Gen. 37:33–35; 2 Sam. 13:35–39); both Noah and Joseph (the father of Jesus) followed God's direction and provided escapes from danger for their children (Gen. 7:5; Matt. 2:13–23). Biblical fathers were not perfect; they made mistakes. Eli did not set limits for his sons (1 Sam. 2:12; 3:13); David did not spend much time with his sons, nor did he live an exemplary life before them (2 Sam. 12:13, 14; 24:10). The best earthly father is one who has a vibrant fellowship with the heavenly Father and thus has access to the Lord's unlimited wisdom and vast resources (Eph. 5:15, 16).

A mother helps to fashion a good father. She makes him feel loved and accepted, treating him with respect. She shows respect for his position of leadership. She does not undermine his authority. She offers encouragement, reflective interaction, and supportive interest.

Fathers certainly are reminded of the importance of making their children feel wanted (Ps. 127:3–5). Fathers are to instruct their children (Deut. 6:1–9; Prov. 4:1; 6:20), train them (Ps. 78:5–7; Prov. 22:6), and correct them (Prov. 13:24). The shelter and security provided by a godly father should give freedom for growth without overprotection from challenges or tasks that teach responsibility (1 Sam. 3:1–10).

Bondservants and Masters

5 Bondservants, be obedient to those who are your masters according to the flesh, with fear and trembling, in sincerity of heart, as to Christ; 6 not with eyeservice, as men-pleasers, but as bondservants of Christ, doing the will of God from the heart, 7 with goodwill doing service, as to the Lord, and not to men, 8 knowing that whatever good anyone does, he will receive the same from the Lord, whether he is a slave or free.

9 And you, masters, do the same things to them, giving up threatening, knowing that your own Master also[a] is in heaven, and there is no partiality with Him.

The Whole Armor of God

10 Finally, my brethren, be strong in the Lord and in the power of His might. 11 Put on the whole armor of God, that you may be able to stand against the wiles of the devil. 12 For we do not wrestle against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against the rulers of the darkness of this age,[a] against spiritual hosts of wickedness in the heavenly places. 13 Therefore take up the whole armor of God, that you may be able to withstand in the evil day, and having done all, to stand.

14 Stand therefore, having girded your waist with

6:9 [a]NU-Text reads He who is both their Master and yours. 6:12 [a]NU-Text reads rulers of this darkness.

6:5–8 Slaves had no option about obedience, except when to obey their masters would violate their obedience to Christ. Paul understood that slaves were considered the legal property of their masters. However, he addressed them on an equal level and with the same courtesy extended to their masters. Nowhere in Scripture is slavery presented as a divinely established institution. The service of slaves should be characterized by a deep desire to avoid poor workmanship, as in any other vocation, and by sincerity of heart (lit. "singleness"), meaning the absence of duplicity. They should serve eagerly, as if they were serving Christ Himself, knowing that this is only an "earthly" (Gk. kata sarkon, "according to the flesh") relationship and that God will fully reward their faithfulness (Col. 3:24). Such rewards are never dependent upon social status. Thus the principles are also appropriate in employment relationships (see Prov. 24, Employment; chart, Women in the Workplace).

6:11 Satan's wiles or schemings are directed against the church corporately (Eph. 4:2, 21, 31–32; 5:5) and believers personally (Acts 5:3; 10:38; 1 Tim. 4:1–5). The devil lives up to his name through falsely accusing believers before God (1 John 2:1, 2; Rev. 12:9) and maligning God before believers (Gen. 3:1), as well as through stirring up turmoil in the world by his accusations (James 3;13–16; chart, The Names for Satan; A Portrait of the Adversary).

6:14 The picture of God's armor is of a Roman soldier's tunic, pulled up and tucked into his belt so that he could fight or work unhindered. Living a life of honesty and integrity enables the Christian to be one in purpose with Jesus Christ, who is the Truth, and to be unhindered in the battle against Satan, who is a deceiver and liar (see chart, A Portrait of the Adversary). The breastplate covered the body from neck to thigh and was usually made of bronze. Believers do not need to

SPIRITUAL WARFARE THE ARMOR OF GOD

When a woman becomes a child of God, she not only inherits God's blessings but God's enemies as well. The Lord's foremost enemy is Satan, whose purpose is to destroy His work (John 8:44), but Jesus came in order to "destroy the works of the devil" (1 John 3:8).

Satan is a fallen angel (Is. 14:12–15) and as such is only a created being. He is in no way equal to God, the Creator. While Satan is superior in intellect and strength to mankind, he is inferior to God in every way. Believers have the power of the indwelling resurrected Christ over them and protecting them (1 John 4:4).

In addition, believers have been given the whole armor of God "to stand against the wiles of the devil" (Eph. 6:11). Each piece of the armor is to be "put on" to help believers overcome the temptations and attacks of the Evil One.

1) Having Girded Your Waist With Truth (v. 14): The waist or abdomen area was generally thought to be the seat of emotions. To gird this area with truth is to commit your emotions to believe the truth. Often a person knowingly allows herself to believe a lie because of fear or self-pity. Believers must hold a commitment to truth regardless of the repercussions (John 8:32, 36).
2) Having Put On the Breastplate of Righteousness (Eph. 6:14): The breast is generally thought of as the place of the soul. The heart must be kept pure and righteous because sin gives a foothold to the enemy. Confession and forgiveness on the basis of the blood of Christ cleanse the heart (1 John 1:9).
3) Having Shod Your Feet With the Preparation of the Gospel of Peace (Eph. 6:15): Proper shoes enable the feet to go from place to place. The believer is to be about her Father's business, which is to spread the gospel of peace and reconciliation. An undaunted sense of this mission keeps the believer headed in the right direction (Matt. 28:19, 20).
4) Taking the Shield of Faith (Eph. 6:16): The Wicked One is "the accuser of our brethren" (Rev. 12:10) and will send his fiery darts to instill doubt, fear, and guilt. Faith acts as an invisible shield that deflects such false accusations (Heb. 11:6).
5) Take the Helmet of Salvation (Eph. 6:17): A helmet protects the head, that is, the brain and thoughts. Assurance of salvation is a mighty defense against doubt and insecurity and the kinds of works bred by them (1 John 5:11–13).
6) Take the Sword of the Spirit (Eph. 6:17): The Word of God, the only offensive weapon in this armor, was used by the Lord Jesus against Satan (Luke 4:1–13). The living Word is powerful, effective, and instructive (Heb. 4:12; 2 Tim. 3:16, 17).
7) Praying Always (Eph. 6:18): Prayer opens the channels between us and God. In the midst of battle, we as believers must keep in constant communication with our Leader for directions and encouragement. Our prayers for one another are important and effectual (James 5:16).

truth, having put on the breastplate of righteousness, [15]and having shod your feet with the preparation of the gospel of peace; [16]above all, taking the shield of faith with which you will be able to quench all the fiery darts of the wicked one. [17]And take the helmet of salvation, and the sword of the Spirit, which is the word of God; [18]praying always with all prayer and supplication in the Spirit, being watchful to this end with all perseverance and supplication for all the saints— [19]and for me, that utterance may be given to me, that I may open my mouth boldly to make known the mystery of the gospel, seek protection or right standing with God through works of their own; they can confidently stand in what Christ has done in their behalf (2 Cor. 5:21).

6:15 The soldier wore sandals with cleats made of sharp nails designed to give firm footing on even the most rugged terrain. "Preparation" may have the sense of readiness to share the gospel to others at a moment's notice. "Preparation" may also refer to a prepared foundation that consists of the gospel of peace with God (Eph. 2:17).

6:16 This long, oblong, or oval shield was crafted from two layers of wood covered with linen or animal hides, bound together with iron. When fighting side by side, soldiers could hold these shields together to form a long wall. Soaked in water, they served as adequate defense against the enemy's "fiery darts"—arrows that had been dipped in pitch and ignited. The shield of faith offers God's unlimited resources of power and wisdom (Eph. 3:16–21) to resist the fiery darts of distressing circumstances and temptation to evil (1 Cor. 10:13).

6:17 The soldier's bronze helmet had leather attachments to hold it in place. Christians can experience protection from Satan's attacks as they rest confidently in their position as members of God's family (John 1:12, 13), set apart for His purposes (Rom. 15:16; 1 Cor. 1:2; 2 Thess. 2:13). Further, they can know God's present work of sanctification in their lives, experiencing deliverance from sin (Gal. 5:16; Phil. 2:12, 13; Col. 1:10) and having the guarantee of future, eternal deliverance from every kind of evil (1 Thess. 5:8). The short, two-edged sword enabled the heavily-armed soldier to attack deftly and defeat his enemy at close range. The believer's sword may be understood to be either "supplied by the Spirit" or "used by the Spirit." Paul further identified this sword as "the word of God" (see Heb. 4:12). "Word" (Gk. rhēma) most probably refers to specific sections of Scripture the Holy Spirit brings to mind to meet a particular need. Jesus' use of specific sections of Deuteronomy in His encounter with Satan in the wilderness exemplifies this (Matt. 4:4, 7, 10).

A Gracious Greeting

[21]But that you also may know my affairs and how I am doing, Tychicus, a beloved brother and faithful minister in the Lord, will make all things known to you; [22]whom I have sent to you for this very purpose, that you may know our affairs, and that he may comfort your hearts.

6:18 Prayer is not listed as a separate weapon of warfare but is rather given an all-encompassing status. Prayer is to be constant (1 Thess. 5:17) as the Christian prepares for battle, engages in it, and rests from it. All kinds of prayer are to be offered through the power of the Holy Spirit.

Philippians

AUTHOR

The apostle Paul, in a night vision a decade before the writing of this letter, received a call to preach in the region of Macedonia (Phil. 1:1; see Acts 16:6–10). Paul had never before been to Europe, but, obedient to the vision, he sailed to Macedonia's coastal port Neapolis, then walked nine miles inland to Philippi, the area's "foremost city" (Acts 16:12). Timothy, his young disciple and traveling companion on that trip, may have served as an amanuensis or secretary for this letter (Phil. 1:1; Acts 16:1–5; 1 Tim. 1:1, 2; 2 Tim. 1:1, 2). Philippians is categorized as one of Paul's four prison epistles (see chart, The Timeline of Paul).

DATE

After several subsequent visits to Philippi and the receiving of occasional financial support, Paul, now imprisoned in Rome, wrote this letter to the Philippians around A.D. 60–63.

BACKGROUND

SETTING: Philippi's original name was Krenides (lit. "Little Fountains"), a delightful town set on a hill with an abundance of springs for water supply. Philippi's river bank was mentioned as a gathering place for prayer for Lydia and other women (Acts 16:13).

In 356 B.C., when Philip of Macedon began his reign over the surrounding province of Macedonia, he gave his own name to these springs (lit. "the Philips"). In 42 B.C., Philippi became famous as a battlesite. Julius Caesar had been assassinated, and four of his generals vied to replace him: Cassius and Brutus fought Octavius and Mark Antony at Philippi. Octavius and Mark Antony were victorious, then fought each other for the top position. Octavius won, pronounced himself emperor, and changed his name to Augustus (even naming a month of the year after himself). With that, Rome was no longer a republic but an empirical dictatorship. About thirty years later, "a decree went out from Caesar Augustus that all the world should be registered" (Luke 2:1). Under God, this caesar determined the birthplace of Jesus.

Meanwhile, Augustus retreated often to his Philippi resort, the site of his great triumph, and designated it a Roman colony (Acts 16:12). For the Philippians, this designation made a tremendous social and psychological difference: The surrounding province of Macedonia, physically lower in elevation, now had no authority over them. And like all other Roman citizens, they were exempt from taxes, could buy and sell as they pleased, could file legal suits, and could assume privileges appropriate to being part of empirical Rome (Acts 16:20, 21, 37–39). This situation might explain their tendency to arrogance and the need for Paul to stress humility in his letter to them.

AUDIENCE: These Philippians are our cultural forebears—progressive westerners. When Paul crossed the water westward from Troas to Philippi—from Asia to Europe, culturally he took a giant step. The women of Philippi had great independence. They gathered for meetings (Acts 16:13); they ran their own businesses (Acts 16:14); and they even feuded in the church (Phil. 4:2, 3).

Women played a prominent part in the Book of Philippians—perhaps as much or more than any other single book. The Philippian story began with women meeting on "the riverside, where prayer was customarily made" (Acts 16:12, 13). Since Philippi became the first European city in which Paul preached, his first European convert may have been a woman, Lydia of Philippi and her household (Acts 16:14); later came a Philippian jailer and his family (Acts 16:27–34). Paul's persecution began over his compassion for a young woman—a Philippian girl abused by the occult (Acts 16:16–19). And a decade later, trouble within the church focused on two feuding women, Euodia and Syntyche (Phil. 4:2, 3).

In the ten intervening years since his first visit, Paul, coming and going from Philippi several times, had been arrested, tried, and sent to Rome to a higher court, where he was soon to be on trial for his life before Nero (see chart, Political Rulers in the New Testament). Normally prisoners would have been held in some isolated dungeon and then executed; but because Paul was a Roman citizen, he had appealed to Caesar himself. Therefore, he was under house arrest and could write letters as well as receive visitors and gifts (Acts 28:30, 31). We have no biblical record of his death; tradition says he was later convicted and executed, following a second Roman imprisonment (see 2 Tim. 1:16, 17).

PURPOSE: The Philippians had occasionally sent Paul money, the latest support being delivered by young Epaphroditus, a member of their church. When Epaphroditus got deathly sick and then recovered, Paul wrote to the Philippians for two reasons: to thank them for their gift (Phil. 4:10–20) and to return Epaphroditus with the letter, so they could see for themselves that he was well again (Phil. 2:25, 27–30). He may also have used this letter to announce Timothy's coming visit (Phil. 2:19), to express his own desire to come again to Philippi (Phil. 2:24), to address the problem between the two women in the Philippian church (Phil. 4:2), or perhaps some combination of these.

LITERARY CHARACTERISTICS: As in Paul's other epistles, Philippians unfolds in the style of personal correspondence, opening with the mention of the author (which in subsequent generations has been moved to the closing of a letter), followed by the salutation or names of the addressees. There follows the formal greeting, then the body of the letter with final words of greeting as the conclusion. One unique feature of this letter is what some have described as a Christological hymn (Phil. 2:5–11). This beautiful, rhythmical passage presents a brief lesson in Christology, beginning with Jesus' pre-incarnate state, followed by His Incarnation, Crucifixion, and ultimately His heavenly exaltation.

THEMES

The letter is not primarily a doctrinal dissertation but a personal note: a flower as much to be enjoyed in a garden or vase as to be studied under a microscope. Its major themes, rather than being sequentially laid out, are mentioned and then interrupted many times.

The primary emphasis is joy (an idea occurring more than fifteen times) with resultant unity and humility as secondary emphases. The book from beginning to end lends itself to a rich study of these wonderful themes, around which the following outlines were built.

OUTLINE ON JOY

I. Paul, the Model (3:17; 4:9)
   A. Paul's rejoicing at the time of writing
      1. When he prayed for the Philippians (1:4)
      2. When he heard Christ had been preached (1:16–18)
      3. When the Philippians sent him money (4:10, 17)

B. Paul's anticipation for more rejoicing in the future
   1. When the Philippians became truly unified (2:2)
   2. When the Philippians were completed at the day of Christ (2:16)

II. The Philippians, the Followers
   A. In specific situations
      1. "Rejoice with me," even if I am executed (2:17, 18).
      2. "Rejoice" with Epaphroditus over his recovery (2:28).
   B. Always, because it is right
      1. I minister to you for the purpose of your "progress and joy" (1:25, 26).
      2. It is a Christian characteristic (3:3).
      3. You must (3:1; 4:4)!

OUTLINE ON UNITY

I. Exhortations to Church Unity
   A. By Paul's delicate inclusiveness "You," "All [of you]," "you all," (1:1, 4, 7, 8, and others)
   B. By Paul's straightforward commands
      1. Urgings, implicit or explicit, to "one spirit," "one accord," "one mind" (1:27; 2:2, and others)
      2. Warnings, implicit or explicit, against "conceit," "disputing," disagreements (2:3, 14, and others)

II. Threats to Church Unity
   A. Doctrinal danger: legalism in the church (3:2–16)
      1. A warning against those who press for strict observance of laws (3:2, 3)
      2. The testimony of Paul as a former legalist (3:4–6)
      3. Paul's antidote: focus on Christ and His future (3:7–14)
   B. Doctrinal danger: license in the church (3:18–21)
      1. Warning against those who opt for self-indulgence (3:18, 19)
      2. Paul's antidote: focus on Christ and His future (3:20, 21)
   C. Relational danger: pride among church members
      1. Warnings against and examples of the "self-first" mentality (2:3, 21; 3:18, 19)
      2. Paul's antidotes: lowliness of mind (2:3, 5); not "self-esteem" but "others' esteem" (2:3, 4, 19, 20, 30; 3:15; 4:15–18).
   D. Relational danger: a personal "dispute" in the church (4:2, 3)
      1. Warning to two women by name (4:2)
      2. Paul's antidote: enlist a third party to help reconcile (4:3)

OUTLINE ON HUMILITY

I. Three Models of Self-emptying
   A. Paul, writer of the letter (1:1), emptying himself of the desire for:
      1. Recognition (1:12–18)
      2. Personal profit (3:8; 4:16, 17)
      3. Life itself (1:21–24)
   B. Christ, subject of the letter (2:5–8), emptying Himself of the desire for:
      1. Recognition (2:7)
      2. Personal profit (2:7, 8)
      3. Life itself (2:8)
   C. Epaphroditus, bearer of the letter (2:25–30), emptying himself of the desire for:
      1. Recognition (2:26)
      2. Personal profit (2:25, 27)
      3. Life itself (2:30)

II. God's Way "Up" Is "Down" (see charts, Jesus' Pilgrimage; Paul's Pilgrimage)
   A. Christ's life (2:6–11)
      1. His voluntary descent into self-emptying (2:6–8)
      2. The Father's determination to lift Him up (2:9–11)
   B. Paul's life (3:4–10)
      1. His climb toward self-exaltation (3:4–6)
      2. His voluntary descent into self-emptying (3:8–10)

Greeting

1 Paul and Timothy, bondservants of Jesus Christ,

To all the saints in Christ Jesus who are in Philippi, with the bishops[a] and deacons:

2 Grace to you and peace from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ.

Thankfulness and Prayer

3 I thank my God upon every remembrance of you, 4 always in every prayer of mine making request for you all with joy, 5 for your fellowship in the gospel from the first day until now, 6 being confident of this very thing, that He who has begun a good work in you will complete it until the day of Jesus Christ; 7 just as it is right for me to think this of you all, because I have you in my heart, inasmuch as both in my chains and in the defense and confirmation of the gospel, you all

1:1 [a] Literally overseers

1:1 Paul omitted his usual title of "apostle." He was writing to the Philippians, not so much as an authority as a friend. "We are servants, you are saints" suggests the appealing humility that will become one of the letter's key themes.

1:2 Paul combined two languages and cultures in this unique greeting: "Grace" (Gk. charis) and "peace" (Gk. eirēnē; Heb. shalom). Both are typical greetings, and they are linked in a special greeting for a racially blended church. The church at Philippi had been blended from the start: Jewish women met for prayer (Acts 16:13); they were joined by Lydia, a Gentile who became a Jewish proselyte (Acts 16:14, 15); then a Gentile jailer and his family were added (Acts 16:30–33). But beyond the simple greeting, Paul is linking two important Christian concepts, God's gifts to His children of "grace" or unmerited favor and "peace." Ultimately, there can be no peace without first receiving His grace.

1:5 Your fellowship in the gospel is Paul's way of acknowledging their financial support. At this time, he only alluded to receiving the gift; later he would thank them specifically (Phil. 4:10–19).

1:6 The day of Jesus Christ is a reference to the return of

FITNESS A LIFESTYLE OF TOTAL HEALTH

Taking care of your physical body, also known as the Lord's temple, is a balancing act: We must attempt to achieve physical wellness and fitness without becoming narcisstic and self-consumed. Practicing healthy living and self-control can glorify God and make a person more effective in her daily walk with Him and her relationships with others. If a woman feels good, she usually has energy and enthusiasm that not only benefit herself, but others.

Stress control, exercise, and dietary moderation are key elements of total fitness (Phil. 4:6, 7). We are to work toward self-control in everything (1 Cor. 9:25), especially consumption of food (Matt. 6:25) and the use of alcoholic beverages (Eph. 5:18). We are to avoid gluttony (Prov. 23:20).

Also consider that Jesus and the apostles walked everywhere. Most people now get much less physical activity than God intended for the human body. Consistent daily activity can help people to remain happy and fit.

Though Paul minimized its importance, he recognized the value of exercise (1 Tim. 4:8). Solomon well knew the wisdom of the Lord is "health to your flesh, And strength to your bones" (Prov. 3:8).

Mental and emotional fitness, as well as physical fitness, are of major concern in our stressful world. As science and technology advance, we learn more about the complex interaction among the mental, emotional, spiritual, and physical aspects of life. We can be comforted to see that the Lord spoke about these interactions thousands of years ago (Prov. 17:22). Scripture was the first to record that a merry heart and courage can foster the healing of even very serious and life-threatening illnesses. James wrote that prayer and the anointing of oil in the name of the Lord was helpful in healing (James 5:14), and Daniel followed certain dietary principles and emerged healthier than his colleagues (Dan. 1:11–14). The Lord even said that His dietary and health statutes were designed as preventive medicine—so that His people might contract none of the Egyptian diseases (Ex. 15:26).

are partakers with me of grace. [8]For God is my witness, how greatly I long for you all with the affection of Jesus Christ.

[9]And this I pray, that your love may abound still more and more in knowledge and all discernment, [10]that you may approve the things that are excellent, that you may be sincere and without offense till the day of Christ, [11]being filled with the fruits of righteousness which are by Jesus Christ, to the glory and praise of God.

Christ Is Preached

[12]But I want you to know, brethren, that the things which happened to me have actually turned out for the furtherance of the gospel, [13]so that it has become evident to the whole palace guard, and to all the rest, that my chains are in Christ; [14]and most of the brethren in the Lord, having become confident by my chains, are much more bold to speak the word without fear.

[15]Some indeed preach Christ even from envy and strife, and some also from goodwill: [16]The former[a] preach Christ from selfish ambition, not sincerely, supposing to add affliction to my chains; [17]but the latter out of love, knowing that I am appointed for the defense of the gospel. [18]What then? Only that in every way, whether in pretense or in truth, Christ is preached; and in this I rejoice, yes, and will rejoice.

To Live Is Christ

[19]For I know that this will turn out for my deliverance through your prayer and the supply of the Spirit of Jesus Christ, [20]according to my earnest expectation and hope that in nothing I shall be ashamed, but with all boldness, as always, so now also Christ will be magnified in my body, whether by life or by death. [21]For to me, to live is Christ, and to die is gain. [22]But if I live on in the flesh, this will mean fruit from my labor; yet what I shall choose I cannot tell. [23]For[a] I am hard-pressed between the two, having a desire to depart and be with Christ, which is far better. [24]Nevertheless to remain in the flesh is more needful for you. [25]And being confident of this, I know that I shall remain

Christ. It is mentioned six times in the NT, three of them in this letter (vv. 6, 10; Phil. 2:16). This reference is not to be confused with the day of the Lord or Judgment Day. Paul here emphasized the keeping power of God in salvation. The Philippians were secure in their salvation, not only for the present but for the future as well.

1:7 Paul expressed an interesting progression: "Both in my chains" or while he was awaiting trial under house arrest, "in the defense and confirmation of the gospel" or when the time for his trial would come, and finally, "my deliverance" (v. 19) or specifically his acquittal.

and continue with you all for your progress and joy of faith, [26]that your rejoicing for me may be more abundant in Jesus Christ by my coming to you again.

Striving and Suffering for Christ

[27]Only let your conduct be worthy of the gospel of Christ, so that whether I come and see you or am absent, I may hear of your affairs, that you stand fast in one spirit, with one mind striving together for the faith of the gospel, [28]and not in any way terrified by your adversaries, which is to them a proof of perdition, but to you of salvation,[a] and that from God. [29]For to you it has been granted on behalf of Christ, not only to believe in Him, but also to suffer for His sake, [30]having the same conflict which you saw in me and now hear is in me.

Unity Through Humility

2 Therefore if there is any consolation in Christ, if any comfort of love, if any fellowship of the Spirit, if any affection and mercy, [2]fulfill my joy by being like-minded, having the same love, being of one accord, of one mind. [3]Let nothing be done through selfish ambition or conceit, but in lowliness of mind let each esteem others better than

1:28 [a]NU-Text reads of your salvation.

2:1 Paul's exhortation concerns unity within the church (see Introduction: Outline on Unity). He presents four arguments for unity: their position in Christ and the responsibilities in that relationship; their resources of comfort and encouragement (Gk. paraklēsis, from parakaleō, lit. "to call alongside") prompted by love from Christ; their reward of fellowship within the body of Christ; their opportunity for compassion. Paul did not call for unity at the expense of commitment to

HUMILITY A YIELDING OF THE HEART

While the Old Testament understanding of humility includes lowliness or affliction, its New Testament meaning is primarily a personal quality of dependence on God and respect for other people. Humility is not a natural human instinct; it is a God-given virtue of holy living.

The essence of the mind of Christ was humility and sacrificial love for others, while the essence of the unregenerate human mind is selfishness and pride. Jesus Christ's life provides the perfect example of humility. Though He was and is eternal deity, Jesus appropriated humanity with all the attributes of that personhood except sinfulness (Phil. 2:5–8). Accordingly, believers should take heed to humble themselves to be what they need to be.

During a time when the Greek world abhorred the quality of humility, Christ came as a humble Savior. He humbled himself to become obedient to God's will, which led to His death on the cross. Jesus urged His followers to humble themselves before God and man (Matt. 23:12; Luke 14:11; 18:14) and to "practice" humility (Matt. 18:1).

Scripture promises that God will exalt those who are genuinely humble (Luke 1:52; James 4:10; 1 Pet. 5:6; see also Col. 2:18). Humility comes not from self but from God and results in the praise of God.

See also notes on Fruit of the Spirit (Ps. 86; Rom. 5; 15; 1 Cor. 9; 13; Gal. 5; Eph. 4; Col. 3; 2 Thess. 1; Rev. 2); Gratitude (Ps. 95); Holiness (Lev. 20); Surrender (James 4)

We cooperate with God through obedience, believing that the moment we step out in that obedience the Holy Spirit will meet us with the necessary power.

himself. [4]Let each of you look out not only for his own interests, but also for the interests of others.

The Humbled and Exalted Christ

[5]Let this mind be in you which was also in Christ Jesus, [6]who, being in the form of God, did not consider it robbery to be equal with God, [7]but made Himself of no reputation, taking the form of a bondservant, and coming in the likeness of men. [8]And being found in appearance as a man, He humbled Himself and became obedient to the point of death, even the death of the cross. [9]Therefore God also has highly exalted Him and given Him the name which is above every name, [10]that at the name of Jesus every knee should bow, of those in heaven, and of those on earth, and of those under the earth, [11]and that every tongue should confess that Jesus Christ is Lord, to the glory of God the Father.

Light Bearers

[12]Therefore, my beloved, as you have always obeyed, not as in my presence only, but now much more in my absence, work out your own salvation with fear and trembling; [13]for it is God who works in you both to will and to do for His good pleasure.

truth, but he made clear that his own joy could not be complete until the believers at Philippi were "like-minded" (v. 2; see Phil. 4:2).

2:6 This great Christological section is known as the kenōsis passage (vv. 6–11; see John 1:1–18; Col. 1:15–23; 2:9, 10; Heb. 1:1–4; chart, The Definitive Christological Passages) The "form" (Gk. morphē) of God indicated the essential inward reality that would manifest the outward, visible glory of God in heaven. Satan had grasped for equality with God (Is. 14:12–14); Adam and Eve had grasped for it (Gen. 3:5, 6); but Christ had no need to grasp for that which He already had (Phil. 2:6).

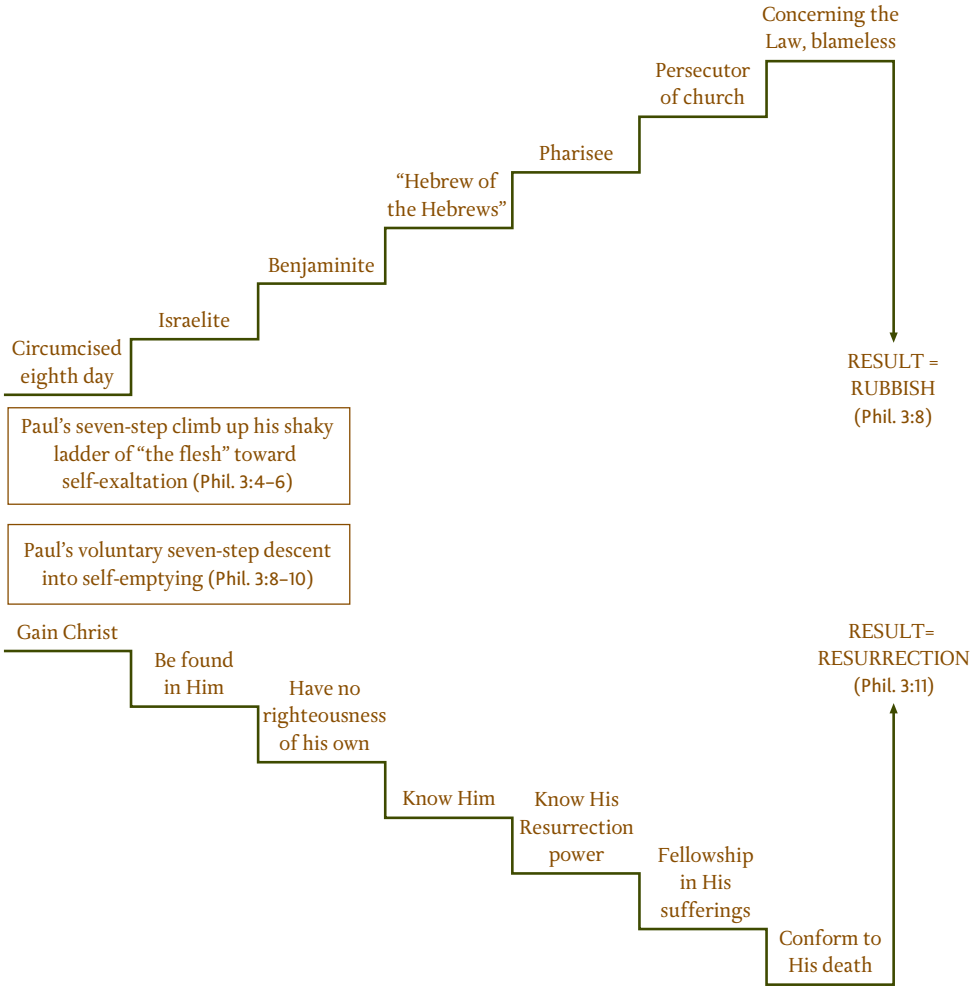
2:7 The phrase made Himself of no reputation (Gk. kenōsis, lit. "empty") expressed the idea that He set aside, not His deity, but the glory of His deity—His privileges (v. 7; see John 13:3, 4; 1 Pet. 3, Submission). "Coming in the likeness of men" was a new phenomenon (Phil. 2:7). God had made man in His likeness (Gen. 1:26); now He voluntarily made Himself in man's likeness. In so doing "He humbled Himself" (Phil. 2:8; the same word translated "lowliness" in v. 3).

2:8 The death of the Cross was His final humiliation (v. 8). No Roman citizen could be crucified: Paul the writer was exempt; the Philippian readers, unless they were slaves, were exempt. This form of death carried an OT curse (Deut. 21:23).

2:10, 11 The bowing of every knee will be no mere genuflection but an expression of total submission (v. 10) from more beings than we can now envision (v. 10; see Rev. 5:13). "Jesus Christ is Lord" includes three names (Phil. 2:11): Jesus, His earthly name (Acts 2:22); Christ, His messianic title or intercessory name (Acts 2:31); and Lord, His glorious eternal title (Acts 2:36; Rev. 17:14).

2:12, 13 Work out your own salvation has no thought of "work for . . ." in the sense of personal work for gain. Justification

PAUL'S PILGRIMAGE



14 Do all things without complaining and disputing, 15 that you may become blameless and harmless, children of God without fault in the midst of a crooked and perverse generation, among whom you shine as lights in the world, 16 holding fast the word of life, so that I may rejoice in the day of Christ that I have not run in vain or labored in vain.

17 Yes, and if I am being poured out as a drink offering on the sacrifice and service of your faith, I am glad and rejoice with you all. 18 For the same reason you also be glad and rejoice with me.

Timothy Commended

19 But I trust in the Lord Jesus to send Timothy to you shortly, that I also may be encouraged when I know your state. 20 For I have no one like-minded, who will sincerely care for your state. 21 For all seek their own, not the things which are of Christ Jesus. 22 But you know his proven character, that as a son with his father he served with me in the gospel. 23 Therefore I hope to send him at once, as soon as I see how it goes with me. 24 But I trust in the Lord that I myself shall also come shortly.

must be followed by sanctification (see chart, Theological Terms). Believers are to "work" out their faith in their external, daily lives in the sure knowledge that "it is God who works in" them to guide and empower.

MIDLIFE CRISIS IN THE MIDDLE OF LIFE

Midlife crisis is the term given to that particular phase of life "in the middle," between the ages of thirty-five and fifty-five, when a person is too old to be young and too young to be old. The inner focus shifts. The mental question often becomes not how many years you have already lived but rather how many years you perceive you have left.

For many, midlife is a time of transition, of taking stock of priorities, relationships, direction, and purpose in life (see Matt. 6:33). It is similar to coming to the crest of a hill and being able to see in both directions. This phase of life invites a woman to consider from where she has come and to make the changes that need to be made so that the rest of her life-journey is productive and spiritually fruitful.

One of the characteristics of the "virtuous wife" (lit. "woman of strength") is an attitude of rejoicing or smiling at the future because she trusts God (Prov. 31:25). That is an apt description of the woman who has dealt well with the personal issues that arise in midlife. Midlife holds wonderful possibilities for spiritual and emotional renewal, for letting go of the past and reaching forward to what lies ahead (Phil 3:13).

Epaphroditus Praised

25 Yet I considered it necessary to send to you Epaphroditus, my brother, fellow worker, and fellow soldier, but your messenger and the one who ministered to my need; 26 since he was longing for you all, and was distressed because you had heard that he was sick. 27 For indeed he was sick almost unto death; but God had mercy on him, and not only on him but on me also, lest I should have sorrow upon sorrow. 28 Therefore I sent him the more eagerly, that when you see him again you may rejoice, and I may be less sorrowful. 29 Receive him therefore in the Lord with all gladness, and hold such men in esteem; 30 because for the work of Christ he came close to death, not regarding his life, to supply what was lacking in your service toward me.

All for Christ

3 Finally, my brethren, rejoice in the Lord. For me to write the same things to you is not tedious, but for you it is safe.

2 Beware of dogs, beware of evil workers, beware of the mutilation! 3 For we are the circumcision, who worship God in the Spirit,[a] rejoice in Christ Jesus, and have no confidence in the flesh,
4 though I also might have confidence in the flesh.
If anyone else thinks he may have confidence in the flesh, I more so: 5 circumcised the eighth day, of the stock of Israel, of the tribe of Benjamin, a Hebrew of the Hebrews; concerning the law, a Pharisee; 6 concerning zeal, persecuting the church; concerning the righteousness which is in the law, blameless.

7 But what things were gain to me, these I have counted loss for Christ. 8 Yet indeed I also count all things loss for the excellence of the knowledge of Christ Jesus my Lord, for whom I have suffered the loss of all things, and count them as rubbish, that I may gain Christ 9 and be found in Him, not having my own righteousness, which is from the

3:3 [a] NU-Text and M-Text read who worship in the Spirit of God.

3:2 Dogs in the ancient Near East were mostly street roamers, scavengers (v. 2). Jews frequently called Gentiles "dogs." By "dogs" Paul meant Jewish legalists who insisted on the rite of circumcision for all believers. Paul's implications were emotional and strong: Circumcision was neat, planned surgery; yet the Judaizers would rip, tear, and mutilate tender, new believers! But those who had voluntarily "cut away" all confidence in the flesh, were the true circumcision (v. 3).

3:5 Converts to Judaism were circumcised as adults; Ishmaelites, when they were 13; genuine Jews, on the eighth day (Luke 2:21). Paul's ancestry traced back to Jacob (Israel) through Rachel, Jacob's favorite wife, and their especially adored Benjamin, the youngest and only son born in the Land of Promise. The tribe of Benjamin produced Israel's first king, Saul, for whom Paul, at his birth, was named. The phrase "a Hebrew of the Hebrews" may have been an allusion to his pure Jewish ancestry since both parents were Jews, or the phrase may also have suggested Jewish upbringing. Despite his birth and rearing in the midst of the Diaspora or scattering of the Jews, his primary roots were Jewish (Acts 6:1; 22:2, 3). Paul was not only a Pharisee but also the son of a Pharisee (Acts 23:6; see chart, Jewish Sects).

EUODIA AND SYNTYCHE Women in Dispute

Euodia and Syntyche were involved in the building of the church in Philippi around 61 A.D. Their diligent leadership in the church was recognized by the apostle Paul himself as well as other believers (Phil. 4:3). Therefore, their dispute threatened to affect the harmony and well-being of the entire congregation.

Paul's solution was twofold. First, he called the women to "be of the same mind." They were to avoid foolish disputes and those things which were "unprofitable." They were rather to build up the body by letting each esteem others better than herself and to look out not only for her own interest but for the interest of others (Phil. 2:3, 4). Even though their issues may have been important from a human perspective, they were not "profitable" from a spiritual one.

The second action Paul took was to make an urgent plea to the other leaders in the church to help Euodia and Syntyche reconcile and return to the "same mind" in the Lord. The body is to work together to help one another function lovingly and harmoniously in Christ.

Right relationships are essential for the health of the church. When Christian women have the mind of Christ, they do not demand their own ways. Instead, they choose what is most loving and edifying for the building up of the whole congregation—that is, what is "profitable." This is not easy, especially when doctrinal issues are involved. Therefore, much prayer, humility, and counsel from the Word of God is needed to help reconcile differences.

law, but that which is through faith in Christ, the righteousness which is from God by faith; [10]that I may know Him and the power of His resurrection, and the fellowship of His sufferings, being conformed to His death, [11]if, by any means, I may attain to the resurrection from the dead.

Pressing Toward the Goal

[12]Not that I have already attained, or am already perfected; but I press on, that I may lay hold of that for which Christ Jesus has also laid hold of me. [13]Brethren, I do not count myself to have apprehended; but one thing I do, forgetting those things which are behind and reaching forward to those things which are ahead, [14]I press toward the goal for the prize of the upward call of God in Christ Jesus.

[15]Therefore let us, as many as are mature, have this mind; and if in anything you think otherwise, God will reveal even this to you. [16]Nevertheless, to the degree that we have already attained, let us walk by the same rule,[a] let us be of the same mind.

Our Citizenship in Heaven

[17]Brethren, join in following my example, and note those who so walk, as you have us for a pattern. [18]For many walk, of whom I have told you often, and now tell you even weeping, that they are the enemies of the cross of Christ: [19]whose end is destruction, whose god is their belly, and whose glory is in their shame—who set their mind on earthly things. [20]For our citizenship is in heaven, from which we also eagerly wait for the Savior, the Lord Jesus Christ, [21]who will transform our lowly body that it may be conformed to His glorious body, according to the working by which He is able even to subdue all things to Himself.

4 Therefore, my beloved and longed-for brethren, my joy and crown, so stand fast in the Lord, beloved.

Be United, Joyful, and in Prayer

[2]I implore Euodia and I implore Syntyche to be of the same mind in the Lord. [3]And[a] I urge you also, true companion, help these women who labored with me in the gospel, with Clement also, and the rest of my fellow workers, whose names are in the Book of Life.

3:16 [a]NU-Text omits rule and the rest of the verse. 4:3 [a]NU-Text and M-Text read Yes.

3:10 Resurrection . . . sufferings . . . death—for Christ, this order would be wrong; but for believers, it is right. Only when believers come to know His Resurrection power are they able to fellowship with Him in sufferings and die to sin and self.

3:21 Christ will transform the earthly "lowly form," a term pointing to the weakness or humble status of the mortal body rather than its sinfulness. Then this glorified body of the believer will conform or become similar in form to Christ's Resurrection body (see 1 John 3:2). This new spiritual body will be a wedding garment suitable for heaven.

4:3 True companion (Gk. suzuge, lit. "yokefellow") is interpreted by some as the proper name of a leader in the church and by others as a reference to the task of arbitration. In any case, the method for resolving this quarrel between the two women is somewhat different from what is suggested in Matthew 18:15–17. A peacemaker is appointed (Matt. 5:19). Paul's use of "yokefellow" suggests a field plow with a yoke or wooden crossbar, holding two loops or collars. Oxen had to bow their heads to unite to do a task in harmony. Euodia and Syntyche were true believers who worked with Paul in the

STRESS MANAGEMENT PEACE THAT PASSES UNDERSTANDING

Through prayer, supplication, and thanksgiving, you can realize a "peace . . . which surpasses all understanding" and know that this peace "will guard your hearts and minds" (Phil 4:6, 7).

Your natural human desire for acceptance, status, and possessions can create tension within. If you perceive that your needs or desires are not going to be met, you may experience anxiety and stress. How can you "be anxious for nothing" in the face of such situations?

Managing stress for a Christian begins with understanding yourself and knowing what Scripture teaches about the nature of God. To understand yourself means to know your basic nature, the potential of your strengths, and the limits of your weaknesses. This is no small task, for self-deception can prevent clear discernment (Jer. 17:9). Pride and independence can block self-awareness. God Himself must give the self-awareness needed (Jer. 17:10). Only He can show clearly where change is needed and bring about that change in basic human nature (Ps. 139:23, 24).

An understanding of the nature of God comes from His self-revelation in Scripture and in Christ (John 1:14, 18). Knowing and accepting the unchanging nature of God produces stability and peace (Mal. 3:6; Heb. 13:8). Understanding the quality of His character inspires trust (1 John 1:5).

Much of stress dissipates when you acknowledge your dependence upon God and submit to His leadership (Ps. 73:26; 1 Pet. 5:6, 7), recognizing that you are locked into time and space as finite creatures, while He is infinite, eternal, and omnipresent.

4 Rejoice in the Lord always. Again I will say, rejoice!
5 Let your gentleness be known to all men. The Lord is at hand.
6 Be anxious for nothing, but in everything by prayer and supplication, with thanksgiving, let your requests be made known to God; 7 and the peace of God, which surpasses all understanding, will guard your hearts and minds through Christ Jesus.

Meditate on These Things

8 Finally, brethren, whatever things are true, whatever things are noble, whatever things are just, whatever things are pure, whatever things are lovely, whatever things are of good report, if there is any virtue and if there is anything praiseworthy—meditate on these things. 9 The things which you learned and received and heard and saw in me, these do, and the God of peace will be with you.

Philippian Generosity

10 But I rejoiced in the Lord greatly that now at last your care for me has flourished again; though you surely did care, but you lacked opportunity. 11 Not that I speak in regard to need, for I have learned in whatever state I am, to be content: 12 I know how to be abased, and I know how to abound. Everywhere and in all things I have learned both to be full and to be hungry, both to abound and to suffer need. 13 I can do all things through Christ[a] who strengthens me.

14 Nevertheless you have done well that you shared in my distress. 15 Now you Philippians know also that in the beginning of the gospel, when I departed from Macedonia, no church shared with me concerning giving and receiving but you only. 16 For even in Thessalonica you sent aid once and again for my necessities. 17 Not that I seek the gift, but I seek the fruit that abounds to your account. 18 Indeed I have all and abound. I am full, having received from Epaphroditus the things sent from you, a sweet-smelling aroma, an acceptable sacrifice, well pleasing to God. 19 And my God shall supply all your need according to His riches in glory by Christ Jesus. 20 Now to our God and Father be glory forever and ever. Amen.

gospel ministry. But they were divided in their thinking and needed to be reconciled in order to benefit the whole church. Perhaps Paul had these two women in mind throughout his letter, with its heavy emphasis on humility and unity.

4:10–19 Paul modeled Christian courtesy, delicacy, tact. He expressed deep gratitude (vv. 10, 14). Yet he also used this as an opportunity to teach the Philippians more about the providence and provision of God and the expectancy and contentment of the believer who would wait on the Lord (vv. 11, 14). Believers are to be "content," not with circumstances but in circumstances (v. 11). This godly contentment does not preclude drive, ambition, or righting wrongs in life (see 1 Tim. 6, Contentment). Such faith was not his at birth but was painfully and tediously developed by walking with the Lord so that he learned to be content with anything, to live above things, to be unaffected by circumstance.

4:19 My God shall supply all your need is to be seen in its context. Such amazing generosity does not allow for foolish and

To learn humility is to learn contentment in all circumstances. Humility is not in what we own or achieve, but in maintaining a teachable attitude, a willingness to bend to the will of the Father.

Greeting and Blessing frivolous spending on our part while God is considered responsible for necessities. Rather, because the Philippians had been so generous in their Christian giving, God would meet their needs as well (vv. 8–10; see 2 Cor. 9:7, 8).

Colossians

AUTHOR

Paul undoubtedly wrote this Epistle to the Colossians, although he did not visit the congregation personally. Bound in chains in Rome, Paul wrote this letter of encouragement, admonition, and warning to the Colossians, probably at the same time he wrote Philemon (Col. 4:10).

DATE

Paul's Epistle to the Colossians is dated during his house arrest in Rome, probably A.D. 60–63 (Acts 28:16–31). Some recent scholars have questioned this time frame and have even postulated that this epistle was written well into the second century to refute a well-developed Gnosticism. Others suggest the letter was written during an imprisonment in Ephesus. However, both theories lack strong evidence. This prison letter was most likely written within the same year as Philemon and Ephesians.

BACKGROUND

SETTING: The church at Colosse was predominantly a Gentile church along with a few Jewish cultural elites. The faith of these new converts was being distorted by Greek mystery religions and mysticism as well as threatened by some Jewish laws and customs. Epaphras had evidently brought word to Paul of this heresy that had infiltrated the church (Col. 1:7). This heresy must be defined from the text itself, for it is diverse and somewhat complicated. Basically Paul refuted several deviations:

- A strict obligation to certain foods and drinks;
- A digression from the supremacy of Christ and His sufficiency for all;
- A denial of the humanity of Christ;
- A "super-knowledge" of Christ, which boasted of added wisdom and insight.

PURPOSE: Paul urged the Colossians to preserve true doctrine in the church regarding the sufficiency and supremacy of Christ. Also, he provided Christian readers with a practical theology for day-to-day living and growth in the faith.

AUDIENCE: The new converts in the city of Colosse in the Lychus Valley were the recipients of this letter. Epaphras and Timothy had evangelized this city, along with the cities of Hierapolis and Laodicea (Col. 4:13).

LITERARY CHARACTERISTICS: Although Paul's style differs in this letter from some of his other epistles, he follows a typical Graeco-Roman correspondence form, identifying himself as the author at the beginning of the letter.

THEMES

- Christ is God's only "Son" and a principal participant in creation;
- False asceticism and ritualistic observances are denounced;
- A new freedom "in Christ" is expounded, along with practical guidelines for Christian living.

Conclusion: Final Salutation (4:18)

Greeting

1 Paul, an apostle of Jesus Christ by the will of God, and Timothy our brother,

2 To the saints and faithful brethren in Christ who are in Colosse:

Grace to you and peace from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ.[a]

Their Faith in Christ

3 We give thanks to the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, praying always for you, 4 since we heard of your faith in Christ Jesus and of your love for all the saints; 5 because of the hope which is laid up for you in heaven, of which you heard before in the word of the truth of the gospel, 6 which has come to you, as it has also in all the world, and is bringing forth fruit,[a] as it is also among you since the day you heard and knew the grace of God in truth; 7 as you also learned from Epaphras, our dear fellow servant, who is a faithful minister of Christ on your behalf, 8 who also declared to us your love in the Spirit.

Preeminence of Christ

9 For this reason we also, since the day we heard it, do not cease to pray for you, and to ask that you may be filled with the knowledge of His

1:2 [a]NU-Text omits and the Lord Jesus Christ. 1:6 [a]NU-Text and M-Text add and growing.

1:1 Paul's authority for writing this letter is found in his identity as an "apostle" (Gk. apostolos, lit. "one sent") of Jesus Christ.

1:2 Saints (lit. "ones set apart") includes all believers and not just certain ones with unique virtues. The virtues, in fact, stem from the fact that these believers are now "in Christ," a phrase used by Paul more than 160 times in his writings, here in Colossians more than 10 times.

1:7 Epaphras, probably the "minister" of the Colossian fellowship and the man most responsible for bringing the gospel message to the Lychus Valley, is with Paul as this letter is written and most likely will deliver it to the believers in Colosse. He was converted under Paul's preaching in Ephesus (Col. 4:12).

1:9 Paul began his defense against the Colossian heresy by first explaining that full "knowledge" (Gk. epignōsis) of God is not reserved for a select few, as the Gnostics claimed in referring to their own supposedly superior knowledge (Gk. gnōsis). Rather, this full knowledge, once a mystery hidden, is now available to anyone who would sincerely seek God.

IDENTITY IN CHRIST — A MEMBER OF HIS FAMILY

Believers are secured by the supernatural glue of the Trinity. To be separated from Christ would require prying open the hand of the Father (John 10:29) and being snatched from the Son (v. 28) after breaking the seal of the Holy Spirit (Eph. 1:13, 14).

Jesus became one of us so that we could be one of His. In securing our salvation, God did more than forgive us; He made us members of His family (Eph. 2:19). Just as a newborn baby girl arrives with a genetic code that is permanently hers, each spiritually born-again person receives a spiritual genetic code (2 Cor. 5:17, 18). In accepting Christ and bonding ourselves to Him through faith, each one of us becomes a new creation with forgiveness for sins in the past, guidance and nurture for the present, and security and hope in the future (2 Cor. 5:17).

We have access to all that Jesus is; we, as joint heirs, potentially have all He has (Rom. 8:17). God hears us because He hears Christ (Heb. 4:14–16) and loves us the way He loves Christ (Rom. 8:39). In a nutshell, identity in Christ means every child of God can point to Jesus and before the Father's throne testify: "I'm with Him."

will in all wisdom and spiritual understanding; 10 that you may walk worthy of the Lord, fully pleasing Him, being fruitful in every good work and increasing in the knowledge of God; 11 strengthened with all might, according to His glorious power, for all patience and longsuffering with joy; 12 giving thanks to the Father who has qualified us to be partakers of the inheritance of the saints in the light. 13 He has delivered us from the power of darkness and conveyed us into the kingdom of the Son of His love, 14 in whom we have redemption through His blood,[a] the forgiveness of sins.

15 He is the image of the invisible God, the firstborn over all creation. 16 For by Him all things were created that are in heaven and that are on earth, visible and invisible, whether thrones or dominions or principalities or powers.
All things were created through Him and for Him. 17 And He is before all things, and in Him all things consist. 18 And He is the head of the body, the church, who is the beginning, the firstborn from the dead, that in all things He may have the preeminence.

Reconciled in Christ

19 For it pleased the Father that in Him all the fullness should dwell, 20 and by Him to reconcile all things to Himself, by Him, whether things on earth or things in heaven, having made peace through the blood of His cross.

21 And you, who once were alienated and enemies in your mind by wicked works, yet now He has reconciled 22 in the body of His flesh through death, to present you holy, and blameless, and above reproach in His sight— 23 if indeed you continue in the faith, grounded and steadfast, and are not moved away from the hope of the gospel which you heard, which was preached to every creature under heaven, of which I, Paul, became a minister.

1:14 [a] NU-Text and M-Text omit through His blood.

Your husband will never truly be yours until you have first given him back to God. He is yours only when you are willing to let him go wherever God calls him and do what God wants him to do.

Lila Trotman

1:15–20 The description of Christ is written in the form of an early Christian hymn. Paul detailed the supremacy and sufficiency of Christ by describing Him as the "image" or exact replica of God Himself (see chart, The Definitive Christological Passages). Paul disputed the Colossian heresy by proclaiming Christ is God Himself, not simply an emanation or angelic being. Because of this, all creation is under His power and authority. Christ has always been pre-eminent or in "first place."

1:20–22 The term reconciliation is important to Paul's theology of restoring mankind to a proper relationship with God. But this reconciliation can only come through "the blood of His cross," reflecting the atoning significance of Christ's penal, substitutionary death. Paul taught the necessity of a blood sacrifice, fulfilling the OT covenant between God and His people in order that they might be restored to a relationship with Him (Lev. 17:11; see Heb. 9:22).

CREATIVITY EXPRESSING YOUR GIFTS

Human creativity differs from that of the Lord God in two ways: He is capable of creating out of nothing, and His creativity is unlimited (Gen. 1:1—2:3). Human creativity is locked into the natural world and is limited to that which can be experienced and thought, and in many respects, to that which can be articulated or framed in language, art, or music.

Because humans are created in the image of a creative God, they have the potential for creativity, which may surface in a myriad of ways: resolving a problem, hatching an idea, adapting a recipe, stretching a budget, or many other expressions of self. Creativity is not limited to the artistic but adds to all of life a personal imprimatur with zest and joy. Creativity is not necessarily originality but rather a determination to bring about change (2 Cor. 5:17). This ultimately means losing both self and limitations in Christ.

Creativity demands focus, commitment, and discipline. Believers are to create only that which is for good (1 Pet. 4:19), and they must never worship that which was created (Rom. 1:25). They must look within for God-given gifts, believe in divinely appointed abilities, maximize circumstances and situations, wait with patience for guidance from the Holy Spirit, and proceed with perseverance to accomplish the tasks God has given. Failure is a useful tool for creativity because it may become a stepping-stone to something better. Sometimes creativity calls forth a new course of action (Phil. 3:12–14); always it presupposes a heart turned toward God (Ps. 51:10). More often than not creativity means new discoveries and possibilities (2 Cor. 5:17).

Sacrificial Service for Christ

[24]I now rejoice in my sufferings for you, and fill up in my flesh what is lacking in the afflictions of Christ, for the sake of His body, which is the church, [25]of which I became a minister according to the stewardship from God which was given to me for you, to fulfill the word of God, [26]the mystery which has been hidden from ages and from generations, but now has been revealed to His saints. [27]To them God willed to make known what are the riches of the glory of this mystery among the Gentiles: which[a] is Christ in you, the hope of glory. [28]Him we preach, warning every man and teaching every man in all wisdom, that we may present every man perfect in Christ Jesus. [29]To this end I also labor, striving according to His working which works in me mightily.

Not Philosophy but Christ

2 For I want you to know what a great conflict I have for you and those in Laodicea, and for as many as have not seen my face in the flesh, [2]that their hearts may be encouraged, being knit together in love, and attaining to all riches of the full assurance of understanding, to the knowledge of the mystery of God, both of the Father and[a] of Christ, [3]in whom are hidden all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge.

[4]Now this I say lest anyone should deceive you with persuasive words. [5]For though I am absent in the flesh, yet I am with you in spirit, rejoicing to see your good order and the steadfastness of your faith in Christ.

[6]As you therefore have received Christ Jesus the Lord, so walk in Him, [7]rooted and built up in Him and established in the faith, as you have been taught, abounding in it[a] with thanksgiving.

[8]Beware lest anyone cheat you through philosophy and empty deceit, according to the tradition

1:27 [a]M-Text reads who. 2:2 [a]NU-Text omits both of the Father and.
2:7 [a]NU-Text omits in it.

1:24 Paul did not see his sufferings as qualifying him for a higher plane of reward. Rather, Paul viewed his sufferings as part of his commission to proclaim the "mystery" of God's riches to all people and to describe the new life of Christ indwelling all those whom He has redeemed. Christ then would reign within the hearts of all believers.

1:27 This mystery revealed is "Christ in you, the hope of glory." God willed to make this mystery known, not only to the Jew but also to the Gentiles to whom Paul was sent.

1:28 Faithful Christian preaching will warn against heresy and teach the truths of Christ. Then all believers may be presented to God perfect, not in themselves, but in Christ. This is the mystery hidden and now revealed!

2:8 Paul warned these new believers not to confuse true doctrine with the heresies that abounded in the Colossian church. The phrase "basic principles of the world" (Gk. stoicheia) refers to demonic powers or evil angelic beings who would "cheat" (or "plunder" or "take captive"). The heresy that would pull the believer away was undoubtedly an early form of Gnosticism (see John 1:4, note). The heresy described is very persuasive (Col. 2:4); it is based on human tradition instead of divine revelation (v. 8); it is legalistic (v. 16); it involves worship of angels (v. 18); it is mystical with visions and revelations (v. 18); it calls for asceticism (v. 23). This elitist, intellectual group possessing unusual intelligence, knowledge, and wisdom (vv. 4–23) relates to a worldly philosophy that

EMPLOYMENT THE REWARDS OF WORK

One basis of good management is to recognize and reward employees for outstanding performance. Still, many employees feel that they never receive the recognition or rewards they deserve from their earthly employers.

Believers are in an ideal situation when it comes to the question of rewards because God has a recognition and incentive program better than any employer could ever devise. He promises that as they perform everyday duties as unto Him, He will recognize and reward them, whether employers ever appreciate them or not (Matt. 6:19–21; Heb. 6:10).

Jesus taught that if believers rely solely on rewards from others, they will miss God's reward. He shows that if the motivation is to be recognized and rewarded here on earth, that will be the full extent of the reward. He advises us to work for recognition from God, not others—for rewards that are eternal not temporal (Matt. 6:1–4).

Earthly recognition is rarely given fairly. Some receive recognition they do not deserve, and others who deserve recognition never get it. Furthermore, earthly recognition is fickle; the winds of fame can shift suddenly. God's recognition, by comparison, lasts through eternity, is fairly distributed, and will be there always.

What a difference when believers understand that people's rewards and recognition are not what is needed. When they are working for the Lord's approval, they are freed from being a slave to people (Heb. 11:5; 13:21; 1 John 3:22). When they know they are going to get their reward from the Lord, whether or not people recognize their contribution matters less and less. They are free from that need to please others in order to be accepted (Eph. 6:6; 1 Thess. 2:4).

of men, according to the basic principles of the world, and not according to Christ. 9For in Him dwells all the fullness of the Godhead bodily; 10and you are complete in Him, who is the head of all principality and power.

Not Legalism but Christ

11In Him you were also circumcised with the circumcision made without hands, by putting off the body of the sins[a] of the flesh, by the circumcision of Christ, 12buried with Him in baptism, in which you also were raised with Him through faith in the working of God, who raised Him from the dead. 13And you, being dead in your trespasses and the uncircumcision of your flesh, He has made alive together with Him, having forgiven you all trespasses, 14having wiped out the handwriting of requirements that was against us, which was contrary to us. And He has taken it out of the way, having nailed it to the cross. 15Having disarmed principalities and powers, He made a public spectacle of them, triumphing over them in it.

16So let no one judge you in food or in drink, or regarding a festival or a new moon or sabbaths, 17which are a shadow of things to come, but the substance is of Christ. 18Let no one cheat you of your reward, taking delight in false humility and worship of angels, intruding into those things which he has not[a] seen, vainly puffed up by his fleshly mind, 19and not holding fast to the Head, from whom all the body, nourished and knit combines a man-made religion purporting to sanctify the believer through her own knowledge and philosophy with the practice of ceremonial rituals. Paul explicitly stated that genuine faith rests on Christ and Christ alone.

2:9 The Gnostic idea that Jesus never existed as a genuine human being but rather had a phantom or angelic form contradicts the reality of Jesus as both divine and human.

2:11 Paul spoke of a new circumcision—not a physical act, but a spiritual circumcision that sets believers free from the sins of the flesh. The Colossians were mainly Gentiles and probably had never been physically circumcised. Paul emphasized three main points:

1) Spiritual circumcision with Christ helps free us from the power of the flesh and emphasizes a believer's completeness in Christ (vv. 11, 12).
2) The symbol of baptism is used to signify that through Christ's death on the Cross believers died to their old sinful natures and were freed from the penalty of their sins (vv. 13, 14). This symbolism affirms that NT baptism does not correspond to OT circumcision.
3) The Resurrection of Christ pictures how believers can now have victory over the forces of evil and walk in newness of life (v. 15).

2:16–23 Paul warned the Colossians even further against false Gnostic regulations and practices (see John 1:4, note). Believers have been freed from such requirements and demands. The new life and power of a believer comes from being "in Christ" and not from any outside observances.

EVANGELISM THE ROLE OF PRAYER

History confirms that evangelism alone rarely produces spiritual awakening. Rather, prayer produces spiritual awakening, and spiritual awakening inevitably produces evangelism (Col. 4:2–6). Thus, two important elements that are often neglected are appropriately linked by Paul in a bonding that makes one ineffective without the other evangelism and prayer. To be more devoted to the activities of evangelism with little more than a token commitment to prayer will not bring the fruit God wants to give.

Women have traditionally been a great resource in prayer. Paul admonished both women and men to "continue earnestly" and be vigilant as they pray "with thanksgiving"; to pray for "open" doors; and to pray for the ability to "speak" with an understood message and "open hearts" (Col. 4:2–6). Paul also asks that "utterance may be given to me, that I may open my mouth boldly to make known the mystery of the gospel" (Eph. 6:18–20).

Taking initiative and being bold is not natural for all women. Perhaps we are not "bold" or able to speak well because we have not asked God for these qualities. The disciples prayed for boldness (Acts 4:29). Not only are we to pray for others to be effective in evangelism, but we are also to ask God to make us personally effective in seizing every opportunity for the advancement of the gospel.

United, specific, and strategic prayer has been answered by God to change history. Not only in biblical times, but also in recent history, dramatic results have come when God's people prayed "in one accord."

Following their release from prison, Peter and John met with other believers to pray. As they gave their report to their companions, they all "raised their voice to God with one accord" (Acts 4:24). Scripture affirms that when believers unite "with one accord," God hears and answers, and lives are changed (2 Chr. 7:14). People will act when they are concerned enough to pray. As women unite to pray in one accord, God enables them to be used to introduce others to Christ and help change the world.

See also Acts 4:23–32; 1 Cor. 16:9; notes on Boldness (Prov. 28); Evangelism (John 6; 1 Pet. 3); Prayer (Jer. 33; Heb. 4; 1 John 5; 3 John); Renewal (Hab. 3); Salvation (Eph. 2)

Christ who is our life appears, then you also will appear with Him in glory.

5Therefore put to death your members which are on the earth: fornication, uncleanness, passion, evil desire, and covetousness, which is idolatry. 6Because of these things the wrath of God is coming upon the sons of disobedience, 7in which you yourselves once walked when you lived in them.

8But now you yourselves are to put off all these: anger, wrath, malice, blasphemy, filthy language out of your mouth. 9Do not lie to one another, since you have put off the old man with his deeds, 10and have put on the new man who is renewed in knowledge according to the image of Him who created him, 11where there is neither Greek nor Jew, circumcised nor uncircumcised, barbarian, Scythian, slave nor free, but Christ is all and in all.

Character of the New Man

12Therefore, as the elect of God, holy and beloved, put on tender mercies, kindness, humility, meekness, longsuffering; 13bearing with one another, and forgiving one another, if anyone has a complaint against another; even as Christ forgave you, so you also must do. 14But above all these things put on love, which is the bond of perfection. 15And let the peace of God rule in your hearts, to which also you were called in one body; and be thankful. 16Let the word of Christ dwell in you richly in all wisdom, teaching and admonishing one another in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing with grace in your hearts to the Lord. 17And whatever you do in word or deed, do all in the name of the Lord Jesus, giving thanks to God the Father through Him.

3:5 Put to death (Gk. nekron) denotes to "reckon as dead." Paul, too, calls Christians not to kill themselves literally but to be continually in the process of extinguishing evil desires or lusts.

3:12 In contrast with putting to death their old sinful natures, Christians are admonished to "put on" (Gk. enduō) qualities of mercy, kindness, humility, and finally love (Gk. agapē). This love is available to those who are "in Christ." It binds them together in an unbreakable fellowship (see chart, What is Love).

3:18 To submit (Gk. hupotassō, lit. "to line up under") suggests a voluntary relinquishment of one's rights to another. Paul always used this term to describe the role assignment of a wife to her husband (1 Cor. 14:34; Eph. 5:21, 22; Titus 2:5; 1 Pet. 3:1). The concept suggests mutual submission and intimacy, promoting a union ordained by God with love as the binding agent. Love characterizes the servant leadership of the husband and awakens the submissive cooperation of the wife (see chart, Role Relationships Between Men and Women). Only through the power of the Holy Spirit can a woman truly relinquish her desires and line up under her husband's leadership (see 1 Pet. 3, Submission; chart, Submission).

FRUIT OF THE SPIRIT KINDNESS

Kindness, in both Old and New Testaments, refers to steadfast love expressed in actions. The Hebrew word chesed and the Greek word chrestotes involve both emotions and actions. In summary, steadfast love expressed in actions is kindness.

"Marvelous kindness" is an attribute of the Lord (Ps. 31:21). God shows kindness abundantly to His children (2 Sam. 2:6; Neh. 9:17; Ps. 117:2). His lovingkindness is everlasting (Is. 54:10).

God wants His children to be kind to one another (Eph. 4:32) and expects them to express brotherly kindness even in the midst of trials (2 Cor. 6:6). As a fruit of the Holy Spirit (Gal. 5:22), kindness is a virtue to be added to faith (2 Pet. 1:5–7). Kindness, not a natural human reaction, must be developed in the believer in order for her to minister to others in the name of a loving God.

The Christian Home

18 Wives, submit to your own husbands, as is fitting in the Lord.

19 Husbands, love your wives and do not be bitter toward them.

20 Children, obey your parents in all things, for this is well pleasing to the Lord.

21 Fathers, do not provoke your children, lest they become discouraged.

22 Bondservants, obey in all things your masters according to the flesh, not with eyeservice, as men-pleasers, but in sincerity of heart, fearing God. 23 And whatever you do, do it heartily, as to the Lord and not to men, 24 knowing that from the Lord you will receive the reward of the inheritance; for[a] you serve the Lord Christ. 25 But he who does wrong will be repaid for what he has done, and there is no partiality.

4 Masters, give your bondservants what is just and fair, knowing that you also have a Master in heaven.

Christian Graces

2 Continue earnestly in prayer, being vigilant in it with thanksgiving; 3 meanwhile praying also for us, that God would open to us a door for the word, to speak the mystery of Christ, for which I am also in chains, 4 that I may make it manifest, as I ought to speak.

5 Walk in wisdom toward those who are outside, redeeming the time. 6 Let your speech always be with grace, seasoned with salt, that you may know how you ought to answer each one.

Final Greetings

7 Tychicus, a beloved brother, faithful minister, and fellow servant in the Lord, will tell you all the news about me. 8 I am sending him to you for this very purpose, that he[a] may know your circumstances and comfort your hearts, 9 with Onesimus, a faithful and beloved brother, who is one of you. They will make known to you all things which are happening here.

10 Aristarchus my fellow prisoner greets you, with Mark the cousin of Barnabas (about whom you received instructions: if he comes to you, welcome him), 11 and Jesus who is called Justus. These

3:24 [a]NU-Text omits for. 4:8 [a]NU-Text reads you may know our circumstances and he may.

3:20, 21 For the husband to have an obligation to his wife and his children was a radical concept for the 1st-century world. In a Christian family, reciprocal relationships and responsibilities were not only planned by the Creator but also are clearly expected from believers (see chart, Role Relationships Between Men and Women).

Fathers were commanded not to provoke or irritate (Gk. erethizō) their children so as to dishearten or discourage them (see Eph. 6:4). They are expected to exercise godly leadership in discerning individual guidance for each child.

3:23 A Spirit-filled Christian will find in his labor the promise of reward from his true Master, the Lord Jesus Christ, and should thus consider that work as a service to the Lord (see Eccl. 9:10).

4:2, 3 Prayer calls for appropriate action as well as a proper attitude. Paul used the imperative verb to admonish all believers to pray-pray-pray! Only through prayer can believers keep alert to all trials and opportunities.

4:5 Paul asked believers to interact with those in the world with wisdom, tempering their speech and seasoning it with salt. Salty language could mean that believers are not to be dull and predictable in their speech but gracious and interesting in order to draw others to life in Christ. Or, it could be a reference to salt as stinging the conscience and awakening a lost world to an awareness of the choice between sin and righteousness (see Matt. 5:13). Therefore, believers redeem or use their time wisely by taking every opportunity to influence others for Christ.

4:7–17 Tychius (v. 7), Onesimus (v. 9), Aristarchus (v. 10), Mark (v. 10), Justus (v. 11), Epaphras (v. 12), Luke (v. 14), Demas (v. 14), and Archippus (v. 17) are all mentioned as Paul's are my only fellow workers for the kingdom of God who are of the circumcision; they have proved to be a comfort to me.

12 Epaphras, who is one of you, a bondservant of Christ, greets you, always laboring fervently for you in prayers, that you may stand perfect and complete[a] in all the will of God. 13 For I bear him witness that he has a great zeal[a] for you, and those who are in Laodicea, and those in Hierapolis. 14 Luke the beloved physician and Demas greet you. 15 Greet the brethren who are in Laodicea, and Nymphas and the church that is in his[a] house.

Closing Exhortations and Blessing

16 Now when this epistle is read among you, see that it is read also in the church of the Laodiceans, and that you likewise read the epistle from Laodicea. 17 And say to Archippus, "Take heed to the ministry which you have received in the Lord, that you may fulfill it."

18 This salutation by my own hand—Paul. Remember my chains. Grace be with you. Amen.

co-laborers, who brought comfort to one another in the ministry of the gospel (vv. 8, 11).

4:15 The early church usually met in the homes of Christians. Paul mentioned the church meeting in Nymphas' house. Women, no doubt, had an important opportunity to show graciousness, hospitality, and even leadership in these early house churches. Other examples of families opening their homes for worship and instruction include Priscilla and Aquila (Rom. 16:5; 1 Cor. 16:19), Archippus (Philem.), and Mary, the mother of John Mark (Acts 12:12).

1 Thessalonians

AUTHOR

Internal and external evidence supports the authorship of Paul for this epistle. Internally, Paul claims authorship (1 Thess. 1:1; 2:18). Externally, the vast majority of scholars from the days of the early church fathers to the present support Pauline authorship. Furthermore, the epistle is typically Pauline in form and consistent with Paul's teachings and character.

DATE

Shortly after arriving Thessalonica, Paul was forced to move on to Berea, then to Athens, and finally to Corinth (Acts 17:1–10). It was from Corinth, on Paul's second missionary journey (A.D. 50–52), that he wrote to the Thessalonian believers. First Thessalonians was at least one of and may have been the earliest of Paul's epistles.

BACKGROUND

SETTING: Thessalonica was the capital of Macedonia and its largest city. It was located on the main Roman highway (Via Egnatia) to the east. Paul realized the global ramifications of reaching these influential people. The city was basically Greek but had a strong Jewish community as well.

PURPOSE: Paul wrote this epistle after he received a report from Timothy, who had just returned from visiting these new believers (1 Thess. 3:6). Paul determined:

1) To express his thanksgiving and general satisfaction over their growth and witness as new believers;
2) To answer the charges that had been brought against him by some Jewish opponents;
3) To encourage the believers to continue their hard work, perseverance, and growth until Jesus returned; and finally
4) To correct certain misunderstandings they had in regard to future eschatological (end time) events.

AUDIENCE: Primarily, this letter was directed to the new converts of Thessalonica. These converts consisted of pagan idolaters (1 Thess. 1:10), "God-fearing" Greeks (1 Thess. 1:8), along with some Jews. Also, quite a few of the "leading women" of Thessalonica had been converted (Acts 17:1–4). Paul instructed that this epistle should be read to "all" the people (1 Thess. 5:27), which includes believers throughout the centuries.

LITERARY CHARACTERISTICS: This epistle is Pauline in structure and characteristics. The vocabulary used is much like that of Paul in his other writings. Silvanus (Silas) and Timothy were with him (1 Thess. 1:1), and Paul did not feel the need to use the title of "apostle." His spiritual authority and leadership were never questioned at Thessalonica.

THEMES

The theme of 1 Thessalonians is eschatological. Interestingly, every chapter ends with a reference to Christ's coming again (1 Thess. 1:10; 2:19; 3:13; 4:13–18; 5:24). Christ's return and the events leading to His return are discussed. Paul gives the Thessalonians a future hope. He desired that this hope would encourage the Thessalonians to endure suffering, become more Christ-like each day, walk closer to God, and spread His gospel to all without delay. Paul's encouragements and exhortations are meant to enhance the believer's spiritual growth.

Greeting

1 Paul, Silvanus, and Timothy,

To the church of the Thessalonians in God the Father and the Lord Jesus Christ:

Grace to you and peace from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ.[a]

Their Good Example

[2]We give thanks to God always for you all, making mention of you in our prayers, [3]remembering without ceasing your work of faith, labor of love, and patience of hope in our Lord Jesus Christ in the sight of our God and Father, [4]knowing, beloved brethren, your election by God. [5]For our gospel did not come to you in word only, but also in power, and in the Holy Spirit and in much assurance, as you know what kind of men we were among you for your sake.

[6]And you became followers of us and of the Lord, having received the word in much affliction, with joy of the Holy Spirit, [7]so that you became examples to all in Macedonia and Achaia who believe. [8]For from you the word of the Lord has

1:1 [a]NU-Text omits from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ.

1:1 Paul's use of grace to you and peace revealed that he was speaking directly to believers that they would receive "grace" (Gk. charis) in light of Christ's sacrificial love for His children (see chart, Theological Terms). Paul included both the Greek and Jewish converts by using the usual greeting of each ("grace" for the Greeks; "peace" for the Jews).

1:2, 3 Labor suggests working to the point of exhaustion. Christ demonstrated this costly love in His humiliating and sacrificial death on the Cross. Also, the Thessalonians displayed a "patience" with an active constancy during difficult circumstances.

1:8 Sounded forth gives the picture of a trumpet blast that has sounded and is still ringing in the ears of all those who heard it. The Thessalonians' strong faith and firm testimony were echoing throughout the surrounding areas.

sounded forth, not only in Macedonia and Achaia, but also in every place. Your faith toward God has gone out, so that we do not need to say anything. [9]For they themselves declare concerning us what manner of entry we had to you, and how you turned to God from idols to serve the living and true God, [10]and to wait for His Son from heaven, whom He raised from the dead, even Jesus who delivers us from the wrath to come.

Paul's Conduct

2 For you yourselves know, brethren, that our coming to you was not in vain. [2]But even[a] after we had suffered before and were spitefully treated at Philippi, as you know, we were bold in our God to speak to you the gospel of God in much conflict. [3]For our exhortation did not come from error or uncleanness, nor was it in deceit.

[4]But as we have been approved by God to be entrusted with the gospel, even so we speak, not as pleasing men, but God who tests our hearts. [5]For neither at any time did we use flattering words, as you know, nor a cloak for covetousness—God is witness. [6]Nor did we seek glory from men, either from you or from others, when we might have made demands as apostles of Christ. [7]But we were gentle among you, just as a nursing mother cherishes her own children. [8]So, affectionately longing for you, we were well pleased to impart to you not only the gospel of God, but also our own lives, because you had become dear to us. [9]For you remember, brethren, our labor and toil; for laboring night and day, that we might not be a burden to any of you, we preached to you the gospel of God.

[10]You are witnesses, and God also, how devoutly and justly and blamelessly we behaved ourselves among you who believe; [11]as you know how we exhorted, and comforted, and charged[a] every one of you, as a father does his own children, [12]that you would walk worthy of God who calls you into His own kingdom and glory.

Their Conversion

[13]For this reason we also thank God without ceasing, because when you received the word of God which you heard from us, you welcomed it not as the word of men, but as it is in truth, the word of God, which also effectively works in you who believe. [14]For you, brethren, became imitators of the churches of God which are in Judea in Christ Jesus. For you also suffered the same things from your own countrymen, just as they did from the Judeans, [15]who killed both the Lord Jesus and their own prophets, and have persecuted us; and they do not please God and are contrary to all men, [16]forbidding us to speak to the Gentiles that they may be saved, so as always to fill up the measure of their sins; but wrath has come upon them to the uttermost.

Longing to See Them

[17]But we, brethren, having been taken away from you for a short time in presence, not in heart, endeavored more eagerly to see your face with great desire. [18]Therefore we wanted to come to you—even I, Paul, time and again—but Satan hindered us. [19]For what is our hope, or joy, or crown of rejoicing? Is it not even you in the presence of our

2:2 [a]NU-Text and M-Text omit even. 2:11 [a]NU-Text and M-Text read implored.

2:7 Paul compared his love for the Thessalonians with that of a mother for her child. He used the example of a "nursing mother." In other words, Paul fed these baby believers with the gospel and the truth (1 Pet. 2:2). He taught them how to survive just as a mother imparts food and wisdom to her children. Paul wanted the Thessalonians to realize his love and sacrificial contribution so that his influence on them could be even greater. Paul chose the word "cherishes" carefully because it demonstrates an attitude as well as an activity of love.

2:11, 12 Paul presented a plan for discipling new believers. He compared this behavior to a father's treatment of his children. First, a believer needs to be "exhorted" (Gk. parakaleō), a colorful word combining exhortation and encouragement. A believer must be given advice and counsel, combined with encouragement. These two principles work together to bring a believer to maturity. Second, a believer needs to be "comforted" during those difficult trials and temptations of life. Third, a believer must be "charged" or challenged to follow the Lord's teachings.

2:13 The Word of God is an energizing force. The term "works" (Gk. energeitai) has the idea of "energy," which demonstrates the power of God's Word in a believer's life.

2:18 Paul reminded these believers of the power of Satan, and he claimed that his return to Thessalonica had been "hindered" by Satan. This term often describes a military battle that suggests sabotaging possible routes of travel in order to interrupt and delay the enemy's invasion. Paul used this reference also to remind the Thessalonians of Satan's power in their lives. They must guard against Satan controlling their lives and bringing discouragement to them.

Lord Jesus Christ at His coming? [20]For you are our glory and joy.

Concern for Their Faith

3 Therefore, when we could no longer endure it, we thought it good to be left in Athens alone, [2]and sent Timothy, our brother and minister of God, and our fellow laborer in the gospel of Christ, to establish you and encourage you concerning your faith, [3]that no one should be shaken by these afflictions; for you yourselves know that we are appointed to this. [4]For, in fact, we told you before when we were with you that we would suffer tribulation, just as it happened, and you know. [5]For this reason, when I could no longer endure it, I sent to know your faith, lest by some means the tempter had tempted you, and our labor might be in vain.

Encouraged by Timothy

[6]But now that Timothy has come to us from you, and brought us good news of your faith and love, and that you always have good remembrance of us, greatly desiring to see us, as we also to see you— [7]therefore, brethren, in all our affliction and distress we were comforted concerning you by your faith. [8]For now we live, if you stand fast in the Lord.

[9]For what thanks can we render to God for you, for all the joy with which we rejoice for your sake before our God, [10]night and day praying exceedingly that we may see your face and perfect what is lacking in your faith?

Prayer for the Church

[11]Now may our God and Father Himself, and our Lord Jesus Christ, direct our way to you. [12]And may the Lord make you increase and abound in love to one another and to all, just as we do to you, [13]so that He may establish your hearts blameless in holiness before our God and Father at the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ with all His saints.

Plea for Purity

4 Finally then, brethren, we urge and exhort in the Lord Jesus that you should abound more and more, just as you received from us how you ought to walk and to please God; [2]for you know what commandments we gave you through the Lord Jesus.

[3]For this is the will of God, your sanctification: that you should abstain from sexual immorality; [4]that each of you should know how to possess his own vessel in sanctification and honor, [5]not in passion of lust, like the Gentiles who do not know God; [6]that no one should take advantage of and defraud his brother in this matter, because the Lord is the avenger of all such, as we also forewarned you and testified. [7]For God did not call us to uncleanness, but in holiness. [8]Therefore he who rejects this does not reject man, but God, who has also given[a] us His Holy Spirit.

A Brotherly and Orderly Life

[9]But concerning brotherly love you have no need that I should write to you, for you yourselves are taught by God to love one another; [10]and indeed you do so toward all the brethren who are in all Macedonia. But we urge you, brethren, that you increase more and more; [11]that you also aspire to lead a quiet life, to mind your own busi-

4:8 [a]NU-Text reads who also gives.

3:2, 3 Although Paul could not return to Thessalonica himself, he sent Timothy, bearing authority as a brother, minister, and fellow laborer. Paul wanted the believers to be renewed and established in their faith so that the outward pressures they were facing would not shake their faith, love, and determination. He saw and met their need for encouragement, even when he could not be present himself. Paul realized that encouragement often saves a person from being "shaken" in faith.

3:6–10 Timothy returned to Paul with a positive report of how the Thessalonians' faith was strong even amidst "affliction" (external pressure) and "distress" (internal pressure). This brought Paul much joy and encouragement (v. 9). Seeing the faith of other believers is always challenging and uplifting. The evidence of the Thessalonians' perseverance under trial gave Paul great joy as he struggled through his own trials.

3:10 Paul assured the Thessalonians of his consistent and earnest prayers for them "night and day . . . exceedingly." His desire was to repair any damage they had experienced from persecutions and false teachers. "Perfect" is also used as a reference to mending torn fishing nets or setting broken bones (Mark 1:19). Paul desired to strengthen the church doctrinally and morally in order to develop faith to its fullest.

4:1–8 The Thessalonians had a reputation for being sexually promiscuous. Paul gave three motivations for a lifestyle of holiness:

1) It is the will of God (v. 3);
2) It is honoring the gift of one's spouse (v. 4); and
3) It avoids sin against one's brother (v. 6).

4:3 Sexual immorality or "fornication" (Gk. porneia) refers to all sexual indulgence: premarital sex, extramarital sex, homosexuality, lesbianism, sodomy, rape, and incest. Holiness requires abstaining from such practices.

4:4, 5 Vessel could refer to the believer's body but most likely refers to one's spouse. In a similar passage, the wife is called the "weaker vessel" (1 Pet. 3:7). The same terms for "honor" (Gk. timēn) and "vessel" (Gk. skeuei) are used in each passage. A marriage should be sanctified (set apart) and honored (reverenced). "Passion of lust" (Gk. pathei epithumias, lit. "hot-after passion") is a strong expression describing the strength and danger of uncontrolled desire.

4:11, 12 The term aspire came to mean "to be industrious." Working hard, staying out of everyone else's business and concentrating on the many tasks the Lord has given her to do (Titus 2:3–5) is a lifestyle that will enable a believing woman

GLOSSARY OF TERMS IN ESCHATOLOGY

Allegorical interpretation—a method that looks for a sense deemed higher than the literal sense in an otherwise apparently historical statement.

Apocalypse (Gk. apokalupsis, lit. "the unveiling")—the English transliteration of the Greek title for the Book of Revelation.

Bēma—the judgment seat or reward seat before which each Christian must appear (2 Cor. 5:10).

Eschatology—the study of last things or the events that are awaiting future fulfillment.

Harpazō (Gk., lit. "to catch up or snatch away")—This word is used to describe the translation of believers at the Lord's return (Matt. 24:30, 31; 24:32–44; John 14:2, 3; 1 Cor. 15:51–57; Col. 3:4; 1 Thess. 4:13–18; Rev. 20:6).

Kingdom—may refer to (1) the reign of Christ in the hearts of believers, (2) the heavenly kingdom, or (3) the earthly kingdom of Christ.

Israel—except in rare instances, a reference to the literal national group designated Israel.

Millennium—Latin word for one thousand (1,000) years (Is. 11:1–9; Jer. 31:31–34; Joel 3:17–21; Amos 9:11–15; Mic. 4:1–5; Luke 1:31–33; 1 Cor. 15:24–28).

Rapture (Lat. ratio, meaning "to snatch or seize")—This non-biblical word is used to describe the removal of Christians from the world at the return of Christ (see Harpazō).

Tribulation—seven-year period of unparalleled distress on earth (Is. 2:19; 24:1, 3, 6, 19–21; Jer. 30:7; Dan. 12:1; Joel 2:1, 2; Amos 5:18, 20; Zeph. 1:14–18; Matt. 24:21, 22; Luke 21:25, 26; 1 Thess. 5:3; Rev. 6:1–17).

ness, and to work with your own hands, as we commanded you, 12that you may walk properly toward those who are outside, and that you may lack nothing.

The Comfort of Christ's Coming

13But I do not want you to be ignorant, brethren, concerning those who have fallen asleep, lest you sorrow as others who have no hope. 14For if we believe that Jesus died and rose again, even so God will bring with Him those who sleep in Jesus.[a]

15For this we say to you by the word of the Lord, that we who are alive and remain until the coming of the Lord will by no means precede those who are asleep. 16For the Lord Himself will descend from heaven with a shout, with the voice of an archangel, and with the trumpet of God. And the dead in Christ will rise first. 17Then we who are alive and remain shall be caught up together with them in the clouds to meet the Lord in the air. And thus we shall always be with the Lord. 18Therefore comfort one another with these words.

4:14 [a]Or those who through Jesus sleep to have a flawless testimony before believers as well as unbelievers (1 Thess. 4:12).

4:13, 14 Those who have fallen asleep are believers who have died. This phrase focuses on the status of the body at death and suggests a temporary state of rest, from which one will awaken. At the moment of death, the believer is immediately in the presence of the Lord (2 Cor. 5:8), a truth affirmed when Jesus brings with Him those who sleep in Him (1 Thess. 4:14). Believers who are still living are caught up (Gk. harpazō, v. 17). The Lord will change their bodies into a glorified state (see "rapture" or chart, Glossary Terms for Eschatology).

AUTHOR

The evidence clearly supports Pauline authorship for this epistle, though there has been more discussion on 2 Thessalonians than on his previous Thessalonian letter. However, once again strong internal and external evidence supports Pauline authorship. Paul himself claimed authorship (2 Thess. 1:1; 3:17). Furthermore, the testimony of the early church strongly favors Pauline authorship. A careful reading of the two epistles reveals similarity of style, language, and theology.

DATE

This epistle was probably written a few months after Paul's first epistle to the Thessalonians (A.D. 51–52). Paul was anxious to continue his communication with the Thessalonian believers. He was still in Corinth when he wrote. Though some question which epistle was penned first, that 1 Thessalonians preceded this second epistle can be affirmed with confidence (2 Thess. 2:15).

BACKGROUND

SETTING: Thessalonica, the capital city of Macedonia, was a major trade city connecting Macedonia to the Roman Empire in the east. The geographical location of Thessalonica was significant for evangelizing the east.

PURPOSE: Paul wrote to clarify his teachings on the return of Christ. Ostensibly, Paul had received word that his previous teachings had been misunderstood by some. He also continued to encourage the Thessalonians in their faith.

AUDIENCE: Paul again wrote to the believers in Thessalonica. These included the "God-fearing" Greeks, prominent women, and those Jews who had believed in Christ.

THEMES

God's faithfulness is prevalent in this epistle. Paul attempted to encourage the Thessalonians once again in regard to their persecutions and trials (2 Thess. 1). Paul also explained some aspects of the Lord's return, which apparently had caused confusion for the Thessalonians. He also warned them about the dangers of idleness and encouraged a life of self-control (2 Thess. 3:6–15).

III. Paul's Comments on the Believer's Attitude and Activity (3:1–15)
A. A call to prayer (3:1, 2)
B. A reassurance of God's help (3:3–5)
C. A warning against idleness (3:6–15)
Conclusion (3:16–18)

Greeting

1 Paul, Silvanus, and Timothy,

To the church of the Thessalonians in God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ:

2 Grace to you and peace from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ.

God's Final Judgment and Glory

3 We are bound to thank God always for you, brethren, as it is fitting, because your faith grows exceedingly, and the love of every one of you all abounds toward each other, 4 so that we ourselves boast of you among the churches of God for your patience and faith in all your persecutions and tribulations that you endure, 5 which is manifest evidence of the righteous judgment of God, that you may be counted worthy of the kingdom of God, for which you also suffer; 6 since it is a righteous thing with God to repay with tribulation those who trouble you, 7 and to give you who are troubled rest with us when the Lord Jesus is revealed from heaven with His mighty angels, 8 in flaming fire taking vengeance on those who do not know God, and on those who do not obey the gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ. 9 These shall be punished with everlasting destruction from the presence of the Lord and from the glory of His power, 10 when He comes, in that Day, to be glorified in His saints and to be admired among all those who believe,[a] because our testimony among you was believed.

11 Therefore we also pray always for you that our God would count you worthy of this calling, and fulfill all the good pleasure of His goodness and the work of faith with power, 12 that the name of our Lord Jesus Christ may be glorified in you, and you in Him, according to the grace of our God and the Lord Jesus Christ.

The Great Apostasy

2 Now, brethren, concerning the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ and our gathering together to Him, we ask you, 2 not to be soon shaken in mind or troubled, either by spirit or by word or by letter, as if from us, as though the day of Christ[a] had come. 3 Let no one deceive you by any means; for that Day will not come unless the falling away comes first, and the man of sin[a] is revealed, the son of perdition, 4 who opposes and exalts himself above all that is called God or that is worshiped, so that he sits as God[a] in the temple of God, showing himself that he is God.

5 Do you not remember that when I was still with you I told you these things? 6 And now you know what is restraining, that he may be revealed in his own time. 7 For the mystery of lawlessness is already at work; only He[a] who now restrains will do

1:10 [a]NU-Text and M-Text read have believed. 2:2 [a]NU-Text reads the Lord. 2:3 [a]NU-Text reads lawlessness. 2:4 [a]NU-Text omits as God. 2:7 [a]Or he

1:2 In both of Paul's epistles to the Thessalonians, he offered them grace before peace. "Grace" (unmerited favor) or salvation must precede a true "peace" (see 1 Thess. 1:1, note).

1:6, 7 God's righteousness has two functions: God "repays" or "gives in return" affliction to those who afflict believers (v. 6), God would grant the afflicted believers "rest" or "gracious relief" from the many difficulties they would face because of their stand for God's truth (2 Cor. 2:13; 7:5; 8:13).

1:8, 9 Paul used the word obey to mean saving faith (v. 8). Anyone who has not accepted the gospel will suffer "everlasting destruction" or be cut off from the presence of the Lord forever (v. 9).

1:10 In that Day refers to the time in the Last Days when God would show His power and demonstrate His glory over all His opponents. Many have called this the "day of the Lord" (1 Thess. 5:2; see charts, Millennial Views; Questions from the Book of Revelation).

2:3 Paul described two events that will take place prior to or just after the Day of the Lord begins (see Matt. 12:29; Mark 3:27; John 7:5). Paul did not say the Thessalonians would see this phenomenon—only that the events had not yet transpired. First, the "falling away" (Gk. apostasia, lit. "a standing away from"). "Apostasy" is a transliteration of this word. This time will be one of open rebellion against God—not a passive rebellion but an active and fervent one. Second, "the man of sin" will be revealed. This "man of sin" seems to be a human being and, therefore, should not be identified as Satan or any other superhuman figure. He is also known as the "beast" (Rev. 13:1–10) and the Antichrist (1 John 2:18). As a person who embodies the evil of the world, he will actively resist the power and the Person of Christ and will be destroyed at the return of Christ to the earth (2 Thess. 2:8; see charts, Millennial Views; Questions from the Book of Revelation).

2:6 Paul referred to the Holy Spirit as one who would restrain evil in the world (see chart, The Work of the Holy Spirit).

FRUIT OF THE SPIRIT GOODNESS

God's goodness is expressed in creation (Gen. 1:31) and experienced in salvation (Phil. 1:6). The psalmist proclaims the goodness of God as great (Ps. 31:19) and as eternal (Ps. 23:6; 52:1). God is the true essence of goodness, the Author of unlimited, undeserved generosity.

Though God alone is truly good, Scripture encourages believers to seek goodness by modeling their lives after Christ Jesus. For the Christian, goodness is not simply the absence of evil; it is righteousness accompanied by acts of kindness. As a fruit of the Holy Spirit, goodness is a natural result of love, joy, peace, longsuffering, and kindness at work in a person's life (Gal. 5:22, 23). It is the outward expression of inward change in a believer's heart—the invisible power of a holy God overcoming the sinful nature that is in all people.

True goodness is difficult to attain. It manifests itself only in a life totally committed to the Lord and is a requirement for effective ministry. Service to others is counted as evidence of the goodness of God at work in the life of a believer (2 Thess. 1:11, 12).

See also Rom. 15:14; notes on Attributes of God (Ps. 25); Fruit of the Spirit (Ps. 86; Rom. 5; 15; 1 Cor. 10; 13; Gal. 5; Eph. 4; Col. 3; Rev. 2); Purity (1 John 3); Sacrificial Living (Mic. 7)

so until He[b] is taken out of the way. 8And then the lawless one will be revealed, whom the Lord will consume with the breath of His mouth and destroy with the brightness of His coming. 9The coming of the lawless one is according to the working of Satan, with all power, signs, and lying wonders, 10and with all unrighteous deception among those who perish, because they did not receive the love of the truth, that they might be saved. 11And for this reason God will send them strong delusion, that they should believe the lie, 12that they all may be condemned who did not believe the truth but had pleasure in unrighteousness.

Stand Fast

13But we are bound to give thanks to God always for you, brethren beloved by the Lord, because God from the beginning chose you for salvation through sanctification by the Spirit and belief in the truth, 14to which He called you by our gospel, for the obtaining of the glory of our Lord Jesus Christ. 15Therefore, brethren, stand fast and hold the traditions which you were taught, whether by word or our epistle.

16Now may our Lord Jesus Christ Himself, and our God and Father, who has loved us and given us everlasting consolation and good hope by grace, 17comfort your hearts and establish you in every good word and work.

Pray for Us

3 Finally, brethren, pray for us, that the word of the Lord may run swiftly and be glorified, just as it is with you, 2and that we may be delivered from unreasonable and wicked men; for not all have faith.

3But the Lord is faithful, who will establish you and guard you from the evil one. 4And we have confidence in the Lord concerning you, both that you do and will do the things we command you.

5Now may the Lord direct your hearts into the love of God and into the patience of Christ.

Warning Against Idleness

6But we command you, brethren, in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, that you withdraw from every brother who walks disorderly and not according to the tradition which he[a] received from us. 7For you yourselves know how you ought to follow us, for we were not disorderly among you; 8nor did we eat anyone's bread free of charge, but worked with labor and toil night and day, that we

2:7 [b]Or he 3:6 [a]NU-Text and M-Text read they.

2:7 The evil in the world is a "mystery of lawlessness." A mystery (Gk. musterion) is something which God has chosen not to reveal at this time. Although sin is already active and prevalent, the full manifestation of that sin has not yet been revealed.

2:13 The Thessalonian believers were "beloved" ("constantly being loved personally by God"). Paul identified "sanctification" (Gk. hagios, lit. "set apart") as part of the salvation process (see chart, Theological Terms).

2:15 Even though believers are called by God to salvation through His grace, they clearly have a responsibility to stand firmly in the faith and keep themselves from being misled by false teachings.

3:3–5 The Christian life depends upon who God is and what He does for us and in us. Paul explained to the Thessalonians that God is faithful. Therefore, He can be depended upon to bring about the accomplishment of good works and to guard them from evil. Paul did not put his confidence in the Thessalonian believers but in their God (Phil. 2:13).

3:7 The term ought is a strong word in the Greek language; it is often translated "must." Paul was reminding the Thessalonians that their idleness was against the example that had

THEOLOGICAL TERMS

TERM	DESCRIPTION
Salvation	Deliverance from the penalty and power of sin (Eph. 2:8)
Faith	Complete trust in and commitment to God (Phil. 3:2–9)
Grace	Undeserved acceptance and love from God (Eph. 2:8)
Justification	Initial act of salvation in which a person is brought into right relationship with Jesus Christ (Rom. 3:21–26)
Sanctification	Work of the Holy Spirit in the life of the believer, resulting in increasing personal holiness (2 Thess. 2:13)
Glorification	Final act of salvation in which the believer is transformed into the likeness of Christ (Rom. 8:30) might not be a burden to any of you, [9]not because we do not have authority, but to make ourselves an example of how you should follow us.

[10]For even when we were with you, we commanded you this: If anyone will not work, neither shall he eat. [11]For we hear that there are some who walk among you in a disorderly manner, not working at all, but are busybodies. [12]Now those who are such we command and exhort through our Lord Jesus Christ that they work in quietness and eat their own bread.

[13]But as for you, brethren, do not grow weary in doing good. [14]And if anyone does not obey our word in this epistle, note that person and do not keep company with him, that he may be ashamed. [15]Yet do not count him as an enemy, but admonish him as a brother.

Benediction

[16]Now may the Lord of peace Himself give you peace always in every way. The Lord be with you all.

[17]The salutation of Paul with my own hand, which is a sign in every epistle; so I write.

[18]The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you all. Amen.

been set before them. Once again, Paul used the word "follow" (Gk. mimeomai, lit. "imitate") as believers are exhorted to mimic the example that Paul set before them.

3:11 Paul made it clear that every believer is to be a hard worker. Idleness, whether in the workplace or at home, produces gossip and laziness. Paul warned against the danger of not working (v. 10). A believer must be busy preparing her heart and mind for the return of the Lord. Believers must be examples to the world. Every believer should demonstrate hope by diligently working as the final day approaches.

3:16 Paul wanted the Thessalonians to turn to the Lord for their peace, no matter what the circumstances.

1 Timothy

THE PASTORAL EPISTLES

First Timothy, Titus, and Second Timothy are called the Pastoral Epistles. They were probably written in this order. They are generally viewed as Paul's last letters and share some common characteristics. First, they were addressed to individuals, although they were also intended to be read before the churches for which Timothy and Titus were responsible. Second, Paul was especially concerned to deal with the pressing problem of false teachers who were leading believers astray. Third, they were written toward the end of Paul's life when the need for greater ecclesiastical structure was becoming more apparent.

AUTHOR

The apostle Paul traditionally has been considered the author of the Pastoral Epistles, and all three letters explicitly state that he is the author (1 Tim. 1:1; 2 Tim. 1:1; Tit. 1:1). Some scholars began to question Pauline authorship in the early nineteenth century; however, these arguments can be sufficiently answered, and there is no compelling reason to doubt that Paul wrote these letters. First, while it is impossible to fit the events mentioned in the Pastorals into Paul's career as recorded in Acts, nothing in the NT precludes his release from the Roman imprisonment of A.D. 60–63 (Acts 28:16–31; see Introduction: Date). Second, a church structure involving elders (also called bishops or pastors) and deacons is entirely in keeping with the situation that must have existed in Paul's day. Third, the heresy Paul attacked is hardly the complex system of second-century Gnosticism. While the heresy in the Pastorals has Gnostic elements, these elements were already present in the first century, and the heretics Paul encountered seem to be Judaizers who had linked pagan speculations with Jewish legalism (see 1 Tim. 1:4, 7; Tit. 1:14). Fourth, while it is true that Paul used a wider vocabulary and range of style in the Pastorals than he did elsewhere, this was in keeping with his high level of education, his exposure to various people groups in the Mediterranean world, and the subject matter he discussed in these letters. Further, he might have dictated these letters to an amanuensis or secretary, who, under the direction of the Holy Spirit, had some freedom in the precise wording of the letters.

DATE

The Pastoral Epistles are generally considered to have been written between A.D. 62 and 67. Paul's first Roman imprisonment was approximately A.D. 60–63 (Acts 28:16–31). After this he was evidently set free, for both 1 Timothy and Titus picture Paul as traveling freely in the eastern Mediterranean region, to Ephesus (1 Tim. 1:3; 3:14), to Crete (Titus 1:5), and to Nicopolis in the eastern Adriatic Sea (Titus 3:12). He wrote 1 Timothy and Titus sometime during this period of freedom, probably A.D. 62–65. He later was imprisoned again and during this time wrote 2 Timothy. Early church tradition agrees that Paul was executed by the Roman emperor Nero in late A.D. 67 or early 68. The most probable date for 1 Timothy is between A.D. 62 and 64.

BACKGROUND

PURPOSE: False teachers were troubling the church at Ephesus (1 Tim. 1:3–11; 4:1–5). Paul's purpose in 1 Timothy was to refute their heretical doctrines and practices as well as to guard against further attacks. He accomplished this purpose through teaching correct doctrine, through advocating godly living by both elders and church members, and through clarifying correct church practice.

AUDIENCE: Paul addressed this letter to Timothy, a native of the city of Lystra in Asia Minor. Although his father was a Gentile, Timothy's mother and grandmother were Jewish, and he was taught the Scripture from an early age (Acts 16:1; 2 Tim. 1:5; 3:15). He probably first heard the gospel through Paul. Since Paul referred to Timothy as his spiritual child (1 Cor. 4:17; 2 Tim. 2:1), he was at least Timothy's primary mentor and quite possibly the one who led him to personal faith in Christ.

THEMES

Timothy later traveled extensively with Paul and at times served as the apostle's representative to churches, especially at Thessalonica, Corinth, and Philippi (1 Cor. 4:17; 16:10; Phil. 2:19–24; 1 Thess. 3:2, 6). At Ephesus, too, Timothy, though not the long-term pastor, brought doctrinal and organizational stability and provided the loving, firm direction Paul himself would have given. Thus this letter was also intended to be read aloud to the Ephesian church so that it would serve as Paul's written authorization for Timothy to make the changes specified.

OUTLINE

Salutation (1:1, 2)

I. Sound Doctrine (1:3–20)
   - A. The nature of the false doctrine (1:3–11)
   - B. Paul's transformation through sound doctrine (1:12–17)
   - C. Timothy's responsibility to sound doctrine (1:18–20)

II. The Worship Assembly (2:1–15)
   - A. Prayer for all individuals (2:1–7)

VI. The Christian Servant (6:11–21)

Women in silence are the "listening church, which the teaching church must again and again become."

Charlotte von Kirschbaum

Greeting

1 Paul, an apostle of Jesus Christ, by the commandment of God our Savior and the Lord Jesus Christ, our hope,

2 To Timothy, a true son in the faith:

Grace, mercy, and peace from God our Father and Jesus Christ our Lord.

No Other Doctrine

3 As I urged you when I went into Macedonia—remain in Ephesus that you may charge some that they teach no other doctrine, 4 nor give heed to fables and endless genealogies, which cause disputes rather than godly edification which is in faith. 5 Now the purpose of the commandment is love from a pure heart, from a good conscience, and from sincere faith, 6 from which some, having strayed, have turned aside to idle talk, 7 desiring to be teachers of the law, understanding neither what they say nor the things which they affirm.

8 But we know that the law is good if one uses it lawfully, 9 knowing this: that the law is not made for a righteous person, but for the lawless and insubordinate, for the ungodly and for sinners, for the unholy and profane, for murderers of fathers and murderers of mothers, for manslayers, 10 for fornicators, for sodomites, for kidnappers, for liars, for perjurers, and if there is any other thing that is contrary to sound doctrine, 11 according to the glorious gospel of the blessed God which was committed to my trust.

Glory to God for His Grace

12 And I thank Christ Jesus our Lord who has enabled me, because He counted me faithful, putting me into the ministry, 13 although I was formerly a blasphemer, a persecutor, and an insolent man; but I obtained mercy because I did it ignorantly in unbelief. 14 And the grace of our Lord was exceedingly abundant, with faith and love which are in Christ Jesus. 15 This is a faithful saying and worthy of all acceptance, that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners, of whom I am chief. 16 However, for this reason I obtained mercy, that in me first Jesus Christ might show all longsuffering, as a pattern to those who are going to believe on Him for everlasting life. 17 Now to the King eternal, immortal, invisible, to God who alone is wise,[a] be honor and glory forever and ever. Amen.

Fight the Good Fight

18 This charge I commit to you, son Timothy, according to the prophecies previously made concerning you, that by them you may wage the good warfare, 19 having faith and a good conscience, which some having rejected, concerning the faith have suffered shipwreck, 20 of whom are Hymenaeus and Alexander, whom I delivered to Satan that they may learn not to blaspheme.

Pray for All Men

2 Therefore I exhort first of all that supplications, prayers, intercessions, and giving of thanks be made for all men, 2 for kings and all who are in authority, that we may lead a quiet and peaceable life in all godliness and reverence. 3 For this is good and acceptable in the sight of God our Savior, 4 who desires all men to be saved and to come to the knowledge of the truth. 5 For there is

1:17 [a] NU-Text reads to the only God.

1:3–7 False teachers, whose doctrine was a mixture of Christian teaching, regulations from the Mosaic Law of Judaism, and pagan Gnostic speculations, had come to Ephesus bringing discord rather than growth in grace.

1:8 The Law of Moses was good, but these false teachers used it incorrectly by making obedience to the Law mandatory for Christians. The Law should pinpoint sin for the unbeliever. Paul demonstrated this through giving a sin list that followed the Ten Commandments in exact sequence (vv. 1:9, 10; see chart, The Ten Commandments Throughout Scripture).

1:18 NT prophecy involves reporting something that God has revealed for edification, exhortation, and comfort (1 Cor. 14:3). Significant prophecies had previously been made about Timothy (1 Tim. 4:14). Paul often used figures of speech related to warfare when the context involved struggle against evil spiritual forces or opponents of the gospel (2 Cor. 10:1–6; Eph. 6:10–17; 2 Tim. 2:3, 4; Philem. 1).

1:20 Hymenaeus and Alexander taught that the Resurrection was already past (see 2 Tim. 2:17, 18, note). Although evidence is lacking to identify Alexander with other men by that name in Scripture, both he and Hymenaeus were certainly leaders in the Ephesian church. Both had rejected "the faith" (the gospel) and were in the process of bringing "the faith" to ruin ("shipwreck") among believers (1 Tim. 1:19). These men had been excommunicated by Paul, who had placed them back into Satan's domain, the world (1 John 5:19). This discipline was corrective and redemptive in intent, for Paul wanted them to recognize their sin and repent (see 1 Cor. 5:1–5).

WOMEN'S MINISTRIES — TEACHING GOD'S WORD

Teaching is a gift (1 Cor. 12:28, 29; Eph. 4:11; Rom. 12:7) that God's Spirit gives to both women and men. All believers are to teach one another (Col. 3:16) and to share with the community what they have learned (1 Cor. 14:26).

Priscilla, together with her husband Aquila, instructed a Christian brother, Apollos, in matters of theology (Acts 18:26). The apostle Paul recognized Priscilla's ministry and obviously loved and respected her as well as other female co-laborers (Rom. 16:3, 6, 12; Phil 4:3). Paul also encouraged older women to teach the younger women (Titus 2:3–5) and admonished Timothy to respect Lois and Eunice, his mother and grandmother, for instructing him in the faith (2 Tim. 1:3–5).

Although Paul was a great advocate for women to exercise spiritual gifts, he taught that gifts needed to be exercised in a manner that honors the Word of God (1 Tim. 2:12). New Testament women were encouraged to exercise teaching ministries but were to do so within the God-ordained pattern of male-female complementarity.

Men and Women in the Church

8I desire therefore that the men pray everywhere, lifting up holy hands, without wrath and doubting; 9in like manner also, that the women adorn themselves in modest apparel, with propriety and moderation, not with braided hair or gold or pearls or costly clothing, 10but, which is proper for women professing godliness, with good works.
11Let a woman learn in silence with all submission.
12And I do not permit a woman to teach or to have authority over a man, but to be in silence. 13For Adam was formed first, then Eve. 14And Adam was not deceived, but the woman being deceived, fell

2:7 [a]NU-Text omits in Christ.

2:9, 10 Women should preserve modesty in both dress and attitude. By contrast, they should avoid dressing ostentatiously and focus their attention on good works appropriate for godliness. Some women might have been dressing in a flashy, even sensual, manner acceptable in their former pagan lifestyle but out of place in the church. Others might have been dressing to reflect their higher social status. For the great majority, who were from the lower classes, this ostentatious attire could have proven a barrier to their sharing in the life of the church (see 1 Cor. 11:20, 21).

2:11 Women should learn with an attitude of quiet submissiveness. Paul seemingly wanted to be certain the women were well-grounded in the Word of God (2 Tim. 3:6, 7). This should be:

- "In silence" (Gk. hēsuchia), meaning "quietness," a more appropriate meaning since women did normally speak in the worship assembly (1 Tim. 2:11, 12; see 1 Cor. 11:5; 14:26);
- "With all submission," suggesting that instruction was to be received respectfully.

Women were to receive instruction in the worship assembly with a heart of quiet receptivity to the Word.

2:12 Paul clarified his directive: Women were not "to teach or to have authority over a man." Paul spoke of a consistent practice of teaching or exercising authority, which would not preclude an occasional teaching situation to be done by a woman for men. In the NT the verb "teach" (Gk. didaskō) nearly always refers to teaching in group settings. The teacher expounded the OT Scripture and the apostles' teachings (1 Cor. 4:17; 2 Tim. 2:2) and presented the implications of that truth for daily living (see Matt. 28:19, 20). The verb translated "to have authority" (Gk. authenteō) occurs only here in the NT and is rarely used in ancient literature. Although it can possibly mean "to domineer" or "to usurp authority," the meaning "to have authority" seems preferable. Third, although the grammar allows for this phrase to refer to a single activity (as "to teach authoritatively"), the word "or" makes it preferable to view these as two separate activities. Since authority and submission are important issues, teaching seems to be a subset of holding authority. That is, some women were violating God's pattern of authority and submission through their teaching in the assembly (1 Tim 2:13, 14).

2:13, 14 Paul gave theological reasons for his directive that women in the worship assembly learn in a quiet and submissive manner rather than having a position of teaching or exercising authority over men. Through the rabbinic method of summary citation, Paul used a summary statement (v. 13 and Gen. 2:4–24; 1 Tim. 2:14 and Gen. 3:1–25). In both cases, Paul was making an implied application by analogy based on the Genesis account. Adam was created before Eve, implying that Adam's prior creation carried with it some degree of responsibility and authority. This authority is possibly based on the OT concept of primogeniture, through which the eldest son became the family head, a leader of family worship, and the recipient of a double portion of the inheritance (Deut. 21:15–17). Paul may have been asserting that Adam's status as the eldest carried with it the leadership fitting a firstborn son. He was in no way teaching an essential superiority of the man over the woman; instead, he was showing how man's leadership in the church harmonized with the Creator's design for the home and community. Thus Paul's unstated application was that just as in creation the final responsibility rested with the man, so it

POLYGAMY MORE THAN ONE WIFE

Polygamy, though practiced by some Old Testament saints, was in no way God's ideal for marriage. As ordained of God, marriage was bonding between two people—one male and one female (Gen. 2:24). Adam and Eve were monogamists. After the Fall, the institution of marriage suffered from sin's entry into the world just as did all other aspects of creation.

The predominant effects of bigamy and polygamy are negative:

- Abraham's relationship with Sarah's maid, Hagar, resulted in much jealousy and discord (Gen. 16:5).
- David's sons by various wives fought among themselves for the throne (2 Sam. 5:13; 13:22–30).
- Solomon's 700 wives and 300 concubines turned his heart from the Lord (1 Kin. 11:1–8).

No examples of polygamy are cited in the New Testament. Jesus reiterated God's original design that "the two shall become one flesh" as the ideal of marriage (Mark 10:2–12). Early church leaders were explicitly told to be the husband of only one wife (1 Tim. 3:2, 12; Titus 1:6). At the same time, the New Testament teaching on marriage repudiates adultery, divorce, and marrying and divorcing several wives in succession (Matt. 5:27–32; Rom. 7:2, 3; 1 Cor. 7:2–16).

See also notes on Divorce (Matt. 19); Husbands (Job 31; 2 Cor. 6); Marriage (Gen. 2; 2 Sam. 6; Prov. 5; Hos. 2; Amos 3; 2 Cor. 13; Heb. 13); Remarriage (Matt. 5); Wives (Prov. 31); portrait of Hannah (1 Sam. 1) into transgression. [15]Nevertheless she will be saved in childbearing if they continue in faith, love, and holiness, with self-control.

Qualifications of Overseers

3 This is a faithful saying: If a man desires the position of a bishop,[a] he desires a good work. [2]A bishop then must be blameless, the husband of one wife, temperate, sober-minded, of good behavior, hospitable, able to teach; [3]not given to wine, not violent, not greedy for money,[a] but gentle, not quarrelsome, not covetous; [4]one who rules his own also should in the church. Paul again was not suggesting that women were less intelligent or were more easily deceived than men. Instead, he used the account of the Fall to point out the role reversal that occurred when Adam knowingly allowed himself to be led into sin by his wife. God had originally instructed Adam concerning the forbidden fruit (Gen. 2:17), and the Lord clearly placed the ultimate responsibility with Adam (Rom. 5:12; see Gen. 3:17, where "heeded" has the sense of "obeyed"). Thus Paul's application by analogy was that this role reversal that caused so much trouble in the beginning should not be repeated in the worship assembly through the consistent practice of the teaching of men by women.

2:15 Paul closed with an awesome challenge and worthy reward. Of many interpretations, the one that most adequately handles the textual data is that women will be saved (with the focus on salvation's future rewards) through faithfulness to their appointed role, summed up in the example of motherhood. Four key grammatical issues are involved in this verse. "Nevertheless" (Gk. de) both provides a contrast with verse 14 and introduces a conclusion about the results of women fulfilling their God-given roles. The phrase "she will be saved" (Gk. sōzō) , most commonly refers to some aspect of spiritual salvation. In this case, however, Paul's focus seems to be on the future aspect of salvation, when believers' works will be judged and rewards given (Rom. 14:10; 1 Cor. 3:10–15; 2 Cor. 5:10). His use of the future tense of the verb as well as his stress on the need for women to keep living lives that are characterized by holiness and obedience and worthy of future rewards makes this clear. "Childbearing" is one of the good works that is to be part of the godly woman's lifestyle (see 1 Tim. 2:10). While the term can have the literal meaning of bearing or rearing children, its use here is figurative (a synecdoche, in which a part of something represents the whole). Thus Paul used child-rearing as a representative example of the activities in which Christian women of his day would likely be involved. This was especially appropriate since, with shortened age spans, marriage and child-rearing typically encompassed much if not all of a woman's life and were activities highly valued by a 1st-century woman.

Paul closed his instructions to women by stressing the inner qualities that were to accompany this lifestyle: "faith," "love," "holiness," and "self-control." This last quality, actually the same Greek term earlier translated "moderation," served as a closing bracket for Paul's remarks to women (v. 9). In summary, Paul stated the expected result of women fulfilling their God-appointed role in life, with accompanying inner attitudes of godliness: They would experience the fullness of future salvation, including the judging of their works and the receiving of rewards (v. 15). Altogether these activities and attitudes comprised the "good works" with which she was to clothe herself (v. 10).

3:1 Three terms were used interchangeably in the NT to refer to this office: "bishop" or "overseer" (Acts 20:28; Phil. 1:1; Titus 1:7; 1 Pet. 5:2), "elder" or "presbyter" (Acts 20:17; 1 Tim. 5:17, 19; Titus 1:5; 1 Pet. 5:1, 5), and "pastor" (Eph. 4:11). Paul began with a general characteristic which summarized all the rest: "blameless" (1 Tim. 3:2; Titus 1:7). He then listed six personal characteristics (1 Tim. 3:2), faults to be avoided (v. 3), and the quality of relationships appropriate in the home, the church, and non-Christian society (vv. 4–7).

3:2 An overseer must be faithful to his wife—a "one-woman man." Paul was not requiring that elders be married, though most were in his day. An elder could be a widower or single (1 Cor. 7:25–28; 9:5, 6), as Timothy probably was (see also 1 Tim. 3:1).

DATING RELATING TO ONE ANOTHER

Dating relationships are not described in Scripture. You can assume, however, that dating is subject to God's general principles pertaining to relationships. God is very clear about how you are to relate to one another.

1) Dating teens must honor their parents and respect their counsel (Eph. 6:2).
2) The dating partner must be considered. God's Word is very clear when it says, "Do not be unequally yoked together with unbelievers" (2 Cor. 6:14). You are wise to ask whether or not your date has a personal and growing relationship with the Lord. Also you should consider whether that relationship is evident in your date's lifestyle.
3) You must examine yourself. Are you spending time with the Lord daily (Matt. 6:33)? Are you depending on the Lord to meet your needs of love and security? Are you an example for Christ to all those with whom you have contact (1 Tim. 4:12)? The Lord calls for you to have a loving relationship with and a commitment to Him that supersedes any dating relationship.

house well, having his children in submission with all reverence [5](for if a man does not know how to rule his own house, how will he take care of the church of God?); [6]not a novice, lest being puffed up with pride he fall into the same condemnation as the devil. [7]Moreover he must have a good testimony among those who are outside, lest he fall into reproach and the snare of the devil.

Qualifications of Deacons

[8]Likewise deacons must be reverent, not double-tongued, not given to much wine, not greedy for money, [9]holding the mystery of the faith with a pure conscience. [10]But let these also first be tested; then let them serve as deacons, being found blameless. [11]Likewise, their wives must be reverent, not slanderers, temperate, faithful in all things. [12]Let deacons be the husbands of one wife, ruling their children and their own houses well. [13]For those who have served well as deacons obtain for themselves a good standing and great boldness in the faith which is in Christ Jesus.

The Great Mystery

[14]These things I write to you, though I hope to come to you shortly; [15]but if I am delayed, I write so that you may know how you ought to conduct yourself in the house of God, which is the church of the living God, the pillar and ground of the truth. [16]And without controversy great is the mystery of godliness:

God[a] was manifested in the flesh,
Justified in the Spirit,
Seen by angels,
Preached among the Gentiles,
Believed on in the world,
Received up in glory.

The Great Apostasy

4 Now the Spirit expressly says that in latter times some will depart from the faith, giving heed to deceiving spirits and doctrines of demons, [2]speaking lies in hypocrisy, having their own conscience seared with a hot iron, [3]forbidding to marry, and commanding to abstain from foods which God created to be received with thanksgiving by those who believe and know the truth. [4]For every creature of God is good, and nothing is to be refused if it is received with

3:16 [a]NU-Text reads Who.

3:8–11 Deacon (Gk. diakonos) was used to refer to a "servant," whether male or female. Paul gave character qualifications paralleling those of the elders, for the deacons. The qualifications of a group of women—deacons' wives or women who were deaconesses are given. Phoebe, who was a faithful servant in the church, was called a diakonos (Rom. 16:1).

"Wives" (Gk. gunaikas) can be translated "women," in which case this would be a discussion of women who were deaconesses. The text remains clear that their ministry was one of service, as is implied by the word itself and other examples in Scripture (Acts 6:1–7; see Acts 2; Rom. 16, Phoebe; Eph. 2, Women's Ministries). The NKJV translators have added "their," indicating a preference for "wives." It is reasonable that the wives of deacons would have been expected to help their husbands in service. Their exemplary function would demand corresponding character qualities. No such qualifications are listed separately for the wives of bishops (1 Tim. 3:1–7).

4:1 Paul explicitly identified the source of the false teachers' doctrines as demonic. Part of the work of evil spirits is to cause people to believe lies (Acts 5:3), to embrace worldly wisdom (James 3:13–16), and to accept doctrinal error as truth (2 Cor. 11:14; 1 Tim. 4:1–5).

4:2 The false teachers are pictured as lacking the ability to

HOMEMAKING IN THE BIBLE

Household Tasks

Women have traditionally invested much of their time in the daily tasks that are necessary for maintaining the family household. Such is commended in Proverbs 31:10–31 and the admonition instructing women to be "homemakers" (Gk. oikourgos, lit. "home workers") in Titus 2:5.

These tasks were routine:

- Drawing water (Gen. 24:19, 20, 43, 44)
- Grinding grain (Is. 47:2; Matt. 24:41; Luke 17:35).
- Spinning wool, weaving fabric, making clothing, laundering garments (Prov. 31:13; Acts 9:36–42)
- Preparing food (Prov. 31:15)
- Caring for children (Prov. 31:21)

Social Tasks

- Offering welcome, food, and rest (Gen. 18:6; 1 Tim. 5:10)

Spiritual Tasks

Women have always played a vital part in the spiritual nurture of their children. They, by nature of time invested and their own natural nurturing skills, have a unique role of influence and responsibility for instruction.

- Shaping the spiritual values of children* (Deut. 6:7–9; Prov. 31:21; 2 Tim. 1:3–5).
- Preparing for the Sabbath—filling the oil lamps, cooking special foods in advance of the Sabbath, drawing extra water
- For many generations in Judaism, the wife and mother has prayed for her family after lighting the candles on the Sabbath
- Someone in the family would then recite Proverbs 31:10–31 in her honor.

Interestingly, a child's Jewish heritage is determined through the maternal link.*

thanksgiving; [5]for it is sanctified by the word of God and prayer.

A Good Servant of Jesus Christ

[6]If you instruct the brethren in these things, you will be a good minister of Jesus Christ, nourished in the words of faith and of the good doctrine which you have carefully followed. [7]But reject profane and old wives' fables, and exercise yourself toward godliness. [8]For bodily exercise profits a little, but godliness is profitable for all things, having promise of the life that now is and of that which is to come. [9]This is a faithful saying and worthy of all acceptance. [10]For to this end we both labor and suffer reproach,[a] because we trust in the living God, who is the Savior of all men, especially of those who believe. [11]These things command and teach.

Take Heed to Your Ministry

[12]Let no one despise your youth, but be an example to the believers in word, in conduct, in love, in spirit,[a] in faith, in purity. [13]Till I come, give attention to reading, to exhortation, to doctrine. [14]Do not neglect the gift that is in you, which was given to you by prophecy with the laying on of the hands of the eldership. [15]Meditate on these things; give yourself entirely to them, that your progress may be evident to all. [16]Take heed to distinguish right from wrong. Because Paul used such a strong term (Gk. kausteriazō, "seared"), the focus was probably on a more radical act of perversion—perhaps the time when the individuals consciously turned from the truth of God's Word and made themselves vulnerable to the deceiving spirits behind the false doctrine (see 2 Cor. 1, Conscience).

4:14 This gracious endowment was a Spirit-given ability to teach and preach the gospel, the very resource needed to refute the false teachers and win people to Christ (1 Tim. 1:18; 2 Tim. 1:6, 7, 14). It was confirmed to Timothy through prophetic utterances accompanied by the laying on of hands by the elders (see 1 Tim. 1:18, note). The situation in 1 Timothy 4:14 seems to be similar to that described in Acts 13:1–3 where the Holy Spirit revealed His will, apparently through those with prophetic gifting (Acts 13:1), and the gathered teachers and prophets laid their hands on Paul and Barnabas to release them for their missionary ministry (Acts 13:3).

CONTENTMENT — THE ULTIMATE ACCEPTANCE

Contentment is the ultimate acceptance of yourself, your surroundings, your past, and your future. For a believer, finding contentment should be effortless. Jesus has paid the price for your sin and has given you a secure future of eternity in His presence, free of all pain and sorrow (Eph. 2:8, 9; Rev. 21:4). The suffering you experience now should be viewed in light of an eternity to be spent with the Savior (Rev. 21:7). God provided a way for you to be rescued from an eternity in hell—He is sufficient to meet your needs in this world that He created (Phil. 4:13, 19).

Yet reaching this blessed state of contentment is not an easy task. Satisfaction when you have very real unmet needs, freedom from worry when you have overwhelming concerns, patience in letting God work when pressures abound—these seem like impossible dreams. Happiness—despite heartaches caused by the past, in the midst of tragedies experienced in the present, based on promises trusted for the future—is not merely a human pursuit but demands spiritual resources only found in the indwelling Holy Spirit.

God chose not to give you contentment as a gift. He chose rather to teach you to be content as you allow Him to be ruler in your life. Contentment is learned (Phil. 4:11). As you trust God's gifts to be sufficient and His assignments to be appropriate, you can accept the way you look, the means you have been given, the family in which you are living, the struggles through which you have gone, the job you have, being content and fulfilled in all (2 Cor. 3:5, 6; 12:9).

On the other hand, acceptance does not mean stagnation. Dissatisfaction with areas in your life that can be changed, within divine guidelines, may help you to see that something is missing. When this happens, you dare not adopt the "Canaan" syndrome of complaining. Remember that God's people were not allowed to enter the Promised Land because of their murmuring (Josh. 5:6). Rather, take that dissatisfaction to the Lord and see what He would challenge you to do, being willing in the meantime to be "content" as you work toward ultimate goals. This is the balance between "I have learned to be content," and "I can do all things through Christ" (Phil. 4:11, 13).

You must trust that God has given you everything needed for this moment in time. You should be content with yourself, your family, your surroundings, your job, or your past. As you depend on the Lord, you are content as you pursue His goals for your life.

yourself and to the doctrine. Continue in them, for in doing this you will save both yourself and those who hear you.

Treatment of Church Members

5 Do not rebuke an older man, but exhort him as a father, younger men as brothers, 2 older women as mothers, younger women as sisters, with all purity.

Honor True Widows

3 Honor widows who are really widows. 4 But if any widow has children or grandchildren, let them first learn to show piety at home and to repay their parents; for this is good and[a] acceptable before God. 5 Now she who is really a widow, and left alone, trusts in God and continues in supplications and prayers night and day. 6 But she who lives in pleasure is dead while she lives. 7 And these things command, that they may be blameless. 8 But if anyone does not provide for his own, and especially for those of his household, he has denied the faith and is worse than an unbeliever.

9 Do not let a widow under sixty years old be taken into the number, and not unless she has been the wife of one man, 10 well reported for good works: if she has brought up children, if she has lodged strangers, if she has washed the saints' feet, if she has relieved the afflicted, if she has diligently followed every good work.

5:4 [a]NU-Text and M-Text omit good and.

5:3–16 The care of widows had always been a priority among God's people (see Ex. 22:22; Ps. 68:5; Is. 1:17; Acts 6:1–6; 9:36–41; James 1:27). The proper and equitable care of widows caused the first major disagreement in the Jerusalem church (Acts 6:1). Guidelines were needed for the Ephesian church. Paul wanted to deal with the younger widows, who may well have been among those drawn away by the false teachers (2 Tim. 3:6). He contrasted them with other—usually older—widows, whom he classified as "really widows" (1 Tim. 5:3). Guidelines for receiving assistance from the church were specific: widows genuinely in need (1 Tim. 5:3, 5, 16), without family and friends to care for them (vv. 4, 5, 8, 16), and godly, praying widows (vv. 5, 9, 10). He advised the "younger widows" to remarry and to become godly wives and mothers (vv. 11–15).

WEALTH BLESSING OR CURSE?

The Bible teaches that wealth comes from God and will be returned to Him. Wealth should bring praise to God. At times, God chooses to bless His children with wealth. Abraham, Isaac, Solomon, and even Job received wealth as a blessing from God (Gen. 13:2; 26:12–14; 1 Kin. 3:13; Job 42:12).

Material wealth is given to mankind as a stewardship. God, the owner of all things, expects His children to care for His possessions and return them to Him (Luke 12:42). Wealth is also intended to bring praise to God. Believers who give money to help others bless the Lord (2 Cor. 8:1–5).

Sixteen of the thirty-nine parables of Jesus deal with wealth. In Scripture, more references are made to money than salvation. Jesus dealt with money because money matters to people. Material wealth can be a blessing or a curse. The power of wealth is subtle (1 Tim. 6:10). The source of wealth is secure (Matt. 6:25, 26). The temptation of wealth is spending (James 4:3). The strategy of wealth is saving (Matt. 25:27). The purpose of wealth is sharing (Acts 20:35).

God expects His children to use the wealth they receive from Him to bless others and to bring glory to Him. In the parable of the talents, Jesus promised an abundance to all who possess His kingdom and eternal life to all who trust in Him (Matt. 25:14–30).

11 But refuse the younger widows; for when they have begun to grow wanton against Christ, they de-12 sire to marry, having condemnation because they 13 have cast off their first faith. And besides they learn to be idle, wandering about from house to house, and not only idle but also gossips and busybodies, saying things which they ought not.
14 Therefore I desire that the younger widows marry, bear children, manage the house, give no opportunity to the adversary to speak reproachfully. 15 For some have already turned aside after Satan. 16 If any believing man or[a] woman has widows, let them relieve them, and do not let the church be burdened, that it may relieve those who are really widows.

Honor the Elders

17 Let the elders who rule well be counted worthy of double honor, especially those who labor in the word and doctrine. 18 For the Scripture says,
"You shall not muzzle an ox while it treads out the grain,"[a] and, "The laborer is worthy of his wages."[b] 19 Do not receive an accusation against an elder except from two or three witnesses. 20 Those who are sinning rebuke in the presence of all, that the rest also may fear.

21 I charge you before God and the Lord Jesus Christ and the elect angels that you observe these things without prejudice, doing nothing with partiality. 22 Do not lay hands on anyone hastily, nor share in other people's sins; keep yourself pure.

23 No longer drink only water, but use a little wine for your stomach's sake and your frequent infirmities.

Whatever the degree of involvement and however the relationship works itself out, the command is clear. Older women are to encourage and equip younger women to live for God's glory.

5:19–21 Accusations against elders were to be substantiated (v. 19), following the Mosaic practice (Deut. 17:6) reaffirmed by Jesus (Matt. 18:16). Those found guilty should be disciplined publicly (1 Tim. 5:20) as a warning to other believers—whether or not they were elders—who were involved in the same sins. All such discipline should be administered impartially and without prejudice (v. 21).

5:22–25 The setting apart of an elder for service (see 1 Tim. 4:14, note) should be done thoughtfully and after carefully observing the person's lifestyle.

5:23 In Paul's exhortation on personal purity, he pointed out that an ascetic practice that adversely affected health would not keep a person pure (v. 22). Impure water supplies often made wine a common beverage. Timothy may have been totally abstaining from this beverage, possibly as an ascetic practice. Paul encouraged Timothy to use some wine medicinally to alleviate his stomach ailments.

Compiling our traditions and oral or written histories will give our children an identity with their Christian heritage.

Charlene Kaemmerling

[24]Some men's sins are clearly evident, preceding them to judgment, but those of some men follow later. [25]Likewise, the good works of some are clearly evident, and those that are otherwise cannot be hidden.

Honor Masters

6 Let as many bondservants as are under the yoke count their own masters worthy of all honor, so that the name of God and His doctrine may not be blasphemed. [2]And those who have believing masters, let them not despise them because they are brethren, but rather serve them because those who are benefited are believers and beloved. Teach and exhort these things.

Error and Greed

[3]If anyone teaches otherwise and does not consent to wholesome words, even the words of our Lord Jesus Christ, and to the doctrine which accords with godliness, [4]he is proud, knowing nothing, but is obsessed with disputes and arguments over words, from which come envy, strife, reviling, evil suspicions, [5]useless wranglings[a] of men of corrupt minds and destitute of the truth, who suppose that godliness is a means of gain. From such withdraw yourself.[b]

[6]Now godliness with contentment is great gain. [7]For we brought nothing into this world, and it is certain[a] we can carry nothing out. [8]And having food and clothing, with these we shall be content. [9]But those who desire to be rich fall into temptation and a snare, and into many foolish and harmful lusts which drown men in destruction and perdition. [10]For the love of money is a root of all kinds of evil, for which some have strayed from the faith in their greediness, and pierced themselves through with many sorrows.

The Good Confession

[11]But you, O man of God, flee these things and pursue righteousness, godliness, faith, love, patience, gentleness. [12]Fight the good fight of faith, lay hold on eternal life, to which you were also called and have confessed the good confession in the presence of many witnesses. [13]I urge you in the sight of God who gives life to all things, and before Christ Jesus who witnessed the good confession before Pontius Pilate, [14]that you keep this commandment without spot, blameless until our Lord Jesus Christ's appearing, [15]which He will manifest in His own time, He who is the blessed and only Potentate, the King of kings and Lord of lords, [16]who alone has immortality, dwelling in unapproachable light, whom no man has seen or can see, to whom be honor and everlasting power. Amen.

Instructions to the Rich

[17]Command those who are rich in this present age not to be haughty, nor to trust in uncertain riches but in the living God, who gives us richly all things to enjoy. [18]Let them do good, that they be rich in good works, ready to give, willing to share, [19]storing up for themselves a good foundation for the time to come, that they may lay hold on eternal life.

Guard the Faith

[20]O Timothy! Guard what was committed to your trust, avoiding the profane and idle babblings and contradictions of what is falsely called knowledge— [21]by professing it some have strayed concerning the faith.

Grace be with you. Amen.

6:5 [a]NU-Text and M-Text read constant friction. [b]NU-Text omits this sentence. 6:7 [a]NU-Text omits and it is certain.

6:9, 10 Paul warned against the greedy pursuit of riches, and he cited several results of such greed:

- it made a person vulnerable to yield consistently to temptation;
- it created a snare for the person;
- this sin gave birth to other evil desires;
- this sin could pull a person to the depths of depravity as a lead weight pulled down a fish net;
- it became a root cause of many other kinds of evil that would cause a person to wander from a pure faith in Christ;
- it became a source of great grief to the person.

6:17–19 Paul never condemned those who were wealthy, for he knew God loved to provide abundantly for His children's needs (1 Tim. 4:3, 4; see Eccl. 5:19, 20). Instead, he was concerned that they not arrogantly make riches an idol in which they trusted for security. Further, he wanted them to share with those in need and thereby lay up eternal rewards for themselves.

2 Timothy

AUTHOR

The apostle Paul traditionally has been considered the author of 2 Timothy, and the letter explicitly states that he is the author (2 Tim. 1:1; see 1 Tim., Introduction: Author).

DATE

After being freed from the Roman captivity described in Acts 28, Paul apparently traveled in the eastern Mediterranean region (1 Tim. 1:3; 3:14; Titus 1:5; 3:12). During this time, Paul wrote 1 Timothy and Titus, probably between A.D. 62 and 65. After this he was imprisoned again, and during this time he wrote 2 Timothy. Early church tradition agrees that Paul was executed by the Roman emperor Nero. Since Nero committed suicide in June A.D. 68 and since Paul asked Timothy to come to him "before winter," this last letter must have been written before the autumn of A.D. 67 (2 Tim. 4:21). The most likely date is A.D. 66–67.

BACKGROUND

SETTING: Paul wrote 2 Timothy from prison, probably shortly before his death. Timothy was seemingly still in Ephesus when Paul sent him this second epistle.

PURPOSE: Paul's primary purpose of the letter was to ask Timothy to join him in Rome (2 Tim. 4:9, 11, 13, 21). Paul was in prison and knew he would not live much longer (2 Tim. 4:6–8). Others who had previously ministered to him, with the exception of Luke, were no longer there, and he longed for Timothy's company (2 Tim. 4:11). Paul also wrote the letter to strengthen Timothy's loyalty to the Lord Jesus Christ in the face of the suffering his young disciple would certainly face (see 2 Tim. 1:8; 2:3; 3:12; 4:5).

AUDIENCE: This warmly personal letter was addressed to Timothy and included specific instructions for him. However, like 1 Timothy and Titus, the letter was intended to be read to the church at Ephesus since it would serve as a written authorization for Timothy to carry out Paul's directives included therein (2 Tim. 2:2; 3:1; see 1 Tim., Introduction: Audience).

THEMES

Paul used this letter to encourage consistent Christian living even in the midst of difficulties and trials (2 Tim. 1:8, 13; 2:1, 3, 5, 15; 3: 1, 10–14; 4:1–5). The apostle sent a clear message that this Christian lifestyle was only possible in the strength of Christ.

Greeting

1 Paul, an apostle of Jesus Christ[a] by the will of God, according to the promise of life which is in Christ Jesus,

[2]To Timothy, a beloved son:

Grace, mercy, and peace from God the Father and Christ Jesus our Lord.

Timothy's Faith and Heritage

[3]I thank God, whom I serve with a pure conscience, as my forefathers did, as without ceasing I remember you in my prayers night and day, [4]greatly desiring to see you, being mindful of your tears, that I may be filled with joy, [5]when I call to remembrance the genuine faith that is in you, which dwelt first in your grandmother Lois and your mother Eunice, and I am persuaded is in you also. [6]Therefore I remind you to stir up the gift of God which is in you through the laying on of my hands. [7]For God has not given us a spirit of fear, but of power and of love and of a sound mind.

Not Ashamed of the Gospel

[8]Therefore do not be ashamed of the testimony of our Lord, nor of me His prisoner, but share with me in the sufferings for the gospel according to the power of God, [9]who has saved us and called us with a holy calling, not according to our works, but according to His own purpose and grace which was given to us in Christ Jesus before time began, [10]but has now been revealed by the appearing of our Savior Jesus Christ, who has abolished death and brought life and immortality to light through the gospel, [11]to which I was appointed a preacher, an apostle, and a teacher of the Gentiles.[a] [12]For this reason I also suffer these things; nevertheless I am not ashamed, for I know whom I have believed and am persuaded that He is able to keep what I have committed to Him until that Day.

Be Loyal to the Faith

[13]Hold fast the pattern of sound words which you have heard from me, in faith and love which are in Christ Jesus. [14]That good thing which was committed to you, keep by the Holy Spirit who dwells in us.

[15]This you know, that all those in Asia have turned away from me, among whom are Phygellus and Hermogenes. [16]The Lord grant mercy to the household of Onesiphorus, for he often refreshed me, and was not ashamed of my chain; [17]but when he arrived in Rome, he sought me out very zealously and found me. [18]The Lord grant to him that he may find mercy from the Lord in that Day—and you know very well how many ways he ministered to me[a] at Ephesus.

1:1 [a]NU-Text and M-Text read Christ Jesus. 1:11 [a]NU-Text omits of the Gentiles. 1:18 [a]To me is from the Vulgate and a few Greek manuscripts.

1:6, 7 Paul had just expressed his confidence in Timothy's genuine faith (v. 5). He then exhorted the young man to continue fanning into flame the gift for ministry that the Spirit had imparted to him at the time Paul and other elders had prayed for Timothy and had publicly recognized his giftedness through the laying on of hands (see 1 Tim. 4:14, note). The word "spirit," though sometimes understood as "an attitude," is much more likely a reference here to the Spirit of God (2 Tim. 1:7; see Is. 11:2).The Holy Spirit imparted to Timothy love, power, and level-headed wisdom, interacting with his basic ministry giftedness. These qualities were exactly what Timothy would need to carry out Paul's exhortation to stand unashamed and stead-fast in the face of persecution (2 Tim. 1:8–14).

LOIS AND EUNICE Nurturers of Faith

Eunice was a Jewess who took the responsibility of teaching her son Timothy the Holy Scriptures, making him "wise for salvation through faith" (2 Tim. 3:15). Her husband was a Greek Gentile. He may have died during Timothy's early years. In any case, there is no evidence that her husband ever cared to walk with a perfect heart before God.

Two factors molded Timothy's life. From early childhood his godly mother Eunice and his faithful grandmother Lois touched his life. Unknowingly, they prepared him for God's call to salvation and then for ministry by teaching him the Word of God (2 Tim. 3:15). Later, as an adult, he heard reaffirmed the gospel message, which was believed first by his mother Eunice and his grandmother Lois (2 Tim. 1:5).

During the apostle Paul's first missionary journey around A.D. 46, Eunice and Lois were converted to Christ in Lystra. Reflecting a true faith (v. 5), they lived out what they believed. Paul affirmed that the same faith of Timothy's mother and grandmother was, subsequently, in Timothy himself, bringing joy to Paul. The faithfulness of this mother and grandmother to true doctrine, grounded in God's Word and kept by the Holy Spirit, was not easily swayed.

Eunice and Lois are valuable models. Women can know God's Word, and they can faithfully teach it to their children. Like Eunice and Lois, they can carefully nurture a true faith and be diligent to possess right doctrine. They can model for their children godliness rather than worldliness and Christlikeness as opposed to self-centeredness. Eunice and Lois are living testimonies that nothing in a mother's life is more important than a personal and vibrant faith modeled before her children.

Be Strong in Grace

2 You therefore, my son, be strong in the grace that is in Christ Jesus. 2 And the things that you have heard from me among many witnesses, commit these to faithful men who will be able to teach others also. 3 You therefore must endure[a] hardship as a good soldier of Jesus Christ. 4 No one engaged in warfare entangles himself with the affairs of this life, that he may please him who enlisted him as a soldier. 5 And also if anyone competes in athletics, he is not crowned unless he competes according to the rules. 6 The hardworking farmer must be first to partake of the crops. 7 Consider what I say, and may[a] the Lord give you understanding in all things.

8 Remember that Jesus Christ, of the seed of David, was raised from the dead according to my gospel, 9 for which I suffer trouble as an evildoer, even to the point of chains; but the word of God is not chained. 10 Therefore I endure all things for the sake of the elect, that they also may obtain the salvation which is in Christ Jesus with eternal glory.

11 This is a faithful saying:

For if we died with Him,
We shall also live with Him.
12 If we endure,
We shall also reign with Him.
If we deny Him,
He also will deny us.
13 If we are faithless,
He remains faithful;
He cannot deny Himself.

Approved and Disapproved Workers

14 Remind them of these things, charging them before the Lord not to strive about words to no profit, to the ruin of the hearers. 15 Be diligent to present yourself approved to God, a worker who

2:3 [a]NU-Text reads You must share. 2:7 [a]NU-Text reads the Lord will give you.

2:2 Paul outlined a pattern of spiritual multiplication here with four generations of disciples in view. Paul had committed the gospel message to Timothy, who would commit it to faithful disciples. In turn, they would teach other disciples.

2:3–7 Paul used three analogies to exhort Timothy to stand strong in the midst of persecution and difficulty in the ministry. First, like the soldier who avoided entangling himself in civilian affairs in order to please his commanding officer, Timothy was instructed to focus his attention on pleasing the Lord Jesus rather than "looking back" for an easier path, as others had done (see 2 Tim. 1:15; Luke 9:61, 62). Second, like an athlete who competed according to the game's regulations in order to win the prize, Timothy would have to comply with the ministry's "rules," which included the possibility of suffering, while promising great reward (2 Tim. 4:8; see 1 Cor. 9:24–27). Third, like the farmer who labored hard so that he could partake of his crops, Timothy was challenged to work with future rewards in view.

2:11–13 Paul emphasized both the necessity of present suffering and the promise of future reward (2 Tim. 1; 2). God would override a person's faithlessness in the face of persecution through His abundant grace and faithfulness (Luke 22:21, 22; Phil. 1:6). Failure to do so would be a denial of His own gracious nature.

EDUCATION TAUGHT IN ORDER TO TEACH

The Lord instructs us through His Word and the inspiration of the Holy Spirit—for a purpose:

- that we might gain a heart of wisdom (Ps. 90:12), knowing how to live in right relationship with God and other people;
- that we might experience peace and rest from adversity (Ps. 94:12, 13);
- that we might know how to apply God's Word to everyday experiences (Luke 12:12);
- and, above all, that we might make "disciples" of others (Matt. 28:19; Col. 1:28).

We are to teach others primarily that Jesus is the Christ (Acts 5:42) and that Scripture is truth—as opposed to fables, false doctrines, and genealogies (1 Tim. 1:3). In teaching Christ, our methods are to be convincing (arguing persuasively), rebuking (speaking against evil), and exhorting (advocating the good). We are to use the Scriptures to

- establish doctrine—declaring what is right;
- provide reproof—defining what is wrong;
- make corrections—telling how to change wrong to right;
- and to instruct in righteousness—applying truth to life's circumstances.

The ultimate goal for a teacher is to see her students engage in good works (2 Tim. 3:16–17; 4:1–5).

Jesus is the prime example of what a teacher is to be. Teachers are not to commercialize the teaching of the Law as merely an economic venture (Mic. 3:11), and they must recognize that they are subject to a greater accountability than their students (James 3:1).

See also Matt. 18:3, note; notes on Children (2 Sam. 21; Ps. 128; Prov. 22; Luke 15); Education (Deut. 6; Prov. 12); Spiritual Discipline (2 Pet. 3); Wisdom (James 1)

does not need to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth. 16But shun profane and idle babblings, for they will increase to more ungodliness. 17And their message will spread like cancer. Hymenaeus and Philetus are of this sort, 18who have strayed concerning the truth, saying that the resurrection is already past; and they overthrow the faith of some. 19Nevertheless the solid foundation of God stands, having this seal: "The Lord knows those who are His," and, "Let everyone who names the name of Christ[a] depart from iniquity."

20But in a great house there are not only vessels of gold and silver, but also of wood and clay, some for honor and some for dishonor. 21Therefore if anyone cleanses himself from the latter, he will be a vessel for honor, sanctified and useful for the Master, prepared for every good work. 22Flee also youthful lusts; but pursue righteousness, faith, love, peace with those who call on the Lord out of a pure heart. 23But avoid foolish and ignorant disputes, knowing that they generate strife. 24And a servant of the Lord must not quarrel but be gentle to all, able to teach, patient, 25in humility correcting those who are in opposition, if God perhaps will grant them repentance, so that they may know the truth, 26and that they may come to their senses and escape the snare of the devil, having been taken captive by him to do his will.

Perilous Times and Perilous Men

3 But know this, that in the last days perilous times will come: 2For men will be lovers of themselves, lovers of money, boasters, proud, blasphemers, disobedient to parents, unthankful, unholy, 3unloving, unforgiving, slanderers, without self-control, brutal, despisers of good, 4traitors, headstrong, haughty, lovers of pleasure rather than lovers of God, 5having a form of godliness but denying its power. And from such people

2:19 [a]NU-Text and M-Text read the Lord.

2:15 God's laborer has the responsibility of skillfully handling the Word of God so that when the workmanship is inspected, it will be approved with no reason for shame. Whether Paul's metaphor refers to cutting stones, wood, or perhaps a straight highway is uncertain, but the emphasis is clear: God's Word should be handled correctly and accurately.

2:17, 18 Hymenaeus and Philetus were two of the false teachers troubling the Ephesian church (see 1 Tim. 1:20, note). They denied the believer's future bodily resurrection and instead taught that the believer could have only a spiritual death and resurrection in union with Christ at the time of conversion. This doctrine was especially dangerous because it could ultimately lead to a denial of Christ's bodily Resurrection, as had happened at Corinth (1 Cor. 15:12–19).

3:1 The last days began with Christ's Incarnation, included Timothy's day (2 Tim. 3:5), and would continue until Christ's return. This period would be characterized by sinful attitudes and deeds that would continually permeate society (vv. 1–5; see 1 Tim. 4:1–3).

Perspective

by Nancy Leigh DeMoss

GETTING THE WORD INTO YOU (Drawn from A Place of Quiet Rest, 181-195)

Have you ever had the experience of reading a portion of Scripture—perhaps even several pages or chapters—only to stop and realize that you have absolutely no idea what you just read? That has happened to me more times than I care to admit.

I want to suggest a practical step that will help make the Word come alive within you. This practice will help you concentrate on what you are reading and can keep your devotions from becoming boring and dry. Keep in mind that it is not enough that we should just read the Word. The object is that the words that are printed on the page would become indelibly written on our hearts. God never intended that we should merely get into His Word—His intent is that the Word should get into us. So how do we go about getting the Word grafted into our hearts and lives? Here is one key.

Without question, next to the Holy Spirit, the single greatest help in my personal devotional life has been to read the Scripture with paper and pen in hand, so I can record insights from the Word. As I write down what God is saying to my heart through His Word, the words are lifted off the page and become full of meaning and life to me. There are several types of writing that can be helpful in studying the Word; most of these are illustrated in the Scripture itself.

Write out portions of the Word

In Deuteronomy 17:18-19, God gave these instructions to the kings of Israel: When he sits on the throne of his kingdom, that he shall write for himself a copy of this law in a book...And it shall be with him, and he shall read it all the days of his life.

What was the point of this exercise? God knew how prone His people were to forget what He had told them. Over and over, He challenged them to "remember" Him, to remember His law, to remember what He had done for them. Writing out the Word of God was one practical way to help them remember.

And it can help us remember. Taking time to write out specific passages from the Word forces us to think about what we are reading and to observe the details of the text more carefully.

Write in your Bible

This suggestion is not specifically found in the Scripture (remember that hardly anyone owned a copy of the Bible before the sixteenth century), but it has been a practical help and blessing in my growing love affair with the Word. When I was a child, my parents encouraged us to underline verses that we found especially meaningful. Over the years, I have read and "marked up" many different copies of the Bible.

In addition to underlining phrases or verses for emphasis, I frequently circle or bracket repeated words or phrases. I also write cross references in the margin, as well as jot down notes about the meaning of specific words or phrases in the passage. When the Lord uses a verse or passage to address a specific need in my life or to encourage or convict my heart in an unusual way, I often indicate the date on which that personal encounter with the living God took place. The space in the margins is sometimes used to write brief, personal responses to the truth, such as, "Yes, Lord," "I agree," "Change my heart, O God," or "Make this true in my life, Lord."

Record insights into the Word of God

When the apostle John was in exile on the isle of Patmos, he was given a vision of heaven. The Lord Jesus appeared to him and said, "Write on a scroll what you see . . . Write, therefore, what you have seen" (Rev. 1:11, 19).

Over the years, I have recorded in my personal journals hundreds and hundreds of pages of observations and insights that the Holy Spirit has shown me while reading and meditating on the Word. Capturing these insights helps us to clarify, understand and remember the ways of God. The process of writing them down deepens our love and appreciation for the truth of God's Word. You say, How do I know what to write? Many Bible teachers suggest asking three basic questions each time you read the Bible:

What does it say? (Make observations about the text.)

1. Summarize. After reading the passage, try to come up with a title for the entire book, the chapter, and the individual paragraphs. Look for a key verse that captures the heart of the passage. Write a brief summary of the passage, including the major points.
2. Paraphrase. Try to write the passage in your own words.
3. Ask questions. Use the same questions you ask if you were writing a newspaper account: Who? What? When? Where? Why? How?
4. Look for patterns. Look for repeated words or phrases to help you understand what the author intends to emphasize.
5. Look for cross-references. The Holy Spirit may bring to mind other verses that relate to, confirm, or shed further light on what you are reading.

What does it mean? (Look for the implications or the interpretations of the text.)
1. What does this passage teach me about God?
2. What does this passage teach me about Jesus?
3. What does this passage teach me about man?
4. Are there any promises to claim?
5. Are there any commands to obey?
6. Are there any examples to follow?
7. Are there any sins to avoid?

What should I do? (Make practical application of the text.)
1. How does this truth apply to my life? To my situation?
2. In view of this truth, what changes need to be made in my life?
3. What practical steps can I take to apply this truth to my life?

Record milestones in your spiritual pilgrimage

Over the years I have kept a record of many significant markers in my walk with God. While most of these experiences center around specific circumstances in my life, invariably they are birthed out of the Word of God, as the Spirit uses whatever I may be reading at that time to shed light on my path.

turn away! 6For of this sort are those who creep into households and make captives of gullible women loaded down with sins, led away by various lusts, 7always learning and never able to come to the knowledge of the truth. 8Now as Jannes and Jambres resisted Moses, so do these also resist the truth: men of corrupt minds, disapproved concerning the faith; 9but they will progress no further, for their folly will be manifest to all, as theirs also was.

The Man of God and the Word of God

10But you have carefully followed my doctrine, manner of life, purpose, faith, longsuffering, love, perseverance, 11persecutions, afflictions, which happened to me at Antioch, at Iconium, at Lystra—what persecutions I endured. And out of them all the Lord delivered me. 12Yes, and all who desire to live godly in Christ Jesus will suffer persecution. 13But evil men and impostors will grow worse and worse, deceiving and being deceived. 14But you must continue in the things which you have learned and been assured of, knowing from whom you have learned them, 15and that from childhood you have known the Holy Scriptures, which are able to make you wise for salvation through faith which is in Christ Jesus.

16All Scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness, 17that the man of God may be complete, thoroughly equipped for every good work.

Preach the Word

4 I charge you therefore before God and the Lord Jesus Christ, who will judge the living and the dead at[a] His appearing and His kingdom: 2Preach the word! Be ready in season and out of season. Convince, rebuke, exhort, with all longsuffering and teaching. 3For the time will come when they will not endure sound doctrine, but according to their own desires, because they have itching ears, they will heap up for themselves teachers; 4and they will turn their ears away from the truth, and be turned aside to fables. 5But you be watchful in all things, endure afflictions, do the work of an evangelist, fulfill your ministry.

4:1 [a]NU-Text omits therefore and reads and by for at.

3:6 Gullible women (Gk. gunaikaria, lit. "little women") is used only here in the NT. In extra-biblical literature, the term is often a contemptuous diminutive. The women are also described as "loaded down with sins" (lit. "heaped on") and "led away" (lit. "swayed") by "various lusts," indicating their vulnerability to the false teachers. These women continually sought greater knowledge, but the very falseness of their teaching left them in ignorance of the truth (v. 7).

3:8, 9 Jannes and Jambres, according to a Jewish tradition, were religious impostors who would be publicly exposed in their folly (Ex. 7:11, 12, 22; 8:7).

3:16 Scripture was God-breathed (Gk. theopneustos). God communicated to individuals the specific truths. The Holy Spirit superintended this process so that there were no errors in the original writings (2 Pet. 1:21). This written Word is both infallible (it cannot be broken; John 10:35) and, because it is God's Word, authoritative. God's Word is not only inspired; it is also "profitable." Its usefulness is seen in four areas: teaching people God's truth; reproving or rebuking those who are sinning (see 1 Tim. 5:20; 2 Tim. 4:2); correcting those who are in error (see 2 Tim. 2:25); training people to walk in God's righteous ways.

HEAVEN LIVING FOREVER IN HIS PRESENCE

Scripture alludes to heaven in three different ways: the vast expanse of space surrounding the earth or firmament or atmosphere (Gen. 1:8), the matchless celestial universe (Ps. 19:1), and the longed-for dwelling place of God (Heb. 4:14). The reality that Christians will one day live forever in the presence of the Lord is a fundamental doctrine of the faith.

The Bible only gives a few glimpses of this heavenly abode. Heaven is a place prepared for believers (John 14:1–3), one without sorrow, darkness, or any kind of sin (Rev. 21:1–7). In heaven, we will be like Christ; yet we will be able to recognize one another (1 John 3:2). The most important thing about heaven, however, is the presence of God. We will be forever with Him.

Heaven is not meant to be an ethereal concept stored in some mental safe-deposit box until we feel the need of it. We are to live now in the light of eternity. The values and perspective of eternity should guide our lives in the present (2 Pet. 3:11).

Paul's Valedictory

6For I am already being poured out as a drink offering, and the time of my departure is at hand.
7I have fought the good fight, I have finished the race, I have kept the faith. 8Finally, there is laid up for me the crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous Judge, will give to me on that Day, and not to me only but also to all who have loved His appearing.

The Abandoned Apostle

9Be diligent to come to me quickly; 10for Demas has forsaken me, having loved this present world, and has departed for Thessalonica—Crescens for Galatia, Titus for Dalmatia. 11Only Luke is with me. Get Mark and bring him with you, for he is useful to me for ministry. 12And Tychicus I have sent to Ephesus. 13Bring the cloak that I left with Carpus at Troas when you come—and the books, especially the parchments.

14Alexander the coppersmith did me much harm. May the Lord repay him according to his works. 15You also must beware of him, for he has greatly resisted our words.

16At my first defense no one stood with me, but all forsook me. May it not be charged against them.

The Lord Is Faithful

17But the Lord stood with me and strengthened me, so that the message might be preached fully through me, and that all the Gentiles might hear. Also I was delivered out of the mouth of the lion. 18And the Lord will deliver me from every evil work and preserve me for His heavenly kingdom. To Him be glory forever and ever.
Amen!

Come Before Winter

19Greet Prisca and Aquila, and the household

4:6 Paul knew that the time of his death ("my departure") was near. He vividly portrayed this through a word picture from Jewish liturgy. The last part of a sacrificial offering was the "drink offering," an offering of wine poured over the sacrifice (see Num. 5:1–10). Paul saw his ministry as an offering to the Lord (Rom. 15:16; Phil. 2:17), and his death would be the final act of that sacrifice.

4:7 Paul's statement that he had "kept the faith" may mean that either he had guarded and preserved the doctrine God had entrusted to him, or, more probably, he had been loyal to the ministry responsibility that God had given him to the end.

4:8 Paul joyfully looked forward to receiving the victor's crown, probably a reference to the reward given for living a righteous life. It would be given by the righteous Lord Himself.

4:14, 15 Alexander was a common name, and not enough evidence exists to identify him with other men by this name in Scripture. "The coppersmith" seems to have been a description given to distinguish him from others by that name. The harm he had done, whatever its nature, was serious enough for Paul to warn Timothy strongly to beware of him.

4:16–18 This preliminary hearing was evidently a time when charges were read against Paul, and he had opportunity both to make a defense and to have others speak in his behalf. Although everyone else abandoned him, the Lord Himself stood with Paul and strengthened him. The fruit of the Lord's intervention was twofold: He enabled Paul to proclaim the gospel boldly; He delivered Paul from the immediate threat of death. Even though Paul had no doubt that death was not far away (v. 6), he had full confidence that God would provide protection and deliverance through the maze of men's evil works into "His heavenly kingdom."

4:20 Though God often heals the sick, He does not heal every illness. The situation of Trophimus is a sober reminder that healing ultimately rests in the sovereign will of an all-wise, all-powerful God. Often through trials of illness we learn our most valuable lessons about both God and ourselves (2 Cor. 12:7–10).

CLAUDIA A Sincere Supporter

Claudia is mentioned only in this short second letter to Timothy, in which Paul exudes fatherly tenderness and good will. She is included in a list of presumed members of the Roman church who send greetings to the young pastor. She should certainly be included among the most respected and influential women of Gentile background who heard and accepted the gospel. Probably these four people mentioned were leaders in the church or simply believers who had met Timothy personally when he was with Paul in Rome. Some commentators suggest Linus as Claudia's son and Pudens as her husband. In any case, women and men joined together in greeting and in ministry without distinction.

The family of faith is also emphasized in this personalized greeting, undoubtedly in response to Jesus' prayer for unity and love among His brethren (see John 17:20–23). Claudia was a faithful encourager of Paul and a committed supporter of the congregation of believers.

21Do your utmost to come before winter.

Eubulus greets you, as well as Pudens, Linus, Claudia, and all the brethren.

Farewell

22The Lord Jesus Christ[a] be with your spirit. Grace be with you. Amen.

Titus

AUTHOR

The apostle Paul is the author of the Book of Titus. His authorship is supported by internal evidence, including his autograph in the salutation as well as the consistency of his theology and language in the text (Titus 1:1). The vast majority of the early church fathers supported this position as well.

DATE

This letter was written about the same time as Paul's first letter to Timothy, between A.D. 62 and 64. During this time he was free from prison in Rome and traveling to Nicopolis where he planned to spend the winter.

BACKGROUND

SETTING: After Paul's first Roman imprisonment, he may have planted a church on the Mediterranean island of Crete. He left Titus there to organize and instruct the new converts. This fact indicates Paul's confidence in Titus. The moral decadence in Crete was well known, and Titus faced almost immediate opposition.

AUDIENCE: This letter was sent to Titus, Paul's Greek convert, who was one of his first Gentile co-laborers. Titus played a significant role in the development of the church. He was an uncircumcised Gentile who accompanied Paul to Jerusalem. Titus exemplified believing Gentiles and appropriately pleaded the case for salvation by grace alone, without the requirement of circumcision (Gal. 2:1–5). When Paul was delayed in going to Corinth because of his work in Ephesus, he sent Titus to handle the difficult situation (strife, fornication; see 1 Cor. 1:11; 5:1). His accomplishments in Corinth were a great encouragement to Paul (2 Cor. 7:6, 13, 14; 8:6, 16, 23; 12:18). Based on Paul's assignments to Titus, the young protégé apparently was a resourceful leader with organizational skills.

PURPOSE: Paul wrote this letter to give Titus authorization and guidance regarding the doctrine, government, and piety of the church. The apostle told Titus what he should teach and how he should apply it to the various groups within the congregation.

THEMES

These are classic Pauline themes:

- Sovereign grace indicates the fact that God is in control of all things. This fact gives assurance and confidence to believers. In the Old Testament, "grace" (Heb. chen) means "favor," "kindness," as in the "graciousness" of a superior toward an inferior with no obligation of the superior to show such "kindness." In the New Testament, "grace" (Gk. charis) refers to God's undeserved, redemptive love demonstrated in Christ. God's faithfulness to His covenant promise to save His people is established and maintained by "grace."

- Sound doctrine refers to absolute truth as taught in Holy Scripture. What God says, He will not change.
- Servant living or the placing of oneself under the authority and Lordship of Jesus Christ is a lifestyle of obedience to His Word.

Paul's theological and pedagogical logic are interwoven in these themes. Understanding that salvation is by grace alone is foundational for correct doctrine. Right doctrine rightly applied results in right living. To begin with instruction in servant living apart from instruction about God, will produce only outward, temporary change. True, lasting change in lifestyle is only possible when the heart is changed by God's grace.

Greeting

1 Paul, a bondservant of God and an apostle of Jesus Christ, according to the faith of God's elect and the acknowledgment of the truth which accords with godliness, 2in hope of eternal life which God, who cannot lie, promised before time began, 3but has in due time manifested His word through preaching, which was committed to me according to the commandment of God our Savior;

4To Titus, a true son in our common faith:

Grace, mercy, and peace from God the Father and the Lord Jesus Christ[a] our Savior.

Qualified Elders

5For this reason I left you in Crete, that you should set in order the things that are lacking, and appoint elders in every city as I commanded you— 6if a man is blameless, the husband of one wife, having faithful children not accused of dissipation or insubordination. 7For a bishop[a] must be blameless, as a steward of God, not self-willed, not quick-tempered, not given to wine, not violent, not greedy for money, 8but hospitable, a lover of what is good, sober-minded, just, holy, self-controlled, 9holding fast the faithful word as he has been taught, that he may be able, by sound

1:4 [a]NU-Text reads and Christ Jesus. 1:7 [a]Literally overseer

1:4 Paul's spiritual relationship to Titus and Timothy does not devalue the physical family but shows that the spiritual family is a "true" family bonding (v. 2), offering great comfort to those whose families are dysfunctional (see 1 Sam. 3, Family).

1:5 Elders (Gk., presbuteroi, also "pastors" or "bishops") are those appointed in the NT church to have spiritual care and oversight; the designation indicates maturity of spiritual experience (see Acts 11:30; Phil. 1:1; see 1 Pet. 5:1–3, note).

1:6–9 Men and women are equal in their position in Christ but have different roles or functions in the family and church (Gal. 3, Equality; see chart, Role Relationships Between Men and Women).

1:6 The ability to manage his own family is a prerequisite for the elder (or bishop or pastor) who would manage the spiritual family in the church (see 1 Tim. 3:4). This particular requirement would be difficult to meet without the help of a supportive wife (see Lev. 21, The Pastor's Wife).

1:8 Being hospitable (Gk. philoxenos, lit. "loving strangers" or "friendly") is very difficult without the help of a supportive wife (see 1 Pet. 4, Hospitality; chart, Hospitality or Entertainment).

GODPARENTS SPIRITUAL PARENTING

Paul refers to Titus as "a true son in our common faith" (Titus 1:4), and Timothy "a true son in the faith" and a "beloved son" (1 Tim. 1:2; 2 Tim. 1:2). Titus and Timothy, of course, were not Paul's flesh-and-blood sons but rather young men he considered to be his "spiritual children."

The early Christians very often were ostracized from their communities or disowned by their families. Thus, the bonding together of the "family of Christ" included the creation of a new order of parents and children. Jesus alluded to this when He said to Peter that those who give up family for His sake and the gospel's will receive in return "brothers and sisters and mothers and children" (Mark 10:30).

Spiritual parents in the early church had the opportunity to help rear followers of Christ who would experience the presence and power of God at work in their lives. This role involved active (and often daily) participation in a child's life and an ongoing mentoring of the child in how to live out the Christian life in the church and community. Over the centuries, the role of spiritual parents has varied. Foremost, they certainly should seek to impart to the child a love for Scripture, a commitment to a personal relationship with the Lord Jesus, and a link to an organized body of believers in which the child can serve the Lord and be edified in the faith. In addition, they have the opportunity to pray for and with the child, encouraging an ongoing, personal communication by the child with God.

doctrine, both to exhort and convict those who contradict.

The Elders' Task

10For there are many insubordinate, both idle talkers and deceivers, especially those of the circumcision, 11whose mouths must be stopped, who subvert whole households, teaching things which they ought not, for the sake of dishonest gain.
12One of them, a prophet of their own, said, "Cretans are always liars, evil beasts, lazy gluttons." 13This testimony is true. Therefore rebuke them sharply, that they may be sound in the faith, 14not giving heed to Jewish fables and commandments of men who turn from the truth. 15To the pure all things are pure, but to those who are defiled and unbelieving nothing is pure; but even their mind and conscience are defiled. 16They profess to know God, but in works they deny Him, being abominable, disobedient, and disqualified for every good work.

Qualities of a Sound Church

2But as for you, speak the things which are proper for sound doctrine: 2that the older men be sober, reverent, temperate, sound in faith, in love, in patience; 3the older women likewise, that they be reverent in behavior, not slanderers, not given to much wine, teachers of good things— 4that they admonish the young women to love their husbands, to love their children, 5*to be* discreet, chaste, homemakers, good, obedient to their own husbands, that the word of God may not be blasphemed.

6Likewise, exhort the young men to be sober-minded, 7in all things showing yourself to be a pattern of good works; in doctrine showing integrity, reverence, incorruptibility,[a] 8sound speech that cannot be condemned, that one who is an opponent may be ashamed, having nothing evil to say of you.[a]

2:7 [a]NU-Text omits incorruptibility. 2:8 [a]NU-Text and M-Text read us.

1:10–12 Jewish believers in Crete insisted that circumcision was necessary in order to be saved, adding works to salvation. These false teachers were motivated by dishonest gain (v. 11). Paul used the description of Epimenides, a Cretan poet, to substantiate his point regarding the character of the Cretans (v. 12).

2:2, 3 The value of the faith and life of older members of the congregation is recognized (see Is. 46, Aging) as a combination of spiritual maturity and life experiences (see Lev. 19:32; Job 12:12; Prov. 16:31; 17:6). Paul is often wrongly accused of devaluing women. Paul neither wanted nor expected shallow thinking or careless living from the female members of the congregation (see chart, Spiritual Mothering).

2:3–5 Women equipping women is not an exhaustive statement about the role of women in the church, but training younger women is an important part of the responsibility of spiritually mature women. Whereas truth is truth, gender does determine how some aspects of truth are lived out in daily life. Training women to live as godly women is best done by older, spiritually mature women. The responsibility to see that this is done is given to the pastor of the church (v. 1). Certainly this lays the foundation for women's ministries in the local church (see John 4; Acts 2; 1 Cor. 11; Eph. 2; 1 Tim. 2, Women's Ministries). "Admonish" (Gk. sophronizō, lit. "to cause to be of sound mind") suggests training that would develop sound judgment and wisdom. The relationship between the women is not formal and structured but a nurturing, spiritual mothering. The goal of the older woman/younger woman relationship is compelling—that God's Word would not be dishonored. God's Word is honorable regardless of the behavior of women, but seemingly the behavior of Christian women plays an important part in the honor that the world gives to God's Word.

SPIRITUAL MOTHERING

THE MENTOR AND NOVICE	THE CURRICULUM	THE REWARDS	THE BIBLICAL EXAMPLE
• "Aged Women" (Gk. presbutidas) could be understood as spiritually mature women. The criterion is not limited to age (Titus 2:3).	Lifestyle Example (Titus 2:3) "reverent" behavior—godly conduct, dress, and conversation	To prevent blasphemy of the Word of God (Titus 2:5).	Naomi → Ruth • Naomi won Ruth to faith in Yahweh (Ruth 1:16, 17). • She gave Ruth wise counsel to win the heart of Boaz (Ruth 2:20, 22; 3:3–6). • She helped nurture Ruth's son Obed (Ruth 4:15, 16).
• To teach the "younger women" (Gk. neas) again is not only a reference to youth but connotes freshness or what is new. New converts and those who have not been discipled are in view (v. 3).	Warnings (v. 3) • slander (fault-finding, gossip, false accusation) • drunkenness	To give young women the opportunity for spiritual ministry (vv. 12–15).	Deborah → Barak • Deborah guided him into battle (Judg. 4:6, 14). • She accepted Barak's call for help (Judg. 4:9, 10). • She celebrated the victory in song (Judg. 5:1–31).
	Admonitions (vv. 4, 5) • lovers of their husbands (v. 4, Gk. philandrous, connoting "esteem" or "respect") • lovers of their children (v. 4, Gk. philoteknous) • sensible (v. 5, Gk. sophron) • chaste or sexually pure (v. 5, Gk. agnas) • homeworkers (v. 5, Gk. oikourgous) • good (v. 5, Gk. agathas) • submissive to their husbands (v. 5, Gk. hupotasso; also used in Eph. 5:21; Col. 3:18; 1 Pet. 3:1).	To guard the sanctity of the home.	Elizabeth → Mary • Elizabeth encouraged Mary (Luke 1:41–45). • She offered Mary hospitality and refuge (Luke 1:56). Priscilla → Apollos • Priscilla, with her husband Aquila, received spiritual preparation from the apostle Paul (Acts 18:1–4). • They patiently shared their understanding of Scripture (Acts 18:24–28). • Priscilla kept her home open to believers (Rom. 16:3–5).

[9]Exhort bondservants to be obedient to their own masters, to be well pleasing in all things, not answering back, [10]not pilfering, but showing all good fidelity, that they may adorn the doctrine of God our Savior in all things.

Trained by Saving Grace

[11]For the grace of God that brings salvation has appeared to all men, [12]teaching us that, denying ungodliness and worldly lusts, we should live soberly, righteously, and godly in the present age, [13]looking for the blessed hope and glorious appearing of our great God and Savior Jesus Christ, [14]who gave Himself for us, that He might redeem us from every lawless deed and purify for Himself
His own special people, zealous for good works.

[15]Speak these things, exhort, and rebuke with all authority. Let no one despise you.

WOMEN'S MINISTRIES DISCIPLING THE BELIEVER

One of the largest and most vital areas of ministry for New Testament women was that of discipleship. In the Great Commission, Jesus Christ commanded that His disciples "make" disciples of others (Matt. 28:19, 20). This process involved two principles, as illustrated in the lives of Jesus and His apostles: association and instruction.

To begin, a disciple associated or interacted with a protégé on a personal basis. Jesus, for example, had chosen His disciples so that they might "be with Him" (Mark 3:14). The apostle Paul also recognized that discipleship occurred in the context of close relationships or in the "sharing" of life (1 Thess. 1:7, 8).

The second aspect of discipleship was instruction. Disciples were to be taught how to be obedient (Matt. 28:20) in order that they might be firmly rooted, built up in Christ, and established in the faith (Col. 2:6, 7). Paul instructed that all spiritually mature women had the responsibility to mentor those women who were less mature (Titus 2:3–5). Through discipling other women and bringing them to maturity in Christ, New Testament women glorified God and were integrally involved in kingdom ministry (John 15:7, 8).

See also chart on Spiritual Gifts of Women in the Bible; notes on Evangelism (John 6; Col. 4; 1 Pet. 3); Mentoring (2 Kin. 2); Spiritual Discipline (2 Pet. 3); Women's Ministries (John 4; Acts 2; 1 Cor. 11; Eph. 2; 1 Tim. 3)

Graces of the Heirs of Grace

3 Remind them to be subject to rulers and authorities, to obey, to be ready for every good work, 2 to speak evil of no one, to be peaceable, gentle, showing all humility to all men. 3 For we ourselves were also once foolish, disobedient, deceived, serving various lusts and pleasures, living in malice and envy, hateful and hating one another. 4 But when the kindness and the love of God our Savior toward man appeared, 5 not by works of righteousness which we have done, but according to His mercy He saved us, through the washing of regeneration and renewing of the Holy Spirit, 6 whom He poured out on us abundantly through Jesus Christ our Savior, 7 that having been justified by His grace we should become heirs according to the hope of eternal life.

8 This is a faithful saying, and these things I want you to affirm constantly, that those who have believed in God should be careful to maintain good works. These things are good and profitable to men.

Avoid Dissension

9 But avoid foolish disputes, genealogies, contentions, and strivings about the law; for they are unprofitable and useless. 10 Reject a divisive man after the first and second admonition, 11 knowing that such a person is warped and sinning, being self-condemned.

Final Messages

12 When I send Artemas to you, or Tychicus, be diligent to come to me at Nicopolis, for I have decided to spend the winter there. 13 Send Zenas the lawyer and Apollos on their journey with haste, that they may lack nothing. 14 And let our people also learn to maintain good works, to meet urgent needs, that they may not be unfruitful.

Farewell

15 All who are with me greet you. Greet those who love us in the faith.

Grace be with you all. Amen.

3:1 Though their citizenship is in heaven (Phil. 3:20), believers are to live in this world in such a way as to be salt and light (Matt. 5:13–16). Civil authorities are appointed by God to maintain law and order, whether they recognize their divine appointment or not, so that believers can fulfill the good works God has given them to do (see Rom. 13, Government and Citizenship). However, if the civil law contradicts the Law of God, the believer is to "obey God rather than men" (Acts 5:29).

3:2–4 Paul gave examples of good works and reminded believers of the works that characterized their former lifestyle. Believers must never attribute their good works to self-effort. Calling to mind former disobedience reminds believers that good works are the result of the kindness and love of God (see Deut. 15:15; Rev. 2:5).

3:4–7 With the emphasis on godly living, Paul wanted to be sure that no one misunderstood and thought that good works could contribute to salvation (see chart, Law and Grace).

3:5 Regeneration (Gk. palinge nēsia, lit. "becoming again" or "being born again") is produced by "the word of truth" (James 1:18; 1 Pet. 1:23) and the Holy Spirit (John 3:5, 6). Regeneration and renewal describe the work of God in changing a heart from one that has a propensity to evil to one that is capable of faith and good works (Ezek. 36:26, 27).

3:7 Justified (Gk. dikaioō, "declared righteous") is always passive in reference to mankind because it is the work of God. Justification is the legal acquittal of guilt and the pronouncement of the sinner as righteous on the basis of the finished work of Christ (see chart, Theological Terms).

WOMEN IN THE WORKPLACE

Characteristics of Godly Businesswomen

- Conscientious—"well pleasing in all things" (Titus 2:9)
- Diligent—"whatever your hand finds to do, do it with your might" (Eccl. 9:10)
- Integrity—"not pilfering" (Titus 2:10)
- Loyal—"showing all good fidelity" (Titus 2:10)
- Peaceful—"not answering back" (Titus 2:9)
- Respectful of authority—"to be subject to. . . authorities" (Titus 3:1)
- Seasoned speech—"know how you ought to answer each one" (Col. 4:6)

Examples of Godly Businesswomen

- Lydia (Acts 16:13–15, 40)
  - Hosted a group of believers in her home and used her resources to support the work of the kingdom.
- Priscilla (Acts 18:1–3)
  - Ministered with her husband to the apostle Paul.
  - Participated in evangelism, discipling, teaching, and mentoring.

Types of Businesses in Biblical Days

- Construction (Shallum's daughters—Neh. 3:12)
- Garment industry (Dorcas—Acts 9:36–42)
- Government (Deborah—Judg. 4:4, 5)
- Maid or Household Worker (Rhoda—Acts 12:13)
- Manufacturing (Priscilla—Acts 18:3)
- Midwives (Shiphrah and Puah—Ex. 1:15, 16)
- Musicians (Singers—Eccl. 2:8)
- Nurse/Nanny/Companion (Deborah—Gen. 24:59; 35:8)
- Retail (Lydia—Acts 16:14)
- Wet Nurse (Jochebed—Ex. 2:7, 9)

It is interesting that of all the ways Paul could have told the women to combat the decadence of their culture, he told them to invest their energies in training the younger women to live Christianly in their society.

Philemon

AUTHOR

Paul is the author of this short epistle. His authorship is rarely questioned due to the similarity of the book's style with other Pauline books and the circumstances related within the book itself and in the Book of Colossians.

DATE

As one of the books written during Paul's first imprisonment, Philemon would have been composed at some time between A.D. 60 and 63.

BACKGROUND

SETTING: Tychicus is believed to have carried this personal letter to Philemon in his hometown of Colosse, as he accompanied the returning slave Onesimus (Col. 4:7–9).

PURPOSE: Through this glimpse into the life of Paul and the relationships he maintained and nurtured, future generations are encouraged to express Christian charity in practical terms.

AUDIENCE: When faced with the task of restoring a broken relationship, Paul appealed to his friend Philemon to forgive a fellow believer and accept him as a brother in Christ. Though he could have chosen to fight against the institution of slavery common to that day, Paul appealed to the transforming power of God's love to bring about needed change in individual lives and social structure. Just as Christ pleads the cases of believers before the Father and offers His own life to pay the price for their sins, Paul appealed to the master of this runaway slave, offering to pay from his own resources any debt incurred, in the hope of achieving reconciliation.

LITERARY CHARACTERISTICS: The Book of Philemon is written in correspondence format. Though brief, the letter is quite personal and specific as to its intent. Paul's method is a marvelous example of mitigating or moderating exhortation (see Philem. 17–21, note).

THEMES

In his other epistles, Paul explained how the love of Christ would transform a believer to live in accordance with God's will. In this uniquely personal letter, the reader has the opportunity to observe that in action.

OUTLINE

Introduction: Greetings (vv. 1–3)

II. Paul's Request on Behalf of Onesimus (vv. 8–22)

- A. Appeal to Christian love (vv. 8–16)
- B. Confidence in obedience (vv. 17–22)

Conclusion: Greetings (vv. 23–25)

OBEDIENCE DOING GOD'S WILL

The Bible clearly commands us always to obey the Lord (Deut. 4:30; 11:1–32; Dan. 7:27; Acts 5:29). Specifically, we are required to hear His Word and do His will (James 1:22).

Our obedience is to flow out of our love for God (1 John 2:3, 4). If we love the Lord, we will want to serve Him; and in serving Him, we will want to obey His commandments. Acts of obedience, therefore, are to be reflective of an inner reality that we love the Lord deeply and are committed to Him completely.

We are also to obey the human authorities that the Lord has placed in our lives, recognizing that all authority flows from God and is ultimately part of His plan (Heb. 13:7, 17; 1 Pet. 2:13, 14). Scripture advocates clearly that wives submit to husbands (Eph. 5:22), children obey parents (Eph. 6:1), slaves obey masters (Col. 3:22), Christians obey church leaders (1 Thess. 5:12, 13; Heb. 13:7), and citizens obey government officials (Heb. 13:17).

Obedience is not an automatic response. It must be learned, and conversely, we must teach it to our children (see Deut. 6:7–9). Obedience to those in the line of authority is part of God's plan for establishing peace and security so that we might not only fulfill our own potential but effectively extend the gospel to others.

In obeying those God has placed over us in authority, we must recognize that we are never to break the commandments of God (see Jochebed as well as Daniel, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego as examples of those who disobeyed civil authorities in their ultimate obedience to the Lord—Ex. 1:17; 2:3–10; Dan. 3:9–26; 6:13–22). We are to obey the requests of authorities that are within the bounds of righteousness, regardless of our personal desires, preferences, opinions, or perceptions—trusting the Lord to honor our obedience, to guide those in authority over us, and to deal with those authorities as He wills. The consequences of our obedience lie in His domain.

The Lord promises deliverance from our enemies (Ex. 23:22), strength, and blessings as we obey. Disobedience, on the other hand, results in disaster—materially, psychologically, and spiritually. Even so, disobedience is a part of the sinful nature and is inevitable in all our lives. Israel frequently failed to hear and do God's will (Jer. 7:13; Hos. 9:17). When we disobey, we can take heart that disobedience is forgivable. The Lord offers undeserved mercy and complete forgiveness to those who confess their disobedience (Rom. 11:30–32) and make a new choice to obey.

Greeting

Paul, a prisoner of Christ Jesus, and Timothy our brother,

To Philemon our beloved friend and fellow laborer, 2to the beloved[a] Apphia, Archippus our fellow soldier, and to the church in your house:

3Grace to you and peace from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ.

Philemon's Love and Faith

4I thank my God, making mention of you always in my prayers, 5hearing of your love and faith which you have toward the Lord Jesus and toward all the saints, 6that the sharing of your faith may become effective by the acknowledgment of every good thing which is in you[a] in Christ Jesus. 7For we have[a] great joy[b] and consolation in your love, because the hearts of the saints have been refreshed by you, brother.

The Plea for Onesimus

8Therefore, though I might be very bold in Christ to command you what is fitting, 9*yet* for

2 Apphia is believed to be Philemon's wife. Archippus apparently was a leader in the church that met in Philemon's home and may have been the son of Philemon and Apphia. In the context of this book, Philemon's wife played a crucial role in carrying out the desires that Paul expressed because household slaves such as Onesimus would have fallen under her supervision. Archippus would be instrumental in leading the church to accept Paul's instructions regarding Onesimus as a new believer.

4–7 Paul took the time to commend his friend Philemon for spiritual maturity, while expressing the potential he sees for further growth in a specific area (vv. 7, 20). Paul frequently cited this quality as a source for his encouragement (see Rom. 15:32; 1 Cor. 16:18; 2 Cor. 7:13; 2 Tim. 1:16). God often calls upon women to provide refreshing acts of kindness to others. In contrast to the weariness that takes its toll as stress comes into a life, the spiritual and physical refreshment offered by a Christian brings rest and renewal.

9 Paul appealed to Philemon to let love be the primary motive

WOMEN USING THEIR GIFTS IN THE EARLY CHURCH

WOMAN	WHAT SHE DID
Apphia	She hosted believers in her home (Philem. 2).
Damaris	She responded to the gospel (Acts 17:34).
Dorcas	She reached out to the poor and needy (Acts 9:36–42; see also Prov. 31:20).
Elizabeth	She served as a mentor or spiritual mother to Mary of Nazareth and undoubtedly to many others (Luke 1:39–56).
Lydia	She supported Paul in his ministries (Acts 16:11–15).
Mary Magdalene	She proclaimed the gospel (Mark 16:9, 10; see also 1 Pet. 3:15).
Mary of Nazareth	She prayed (Luke 2:19; Acts 1:14).
Older women	They were to teach women about godly character and home responsibilities (Titus 2:3–5).
Phoebe	She was a courier for transporting one of Paul's letters (Rom. 16:1).
Priscilla	She, with her husband, traveled throughout the country doing evangelism and missions. They also taught the learned Apollos (Acts 18:18, 26). They suffered for their faith (Rom. 16:4).
Women of wealth	They supported Jesus' work; their generosity was a blessing to the kingdom work (Mark 15:40; 16:1; Luke 8:3; 23:55—24:10; Heb. 6:10).

love's sake I rather appeal to you—being such a one as Paul, the aged, and now also a prisoner of Jesus Christ— 10I appeal to you for my son Onesimus, whom I have begotten while in my chains, 11who once was unprofitable to you, but now is profitable to you and to me.

12I am sending him back.[a] You therefore receive him, that is, my own heart, 13whom I wished to keep with me, that on your behalf he might minister to me in my chains for the gospel. 14But without your consent I wanted to do nothing, that your good deed might not be by compulsion, as it were, but voluntary.

15For perhaps he departed for a while for this purpose, that you might receive him forever, 16no longer as a slave but more than a slave—a beloved brother, especially to me but how much more to you, both in the flesh and in the Lord.

Philemon's Obedience Encouraged

17If then you count me as a partner, receive him as you would me. 18But if he has wronged you or owes anything, put that on my account. 19I, Paul, am writing with my own hand. I will repay—not to mention to you that you owe me even your own self besides. 20Yes, brother, let me have joy from you in the Lord; refresh my heart in the Lord.

12 [a]NU-Text reads back to you in person, that is, my own heart.

for responding positively to his request to accept Onesimus. Love often compels us to do that which cannot be explained by any other motive.

10, 11 Onesimus means "profitable." Thus, Paul employed a play on words to reiterate that the once profitable slave, Onesimus, had proven himself unprofitable by leaving his master, Philemon. Now he may once again be viewed as profitable in ministering to Paul on behalf of Philemon.

14 Paul might have used compulsion to admonish Philemon to follow his instructions. But such a response would not have been made out of conviction. Instead, the "voluntary" act of love carries a commitment to the renewed relationship that only Christ can provide.

17–21 Paul used four imperatives: "receive him" (v. 17), "put" (v. 18), "refresh" (v. 20), and "prepare" (v. 22). Philemon's obedience, coupled with his love (v. 9), would bring Paul joy and a refreshed heart.

A servant is one who gets excited about making somebody else successful.

Hebrews

AUTHOR

The Book of Hebrews is completely anonymous. Scholars have proposed Paul, Luke, Barnabas, Apollos, Priscilla, and others as its author. The book itself suggests that the writer's extensive education included both Hellenistic and Jewish influences. A gift for teaching and a heart for ministry and discipleship is also evident.

DATE

The description of the Jewish sacrificial system and its priestly service (Heb. 8—10) suggests that Hebrews was written before the destruction of the temple in A.D. 70. The religious sacrifices referenced, however, relate to the Old Testament tabernacle, not those of the temple. Other evidence, such as the description of the persecution endured (Heb. 10:32–34) and predicted (Heb. 12:4), indicates a time of writing before A.D. 70. The latter implies the intensity of persecution during the reign of Nero, beginning in A.D. 64. The author probably wrote the epistle sometime during or just after A.D. 64.

BACKGROUND

SETTING: Jewish Christians addressed were experiencing social and physical persecution (Heb. 10:32–34) from both Jews and Gentiles. Their sufferings threatened their commitment to Christ. They needed a renewal of confidence and an exhortation to persevere.

PURPOSE: The writer purposed to prevent some kind of reversion to Judaism by presenting the sufficiency and superiority of Christ. He tried to help struggling Christians understand that Jesus Christ fulfilled the Law and the prophecy of the Old Testament. He exhorted believers of every age to fulfill their part in God's redemptive mission and to mature in their faith.

AUDIENCE: The author wrote to Jewish Christians who had been exposed to persecution, although none had yet died for the faith (Heb. 12:4). They hesitated to separate themselves decisively from Judaism in order to press ahead in the Christian faith. Their reluctance to sever their last ties with a religion that enjoyed the protection of Roman law stemmed perhaps from an understanding of the consequences that total commitment to Christ would bring.

LITERARY CHARACTERISTICS:

- Hebrews ends like a letter, but it lacks the usual opening salutation. The book represents a carefully composed, formal writing, such as a tract or sermon. Since the author clearly addressed a particular group, his work may be called an epistle.
- The author quoted the Old Testament extensively, especially the Book of Psalms. He used almost exclusively the major Greek translation of the Hebrew Old Testament or Septuagint (LXX).

- Hebrews provides a clearer discussion of the Christian understanding of the Old Testament than any other New Testament book. The Law and the prophecies of the Old Testament point undeniably to Christ and find their fulfillment in Him.

THEMES

- Christ is supreme and completely sufficient for salvation.
- Christianity is superior to Judaism.
- The New Covenant is superior to the old covenant.
- Living by faith is superior to living by legalism.
- Christians must persevere and mature in their spiritual lives.

God's Supreme Revelation

1 God, who at various times and in various ways spoke in time past to the fathers by the prophets, 2has in these last days spoken to us by His Son, whom He has appointed heir of all things, through whom also He made the worlds; 3who being the brightness of His glory and the express image of His person, and upholding all things by the word of His power, when He had by Himself[a] purged our[b] sins, sat down at the right hand of the Majesty on high, 4having become so much better than the angels, as He has by inheritance obtained a more excellent name than they.

1:1–3 This prologue represents one of the great Christological passages of the New Testament (see John 1:1–18; Phil. 2:6–11; Col. 1:15–20; see chart, The Definitive Christological Passages). It establishes the theme of the epistle's doctrinal division: the superiority of Christ (Heb. 1:4—10:18). God has spoken in a variety of ways in the past, such as in a burning bush to Moses (Ex. 3:2) and in a temple vision to Isaiah (Is. 6:1–9). He has spoken through "the prophets" (Heb. 1:1)—all those in pre-Christian times who spoke for or represented God. Yet, Christ is superior to all others. The revelation God gave through Christ, therefore, is superior to earlier revelations. Not only that, it is final. "In these last days" (v. 2) means that in Jesus the messianic age has appeared. Jesus is more than simply the last in a long line of prophets. Although He has inaugurated a completely new age, continuity exists between the old and new revelations.

1:2, 3 The author stressed that Jesus, as God's Son, has a divine nature. "Heir of all things" is a title of dignity, showing that Christ has the supreme place in all the universe (v. 2). "Glory" and "image" reveal that the Son is an exact representation of God (v. 3). When one sees Jesus, he sees God's being and essence. By "upholding all things," Christ carries creation toward its goal (v. 3). The Son of God came to deal with the problem of the sins of mankind. He "purged" or removed those sins, producing a complete cleansing. Sitting at God's "right hand" indicates that Christ has finished His saving work (v. 3). Now He is in the place of highest honor (see Phil. 2:6–11).

The Son Exalted Above Angels

5For to which of the angels did He ever say:

"You are My Son,
Today I have begotten You"?[a]

And again:

"I will be to Him a Father,
And He shall be to Me a Son"?[b]

6But when He again brings the firstborn into the world, He says:

"Let all the angels of God worship Him."[a] 7And of the angels He says:

"Who makes His angels spirits
And His ministers a flame of fire."[a]

8But to the Son He says:

"Your throne, O God, is forever and ever;
A scepter of righteousness is the scepter of Your kingdom.
9*You have loved righteousness and hated lawlessness;*
Therefore God, Your God, has anointed You
With the oil of gladness more than Your companions."[a] 10And:

"You, LORD, in the beginning laid the foundation of the earth,
And the heavens are the work of Your hands.
11*They will perish, but You remain;*
And they will all grow old like a garment;
12*Like a cloak You will fold them up,*
And they will be changed.
But You are the same,
And Your years will not fail."[a]

14Are they not all ministering spirits sent forth to minister for those who will inherit salvation?

Do Not Neglect Salvation

2 Therefore we must give the more earnest heed to the things we have heard, lest we drift away. 2For if the word spoken through angels proved steadfast, and every transgression and disobedience received a just reward, 3how shall we escape if we neglect so great a salvation, which at the first began to be spoken by the Lord, and was confirmed to us by those who heard Him, 4God also bearing witness both with signs and wonders, with various miracles, and gifts of the Holy Spirit, according to His own will?

The Son Made Lower than Angels

5For He has not put the world to come, of which we speak, in subjection to angels. 6But one testified in a certain place, saying:

1:5 [a]Psalm 2:7 [b]2 Samuel 7:14 1:6 [a]Deuteronomy 32:43 (Septuagint, Dead Sea Scrolls); Psalm 97:7 1:7 [a]Psalm 104:4 1:9 [a]Psalm 45:6, 7 1:12 [a]Psalm 102:25–27 1:13 [a]Psalm 110:1

1:5–14 The author used seven quotations from the OT to prove to his Jewish-Christian readers the superiority of Christ to the angels. The Jews highly regarded angels as God's intermediaries in conveying the Law to Moses (see Heb. 2:2). The writer interpreted these OT quotes christologically or messianically; that is, he took passages originally referring to God or to Israel's king and applied them to Christ.

1:14 In contrast to Jesus, who sits in royal state at God's right hand (v. 13), all angels are no more than "ministering spirits" or servants. They minister to saved persons. The word "spirits" preserves their place of dignity, but their function remains that of service.

2:1–4 The writer warned against drifting away from the superior gospel of Christ and neglecting the "great salvation" offered by Him (v. 3). With these words, the problem addressed by the author begins to emerge. He was writing to Jewish converts to Christianity who were confronting the temptation to renounce their new faith and return to Judaism.

2:1 The author called his readers to pay attention and act on "the things we have heard" or the whole gospel message. "Give the more earnest heed" suggests both "to focus the mind or attention on a thing" and "to act upon what one perceives." Inattentiveness leads to regression and susceptibility to the temptation to sin.

2:2 The word spoken through angels refers to the Mosaic Law. The OT does not refer to angels specifically in connection with the giving of the Law, but the NT mentions their presence (Acts 7:38, 53; Gal. 3:19). Intertestamental and rabbinic Judaism do as well. If the revered and "steadfast" Law came through angels, how much more should one respect the message that came through the Son of God!

TEMPTATION AN ENTICEMENT TO SIN

Every person is tempted by someone or something, at some point in life! Even Jesus was tempted (Heb. 2:18). His example, however, provides us with an assurance that we are capable of resisting temptation; and in overcoming temptation, we emerge strengthened in spirit. Even when attracted by what is wrong, we can choose to do what is right.

Temptation is an "enticement to sin" that arises from human desires and passions (James 1:14; 1 John 2:16). Enticement may also be from the devil, who is called "the tempter" (Matt. 4:3).

The Bible states explicitly that God does not tempt us (James 1:13–15), but He does allow us to be tested by circumstances and by the enemy of our souls in order that we might grow in our obedience to Him (see example of Jesus, Heb. 5:7–10), in our reliance on Him for strength, and in our commitment to His commandments (Gen. 22:1–18). Furthermore, the Lord promises to provide a "way of escape" so that we are not tempted beyond what we are able to bear (1 Cor. 10:13; 2 Pet. 2:9). When the tempter's influence is resisted, he must flee from us (James 4:7).

Satan's strategy for temptation is clearly evident in his dealings with Eve:

- He questions God's Word (Gen. 3:1);
- He contradicts God by not telling the whole truth (Gen. 3:4); and
- He attempts to substitute a seemingly "good" or "worthy" goal for disobedience, distorting and misquoting God's Word (Gen. 3:5).

These same strategies were at work in Satan's temptation of Jesus in the wilderness (Matt. 4:1–11).

The Bible promises that those who withstand life's temptations will receive "the crown of life which the Lord has promised to those who love Him" (James 1:12). We can be led on a daily basis by the Holy Spirit into God's paths (Matt. 6:13), to the point where we resist the tempter's voice calling us to stray.

"What is man that You are mindful of him,
Or the son of man that You take care of him?
7 You have made him a little lower than the angels;
You have crowned him with glory and honor,[a]
And set him over the works of Your hands.
8 You have put all things in subjection under his feet."[a]

For in that He put all in subjection under him, He left nothing that is not put under him. But now we do not yet see all things put under him. 9But we see Jesus, who was made a little lower than the angels, for the suffering of death crowned with glory and honor, that He, by the grace of God, might taste death for everyone.

Bringing Many Sons to Glory

10For it was fitting for Him, for whom are all things and by whom are all things, in bringing many sons to glory, to make the captain of their salvation perfect through sufferings. 11For both He who sanctifies and those who are being sanctified are all of one, for which reason He is not ashamed to call them brethren, 12saying:

"I will declare Your name to My brethren;
In the midst of the assembly I will sing praise to You."[a]

13And again:

"I will put My trust in Him."[a]

And again:

"Here am I and the children whom God has given Me."[b]

14Inasmuch then as the children have partaken of flesh and blood, He Himself likewise shared in the same, that through death He might destroy him who had the power of death, that is, the devil, 15and release those who through fear of death were all their lifetime subject to bondage. 16For indeed He does not give aid to angels, but He does give aid to the seed of Abraham. 17Therefore, in all things He had to be made like His brethren, that He might be a merciful and faithful High

2:7 [a]NU-Text and M-Text omit the rest of verse 7. 2:8 [a]Psalm 8:4–6
2:12 [a]Psalm 22:22 2:13 [a]2 Samuel 22:3; Isaiah 8:17 [b]Isaiah 8:18

2:6 Testified shows the seriousness of the quote that follows (Ps. 8:4–6). The author did not give the OT reference, though he undoubtedly knew the source because he quoted the passage accurately. The entire letter shows the author's familiarity with the Psalms, as well as the Pentateuch.

2:17 As the High Priest, Jesus has made "propitiation" (Gk. hilaskesthai) for "sins." Propitiation refers to a sacrifice that satisfies God's justice and turns away His wrath. A previously broken relationship between God and man caused by the latter's sin will be restored. The Christian use of "propitiation"

Priest in things pertaining to God, to make propitiation for the sins of the people. [18]For in that He Himself has suffered, being tempted, He is able to aid those who are tempted.

The Son Was Faithful

3 Therefore, holy brethren, partakers of the heavenly calling, consider the Apostle and High Priest of our confession, Christ Jesus, [2]who was faithful to Him who appointed Him, as Moses also was faithful in all His house. [3]For this One has been counted worthy of more glory than Moses, inasmuch as He who built the house has more honor than the house. [4]For every house is built by someone, but He who built all things is God. [5]And Moses indeed was faithful in all His house as a servant, for a testimony of those things which would be spoken afterward, [6]but Christ as a Son over His own house, whose house we are if we hold fast the confidence and the rejoicing of the hope firm to the end.[a]

Be Faithful

[7]Therefore, as the Holy Spirit says:

"Today, if you will hear His voice,
[8]Do not harden your hearts as in the rebellion,
In the day of trial in the wilderness,
[9]Where your fathers tested Me, tried Me,
And saw My works forty years.
[10]Therefore I was angry with that generation,
And said, 'They always go astray in their heart,
And they have not known My ways.'
[11]So I swore in My wrath,
'They shall not enter My rest.' "[a]

[12]Beware, brethren, lest there be in any of you an evil heart of unbelief in departing from the living God; [13]but exhort one another daily, while it is called "Today," lest any of you be hardened through the deceitfulness of sin. [14]For we have become partakers of Christ if we hold the beginning of our confidence steadfast to the end, [15]while it is said:

"Today, if you will hear His voice,
Do not harden your hearts as in the rebellion."[a]

Failure of the Wilderness Wanderers

[16]For who, having heard, rebelled? Indeed, was it not all who came out of Egypt, led by Moses? [17]Now with whom was He angry forty years? Was it not with those who sinned, whose corpses fell in the wilderness? [18]And to whom did He swear that they would not enter His rest, but to those who did not obey? [19]So we see that they could not enter in because of unbelief.

The Promise of Rest

4 Therefore, since a promise remains of entering His rest, let us fear lest any of you seem to have come short of it. [2]For indeed the gospel was preached to us as well as to them; but the word which they heard did not profit them,[a] not being mixed with faith in those who heard it. [3]For we who have believed do enter that rest, as He has said:

"So I swore in My wrath,
'They shall not enter My rest,' "[a]

3:6 [a]NU-Text omits firm to the end. 3:11 [a]Psalm 95:7–11 3:15 [a]Psalm 95:7, 8 4:2 [a]NU-Text and M-Text read profit them, since they were not united by faith with those who heeded it. 4:3 [a]Psalm 95:11 does not include the pagan idea of bribing a deity to appease his wrath. Although propitiation is necessary to God's holiness in opposition to evil, out of His love (Rom. 5:8) He provides the means of propitiation, through His son, Jesus Christ (Rom. 3:25).

3:1 The NT refers to Jesus as "Apostle" only in this verse. The idea that God sent Him, however, occurs frequently, especially in John's Gospel. The basic idea of "apostle" centers on that of mission. The Father sent Jesus to accomplish His purpose, to be the Savior of the world (1 John 2:2; 4:14). "High Priest" stresses the sacrificial nature of that mission, drawing attention to the humanity of Jesus. He accomplished His work as Apostle and High Priest as a man.

3:7–19 The author warned his readers not to make the same mistake the Israelites did (vv. 7–11, 15). Despite God's miraculous deliverance from Egypt, they grumbled against Him. They rejected the Law and participated in immorality and idolatry. Later they refused to enter the Promised Land. The writer cautioned his readers that if they also "harden" their hearts (v. 8), refuse to believe (v. 12), depart "from the living God" (v. 12), sin (vv. 13, 17), fail to persevere "to the end" (v. 14), rebel (v. 16), and disobey (v. 18), they, too, would not enter God's "rest." To "harden" the heart means to disobey the voice of God and act in accordance with one's own desires.

3:12 An evil heart of unbelief stands in marked contrast to the faithfulness attributed to both Jesus and Moses. "Drift away" (Gk. pararreō, Heb. 2:1) and "departing" (Gk. aposterai, Heb. 3:12) indicate that the readers face the temptation of apostasy or willful rejection of the Christian faith. Jews might contend that they served the same God as the Christians; so they would not be departing from God if they returned to Judaism. But to reject Christ is to reject God.

3:19 The Israelites "could not enter" God's rest because their "unbelief" prevented them from enjoying the Promised Land of Canaan. Sin is self-defeating, and unbelief prevents one from entering God's rest. The writer used the example of the Israelites as a warning to his readers (see vv. 7–18).

4:1 If the ancient Israelites failed to enter the rest, all must beware lest they, too, fail to enter the blessing. The exhortation "let us fear" emphatically warns the readers not to be complacent. A generation of Israelites to whom the rest was promised missed it. The readers should take heed lest they make the same mistake and forfeit an eternal reward.

TEN GOOD REASONS TO READ GOD'S WORD (From The Power of Praying)

1. To know where you are going. You can't foresee the future or exactly where you are heading, but God's Word will guide you (Ps. 119:133).
2. To have wisdom. Knowledge of God's Word is where wisdom begins to grow in you (Ps. 19:7).
3. To find success. When you live according to the teachings of the Bible, life works (Josh. 1:8).
4. To live in purity. You must live a life of holiness and purity in order to enjoy more of the Lord's presence, but you can't be made pure without being cleansed through God's Word (Ps. 119:9).
5. To obey God. If you don't understand what God's laws are, how can you obey them? (Ps. 119:33–35).
6. To have joy. You cannot be free of anxiety and unrest without the Word of God in your heart (Ps. 19:8).
7. To grow in faith. You can't grow in faith without reading and hearing the Word of God (Rom. 10:17).
8. To find deliverance. You won't know what you need to be free of unless you study God's Word to find out (John 8:31–32).
9. To have peace. God will give you a peace that the world can't give, but you must find it first in His Word (Ps. 119:165).
10. To distinguish good from evil. Everything has become so relative today, how can you know for sure what is right and wrong without God's Word? (Ps. 119:11).

although the works were finished from the foundation of the world. 4For He has spoken in a certain place of the seventh day in this way: "And God rested on the seventh day from all His works";[a] 5and again in this place: "They shall not enter My rest."[a]

6Since therefore it remains that some must enter it, and those to whom it was first preached did not enter because of disobedience, 7again He designates a certain day, saying in David, "Today," after such a long time, as it has been said:

"Today, if you will hear His voice,
Do not harden your hearts."[a]

8For if Joshua had given them rest, then He would not afterward have spoken of another day. 9There remains therefore a rest for the people of God. 10For he who has entered His rest has himself also ceased from his works as God did from His.

The Word Discovers Our Condition

11Let us therefore be diligent to enter that rest, lest anyone fall according to the same example of disobedience. 12For the word of God is living and powerful, and sharper than any two-edged sword, piercing even to the division of soul and spirit, and of joints and marrow, and is a discerner of the thoughts and intents of the heart. 13And there is no creature hidden from His sight, but all things are naked and open to the eyes of Him to whom we must give account.

Our Compassionate High Priest

14Seeing then that we have a great High Priest who has passed through the heavens, Jesus the Son of God, let us hold fast our confession. 15For we do not have a High Priest who cannot sympathize with our weaknesses, but was in all points tempted as we are, yet without sin. 16Let us therefore come boldly to the throne of grace, that we may obtain mercy and find grace to help in time of need.

Qualifications for High Priesthood

5 For every high priest taken from among men is appointed for men in things pertaining to God, that he may offer both gifts and sacrifices for sins. 2He can have compassion on those who are ignorant and going astray, since he himself is also subject to weakness. 3Because of this he is required as for the people, so also for himself, to offer sacrifices for sins. 4And no man takes this honor to himself, but he who is called by God, just as Aaron was.

A Priest Forever

5So also Christ did not glorify Himself to become High Priest, but it was He who said to Him:

4:4 [a]Genesis 2:2 4:5 [a]Psalm 95:11 4:7 [a]Psalm 95:7, 8

4:10 The author defined entering God's rest for the believer as "ceasing from his works," just as God ceased from His. In one sense, to receive salvation means to stop relying on one's works and rest securely on what Christ has done (see Eph. 2:8, 9). Also, in another sense, the works of the believer done in the Lord embody the completeness and fulfillment that come only from entering God's rest.

4:13–16 Nothing is hidden from God, for everything is "naked" (lit. "uncovered" or "laid bare") before Him (v. 13). Yet believers are encouraged to approach God boldly because of their confidence in their High Priest—Jesus. As High Priest, Jesus can sympathize with the weaknesses of His people. He knows by experience all their trials and temptations. Yet, He never failed or sinned.

PRAYER A GOD-GIVEN PRIORITY

While many believers sincerely desire to spend time with God in prayer, few actually do. Spiritual discipline is necessary to make prayer a priority in our lives. God, however, has made prayer a priority—directing His children to pray first, often, and always. Therefore, prayer should become a priority for us!

Scripture speaks repeatedly of the importance of prayer. Paul says to pray about everything (Phil. 4:6). Believers should make all requests known to God. In addition, believers are admonished to pray regularly and frequently. David promised the Lord, "Evening and morning and at noon I will pray" (Ps. 55:17). Jesus prayed for extended periods of time, especially when making important decisions (Luke 6:12). Certainly when facing challenges or trials, a believer should pray (James 5:13). Paul exhorted the Christians in Thessalonica to pray without ceasing (1 Thess. 5:17). Prayer becomes not only an attitude of the heart but also a continual dialogue with the Lord.

When praying, take time to be still and hear a word from God (Ps. 46:10). The Bible dictates no specific time or place for prayer. However, a believer may find it easier to maintain the priority of prayer when she establishes a definite time and place to pray as part of her daily schedule (Luke 18:1).

Prayer should occupy a place in the heart; it also needs a place in the home. While every believer does not need a prayer closet (Matt. 6:6), all believers should have a place of solitude free from distraction in order to pray in private.

To help make prayer a priority, you may want to use a prayer journal or devotional book or write out a prayer list and revise it often. Share your commitment to prayer with others, both to encourage them and to hold yourself accountable for praying regularly.

"You are My Son,
Today I have begotten You."[a]

[6]As He also says in another place:

"You are a priest forever
According to the order of Melchizedek";[a]

[7]who, in the days of His flesh, when He had offered up prayers and supplications, with vehement cries and tears to Him who was able to save Him from death, and was heard because of His godly fear, [8]though He was a Son, yet He learned obedience by the things which He suffered. [9]And having been perfected, He became the author of eternal salvation to all who obey Him, [10]called by God as High Priest "according to the order of Melchizedek," [11]of whom we have much to say, and hard to explain, since you have become dull of hearing.

Spiritual Immaturity

[12]For though by this time you ought to be teachers, you need someone to teach you again the first principles of the oracles of God; and you have come to need milk and not solid food. [13]For everyone who partakes only of milk is unskilled in the word of righteousness, for he is a babe. [14]But solid food belongs to those who are of full age, that is, those who by reason of use have their senses exercised to discern both good and evil.

The Peril of Not Progressing

6 Therefore, leaving the discussion of the elementary principles of Christ, let us go on to perfection, not laying again the foundation of repentance from dead works and of faith toward God, [2]of the doctrine of baptisms, of laying on of hands,

5:5 [a]Psalm 2:7 5:6 [a]Psalm 110:4

5:5–10 Jesus Christ had unique qualifications to serve as High Priest.

- He was appointed in a different way than others—by God speaking through Scripture (see Ps. 110:4). The Son of God is High Priest after the order of Melchizedek, not that of Aaron (see Heb. 7:1–10, note).
- Christ prevailed in prayer to God (Heb. 5:7), in Gethsemane.
- Christ was an obedient Son, even in His suffering.
- His suffering "perfected" Him (v. 9). This does not suggest that Jesus was imperfect and that out of His imperfection He became perfect. His perfection was experienced from having actually suffered. He always had the perfection of being ready to suffer. He added to that the perfection of having actually suffered (v. 9).

5:9 Jesus became the author of eternal salvation through the perfection of suffering. "Eternal salvation" occurs only here in the NT, although it also appears in Isaiah 45:17. Christian salvation is eternal because it is based on the sacrifice of Christ Himself, accomplished once-for-all, never to be repeated, and forever valid. "To all who obey Him" does not mean that believers earn their salvation by their obedience. Rather, they responded in obedience to trust Christ for salvation. The outworking of their Christian faith is in their being obedient in daily life. Once again, the author encouraged his readers to persevere in their commitment to Christ.

5:10 See Hebrews 7:1–10, note.

6:1 Repentance (Gk. metanoias) refers to a spiritual and moral change of attitude toward God that results in a change of resurrection of the dead, and of eternal judgment. [3]And this we will[a] do if God permits.

[4]For it is impossible for those who were once enlightened, and have tasted the heavenly gift, and have become partakers of the Holy Spirit, [5]and have tasted the good word of God and the powers of the age to come, [6]if they fall away,[a] to renew them again to repentance, since they crucify again for themselves the Son of God, and put Him to an open shame.

[7]For the earth which drinks in the rain that often comes upon it, and bears herbs useful for those by whom it is cultivated, receives blessing from God; [8]but if it bears thorns and briers, it is rejected and near to being cursed, whose end is to be burned.

A Better Estimate

[9]But, beloved, we are confident of better things concerning you, yes, things that accompany salvation, though we speak in this manner. [10]For God is not unjust to forget your work and labor of[a] love which you have shown toward His name, in that you have ministered to the saints, and do minister. [11]And we desire that each one of you show the same diligence to the full assurance of hope until the end, [12]that you do not become sluggish, but imitate those who through faith and patience inherit the promises.

God's Infallible Purpose in Christ

[13]For when God made a promise to Abraham, because He could swear by no one greater, He swore by Himself, [14]saying, "Surely blessing I will bless you, and multiplying I will multiply you."[a] [15]And so, after he had patiently endured, he obtained the promise. [16]For men indeed swear by the greater, and an oath for confirmation is for them an end of all dispute. [17]Thus God, determining to show more abundantly to the heirs of promise the immutability of His counsel, confirmed it by an oath, [18]that by two immutable things, in which it is impossible for God to lie, we might[a] have strong consolation, who have fled for refuge to lay hold of the hope set before us.

[19]This hope we have as an anchor of the soul, both sure and steadfast, and which enters the Presence behind the veil, [20]where the forerunner has entered for us, even Jesus, having become High Priest forever according to the order of Melchizedek.

The King of Righteousness

7 For this Melchizedek, king of Salem, priest of the Most High God, who met Abraham returning from the slaughter of the kings and blessed him, [2]to whom also Abraham gave a tenth part of all, first being translated "king of righteousness," and then also king of Salem, meaning "king of peace," [3]without father, without mother, without genealogy, having neither beginning of days nor end of life, but made like the Son of God, remains a priest continually.

[4]Now consider how great this man was, to whom even the patriarch Abraham gave a tenth of the spoils. [5]And indeed those who are of the sons of direction away from sin and toward Him (see Luke 24:47, note). "Repentance from dead works" may allude to the Jewish idea of attaining justification by works. Such efforts would be dead because they are ineffective—they cannot provide salvation.

6:3 [a]M-Text reads let us do. 6:6 [a]Or and have fallen away 6:10 [a]NU-Text omits labor of. 6:14 [a]Genesis 22:17 6:18 [a]M-Text omits might.

6:4–6 Can a genuine Christian lose salvation? Other NT passages indicate that true believers possess eternal security (see John 6:39, 40; 10:27–29; 1 John 2:1). The four verbal actions—"enlightened, tasted the heavenly gift, become partakers of the Holy Spirit, tasted the good word of God"—do seem to express authentic Christian conversion experience (Heb. 6:4, 5). Some interpret this passage as providing the strongest argument against reinstatement if it were possible to lose salvation. If the hypothetical case clearly describes a genuine believer, the verses would then assure believers of salvation. Other verses confirm the writer's belief that salvation cannot be lost (see v. 19; Heb. 10:14).

6:6 Interpretations include the following:

1) A true Christian can revert to a lost condition.

2) The author poses a hypothetical rather than a realistic possibility: If a Christian could lose his salvation, then it would be impossible for him to be resaved. But salvation cannot be lost; a genuine believer cannot go back and must press on.

3) The threatened judgment refers to loss of reward not loss of salvation (see 1 Cor. 3:12–15).

4) The writer was addressing individuals seeking salvation rather than genuine Christians.

5) Professing Christians must outwardly demonstrate that their commitment is real by perseverance against opposition and temptation.

From God's perspective, it is not really possible to be saved and then lost, but it may appear possible from a human perspective. Perseverance is the test of the reality of faith.

7:1–10 The first mention of Melchizedek records his meeting with Abraham, at which time Melchizedek blessed Abraham and Abraham paid tithes to Melchizedek. Superiors bless inferiors; inferiors pay tithes to superiors. Melchizedek's superiority to Abraham, the father of the Hebrew people, also makes him superior to the latter's descendants, including Levi, the father of the priestly tribe (Gen. 14:18–20). There are also allusions to him elsewhere (Ps. 110:4; Heb. 5:6–11; 7:1–28). The author of Hebrews offers the most extensive discussion of Melchizedek and his priesthood. The author affirmed that true righteousness comes through the priesthood of Melchizedek (Heb., lit. "king of righteousness"). He was also identified as "king of Salem" (Heb., "peace"), probably an ancient name for Jerusalem (Ps. 76:2; see Heb. 7:2). The name also implies that peace with God comes through a priesthood like that of Melchizedek.

7:3 Without father or mother is a phrase used in Greek literature to describe orphans or illegitimate children or people

Remember that nothing is small in the eyes of God. Do all that you do with love.
St. Therese of Lisieux

of Levi, who receive the priesthood, have a commandment to receive tithes from the people according to the law, that is, from their brethren, though they have come from the loins of Abraham; 6but he whose genealogy is not derived from them received tithes from Abraham and blessed him who had the promises. 7Now beyond all contradiction the lesser is blessed by the better. 8Here mortal men receive tithes, but there he receives them, of whom it is witnessed that he lives. 9Even Levi, who receives tithes, paid tithes through Abraham, so to speak, 10for he was still in the loins of his father when Melchizedek met him.

Need for a New Priesthood

11Therefore, if perfection were through the Levitical priesthood (for under it the people received the law), what further need was there that another priest should rise according to the order of Melchizedek, and not be called according to the order of Aaron? 12For the priesthood being changed, of necessity there is also a change of the law. 13For He of whom these things are spoken belongs to another tribe, from which no man has officiated at the altar.

14For it is evident that our Lord arose from Judah, of which tribe Moses spoke nothing concerning priesthood.[a] 15And it is yet far more evident if, in the likeness of Melchizedek, there arises another priest 16who has come, not according to the law of a fleshly commandment, but according to the power of an endless life. 17For He testifies:[a]

"You are a priest forever
According to the order of Melchizedek."[b]

18For on the one hand there is an annulling of the former commandment because of its weakness and unprofitableness, 19for the law made nothing perfect; on the other hand, there is the bringing in of a better hope, through which we draw near to God.

Greatness of the New Priest

20And inasmuch as He was not made priest without an oath 21(for they have become priests without an oath, but He with an oath by Him who said to Him:

"The LORD has sworn
And will not relent,
'You are a priest forever[a]
According to the order of Melchizedek' "),[b]

22by so much more Jesus has become a surety of a better covenant.

23Also there were many priests, because they were prevented by death from continuing. 24But He, because He continues forever, has an unchangeable priesthood. 25Therefore He is also able to save to the uttermost those who come to God through Him, since He always lives to make intercession for them.

26For such a High Priest was fitting for us, who is holy, harmless, undefiled, separate from sinners, and has become higher than the heavens; 27who does not need daily, as those high priests, to offer up sacrifices, first for His own sins and then for the people's, for this He did once for all when He offered up Himself. 28For the law appoints as high priests men who have weakness, but the word of the oath, which came after the law, appoints the Son who has been perfected forever.

7:14 [a]NU-Text reads priests. 7:17 [a]NU-Text reads it is testified. [b]Psalm 110:4 7:21 [a]NU-Text ends the quotation here. [b]Psalm 110:4

whose parentage was not noteworthy. In connection with the phrase "without genealogy" and the explanation "neither beginning of days nor end of life," however, the description becomes unique and extraordinary. The description of Melchizedek seems to fit Jesus better than anyone else. In conclusion, there are two possible interpretations for this extraordinary figure: He is a person in history whom Abraham recognized as having superior spiritual authority, or he represents a theophany or Christophany (a visible appearance of God in bodily form).

7:26 The writer summarized the qualities that make Jesus the ideal High Priest foreshadowed in Melchizedek:

- He meets the demands required by His own sacrificial work.
- Jesus perfectly fulfills all that God is and all that He requires. He is righteous, possessing a character that can never be charged with error or impurity.
- "Harmless" means innocent or blameless in the sense of being without guile.
- "Undefiled" means unstained or uncontaminated. This quality contrasts with the ritual cleanliness that constantly preoccupied the Levitical high priesthood. Jesus possesses complete moral purity.
- "Separate from sinners" recognizes that Jesus' sinlessness sets Him apart from others. No one can compare with Him who is now exalted "higher than the heavens" to share the throne of God, making Him the perfect intercessor (see vv. 1–10, 3, notes).

INTUITION — WISE SENSITIVITIES

Intuition is the ability to sense something that is not readily evident—to "know" something without deducing that knowledge through reasoning. In the Bible, this ability is called discernment:

- of spirits—including discerning the purposes and truth of God and the operation of beings in the spiritual realm (1 Cor. 12:10; 1 John 4:1);
- of the human will (Heb. 4:12).

Jesus was intuitive. We are told repeatedly that in His dealings with unrighteous men, He knew "their thoughts," even though Jesus personally had no guile and no experience with sin (Matt. 12:25; John 6:6, 64). Abigail showed discerning intuition in her evaluation of the danger to her household from David and his men and in her wise intervention to protect her husband and his property (1 Sam. 25:2–35).

Intuition frequently operates at the level of "motive"—recognizing the "plans" of a person's heart (Prov. 16:9). It is closely aligned with dreams, visions, and the interpretation of natural signs (Matt. 16:2–4). Discernment is regarded as a spiritual gift and, as such, is subject to verification by the Word of God through multiple witnesses (1 Cor. 12:10).

The New Priestly Service

8 Now this is the main point of the things we are saying: We have such a High Priest, who is seated at the right hand of the throne of the Majesty in the heavens, 2a Minister of the sanctuary and of the true tabernacle which the Lord erected, and not man.

3For every high priest is appointed to offer both gifts and sacrifices. Therefore it is necessary that this One also have something to offer. 4For if He were on earth, He would not be a priest, since there are priests who offer the gifts according to the law; 5who serve the copy and shadow of the heavenly things, as Moses was divinely instructed when he was about to make the tabernacle. For He said, "See that you make all things according to the pattern shown you on the mountain."[a] 6But now He has obtained a more excellent ministry, inasmuch as He is also Mediator of a better covenant, which was established on better promises.

A New Covenant

7For if that first covenant had been faultless, then no place would have been sought for a second. 8Because finding fault with them, He says:

"Behold, the days are coming, says the LORD, when I will make a new covenant with the house of Israel and with the house of Judah— 9not according to the covenant that I made with their fathers in the day when I took them by the hand to lead them out of the land of Egypt; because they did not continue in My covenant, and I disregarded them, says the LORD. 10For this is the covenant that I will make with the house of Israel after those days, says the LORD: I will put My laws in their mind and write them on their hearts; and I will be their God, and they shall be My people. 11None of them shall teach his neighbor, and none his brother, saying, 'Know the LORD,' for all shall know Me, from the least of them to the greatest of them. 12For I will be merciful to their unrighteousness, and their sins and their lawless deeds[a] I will remember no more."[b]

13In that He says, "A new covenant," He has made the first obsolete. Now what is becoming obsolete and growing old is ready to vanish away.

The Earthly Sanctuary

9 Then indeed, even the first covenant had ordinances of divine service and the earthly sanctu-

8:5 [a]Exodus 25:40 8:12 [a]NU-Text omits and their lawless deeds. [b]Jeremiah 31:31–34

8:1–5 The author contrasted the true tabernacle in heaven (v. 2) with the mere "copy and shadow" on earth (v. 5), which God commanded Moses to construct (Ex. 25—27). The sacrifices which took place in the Mosaic tabernacle and later temples represented only pictures or symbols of the sacrifice of Christ. Only Christ's sacrifice has eternal significance. Christ continues to serve as "Minister" in the true tabernacle through intercession for believers (Heb. 8:2).

8:6–13 The idea of a better covenant is now expanded (see Heb. 7:22). Christ Himself is the "Mediator" (Heb. 8:6), a legal term for one who arbitrates between two parties. Christ mediates between God and mankind. He established the "new covenant" (v. 8). This introduction of the "new" suggests that the "old" must be replaced. Its establishment on "better promises" (v. 6) makes the New Covenant better than the old. The New Covenant provides forgiveness of sins (v. 12). It involves an inward and personal relationship with God (v. 10). Consequently, there is no longer any place for the old covenant, which was faulty, "obsolete," "growing old," and "ready to vanish away" (vv. 7, 13).

9:1–10 The superiority of the New Covenant is developed by pointing to the significance of the way of worship in the old

ary. 2For a tabernacle was prepared: the first part, in which was the lampstand, the table, and the showbread, which is called the sanctuary; 3and behind the second veil, the part of the tabernacle which is called the Holiest of All, 4which had the golden censer and the ark of the covenant overlaid on all sides with gold, in which were the golden pot that had the manna, Aaron's rod that budded, and the tablets of the covenant; 5and above it were the cherubim of glory overshadowing the mercy seat. Of these things we cannot now speak in detail.

Limitations of the Earthly Service

6Now when these things had been thus prepared, the priests always went into the first part of the tabernacle, performing the services. 7But into the second part the high priest went alone once a year, not without blood, which he offered for himself and for the people's sins committed in ignorance; 8the Holy Spirit indicating this, that the way into the Holiest of All was not yet made manifest while the first tabernacle was still standing. 9It was symbolic for the present time in which both gifts and sacrifices are offered which cannot make him who performed the service perfect in regard to the conscience— 10*concerned* only with foods and drinks, various washings, and fleshly ordinances imposed until the time of reformation.

The Heavenly Sanctuary

11But Christ came as High Priest of the good things to come,[a] with the greater and more perfect tabernacle not made with hands, that is, not of this creation. 12Not with the blood of goats and calves, but with His own blood He entered the Most Holy Place once for all, having obtained eternal redemption. 13For if the blood of bulls and goats and the ashes of a heifer, sprinkling the unclean, sanctifies for the purifying of the flesh, 14how much more shall the blood of Christ, who through the eternal Spirit offered Himself without spot to God, cleanse your conscience from dead works to serve the living God? 15And for this reason He is the Mediator of the new covenant, by means of death, for the redemption of the transgressions under the first covenant, that those who are called may receive the promise of the eternal inheritance.

The Mediator's Death Necessary

16For where there is a testament, there must also of necessity be the death of the testator. 17For a testament is in force after men are dead, since it has no power at all while the testator lives. 18Therefore not even the first covenant was dedicated without blood. 19For when Moses had spoken every precept to all the people according to the law, he took the blood of calves and goats, with water, scarlet wool, and hyssop, and sprinkled both the book itself and all the people, 20saying, "This is the blood of the covenant which God has commanded you."[a] 21Then likewise he sprinkled with blood both the tabernacle and all the vessels of the ministry. 22And according to the law almost all things are purified with blood, and without shedding of blood there is no remission.

Greatness of Christ's Sacrifice

23Therefore it was necessary that the copies of the things in the heavens should be purified with these, but the heavenly things themselves with better sacrifices than these. 24For Christ has not entered the holy places made with hands, which are copies of the true, but into heaven itself, now to appear in the presence of God for us; 25not that He should offer Himself often, as the high priest enters the Most Holy Place every year with blood of another— 26He then would have had to suffer

9:11 [a]NU-Text reads that have come. 9:20 [a]Exodus 24:8

one. The tabernacle is described (see vv. 2–5; Ex. 25–27); the sacrifices made in it are noted (Heb. 9:6–20, see Lev. 16). The focus is not on the temple but on the long-vanished tabernacle. Only Jews in or near Jerusalem had access to the temple, but all Jews knew about the tabernacle from Scripture. The way the tabernacle was set up and used reflected the ineffectiveness of the old covenant. The old way centered on external matters like foods, drinks, and various ceremonial washings. These had a place until the "time of reformation," that is, the time of the New Covenant that Christ inaugurated (Heb. 9:10). This covenant replaced all the old outward regulations. The Holy Spirit used the pattern of the tabernacle to teach important truths (v. 8; see chart, The Plan of the Tabernacle).

9:11–14 Christ, as High Priest of the good things to come, has entered "the greater and more perfect tabernacle" that is in heaven. In the presence of God, the Most Holy Place, He offered His own blood (v. 11). Jesus accomplished by this act:

- "eternal redemption" (v. 12);
- the cleansing of the "conscience" of those saved "from dead works" or useless rituals (v. 14).

In contrast, the Levitical sacrifices could only cleanse "the flesh" (v. 13).

9:15–24 The death of Christ was necessary:

- It put the New Covenant into effect (vv. 16, 17);
- It made possible "redemption of the transgressions" (v. 15), "eternal inheritance" (v. 15), and the forgiveness of sins (v. 22);
- It purified the "heavenly things" (vv. 23, 24).

9:26–28 Clearly Christ accomplished all that to which the Levitical priesthood and OT sacrificial system had pointed (vv. 24–26). Believers are now living in the end times (v. 26). The return of Christ is presented as imminent (v. 28). Salvation in this context refers to its consummation and perfection at the return of Christ. "Apart from sin" indicates that sin needs no further atonement. Christ dealt with sin at His first coming.

often since the foundation of the world; but now, once at the end of the ages, He has appeared to put away sin by the sacrifice of Himself. 27And as it is appointed for men to die once, but after this the judgment, 28so Christ was offered once to bear the sins of many. To those who eagerly wait for Him He will appear a second time, apart from sin, for salvation.

Animal Sacrifices Insufficient

10 For the law, having a shadow of the good things to come, and not the very image of the things, can never with these same sacrifices, which they offer continually year by year, make those who approach perfect. 2For then would they not have ceased to be offered? For the worshipers, once purified, would have had no more consciousness of sins. 3But in those sacrifices there is a reminder of sins every year. 4For it is not possible that the blood of bulls and goats could take away sins.

Christ's Death Fulfills God's Will

5Therefore, when He came into the world, He said:

"Sacrifice and offering You did not desire,
But a body You have prepared for Me.
6*In burnt offerings and sacrifices for sin*
You had no pleasure.
7*Then I said, 'Behold, I have come—*
In the volume of the book it is written of Me—
To do Your will, O God.' "[a]

8Previously saying, "Sacrifice and offering, burnt offerings, and offerings for sin You did not desire, nor had pleasure in them" (which are offered according to the law), 9then He said, "Behold, I have come to do Your will, O God."[a] He takes away the first that He may establish the second. 10By that will we have been sanctified through the offering of the body of Jesus Christ once for all.

Christ's Death Perfects the Sanctified

11And every priest stands ministering daily and offering repeatedly the same sacrifices, which can never take away sins. 12But this Man, after He had offered one sacrifice for sins forever, sat down at the right hand of God, 13from that time waiting till His enemies are made His footstool. 14For by one offering He has perfected forever those who are being sanctified.

15But the Holy Spirit also witnesses to us; for after He had said before,

16*"This is the covenant that I will make with them after those days, says the* LORD*: I will put My laws into their hearts, and in their minds I will write them,"*[a] 17*then He adds, "Their sins and their lawless deeds I will remember no more."*[a] 18Now where there is remission of these, there is no longer an offering for sin.

Hold Fast Your Confession

19Therefore, brethren, having boldness to enter the Holiest by the blood of Jesus, 20by a new and living way which He consecrated for us, through the veil, that is, His flesh, 21and having a High Priest over the house of God, 22let us draw near with a true heart in full assurance of faith, having our hearts sprinkled from an evil conscience and our bodies washed with pure water. 23Let us hold fast the confession of our hope without wavering, for He who promised is faithful. 24And let us consider one another in order to stir up love and good works, 25not forsaking the assembling of ourselves together, as is the manner of some, but exhorting one another, and so much the more as you see the Day approaching.

10:7 [a]Psalm 40:6–8 10:9 [a]NU-Text and M-Text omit O God. 10:16 [a]Jeremiah 31:33 10:17 [a]Jeremiah 31:34

10:1–18 The failure of the Law (vv. 1–5), Christ's final sacrifice, and the forgiveness of sins (vv. 5–18) are summarized and emphasized. The Law, as "a shadow," anticipates "the good things to come" in Christ (v. 1). Its sacrifices were unable to provide forgiveness, the meaning of "perfect" (v. 1). Even after making such sacrifices, the worshiper still had a painful consciousness of sin (v. 2). The author interpreted Psalm 40:6–8 christologically (Heb.10:5–7). He saw the words of the psalm as being spoken by Christ to God at the time of the Incarnation. God had no desire for any further sacrifices. Jesus, therefore, committed Himself to obey God in His human body and to offer that body as a once-for-all sacrifice that actually sanctifies (v. 10). His active obedience abolished the need for Levitical sacrifices.

10:19–25 The beginning of the ethical or practical division of Hebrews is marked by verse 19. The contemplation of what Christ has done (Heb. 1:1—10:18) should stir His people to action:

- Believers are to draw near to God with a true heart (Heb. 10:22). They can do this because Christ's work has opened the way to God for all believers (vv. 19–21).
- Believers are to "hold fast the confession of our hope" in Christ (v. 23).
- Believers should consider how to "stir up" or stimulate others to "love and good works" (v. 24). This includes meeting together for worship and exhorting one another to be faithful (v. 25).

Persecution had caused some readers to neglect Christian fellowship; others were being drawn toward the Jewish synagogue for the same reason.

10:20 This verse refers to the tearing of the curtain between the holy place and the Most Holy Place in the Jerusalem temple the moment Jesus died, symbolizing the opening of access to God. An analogy exists between the tearing of Christ's "flesh" and the tearing of the "veil" of the temple.

10:22 The washing of our bodies with pure water refers to baptism. Believer's baptism is not an outward rite cleansing

Joy is a net of love by which you can catch souls. . . . We can do no great things–only small things with great love.

The Just Live by Faith

26For if we sin willfully after we have received the knowledge of the truth, there no longer remains a sacrifice for sins, 27but a certain fearful expectation of judgment, and fiery indignation which will devour the adversaries. 28Anyone who has rejected Moses' law dies without mercy on the testimony of two or three witnesses. 29Of how much worse punishment, do you suppose, will he be thought worthy who has trampled the Son of God underfoot, counted the blood of the covenant by which he was sanctified a common thing, and insulted the Spirit of grace? 30For we know Him who said, "Vengeance is Mine, I will repay,"[a] says the Lord.[b] And again, "The LORD will judge His people."[c] 31It is a fearful thing to fall into the hands of the living God.

32But recall the former days in which, after you were illuminated, you endured a great struggle with sufferings: 33partly while you were made a spectacle both by reproaches and tribulations, and partly while you became companions of those who were so treated; 34for you had compassion on me[a] in my chains, and joyfully accepted the plundering of your goods, knowing that you have a better and an enduring possession for yourselves in heaven.[b] 35Therefore do not cast away your confidence, which has great reward. 36For you have need of endurance, so that after you have done the will of God, you may receive the promise:

37*"For yet a little while,*
And He[a] who is coming will come and will not tarry.
38*Now the*[a] just shall live by faith;
But if anyone draws back,
My soul has no pleasure in him."[b]

39But we are not of those who draw back to perdition, but of those who believe to the saving of the soul.

By Faith We Understand

11 Now faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen. 2For by it the elders obtained a good testimony.

3By faith we understand that the worlds were framed by the word of God, so that the things which are seen were not made of things which are visible.

10:30 [a]Deuteronomy 32:35 [b]NU-Text omits says the Lord. [c]Deuteronomy 32:36 10:34 [a]NU-Text reads the prisoners instead of me in my chains. [b]NU-Text omits in heaven. 10:37 [a]Or that which 10:38 [a]NU-Text reads My just one. [b]Habakkuk 2:3, 4

the body from ritual defilement. Baptism represents the outward sign of an inward cleansing from sin. The sprinkling of the "hearts" signifies the effect of the blood of Christ on the inmost being.

10:26–31 Do these verses describe a genuine Christian or one who only appears to be professing Christ (see Heb. 6:4–6, note)? "If we sin willfully" places the emphasis on responsible sin, transgression into which people knowingly enter (Heb. 10:26). Apostasy was evidently in mind. If an individual rejects the "sacrifice" of Christ, there is no other who can provide forgiveness for sins (v. 26). The result can only be "judgment" (vv. 27, 30), "punishment" (v. 29), and death (v. 28).

10:29 The sin of apostasy is further defined with three indictments:

1) Trampling "the Son of God underfoot," implying not only rejecting Christ but also despising Him;
2) Profaning Christ's blood, which ratified the New Covenant;
3) Insulting "the Spirit," who applies the "grace" of God, insolent self-assertion that disregards the respect due the Holy Spirit Himself.

10:32–34 The recipients of this book have already endured the sufferings of persecution. The writer implied they would face more such adversity. These verses provide insight into the nature of most persecutions prior to the executions of Nero in A.D. 64–65. They involved mob action, public ridicule, and plundering of property, all of which the authorities ignored.

11:1–40 In this chapter on the champions of faith, the subjective aspect of the term "faith" (Gk. pistis) is sometimes emphasized; other times the objective aspect of "faithfulness" is the emphasis. Only the context determines which concept is stressed. The majority of the more than 24 uses of the term in this chapter, however, focus on the idea of faithfulness—active obedience rather than trust. The letter's recipients already believed in God and had accepted Christ. The author did not need to lead his readers to conversion. He desired instead to encourage faithfulness in the Christian life. He intended this passage to inspire its readers to follow the example of the faithful OT heroes and heroines.

11:1 A partial definition of faith or faithfulness (Gk. pistis) is provided (v. 1). This term is defined by two words: "substance" (Gk. hupostasis, lit. "that which stands under") and "evidence" (Gk. elenchos, lit. "proof"). Faith then is the foundation for the Christian life and the means by which all unseen things are tested. "Faith" is the nominal form of the verb "to believe" (Gk. pisteuein). Faith, therefore, means trust or confidence in what God has promised, resulting in a life of faithfulness and perseverance. Faith is the only essential response to the grace of God (v. 6). Justification is the result of that faith.

HEROINES ROLE MODELS FOR WOMEN

Nearly all human behavior is the result of imitating others. A woman's role models or "heroines" are a good indication of the character traits that she desires in her own life and is likely to emulate. Fortunately, in Scripture Christian women have examples of many women who exhibited great courage, faithfulness, and achievement—women we might take as personal role models and women we might lift up to our daughters.

Above all, we are to choose for ourselves and our daughters role models who are righteous—those who are in right standing with God and who are seeking to live pure, godly lives. We are created in the image of God (Gen. 1:26, 27), and we are expected to reflect the image of Christ (Rom. 8:29). While the Bible records some examples of unrighteous lives (Heb. 4:11; 2 Pet. 2:6), it has many more examples of those who lived righteous lives of faith (Phil. 3:17; 2 Thess. 3:9). We must make certain always that our role models—and those our children seek to follow—are women and men who give a godly example in word, conduct, love, spirit, faith, and purity (1 Tim. 4:12).

Hebrews 11 records the lives of a number of women and men of faith and gives instruction for modeling godly behavior. These women and men were not always famous or highly exalted by the masses of people in their day (Heb. 11:35–38), but all had a "good testimony" and played a vital role in God's unfolding plan. As a whole, they displayed a good testimony, a righteous witness, useful gifts, godly fear, absolute obedience, unfailing hope, and patient endurance.

Faith at the Dawn of History

4By faith Abel offered to God a more excellent sacrifice than Cain, through which he obtained witness that he was righteous, God testifying of his gifts; and through it he being dead still speaks.
5By faith Enoch was taken away so that he did not see death, "and was not found, because God had taken him";[a] for before he was taken he had this testimony, that he pleased God. 6But without faith it is impossible to please Him, for he who comes to God must believe that He is, and that He is a rewarder of those who diligently seek Him.
7By faith Noah, being divinely warned of things not yet seen, moved with godly fear, prepared an ark for the saving of his household, by which he condemned the world and became heir of the righteousness which is according to faith.

Faithful Abraham

8By faith Abraham obeyed when he was called to go out to the place which he would receive as an inheritance. And he went out, not knowing where he was going. 9By faith he dwelt in the land of promise as in a foreign country, dwelling in tents with Isaac and Jacob, the heirs with him of the same promise; 10for he waited for the city which has foundations, whose builder and maker is God.
11By faith Sarah herself also received strength to conceive seed, and she bore a child[a] when she was past the age, because she judged Him faithful who had promised. 12Therefore from one man, and him as good as dead, were born as many as the stars of the sky in multitude— innumerable as the sand which is by the seashore.

The Heavenly Hope

13These all died in faith, not having received the promises, but having seen them afar off were assured of them,[a] embraced them and confessed that they were strangers and pilgrims on the earth. 14For those who say such things declare plainly that they seek a homeland. 15And truly if they had called to mind that country from which they had come out, they would have had opportunity to return. 16But now they desire a better, that is, a heavenly country. Therefore God is not ashamed to be called their God, for He has prepared a city for them.

The Faith of the Patriarchs

17By faith Abraham, when he was tested, offered up Isaac, and he who had received the promises offered up his only begotten son, 18of whom it

11:5 [a]Genesis 5:24 11:11 [a]NU-Text omits she bore a child. 11:13 [a]NU-Text and M-Text omit were assured of them.

11:11 Although Sarah laughed when first hearing that she was to have a child, her disbelief evidently turned to faith long before the birth of her son, Isaac (Gen. 18:12). God gave the outstanding patriarch, Abraham, a woman of faith as his wife. She, too, had to believe that the God who made promises would honor His Word, despite how impossible it must have seemed to her as a woman long past childbearing years. Sarah was willing to have her attitude changed. Her faith grew as a result (see Gen. 11, Sarah).

BITTERNESS CHOOSING RESENTMENT

Suffering does not automatically make a person stronger or better. The way you respond to suffering determines whether that hurt makes you better or bitter.

God has provided His grace to soothe in times of hurting. Refusing that grace creates an inner environment where bitterness can grow. Every woman at some point in her life experiences being wronged by another. She then chooses either to forgive or to dwell upon the wrongdoing until she becomes bitter. To be bitter is a choice to be faced by every woman. When a root of bitterness springs up, it not only destroys her inner peace but also can cause physical illness. Bitterness defiles all those it touches, starting with the one who is bitter, but extending to other relationships (see Heb. 12:15). Furthermore, the one embittered becomes enslaved to the person toward whom that bitterness is directed.

Ruth is a prime example of one who refused bitterness. She lost her familiar homeland, her language, the religion in which she had been reared, the freedoms of citizenship, and the familial network in which she had lived all her life. She made new commitments, assumed new responsibilities, and that within a land in which she was considered an alien and enemy. Yet her faith enabled her to move forward against overwhelming adversity and thus to experience the amazing providence of Yahweh, the God of Israel. Ruth paid a great price. She did indeed suffer hurt and hardship, but she was rewarded for her faithfulness by being part of the lineage of the Messiah. Naomi, on the other hand, returned to a familiar land and people and once again found herself under the protection of Yahweh. She did lose a husband and two sons, but she gained an incomparable daughter-in-law (Ruth 4:15) whose loving devotion became a model unto the generations (Ruth 1:16, 17). She went through a cycle of bitterness (Ruth 1:20, 21), but through her faith Naomi was cleansed from bitterness and restored to a right relationship with the Lord and others. She, too, experienced again joy and usefulness as she looked beyond her circumstances and said "no" to bitterness and "yes" to God's sovereign grace and plan for her life (Ruth 4:13–17).

Bitterness can have far-reaching, long-lasting, and self-destructive effects. A bitter woman must first turn to Christ (Rom. 5:8–10). Once she has accepted His forgiveness, then she is not only able but also commanded to forgive others (Matt. 6:12). One very practical way to do that is to replace bitterness with love (1 Cor. 13:4–7; Gal. 5:22), especially by showing love to the one who has wronged her.

was said, "In Isaac your seed shall be called,"[a] [19]concluding that God was able to raise him up, even from the dead, from which he also received him in a figurative sense.

[20]By faith Isaac blessed Jacob and Esau concerning things to come.

[21]By faith Jacob, when he was dying, blessed each of the sons of Joseph, and worshiped, leaning on the top of his staff.

[22]By faith Joseph, when he was dying, made mention of the departure of the children of Israel, and gave instructions concerning his bones.

The Faith of Moses

[23]By faith Moses, when he was born, was hidden three months by his parents, because they saw he was a beautiful child; and they were not afraid of the king's command.

[24]By faith Moses, when he became of age, refused to be called the son of Pharaoh's daughter, [25]choosing rather to suffer affliction with the people of God than to enjoy the passing pleasures of sin, [26]esteeming the reproach of Christ greater riches than the treasures in[a] Egypt; for he looked to the reward.

[27]By faith he forsook Egypt, not fearing the wrath of the king; for he endured as seeing Him who is invisible. [28]By faith he kept the Passover and the sprinkling of blood, lest he who destroyed the firstborn should touch them.

[29]By faith they passed through the Red Sea as by dry land, whereas the Egyptians, attempting to do so, were drowned.

By Faith They Overcame

[30]By faith the walls of Jericho fell down after they were encircled for seven days. [31]By faith the harlot Rahab did not perish with those who did not believe, when she had received the spies with peace.

11:18 [a]Genesis 21:12 11:26 [a]NU-Text and M-Text read of.

11:31 The last specifically named champion of faith is Rahab—a woman, a Gentile, and an outcast because of her chosen livelihood. A prostitute initially seems an unlikely example of faith; yet both Jews and Christians highly regarded Rahab

32And what more shall I say? For the time would fail me to tell of Gideon and Barak and Samson and Jephthah, also of David and Samuel and the prophets: 33who through faith subdued kingdoms, worked righteousness, obtained promises, stopped the mouths of lions, 34quenched the violence of fire, escaped the edge of the sword, out of weakness were made strong, became valiant in battle, turned to flight the armies of the aliens. 35Women received their dead raised to life again.

Others were tortured, not accepting deliverance, that they might obtain a better resurrection. 36Still others had trial of mockings and scourgings, yes, and of chains and imprisonment. 37They were stoned, they were sawn in two, were tempted,[a] were slain with the sword. They wandered about in sheepskins and goatskins, being destitute, afflicted, tormented— 38of whom the world was not worthy. They wandered in deserts and mountains, in dens and caves of the earth.

39And all these, having obtained a good testimony through faith, did not receive the promise, 40God having provided something better for us, that they should not be made perfect apart from us.

The Race of Faith

12 Therefore we also, since we are surrounded by so great a cloud of witnesses, let us lay aside every weight, and the sin which so easily ensnares us, and let us run with endurance the race that is set before us, 2looking unto Jesus, the author and finisher of our faith, who for the joy that was set before Him endured the cross, despising the shame, and has sat down at the right hand of the throne of God.

The Discipline of God

3For consider Him who endured such hostility from sinners against Himself, lest you become weary and discouraged in your souls. 4You have not yet resisted to bloodshed, striving against sin. 5And you have forgotten the exhortation which speaks to you as to sons:

"My son, do not despise the chastening of the LORD,
Nor be discouraged when you are rebuked by Him;
6*For whom the* LORD loves He chastens,
And scourges every son whom He receives."[a]

7If[a] you endure chastening, God deals with you as with sons; for what son is there whom a father does not chasten? 8But if you are without chastening, of which all have become partakers, then you are illegitimate and not sons. 9Furthermore, we have had human fathers who corrected us, and we

11:37 [a]NU-Text omits were tempted. 12:6 [a]Proverbs 3:11, 12
12:7 [a]NU-Text and M-Text read It is for discipline that you endure; God . . . .

(see Josh. 2, Rahab). She is mentioned favorably as an example to follow because her faith was not without works (James 2:25). She is also listed in the genealogy of the Lord as the wife of Salmon (Matt. 1:5). Although she came from a pagan people, she acted decisively out of her deep convictions about Yahweh, about whom she must have heard from the Hebrew spies. She risked her life for God's people. Rahab exercised her faith.

11:32–38 Six more champions of faith are named—four judges (Gideon, Barak, Samson, and Jephthah), one king (David), and the last of the judges and first of the prophets (Samuel). Then a long list of what they and others accomplished through their faith is compiled. Some of these descriptions are general, making them difficult to associate with a specific person. Others can be linked to definite individuals. For instance, Daniel "stopped the mouths of lions" (v. 33; Dan. 6:22). Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego "quenched the violence of fire" (Heb. 11:34; Dan. 3). The victory of Gideon and his small force of 300 men (Judg. 7:7) illustrates the principle that the army of men "out of weakness were made strong" (Heb. 11:34). The widow of Zarephath and the Shunammite woman "received their dead raised to life again" (Heb. 11:35; 1 Kin. 17, The Widow of Zarephath; 2 Kin. 4, The Shunammite Woman). The priest Zechariah was "stoned" (Heb. 11:37; 2 Chr. 24:20–22).

11:37, 38 Many of God's people lived simply, wearing apparel of sheepskins or goatskins—Elijah (2 Kin. 1:8) and John the Baptist (Mark 1:6). This summary concerns people whose circumstances of poverty and persecution singled them out as undesirable from the viewpoint of the world (Heb. 11:32–38). The writer of Hebrews, however, exclaimed that "the world was not worthy" of them (v. 38). They were, after all, the people of God and recipients of His blessings.

12:1 The writer compared the Christian life to a long-distance race. The runners—believers—find themselves surrounded by a great "cloud of witnesses," or the heroes of faithfulness. These witnesses are not heavenly spectators who observe the conduct of Christians, but those who have given testimony by their examples (see Heb. 11). Christians can run the race of life well only by laying aside any impediment that hinders one from putting forward his best effort. "Sin," especially that of "unbelief," also forms a crippling hindrance to good running. A distance race requires endurance, persistence, and sustained effort—not a short sprint.

12:2, 3 Jesus Christ, the supreme example of endurance, is the finisher or perfecter in the sense that apart from Him we can do nothing (John 15:5). He was even crucified in the most shameful way. Still He remained faithful because of "the joy that was set before Him" (Heb. 12:2). As a result of His faithful obedience, Jesus Christ is now seated at the "right hand of the throne of God" (v. 2; see Ps. 110:1). Believers who follow His example, will also have a reward.

12:4–13 Difficulties come to everybody, but they are easier to bear when one accepts them as meaningful. The author pointed out that Christ's suffering accomplished salvation for all who believe (v, 2). The Savior, who suffered, will not lead His followers into meaningless trials. Suffering forms part of God's "chastening" or discipline of His children (v. 5). Such correction shows God's love and is for the good of the child, producing the character of "righteousness" (v. 11).

MARRIAGE PHYSICAL INTIMACY

Man and woman are radically different physically, emotionally, and spiritually; yet they are designed by God to complement each other. "Become one flesh" combines all aspects of life. It is presented first in the Old Testament (Gen. 2:24) and repeated four times in the New Testament, with the idea not only of procreation but of mutuality in meeting needs and as an illustration of the relationship between Christ and His Bride, the church (Matt. 19:5; Mark 10:8; 1 Cor. 6:16; Eph. 5:31).

Only in monogamy does the idea of becoming one flesh have any significance. From this broader perspective of union, intercourse includes the exchange of thoughts and feelings. The act of marriage is the highest form of the communication of love for one another and the ultimate expression of intimacy. It provides a language that can express love without words. Indeed, there are no words to express all that is felt. Faith in God is the bond of the marriage covenant; sexual intimacy is the Holy Spirit's seal.

The quality of the celebration of sexual intimacy depends on the quality of the total marriage relationship. There can be very little fulfillment in the realm of physical intimacy if there is little closeness in the overall union. Since God designed male and female to fit together and instilled within each a desire for the other, no problems are exclusively sexual in nature. Difficulties in physical intimacy are nearly always a symptom of problems in other areas of the relationship.

The attitude of the wife about herself, her husband, and about lovemaking will determine her response in physical intimacy. If expectations are unmet or if negative emotions of jealousy, rejection, or bitterness exist, physical intimacy will be hampered. Sexual union is not to be used as a weapon or a reward but is nonetheless a rightful need and expectation of each marriage partner (1 Cor. 7:3–5).

See also 1 Thess. 4:1–8; notes on Husbands (Job 31; 2 Cor. 6); Marriage (Gen. 2; 2 Sam. 6; Prov. 5; Hos. 2; Amos 3; 2 Cor. 13); Sexuality (Song 4); Sexual Purity (1 Cor. 7); Wives (Prov. 31)

paid them respect. Shall we not much more readily be in subjection to the Father of spirits and live? 10For they indeed for a few days chastened us as seemed best to them, but He for our profit, that we may be partakers of His holiness. 11Now no chastening seems to be joyful for the present, but painful; nevertheless, afterward it yields the peaceable fruit of righteousness to those who have been trained by it.

Renew Your Spiritual Vitality

12Therefore strengthen the hands which hang down, and the feeble knees, 13and make straight paths for your feet, so that what is lame may not be dislocated, but rather be healed.

14Pursue peace with all people, and holiness, without which no one will see the Lord: 15looking carefully lest anyone fall short of the grace of God; lest any root of bitterness springing up cause trouble, and by this many become defiled; 16lest there be any fornicator or profane person like Esau, who for one morsel of food sold his birthright. 17For you know that afterward, when he wanted to inherit the blessing, he was rejected, for he found no place for repentance, though he sought it diligently with tears.

The Glorious Company

18For you have not come to the mountain that[a] may be touched and that burned with fire, and to blackness and darkness[b] and tempest, 19and the sound of a trumpet and the voice of words, so that those who heard it begged that the word should not be spoken to them anymore. 20(For they could

12:18 [a]NU-Text reads to that which. [b]NU-Text reads gloom.

12:15 Believers are cautioned to avoid any root of bitterness (see Deut. 29:18; Bitterness). Bitterness results from intense animosity and resentment. This bitter "root" bears bitter fruit, such as ill-will, unresolved anger, jealousy, dissension, and immorality. A plant grows slowly, but what is in the root will definitely surface in time. Bitterness may spring up in the heart of one individual, but if it is allowed to develop, it can have wide-ranging effects. The solution to bitterness and its consequences is forgiveness (see Eph. 4:31, 32).

12:15–17 Esau was not spiritually minded but rather a man concerned with material things. "Profane" suggests "godless" or "unhallowed" (v. 16). Esau exemplified an immoral, godless person who had contempt for his spiritual privileges (see Gen. 25:29–34).

12:18–24 The mountain refers to Mt. Sinai (v. 18). It symbolizes the Law, the sacrificial system, and the Aaronic priesthood—everything associated with Judaism. By contrast, believers "have come to Mount Zion and to the city of the living God, the heavenly Jerusalem" (v. 22). The "church" is that city or homeland the patriarchs sought (v. 23; Heb. 11:10, 14–16). The church is the "general assembly" of the firstborn (Heb. 12:23). The church consists of "the spirits" of righteous persons "made perfect" in Christ. Christians can come to God, "the Judge of all," without fear because of "Jesus the Mediator of the new covenant" (vv. 23, 24).

not endure what was commanded: "And if so much as a beast touches the mountain, it shall be stoned[a] or shot with an arrow."[b] [21]And so terrifying was the sight that Moses said, "I am exceedingly afraid and trembling."[a])

[22]But you have come to Mount Zion and to the city of the living God, the heavenly Jerusalem, to an innumerable company of angels, [23]to the general assembly and church of the firstborn who are registered in heaven, to God the Judge of all, to the spirits of just men made perfect, [24]to Jesus the Mediator of the new covenant, and to the blood of sprinkling that speaks better things than that of Abel.

Hear the Heavenly Voice

[25]See that you do not refuse Him who speaks. For if they did not escape who refused Him who spoke on earth, much more shall we not escape if we turn away from Him who speaks from heaven, [26]whose voice then shook the earth; but now He has promised, saying, "Yet once more I shake[a] not only the earth, but also heaven."[b] [27]Now this, "Yet once more," indicates the removal of those things that are being shaken, as of things that are made, that the things which cannot be shaken may remain.

[28]Therefore, since we are receiving a kingdom which cannot be shaken, let us have grace, by which we may[a] serve God acceptably with reverence and godly fear. [29]For our God is a consuming fire.

Concluding Moral Directions

13 Let brotherly love continue. [2]Do not forget to entertain strangers, for by so doing some have unwittingly entertained angels. [3]Remember the prisoners as if chained with them—those who are mistreated—since you yourselves are in the body also.

[4]Marriage is honorable among all, and the bed undefiled; but fornicators and adulterers God will judge.

[5]Let your conduct be without covetousness; be content with such things as you have. For He Himself has said, "I will never leave you nor forsake you."[a] [6]So we may boldly say:

"The LORD is my helper;
I will not fear.
What can man do to me?"[a]

Concluding Religious Directions

[7]Remember those who rule over you, who have spoken the word of God to you, whose faith follow, considering the outcome of their conduct. [8]Jesus Christ is the same yesterday, today, and forever. [9]Do not be carried about[a] with various and strange doctrines. For it is good that the heart be established by grace, not with foods which have not profited those who have been occupied with them.

[10]We have an altar from which those who serve the tabernacle have no right to eat. [11]For the bodies of those animals, whose blood is brought into the sanctuary by the high priest for sin, are burned outside the camp. [12]Therefore Jesus also, that He might sanctify the people with His own blood, suffered outside the gate. [13]Therefore let us go forth to Him, outside the camp, bearing His reproach. [14]For here we have no continuing city, but we seek the one to come. [15]Therefore by Him let us continually offer the sacrifice of praise to God, that is, the fruit of our lips, giving thanks to His name. [16]But do not forget to do good and to share, for with such sacrifices God is well pleased.

[17]Obey those who rule over you, and be submissive, for they watch out for your souls, as those

13:1–19 This chapter exhorts believers to social (vv. 1–3), personal (vv. 4–6), and religious (vv. 7–19) duties. "Brotherly love" is the most important (v. 1). Hospitality (v. 2) alludes to such passages as Genesis 18:1–8; 19:1–22; and Judges 6:11–24. There were many itinerant missionaries in the 1st century. Filth and immorality characterized the public inns. Without hospitality in Christian homes, the spread of the faith would have been more difficult. The marriage bed is a euphemism for sexual intercourse in marriage, which is affirmed as important and exclusive (see Gen. 2:24, note). An "adulterer" (Gk. moichous, Heb. 13:4) is one who violates the sanctity of marriage. A "fornicator" (Gk. pornous) covers a wider spectrum of immorality. The foods refer probably to Jewish sacrificial meals (v. 9).

13:7 Believers should treat their spiritual leaders with respect. These leaders spoke "the word of God" through preaching or teaching. The author exhorted his readers to follow their examples of faith. The reference may be to leaders who had died. However, believers are urged to have a responsible attitude toward those currently in places of authority as well. Believers should "obey" and "be submissive" to these spiritual leaders because they carry a weighty responsibility (v. 17). "Watch out" literally means "keep oneself awake" (v. 17). "Must give account" reminds those who exercise authority that they must also accept responsibility for their actions (v. 17). Christians' readiness to obey and submit will encourage leaders to do their tasks "with joy and not with grief" (v. 17). Performing any leadership ministry joyfully excludes a dictatorial approach.

13:8 Earthly leaders will come and go, but Jesus always remains the same (vv. 7, 17). The followers of Jesus Christ can rely on Him. They can base their conduct on the certainty of His unchanging nature. The first readers of Hebrews and those who follow should never lose heart. They can trust His help, His grace, His power, and His guidance forever.

who must give account. Let them do so with joy and not with grief, for that would be unprofitable for you.

Prayer Requested

18 Pray for us; for we are confident that we have a good conscience, in all things desiring to live honorably. 19 But I especially urge you to do this, that I may be restored to you the sooner.

Benediction, Final Exhortation, Farewell

20 Now may the God of peace who brought up our Lord Jesus from the dead, that great Shepherd of the sheep, through the blood of the everlasting covenant, 21 make you complete in every good work to do His will, working in you[a] what is well pleasing in His sight, through Jesus Christ, to whom be glory forever and ever. Amen.

22 And I appeal to you, brethren, bear with the word of exhortation, for I have written to you in few words. 23 Know that our brother Timothy has been set free, with whom I shall see you if he comes shortly.

24 Greet all those who rule over you, and all the saints. Those from Italy greet you.

25 Grace be with you all. Amen.

13:21 [a] NU-Text and M-Text read us.

13:20 Jesus is described as the great Shepherd of the sheep (Is. 63:11; John 10; 1 Pet. 2:25). The metaphor stresses the care of the Lord for His own, for sheep are helpless without their shepherd. The shepherd also has absolute sovereignty over His flock. "Great" signifies that Christ is not to be ranked with other shepherds. He is unique.

James

TITLE

The author of this book was most likely James, one of the sons of Joseph and Mary and thus the half-brother of Jesus. Like other family members, James did not accept the claims of Christ until after the Resurrection (see 1 Cor. 15:7). However, he eventually became an elder of the church in Jerusalem and was respected as a leader throughout the network of early churches (see Acts 15:6–21 concerning his role in the Jerusalem Council).

DATE

According to the Jewish historian Josephus, James was martyred in A.D. 62. Thus, the book had to be written prior to that date. Within the letter, James referred to a simple church order of teachers and elders who met in assemblies or synagogues (James 2:2). Such conditions were prominent among the Jerusalem believers between A.D. 45 and 60. The contents of the letter also indicate that the epistle may have been written as early as A.D. 48, shortly before the meeting of the Jerusalem Council described in Acts 15. While the exact date is uncertain, that James was written sometime between A.D. 48 and 62 is a reasonable conclusion. Possibly it was the first New Testament book to be written.

BACKGROUND

SETTING: The Book of James was probably written from Jerusalem, where James served as pastor.

PURPOSE: James wrote this letter to offer practical, pastoral advice to those Jewish believers who had been dispersed by persecution.

AUDIENCE: James' reference to the "twelve tribes which are scattered abroad" may have been a figurative description of the body of Christians dispersed among the unbelieving nations (James 1:1). But the reference to a distinctively Jewish body of believers seems to indicate that James was writing to Jewish Christians. Historical events forced the Jews to flee their homeland of Judea and settle in areas where the gospel had not yet been carried. James wanted these believers—some of whom were former members of the congregation in Jerusalem—to stay on course with their mission. He offered them instruction as to how they could continue to mature as Christians and urged them to take responsibility for their own spiritual progress.

THEMES

James was aware of the struggle his readers would face as they attempted to uphold their Christian faith under persecution. He offered words of encouragement and urged them to focus on the victory that would ultimately belong to them. Furthermore, he provided practical advice to unify the believers whose fellowship was threatened by a lack of love, unchristian speech, and bitter attitudes.

To attain the spiritual maturity described in this letter, James urged these believers to develop their faith by seeking wisdom from God (James 3:17, 18). He reminded them that they had a choice: They could either give in to sin and suffer its tragic consequences, or they could stand firm and experience the maturing of their faith by accepting the trials that would inevitably come. James maintained that the latter would produce patience and would ultimately perfect and complete them as Christians (James 1:2–4). The prevalent theme of the Book of James is how to develop an enduring faith.

Greeting to the Twelve Tribes

1 James, a bondservant of God and of the Lord Jesus Christ,

To the twelve tribes which are scattered abroad:

Greetings.

Profiting from Trials

[2]My brethren, count it all joy when you fall into various trials, [3]knowing that the testing of your faith produces patience. [4]But let patience have its perfect work, that you may be perfect and complete, lacking nothing. [5]If any of you lacks wisdom, let him ask of God, who gives to all liberally and without reproach, and it will be given to him. [6]But let him ask in faith, with no doubting, for he who doubts is like a wave of the sea driven and tossed by the wind. [7]For let not that man suppose that he will receive anything from the Lord; [8]he is a double-minded man, unstable in all his ways.

The Perspective of Rich and Poor

[9]Let the lowly brother glory in his exaltation, [10]but the rich in his humiliation, because as a flower of the field he will pass away. [11]For no sooner has the sun risen with a burning heat than it withers the grass; its flower falls, and its beautiful appearance perishes. So the rich man also will fade away in his pursuits.

Loving God Under Trials

[12]Blessed is the man who endures temptation; for when he has been approved, he will receive the crown of life which the Lord has promised to those who love Him. [13]Let no one say when he is tempted, "I am tempted by God"; for God cannot be tempted by evil, nor does He Himself tempt anyone. [14]But each one is tempted when he is

1:1 While James could have identified himself as Jesus' brother or even as a leader of the prestigious Jerusalem church, he proudly called himself a "bondservant of God and of the Lord Jesus Christ." Bondservants were slaves who had been released from their obligation but who willingly remained in a condition of servitude out of respect for their masters. Likewise, James gladly offered his life in bondservice to God—the Master who gave him freedom. Thus, James expressed his willingness to obey, laid aside his own rights to follow God's will, and pledged loyalty to the Lord regardless of personal loss, humiliation, or danger.

1:4 The potential a Christian woman has for maturity relates to the realization of her God-given destiny. She is striving to reach a goal that only God can enable her to achieve.

WISDOM FEAR OF THE LORD

Wisdom is the process of discernment in which choices are weighed and alternatives judged. For the godly person, choices are always to be made in keeping with God's purposes and desires.

In the Old Testament, wisdom was used in a variety of ways. Its usage ranged from describing artistic skill (Ex. 36:1–3) and financial savvy (Prov. 8:18–21) to the ability to discern truth. Wisdom is regarded as being very practical in application. It flows from a reverential awe of God and a deep respect for God's Word (Prov. 1:7; 2:6). The wise person is repeatedly described as one who acknowledges, relies upon, and trusts God's superior understanding. Wise decisions are those that keep a person from all that is wicked and perverse (Prov. 2:7–9, 12).

The wisdom literature of the Bible—Job, Proverbs, Ecclesiastes, and selected Psalms—contains passages that offer very practical advice and give observations about the results of wise and foolish choices. Throughout the Book of Proverbs, wisdom is portrayed as a woman (for example, Prov. 1; 8; 9). Wisdom begs and pleads for women and men to choose the way that leads to health and life, the way of fearing the Lord that brings purpose and meaning to life and the development of a living relationship with God. The wisdom of Proverbs is applied in a special way to the many relationships that women have: wife-husband; mother-child; daughter-parent; friend-friend; employer-employee; and neighbor-neighbor.

Wisdom for the believer is a knowledge of God's will that allows her to live a life that is pleasing to the Lord (Col. 1: 9, 10). Wisdom is evident when a person leads a life that is marked by purity, peace, gentleness, a yielding spirit, mercy, and "good fruits, without partiality and without hypocrisy" (James 3:17).

The Good News throughout Scripture is that the Lord gives wisdom liberally and without reproach to all who ask Him (James 1:5, 6). In other words, if we ask the Lord in faith to show us what to do, what to say, and how to live, we can count on Him to reveal to us His answer.

drawn away by his own desires and enticed.
15Then, when desire has conceived, it gives birth to sin; and sin, when it is full-grown, brings forth death.
16Do not be deceived, my beloved brethren.
17Every good gift and every perfect gift is from above, and comes down from the Father of lights, with whom there is no variation or shadow of turning. 18Of His own will He brought us forth by the word of truth, that we might be a kind of firstfruits of His creatures.

Qualities Needed in Trials

19So then,[a] my beloved brethren, let every man be swift to hear, slow to speak, slow to wrath; 20for the wrath of man does not produce the righteousness of God.

Doers—Not Hearers Only

21Therefore lay aside all filthiness and overflow of wickedness, and receive with meekness the implanted word, which is able to save your souls.

22But be doers of the word, and not hearers only, deceiving yourselves. 23For if anyone is a hearer of the word and not a doer, he is like a man observing his natural face in a mirror; 24for he observes himself, goes away, and immediately forgets what kind of man he was. 25But he who looks into the perfect law of liberty and continues in it, and is not a forgetful hearer but a doer of the work, this one will be blessed in what he does.
26If anyone among you[a] thinks he is religious, and does not bridle his tongue but deceives his own heart, this one's religion is useless. 27Pure and undefiled religion before God and the Father is this: to visit orphans and widows in their trouble, and to keep oneself unspotted from the world.

Beware of Personal Favoritism

2 My brethren, do not hold the faith of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Lord of glory, with partiality.

1:19 [a]NU-Text reads Know this or This you know. 1:26 [a]NU-Text omits among you.

1:18 In Israel, the first sheaf of harvested grain was always offered to God (Ex. 34:22; Lev. 23:9–14). These "firstfruits" were a foretaste of what was yet to be gathered. James explained that he and other Jewish Christians were a "kind of firstfruits." They were the first yield of a much greater harvest that was yet to be gathered as a result of the spread of the gospel.

1:25 Christians follow a new law—the law of liberty. Unlike the Mosaic Law that required the observance of external rules and regulations, the law of liberty guides the Christian internally through the Spirit of God. It motivates believers to submit to the truth found in God's Word and guides them into right living. Through the law of liberty, they are empowered to overcome their own selfish desires in order to practice the discipline that will produce maturity in their lives.

SIMPLE WAYS TO KNOW YOUR BIBLE BETTER (From 52 Ways to Know Your Bible Better)

The Bible is like no other book you have ever read. It is actually a series of books written over several centuries by many authors writing primarily in two ancient languages. It is written in a number of literary styles, with books of varying length and emphasis on different subjects. Still, that isn't what makes the Bible different.

What sets the Bible apart is its one continuous theme—a thread that runs from cover to cover: God is, God creates, and God desires a relationship with His highest creation, the human race. All of the books of the Bible point toward that central theme. Many lesser themes and principles run parallel. There is unity in the thought of the Bible, even though the voices and stories are diverse. The symbols run true from cover to cover. The New Testament fulfills the Old in countless ways. The words of the prophets come to pass. The Bible's teachings fit together layer upon layer upon layer—each passage showing us another facet of the same brilliant gemstone.

Get Acquainted with the Whole of the Bible. Thumb through the Bible from cover to cover. See how the Bible is put together. The Bible has sixty-six books, thirty-nine in the Old Testament (Hebrew Scriptures) and twenty-seven in the New Testament (Christian Scriptures). Within each book, the content has been divided into numbered chapters and then into numbered passages called verses. When the Bible was written originally, the chapter and verse designations were not part of the manuscript. They were added later to make it easier for us to locate and refer to specific passages.

New Insights into Familiar Passages. How can you find living meaning in a passage that you may have read many times? Here are three ways:

- Take a look at each word in a verse or short passage. Ask, "What does this mean and why is THIS word chosen for precisely THIS verse?"
- Read the passage aloud very slowly. Listen to yourself read each word.
- Read aloud an entire passage "on your feet." Walk and read—your mind will be less likely to wander to other things. Read aloud the teachings of Jesus in the "Sermon on the Mount" (Matt. 5–7), the sermons of Peter (Acts 2:14–36; Acts 4:8–20; and Acts 10:23–43), the sermon of Stephen (Acts 7), the discourses of Paul before Felix and Agrippa (Acts 24–25), the message of King David (2 Sam. 22), and the sermon of King Solomon (2 Chr. 6). You may want to read aloud the letters of Paul, Peter, James and John. (The books of Romans; 1 and 2 Corinthians; Galatians; Ephesians; Philippians; Colossians; 1 and 2 Peter; 1, 2, and 3 John; James; and Hebrews. These books were originally letters read aloud in the churches). Also read aloud the Psalms.

Mark Up Your Bible. Underline passages that hold particular meaning for you. Circle words that prick your interest. Write in the margins. Put dates by certain passages that seem to give you specific direction in your life.

2 For if there should come into your assembly a man with gold rings, in fine apparel, and there should also come in a poor man in filthy clothes, 3 and you pay attention to the one wearing the fine clothes and say to him, "You sit here in a good place," and say to the poor man, "You stand there," or, "Sit here at my footstool," 4 have you not shown partiality among yourselves, and become judges with evil thoughts?

5 Listen, my beloved brethren: Has God not chosen the poor of this world to be rich in faith and heirs of the kingdom which He promised to those who love Him? 6 But you have dishonored the poor man. Do not the rich oppress you and drag you into the courts? 7 Do they not blaspheme that noble name by which you are called?

8 If you really fulfill the royal law according to the Scripture, "You shall love your neighbor as yourself,"[a] you do well; 9 but if you show partiality, you commit sin, and are convicted by the law as transgressors. 10 For whoever shall keep the whole law, and yet stumble in one point, he is guilty of all.
11 For He who said, "Do not commit adultery,"[a] also upper and lower classes. James called on Christians to rid their fellowship of such external social distinctions. James reminded his readers that the kingdom of heaven belongs to those who are poor in spirit, and not necessarily those rich in possessions (Matt. 5:3). He referred to the divine judgment awaiting those who showed favoritism and, in this context, misused their wealth (James 2:9–11; 5:1–5). James pointed out that God is pleased to use the poor of the world to spread and reveal His message, for although the poor are lacking in material resources, they are often rich in faith. Material possessions can hinder faith, for the rich are tempted to place their security in their wealth rather than in God.

said, "Do not murder."[b] Now if you do not commit adultery, but you do murder, you have become a transgressor of the law. 12So speak and so do as those who will be judged by the law of liberty. 13For judgment is without mercy to the one who has shown no mercy. Mercy triumphs over judgment.

Faith Without Works Is Dead

14What does it profit, my brethren, if someone says he has faith but does not have works? Can faith save him? 15If a brother or sister is naked and destitute of daily food, 16and one of you says to them, "Depart in peace, be warmed and filled," but you do not give them the things which are needed for the body, what does it profit? 17Thus also faith by itself, if it does not have works, is dead.

18But someone will say, "You have faith, and I have works." Show me your faith without your[a] works, and I will show you my faith by my[b] works. 19You believe that there is one God. You do well. Even the demons believe—and tremble! 20But do you want to know, O foolish man, that faith without works is dead?[a] 21Was not Abraham our father justified by works when he offered Isaac his son on the altar? 22Do you see that faith was working together with his works, and by works faith was made perfect? 23And the Scripture was fulfilled which says, "Abraham believed God, and it was accounted to him for righteousness."[a] And he was called the friend of God. 24You see then that a man is justified by works, and not by faith only.

25Likewise, was not Rahab the harlot also justified by works when she received the messengers and sent them out another way?

26For as the body without the spirit is dead, so faith without works is dead also.

The Untamable Tongue

3 My brethren, let not many of you become teachers, knowing that we shall receive a stricter judgment. 2For we all stumble in many things. If anyone does not stumble in word, he is a perfect man, able also to bridle the whole body. 3Indeed,[a] we put bits in horses' mouths that they may obey us, and we turn their whole body. 4Look also at ships: although they are so large and are driven by fierce winds, they are turned by a very small rudder wherever the pilot desires. 5Even so the tongue is a little member and boasts great things.

See how great a forest a little fire kindles! 6And the tongue is a fire, a world of iniquity. The tongue is so set among our members that it defiles the whole body, and sets on fire the course of nature; and it is set on fire by hell. 7For every kind of beast and bird, of reptile and creature of the sea, is tamed and has been tamed by mankind. 8But no man can tame the tongue. It is an unruly evil, full of deadly poison. 9With it we bless our God and Father, and with it we curse men, who have been made in the similitude of God. 10Out of the same mouth proceed blessing and cursing. My brethren, these things ought not to be so. 11Does a spring send forth fresh water and bitter from the same opening? 12Can a fig tree, my brethren, bear olives, or a grapevine bear figs? Thus no spring yields both salt water and fresh.[a]

2:11 [b]Exodus 20:13; Deuteronomy 5:17 2:18 [a]NU-Text omits your. [b]NU-Text omits my. 2:20 [a]NU-Text reads useless. 2:23 [a]Genesis 15:6 3:3 [a]NU-Text reads Now if. 3:12 [a]NU-Text reads Neither can a salty spring produce fresh water.

Sermon on the Mount and extended in its proper interpretation to include even one's enemies (Matt. 5:43–45). James referred to this all-encompassing principle by which Christians are to live as the "royal law."

2:13 God is the ultimate judge. He alone is in a position to offer "mercy" (Gk. eleos). God's gift of mercy is extended when an individual places her faith in Christ. It cancels and therefore "triumphs over" the judgment sinners deserve. God expects the same response from believers toward others.

2:22 A salvation based on faith does not exclude good works, which are the natural byproduct of faith. Therefore, James is not in conflict with Paul, who insisted that a person was justified by faith alone (Eph. 2:9). Paul was dealing with the danger of legalism and criticized the notion that salvation could be earned through works. James was concerned with believers who had an immature faith devoid of good works. A genuine faith stirs the heart to glorify God through practical actions (see Eph. 2:10).

3:11, 12 Speech is a barometer of spirituality, for it reveals what is in the heart (Matt. 12:36, 37). Though small, the tongue is capable of causing great damage. The reference is not merely to profanity but also to slander. A woman who is deceitful and inconsistent toward God in her heart will also be deceitful and inconsistent in her speech. James pointed out that just as it is unnatural for a spring to send fresh and bitter water from the same opening, so it is unnatural for Christians to praise God and yet have a propensity to speak evil against others (James 3:10). The tongue can be an instrument of evil or a conduit of blessing, depending on whether or not it is harnessed by the Spirit of God.

SELF-CENTEREDNESS LOOKING OUT FOR NUMBER ONE

Sin cannot be understood or described without reference to self-centeredness. "The flesh" (Gal. 5:24; 1 John 2:16) is self-focused. Carnality is self-expression in behalf of your own interests.

The self is the unique gift of God to each person, the basis of individuality, the bearer of the divine image. But turned in upon itself, self becomes the source of temptation, the evidence of sin, and the obstacle to holiness (Rom. 1:28–31; 7:14, 15; Eph. 4:17–24; James 1:14, 15).

"Every evil thing" can be traced back to the desire to gratify self, whether envy, boasting, lying, wisdom that is "earthly, sensual, demonic" (James 3:14–16), or the many other descriptions of ungodliness in human behavior. This mind-set ultimately leads to destruction (Phil. 3:19).

Self-centeredness is a product of the will: We choose whether the center of our affections will be self or God (Matt. 6:24). When we trust God with our innermost being, then our wills also belong to Him, and His will becomes our motivation. Jesus describes self-denial as that state in which God has center stage (Matt. 16:24).

Heavenly Versus Demonic Wisdom

13 Who is wise and understanding among you?
Let him show by good conduct that his works are done in the meekness of wisdom.
14 But if you have bitter envy and self-seeking in your hearts, do not boast and lie against the truth.
15 This wisdom does not descend from above, but is earthly, sensual, demonic.
16 For where envy and self-seeking exist, confusion and every evil thing are there.
17 But the wisdom that is from above is first pure, then peaceable, gentle, willing to yield,
full of mercy and good fruits, without partiality and without hypocrisy.
18 Now the fruit of righteousness is sown in peace by those who make peace.

Pride Promotes Strife

4 Where do wars and fights come from among you?
Do they not come from your desires for pleasure that war in your members?
2 You lust and do not have.
You murder and covet and cannot obtain.
You fight and war.
Yet[a] you do not have because you do not ask.
3 You ask and do not receive, because you ask amiss, that you may spend it on your pleasures.
4 Adulterers and[a] adulteresses!
Do you not know that friendship with the world is enmity with God?
Whoever therefore wants to be a friend of the world makes himself an enemy of God.
5 Or do you think that the Scripture says in vain,
"The Spirit who dwells in us yearns jealously"?
6 But He gives more grace.
Therefore He says:

"God resists the proud,
But gives grace to the humble."[a]

Humility Cures Worldliness

7 Therefore submit to God.
Resist the devil and he will flee from you.
8 Draw near to God and He will draw near to you.
Cleanse your hands, you sinners;
and purify your hearts, you double-minded.
9 Lament and mourn and weep!
Let your laughter be turned to mourning and your joy to gloom.
10 Humble yourselves in the sight of the Lord, and He will lift you up.

Do Not Judge a Brother

11 Do not speak evil of one another, brethren.
He who speaks evil of a brother and judges his brother, speaks evil of the law and judges the law.
But if you judge the law, you are not a doer of the law but a judge.
12 There is one Lawgiver,[a] who is

3:13–18 James pointed out that earthly wisdom differs from heavenly wisdom in a number of ways. First, the source is different. While the "wisdom" (Gk. sophia) from above originates in the heart and mind of God, earthly wisdom originates with the devil. Godly wisdom communicates concern for others through a gentle, yielding, merciful spirit; earthly wisdom is selfish and reveals a bitter jealousy toward detractors. Godly wisdom is productive; earthly wisdom confuses and tears down through evil intent. By analyzing the source, intent, and result of wisdom one can discern whether or not it is worthy of acceptance (see chart, The Two Types of Wisdom).

4:4, 5 In the OT Israel is pictured as the bride of Yahweh (Is. 54:1–6; Jer. 2:2; Hos. 2:5). This imagery would have been familiar to James' Jewish readers. James argued that through their selfish, quarrelsome behavior, his readers were seeking "friendship with the world." They were breaking their covenant with God and committing spiritual adultery. God would not tolerate a rival. He requires total, unwavering allegiance from the people with whom He has joined Himself. By calling his readers "adulterers and adulteresses," James wanted to prick their consciences, encourage their repentance, and renew their commitment to love and obey God alone.

4:11 Do not speak evil (Gk. katalalon) covers more than slander, extending to any form of speaking against someone, in-

SURRENDER SUBMITTING IN LOVE

The Bible clearly commands believers to surrender to God—to obey His Word and submit to His will. While surrender is not natural or easy, a believing woman truly experiences freedom to live only through her surrender to God. On the Cross, Jesus exemplified total surrender to the will of God. By His Resurrection from the grave and exaltation in heaven, He illustrates the blessings that inevitably follow obedient surrender (Phil. 2:5–11).

Surrender means to yield voluntarily to the authority of another. For the Christian, ultimate authority lies with God. Scripture teaches believers to surrender to God's way. The Word of God should supersede all other authorities in the believer's life.

God's Word reveals His nature, His work, and His plans. Mary, the mother of Jesus, expressed her obedience to God's Word when she accepted her role in the birth of the Savior (Luke 1:38). Total surrender to God requires both a knowledge and understanding of what the Bible teaches and a commitment to obey its directives.

Surrender to the authority of the Word of God leads the believer to the challenge of submitting her own will to God. Complete trust in God demands that a woman relinquish all rights to direct the course of her own life. By surrendering to God's will, she affirms that her heavenly Father knows best. Personal aspirations become secondary to God's divine plan. James pointed out the practical value of submission: Those who submit to God's will come under God's care (James 4:7–10).

Furthermore, all who submit become involved in some form of ministry to others (1 Cor. 16:15, 16). Believers are cautioned that surrender is not genuine until it is total. Scripture exhorts believers to surrender all to the Lord (Luke 9:23).

God calls the believer to surrender self and submit to His Word and His will. He promises to lead, strengthen, and bless those who answer His call to obedience.

able to save and to destroy. Who[b] are you to judge another?[c]

Do Not Boast About Tomorrow

13 Come now, you who say, "Today or tomorrow we will[a] go to such and such a city, spend a year there, buy and sell, and make a profit"; 14 whereas you do not know what will happen tomorrow. For what is your life? It is even a vapor that appears for a little time and then vanishes away. 15 Instead you ought to say, "If the Lord wills, we shall live and do this or that." 16 But now you boast in your arrogance. All such boasting is evil.
17 Therefore, to him who knows to do good and does not do it, to him it is sin.

Rich Oppressors Will Be Judged

5 Come now, you rich, weep and howl for your miseries that are coming upon you! 2 Your riches are corrupted, and your garments are moth-eaten.
3 Your gold and silver are corroded, and their corrosion will be a witness against you and will eat your flesh like fire. You have heaped up treasure in the last days. 4 Indeed the wages of the laborers who mowed your fields, which you kept back by fraud, cry out; and the cries of the reapers have reached the ears of the Lord of Sabaoth.[a] 5 You have lived on cluding truth, if it is delivered in a harsh and unkind way. Speech is evil when it is motivated by the desire to harm others or to exalt oneself. Such speech questions legitimate authority (Num. 21:5; 2 Cor. 10:7–13), slanders others (Ps. 101:5), or brings incorrect accusations (1 Pet. 2:12; 3:16). The form of James' rebuke suggests that his readers were speaking against each other in one or more of these ways. They were breaking the commandment to love their neighbors as themselves. When love is present, abusive speech is not (Eph. 4:15).

4:17 James reminded his readers that sins of omission are just as real and serious as sins of commission. In His parable, Jesus condemned one servant for failing to use the money with which he was entrusted (Luke 19:11–27) and another who knew his master's will and failed to do it (Luke 12:47). Failure to do what is known to be right is sin. The greater the knowledge, the greater is our accountability.

5:4 James accused the rich of defrauding their workers of pay. Employers were warned against oppressing a hired servant (Deut. 24:14, 15). In an image reminiscent of Cain's blood crying out to God, James pictured wages themselves "crying out" and making God aware of the injustice (Gen. 4:10). The term "Sabaoth" is a transliteration of a Hebrew word meaning "army." The title "Lord of Sabaoth" thus pictures God as the powerful leader of a great army. James emphasized that God is not unaware of those who oppress the poor; he makes it clear that God is holy, powerful, and determined to judge those who oppress the poor.

HEALING PRAYING FOR SICKNESS

Physical illness and death are a result of the Fall. Throughout the Old and New Testaments individuals prayed for healing. God sometimes gave it directly (Gen. 20:17; 2 Kin. 5:1–14) and sometimes mediated it through an individual such as a prophet (Num. 12:1–15), an apostle (Acts 3:1–8; 9:32–35; 14:8–10), or an ordinary believer (Acts 8:5–8). Jesus healed as an integral part of His ministry (Matt. 8:14, 15; 9:2–7; 12:15, 16). The gospels record forty-one distinct healings as well as others that are mentioned generally. Medicinal agents were sometimes used (2 Kin. 20:1–7; Mark. 6:13; 7:33; 8:23).

Since a person's body, soul, and spirit interrelate (1 Thess. 5:23), physical imbalance, sickness, or injury can affect spiritual or emotional areas of a person's life, and emotional and spiritual issues can have physical ramifications. In praying for healing of body, be aware of this interrelation and pray as God directs in any of these areas (James 5:14–16).

Although not everyone is healed physically (2 Cor. 12:7–10; Gal. 4:13), believers nevertheless have the privilege of praying for the sick. James directs the elders of the church to pray for the sick (James 5:14–18), and gifts of healing are made available to believers for this purpose (1 Cor. 12:9, 28–30).

your hearts as[a] in a day of slaughter. 6You have condemned, you have murdered the just; he does not resist you.

Be Patient and Persevering

7Therefore be patient, brethren, until the coming of the Lord. See how the farmer waits for the precious fruit of the earth, waiting patiently for it until it receives the early and latter rain. 8You also be patient. Establish your hearts, for the coming of the Lord is at hand.

9Do not grumble against one another, brethren, lest you be condemned.[a] Behold, the Judge is standing at the door! 10My brethren, take the prophets, who spoke in the name of the Lord, as an example of suffering and patience. 11Indeed we count them blessed who endure. You have heard of the perseverance of Job and seen the end intended by the Lord—that the Lord is very compassionate and merciful.

12But above all, my brethren, do not swear, either by heaven or by earth or with any other oath. But let your "Yes" be "Yes," and your "No," "No," lest you fall into judgment.[a]

Meeting Specific Needs

13Is anyone among you suffering? Let him pray. Is anyone cheerful? Let him sing psalms. 14Is anyone among you sick? Let him call for the elders of the church, and let them pray over him, anointing him with oil in the name of the Lord. 15And the prayer of faith will save the sick, and the Lord will raise him up. And if he has committed sins, he will be forgiven. 16Confess your trespasses[a] to one another, and pray for one another, that you may be healed. The effective, fervent prayer of a righteous man avails much. 17Elijah was a man with a nature like ours, and he prayed earnestly that it would not rain; and it did not rain on the land for three years and six months. 18And he prayed again, and the heaven gave rain, and the earth produced its fruit.

Bring Back the Erring One

19Brethren, if anyone among you wanders from the truth, and someone turns him back, 20let him know that he who turns a sinner from the error of his way will save a soul[a] from death and cover a multitude of sins.

5:5 [a]NU-Text omits as. 5:9 [a]NU-Text and M-Text read judged. 5:12 [a]M-Text reads hypocrisy. 5:16 [a]NU-Text reads Therefore confess your sins. 5:20 [a]NU-Text reads his soul.

5:6 Accumulating wealth at the expense of the poor often had legal sanction. Rich employers regularly perverted the legal system through bribery or other forms of injustice (Amos 2:6; 5:12; Mic. 2:2; 6:9–16). The poor did not have the resources or the influence to avenge mistreatment. Therefore, they simply did not "resist." When James said that the rich had "murdered the just," perhaps he was referring to the practical outcome of the failure of the rich to pay the wages of their workers: To take away someone's living is to murder him; to deprive an employee of wages is to shed blood. Believers, on the other hand, must recognize God as the ultimate avenger of justice, and they must put their trust in the Lord (Matt. 5:39; Rom. 12:19).

5:7–11 James encouraged those who were oppressed to be "patient" (Gk. makrothumon, vv. 7, 8, 10; hupomon, v. 11). The former indicates a longsuffering, loving attitude toward others, while the latter generally denotes inner strength and determination. James encouraged Christians to "establish" their hearts, meaning to strengthen the heart with the hope of Christ's coming. Focusing on that hope guards against a vindictive spirit and produces patience under oppression. The Lord is slow to anger; yet He will come, and He will not leave the guilty unpunished (Ex. 34:6, 7).

1 Peter

TITLE

The author of this epistle clearly identifies himself as "Peter, an apostle of Jesus Christ" (1 Pet. 1:1). Although this claim has been accepted throughout church history, some scholars have questioned Peter's authorship, suggesting that the book's excellent literary style seems too advanced for a Galilean fisherman. However, Luke states that Peter's impact on the religious leaders was impressive (Acts 4:13). After his thirty years of ministry, Peter's usage of the language certainly should have improved and his presentations could well have become more polished. Some suggest that Silvanus acted as Peter's amanuensis or secretary, recording his message (1 Pet. 5:12). The early church fathers maintained that the epistle was composed by the apostle himself. There is no compelling reason to deny Petrine authorship.

DATE

In this letter, Peter referred to serious persecution as imminent (1 Pet. 1:6, 7). Therefore, many scholars feel that the book was written just prior to the persecutions of Nero, which began in A.D. 64. Evidently, persecutions had already begun in some parts of the Roman Empire and in Rome in particular, if "Babylon" is used symbolically for the Roman capital (1 Pet. 5:13, note). First Peter was probably written in A.D. 63–64.

BACKGROUND

SETTING: Trials were common to first-century Christians. The Book of Acts testifies that Christians were slandered, defamed, boycotted, mobbed, imprisoned, and even killed because of their faith. Public suspicion and antagonism escalated with time. Christians believed in a Messiah, Jesus the King, who would someday return to establish His kingdom on earth. This idea made rulers nervous. They viewed Christians as a potential menace to the security of the empire. The first official persecution was instigated by Nero, who blamed the Christians for the burning of Rome in A.D. 64. The government forthwith instituted regular proceedings against Christians so that it became a criminal offense to bear the name of Christ in many quarters of the empire. One historian records that Christians were slaughtered, with public approval, for the alleged crime of promoting hatred of the human race. Peter wrote this epistle just prior to the outbreak of the Neronian persecution. He was acutely aware of the ever increasing antagonism toward Christians and anticipated that the situation would worsen. His foresight was correct. Both Peter and the apostle Paul were subsequently tortured and killed for their faith in Jesus, according to early church tradition. Peter is said to have been crucified upside down.

PURPOSE: In view of the start of government-sanctioned persecution, the rising opposition from the surrounding pagan world, and the everyday hostility from unsaved neighbors and family, Peter wrote to give Christians counsel on how to live in difficult times (see chart, Suffering in Divine Perspective). He desired that they follow Christ's example (1 Pet. 2:21) and that the life of Christ might become evident in their godly response to opposition and trial (1 Pet. 4:16). He encouraged them to focus on the eternal (1 Pet. 1:3–9). Peter wanted Christians to be prepared to give an answer when their faith was attacked and when they faced trials as a result of trying to live out their Christian faith in the everyday world (1 Pet. 3:15).

AUDIENCE: The letter is addressed to the "pilgrims of the Dispersion" (1 Pet. 1:1). This common designation was applied to Christian Jews scattered by persecution throughout the Roman Empire. Peter applied it to converted Gentiles who had similarly been scattered (1 Pet. 2:9, 10). The letter was to be circulated through Pontus, Galatia, Cappadocia, Asia, and Bithynia—the region now known as Turkey.

THEMES

The theme of 1 Peter is summarized: "I have written to you briefly, exhorting and testifying that this is the true grace of God in which you stand" (1 Pet. 5:12). "Grace" (Gk. charis, lit. "favor") is a common theme in Peter's letter (1 Pet. 1:2, 10, 13; 3:7; 4:10; 5:5, 10, 12). Some have defined "grace" through the acrostic:

God's Riches
At Christ's Expense.

Interwoven with the theme of grace is a second theme of encouragement in suffering. God gives grace to believers, particularly in the midst of suffering and difficulty (see chart, Suffering in Divine Perspective).

Suffering as part of God's refining fire for spiritual growth (1 Pet. 4:19).	Commit your life to Him; He is faithful (1 Pet. 4:19).
Suffering from the attack of Satan (1 Pet. 5:8).	Resist Satan; be steadfast in faith (1 Pet. 5:9).

Greeting to the Elect Pilgrims

1 Peter, an apostle of Jesus Christ,

To the pilgrims of the Dispersion in Pontus, Galatia, Cappadocia, Asia, and Bithynia, [2]elect according to the foreknowledge of God the Father, in sanctification of the Spirit, for obedience and sprinkling of the blood of Jesus Christ:

Grace to you and peace be multiplied.

A Heavenly Inheritance

[3]Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who according to His abundant mercy has begotten us again to a living hope through the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead, [4]to an inheritance incorruptible and undefiled and that does not fade away, reserved in heaven for you, [5]who are kept by the power of God through faith for salvation ready to be revealed in the last time.

[6]In this you greatly rejoice, though now for a little while, if need be, you have been grieved by various trials, [7]that the genuineness of your faith, being much more precious than gold that perishes, though it is tested by fire, may be found to praise, honor, and glory at the revelation of Jesus Christ, [8]whom having not seen[a] you love. Though now you do not see Him, yet believing, you rejoice with joy inexpressible and full of glory, [9]receiving the end of your faith—the salvation of your souls.

1:8 [a]M-Text reads known.

1:2 God's election of believers is according to His "foreknowledge" (Gk. prognōsin, lit. "before knowledge"). The idea suggests "prior choice with loving involvement." Christ was "foreordained" (Gk. proeginōskō, v. 20), and Israel was also "known" (Amos 3:2). In each case, more than mere knowledge is involved. In a similar way, God chooses believers (Rom. 8:29). Reconciling the sovereignty of God and freedom of mankind is a formidable challenge. However, there are some general reasons for the importance of election, and this doctrine clearly is found in Scripture. Election establishes salvation as God's work from start to finish; salvation cannot be earned (Eph. 2:8, 9). Election provides assurance of salvation (Rom. 8:35). Election bears testimony to God's providential care for His children (Rom. 8:38, 39). Finally, election is another sign of God's hand on history (Rom. 8:20–22). God's choice is "in sanctification of the Spirit" (1 Pet. 1:2). In other words, the Holy Spirit draws and motivates Christians to believe. God elects believers so that they might be obedient. Obedience and purification through the redemptive work of Christ ("sprinkling of the blood of Jesus Christ") is His ultimate goal.

1:3, 4 The Bible describes two inheritances for the believer. All believers have God as their inheritance and as a result will go to heaven when they die (see Gal. 4:7). This inheritance is received on the grounds of faith alone. However, another inheritance is offered on the basis of works as a reward or payment for faithful service (Col. 3:24; 1 Pet. 1:4, 6, 7).

1:5 When the word salvation is used, most people assume that it refers to final deliverance from hell. Salvation also includes victorious endurance (2 Cor. 1:6; Phil. 2:12, 13), deliverance from spiritual impoverishment (James 1:21; 2:14), and personal sanctification (1 Tim. 4:16). In 1 Peter 1:5, salvation is a future event associated with the establishment of the coming messianic kingdom.

Perspective

THE LINK BETWEEN FAITH AND GOD'S WORD (Drawn from Calm My Anxious Heart)

Faith raises us above our circumstances. It enables us to be content even when life doesn't make sense. Faith is the bulwark that keeps us strong even when we're assailed by agonizing thoughts about what might happen or by what has happened. Faith is a vital component in our relationship with God and in our ability to be content. But what is faith, really?

To begin to answer that question, we must first understand the meaning of the word assurance as it relates to faith. In the early 1900s, scholars uncovered thousands of letters, receipts, and other documents from a two-thousand-year-old Greek colony. This word assurance appeared many times. Literally translated it means "title deed." A title deed is something we own. Likewise, faith is something we own; it is ours. But we must do more than possess faith intellectually—we must own it in our hearts. Faith is not something to be reasoned from afar, but something we throw ourselves into—heart, mind, and soul.

God does not demand that you and I have blind faith, but abandoned faith, a faith that trusts Him fully. Through His Word, God willingly reveals much about who He is, what His plans are, and what He requires of us. As we come to see Him and know Him, He urges, "Trust Me." Hundreds of times in the Bible God implores us to trust Him. We tend to make trust a gray area, but with God the issue is often black and white. We either trust Him or we don't. We're for Him or we're against Him.

Faith is linked to God's Word in two vital life-giving ways:

Based on God's Word, Not Feelings. First, faith is based on God's Word, not our feelings. Many women have strong feelings, but:

- God's Word is truer than anything we feel.
- God's Word is truer than anything we experience.
- God's Word is truer than any circumstance we will ever face.
- God says of His Word, Heaven and earth will pass away, but my words will never pass away (Matt. 24:35) and, The word of the Lord stands forever (1 Pet. 1:25).

You can trust God's word always to tell you Who God is and what God has promised to you.

Rooted in God's Character. Second, faith is rooted in God's character, which is revealed by God's Word. God gave us His Word to reveal to us what He desires for us. He sent us His Son Jesus, the "Word made flesh" to show us what He is like. God's Word tells us repeatedly, through countless verses and true stories that

- God is Sovereign. He controls all things. He is in control of all the uncontrollables in our lives—what we can't see, what doesn't make sense to us, and what we don't understand. What God decrees for us is for our good. That means that there is no difficulty, pain, or trial that happens to us by chance. There are no accidents, no mistakes, no miscalculations. And what He has decreed is intended for our eternal good and for His glory. His absolute sovereignty means that I can trust Him with my tiniest doubt or with my most heart-wrenching fear.
- God is Wise. The word wisdom in the Bible is the translation of a Hebrew word that means "skill." Applied to God, it means that He has the skill necessary to direct us in any and every situation. He is the Great Physician, the Healer, the skillful Creator. He knows everything about you and has the skill necessary to conceptualize the best possible plan not only for the entire world but also for your life. This being so, we can trust God, knowing that everything that happens to us was thought out by an infinitely wise Person, and all that happens will ultimately be for our good and His glory.
- God is Love. God's Word tells us that He loves us with an everlasting love (Jer. 31:3). God promises that He will go before you, that He will always be with you, that He will never, never, never leave you nor forsake you (Heb. 13:5). Nothing—not death, nor life, angels nor demons, the present nor the future—nothing in all of creation is able to separate you from the love of God that is in Christ Jesus. Faith in God is so much easier when we have the confident assurance that He loves us!

Walking by faith is difficult, but our faith pleases our Holy God (Heb. 11:6), and we do not walk the path alone. Our wise, sovereign, loving Lord walks with us . . . always.

PRIESTHOOD OF THE BELIEVER UNLIMITED ACCESS TO GOD

According to the New Testament, all believers are "priests," indicating not only a special privilege of unlimited access to God but also the opportunity for ministries in His name (1 Pet. 2:5–9). Believers are instructed to offer spiritual sacrifices and to declare the wonderful deeds of the Lord. All believers are to participate in the total mission of the church—both worship and service.

Within this broad context of ministry, some believers are called to designated ministry roles—for example, to be apostles, prophets, evangelists, pastors, and teachers (Eph. 4:11). Others are to serve in the midst of and on behalf of the entire people of God as "ambassadors for Christ" (2 Cor. 5:18–20). All believers are exhorted to meet the needs of those experiencing sickness, suffering, and trouble, as well as to build up one another in the body of Christ. The priesthood offered to believers is one not only of privilege in having immediate access to God through Jesus Christ but also of responsibility for intercession and for presenting Christ to the world through personal witness.

10 Of this salvation the prophets have inquired and searched carefully, who prophesied of the grace that would come to you, 11 searching what, or what manner of time, the Spirit of Christ who was in them was indicating when He testified beforehand the sufferings of Christ and the glories that would follow. 12 To them it was revealed that, not to themselves, but to us[a] they were ministering the things which now have been reported to you through those who have preached the gospel to you by the Holy Spirit sent from heaven— things which angels desire to look into.

Living Before God Our Father

13 Therefore gird up the loins of your mind, be sober, and rest your hope fully upon the grace that is to be brought to you at the revelation of Jesus Christ; 14 as obedient children, not conforming yourselves to the former lusts, as in your ignorance; 15 but as He who called you is holy, you also be holy in all your conduct, 16 because it is written,
"Be holy, for I am holy."[a]

17 And if you call on the Father, who without partiality judges according to each one's work, conduct yourselves throughout the time of your stay here in fear; 18 knowing that you were not redeemed with corruptible things, like silver or gold, from your aimless conduct received by tradition from your fathers, 19 but with the precious blood of Christ, as of a lamb without blemish and without spot. 20 He indeed was foreordained before the foundation of the world, but was manifest in these last times for you 21 who through Him believe in God, who raised Him from the dead and gave Him glory, so that your faith and hope are in God.

The Enduring Word

22 Since you have purified your souls in obeying the truth through the Spirit[a] in sincere love of the brethren, love one another fervently with a pure heart, 23 having been born again, not of corrupt-ible seed but incorruptible, through the word of God which lives and abides forever,[a] 24 because

"All flesh is as grass,
And all the glory of man[a] as the flower of the grass.
The grass withers,

1:13 The image reflected in the phrase "gird up the loins of your mind" is reminiscent of the ancient Near Eastern custom of pulling up long robes and tucking them into belts when running or participating in strenuous activity. This action left the legs unencumbered. The "loins" (the lower back muscles) were regarded as the center of physical strength and power. Peter challenged believers to maximize all their intellectual and moral faculties. They are to discipline their minds by binding up all loosely flowing thoughts and speculations that might distract them from the gospel and hamper their obedience (2 Pet. 3:1). Peter used the same word to encourage spiritual alertness in prayer and in resisting the attacks of Satan (1 Pet. 4:7; 5:8).

EMPLOYMENT RELATING TO AUTHORITY

Authority is necessary in order to operate a business of any kind. Therefore, people in positions of authority are part of God's plan for orderliness in the world. We are directed to submit ourselves to the people who have risen to those positions of directing work to be done. To rebel against that authority is to rebel against God's order, which, according to Paul, will bring God's judgment on us (Judg. 21:25). The authority over us may even be incompetent or inadequate in some way, but that authority is to be respected. Obviously there have been and are people in positions of authority who should never be there. But that was true when Paul wrote his letter to the Romans. The principle still holds true: we may not respect the people themselves, but we must respect their authority. Only when that authority would lead us to compromise Christian principles should we refuse to submit (Matt. 22:17–21).

Submission is yielding to the authority of another. Respecting someone means, in part, to treat with consideration. Both can be done contrary to feelings, by an act of the will, especially when empowered by the Holy Spirit. Peter teaches that the servant—the employee—should perform job-related tasks with excellence, even in the face of unfair treatment. Peter goes on to say that it is commendable to bear up under unfair treatment, for that kind of suffering finds favor with God (v. 20).

Unjust suffering is precious to God because that is how Christ suffered, and when believers endure unjust treatment with patience and tolerance, they are sharing in His suffering. No one in the flesh wants to suffer unjustly. But when they desire to follow in the steps of Christ and find favor with God, they can endure and discover in the process a closer relationship to our Savior.

When this principle is applied to difficult management relationships, God changes our thinking and our attitudes so that much of the stress and frustration of the relationship is relieved. God has told us that His yoke is easy and His burden is light. Accepting it from God's hands and letting Him guide our reactions—even to the point of suffering unjustly—is easier than the normal human reactions of anger, bitterness, and vengeance.

And its flower falls away,
25 But the word of the LORD endures forever."[a]

Now this is the word which by the gospel was preached to you.

2 Therefore, laying aside all malice, all deceit, hypocrisy, envy, and all evil speaking, 2 as newborn babes, desire the pure milk of the word, that you may grow thereby,[a] 3 if indeed you have tasted that the Lord is gracious.

The Chosen Stone and His Chosen People

4 Coming to Him as to a living stone, rejected indeed by men, but chosen by God and precious, 5 you also, as living stones, are being built up a spiritual house, a holy priesthood, to offer up spiritual sacrifices acceptable to God through Jesus Christ. 6 Therefore it is also contained in the Scripture,

"Behold, I lay in Zion
A chief cornerstone, elect, precious,
And he who believes on Him will by no means be put to shame."[a]

7 Therefore, to you who believe, He is precious; but to those who are disobedient,[a]

"The stone which the builders rejected
Has become the chief cornerstone,"[b]

8 and

"A stone of stumbling
And a rock of offense."[a]

They stumble, being disobedient to the word, to which they also were appointed.

9 But you are a chosen generation, a royal priesthood, a holy nation, His own special people, that you may proclaim the praises of Him who called you out of darkness into His marvelous

2:1–3 Christians require proper spiritual nourishment if they are to grow in spiritual maturity. This nourishment is to be sought with the same intense eagerness exhibited in very young infants who yearn for feeding (v. 2). Spiritual milk is pure when it is unmixed—not contaminated with evil such as "malice," "deceit," "hypocrisy," "envy," and "all evil speaking" (v. 1). In order for their nourishment to be "pure," believers must remove all these hindrances to growth. The verb "laying aside" commonly refers to washing off defilement or to taking off filthy clothes. Repentance is thus a prerequisite for receiving nourishment from the Word and for growing in maturity as a Christian.

DEFINITION	METHOD	EXAMPLE	REWARDS
• An attitude of the will • More than obedience • Resting, leaning, trusting, abandoning yourself to the Lord • Void of stubbornness	"As to the Lord" (Eph. 5:22) "To your own husbands" (Eph. 5:22; 1 Pet. 3:1) An act of the will (1 Pet. 3:1, 2) Extends to "everything" (Eph. 5:24) Patterned after the relationship between Christ and the church (Eph. 5:25–32) A response to love (Eph. 5:24, 25) Extends to everyone: • The church to Christ (Eph. 5:24); • All believers to God (Heb. 12:9; James 4:7), to spiritual leaders (Heb. 13:17), to governing authorities (Rom. 13:1, 5; Titus 3:1; 1 Pet. 2:13), to one another (Eph. 5:21); • Wives to husbands (Eph. 5:22, 24; Col. 3:18; Titus 2:5; 1 Pet. 3:1, 5); • Children to parents (Eph. 6:1–3); • Slaves to masters (Titus 2:9; 1 Pet. 2:18)	Jesus: He had no other purpose (Heb. 10:7). To submit was joy (Ps. 40:7, 8). He did not consider His will (John 5:30). Mary: "Let it be to me" (Luke 1:38). Esther: "I will go . . . if I perish, I perish" (Esth. 4:16).	A vibrant witness (1 Pet. 3:1) A means of glorifying God (1 Pet. 3:5, 6) A means for teaching spiritual truths (Eph. 5:25–32) A way to train children (Titus 2:3–5) The object of human love and divine protection (Eph. 5:25; 1 Pet. 3:7) A way to increase worth (1 Pet. 3:4) A means for liberating creativity (1 Pet. 3:7)

SUBMISSION AS UNTO THE LORD

Submission means to put all of yourself—understandings, knowledge, opinions, feelings, energies—at the disposal of a person in authority over you. This never means subjecting yourself to abusive tyranny, nor does it suggest mindless acquiescence to the whims of another. It is the yielding of humble and intelligent obedience—without suggestion of inferiority or worthlessness. A wife's deference to her husband is a duty owed to the Lord. A wife's submission is not as much to her husband, a mere man, as it is to God and His plan for marriage.

Relationships in life are merely the classroom for teaching submission to the will of God. The word translated "submissive" (Gk. hupotassō) means literally "to place under,"—for example, husbands (Eph. 5:22; Col. 3:18; Titus 2:5; 1 Pet. 3:1, 5), parents (Luke 2:51), masters (Titus 2:9; 1 Pet. 2:18), secular authorities (Rom. 13:1; Titus 3:1; 1 Pet. 2:13), and church officials (1 Pet. 5:5). The word is also used with respect to God (1 Cor. 15:28; Heb. 12:9; James 4:7) and to Christ (Eph. 5:24).

The Book of Esther provides a possible study in submission. Queen Vashti—self-ruled, greedy, selfish, cowardly—was unwise in disobeying Ahasuerus, who was not only her husband but also her king. She sought to cover her disobedience with the pretense of propriety and attempted to hide her pride with a show of modesty. The text gives no evidence that Ahasuerus did any more than give a ridiculous and distasteful command. Obedience only to "reasonable requests" is selfish license, not good judgment.

On the other hand, Esther was obedient, grateful, selfless, and courageous. She was a member of a minority race, an orphan child bereft of family and friends and saddled with awesome and fearful responsibility. Yet Esther rose to the occasion with an inner beauty of spirit and unshaking commitment to God's providence. She was obedient to her foster father (Esth. 2:20), cooperative with authorities over her (Esth. 2:8, 9, 15), and submissive to her husband (Esth. 2:17; 5:2–4; 8:3).

Living Before the World

[11]Beloved, I beg you as sojourners and pilgrims, abstain from fleshly lusts which war against the soul, [12]having your conduct honorable among the Gentiles, that when they speak against you as evildoers, they may, by your good works which they observe, glorify God in the day of visitation.

Submission to Government

[13]Therefore submit yourselves to every ordinance of man for the Lord's sake, whether to the king as supreme, [14]or to governors, as to those who are sent by him for the punishment of evildoers and for the praise of those who do good. [15]For this is the will of God, that by doing good you may put to silence the ignorance of foolish men— [16]as free, yet not using liberty as a cloak for vice, but as bondservants of God. [17]Honor all people. Love the brotherhood. Fear God. Honor the king.

Submission to Masters

[18]Servants, be submissive to your masters with all fear, not only to the good and gentle, but also to the harsh. [19]For this is commendable, if because of conscience toward God one endures grief, suffering wrongfully. [20]For what credit is it if, when you are beaten for your faults, you take it patiently? But when you do good and suffer, if you take it patiently, this is commendable before God.

2:13 Submission is the theme of this section (1 Pet. 2:13—3:7). The natural response is to demand rights and refuse to yield to another person; it is a supernatural response to give up rights and yield. True submission involves refusing to seek self-interest and instead assuming voluntary commitment of service to others (Phil. 2:3, 4). This volitional submission is seen in several spheres of relationships: citizens to government (1 Pet. 2:13–17); slaves to masters (vv. 18–25); and wives to husbands (1 Pet. 3:1–7).

2:18–25 The institution of slavery was deeply rooted in the economic and social structure of the ancient Near East and the Graeco-Roman world. Conditions and treatment of slaves varied, but their social status was unquestionably low and their lives often difficult. Nowhere in Scripture is slavery condoned. Peter's aim in this epistle was not to argue against slavery but to give comfort and guidance to those who were suffering in it. He reminded believers to follow the example of Jesus, who suffered greatly on their behalf. Suffering is part of the Christian calling (v. 21; 1 Pet. 3:9), for it serves the purpose of making the believer more Christlike (1 Pet. 1:7). Suffering is a useful tool for convicting others of sin (1 Pet. 3:15, 16) and attracting them to the gospel (1 Pet. 2:12).

EVANGELISM PERSONAL TESTIMONY

Nothing is any more effective in drawing someone to Jesus Christ than the sharing of personal testimony (John 4:39; 11:32). Believers should always be ready to share. A personal testimony catches the attention of those listening and holds the interest of the unbeliever (John 4:28–30).

By its very nature, a personal testimony is unique. It should describe your life before receiving Christ, how you realized your need for Christ, what steps you took to become a Christian, how Christ helps you and makes a difference in your daily life, and any unique ways Christ has dealt with you in drawing you to Himself. A personal testimony is difficult to refute because an individual is sharing truth that has come to her firsthand through her own personal experience with God (John 4:29).

A personal testimony is an opportunity for you to identify with the unbeliever and to show how Christ makes the difference in a person's life (John 4:42). Preparing a thoughtful and logical defense of the faith enables the believer to present the gospel in a persuasive manner, answering with clear and precise reasons for her hope in Jesus Christ (1 Pet. 3:15).

21For to this you were called, because Christ also suffered for us,[a] leaving us[b] an example, that you should follow His steps:

22"Who committed no sin,
Nor was deceit found in His mouth";[a]

23who, when He was reviled, did not revile in return; when He suffered, He did not threaten, but committed Himself to Him who judges righteously; 24who Himself bore our sins in His own body on the tree, that we, having died to sins, might live for righteousness—by whose stripes you were healed. 25For you were like sheep going astray, but have now returned to the Shepherd and Overseer[a] of your souls.

Submission to Husbands

Life is intricately and intimately linked with Jesus. In fact, Jesus is life–He said so Himself. So when we look for life worth living, we must look for it not in happy or heartbreaking circumstances, health, or even relationships. Life is in Christ.

Joni Eareckson Tada

2:23 The only way Christ could silently endure suffering was to entrust Himself to His Father, who would judge righteously and right all wrongs. Following His example is the only way believers can endure suffering. To retaliate is to assume a right they do not have (Rom. 12:19). God takes responsibility for dealing with the offending party. Believers also are responsible for making the right response, then trusting the offender to God.

3:1 The distinctive behavior of the Christian wife is signaled at once by the key expression "likewise," which applies to the wife and also to the husband (vv. 1, 7). Both follow Jesus, the Suffering Servant, whose suffering ultimately led to healing. Both are servants, seeking to serve one another and others for Christ's sake.

3:1, 2 Words come easy; yet a wife's "gentle and quiet spirit" is the healing agent her husband needs (vv. 3, 4). She is allowed the same incredible privilege given to the Lord Jesus, to suffer in order to bring healing to another. Although the reference given is specifically concerning a non-believing husband, the application is also for the Christian husband who is being disobedient to the Lord in a certain area of his life. The wife's "conduct" or lifestyle is to be accompanied by "fear" or reverence in the sense of respect.

3:3, 4 The idea is not that outward appearance is unimportant but rather that the inward qualities are more important. Outward beauty is corruptible; inward beauty, incorruptible. This hidden beauty of the heart is displayed by a "gentle and quiet spirit" (v. 4). This quality is not a reference to genetically acquired personality traits, such as being a person of few words, but rather to an inner attitude marked by the absence of anxiety, coupled with a trust in God as the blessed controller of all things. "Precious" (Gk. timē, lit. "value" or "price") is used elsewhere in 1 Peter: the shed blood of Jesus Christ is "precious" (1 Pet. 1:19), and He is the "precious" cornerstone of our faith (1 Pet. 2:6). A woman characterized by a "gentle and quiet spirit" is not only precious to God and a glory to her husband but also a joy to all who are around her!

HOSPITALITY THE GIFT OF WELCOME

Hospitality is the practice of welcoming, sheltering, and feeding—with no thought of personal gain—those who come to your door. Much more than elegant menus, elaborate table settings, or lavish entertainment––hospitality is sharing what we have and who we are with whomever God sends. Hospitality includes setting aside time for fellowship and being flexible in order to accommodate impromptu gatherings.

For the people of the Bible, hospitality was not merely a matter of good manners but a necessity in the harsh desert regions. Hospitality was openly rewarded, as when Rahab was given protection at Jericho's fall for having extended hospitality to Joshua's spies (Josh. 2:12–14). Lack of hospitality was punished, as when Nabal died after refusing to offer hospitality to David's men (1 Sam. 25:2–39).

In the New Testament, Jesus modeled perfect hospitality as He moved beyond mundane physical needs to meet deeper needs of those who came to Him (Matt. 15:32–39). The New Testament writers also tell Christians to extend hospitality to other believers (Rom. 12:13; 1 Pet. 4:9; 3 John 8). Elders and deacons, in particular, were to be hospitable (1 Tim 3:2, Titus 1:8). The only time believers were exhorted not to show hospitality was in the case of false teachers, who might draw them away from the faith (2 John 10, 11). Those who received hospitality but did not work to support themselves and assist the host family were also to be expelled (2 Thess. 3:10–13).

You can share your heart and life with others, even if the meal is simple and the setting is humble. The most important gift of welcome simply says I care, I love you, and I have prepared a place for you.

Hospitality must begin at home. Believers are "through love [to] serve one another" (Gal. 5:13), "without grumbling" (1 Pet. 4:8–10), maintaining calmness and self-control (1 Pet. 3:4), working energetically and heartily (Col. 3:23), and presenting hospitality "as to the Lord" (Matt. 25:40; Col. 3:23, 24). The resources available for hospitality include time, the offering of food "in due season" (Ps. 104:27), money (see Matt. 25:34–40), energy, creativity, and love (Titus 2:4; 1 John 4:11).

Rewards accompany hospitality. Sharing with and serving others demands sacrifices, and you are promised that your sacrifices do not go unnoticed (Heb. 6:10). Anything done for Christ not only lasts but also is multiplied (see Matt. 25:14–30). Spiritual rewards are also forthcoming (Acts 20:35). For example, the men traveling to Emmaus invited a stranger to eat with them and found themselves breaking bread with Jesus Himself (Luke 24:13–32).

Just as the sunshine reveals the beauty of a stained glass window, hospitality allows the light of God's Son to shine from your heart. This love is readily and effectively transferred as you open your home to others and share Christian hospitality.

See also Matt. 23:11; 1 Tim. 5:10; Heb. 13:2; notes on Creativity (Col. 1); Flexibility (Deut. 10); Homemaking (Prov. 24); Mealtime (Ps. 104); portrait on Martha (John 11)

ment be merely outward—arranging the hair, wearing gold, or putting on fine apparel— 4rather let it be the hidden person of the heart, with the incorruptible beauty of a gentle and quiet spirit, which is very precious in the sight of God. 5For in this manner, in former times, the holy women who trusted in God also adorned themselves, being submissive to their own husbands, 6as Sarah obeyed Abraham, calling him lord, whose daughters you are if you do good and are not afraid with any terror.

A Word to Husbands

7Husbands, likewise, dwell with them with understanding, giving honor to the wife, as to the weaker vessel, and as being heirs together of the grace of life, that your prayers may not be hindered.

3:5, 6 Sarah is an example of a woman who trusted God and obeyed her husband. Abraham lied in identifying Sarah as his sister and not his wife (Gen. 20:1–18), and Sarah was immediately taken into the king's harem! Sarah was not trusting Abraham; he had been deceptive and more concerned with saving himself than protecting his wife. Sarah trusted God by giving Him time to work in Abraham's life and in this difficult situation. God intervened and told Abimelech in a dream that Sarah was Abraham's wife. Obviously, if Abimelech had attempted to force Sarah into a sexual liasion, she would have had to tell him the truth and say a definite "no" to intimacy. Sarah is our example because she trusted her sovereign God by giving Him time to work.

3:7 Husbands, as wives, are obliged to follow Christ's example. The first stated duty for husbands is to dwell with their wives with "understanding" (Gk. kata gnōsin, lit. "according to knowledge"). The considerate attitude described for husbands likely includes knowledge of God's plan for marriage as well as a personalized understanding of the needs, desires, and goals of their own respective wives. Second, husbands are to give "honor" (Gk. timē, lit. "precious") to their wives—respecting and esteeming them (see vv. 3, 4, note). According to Peter, wives are "weaker," possibly an allusion to the fact that a woman's physical strength is not usually equal to her husband's. Both have the dignity of being "heirs together of the grace of life." This realization is the key to mutuality in

HOSPITALITY OR ENTERTAINMENT

CHRISTIAN HOSPITALITY	WORLDLY ENTERTAINING
Provides a safe place (Prov. 31:21)	Opens a show place
Seeks to serve others (1 Pet. 4:8–10)	Wants to impress others
Puts people before things (Matt. 10:42)	Elevates things above people
Makes what is mine yours (Acts 2:44)	Claims all as mine and admires it
Takes no thought for whatever reward or compensation is in it for me (Matt. 6:1–4)	Expects something in return (praise and reciprocation)
Frames itself according to God's Word (Matt. 5:43–48)	Models itself after the world (television, magazines, neighbors, etc.)
Offers freedom that liberates, enabling you to exercise your gifts and creativity to the fullest (Rom. 8:2)	Becomes a taskmaster that enslaves, requiring you to meet the expectations of others

Called to Blessing

8 Finally, all of you be of one mind, having compassion for one another; love as brothers, be tenderhearted, be courteous;[a] 9 not returning evil for evil or reviling for reviling, but on the contrary blessing, knowing that you were called to this, that you may inherit a blessing. 10 For

"He who would love life
And see good days,
Let him refrain his tongue from evil,
And his lips from speaking deceit.
11 Let him turn away from evil and do good;
Let him seek peace and pursue it.
12 For the eyes of the LORD are on the righteous,
And His ears are open to their prayers;
But the face of the LORD is against those who do evil."[a]

Suffering for Right and Wrong

13 And who is he who will harm you if you become followers of what is good? 14 But even if you should suffer for righteousness' sake, you are blessed. "And do not be afraid of their threats, nor be troubled."[a] 15 But sanctify the Lord God[a] in your hearts, and always be ready to give a defense to everyone who asks you a reason for the hope that is in you, with meekness and fear; 16 having a good conscience, that when they defame you as evildoers, those who revile your good conduct in Christ may be ashamed. 17 For it is better, if it is the will of God, to suffer for doing good than for doing evil.

Christ's Suffering and Ours

marriage (see also Eph. 5:21). A husband's failure to treat his wife with dignity and love would hinder his relationship not only with her but also with God.

3:9 Many relationships develop an "evil for evil" or insult for insult pattern of interaction. Peter noted that to achieve intimacy, both parties must cultivate Christ's pattern of rendering a blessing when experiencing hurt or unjust treatment (1 Pet. 2:21–24). This response is a distinctive characteristic of the Christian ethic (see Matt. 5:43–46; Rom. 12:17–21). Peter gave three reasons for this unusual response to hurt (1 Pet. 3:9–12). First, the one who gives a blessing to others will receive a blessing in return (v. 9). Second, positive responses produce an attitude of enjoyment and love for life (v. 10). Third, God hears the prayers of those who follow this pattern and turns His face against those who do not (v. 12). Seeking peace and pursuing it by disciplining one's tongue has practical rewards and is wise in all relationships (v. 11).

3:18–22 The spirits in prison could refer to evil angels, to individuals who have died, or to the people who were alive at the time of Noah (v. 19). The passage is difficult to interpret. Christ apparently preached to these "spirits" after His death and before His Resurrection, or perhaps He preached through

CROWNS WORTHY REWARDS

Two Greek words for crown include diadema, referring to the crown worn by a king, and stephanos, referring to the crown bestowed in the athletic games or on the field of battle (v. 4). The former is conferred by birthright; the latter, by personal victory.

At the judgment seat (Gk. bēma) of Christ, believers will be rewarded, and one aspect of those rewards is a series of crowns (2 Cor. 5:10). These crowns include the crown of rejoicing, given as a reward for winning others to Christ (1 Thess. 2:19); the crown of righteousness awarded to those who have lived life in view of His return (2 Tim. 4:6–8); the crown of life awarded to those who have suffered persecution or martyrdom for their faith (James 1:12; Rev. 2:10); a crown of mastery awarded to those who have disciplined the body and been victorious over it (1 Cor. 9:24–27); and a crown of glory awarded to those church leaders who have faithfully cared for the sheep (1 Pet. 5:4). God richly rewards those who have persevered and lived in obedience (Matt. 5:5, 12; 19:27–30; 25:14–30; Luke 19:12–27).

were disobedient, when once the Divine longsuffering waited[a] in the days of Noah, while the ark was being prepared, in which a few, that is, eight souls, were saved through water. [21]There is also an antitype which now saves us—baptism (not the removal of the filth of the flesh, but the answer of a good conscience toward God), through the resurrection of Jesus Christ, [22]who has gone into heaven and is at the right hand of God, angels and authorities and powers having been made subject to Him.

4 Therefore, since Christ suffered for us[a] in the flesh, arm yourselves also with the same mind, for he who has suffered in the flesh has ceased from sin, [2]that he no longer should live the rest of his time in the flesh for the lusts of men, but for the will of God. [3]For we have spent enough of our past lifetime[a] in doing the will of the Gentiles—when we walked in lewdness, lusts, drunkenness, revelries, drinking parties, and abominable idolatries. [4]In regard to these, they think it strange that you do not run with them in the same flood of dissipation, speaking evil of you. [5]They will give an account to Him who is ready to judge the living and the dead. [6]For this reason the gospel was preached also to those who are dead, that they might be judged according to men in the flesh, but live according to God in the spirit.

Serving for God's Glory

[7]But the end of all things is at hand; therefore be serious and watchful in your prayers. [8]And above all things have fervent love for one another, for "love will cover a multitude of sins."[a] [9]Be hospitable to one another without grumbling. [10]As each one has received a gift, minister it to one another, as good stewards of the manifold grace of God. [11]If anyone speaks, let him speak as the oracles of God. If anyone ministers, let him do it as with the ability which God supplies, that in all things God may be glorified through Jesus Christ, to whom belong

Noah to the antediluvians prior to the flood (v. 22). The content of Christ's message was likely a victorious proclamation of the defeat of the enemies of God. Peter mentioned this because he wanted the suffering Christians to know that one day their persecutors would face this condemning proclamation just like the evil spirits of the days of Noah.

3:21 Baptism is an "antitype" or picture of salvation, showing Christ's death, burial, and Resurrection as well as portraying the believer's death to sin and resurrection to walk in a new life.

4:6 Some presume that those who are dead have physically died without accepting Christ. They advocate praying for the dead, presuming that the dead are offered a second chance of salvation. However, Scripture says that judgment comes after death (Heb. 9:27). "Those who are dead" refers to Christians who have died. They heard and believed the gospel when they were alive; and they died, possibly due to persecution. Although these departed believers were condemned on earth, they now reign with God in heaven.

4:11 Spiritual gifts mentioned by Peter are: speaking gifts ("if anyone speaks") and serving gifts ("if anyone ministers"). To this a third category might be added, sometimes called the "sign gifts" based upon the title ascribed to them (Heb. 2:3,

SUFFERING A PATH TO VICTORY

Suffering covers a wide range of human experiences. While not giving rise to a sense of ultimate despair, the Bible is neither idyllic nor escapist and does not give any easy answers to the question of suffering. Suffering is assured; yet, even in suffering the sovereignty of God prevails. God is able to bring meaning into even the worst situations of suffering.

People can suffer affliction from being mentally or physically tormented by others or from within. Others suffer due to hardship, circumstances, or human actions (1 Thess. 3:4; 2 Cor. 1:6). For many women there is suffering in the process of childbirth (John 16:21); for others, suffering seems to follow obedience to God, as in the ill-treatment of the Israelites (Acts 7:34), quite clearly displayed in the passion of our Lord Jesus Christ as well as in the lives of those who followed him (Acts 11:19).

The Bible speaks forcefully about these different facets of suffering that women can encounter: the emptiness of barrenness, the frustration of relationships, the uncertainty of circumstances, and the dilemma of helplessness.

Suffering for God's Glory

12 Beloved, do not think it strange concerning the fiery trial which is to try you, as though some strange thing happened to you; 13 but rejoice to the extent that you partake of Christ's sufferings, that when His glory is revealed, you may also be glad with exceeding joy. 14 If you are reproached for the name of Christ, blessed are you, for the Spirit of glory and of God rests upon you.[a] On their part He is blasphemed, but on your part He is glorified. 15 But let none of you suffer as a mur-derer, a thief, an evildoer, or as a busybody in other people's matters. 16 Yet if anyone suffers as a Christian, let him not be ashamed, but let him glorify God in this matter.[a] 17 For the time has come for judgment to begin at the house of God; and if it begins with us first, what will be the end of those who do not obey the gospel of God? 18 Now

"If the righteous one is scarcely saved,
Where will the ungodly and the sinner appear?"[a]

19 Therefore let those who suffer according to the will of God commit their souls to Him in doing good, as to a faithful Creator.

Shepherd the Flock

5 The elders who are among you I exhort, I who am a fellow elder and a witness of the sufferings of Christ, and also a partaker of the glory that will be revealed: 2 Shepherd the flock of God which is among you, serving as overseers, not by compulsion but willingly,[a] not for dishonest gain but eagerly; 3 nor as being lords over those entrusted to you, but being examples to the flock; 4 and when the Chief Shepherd appears, you will receive the crown of glory that does not fade away.

Submit to God, Resist the Devil

5 Likewise you younger people, submit yourselves to your elders. Yes, all of you be submissive to one another, and be clothed with humility, for 4). Several listings of spiritual gifts are found in the NT (Rom. 12:3–8; 1 Cor. 7:7; 12:8–10, 28–30; Eph. 4:11, 12; Heb. 2:3, 4; 1 Pet. 4:10, 11; see chart, Spiritual Gifts of Women in the Bible). Of these, the sign gifts are specifically miraculous in nature and are used to confirm the validity of the apostolic ministry (see 2 Cor. 12:12). The serving gifts consist of leadership, faith, administration, helps, and celibacy. The sign gifts include miracles, healing, tongues, interpretation of tongues, the word of wisdom, and the word of knowledge. Speaking gifts include apostleship, prophecy, discernment of spirits, teaching, evangelism, and exhortation. Each believer has a spiritual gift to serve others, to edify the church, and to glorify the Lord (1 Pet. 4:10, 11; 1 Cor. 12:7).

4:17 Judgment (Gk. krisis) does not necessarily mean "condemnation" but rather suggests a testing or evaluation that results in approval or disapproval. This "fiery trial" purifies, strengthens, and edifies believers, making them holy (v. 12).

5:1–3 The role of the pastor is described with three words:

- Elders (Gk. presbuteros) is a term that suggests the respect and esteem due a pastor by virtue of his divinely appointed office (v. 1);
- Shepherd (Gk. poimainō), used as a verb in the text, describes a pastor's spiritual ministries—to feed, protect, guide, and pray for the flock of God (v. 2);
- Overseers (Gk. episkopos) emphasizes administrative responsibilities (v. 2).

These terms are synonymous; yet each has a distinctive nuance of meaning in describing the pastoral office.

Iron till it be thoroughly heated is incapable to be wrought; so God sees good to cast some men into the furnace of affliction, and then beats them on His anvil into what frame He pleases.

5:8 The activity of Satan against believers is mentioned in various ways throughout the NT (see chart, A Portrait of the Adversary). Satan tempts believers to lie (Acts 5:3); he accuses and slanders them (Rev. 12:10); he entices them toward sexual sin (1 Cor. 7:5); he places obstacles in their path (1 Thess. 2:18); he causes persecution (Rev. 2:10); and he causes pseudo-Christians to infiltrate among true Christians to promote confusion and division in the church (Matt. 13:38, 39). The Christian's defense involves being on guard, sober, vigilant (1 Pet. 5:8), taking a stand against the devil and resisting him (v. 9; James 4:7; Eph. 6:11–18).

5:13 Babylon on the Euphrates is probably in view. However, some suggest that "Babylon" is an anachronym for Rome because of its comparable luxury and increasing decadence. Mark is likely a reference to John Mark (Acts 12:12; 13:5; 15:36–39).

2 Peter

TITLE

The letter is identified as coming from Simon Peter (2 Pet. 1:1), a claim supported by several features in the text, particularly the author's reference to being an eyewitness of Jesus' Transfiguration (2 Pet. 1:18) and his labeling of this letter as being his second to these readers (2 Pet. 3:1). However, some in the early church doubted that this letter actually came from Peter. Eusebius (A.D. 265–340) referred to the book as one of the "disputed writings." The reservation to accept it as Petrine came from the fact that it was not quoted by any of the ancient presbyters in their writings. In fact, the book was not cited by name until Origen, who wrote at the beginning of the third century. It is notable, however, that Origen quoted from it as Scripture six times.

Another reason some in the ancient church were skeptical was the frequent use of Peter's name by some writers to gain acceptance for unorthodox literature. Furthermore, the style of 1 and 2 Peter is significantly different. The Greek used in 1 Peter is polished and sophisticated, among the finest examples of linguistic style in the New Testament. Second Peter is different in style and vocabulary. Jerome, an ancient church father, suggested that the differences could be explained by the fact that Peter acknowledged Silvanus as his amanuensis or secretary in his first letter (1 Pet. 5:12). If Peter penned the second letter without Silvanus' help, that, together with a change in time and circumstances, could account for the obvious variations.

Modern critical scholars have had similar reservations about the authorship of 2 Peter. However, as further studies of the epistle have been made, the findings serve to reaffirm rather than refute Petrine authorship. In particular, though differences in style are apparent in the two letters, there are also striking similarities. Both use common Hebraisms; both exhibit verbal repetition; both employ words used nowhere else in the New Testament. Especially interesting is a study that compares word usage. First and 2 Peter score as close on word comparison studies as 1 Timothy and Titus, in which case both letters coming from the same source is not questioned. Therefore, concluding that Peter is the author of the second as well as the first letter is based on solid and sound evidence.

Second Peter was written shortly before Peter's death (2 Pet. 1:13, 14). We have no knowledge of the exact date of his death, but the early church historian Eusebius proposed that Peter was martyred during the Neronian persecutions (A.D. 64–68). Accordingly, scholars have assigned A.D. 65–66 as the most probable date.

BACKGROUND

SETTING: The setting of 2 Peter is difficult to determine. However, given that the letter was written by Peter near the end of his life, it would have originated in Rome. The recipients were probably Christians living in Asia Minor. This area was one of the main seedbeds of Gnostic thought (see John 1:4, note).

AUDIENCE: We are unable to identify who received the epistle with certainty because Peter refrained from naming his audience. In his first letter, Peter said that his readers were "the pilgrims of the Dispersion in Pontus, Galatia, Cappadocia, Asia, and Bithynia" (1 Pet. 1:1). His second epistle is not addressed to any particular group. However, in his greeting Peter said, "Beloved, I now write to you this second epistle" (2 Pet. 3:l). If 1 Peter was the first letter he wrote them, then we can conclude that the recipients of 2 Peter are the same Jewish and Gentile Christians living in Asia Minor.

PURPOSE: This letter has the tone of a last will and testament. Peter acknowledged that he was near the end of his life, and communicated the truths dearest to his heart. In this letter, Peter resolutely urged believers to make fruitful progress in their Christian faith. He also wanted them to be aware of the dangers of false doctrines and heretical teachers, who, even this early in the life of the Christian church, were distorting the gospel of Christ. Finally, he gave the believers solid teaching to help them understand and prepare for the day of the Lord, which will include both judgment and the establishing of the "new heavens and a new earth in which righteousness dwells" (2 Pet. 3:13).

THEMES

The prevalent theme of 2 Peter is the presentation of a means for discerning false doctrine and identifying heretical teachers. Secondary themes include the authority of apostolic teaching and the certainty of Christ's return.

Greeting the Faithful

1 Simon Peter, a bondservant and apostle of Jesus Christ,

To those who have obtained like precious faith with us by the righteousness of our God and Savior Jesus Christ:

2 Grace and peace be multiplied to you in the knowledge of God and of Jesus our Lord, 3 as His divine power has given to us all things that pertain to life and godliness, through the knowledge of Him who called us by glory and virtue, 4 by which have been given to us exceedingly great and precious promises, that through these you may be partakers of the divine nature, having escaped the corruption that is in the world through lust.

Fruitful Growth in the Faith

5 But also for this very reason, giving all diligence, add to your faith virtue, to virtue knowledge, 6 to knowledge self-control, to self-control perseverance, to perseverance godliness, 7 to godliness brotherly kindness, and to brotherly kind-

1:4 Jesus made many glorious promises to those who believe in Him (see John 6:35; 8:12; 11:25). Believers are promised a share in His moral goodness during this life and in His glory in the afterlife. Believers can claim God's "precious promises." The phrase "partakers of the divine nature" does not suggest that people become "gods." Rather, Peter is teaching that to repent and believe is to enter into a family relationship with God in which the children are to show forth the characteristics of their heavenly Father (see Rom. 8:9; Gal. 2:20; 1 John 5:1).

PROMISES OF GOD THE SEED OF HOPE

The Bible is filled with the precious promises of God to His children. As many as 30,000 different promises are recorded in Scripture. These promises of God are simple and sure. Because of who God is, His Word can be trusted.

A promise is the pledge to another to fulfill a specified act. Scripture records promises by God to His children (John 14:13), by God to Jesus (John 13:3–5), by one individual to another (Neh. 5:12), and by a believer to God (Eccl. 5:4–10). Christians are invited to claim God's promises related to forgiveness, heaven, the Holy Spirit, answered prayer, guidance, comfort, and protection.

While the promises of God are afforded to all believers, they do carry a few stipulations. God's children must humble themselves, pray, seek God's will, and turn from evil in order to receive God's promises (2 Chr. 7:14). The fulfillment of God's promises is directly related to the obedient responses of God's children. There is great hope in the promises of God!

ness love. 8For if these things are yours and abound, you will be neither barren nor unfruitful in the knowledge of our Lord Jesus Christ. 9For he who lacks these things is shortsighted, even to blindness, and has forgotten that he was cleansed from his old sins.

10Therefore, brethren, be even more diligent to make your call and election sure, for if you do these things you will never stumble; 11for so an entrance will be supplied to you abundantly into the everlasting kingdom of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ.

Peter's Approaching Death

12For this reason I will not be negligent to remind you always of these things, though you know and are established in the present truth. 13Yes, I think it is right, as long as I am in this tent, to stir you up by reminding you, 14knowing that shortly I must put off my tent, just as our Lord Jesus Christ showed me. 15Moreover I will be careful to ensure that you always have a reminder of these things after my decease.

The Trustworthy Prophetic Word

16For we did not follow cunningly devised fables when we made known to you the power and coming of our Lord Jesus Christ, but were eyewitnesses of His majesty. 17For He received from God the Father honor and glory when such a voice came to Him from the Excellent Glory: "This is My beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased." 18And we heard this voice which came from heaven when we were with Him on the holy mountain.

19And so we have the prophetic word confirmed,[a] which you do well to heed as a light that shines in a dark place, until the day dawns and the morning star rises in your hearts; 20knowing this first, that no prophecy of Scripture is of any private interpretation,[a] 21for prophecy never came by the will of man, but holy men of God[a] spoke as they were moved by the Holy Spirit.

Destructive Doctrines

2 But there were also false prophets among the people, even as there will be false teachers among you, who will secretly bring in destructive heresies, even denying the Lord who bought them, and bring on themselves swift destruction. 2And many will follow their destructive ways, because of whom the way of truth will be

1:19 [a]Or We also have the more sure prophetic word. 1:20 [a]Or origin
1:21 [a]NU-Text reads but men spoke from God.

1:11 Peter encouraged believers to be diligent in Christian living by reminding them at their journey's end of the lavish reward—a place in the "everlasting kingdom" of Jesus. His metaphor concerning entry into the kingdom recalls the honor paid to a victor in the Olympic games of ancient Greece. The athlete's home city, because of its pride, would welcome the victor back through a newly opened gate in the city wall rather than through the usual gate. Peter referred to the tension between what believers already had and what they still lacked (v. 4). Believers are already "partakers of the divine nature," but they still must press on to enter the everlasting kingdom. This tension was meant to promote steadfastness in Christian living.

1:20, 21 In this part of Peter's letter, he is likely replying to charges made by false teachers about the reliability of the Christian message. To their suggestion that the apostles were concocting myths about Jesus, Peter countered that his is an eyewitness verification of the power and glory of Jesus (vv. 16, 17). Peter argued that the Transfiguration of Jesus was a fulfillment of OT prophecy. And lest the false teachers suggest rejecting Peter's authority by questioning its divine origin, implying that the prophets simply produced their own fantasies, Peter strongly reasserted that the OT was written by men who were moved by the Holy Spirit to speak God's words. The Holy Spirit "moved" (Gk. pherō, lit. "carried along") the writers of Holy Scripture to record the words of the Bible.

ADDICTIONS CONTROLLING BEHAVIORS

In contrast to some in the Corinthian church, the apostle Paul emphasized to Christians the importance of refusing to develop controlling, addictive behaviors (1 Cor. 6:12). An addiction is not simply a bad habit. It is a felt need for an external substance (drugs, alcohol, food), activity (work, shopping), unhealthy relationship (that is, with an abusive person), or certain feelings or circumstances (being in control, ecstatic feelings). An addiction is an excessive, overpowering need that is repetitive and insistent. The first phase of an addiction is usually a mental preoccupation with the feeling, substance, or act. The second phase is doing whatever is necessary to have it.

Relief or pleasure is always involved in an addiction, even though unpleasant consequences may follow. Although its power may be denied, the addiction controls the addicted woman to such an extent that reason or logic alone cannot free her. The thing to which she is addicted becomes a priority in her life and will ultimately prove destructive.

Addictions mask emotional pain by offering an escape from reality. The Lord's desire for the addicted woman is not only that she will embrace reality and face honestly herself, others, and God (Is. 59:12) but also that she might be healed of the pain driving her to seek an escape (Is. 58:6).

blasphemed. 3By covetousness they will exploit you with deceptive words; for a long time their judgment has not been idle, and their destruction does[a] not slumber.

Doom of False Teachers

4For if God did not spare the angels who sinned, but cast them down to hell and delivered them into chains of darkness, to be reserved for judgment; 5and did not spare the ancient world, but saved Noah, one of eight people, a preacher of righteousness, bringing in the flood on the world of the ungodly; 6and turning the cities of Sodom and Gomorrah into ashes, condemned them to destruction, making them an example to those who afterward would live ungodly; 7and delivered righteous Lot, who was oppressed by the filthy conduct of the wicked 8(for that righteous man, dwelling among them, tormented his righteous soul from day to day by seeing and hearing their lawless deeds)— 9*then* the Lord knows how to deliver the godly out of temptations and to reserve the unjust under punishment for the day of judgment, 10and especially those who walk according to the flesh in the lust of uncleanness and despise authority. They are presumptuous, self-willed. They are not afraid to speak evil of dignitaries, 11whereas angels, who are greater in power and might, do not bring a reviling accusation against them before the Lord.

Depravity of False Teachers

12But these, like natural brute beasts made to be caught and destroyed, speak evil of the things they do not understand, and will utterly perish in their own corruption, 13*and* will receive the wages of unrighteousness, as those who count it pleasure to carouse in the daytime. They are spots and blemishes, carousing in their own deceptions while they feast with you, 14having eyes full of adultery and that cannot cease from sin, enticing unstable souls. They have a heart trained in cov-etous practices, and are accursed children. 15They have forsaken the right way and gone astray, following the way of Balaam the son of Beor, who loved the wages of unrighteousness; 16but he was rebuked for his iniquity: a dumb donkey speaking with a man's voice restrained the madness of the prophet.

2:3 [a]M-Text reads will not.

2:4–6 God would judge the guilty and save the righteous. He used graphic illustrations to remind his readers of judgment God had executed in the past but assured them that the godly would be spared (v. 10). Peter alluded to a well-known apocryphal text, the Book of Enoch, which referred to God's punishment of disobedient angels (v. 4). Apparently, some rebellious angels were put into "chains of darkness" to await judgment, while others were left free to afflict mankind. God sent the sinning angels to "Tartarus," which, according to Greek mythology, is the precinct in hell reserved for the worst offenders. Peter borrowed this image from the Greek poet Homer to make a point to his Greek readers. He took pains to show that even though there were only eight people left who lived righteous lives, God did not overlook them when He sent His judgment of the flood on an otherwise rebellious creation (v. 5; see 1 Pet. 3:19, 20). Peter referred to the well-known example of the destruction of corrupt cities in the ancient world by fire (2 Pet. 2:6). The point in all these examples was to remind readers that those who rise up against the authority of God, as the false teachers in Peter's day were doing, would experience punishment for their offenses.

SPIRITUAL DISCIPLINE GROWING IN CHRIST

Spiritual discipline is essential for Christian growth and development. Though at first painful, spiritual discipline resulting from obedience and faith produces abundant blessings (Heb. 12:11). Every believer should seek to become disciplined in order to grow spiritually.

Spiritual discipline is a continual process that helps the believer mature in Christ and know God's will. It is as much an attitude of commitment as it is an activity in holiness. Specific spiritual disciplines may include personal training in Bible study, prayer, worship, fellowship, service, or witnessing, among other godly practices. A conscientious, creative pursuit of these spiritual disciplines should continue throughout a believer's life (Heb. 6:11, 12).

Spiritual discipline is essential to deliverance from the power of sin and obedience to God's will. Without spiritual discipline, believers cannot walk with Christ, grow in faith, or receive the heavenly rewards awaiting those who diligently practice spiritual discipline.

17 These are wells without water, clouds[a] carried by a tempest, for whom is reserved the blackness of darkness forever.[b]

Deceptions of False Teachers

18 For when they speak great swelling words of emptiness, they allure through the lusts of the flesh, through lewdness, the ones who have actually escaped[a] from those who live in error. 19 While they promise them liberty, they themselves are slaves of corruption; for by whom a person is overcome, by him also he is brought into bondage. 20 For if, after they have escaped the pollutions of the world through the knowledge of the Lord and Savior Jesus Christ, they are again entangled in them and overcome, the latter end is worse for them than the beginning. 21 For it would have been better for them not to have known the way of righteousness, than having known it, to turn from the holy commandment delivered to them. 22 But it has happened to them according to the true proverb: "A dog returns to his own vomit,"[a] and, "a sow, having washed, to her wallowing in the mire."

God's Promise Is Not Slack

3 Beloved, I now write to you this second epistle (in both of which I stir up your pure minds by way of reminder), 2 that you may be mindful of the words which were spoken before by the holy prophets, and of the commandment of us,[a] the apostles of the Lord and Savior, 3 knowing this first: that scoffers will come in the last days, walking according to their own lusts, 4 and saying, "Where is the promise of His coming? For since the fathers fell asleep, all things continue as they were from the beginning of creation." 5 For this they willfully forget: that by the word of God the heavens were of old, and the earth standing out of water and in the water, 6 by which the world that then existed perished, being flooded with water. 7 But the heavens and the earth which are now preserved by the same word, are reserved for fire until the day of judgment and perdition of ungodly men.

2:17 [a]NU-Text reads and mists. [b]NU-Text omits forever. 2:18 [a]NU-Text reads are barely escaping. 2:22 [a]Proverbs 26:11 3:2 [a]NU-Text and M-Text read commandment of the apostles of your Lord and Savior or commandment of your apostles of the Lord and Savior.

2:17–19 Peter described the characteristics of false teachers. First, false teachers make empty promises (v. 17). Peter described them as "wells without water" and "clouds carried by a tempest"—rain clouds that promise to end an agonizing drought but are driven away by sharp gusts of wind. False teachers raise expectations but dash them in the end. The second hallmark of false teachers is moral laxity (v. 18). These teachers maintained that spiritual salvation was all that mattered and that what Christians did with their bodies was of no consequence. Paul had to face a similar heresy in his letter to the Corinthians (1 Cor. 6:19). False teachers promise "liberty," but in reality their ways keep people in bondage to sin (2 Pet. 2:19).

2:22 To the Jews, both dogs and pigs were unclean animals (see Matt. 7:6). Dogs purge themselves of internal impurities by vomiting; washing removes external impurities from a pig. Yet both dogs and pigs, by nature, return to the source of their contamination. Peter used these metaphors to emphasize the inclination of false teachers to return to a life of immorality and pretense, even though they have a knowledge of the truth. Mere intellectual knowledge of truth cannot liberate from the bondage of sinful human nature.

3:5–7 Nature provides no assurance that things will continue as they always have. God Himself is in charge of nature. God would judge ungodliness and destroy the present heavens and earth through fire (v. 7; see Deut. 32:22; Is. 30:30; Mal. 4:1; 2 Thess. 1:8; Heb. 12:9; 1 Pet. 1:7).

[8]But, beloved, do not forget this one thing, that with the Lord one day is as a thousand years, and a thousand years as one day. [9]The Lord is not slack concerning His promise, as some count slackness, but is longsuffering toward us,[a] not willing that any should perish but that all should come to repentance.

The Day of the Lord

[10]But the day of the Lord will come as a thief in the night, in which the heavens will pass away with a great noise, and the elements will melt with fervent heat; both the earth and the works that are in it will be burned up.[a] [11]Therefore, since all these things will be dissolved, what manner of persons ought you to be in holy conduct and godliness, [12]looking for and hastening the coming of the day of God, because of which the heavens will be dissolved, being on fire, and the elements will melt with fervent heat? [13]Nevertheless we, according to His promise, look for new heavens and a new earth in which righteousness dwells.

Be Steadfast

[14]Therefore, beloved, looking forward to these things, be diligent to be found by Him in peace, without spot and blameless; [15]and consider that the longsuffering of our Lord is salvation—as also our beloved brother Paul, according to the wisdom given to him, has written to you, [16]as also in all his epistles, speaking in them of these things, in which are some things hard to understand, which untaught and unstable people twist to their own destruction, as they do also the rest of the Scriptures.

[17]You therefore, beloved, since you know this beforehand, beware lest you also fall from your own steadfastness, being led away with the error of the wicked; [18]but grow in the grace and knowledge of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ.

To Him be the glory both now and forever. Amen.

3:9 [a]NU-Text reads you. 3:10 [a]NU-Text reads laid bare (literally found).

3:8, 9 Scoffers were questioning the certainty of God's judgment (v. 4). God sees time in a way not possible for us: A long time to us may be short in God's eternal perspective, and a day that might seem inconsequential to us could be like a thousand years to the Lord. Peter's first line of defense against the scoffers was to teach the Christians to regard time in a different way. His second was to assure them that the delay in the fulfillment of the Lord's promise was not due to His indifference or impotence but rather because of His mercy. God wants to save as many people as will respond to His call (see Ezek. 18:23; Rom. 11:32; 1 Tim. 2:4).

3:13 The final Day of Judgment will not result in annihilation of the present order but rather a complete renewal of that order. What will be annihilated is sin; thus the new creation will be the dwelling place of righteousness, a truly blissful home for the children of God. This promise gives the Christian hope and encouragement to remain steadfast in righteousness until the day of the Lord.

3:16 Peter feared that the false teachers might take advantage of ignorant, unstable people by distorting the teachings of Paul so that God's truth was turned into a lie. For example, some teachers reasoned that since Paul taught justification by faith, Christians could do whatever they liked. They argued that the more an individual sinned, the more God had the opportunity to demonstrate His grace (see Rom. 3:5–8; 6:1). This interpretation was clearly a distortion of Paul's intent. Peter understood Paul's writings to speak the word of the Lord just as did the prophets of old (see 1 Thess. 2:13). Distorting the words of the apostles led not simply to error, but to destruction.

1 John

AUTHOR

Although the writer did not identify himself, early church fathers, such as Clement of Alexandria, Origen, and Tertullian, named John as the author. Irenaeus (A.D. 130–200), who heard the eyewitness of Polycarp, bishop of Smyrna and a disciple of John the apostle, also specified that the epistle was penned by John, the Lord's disciple. Thus, there is strong evidence that John, the son of Zebedee and the apostle of Jesus, composed this letter.

DATE

The three letters of John were probably written from Ephesus to the churches in the surrounding area of Asia Minor (modern Turkey). Tradition assigns the writing of these letters to the latter years of John's life, dating them between A.D. 80 and 95. The exact date, however, is not certain.

BACKGROUND

SETTING: The recipients of the letter had been exposed to the heretical teachings of a group of people who had left their church (1 John 2:19). This group believed that spiritual things were good and physical things were evil. For them, the divine Christ, the Son of God, was not the same human Jesus who came to suffer and die for the sins of the world. They claimed to have a direct knowledge of God and to be morally perfect. However, their sinful behavior, lack of love, and prideful claims betrayed their heretical belief (see John 1:4, note; 1 Cor. 1, Heresies).

PURPOSE: John wrote to strengthen the faith of the believers (1 John 1:4). He encouraged them to hold to the apostolic teaching and to express that gospel through love and righteous living (1 John 2:1, 26). As a remedy against the onslaught of heretical views, he also assured believers of forgiveness, victory, and eternal life through Jesus Christ (1 John 5:13).

AUDIENCE: Historically, the heresy closest in character to that described in the epistle was the Gnostic heresy taught in Asia Minor by Cerinthus. Therefore, it is probable that the letter was addressed to the churches in Asia Minor.

LITERARY CHARACTERISTICS: The literary character of the epistle evades classification. In its greeting and conclusion, it lacks the features typical of a first-century letter. Nevertheless, the author is apparently addressing a specific situation with which he is familiar. First John could be a circular letter containing a written sermon or address.

THEMES

- A true claim of the knowledge of God entails the acknowledgment that Jesus is both fully divine and fully human.

- Right belief goes hand-in-hand with right conduct; love and righteous living cannot be separated from right belief.
- Right faith produces confidence in forgiveness, in prayer, in victory against the Evil One, and in the possession of eternal life.

OUTLINE

What Was Heard, Seen, and Touched

1 That which was from the beginning, which we have heard, which we have seen with our eyes, which we have looked upon, and our hands have handled, concerning the Word of life— 2the life was manifested, and we have seen, and bear witness, and declare to you that eternal life which was with the Father and was manifested to us— 3that which we have seen and heard we declare to you, that you also may have fellowship with us; and truly our fellowship is with the Father and with His Son Jesus Christ. 4And these things we write to you that your[a] joy may be full.

Fellowship with Him and One Another

5This is the message which we have heard from Him and declare to you, that God is light and in Him is no darkness at all. 6If we say that we have fellowship with Him, and walk in darkness, we lie and do not practice the truth. 7But if we walk in

1:4 [a]NU-Text and M-Text read our.

1:3, 4 Fellowship (Gk. koinōnia, lit. "common," "communion," "partnership") expresses the most intimate kind of relationship. Joy would increase as believers became more intimate in their fellowship with God (John 3:29; 15:11; 16:24; 17:13; 2 John 12). Fullness of joy on earth would point toward perfect joy in heaven when fellowship with God would be consummated (1 Cor. 13:12).

1:6–10 John exposed and contradicted three false claims of heretical teachers. They claimed to have partnership with God (v. 6), but they practiced and promoted immorality. They denied that they possessed a sinful nature (v. 8), but everyone sins and needs to be cleansed from unrighteousness (v. 9). They denied that their conduct was displeasing to God (v. 10), thus accusing God of lying (v. 6).

WHAT IS OF GOD AND WHAT IS NOT OF GOD

WHAT IS OF GOD	WHAT IS NOT OF GOD
Light (1 John 1:5, 7; 2:9, 10)	Darkness (1 John 1:5, 6; 2:9, 11)
Truth (1 John 1:6; 2:4)	Lies (1 John 1:6; 2:4)
Life and eternal life (1 John 1:2; 3:14)	Death (1 John 3:14)
Love (1 John 2:10; 3:11)	Hate and fear (1 John 2:11; 4:18)
Love with action (1 John 3:18)	Lack of compassion (1 John 3:17)
That which remains forever (1 John 2:17)	That which is temporal (1 John 2:17)
Having no sin (1 John 3:5, 6)	Sin (1 John 3:4)
Righteousness (1 John 2:29; 3:7, 12)	Evil acts (1 John 3:8, 12)
Acknowledgment of the humanity of Christ (1 John 4:2)	Denial of the humanity of Christ (1 John 4:3)
Acknowledgment of the divinity of Jesus (1 John 4:15)	Denial of the divinity of Jesus (1 John 2:22)
The Spirit of God (1 John 4:2)	The spirit of the Antichrist (1 John 4:3)
The Spirit of Truth (1 John 4:6)	The spirit of falsehood (1 John 4:6)
Faith (1 John 5:4, 10)	Unbelief (1 John 5:10)

the light as He is in the light, we have fellowship with one another, and the blood of Jesus Christ His Son cleanses us from all sin.

[8]If we say that we have no sin, we deceive ourselves, and the truth is not in us. [9]If we confess our sins, He is faithful and just to forgive us our sins and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness. [10]If we say that we have not sinned, we make Him a liar, and His word is not in us.

2 My little children, these things I write to you, so that you may not sin. And if anyone sins, we have an Advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the righteous. [2]And He Himself is the propitiation for our sins, and not for ours only but also for the whole world.

The Test of Knowing Him

[3]Now by this we know that we know Him, if we keep His commandments. [4]He who says, "I know Him," and does not keep His commandments, is a liar, and the truth is not in him. [5]But whoever keeps His word, truly the love of God is perfected in him. By this we know that we are in Him. [6]He

1:7 The symbolism of light is used metaphorically. Intellectually, light is truth, and darkness is ignorance or error. Morally, light is purity; darkness, impurity. Light also symbolizes righteousness and holiness; light is the agent that reveals and guides in truth (Ps. 119:105). Right living—and not merely right thinking—is the hallmark of the person who has "fellowship" with God (1 John 1:6).

2:1, 2 Advocate (Gk. paraklētos, lit. "one called alongside") is a courtroom term for a person who defends and pleads the cause of someone on trial. Used in this context, Jesus is the one who intercedes before God on behalf of the sinner. This same word is used elsewhere in the NT to describe the work of the Holy Spirit. Jesus is also the "propitiation" (Gk. hilasmos, v. 2), which suggests appeasement and satisfaction. In the OT, this word presents the idea of placating the anger or judgment of an injured party. A cognate form designates the mercy seat (Heb. 9:5). Jesus' blood covers the sinner, who then stands in favor with God (1 John 1:7). Jesus does not ask God to declare sinners innocent, but rather He asks the Father to grant them pardon because of what He did on their behalf.

2:3–6 John recorded two tests of true Christianity, introduced by the formula "by this we know." The first test is moral

CONFESSION AGREEING WITH GOD

Confession is a significant element in the worship of God in both Old and New Testaments. Declaration and acknowledgment are a part of the believer's confession of faith. Scripture convicts the individual to acknowledge sin and receive forgiveness (Ps. 32:5; Prov. 28:13; 1 John 1:9). James admonished believers to confess sin to others and restore fellowship (James 5:16). Jesus offered confession of faith and commitment to God (Matt. 10:32, 33; Luke 12:8). Confession is a necessary part of reconciliation and restoration; its opposite is denial of wrongdoing, which leads to alienation within a relationship.

The word confession is a combination of two Greek words, homos, meaning "same," and legō meaning "to say." In its truest form, confession is "to say the same" or "to agree." Believers are called to say the same thing about sin God says—to see sin as God sees it. A theological understanding of confession includes both an acknowledgment of specific sins and a recognition that sin needs to be forgiven.

When the believer confesses personal sin and professes faith in Christ, then God will faithfully and justly forgive sin and cleanse unrighteousness (1 John 1:9). Confession is essential to the believer's relationship with God and to a fellowship with other people.

who says he abides in Him ought himself also to walk just as He walked.

7 Brethren,[a] I write no new commandment to you, but an old commandment which you have had from the beginning. The old commandment is the word which you heard from the beginning.[b] 8 Again, a new commandment I write to you, which thing is true in Him and in you, because the darkness is passing away, and the true light is already shining.

9 He who says he is in the light, and hates his brother, is in darkness until now. 10 He who loves his brother abides in the light, and there is no cause for stumbling in him. 11 But he who hates his brother is in darkness and walks in darkness, and does not know where he is going, because the darkness has blinded his eyes.

Their Spiritual State

12 I write to you, little children,
Because your sins are forgiven you for His name's sake.
13 I write to you, fathers,
Because you have known Him who is from the beginning.
I write to you, young men,
Because you have overcome the wicked one.
I write to you, little children,
Because you have known the Father.
14 I have written to you, fathers,
Because you have known Him who is from the beginning.
I have written to you, young men,
Because you are strong, and the word of God abides in you,
And you have overcome the wicked one.

Do Not Love the World

15 Do not love the world or the things in the world. If anyone loves the world, the love of the Father is not in him. 16 For all that is in the world—the lust of the flesh, the lust of the eyes, and the pride of life—is not of the Father but is of the world. 17 And the world is passing away, and the lust of it; but he who does the will of God abides forever.

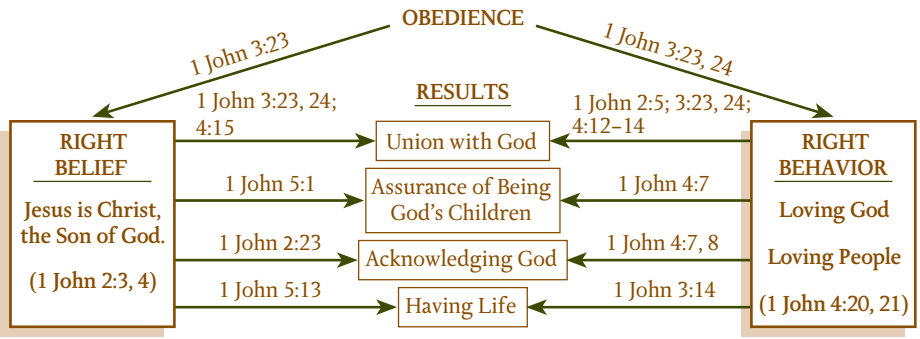
obedience (v. 3). Only those who obey God can rightly claim to know Him. The second test is love for others. If believers are keeping God's Word, the love of God is being "perfected" in their lives (v. 5). The knowledge of God or Christ is not a mystical experience, an intellectual grasp, or a vision of the divine. It is obedience to God's command to believe in Jesus as the Son of God and to love God and others (v. 5; 1 John 3:23; 4:7, 8, 11).

2:5 Genuine Christians are "in Him," meaning that they literally "live in God." It is synonymous with abiding in Him (v. 6), knowing Him (v. 3), loving Him (v. 5; 1 John 3:24), and obeying Him. Elsewhere, John referred to Christians abiding in Jesus (John 15:4–10) and Jesus abiding in them (John 14:20–23; 17:21, 23, 26; 1 John 4:4), describing the close fellowship between believers and God. The test of this fellowship is again expressed in terms of practical living (1 John 2:6).

2:16 John explained why love for the world is incompatible with love for God by listing three typical features of worldly desires: "the lust of the flesh"—sensuality or unbridled desire for food, drink, or sexual gratification; "the lust of the eyes"—superficiality and materialism, depicting the greed that is aroused by what one sees; "the pride of life" or arrogance. The word for "life" denotes possessions—the things that support life. "Pride" refers to boasting. Certainly, the flesh, the eyes, and possessions are given by God and are not evil in themselves. However, John's point is that everything is tainted by sin and that sin has twisted natural human desires to stand in opposition to true knowledge of God (see Gen. 3:6; Matt. 4:1–11).

TRUE KNOWLEDGE OF GOD



Deeper love . . . down to our very soul.
It's there we have an anchor who will not let us go;
The Lord who calmed the sea is the One who sees us through;
He's given us . . . a deeper love.

Deceptions of the Last Hour

18 Little children, it is the last hour; and as you have heard that the[a] Antichrist is coming, even now many antichrists have come, by which we know that it is the last hour. 19 They went out from us, but they were not of us; for if they had been of us, they would have continued with us; but they went out that they might be made manifest, that none of them were of us.

20 But you have an anointing from the Holy One, and you know all things.[a] 21 I have not written to you because you do not know the truth, but because you know it, and that no lie is of the truth.

22 Who is a liar but he who denies that Jesus is the Christ? He is antichrist who denies the Father and the Son. 23 Whoever denies the Son does not have the Father either; he who acknowledges the Son has the Father also.

Let Truth Abide in You

24 Therefore let that abide in you which you heard from the beginning. If what you heard from the beginning abides in you, you also will abide in the Son and in the Father. 25 And this is the promise that He has promised us— eternal life.

26 These things I have written to you concerning those who try to deceive you. 27 But the anointing which you have received from Him abides in you, and you do not need that anyone teach you; but as the same anointing teaches you concerning all things, and is true, and is not a lie, and just as it has taught you, you will[a] abide in Him.

The Children of God

28 And now, little children, abide in Him, that when[a] He appears, we may have confidence and not be ashamed before Him at His coming. 29 If you know that He is righteous, you know that everyone who practices righteousness is born of Him.

3 Behold what manner of love the Father has bestowed on us, that we should be called

2:18 [a]NU-Text omits the. 2:20 [a]NU-Text reads you all know. 2:27 [a]NU-Text reads you abide. 2:28 [a]NU-Text reads if.

2:18, 22 Believers are living in the last hour, the last days before Christ's return and the final judgment. These last days will be characterized by an influx of "antichrists," the false prophets who teach that Jesus is not the Christ, the Son of God (v. 22), who have no relationship with the Father (v. 23), who are liars (v. 22) and deceivers (2 John 7; see 2 Thess. 2:3, note).

2:27 Anointing (Gk. chrisma) refers to the role of the indwelling Holy Spirit in teaching God's Word to the believer (v. 20). John was not arguing against careful Bible exposition and the ministry of teaching; he was merely emphasizing the Holy Spirit's role in confirming truth to the believer's heart. Both the Word and the Spirit are necessary to safeguard against doctrinal error (1 John 1:10).

PURITY SINCERITY OF HEART

The essence of purity is to be free from duplicity or doublemindedness, having sincerity of heart (Gk. aploteti, lit. "singularity" or "singleness," Eph. 6:5). This is the root of wholeness and integrity. When James wrote "purify your hearts, you double-minded" (4:8), he equated impurity with having literally "a heart and a heart" (Ps. 12:2). He admonished his readers to seek purity, a singleness of heart toward God.

When Jesus blessed the "pure in heart" (Matt. 5:8), He affirmed that true happiness is loving God with your whole heart, desiring that your whole life please Him. In other words, purity demands the removal of all that would separate you from the holy presence of God (Hab. 1:13).

In the Old Testament, bodily emissions—such as discharges or open sores related to disease, menstrual flow, or the discharge of semen—caused ritual impurity (Lev. 15). Even childbirth was included—probably because of the discharge of blood, (Lev. 12:1–8)—as were the loss of blood and contact with the dead, both of which were associated with death (Num. 19:11).

Being "pure in heart," however, involves inner cleansing: "Create in me a clean heart, O God" (Ps. 51:10). While the classical Greek word for "pure" (katharos) means being free from debt and guilt, the biblical usage includes more than forgiveness. To be pure means to be single-minded—free from the civil war of a divided self. It is being free from falsehood, hypocrisy, or pretense. The woman who is rightly related to Jesus Christ will be pure in heart and life (2 Tim. 2:21, 22).

Everyone who has the hope of seeing God "purifies himself, just as He is pure" (1 John 3:3). Such a person begins and maintains a love relationship with God based on integrity and singularity of purpose. A pure life cannot exist without a pure heart set upon the Lord.

See also Ezek. 36:25; John 17:17–23; 1 John 1:9; notes on Attributes of God (Is. 6); Holiness (Lev. 20); Integrity (Ps. 27); Self-centeredness (James 3); Sexual Purity (1 Cor. 7) children of God![a] Therefore the world does not know us,[b] because it did not know Him. 2Beloved, now we are children of God; and it has not yet been revealed what we shall be, but we know that when He is revealed, we shall be like Him, for we shall see Him as He is. 3And everyone who has this hope in Him purifies himself, just as He is pure.

Sin and the Child of God

4Whoever commits sin also commits lawlessness, and sin is lawlessness. 5And you know that He was manifested to take away our sins, and in Him there is no sin. 6Whoever abides in Him does not sin. Whoever sins has neither seen Him nor known Him.

7Little children, let no one deceive you. He who practices righteousness is righteous, just as He is righteous. 8He who sins is of the devil, for the devil has sinned from the beginning. For this purpose the Son of God was manifested, that He might destroy the works of the devil. 9Whoever has been born of God does not sin, for His seed remains in him; and he cannot sin, because he has been born of God.

The Imperative of Love

10In this the children of God and the children of the devil are manifest: Whoever does not practice righteousness is not of God, nor is he who does not love his brother. 11For this is the message that you heard from the beginning, that we should love one another, 12not as Cain who was of the wicked one and murdered his brother. And why did he murder him? Because his works were evil and his brother's righteous.

13Do not marvel, my brethren, if the world hates you. 14We know that we have passed from

3:1 [a]NU-Text adds And we are. [b]M-Text reads you.

3:6–9 Some false teachers believed that knowledge had made them perfect and sinless. Others maintained that sin did not matter because it did not affect their spiritual souls. John earlier refuted the former error (1 John 1:8, 10). He argued that everyone (including the Christian) sins and that God graciously extends forgiveness to those who sin. In this section, John refuted the latter error (1 John 3:6, 9). Both statements use expressions that indicate a settled character, habitual practice, an engrained propensity toward sin. Therefore, John is not denying the possibility of sin in the Christian; he is merely arguing that habitual sinning is incompatible with the Christian life. It is the incongruity rather than the impossibility of sin in the Christian that John had in mind.

3:9 Habitual sin is not consistent with the Christian life because the Christian has been "born of God" and implanted with the seed of God, which may refer to the Word of God, the Holy Spirit, the divine nature, or some combination of these three. Everyone born of God has received the abiding influence of the seed of God and is constantly compelled to become more and more like Jesus. Believers cannot continue to live in sin (see 2 Cor. 5:17; 2 Pet. 1:4).

3:14 God's essential nature is love (1 John 4:7, 8, 19), and love

LOVE MORE THAN A GOOD FEELING

Throughout Scripture we are assured of God's love and reminded that the proof of God's boundless love is that Christ died for us (Rom. 5:8; 1 John 4:9, 10). But love is not simply meant to make us feel good—rather to motivate us to respond in ways that make us emulate His goodness. Love sometimes demands that we act in very practical and even uncomfortable ways.

- Love is not optional (1 John 3:11, 23; 4:11). We are commanded to love one another.
- Love is demonstrative (1 John 3:14; 4:7, 20). Our love for God is shown to the degree we show love to others.
- Love is active, an act of the will (1 John 3:17). We are commanded to do the acts of love. If we shut our eyes to the needs of others, our love for God is called into question.
- Love is responsive (1 John 4:19). We are able to love because we have been and are loved by God. This love causes us to respond lovingly to others (1 John 4:21).

death to life, because we love the brethren. He who does not love his brother[a] abides in death. 15Whoever hates his brother is a murderer, and you know that no murderer has eternal life abiding in him.

The Outworking of Love

16By this we know love, because He laid down His life for us. And we also ought to lay down our lives for the brethren. 17But whoever has this world's goods, and sees his brother in need, and shuts up his heart from him, how does the love of God abide in him?

18My little children, let us not love in word or in tongue, but in deed and in truth. 19And by this we know[a] that we are of the truth, and shall assure our hearts before Him. 20For if our heart condemns us, God is greater than our heart, and knows all things. 21Beloved, if our heart does not condemn us, we have confidence toward God. 22And whatever we ask we receive from Him, because we keep His commandments and do those things that are pleasing in His sight. 23And this is His commandment: that we should believe on the name of His Son Jesus Christ and love one another, as He gave us[a] commandment.

The Spirit of Truth and the Spirit of Error

24Now he who keeps His commandments abides in Him, and He in him. And by this we know that He abides in us, by the Spirit whom He has given us.

4 Beloved, do not believe every spirit, but test the spirits, whether they are of God; because many false prophets have gone out into the world. 2By this you know the Spirit of God: Every spirit that confesses that Jesus Christ has come in the flesh is of God, 3and every spirit that does not confess that[a] Jesus Christ has come in the flesh is not of God. And this is the spirit of the Antichrist, which you have heard was coming, and is now already in the world.

4You are of God, little children, and have overcome them, because He who is in you is greater than he who is in the world. 5They are of the world. Therefore they speak as of the world, and the world hears them. 6We are of God. He who knows God hears us; he who is not of God does not hear us. By this we know the spirit of truth and the spirit of error.

is His will for His people (1 John 2:7–11; 3:11). True children of God not only renounce sin but also demonstrate their new birth by taking on the very nature of God (see 1 John 4, Attributes of God). Love is the pre-eminent Christian virtue (1 Cor. 13:2; see Love; chart, What Is Love?) It is the firstfruit of the Spirit (Gal. 5:22; see 1 Cor. 13, Love), and the test of true faith (Gal. 5:6; 1 John 3:19). Love is the most striking evidence of whether or not someone is "in" Christ (1 John 2:5). The love we have for others provides the assurance that we have moved from the way of darkness and death to the way of light and life (1 John 2:9, 11).

4:1 John warned his readers not to be naive in their acceptance of doctrinal teachings. He explained that all such teachings must be tested to determine whether they are of divine or evil origin. The surest test of their being inspired by God is christological, that they acknowledge and accept both the human and divine nature of Jesus (vv. 2, 3). This acceptance goes beyond a recognition of Christ's identity. Even evil spirits recognized the deity of Jesus during His ministry (Mark 1:24; 3:11; 5:7, 8). John was saying that the Spirit of God can be discerned because that Spirit always honors the Son of God (John 15:26; 1 Cor. 12:3). To confess Jesus involves a recognition of His true identity, an open proclamation of faith in Him, and the practical dimension of obedience to His Word (1 John 5:2).

Knowing God Through Love

7Beloved, let us love one another, for love is of God; and everyone who loves is born of God and knows God. 8He who does not love does not know God, for God is love. 9In this the love of God was manifested toward us, that God has sent His only begotten Son into the world, that we might live through Him. 10In this is love, not that we loved God, but that He loved us and sent His Son to be the propitiation for our sins. 11Beloved, if God so loved us, we also ought to love one another.

Seeing God Through Love

12No one has seen God at any time. If we love one another, God abides in us, and His love has been perfected in us. 13By this we know that we abide in Him, and He in us, because He has given us of His Spirit. 14And we have seen and testify that the Father has sent the Son as Savior of the world. 15Whoever confesses that Jesus is the Son of God, God abides in him, and he in God. 16And we have known and believed the love that God has for us. God is love, and he who abides in love abides in God, and God in him.

The Consummation of Love

17Love has been perfected among us in this: that we may have boldness in the day of judgment; because as He is, so are we in this world. 18There is no fear in love; but perfect love casts out fear, because fear involves torment. But he who fears has not been made perfect in love. 19We love Him[a] because He first loved us.

Obedience by Faith

20If someone says, "I love God," and hates his brother, he is a liar; for he who does not love his brother whom he has seen, how can[a] he love God whom he has not seen? 21And this commandment we have from Him: that he who loves God must love his brother also.

5 Whoever believes that Jesus is the Christ is born of God, and everyone who loves Him who begot also loves him who is begotten of Him. 2By this we know that we love the children of God, when we love God and keep His commandments. 3For this is the love of God, that we keep His commandments. And His commandments are not burdensome. 4For whatever is born of God overcomes the world. And this is the victory that has overcome the world—our[a] faith. 5Who is he who overcomes the world, but he who believes that Jesus is the Son of God?

4:19 [a]NU-Text omits Him. 4:20 [a]NU-Text reads he cannot. 5:4 [a]M-Text reads your.

4:18 Fear (Gk. phobeomai) means "to be frightened," "alarmed," or "terrified." John pointed out that people fear because they anticipate pain, torture, or punishment. Yet he argued that the person who stands in a relationship of love with God need not be afraid of God. If a person is afraid of God, she does not yet have a mature relationship with Him. As love for God increases, fear is "cast out." The phrase is emphatic: Fear is "driven away." John concluded his thought with a profound statement regarding the believer's relationship to God: "We love Him because He first loved us" (v. 19). God's love is primary; our love is merely a response to His eternal love for us.

ATTRIBUTES OF GOD — HE IS LOVE

Love is not a definition of God—God is infinitely more—but God is the definition of love. Without Him, love does not exist (John 3:16; 1 John 4:8–10). Biblical love (Gk. agapē) is active, yet selfless. Though most graphically and fully illustrated in God's love for us, agapē love is also God's pattern for our love for Him (1 John 4:19) and for our love for one another (Eph. 5:25; 1 Pet. 1:22). Its basis is God's deliberate, active, sacrificial giving of His Son for our redemption. To be loved by God means that He has set His sights on us and is actively wooing us toward Himself at all times.

God's love is self-starting (1 John 4:10), indestructible (Rom. 8:38, 39), undeserved (Rom. 3:23), compassionate (Is. 49:15), constant (Jer. 31:3), immeasurable (Eph. 3:18, 19), voluntary (Rom. 5:8), and a gift (John 3:16). He did not begin loving at the Cross, nor will He love us more tomorrow than He does today. There is nothing we can do, think, or say that will change His love because there are no surprises for God—He knows us totally and loves us anyway (Ps. 139:1–5).

The goal of God's love is to have us with Him throughout eternity (1 John 4:16). He presented and made possible the accomplishment of this goal through Jesus and His sacrifice on the Cross (John 1:14–18).

The Certainty of God's Witness

6 This is He who came by water and blood—Jesus Christ; not only by water, but by water and blood. And it is the Spirit who bears witness, because the Spirit is truth. 7 For there are three that bear witness in heaven: the Father, the Word, and the Holy Spirit; and these three are one. 8 And there are three that bear witness on earth:[a] the Spirit, the water, and the blood; and these three agree as one.

9 If we receive the witness of men, the witness of God is greater; for this is the witness of God which[a] He has testified of His Son. 10 He who believes in the Son of God has the witness in himself; he who does not believe God has made Him a liar, because he has not believed the testimony that God has given of His Son. 11 And this is the testimony: that God has given us eternal life, and this life is in His Son. 12 He who has the Son has life; he who does not have the Son of God does not have life. 13 These things I have written to you who believe in the name of the Son of God, that you may know that you have eternal life,[a] and that you may continue to believe in the name of the Son of God.

Confidence and Compassion in Prayer

14 Now this is the confidence that we have in Him, that if we ask anything according to His will,
He hears us. 15 And if we know that He hears us, whatever we ask, we know that we have the petitions that we have asked of Him.

16 If anyone sees his brother sinning a sin which does not lead to death, he will ask, and He will give him life for those who commit sin not leading to death. There is sin leading to death. I do not say that he should pray about that. 17 All unrighteousness is sin, and there is sin not leading to death.

5:8 [a]NU-Text and M-Text omit the words from in heaven (verse 7) through on earth (verse 8). Only four or five very late manuscripts contain these words in Greek. 5:9 [a]NU-Text reads God, that. 5:13 [a]NU-Text omits the rest of this verse.

5:6–8 Some heretics suggested that the Spirit of God came upon Jesus at the time of His baptism but left Him just before His Crucifixion. Therefore, they maintained that Jesus was not really God when He died. John insisted that Jesus possessed the Holy Spirit throughout His entire earthly life. His divinity was verified by a number of witnesses. On the earth, water, blood, and the Spirit bear testimony. "Water" likely refers to the baptism of Jesus; whereas "blood" refers to His Crucifixion. The Holy Spirit verified the deity of Christ because He foretold Christ's coming, (1 Pet. 1:10–12), revealed His identity to John the Baptist (John 1:32–34; see Mark 1:11) and to the apostles (1 John 1:2; see Matt. 16:17), and indwells those who believe in Him (1 John 5:10). John argued that Jesus was truly God—before His birth, at birth, during His death, when He rose again, and throughout eternity.

5:13 The recipients of John's letter had been unsettled by false teachers and were unsure of their spiritual status. Throughout this letter, John gave them doctrinal, moral, and social tests by which to examine themselves and others. His ultimate aim, as expressed in this verse, is that they might "know" that they have eternal life and that they might "continue" to believe in Jesus. The word "know" indicates a present certainty and assurance. John affirmed that believers can be certain of a number of things. They can know with certainty that the Son of God has come and has given them an understanding. They can know Him who is true and be in Him who is true. Finally, they can be assured that they have fellowship with the true God and that they possess eternal life (1 John 3:20).

5:16, 17 The sin leading to death has been explained in numerous ways. Some suggest that the reference is to sin resulting in physical death. Others explain spiritual death as that which

PRAYER GOD-AUTHORIZED PURPOSES

Prayer is the opportunity God gives His children to become intimately acquainted with Him. As a conversation with God, prayer enables the believer to build a personal relationship with the Lord. Prayer is an expression of a believer's dependence on God and, at the same time, an affirmation of God's promise to the redeemed for spiritual power.

The primary purpose of prayer is to seek God's will (1 John 5:14). Jesus in His model prayer told His disciples to ask according to the will of God (Matt. 6:10). When a believer talks to the Father, each request for help and every desire for guidance should be asked in the name of Jesus. All of the conditions related to prayer are bound up in this phrase—"according to His will."

Prayer provides an opportunity for adoration, praise, thanksgiving, confession of sin, and requests for self and for others. Numerous formats for prayer are possible—in fact, prayer is as unique as each person—but all prayer has as a central purpose the opportunity to express yourself fully and honestly to the Lord, to listen for His reply (very often in the form of insight, assurance, and joy), and to participate in the "mystery" of seeing God's purposes on this earth accomplished.

Prayer also offers an opportunity for Christian fellowship and guidance for the church. Prayer is not intended as a means of impressing others or manipulating God (Matt. 6:5, 6) but as a way of genuinely seeking God's strength and direction.

Knowing the True—Rejecting the False

18 We know that whoever is born of God does not sin; but he who has been born of God keeps himself,[a] and the wicked one does not touch
him.
19 We know that we are of God, and the whole world lies under the sway of the wicked one.
20 And we know that the Son of God has come and has given us an understanding, that we may know Him who is true; and we are in Him who is true, in His Son Jesus Christ. This is the true God and eternal life.
21 Little children, keep yourselves from idols.
Amen.

would come to the false teachers who heard the gospel but openly rejected it. The effectiveness of prayers offered for believers is affirmed (vv. 14–17), but no such assurance accompanies intercession for unbelievers.

2 John

AUTHOR

Technically this epistle is anonymous, but the early church strongly affirmed John the apostle as its author. As was common in a Greek letter, the author identified himself at the beginning—in the case of this epistle, as the "elder" (Gk. presbuteros, lit. "older one"), denoting a position of authority. Furthermore, the author obviously had a personal knowledge and relationship with the recipients (2 John 1; 3 John 1) These observations correspond both with the fact that John wrote his books during his later years and that he likely held a position of great influence within the church (1 Tim. 5:17, 19). In either case, the writer knew and loved the recipients (2 John 1), who respected his teachings (2 John 4–6). An apostle of Jesus, John, the son of Zebedee and brother of James (Mark 1:19, 20), wrote with obvious similarities in style and content as are found in all the works incorporated within the Johannine literature (the Gospel of John; 1, 2, 3 John; Rev.).

DATE

The actual date, place, and order of the letters of John are unknown, but most scholars believe he wrote the epistles after he wrote his Gospel. This would date the letter about A.D. 90.

BACKGROUND

SETTING: This epistle and the other books written by John are believed to have been written from Ephesus while he was ministering to the churches in Asia Minor.

AUDIENCE: John used the expression "the elect lady" (Gk. eklēktē kuria) and "her children" in identifying the recipients of his letter. This designation could refer to a particular woman or to a church body and the individual members of the church, respectively. The personification of the church is not unusual for John (see Rev. 21:9).

PURPOSE: First and 2 John are set in the midst of a similar situation: the teachings of false teachers. Second John, in particular, warns believers about receiving itinerant heretics into their homes (2 John 10). This letter may have been written in anticipation of an upcoming visit (2 John 12).

THEMES

Speaking with authority and assurance, John developed his main themes of "love" (Gk. agapē, occurring four times) and "truth" (Gk. alētheia, occurring five times). "Love" is an outgrowth of maintaining the truth and is a common command of John (see 1 John 5:3; 2 John 6). The "truth" is the revelation that Jesus Christ was both perfectly divine and yet fully human (1 John 4:3; 2 John 7). Heretical theology concerning the Incarnation presented a departure from this "truth." Most scholars agree that the denial of an incarnate Jesus stemmed from the Platonic, pre-Gnostic belief that all matter was evil and thus suggesting that Jesus could never have been both God and man. Such denials were in their beginning stages; however, because of these, John implored "his children" to use spiritual discernment in their contact and support of itinerant teachers (2 John 10, 11).

John exhorted his readers to maintain their strong stance of "walking in truth" and expressing this truth through practical love toward one another. He also warned Christians to be wary of those who do not adhere to the message of Jesus' Incarnation (2 John 7). Christian love does not include offering shelter to false itinerant teachers (2 John 10). Finally, John commended their faithfulness (2 John 4) and expressed his desire to see them again (2 John 12).

Greeting the Elect Lady

The Elder,

To the elect lady and her children, whom I love in truth, and not only I, but also all those who have known the truth, 2because of the truth which abides in us and will be with us forever:

3Grace, mercy, and peace will be with you[a] from God the Father and from the Lord Jesus Christ, the Son of the Father, in truth and love.

Walk in Christ's Commandments

4I rejoiced greatly that I have found some of your children walking in truth, as we received commandment from the Father. 5And now I plead with you, lady, not as though I wrote a new commandment to you, but that which we have had from the beginning: that we love one another.
6This is love, that we walk according to His commandments. This is the commandment, that as you have heard from the beginning, you should walk in it.

Beware of Antichrist Deceivers

7For many deceivers have gone out into the world who do not confess Jesus Christ as coming in the flesh. This is a deceiver and an antichrist.
8Look to yourselves, that we[a] do not lose those things we worked for, but that we[b] may receive a full reward.

9Whoever transgresses[a] and does not abide in the doctrine of Christ does not have God. He who abides in the doctrine of Christ has both the Father and the Son. 10If anyone comes to you and does not bring this doctrine, do not receive him

3 [a]NU-Text and M-Text read us. 8 [a]NU-Text reads you. [b]NU-Text reads you. 9 [a]NU-Text reads goes ahead.

1 Elect lady (Gk. eklēktē kuria, lit. "chosen lady") may refer to John's personification of a local congregation. If this is true, then John's references to the "lady" (v. 5) and "elect sister" (v. 13) would designate churches that know each other. However, it is just as likely that the designation may refer to an esteemed friend (see The Elect Lady).

4–6 John had apparently received news that his readers were following his admonitions. "Walking in truth" requires a heart that believes in the truth of the message of the incarnate Christ and a lifestyle that reveals this message by showing love to others (vv. 5, 6). Belief and action go hand-in-hand (1 John 3:23). Indeed truth is something to believe and live.

9, 10 Transgresses (Gk. parabainō, lit. "run ahead of" or "go before") was used by John sarcastically to criticize the teachers who claimed they had advanced knowledge of Jesus Christ and thus appeared to "run ahead" of the truth spiritually (see Introduction: Themes). John used some of his most intense language to warn his friends not to extend hospitality to such false teachers. Hospitality often included shelter and lodging as well as a formal greeting. To "greet" (Gk. charein) suggests the extension of joy or prosperity. Greeting the false teachers granted a special blessing to them and, in essence, would indicate approval of their wrong deeds and heretical teachings. John argued that Christian hospitality does not extend to include those teachers who twist and malign the Word of God.

THE ELECT LADY

John's second epistle is addressed to "the elect lady and her children." The church, as the bride of Christ, is often referenced in feminine terms. Thus, John was possibly writing to an established group of believers. However, correspondence with an esteemed friend and her family is equally possible. Interestingly, the Greek word kuria, translated "lady," could have been a proper name. If so, John may have been instructing a particular lady regarding a situation she had encountered in her home. Certainly, if that be the case, she is a woman of excellent character whose godly influence touched the lives of those around her, including her own children.

The Roman Empire had an extensive network of roads, allowing its citizens to travel freely and extensively. Inns were located at twenty-two-mile intervals, but the average inn was unsanitary, noisy, and frequented by thieves. People therefore tried to stay with acquaintances or acquaintances of friends when they traveled. Because the gospel was being spread by traveling missionaries, hospitality was considered one of the chief expressions of Christian love (Rom. 12:13; Heb. 13:16). Unfortunately, when it became known that Christians would feed and house those who claimed to be spreading the gospel, many pseudo-missionaries began to take advantage of them. The elect lady may have found herself in this situation.

John exhorted her to continue to offer hospitality but cautioned her to be alert to spot deceivers. He encouraged her to balance the Christian imperative to love with safeguards against the abuse of Christian fellowship. Even in the midst of hospitality and other ministries, a woman must walk in truth and lovingly admonish her children in the ways of the Lord.

into your house nor greet him; [11]for he who greets him shares in his evil deeds.

John's Farewell Greeting

[12]Having many things to write to you, I did not wish to do so with paper and ink; but I hope to come to you and speak face to face, that our joy may be full.

[13]The children of your elect sister greet you. Amen.

3 John

TITLE

John, the apostle of Jesus Christ, is also known as the "beloved disciple." He probably wrote this letter from the city of Ephesus. John referred to himself as "THE ELDER," meaning he was in a position of influence and authority in the church.

DATE

John wrote this letter near the end of his life between A.D. 80 and 95, probably about A.D. 90 or about the same time he wrote 2 John.

BACKGROUND

SETTING: In 2 John, the apostle's specific concern was truth; in 3 John, his concern is love. Three key concepts are skillfully interwoven in this brief epistle: love, truth, and witness. Six times John used a form of "love" or "beloved" (Gk. agapē). John also mentioned "truth" seven times in this letter (3 John 1, 3, 4, 8, 12). He encouraged believers to know the truth and to continue to "walk" in it, giving testimony of their being of God (3 John 3, 4, 11).

PURPOSE: The apostle John wrote to encourage his friend Gaius to hold to the "truth." He also encouraged Gaius to continue in the ministry of hospitality. Included in John's letter is a rebuke directed towards Diotrephes, a domineering man in one of the Asian churches. Diotrephes was rebuked for spurning John's authority and for refusing hospitality to traveling missionaries. Also included is a commendation of Demetrius, whose life exemplified true Christian faith and conduct.

AUDIENCE: This letter was sent to Gaius, a man in a church in Asia Minor. Gaius was a common Roman name (see Acts 19:29; 20:4; Rom. 16:23). Nothing is known about this Gaius, except that John loved Gaius as his spiritual child (3 John 4).

THEMES

In this brief epistle, several themes appear:

- The truth of the gospel;
- The love of the truth;
- The ministry of hospitality;
- The unfolding of a good testimony.

- II. The Duty of Hospitality (vv. 5–8)
- III. A Warning Against Diotrephes (vv. 9, 10)

PRAYER ASKING FOR GOD'S PROVISION

Many Christians have needs that are not met simply because they do not pray (James 4:2). While God does not promise to provide all we want, He does provide all we need (Phil. 4:19). He is our all-sufficient Provider.

Prayer for provision is generally expressed in one of two ways: personal petitions or intercession. Personal petitions are the requests a believing woman makes for her own needs. Intercessions are prayers for the needs of others. Even when the believer does not know fully how to pray, the Holy Spirit intercedes on the believer's behalf (Rom. 8:26, 27).

While the model prayer Jesus gave includes only a request for daily bread (Matt. 6:11), Jesus introduced that prayer to His followers by telling them to ask the Father for whatever they needed (Matt. 6:8). God promises to provide for the needs of His children. He provides for their physical needs of food, clothing, and shelter. He provides for their spiritual needs through prayer, Bible study, and ministries in His name. He provides for their personal needs through intimate relationships with God and other believers. God will provide for His children as they seek His help through prayer. God desires to provide for our total well-being—spiritually, physically, and materially (3 John 2). His source of supply is unlimited!

Greeting to Gaius

The Elder,

To the beloved Gaius, whom I love in truth:

2Beloved, I pray that you may prosper in all things and be in health, just as your soul prospers.
3For I rejoiced greatly when brethren came and testified of the truth that is in you, just as you walk in the truth. 4I have no greater joy than to hear that my children walk in truth.[a]

Gaius Commended for Generosity

5Beloved, you do faithfully whatever you do for the brethren and[a] for strangers, 6who have borne witness of your love before the church. If you send them forward on their journey in a manner worthy of God, you will do well, 7because they went forth for His name's sake, taking nothing from the Gentiles. 8We therefore ought to receive[a] such, that we may become fellow workers for the truth.

Diotrephes and Demetrius

9I wrote to the church, but Diotrephes, who loves to have the preeminence among them, does not receive us. 10Therefore, if I come, I will call to mind his deeds which he does, prating against us with malicious words. And not content with that, he himself does not receive the brethren, and forbids those who wish to, putting them out of the church.

11Beloved, do not imitate what is evil, but what is good. He who does good is of God, but[a] he who does evil has not seen God.

12Demetrius has a good testimony from all, and from the truth itself. And we also bear witness, and you know that our testimony is true.

Farewell Greeting

13I had many things to write, but I do not wish to write to you with pen and ink; 14but I hope to see you shortly, and we shall speak face to face.

Peace to you. Our friends greet you. Greet the friends by name.

3, 4 The theme of truth stands out (vv. 1, 3, 4, 8, 12). Gaius may have withstood false teaching. He was habitually conducting himself in the "sphere of the truth." This included his moral, intellectual, and spiritual life, and his total devotion to the true gospel. John rejoiced that his spiritual child was habitually abiding and walking in the truth of the gospel (see 1 John 2:6, 28).

6 Christian missionaries rightly took nothing from the pagans; so they were dependent on help from the Christians on their journeys. As God's representatives, they were to be treated as one would treat God (see Matt. 25:35–40). Hospitality is a Christian duty that pleases God (see 1 Pet. 4, Hospitality; chart, Hospitality or Entertainment).

9 John described three men in his letter. Gaius actively demonstrated his faith through love and hospitality toward others (v. 5). He entertained traveling missionaries, even though others disapproved of this practice (v. 10). Diotrephes was another prominent member of an Asian church. Whether he and Gaius were members of the same church or different churches is not known. He arrogantly refused to associate with traveling missionaries and tried to excommunicate those who did. In pride and arrogance, Diotrephes spurned the authority of John and caused division in the church (vv. 9, 10). Demetrius had a good reputation among believers (v. 12). Gaius and Demetrius had accepted truth and were walking in it. Diotrephes trusted in his own knowledge and rejected rightful authority. Throughout this letter, John emphasized the necessity to know the truth, to submit to the truth, and to act on the truth.

Jude

AUTHOR

The writer of this epistle identified himself as Jude, "a bondservant of Jesus Christ, and brother of James" (Jude 1). From very early in the history of the church, Jude was recognized as not only the brother of James, the well-known leader of the church in Jerusalem, but, like James, as the half-brother of the Lord. He did not refer to himself as an apostle but rested his authority first on his servanthood to Jesus and then on his relationship to James.

Matthew 13:55 and Mark 6:3 refer to the brothers of Jesus. Among the names given are James and Judas (or Jude). If this writer is actually a brother of Jesus, why doesn't he clearly say so? The answer, given from as far back in church history as Clement of Alexandria (second century), is his humility. Jude's brother James was commonly understood to be the brother of the Lord, and Jude found it sufficient to use his relationship to James to make his introduction. Both James and Jude preferred to think of themselves as servants of Jesus. Perhaps they did so out of humble acknowledgment that during their family life with Him they did not believe in Him (see John 7:5).

DATE

Any attempt to establish the date of this letter immediately faces the questions raised by the relationship between 2 Peter and Jude. Even a casual reading reveals striking similarities between the two books. Scholars have wondered whether one author used the other's work. Some believe that Jude used Peter's letter. These date the writing of Jude after Peter's death, which occurred about A.D. 66 or 67. Others say that Jude's letter has priority, dating it before Peter's martyrdom. A third possibility is that both Peter and Jude made use of a common source, a catechetical tract used in the early church to instruct believers about false teachers. If that was the case, an early date is indicated. Assigning the epistle an exact date is impossible; however, probably Jude was written sometime between A.D. 65–80.

BACKGROUND

SETTING: The place from which the Book of Jude was written has never been identified with certainty, although Palestine and Egypt have been suggested.

AUDIENCE: The epistle does not give any information about its original recipients. Nevertheless, the content of the letter indicates that Jude's intended audience was well versed in Old Testament Scripture. The author commended them for their knowledge of the Exodus (Jude 5), angels (Jude 6), and the destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah (Jude 7). They are also acquainted with Jewish literature current in the first century (Jude 9, 14). Furthermore, there are no references to Gentiles. It appears, therefore, that the recipients of Jude's letter were Jewish converts to Christianity who had been dispersed throughout Asia Minor.

PURPOSE: Jude's purpose was to discuss salvation. The false teachers made it necessary for him to add a warning about the mixture of truth and error.

THEMES

Apparently Jude intended to write about the salvation he and his readers had in common (Jude 3), but news of a dangerous heresy caused him to change direction. He devoted the major part of his epistle to instructing believers concerning false teachers who were infiltrating the Christian community. He gave graphic descriptions of the corruptions they taught and the destruction for which they were headed. Near the end of the epistle, he reminded the believers to be devoted to edifying themselves with their "most holy faith" (Jude 20). Jude concluded his letter with what has become one of the most beloved benedictions in the Christian church (Jude 24, 25).

Greeting to the Called

Jude, a bondservant of Jesus Christ, and brother of James,

To those who are called, sanctified[a] by God the Father, and preserved in Jesus Christ:

2 Mercy, peace, and love be multiplied to you.

Contend for the Faith

3 Beloved, while I was very diligent to write to you concerning our common salvation, I found it necessary to write to you exhorting you to contend earnestly for the faith which was once for all delivered to the saints. 4 For certain men have crept in unnoticed, who long ago were marked out for this condemnation, ungodly men, who turn the grace of our God into lewdness and deny the only Lord God[a] and our Lord Jesus Christ.

Old and New Apostates

5 But I want to remind you, though you once knew this, that the Lord, having saved the people out of the land of Egypt, afterward destroyed those who did not believe. 6 And the angels who did not keep their proper domain, but left their own abode, He has reserved in everlasting chains under darkness for the judgment of the great day; 7 as Sodom and Gomorrah, and the cities around them in a similar manner to these, having given themselves over to sexual immorality and gone after strange flesh, are set forth as an example, suffering the vengeance of eternal fire.

8 Likewise also these dreamers defile the flesh, reject authority, and speak evil of dignitaries. 9 Yet Michael the archangel, in contending with the devil, when he disputed about the body of Moses,

1 [a]NU-Text reads beloved. 4 [a]NU-Text omits God.

6 Jude reviewed examples of how disobedience against God in the past brought about divine judgment (vv. 5–7). He pointed out that God did not even spare the angels who rebelled but imprisoned them (v. 6). Jude cited a reference from I Enoch, an apocryphal book with which he was sure his audience was familiar. According to this account, some angels who participated in Satan's rebellion were immediately imprisoned with chains, where they still await their final judgment. Others remain active agents of Satan. If even the angels do not escape punishment for their pride, then certainly those who "deny the only Lord God and our Lord Jesus Christ" will not escape (v. 4).

POSITIVE THINKING — GOD'S THOUGHTS, OUR THOUGHTS

An entire branch of popular psychology is based on this proverb: "As he thinks in his heart, so is he" (Prov. 23:7). Psychologists teach that the way people think affects their emotions, their ability to relate to others, and their ability to cope in difficult circumstances. They maintain that positive thinking increases happiness and success in life.

Christians are to be positive thinkers (Phil. 4:11, 13). However, the Bible teaches that this trait is not gained through mere personal effort. Rather, it is a byproduct of the indwelling presence of the Holy Spirit. Believers are to meditate on things that are true, noble, just, pure, lovely, and of good report (Phil. 4:8). Their minds are to be filled with virtuous and praiseworthy thoughts. Those whose hearts have not been changed by God's Spirit will find that ultimately they are powerless to combat the evil in their minds, for the condition of their hearts determines the condition of their thoughts (Matt. 15:19), and ungodly thoughts will inevitably manifest themselves in ungodly speech and action (Jude 15, 16). The power of the Holy Spirit enables the Christian to make every thought obedient to Christ (2 Cor. 10:5) and truly to think, speak, and act positively.

dared not bring against him a reviling accusation, but said, "The Lord rebuke you!" 10But these speak evil of whatever they do not know; and whatever they know naturally, like brute beasts, in these things they corrupt themselves. 11Woe to them! For they have gone in the way of Cain, have run greedily in the error of Balaam for profit, and perished in the rebellion of Korah.

Apostates Depraved and Doomed

12These are spots in your love feasts, while they feast with you without fear, serving only themselves. They are clouds without water, carried about[a] by the winds; late autumn trees without fruit, twice dead, pulled up by the roots; 13raging waves of the sea, foaming up their own shame; wandering stars for whom is reserved the blackness of darkness forever.

14Now Enoch, the seventh from Adam, prophesied about these men also, saying, "Behold, the Lord comes with ten thousands of His saints, 15to execute judgment on all, to convict all who are ungodly among them of all their ungodly deeds which they have committed in an ungodly way, and of all the harsh things which ungodly sinners have spoken against Him."

Apostates Predicted

16These are grumblers, complainers, walking according to their own lusts; and they mouth great swelling words, flattering people to gain advantage. 17But you, beloved, remember the words which were spoken before by the apostles of our Lord Jesus Christ: 18how they told you that there would be mockers in the last time who would walk according to their own ungodly lusts. 19These are sensual persons, who cause divisions, not having the Spirit.

Maintain Your Life with God

20But you, beloved, building yourselves up on your most holy faith, praying in the Holy Spirit, 21keep yourselves in the love of God, looking for the mercy of our Lord Jesus Christ unto eternal life.

22And on some have compassion, making a distinction;[a] 23but others save with fear, pulling them

12 [a]NU-Text and M-Text read along. 22 [a]NU-Text reads who are doubting (or making distinctions).

11 Jude pronounced a woe on corrupt teachers in much the same way that Jesus did in His public teaching. To make his point as specific as possible, Jude used three examples of individuals in Israel's history to depict the characteristics of the false teachers. Cain was unloving toward even his brother Abel. He envied the good deeds that Abel did (see Gen. 4:1–15). Balaam, in his greed for money, led Israel into immorality and idolatry at Baal Peor (see Num. 22—24; 31:16). Korah rebelled against God's appointed leaders of Israel (see Num. 16:1–40) and suffered a dramatic fate. The evil teachers who threatened the Christian believers of Jude's day were likewise characterized by selfishness, envy, hatred, greed, immorality, idolatry, and rebellion.

14, 15 Jude ended his dramatic description of the false teachers by predicting an inescapable judgment for them (v. 13). He again quoted a passage from the apocryphal book of I Enoch, a volume of religious writing widely known and respected in the two centuries before and after the birth of Christ. The author of I Enoch prophesied concerning a future judgment by the Lord. He pictured the Lord coming with "ten thousands of His saints" to execute judgment. Jesus affirmed that "when the Son of Man comes in His glory, and all the holy angels with Him, then He will sit on the throne of His glory" (Matt. 25:31). Although Jude did not regard as Scripture the apocryphal quote he used, he recognized that it accurately portrayed what would happen at the end of time. God will execute judgment, and the ungodly will not escape punishment.

22, 23 Although Jude deplored and condemned false teachers, he recommended an attitude of compassion toward those who were swayed by their message. Some required gentle out of the fire,[a] hating even the garment defiled by the flesh.

Glory to God

24 Now to Him who is able to keep you[a] from stumbling,
And to present you faultless
Before the presence of His glory with exceeding joy, 25 To God our Savior,[a]
Who alone is wise,[b]
Be glory and majesty,
Dominion and power,[c]
Both now and forever.
Amen.

correction; others, however, would need to be pulled "out of the fire" forcefully (v. 23). Jude used the image of soiled clothes as a metaphor for sin (see Zech. 3:3, 4; Rev. 3:4). He said that Christians ought to hate "even the garment defiled by the flesh" (Jude 23). Jude wanted his readers to avoid all contamination by sin, hating sin as much as they would loathe soiled undergarments. To treat sin as normal and commonplace is a temptation. However, Jude identified this attitude as a betrayal of the gospel. Christians have been "clothed" in righteousness. Therefore, they ought to be repulsed by their old, filthy "garment" of sin.

Revelation

AUTHOR

Some early church fathers ascribed the authorship of Revelation to John the apostle. Beginning with this early tradition, the John who wrote the Book of Revelation has been identified as John the apostle (Rev. 1:1, 4, 9; 21:2; 22:8). No solid evidence refutes this view. The language and style of Revelation differ from that of the Gospel and Epistles of John. However, these differences could be due to the literary nature of the Book of Revelation as apocalyptic writing (see Introduction: Literary Characteristics). Revelation's description of Jesus as the "Word" and the "Lamb of God" mirrors those within the fourth gospel, adding weight to the argument that the apostle John was the author. He identified himself as a servant of Jesus (Rev. 1:1) and as a brother and companion to the recipients of his letter (Rev. 1:9). Some scholars maintain that Revelation 1:2 is not only a reference to the visions of the book but also an apostolic claim.

The John of Revelation witnessed "the word of God" and "the testimony of Jesus Christ, to all things that he saw," suggesting that the author was the apostle (Rev. 1:2). A primary criterion for apostolic authority was to be an eyewitness to the message, ministry, and Resurrection of Jesus Christ (see Acts 1:21, 22).

DATE

Revelation was written during a period of impending persecution for Christians. The Roman emperor Nero officially sanctioned the torture and extermination of Christians, whom he blamed for the great fire in Rome in A.D. 64. Following his suicide in A.D. 68, emperor worship grew, reaching its peak during the reign of Domitian (A.D. 81–96). During this time, the persecution of Christians intensified. Early church tradition strongly favors the latter part of Domitian's reign (A.D. 90–96) as the date for Revelation.

BACKGROUND

SETTING: Augustus, who succeeded Julius Caesar as emperor of Rome, encouraged his subjects to regard emperors as "gods." Caligula reinforced this concept, and from the time of Nero to Domitian "the cult of the emperor" gained greater and greater influence. Citizens and subjects of the empire who refused to confess that the emperor was divine and to worship him were tortured, executed, or exiled as traitors.

John was exiled to the island of Patmos, a prison island that may have been used to quarry rock. He wrote the Book of Revelation during his exile there.

PURPOSE: John received his revelation about the victory of God in the face of terror and evil during a period of great persecution for the church. In the Book of Revelation, God's impending judgment of the wicked Roman Empire is a prelude to His judgment at the end of time. John's message is that God has already triumphed over evil and that He will totally destroy all evil at the end of time. John wanted the Christians in the churches of Asia to let the knowledge of God's ultimate victory encourage them to perseverance and faith in the midst of persecution.

AUDIENCE: Revelation is addressed to seven churches located in seven cities of the Roman province of Asia, an area now known as Turkey (Rev. 1:4). The cities were situated in a circular pattern (see map, The Seven Churches of Asia Minor). They may have served as centralized postal centers for surrounding geographical regions. Likely the entire Book of Revelation was circulated to all the churches in the province.

LITERARY CHARACTERISTICS: Revelation is an example of apocalyptic literature, which flourished during the last two centuries B.C. and the first century A.D. An apocalypse is a revelation or unveiling made by an angel or other celestial being. The message is expressed in vivid, and sometimes picturesque, symbols. The apocalyptists were pessimistic about human efforts to overcome evil. They expressed the conviction that God would intervene and forcibly destroy the evil forces that oppressed His people. Often, this deliverance was associated with the coming of the Messiah, who would inaugurate the kingdom of God.

Revelation differs from traditional apocalyptic literature in several ways. Apocalypses were usually pseudonymous, written in the name of some illustrious figure of the past. But John emphasized that he was writing what had been personally revealed to him (Rev. 1:1, 4, 9; 21:2; 22:8).

John's apocalypse was optimistic. Although it portrayed the massive struggle between good and evil, John was confident that a decisive victory was at hand: God's Messiah, Jesus, had already come, had already conquered, and would come again to complete His work. Finally, John repeatedly called his writing a prophecy (Rev. 1:3; 22:7, 10, 18, 19). Apocalypses were traditionally written to recount past historical events. John, on the other hand, took the stance of a prophet, looking resolutely to the future and the return of Christ.

THEMES

The primary emphasis of the Book of Revelation or the Apocalypse (Gk. apokalupsis, lit. "unveiling") is the triumphant Christ who is unveiled in His glory. Many refer to the book as eschatology (Gk., lit. "study of the last"). Eschatology is not merely a study of the end times but the historic completion of the revealed purposes of God. The book unfolds into natural divisions (Rev. 1:19): "the things which you have seen" or John's vision of the resurrected and glorified Christ (Rev. 1); "the things which are" or a description of the churches (Rev. 2; 3); and "the things which will take place after this" or a prophetic unfolding of future events (Rev. 4—22). The central event is the return of Jesus Christ (Rev. 1:7).

Introduction and Benediction

1 The Revelation of Jesus Christ, which God gave Him to show His servants—things which must shortly take place. And He sent and signified it by His angel to His servant John, 2who bore witness to the word of God, and to the testimony of Jesus Christ, to all things that he saw. 3Blessed is he who reads and those who hear the words of this prophecy, and keep those things which are written in it; for the time is near.

Greeting the Seven Churches

4John, to the seven churches which are in Asia:

Grace to you and peace from Him who is and who was and who is to come, and from the seven Spirits who are before His throne, 5and from Jesus Christ, the faithful witness, the firstborn from the dead, and the ruler over the kings of the earth.

1:1–3 Time in the framework of eternity is beyond human understanding. (see v. 3; Rev. 22:6, 7, 10, 20). A better translation of "shortly" (Gk. en tachei) is "certainly." Though some of the book had reference to events at hand, much also looks forward to the future consummation of history in Christ. From an eternal perspective, end-time events are just around the corner, and believers must order their lives accordingly.

1:4–8 Him who is and who was and who is to come is an adaptation of the name God made known to Moses in the revelation of the burning bush and emphasizes the eternal nature of God the Father (v. 4; see Ex. 3:14). The "seven Spirits" symbolize the Holy Spirit (Rev. 1:4; see v. 20; Zech. 4:1–6; chart, The Significance of Numbers in Scripture). That the "seven Spirits" are before the throne (Rev. 1:4; 4:5) and are the seven eyes of the Lamb (Rev. 5:6) reinforces that the Spirit is also God. The description of Jesus Christ emphasizes His victory over death, His role of Redeemer, and His rule over the nations of the world (Rev. 1:7, see also Dan. 7:13; Zech. 12:10). Alpha and Omega are the first and last letters of the Greek alphabet (Rev. 1:8), underscoring that God is sovereign and eternal. Several times John applied titles used of the Father to Christ (Rev. 22:13).

Perspective

THE BIBLE IS GOD'S LOVE LETTER (Drawn from Just Enough Light for the Step I'm On)

People who say the Bible isn't relevant today obviously don't know the Author. They read it like a storybook or a history lesson, having no idea of the power behind it. They don't hear the Shepherd's voice because they have not become one of His sheep. But those of us who immerse ourselves in it, who press in deeper and deeper, know its power. We love His Word like a love letter that we read over and over because we desire to be close to the one who wrote it. We long to connect with and remember everything about that person. We want to understand how he thinks. We yearn to hear his voice again in our mind. We crave his touch. When we hunger for those same things from God, we learn to appreciate His love letter—the Bible—in that exact way.

Of course, if we don't love the person who sent us the love letter, it is meaningless. It holds no life for us. The key to receiving the full message in God's love letter is to love God. Because I love Him, I hear His voice speaking to me when I read His Word. If I read it often, the words find residence in my heart and bring me life.

God's Love Letters Guide Us. In the theater, lights at the front of the stage that are level with the performer's feet are called footlights. They act as a guide to help the actors know where to go and keep them from falling into the orchestra pit. God has provided footlights for us, too—to guide us as we walk and to keep us from falling into the pit.

Those of us who have read the Bible many times from cover to cover have to be careful not to fall into the trap of thinking that the light we had last year, last month, last week, or even yesterday is enough to keep us safely on the path today. Neither can we read God's Word just once and then be finished like we can with any other book. The light we receive from God's Word must be renewed, revitalized, and solidly reestablished daily.

God's Love Letters Defend Us. When Satan came to tempt Jesus in the wilderness, Jesus spoke the Word of God to refute everything Satan said. Jesus told him that we live "by every word that proceeds from the mouth of God" (Matt. 4:4). If God's own Son refuted the devil in that way, shouldn't we do the same? Only God's Word in our mind, on our heart, and out of our lips will burn away the darkness of untruth and arm us with a double-edged sword more powerful than any weapon the opposition can use against us. Who does not need that?

God's Love Letters Give Us Hope. There are no times so hopeless in our lives that God's Word will not shed light on the situation and bring us comfort. If you find yourself struggling with hopelessness, loss, sickness, or temptation, make God's Word an ongoing presence in your life. Hook up to it like an IV and let it flow continuously through your spiritual veins. Its light will burn hopelessness out of your life.

Hunger for God's Word like food. Thirst for it like water. Soak in it like a Jacuzzi. Put it on like a garment. Weave it into your soul so that it becomes part of the fabric of your life. When you do, you won't just be trudging up the trail. You will be dancing in the footlights.

To Him who loved us and washed[a] us from our sins in His own blood, [6]and has made us kings[a] and priests to His God and Father, to Him be glory and dominion forever and ever. Amen.

[7]Behold, He is coming with clouds, and every eye will see Him, even they who pierced Him. And all the tribes of the earth will mourn because of Him. Even so, Amen.

[8]"I am the Alpha and the Omega, the Beginning and the End,"[a] says the Lord,[b] "who is and who was and who is to come, the Almighty."

Vision of the Son of Man

[9]I, John, both[a] your brother and companion in the tribulation and kingdom and patience of Jesus Christ, was on the island that is called Patmos for the word of God and for the testimony of Jesus Christ. [10]I was in the Spirit on the Lord's Day, and I heard behind me a loud voice, as of a trumpet, [11]saying, "I am the Alpha and the Omega, the First

1:11–18 John described Christ as "One like the Son of Man" (v. 13; see Dan. 7:13). Jesus favored this title to describe Himself and His mission (Matt. 16:13; Mark 8:31; Luke 19:10; John 13:31).

1:19 This key verse suggests the structure of the book (see Introduction: Themes).

FRUIT OF THE SPIRIT — FAITHFULNESS

Faithfulness is the quality descriptive of God's ongoing relationship to the world and a believer's desired relationship to God and to others. The Old and New Testaments praise God for His faithfulness and challenge God's people to develop faithfulness in their lives. Steadfast loyalty and unwavering trust are considered essential virtues for personal and spiritual growth.

"Faithfulness" (Gk. pistis) is a manifestation of the fruit of the Spirit that pertains to loyalty and trustworthiness. Scripture teaches that God is faithful (Lam. 3:22, 23). Jesus was praised by the Father for His faithfulness even unto death on the Cross (Phil. 2:7–10). Many of those who followed the Lord were called faithful. Moses was faithful in the face of oppression (Heb. 11:23–25), and Ruth was faithful as she experienced great loss (Ruth 1:16). The early church was faithful when facing persecution (Acts 8:4), and Paul was faithful in his ministry (2 Tim. 4:6–8).

Believers today are called to faithfulness to God, to self, and to others. A believer is challenged to maintain steadfast trust in God, even amidst trials and suffering. Faithfulness to self results from faith in God and precedes faithfulness to others. Dependability and commitment to others is an essential expression of faithfulness in love and service.

The Lord said, "Be faithful until death, and I will give you the crown of life" (Rev. 2:10). The unfailing faith of a follower of Christ will be rewarded for all eternity.

'These things says He who holds the seven stars in His right hand, who walks in the midst of the seven golden lampstands: 2"I know your works, your labor, your patience, and that you cannot bear those labored for My name's sake and have not become weary. 4Nevertheless I have this against you, that you have left your first love. 5Remember therefore from where you have fallen; repent and do the first works, or else I will come to you quickly and remove your lampstand from its place— unless you repent. 6But this you have, that you hate the deeds of the Nicolaitans, which I also hate.

1:20 Each of the seven letters in Revelation is addressed to the "angel" (Gk. angelos, lit. "messenger") of the respective church. Though not identified with certainty, this "angel" may be the pastor or shepherd of the congregation addressed. The churches themselves are symbolized by the lampstand (Zech. 4:1–6).

The letters follow a common pattern: Christ began with a statement about Himself, continued with a description of the church, and concluded with a promise. He commended the church; He presented the complaints (if any) against them; He corrected their error (see chart, The Seven Churches of Revelation).

2:1–7 Ephesus, the most important seaport and the major cultural, commercial, and religious center in Asia Minor, was famous for its temple to Artemis, its superstitious practices, and magical arts (Acts 19:19, 35; see chart, Graeco-Roman Goddesses).The identity of the Nicolaitans, as well as the nature of their practices, is unclear. "Nicolaitan" may also be a play on two Greek words (nikaō and laos), meaning "people conquerors" or "overcomers of the people," and perhaps stressing the authoritarian nature of the group.

2:8–11 The church in Smyrna, modern-day Izmir, is addressed in the second letter (see chart, The Seven Churches of Revela-

Indeed, the devil is about to throw some of you into prison, that you may be tested, and you will have tribulation ten days. Be faithful until death, and I will give you the crown of life.

The Compromising Church

17"He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches. To him who overcomes I will give some of the hidden manna to eat. And I will give him a white stone, and on the stone a new name written which no one knows except him who receives it." '

tion). This beautiful coastal city was situated at the end of the eastern Asian trade route and was a center for Roman emperor worship. Polycarp, the most famous of the early church's martyrs, was the bishop of Smyrna. This church is one of two for whom the Lord has no criticism. Two words for the devil are used in Revelation: diabolos (Gk., lit. "slanderer" or "accuser," v. 10) and "Satan" (Heb., lit. "adversary," vv. 9, 13, 24). The devil is the one who opposes and accuses the people of God (see Zech. 3:1; Job 1:6–12; 1 Pet. 5:8; see charts, Names for Satan; A Portrait of the Adversary).

2:12–17 Pergamos, modern-day Bergama, was the ancient capital of Asia. On the cone-shaped hill towering 800 feet above the surrounding valley many temples were built, the most famous of which was dedicated to Asklepius, the Greek god of healing. This center for the cultic worship of the emperor, was also a prominent center for pagan cults, including the cult of Zeus Soter (Gk., lit. "Zeus, the Savior") and the healing cult of Asklepius. "Satan's throne" almost certainly referred to these Satanic cults. Antipas, a member of the Pergamite church, demonstrated his firm commitment to Jesus Christ as the first Christian martyr of Asia. According to tradition, he was slowly roasted to death in a bronze kettle during the reign of Domitian. The prophet Balaam had been asked by Balak, king of Moab, to curse Israel. But Balaam was restrained by God and admonished three times to bless the nation instead (Num. 22—24). Afterwards, Balaam apparently advised Balak that Israel would forfeit God's blessing and protection if the Moabites could seduce the Israelites by using women, probably temple prostitutes. The Israelites did succumb to sexual immorality and pagan sexual rituals and were judged by God for this transgression (Num. 25:1–3; 31:15, 16). Christ warned the church in Pergamos that if they would not repent of this sensuality and antinomianism (meaning "against the law"), He would fight against them with the sword of His mouth (Rev. 2:16).

2:17 God miraculously fed the children of Israel with manna in the wilderness. Afterwards, a pot of manna was put into the ark in the tabernacle (Ex. 16:32–34; Heb. 9:4). White stones were used to signify acquittal by a jury; they were also used as tokens of admission to public festivals or banquets.

2:18–29 Although not a strong seat of emperor worship, Thyatira, known today as Akhisar, was founded as a military outpost and known for its many trade guilds. To participate in the trade industry, a citizen needed to be a member of the appropriate guild. Guild members often participated in common meals dedicated to pagan deities—meals that often ended in unbridled sexual orgies. The Thyatiran church tolerated Jezebel (almost certainly a name used by John to refer to the woman's character), who taught sexual immorality and who, like the Balaamites, was associated with idolatry (v. 20; see Jezebel; see also 1 Kin. 16:29–33; 18, Jezebel; chart, Women in the Book of Revelation). Judgment on God's people is discipline, meant for correction, but judgment on the truly wicked (those who have ultimately rejected the gospel) is for eternity.

JEZEBEL A False Prophetess

Jezebel, the wicked queen of Israel during the ninth century B.C., led the covenant people into the worship of pagan gods. She constantly clamored for her gods to have the same rights as the Lord God of Israel. She was a strong, self-willed character who manipulated and controlled others in order to get her way (1 Kin. 21:25, 26).

The name "Jezebel" means "without cohabitation." Jezebel refused to "live together" or "co-habit" with anyone; she yielded to no authority except her own. She encouraged God's people to commit both physical and spiritual fornication in the idolatrous worship of other gods. This "harlotry" was intolerable to Yahweh, and He condemned Jezebel, her husband Ahab, and all their offspring, to death (1 Kin. 21:23–25).

In Revelation 2:20, the church of Thyatira is rebuked for tolerating "that woman Jezebel" in their midst. The historic Jezebel had been dead for nearly a thousand years, but a false prophetess with the same spirit had appeared in this first-century church. Like the first Jezebel, she was fiercely independent and unsubmissive in character. Also like Jezebel, she led the people of God into idolatry and immorality under the guise of religion. This woman promoted a proto-Gnostic heresy that claimed to tap into the secret mysteries and "the depths" of God—a phrase which she undoubtedly borrowed from Paul's letters (Rom. 11:33; 1 Cor. 2:10). Her doctrines bore enough semblance to orthodox Christianity to "seduce" Christ's servants, but in essence, her degenerate mysticism promoted "the depths of Satan" by encouraging believers to accept idolatry and pagan state-worship (Rev. 2:24). Even though the majority of the church in Thyatira were increasing in love and faith, they were tolerant of this woman and her evil teaching. Christ was not so tolerant. He responds with a grim humor: Do Jezebel and her followers want to get into bed? Do they, as His Bride, want to commit physical and spiritual adultery? If so, then Christ would personally provide a bed in which they could lay—a "bed" of sickness, tribulation, and death.

Jezebel typifies a spirit of independence and rebellion against God. This spirit, which arrogantly accommodates Christianity to the religious mind-set of the world, is a spirit which God does not tolerate (see Rom. 12:2). The Lord says, "On this one will I look: On him who is humble and of a contrite spirit, and who trembles at My word" (Is. 66:2).

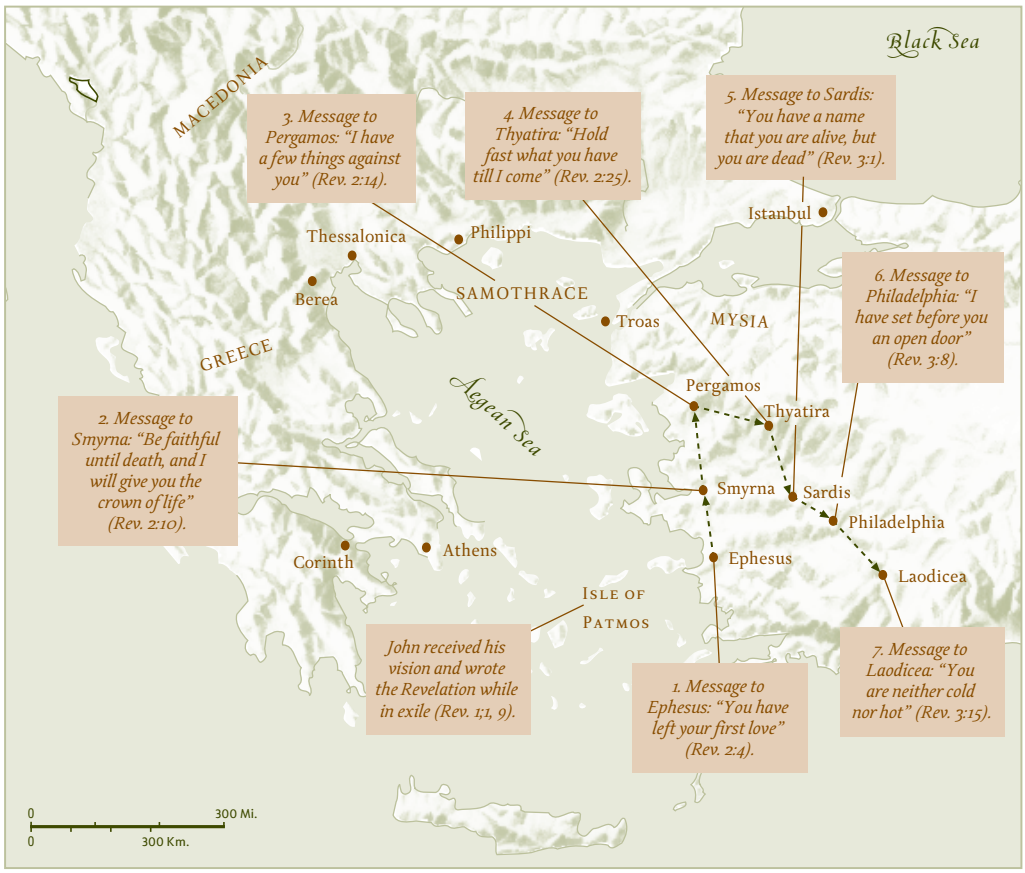
THE SEVEN CHURCHES OF ASIA MINOR



The seven churches named actually existed in seven cities of Asia Minor during John's time (Rev. 2:3). Some believe that these churches represent seven periods of church history from the time of Christ until the time of His return. Others believe they depict various types of Christian congregations that have existed throughout history.

22:22). As the king's representative, Eliakim was authorized to exercise full authority in administering the affairs of the palace. The people of Israel, and the Jews living in Philadelphia, symbolically claimed this promise for themselves. They denied that Gentiles, or anyone who did not practice Judaism, could gain entrance into the kingdom of God. Christ assured the Philadelphian believers that He alone held the power to grant or deny entrance into God's kingdom (Rev. 3:8, 10).

3:7–13 Philadelphia, modern-day Alasehir, was located at the gateway to the high central plateau of the province of Asia

The Lukewarm Church

'These things says the Amen, the Faithful and True Witness, the Beginning of the creation of God: 15"I know your works, that you are neither cold nor hot. I could wish you were cold or hot. 16So then, because you are lukewarm, and neither cold nor hot,[a] I will vomit you out of My mouth. 17Because you say, 'I am rich, have become wealthy, and have need of nothing'—and do not know that you are wretched, miserable, poor, blind, and naked— 18I counsel you to buy from Me gold refined in the fire, that you may be rich; and white garments, that you may be clothed, that the shame of your nakedness may not be revealed; and anoint your eyes with eye salve, that you may see. 19As many as I love, I rebuke and chasten. Therefore be zealous and repent. 20Behold, I stand at the door and knock. If anyone hears My voice and opens the door, I will come in to him and dine with him, and he with Me. 21To him who overcomes I will grant to sit with Me on My throne, as I also overcame and sat down with My Father on His throne.

and had great commercial importance. Its name, meaning "brother love," commemorated the love and loyalty of Emperor Attalus II to his brother Eumenes II.

3:14–22 Laodicea, known in modern times as Pamukkale, was the wealthiest city in Phrygia during Roman times. Famous for its banking, medical school, and textile industry, its only major weakness was an inadequate water supply.

3:15–18 A metaphor drawn from cooking described the Laodicean church. "Hot" may be a reference to the medicinal waters of Hierapolis, near Laodicea. The Laodicean church did not provide the heat of healing for the spiritually sick, nor cool refreshment for the spiritually weary.

3:19–22 Christ summoned believers who were complacent, lax, lifeless, indifferent, and tolerant of evil (v. 20). He rebukes and chastens those whom He loves (Heb. 12:6). Christ offers gold for our poverty, white garments for our nakedness, and salve for our blind eyes (Rev. 3:17, 18). He promises that He will dine with those who open the door to Him. In the ancient Jewish world, sharing a meal with someone was a symbol of trust, affection, intimacy, and loyalty. The promise of intimacy with Christ is expressed in the invitation to open the door, so He can come in to dine (Rev. 3:20).

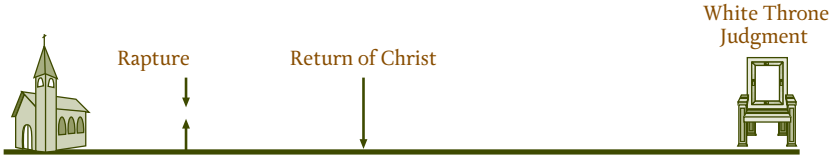
4:1–11 John's description of the heavenly throne provides a small glimpse of God's glory and majesty. John did not (or could not) describe the throne or the One sitting upon it. He merely conveyed his vision in terms of precious stones (see Ex. 28, Jewelry). In John's time, glass was usually dark and opaque. Clear glass was enormously expensive. The sea of glass before the throne of God could represent the awesome approach to God or simply His majesty (Ex. 24:10; Ezek. 1:22, 26).

4:4, 5 The twenty-four, white-robed elders seated upon thrones around the throne of God represent redeemed humanity (see chart, Questions from the Book of Revelation).

MILLENNIAL VIEWS

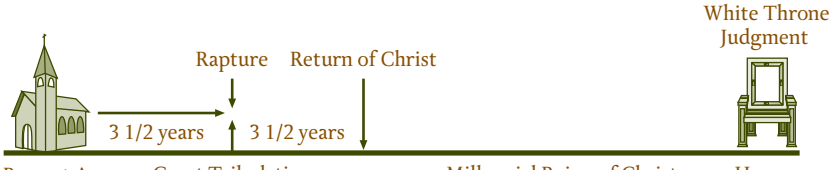
Premillennial/Pretribulation View

Christ will literally reign on earth 1,000 years. The church is taken out before the Tribulation.



Premillennial/Midtribulation View

Christ will literally reign on earth 1,000 years. Church remains in Tribulation 3 1/2 years, then is taken out.



Premillennial/Posttribulation View

Christ will literally reign on earth 1,000 years. The church goes through the Tribulation.

Amillennial View

Treats Christ's millennial reign as symbolic, rejecting literal 1,000 years reign on earth.

Postmillennial View

Suggests Christ will return at conclusion of millennial age.

The cause of Christ can be painful and costly. It is about sacrifice. But the sacrifice is motivated by love, not fear. And the love is what sets us free.

throne proceeded lightnings, thunderings, and voices.[a] Seven lamps of fire were burning before the throne, which are the[b] seven Spirits of God.

6Before the throne there was[a] a sea of glass, like crystal. And in the midst of the throne, and around the throne, were four living creatures full of eyes in front and in back. 7The first living creature was like a lion, the second living creature like a calf, the third living creature had a face like a man, and the fourth living creature was like a flying eagle. 8*The* four living creatures, each having six wings, were full of eyes around and within. And they do not rest day or night, saying:

"Holy, holy, holy,[a]
Lord God Almighty,
Who was and is and is to come!"

9Whenever the living creatures give glory and honor and thanks to Him who sits on the throne, who lives forever and ever, 10the twenty-four elders fall down before Him who sits on the throne and worship Him who lives forever and ever, and cast their crowns before the throne, saying:

11"You are worthy, O Lord,[a]
To receive glory and honor and power;
For You created all things,
And by Your will they exist[b] and were created."

The Lamb Takes the Scroll

5 And I saw in the right hand of Him who sat on the throne a scroll written inside and on the back, sealed with seven seals. 2Then I saw a strong angel proclaiming with a loud voice, "Who is worthy to open the scroll and to loose its seals?" 3And no one in heaven or on the earth or under the earth was able to open the scroll, or to look at it.

4So I wept much, because no one was found worthy to open and read[a] the scroll, or to look at it. 5But one of the elders said to me, "Do not weep. Behold, the Lion of the tribe of Judah, the Root of David, has prevailed to open the scroll and to loose[a] its seven seals."

6And I looked, and behold,[a] in the midst of the throne and of the four living creatures, and in the midst of the elders, stood a Lamb as though it had been slain, having seven horns and seven eyes, which are the seven Spirits of God sent out into all the earth. 7Then He came and took the scroll out of the right hand of Him who sat on the throne.

Worthy Is the Lamb

8Now when He had taken the scroll, the four living creatures and the twenty-four elders fell down before the Lamb, each having a harp, and golden bowls full of incense, which are the prayers of the saints. 9And they sang a new song, saying:

4:5 [a]NU-Text and M-Text read voices, and thunderings. [b]M-Text omits the. 4:6 [a]NU-Text and M-Text add something like. 4:8 [a]M-Text has holy nine times. 4:11 [a]NU-Text and M-Text read our Lord and God. [b]NU-Text and M-Text read existed. 5:4 [a]NU-Text and M-Text omit and read. 5:5 [a]NU-Text and M-Text omit to loose. 5:6 [a]NU-Text and M-Text read I saw in the midst . . . a Lamb standing.

The number "24" may be the sum of the 12 patriarchs in the OT and the 12 apostles of the NT who sing the song of Moses and the song of the Lamb (Rev. 15:3). The white robes depict their purity (see Rev. 3:18); the crowns, their victory (Rev. 2:10). The seven lamps of fire burning in front of the throne are the seven Spirits of God, symbolizing the presence of the Holy Spirit (see Rev. 1:4).

4:7–11 Their many eyes could represent unceasing watchfulness, while their wings suggest swiftness. The four heads may represent the various aspects of nature: wild beast, domesticated animals, human beings, and flying creatures. The creatures could therefore represent praise and adoration flowing from all of God's creation, and/or they could represent angels, who are God's agents in overseeing the created order.

5:1 Seals were used in ancient times to prevent the unauthorized reading of a letter. A seal would often consist of wax and have the writer's sign, usually made with a signet ring. Here, the seals function as symbols of the hidden plan of God to be removed in order to view God's complete plan (see chart, The Significance of Numbers in Scripture).

5:5 Jesus' position as the second Person of the Trinity is not the emphasis here but rather the fact that He has suffered and triumphed as the Messiah. The "Lion of the tribe of Judah" is a messianic title (Gen. 49:8–10). The title "Root of David" indicates that the messianic King would be a descendant of King David (Is. 11:1–10; Rom. 15:12). Christ claims both these titles for Himself.

5:6 Lambs held special significance in the OT. At one time, the Lord passed through Egypt and killed the firstborn son in every household except those who had sprinkled their doorposts with the blood of an unblemished lamb (Ex. 12:13). This event was remembered in Israel by the annual sacrifice of the Passover lamb (see chart, The Feasts of Israel). John identified Jesus as the "Lamb of God" (John 1:29), and Peter taught that the spotless Lamb, Jesus, had secured salvation for all who believe in Him (1 Pet. 1:19).

5:8–14 The Lamb in John's vision had seven horns and seven eyes. In the OT, a horn is a common symbol of strength (Deut. 33:17; Ps. 18:2; 112:9). The seven horns represent the fullness of power the Lamb possesses (Rev. 5:6). The Lamb's seven

"You are worthy to take the scroll,
And to open its seals;
For You were slain,
And have redeemed us to God by Your blood
Out of every tribe and tongue and people and nation, 10And have made us[a] kings[b] and priests to our God;
And we[c] shall reign on the earth."

11Then I looked, and I heard the voice of many angels around the throne, the living creatures, and the elders; and the number of them was ten thousand times ten thousand, and thousands of thousands, 12saying with a loud voice:

"Worthy is the Lamb who was slain
To receive power and riches and wisdom,
And strength and honor and glory and blessing!"

13And every creature which is in heaven and on the earth and under the earth and such as are in the sea, and all that are in them, I heard saying:

"Blessing and honor and glory and power
Be to Him who sits on the throne,
And to the Lamb, forever and ever!"[a] 14Then the four living creatures said, "Amen!" And the twenty-four[a] elders fell down and worshiped Him who lives forever and ever.[b]

First Seal: The Conqueror

6 Now I saw when the Lamb opened one of the seals;[a] and I heard one of the four living creatures saying with a voice like thunder, "Come and see." 2And I looked, and behold, a white horse. He who sat on it had a bow; and a crown was given to him, and he went out conquering and to conquer.

Second Seal: Conflict on Earth

3When He opened the second seal, I heard the second living creature saying, "Come and see."[a] 4Another horse, fiery red, went out. And it was granted to the one who sat on it to take peace from the earth, and that people should kill one another; and there was given to him a great sword.

Third Seal: Scarcity on Earth

5When He opened the third seal, I heard the third living creature say, "Come and see." So I looked, and behold, a black horse, and he who sat on it had a pair of scales in his hand. 6And I heard a voice in the midst of the four living creatures saying, "A quart[a] of wheat for a denarius,[b] and three quarts of barley for a denarius; and do not harm the oil and the wine."

Fourth Seal: Widespread Death on Earth

7When He opened the fourth seal, I heard the voice of the fourth living creature saying, "Come and see." 8So I looked, and behold, a pale horse. And the name of him who sat on it was Death, and Hades followed with him. And power was given to them over a fourth of the earth, to kill with sword, with hunger, with death, and by the beasts of the earth.

Fifth Seal: The Cry of the Martyrs

9When He opened the fifth seal, I saw under the altar the souls of those who had been slain for the word of God and for the testimony which they held. 10And they cried with a loud voice, saying, eyes depict His complete and perfect knowledge and insight (v. 6; Zech. 4:10). The eyes of the Lamb are also identified as the seven Spirits of God (Rev. 6:6; see Rev. 2:1). In this imagery, John symbolized the relationship between Christ and the Holy Spirit (John 15:26). When the Lamb took the scroll, the four creatures and 24 elders fell down and worshiped Him, and the entire heavenly court joined in singing His praise (Rev. 6:9, 10). "Ten thousand" is a rhetorical phrase for an infinitely large number (Rev. 5:11; see Dan. 7:10; Heb. 12:22).

5:10 [a]NU-Text and M-Text read them. [b]NU-Text reads a kingdom. [c]NU-Text and M-Text read they. 5:13 [a]M-Text adds Amen. 5:14 [a]NU-Text and M-Text omit twenty-four. [b]NU-Text and M-Text omit Him who lives forever and ever. 6:1 [a]NU-Text and M-Text read seven seals. 6:3 [a]NU-Text and M-Text omit and see. 6:6 [a]Greek choinix; that is, approximately one quart [b]This was approximately one day's wage for a worker.

6:1–8 The seven seals, the seven trumpets (Rev. 8; 9), the seven thunders (Rev. 10:2–4), and the seven bowls (Rev. 16) are four series of judgments in multiples of seven. These events are part of the tragic period called the Great Tribulation, during which judgment is poured out on a world that has rejected the Lord. This period is characterized by the wrath and judgment of God, the awakening of Israel's longing for the Messiah, and preparation for Christ's return (see chart, Questions from the Book of Revelation). Four horses, whose colors are symbolic of the events they initiate, are sent to the earth (see Zech. 1:8, 9; 6:1–8; chart, Colors in the Bible). The white horse represents conquest (see "man of sin," 1 Thess. 2:3, 4, note; Rev. 13; chart, The Prophecy of Seventy Weeks). The second rider sits upon a red horse (symbolizing bloodshed and war) and is given a great sword. The rider of the black horse carries a pair of scales, which were used to measure grain. Each person consumed an average of one quart of this main dietary staple daily. Barley was cheaper than wheat and was considered the food of the poor. All a man's daily earnings, a denarius, would be needed to buy food (see chart, Money and Measurements in the Bible). Though food would be scarce, other staples of an ordinary diet, such as oil and wine, would not. Thus, the black horse represents a condition of severe scarcity but not of worldwide starvation. The fourth horse, pale in color, represents death, which will strike more than a quarter of the earth's population through war, famine, pestilence, and wild beasts.

6:9–11 The fifth seal revealed an altar (v. 9). In the OT, the blood of the sacrificial animal was poured out at the base of

QUESTIONS FROM THE BOOK OF REVELATION

POINT OF DISCUSSION	AMILLENNIAL VIEWPOINT	PREMILLENNIAL VIEWPOINT	POSTMILLENNIAL VIEWPOINT
Millennial view	Christ has no literal reign on earth. Revelation does not present actual events—past or future. Its message is symbolic of the great struggle between good and evil.	Christ will return, usher in millennial age, and rule on earth. Beginning with Revelation 4, the events described belong to the future age. They present through prophecy God's plan for the consummation of the age.	Christ will return at the end of the millennial age. Meantime the world progresses under the missionary success of the church.
Twenty-four elders (Rev. 4:4, 10; 5:8, 14)	Represent all the redeemed.	Represent the saints gathered together in heaven as the family of God.	Represent all the redeemed.
144,000 (Rev. 7:4–8)	The redeemed on earth who are protected from God's wrath.	Jews who will be converted during the Tribulation after the church has been raptured.	The redeemed people of God.
Great Tribulation (Rev. 7:14)	Persecution of Christians in John's time representative of tribulation throughout history.	The exhibition of the wrath and judgment of God in final preparation for the return of the Lord.	Symbolic of tribulation suffered throughout history.
Forty-two months or 1,260 days (Rev. 11:2, 3)	Indefinite time of evil influence.	Half of seven-year Tribulation period.	Indefinite time of pagan desolation.
Woman (Rev. 12:1–6)	True people of God under old and new covenants.	Israel, not the church.	True people of God under old and new covenants.
1,260 days (Rev. 12:6)	Indefinite time period.	First half of Tribulation after church is raptured.	Indefinite time period.
Seven heads (Rev. 13:1)	Roman emperors.	A revival of the ancient Roman Empire greatly expanded.	Roman emperors.
Ten horns (Rev. 13:1)	Symbol of power.	Ten powers that will combine to make the federation of nations of new Rome.	Symbol of power.
Babylon—woman (Rev. 17:5)	Historic Rome.	Resurgence of the apostate church.	Representing evil.
Wife (Rev. 19:7)	All the redeemed.	The church (except Old Testament or Tribulation saints).	All the redeemed.
Armageddon (Rev. 19:19–21)	Not literally at end of time but symbolizing power of God's Word in overcoming evil.	Literal bloody battle at Armageddon (valley of Megiddo) at end of Great Tribulation between kings of the East and federation of nations of new Rome; they are all defeated by Christ. The millennium begins.	Representing power of God's Word overcoming evil forces.
Millennium (Rev. 20:2–6)	Symbolic reference to period from Christ's Incarnation to His return.	A literal 1,000-year period during which Christ rules with His people.	A lengthy period of expansion and spiritual prosperity brought about by preaching the gospel.

"How long, O Lord, holy and true, until You judge and avenge our blood on those who dwell on the earth?" 11Then a white robe was given to each of them; and it was said to them that they should rest a little while longer, until both the number of their fellow servants and their brethren, who would be killed as they were, was completed.

Sixth Seal: Cosmic Disturbances

12I looked when He opened the sixth seal, and behold,[a] there was a great earthquake; and the sun became black as sackcloth of hair, and the moon[b] became like blood. 13And the stars of heaven fell to the earth, as a fig tree drops its late figs when it is shaken by a mighty wind. 14Then the sky receded as a scroll when it is rolled up, and every mountain and island was moved out of its place. 15And the kings of the earth, the great men, the rich men, the commanders,[a] the mighty men, every slave and every free man, hid themselves in the caves and in the rocks of the mountains, 16and said to the mountains and rocks, "Fall on us and hide us from the face of Him who sits on the throne and from the wrath of the Lamb! 17For the great day of His wrath has come, and who is able to stand?"

The Sealed of Israel

7 After these things I saw four angels standing at the four corners of the earth, holding the four winds of the earth, that the wind should not blow on the earth, on the sea, or on any tree. 2Then I saw another angel ascending from the east, having the seal of the living God. And he cried with a loud voice to the four angels to whom it was granted to harm the earth and the sea, 3saying, "Do not harm the earth, the sea, or the trees till we have sealed the servants of our God on their foreheads." 4And I heard the number of those who were sealed. One hundred and forty-four thousand of all the tribes of the children of Israel were sealed:

5of the tribe of Judah twelve thousand were sealed;[a] of the tribe of Reuben twelve thousand were sealed;
of the tribe of Gad twelve thousand were sealed; 6of the tribe of Asher twelve thousand were sealed;
of the tribe of Naphtali twelve thousand were sealed;
of the tribe of Manasseh twelve thousand were sealed; 7of the tribe of Simeon twelve thousand were sealed;
of the tribe of Levi twelve thousand were sealed;
of the tribe of Issachar twelve thousand were sealed; 8of the tribe of Zebulun twelve thousand were sealed;
of the tribe of Joseph twelve thousand were sealed;
of the tribe of Benjamin twelve thousand were sealed.

A Multitude from the Great Tribulation

9After these things I looked, and behold, a great multitude which no one could number, of all nations, tribes, peoples, and tongues, standing before the throne and before the Lamb, clothed with white robes, with palm branches in their hands, 10and crying out with a loud voice, saying, "Salvation belongs to our God who sits on the throne, and to the Lamb!" 11All the angels stood around the throne and the elders and the four living crea-

the altar (Ex. 29:12; Lev. 4:7). Here, the martyrs cry out that God in His righteous judgment will condemn the enemies of God's people. This passage is similar to the OT imprecatory psalms, in which the psalmist pleaded with God to destroy his enemies (see chart, The Types of Psalms). The church had already faced persecution and would experience more to come.

6:12–17 Cataclysmic upheaval is a usual part of last-days' imagery in Scripture (see Is. 13:9, 10; Joel 2:30, 31; 2 Pet. 3:10). Here the extent of the disturbance is cosmic in scope and breaks forth at the opening of the sixth seal. Catastrophic language is also found in Christ's teaching that tribulation and cosmic upheaval will precede the coming of the Lord (Matt. 24:29, 30).

7:1, 2 The angels represent God's personal control of the world He has created. The four winds are destructive agents of God (see chart, The Significance of Numbers in Scripture). "The seal of the living God" is placed on the foreheads of the righteous so that the agents of destruction would spare them (v. 2). This symbolism goes back to Ezekiel's vision (Ezek. 9:4). Seals were important symbols in an era when many people were illiterate. Both in Revelation and Ezekiel God seals His people to preserve them from the destruction that will befall others.

7:4–8 A seal indicates God's declaration of ownership and His protection. Scholars have proposed a number of interpretations as to the identity of the 144,000 who were sealed, but two views predominate. Premillennialists believe that the number refers to actual members of the Jewish nation, affirming God's continued faithfulness to His promises to Israel, and perhaps a harbinger of the great revival envisioned by Paul (see Rom. 9; 10). The careful listing of each tribe also supports this interpretation. Postmillennialists and amillennialists do not believe that the 144,000 are limited to Jews but that they represent the church as a whole (see chart, Questions from the Book of Revelation).

WOMEN IN THE BOOK OF REVELATION

WOMAN	DESCRIPTION
Jezebel (Rev. 2:20–23)	Taught people in the church at Thyatira to worship false gods and encouraged immorality; Christ promised to judge Jezebel and her children.
The Woman Giving Birth (Rev. 12:1–6, 13–17)	A contrast to Jezebel; God gives her protection when she is attacked by the dragon; She is identified as Israel.
Babylon, the Great Harlot (Rev. 14:8; 17:1–6, 15, 18; 18:1–24)	Babylon is judged and destroyed for persecuting God's people and corrupting others.
The Bride of the Lamb (Rev. 19:7, 8)	Represents the church; The Bride readies herself for the marriage feast.

tures, and fell on their faces before the throne and worshiped God, 12saying:

"Amen! Blessing and glory and wisdom,
Thanksgiving and honor and power and might,
Be to our God forever and ever.
Amen."

13Then one of the elders answered, saying to me, "Who are these arrayed in white robes, and where did they come from?"

14And I said to him, "Sir,[a] you know."

So he said to me, "These are the ones who come out of the great tribulation, and washed their robes and made them white in the blood of the Lamb. 15Therefore they are before the throne of God, and serve Him day and night in His temple. And He who sits on the throne will dwell among them. 16They shall neither hunger anymore nor thirst anymore; the sun shall not strike them, nor any heat; 17for the Lamb who is in the midst of the throne will shepherd them and lead them to living fountains of waters.[a] And God will wipe away every tear from their eyes."

Seventh Seal: Prelude to the Seven Trumpets

8When He opened the seventh seal, there was silence in heaven for about half an hour. 2And I saw the seven angels who stand before God, and to them were given seven trumpets. 3Then another angel, having a golden censer, came and stood at the altar. He was given much incense, that he should offer it with the prayers of all the saints upon the golden altar which was before the throne. 4And the smoke of the incense, with the prayers of the saints, ascended before God from the angel's hand. 5Then the angel took the censer, filled it with fire from the altar, and threw it to the earth. And there were noises, thunderings, lightnings, and an earthquake.

7:14, 15 The Great Tribulation refers to the seven-year period of unparalleled trouble on earth, concluding with the return of Christ (Dan. 12:1; Mark 13:19; see chart Questions from the Book of Revelation). The believers who came through the Tribulation are pictured as wearing white robes before the throne of God and serving Him day and night in the temple. Each of the 16 references to the temple in Revelation designates the inner shrine of the temple or the place of the intimate dwelling of God's presence with His people. For John's readers, the imagery would invoke memories of the tabernacle in the desert (Lev. 26:11–13). The term would have been understood to mean the immediate presence of God. The whole of heaven is likened to the sanctuary in which all believers are priests enjoying fellowship with God forever (Rev. 1:6; 5:10).

8:1–3 Prior to the sounding of the trumpets, an angel with a golden censer stands before the altar to offer up the prayers of the saints. The censer is a firepan used to hold live coals for burning incense (Ex. 27:3; 1 Kin. 7:50). Incense both represents and purifies the prayers of the saints (Ps. 141:2; Rev. 5:8).

6So the seven angels who had the seven trumpets prepared themselves to sound.

First Trumpet: Vegetation Struck

7The first angel sounded: And hail and fire followed, mingled with blood, and they were thrown to the earth.[a] And a third of the trees were burned up, and all green grass was burned up.

Second Trumpet: The Seas Struck

8Then the second angel sounded: And something like a great mountain burning with fire was thrown into the sea, and a third of the sea became blood. 9And a third of the living creatures in the sea died, and a third of the ships were destroyed.

Third Trumpet: The Waters Struck

10Then the third angel sounded: And a great star fell from heaven, burning like a torch, and it fell on a third of the rivers and on the springs of water. 11The name of the star is Wormwood. A third of the waters became wormwood, and many men died from the water, because it was made bitter.

Fourth Trumpet: The Heavens Struck

12Then the fourth angel sounded: And a third of the sun was struck, a third of the moon, and a third of the stars, so that a third of them were darkened. A third of the day did not shine, and likewise the night.

13And I looked, and I heard an angel[a] flying through the midst of heaven, saying with a loud voice, "Woe, woe, woe to the inhabitants of the earth, because of the remaining blasts of the trumpet of the three angels who are about to sound!"

Fifth Trumpet: The Locusts from the Bottomless Pit

9Then the fifth angel sounded: And I saw a star fallen from heaven to the earth. To him was given the key to the bottomless pit. 2And he opened the bottomless pit, and smoke arose out of the pit like the smoke of a great furnace. So the sun and the air were darkened because of the smoke of the pit. 3Then out of the smoke locusts came upon the earth. And to them was given power, as the scorpions of the earth have power. 4They were commanded not to harm the grass of the earth, or any green thing, or any tree, but only those men who do not have the seal of God on their foreheads. 5And they were not given authority to kill them, but to torment them for five months. Their torment was like the torment of a scorpion when it strikes a man. 6In those days men will seek death and will not find it; they will desire to die, and death will flee from them.

7The shape of the locusts was like horses prepared for battle. On their heads were crowns of something like gold, and their faces were like the faces of men. 8They had hair like women's hair, and their teeth were like lions' teeth. 9And they had breastplates like breastplates of iron, and the sound of their wings was like the sound of chariots with many horses running into battle. 10They had tails like scorpions, and there were stings in their tails. Their power was to hurt men five months. 11And they had as king over them the angel of the bottomless pit, whose name in Hebrew is Abaddon, but in Greek he has the name Apollyon.

12One woe is past. Behold, still two more woes are coming after these things.

Sixth Trumpet: The Angels from the Euphrates

13Then the sixth angel sounded: And I heard a voice from the four horns of the golden altar which is before God, 14saying to the sixth angel who had the trumpet, "Release the four angels who are bound at the great river Euphrates." 15So the four angels, who had been prepared for the

8:7–12 The precise nature of the disturbances is difficult to determine (vv. 8–10). But clearly the trumpets bring about earthly disasters of immense proportions with destructive consequences. The consequences of the first four trumpets seem restricted to the realm of nature as God's judgment on a planet in rebellion against Him. Wormwood is a non-poisonous plant with a strong bitter taste. It is often used as a metaphor for calamity and sorrow (vv. 10, 11; see Prov. 5:3, 4; Jer. 9:15; see chart, The Herbs of the Bible). The judgment of the fourth trumpet is reminiscent of the Egyptian plague of darkness (Rev. 8:12; see Ex. 10:21–23). These references to the plagues of Egypt suggest that the final exodus (deliverance) of God's people from bondage will occur at that time (see chart, The Ten Plagues on Egypt).

9:1–12 When the fifth trumpet sounded, John saw "a star fallen from heaven to earth" (v. 1). This star refers to an unidentified demonic being, perhaps even Satan. Jesus spoke of a fall of Satan (Luke 10:18), as did Isaiah (Is. 14:12; see chart, A Portrait of the Adversary). The "bottomless pit" (Gk. abyssos, lit. "abyss") is the residence of the Antichrist before he appears on earth (Rev. 9:1; 11:7) and the place where Satan is bound during the millennium (Rev. 20:3). It appears to be a place for the imprisonment of demons (Luke 8:31). The locusts represent demonic forces that are released and allowed to torment and bring judgment upon unrepentant humanity (see also Joel 2:1–12, 25). The king of the locusts is the "angel of the bottomless pit" (Rev. 9:11). Abaddon (Heb.) and Apollyon (Gk.) mean "the destroyer" (see chart, The Names for Satan).

9:13–21 At the sounding of the sixth trumpet, God releases four angels who were bound on the banks of the Euphrates River, the ideal eastern limit of the Promised Land (v. 14; Gen.

THE SIGNIFICANCE OF NUMBERS IN SCRIPTURE

THE NUMBER	BIBLICAL SIGNIFICANCE
1	Unity (Gen. 2:24); independent existence (Deut. 6:4)
2	An addition—strength, help (Eccl. 4:9–12)
3	Simplest compound unity; the number for God (Matt. 28:19)
4	The world with its four seasons and directions (Rev. 7:1)
5	Mankind with the various five-membered parts of the body (Lev. 14:14–16)
6	Evil, failure; it falls short of the number seven, which represents perfection (Rev. 13:18)
7	Perfection or completeness; a number representing earth crowned with heaven (Rev. 1:4)
10	Five doubled and thus human completeness (Rev. 2:10)
12	God's perfect manifestation of Himself to the created order (Rev. 21:12)

Note: Throughout Scripture numbers often have symbolic as well as literal meanings. In the Book of Revelation the number seven is especially prevalent, appearing more than fifty times.

hour and day and month and year, were released to kill a third of mankind. 16Now the number of the army of the horsemen was two hundred million; I heard the number of them. 17And thus I saw the horses in the vision: those who sat on them had breastplates of fiery red, hyacinth blue, and sulfur yellow; and the heads of the horses were like the heads of lions; and out of their mouths came fire, smoke, and brimstone. 18By these three plagues a third of mankind was killed— by the fire and the smoke and the brimstone which came out of their mouths. 19For their power[a] is in their mouth and in their tails; for their tails are like serpents, having heads; and with them they do harm.

20But the rest of mankind, who were not killed by these plagues, did not repent of the works of their hands, that they should not worship demons, and idols of gold, silver, brass, stone, and wood, which can neither see nor hear nor walk. 21And they did not repent of their murders or their sorceries[a] or their sexual immorality or their thefts.

The Mighty Angel with the Little Book

10 I saw still another mighty angel coming down from heaven, clothed with a cloud. And a rainbow was on his head, his face was like the sun, and his feet like pillars of fire. 2He had a little book open in his hand. And he set his right foot on the sea and his left foot on the land, 3and cried with a loud voice, as when a lion roars. When he cried out, seven thunders uttered their voices.

15:18). Hordes of Gentile kingdoms were situated beyond the river. An invasion from across the Euphrates would constitute an invasion of the enemies of Israel and of God (Is. 7:20; 8:7; Jer. 46:10). The fifth trumpet brought torture; this trumpet brings death. An army of two hundred million is described as killing a third of mankind (Rev. 9:16, 18). This inconceivably large force—more than the entire population of the earth at the time Revelation was written—is beyond human comprehension. Many see this as an actual army, while some identify this language as symbolic of a demonic host. In any case, the outpouring of suffering and death at the sounding of the fifth and sixth trumpets seems terrible; yet its purpose is merciful. It is designed to encourage people to repent before it is too late to do so (vv. 20, 21).

10:1–3 The angel was clothed in a cloud. Clouds are depicted as the chariot of God by which heavenly beings ascend and descend (Ps. 104:13; Dan. 7:13; Acts 1:9). The description of this angel is similar to descriptions of the Son of Man in His glory and is interpreted by many as a reference to Christ. Others identify this angel as a messenger reflecting a measure of heavenly glory.

4Now when the seven thunders uttered their voices,[a] I was about to write; but I heard a voice from heaven saying to me,[b] "Seal up the things which the seven thunders uttered, and do not write them."

5The angel whom I saw standing on the sea and on the land raised up his hand[a] to heaven 6and swore by Him who lives forever and ever, who created heaven and the things that are in it, the earth and the things that are in it, and the sea and the things that are in it, that there should be delay no longer, 7but in the days of the sounding of the seventh angel, when he is about to sound, the mystery of God would be finished, as He declared to His servants the prophets.

John Eats the Little Book

8Then the voice which I heard from heaven spoke to me again and said, "Go, take the little book which is open in the hand of the angel who stands on the sea and on the earth."

9So I went to the angel and said to him, "Give me the little book."

And he said to me, "Take and eat it; and it will make your stomach bitter, but it will be as sweet as honey in your mouth."

10Then I took the little book out of the angel's hand and ate it, and it was as sweet as honey in my mouth. But when I had eaten it, my stomach became bitter. 11And he[a] said to me, "You must prophesy again about many peoples, nations, tongues, and kings."

The Two Witnesses

11 Then I was given a reed like a measuring rod. And the angel stood,[a] saying, "Rise and measure the temple of God, the altar, and those who worship there. 2But leave out the court which is outside the temple, and do not measure it, for it has been given to the Gentiles. And they will tread the holy city underfoot for forty-two months. 3And I will give power to my two witnesses, and they will prophesy one thousand two hundred and sixty days, clothed in sackcloth."

4These are the two olive trees and the two lampstands standing before the God[a] of the earth.
5And if anyone wants to harm them, fire proceeds from their mouth and devours their enemies. And if anyone wants to harm them, he must be killed in this manner. 6These have power to shut heaven, so that no rain falls in the days of their prophecy; and they have power over waters to turn them to blood, and to strike the earth with all plagues, as often as they desire.

The Witnesses Killed

7When they finish their testimony, the beast that ascends out of the bottomless pit will make war against them, overcome them, and kill them.
8And their dead bodies will lie in the street of the great city which spiritually is called Sodom and Egypt, where also our[a] Lord was crucified. 9Then those from the peoples, tribes, tongues, and nations will see their dead bodies three-and-a-half days, and not allow[a] their dead bodies to be put into graves. 10And those who dwell on the earth will rejoice over them, make merry, and send gifts to one another, because these two prophets tormented those who dwell on the earth.

10:4 John was instructed not to record what he had just heard. The Book of Revelation gives hope for the future and inspires godly living in the present; it is not meant to provide a total blueprint for the end times. Believers ought to live as if these events could begin at any time; they should be cautious in accepting any teaching which claims to give full particulars of future events.

10:8–11 The first book was intended to be opened (Rev. 5); this one was to be eaten, indicating full assimilation of its contents (see Ezek. 3:1–3; Jer. 15:16). God's words are sweet as honey in his mouth (Rev. 10:10; see Ps. 19:10; 119:103); but as the implications of the words were pondered, they became bitter in his stomach. The judgments of God are sweet in bringing evil to a proper end, but the wrath of God is bitter as it falls on the unrepentant.

11:1, 2 The reed, a bamboo-like cane, often reached 20 feet in height and grew readily along the shores of the Jordan River. Being straight and light, it was a convenient measuring tool. The court of the Gentiles is excluded because the Gentiles symbolize those who have utterly rejected God. Many believe that the 42 months (3½ years or 1,260 days) correspond to one half of Daniel's seventieth week (see charts, The Prophecy of Seventy Weeks; Questions from the Book of Revelation). After the Antichrist breaks his covenant with Israel, the nation will undergo incredible suffering, including the occupation of Jerusalem by Gentiles. Others interpret the period as a symbolic length of time in which God deals with humanity.

11:3–10 The two witnesses are also identified as olive trees and lampstands (Zech. 4:12–14). Some see this imagery as a reference to Moses and Elijah, or to the OT and NT, or even to God's people as a whole. Yet there seems no compelling reason to identify these as more than individuals in history who will be raised up as God's witnesses in Jerusalem in the last days, to have a powerful ministry similar to that of Moses and Elijah. The witnesses will stand in opposition to the False Prophet (see Rev. 13:11–18). People will be condemned and destroyed because of the prophetic words they utter (Jer. 5:14), but these prophets are not to be harmed until their mission is complete (Rev. 11:7–10). The Beast, the primary opponent of God's people in the final days, is mentioned here for the first time (see Rev. 13; 17). That he comes out of the bottomless pit emphasizes his demonic nature.

BEATITUDES IN THE BOOK OF REVELATION

5. The blessedness of those who participate in the first resurrection.	5. The freedom of deliverance from death.	Rev. 20:6
6. The joy of keeping the words of this prophecy.	6. The necessity of obedience to the Word.	Rev. 22:7
7. The happy result of washing one's robe and accessing the Tree of Life.	7. The guarantee of eternal sustenance.	Rev. 22:14

The Witnesses Resurrected

11 Now after the three-and-a-half days the breath of life from God entered them, and they stood on their feet, and great fear fell on those who saw them. 12 And they[a] heard a loud voice from heaven saying to them, "Come up here." And they ascended to heaven in a cloud, and their enemies saw them.
13 In the same hour there was a great earthquake, and a tenth of the city fell. In the earthquake seven thousand people were killed, and the rest were afraid and gave glory to the God of heaven.
14 The second woe is past. Behold, the third woe is coming quickly.

Seventh Trumpet: The Kingdom Proclaimed

15 Then the seventh angel sounded: And there were loud voices in heaven, saying, "The kingdoms[a] of this world have become the kingdoms of our Lord and of His Christ, and He shall reign forever and ever!" 16 And the twenty-four elders who sat before God on their thrones fell on their faces and worshiped God, 17 saying:

"We give You thanks, O Lord God Almighty,
The One who is and who was and who is to come,[a] Because You have taken Your great power and reigned.
18 The nations were angry, and Your wrath has come,
And the time of the dead, that they should be judged,
And that You should reward Your servants the prophets and the saints,
And those who fear Your name, small and great,
And should destroy those who destroy the earth."

19 Then the temple of God was opened in heaven, and the ark of His covenant[a] was seen in 11:12 [a]M-Text reads I. 11:15 [a]NU-Text and M-Text read kingdom . . . has become. 11:17 [a]NU-Text and M-Text omit and who is to come. 11:19 [a]M-Text reads the covenant of the Lord.

11:11–13 God's elect are not defeated by death. The resurrection of the two witnesses indicates God's power and triumph. John's message is that God's people should never lose hope, even amidst overwhelming odds, for the outcome has already been made sure. Christ's Resurrection and work of redemption have secured the victory (1 Cor. 10:20).

11:19 The ark of His covenant, a chest made of acacia wood, symbolized the throne or presence of God among His people (Deut. 10:1, 2). In OT times, the ark stood in the inner part of the tabernacle or temple—the Most Holy Place—to which only the high priest had access. John reminded his readers that they would see the ark. They would be in the presence of God. All that God promised would be fulfilled.

His temple. And there were lightnings, noises, thunderings, an earthquake, and great hail.

The Woman, the Child, and the Dragon

12 Now a great sign appeared in heaven: a woman clothed with the sun, with the moon under her feet, and on her head a garland of twelve stars. 2Then being with child, she cried out in labor and in pain to give birth.

3And another sign appeared in heaven: behold, a great, fiery red dragon having seven heads and ten horns, and seven diadems on his heads. 4His tail drew a third of the stars of heaven and threw them to the earth. And the dragon stood before the woman who was ready to give birth, to devour her Child as soon as it was born. 5She bore a male Child who was to rule all nations with a rod of iron. And her Child was caught up to God and His throne. 6Then the woman fled into the wilderness, where she has a place prepared by God, that they should feed her there one thousand two hundred and sixty days.

Satan Thrown Out of Heaven

7And war broke out in heaven: Michael and his angels fought with the dragon; and the dragon and his angels fought, 8but they did not prevail, nor was a place found for them[a] in heaven any longer. 9So the great dragon was cast out, that serpent of old, called the Devil and Satan, who deceives the whole world; he was cast to the earth, and his angels were cast out with him.

10Then I heard a loud voice saying in heaven, "Now salvation, and strength, and the kingdom of our God, and the power of His Christ have come, for the accuser of our brethren, who accused them before our God day and night, has been cast down. 11And they overcame him by the blood of the Lamb and by the word of their testimony, and they did not love their lives to the death. 12Therefore rejoice, O heavens, and you who dwell in them! Woe to the inhabitants of the earth and the sea! For the devil has come down to you, having great wrath, because he knows that he has a short time."

The Woman Persecuted

13Now when the dragon saw that he had been cast to the earth, he persecuted the woman who gave birth to the male Child. 14But the woman was given two wings of a great eagle, that she might fly into the wilderness to her place, where she is nourished for a time and times and half a time, from the presence of the serpent. 15So the serpent spewed water out of his mouth like a flood after the woman, that he might cause her to be carried away by the flood. 16But the earth helped the woman, and the earth opened its mouth and swallowed up the flood which the dragon had spewed out of his mouth. 17And the dragon was enraged with the woman, and he went to make war with the rest of her offspring, who keep the commandments of God and have the testimony of Jesus Christ.[a]

The Beast from the Sea

13 Then I[a] stood on the sand of the sea. And I saw a beast rising up out of the sea, having seven heads and ten horns,[b] and on his horns ten crowns, and on his heads a blasphemous name. 2Now the beast which I saw was like a leopard, his 13:1 [a]NU-Text reads he. [b]NU-Text and M-Text read ten horns and seven heads.

12:1–12 John related a series of visions: the birth of the Messiah, Satan's continuous attempts to destroy Him, Christ's exaltation, God's casting down of Satan, and Satan's retaliation against God's people. Although believers face evil and persecution on earth, Christ has already conquered Satan, and believers, too, are able to overcome Satan by the blood of the Lamb (v. 11).

12:3–5 The Dragon (Gk. drakon, is a synonym for the word translated "serpent" (Gk. ophis; Gen. 3:1)), represents Satan (Rev. 12:9). Multiple heads, horns, and diadems refer to his power, splendor, and wealth (v. 3; Dan. 8:10; 2 Cor. 4:4). He is massive and fearful in appearance and is intent on devouring the Child (Rev. 12:4). The woman represents Israel—the people of God (v. 1; Gal. 4:26). The metaphor of Israel as a woman in labor is also used elsewhere (Is. 26:17; 66:7, 8; Mic. 4:10; 5:3). The woman's Child refers to Christ. (Ps. 2:9; 1 Cor. 15:25; Rev. 2:27; 19:15).

12:7–9 Angels (lit. "messengers") were considered ambassadors who spoke and acted in human affairs on behalf of their sender. Michael is the chief guardian angel of Israel (Dan. 10:13, 21; 12:1; Jude 9). He will lead God's angelic forces in battle against the "dragon and his angels" (Rev. 12:7). The victory ultimately is won because of the faithfulness of the Saints and their reliance on the "blood of the Lamb" (v. 11). Victory over Satan is not always evident in the physical realm. Yet believers can stand fast and have power over the Evil One (Matt. 24:13; Rev. 12:11).

12:13–17 The woman fled (v. 6; Dan. 7:25; chart, Women in the Book of Revelation). Israel is assured of God's ultimate protection. The flood of water is symbolic of Satan's massive effort to destroy God's plan. Most commentators believe that the first part of this vision depicts the overthrow of Satan in heaven, while the latter depicts his persecution of the saints on earth, "the rest of her offspring." Regardless, the message is the same: Satan had already been defeated, and his efforts to overcome God's people are in vain.

13:1, 2 An intensification of evil will accompany the appearance of "the Antichrist" (1 John 2:18), "the man of sin," or "the son of perdition" (2 Thess. 2:3). The sea is a symbol of chaos, on which must be imposed the order of creation (Gen. 1:2). The Beast rises up out of the sea, which indicates that the Antichrist may emerge from a situation of political chaos (Is. 7:20). John's description of the Beast is similar to his description of Satan (Rev. 12:3), indicating a close relationship be-feet were like the feet of a bear, and his mouth like the mouth of a lion. The dragon gave him his power, his throne, and great authority. 3And I saw one of his heads as if it had been mortally wounded, and his deadly wound was healed. And all the world marveled and followed the beast. 4So they worshiped the dragon who gave authority to the beast; and they worshiped the beast, saying, "Who is like the beast? Who is able to make war with him?"

5And he was given a mouth speaking great things and blasphemies, and he was given authority to continue[a] for forty-two months. 6Then he opened his mouth in blasphemy against God, to blaspheme His name, His tabernacle, and those who dwell in heaven. 7It was granted to him to make war with the saints and to overcome them. And authority was given him over every tribe,[a] tongue, and nation. 8All who dwell on the earth will worship him, whose names have not been written in the Book of Life of the Lamb slain from the foundation of the world.

9If anyone has an ear, let him hear. 10He who leads into captivity shall go into captivity; he who kills with the sword must be killed with the sword. Here is the patience and the faith of the saints.

The Beast from the Earth

11Then I saw another beast coming up out of the earth, and he had two horns like a lamb and spoke like a dragon. 12And he exercises all the authority of the first beast in his presence, and causes the earth and those who dwell in it to worship the first beast, whose deadly wound was healed. 13He performs great signs, so that he even makes fire come down from heaven on the earth in the sight of men. 14And he deceives those[a] who dwell on the earth by those signs which he was granted to do in the sight of the beast, telling those who dwell on the earth to make an image to the beast who was wounded by the sword and lived. 15He was granted power to give breath to the image of the beast, that the image of the beast should both speak and cause as many as would not worship the image of the beast to be killed. 16He causes all, both small and great, rich and poor, free and slave, to receive a mark on their right hand or on their foreheads, 17and that no one may buy or sell except one who has the mark or[a] the name of the beast, or the number of his name.

18Here is wisdom. Let him who has understanding calculate the number of the beast, for it is the number of a man: His number is 666.

The Lamb and the 144,000

14 Then I looked, and behold, a[a] Lamb standing on Mount Zion, and with Him one hundred and forty-four thousand, having[b] His Father's name written on their foreheads. 2And I heard a voice from heaven, like the voice of many waters, and like the voice of loud thunder. And I heard the sound of harpists playing their harps. 3They sang as it were a new song before the throne, before the four living creatures, and the elders; and no one could learn that song except the hundred and forty-four thousand who were redeemed from the earth. 4These are the ones who were not defiled with women, for they are virgins. These are the ones who follow the Lamb wherever He goes. These were redeemed[a] from among men, being firstfruits to God and to the Lamb. 5And in their mouth was found no deceit,[a] for they are without fault before the throne of God.[b]

The Proclamations of Three Angels

6Then I saw another angel flying in the midst of heaven, having the everlasting gospel to preach

tween the two. The Beast derives his power, rule, and authority directly from Satan (Rev. 13:2). He may represent a final ruler in whom will be concentrated the terror and glory of empires of the past (see chart, Questions from the Book of Revelation).

13:3–8 Blasphemy is an act by which the honor of God is insulted. The haughty Beast will blaspheme God's name and God's people (v. 6). The Beast's power will be solidified by the appearance of a second beast (see vv. 11–15). Although the power of the Beast will be great, it is limited. He can only do what God allows him to do (v. 5). The Antichrist cannot ultimately destroy those upon whom God has set His seal.

13:11–15 A second beast, representing a false religion and accompanied by miracles, will be highly persuasive and credible. These miracles will be copies of those in Scripture: healings, fire from heaven (1 Kin. 18:38), and resurrection (Rev. 13:12).

13:16–18 God marks His people and sets them apart as His own (Rev. 7:3). The Beast has a countermark by which he brands those who worship him. The "mark" referred to brands on animals and symbolized ownership. It was also a technical term for the imperial stamp on trade documents and for the impression on Roman coins. John gave the name of the Beast in symbolic form "666" (see chart, The Significance of Numbers in Scripture).

14:1–5 The 144,000 sealed with the name of the Father stand in direct opposition to those fixed with the mark of the Beast (vv. 1–5). The reference to those who were "not defiled with women . . . virgins" probably alludes to those who had abstained from the overwhelming corruption of sin in the world (v. 4). Marriage is occasionally represented in Scripture as a form of chastity (Heb. 13:4). Therefore, the phrase may refer to a state of spiritual purity instead of to a state of physical virginity.

PERSEVERANCE ENDURING WITH PATIENCE

"Perseverance" is the biblical term used to describe Christians who faithfully endure and remain steadfast in the face of opposition, attack, and discouragement. Those who focus on Jesus can bear up under any load. Perseverance involves patience—the ability to endure without complaint and with calmness (James 1:2–4). Perseverance also includes persistence in accomplishing goals and permanence for a lifetime of commitment (2 Pet. 1:5–7).

Christians are to persevere in prayer (Eph. 6:18), in faith (Heb. 12:1, 2), in obedience (Rev. 14:12), and in service (1 Cor. 15:58). As believers commit themselves daily to godly living, they are abundantly rewarded by the Lord with the fruit of His Spirit for all eternity. Daily recommitment leads to lasting discipline.

The world is not comfortable with commitment. Promises are easily broken and contracts are frequently altered. The children of God are called to a life of commitment to God and each other. To faith, virtue, and knowledge, the believer is required to add self-control and perseverance (2 Pet. 1:5–7). The promise is that those who endure and persevere in overcoming evil will be greatly rewarded with God's blessings both now and in eternity (Matt. 24:13; Heb. 11:6; Rev. 21:7).

See also Rom. 5:3–5; 2 Tim. 3:10–14; James 5:11; 2 Pet. 1:5–7; notes on Commitment (Matt. 16); Fruit of the Spirit (Ps. 86; Rom. 5; 15; 1 Cor. 10; 13; Gal. 5; Eph. 4; Col. 3; 2 Thess. 1; Rev. 2); Persecution (2 Cor. 4); Spiritual Discipline (2 Pet. 3) to those who dwell on the earth—to every nation, tribe, tongue, and people— 7saying with a loud voice, "Fear God and give glory to Him, for the hour of His judgment has come; and worship Him who made heaven and earth, the sea and springs of water."

8And another angel followed, saying, "Babylon[a] is fallen, is fallen, that great city, because she has made all nations drink of the wine of the wrath of her fornication."

9Then a third angel followed them, saying with a loud voice, "If anyone worships the beast and his image, and receives his mark on his forehead or on his hand, 10he himself shall also drink of the wine of the wrath of God, which is poured out full strength into the cup of His indignation. He shall be tormented with fire and brimstone in the presence of the holy angels and in the presence of the Lamb. 11And the smoke of their torment ascends forever and ever; and they have no rest day or night, who worship the beast and his image, and whoever receives the mark of his name."

12Here is the patience of the saints; here are those[a] who keep the commandments of God and the faith of Jesus.

13Then I heard a voice from heaven saying to me,[a] "Write: 'Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord from now on.' "

"Yes," says the Spirit, "that they may rest from their labors, and their works follow them."

Reaping the Earth's Harvest

14Then I looked, and behold, a white cloud, and on the cloud sat One like the Son of Man, having on His head a golden crown, and in His hand a sharp sickle. 15And another angel came out of the temple, crying with a loud voice to Him who sat on the cloud, "Thrust in Your sickle and reap, for the time has come for You[a] to reap, for the harvest of the earth is ripe." 16So He who sat on the cloud thrust in His sickle on the earth, and the earth was reaped.

14:8 [a]NU-Text reads Babylon the great is fallen, is fallen, which has made; M-Text reads Babylon the great is fallen. She has made. 14:12 [a]NU-Text and M-Text omit here are those. 14:13 [a]NU-Text and M-Text omit to me. 14:15 [a]NU-Text and M-Text omit for You.

14:8 Babylon was a code name for Rome to the 1st-century Christians (see chart, Women in the Book of Revelation). Babylon was the great enemy of Israel in OT times, and the Jews had suffered greatly under its idolatry and corruption (Is. 21:9; Jer. 50:2; 51:8). This memory had been passed down in a variety of writings and oral traditions, the books of Daniel and Esther chief among them. Christians viewed the Roman Empire as equaling or excelling the spiritual corruption of Babylon. Babylon had deceived and seduced the nations into drinking the wine of her cup—wealth, luxury, and moral laxity. But John warned that Babylon's cup of sensual delight will turn out to be the cup of "the wrath of God" (Rev. 14:10). In the OT, God's wrath was commonly pictured as a cup of wine to be drunk (Ps. 75:8; Is. 51:17; Jer. 25:15).

14:11–13 The Beast and his followers are tortured forever. This verse refutes the concept of annihilationism—the philosophy that the condemned are destroyed by God and have no continued conscious existence. The fate of the saints, as contrasted with the fate of the wicked, is "rest from their labors" instead of everlasting torment (v. 13). "Rest" suggests a cessation; "labors" are difficult trials. The phrase thus describes a cessation of toil, a refreshment (see chart, Beatitudes in the Book of Revelation).

COLORS IN THE BIBLE

COLOR	EXAMPLES IN SCRIPTURE
BLACK Commonly used to depict famine and death	• marble (Esth. 1:6) • diseased skin (Job 30:30) • darkest night (Prov. 7:9) • healthy hair (Song 5:11; Matt. 5:36) • the sky (Jer. 4:28) • faces of those under siege (Lam. 4:8) • darkening of the sun (Rev. 6:12) • horses (Zech. 6:2, 6; Rev. 6:5)
BLUE Derived from a species of shellfish	• fabric in the tabernacle and temple (Ex. 26:1; 2 Chr. 2:7) • curtains in the palace (Esth. 1:6) • clothing (Jer. 10:9; Ezek. 23:6)
BROWN Dark, blackish hue	• sheep (Gen. 30:32, 33, 35, 40)
GRAY	• hair of older people (Gen. 42:38; Deut. 32:25; Prov. 20:29)
GREEN Typically used to describe vegetation	• leprous plague spots (Lev. 13:49; 14:37) • green trees and grass (Deut. 12:2; 2 Kin. 17:10; Mark 6:39; Luke 23:31; Rev. 8:7) • pastures (Ps. 23:2) • marriage bed (Song 1:16)

Reaping the Grapes of Wrath

17Then another angel came out of the temple which is in heaven, he also having a sharp sickle.
18And another angel came out from the altar, who had power over fire, and he cried with a loud cry to him who had the sharp sickle, saying,
"Thrust in your sharp sickle and gather the clusters of the vine of the earth, for her grapes are fully ripe." 19So the angel thrust his sickle into the earth and gathered the vine of the earth, and threw it into the great winepress of the wrath of God. 20And the winepress was trampled outside the city, and blood came out of the winepress, up to the horses' bridles, for one thousand six hundred furlongs.

Prelude to the Bowl Judgments

15 Then I saw another sign in heaven, great and marvelous: seven angels having the seven last plagues, for in them the wrath of God is complete.
2And I saw something like a sea of glass mingled with fire, and those who have the victory over the beast, over his image and over his mark[a] and over the number of his name, standing on the sea of glass, having harps of God. 3They sing the song of Moses, the servant of God, and the song of the Lamb, saying:

"Great and marvelous are Your works,
Lord God Almighty!
Just and true are Your ways,
O King of the saints![a] 4Who shall not fear You, O Lord, and glorify Your name?
For You alone are holy.
For all nations shall come and worship before You,
For Your judgments have been manifested."

5After these things I looked, and behold,[a] the temple of the tabernacle of the testimony in heaven was opened. 6And out of the temple came the seven angels having the seven plagues, clothed in pure bright linen, and having their chests girded with golden bands. 7Then one of the four living creatures gave to the seven angels seven golden bowls full of the wrath of God who lives forever and ever. 8The temple was filled with smoke from the glory of God and from His power, and no one was able to enter the temple till the seven plagues of the seven angels were completed.
16 Then I heard a loud voice from the temple saying to the seven angels, "Go and pour out the bowls[a] of the wrath of God on the earth."

First Bowl: Loathsome Sores

2So the first went and poured out his bowl upon the earth, and a foul and loathsome sore

14:20 The imagery is that of the harvest. John saw an angel gather the vine of the earth and throw it into the "great winepress of the wrath of God" (v. 19). This harvest represents judgment and not salvation. The same idea of a harvest of grapes occurs elsewhere in Scripture (Is. 63:3; Joel 3:13). The grapes are trampled "outside the city," suggesting that these people are banished from the presence of God (Rev. 14:20). The blood of those trampled by the feet of God will be deep—"up to the horses' bridles"—and will flow far (1,600 furlongs is approximately 200 miles). This description of bloodshed vividly depicts the extent of God's judgment. All who oppose the reign of God will be crushed.

15:2–4 The sea of glass indicates the presence of God (Rev. 4:6; see Ex. 24:9, 10). John saw those who had triumphed standing on the sea of glass, carrying harps of God. These victors will sing a triumph song celebrating their victory and the victory of those who preceded them. The "song of Moses" was sung on Sabbath evenings to commemorate Israel's great deliverance from Egypt (Ex. 15; Deut. 32). The "song of the Lamb" commemorates the resurrected Lord's triumph over evil and the final exodus of His people from slavery to sin (Rev. 15:3). This song praises the great and marvelous works of God.

15:5–7 John saw seven angels come out of the temple to carry seven golden bowls full of the wrath of God to earth. These judgments come from the Most Holy Place in heaven. They are passed to the angels by one of the four living creatures from before God's throne. The "tabernacle of the testimony" was the dwelling place of God among His people Israel during their 40 years of wandering in the wilderness (Rev. 15:5). The seven golden bowls filled with plagues are perhaps reminiscent of the plagues on Egypt during the Exodus.

16:1–14 The plagues of the seven bowls are similar to those of the seven trumpets and to the plagues of Egypt (see chart, The Ten Plagues on Egypt). However, a significant difference exists between the trumpet plagues and the bowl plagues. The former are limited to a portion of the earth (one-third), while the latter appear to be universally destructive. The bowl plagues are God's response to Satan's final and greatest effort to overthrow God's kingdom. The first plague directly affects people, similar to the plague of boils inflicted on the Egyptians (v. 2; see Ex. 9:10; Deut. 28:35).

The second plague turns the sea to blood (Rev. 16:3; see Ex. 7:17–21), and every living creature in the sea dies. The third bowl poisons the rivers and springs (Rev. 16:4). The fourth produces excessive heat from the sun (vv. 8, 9). The fifth angel pours out his bowl "on the throne of the beast," causing darkness and pain (vv. 10, 11; see Ex. 10:21–23). The sixth bowl does not inflict a plague directly upon the people but prepares the way for the "kings from the east" (Rev. 16:12). This plague is similar to the sixth trumpet, when an invasion of innumerable hosts kills a third of mankind (Rev. 9:13–19). In the case of the sixth bowl, the barrier that holds back pagan kingdoms will likely be removed as these kingdoms will then join forces with the Beast (see Rev. 17:12–14, note).

God allows pain that we might learn to trust His faithfulness, sufficiency, and tender love for us.

Sandy Smith

came upon the men who had the mark of the beast and those who worshiped his image.

Second Bowl: The Sea Turns to Blood

3 Then the second angel poured out his bowl on the sea, and it became blood as of a dead man; and every living creature in the sea died.

Third Bowl: The Waters Turn to Blood

4 Then the third angel poured out his bowl on the rivers and springs of water, and they became blood. 5 And I heard the angel of the waters saying:

"You are righteous, O Lord,[a]
The One who is and who was and who is to be,[b]
Because You have judged these things.
6 For they have shed the blood of saints and prophets,
And You have given them blood to drink.
For[a] it is their just due."

7 And I heard another from[a] the altar saying, "Even so, Lord God Almighty, true and righteous are Your judgments."

Fourth Bowl: Men Are Scorched

8 Then the fourth angel poured out his bowl on the sun, and power was given to him to scorch men with fire. 9 And men were scorched with great heat, and they blasphemed the name of God who has power over these plagues; and they did not repent and give Him glory.

Fifth Bowl: Darkness and Pain

10 Then the fifth angel poured out his bowl on the throne of the beast, and his kingdom became full of darkness; and they gnawed their tongues because of the pain. 11 They blasphemed the God of heaven because of their pains and their sores, and did not repent of their deeds.

Sixth Bowl: Euphrates Dried Up

12 Then the sixth angel poured out his bowl on the great river Euphrates, and its water was dried up, so that the way of the kings from the east might be prepared. 13 And I saw three unclean spirits like frogs coming out of the mouth of the dragon, out of the mouth of the beast, and out of the mouth of the false prophet. 14 For they are spirits of demons, performing signs, which go out to the kings of the earth and[a] of the whole world, to gather them to the battle of that great day of God Almighty.

15 "Behold, I am coming as a thief. Blessed is he who watches, and keeps his garments, lest he walk naked and they see his shame."

16 And they gathered them together to the place called in Hebrew, Armageddon.[a]

Seventh Bowl: The Earth Utterly Shaken

17 Then the seventh angel poured out his bowl into the air, and a loud voice came out of the temple of heaven, from the throne, saying, "It is done!" 18 And there were noises and thunderings and lightnings; and there was a great earthquake, such a mighty and great earthquake as had not occurred since men were on the earth. 19 Now the great city was divided into three parts,

16:5 [a]NU-Text and M-Text omit O Lord. [b]NU-Text and M-Text read who was, the Holy One. 16:6 [a]NU-Text and M-Text omit For. 16:7 [a]NU-Text and M-Text omit another from. 16:14 [a]NU-Text and M-Text omit of the earth and. 16:16 [a]M-Text reads Megiddo.

16:13–15 Unclean spirits are seen coming out of the mouths of the Dragon, the Beast, and the False Prophet (v. 13), demonstrating the demonic inspiration of the enemies of God. They go out to enlist people on earth to gather in order to fight "the battle of that great day of God Almighty" (v. 14). John often referred to "the last day" (John 6:39; 11:24; 12:48). The battle of that great day is the last grand finale when all the forces of evil will join to fight against God. Jesus interjected a word to the church, exhorting them to watch or awaken and to "keep" their garments, an obvious reference to spiritual diligence (Rev. 16:15; Matt. 24:42–44). The church in Laodicea had been advised to buy garments from Christ in order to guard against spiritual poverty and nakedness (Rev. 3:18).

16:16 The Dragon, Beast, and False Prophet are successful in gathering the world together in the place called Armageddon (Heb., lit. "mountain of Megiddo"). Megiddo, historically a well-known battlesite, is located between the Galilean and Mediterranean seas about 15 miles southeast of modern Haifa. Barak and Deborah overthrew the Canaanites at Megiddo (Judg. 5:19), and Pharoah Necho killed King Josiah there (2 Kin. 23:29; 2 Chr. 35:22).

16:17–21 The seventh bowl brings judgment on Babylon, the capital of the Beast's empire. The pronouncement "it is done" indicates completed action and is followed by phenomena that manifest the power and glory of God (v. 17; see Rev. 4:5; 8:5; 11:19). Babylon is devastated by a great earthquake. The city collapses and is split into three parts, symbolic of its complete ruin (see Rev. 11:13). The exact weight of a "talent" seems to have been more than a hundred pounds (Rev. 16:21; see chart, Money and Measurements in the Bible).

and the cities of the nations fell. And great Babylon was remembered before God, to give her the cup of the wine of the fierceness of His wrath. 20Then every island fled away, and the mountains were not found. 21And great hail from heaven fell upon men, each hailstone about the weight of a talent. Men blasphemed God because of the plague of the hail, since that plague was exceedingly great.

The Scarlet Woman and the Scarlet Beast

17 Then one of the seven angels who had the seven bowls came and talked with me, saying to me,[a] "Come, I will show you the judgment of the great harlot who sits on many waters, 2with whom the kings of the earth committed fornication, and the inhabitants of the earth were made drunk with the wine of her fornication."

3So he carried me away in the Spirit into the wilderness. And I saw a woman sitting on a scarlet beast which was full of names of blasphemy, having seven heads and ten horns. 4The woman was arrayed in purple and scarlet, and adorned with gold and precious stones and pearls, having in her hand a golden cup full of abominations and the filthiness of her fornication.[a] 5And on her forehead a name was written:

MYSTERY, BABYLON THE GREAT,
THE MOTHER OF HARLOTS AND OF THE ABOMINATIONS OF THE EARTH.

6I saw the woman, drunk with the blood of the saints and with the blood of the martyrs of Jesus. And when I saw her, I marveled with great amazement.

The Meaning of the Woman and the Beast

7But the angel said to me, "Why did you marvel? I will tell you the mystery of the woman and of the beast that carries her, which has the seven heads and the ten horns. 8The beast that you saw was, and is not, and will ascend out of the bottomless pit and go to perdition. And those who dwell on the earth will marvel, whose names are not written in the Book of Life from the foundation of the world, when they see the beast that was, and is not, and yet is.[a]

9"Here is the mind which has wisdom: The seven heads are seven mountains on which the woman sits. 10There are also seven kings. Five have fallen, one is, and the other has not yet come. And when he comes, he must continue a short time. 11The beast that was, and is not, is himself also the eighth, and is of the seven, and is going to perdition.

12"The ten horns which you saw are ten kings who have received no kingdom as yet, but they receive authority for one hour as kings with the beast. 13These are of one mind, and they will give their power and authority to the beast. 14These will make war with the Lamb, and the Lamb will overcome them, for He is Lord of lords and King of kings; and those who are with Him are called, chosen, and faithful."

15Then he said to me, "The waters which you saw, where the harlot sits, are peoples, multitudes, nations, and tongues. 16And the ten horns which you saw on[a] the beast, these will hate the harlot, make her desolate and naked, eat her flesh and burn her with fire. 17For God has put it into their hearts to fulfill His purpose, to be of one mind, and to give their kingdom to the beast, until the words of God are fulfilled. 18And the woman whom you saw is that great city which reigns over the kings of the earth."

17:1 [a]NU-Text and M-Text omit to me. 17:4 [a]M-Text reads the filthiness of the fornication of the earth. 17:8 [a]NU-Text and M-Text read and shall be present. 17:16 [a]NU-Text and M-Text read saw, and the beast.

17:1–18 The metaphor of harlotry was often used to depict Israel's infidelity to God (Is. 1:21; Jer. 2:20; 3:1; Ezek. 16:15; Hos. 2:5; 3:3; 4:15). The harlot Babylon here is a personification of wickedness and spiritual corruption. Her clothing of purple and scarlet reflects splendor and luxury (see chart, Colors in the Bible). The term "abominations" is associated with idolatry. The glittering appearance of the harlot masks her utter moral and religious corruption. The harlot is obviously responsible for the persecution and death of a great number of believers (v. 6). She has a name written on her forehead (see charts, Questions from the Book of Revelation; Women in the Book of Revelation). The saints of God were sealed on their foreheads (Rev. 7:3; 9:4; 13:12; 14:1) as were the followers of the Beast (Rev. 13:17). In Rome prostitutes customarily wore headbands embroidered with their names. This harlot is the source of all false religions that ensnare. Her significance is not obvious to everyone and must be revealed (Rev. 17:5). "The seven heads" may be an allusion to the city of Rome, which was built on seven hills (v. 9). But the hills are also "seven kings." The historical succession of Roman emperors does not correspond with the description of the kings provided (v. 10). Perhaps the vision indicates that the great harlot sits upon a succession of empires.

17:12–14 The Beast's ten horns are "ten kings" who may be independent earthly rulers (v. 12; see chart, Questions from the Book of Revelation). The number "ten" could be exact or merely symbolic of completeness. These kings have short reigns ("one hour"), are associated with the Beast, receive authority "with" him (v. 12), collaborate together and lend their support to the Beast's rule, and will be involved in the great war against the Lamb (v. 14).

17:16–18 The harlot appears to represent the capital city of the Beast's empire (v. 18). The "ten horns" will begin to hate her. They will make her desolate and naked, stripping her of every resource (v. 16). The metaphor used is taken from the actions of wild beasts (Ps. 27:2; Jer. 10:25; Mic. 3:3; Zeph. 3:3). Finally, she will be completely destroyed (Rev. 17:16).

The Fall of Babylon the Great

18 After these things I saw another angel coming down from heaven, having great authority, and the earth was illuminated with his glory. [2]And he cried mightily[a] with a loud voice, saying, "Babylon the great is fallen, is fallen, and has become a dwelling place of demons, a prison for every foul spirit, and a cage for every unclean and hated bird! [3]For all the nations have drunk of the wine of the wrath of her fornication, the kings of the earth have committed fornication with her, and the merchants of the earth have become rich through the abundance of her luxury."

[4]And I heard another voice from heaven saying, "Come out of her, my people, lest you share in her sins, and lest you receive of her plagues. [5]For her sins have reached[a] to heaven, and God has remembered her iniquities. [6]Render to her just as she rendered to you,[a] and repay her double according to her works; in the cup which she has mixed, mix double for her. [7]In the measure that she glorified herself and lived luxuriously, in the same measure give her torment and sorrow; for she says in her heart, 'I sit as queen, and am no widow, and will not see sorrow.' [8]Therefore her plagues will come in one day— death and mourning and famine. And she will be utterly burned with fire, for strong is the Lord God who judges[a] her.

The World Mourns Babylon's Fall

[9]"The kings of the earth who committed fornication and lived luxuriously with her will weep and lament for her, when they see the smoke of her burning, [10]standing at a distance for fear of her torment, saying, 'Alas, alas, that great city Babylon, that mighty city! For in one hour your judgment has come.'

[11]"And the merchants of the earth will weep and mourn over her, for no one buys their merchandise anymore: [12]merchandise of gold and silver, precious stones and pearls, fine linen and purple, silk and scarlet, every kind of citron wood, every kind of object of ivory, every kind of object of most precious wood, bronze, iron, and marble; [13]and cinnamon and incense, fragrant oil and frankincense, wine and oil, fine flour and wheat, cattle and sheep, horses and chariots, and bodies and souls of men. [14]The fruit that your soul longed for has gone from you, and all the things which are rich and splendid have gone from you,[a] and you shall find them no more at all. [15]The merchants of these things, who became rich by her, will stand at a distance for fear of her torment, weeping and wailing, [16]and saying, 'Alas, alas, that great city that was clothed in fine linen, purple, and scarlet, and adorned with gold and precious stones and pearls! [17]For in one hour such great riches came to nothing.' Every shipmaster, all who travel by ship, sailors, and as many as trade on the sea, stood at a distance [18]and cried out when they saw the smoke of her burning, saying, 'What is like this great city?'

[19]"They threw dust on their heads and cried out, weeping and wailing, and saying, 'Alas, alas, that great city, in which all who had ships on the sea became rich by her wealth! For in one hour she is made desolate.'

[20]"Rejoice over her, O heaven, and you holy apostles[a] and prophets, for God has avenged you on her!"

Finality of Babylon's Fall

[21]Then a mighty angel took up a stone like a great millstone and threw it into the sea, saying, "Thus with violence the great city Babylon shall be

18:1–6 A series of announcements and visions detail the fall of the harlot Babylon. This section mirrors the prophetic doom songs sung over the fall of Tyre (Ezek. 26—28) and the historic city Babylon (Is. 13, 14; 21; Jer. 50; 51). A voice from heaven warns God's people to flee the city. A similar summons was issued by the prophet Jeremiah (Jer. 51:6, 45). Therefore, although Babylon persecuted and martyred Christians, obviously some believers still lived there. They are warned to flee the city to avoid the temptation to compromise their faith and to escape the coming judgment.

18:7 Babylon was guilty of pride and self-glorification, echoing that of historic Babylon (Is. 47:7–9; Ezek. 28:2; Zeph. 2:15). Babylon, a city of self-indulgence, luxury, and wealth, seduced people into the sins of complacency, self-sufficiency, and rejection of God. "Repay her double" is an OT phrase indicating the full measure of punishment (Rev. 18:6; see Jer. 16:18; 17:18). Babylon mixed a bitter drink for the inhabitants of the world; therefore, the angels will pour out plagues that "mix double for her" (Rev. 18:6).

18:9–19 Political rulers (v. 9), economic leaders ("merchants of the earth," v. 11), and those in the transport industry ("shipmaster," "sailors," sea traders, v. 17)—all join together to lament Babylon's fall. Their grief is not for the city herself but rather for their personal economic ruin. Their mourning is pictured as intense (Rev. 18:19; see Ezek. 27:30).

18:20—19:4 In contrast to the grief of the kings and merchants of earth, the desolation of Babylon is a cause of rejoicing in heaven. God has answered the prayers of the martyrs who cried day and night for Him to avenge their blood (Rev. 6:10). They sing a song of thanksgiving and praise to God for his "true and righteous" judgments (Rev. 19:2). "Alleluia" (Gk., lit. "praise Yahweh") is a word used extensively in the psalms and in Hebrew liturgy (Ps. 106:48; 111:1; 112:1). The word "amen" (lit. "so be it") indicates the 24 elders' assent to the praise of the great multitude (Rev. 19:4).

22The sound of harpists, musicians, flutists, and trumpeters shall not be heard in you anymore. No craftsman of any craft shall be found in you anymore, and the sound of a millstone shall not be heard in you anymore. 23The light of a lamp shall not shine in you anymore, and the voice of bridegroom and bride shall not be heard in you anymore. For your merchants were the great men of the earth, for by your sorcery all the nations were deceived. 24And in her was found the blood of prophets and saints, and of all who were slain on the earth."

Heaven Exults over Babylon

19 After these things I heard[a] a loud voice of a great multitude in heaven, saying, "Alleluia!
Salvation and glory and honor and power belong to the Lord[b] our God! 2For true and righteous are His judgments, because He has judged the great harlot who corrupted the earth with her fornication; and He has avenged on her the blood of His servants shed by her." 3Again they said, "Alleluia! Her smoke rises up forever and ever!" 4And the twenty-four elders and the four living creatures fell down and worshiped God who sat on the throne, saying,
"Amen! Alleluia!" 5Then a voice came from the throne, saying, "Praise our God, all you His servants and those who fear Him, both[a] small and great!"

6And I heard, as it were, the voice of a great multitude, as the sound of many waters and as the sound of mighty thunderings, saying, "Alleluia!
For the[a] Lord God Omnipotent reigns! 7Let us be glad and rejoice and give Him glory, for the marriage of the Lamb has come, and His wife has made herself ready." 8And to her it was granted to be arrayed in fine linen, clean and bright, for the fine linen is the righteous acts of the saints.

9Then he said to me, "Write: 'Blessed are those who are called to the marriage supper of the Lamb!' " And he said to me, "These are the true sayings of God." 10And I fell at his feet to worship him. But he said to me, "See that you do not do that!
I am your fellow servant, and of your brethren who have the testimony of Jesus. Worship God!
For the testimony of Jesus is the spirit of prophecy."

Christ on a White Horse

11Now I saw heaven opened, and behold, a white horse. And He who sat on him was called Faithful and True, and in righteousness He judges and makes war. 12His eyes were like a flame of fire, and on His head were many crowns. He had[a] a name written that no one knew except Himself.
13He was clothed with a robe dipped in blood, and His name is called The Word of God. 14And the armies in heaven, clothed in fine linen, white and clean,[a] followed Him on white horses. 15Now out of His mouth goes a sharp[a] sword, that with it He should strike the nations. And He Himself will rule them with a rod of iron. He Himself treads the winepress of the fierceness and wrath of Almighty God. 16And He has on His robe and on His thigh a name written:

KING OF KINGS AND LORD OF LORDS.

The Beast and His Armies Defeated

17Then I saw an angel standing in the sun; and he cried with a loud voice, saying to all the birds that fly in the midst of heaven, "Come and gather together for the supper of the great God,[a] 18that you may eat the flesh of kings, the flesh of captains, the flesh of mighty men, the flesh of horses and of those who sit on them, and the flesh of all people, free[a] and slave, both small and great."

and their armies, gathered together to make war

19:6–10 The marriage of the Lamb occurs at the return of Christ when He is reunited with His earthly church. The voice of a great multitude announces this event. Jesus used the wedding imagery to depict His present and future relationship to the church. He called Himself the Bridegroom (Mark 2:19) and likened the coming of His kingdom to a wedding feast (Matt. 22:1–14; 25:1–13). Believers are "married" to the Lord (1 Cor. 6:17; 2 Cor. 11:2). Paul compared the relationship of Christ and the church to that of a husband and wife (Eph. 5:25–27). Believers are the holy Jerusalem, the bride, the Lamb's wife (Rev. 19:7, 8; 21:9, 10; see charts, Questions from the Book of Revelation; Women in the Book of Revelation).

19:11–16 The white horse signifies victory and implies that the rider would ride toward final triumph. His unknown name indicates that no person can fully comprehend the depths of His being (v. 12). This rider goes forth to judge and make war but does so in righteousness (v. 11; see Is. 11:4). His robe is dipped in blood. On His robe and on His thigh a fourth name is written. Christ knows Himself by His hidden name; the churches know Him as the "Faithful and True" and "The Word of God" (Rev. 19:11, 13). Now He reveals Himself to the world as "KING OF KINGS AND LORD OF LORDS" (v. 16), a name indicative of His absolute and complete sovereignty. He is riding toward the time when every knee will bow and acknowledge Him as Lord (Phil. 2:9–11).

19:17–21 The Antichrist and all who have aligned themselves with him are gathered to make war against the Lord (v. 17; see Ezek. 39:17–20; chart, Questions from the Book of Revelation). The battle itself is not described; John merely recorded the final result: the Beast and the False Prophet are cast alive into the lake of fire, and the Beast's followers are killed (Rev. 19:20, 21).

against Him who sat on the horse and against His army. 20Then the beast was captured, and with him the false prophet who worked signs in his presence, by which he deceived those who received the mark of the beast and those who worshiped his image. These two were cast alive into the lake of fire burning with brimstone. 21And the rest were killed with the sword which proceeded from the mouth of Him who sat on the horse. And all the birds were filled with their flesh.

Satan Bound 1,000 Years

20 Then I saw an angel coming down from heaven, having the key to the bottomless pit and a great chain in his hand. 2He laid hold of the dragon, that serpent of old, who is the Devil and Satan, and bound him for a thousand years; 3and he cast him into the bottomless pit, and shut him up, and set a seal on him, so that he should deceive the nations no more till the thousand years were finished. But after these things he must be released for a little while.

The Saints Reign with Christ 1,000 Years

4And I saw thrones, and they sat on them, and judgment was committed to them. Then I saw the souls of those who had been beheaded for their witness to Jesus and for the word of God, who had not worshiped the beast or his image, and had not received his mark on their foreheads or on their hands. And they lived and reigned with Christ for a[a] thousand years. 5But the rest of the dead did not live again until the thousand years were finished. This is the first resurrection. 6Blessed and holy is he who has part in the first resurrection. Over such the second death has no power, but they shall be priests of God and of Christ, and shall reign with Him a thousand years.

Satanic Rebellion Crushed

7Now when the thousand years have expired, Satan will be released from his prison 8and will go out to deceive the nations which are in the four corners of the earth, Gog and Magog, to gather them together to battle, whose number is as the sand of the sea. 9They went up on the breadth of the earth and surrounded the camp of the saints and the beloved city. And fire came down from God out of heaven and devoured them. 10The devil, who deceived them, was cast into the lake of fire and brimstone where[a] the beast and the false prophet are. And they will be tormented day and night forever and ever.

The Great White Throne Judgment

11Then I saw a great white throne and Him who sat on it, from whose face the earth and the heaven fled away. And there was found no place for them. 12And I saw the dead, small and great, standing before God,[a] and books were opened. And another book was opened, which is the Book of Life. And the dead were judged according to their works, by the things which were written in the books. 13The sea gave up the dead who were in it, and Death and Hades delivered up the dead who were in them. And they were judged, each one according to his works. 14Then Death and Hades were cast into the lake of fire. This is the second death.[a] 15And anyone not found written in the Book of Life was cast into the lake of fire.

All Things Made New

21 Now I saw a new heaven and a new earth, for the first heaven and the first earth had passed away. Also there was no more sea. 2Then I, John,[a] saw the holy city, New Jerusalem, coming down out of heaven from God, prepared as a bride adorned for her husband. 3And I heard a loud voice from heaven saying, "Behold, the tabernacle of God is with men, and He will dwell with them, and they 20:1–15 The millennium (Lat. mille, lit. "thousand;" annum, lit "year") has been greatly debated (see charts, Millennial Views); Questions from the Book of Revelation).

In the premillennial view, after the victory of Armageddon, Christ will rule with the resurrected saints for 1,000 years, after which Satan will break forth in a final rebellion and again be crushed. Then God will permanently establish the new heaven and new earth.

According to the postmillennial view, after 1,000 literal or figurative years of theocratic rule, Christ will return to raise the dead, judge the world, and institute the new heaven and new earth. The triumph of a godly world view and political structure over an ungodly one is in view.

The amillennial view regards the 1,000-year period as wholly symbolic, arguing that Christ already rules from heaven over the church and in the hearts of His people. The rule of the saints is spiritual and not political.

20:4–6 Those who will rule with Christ as priests are not restricted to those coming out of the Tribulation period but will include all the faithful in Christ from every age (Heb. 7; 1 Pet. 2:5, 9; see chart, Beatitudes in the Book of Revelation).

20:7–10 So great is the depravity of man that even in the clear triumph of the gospel, Satan leads many into a hopeless rebellion. In Ezekiel 38, Gog is the prince of the land of Magog and comes from the north to invade the nation of Israel. In Revelation, Gog and Magog likely represent nations who side with Satan in rebellion against God.

20:11–15 The final rebellion of Satan prepares the way for the Great White Throne Judgment (see chart, Judgments in the New Testament). The issue of this judgment is the eternal destiny of all humanity—eternal life or eternal punishment (Matt. 25:46; Rom. 14:10). "Works" reveal the condition of the heart, and they are the evidence of (not the grounds for) eternal reward or condemnation (Rev. 20:12; see Rom. 2:6).

SORROW NO MORE TEARS

Everyone has experienced sorrow. It is a fact of life. The Bible has numerous accounts of people who experienced sorrow at some point in their lives. Jacob was sorrowful over the loss of his wife Rachel (Gen. 48:7) and over his helplessness to save his son Joseph (Gen. 42:38). Hannah was full of sorrow because of her barrenness (1 Sam. 1:15), and Tamar wept bitterly over the tragedy of being raped by her own half-brother (2 Sam. 13:19). Queen Esther was heavyhearted and shed tears of sorrow because of the proposed destruction of her people (Esth. 8:3). The psalmist experienced sorrow during oppression and times of trouble (Ps. 13:2; 90:10). Even wisdom brings the sorrow of knowing that all of life is not joyous (Eccl. 1:18). Finally, perhaps the ultimate sorrow for a woman was that endured by Mary, the mother of the Lord, as she watched the cruel torture and execution of her Son (Luke 2:34, 35).

Scripture speaks of a godly sorrow that leads to repentance and to life (2 Cor. 7:9) as opposed to a worldly sorrow that leads to death (2 Cor. 7:10). Yet God spares His children sorrow upon sorrow (Phil. 2:27)—in other words, sorrow with no hope of joy.

A time is coming when sorrow will end (Is. 60:20). You can look forward to a new heaven and a new earth where mourning will turn to gladness and comfort into joy (Is. 61:1–3).

shall be His people. God Himself will be with them and be their God. 4And God will wipe away every tear from their eyes; there shall be no more death, nor sorrow, nor crying. There shall be no more pain, for the former things have passed away."

5Then He who sat on the throne said, "Behold, I make all things new." And He said to me,[a] "Write, for these words are true and faithful."

6And He said to me, "It is done![a] I am the Alpha and the Omega, the Beginning and the End. I will give of the fountain of the water of life freely to him who thirsts. 7He who overcomes shall inherit all things,[a] and I will be his God and he shall be My son. 8But the cowardly, unbelieving,[a] abominable, murderers, sexually immoral, sorcerers, idolaters, and all liars shall have their part in the lake which burns with fire and brimstone, which is the second death."

The New Jerusalem

9Then one of the seven angels who had the seven bowls filled with the seven last plagues came to me[a] and talked with me, saying, "Come, I will show you the bride, the Lamb's wife."[b] 10And he carried me away in the Spirit to a great and high mountain, and showed me the great city, the holy[a] Jerusalem, descending out of heaven from God, 11having the glory of God. Her light was like a most precious stone, like a jasper stone, clear as crystal. 12Also she had a great and high wall with twelve gates, and twelve angels at the gates, and names written on them, which are the names of the twelve tribes of the children of Israel: 13three gates on the east, three gates on the north, three gates on the south, and three gates on the west.

21:5 [a]NU-Text and M-Text omit to me. 21:6 [a]M-Text omits It is done. 21:7 [a]M-Text reads overcomes, I shall give him these things. 21:8 [a]M-Text adds and sinners. 21:9 [a]NU-Text and M-Text omit to me. [b]M-Text reads I will show you the woman, the Lamb's bride. 21:10 [a]NU-Text and M-Text omit the great and read the holy city, Jerusalem.

21:9–21 John was summoned by one of the seven angels who had the seven bowls to come and see the Lamb's wife—"the holy Jerusalem" (v. 10). From a vantage point of a high mountain, perhaps a reference to the actual site of Jerusalem, John saw the great city descending out of heaven from God (Ps. 48:1, 2; Is. 2:2; Ezek. 40:2; 48:12–16; Zech. 8:22; 14:16). The most striking feature of this city is that she bears the "glory of God" (Rev. 21:11). John's description of the city mirrored the language he used when trying to describe the glory of the heavenly throne (Rev. 4), as he used the metaphor of precious stones to speak of its indescribable radiance.

The city had a "great and high wall," indicating that she was secure and inviolable (Rev. 21:12). The walls have 12 gates over which 12 angels stand guard (Is. 62:6; Ezek. 48:31; see chart, the Significance of Numbers in Scripture). Angels as gatekeepers may be a mark of dignity or an indication that the angels are in control of who enters. The gates are marked with the names of the twelve tribes of Israel, and twelve foundations are inscribed with the names of the twelve apostles (Ezek. 48:31; Eph. 2:20), indicating that the city includes the nation Israel of the OT as well as the universal church of the NT.

The angel measures the city with a "gold reed" (Rev. 21:15). The measurements reveal a perfectly symmetrical quadrangle, "twelve thousand furlongs" (about 1,500 miles; see chart, Money and Measurements in the Bible) in length and breadth and height (v. 16). This cubic shape may represent the perfection and vastness of the New Jerusalem, or it may be reminiscent of the shape of the Most Holy Place (1 Kin. 6:20). The building materials are spectacular: jasper (Is. 54:11; see Rev. 4:1–11, note), gold, pearls, and all kinds of precious stones (see Ex. 28, Jewelry). The splendor of this city is unsurpassed. She stands in glorious radiance "as a bride adorned for her husband" (Rev. 21:2), ready for her marriage to the Lamb (Rev. 19:6–10).

14Now the wall of the city had twelve foundations, and on them were the names[a] of the twelve apostles of the Lamb. 15And he who talked with me had a gold reed to measure the city, its gates, and its wall. 16The city is laid out as a square; its length is as great as its breadth. And he measured the city with the reed: twelve thousand furlongs. Its length, breadth, and height are equal. 17Then he measured its wall: one hundred and forty-four cubits, according to the measure of a man, that is, of an angel. 18The construction of its wall was of jasper; and the city was pure gold, like clear glass. 19The foundations of the wall of the city were adorned with all kinds of precious stones: the first foundation was jasper, the second sapphire, the third chalcedony, the fourth emerald, 20the fifth sardonyx, the sixth sardius, the seventh chrysolite, the eighth beryl, the ninth topaz, the tenth chrysoprase, the eleventh jacinth, and the twelfth amethyst. 21The twelve gates were twelve pearls: each individual gate was of one pearl. And the street of the city was pure gold, like transparent glass.

The Glory of the New Jerusalem

22But I saw no temple in it, for the Lord God Almighty and the Lamb are its temple. 23The city had no need of the sun or of the moon to shine in it,[a] for the glory[b] of God illuminated it. The Lamb is its light. 24And the nations of those who are saved[a] shall walk in its light, and the kings of the earth bring their glory and honor into it.[b] 25Its gates shall not be shut at all by day (there shall be no night there). 26And they shall bring the glory and the honor of the nations into it.[a] 27But there shall by no means enter it anything that defiles, or causes[a] an abomination or a lie, but only those who are written in the Lamb's Book of Life.

The River of Life

22 And he showed me a pure[a] river of water of life, clear as crystal, proceeding from the throne of God and of the Lamb. 2In the middle of its street, and on either side of the river, was the tree of life, which bore twelve fruits, each tree yielding its fruit every month. The leaves of the tree were for the healing of the nations. 3And there shall be no more curse, but the throne of God and of the Lamb shall be in it, and His servants shall serve Him. 4They shall see His face, and His name shall be on their foreheads. 5There shall be no night there: They need no lamp nor light of the sun, for the Lord God gives them light. And they shall reign forever and ever.

The Time Is Near

6Then he said to me, "These words are faithful and true." And the Lord God of the holy[a] prophets sent His angel to show His servants the things which must shortly take place.

7"Behold, I am coming quickly! Blessed is he who keeps the words of the prophecy of this book."

8Now I, John, saw and heard[a] these things. And when I heard and saw, I fell down to worship before the feet of the angel who showed me these things.

9Then he said to me, "See that you do not do that. For[a] I am your fellow servant, and of your brethren the prophets, and of those who keep the words of this book. Worship God." 10And he said to me, "Do not seal the words of the prophecy of this book, for the time is at hand. 11He who is unjust, let him be unjust still; he who is filthy, let him be filthy still; he who is righteous, let him be righteous[a] still; he who is holy, let him be holy still."

21:22–27 There is no temple in the New Jerusalem. In OT times, the temple was viewed as the dwelling place of God. After Christ's Resurrection, the people of God took over the function of the historic temple, for the Spirit of God came to dwell in them (1 Cor. 3:16; Eph. 2:21; see chart, The Temples of the Bible). In the age to come, no temple is needed, for God will live among His people in face-to-face communion.

22:1, 2 The symbolism of a river is common in biblical thought (Ps. 46:4; John 4:10, 14). In Ezekiel's vision, the river brought life everywhere it flowed (Ezek. 47:1–12). The river contains the water of life; and the tree growing beside the river is the tree of life (Gen. 3:24). The tree bears fruit constantly, and the leaves of the tree are for the "healing of the nations" (Rev. 22:2). John noted the contrast between the future and the present age. The present age is characterized by darkness, sin, evil, destruction, and affliction. Conditions in the New Jerusalem will not be so. There will be no night, no death, no sorrow, no crying, and no pain, for "the former things have passed away" (Rev. 21:4; Sorrow). God Himself will be with His people and will wipe away every tear from their eyes (Rev. 21:3, 4).

22:10 Prophets who received visions regarding future events were often told to seal their prophecy (Is. 8:16; Dan. 8:26; 12:4, 9), meaning that the contents were inaccessible to others. The angel instructed John not to seal the words of this revelation, for "the time is at hand" (Rev. 22:10). The return of Christ is imminent, and believers must watch and be ready (Rev. 16:15; see also Matt. 24:42–44; Luke 19:11). The words of this prophecy are to remain unsealed so that anyone can read, ponder, and learn from them.

his work. 13I am the Alpha and the Omega, the Beginning and the End, the First and the Last."[a] 14Blessed are those who do His commandments,[a] that they may have the right to the tree of life, and may enter through the gates into the city. 15But[a] outside are dogs and sorcerers and sexually immoral and murderers and idolaters, and whoever loves and practices a lie.

16"I, Jesus, have sent My angel to testify to you these things in the churches. I am the Root and the Offspring of David, the Bright and Morning Star."

17And the Spirit and the bride say, "Come!" And let him who hears say, "Come!" And let him who thirsts come. Whoever desires, let him take the water of life freely.

A Warning

18For[a] I testify to everyone who hears the words of the prophecy of this book: If anyone adds to these things, God will add[b] to him the plagues that are written in this book; 19and if anyone takes away from the words of the book of this prophecy, God shall take away[a] his part from the Book[b] of Life, from the holy city, and from the things which are written in this book.

I Am Coming Quickly

20He who testifies to these things says, "Surely I am coming quickly."

Amen. Even so, come, Lord Jesus!

21The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you all.[a] Amen.

22:13 [a]NU-Text and M-Text read the First and the Last, the Beginning and the End. 22:14 [a]NU-Text reads wash their robes. 22:15 [a]NU-Text and M-Text omit But. 22:18 [a]NU-Text and M-Text omit For. [b]M-Text reads may God add. 22:19 [a]M-Text reads may God take away. [b]NU-Text and M-Text read tree of life. 22:21 [a]NU-Text reads with all; M-Text reads with all the saints.

22:17–21 The final verses of Revelation contain an open invitation to "come." The Spirit of God and the church extend the invitation to anyone who "thirsts" and "desires" (v. 17). Both words express a deep inner longing. In this case, the objective is the water of life that flows from the throne of God. Anyone who longs for this water is beckoned to come and take freely, as a gift and without charge. The plea is urgent, for Christ promises that He is coming quickly (v. 20), and His people and all creation groan for that great day (Rom. 8:22, 23).

What They Left Behind: Women, Archaeology, and the Bible

MARSHA A. ELLIS SMITH

Many of the topical notes and annotations in this Bible have information that deals with women's lives during Bible times. What kind of clothes did women wear? Did they wear makeup? What kind of foods did they cook? Did they have perfume? Many questions such as these have been answered. The purpose of this article is to give some idea of how the answers to these questions about women in Bible times are derived.

At one level, archaeology is a bit like the search for a missing person, which is a very difficult, time-consuming, and painstaking process. The search would begin in the home of the missing person with what the person had left behind. The likes, dislikes, and everyday activities of the person would be important as would each material object and how it was used. However, in archaeology, the difficulty of being removed by thousands of years from the "missing person" and her belongings is added to that process. You now have an accurate analogy for understanding the enormous task of biblical archaeology.

What is the purpose of biblical archaeology? Its purpose is not to "prove" the Bible is true. That is unnecessary. Archaeology, however, can provide invaluable information on the customs and background of the biblical time period and, therefore, can be a tremendous help in understanding and interpreting the biblical material.

Women Archaeologists

Archaeology as a science began in the 1800s. The archaeological expeditions prior to that time were mostly treasure hunts. Although most of the names found among the more famous biblical archaeologists are male, some women have reached a high-ranking status in the world of archaeology.

Possibly the first person to excavate an artifact in the Middle East was Lady Hester Lucy Stanhope, an English noblewoman. In 1815, Lady Stanhope traveled to Ashkelon, a site near the Mediterranean Coast in Palestine, to search for gold. Instead of finding gold, she found a colossal marble statue, which she ordered smashed into pieces before she left Palestine so that the Ottomans would not think she was trying to smuggle it back to England.

Dame Kathleen Kenyon is probably the most familiar name among female biblical archaeologists. She conducted extensive excavations at Jericho from 1952 through 1958 and has made many other contributions to the world of archaeology. Among other women appearing in the history of biblical archaeology are Dorothy Garrod, noted for the work she began on Palestinian caves in the area of Mt. Carmel in 1929, and Hetty Goldman, who began excavating at ancient Tarsus (hometown of Paul) in 1934. Recent biblical archaeology has produced several significant women contributors: Ruth Amiram, whose Ancient Pottery of the Holy Land provides an invaluable tool for the study of pottery types in Israel; Crystal M. Bennett, who has worked extensively at many Edomite sites; and Carol L. Meyers, as well as many others who have also made notable contributions.

Women in Archaeology

Just as women have made significant contributions to the study of ancient life, the study of women in ancient life has produced several categories of finds that yield information—art, artifacts, inscriptions and extrabiblical writings, and similar cultural heritages.

Art. The manner in which women were depicted in ancient art reveals much about their daily lives and their status in society.

Tomb paintings from Egypt, bas-reliefs from Mesopotamia, mosaics from Israel and other Mediterranean countries, sculptures from Greece and Rome, and figurines from many of these countries give glimpses of women within these ancient cultures.

Artifacts. Thousands upon thousands of artifacts have been found in the Middle East, dating from ancient times. Although the biblical era ranges from the beginning of time through around A.D. 100, most of the artifacts that would be of interest to students of the Bible come from the time of Abraham, or around 2000 B.C., through the Bronze and Iron Ages, the Babylonian and Persian periods, and up through the Hellenistic and the Early Roman periods (ending about A.D. 70). However, sometimes an artifact from the second or third centuries A.D. yields information about the biblical period.

Women's Activities in the Home. The daily domestic duties of biblical women are the source of many material remains at excavation sites (see Luke 17:2; 22:10, 11 notes). Oil lamps of varying sizes were used for lighting in the home. Kitchens were filled with clay pots and "frying pans" of assorted sizes and shapes (both metal and pottery; see John 2:6; 4:7, notes). Grinding stones were used in the preparation of meal to be used in bread recipes. Clay ovens dating from the Iron Age have been unearthed at Megiddo and others from the New Testament period at Pompeii (see Luke 12:1, note). Olive presses provided the means to squeeze from the fruit of the olive the oil necessary for cooking.

Women's Clothing and Cosmetics. Bronze fibulae (or brooches), early precursors of the modern safety pin and a means for fastening clothing, have been unearthed at several sites in the Mediterranean area. Items thought to be buttons were later determined to be toys for children.

Jewelry, dating from both Old and New Testament times, is abundant at Middle Eastern excavations (see Ex. 28, Jewelry). Beads, bracelets, necklaces, pins, and earrings in a variety of materials, including silver, gold, and bronze, and sometimes inset with various gemstones, have been discovered at many sites. Hairpins from the Persian era (538–332 B.C.), carved from bone (usually cattle, camel, or donkey bone), have been found at Ashkelon in Israel and at many Roman sites.

Delicate bottles for ointments and perfumes from the Roman period were made from a variety of materials—bronze, glass, silver, alabaster—with the larger ones often containing oils used in the bathing process. The smaller, slender-necked perfume bottles (sometimes referred to as "tear bottles") enabled the perfume to be dispensed in drops (see Luke 7:37, note).

Cosmetic paraphernalia seems to have been very important to ancient women, particularly those of the Graeco-Roman world. Cosmetic boxes and dishes, mirrors made from both bronze and silver (see Ex. 38:8, note), bronze tweezers, spatulas used in the makeup application process, and numerous other toilet articles, many of which date from the New Testament period, have been discovered at sites throughout the Mediterranean world (see Ex. 30, Cosmetics; Esth. 2, Beauty Preparations).

At the site of Old Testament Jerusalem, ancient bathrooms have been unearthed including two toilet seats. These differ from toilet seats discovered at other locations in Israel in that each is a large block of limestone with one central hole extending from top to bottom and another smaller hole off to the side. Those at other locations are thin slabs of stone with round openings placed above shallow pits. The second smaller openings are conjectured to have been utilized as men's urinals. These date from 600–500 B.C. with probably at least one in use at the beginning of the Babylonian Captivity in 586 B.C.

Women's Activities Outside the Home. Music played an important role in the life of ancient Israel, as is evidenced in both biblical and extra-biblical references, and women evidently were integrally involved in this role (see Luke 1:46–55, note; charts, Hymns and Songs Associated With Women; Musical Instruments of the Old Testament). On Cyprus many terracotta figurines of women hand-drum players have been excavated. Israelite terracottas may have served as models for the Cypriot ones, though fewer such objects have been discovered in Israel. In the 1940s, few musical instruments were among the finds at archaeological excavations in Israel. However, by 1982, more than three hundred pieces of musical instruments and artistic representations of instruments had been found. These range in date from early Bronze times to the Byzantine period (just past New Testament times). Women's involvement in musical activity is indicated in many of these finds.

Evidence does show that some women were involved in business enterprises outside the home, although the extent to which this occurred is undetermined. One such businesswoman was Lydia, seller of purple (see Acts 16, Lydia). Archaeological finds in the last ten years have shed new light upon the purple dye industry in the Mediterranean world. The purple material was the most desirable and expensive (partially due to its colorfastness). This "Tyrian purple" was wool colored with a dye made from tiny Mediterranean mollusks. The process and the structures involved in this industry have been thoroughly studied and excavated. Additional methods of purple dyeing utilizing plants and other materials were developed. Thyatira was a center for this purple dye industry. Thus, Lydia may have been a dealer in the Thyatira purple cloth, or she may have been an importer of the royal "Tyrian purple." Either way, she was a smart, and probably wealthy, businesswoman.

Human Remains. Bone fragments are not as abundant in Middle Eastern excavations as are other artifacts. Therefore, the discovery of bones is considered a major find. One such find occurred in Jerusalem in 1970 at the site known as "the Burnt House." As the house was excavated, it became apparent that the destruction of the house was due to fire and that the date of that burning was around A.D. 70—the time of the Roman devastation of Jerusalem. Many finds in that burned layer caused an emotional response in the archaeologists involved in the excavation. The most moving moment, however, came when the bones of a young woman in her twenties were found in a doorway of the home. She was crouched at the kitchen door and looked as if she had collapsed as she was trying to exit the house. Seemingly, while trying to escape the burning of her home by the invading army, she was overtaken by the flames or smoke before she could reach safety.

Inscriptions and Extrabiblical Writings. Inscriptions and ancient writings are a significant source of data regarding women in biblical times. A few examples are a lengthy version of the Exodus 15:21 "Song of Miriam" found in a Dead Sea Scroll fragment, episodes in the lives of biblical women from Josephus' writings, another Dead Sea Scroll fragment reflecting the Essenes' negative view of women, cuneiform tablets describing cultural practices (possible background for the "wife as sister" accounts in the lives of Abraham and Isaac), and an Akkadian tablet from the Ras Shamra texts (coming from ancient Ugarit in Syria) describing the removal of clothes as a symbol of giving up both power and position (possible background for Old Testament passages involving women and the removal of clothes; see Is. 47:1, 2; Ezek. 16:37; Hos. 2:3, 10).

Sexuality and Gynecology. Although woman's sexuality is often depicted in a suggestive manner in ancient art (as in Pompeian art and in much of the finds at Ashkelon), examples do exist in which the nurturing aspect of woman's sexuality is displayed (as in many paintings, figurines, and sculptures of mothers nursing their infants). Artifacts also offer data related to a woman's sexuality, as is evidenced by the interpretation of certain ancient Egyptian, open-ended figure-vases as objects used in the practice of midwifery. While some tend to think of sexuality only in reference to visual art and artifacts, inscriptions and ancient writings present data in this realm also. In Ephesus, an inscription on an ancient sidewalk gives directions to a nearby brothel, leaving little to the imagination. Restrictive purity regulations associated with menstruation can be read not only in the biblical material (see Lev. 15:19, 20; Mark 5:25–34) but also in Josephus, the Dead Sea Scrolls, and other ancient Jewish writings.

Women's Clothing and Cosmetics. Some inscriptions are found and translated, yet their meanings remain a mystery. An inscription dating around 1400–1200 B.C. was discovered in 1920 at Ugarit in Syria, and finally, in 1977, clarified by rabbinic writings from the fourth century A.D. The phrase in question—"the city of gold"—had not been seen in any other material from the Old Testament time period. Rabbinic literature has now revealed that the phrase refers to a golden, turreted crown that was worn as decoration by women. Such a crown has been identified in several pieces of ancient art in Syria.

Similar Cultures. Although the study of similar cultures does not fit within the strict definition of biblical archaeology, sometimes in the context of hunting for the meaning of an artifact or a situation, other cultures offer helpful information. This cross-cultural study can be illustrated by many examples from Bedouin culture. Bedouins continue to live in much the same way they lived centuries, even millennia, ago. Bedouin shepherdesses today carry the same kind of goat skin water container as is mentioned in Genesis 21:14 because the porous skin helps keep the water cool. Modern Bedouin girls wear nose rings like the one Eliezer placed on Rebecca's nose (Gen. 24:47). A more serious example of Bedouin culture explaining biblical material is the Bedouin dependence upon its own clan for vengeance. This provides vital background information about the response of Dinah's brothers to her rape by Shechem (Gen. 34).

An object that previously was thought to be a religious incense burner is another example of the use of similar cultural practices to assist in the interpretation of the use of an artifact. When W. F. Albright retranslated the inscription on the object, he discovered that its use had been secular, not religious. Then in a 1868 publication, he found a passage dealing with semi-nomadic women of Sudan, which not only explained the way that type of "cosmetic" incense burner was still being used in the 1800s but also explained a passage regarding the use of ointments and perfumes in Esther 2:12 and in Psalm 45:8.

Biblical archaeology has contributed invaluable information to the study of Scripture and will certainly be of help in the future as excavations continue. Much that helps in understanding the women of the Bible has already been found. As more women archaeologists become involved in the excavations and writings about the interpretations of the artifacts, more emphasis will be given to data relating to women in biblical times.

Women and Children in Biblical Narrative

Eleonore Stump

In the history of the Christian tradition, biblical commentators have mostly been men. Often these commentators have been interested in finding, as directly as possible, theological lessons in the biblical texts. Generally, that theological interest prompted a deep and sensitive interpretation of the texts, but sometimes insufficient attention has been given to the details of biblical stories. Stories that involve some human conflict or drama, well worth reflecting on, from time to time have been treated as if the human details were disposable wrapping on some far more interesting theological lesson. In particular, commentators on biblical stories involving women or children sometimes have seemed uninterested in the roles of the women and children in those stories. If we do not pay attention to all the details in the biblical stories, however, we may well miss important parts of what the Bible has to teach us in those passages.

This point is best illustrated with an example. We can see the importance of noticing the women and children in biblical stories by thinking about one of the most famous biblical stories—Abraham's offering up of Isaac. Many well-known commentators, including Origen, Augustine, Jerome, Aquinas, Nicholas of Lyra, Luther, Calvin, and Kierkegaard, have made interesting and insightful interpretations of this story. Nonetheless, for all their excellence, none of the commentators has satisfactorily answered basic questions raised by the story. Why did God put Abraham to the test as He did? That is, why would God ask Abraham to sacrifice his son? What is praiseworthy about Abraham's willingness to kill his own child? Why should Abraham's consent to destroy his son make him the father of faith? Part of the reason commentators have difficulty answering these questions is that they do not pay sufficient attention in the stories about Abraham to the roles of the women and children (except for Isaac, of course).

Perhaps some think of Abraham as married to one woman, Sarah, and having one son, Isaac. But, in fact, the Bible names for Abraham three women as wives or concubines and eight sons (see chart, The Family Tree of Abraham). The stories about these other wives and children are all useful for understanding the offering of Isaac, but the focus of this article is on just one other story, the expulsion of Hagar and Ishmael.

When it looked as if Sarah might never have children, Sarah gave her maid Hagar to Abraham to be his concubine, and in the course of time Hagar gave birth to a son, Ishmael. Then when Sarah was ninety years old, she did give birth to Isaac. Ishmael was fourteen years old at the time of Isaac's birth, and suddenly he had a brother. When Isaac was weaned—no doubt when he was between two and four years old—Abraham made a great feast. Ishmael was probably around sixteen or seventeen years old at the time. During the feast Ishmael mocked Isaac or gave him some other sort of trouble, and Sarah caught him doing so. Sarah had been jealous and violent toward Hagar in the past. At this point she blew up. She demanded that Abraham expel not only Ishmael but also Hagar, and she wanted them thrown out into the desert, where they were likely either to die of thirst or to be captured and sold for slaves.

What Sarah wanted was terrible. Ishmael had been Abraham's only child for more than fourteen years, and Hagar had been part of this complicated family for even longer. Throwing them out was a terrible betrayal of the love and trust that must have existed between Abraham and his teenaged boy and between Abraham and Hagar. Both Abraham and Sarah must have known that what Sarah demanded would likely prove to be the death of Hagar and Ishmael.

That Abraham was willing even to consider doing what Sarah wanted shows how ferocious her wrath must have been. But even so, Abraham could not bring himself to agree to her demands. At this point, God intervened in the struggle between Abraham and Sarah—very surprisingly by siding with murderously angry Sarah. Although Sarah's intentions were bad, the result she wanted, that only Isaac should count as Abraham's heir, was the result God had foreordained all along. So God sided with Sarah, but He went contrary to Sarah's bad intentions because He again promised to make Ishmael a great nation. So what Sarah saw as a way of ruining Ishmael and getting rid of him, God promised to turn into a way of making Ishmael something glorious.

God's promise, then, relieved Abraham of the burden of betraying the trust between him and his son and between him and his concubine. Abraham could send them out into the desert without thinking that he was furthering Sarah's plan to destroy them. He could also explain God's promise to Hagar and Ishmael. He could make clear to them that by giving in to Sarah, he was not acting in a way to bring about their deaths or even their ruin because God was guaranteeing His protection of and blessing upon their lives.

God's promise let Abraham give in to Sarah without being guilty of a moral wrong. Abraham trusted God's promise to make of Ishmael a great nation. If Abraham had not believed God's promise when the lives of Ishmael and Hagar were at stake, then Abraham would have been guilty of betraying their trust and harming them. As a result of God's promise, Abraham stopped struggling within himself over whether to do what Sarah wanted, and he assented to her demands. He rose up early in the morning and sent Hagar and Ishmael out into the desert with only a loaf of bread and a bottle of water. That would be a terrible way to treat your son and his mother—unless you believed God's promise to make them into something glorious in the desert.

On the other hand, contrast Abraham's reaction to this promise of God with other occasions on which Abraham talked to God. When God promised Abraham a biological offspring, Abraham asked for a sign to confirm the truth of the promise. On that occasion, when the issue was abandoning Hagar and Ishmael in the desert, Abraham did not ask for any sign to reassure him of their safety. When what was at stake was the lives of total strangers in Sodom and Gomorrah, Abraham bargained with God. Where the lives of his son and concubine were at risk, Abraham did not bargain in any of the ways he might have done. He did not ask God whether he might accompany Hagar and Ishmael to some oasis or whether he might send a convoy of servants to set up Hagar and Ishmael to be self-supporting by giving them herds and flocks. He just sent Ishmael and Hagar to walk off into the desert with less than a full day's provision of food and water. Even given the reassurance of God's promise, there was something distressing about the readiness with which Abraham acquiesced to Sarah's demands that he throw out his concubine and his son.

The next and last recorded episode during which God came to talk to Abraham was the offering of Isaac. The age of Isaac is not clear at this point, but he was old enough to carry a substantial load of wood up a mountain, while still being young enough to be quite diffident toward his father. To suppose that he was teenaged, maybe sixteen or seventeen, around the age of Ishmael at the time when Abraham abandoned Ishmael and Hagar in the desert, is not unreasonable.

At the outset of God's message to Abraham on this occasion was an elaborate identification of Isaac, "your son, your only son Isaac, whom you love" (Gen. 22:2). The phrase "your only son" is striking. If you had abandoned one of your two boys in the desert, would you be able to hear that phrase "your only son" without wincing and immediately thinking of Ishmael? And if the person who guaranteed the safety of the son you abandoned then used the expression "your only son" to refer to Isaac, wouldn't you immediately think of the boy you had abandoned and wonder in what sense Isaac was an only son?

The content of God's message is enough to turn a father's heart to stone: Take your only son—that is, the only son you have left—and offer him up as a burnt offering. But think of the expulsion of Ishmael again. God had told Abraham to act in a way that seemed likely to bring about Ishmael's death, except for God's promise to make Ishmael a great nation. Because Abraham believed the promise about Ishmael, he could abandon Ishmael in the desert without fear of harm to his son, however reasonable it would otherwise seem to believe that Ishmael would die out in the desert with only a little food and water. Now God was requiring the sacrifice of Isaac. But Abraham also had a promise from God about Isaac: God had also promised to make Isaac a great nation.

If God is good and His promises are trustworthy, then Isaac would have children who would count as Abraham's descendants, inherit the land of Canaan, and increase greatly in number. But when God told Abraham to sacrifice Isaac, Isaac was still a boy without children of his own. If Isaac died, God's promises about him would not have been true. Put another way, if God's promises are trustworthy, then Isaac would not die in his youth, however reasonable it seemed to think that he would.

In the case of Ishmael, family life was made much easier for Abraham if he believed that God's promises are true; trusting God's promises gave him a good reason to give in to his furious wife Sarah. Now things were different. Doing what looked certain to bring about the death of Isaac was as strongly opposed to Abraham's self-interest as it could be. But if Abraham had not trusted God's promise about Isaac, what will we think, looking back on Abraham's behavior toward Ishmael? Won't we think that his apparent trust in God's promises then was just an excuse, a rationalization, for taking the easy way out where Sarah was concerned? If he refused to entrust Isaac to God's promises, although he was willing to abandon Ishmael on the strength of God's promise, won't we think that, after all, there was something terrible about his willingness to expel Ishmael?

In asking Abraham to sacrifice Isaac, God was, in effect, asking Abraham what he would have done on that earlier occasion if it had been Isaac instead of Ishmael. Abraham had to trust God's promises and acknowledge His goodness, or he had to make clear that in the expulsion of Ishmael he was just using God's promise as a convenient excuse for doing a wrong action. This trial, then, would refine Abraham. Whichever way he acted, this time he would have to act out of unmixed motives. Abraham's options were to refuse to do what looked likely to bring about the death of Isaac—because he did not after all trust in God's promises—or to be willing to sacrifice Isaac, believing that in doing so he would not bring about Isaac's death—because he believed in God's promise to make of Isaac a great nation.

Abraham passed the test. He treated Isaac as he treated Ishmael. In this case, too, he rose up early in the morning and obeyed God's command. Treating the two cases in the same way required believing that even if he sacrificed Isaac, Isaac would live and flourish and be the source of a great nation. Is there anything too hard for God? So Abraham passed the test just by virtue of believing that in sacrificing Isaac he would not be bringing Isaac's life to an end because God is good, and His promises are trustworthy.

In this way of seeing the story, Abraham's line to the servants is not a polite fib. "Stay here with the donkey," he told them; "the lad and I will go yonder and worship, and we will come back to you" (Gen. 22:5). Similarly, when he told Isaac, "God will provide for Himself the lamb for a burnt offering" (Gen. 22:8), he was not engaging in tender deception or unconsciously cruel irony, as he would be doing if he thought he were going off to kill Isaac. Here, too, Abraham believed what he said.

Nonetheless, although he believed,

Abraham might still have been in anguish as he said these lines. Think about a man who discovers, while mountain climbing with his son, that the only way to safety lies across a large crevice. If he did not believe his son could make it, he would not ask him to leap. But the father may be bathed in sweat, with years taken off his life, by the time the boy makes it over. The test God set for Abraham was a hard and painful one. But Abraham's ready acquiescence to Sarah's demand to abandon Hagar and Ishmael in the desert made this test a good and right one for Abraham.

What Hebrews 11 says about Abraham presupposes this way of reading the story, too. Abraham acted on faith in offering up Isaac because he believed that the offering of Isaac did not invalidate the promises of God, since God could even raise Isaac from the dead (Heb. 11:17–19).

God's verdict on Abraham is that Abraham had passed the test. As he raised the knife over Isaac, God told Abraham, "Do not lay your hand on the lad, or do anything to him; for now I know that you fear God, since you have not withheld your son, your only son, from Me" (Gen. 22:12). What God said is just right. If Abraham had refused to trust Isaac to God after having been willing to expel Ishmael on God's promise, he would have been mocking rather than fearing God, acting as if God did not matter or did not mind much about the death of innocent children. But until Abraham had to choose whether or not to trust Isaac to God, perhaps no one could have known whether Abraham feared God because Abraham's motives in the case of Ishmael were confused and mixed together. God knew: The trial over Isaac refined Abraham's character. Because Abraham believed in God's goodness and the trustworthiness of God's promises, Abraham was willing to trust his son, his only son, to God. That is why Abraham is the father of faith.

If we remember Hagar and Ishmael when we read the story of the offering of Isaac, we can answer the questions that often arise in connection with that story. The expulsion of Ishmael makes it clear why God should try Abraham and why the test should take the form it did. What is at issue in the test was whether Abraham would believe in God's goodness in Isaac's case as well as in Ishmael's. What is praiseworthy about Abraham, what makes him the father of faith, is not his readiness to kill his child to please God. It is his willingness to trust in God's goodness and to believe God's promises, even when apparently those promises would surely turn out to be false. What makes Abraham the father of faith, then, is not just that he believed in God's existence or that he was obedient to God. He did believe in God's existence, and he was obedient. What makes him the father of faith, however, was his belief that God is good and thus would never break His promises to His people.

If we focus only on Abraham (or Abraham and Isaac), as many interpreters do, and if we are not willing to pay serious and careful attention to the various women and children in the narrative, we will miss all this side of the story about the offering of Isaac. As a result, we could have a much harder time understanding why God would have asked Abraham to sacrifice his son, and it would be more difficult to grasp the sort of faith the Bible is recommending to us here. The same point applies to many other passages in the Bible as well. If we think carefully about the women and the children in those stories, we will see a side of the story, important for our understanding of the Bible's message, which we would have missed otherwise.
